Runaway Car Kills & Injures in Freak Mishap

MUTE MEMENTOES OF TRAGEDY were found the next morning after a run-away automobile had killed Clarence Alguire and seriously injured district farmer William Servage. The accident happened Wednesday evening, a week ago, on the farm of Bernard Gibbons three miles south of Chesterville. Neighbour Arnold Sullivan holds Mr Servage's hat and at his feet are other objects of clothing left scattered on the field after the killer car had been stopped. The field is north of the home of Mr Charlie Flegg who, with his son Ray, stopped the car in its crazy turning and found the injured man and the mangled body of Alguire. Servage had managed to crawl out of the way to the right of the picture. Alguire lay where Sullivan is standing.—Record Photo.

Clarence Alguire died and William Servage lies seriously injured in hospital as a result of an accident here. It happened last Wednesday evening just north and west of the Servage farm on the Gibbons property shortly after dark. A runaway car killed Alguire and mangled him almost beyond recognition and smashed Servage down, crushed his chest, punctured a lung, broke his shoulder, lacerated his head and face and left him half dead.

The story of the strange accident is made up of police reports, eyewitness accounts and facts as the eye could picture them in the rutted field.

Early in the evening William Servage, 60, and his hired man, Clarence Alguire, 71, started after the cows in the north fields in the car, a 1947 Chev., a common enough habit of local farmers when the lane is passable. Reconstruction shows that the cows had escaped from their pasture and the two men moved two fields west in the dark looking for them.

Charlie Flegg and his family, about seven o'clock noticed headlights in the field north of their house through the kitchen windows, but paid little mind; plowing has started in earnest and they were supposed to be a neighbour's tractor lights.

About 7.15 when Charlie started to shave, he suddenly realized the lights were not those of a tractor but of a car and the car seemed to be travelling backwards. He called to his son, Ray, told his wife to watch and if they waved their flashlight three times to call Constable Shane immediately, there would be something wrong, and headed for the lane.

The men started back through the lane to the circling car; Ray outran his father and discovered tragedy in the uncut grain. The car was circling out of control, backwards, and with every pass it would grind over the prostrate figure of a man. Young Flegg leaped into the moving car, got it stopped and heard a voice say out of the dark: "Is that you, Ray?"

Servage lay outside the circle made by the car, in immense pain but conscious. He was alive and Alguire was dead beyond doubt. The men felt the living should be taken care of immediately, and leaving everything just as they found it, they helped Servage into the car and headed for the road. There Constable Shane, alerted by Mrs Flegg, met them and they started for hospital with the police car leading the way. At the Jas. Moran corner it was evident the Servage car had had it and Mr Servage again got out of the car under his own power and entered the police car for the trip to Winchester supported by Flegg senior. Servage stated to his son, George, Thursday night, that the car had gotten stuck in the field but he was unable to supply other details.

The police were represented by our local constable, Leonard Shane, and Constable Herb Meyers, of the OPP, Morrisburg detachment. The only objects removed from the scene of the accident before the arrival of Constable Meyers were the death car and the injured man. Everything else including an empty beer bottle in the field lay there until ordered removed.

Two circles were made by the runaway car in the hour it ran without a driver, one, the first one, about 15 yards in diameter and the other about 18 yards across. To the right and a bit north of the first and smaller circle is a small heap of stones that show recent disturbance. Under the car and on the rear-end housing is a new recent scratch. It is wondered if perhaps the car got hooked on the stones in the dark and the men tried to free it and were knocked over by the moving car.

Clarence Alguire was a well-known resident of the community having lived here and in the Finch area all his life. He was buried from the Brownlee Funeral Home in Finch.

William Servage, a farmer, lives at home with his mother, about three miles south of town. At time of writing he is slowly recovering from the serious injuries he received.

District Schools Hold Track Meet at Winchester
John Durant Captures Allison Cup for Chesterville High

Smiling weather and a good crowd favoured high school athletes from Osgoode and North Dundas District High Schools Friday when they held their second annual ONDDAA meeting. It was held this year in Winchester at the village fair grounds at the west of the town. The host town school carried off the total championship honours and the Boyd Memorial Trophy. Winchester school amassed a total of 179 points.

Competition was keen in all the events and Chesterville can be proud of the showing their contingent made even though the strength in the senior divisions was sadly lacking. John Durant came to the top in the Intermediates and carried off individual top honours. He scored 19 points to take the R. S. Allison cup. The J. Howard Fulton Trophy for best team of cheer leaders was again won by the Mountain team.

Mr, Mrs Herb. Graham Honoured Tuesday Night At Morrisburg

A large and friendly gathering paid their respects to a well-known and well-liked figure of Dundas agriculture Tuesday night of this week, when Mr and Mrs Herb. Graham were presented with good wishes and some remembrances before they leave the county in retirement. Mr Graham has been the Agricultural Representative of Dundas County for the past 28 years, having arrived in Morrisburg in 1934 to take over after Jas. Simpson.

Don Robertson, of Morrisburg, was chairman for the evening and after expressing a welcome to those present in the name of the Dundas Federation of Agriculture, the sponsors, he called on varied talent for excellent entertainment. Three ladies from Chesterville, Mesdames Graham, Cass and Casselman, with P. G. Hewitt at the piano, delighted the audience with several numbers. Little Gloria Bowman, of Chesterville, proved her dancing ability in two numbers that were roundly applauded. Barbara Ann Merkley, of the Nation, played the accompaniment. Mrs John Thompson had some very sage advice to offer in an amusing reading of a Leap Year problem.

Hume Grisdale, of Morrisburg, outlined the career of Mr Graham in the county and called on him and Mrs Graham to accept the OPINIONS . . .

Ours and Others

Typhoid Dangers

It is never any pleasure to see that typhoid has reared its ugly head in one of our communities, but it is even more shocking when it come close home; that is what happened in the past few weeks with some Metcalfe people suffering mild attacks and two young people of Chesterville recovering from the same disease.

Reports vary as to the source of the outbreak, and it may have been a contaminated well, since cleaned and chlorinated, in Winchester. Be that as it may, the situation points up the ever present danger of typhoid in any small community that does not have adequate water supplies and sewer systems.

The day is rapidly approaching when wastes dumped indiscriminately on our properties and in our waterways will end up in our food. Basic human needs call for vast quantities of water, and water is the end carrier for much of our communal waste. We either read the latent signs of the ever-present danger of an outbreak of typhoid fever because of overworked sanitary facilities or we continue to explore the chances of financing a safe modern water and sewage plant for Chesterville and other small towns.

Our wells may test pure today, but it is well to remember they are fed by underground streams, in turn filled from surface water. Certain seasons and certain circumstances allow the level of impurities to reach the danger mark. From then on chlorination is needed and few homeowners ever know when that level is reached.

The time is fast approaching when water will be handled like hydro; used to its fullest but used safely.

Irresponsible Reporting

Every little while we in the Fourth Estate have reason to wonder just who is fooling who when it comes to reporting the news. When we read of events that never happen, of circumstances that are patently of the writer's imagination, then we aren't too proud of some of our compatriots in the newspaper business.

Every newspaper story, whether it is about a big turnip or a small disaster, is entitled to a certain amount of individual handling on the part of the writer, either to heighten the colour of the affair or to minimize certain sides of the story. There is perhaps a bit of so-called "poetic licence" allowed to creep in if the truth is left in reasonably good condition. From there on, a reporter needs to report the facts and leave imagination alone.

We had a sad and puzzling accident happen just south of town last week. The facts are clear enough up to a point then injury and death cover the picture and only conjecture is left; hardly a standard to use as fact. With the exception of the smaller daily that serves our area, the other two served up a line of bilge and fantasia that left one breathing hard and asking if all the faking was necessary just to spread untrue drivel, and the reporting in every case was done by men of the city news rooms. In the first set of stories, reporters rushed the headlines before they had learned even the bare outlines of the accident. That was followed the next day with some remarkable examples of what a headline hunter can unearth if he has no regard for the truth.

We have no illusions about the infallibility of the press. It is the constant knowledge of our errors that keeps us humble; we don't like to see sensation-seeking writers take our local affairs in their grubby little hands and turn out tripe.

Boy Scout Apple Day

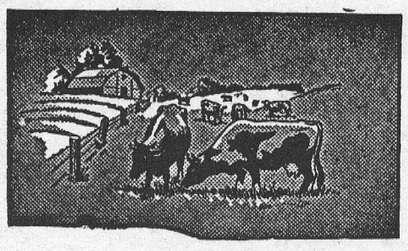
Each year about this time Chesterville Scouts and Cubs are busily polishing apples and getting ready for their annual Apple Day. And each year at this time they appeal to the generosity of the public to make it possible to carry on for another year.

It takes funds and help to keep the scouting movement going in any small town, or big town for that matter. Here in Chesterville, the Scouts and Cubs are fortunate indeed to have excellent leaders in the persons of Mrs Lannin and Mr Droppo. Chesterville Rotary acts as sponsor and heads the Scout Committee with Mr McLaggan. These are men and women who give of their time and energy to help the cause. The rest of us reap the benefits in the undoubted good the young fellows get from scouting.

The boys will be calling at homes, businesses and stopping you on the street this Saturday. They will have baskets of apples and their appeal will be aimed at your financial support. Give what you can and take an apple as a receipt. The investment will pay off.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison



At one time last week I thought I would have to send Morewood Women's Institute a bill. "Charging battery—$1.00," it would have read.

I was a little suprised last Thursday morniing for when I came down to start breakfast Harry was laboriously carrying the cans of milk from the barn to the house one at a time. The garage doors were open and the tractor was parked out by the shed. Why was he carrying milk so far? "Will neither the car nor the tractor start?" I asked from the back door.

"I've a notion to make you take the milk to town in the wheelbarrow one can at a time," was his senseless reply.

"What have I done?" I asked as innocently as a two-year-old.

"You left the heater on in the car all night and the battery is as dead as a stone."

The accusation was understandable. I remembered that it had been cold in the car when we left Morewood W.I. meeting close to midnight on Wednesday and that after we'd driven a mile or two I'd switched on the little button that starts the heater. I remembered turning off the key when I got home, gathering up my purse and gloves, shutting off the lights, closing the garage doors and goin to bed. I couldn't have stated under oath though whether or not I had turned off the heater. But Harry had the evidence there for plain as the nose on your face was the little button with the arrow pointing to "ON." I was guilty so I sneaked back into the house.

The tractor had been out in the cold and frost all night and it wouldn't start either. Harry decided it would go when the sun had warmed it up a little and he could take the milk with it after breakfast.

But while we were eating a neighobur passing by noticed the cans of milk sitting near the house and like a good fairy in the nursery books he backed his truck in the drive, loaded the milk and left. He heard when he returned how "Lillian had left the heater on all night and the car battery was as dead as a stone."

Well, to make a short story shorter, I towed the car with the tractor until it started and Harry took it to town after supper to have the battery re-charged.

He loked a little sheepish next morning when he said, "I guess you weren't to blame for the dead battery. The heater shuts off when you turn off the key."

We don't know yet why the battery suddenly died a natural death. But Morewood W.I. will, I'm sure, be delighted that they don't have to pay for re-charging it. And I am delighted that I wasn't guilty of committing a crime that would only add to the already cloudy record of "them women drivers."

But something happened at the W.I. meeting that night of which I was guilty.

I took a former Morewoodite along to the meeting for company. During the programme I sat between her and one of the W.I. members. The business period was long and of little interest to us visitors so naturally our minds wandered a bit.

Suddenly we were reminded of something in Chesterville. Now believe me, I hang my head in shame as I tell it, but we began to whisper about it. All at once the W.I. member on my right gave me a little poke (bless her heart). I sprang to attention just in time to hear my name being spoken by the president. I was being introduced to the meeting while I'd been whispering to my neighbour beside me.

Seldom have I been more embarrassed. I promise it won't happen again. If I am ever asked to speak at another meeting I shall try to arrange to sit beside a deaf mute —at least until I've been formally introduced. My face is still red.

Light Along The Way

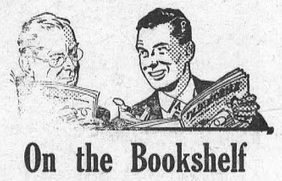
"But God, who is rich in mercy, out of the great love with which He loved us . . . made us alive together with Christ." (Eph. 2 : 4). "God so loved the world that He gave . . ." (John 3 : 16). So the New Testament writers were of one mind in this, for there are many more such references as these, that God's love for mankind is all embracing and beyond the power of understanding.

God pours out His love upon men, upon the just and the unjust, the deserving and the undeserving. It is His free gift of grace that is visited upon rich and poor alike, for every human being, as a child of God, has an equal right to it with every other. Truly, this is love freely given, the fruit of mercy and compassion that knows no bounds.

The life we live is one of continual effort which is put forth in the hope of reward. Fear clutches at our heart whenever anything which would prevent us from earning our livelihood looms before us. We expect to pay for all we receive. Life is a costly business and we are continually parting with our hard earned income. We try to make friends by using our powers and possessions to please others. We expect love in return for kindness and generosity, but we do not understand it thoroughly as a free commodity.

This often clouds the wonder of God's free gift of love. That which is freely given cannot be earned, it is beyond price. We can do absolutely nothing to merit God's love for us. We can spend our lives in saintliness and it has no relation to what God gives. We can only accept, through faith, what is freely given.

Thus faith is the determinant, as the writer of Ephesians claims. Do we believe in God's love? Do we believe that His way is right above all others, and that we ought to let His love claim us that we may abide by His will? When we do so believe, then we can do good works, as a means of meriting live, but in response to it. Righteousness is the mark of the man who has come to know the love of God, not of the man who seeks it.



On the Bookshelf

Have you ever stopped to think in how many ways we use the word "head" in our language?

The head being that part of the human body containing the brain, we use the word literally or metaphorically, as the top of anything, regardless of whether it resembles the head in shape.

We speak of the head of a pin, a nail, a hammer, a flower and a cabbage. In position we speak of the head of the list, the page, the table, the stairs and the ladder.

The word is also used to signify the person who is the chief or leader, the head of the school, the business, the family, the house, the state, the church. It may denote the head of a coin, the side bearing the sovereign's head, or the front part of a plow. We speak of a hothead, crowned head, headstand, headgear and headlight.

An organization plans to cater for a banquet at so much a head and a farmer will say he has 20 head of cattle to sell.

One of the main points of a subject or discourse is often known as such, because a theme is often dealt with under several heads.

ONTARIO HYDRO

ST. LAWRENCE POWER PROJECT

CEMETERIES

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is required under The St. Lawrence Development Act, 1952 (No. 2) to construct, maintain and operate power development works in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence River which will necessitate the flooding of the land where certain cemeteries described hereunder are located.

These cemeteries have been closed by order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario in Council, dated August 22nd, 1956.

The Commission is aware that many persons will not wish the graves in these cemeteries to be disturbed while others will wish that the remains be moved to a new cemetery. The Commission is anxious to respect the wishes of all persons and the following procedure is designed to carry out those wishes. Attention is directed particularly to subsection (3) of section 23a of The St. Lawrence Development Act, 1952 (No. 2) which reads as follows:

(3) "Where a cemetery has been closed under this section, the Commission at its expense shall make available to the cemetery owner if requested in writing by him an equivalent area of land and shall put it into suitable condition for cemetery purposes, and if requested in writing by a lot owner in the cemetery so closed the cemetery owner shall make available to him, without cost to the lot owner, an equivalent lot in the substituted cemetery and shall accept for reburial in such substituted cemetery any human body removed under this section from the cemetery so closed."

Where a cemetery has been closed under the above Act, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is authorized to flood and submerge a cemetery whether or not all human bodies buried therein have been removed, but may not do so until six months after the Commission has given notice of its intention to submerge a cemetery by publication of such notice once each week for four successive weeks in a newspaper having general circulation in the locality in which the cemetery is situate.

In order to perform its obligations and duties in this regard, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario therefore gives notice to all persons interested that:

(a) The cemeteries to be submerged are located as described in the following list:

1. Mille Roches United Cemetery, Lot 26, Concession 1, in the Township of Cornwall
2. St. Andrews United Church Cemetery, Lot 31, Concession 1, in the Township of Cornwall
3. Christ Church Anglican Cemetery, Lot 32, Concession 1, in the Township of Cornwall
4. Our Lady of Grace Roman Catholic Church Cemetery, Lot 7, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
5. St. Mark's United Church Cemetery, Lot 8, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
6. St. David's Anglican Cemetery, Lot 8, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
7. Emon Family Cemetery, Lot 9, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
8. Woodlands East Presbyterian and Anglican Cemetery, Lot 19, Centre Commons Lot, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
9. Woodlands West Presbyterian Cemetery, Lots 20 and 21, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
10. St. Paul's Anglican Church Cemetery, Lot 32, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
11. Old Trinity United Church Cemetery, Lot 34, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
12. Aultsville United Church Cemetery, Lot 34, Concession 1, in the Township of Osnabruck
13. Hickey Family Cemetery, Lot 3, Concession 1, in the Township of Williamsburgh
14. Trinity Anglican Church Cemetery, Centre Commons Lot, Concession 1, in the Township of Williamsburgh.

(b) The Commission has provided a new Union Cemetery located at Lots 6 and 7, Concession 1, Township of Osnabruck, County of Stormont, which will replace all of the cemeteries listed above.

(c) A close relative or other person entitled to ownership of and to rights of burial in a plot in one of the cemeteries which has been closed and who wishes that the remains in any such plot be removed to the Union Cemetery is required to give written notice not later than January 5th, 1957 addressed to Mr. E. B. Easson, Secretary, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, 620 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

(d) Where no notice is received requesting removal, the remains will not be disturbed.

(e) All remains will be removed to the new Union Cemetery at the expense of the Commission. Should it be required that remains be removed to some other cemetery, the Commission will assume so much of the expense as it would be required to assume if the remains were removed to the Union Cemetery.

(f) All monuments, headstones or other markers will be moved to the appropriate new plots in the Union Cemetery.

HONOURED AT MORRISBURG—

best wishes of all present and the gifts that were tendered by small Gloria Bowman. The guests of honour received a 35mm. camera, projector and screen, a cased set of binoculars and an inscribed silver tray. Mrs Graham was also presented with a bouquet of red roses.

Emotion choked Mr Graham when he rose to reply to the good wishes. His good humour and usual cheerful self gradually won the day and the resume of the years of work in the county were filled with interesting and humourous anecdotes. In 22 years he had seen many organizations formed and reach maturity. He was proud of the work of most of them and singled some out for particularly good jobs that had been done. The Dundas Federation of Agriculture, particularly in the field of brucellosis control, was setting the pace for the province.

The speaker told the story in brief of the agricultural representative's office in Morrisburg since the beginning. It will soon be 50 years since the first seven district offices were opened in the province and the Dundas office was one of the seven. The representatives since then have been Messrs Munro, Campbell, Brett, Wiggins, Caldwell, Springstead, Simpson, Graham and his successor, Don Rutherford.

With a final word of commendation to Don Rutherford and an all-embracing thank-you on behalf of himself and Mrs Graham, the guest of honour retired from the spotlight and refreshments were served by the ladies of Morrisburg W.I.

Fred M. Cass, Q.C., M.P.P., spoke briefly as did Orval Seeley, reeve of Matilda Township.

From 1945 to 1955 motor vehicle registrations in Canada increased from 1,497,081 to 3,948,787.

Allison–Barrass

Tryon United Baptist Church, Tryon, P.E.I., was the scene of an attractive wedding Monday, October 8, at 2 p.m. when Shirley, younger daughter of Rev Dr and Mrs E. J. Barrass, was joined in holy matrimony to Keith, son of Mr and Mrs Ralph Allison, Winchster Springs, Ontario.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by the bride's father.

The bride, a picture of loveliness, was given in marriage by her brother, Roland, and wore a gown of white brocade, fashioned on princess lines, with fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

The maid of honour, Miss Dorothy Barrass, sister of the bride, wore an autumn green gown. Her bouquet was of miniature baby 'mums. The bridesmaids, Mrs Robert Maynard and the Misses Mary Mollison and Ann Henderson, wore matching gowns of toast brown and carried nosegays of yellow chrysanthemums. The bride's attendants wore headpieces of simulated autumn leaves.

Mrs E. J. Barrass, mother of the bride, was charming in a smoke grey suit of soft wool with navy blue hat and a corsage of yellow baby 'mums. The groom's mother, Mrs Ralph Allison, was most attractive in a dress of peacock blue suedine with matching hat and grey muskrat jacket, her corsage being of white carnations.

The bridegroom was supported by his brother, Lloyd. Jack Danson and William Rankin acted as ushers.

The church organist, Mrs Lloyd Rogerson, presided at the organ. After the first prayer Miss Jackolyn MacDonald sang "O Perfect Love" and during the signing of the register Miss Pat Miller rendered as a solo "Because."

Following the wedding ceremony the bridal party gathered in the church hall where congratulations were tendered the happy couple and where 50 guests sat down to the wedding luncheon.

Mrs Roland Barrass and Mrs Lloyd Allison poured tea, and the Misses Janet Barrass, Ruth Henderson, Gwenneth Matthews and Elizabeth Jones served the guests. The toast to the bride was given by Lloyd Allison and fittingly responded to by the bridegroom. William Rankin proposed the toast to the bride's attendants.

Mr and Mrs Allison left on their honeymoon trip to the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a suit of bronje tweed with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

"Ottawa"

This book, written by Blodwen Davies, illustrated with photographs and old prints, tells the story of Ottawa, the capital city that grew out of a village in the wilderness.

In one of the most fascinating stories ever told you will read of John McTaggart who built a bridge of stone across the Great Kettle; Philemon Wright, the Yankee settler who founded Hull; the charming milliner, Miss Dalmahoy, of Edinburgh; Colonel By, engineer and leader of men, who planned and carried out the building of the Rideau aCnal only to be reprimanded by his government.

You will meet Franklin on his way to death in the Arctic, and the Duke of Richmond who was to die in so strange a manner on the banks of the Ottawa River.

Equally interesting, the second half of the book gives an account of the Ottawa of today.

"R.S.V.P."

Elsa Maxwell, who has had a varied career, is known chiefly as an arbiter of international society and a famous hostess, in this book tells her own story.

Left out of a party at the age of 12 because her family was too poor, Miss Maxwell made it her life ambition to give parties to which the world and his wife would wish to be admitted. It is a good book to read as it gives more than a glimpse of those fabulous parties.

It will serve to make you contented in your own sphere, and to realize that glitter is evanescent and happiness can be achieved in other ways.

If there is any special book in which you are interested please leave the title with Mrs Merkley and, if possible, same will be included in the library.—S.C.

Chamber of Commerce To Erect Signs At Village Approaches

The regular meeting of Chesterville Chamber of Commerce was held October 10 in the office of the town clerk.

The erection of a new sign advertising the Chesterville Chamber of Commerce at each entrance of the town was unanimously agreed upon. The slogan which will be inscribed on the sign has not been definitely decided upon as yet, but the inviting words "Our Town is Your Town" apparently was the choice of the members.

The protection of the school children enroute to home and school between the hours of 11.45 a.m. and 1.15 p.m. was a topic of discussion. The solution arrived at after lengthy debate was to propose that town council have the local constable patrol Main Street in order to slow fast moving traffic and to ensure the children a safe passage to their destination.

Each member present was asked to contact two unattending members and endeavour to triple the attendance for the coming meeting which will be held November 14.
