Fraser of Renfrew, William Legault of Moose Creek and a member from Smiths Falls, to investigate the condition of roads in Eastern Ontario, with a view to approaching the Department of Highways seeking better roads for this section of the province.

The adoption of Daylight Saving Time was objected to by Barton Derby of Mountain township, and Ewart Carkner of Winchester township, acting for a committee of farmers.

Arnold Dukelow presided over a banquet to more than a hundred who attended the meeting, as guests of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce.

HONOURED BEFORE LEAVING TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Senn were honoured by their friends of town on the eve of their departure to take up residence at Ste Anne de la Perade, Que., by a presentation and dance in the Community Hall, when a couple hundred enjoyed a pleasant time. Mr. Matt. Flynn expressed the regret of their friends at the departure of the family after spending many years in Chesterville. Runaway Endangers Many Lives When Autos Crashed

The lives of several people were endangered Monday morning about eleven o'clock when a runaway team of horses attached to a heavy wagon ran across the Nation bridge from the south side and crashed into an auto passing down Main street to the post office. After hitting the first car the horses swerved as it seemed they could not miss a woman with a child's carriage and a little girl by her side, too frightened to move, crashing another car parked on Water street opposite the door o Dixon and Rowe's store.

The first car hit was driven by Mrs. Strader, formerly Greta Faulkner of Morewood, at present an employee of the Pension Board, Ottawa. One horse and the pole of the wagon struck the car just behind the hood causing considerable damage to the body of the car and the windshield. The impact almost turned the car on its side but it fortunately came back on its wheels. Mrs. Strader was considerably shaken up but suffered no personal injuries. She eventually drove the car away under its own power.

After passing the Strader car it seemed imminent that the horses would hit Mrs. C. T. Hart, her infant child in a pram and a little daughter at her side, as they stood transfixed by fear. The horses, however, turned towards Water St. where a fine new Chrysler belonging to Stanley Sullivan was parked close to the crossing, a horse going either side of the car and the wagon crashing the rear bumper. Damage of a minor character was sustained as the horses were held and controlled.

The runaway horses in their routine of hauling the gabage wagon broke away unattended from a Victoria street shop with the empty wagon, as their driver, George McArthur was attending to other duties.

The police were notified and Constable McLean made an investigation.

Cam Thompson Sells "Jaffa" Goes To Blue Grass State

Tuesday morning Cam Thompson accompanied by Billie Marcellus and George Alguire left for Saratoga Springs, N.Y. by motor and trailer with his fancy mare Jaffa, which he has sold to Robert Jewel, of Wilmer, Kentucky, at a price said to be well up in the four figures. Jaffa is a very handsome standard bred and is said to have made a mark well up with the best of the harness horses. Jaffa attracted attention at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto last winter, where she was shown with other horses belonging to Mr. Thompson.

Author Presents Library With Autographed Counties' History

This week the Public Library Board was presented by the author, John Graham Harkness, with an autographed copy of the History of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, 1784-1945.

The following inscription was written on the fly-leaf:

"Sixty-three years ago I was principal of the Public School in Chesterville. That was one of the happiest years of my life. I made there some of the kindest friends of my life, most of whom have passed on after a useful life. I cherish their memories. Fortunately a few still remain and are among my best friends. It is a great pleasure to me to present this product of my later years to your rejuvenated library and I trust that it will help to instil in a yonuger generation an increased interest in the life and work of those who laid the foundations of what I consider one of the best counties in Ontario.

J. G. Harkness."

BUCKINGHAM-SULLIVAN

Township Buys Second Snow Plow

At a meeting of the Township Council last night, it was decided to purchase an additional snow-plow and wing to supplement the one already in use on the township roads. The new plow will be nine feet in width, one foot wider than the present plow. It is planned to ask for tenders, by truck owners, for the use of the plow.

It is hoped that with two plows in operation throughout the winter the township roads will be kept open.

LIBRARY BOOKS COMING IN SLOWLY

It is just as true as it ever was that two and two make four, but when library books come in by the twos and only add up to four it does not make a library.

A short time ago the Public Library Board asked that all holders of books taken from the library before the new board was set up be returned. Actually just two people have brought books to this office, which was given as a place to leave the books for the convenience of those returning books.

The Board is making every effort to get a real good library functioning in the village, not only for the use of villagers but for those in the immediate vicinity. It is known that a considerable number of volumes are still in the borrowers' hands which could be included in the new set up and this appeal is being made for the return of all books outstanding. The sooner the new books will be available.

THE LESSON OF A GREAT LIFE

Henry Ford, one of the world's most spectacular personalities has passed away. He did more to brighten the lives of average men and women than any other man who ever lived. Could Henry Ford have accomplished what he did in any other than a free economy? If he were alive and young today could he accomplish as much even in the U.S.A.? I doubt it —times have changed. There is a dynamic power in freedom which nothing else provides.

Under a planned economy Henry Ford would have had to get permission to leave his father's farm and go to work in a machine shop. A permit would be needed before he could buy the materials with which to experiment on his new contraption. When he got it running he would have to persuade the Board of Examiners that it would supply a public need better than anything else so far produced. Then it would be turned over to the government's production department. Henry Ford would probably have been sent to the government's research division and told to invent a comptometer. His genius for organization and business management would never have been developed, the automobile would have remained an expensive luxury, used only by government officials and the idle rich, if there were any.

Henry Ford was born at the right time. If he were young today could he do anything half as great as he did in his generation? Socialism would never have allowed him to do what he liked with his own money. If any man ever gave society good value for the money he earned, Ford did. He left the earth richer than he found it, the pity is so many leave it poorer.

Today he would be told that it was anti-social to let any man control so much money. Most of it would have been taken from him in taxes and given to the politicians to spread around among the people to spend as they wished. That is the modern method of creating prosperity. Industrial enterprises of the Ford type are not likely to be born again. The world needs, more than ever, men with unfettered minds, governments which respect the freedom of the people.

OWLS, MICE AND MATEMATICS

Ground sufficient to produce ten tons of grass will support 1,000 field mice with a total weight of about 65 pounds. An owl weighing half a pound or so can devour 1,000 mice in one season. Owls obligingly count their own mouse consumption by means of regurgitated pellets containing skeletal remains of the rodents neatly packed in an envelope of fragmentary fur. Owls of all species their pellets and the tiny bones enclosed therein, make a striking display at the Royal Ontario Museum.

MASS PRODUCTION OF FISH

For the past five years, United Kingdom scientists have been experimenting with the mass production of fish in a man-made sea, in the hope of bringing more food to the empty tables of Britain and the Continent. They are speeding up nature's cycle by fertilizing the seawater with chemicals. The results have been dramatic. Some fish are growing at twice their normal rate, and sometimes even more quickly. A loch on the west coast of Scotland has been dammed off to provide an enclosed experimental area, and the water is fertilized by the continual addition of nitrogen and phosphorous, which cause the small sea plants on which fish feed to grow in greater abundance. In the fertilized water, fish reach a marketable size in three years instead of the normal six. Once operations can be extended to a really large field, it is expected that the fish market will be doubled.

Roads In Winchester Twp.

Mr. Taxpayer:

At this time of year when roads are boiling and heaving it is far beyond our control. First we must know we cannot fight the elements, such as frost, snow, floods, etc. In the last two weeks I might say there have been at least between wash-outs, small culverts and bridges going out, close to four dozen or more; which meant an awful lot of work and expense, so close following the heavy expense of handling snow in the past winter.

I have heard ratepayers say, "Let the council pay for it, they have lots of money." Now, stop and think. That is not their money. It is your money. You may say how can I help? There are lots of ways you can heip. If you live on a hill or on the side of a hill, put a tile or tube in at your gateway and don't let the water run down the road surface and spol it or cause it to get heaving or boiling. Remember, drainage is the life of any road.

You may say, "Do they know anything about building a road?" Well, my idea of building a road is, first have it well shouldered, with ditches back at the fence, which means the center of your road should be at leas 16 to 18 inches higher than the fields with a good outlet or water course. Very little snow stays on it, therefore you have no heaving in Spring. We have only three such roads in the Township, namely, the Forward Road, Part of No. 10 and Part of No. 9. These roads have the proper grade where proper drainage can be used. On No. 10 in one mile, two years this summer, a young farmer cut 5 to 7 tons of hay and loaded it with hay loader, no weeds or brush there.

Remember, every member on that Council Board wants to keep down taxes. Yes, you can help. Here is how. If you are thinking of putting a new fence in front of your farm, plow right to the ditch line at the roadway. They will pay for seed on road and you will always reap the crop,, at the same time keeping down the weeds and brush and improve the appearance of your farms at least 25 percent.

There have been a few farmers in Chesterville district who are doing this in the last year to whom we wish to say, "Thanks a lot." It made a big difference in looks of their property. Just those little things keep down taxes. Remember, rising taxes put a damper on production as well as consumption.

Under the new weed act which is going to be put in force this year, something will have to be done, so let us remove the weeds before the weeds move us. It is often asked, "When is the right time to destroy weeds?" There is only one answer, namely, the first time you see them and every time you see them. There is one request the road superintendent would like to ask ratepayers. That is not to load on your cans, bottles, old wire and what-not, and then unload it over on the next concession opposite your neighbors barn. Is this fair? If you have no place for it at home ask the Road Superintendent where to put it in your locality. We can not mow a road with all this on it.

There is no better food value for an apple tree than to bury old cans under the tree. You need the apples; we dont' need the cans.

Trimming the trees just inside the fence line is a great help to winter plowing. Next year the board will have the second equipment for plowing roads which will be a great help.

If you have a problem in regards to municipal jurisdiction, come to the Board. Every member wants to help you if it is in their power to do so.

The large projects have to have the approval of the Department of Highways on which they pay 50 cents on every dollar spent and some bridges, more. This article is meant for the taxpayer, just to help with the little things as brush and weeds in front of his or her property and at the same time improve driving conditions on our Township roads.

Receives Letter From Greek Soldier

Some time ago Mrs. Roy Elliott received the following letter by air mail. The letter was written in Greek handwriting, which was sent to Ottawa for translation.

Written on the hills of Thessaly, where I am serving as a soldier. Many a time up here I have wondered how the rest of the world was living. Up here it's cold, many things are lacking and there is almost nothing to make life worth living—"Does the rest of the world live like this, too?" I asked myself.

One day happiness came to me—I received a parcel from Canada. How can I express my emotions. It was from an unknown lady. I saw it and yet could not believe my eyes — my gratitude to this unknown friend knows no bounds.

We suffered so much during the war and occupation. The Germans and Italians made Greece a real spectre. They murdered, hanged and looted.

Due to them hundreds of thousands of my fellow countrymen died. Even today Greece is unable to feed her people. The fields are barren due to neglect and the ravage of war. Thus we serving in the Greek armed forces lack many things. Up here on the snow-covered mountains of Thessaly, I was without woolen underwear and warm clothing. Your parcel and the woollen underwear contained, literally saved me. It is for this reason that my thanks to you are more than mere words can express. I would like to pay you back in some way for your kindness, however, I realize that due to my circumstances this is impossible.

Thanking you again from the bottom of my heart.

"BLUE ROBINS" ARE HERE

Charles Fothergill, one of Ontario's pioneer naturalists who came to York (Toronto) from York, England, in 1817, left valuable manuscripts and diaries, some of which are now housed in the Royal Ontario Museum. He had no "bird guides" to consult, and had to create the names for many species new to him: James L. Baillie of the Museum staff notes that some of those names were singularly apt. Among them was "Blue Robin", given to the Eastern Bluebird and which describes that popular, blue-coated, red-vested songster now arriving from the south, perfectly.

Backfire

An English undertaker found a donkey lying dead in his back yard and went to inform the police.

"What shall I do with it?" he asked the officer in charge.

"Do with it? Bury it, of course," said the officer, laughing. "You're an undertaker, aren't you?"

"Certainly I am," replied the undertaker. "But I thought it my business to come 'round and inform the relatives first."

EARLY CARE OF LAWNS

Now that the snow is fast disappearing it's time to think of the lawn and the first chore is to give it a liberal application of fertlizer.

Grass requires a high supply of Nitrogen and Phosphoric Acid and a moderate amount of Potash, Calcium, Magnesium, Manganese and sulphur. Complete garden fertilizers are best for the early treatment. The applicpation, three pounds per 100 square feet,can be made as soon as the snow melts and before the ground thaws and settles. The object being to get the fertilizer spread early enough to permit frost action to work it down to the root zone.

Later, when good growing weather sets in, Nitrogen in the form of Ammonium Sulphate or Ammonium Nitrate should be applied, dissolved in water, at the rate of one pound for the Sulphate, and one-half pound for the Nitrate per 200 square feet of lawn area.

A DRIP-PROOF TAP

A drip-proof tap, the washer of which can be changed without shuting the water off at the main, has recently appeared in Britain. Consisting of only six parts, it is based on a new principle resulting from wartime advances in hydraulic equipment in aircraft. Two washers, made of a new synthetic resilient material, replace the normal one. Sealing is effected by water pressure. After being turned on and off 1,000,000 times in laboratory tests, the equivalent of 40 years of household use, the tap was as good as new.

DEATH MRS. ALICE EASTWOOD RESIDENT WILLIAMSBURG

Many friends throughout the community learned with regret of the death of a much-loved citizen of Williamsburg, Miss Alice Eastwood, which occurred at her home in Wiliamsburg, on Wednesday afternoon, after a lengthy illness. She was in her 61st year.

Born in Williamsburg on April 21, 1886, she was the youngest daughter of the late Thomas Eastwood and his wife Susan McIntosh.

She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Florence McIntosh, of Winchester Springs, Mrs. Stanley McIntosh, Mrs. Edgar Casselman and Mrs. Merton Saddlemire, all of Williamsburg.

The funeral, held at her residence on Friday afternoon, was conducted by her pastor, Rev. George Innes.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Ross Beckstead, Ross Wingard, Walter Loucks, W. P. Henophy, Irwin Empey and R. F. Norval.

The remains were placed in Williamsburg vault for interment in the family plot.

The sincere sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved sisters.

Many beautiful floral tributes received testified to the high esteem in which the deceased had been held.

Wolves Increase Rapidly Must Be Controlled

Only two survive of the thirteen wolf cubs found on April 8th by John and Donald Suffron of Merrickville, in lot 12, concession 2, Montague Township, Lanark County on the morning of April 8th..

The two survivors are those which are being nursed by a cat belonging to Mrs. S. Driscoll, Kemptville. The cubs appear so healthy and vigorous that there is little doubt that they will live if they are undisturbed for a few weeks. Mrs. Driscoll and her children are keenly interested in their little charges and are very anxious to keep them until they have passed through the critical babyhood weeks. Later, they will be given to the Zoo at Toronto, probably. It is possible that Mrs. Driscoll may bring her cat and two kittens with the two cubs to the Ottawa Sportsmen's Show this week for one or two days at least.

Of the eleven which died, bodies of two have been sent to Toronto and the other nine are being mounted as an exibit by two well-known taxidermists, one in Smiths Falls and one in Rockland. It is probable that these will be available for the Sportsmen's Show also.

Why did the other eleven die? Various reasons have been ascribed. Some say that the cow's milk and water was too rich, some, not rich enough; some of the wolves bled at the nose, indicating possibly that the milk had got into the lungs and caused injury to those organs. It is a fact that only those which were able to nurse naturally survived. Credit for a good effort should be given to Mrs. F. Kurtin and her son Jim who worked many hours with their pair and their dog Tippy, but unfortunately Tippy could not supply enough milk. Other local ladies tried to introduce the wolf cubs to mother cats who would not be deluded. Mr. F. Bedard of Ottawa also tried to find mothers but the offers came too late.

Wolves are extremely wily creatures and will give the hunter a good test of his skill. The mother of the thirteen was too crafty to come into view while her den was being watched, and even after all the men had gone her tracks showed that she never came closer than 15 feet from her nest. The log in which the litter was born was on a small mound surrounded by marsh so that no dog could follow her trail.

A Hint For Daddies

Here is a hint for fathers. Three hundred and twenty-six children in a New England school district were asked to write anonymously just what each thought of his father. As may be imagined the result was interesting, if not startling. Many reasons were given by those who declared their liking for daddy. He built my doll house; he taught me to swim; he helps me with my school work; he takes me to the park; he gave me a calf to fatten and sell.

Scores of essays could be reduced to "I like my daddy; he plays with me." Not one child mentioned the family house, car, food, or clothing. Wealth counts for little with a child. What makes daddy really worthwhile is his ability and inclination to be a playmate to his children.

WOMAN'S CROWNING GLORY

Originally woman's crowning glory was her hair, but for centuries it has been her hat. This article of clothing or accessory of dress has been fashioned in a greater variety of shapes sizes, and substances than any other item of apparel, and a glance at the past is enough to assure us that history rarely repeats itself when it comes to hats. An early 16th century tapestry in the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology reveals that each of the twenty or more women depicted in it is wearing a different hat or headdress.

Then, as now, they were a means of expressing one's individuality, but if, after looking in hat shop windows, some of you think this form of expression is being carried too far, just turn back the pages of the history of fashion to the 18th century. There, particularly in France, we find fantastic hats beyond our wildest dreams. Novelty beyond anything else was the desire of the fashionable French lady and the milliners sought to please. This they achieved, as may be seen in drawings and paintings of that period. Historic events, incidents of current interest, and even a popular song were enough to inspire new creations in hats. The "piece de resistance" of the period was one commemorating the courageous action of a ship in battle against the English in 1778. It consisted of a ship in full sail complete in detail, which was balanced. precariously on an elaborate coiffure.

Coming down to the 19th and early 20th centuries, the Royal Ontario Museum's collection of hats and bonnets does little to shake the evidence that variety is the spice of life. From the dainty little bonnets of the mid 19th century with their laces and ribbons, to the large hats of the early 20th laden with flowers and feathers they were, just as the hats of today, masterpieces of the milliner's art and ingenuity, and the joy of the women who wore them, as their crowning glory.

NEW RAT KILLER BOON TO FARMERS

Developed in the United States as a wartime replacement for imported rat poison ingredients, alpha naphthyl thiourea (antu for short) is the base of new rodenticide products now being sold in Canada.

Products based on Antu are remarkably effective against the common brown or Norway rat and should prove a great boon to Canadian farmers. Antu is not particularly effective against mice, gophers or other rodents. The new rat-killer is usually administered in the form of baits of various kinds, although tests indicate that rat infestations may be wiped out using Antu as a "tracking" poison. The term "tracking" poison is used to describe the use of a poison applied along the runways frequented by the rodents. It appears that rats, after walking over the poison lick their feet to clean them, thus taking in sufficient of the poison to cause death.

While Antu is many times more poisonous to rats than dogs, cats and farm animals, users are cautioned to follow carefully manufacturers' directions and keep bait out of reach of domestic animals.

RIGHTS

By James Russel Lowell

They have rights who dare maintain them; we are traitors to our sires,
Smothering in their holy ashes Freedom's new-lit altar fires;
Shall we make their creed our jailer? Shall we, in our haste to slay,
From the tombs of the old prophets steal the funeral lamps away
To light up the martyr-fagots round the prophets of today?

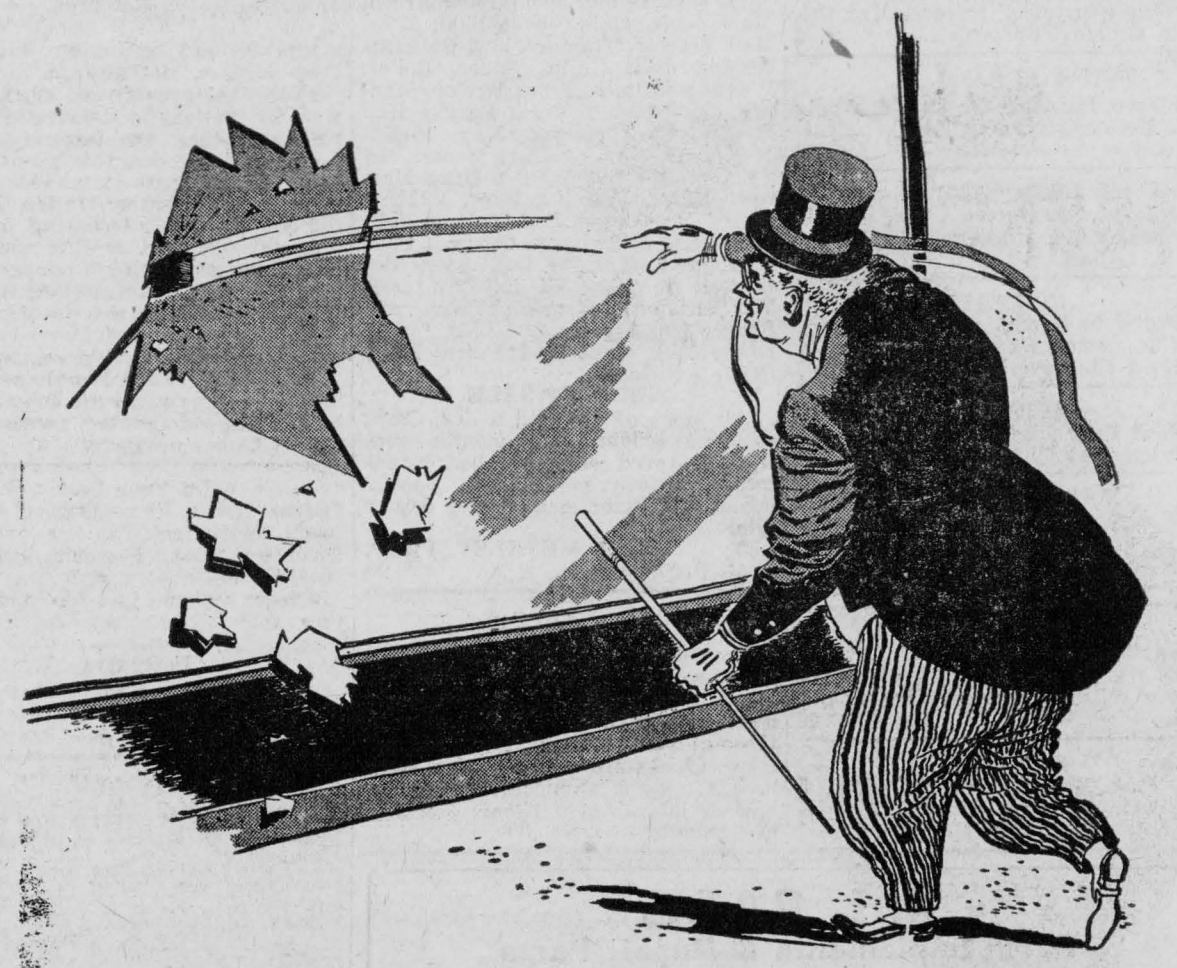

New occasions teach new duties; Time makes ancient good uncouth;
They must upward still, and onward, who would keep abreast of truth;
Lo, before us gleam her campfires! we ourselves must Pilgrims be,
Lanuch our Mayflower, and steer boldly through the desperate winter sea
Nor attempt the Future's portal with the Past's blood-rusted key.

AN ODD MANIA, BUT...

Breaking windows is an odd and expensive mania that most sane people manage to control. Breaking insulators on Hydro poles, or shattering street lights, is an even more costly pastime that an astonishing number of boys and men fail to curb.

An insulator or street light sits up so invitingly . . . and, to the uninformed seems such a small and insignificant piece of equipment that it presents a tempting target. Few people would break insulators or street lights if they understood the damage that can result.

A broken insulator can cause a short circuit and cut the service on a line. The homes, the factory, the hospital or the stores depending on that line are cut off from power until the insulator can be replaced. Housewives are inconvenienced. Factories can be stopped with possible pay losses to the workers. Human lives can be endangered, especially in a hospital.

Broken street lights imperil both foot and vehicle traffic, and create an invitation to crime.

To repair damaged insulators and replace broken street lights requires men, trucks and possibly miles of travel. It all adds up to a big price for a target . . . and Hydro consumers pay that price.

Please use your influence at every opportunity to prevent the deliberate or careless destruction of public property.

GARDEN CHATS

By Mrs. Harry Allison

Hello neighbours—

Well now, didn't the weather pull a fast one on us last week? He must think April Fool lasts all through the month. Here we were hoping we could soon blossom out in our Easter finery and that we would finally be out "house cleaning" the outdoors when along came a belated snow-storm, a real one too. The gardens and lawns are no further advanced than when we chatted last week. But relax, for one of these days April will fool us again and send Spring along.

While you are relaxing let us talk about some shrubs. They are a lazy man's answer to prayer in landscaping as they need comparatively little attention once they are established. Unlike a perennial border or an annual bed, they require no yearly spading. They flourish quite well in dry or rainy seasons. In fact, they seem to ask for only a little pruning to keep them in shape.

Like powder and rouge they cover a multitude of faults and help present a good front. Take that unsightly fence in your back yard. A few well-chosen shrubs, in a few years, would completely conceal it. Or if you live in a house which was built high and dry on a three foot wall, shrubs have a way of not only hiding the foundation, but also "attaching" the house to the ground. There is nothing in the horticultural field that will make more improvement in the appearance of your home than well planned foundation planting.

If your house is large, plant tall shrubs or evergreens at the corners and shorter ones in between, bind in the building and make it appear smaller. On the contrary if you wish to make your house appear larger, concentrate the taller shrubs in the centre with the dwarf varieties at the corners.

It is wise, too, to look ahead when choosing the type of shrub you require, so that in twenty years a nice little spruce you planted by the front door won't be completely hiding the house. Or perhaps that lilac you carefully planted by the kitchen window will be wholly obstructing your view be eliminated by choosing dwarf varieties for foundation planting. "So," you ask, "what shall we plant?" of your neighbours. That problem can Books and landscape gardners all seem to agree on one point. Go to a local bush, watch the roadsides and see what Nature planted. The wild shrubs growing there will flourish equally well on your lawn as they are suited to our particular climate. Gardners who know say to plant these native shrubs. They are really beautiful too. Get yourself some dogwood. City people pay well for little roots of it. You can have it for nothing. Alders make a good background—if kept under control. Just pause and think. I am sure you know plenty of local bushes that would add to the appearance of your home with little cost to you.

There is some Scotch blood in me and I like to eat my shrubs as well as look at them so I have planted red current bushes in my foundation planting. A red currant in bloom is most attractive and when the red berries come it is really a picture—and besides, I like red currant jelly. White and black currants would be an asset too to your foundation shrubs, but I don't recommend gooseberries — especially if you wear nylons.

Of course, if your tastes are more expensive you can consult countless seed catalogues and get a most accurate description of many kinds of shrubs. Evergreens are a particularly good choice as they remain attractive the year round. The catalogue prices may seem a bit high but a few shrubs each year will make your home more beautiful and more valuable.

So get busy. Plan, and plant a few shrubs this spring.

Sincerely yours.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS ON FARM GARDEN

Having decided on the location of the home vegetable garden, such location being without shade, next comes the preparation of the soil, which should preferably be a rich loam and well drained. Better results may be expected if the ground was ploughed or dug up in the fall and given a good dressing of barnyard manure, says William Ferguson, Experimental Farm, Ottawa. When planning the layout of the garden it should be done to provide for a variety of vegetables.

Before starting to plant the home garden it is well to bear in mind that the tall-growing plants should be at the north side of the garden where they will not shade the smaller plants. The soil should be well worked up before sowing or planting. Rows should be marked, preferably with a line pegged into the ground at each end of the row. If power machines or horse-drawn cultivators are to be used the rows must be sufficiently far apart to accommodate the equipment, but if the garden is to be worked by hand the rows may be considerably closer so as to save space and labor.

The cool growing varieties of vegetables should be sown as soon as the ground can be prepared in the Spring. These include the salad crops such as radish, lettuce and spinach. Peas should also be sown early. Often much labour and good seed are wasted by not sowing properly. Seed should be sown with care and at the proper depth. The proper depth for radish and lettuce is ¼ inch; for spinach ½ inch; peas 2 inches, onion seed ¾ inch or onion sets sown 1 inch; potato sets, 4 inches; beets, carrots, swiss chard and parsnips are all sown ½ inch deep. Seed of late cabbage may also be sown early to a depth of ½ inch in a small row. Young plants of early cabbage which should have been started under glass in late March, or which may be bought as young plants from commercial gardeners, should be set out at the same time as the late cabbage seed is sown.

As soon as danger of frost has passed sow beans and corn 2 inches deep, cucumber ½ inch, and squash ¾ inch. Cucumber, squash and similar vegetables are usually sown in hills with 4 or 5 seeds per hill. After the young plants are up the weakest should be removed leaving 2 or 3 strong plants per hill. The hills should be from 6 to 9 feet apart. Tomato plants are also set out when frost is over, usually 2 or 3 feet apart. Further sowings of beans, beets and carrots in late May or early June can be made so as to extend their picking season.

During the latter half of June, the late cabbage plants, which were sown earlier, should be transplanted to the plot where they are to be finally grown. At the same time rutabaga or swede turnip seed should be sown ¼ inch deep. Seed of Chinese cabbage should be sown ½ inch deep, about mid-July and early August.

DID YOU KNOW?

Many people believe the reddish brown colour of iodized salt blocks is due to their iodine content. This is not true. Potassium iodide, not iodine is used for iodizing, and it is as white as the salt itself. A harmless red pigment is, therefore, also added during manufacture, so iodized blocks may be easily distinguished from plain salt blocks.

Hello Homemakers! Looking over the shoulders of the folks who were concentrating on their selection of seed packages we were perturbed by the few herb seeds included. Perhaps you already have an herb bed—if not here are a few notes on the value of such a garden.

How handy it is to go out and gather a few tender shoots of chives. When finely chopped they add zest to fish and vegetable salads, soups gravies, scrambled eggs, cottage cheese, and many sandwich fillings.

Then we have:

(1) Thyme for poultry dressing, soups, gravies and sauces.

(2) Sage for stuffnig used in fowl, pork, beef and for flavouring jellied veal loaf or a potted roast;

(3) Sweet basil combined with any of the following: thyme, marjoram or summer savory, lends a new flavour note to spaghetti, green salads, sausage or tomato juice;

(4) Summer savory for relishes. fish and meats;

(5) Sweet Marjoram for stews and soups; combined with a pinch of thyme and breadcrumbs for coating croquettes and cutlets;

(6) Parsley and mint are used for more than decoration since we eat them as garnishes or in sandwiches, casseroles, vegetable dishes. etc.

By all means plant an herb bed to add a delicate new flavour to your old tme dishes. Remember, add it discreetly for a pinch is as good as a pound when seasoning food.

Recipes to clip and file

MINT SAUCE

½ cup water, ½ cup vinegar, 1 tbsp. sugar, 10 sprigs mint.

Scald the mint for ten minutes, cool, strain and add 2 or 3 leaves of finely chopped mint leaves before serving with lamb.

CREAMED CHIVE POTATOES

Peel and cube potatoes; put in greased casserole and cover with milk and salt and pepper. Bake 45 minutes in electric oven apt 350 degs. Dot with butter and sprinkle with chives before serving.

SAUSAGE WITH SPICE COVER

THE SUGGESTION BOX

From H. C. we are reminded of oiling things to make them run smoothly. Every so often your mechanical servants need such attention to do a good job. Oiling keeps the appliance motor cool, prevents wear and tear, and stops squeaks and racket. Oil the motors once every six months or a year. The instructions accompanying the appliance will give you the last word on this. (If you have lost your instruction book, we suggest you write the manufacturer for one.

A drop of oil will go a long way (all the way ,in fact).Do not be too generous with it and use a thin machine oil recommended for household use.

The sewing machine has several places to anoint with oil. If your model is run by footpower, the sides of the foot-treadle need the occasional drop—also the crank of the treadle wheel. The sides of the flywheel shaft should have their share as well as the shuttle and needle spindle at the top of the machine.

The vacuum cleaner oil hole may be found on the top or the side of the motor.

The electric mixer usually has a small hole towards the back of the motor and needs a small dose once in six months.

Some refrigerators need an oil refresher for the motor so cast your eye over the instructions.

The wringer of the washing machine does a hard job, and sometimes it is a good idea to give the wringer gear box and the roller compresson screw a new lease on life wth a drop of oil.

Fix that squeaky door hinge in passing by raising the pins slightly and putting in a drop of oil. If the pin cannot be lifted, leave a drop or two on top, and it will slowly work its way down into the jonts of the hinges.

By R. J. Deachman.

We have started on a long journey, I hope it will be a delightful trip. The world is tired of hate and strife and bitterness, it seeks love and peace and a touch of that kindness of spirit which makes life worth living.

In Canada we have much to be thankful for. What country in all the world offers brightter prospects for the future? War seems far removed from these peaceful shores. We are blessed with good neighbours and a great wealth of resources, what more do we need.

We have our differences of opinion, our political disputes. These things are the fruit of freedom, a proof of its existence. Who wants to live in a country where there is no longer freedom of opinion, no right to criticise. There is joy in the feeling that the things we do not like can be changed, if only others can be induced—not compelled, to see the wisdom of our point of view. The recognition of the rights of others is a guarantee of our own. The nation is in our hands. There is something magnificent in the idea that we, the more than twelve million who inhabit this country can make it, in the end, what we think it ought to be.

What do we need for that task? Tolerance, faith, courage. These are the things which must abide with us throughout the years. These are the staffs which will comfort us as we journey through life.

Tolerance means respect for the others fellows point of view, even when it is different from ours. We are building a nation. The British people are a mingling of many races. It will be so in Canada. Once on a train in the West I asked a man born in the Ukraine if his people were inter-marrying with our people? A smile came over his face: "My daughter's name", said he, "is Mrs. Sandy MacPherson, my grandchildren are Canadian by birth, I am a Canadian by adoption."

We need faith in our country—faith in its resourcse, faith in its people, their traditions and capacity for accomplishment. Of our courage there can be no doubt. It has been expressed in a thousand ways. "Courage," said Sir James Barrie, "is the lovely virtue". The war is over—let's hope it's over for a thousand years so that we may now strengthen these qualities of tolerance, faith and courage and use them for the making of a better world, a greater Canada.

"Well," she replied, "when I had only one child it took all my time; what more can thirteen do?"
