ADDRESS BY JUDGE MCKINLEY

"The Young People's Part in the Making of Their Nation Great".

My subject for today may be entitled "The Young People's Part in the Making of Their Nation Great." It has sometimes been said that the journey of mankind from the cradle to the grave is like the voyage of a vessel from a well known harbor to some distant unfamiliar shore. At times the vessel rides in peace in the quiet calm of a Summer's eve; again it is carried forward by the gentle forces of a southern breeze; and then again it is gripped and beaten by the raging torrents of a roaring sea. In a calm and in a gentle breeze any sailor guides the vessel, but in a storm, the seasoned weather beaten Captain stands upon the bridge, for well he knows "that in spite of storm, and in spite of breeze, he can decide the way the ship will go. And so it is in the case of men and of nations.

"One ship sails east, another west, By the self same winds that blow; 'Tis the set of the sail and not the gale, That decides the way you go."

If you would do our part in making our nation great, we must first of all determine wherein lies the greatness of a nation. We, in Canada, are proud of our country. We think of the territorial vastness of our land. A land larger than the United States of America, larger than all Europe. We think of the ever expanding volume of our trade and commerce, a per capita volume never equalled by any nation of a similar size in the history of the world. If territorial vastness or material resources or economic development make a nation, then surely Canada is already one of the greatest nations of the world. But on this occasion, we wish to think and speak of vaster greatness, for we are cautioned by those words of Goldsmith when he said:

"Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay;
Princess and Lords may flourish, or may fade
A breath can make them as a breath has made,
But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed can never be supplied."

We think of some of the great nations of the world past and present. We think of Egypt, Judah, Greece, Rome, France, the United States and our dearly beloved Britain. And when we think of these nations, do we think of their size, or their resources. I think not. We think of

GILBERT COONS M.P. FOR DUNDAS

Gilbert Coons of Morrisburg was elected member of the Sixteenth Ontario Older Boys' Parliament as the representative of the boys of Dundas County.

In Morrisburg the Poll was at the United Church Parsonage. All last Saturday boys went to the poll exercising their franchise, and similar polls were open in Williamsburg, Iroquois, South Mountain, Brinston, Hallville and Winchester.

The final vote was 76—66. The contest was a close one and aroused considerable interest and suspense. Both candidates had an enthusiastic backing. Gilbert will go to Toronto during the Christmas holidays when the session of the 16th Boys' Parliament will be held.

FIREWORKS AT JUNIOR HOCKEY MEETING

Tempers flared, and hot words were bandied carelessly about by opposing factions at the junior hockey meeting held in the Agricultural Office Wednesday night.

It appears that a certain clique, on their own authority, have entered a team in the St. Lawrence Junior Hockey League, under the name of the "Morrisburg Juniors".

When the officially elected President, Mr. Cecil Hunter, called for nominations at the meeting, he was informed by a number of the gentlemen present, that the officers had already been elected. The president was naturally incensed at this announcement, as he was the only person who had the proper authority to call a meeting to elect officers. After some discussion, Mr. Hunter went on with the election of the new executive, who will act for the Town League as well as for the St. Lawrence League entry.

The election resulted as follows: Hon. President—Geo. H. Chailles, M.L.A.

President—Cecil Hunter.

Vice-Pres.—Chas. Crober.

Sec.—Treas.—C. Lee Deeks.

Executive—Alf. Gamble, D. H. Weir, Earl Crober, J. E. Christensen, M. A. Epplert.

Advertising Manager—Arthur Laurin.

The Town League will be made up this year of four teams, viz: Red Wings; Maroons; Morrisburg Collegiate Institute and Aultsville. The Maple Leafs, having lost several of their players, will be broken up and the players will be divided among the other teams.

A committee was appointed to interview the arena management, with regard to securing the ice.

A proposal to raise the age limit in the Town League, or to do away with it entirely, was voted down, as it was felt that this would discourage the development of the younger players.

ZETA FIRST DEGREE TEAM MORRISBURG VISITS BRINSTON

Continuing the scheduled exchange of visits of the lodges of Harmony Dist. No. 51, I. O. O. F., Zeta lodge of Morrisburg visited Connaught lodge of Brinston Monday evening. In spite of the sub-zero weather, thirty members of Zeta degree team made the trip to confer the degree on a class of candidates. Riverside lodge of Iroquois brought two of their candidates to receive the degree. The visiting degree team was under the direction of Bro. Arth. Casselman.

At the close of the degree the visitors from Morrisburg, Iroquois, and Kemptville were guests of Connaught lodge at luncheon, with Bros. Peter Locke, Andrew Bell and Wilfrid Cooper as refreshment committee. The address on the First degree was delivered by Bro. Arth. Casselman and shorter addresses were given by Bro. Chas. Hummel of Morrisburg, D.D.G.M. of Harmony District; Bro. John Weston of Morrisburg; E. C. Beaupre and J. C. Gilder of Iroquois, and the candidates, Bro. Orrin Strader N.G. of Connaught lodge, presided during the entire evening.

COUGHLER—CASSELMAN

The Lutheran church parsonage of Williamsburg, was the scene of a pretty fall wedding at 10.30 Tuesday morning of last week, when Blanche Edna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Casselman, of Winchester Springs, was united in marriage to Ralph Coughler, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Coughler of Williamsburg.

Rev. Cronmiller, pastor of the church officiated. Miss Audrey Harper of Williamsburg, acted as bridesmaid, while Jimmie Casselman, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen. The bride looked charming in a gown of brown crepe and transparent velvet, with hat, shoes and accessories to match. She carried a silver bouquet of Carnations. The bridesmaid wore a dress of blue crepe and silk velvet hat with accessories to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of amber glass dishes. The bride's gift to the groom was a white gold wrist watch. The wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents, the dining hall being decorated for the occasion with a large red bell hung from the ceiling and from it long red, white and blue streamers hung over the wedding cake, which centered the table. After dinner, the happy couple left on a motor trip through U.S. and Montreal. The bride travelled in brown crepe, a brown tear drop coat with beaver collar and hat, shoes, purse and gloves to match. On their return they will reside in Williamsburg.

TOO SOON A BRIDE

By MARJORIE B. PEREGRINE

Lola Brewster wins a high school education by working as a housemaid, but is dragged back into the sordid shanty life of her family by her mother's illness. Jerry Hughes, whom she loves, sees her there and she sends him away. She obtains a job as singer with a small-time orchestra and makes good. She writes to Jerry to call him back to her.

CHAPTER XI

Judgment Day could be no worse, Lola thought, standing between the two men. She watched Jerry's face for the effect of her whispered confession. Would he hate her, would he despise her, would he turn and walk out of her life forever?

He looked at her. There was no anger in his fine, honest eyes. Only grief.

"Do you want him to stay, Lola?" he asked, nodding toward Chase.

"No, Jerry. Please—please make him go away."

Jerry turned to Chase Wiley. "You heard the lady," he said shortly. "She pays the rent. Get your clothes on, and get out of here."

"Who's going to make me?"

Jerry advanced a step toward him. "I am," he said. "Either you get out, or I'll throw you out!"

"Okay," Chase sneered. "I'll go. But before I'm through, you'll both wish I hadn't."

Jerry guarded the bedroom door while Chase dressed. He walked behind him down to the street. When he returned to Lola, a white line rimmed his set lips.

"I suppose this is what you had to tell me. You've been a little cruel, Lola."

"Not cruel, Jerry. Just terribly, wickedly foolish. But believe me, I've had to pay for it."

"No doubt. People usually pay for folly. Well, I guess you're safe now." He picked up his hat. "Good night."

His hand was on the door. In another moment he would be gone. Lola could not bear it. Pleading, she wrapped her arms about his neck.

"Jerry. Please don't leave me like this."

He removed her clinging arms deliberately, and held her away from him.

"Just how would you have me leave another man's wife?"

Lola drew back as if he had struck her. The color drained from her face.

"I deserved that," she said at last. "But Jerry, I need you. Promise to help me!"

Jerry promised and, with his promise locked in her heart, Lola tried to snatch a few hours' sleep. But suddenly, she sat bolt upright.

How had Chase Wiley got into her apartment? The question hammered in her brain, assuming fantastic importance.

She got out of bed and threw a negligee about her. Hastily, she examined windows and convinced herself that Chase could not have entered by any one of them. The only answer was that he had somehow walked in through her front door.

Lola pressed the service button. Presently an attendant appeared.

"Jake," she said, "did you let a man into my apartment last night?"

The servant's jaw dropped. "Lan' sakes, Miz Brewster. Ah 'ain't crazy. Ah doan go round lettin' strange men into ladies' apartments!"

"Just the same, a man got in here last night. He was here when I arrived."

"Why didn't you call de police?"

"I didn't need them. A friend brought me home. He put the fellow out. But what I want to know is, how he got in? Are there any extra keys? Did anyone come and pretend to fix my lock?"

Jake blanketed all her questions with an emphatic "No," until Lola dismissed him.

A few hours later, Lola saw Carol and Ben off. There was the usual hubbub of parting—tears and hugs and kisses and last-minute messages between the sisters. Then Ben grasped his bride firmly and placed her aboard the train.

When they were gone, Lola walked slowly into the station waiting room and called Jerry. His voice was even and colorless as he made an appointment with her to meet his lawyer.

All the warmth and love and tenderness had faded from his face, too. Lola discovered, when she met him in the lobby of the office building. He looked older, tired. Lola's heart contracted.

In the elevator, she tried to interest him in the problem of Chase's entry into her apartment. He dismissed it with a shrug.

"There are a thousand ways, Pass keys. A duplicate. Any crook could manage it."

"But Jerry, he didn't even know where I lived!"

They entered the lawyer's office, and his secretary ushered them into a thickly carpeted room, shaded with venetian blinds and furnished in expensive, business-like luxury.

Mr. Henderson, the lawyer, rose to greet them. He was a distinguished-looking man, with a thick pompadour of silvery hair.

"Glad to see you, Jerry," he said pleasantly.

Jerry presented Lola. "Miss Brewster is in difficulty," he explained. "Perhaps she had better tell you her story."

"Not the famous Miss Brewster," the lawyer said, chucking as if he had made a nice joke. Then he looked sharply at Lola. "Why, it is! I've enjoyed your singing, my dear."

"Thank you," Lola murmured, and sat stiffly forward. "I'm married," she began, in a thin voice, "to a man named Chase Wiley. I hate him. I despise him. I want a divorce."

The lawyer wagged his massive gray head. "It isn't quite so easy as that. You marry a man, love him and adore him, and then grow tired. Judges don't like that sort of thing."

"But I didn't love him!" Lola cried violently, her voice suddenly coming to life. "I didn't even marry him, really. I just said the words with my fingers crossed, so that I could travel with his orchestra as Mrs. Wiley."

Jerry leaned forward in his chair. He clutched the carved arms with fingers that whitened as he waited for her answer to the lawyer's next question.

"You mean there was nothing more than the ceremony?"

"No, never!" Officially, she was explaining her case to a lawyer, but the heartless cry for forgiveness and understanding was meant for Jerry. "He said he didn't expect me to live up to his bargain. So I ran away."

A sigh, torn from the roots of Jerry's being, filled the room.

"Thank heaven," he murmured.

"Did you ever see Mr. Wiley again?" the lawyer asked.

"Yes," Lola answered, and continued with the sordid, ugly tale of the orchestra leader's persecution. "He blackmailed me. And he came to my room last night."

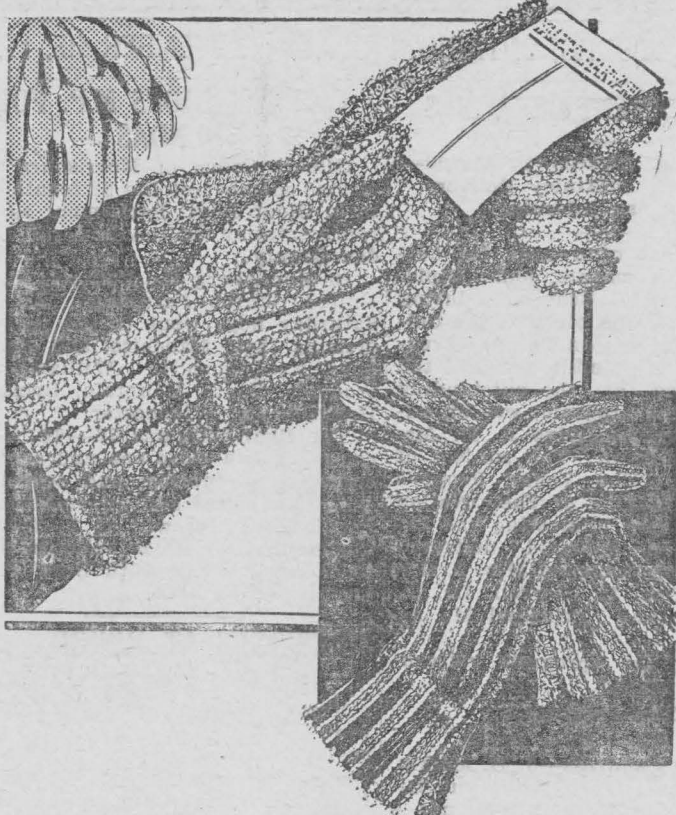

Mr. Henderson arose, walking up and down.

"Divorce isn't what you want—it's an annulment. But you can't have it!"

Winter Cover For Strawberry Patch

Protecting Roots of Plants Against Alternate Freezing and Thawing

The practice of providing some sort of covering for the strawberry patch during Winter months has much to recommend it both to the commercial grower and to the man with a small patch. Protection of the roots against repeated freezing and thawing during the Winter, preservation of the soil moisture in the Spring, improvement of the physical condition of the soil, the addition of plant food to the soil, the smothering of the weeds in the early Spring, slowing up the early growth of the strawberry plants until after danger from late Spring frosts is past, and protection of the fruit from dirt at picking time are the chief advantages to be gained by providing a Winter mulch for the strawberry bed.

The best mulching material is one that can be spread rapidly and evenly, and, at the same time, furnish the greatest protection to the strawberry plants without introducing too many weed seeds.

The choice of materials used for mulching should depend largely on availability, that most easily obtained at the least cost usually being selected. Coarse, strawy horse manure is especially desirable, due to its fertilizing value. Marsh hay, wheat or oat straw, and fallen leaves are excellent mulching materials. Care must be exercised, however, not to use such fine material that the plants will be smothered.

The mulch should be applied to the entire surface of the ground and should cover the plants from one to two inches. The best time to put on the mulch is said to be just after the ground is frozen for the first time in the Fall. When the plants begin to grow in the Spring the covering should be shaken up and pulled to the space between the rows in order not to smother the berry plants.

Women Favoring Peace Resolution

Ask That Manufacture of Armaments be Abolished

Edmonton.—The women's section of the seventh annual Edmonton Peace conference recently took steps to request the Dominion Government "to take immediate action to abolish in Canada the manufacture of armaments for private profit."

Delegates favored the resolution unanimously following a round table conference with Mrs. W. A. McConkey of Edmonton, president of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, as its chairman. The conference stated armament firms are being established in Canada, and charged in the resolution that "advertisements of their stocks are appearing in our press, thus creating a vested interest in war in Canada."

It was decided leaders in the discussion would present the resolution immediately to Dr. W. S. Hall and James MacKinnon, members of parliament for East and West.

Making Meringue Light is Heavy Job

There is no mystic incantation, unfortunately, to insure a perfect meringue. The meringue may and should look as if a puff of wind would blow it away—but you make it look that way by main force and elbow grease.

In order that the action of air on the egg whites may be complete, they must be beaten with a whisk. A Dover beater or a churn cannot whip the amount of air into the whites necessary to make a perfect meringue.

Eggs from three to five days old are best. Keep this in mind when you make an angel food cake. Some housewives, in their zeal for fresh eggs, defeat their own ends for a day old egg does not beat up as stiff as one three days old.

Great care must be taken in separating the white from the yolk. Even a tiny bit of yolk prevents the white from beating well. A small amount of yolk can be removed by dampening a soft clean cloth and dipping into the streak of yolk.

Simple Meringue
Here's the recipe for a simple meringue, the kind you put on everyday lemon pie:

White one egg, 1 teaspoon cold water, few grains salt, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1-8 teaspoon flavoring extract.

Put chilled egg white on a chilled platter. Add water and salt and beat with wire whisk until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar and flavoring extract and pile lightly on pie. Bake fifteen minutes in a slow oven (300 degrees F.).

Special Meringue
Whites 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 6 tablespoons powdered sugar, few grains salt.

Beat whites of eggs with lemon juice until stiff and dry. Fold in sugar and salt, adding about 2 tablespoons at a time. Pile on pie or pudding and bake fifteen minutes in a slow oven (300 degrees F.). The lemon juice flavors the meringue and also helps to harden the albumen, making a firm meringue.

Meringue Shells
One-half cup egg whites, 1-8 tea-

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a catalyst but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse any thing else. 25c.

By Their Teeth Ye Shall Know Them!

But Character Reader Doesn't Tell Us How You Analyze Bridgework

Vienna.—If you want to know a person's character, look at his teeth, says "Peritus," an Austrian characterologist.

The more civilized a person is the more impenetrable the mask that hides his real feelings, "Peritus" finds. But we cannot change our teeth.

The real he-man, according to this expert, has four almost equal upper incisors and his chin is usually square. The womanly woman, on the other hand, has a more or less pointed chin, and her two middle teeth are much larger than those flanking them.

The man with large middle incisors has female characteristics and therefore will respond readily to flattery. On the other hand, to flatter a woman with incisors of masculine evenness is just waste of time.

Still, the man with female teeth has motherly instincts, while the masculine-featured woman will try to be "boss."

"Peritus" recommends using this knowledge in business as well as in private life—also with a mirror.

The Mail and Empire Passes

So the Mail and Empire passes on, absorbed into a paper that is to be known as the Globe and Mail, and Toronto henceforth will have but one morning daily.

No doubt a merger was the sensible course, but there always is something tragic about the extinction of a good newspaper with the traditions that gather about it in more than a half-century of publication. The Mail was founded in 1872, took over the Empire in 1895, later the World. Lately it has been perhaps the closest approach among major Canadian dailies to the old-fashioned party organ. Its support of the Conservative cause was enthusiastic and unflinching. But even through this period it continued to be a fine newspaper, edited with intelligence and in a keen sense of its public responsibilities.—Ottawa Journal.

Mrs. Kenny's Spare Time

A startling discovery has been revealed concerning Mrs. Lily Kenny, mother of fourteen children, eleven of whom she hopes will win for her the $500,000 Millar baby derby. Mrs. Kenny has spare time! It is remarkable that a woman can cook and sew and generally do for fourteen active offspring and at the end of the day still have time to devote to status and model house building hobbies. Yet this is just what is claimed for Madame Kelly. Perhaps she manages her brood the way the old woman who lived in a shoe did hers. And perhaps the object of her hobby is to design houses to accommodate Mr. Millar's bigger and better families. At any rate, it is likely many mothers of only two or three children would thank Mrs. Kenny to let them in on her secret for finding leisure hours.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Keep the Windows Oper

While it is commonly known that many motorists are suffocated by gas from motors running in closed garages, it is not generally suspected that gas accumulating in moving cars may be the cause of many hitherto unexplained traffic accidents. With the advent of cooler weather and the consequent inclination to drive with the car windows closed attention may well be directed to this fact.

Recent tests show that most automobiles after being driven for some distance accumulate a sufficient quantity of carbon monoxide to affect seriously the mental alertness and muscular coordination of the driver. When you feel dull or drowsy while driving, stop and get a breath of fresh air. Make sure that carbon monoxide will not be the cause of an accident to the car you're driving.—Oshawa Times.

What a Dam Did

Two of America's sunniest, warmest spots are having their climate changed—by the building of a dam. Air pilots flying over North-Eastern California and Southern Nevada have found that temperatures in these areas are distinctly cooler since the construction of the now famous Boulder Dam, an immense structure stemming the Colorado River. The dam, a huge concrete horseshoe, has created a lake 100 miles long which is reported to be cooling the air for miles around.

Pilots declare the lake to be a "charging battery" in the cooling process, "the cooler air spreading like an open umbrella over the countryside. They discovered it by noting the lower temperatures at which their engines ran in the area. The temperature dropped as the lake expanded.—Montreal Star.

Marriages Are Up

We have the word of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which knows whereof it speaks, that Canadian couples are being married in greater numbers this year than they have been for a considerable period of time. For the month of September, indeed, the number of marriages registered in 67 cities and towns throughout the Dominion increased to 4,255 from a total of 3,762 in the same month last year. This was an increase of 14 per cent. and that for the nine months ended with September amounted to 6.4 per cent.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Playing With Death

A number of shootings have taken place in the woods. In the Hants County case, the victim was hit by a bullet the origin of which is unknown and the man who fired the shot may be to this day ignorant of the fact that the bullet he fired found a human target, for it must be remembered that the modern rifle carries far, and even if a shot is fired in one direction, a ricochet may divert it to a totally unexpected place.

A more recent accident is of an entirely different kind.

In this case the hunter had been pursuing his quarry, lost sight of it for a little, and then saw a moving object in the bushes, and fired. Unhappily it struck near two other hunters who ran immediately for cover. They shouted, but the hunter was so far away their voices did not carry.

The two hid behind trees, but unluckily the hand of one was showing and the next moment he had a bullet through it. After that, the other fired a shot to warn the hunter of what he was doing. He came running over at once and the injured man was immediately taken away for treatment, his hand being so badly shattered that reports have it amputation may be necessary.—Halifax Chronicle.

Women's Rights Leaders

Callendar, Ont., neither a mining nor an industrial centre, as the Montreal Gazette points out, is assuming the proportions of a boom town, all on account of five little girls. Yet the franchise has been denied women in Quebec for the twelfth time. If the sister province isn't careful the Dionne girls are likely to run over some day and lay down the law for women's rights.—Toronto Globe.

New Cars

New passenger automobiles sold in Canada during the first nine months of 1935 show an increase of 8.5 per cent. in value over the same period of 1935. Including trucks and buses, the increase is 9.5 per cent. in number and 12.4 per cent. in value. In these nine months the Canadian public has invested practically $95,000,000 in motor vehicles, compare with $85,000,000 in the comparable part of 1934. By the end of the year this will have been increased to at least $110,000,000. Approximately 110,000 new motor vehicles will have been placed on the roads, including about 90,000 passenger cars.

The addition of 110,000 cars, trucks and buses to the motor vehicles on the roads of Canada, will, of course, be offset to some extent by those withdrawn from use—a number estimated in 1935 at 66,000. If this estimate again holds good, there will be a net increase of approximately 47,000, which should bring the total registrations up to 1,212,642, not including motorcycles. This would mean a greater number of cars in use than in any years except 1930, when the registrations reached a peak of 1,222,730. If the figures are approximately correct, one car in every eleven on the roads at the end of this year will be a car purchased in 1936.—Toronto Daily Star.

Keep Canada Canadian.

Not the least valuable bit of advice given by Leo Dolan, of the Canadian Travel Bureau, during his visit here, was that the distinctively Canadian and British atmosphere should be maintained in appeals to tourists.

United States visitors who come here on vacation want to see something different. They want to see the Mounted Police and the Union Jack. They can find enough "George Washington" hot dog stands and "Indiana" restaurants at home and would prefer to find here Indian names reminiscent of Hiawatha or of the local life.

They want to see Indian wigwams, birchbark canoes, lumbermen's shirts and prospector's packs.

They want a good place to sleep and good meals to eat and so on. But they want also an "atmosphere."

So Algoma people who cater to American tourists shouldn't ape American names and customs.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

What the North Needs

The Windsor Star is quoted by some other newspapers as saying that "the North" is beckoning to young men today. The Windsor Star has its signs mixed. The North today is beckoning to capital, but is not in need of young men, or old. There are enough unemployed in the North these days to make a problem for all the towns and cities of this part of the country.—Timmins Advance.

THE EMPIRE

The Doomed Whale

Whether the whale will notice much difference (from the new international agreement on whaling) is another matter. It is not likely that the peak of 1930-31, when 30,000 whales were caught and 686,976 barrels of oil produced from them, will ever be touched again. Big whales are no longer seen and an abundance of small ones does not compensate for their absence. Svend Foyn's invention of the shell-harpoon in 1863 and the more recent introduction of the factory-ship have done their deadly work, and the present restrictions do little more than (to use an up-to-date simile) apply a poultice to a volcano.—Cape Argus.

King Edward VIII Inspects the Home Fleet

His Majesty's home fleet passed in review at Portland, England, before King Edward VIII of England, who viewed parade from royal yacht Victoria. With naval dignitaries, he's seen aboard H.M.S. Campbell during inspection of destroyer flotilla on the second day of the naval games in his presence.

Every City's Problem

Johannesburg is certainly prosperous. There is no point in trying to disguise that fact. It is more prosperous than it has ever been before. But that is not to say that every Tom, Dick and Harry who is unable to make a living in his own country, or in his own part of this country, can make a living here. Far from it, in fact. There is still a lot of unemployment in Johannesburg. There is more, indeed, than there should be, owing to the fact that jobless men, with little or no qualification to undertake any kind of skilled work, have flocked here in large numbers under the stupid impression that the streets are paved with gold and that jobs hang like ripe fruit on trees waiting to be plucked.—Johannesburg Times.

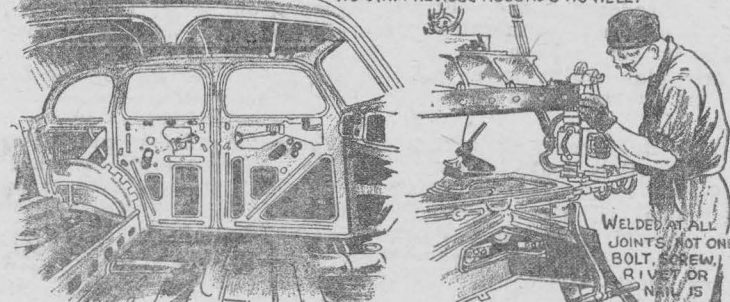

CALGARY—Cancellation of all scholarships offered by the Calgary Women's Musical Club for next year, due to lack of funds, was announced recently by Mrs. E. J. Anderson, president. She said the scholarship funds were obtained from investment in Alberta bonds, on which interest rates have been reduced. The scholarships aided the Alberta and Calgary musical festivals.

Yields Down

Latest Crop Estimates at Ottawa Put Wheat Total Below 1935

OTTAWA—Lower yields for all the principal grain crops in Canada are shown in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics second estimate of grain production for 1936, issued recently. The wheat crop for all Canada is placed at 233,500,000 bushels, compared with 277,399,000 bushels last year.

Yields of other grain crops with figures for 1935 in brackets follow: Oats 276,265,000 (394,348,000); barley 72,726,000 (83,975,000); rye, 4,368,000 (9,600,000); peas 1,153,000 (1,616,000); beans 833,400 (1,161,000).

Many Pay Tribute To Newspaper Woman

CHILLIWACK, B.C.—Tribute to an outstanding Canadian newspaper woman was paid recently at the funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Barber, wife of Charles A. Barber, publisher of the Chilliwack Progress, who died at Vancouver. She was British Columbia director of the Canadian Women's Press Club and represented that organization at the Imperial Press Conference in South Africa last year. Rev. Dr. James Endicott, Toronto, former Moderator of the United Church of Canada, is an uncle of Mrs. Barber.

Seeking Jobs For Women

First Meeting of Advisory Committee is Held at Ottawa

OTTAWA—Matters connected with organization and general plans for future activities were under discussion recently at the first meeting of the women's advisory committee of the National Employment Commission.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. M. M. Sutherland, woman's representative on the commission, the five members of the recently appointed committee conferred throughout the day. Mrs. Sutherland said at the different provinces, would return to their homes.

A further meeting would be held before long when suggestions for dealing with unemployment problems, particularly as they affect women, would be received from each member.

Announcement of the appointment of women's advisory committee was made by Labor Minister Norman Rogers. The members of the committee are Mrs. L. G. Ferguson, of Westville, N.S.; Miss Ruth Low, of Kitchener, Ont.; Mrs. Walter Lindal, Winnipeg; Mme. Maurice Cormier, Montreal and Mrs. Angus J. Currie, Govan, Sask. Mrs. Sutherland is from Wells, B.C.

Provinces Get $175,867,348

OTTAWA—Total ordinary revenue for all provinces in 1934 was $175,867,348, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported recently.

Taxation was the largest single source of revenue, amounting to $73,553,567, included in which were the following principal items: Motor fuel or gasoline $26,812,274, corporation $17,543,137, succession duties $11,019,033, income $6,992,206, real or personal property $5,530,694 amusement tax $2,100,487.

The licensing of motor vehicles was responsible for $20,840,513, liquor or control boards $12,814,120. Other sources of revenue included marriage licenses, fee for registration, law stamps, incorporation, public health fees for laboratories, boards of health and registration of nurses, sales of text books and king's printer's accounts, interest or loans and advances to publicly owned utilities. There are royalties, duties and fees from lumber and mining companies.

Besides the ordinary revenue the provinces have stipulated subsidies dies and allowances under the British North America Act. There is some institutional revenue as well as fines and penalties.

First Lady Tells Of Family Talks

Heated Discussions Held At President's Dinner Table At Times

Detroit.—Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, first lady of the land, took the role of United States' public mother No. 1 here recently and told an audience, composed in the main of women, that children should not be repressed.

Speaking on "The Problems of Youth," the president's wife said she had never believed in repressions of any kind and "we should let things come out in the open."

"It is the habit in our family," she said, "to discuss all sorts of questions around the dinner table. We become a little violent at times."

"It is sometimes a little surprising for strangers to come into the home of the president of the United States and find a youngster saying, 'Pa, you don't know anything about that,' and to have 'Pa' take it quite calmly and proceed to try and prove his point."

"I think that's very good, not only for young people, but also for the president," she added, amid laughter.

Referring to a letter she had received from a mother who felt she had the "respect" of her children because they never smoked or drank in front of her, Mrs. Roosevelt said she did not want that kind of respect. "I would much rather they did what they are going to do, in front of me," she said.

Warning that many young people went to war merely because their lives were dull and lacked adventure, Mrs. Roosevelt urged the older generation to make living as much of an adventure as dying.

She advocated dangerous living. "Parents," she said, "try to guard their children too much. Life has to be lived with courage. You cannot be afraid of everything every minute of the day. You might as well forget there are risks. If you want to do a thing go ahead and do it," she concluded.

CARROLLTON, Ill.—Francis E. Davis who said he had never tasted fruit, vegetables or meat, claimed recently he had lived all his life on a diet of bread, crackers, cereal, coffee and sugar.

Both his wife and his four-year-old son eat the foods Davis said he abhorred because "the smell makes me sick." The slight 31-year-old manager of a bowling alley gave this as his typical day's menu:

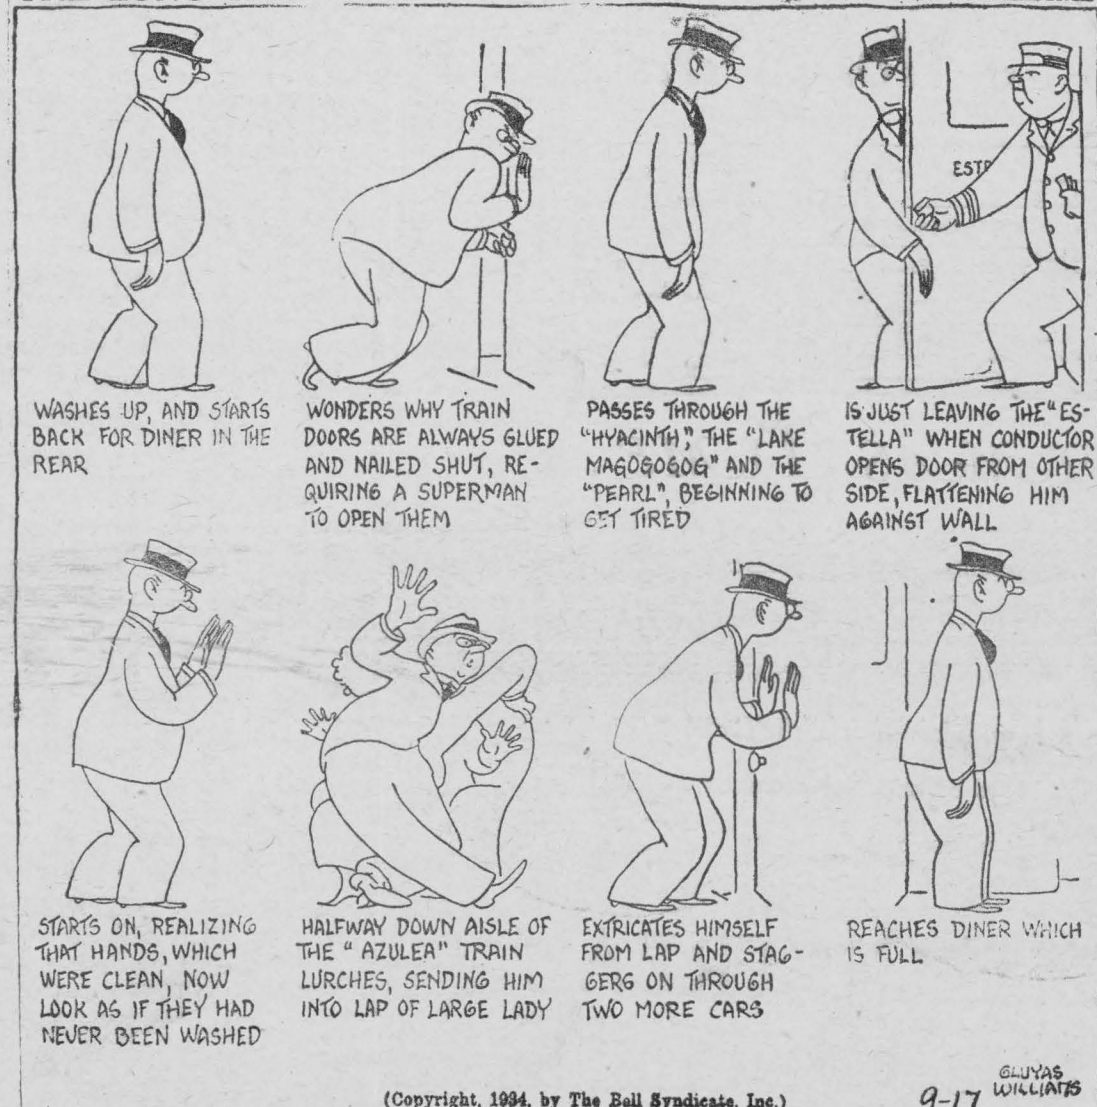

Breakfast, coffee and dry cereal. Lunch and dinner, crustless bread or crackers dipped in sugar.

Davis, five feet, nine inches tall and weighing 137 pounds, said he had been examined by a physician who reported him in perfect health.

Montreal.—Chain store operators in Lachine and Verdun, neighboring municipalities of Montreal, have been given authority by the provincial legislation to tax chain stores. Formerly the municipalities imposed a special tax of $250 for each store operated in a chain, but the new bill gives them authority to increase the tax to $400 a store.

THE LONG TRAIL

their men; we think of Pharaoh and Moses and Plato and Caesar and Napoleon and Lincoln and Cromwell, Pitt and Gladstone. And so I am going to suggest that the greatness of our nation depends not upon its territorial vastness or its material resources, or its expanding trade, but rather the greatness of Canada depends upon intellectual and moral stature of its men.

A railway executive recently said in my presence that one of the greatest needs of modern railways is not more luxurious coaches or commodious terminals, or even finer grades, but said he, the greatest need of our railways today is bigger and better engines. So it is with our country. What we need is not more land, or more gold, or more trade, what we really need is bigger and better people.

How can we build a nation of bigger and better people? First of all we might have high ideals for ourselves. The first thing we must do is to learn how to work and to work hard. The pioneers of this country were workers and those who have achieved in all ages have been workers. It is amazing what persistent work will enable people to do. We think of the classic illustration of all times. The boy who walked the shores of his island home, a stuttering, stammering boy, but a boy whose aim was to serve his fellow men by the spoken word. History tells us that with pebbles in his mouth he walked the shore and practised the art of speaking, until one day this stuttering, stammering youth became the greatest orator of all the ages. So Demosthenes, not by accident, but by ability of a high order, won success, through patient, persistent hard work. And so through labor, we must strive to attain ability which will enable us to do some one task real well.

Having attained some degree of genuine ability, we must have the courage to undertake some big task. A while ago, a boy away down in Eastern Canada is said to have boasted that some day he would be something worthwhile. While still a boy he achieved national fame in Canada, while still a young man he went to England and became elected to the British House of Commons; soon he was knighted by the King, a little later he was made a member of the British House of Lords, and today wherever the English Language is spoken his name is known. His name is Lord Beaverbrook. He has shown what a young man of ability having courage can do.

The Canadian Pioneer had a capacity for work, and courage, but had something more—he had faith. He was able to do hard tasks, and had the courage and strength of character to choose wisely the things he would do. So we should have the faith of those old settlers, and not be content with passing pleasures. We must seek the more lasting and abiding treasures of ability, achievement and character. We must keep physically, mentally, and morally fit. We must be eager to go, strong to continue, and keen to finish. We must have high ideals for ourselves. We must remember:—

"Th high soul claims the highway, And the low soul grapes the low, And in between on the misty flats, The rest drift to and fro. But to every man there openeth A high way or a low And every man decideth The way his soul shall go."

To the young people here today, I would say "Don't be content to have as your aim the life just making money or having a good time. Make up your mind that at all costs you will attain those priceless possessions of ability, achievement and character. But remember the responsibility rests with yourself.

"Somebody said it cannot be done, But he with a chuckle replied, That maybe it couldn't But he would be one Who wouldn't say so 'til he tried."

So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin On his face; if he worried he hid it. He started to sing As he tackled the thing That couldn't be done, and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done, There are thousands to prophesy failure; There are thousands to point out to you one by one The dangers that wait to assail you. But buckle right in with trace of a grin Just take off your coat and go to it. Just start to sing as you tackle the thing That cannot be done, and you'll do it.

We must have high ideals for ourselves, and in addition we must have ideals for our country. We may well sing:

Land of hope and glory mother of the free, How shall we extoll them who are born of thee; Wider still and wider shall thy bounds be set, God who made thee mighty, make thee mightier yet."

Mightier, yes; but mightier for what? Some of the nations we mentioned a while ago were mightier because of the contribution they made to the progress of civilization and the welfare of the race. Judah was great because she gave to the world a pure religion; Greece was great because she gave to the world an expression of art that has never been surpassed. Rome's claim to greatness lies in her gift to the world of law and jurisprudence, and Britain's claim to national immortality rests perhaps in her passion for justice and fair play which gave to the world the magna charta of personal liberty.

Nations are great when having great men; they make some noble contribution to the welfare of the world. What is the contribution Canada should make to the progress of the race? Some have said that our great service is to interpret Great Britain to the United States. No doubt that is a noble task. We should do all in our power to preserve and foster an abiding goodwill between these two great English speaking nations. But is that a big enough task for Canada? I think not. It has been said that no nation has really ever been a Christian nation, and perhaps that is so, but possibly this great new country of the west can show to the world it can be done. That, it seems to me, should be our high ideal for Canada.

In the early days, the pioneers were a deeply religious people who practised a genuine community interest in one another. If we are to build a nation worthy of Canada we too must remember the injunction: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." And we must strive for genuine brotherhood of mankind.

We must remove from our people a dread of the future and then we may be able to replace a life of service for the present all too absorbing struggle for material possessions. No greater hour can come to any man or nation than the hour of service and sacrifice.

A story is told of a Canadian boy who went through our schools and then to Oxford. There he won scholarships and the highest degrees. He later went to war, won medals and further distinction. He returned to his parents' home, took sick and died. One night his mother dreamed that the boy's guardian angel had come to her and told her that she was to have the great privilege of living over again a few moments of his life. She must choose what moments they would be. Did she choose to live over again the few moments when he returned from Oxford with his honors? No. Did she choose the moments of that great reunion when he returned from the war with all his medals? No. She chose rather those few moments when as a little boy at play he hurt himself and ran and threw himself into her arms and while his hot tears ran down her cheeks, sobbed out his little story on her breast. Those precious moments when she was able to comfort her boy in his sorrow and wipe away his tears were the greatest moments she had ever known. And so it will be with us, the day of service—the day when we give new hope and new strength and new comfort to others, that day will be the greatest day we shall ever know.

"It matters not what I may win, of fleeting gold or fame, My hope of joy depends on what of good, my boy shall claim; My story must be told through his For him I work and plan, Man's greatest duty is to be the father of a man."

And so it will be with us in Canada; our story in the days to come will be told—not in the grain we have grown, or the barns we have built. Our story will be told in the life and character of the future citizens of our land. This is our responsibility and on this occasion, it summons us to a greater sacrifice and nobler service for the future of our country.

A monk once led a pilgrim through an ancient monastery. As they entered each darkened room, the monk lighted a taper so that the pilgrim could see something of the beauty and vastness of the place. At length they entered the largest and most beautiful room of all. The monk lighted a taper here and a taper there and still another here and another there until the pilgrim could see before him a beautiful painting; it was a picture of "The Master." "And now," said the monk, "this is the last room and I will leave you alone with the greatest guide of all," and he silently moved away.

Today in speaking of "The Young People's part in the making of Their Nation Great," we have endeavored to light a taper here and taper there. We have paid tribute to the heroic pioneers of our land; we have mentioned some high ideals for ourselves and for our country, and we have suggested that in God alone lies the future of our land. Having lighted the last taper, I would like to withdraw and leave you with the "Great Guide of the Universe", to build in this Canada of ours—a nation with that moral fibre which will make us great.

MRS. HANNAH DOYLE

The death occurred on Friday, November 27th, 1936, of an old and highly respected resident of Williamsburg in the person of Hannah Doyle, widow of the late James Doyle, who passed away at her home at Strader's Hill in Matilda Township, following an illness of two years' duration.

Deceased, a daughter of the late David Strader and his wife Margaret Keck, and was born at Strader's Hill in Matilda township in February 1848. She was in her 89th year at the time of her death. Mrs. Doyle spent all of her life in the neighborhood where she died. She was one of a family of thirteen, seven sisters and five brothers. Two years ago she suffered a stroke and since that time has been confined to her bed until her death on Friday. Her husband, the late James Doyle predeceased her several years ago.

Surviving her are two sons, Delmer Doyle at home and Elgin Doyle of Rowena; two daughters, Miss Lily Doyle at home and Mrs. Myrtle Woodroffe of Syracuse, N.Y.; two sisters, Mrs. John Charlton and Mrs. Ben Timmie of Syracuse, N.Y., and two brothers, Benny Strader and Casey Strader, both of United States.

The funeral service held in the Dundela United Church on Sunday afternoon was largely attended by friends and neighbors who gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of Mrs. Doyle. The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. S. T. Burman. The choir was in attendance with Mrs. J. Tuttle as organist.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Howard Wylie, Ora Wylie, Albert Riddell, Albert Small, Joe Coons and Orrin Strader. Interment was made in Dundela cemetery.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PAUL'S PARTING COUNSELS.
1 Timothy 6; 2 Timothy 4; Titus 2.
PRINTED TEXT 1 Timothy 6:6-16;
2 Timothy 4:16-18.

GOLDEN TEXT.—I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith. 2 Timothy 4:7.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING
Time.—The First Epistle to Timothy and the Epistle to Titus were written between Paul's first and second imprisonments at Rome, probably A.D. 63-66. The Second Epistle to Timothy was written shortly before Paul's martyrdom, A. D. 67.

Place.—It is not known from which city Paul wrote 1 Timothy and Titus. 2 Timothy was written from Rome. The Epistles to Timothy were probably sent to him at Ephesus; the Epistle to Titus to Crete.

"But Godliness with contentment is great gain." Paul does not say that contentment may be found in one's self, but in godliness.

"For we brought nothing into the world, for neither can we carry anything out." (See Job 1:21.) If we brought nothing into the world, we ought not to be discontented with what the world has given us; if we can take nothing out of the world, how foolish it is to spend our time in amassing that which, when we leave the world, must be left behind! "But having food and covering we shall be therewith content." The poor man who is content with the necessities of life, shelter and food, is happier than the rich man living in a palace, eating the richest viands imported from every country on earth, who still craves a larger home, more elegant clothes, a larger yacht, and a greater stable of horses than he can afford.

"But they that are minded to be rich," Paul does not find fault with men for being rich. Many rich men accept their wealth as a trust from God, or even as a burden laid upon them by God, and devote themselves conscientiously to its careful and wise expenditure. What he says is that, for those to desire riches, to whom God has not given them, is to open the door to serious temptation.—E. F. Brown. "Fall into a temptation and a snare." The first word refers to the inducement to sacrifice duty and conscience to the pursuit of wealth; the second, to the ensnaring power of those connections which wealth necessitates. "And many foolish and hurtful lusts, such as drown men in destruction and perdition." Probably "destruction" refers to the effects of such pursuits on men in this world, and "perdition" to the ultimate results in the world to come.

"For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil." Most commentators agree that the change in the Revised Version from "the root" to "a root" is not justified. The phrase "love of money" is the translation of one word in the Greek, a word used in referring to the Pharisees (Luke 16:14). "Which some reaching after have been led astray from the truth" (see also Mark 13:22), and have pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

Many a home can bear testimony to the tragedy Paul here depicts—that when a family, once in moderate circumstances, becomes, through one cause or another, wealthy, its members are greatly tempted to become careless in their religious life, to spend the Lord's day in enjoying outings or entertaining friends, but the result of it all is that sorrow multiplies, restlessness deepens, and the joy of the former more simple but more godly life has gone.

"But thou, O man of God," A man of God is one who has yielded his life to God, in whom God works out his purposes, who lives wholly for the glory of God. Such men are few, but they are the most precious discoveries in the world. "Flee these things." That is, flee the things against which Paul has been warning Christians in the preceding verses. "And follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness." The first two here refer to our relationship to God. The second two are the outstanding virtues of a Christian man—faith toward God and love toward our fellow-men. The last group of two refers to one's conduct during days of trouble and difficulty.

"Fight the good fight of the faith." This might be paraphrased "contend earnestly for the faith", i.e., do not weaken or retreat in the great battle into which your life of faith in God will lead you. "Lay hold on the life eternal." We should seem here to have "the voice of the earnest friend standing at a critical corner of the course and rousing Timothy to renewed energy. "Whereunto thou wast called, and didst confess the good confession in the sight of many witnesses." Where this confession was made and under what circumstances, we do not know.

"I charge thee in the sight of God, who giveth life to all things, and of Christ Jesus, who before Pontius Pilate witnessed the good confession." Such a confession was made all during our Lord's ministry; but it was when Jesus' life was hanging in the balance depending on the decision of Pontius Pilate that his trust in the protective love of his Father was most tried.

"That thou keep the commandment." 'Commandment' here refers to the entire conduct becoming a Christian, the law of love, the things a Christian ought always to be found doing. "Without spot, without reproach, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ." The Second Advent of Christ is prominent in all three Pastoral Epistles (2 Tim. 4:1, 8; Titus 2:13). The fact that Christ is coming back again, when truly realized, is always an incentive to the holiest endeavors.

"Which in its own times he shall show, who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords; who only hath immortality, dwelling in light unapproachable; whom no man hath seen, nor can see; to whom be honor and power eternal. Amen." Five things are said here about God. He is the blessed One, the solitary Ruler of the universe, the only possessor of immortality. The Being who is infinitely remote from human scrutiny as dwelling not in accessible light, and the invisible, at least to the eye, whether of sense or of natural intellect.

"At my first defence no one took my part, but all forsook me: may it not be laid to their account." (Cf. Acts 7:60.) Paul here refers to the preliminary trial of his second imprisonment which was called the prima actio. He had spoken in his own defense, for, though he had sought legal help, he had sought in vain. Perhaps there was no advocate or lawyer in Rome who would dare to defend such a man as Paul when it was known that Nero was determined to put him to death.

"But the Lord stood by me, and strengthened me." The aged one, worn low by labor, suffering, and many sorrows, is not really left alone there to his own feebleness. Two are standing there, not one, and the form of the Second is like the Son of God. "That through me the message might be fully proclaimed, and that all the Gentiles might hear." St. Paul is the ardent missionary to the end. His own danger fades from his view as he thinks of the magnificent opportunity which his trial gives him to proclaim Christ before the highest earthly tribunal in the capital of the world. "And I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion." (See Ps. 22:21). To what Paul exactly refers here it is difficult to determine. He may here indicate that, for the time being, he was saved from a martyr's death.

"The Lord will deliver me from every evil work, and will save me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be the glory for ever and ever. Amen." Paul does not here mean to say that he expects to be delivered from ultimate death, but from every sin, from all the evil effects directed against him, and the evil influences around him, from all the evil efforts directed against him, and the evil influences around him, from all that would attempt to silence the testimony given in Rome to the gospel.

The Book Shelf

BY MAIR M. MORGAN

CROSS ROADS, by Austin J. Cross (Southam Press, Montreal) is the work of a wandering Canadian journalist consumed with a passion for trains. As a boy of twelve, Austin J. Cross would leave his play to watch the trains go by and copy down engine numbers in a little red book. As a harvester, teacher, tourist and reporter, he has boarded trains on 58 railroads.

In addition to this train phobia, Mr. Cross possesses a lively curiosity, imagination and a keen sense of observation.

Torontonians will be amused with the chapter entitled "Toronto Not So Good," wherein the metropolis is slapped on one cheek and patted on the other. It has been the rule of writers for some years to scold, sneer and berate Toronto—methinks, it is about time that this pastime pass into the limbo of the lost—like "Handies" and "Knock-Knock!"

However, Mr. Cross is forgiven since his "geography lessons" are so engagingly told. The reader obtains a new vision of Canadian and American life—in areas as widely apart as Alaska, Mexico, the Rio Grande country, Western Canada, Ottawa, Ontario, Montreal and Saint John, N.B.

A book to be recommended.

"WHICH WE DID," by Gregory Clark, illustrated by James Frise (E. J. Reginald Saunders, Toronto). $2.00 brings us closer to home. Here we have the complete collection of Mr. Clark's material, some are reprints from "The Star Weekly" and others are published for the first time. Those who are acquainted with this writer's whimsical style will need no urging to rush out and obtain a copy of this delightful collection.

When this book arrived on this reviewer's desk, it was eyed with some kance. The first sketch, "A Sportsman Is One," has a definite appeal to that species of mankind, known as the fisherman. This reviewer, being a woman, issued a few polite sounds known as laughter, and thought—oh! oh! a man's book—and mentally added this as an excellent Christmas gift for dear Uncle John.

However, on turning the page, her eye was greeted with "Amateur Theatricals," a neat bit of drama from life, as you'd care to read about. So, despite the definite masculine appeal of these salty humorous observations, we recommend this to women readers.

"For Art's Sake," plus Mr. Frise's drawing, is a hilarious recounter of two fishermen, who decide that a spot of art is indicated and, armed with brush and palette (minus fishing tackle), settle down beside a lake for three hours' serious painting. You must read Mr. Clark's description of the fun that follows.

A five-year-old accompanies Mr. Clark to the zoo in "Catechism." Those who have had the pleasure (?) of a like outing will recognize the authenticity of this experience. —And an experience it is—not to be repeated if you wish to remain sane.

As a contrast to these humorous slices of life, "Five Young Men," a pilgrimage on Vimy Ridge, makes one pause for a moment and do homage to the 58,000 young men who died.

All in all, we'd say this collection offers full value—humor, pathos, tragedy, and we offer Mr. Clark our apologies for looking askance at his book.

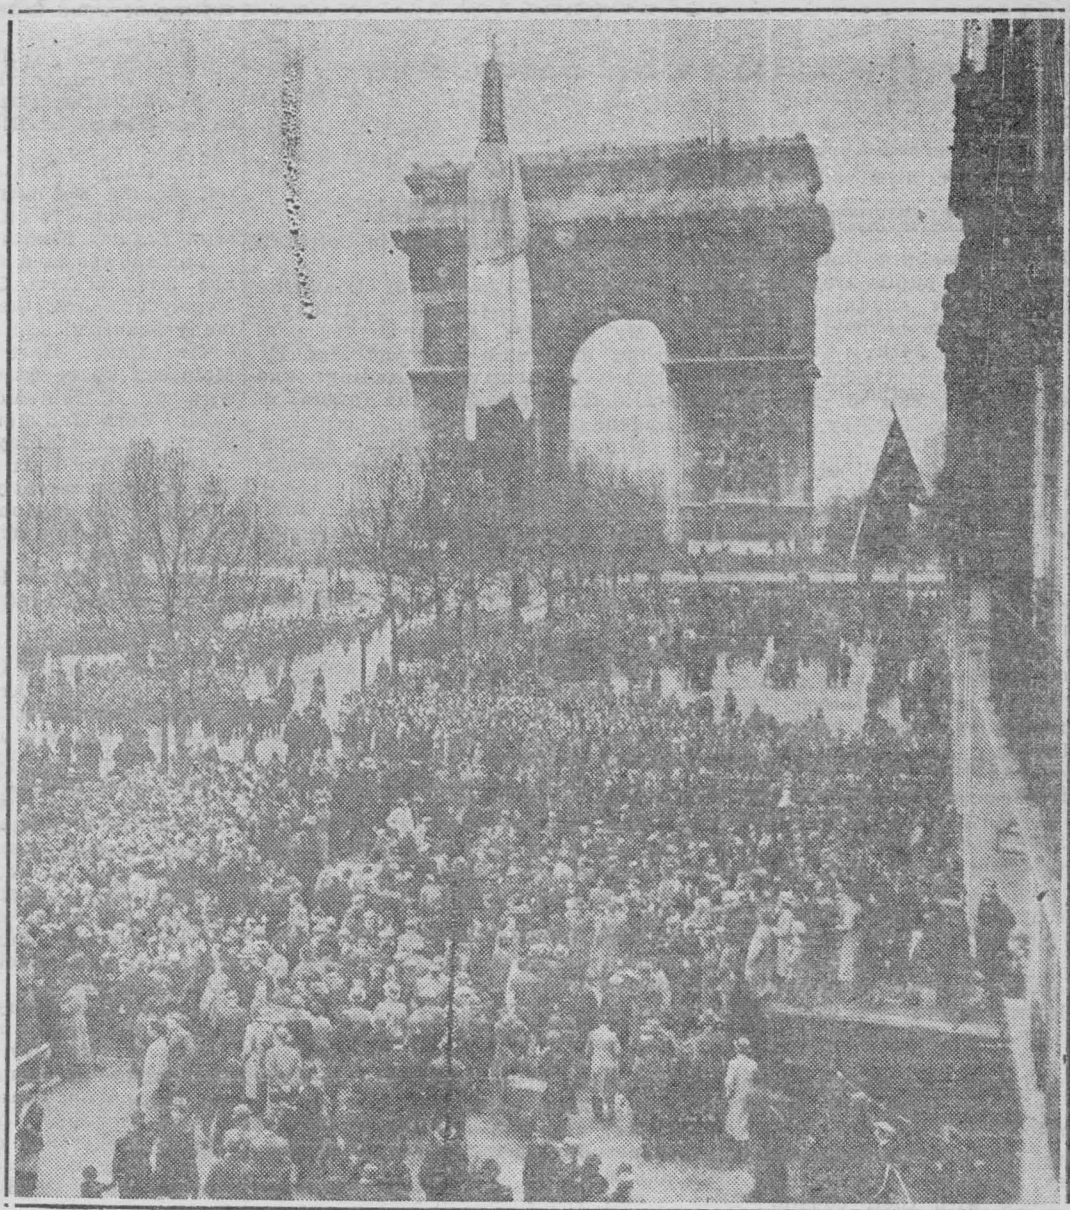

Good reading for these winter nights and a good solution for the "male list" for Christmas.

SHE DREADED GOING UPSTAIRS

Woman's Fear of Rheumatic Pains

One of the many troubles that afflict rheumatic sufferers is the difficulty of getting up and down stairs. Such was the case with this woman, before she started taking Kruschen, but now she finds it no trouble. Read what she says:—

"I have been taking Kruschen now for over 12 months, a half-teaspoonful in hot water first thing in the morning, and I feel a new woman. I had very painful rheumatism in my knees and back and also my head was getting very bad. I used to dread walking upstairs, now I am very thankful to say it is no trouble at all and I scarcely have any pains. I feel better in my health than I have done for years."—(Mrs.) G. M.

Sees Vast Increase in Public Domain

HOUSTON, TEX. — A vastly increased public domain with the government "ultimately owning perhaps one-half of the entire land area," was predicted by Dr. Jacob G. Lipman, dean of the New Jersey State College of Agriculture.

He made his forecast in a speech before the association of land grant colleges and universities, of which he is president.

Excess acreage can best serve the nation by being taken out of production and added to the public domain to produce lumber and wild life, conserve water supplies and control floods, he declared. He estimated that "modern American farmers" are wasting more than $5,000,000,000 worth of soil and plant nutrients by erosion and leaching each year.

Seeking conservation, the government will retire the maximum amount of land from production. Dr. Lipman said, when the United States finally settles down to a "well-ordered national household where peace and abundance may dwell." Pointing out that the projected peak of population has been set at 140 to 145 million persons about 1960, he said:

Room For Twice That Many
"There is room in this country for twice that number."

"Present economic and social wants indicate the need for a per capita allowance of ten acres, or a total acreage of 1,400 million acres to supply the 140 million residents of the United States if the population stabilization theory becomes a fact."

"In that estimate, however, we assume that soil management will be of the extensive type. Who knows but that, given improved plants and animals and with a more intensive and efficient agriculture, our farmers may be able to serve the nation fully with half that acreage? Remember, science and technology have not yet said their last word."

Waste in the conquest of the continent can be forgiven, Dr. Lipman said, but "with the building completed, we will no longer be justified in continued improvidence."

Kettle on the Flame

(Margaret Ford, in the Sidney Morning Herald.)

I love the kettle on the flame,
The great, fat kettle with the curving spout,
I like to play a little game
Of watching for the steam to bubble out.

The great, fat kettle laughs and laughs,
And blows the steam all warm
about the place,
He chuckles and bobs and laughs,
Until I'm laughing too with all my face!

I never mind the rainy weather,
Or having to stay inside the whole
long day,
If kettle and I can stay together
And laugh and play his funny kind of way.

Diamond drilling is proceeding at the Clark Gold Mines in the Kenora district under the direct supervision of W. A. Hesse, consulting engineer, and results so far have proved interesting, according to R. H. Miner, president, who is now on the property. The additional permanent buildings are practically completed and foundations for the new 200 h.p. power plant are going in. A new 60 ft. headframe is being erected. The Government have completed the mine highway and construction work on the new power plant is being rushed with all speed. A crew of 38 men are employed on the property.

Bilmac Gold Mines in diamond drilling on the 170-ft. level has encountered a 5 ft. vein fairly well mineralized and showing about a third quartz. According to President Hogarth the vein is only 40 ft. west of the north end of the 170-ft. horizon, and while no assays are available as yet results will be known shortly. The drill has started on another hole to the northeast, and from surface indications should intercept a vein in about a few shifts of drilling. Assays from the Evelyn vein which was cut by drifting a few days ago will be ready shortly. Work is under the direction of M. C. H. Little, mining engineer.

Following a recent inspection of the Kenland Gold Mines property in the Kenora district, A. A. Paoli, M.E., of Winnipeg, states that the company on the 9th level had an ore shoot 230 ft. in length. In places this shoot is over 16 ft. wide and running $20 per ton, and in his opinion, it will at least average 9 ft. Mr. Paoli stated that there was indicated tonnage at the mine amounting to 75,000 tons. Equipment was all reported to be in excellent shape. In his opinion, the shaft is capable of hoisting 200 tons a day. Mr. Paoli stated that very little expenditure will be needed to increase the mill to 150 tons a day.

Shaft sinking at the Moosha Gold Mines has reached its initial objective of 360 feet and a station is being cut at the 345 ft. mark. A cross-cut will be driven on this horizon to intercept the vein exposed on the second level. The vein is expected to be reached about December 10th.

Payore Gold Mines, Ltd., have announced that H. E. Burne, mechanical and electrical engineer, has been appointed mechanical superintendent for the company to supervise the operation of the Diesel power and electrical plants in the present underground campaign which includes deepening of the shaft to an objective of 500 feet. Mr. Burne was for 6 years connected with Noranda Mines, as assistant superintendent of construction and an engineer in the mechanical and mining department.

Donald E. Sirola, engineer in charge of work at the Boyd Kirkland Gold Mines, in a report to local officials, states that values of $16.10 have been discovered in the Thompson vein. The full width has not been proven so far for 3,000 ft. in length with geological conditions and formation said to be identical with the proven mines of Kirkland Lake. Work is continuing opening up the vein both to the east and west. As soon as directors are satisfied that sufficient work has been performed on the vein, a substantial drilling campaign will be carried on.

And Our Sir William Osler

Writes the Baltimore Sun. Dr. Mandel Sherman, the mental hygiene specialist who told a group of teachers in Utah that they ought to train pupils to be failures, is probably due for a great deal of sarcasm and indignant abuse. But, like our own Dr. Osler, he may be made suffer from a gift of phrase-making when his underlying idea has some sense in it. What Dr. Sherman seems to have had in mind is the fact that a great many people land in sanatoriums and indulge in nervous breakdowns because of the emphasis on being a success.

Foolish Stunts In Record Book

Writes the Brockville Recorder and Times: In all innocence, we have fondly imagined, in common with many others, that the walking and dancing "marathons," the flagpole sitting contests and all of the other freak tests of skill or endurance which have made their appearance during recent years are essentially products of later days.

Evidence to the contrary is afforded by an examination of a small publication known as the "Canadian Sportsman's Annual," which appeared in Toronto in the year 1885 under the editorship of the late E. King Dods, from which it may be definitely learned that the people of half a century ago were just as much wedded to freak contests and entertainments of this type as they are today.

Consider the case of W. S. Walcott, who, according to this annual, managed to consume two quails daily, between four and five p.m., for 30 consecutive days, and who, presumably, lived in spite of the experience. Walcott, we are informed, was permitted the use of pepsin gastrine, etc., to facilitate the digestion of the quails, but recent years have witnessed the creation of no more foolish "records."

There were dancing "marathons" in those days, too. A certain "Professor" Cartier, we are told, waltzed for 16 consecutive hours in Tammany Hall New York. On April 16-17, 1873, and managed to preserve his equilibrium. Another "professor," one Julian Carpenter, tried to beat his record in 1880 in Philadelphia, but the best he could do in the way of continuous waltzing was to stand it for 13 consecutive hours.

Another peculiar diversion which seemed to interest our ancestors was that relating to the opening of oysters and clams. One John Curran, of Providence, defeated John Dorge, of New York, in the Howard Athenaeum, Boston, by opening 100 oysters in three minutes and 45 seconds, while another contest of the same type in Philadelphia resulted in 500 oysters being opened in the surprising time of 26 minutes and 18 seconds.

Another gentleman possessing considerable nimbleness as a hopper had hopped 80 yards in 11 1-5 seconds in London, England, while S. D. See, hopping against time in New York, had hopped 100 yards in 14 2-5 seconds. Moreover, we are soberly informed by the editor of this publication that a certain dog Jack, owned in London, England, held the world's rattling championship through having killed 25 rats in one minute and 28 seconds, 100 rats in five minutes, 28 seconds, and, marvellous to relate, 1,000 rats in less than 100 minutes.

Let some of the modern horse-shoe-pitchers consider themselves "some pumpkins," it may be stated, again upon the authority of this old publication, that one William McGregor, using quoits, played 35 ringers in 11 minutes, 30 seconds, 50 in 20 minutes, 70 in 30 minutes and 100 in 43 minutes in Chelsea, England, in 1878.

All these instances — and others which might be given — prove beyond question that people liked novelty in competition as much 50 years ago as they do today. They had their freak races, their freak contests, their strange performances just as we have them now.

Moreover, some of the records which they made are still standing. Even in this day of improved equipment, there are few railway trains which will run 111 miles, non-stop, in 98 minutes as a train consisting of a new Fontaine engine and two coaches, carrying W. H. Vanderbilt and party, did over the rails of the Canada Southern (now the Michigan Central) from Amherstburg to St. Thomas on May 5, 1881.

Dairy Industry

Production of creamery butter in Canada during the first half of the present year showed an increase of a little over eight per cent. above 1935. Production of cheese in the four provinces which provide most of the Canadian output of cheese recorded an advance of 28.5 per cent. this year as compared with last year. The improvement in the dairy industry during the present year maintains the upward trend which has been in evidence since 1932. The increase in total value of dairy production in 1935 over 1934 was something more than four per cent.

Mr. — At the office.

Mrs. — You must be made of asbestos. Your office burned down two hours ago.

Angelina — You'll like Ferdinand, mother. He's young, handsome, rich, and simply adorable. I don't see why you object to our engagement.

Her widowed mother — If he's as nice as you say I want to marry him myself.

Father — Mary, I've just had a visit from Harry, and I've consented to your marriage.

Mary — Oh, but father, I don't want to leave mother.

Father — Don't let that worry you, he replied, you can take her with you.

Friend — What do you mean, there's an exception to every rule? How about the rule that all men die?

Man — Oh, that's the exception to the rule that there's an exception to every rule.

"Oh, not much," was the reply.
"You see, I never got to know it very well."

"This is Brazil," exclaimed the radio enthusiast with pride as he twiddled the knobs of his set.

"Yes," said the son, as the static began. "I can hear them cracking the nuts."

Guelph.—British university debaters touring Canada met defeat for the first time last week when Ontario Agricultural College team won unholding the negative of "Resolved the modern world is a race between education and catastrophe." O.A.C. debaters were M. McGill and S. Gray. The visitors were Malcolm McEwen, University of Edinburgh, and Bernard Ungerson, University of London.

Hollywood.—Errol Flynn, dashing screen hero, and his bride of a year, Lili Damita, have parted and a suit for divorce will be filed, friends said recently. Flynn was reported to have established a separate residence Saturday. He is scheduled to leave this week for England, alone. Clash of careers and artistic temperaments were blamed by friends for the rift. Flynn, Irish born, and Miss Damita, an exotic Parisienne, were married in June, 1935.

London.—More than 70,000 volunteers are needed to fill the gaps in Britain's armed forces, War Secretary Alfred Duff Cooper told the House of Commons recently when advising that new recruiting was needed.

He said so far only 850 volunteers have enlisted for service in the new section of supplementary reserve infantry, whose effectives are expected to total 17,000 officers and men.

Chicago.—The daily philosophies of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and herself were given recently by Mrs. Roosevelt in a forum lecture at the Sinai Temple.

That of the President is: "Each day must be lived. You must accept what comes. Do what you think is right or best. Decide what must or should be done—and cease worrying."

As to her own philosophy, she said slowly in answer to a question from the audience:

"Don't know that I have a philosophy—but if I had, it would resolve itself into an effort not to make anybody suffer unnecessarily."

Edmundston, N.B.—Prosperity of any community no matter how large, is directly dependent upon agricultural health and growth around it. Fisheries Minister Hon. J. E. Michaud, told Edmundston Board of Trade in an address as retiring president.

Development of agriculture is more important in Canada's climb back to prosperity times than development of any other industry, he said.

He believed industry should be fostered, but never at the expense of rural life.

President K. S. MacLachlan of Fraser Companies, Ltd., advocated a "true balance between agriculture and lumbering" as a possible cure of some of New Brunswick's economic ills.

Baltimore.—Widespread and effective use of allantoin in the treatment of ulcers, burns, gangrene and other diseases which failed to heal under other treatment was announced recently at the annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association.

The drug, allantoin, has met with outstanding success in the treatment of a large number of chronic discharging wounds, according to Dr. F. C. Bishop of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, where it was developed.

The department presented an exhibit discussing briefly the uses which have been found for allantoin. It was originally discovered as one of the secretions of surgical maggots which have been widely used in the treatment of chronic wounds such as the bone disease known as osteomyelitis.

New York.—Oscar Tschirky, famed host of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, sees "delicateness dinners" as a prime cause of divorce.

"Oscar of the Waldorf" told a meeting of women here that a strong educational program in the culinary art would lead to more contented lives for brides as well as bridegrooms. He urged mothers to see to it that brides-to-be be prepared to cook wholesome meals.

JOY

"Joy comes to us when sorrow fades away.
And stays with us to brighten up our day.
Each time we smile we're bringing joy along

And when we laugh, joy peeps in at the door,
So laugh, and you'll be happy evermore."

ELECTION CARD
Morrisburg, Dec. 2nd, 1936.
To the Electors and Tax Payers of the Village of Morrisburg.

Dear Sir and Madam,—
As it will be impossible for me to see each individual voter, I am taking this means to present a few facts to you and solicit a sympathetic consideration of them.

When I was Reeve of the Municipality in 1932, the year closed with a surplus of over $9,379.69 in the Bank and finished sewer work of over $1,000, paid for but not debentured, with the result the Municipality had liquid assets of over $11,000.00, yet the rate for general taxes was 45 mills. The following year, because of the cash balance carried forward, the rate was 35 mills. This year there will be an estimated deficit at the end of the year owing the bank of over $2600 and the tax rate is 43 mills. Since 1932 the debenture debt of the Municipality has increased by approximately $25,000.00.

The most outstanding example of poor financing is the second-hand diesel engine which cost the Municipality $8,000.00 and we will be paying for it until 1948. I advocated in 1932 the making of an arrangement with Hydro for a supply of power in which case the expenditure that totalled $22,000.00 for plant, power house, etc., would not have been necessary. The Reeve of the present time opposed me in this matter, and now after four years, is proposing to do just what I advocated after spending this enormous amount of your money.

All sewers built by relief labor have been charged to the full amount in debentures to the property owners and tax payers without credit being given for the amount received as relief contribution from the Governments. This is irregular and illegal, and no correction has been made by the Council as yet.

The present Reeve, by his deciding vote, placed an unbearable burden on the tax-payer of this municipality due to the construction and maintenance of the new Hospital east of Cornwall.

The expenditure of $2700 in electric pumps debentured two years before they were paid for, is useless without any proper supply of power.

If elected, I promise to give careful attention to the finances of the corporation, to clean up all of the many tag ends now carelessly left unfinished.

I propose to suggest to Council to get advice on the usefulness of the Diesel Plant, if it can be used without undue expense for repairs, and to use it as long as it will produce sufficient power. If it cannot be used and the people so vote, I will propose to the Council that we carefully go into the matter of a supply of power from Hydro.

All expenditure shall be carefully gone into and no person in need shall really suffer, and those receiving help shall do so without strings being placed on them.

If you can see your way clear to support me, I assure you of careful, prompt attention to the business of the town.

With best wishes,
Yours faithfully,
ED. FOSTER.

ELECTION CARD
To the Electors of the Township of Williamsburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:
On Monday Dec. 7th, the electors of the township of Williamsburg will go to the polls to elect their Reeve and Deputy Reeve for 1937.

My name will appear on the ballot for Deputy Reeve, and being unable to make a personal canvas, I hereby solicit your vote and influence in the coming election.

I have served in the capacity of Councillor for two years and if you feel my services have been such as to warrant your confidence and support for another year, I shall manifest my appreciation by serving you to the best of my ability.

ROSS HESS.

ELECTION CARD
To the Electors of the Township of Williamsburg:

Ladies and Gentlemen—
During the past year, together with my Colleagues, I have endeavored to carry on the business of the Township of Williamsburg with the same due consideration, as I have always exercised in former years, spending the money of the Township as carefully as I would have done, had I been transacting my own personal business.

Public servants, whether they be Reeve, Councillor or any other public officer, are seldom entirely free of criticism. I respect another person's opinion, and admire a person with the courage of his conviction. For this reason, in soliciting your vote and influence at the coming municipal election, as Reeve for 1937, I do so in the hope that you will come to the polls on Monday, Dec. 7th and register your approval or disapproval of my efforts in the interest of our township.

I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of your splendid support last year, and of wishing all of you continued prosperity.

The Layman's Service held last Sunday morning was a real success. Mr. Arthur Nash gave a splendid report of the General Council and Mr. Merrill spoke of the Laymen's responsibility in church and Presbytery. A men's choir led in the singing and contributed an anthem. Messrs. Epplert, Casselman, Allison and Coons sang a quartette.

Last Monday evening the Young Peoples' Union meeting was under the Christian Culture Department. Miss Fuller took charge and after the Devotional period short sketches were given by Misses Robertson, Cameron, Robinson, Smith and Mr. George Paice.

On Dec. 14th the Young People are giving a Christmas Concert. This will consist of musical items and a one act play entitled "My Peace I Give Unto You." Tickets are being sold. Adults 15 cents, children 10 cents.

Christmas Sunday will be observed on December 20th. The Choir is arranging special music. The evening service will take the form of a Carol Service. Mr. Smith will give the story of Charles Dickens Christmas Carol.

The Congregation in the vicinity of No. 10 Schoolhouse is planning a Christmas entertainment to be held December 23rd.

HONORED PRIOR TO THEIR DEPARTURE

That Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy have won many friends for themselves was evident on Tuesday evening last when, following their regular weekly meeting about 20 members of the Young People's League of Williamsburg United Church, gathered at the hall to honor them and to spend a social hour prior to their departure for their home at Ventnor. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy took an active part in the Y. P. L. during their stay in Williamsburg and their friends felt that they could not let them leave the community without some expression of their regard for them. A most enjoyable time was spent in games after which, Rev. C. Adey and Mr. Wilbur Garlough, on behalf of the League, spoke a few words about Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy's work in the League and expressed regret at their departure. Mr. Kennedy made suitable acknowledgment of the kind words and extended an invitation to the members of the League to visit them at their home at Ventnor on Friday evening, Dec. 4th, after which all joined hands and sang Auld Lang Syne and "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Refreshments were served at the close of the evening's program.

UNCORRECTED ASTIGMATISM
Causes severe eyestrain but not always poor vision, because nature adjusts the eyes, where the astigmatism is small, at the expense of the nervous system. Thus, you have good vision but bad eyestrain. Any astigmatism allowed to go uncorrected, has a bad effect on the eyes and may impair vision permanently.
