Osgoode candidates battle for votes

OSGOODE — The most mutually agreed upon issue amongst would-be councillors at the all-candidates meeting held at the Osgoode Community Centre Oct. 26, was the institution of a recycling program in Osgoode Township.

However, the capacity crowd expressed most interest in youth programs and funding to allow better use of the community centre facilities.

User pay and township growth were also contentious issues.

Extra interest in this election is sparked by the unprecedented presence of three candidates from the west side of the township. Marilyn Kelly, the only female in the running, is a resident of River Road while Lloyd Cranston and George Royer both live on the outskirts of Osgoode Village.

In addition to incumbents Albert McKeown of Metcalfe and Blaine Ball of Greely West, past councillor Doug Thompson, and newcomer Terry Otto both hail from the eastern part of the township.

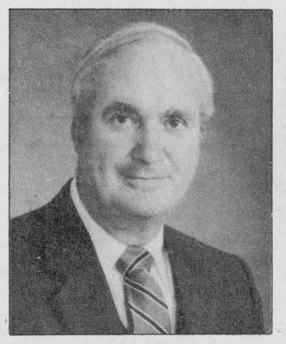
Present in opposition to incumbent mayor Albert Bouwers were economist and agriculturalist, Jan van der Veen, and 19-year-old student Ron Stanley.

Incumbents McKeown and Ball leaned heavily on their past records in their opening remarks. Both pointed to the great condition of the township's finances due to their "pay as you go" policy.

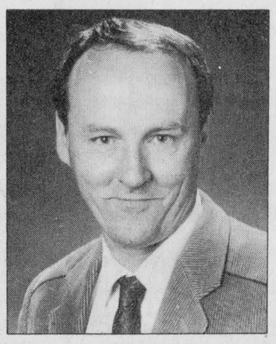
"Taxes have only increased by half the rate of inflation," said McKeown.

Kelly and Cranston stressed their concerns about youth, seniors' needs and affordable housing.

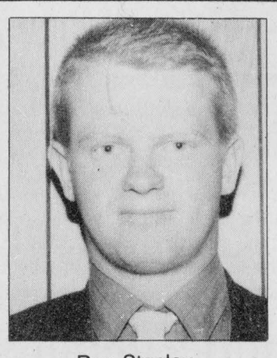
"Our youth are our future citizens," said Cranston. "We must look after them and get something going for them."



Al Bouwers



Jan van der Veen



Ron Stanley

Incumbent Al Bowers is being challenged for the mayor's job in Osgoode Township by economist Jan van der Veen and student Ron Stanley.

Kelly suggested a youth advisory committee. "Our seniors have lots of needs," she said, "they could help with our youth." However, Cranston felt that, to ensure success, the young people must be encouraged to "do it themselves."

Kelly said that Osgoode Township should get some of the $2 billion which the Ontario government has allotted for non-profit housing.

She said that daycare facilities were needed in the township.

Ball stated that council's current policy is to fund those cases where there is a serious financial need combined with a net family income of less than $28,000.

"We are currently subsidizing 12 daycare spaces," said Ball. "However, the pressure to expand this level of subsidy is growing."

The issue of expansion and growth in the township was introduced by Cranston. While growth is desirable, he stressed that expansion not be too rapid to handle. "We must listen to the planners," he said.

Otto expressed concern in this area too. "Is there an up-to- date plan for our growth...or is it panic management?" he questioned.

During the question period, Roger Dixon, a resident from the eastern side of the township, asked about the rapid development taking place in the township.

"We must supply the demand," said McKeown. "Osgoode is a good place to locate because of our low debt." Councillor Ball commented that the market sets the pace.

Mayor Bouwers said that development was being held back as much as possible. "Today at regional government I supported growth in Orleans to keep it away from Osgoode," he said. "Kanata started out the same size as us...now look at it!"

Otto put forth the idea of forming a township recreation department to direct all township community centres with, perhaps, volunteers from each community. He said that, with good planning, the township might have had a swimming pool rather than a new community centre in Greely.

Thompson gave support to the idea of a central recreation department and felt money could be saved by having one manager for all the arenas.

Otto also suggested that regional government should be abolished. In any case, the mayor should not represent both levels, he said.

Royer felt the township was getting its money's worth from regional government. "Just look at our Main Street and other roads," he said. "If we had to do it out of our pockets, we couldn't afford it."

"Why should I pay for baseball if I don't play baseball?" asked Royer. He said that township programs should be user-organized, that associations should be formed to organize the programs on a user-pay basis.

Cranston disagreed with a user-pay policy. As an example, he mentioned senior citizens who had worked their lifetimes in their communities. He said they shouldn't have to pay for their programs.

"Some can't afford to pay," Otto pointed out.

During the question period, Osgoode resident Mary Sonnichsen expressed her frustration in finding a suitable place for her Brownie Pack to meet each week.

An appeal to the Osgoode Community Centre Board brought the offer of a downstairs room. However, it was not considered suitable for 60 Brownies. Attempts to obtain use of the largely- unused upstairs hall proved futile — unless she was willing to pay $10 per hour.

"It's so frustrating to drive by and see the hall unused," said Sonnichsen. "It's time they became 'community' centres instead of just hockey rinks." She feels there should be funds available somewhere to subsidize the use of the community centre by worthy non-profit groups such as hers.

Santa Claus parade held December 3

WINCHESTER — The Winchester Chamber of Commerce Santa Claus parade is ready to roll Dec. 3.

The procession will leave the Hydro yard on St. Lawrence Street at 1pm and will travel to Henderson Crescent, Louise Street, York, St. Lawrence, Victoria, Mill, Main, Howard and finish at the Community Centre.

Santa Claus will stop in at the Royal Bank from 1:45 to 3:30pm and will also visit Winchester District Memorial Hospital and Dundas Manor later in the day.

Parade committee member Phil Snyder said there is no charge to enter floats in the parade. Prizes of $100 and $50 will be awarded to the two best commercial and non-commercial floats.

"Anybody wishing to put a float in the parade should call me or John Adams," said Snyder.

Approximately 25 floats are entered in each year's parade. Over 1,500 candy canes will be provided to children along the parade route courtesy of the Winchester Legion.

The parade will proceed rain or shine. This year's parade marshals are centennial co-chairmen Harry Keyes and Shirley Fawcett.

All candidates' meeting scheduled

CHESTERVILLE — The Dundas and Stormont Federations of Agriculture are sponsoring an all candidates debate Thurs., Nov. 3 at North Dundas District High School, beginning at 8pm.

The four federal candidates seeking to represent Stormont-Dundas will attend. Each candidate will be allowed five minutes for an opening statement followed by a question and answer period. Each will be given a few minutes for a closing statement.

"I think it should be quite interesting," said Alvin Runnalls, DFA president of Dundas North. "All the candidates are new and many people don't know them."

While agricultural issues will be stressed during the debate, Runnalls said everyone is invited to attend and ask questions on any subject.

"With free trade certainly people at Ault and the linen mills will be interested," he said. "Free trade will affect everyone."

Manotick OPP search for suspected kidnapper

MANOTICK — The Manotick detachment of the OPP and local school administrators have combined efforts to warn children about a man who has attempted to coerce students into his truck four times in the past month.

The police are looking for a white male, aged 30 to 40 years old, using a pick-up truck to travel between Metcalfe and Rideau Townships. Manotick OPP constable Ian McCurdie said a single suspect, working alone, is responsible for all four incidents.

Police believe the man first attempted an abduction Sept. 18 in the village of Vernon at 4pm. He approached two children, aged six and eight years, offered the children candy and asked to play "hide-and-seek."

McCurdie said the children described the vehicle the man was driving as "a funny truck."

The second incident occurred in Metcalfe on Fri., Oct. 7 at 8:15am, when a man approached a child who was walking to school. The young student said the man asked him if he needed a ride to school and then tried to grab the child's arm. He was able to free himself from the man and ran to a nearby home.

The Metcalfe student described the man's truck as being light blue, possibly with a white top or cab.

The man was reported twice in one day on Sat., Oct. 26. He first appeared in Kars at 10:40am, where he approached several students from Rideau Valley Middle School while they were jogging. The students described the man's vehicle as a blue Toyota pick-up truck.

Later that day, a child in Metcalfe reported that a man in a red pick-up truck approached him as he was riding his bicycle on Church Street. The youth said the man tried to grab him and reported that he was the sole occupant of the truck.

"In the four incidents, only two things remain constant," said McCurdie. "In all a pick-up of the same description was used, and in all incidents, the unidentified male was alone in the truck and reported to be white and aged 30 to 40 years old."

The incidents have resulted in an awareness campaign in Metcalfe area schools, run with co-operation from the Manotick OPP. The police have made a street-proofing video available to schools, and by last week, all students in Metcalfe's three schools had seen the video, entitled "Strong Kids, Safe Kids."

Teachers have also instructed their students about the presence of this man and ways to avoid danger from strangers. Newsletters were also sent to parents of children attending Metcalfe schools, explaining the schools' and OPP's efforts to increase awareness of a potential danger.

The Manotick detachment of the OPP welcomes any information which might shed some light on the four occurrences.

School board supports Lord's Prayer appeal

CORNWALL — The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education has voted to support a provincial trustee association's decision to appeal an Ontario Supreme Court ruling banning the Lord's Prayer from morning exercises in public schools.

Board chairman Joe Gunn said members of the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association will likely split the cost of launching an appeal.

After talking with the Sudbury School Board, which was originally involved in the court case, Gunn said they couldn't afford the legal fees alone.

"If a number of boards would split the cost we can bring it up again," said Gunn, who is opposed to the ruling. "We have agreed to write the association and urge them to get an appeal going."

Gunn said he has received several complaints from parents, wondering what is wrong with saying the Lord's Prayer during morning exercises.

"I can't find anything wrong with it," he said. "We never had a problem with it. The problem comes in the big metro areas where there are a number of minority groups and the cultures are so diverse."

Gunn said the Ministry of Education has bowed to political pressure by deciding not to appeal the ruling.

"It's not so much the words of the Lord's Prayer, it's the values associated with those words," said Gunn. "Honor thy mother and thy father and thou shalt not kill. They are not bad rules to live by."

Winchester village and township trustee Graham Casselman said the ruling further erases the rights of people in Ontario.

"Anyone who has a religious background should protest the rape of our rights," he said.

Mountain township trustee Roy Hastings said he hopes the appeal will resolve the dispute in a manner which will let each school board control its own schools.

"I certainly think opening exercises should be traditional, we should be allowed the Lord's Prayer and Bible readings," he said. "I believe Christian ethics are moral ethics and even if one isn't Christian they are still good social ethics."

Hastings said the policy of allowing students who objected to the Lord's Prayer to enter class following morning exercises was a good one.

"The judge ruled it was discriminatory because students were being excluded, but they could be included by their own wish," he said. "I don't see the judge had any right to interfere."

Any school board that decides to ignore the court ruling could face legal action and would not be supported by the Ministry of Education.

Seniors praise municipal building

WILLIAMSBURG — The approximately $200,000 renovations to the municipal building for this township received high marks from area residents this weekend.

At Saturday's official opening, about 100 people toured the new facility which houses the municipal office, county library and senior citizens' room.

A popular addition to the building, which will be completely accessible to the handicapped following further upgrading, is an enlarged area for seniors.

Those attending the opening had much praise for their improved social quarters.

"It looks pretty good," said 86-year-old Lorne Hogaboam. "We sure needed it here. We were too crowded."

Cecile McMillan, also 86, agreed that the previous location for the approximately 80 senior members was too small.

"We didn't have room," she said. "We were crowded right in."

McMillan said she is pleased with the new facility. "I think it is really grand for us."

Dorothy Arkless joked about the increased space with the expanded room. "I can play euchre now," she said. "Before I had to sit on someone's lap."

Noble Villeneuve, MPP for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, suggested the seniors in Williamsburg have made their voices heard, receiving a $20,000 provincial matching grant towards the cost of the room.

Asked about a trend towards increased political pressure from seniors, Villeneuve said it is prevalent in this township.

"Certainly the Williamsburg group is, I can vouch for that."

Villeneuve congratulated the seniors for their campaigning efforts saying that applying pressure works.

Reeve Johnny Whitteker, in his welcoming speech, joked about the seniors having growing pains with the previous facility.

Clerk-treasurer Mike Waddell said the seniors were simply running out of space in their previous room. He said the expansion has "ex-

Halloween quiet

WINCHESTER — The witches and goblins were on the prowl Monday night but didn't leave much of a mess behind according to Winchester OPP.

OPP Sgt. Jim McWade said there were a few incidents of window- soaping and egg throwing but no major acts of vandalism were reported.

"There were kids roaming in small groups, a few stop signs in Morewood were pushed over," said McWade. "There were enough little things to keep us going steady."

The OPP had extra officers on duty Halloween night and members of the Winchester Fire Department patrolled the streets of the village. Other municipalities also took precautions. Chesterville's village crew kept a watch for potential vandals and Winchester Township Fire Department remained on stand-by in Morewood.

One spot fire was reported in the parking lot of the Becker's store on St. Lawrence Street on Tuesday at 1:50am. Other spot fires were reported in the area but none caused any damage.

Despite falling on a Monday night the number of Halloween pranksters did not diminish.

"On a weekend you may have more parties but even though it was a school night it didn't seem to have much effect," said McWade. "They were out until the early hours of the morning."

Keiver heads diabetes campaign

WINCHESTER — Canvassers will be going door-to-door during November, collecting money for diabetic research.

There will be 46 volunteers raising money here during Diabetes Month, trying to surpass last year's total of $2,785 collected from area residents by 43 canvassers.

Joyce Keiver, who is heading the canvassing for her third year as "Captain", said she hopes to raise more than $3,000 for diabetes this year.

Keiver, 52, was diagnosed as being diabetic in 1977 and her husband, Don, learned three years ago he had the disease.

Keiver said she has been forced to follow a charted diet which excludes sugar, which resulted in her dramatically changing her eating habits at the time.

She takes medication daily for her diabetes, but she describes her condition as less serious than many others sufferring from the disease.

"I do not have any adverse reaction. I have been quite fortunate."

Her husband is even more fortunate than Keiver. He does not require medication.

Keiver said some diabetics suffer quite adverse reaction to the medication they have been prescribed. Those with diabetes can receive anything from eye irritation to kidney problems.

"It can affect any part of your body," said Keiver.

Keiver, an employee for 33 years on the housekeeping staff at Winchester District Memorial Hospital, said she regularly attends meetings of the Canadian Diabetes Association in Cornwall to keep in touch with the latest advancements.

She pointed out that about 80 per cent of the money raised each year during the association's campaigning goes towards either diabetes research or services for diabetics.

Osgoode debate

Taxes cannot be used to pay the operating costs of community centres, according to Ball. "Lot levies can only be used to pay the capital cost of construction," he said. Thereafter, the community centre must operate on the revenue it generates.

Thompson said it was "distasteful" to him that arena time cannot even be given to school children free of charge, so they can skate during the daytime hours when the ice is unused.

Ross Batstone asked candidates to elaborate on specific thoughts and ideas with respect to helping young people in the township.

Kelly reiterated her suggestion of forming a youth advisory committee.

"The township owns various buildings around," said Cranston. If space could be made available to them, he is confident that teens would raise funds and fix up their own facilities for dances and other activities. He emphasized that the teens must do it themselves.

Ball referred to a local mother, Doris Mercer, who has some ideas and resources concerning teen activities.

A ward system was proposed for Osgoode Township by Thompson. Royer, however, stated that a ward system was not warranted. "Some candidates want to make it easier to campaign in one area," he said.

Royer made the point that if $100,000 was allocated for road repair, there could be problems in determining in which ward or wards the money should be spent.

Ball said that ward representation might not be in the best interests of the township at present. However, he did suggest that a committee study this issue prior to the next election.

From the floor, Roy Holtom expressed concern about rising municipal taxes, and whether bilingual services should be implemented. He spoke of a petition he had put before council, signed by 111 residents asking for a referendum on the matter at the upcoming election. "Council gave short shrift to the petition," he said.

Ball does not agree with the way bilingualism is handled federally, he said, "but I do believe in teaching children in schools."

McKeown agreed that the grass roots is the place to start. He stated that bilingual policies are not a township matter and suggested each person express his concerns in writing to his government representative.

The next all-candidates' meeting will take place at the Metcalfe Community Centre on Nov. 9.

tended the life of this building for another 50 or 60 years to meet (the township's) needs."

Although it was not a prerequisite, Waddell said he was pleased Hartley-Hodgson Construction of Morrisburg was given the job.

"I'm happy to see it local," he said.

Those on hand included Liberal Bob Kilger, Conservative Eric Cameron and Confederation of Regions candidate Bob Noble, all contesting the Stormont-Dundas riding on Nov. 21.

Casselman acclaimed

Graham Casselman

WINCHESTER — Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education trustee Graham Casselman said the board must keep up good housekeeping over the next three years.

Casselman, who was acclaimed to his third term as trustee for Winchester village and township, said the county board members will also have to keep a watch on the separate school board and monitor how it will affect the public board.

"We are paying for education for minority groups and it's a further burden we don't need," he said. "We can look forward to greater erasing of rights of white anglo-saxon protestans in our community."

While Casselman said Winchester Public School has received a major overhaul recently there is always room to upgrade.

"North Dundas needs a lot of work especially the outside walls," he said.

The board has set aside $2.4 million to upgrade schools in the three United Counties.

Williamsburg, Morrisburg
Trustee Adams returns

CHESTERVILLE — For Susan Adams, serving as a trustee with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County School Board is a chance to make a difference in the education system.

Adams, who was acclaimed to her second term as trustee for Williamsburg-Morrisburg, said she decided to run for the trusteeship in 1985 because she wanted to add her input to the school board while her school-age children would receive the benefit.

"I saw it as an opportunity to make a real impact on the school board," she said. "School issues have always been a focus of my family and rather than sitting at home I decided to get out and do something."

Adams said she decided to let her name stand in this election because there is still so much she has to learn about the school board and education system.

"There is a lot more work I want to do," she said. "I was getting positive feedback for the help I was able to give people and I felt I could still do a good job. I find it exciting and personally challenging."

While she doesn't foresee any major projects for the Williamsburg-Morrisburg area over the next three years, she said Morrisburg Public School has been added to the school board's list of capital expenditure projects.

"They have four portables. The school has grown over the past several years," said Adams. "We need to put an addition onto the school. Chesterville also has portables and that is another project."

Adams forecasts continued growth for the board's alternative school which is one of the largest high school programs in SD&G.

She is also pleased with the establishment of a conservation learning centre at Nationview Public School.

"It is the only one of its kind in this board, it is a lighthouse type of project," she said. "Its use could affect every school in the board and it is an exciting thing for this area. Dundas students will certainly benefit because they are the closest. It seems like a small thing but it is an advance in education. We are taking the learning out of the classroom into the real world."

Furniture-maker finds career challenging

by Judy O'Brien
News Editor

WINCHESTER — The number of skilled craftsmen appears to be shrinking as today's modern lifestyle makes it easier to buy than to take the time to create something unique.

Skills that our ancestors depended upon for survival are now relegated to the status of a hobby and in some cases the art is being lost completely.

But a few enterprising souls are out to change all that, starting with an arts and crafts exhibit at the Lions Hall on Nov. 5 and 6.

Gail Baillargeon and Heather O'Neil are the organizers behind the show which will feature 24 artists from Winchester and the surrounding area, displaying crafts as diversified as quilting to wood carving.

"We decided to put a show on because there wasn't one in Winchester," said Baillargeon. "We started out with a small group of artists that we knew and then we advertised for artists."

Baillargeon, who operates The Book Place in Winchester, said some of the artists at the show also sell crafts on consignment in her store.

"We have had a very good response for a first show," she said. "If all goes well we are planning to hold another at Easter."

The show will run from 10am to 8pm on Saturday and 10am to 5pm on Sunday.

EXHIBIT

Ross Wilson of Winchester will be one of the exhibitors at the craft show. Wilson, who said he has been working with wood since he was a child, will display various pieces of hand-carved furniture and birds.

He has just completed his second season working as an apprentice cabinet-maker at Upper Canada Village, a process that can take five to seven years to complete. The experience is teaching him more about his craft than any other, says Wilson.

"I've been trying to get in there ever since I got out of high school," he said. "I mostly work on restoration and reproduction."

Wilson credits his high school teachers, especially Jack Armstrong at Osgoode Township High School, for cultivating his interest in carving.

He recently opened a workshop on Hwy. 31 near Morrisburg because his old shop couldn't handle the volume of work he was producing.

"I make boats, furniture, carve decoys," he said. "I'm working now on some for a shop in Ottawa. A lot of my stuff is strictly reproduction but other things just strike my fancy and I make them."

Wilson is able to reproduce items by taking measurements of actual pieces or working solely from photographs. He makes many pieces to order, such as tables and chairs, and he finds people are willing to pay slightly more for hand-crafted pieces.

He uses several types of wood for his projects but stresses all his pieces are made from 100 per cent wood without any plywood or artificial materials.

ENJOYS WORK

"I find carving challenging and it is something I tend to do reasonably well which is probably a lot of the reason right there," said Wilson. "Each piece of wood is different from the one before and the one after. Everything I do is pretty much by hand and no two chair legs, no two of anything I turn will look the same."

By limiting his use of electric tools and turning most of the articles by hand, Wilson said he ends up with a better piece in the end.

At Upper Canada Village he uses a foot-operated treadle lathe as thousands of pioneers did in the nineteenth century. Wilson is familiar with the machine since he built one years ago before he could afford an electric lathe.

"You have better control and there are no vibrations," said Wilson of the foot-operated machine. "It takes little effort to operate one."

Even though he has been carving for years, he said he still has a lot to learn about the trade and holds out hope that the art of furniture-making will not die out.

"I don't think it is a dying art," said Wilson. "People do this in their basement but some things, like refinishing, are being lost. You can make your own paints and stains from oil pigment and turpentine and that's what is being lost. People nowadays go out to the store and buy paint so it's not the same as it was."

PAINTING DIFFICULT

A new development in Wilson's repertoire includes duck carving. The demand for carved birds has been increasing steadily over recent years as interest in the environment heats up.

"I can carve the birds but I have difficulty painting them," said Wilson. "I'm starting to mix my own paints now and I'm getting better color."

His color patterns are created from photographs and sketches he makes of birds in the field.

Wilson also enjoys building boats and this year hopes to complete a 20-foot St. Lawrence skiff in his workshop.

"It's a different concept from building furniture, which is all straight lines and angles," said Wilson. "A boat is constantly changing angles."

Wilson plans to display a seaman's chest, a set of tables and chairs, a spinning wheel and loons at the Winchester craft show.

Now that he is finished work at Upper Canada Village for the season he expects to put in a 60-hour work week at his workshop and more if enough orders arrive.

"This is my first real professional outing," he said. "I can produce things fast enough to make a good living but I only produce what I can do well. I don't like people to be dissatisfied with my work."

Beyond the packaging

The news continues to improve for Liberal leader John Turner following his successful appearance on two televised debates.

First the people who report on politics declared he won both the French and English debates, handily defeating Brian Mulroney and Ed Broadbent. Liberal fortunes in the polls increased dramatically.

One week ago John Turner was facing extinction but at the election's mid-point the Grits and Tories were tied for the lead with 35 per cent support among decided voters.

And on Sunday a Gallup poll showed the Liberals on top with 39 per cent of decided voters.

John Turner has suffered the stigma of being an uncreative communicator, stumbling over his words and in no way able to compete with Brian Mulroney.

While Turner's miraculous resurrection is something for Liberals to celebrate, it shouldn't dominate the election.

All too often a party leader's image is tied into the way people vote, but a thoughtful voter will look beyond the packaging, beyond party loyalty, into the real issues.

Voters in Stormont-Dundas are faced with four choices in the upcoming federal election. Before placing that 'X' , think about what each of these candidates can do for you in Ottawa.

Do you agree with their stands on free trade, child care and abortion? Do you think one is more sincere, will do a better job for this riding than the others? Or are Brian Mulroney's Gucci shoes, John Turner's new-found confidence, or Ed Broadbent's honest-looking face getting in the way?

An all-candidates' debate is scheduled at North Dundas District High School on Nov. 3 and it's a perfect opportunity for voters to meet the candidates face-to-face. It's easy to sit at home and vote for a leader — but what about a local representative?

A young man of this town used profane language towards Constable Laverty early one Saturday morning when the constable advised him to get to his boarding house as his breath was tainted with alcohol. When the constable warned the young man to stop swearing he kept right on, apparently thinking he was doing the manly act in using cuss words. The constable swore out an information before Magistrate Wilkins who let the profane man off with a warning and lifting his liquor permit. The man is now working steadily in one of our factories. It was the Government Control booze that brought out the worst in the man. That's another fruit of the traffic in strong drink.

War scares are becoming quite common, but the highlight was reached on Sunday night when thousands of American and Canadian citizens are alleged to have believed that the earth was invaded by creatures from Mars. A well-known American broadcasting network carried as a feature, a realistic presentation of a play based on H.G. Wells' book "The War of Worlds." Panic is said to have reigned in some districts, when listeners accepted the play as actual fact. They were soon reassured, however, and history records the passing of another close shave for democracy .

The Inkerman Rockets have entered the Kingston City Senior Hockey League, in competition for the Van Horne trophy, which starts on Friday of this week and concludes by the end of December.

The Rockets have been having periodic workouts at the Ottawa Auditorium and show promise of another championship team.

Kemptville Agricultural School opened recently with a 50 per cent increase over last year's enrolment.

There are 77 boys in the junior year in the two-year agricultural course; 39 boys in the senior year in the same course; 16 boys in advanced agriculture mechanics course, and 19 girls in the home economics course.

The increase in enrolment is taxing present school facilities to the limit, and principal A.M. Barr reports expansion to meet the increase has already started.

Man of the world

by Gordon C. Smyth

Notice, in 1 Corinthians 3:22, the splendid comprehensiveness of the Christian claim. All things, says the Apostle, are yours. Nothing lies outside the sphere of the Christian religion.

All life is holy. There is no distinction between the sacred and secular. Paul, Apollos, and Cephas (Peter) represented what we call the sects of the Church; but these sects are not alternatives from which one has to choose. They are all yours.

The sects are, as it were, cross-sections through the life of the growing Church. Each is true when seen, as it were, crosswise, but each is partial in its relation to the expanding growth. They are all yours, if you are Christ's. You are not ensnared in the pettiness of denominationalism. You repeat the great confession, "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church."

Nor is it the Church alone that is yours. The world also, with its industry and wealth, its poverty and care — this too is yours. Christianity is a world religion. The Christian is, in the true sense, a man of the world. And life also, with all its work and play, its joy and pain — this too is yours.

"I am the way," said Jesus. The first title given to the Christian religion was "The Way". Christianity is a way of life. And death also is yours, with its pain and mystery. This is the victory that overcomes death, even your faith.

And things present are yours; the world is not hopeless. The Christian is an optimist, not with that easy assurance which refuses to see evil, but with that understanding of life which justifies his judgement that—

"Step by step since time began
We see the steady gain of man."

And finally, things to come are yours; the creation of the better future, the realization of the idealist's dream. We are saved by hope. "Greater works than these shall you do, because I go to the Father," said the Master.

The most pressing peril that besets religious people, I feel sure, is not that of flagrant sins or intellectual denials, but the peril of provincialism; the danger of mistaking a small subject for a great one, and of side-tracking one's religion by some special switch of experience, as though it were a way-station instead of a terminus.

Life is not like an ocean freighter, divided by watertight bulkheads into different sections, in one of which we do our work, and in another of which we say our prayers. Either the whole of a man is religious, or none of him. A departmentalized, ecclesiasticized, provincialized religion is the first evidence of a decadent church. The same is true of any system of public education that would endeavor to keep religion "out".

A distinguished politician in a heated campaign is said to have telegraphed to his friends, "Claim everything". That, in a much profounder sense, is precisely the summons which Christianity makes on life. All things are yours. The whole of life is holy.

Religion is not a province, but a commonwealth. It comprehends both the Church and the world, both life and death, both the present and the future. The world is one; all of it is sacred; and it is all yours, if you are Christ's, as Christ is God's.

Tourists receive concerned care

The Editor:

On Oct. 6, returning to New Brunswick, I became ill while travelling on Hwy. 401 near Iroquois. My wife and I are most grateful for the concerned attention of a number of people. Two men, in Ontario car TZA-528, several transport drivers, staff of St. Lawrence Ambulance service, Dr. Nicholson and staff at the Morrisburg clinic, staff at the Winchester hospital where I spent the night, and to Const. Frank Albert of Morrisburg detachment OPP.

You all greatly aided in what was, for us, an anxious time. We thank you.

Seventh Column

Most men (and women as well) view retirement as a permanent 'bus-stop' on the road of life; proudly review their accomplishments; pat themselves on the back; and then fade quietly into oblivion. Earle Checkley saw his mission on earth in a vastly different light. Those of us gathered at his Pinecrest Cemetery graveside last Saturday morning were remembering the man who, following his retirement from Metropolitan Life where for many years he directed the auditing department, enthusiastically embraced a new way of life in his retirement home at Burritt's Rapids. He, and his wife Helen (the 'Old Girl's sister), both long-time 'big-city' dwellers, were soon deeply involved in a wide variety of rural community betterment endeavors where Earle's economic wisdom and expertise were much in demand, and always given eagerly and 'freely'. "Check and Helen" were regular visitors at our home and we often wondered how he found the time and energy to leave such impressive footprints on the sands of time...Past Master of King Solomon Masonic Lodge, Aylmer, Quebec; Past District Deputy Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Quebec; 32nd Degree Member of Ottawa Scottish Rite Bodies; and Past Commodore of Britannia Yacht Club. Merrickville United Church pastor, The Rev. Stanley Ralph, a valued friend of the family, whose golden baritone voice would put most television vocalists to shame, conducted the solemn farewell service in an Ottawa funeral home chapel. The Man of God said it best when he suggested his late neighbor had crammed more good into retirement years than most accomplish in a lifetime. We extend sincere and heartfelt sympathy to the family he loved so dearly.

Do you remember? Do we remember? Ah yes, as the late Maurice Chevalier used to say, we remember it well. It was 50 years ago when radio listeners faithfully tuned in each week to the station carrying Orson Wells and the Mercury Theatre. The date was Oct. 30, 1938 and that night's presentation of the H.G. Wells novel "War of the Worlds" wasn't really expected to create fear, chaos, panic and hysteria...but it did. Orson Wells, who would later become one of the greatest movie stars of all time, convinced the nation Martian spaceships had landed in New York State, bringing hoards of little green men armed with deadly ray-guns and releasing massive black killer clouds. Orson created the pandemonium by continually breaking into his program for interviews with eye-witnesses (all voices his own) each describing giant mechanical monsters advancing across America, leaving trails of death and devastation. We well remember listening that near-Halloween night so long ago, and being thankful those strange marauders from another universe had decided to spare Canada. Reflecting on that radio thriller, we have to wonder how young people of this generation might react if an attempt were made to adapt such a scary program to television. Bet it wouldn't even cause a ripple of excitement. Compared to modern-day Rambo-like programs, those ferocious Martian green men would look like Green Hornets at a Sunday school picnic.

Glancing through the Ottawa Citizen earlier in the week, we reached the conclusion that Winchester deserves better promotion in those Golden Triangle tourist guides. Dorothy Allemang, past-president of Eganville Business Association is convinced (according to Citizen-staffer Barbara Sibbald) that, because there are six churches in the village (two Lutheran, one Roman Catholic, one Baptist, one Anglican and one United), her home town rates some bold, black type on tourists' maps. We have to agree...but why not Winchester as well? We counted the churches this morning..."6"...St. Matthias Anglican; St. Paul's Presbyterian; United Church; Baptist; Wesleyan; and Bethany Chapel. And we might even go Eganville one better if we 'reach out' and include Community Church over on Winchester Rural Route 1. Let's show the world there's more to Winchester than 'Cheese'.

Way we see it, the nation is rapidly going 'poll-crazy'. It now appears absolutely no decisions can be made, or no policy adopted, without first taking a 'poll'. But how valuable are they considering that, all too often, the questions are loaded. Give this one some thought if you will. When voters in a certain region were asked if they approved of "smoking while praying", 91% answered "No". But when the same people were asked if they approved of "praying while smoking", 91% answered "Yes". The late John Diefenbaker once said polls were for dogs. Know something? He was right!

The great white whales are now finally free of Arctic ice no thanks to American technology. Russian ice-breakers stood by for several days watching Americans 'study' the problem, then moved in and blazed a trail to open water and freedom. Something to do with 'Glasnost' maybe.

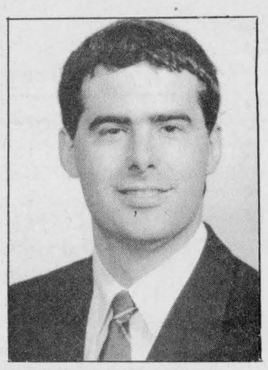
Stormont-Dundas — Election '88

Bill C-72: Candidates speak out

This week the Winchester Press asked each of the four candidates seeking to represent the federal riding of Stormont-Dundas if he supports Bill C-72, the federal government's amendment to strengthen the official languages act.



Eric Cameron

CORNWALL — Conservative candidate Eric Cameron said he supports Bill C-72 and would like to become involved in its implementation.

"The implementation is not yet fully carried out," he said. "We have to define the demand, to make sure services are offered in both languages and the rights of unilingual Canadians are not eroded."

Cameron said most of the perceived problems in this area stem from Bill 8, the provincial French language services act. "That is a municipal matter and I'm not going to get involved in that," he said. "The federal bill only affects federal public services and it is a lot different than Bill 8."

He said many people in the Stormont-Dundas riding have a legitimate concern that they will have a hard time getting jobs in the federal civil service but the time has come to "start working together in the riding like we did 20 years ago."

"C-72 has been passed, I'm for it and it's here to stay," said Cameron. "It will not be repealed but we need to make sure people will still be able to find jobs in the civil service."

Steve Corrie

CORNWALL — NDP candidate Steve Corrie said he has not studied Bill C-72 in detail but it appears to be an attempt "to appease some pretty strong Quebec nationalists."

"I'm not sure if it will do what the government says it will do," said Corrie. "For instance are they using quotas or suggesting bilingual services be available in areas where numbers don't warrant it. That's what is scaring people."

Corrie, who is fluently bilingual, said by attempting to appease Quebec, the government infuriated the rest of Canada.

"The principle of bilingualism I support," he said. "But the timing was not right and the implementation I don't always support."

Corrie, who took a leave of absence from his job at the Transport Canada Training Institute in Cornwall to campaign, said he has seen instances where federal government managers were awarded more points for having bilingual staff even when it was not needed.

Corrie said a large part of the resentment comes from the Ontario government's own attempt to provide French language services.

Bob Kilger

CORNWALL — Liberal candidate Bob Kilger said he is "totally in agreement" with Bill C-72.

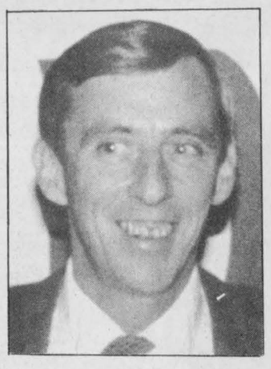
"I don't want to abandon one of the deepest Liberal traditions, promotion of national unity and equality of languages," he said. "Right now I don't see any major linguistic conflicts nationally."

The fluently bilingual Kilger said there are some regional difficulties in Stormont-Dundas which he hopes can be overcome in time.

"From a national point of view unity, identity and equality of the two languages must be retained," he said. "Sometimes I hear people saying if you don't speak French you can't work in the federal government which is not true. Sixty per cent of civil service jobs are designated unilingual English and only seven per cent are designated unilingual French. That's something I think Canadians should know."

When people start dealing with language issues by focussing on individual cases Kilger said they lose sight of the overall goals.

"I wouldn't want to sacrifice any progress we have made."



Bob Noble

CORNWALL — Confederation of Regions candidate Bob Noble said he is totally opposed to Bill C-72 because it creates an artificial need for bilingualism.

"In Canada we need social bilingualism but not enforced bilingualism," he said.

The problem with the bill, said Noble, is unilingual English-speaking people have lost their chance for job advancement.

"Hiring practices of the federal government will change in favor of the Francophone community," said Noble. "The population excluding Quebec and New Brunswick is only 2.8 per cent Francophone in Canada.

"The government tells us 25 per cent of the population is French-speaking which is true but it is concentrated in a very small area. Ninety-seven per cent of us have to be bilingual and that's not fair."

Noble said he is the only candidate of the four who can defend English rights in parliament because he is a member of the only party that supports one official language for Canada.

"It's obvious an MP cannot oppose the party leader," he said.

Manor employees go to arbitration

WINCHESTER — A contract dispute between the Dundas Manor and its 60 unionized workers will have to go to arbitration to be settled.

The two sides were unable to make any progress after five hours of conciliation talks Oct. 19 and will now have to wait for a provincially-appointed arbitrator to settle the dispute.

Workers at the home which provides care for 88 elderly people have been without a contract since March 23.

"They (the talks) are at a standstill and I guess we'll be going to arbitration," said Jill Alguire, assistant administrator at the provincially-subsidized nursing home.

The main issues separating the two sides are wages and benefits, and scheduling, Alguire said. The Manor is limited to a 4.5 per cent wage increase, the same amount its budget was increased by the province this year. The workers are asking for more, but refuse to say how much more.

But Alguire said the workers weren't keen to settle the dispute in conciliation and may have wanted to go into arbitration.

It was hard to say how far apart the two sides were during conciliation talks, she said. "They had made their decision, I think before they went into conciliation," said Alguire.

The Manor has been operating since 1978 but its workers have only been unionized since 1985. It's the first lengthy contract dispute at the Manor, Alguire said.

Brenda Lalonde, president of the workers' union, said it could take at least six months for an arbitrator to be appointed to settle the dispute.

Lalonde wouldn't say how much more of an increase the workers are asking for and was reluctant to predict how successful arbitration will be. "It's anybody's guess what will happen in arbitration."

Most of the employees at the Manor are in favor of going to arbitration to settle the dispute, she said. "The majority of employees are willing to wait it out."

Trustee Hastings acclaimed to fourth term in SD&G

MOUNTAIN — Mountain resident Roy Hastings has been acclaimed to his fourth term as trustee for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education.

Hastings, a retired teacher, said he enjoys working with the school board and is interested in education.

Although he does not foresee any major issues in the next three years, Hastings said the public and separate school boards will be negotiating a settlement for facilities when the separate board submits its request for full extension of high schools.

"It is a matter of co-operation between the two boards to settle for facilities," said Hastings. "Our two boards have gotten along well. There is a good spirit of co-operation."

Hastings said he does not receive many requests for help from Mountain township parents because the schools he directly oversees, Inkerman, Nationview and North Dundas, are very well run and problems are handled by the staff in a professional manner.

Incumbent Bouwers charts financial trends in Osgoode

OSGOODE — With the aid of visual charts and graphs, incumbent mayor Albert Bouwers, explained the financial trends in Osgoode Township and how much they had improved during his 14- year tenure as reeve and mayor.

"We had less than 16 kilometres of paved roads in the township 10 years ago," he said. Today's more than 80 kilometres of paved roads are all paid for, he said.

Bouwers stressed the importance of team work and volunteer help.

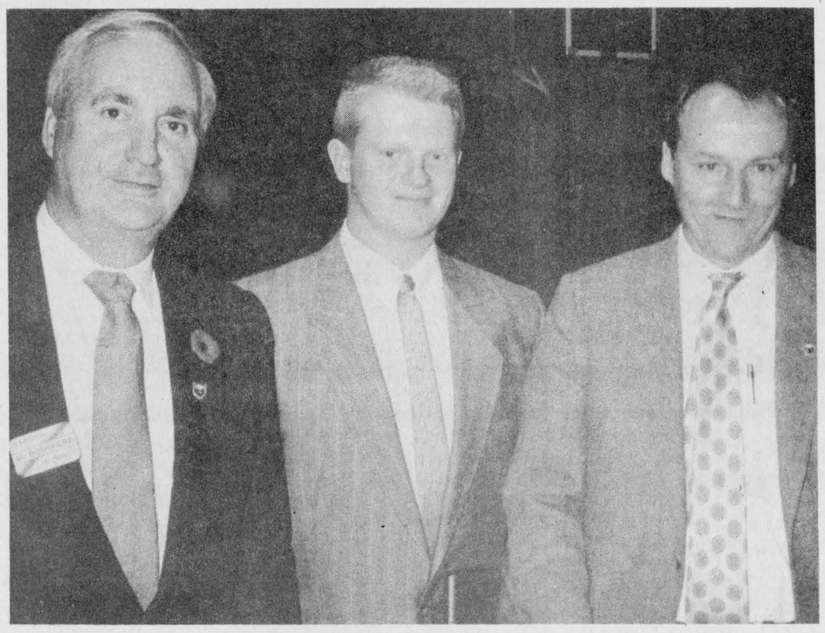
Nineteen-year-old mayoralty contender, Ron Stanley, told of his experience in 4-H and with the East Carleton Junior Farmers.

"Residents should be more aware of what goes on at township meetings," Stanley said. "The information is available now but you have to do a little digging to get it."

Jan van der Veen of Marvelville feels that his experience as a farmer and an economist would allow him to give a new perspective to the mayor's seat. "The incumbent has been in long enough," he said. "It's time for a change."

Van der Veen said that township planning should be publicized. He also said that Osgoode should renegotiate taxes with the Region, that this township pays higher taxes than neighboring townships for the same lifestyles.

"We pay less per capita taxes than Russell Township and more than Winchester Township," said Bouwers, "and Winchester Township has no seniors apartments, no Care Centre and no arena."



Incumbent Osgoode Township Mayor Albert Bouwers is joined by Ron Stanley and Jan van der Veen at the all- candidates' meeting held in Osgoode Oct. 26. Stanley and van der Veen each seek to replace mayor Bouwers after his 12-year tenure.

Rainfall incorrect

WINCHESTER — An article in last week's edition of the Winchester Press reported the area had received the equivalent of 30 inches of rain.

The correct amount should read 30 millimetres.

Two newcomers on township ballot

CHESTERVILLE — Familiar names dominate the Winchester Township list of candidates with only two newcomers running for positions as councillors and one contending for the reeveship.

Deputy reeve Claude Cousineau is being given a fight for the position of reeve by Ross Metcalfe, 43, a resident of the Melvin settlement for two years.

He says everyone in the area, including himself, is sick of the way council has fumbled its way through the issues and feels the township needs an alternative.

He said council has done a poor job with contaminated Lees Avenue fill coming into the township's dump and is unhappy with the Dundas-Grenville waste management study which he said used an out-of-date map to locate possible site locations.

A businessman from Ottawa, he is currently out of work because of an injured back.

Incumbents Dwayne Holmes, Jack Durant and former councillor Albert St. Pierre are facing two newcomers in the race for council positions.

Gord Johnson, 44, is a dairy farmer south of Chesterville. He has been a member of local agricultural committees and was president of the Chesterville and District Agriculture Society. He has been living in the area for about 15 years.

He said he'd like to give the community back some of the things he's gotten out of it. He'd try to get the best out of taxpayers money and would make sure agriculture gets a "fair shake."

The last candidate is 35-year-old Arthur Carkner. He works for the Public Service Alliance in Ottawa. He has lived most of his life in the area and is now a resident of Ormond.

Carkner is not new to politics, having run as the provincial candidate for the NDP in Stormont-Dundas-East Grenville. One of his main concerns is the environment, especially with the issue of waste management looming in the coming term.

He is also concerned with communication between council and the ratepayers.

Shirley Fawcett displays some of the wide variety of items in the new store.

Heritage home now gift shop

WINCHESTER — It's here and just in time for Christmas.

Fawcett's Heritage House of Gifts will officially open its doors for the first time on Nov. 4 at 10am with reeve Larry Gray and MPP Noble Villeneuve in attendance. The shop, located next to Fawcett's Jewellers on Main Street, is spread out over two floors in an authentic 1870's style home.

The home has been restored to its original interior. It was purchased by Roy and Shirley Fawcett in 1963 and was used primarily as a duplex.

The home has had a long list of owners. John Chamber's blacksmith shop was located there from 1881 until it was sold in 1900 to Lewis Flora. In 1919 it was sold again, this time to Mary C. Casselman and was passed down to Murray Casselman. Later it was sold to Carl Fetterly and finally to Annie Coons until the Fawcetts took possession.

The 10-room gift house will feature several different rooms, each with its own theme. The Christmas room will be open year round. Milady will feature gifts for women, His Nibs for men and Next Generation for children.

The antiques and oldies room will feature restored antiques for those interested in bygone days. There is also a kitchen boutique and parlor.

"There are so many nice gifts and with the lack of space in the other store we physically could not get the gifts into the store," said Roy. "That led us to convert this property and with the completion of the new sidewalks and so on it encouraged us to add something that would compliment the downtown restoration."

"There are gifts for all occasions," said Roy. "We travel to all the national gift shows and we wanted things that were special, not the average stuff you see in Eaton's or The Bay."

Fawcett's Jewellers will remain open.

Mansfield brings update on USCO

by Enid Wasson

DIXONS CORNERS — Alex Mansfield, president of the United Senior Citizens of Ontario, was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of Zone 35 at Matilda Community Centre. About 100 members of the zone sat down to a delicious potluck luncheon. President Art Buckmaster was in the chair. Head table guests included Harlan and Leila Helmer, Hilda Kirkby and Mr. and Mrs. Art Buckmaster, Doris Hyndman, Mansfield, Dr. and Mrs. B.K. Wasson and Rev. David Crawley.

Rev Crawley announced there would be a meeting on Wed., Nov. 16 at 1:30pm at the Matilda Township Hall to highlight Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week. There will be a film and a panel presentation. All seniors were urged to attend.

Brief reports were received from seven of the 10 clubs in the zone — namely, Chesterville, Ingleside, Iroquois, Long Sault, Matilda, Mountain and Winchester. Programs and activities included bus trips, boat trips, speakers, The Moon Walk, participation in Celebration 30, attending a play in Ottawa, picnics, bowling, bazaar, rhythm band and attendance at church service. Donations were made to the Heart and Stroke Foundation, The Kidney Fund and other worthy causes. The largest club is Winchester with 143 members. Mr. and Mrs. Buckmaster who were delegates to the USCO convention gave a brief report on the convention.

Mansfield brought us up to date on the history of the USCO and its organization. The founding convention was held in 1959. In 1972 there was affiliation with the International organization. This year the International meeting will be held in Taiwan. Joyce King and Jack Lorette will represent the USCO. Between meetings, a council of 11 members acts on behalf of the USCO including presentation of certain issues to parliamentary committees. Money sent to the USCO helps to subsidize the Voice and to pay expenses of members of the executive and for field representatives, etc.

Lobbying the government is very important. In the last 18 months, cemetery etiquette has improved, many rural post office services have been maintained, quality living in nursing homes has been improved and much pressure put on government about Sunday shopping. There has been lobbying regarding financing for hearing aids, eye glasses, dental care and transportation services. Some help is expected in these areas.

The USCO building in Toronto was purchased in 1984 at a cost of $185,000. Through donations from clubs, raffles, etc. the building will be completely paid for in 1988. Money is received from government to help with operating costs.

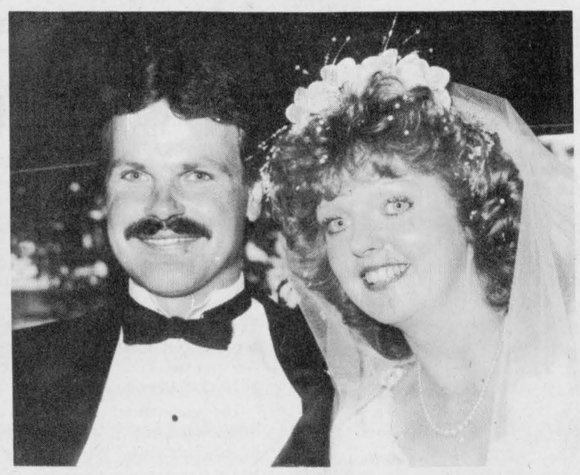
The 1989 annual convention will be held in Thunder Bay, Ontario.

Mansfield conducted the election of officers for the zone for the year 1988-89. The following slate was elected:

Past-president, Aden Marcellus; president, Art Buckmaster; 1st vice-president, Hilda Kirkby; 2nd vice-president, Leila Helmer; recording secretary, Doris Hyndman; treasurer, Harlan Helmer; corresponding secretary, Enid Wasson; auditors, Vivian Murphy and Joe Hanniman.

Rae — Berry

Rev. Will Walker officiated at a beautiful candlelight ceremony at Winchester United Church when Laurie Berry became the bride of James Rae. Laurie was attended by Mary-Lyne Smith as maid of honor and Dana Lindsay and Kathleen Benjamin as bridesmaids. Gerry Wichers-Schreur acted as best man and Chris Wouters and Craig Wouters were ushers. After the ceremony, a reception dinner and dance was held at the Vernon Recreational Centre. The happy couple now resides in Winchester.



Monahan — St. Jean

The marriage of Glenn and Valerie Monahan took place at Metcalfe United Church on Sat., Aug. 20, 1988 at 4pm. The Rev. Chuck Spicer officiated. This was followed by a reception at the Maple Leaf Almrausch Club.

Proud parents of the bride are Betty McNeill of Gloucester and Ray. St. Jean of Aylmer and the groom's parents are John and Ethel Monahan of Edwards. After honeymooning in Vermont, the happy couple now resides in Russell, Ont.

Glenn and Valerie Monahan would like to thank everyone who helped to make their day very special.

Christmas stamps on sale

WINCHESTER — It may appear to be a little early to start thinking about sending Christmas cards but the deadline to mail cards is fast approaching and once again Canadians can take advantage of the Greet More program.

The Greet More program uses specially coded envelopes that speed up the mailing process to the point where Canada Post can handle millions of more cards quickly.

Special 32-cent postage stamps are currently on sale at the Winchester Post Office to be used with coded envelopes. The stamps will remain on sale until Dec. 24 and will be sold in booklets of 10.

The stamps can be used for cards posted between Oct. 27 and Jan. 31, 1989.

"Part of the project is to encourage people to return to tradition," said Edie Irwin of Canada Post. "In some areas Christmas card mailings were falling off."

Community mourns Marfan victim

FINCH — Seventeen-year-old Scott McAlear had Marfan syndrome, a rare congenital disorder which affects about one in 10,000 people.

He and his family thought they knew everything possible about the disease to help Scott live a longer and healthier life.

They didn't.

Scott died Oct. 22 when his main blood vessel carrying blood from his heart burst, a common cause of death among Marfan victims.

The death came as a complete shock to parents Clarence and Barbara, who say they had always been told a blow to the chest could kill Scott, but never thought he could die with so little warning, with no apparent cause.

Marfan syndrome is an inherited disorder of connective tissue and affects many of the body's internal parts, including the skeleton, lungs, eyes, heart and blood vessels. The condition affects both men and women of any race or ethnic group.

The effect the syndrome has on the cardiovascular system can cause heart failure or irregularities of the heart rhythm, or the widening of the aorta artery, the main artery carrying blood away from the heart.

Although much about Marfan syndrome has become public over the past year, much more education is needed to inform people of the deadly syndrome.

"They call it the silent killer; we found out the hard way," said Barbara McAlear sitting amongst a pile of sympathy cards and letters at her home Monday.

Scott had complained of chest pains the previous week but he refused to see a doctor. By Saturday, he seemed to be in fine health and no one suspected anything serious could have been wrong, said Barbara.

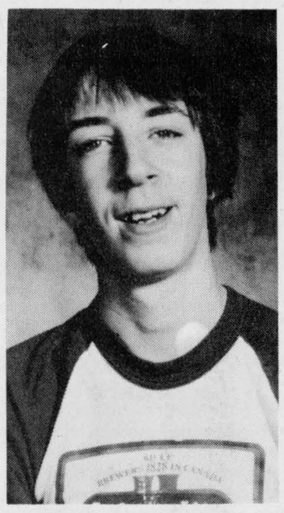
"Saturday, he got up as usual, horsed around and picked on me as usual," his mother said.

What she didn't know was that a week before, Scott had confided in a friend, 17-year-old Krista Sanders, that he was sick and didn't have long to live.

"The week before he died...the Tuesday before...he told me he was really sick and he said he would die," said Krista.

"He was really, really sick on Tuesday and complained of pains in his chest. I was really getting scared," she said.

On Thursday at school he seemed fine and her fear quickly subsided. He jokingly gave her a hug as she left school that afternoon, "and that was the last I saw of him," she said.



"He achieved a lot in a very short life."

-Elizabeth McHenry, founder of Canadian Marfan Association

Elizabeth McHenry, founder of the Canadian Marfan Association, a support group for Marfan victims, said there is no reason to believe the hug had to be Scott's last.

"I know a rupture, an aneurism like Scott's, doesn't happen overnight," she said. "If he had regularly had an echocardiogram done to detect any abnormalities in his heart or main artery, it is possible the death could have been prevented."

And if Scott had taken stronger doses of a special medication to reduce the blood pressure of Marfan sufferers, his death might've been avoided.

McHenry, who also suffers from the congenital disorder, said she takes 100 milligrams of the drug daily to reduce the pressure of the blood pumping through her heart and arteries. Scott was only taking 20 milligrams daily, the same dose prescribed to him three years ago.

What Scott's case boils down to is poor medical management, she said. "Marfan syndrome is a serious disease that kills people. You must have proper medical management."

But because the effects of the syndrome on the heart and aorta artery can't be seen, many people look at it as an insignificant problem.

Scott was the head of the Marfan Association teen division and often, through letters, counselled other teens with the deadly syndrome.

He was also the first Marfan patient to join the association. "He was the very first Marfan patient I ever met," McHenry said.

"He really did a lot in two-and-a-half years," she said. "He achieved a lot in a very short life."

Evidence of his vigor for life rests in a blue photo album he left behind, nestled in a corner in the family's kitchen, packed full of certificates, ribbons and awards.

"He was a good kid," said Barbara. "They say the good die young. We just want people to be aware of what he died of and maybe help other people," she said, struggling to hold back tears.

Scott's father also hopes his son's death may inspire other doctors to learn more about the syndrome. "I still wish the doctors would dig in a little deeper and find out what Marfan is all about."

The main task ahead of the McAlears and the Marfan Association is educating the 45,000 general practitioners across the country. Other than educating the public itself, it is the only way the association can help prevent the needless deaths of Marfan sufferers.

Dr. Kwan Chan, a cardiologist at the Ottawa Civic Hospital Heart Institute, was supposed to accept Scott as a patient when he turned 17, but the arrangement never followed through. Had Scott been seeing him, he might have been able to intervene and prevent his death, he said.

The death was a surprise to him, but now he wants to find out more about the tragedy so it can be averted in the future, said Chan, who is also media spokesperson for the Marfan Association.

"I'm definitely trying to learn as much as I can from it."

Lack of knowledge among doctors and sufferers of the syndrome is still the main hurdle faced by the association, he said. "The problem is still with a problem of understanding."

A classic example of the lack of knowledge of the disease were the rumors circulating in the area about the cause of Scott's death. Sanders said one rumor was that Scott had overdosed on drugs. Another rumor was that he had "choked on pizza", she said.

"It's too late now for our son anyway," said Scott's father. "I hope it opens the doctors' eyes."

He hopes that through Scott's death, he and his wife can educate the public and possibly prevent a tragedy like it from happening somewhere else.

"We don't want anybody's child, husband or wife to go like Scott did," he said.

Larry Poirier, drama teacher at Tagwi Secondary School, said many of his students were hard hit by Scott's sudden death. "There were a lot of tears in my two classes at the beginning of last week."

Scott was a student in his Grade 11 and Grade 12 general drama classes, Poirier said. "He was quite a good drama student." But, he added, Scott had "the ability to be in trouble" in other subject areas.

The school, in conjunction with the Marfan Association is considering establishing a memorial award for drama to keep Scott's memory alive.

Scott died Oct. 22, 1988, exactly 17 years after he was adopted by the McAlears. At the request of the large number of students that attended his funeral, he was buried with one of his prized pieces of clothing; his jean jacket.

"It's too bad," said McHenry, "You have to die before anyone pays attention."

Township of Winchester

The reasons I would like to be on the next council of Winchester Township are:

- A new official plan with more options and more responsive to our rural area.
- A road policy that includes better roadside weed and brush control, better shoulders and better budgeting along with the use of traffic counts to set priorities.
- A Waste Management Policy that pushes for central recycling, so that all garbage is separated.
- Market value assessment that starts in 1988, instead of 1984, in order to have a better balance between farm and residential assessment.
- Recreational budgeting that provides facilities but encourages a "user-pay" policy in programming.

If elected, I promise to give fair and responsible representation to all residents of the township. I would appreciate your support in the upcoming election and I will continue to do my best for you.

Mountain Musings

by Shirley Mills

I came across an amazing fact last weekend. Oh, it's not in Ripley's class, but it left me flabbergasted.

It started a while ago when I cleared out a kitchen cupboard. I found lots of things I'd forgotten I owned. There was baking chocolate, now white and dried (I pitched it), and beans hidden in a tin (for whatever reason) plus packages containing a handful of nuts, raisins, coconut, etc. I also noticed my package of cream of tartar.

I don't use cream of tartar often, in fact only when making Scotch pancakes, and besides, recipes usually only call for a "pinch" of this. Well, I knew the cream of tartar had been around for some time because of the modest price of 21 cents on the lid, but I figured I still had quite a few "pinches" left and thought no more about it.

Last weekend I was in a grocery store in Kemptville when I noticed cream of tartar on the shelf. "I wonder what it costs now?" I thought and reached for a package. I didn't believe my eyes and checked on another one. Yes, they were both the same — for two ounces of cream of tartar it now costs $4.49!

I figure I'll use up what I have at home and then give up using recipes which call for this exotic ingredient.

As mentioned previously, there will be a used book sale and ski and skate exchange at Nationview Public School in South Mountain on Sat., Nov. 5 from 10-2pm. However, for those who want to get ahead of the game on the books, these will also be on sale at the school on Thurs., Nov. 3 from 7-9pm.

Skaters offered three alternatives

WINCHESTER — Winchester Skating Club has launched another season and is offering young skaters three categories in its 1988-89 program.

Club president Pat Henderson says the organization has 58 members at present.

"We have 58 skaters this year. That is not as many as we would like, but 32 of them are beginners and we will cater to the little ones and hope they will keep coming back each year."

Henderson reports the WSC has pros Tracey Rennison and Barry Allison (both former club members) on staff for the new year. The club has the Canskate program for beginners, the basic figure skating program - Canfigureskate and the seniors program for skaters in the CFSA test stream.

Canskate is a learn-to-skate program for beginners of all ages. Forward skating, backward skating, stopping, turning, spinning, jumping and the four basic edges are taught. There are eight badges awarded during the program but there is no formal testing except for the final badge, the Proficiency, which is a review of the main aspects of the program. All other badges are assessed by the coach on a day-to-day basis. Canskate is open to all boys and girls from age three up and this year there are more boys than girls involved.

Canskate time is every Tuesday and Thursday from 6:00 to 6:50. That time includes warm-up, a 15-minute session, a 15-minute practice and a cool-down period all set to music. There are two pro coaches, three amateur coaches and four helpers on the ice at this time.

Cost ranges from $60 for beginners to $85 for novice 1 to proficiency.

Canfigureskate is a basic figure skating program which introduces the skater to figures, free skating, dancing, stroking and precision skating. It is a safe, fun and inexpensive program taught in small group sessions. Skaters do need the basic skating skills learned in Canskate for this level. Canfigureskate is offered each Thursday and Saturday with members receiving 4-1/2 hours ice time a week.

The $130 fee includes icetime and all lessons.

Senior skaters are in the CFSA test stream and learn figures, free skating, dancing, stroking and precision. All lessons are private and are held Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday for a total of 6-1/2 hours a week.

Anyone interested in joining the Winchester Skating Club may do so by calling Pat Henderson at 448-3205 or Erma Allison at 989-2191.

Henderson also reports the club is planning to hold several special events this year including a skate-a-thon, a family skating hour as well as a program for this year's carnival.

The WSC is also collecting Campbell soup labels (UPC section) and has placed a collection box at the arena. These labels will be used to obtain incentive ribbons for the organization's beginner and elementary groups.

Waiting

Heather Crummy, Rose Rombough, Vicki Gryspeerdt and an opponent were all poised and waiting to receive a rebound during this action in a semi-final game in NDDHS's senior girls' invitational tournament. The Devils defeated Tagwi Warriors 49-42 in the final game.

ND girls blow away Glengarry Gaels

MAPLE RIDGE — Rose Rombough started the second half of the game on the limp but managed to finish as the game's high scorer with 16 points as her North Dundas Devils claimed its first SD&G senior girls basketball victory in four starts, here last Wednesday.

Sparked by the leading scorer's effort (in spite of a leg injury) the Devils, minus coach Deanna Corbett, who was asked to leave the game by the referee after a first-quarter disagreement, rallied from an early deficit and defeated the visiting Glengarry Gaels 48-26.

With junior Devils' coach Gerry Jean on the bench, the seniors changed coverages and ran to an impressive win. They trailed 9-5 at the quarter but led 18-15 at the half, thanks to a big 13-point production in the second. North Dundas then held the Gaels to 10 points in the third frame and to a single in the fourth period, as they poured in 30 second-half points en route to win number one.

As for his own junior squad, coach Jean described their third consecutive win as, "fantastic, the girls continue to listen and learn. They are told what to do and they do it and win. They are an intelligent team, which makes up for lack of experience."

Coach Jean watched his charges power they way from a 4-2 first-quarter deficit to a 49-20 decision over the little Gaels in last Wednesday's opening game. That win improved NDDHS' SD&G Junior record to three wins and a tie.

Marilyn Wade hit for the juniors' lone first-quarter point but game-high scorer Brenda Keokkoek hit for 10 in the second period as the Devils charged into a 19-6 lead at the half. They led 37-12 at three-quarter time and won convincingly, 49-20.

Brenda Koekkoek, another basketball-playing Koekkoek from South Mountain, led the juniors' offence, scoring a game-high 17 points.

Marilyn Wade hooped a dozen while Shealyn Summers (8), Debbie Fling (4), Vicki Marriner (4), Angelique Cardinal (2) and Heather Jorgenson (2) completed the scoring.

Rose Rombough hit for a field goal and three shots from the line, accounting for the seniors' five first-quarter points. The Gaels led 9-5 at quarter time. A change of strategy enabled the Devils to surge into an 18-15 lead at the half. They enlarged the lead to 31-25 after three quarters.

In the final period Glengarry managed a single point as North Dundas ran up a 17-1 advantage in the final eight minutes. Their total topped out at 48-26.

Rose Rombough dropped in a three-pointer, a pair of two-point field goals and a foul shot in the final period, as she hit for a game-high 16 points.

Stacey Berry was number-two shooter with 13 points, nine in the final half.

Connie Armstrong hooped eight, first-year player Vicki Gryspeerdt nailed seven and Jenny Lamb four points.

Devils' Corbett accepts own basketball plaque

MAPLE RIDGE — North Dundas senior Devils' coach Deanna Corbett had to accept the championship plaque she was going to present, following Saturday's high school basketball tournament.

Corbett's Devils emerged from the four-school invitational tournament as the only undefeated team. The North Dundas girls knocked off the Tagwi Warriors 42-31 in their first game. They then dumped the Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers 58-46 in a semi-final match and hit the floor after a short rest and won the championship, dealing Tagwi another defeat, this time a 49-42 decision.

In the other games, Glengarry Gaels lost decisions to Tagwi and R-O and headed back to Glengarry after two games.

Corbett had invited six teams but two cancelled last week. She was pleased with the Devils' victory and says the girls are improving and tournament action certainly helps bring the team together.

Corbett predicted a tough game against Tagwi in the final, because her team had just played R-O. And it was a tight contest as her charges led by three 22-25 at the half and outscored the Warriors by four, 24-20 in the final half to hold on for a 49-42 victory.

Three Devils hit for double digits with Rose Rombough leading the way with 15 points. Stacey Berry and Jenny Lamb poured in a dozen each. Connie Armstrong, who worked hard under the boards in both zones, helped the offence with eight points. Kathy Allison dropped in two.

E. Hollingdrake was game-high shooter with 22 points. S. Proul was number two with 18 Tagwi points.

North Dundas also defeated Tagwi in the opening game Saturday morning, running up a 42-31 victory.

Rose Rombough led the charge in that win, hitting for 12 points. She nailed a three-point shot in an eight-point first half. The Devils led 22-18 at the break.

Jenny Lamb (8), Stacey Berry (7), Connie Armstrong (6), Megan Furuness (3), Vicki Gryspeerdt (2), Heather Crummy (2) and Kim Lewis (2) rounded out North Dundas' scoring.

Hollingdrake dropped in a game-high 16 points for Tagwi.

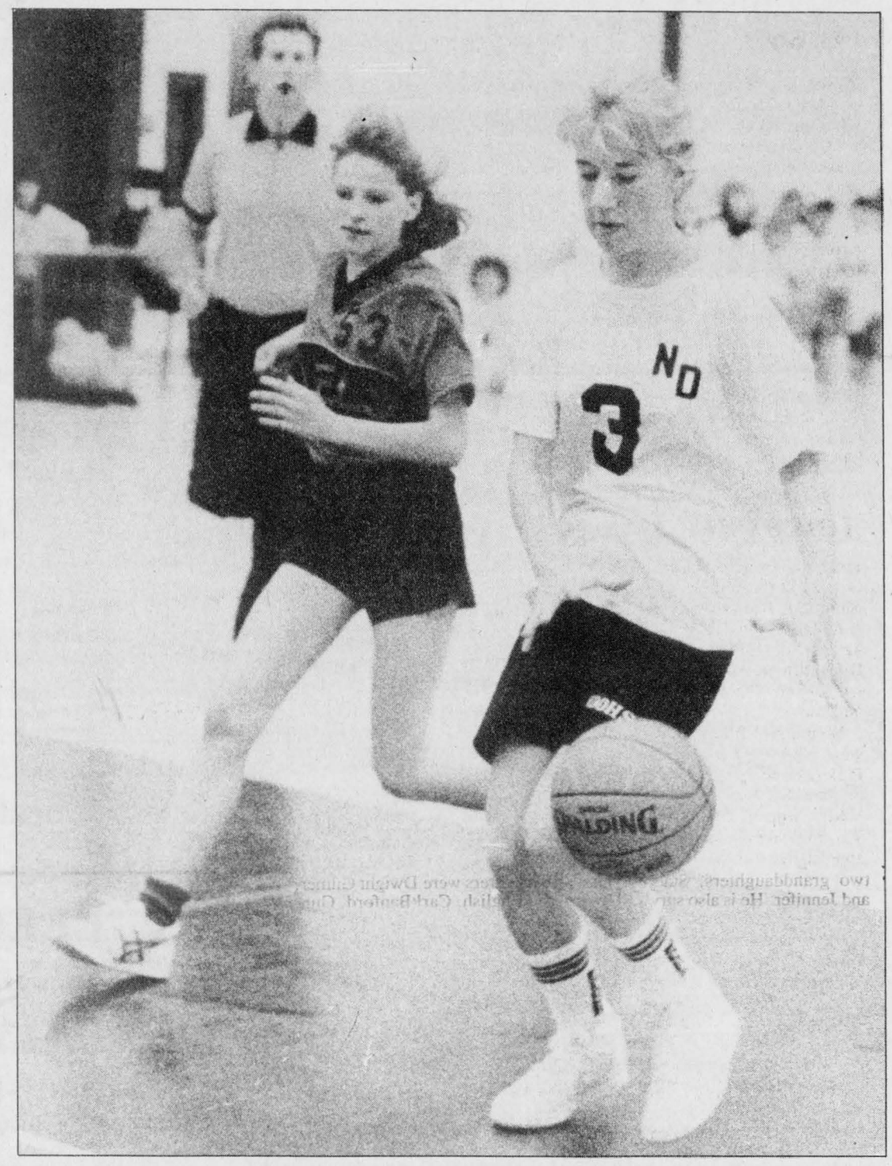
North Dundas enjoyed a big offensive outburst in its semi- final match with Rothwell-Osnabruck, pouring in 58 points in its 58-46 victory.

Four shooters recorded double digit numbers as Rose Rombough once again was the big shooter with 16 points. Jenny Lamb popped in 14, Connie Armstrong swished the twine for 12 points and Stacey Berry laid in 11 points. Heather Crummy (4) and Vicki Gryspeerdt (2) completed the scoring.

Devils led the Lancers 32-22 at the half.

Stephanie Wells was the game's top scorer with 21 points. She pierced the hoop seven times, for 14 points, in the first half recording all but eight of the Lancers' points.

Rose Rombough led the North Dundas shooters, scoring 43 points in three games. Jenny Lamb was number two at 34. Stacey Berry hit for 10 a game and a total of 30. Connie Armstrong was good for 26 points. Heather Crummy (6), Vicki Gryspeerdt (4), Megan Furuness (3), Kim Lewis (2) and Cathy Allison (2) points rounded out the stats as all members of the team hit the scoresheet.



Top Scorer

North Dundas' Brenda Koekkoek poured in 17 points leading the Junior Devils to a 49-20 victory over the Glengarry Gaels last Wednesday. She dropped in another 11 in Monday's loss to St. Lawrence and leads her team with 52.

Saints snap ND's winning string

MAPLE RIDGE — St. Lawrence Saints ruined North Dundas' winning way here Monday powering their way to a pair of SD&G girl's high school basketball victories.

The Senior Devils gave their counterparts a run for their money before losing a 47-32 decision.

North Dundas' Junior Devils had won three in a row going into Monday's match but coach Gerry Jean had indicated before the game his girls could lose by at least 40 points saying, " St. Lawrence is really strong, a powerhouse."

His prediction wasn't far off as the Junior Saints romped to a 60-20 decision. The loss lowered North Dundas' Junior record to three wins and two losses. The Senior setback moved their ratio to one win and four losses.

The Seniors battled St. Lawrence to a 22-22 halftime draw but fell off in the second half and lost 47-32. The Devils hit for just four fourth-quarter points en route to their fourth loss. North Dundas lost 42-36 the first time they tested the Saints.

Connie Armstrong led the Devils with a 10-point game. Rose Rombough hooped eight while Jenny Lamb nailed six points. Vicki Gryspeerdt, Megan Furuness and Stacey Berry all dropped in two points.

Denise Roy topped the point parade with 24 Saints' points.

The loss didn't allow the Seniors much time to savor Saturday's three-game sweep of their own Invitational Tournament.

Brenda Koekkoek was the only Junior Devil to hit double digits and she scored 11 points in the 60-20 shellacking. Marilyn Wade had seven and Laura Zyrmiak the other two points.

St. Lawrence led 26-14 at the half and exploded over the final eight minutes for 34 points and their victory.

This Fri., Nov. 4, the North Dundas Devils will travel to Cornwall to take on the C.C.V.S. Golden Raiders in a Junior - Senior doubleheader.

Coach enthused with Hawks' third-period comeback

Barkley is back

Kirk Barkley made his return to the Hawks' lineup over the past weekend and contributed a goal and three assists in an 8-4 loss to Char-Lan and a 5-4 win over Alexandria. Barkley, the team's defending scoring champ, beat Glens' Alain Marleau and tied the game up at three, during the second period.

Press Photo—Van Bridger

WINCHESTER — Bill Murphy says his club won an extremely big game here Sunday.

The Winchester Hawks rallied with a pair of late third-period goals here Sunday afternoon and knocked off the St. Lawrence Junior B Division leading Alexandria Glens 5-4.

Alexandria grabbed a 4-3 lead in the exciting contest, which attracted a crowd of 200, when Stephane Chollette ambled through the Hawks' defence and beat Marc Juneau with 16:00 left in the game.

Francois Villeneuve snapped a Shawn Young - Kirk Barkley rebound into an open net at 10:12 to tie it up 4-4.

Young and Barkley teamed up again with 6:04 left on the clock and newcomer Blaine Lutz cranked up and blasted a slap shot through Alain Marleau's pads, scoring the winning goal in his first game as a Hawk.

Sunday's spirited 5-4 win over the Alexandria Glens snapped Winchester's two-game losing string and helped ease the memory of Saturday night's 8-4 loss to the Rebels in Char-Lan.

Hawks led the Rebs 2-0 early in the game and were tied up 3-3 with their hosts after two periods. A third-period letdown allowed Char-Lan to rip Winchester for five final frame markers.

"The guys just back from injuries tired in the third period Saturday night. We also lost three guys before the game was over and Char-Lan's sharpshooters took advantage of the chances they got. But I felt we played really well for the first two periods, especially well in the first period," Murphy explained.

The coach was extremely pleased with Sunday's effort.

"Boy I was sure glad to win that one", he said following the victory over the Glens.

"We (assistants Bob Porteous and Doug Egan) feel the kids are starting to gel. They needed that win to boost their spirit and let them start believing in the team".

The coach said he felt the Glens goalie, Alain Marleau, made some big stops in the third period or his team would have won by a wider margin, " we also kept Barnes (former Hawk Scott) wide and for the most part out of the play (Barnes didn't collect a point after a three-goal game against his old mates in Alexandria).

Although a record of two wins, a tie, and five losses doesn't move the Hawks to the top of the St. Lawrence Division the coach says Sunday's win pleased him, " the kids (17 players are 17 years old) are starting to mold. Kirk Barkley and Chris Holland are back from injury and Blaine Lutz on defence give us a bigger lineup and you have to have a lot of bodies because the league is faster and injuries can crop up anytime."

This coming weekend Winchester will host division rival Kemptville here on Friday night and then will travel to Kemptville for a return match Sunday night (Nov.6 - 7:30pm).

Kemptville and the Hawks tied 6-6 in their only other meeting and a successful home and home set this weekend would put Winchester right back in the pack.

"It is a big weekend coming up but we as a team are looking forward to the challenge," explained Murphy.

STRONG FINISH

Alexandria led the Hawks 2-1 after a period of action, Dan Vajcovec hit from Chad Brownlee and Steve Regan at 18:21, but the Glens went ahead on markers by Glen Campbell and Alex MacLaren before the period ended.

Chollette gave the Glens a 3-1 edge at 14:29 of the second frame, but the Hawks rallied and scrambled into a 3-3 tie before the second break. Shawn Young connected from Blaine Lutz and Chad Brownlee at 12:33, finishing off a successful Hawks' powerplay. Kirk Barkley then took a relay from Steve Regan and Corey McQuillan circled the Glens' net and tucked in the tying goal with 5:11 left.

Chollette's second goal at 16:00 of the final frame put the Glens up 4-3. Shawn Young and Kirk Barkley were stopped by Marleau but Francois Villeneuve cruised into the slot, picked up the loose puck and drilled it high into the empty net to tie it up 4-4 with 10:12 left in the game.

Blaine Lutz capped the comeback drilling a Shawn Young - Kirk Barkley through Marleau's pads and into the net from the left point at 6:04 to give the Hawks a dramatic 5-4 win.

Marc Juneau stopped 37 Glens' shots for his first victory. The Hawks peppered Marleau with 45 drives, 14 in the third period.

REBS BY FOUR

Char-Lan rammed in five third-period goals and doubled the Hawks 8-4 Saturday night in Williamstown.

Dave Monsour suffered the loss as the Hawks out shot the Rebels 37-32. Winchester directed 20 shots at Kevin Buchan in the final period but managed one only goal.

Roddy MacKenzie paced the Rebels with a two goal, three assist effort. Ron Lefebvre added two markers. Kevin Poapst. Chris Villeneuve, Jamie Latreille and Mathieu Germain notched singles.

Rebels scored four powerplay markers and the Hawks two and a short-handed marker. The game was tied a two after a period and stood at 3-3 after two periods.

HAWKS HAPPENINGS

Defenceman Blaine Lutz, wearing number three, made an impressive debut here Sunday. The 18-year-old hails from Saskatchewan were he played some university hockey. He had a goal and one assist in his second time on the blades.

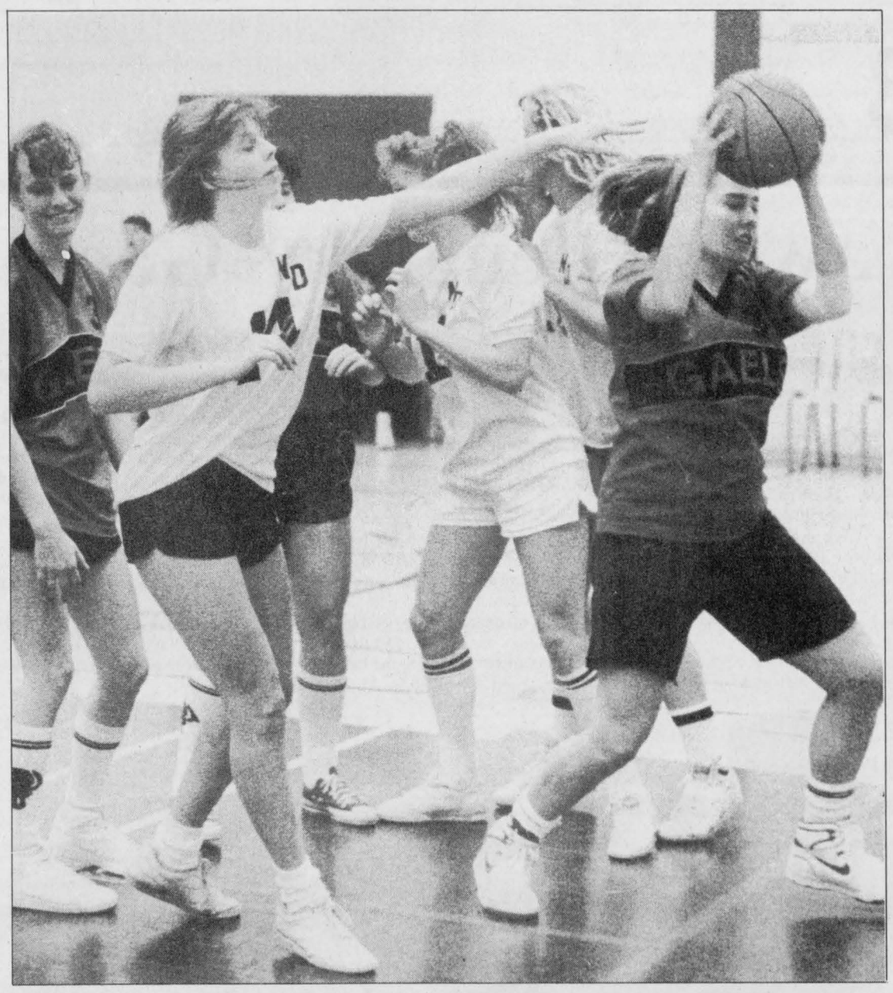
Other Hawks who turned in good games Sunday - Marc Juneau in nets, Winchester's Scott Barkley on the blueline, rookie forward Shawn Young (a tireless worker with a goal and two assist) as well as veteran forward Kirk Barkley who collected a goal and three asssists in his first two games.

The Hawks had 17 skaters dressed. Veteran Don Larocque, Jeff Egan, Mike Dubeau and Dolton Henry didn't play.

Chris Holland played his first two games on the weekend.

Dan Vajcovec picked up his first penalty of the season in Saturday's game.

Steve Regan with 15 points leads Chad Brownlee (13) in the Hawks' scoring derby. Vajcovec and Shawn Young each have 11 points in eight games.



Berry---ied

North Dundas' Stacey Berry applied the tag on a Glengarry Gaels' defender after one of her teammate's shots had dropped through the hoop. The Senior Devils won this contest, defeating the Gaels 48-26 at NDDHS last Wednesday.

Hawks tie Leafs at seven

METCALFE — Third-period goals by Dan Morris, Tyrone Franey and Rob Renaud brought the Mike's Restaurant Hawks back from a 7-4 deficit and into a 7-7 tie with the Metcalfe Town Hockey League leading Dan Morris Equipment Leafs here Sunday.

Renaud potted the tying goal, scoring on a relay from Dan Rausch with 5:56 left in the free-wheeling contest.

Bruce Kerfoot was top gun in the other contest, shooting in three goals and setting up a fourth in Bradley Computax Canadiens 9-4 win over the fourth ranked Wicher's Construction Bruins.

The 7-7 saw-off between the Leafs and Hawks left the Restaurant crew one out of first place. The Leafs lead with 11 points while the Hawks have 10. Canadiens now have five and the Bruins two points.

Leafs charged into a 3-2 lead on the Hawks, getting two goals from Leo Campbell (one on a powerplay at 17:24) and another from Mike Stanley. Tyrone Franey scored for the Hawks early in the frame but the Leafs were up 3-2 after a period.

It was all Leafs in the sandwich session as they charged into a 7-4 lead.

Dan Morris started the comeback scoring from Renaud and Pete Nooyen at 11:02. Tyrone Franey closed the gap to one making it 7-6 on a pass from Dan Rausch with 9:03 left. Rob Renaud then tied it up knocking in another Rausch relay with 5:56 showing on the clock.

Hawks' Bill Jamieson recovered from a rough second period to blank the Leafs over the final frame.

Tyrone Franey led the Hawks with a three-goal effort. Rob Renaud hit for two goals and set up a third. Pete Nooyen scored once and drew four assists. Dan Morris had a goal and one helper. Dan Rausch (2), Fred Young and Mike Gebara all earned assists.

Mike Stanley netted two goals and assisted on two Leafs markers. Leo Campbell had a two goal, one assist game. Steve Kennedy had a goal and two helpers and Steve Porteous scored once.

Steve Wade topped the Leaf marksmen with a goal and four assists.

Larry Shields and Mike Miller drew an assist each. Roy McCooeye was between the Leafs' pipes.

KERFOOT NETS THREE

Bradley Canadiens romped into a 4-0 first-period lead on the Wichers' Bruins and cruised to a 9-4 decision.

They expanded their lead to 8-3 in the second as Bruce Kerfoot netted two of his three goals. Kerfoot finished the game with three goals and one assist.

Last pockets three to give Flyers' edge

WINCHESTER — Doug Last scored three of the Aqua Fun Flyers five goals and assisted on a fourth as his squad skated to a 5-1 Winchester Town Hockey League victory over the Tri-County Raiders here last Tuesday.

In was the Flyers second consecutive victory and moved them into sole possession of second place, one point ahead of the CountryBoy Blazers and three back of the undefeated Country Kitchen Canadiens.

Country Kitchen remained undefeated last week, edging the CountryBoy Blazers 3-2.

Country Kitchen heads up the circuit with seven of a possible eight points. Aqua Fun now has four points, CountryBoy three and the Tri-County Windows Raiders two.

Aqua Fun extended its win string to two games, exploding for three unanswered second-period goals against the Tri-County Raiders. Doug Last's first goal of the game came from Larry Simms at 12:18 of period one and opened up a 1-0 lead for the Flyers. The Raiders drew even, scoring their only goal of the game at 3:14 of the opening stanza. Captain Tom Kirkwood ruined Yvon Broudeaux's shutout scoring from Brent Theede.

It was all Flyers in the sandwich session as they hit for three goals to take a 4-1 lead. Doug Coleman scored from Last and Phil Lyall at 18:55. He connected again at the 15:45 mark, finishing off a play started by Dan Lecours and Gord Milne. Last upped the count to 4-1 with his second goal which came from Geoff Summers and Phil Lyall at 7:53.

BOWMAN WINS IT

Rod Bowman's second-period goal stood as the winner as the Country Kitchen Canadiens nipped the CountryBoy Blazers 3-2 to remain undefeated.

All of the game's scoring took place in the second period as both Canadiens' Kevin Baldwin and Blazers' Dan Hogaboam turned in solid efforts.

Mustangs defeat Atom Demons 5-3

WINCHESTER — Steven James scored three times, twice in the third period, leading the Metcalfe Mustangs to a 5-3 Upper Canada Minor Hockey League exhibition victory over the North Dundas, Seaway Valley Pharmacy, Atom A Demons here Saturday.

Steven James' first goal gave Metcalfe a 1-0 first period lead. Chad Guy and Chris Stacey set up the play at 3:11. That goal held up until the second frame when North Dundas tied it up and gained a 2-1 lead.

Geoff Hardy tied it up 1-1 scoring from Jamie Hyndman with 4:49 left in the period. Adrien Pancirov's unassisted marker at 4:01 then put the Demons up 2-1.

The Mustangs stampeded into North Dundas' zone in the final period and rammed in four goals for their 5-3 win.

James' second goal tied it up at two at 11:41. Chad Guy and Jeramy Nibogie engineered that play. Chad Guy then made it 3-2, scoring from James at 7:05.

North Dundas evened it up at 3-3 when Adrian Pancirov connected from Wes McLeod and Jason McDonald, with 5:30 left in the final frame.

Jarret Nixon's unassisted goal with 4:39 remaining in the game handed the Mustangs a 4-3 edge. The winners made it a 5-3 final when James finished a hat trick 27 seconds after Nixon's goal. Chad Guy and Greg Burbona figured in on the game's final scoring play.

Jean Foubert stopped 17 Demons' shots while Demons' Darryl Holmes faced eight and Chris Scott six Metcalfe drives.

Blackburn storms back to tie Metcalfe Juniors

ORLEANS — Metcalfe battled back from 5-1 deficit to take a 7-6 lead on Blackburn but wound up settling for a 7-7 draw in National Capital Region Junior B Ringette action on Saturday.

Blackburn gained the saw-off, scoring the tying goal while Metcalfe was playing two skaters short. Catherine Stinson's fourth goal of the game came with 1:36 left in the game and knotted the final total at seven.

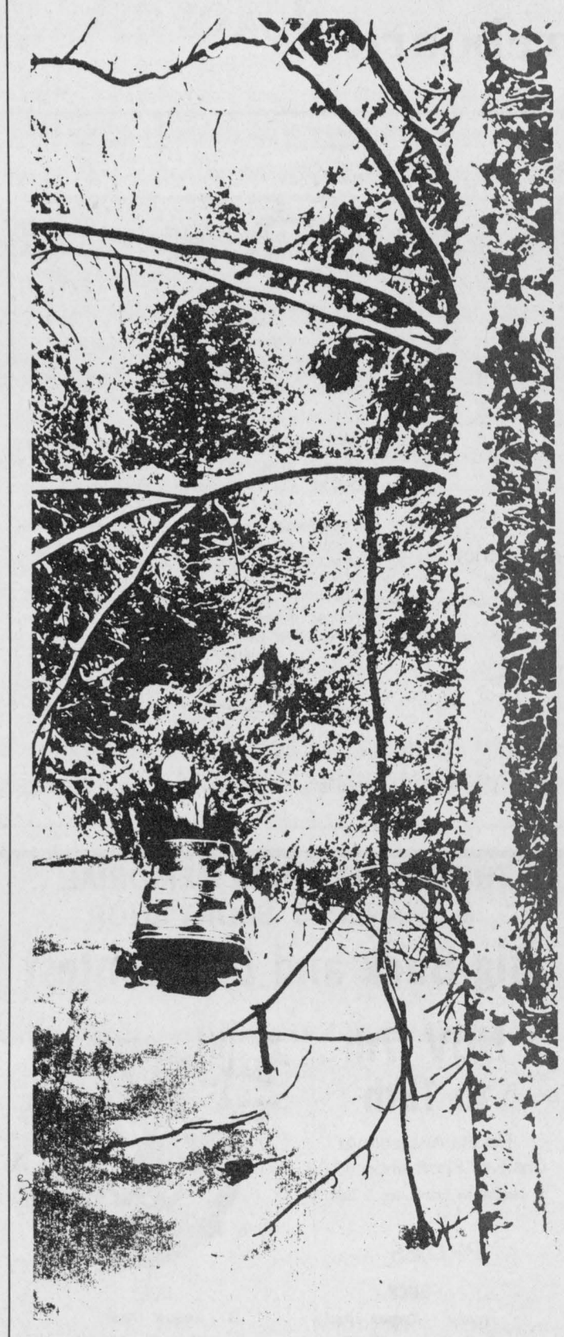
Metcalfe took just three minor penalties in the exciting contest but, unfortunately for them, two came in the final momemts of play.

Blackburn's Catherine Stinson scored at 13:59 and 13:11 of the first half to put her team up 2-0. Daphne Belleville found the mark at 12:41 and closed the gap to 2-1 but Blackburn roared into a 5-l lead rapping in three unanswered goals. Gayle Dillabaugh made it a 5-2 game scoring for Metcalfe at 5:45 only to have Blackburn take a 6-2 lead at 4:15. Melanie Leroux recorded the first of her three powerplay goals at 3:12 and Kim MacDonald sliced the opposition's lead to 6-4, scoring with 2:02 left in the half.

Metcalfe had given the ring away on numerous free passes in the first half but corrected the problem in the second period and took control of the play. Melanie Leroux connected at 10:59, Lesli Ransome at 10:46 and Leroux again at 9:07 to put Metcalfe up 7-6. But Stinson's fourth and most important goal of the game at 1:36 pulled Blackburn into a tie.

Joanne Korteweg (2), Casey Lawrence (2), Daphne Belleville, Gayle Dillabaugh and Lesli Ransome all collected assists for Metcalfe. Melanie Leroux led the goal-scorers with three.

Virginia McCooeye worked in Metcalfe's nets.



Snowmobilers back on track

Williamsburg and District Club survives lean years, begins rebuilding process

ELMA — The Williamsburg and District Snowmobile Club is back on track.

The organization, incorporated with the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs for 10 years but semi-dormant the last four, is going through a period of rejuvenation, says its president, Bert Loucks of RR2 Chesterville.

"For the past few years we were more or less just getting together monthly or a couple of times during the winter," says Loucks. "It was very quiet".

But last winter the club began to rebuild, starting with the hut. Home base. Every snowmobile club worth its salt has one. Loucks, in his first year of his presidency, along with the club's 31 members, figured it was as good a place as any to begin the renovation process.

"We started by getting the clubhouse straightened around. We got power in it, and we ended up having a few meetings there," says Loucks. "This year we'll bring in a new woodstove, couches will be going in to make it a more comfortable place. We're going to add a window, it's going to be a complete overhaul."

"It hasn't been used the last little while. Last year when I went out there I couldn't get in. The door was jammed shut, so we raised it and added a concrete base."

The club recently bought property near the hut, located just north of Boucks Hill, and will be clearing trails in that area when the snow first flies.

Loucks estimates the Williamsburg club currently has between 20 and 30 miles of trails, but they'll be adding more if he can strike a deal and land a trail groomer.

"We're looking into buying one. That's one of the issues we discussed at our last meeting. We had a lot of business to take care of and we had a pretty good turnout," says Loucks.

But the president would like to see more people join the club. "We'll take as many as we can get," he says. Cost for joining has been set at $15 for a social membership, while trail stickers go for $45. All Williamsburg and District Snowmobile Club members are covered by OFSC insurance. "The trail stickers you buy that go on your machine entitles you to travel anywhere in Ontario," he adds.

"The trails are pretty good around here. The Riverside and Dunbar snowmobile clubs both have trails and we're right in the middle. We've got three snowmobile clubs in one township (Williamsburg). There's no other area this size that has that many clubs."

Loucks says his club is making a comeback at a time when the sport of snowmobiling is regaining some of the popularity it had lost over the last decade as Canadian winters appeared shorter and snowmobile price tags grew longer. "It's getting more popular now. It was quite popular in the early '70s and late '60s. Then the prices of the machines started going up, people just seemed to lose interest. But I think right now there are as many snowmobiles as there were in the late '60s," he estimates.

Loucks says more co-operation between clubs in the province will only serve to increase the sports' popularity. "If the clubs would get together and have consistently groomed trails it would only become more popular."

"There's a lot of things going on now. They're trying to get a trail from Ottawa to Kingston and from Ottawa to Cornwall through here and call it the Golden Triangle, but it requires the co-operation of a lot of different clubs. Right now we have Sno-1 through Riverside that goes up to Mallorytown, which is a good run. Some clubs are trying to use the old abandoned railroad beds for trails. They're super for running on, they're level and you can see for miles."

DRIVER TRAINING OFFERED

Again this year Loucks plans to organize a snowmobile driver training course for youngsters. Children 12 years old and older receive driving instructions and a certificate if they can pass an exam that is given at the end of the day.

"The certificate allows you to drive on the trails," says Loucks. "Last year we put 15 kids through. One of our members is trained to teach the course and we had a representative of the OFSC down for the day."

Loucks is also hoping to have another snowmobile rally this winter, and if he can find a hall big enough he'll organize a snowmobile fashion show, of sorts. "We're working on having a snowmobile show, where we will have local dealers displaying the latest machines, equipment and clothing. But we're having trouble finding a hall big enough for a dealer to put two or three machines into," he says.

"But if you can get things like that going it entices people to come out and join the club. We'd like to have some family fun days this year as well. There's 55 acres of land near the club and we're hoping to get trails through all that area so adults can go the the clubhouse and play cards, watch TV, whatever, while the kids can go snowmobiling. With that kind of area they can run out there for hours. I know last year my son put close to 600 kilometres on our machine. He just loves to get out there and drive."

While Loucks admits reviving the club has been a lot of hard work, he does credit its founders for keeping it alive during the lean years of the early '80s. "There are some people in the club that kept it going for a few years, had they let it go you'd be right back to point A, you wouldn't have anything to start with. With their efforts, people like John Merkley, Allan Crowder, Donny Garlough, Wayne Beckstead and Connie Pemberton, at least there's something to build on."

"They're more or less the ones that started the club and they put a lot of work in over the years to keep it going. You have to hand it to them," says Loucks.

But for all his efforts the one element Loucks has no control over is the one that will ultimately determine the success of the upcoming season — amount of snowfall. "It was a very short season last year. Hopefully it will freeze up first to get rid of the mud and water. If it snows before it freezes, it's not good for snowmobiling because you break through and you're into mud, and you gotta watch for water.

"But it would be nice to get a layer of snow on the ground by November," says Loucks.

For information regarding memberships Loucks can be reached at 448-2439, or contact Robert Barkley (774-3203) in the Winchester area or John Merkley (535-2364) in Williamsburg.

Knights tie Raiders earning first point

WINCHESTER — Newington Knights earned its first point of the six-week-old Winchester and District Broomball League season here Sunday, battling the Winchester Raiders to a 1-1 overtime tie. Their goal was just the second of the season.

In Sunday's other contest Dunbar Raiders snapped its losing string at one, blanking the Prescott Road Knights 3-0.

Morewood Vikings kept in step with Dunbar winning its fifth game. The Vikings plundered the Ormond Cloverdales 3-1 to remain tied for first with Dunbar.

Russell's Magnum Force remained a point back of the co-leaders by polishing off the Toyes Hill Roadrunners 5-1.

Dunbar and Morewood lead the A Pool standings with 10 points apiece. Magnum Force has nine and Ormond seven. The B Pool rankings show Prescott Road with six, Toyes Hill with three and Newington with one.

Newington took a 1-0 lead on Winchester when Mike Alard connected from Harry Bilmer and Dale Beckstead at 13:46 of the first half. Winchester tied it up 1-1 scoring with 2:06 left in the opening period. Baxter Roberts scored the tying goal on a pass provided by Scott McIntosh. Neither the Ton's Steve Velthuis or Raiders' Tim Groninger could be beaten during the second half as the count remained deadlocked at one.

Goalkeeper Terry Colligan got back into form posting another shutout (his fourth in six games) as Dunbar Panthers whitewashed Prescott Road Knights 3-0. Shawn Patrick's goal from Steve Boucher at 19:20 of the first half proved to be the winner. Pierre LaFrance and Laurie Blanchard each pumped in second-period markers to make it a 3-0 final. Gary Gallinger set up LaFrance while Larry Gallinger and Ray Lepine fed Blanchard.

Brian Como scored two goals, leading the Morewood Vikings to its 3-1 decision over Ormond Cloverdales. He hit at 21:29 from Guy Marion and Brian Thatcher and again at 16:54 of the second half on a play started by Gerald Eby to give the Vikes a 2-0 lead. Ormond cut the gap to 2-1 when Carl Patterson ruined Harvey Bowman's shutout, scoring from Bill Livingston at 11:24, but Morewood salted the win away at the 3:00 mark when Ross Harten drilled home a John Stewart relay to make it a 3-1 final.

The Bols' boys , Mike and Dave each netted a pair of goals leading Russell's Magnum Force to a 5-1 win over Toyes Hill Roadrunners in the evening's fourth game. Geoff Corey scored the other goal and set up another one. Steve Bekkers and Frank Bols each earned two assists and Jim Pennock picked up one. Erik Petersen netted the lone Toyes Hill goal, scoring from Richard Suffel and Ted Bongers at 17:54 of the second period.

Winchester players aid winning Royals

CORNWALL — Four of the five Winchester-area players on the roster figured in the scoring here last Wednesday as the Cornwall-Seaway Valley Royals picked up its first ODMHA Major AA Midget victory.

Dennis Ouellette scored once while Chris Van Bridger set up two goals and both Bryan Helmer and Scot Bell helped out on singles as the Royals dumped the Ottawa Valley Titans 8-5.

It was the Royals' fifth game in eight days and first win in six starts.

Titans scored in the first minute of play and were up 2-0 early in the game. Winchester's Dennis Ouellette cut the lead to 2-1 when he jumped on a Chris Van Bridger rebound and put it into Ed Goffin's net.

Jason Palmer tied it up 2-2, blasting in a low slapshot from the top of the circle.

The Valley made it 3-2 at 11:58 of period two but Denis St. Jean knotted it up 3-3 finishing off a nifty three-way play involving Jason Warner and Craig Villeneuve at 9:12.

The Royals took a 4-3 lead at 6:48 as Jason Palmer redirected a Chris Van Bridger slapshot home.

Finch's Dave Lavergne upped the Royals' lead to 5-3 back- handing home a Scot Bell pass with 1:37 left in period two.

Denis St. Jean's second goal came at 11:15 of the third period and gave the Royals a 6-3 lead. The Titans closed the gap to 6-4 scoring while the Royals were two men short. Ottawa pulled their goalkeeper and held a six-to-three manpower advantage when they finally beat Joshua Harrington, to make it a 6-4 game with 4:04 left to play.

Cornwall struck immediately (7-4) when Jason Warner scored a short-handed goal into an empty net with 3:22 left to play.

Metcalfe's Scott Reaney scored his second goal of the night to bring the Titans back to within two goals (7-5) with 59 seconds on the clock but once again Cornwall roared right back with a goal as Craig Villeneuve made it 8-5 at the 51 second mark.

Winchester skaters picking up points were Dennis Ouellette with a goal, Chris Van Bridger two set-ups and single assists to Scot Bell and Bryan Helmer. Alexandria's Jason Palmer had two goals. Denis St. Jean also had two. Craig Villeneuve had three and Jason Warner two assists to go with a goal each.

This week the Cornwall-Seaway Valley squad plays the Golden Knights in Ottawa and will host the Gloucester Rangers (Nov. 2) and South Ottawa Canadians (Nov. 5) at the Water Street Arena.

Eagles gun down Flyers

ST. ISIDORE — St. Isidore Eagles are emerging as a force to be reckoned with early in the Eastern Ontario Jr. C Hockey League regular season.

Coming off a 7-5 road win over North Stormont 86's in Finch Thursday night, high-flying Eagles showed no mercy at home, beating Chesterville Flyers 14-4 Sunday night.

St. Isidore powered its way to a 6-0 lead after one period and added three more in the second, to lead 9-1 after two periods.

Brian Brown, with his first of two goals, scored Flyers' first of the night with eight minutes to go in the second period. Clayton Armstrong picked up an assist on the goal.

Armstrong then scored Flyers' second goal with 15 minutes left in the third. Mark Beehler assisted.

Brown scored his second and Armstrong record his third point, an assist, with 5:23 remaining.

John Guy connected for Flyers' final goal with 3:17 remaining. Ken Byers and Raymond Sherrer drew assists.

After three regular-season games, Brown leads Flyers in scoring with five points (three goals, two assists). Kevin Byers (one goal, three assists) and Clayton Armstrong (one goal, three assists) each have four points.

Leading the goal-scoring barrage for Eagles was Simon Chalifoux, with a hat trick and an assist.

Stephane Landriault, Paul Maisonneuve and Jean-Marc Longtin all enjoyed three-point nights, each scoring twice and adding assists.

Scoring once for St. Isidore was Mark Debruyn (four assists), Ken Harrigan (three assists), Miguel Charron (three assists), Gilles Laplante (one assist) and Barry Lebreu.

Pascal Joanette, Thursday's scoring hero against North Stormont 86's, failed to score against Flyers but did record five helpers.

While Eagles' coach Sylvain Desforges acknowledges his is a talented club, he stops short of endorsing them as the team to beat in 88-89.

Generals nip Demons

WINCHESTER — North Dundas Ault Foods Demons dropped a 3-1 Pee Wee A exhibition decision to the South Grenville Generals here last Thursday.

The Demons were unable to crack the Generals goaltending tandem of Kelly Thompson and Donnie Robbins until 5:10 of the third period when Phillip Brisebois made it a 3-1 final, scoring from Andrew Holmes and Brendan Bumbaco.

Demons outshot the Generals 8-4 in the final period, but managed just the one goal. North Dundas had 22 shots on net while South Grenville answered with 27.

The game was scoreless after a period and South Grenville led 2-0 after two periods.

The Ault Foods Pee Wee A squad is coached by Williams (Jr.) Helmer this year. Brad Holmes is his assistant and Sue Brisebois is the team manager.

The lineup includes goalies Tim Scott and Denis Desormeaux. The skaters are Ryan Buske, Brent Barkley, Brendon Bumbaco, Jason Fawcett, Phillip Brisebois, Shawn Steinburg, Wally Cinnamon, Micheal Spear, Glen Meeks, Jason Desormeau, Allen Potvin, Danny McLeod, Andrew Holmes, Clinton Holmes, Craig Halpenny.

Peddle hustles for six

WINCHESTER — Bob Peddle scored six goals here Sunday morning leading the Harvex Huslers to a 10-0 romp over the Barrhaven Oldtimers.

Goalie Kevin Baldwin was equally as sharp in a defensive role, stopping the visitors at every turn. It was Baldwin's first goose egg in 10 oldtimer matches.

In addition to Peddle's double hat trick, which featured six variations of goal-scoring techniques, the Huslers got three from Dick Christie and a single from Peddle's linemate Jim Shaw.

Last Thursday Harvex and the new Winchester Centennials battled to a 3-3 draw. Both Steve 'Bear' Johnston and Baldwin were sharp in keeping the score even.

Richard Gilmer opened the scoring but John Klien-Swormink and Steve Bowie responded to give the Centennials a 2-1 lead.

Butch Oldford tied it up 2-2 for the Huslers only to have former Winchester Jr. B Hawks' forward Shane Jordan connect on a long drive to give the Centennials a 3-2 edge.

Butch Oldford's successful end-to-end rush in the final minute of play pulled out the 3-3 tie for Harvex.

Devils take consolation title

INGLESIDE — Vankleek Hill Rebels powered their way to the A championship here in the Rothwell-Osnabruck girls' high school basketball tournament recently.

The 1987 Ontario A girls bronze medallists overpowered the SD&G entry from Char-Lan 71-53 in the final game, topping the event with another, their third, one-sided victory.

Vankleek Hill pummelled North Dundas' Devils 87-37 in round one and advanced to the final, posting a 60-39 win over North Grenville in the semi-final round.

The Char-Lan Crusaders defeated Plantagenet 73-25 and Rothwell- Osnabruck 67-35 to qualify for the other final berth.

North Dundas rebounded from that one-sided beating by the Rebels to play their way back into the consolation final where they defeated the St. Joe's Panthers 44-33 in an all-SD&G showdown.

Rose Rombough showed the way for North Dundas, dropping in 18 points. Stacey Berry was number two point-getter with 14.

Basketball authorities feel that the tournament finalists, Char-Lan and Vankleek Hill could be meeting in about a month to decide the 1988 Eastern Ontario girls' "A" championship and EOSSAA's representative at the All-Ontario playdowns.

40 Pounders bury Berwick

WINCHESTER — Berwick's Old Timers could have used a backhoe to dig out from under the barrage of rubber directed at their goal by Al Crump's 40 Pounders in an oldtimer hockey match here recently.

Winchester emerged from the exhibition match with a 14-3 victory which improved their record to two wins, three losses and a tie.

Team captain and top scorer Dave Barnhart led the Pounder's attack with a big five-goal effort.

Bill Dellaire cashed in three shots for the hat trick. Ken McClatchie and Bob Dawson each found net twice. Bill Hogaboam and Kevin Smail each bagged single goals.

Royals see AA action

CORNWALL — Sooter Photo Royals dropped its first game of the season in Minor "AA" Bantam action with a humiliating loss to the Gloucester Rangers. Royals were completely outclassed in a 6-1 defeat at the hands of the Rangers.

A first-period goal by Winchester's Danny Adams, assisted by Morrisburg's Robbie Domanko was all the offence Royals could muster.

Only a strong effort from Yves Leger in the Sooter goal, prevented a complete blowout.

TIE GATINEAU

In Tuesday's game, the Royals getting back in the point column, came from behind to gain a 3-3 tie with the Gatineau Ambassadors at the Compeau Arena.

Gatineau went ahead in the first on goals from Mario Lamothe and Pascal Patry. Royals replied with an unassisted goal by Geoff Hare.

Gatineau extended its lead in the second, with a goal from Paul Millette, with the Royals closing the gap on a goal from Patrick Compeau, assisted by Travis Duhaime.

A third-period goal by Geoff Hare, his second of the night, assisted by Winchester's Matt Gordon, clinched the tie for the Royals.

Royals outshot the Ambassadors 26-14, with Trevor McMillan supplying key saves in the Sooter net.

EDGE NEPEAN

On Saturday, at the Cornwall Civic Complex, the injury-ridden Sooter Royals downed the Nepean Raiders 4-3 in a hard-fought contest.

An outstanding effort by Trevor Thompson with a four-point night, and Robbie Domanko's three-pointer, propelled Sooter Royals to the victory.

The teams exchanged first-period goals with Robbie Domanko connecting for the Royals, assisted by Trevor Thompson.

Royals took the lead, scoring three times in the second. Cornwall's goals were by Thompson from Domanko; Domanko from Gregg Esdale and Thompson; — and the third from Thompson, assisted by Geoff Hare and Jordon Hart. A goal from Nepean's Mike James reduced the Royals' lead to two.

Nepean fought back with a powerplay goal from Craig Chirrelli, in the third, but failed to find the equalizer due to Yves Leger's sharp performance in the Royals' net.

Raiders outshot the Royals 18-16 in the contest.

POPPY SALE THIS SATURDAY, LEGION SERVICE THIS SUNDAY

Be sure and buy a poppy when a Scout or Cub asks this Saturday. Not only will you be contributing to the Legion Poppy Fund, which goes to benefit veterans and their families, but you will be doing a little part to show that you still remember and appreciate the gift that was given so freely by those who fought for your rights and for those who made the supreme sacrifice of their life on your behalf. A very small effort on your part for such a gift that was so freely given. The Legion has placed their boxes around town and will hold its drive this Saturday. On Sunday, the Legion has engaged the services of the Cameron Highlander Pipe Band and will parade to the cenotaph where the remembrance service will be held. We encourage as many as possible to join them.

TIME RUNNING OUT FOR CENTENNIAL APPRECIATION BANQUET TICKETS

Because of catering commitments, a deadline of Nov. 12 has been set for the purchase of tickets to the centennial appreciation banquet which will be held at the Winchester Community Centre on Nov. 19. The Winchester Chamber of Commerce thought it only fitting to honor Harry Keyes and Shirley Fawcett for their tireless efforts on our behalf, as co-chairpersons for our centennial celebrations. One could not have attended any of our events without realizing the excellent job done by this tireless pair working on our behalf and it is only fitting that we, who share the pride, turn out for this final opportunity to express our appreciation for the many hours of hard work they contributed so tirelessly for our town. A gala dinner, cocktail hour, a dance, and a chance to win a weekend at a luxury hotel or resort, will all be included along with presentations to deserving recipients. Tickets are available from Summers Insurance, Muriel's Flowers, Ward Mallette or Drewery Pontiac Buick. Pick up your tickets today and have a great evening, along with the chance to say a last thanks to a very deserving pair.

HAWKS PLAY HOME AND HOME WITH KEMPTVILLE THIS WEEKEND, TOURNEY THIS SATURDAY

Hawks won another at home this Sunday, against no other than the Alexandria Glens and are all set to take on the Kemptville 73's this weekend. The home-and-home opens this Friday night in Winchester and both teams go at it again in Kemptville at 7:30 on Sunday evening. There will be additional hockey action all day this Saturday when the Rangers, who play here each week, host an Old Timers Tourney which gets under way early Saturday morning and continues till a winner is decided before the dance on Saturday night. The hall will open at noon with lunch and refreshments served till closing. Drop in.

VAN WYLICK — ALLISON PARTY THIS FRIDAY

We expect a large crowd for dancing this Friday evening when a party will be held for Victoria van Wylick and Kirk Allison. Victoria is one of the good things we see when we visit the dentist. Her pretty little face always has a smile for her many friends. All of the good people from the Winchester Springs area will also be in attendance as Kirk and his family are well known to hundreds who do business with Allisons. Age of majority will be required, but get here early as we expect a good crowd.

Demons whitewash Generals 10-0

Coach cites poor discipline in big loss to South Stormont

CHESTERVILLE — North Dundas Demons couldn't keep their preseason win string intact. The locals were pummelled 7-0 here Friday night by the South Stormont Flyers who delt the locals their first loss in four starts.

North Dundas was coming off a big 10-0 exhibition victory over the South Grenville Generals in Prescott last Thursday but fell flat on their faces against South Stormont.

Coach Bernie Harper cited very poor discipline by several team members and stupid penalties as big reasons for the loss. He was quick to give the Flyers full credit for their win and hoped some players would put the team ahead of themselves in the future.

Trevor Wheeler, Dave Duprau and Kevin McCormick each had two goals for the Flyers. Jason Desjardins posted the shut-out.

Bill Zrymiak was hot in the Demons' nets blanking the South Grenville Generals in North Dundas' 10-0 victory.

Demons led 1-0 after a period of play and Chad Benoit's unassisted goal which came at the 9:11 mark of the opening frame stood as the winner.

Dave Harper led the offence with a four goal one assist effort. Tony Holmes fired in two goals and picked-up an assist. Brother Chris Holmes netted a goal and drew two assists. Chad Benoit had a goal and one assist. Willy O'Connor and Andrew Henderson each scored a single goal.

Scott Francis led the engineers with three assists. Todd Halpenny and Troy Helmer had two each while Tim Holmes earned a single.

The Demons continue their exhibition schedule with two games this week. This Friday (Nov. 4) they will host the Kemptville Midget A Royals at the Chesterville Arena at 8:00 pm. Saturday they will take on Nor-Stor-Glen at Maxville in a noon hour contest.

North Dundas will then open their U.C.M.H.L. Midget B season on Monday Nov. 7 with a game against the North Leeds North Stars in Westport.

Fearnehough wins it!

ROCKLAND — Kerri Fearnehough went on a scoring rampage here Saturday firing in all four Metcalfe goals in a 4-3 National Capital Region Tween C Ringette victory over Rockland.

Metcalfe actually had spotted Rockland a 3-0 lead before they broke free and skated to an exciting one-goal, 4-3 victory.

Excellent defensive work by first-time goalie Megan Wells and her defensive corps of Rebecca McCooeye, Kristina Ziegler and Krista Castle held Rockland at bay while the offence could get untracked.

The host team held a 3-0 lead with just 12 minutes left in the game and looked to be headed toward an easy win. But Metcalfe began to click at the 10:17 mark and didn't stop scoring until 2:44 when Kerri Fearnehough ripped in her fourth consecutive goal to hand Metcalfe a brilliant come-from-behind victory.

Fearnehough scored at 10:17, 9:21, 5:18 and 2:44. Krista Stolk assisted on all four goals while Julie Korteweg helped out on two of them.

Metcalfe took the game's only minor penalty.
