Minister of Agriculture, Eugene Whelan, announced the beginning of Agri-Food Week Monday at a press conference. Seated beside him is the national co-ordinator of the program, Dianne Harkin.

Minister of Agriculture kicks off Agri-Food Week at conference

OTTAWA (Staff) - Armed with statistics and figures to prove the worth of the agricultural and food industries to urban Canadians federal agriculture minister Eugene Whelan, kicked off Agri-Food Week here on Monday.

Speaking at a press conference at the Central Experimental Farm Mr. Whelan said most Canadians have "lost touch with their rural roots" as the Canadian population has shifted from rural to urban since 1945.

Despite that shift agriculture plays an even more important role in the Canadian economy than ever before, said the minister. While the majority of the population was directly connected with farming 75 years ago, now only five per cent of the population is rural.

Joining Mr. Whelan in the kick off was the main organizer for the promotional week-long event, Diane Harkin of RR1, Winchester. The week, she said, is to tell the story of Canadian agriculture and the food industry to the urban population.

The week is to "break down fences and build bridges" between producers and consumers, she said.

When most of the Canadian population was rural there was no need to explain the importance of agriculture - everyone knew. But today, with the majority of the population living in cities Canadians need to be told of the importance of agriculture and the related industries, said Mr. Whelan.

The title Agri-Food was given to the week instead of Agriculture Week, to accentuate the importance of Canada's food chain, said Mr. Whelan. Canada's food chain is responsible for about 25 per cent of the country's jobs and last year agriculture had a trade surplus of $3.2-billion.

"In fact one of four jobs in Canada is tied directly or indirectly to this sector. These jobs can be found in the input industries, supplying seed, feed, fertilizer, fuel and machinery to farmers and food ingredients and additives, processing equipment and packaging materials to processors; in actual farm production as farmers or farm workers; in primary and secondary process, and in the distribution and retailing of our food products, including the food service industry," the minister said.

As well, the industry generates about one-sixth of all economic activity in the country, he noted. While most consumers may feel food prices have gone out of control, Mr. Whelan said that except for Americans, Canadians spend less of their disposable income on food than any other country in the world.

Sam Ault of Ault Foods Ltd. Winchester, was also at the press conference representing the processing and retailing side of the industry.

Mr. Ault was pleased with Agri-Food Week. "I like the idea of bridging the differences. I think Diane (Mrs. Harkin) is doing a heck of a job in telling our story."

While most Canadians are aware of the attacks from the Consumers Association of Canada on the dairy industry because of its supply management system, Mr. Ault hoped that Agri-Food Week might make Canadians more aware of the quality of the Canadian dairy industry. "We have the best dairy industry in the world."

Canadian supply-management is the envy of dairy farmers around the world he said.

Production has been evened out, which has created increased quality and actually benefited the consumer by evening out the peaks and valleys in the availability of dairy products.

"I can remember when we used to sell butter in the summer months for 50 cents a pound and because milk was scarce in the winter, butter would cost 90 cents a pound. Supply management has put an end to that," Mr. Ault said.

Familiar faces trying for school board re-election

election '82

(Staff) - If the incumbent rural trustees have their way, there will be some familiar trustees on the SD and G County School board after November 8 and the municipal school board elections.

Lorne Thompson, representing Winchester Township, Winchester and Chesterville Villages will seek re-election as will William Fleming, representing Osnabruck Township, Finch Township and Finch Village. Mr. Fleming was elected in a by-election last March when former trustee Lloyd Markell died.

None of the area's SD and G Separate School board trustees could be reached for their comments. They are: Suzanne Charrette who represents Finch Township, Roxborough Township and Finch Village; Peter Van Moorsel who represents Dundas County and Terrence Wheeler who represents Osnabruck and Cornwall Townships ratepayers.

Dr. Gerry Rosenquist, representing Williamsburg Township and Morrisburg Village said he intends to seek the post again as does Roy Hastings now representing Mountain Township.

Danny Robertson has announced his intention to try for the trusteeship of Matilda Township and Iroquois Village, the seat to be vacated when board chairman Mahlon Zeron steps down, as he has announced his intention.

Fraser Campbell, representing Roxborough Township, Kenyon Township and Maxville could not be reached.

Sarsfield O'Connor presently represents separate school supporters on the County Board (for secondary panel matters) and intends to try to keep that seat.

Lumley receives promotion

OTTAWA (Staff) - Ed Lumley, MP for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry riding was moved by Prime Minister Trudeau from the Trade portfolio to that of DRIE, the department of Regional and Industrial Expansion, and Industry, Trade and Commerce last Thursday in a cabinet shuffle.

It is termed a promotion for the former Cornwall mayor and businessman by political analysts. Mr. Lumley will be responsible for, among other things, FIRA (Foreign Investment Review Agency), a controversial government body.

Analysts noted that the new appointment given to Mr. Lumley makes him the "clear winner" in the cabinet shuffle.

The move, along with changing Donald Johnston from Treasury Board president to the ministry of state for economic development, is seen as an attempt to appease the business sector.

Mr. Lumley is considered on good terms with the business community, having had a high profile in the business community in his last position.

Herb Gray, who did hold the industry portfolio, was moved to the presidency of the Treasury Board. Mr. Gray's policies were often considered too nationalistic.

In other moves Mr. Johnston also becomes Science and Technology minister, which had been held by Environment Minister John Roberts. Roberts keeps the environment portfolio.

Sen. Bud Olson, replaced by Johnston as economic development minister, becomes government house leader in the

Ottawa Winter Fair Oct. 6 to 10

OTTAWA (Staff) - Nothing to do tonight? Take a drive into the Ottawa Winter Fair where you will be admitted free all day. A horse show, Monte Carlo night and both farm and ladies' exhibits will be on display throughout the afternoon and evening.

The casino, which offers blackjack, arrow and money wheels is only one of several new events the Winter Fair is presenting. A blacksmithing competition and old time fiddling contest are two other major additions to the fair schedule.

The casino runs from 6pm until midnight Wednesday through Friday and from 1pm until closing Saturday and Sunday.

The blacksmithing competition will be held Sat., Oct. 9 in the open space between the Coliseum and the Civic Centre from 8:30am throughout the day. The smithies will compete in eight events including making horse shoes and shoeing a horse.

Thurs., Oct. 7, the first full day of the Winter Fair begins early with an 8am horse show. The Holstein cattle parade around the Civic Centre at 10:30am and an afternoon and evening horse show are on the roster.

The evening events include the judging of 4-H lambs, a ladies fashion show, music by old time fiddlers and the judging of market lambs.

The horses are again first in the ring Friday morning followed by the market steers at 9am. The Civic Centre is the scene of the 4-H Championship calf show at 10:30am. The presentation of those awards will be made at 3:30pm.

The judging breeding sheep and the junior barrow show are scheduled for 11am and a children's program at 12:30pm will feature a puppet show. The Junior Hereford show is at 4pm in the Cattle Castle, concluding the junior events for the day.

Friday evening at the Winter Fair is a lively affair with an evening horse show that showcases obstacle driving and antique vehicle classes. An auction of market steers, lambs, pork hams and loins is held in the Civic Centre at 7pm. The Monte Carlo night will gather up any money not spent on hams! A dance to the music of Goodtyme Country will be held in the Civic Centre at 9pm.

Saturday the blacksmiths will entertain with their contests and three cattle shows will command the Cattle Castle ring. The Jerseys and Guernseys have the 10am timeslot and the Ayrshires are at 1pm.

The Ayrshires will have to share their audience with the Old

Provincial grant too late for Berwick Hall repairs

BERWICK (Staff) - A grant that Finch Township council applied for in March, 1981, wouldn't have been available until 1983-84 members of the council learned here last Friday night.

Township clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey told council a letter from the provincial ministry of Tourism and Recreation noted that a grant to repair the Berwick Community Hall through the Community Recreation Centres Act (CRCA) wouldn't be available to the municipality for another couple of years.

But the township isn't too concerned as the work on the hall went ahead with the help of funding under the municipal incentives grants.

Mr. Empey explained that the approval for the CRCA grant took so long the members of the Hall Board decided to find other means for completing the new ceiling and wiring needed.

Some of the work was done under the municipal incentives grants, where the provincial government pays for the labor involved while the municipality pays for the materials, and some was done through the board's own funding.

In other business council also discussed an accident which occurred in Berwick on Thursday night. The Township fire department was called to the scene of the accident involving a car. All members of council agreed it was appropriate that the fire department be there just in case fire broke out.

Councillor Archie Byers noted that the incident was one where the department might have made use of extraction equipment (Jaws of Life).

Council agreed to send representatives to a meeting in Cornwall being held by the District Municipal Engineer, from the provincial government. The meeting is to explain the revised grant system for municipal roads.

The meeting will be Tues., Oct. 26, at 10am at the United Counties Building.

Council also approved having the township fire department on duty in Berwick and Crysler on Hallowe'en night, Oct. 31.

Township receives complaints on pit

BERWICK (Staff) - Finch Township council agreed to write a letter to the Ministry of Natural Resources complaining about the intensity of blasting being done at a wayside pit in the township.

Township clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey told council he has received complaints from landowners near the pit, located in Lot 2, Con. 7, and operated by A.L. Blair.

Because the pit is designated as a wayside pit, said Mr. Empey, the licence for it is issued by the Ministry of Natural Resources and the municipality has no say in the matter. In most instances the operator of a new pit must apply for a zoning change from the municipality.

This time, however, there was no discussion at the township level; the township was just notified that the pit would be located there.

Mr. Empey said he has received complaints from surrounding landowners that their buildings have been damaged and cows upset.

Azarie Bourgeois, one of the nearby landowners, asked the township to write to the ministry about the blasting. Mr. Empey added that perhaps other landowners haven't complained as most are at work during the day, when the blasting occurs.

Mr. Empey added that he believed the pit was opened to produce gravel for the Development Road being built in Winchester Township. Once the job is finished the pit will be closed, he said.

Members of council agreed the ministry should receive a letter from the township outlining the complaints about the blasting.

The pit is operated by A.L. Blair.

College facilities open to community groups

CORNWALL (Special) - St. Lawrence College will be home to almost 1500 students this year and the presence of students and teachers will predominate in college buildings. However, the use of college facilities is not restricted to students and staff, points out facilities co-ordinator Anita Ruest.

She notes that the college is "a community facility for use by the community. Of course, academic activities get top priority, but once those needs are met space can be let out to community groups."

And it is, regularly, for meetings, athletic activities, theatre performances, and conferences, among other things.

One of the facilities most frequently used by community groups is the theatre in Aultsville Hall. The theatre is used for film showings, live performances and conferences, for the most part. This fall, it has already been booked for several performances and two conferences.

September 20, the Cornwall Optimist Club is sponsoring the appearance of an old-fashioned medicine show in the theatre.

The Nativity Church Guards will take it over October 9 and 10 to host a congress of church guard groups that will attract between 500 and 700 delegates.

The Conseil de vie francaise will sponsor a performance by French-Canadian folk singer Yvon Deschamps on October 15.

A conference on women's issues, which will feature a keynote address by the Hon. Judy Erola, Minister of State for the Status of Women, is scheduled for October 16.

Also on October 16, Canadian guitarist Liona Boyd will appear in concert at the theatre.

December 2 and 3, Actor's Trunk pays its regular fall visit to the theatre to perform for local elementary school children.

Mrs. Ruest noted that the charge for use of the theatre is $100 when the sponsoring group is charging admission and $50 for non-profit activities. Added to this rental fee is the cost of technical and custodial staff supplied by the college.

Another college facility that is popular with community groups is Milles Roches Hall on Fourth Street, with its board room and seminar rooms that are ideal for meetings. "Because it's centrally located, many organizations like to meet there," said Mrs. Ruest.

Among the many groups that meet regularly at Mille Roches Hall are the Big Brothers Association, the Single Parent Association, the Mental Health Association and Crisis Line.

The gymnasium in Moulinette Hall at Windmill Point is another facility frequently used by the community. Several athletic organizations use the gym regularly, two local highland dancing associations hold competitions there throughout the year, and the SD&G Science Fair is held there every May.

Mrs. Ruest said the college currently does not charge a fee for the use of facilities other than the theatre. However, this policy is under review.

Finally, Mrs. Ruest noted that anyone in the community who would like to book space at the college should contact her at 933-6080.

Message was inspiring

(Special) - An inspiring message from Don Godfrey of Detroit was the principal feature at the monthly meeting of Dundas County Ministerial Association, held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Mansell Atkinson Monday morning. Introduced by the Rev. Alex Dobson of Winchester, Mr. Godfrey spoke of revival, revitalization, obedience, conduct and Christian attitudes.

The meeting, held at the Atkinson home west of Inkerman, was chaired by the president, the Rev. Thomas Lowry of Williamsburg. Fifteen members were in attendance, representing nine denominations, and coming from the communities of Winchester, Morrisburg, Iroquois, Williamsburg, Chesterville, Newington, Vernon and Inkeman.

Mr. Atkinson, host minister, conducted opening devotions, reading from Deut. 28, giving a brief homily, and offering prayer.

The Rev. Wieger De Jong of Williamsburg presented item of interest concerning the Home Bible League. Mr. Dobson introduced the problem of Sunday sports, school chaplaincies and the Terry Fox Run. Mr. De Jong also expressed opinion regarding Sunday sports. Mr. Lowry announced meetings of Alcohol and Drug Concerns and Gordon Hunter Seminar.

The Rev. E. Earle Eaton of Chesterville, public relations representative, spoke of community services and Tri-County Information Bureau; also covered the meeting for the press.

Time Fiddle Contest which runs concurrently in the Civic Centre. The Capital Classic Sale of Simmental is held in the Cattle Castle at 4pm, to close out the afternoon's events.

The finals of the Old Time Fiddle Contest and two prestigious horse events will be held in the Civic Centre during the evening. The President's Cup, a $3,000 event pits off the best jumpers and the six-horse heavy hitch and major stake classes are the tops in heavy horses.

Sunday, Oct. 10 gets underway at 12:30pm with the purebred beef cattle show, Shorthorns and Simmentals, Angus and Herefords. At the same time in the Civic Centre the Western Horse Show gets underway.

An amateur talent competition and Monte Carlo afternoon occupy the Civic Centre later.

The last event of the five-day fair is the Western Horse finals and the finals of the Valley Queen competition.

Except Wednesday when admission is free, adults are admitted for $3 and seniors for $2. Children 12 and under are always free.

Throughout the fair a craft display, the Canada Packer's Quilt display and the Women's Institute tea room will provide a break for weary fair goers.

Problems beyond farm gate must be grappled with, says Barrie

KEMPTVILLE (Staff) - Unless the farming community comes to grips with issues betond the farm gate, the trend toward increasing farm bankruptcies will continue to claim Ontario operations, said Ralph Barrie here last Wednesday.

Mr. Barrie, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, (OFA) addressing members of the local farm community as part of a series of guest lectures, at the college suggested a six-point plan for success in agriculture.

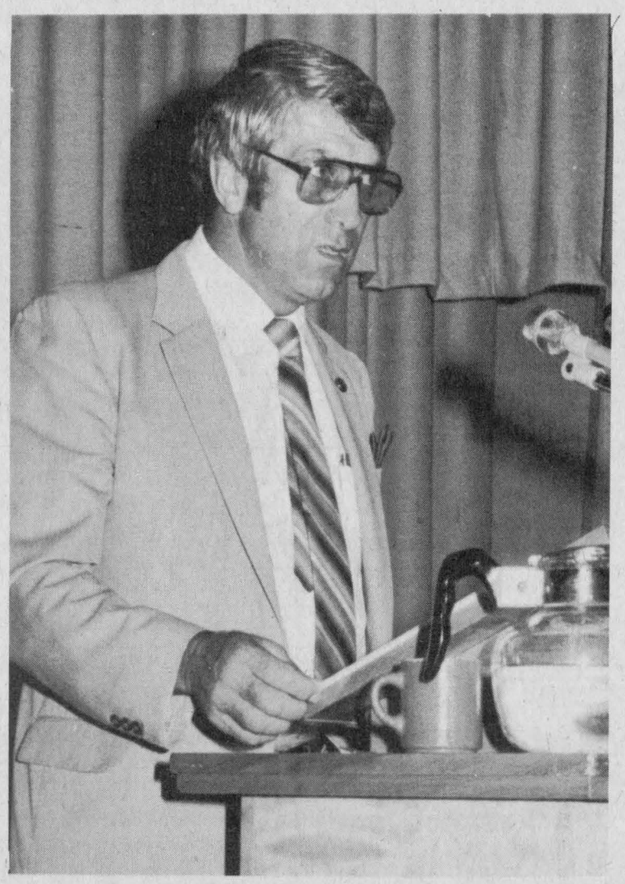
To free themselves from a historical pattern of cycles in agriculture Mr. Barrie said farmers must be able to expand their interests beyond the farmgates. Political decisions affect them individually, he said, citing the capital gains tax of the November 1981 budget which made taxes due before the supposed gains had been made.

As individuals, he told the group, they have no impact on governments. If they are going to be effectively organized they can listen to and evaluate proposed legislation before responding properly to it.

In this field, he continued, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture is probably the best organization farmers have to provide them with this organization and evaluation.

The second point in Mr. Barrie's plan is that farmers can't survive financially unless they know in advance what will be paid for their product. No other arm of industry operates with the uncertainty that farmers do, he said. "Business doesn't do it. Labor doesn't do it. Just farmers."

Later Mr. Barrie clarified his statement was not carte blanche for supply management, but several stabilization programs and other schemes do exist where the farmer receives at least cost of production.



President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture Ralph Barrie addresses the audience at KCAT's J.F. Parish Building last Wednesday. record photo - morris

Long term credit tailored to farming's financial returns is another must if farmers are to continue production and farm expansion.

Market intelligence is the fourth of the six points, Mr. Barrie told the crowd. "That's knowing what to produce, when and where to sell it and to whom. A working knowledge of futures, trading, hedging, etc., will be mandatory."

The fifth point in the outline is the realization by governments that agriculture is a special case with respect to policy.

The OFA's Emergency Task Force on Agriculture took this issue firmly in hand, he said, quoting, "Basic to any actions or solutions for those parts of agriculture in trouble and for the industry generally must be a recognition and acceptance by governments and the general public that agriculture is a special case. It must be given priority and this priority must be clearly reflected in short-, medium-, and long-term policies and planning which will instill overall confidence in the future of the industry while ensuring there will be adequate supplies of food for the future needs of consumers."

The final point in his organization's blueprint for success is the obtaining of better farm financial management skills, including an understanding of the available assistance programs, along with a good working relationship with the local banker.

Farmers must thoroughly investigate programs like the Small Business Development Bond, the Farm Credit program and the Ontario Farm Adjustment Program to use the system to their advantage.

As well as the farmer himself being responsible for his portion of the problems, the federal government came under fire several times in Mr. Barrie's speech for its high interest rate policy which he said has done more to ravage the Canadian economy than any other factor.

Farm returns are simply not capable of sustaining interest rates of from 16 to 22 per cent, he stated.

Farmers, too, must share their part of the blame, however, he said. Interest rates are high but credit has been extensively used and "our spending habits as a sector are not without fault."

The willingness to sow a crop and husband animals without knowing if the cost of production will be met along with a willingness to accept that ever-rising cost of production are two factors that have cost the farmer a great deal, he concluded.

Outsiders hold cookout Sept. 29

by Lise VanKessel

The Outsiders held their fourth meeting (ccokout) at 7pm in the Women's Institute room on September 29.

The cookout was opened with the 4-H pledge and members were chosen to barbecue the shishkebabs.

Other members worked on their 4-H book and then a date was chosen for a camp-out which will be held later on in October.

When the shishkebabs were cooked, members and parents were served. Dessert was served after.

The meeting was adjourned at 9pm.

Workshops for leaders

LUCAN - The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food will help strengthen rural organizations by holding a series of workshops for rural leaders this winter, Agriculture and Food Minister Dennis Timbrell has announced.

Executives of rural organizations will be invited to attend 12 regional workshops across the province on such topics as communicating with members, goal-setting and program planning.

"The sessions will give leaders an opportunity to share experiences with their counterparts in other organizations," the minister said.

Speaking at media day for the International Plowing Match and Machinery Show in Lucan, Mr. Timbrell indicated the initiative is part of the ministry's new Mandate for the '80s to prepare the agriculture and food industry for the challenges of the future.

About 1,800 participants in all are expected to enroll in the workshops which will be open to executives of Ontario Federation of Agriculture chapters, Ontario Plowmen's Association branches, Women's Institutes, 4-H Clubs, Junior Farmers, Agricultural Societies and other agriculturally-based rural organizations.

Rural women's needs to be studied by OMAF

LUCAN - Major review of customer service with particular emphasis on the needs of rural women will be carried out by Molly McGhee, director of the former home economics branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Minister Dennis Timbrell announced today.

"The study will look at consumer information and women's programs to evaluate the effectiveness of the ministry's current efforts in these areas and suggest future directions," Mr. Timbrell said.

"We want to be sure Ontario's rural women stay up to date so they can continue to play their key role in the running of the farm."

To a preview gathering at the International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Show, Mr. Timbrell explained that the study will look at the effect of changing demographics and technology on rural women, current education and information programs available and areas where new programs may be needed. It will also compare Ontario's programs with those in other jurisdictions.

"Molly McGhee, the study advisor, has been involved in providing services for consumers and rural women for many years and I expect that a valuable working document on the future of our educational programs will result from this study," the minister concluded.

Bellevue House, historic

Kingston's Bellevue House would be an attraction, if only for the fact that it is one of the earliest and finest examples of the Italian villa in Canada.

But Bellevue House, now a National Historic Site, is even more significant as the former home of Canada's first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald.

The house was built in 1840 by Kingston entrepreneur Charles Hales shortly before Kingston was named capital of the legislative union between Upper and Lower Canada. The "villa" built in the fashionable west end of town, contrasted sharply with the staid limestone buildings of old Kingston. Due to Hales' grocery business, the house came to be known as "Pekoe Pagoda" and "Tea Caddy Castle."

In 1844, though, the capital was moved to Montreal, property values fell and many businesses failed. Hales took to renting out his many houses. The villa was rented by a young Kingston member of the Legislative Assembly, one John A. Macdonald.

Macdonald's one-year stay at Bellevue House (he named it), though brief, was filled with tragedy. His wife Isabella, who had been ill, became an invalid. The Macdonalds' infant son died soon after the move and Macdonald's law practice took a downward turn. In 1849, Macdonald moved to downtown Kingston. The house continued to be occupied by a number of prominent Kingstonians.

Bellevue House was acquired by the federal government in 1964 and restored to the period when its most famous tenant lived there.

NOMINATIONS

TOWNSHIP OF ROXBOROUGH

TAKE NOTICE that persons may be nominated as candidates in an election between 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 o'clock in the afternoon of Nomination Day, Monday, October 18, 1982 but nothing in Section 35 of the Municipal Elections Act, 1980 prevents a person filing a nomination paper with the Clerk during his normal office hours during the four days immediately preceding Nomination Day.

Offices for which persons may be nominated: REEVE, DEPUTY-REEVE and COUNCILLORS of which all Electors are herby required to take notice and govern themselves accordingly, and further take notice that the manner in which said nominations shall be filed is set forth in Section 36 of The Municipal Elections Act. Nomination forms and full particulars of procedures to be followed, may be obtained from the undersigned.

If a greater number of candidates than required to fill the said offices are nominated and make the required declarations, notice of the time for the holding of the poll, including the advance poll and notice of the last day for making application for a certificate to vote by proxy will be given forthwith.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that where the number of candiates for an office who are nominated at the end of nomination day is not sufficient to fill the number of vacancies to which the candidates may be elected, Subsection 1 of Section 40 respecting acclamation applies to those candidates and, on the Wednesday, following nomination day, October 20, 1982, the Clerk may, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, receive and certify additional nominations for the remaining vacancies in the office in respect of which there was an insufficient number of candidates.

Given under my hand this 1st day of October, 1982.

Chesterville WI commemorate eighty years of service, October 5

(Staff) - Chesterville Women's Institute (WI) celebrated its 80th anniversary yesterday (Tues., Oct. 5) with special guest Bernice Noblitt, president of the Federated Women's Institute of Canada invited to the reception.

An 80-year history as a Women's Institute is a tribute to how fast ideas moved in the 19th and early 20th century. The first WI was formed in Stony Creek in 1897. The second and third followed in 1900 at Whitby and Kemble.

It was in that year that women from around the province began writing to the Farmers' Institute superintendent for information on how to begin an Institute.

By 1901 there were 31 Institutes and by 1904 there were 149 branches in 58 districts with a membership of 5,433.

Chesterville WI outlined its early beginnings in the book The Time That Was, which they term an expanded Tweedsmuir History of the Chesterville area when the Chesterville group were celebrating 75 years of existence.

One of Chesterville's first projects was a clean-up day where each street of the village was swept and each ditch cleaned. Later the Institute purchased a sprinkler and presented it to the village to lessen "the dust menace".

Chesterville WI didn't commit their efforts to only public service although that was a primary activity. It was the WI who petitioned the village council to appoint a woman to the High School Board as early as the 1930's.

During wartime, Christmas boxes and other help were sent to the soldiers overseas and following the war, the women equipped a room at Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Other projects of the group over the years have been the provision of Blue Cross insurance for members, festivals of music, tap and ballet dancing classes and the provision of record players for local schools.

In keeping with the purpose of the Institute's founder, Adelaide Hoodless, health was a priority of WI members. They have sponsored campaigns to fund the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, conducted adult polio clinics, donated further funds to the hospital and to the fledgling Meals on Wheels.

Another of Mrs. Hoodless' priorities when she began the Institute was the domestic science education of girls and Chesterville WI took up that challenge, too.

An annual scholarship is awarded to the Home Economics department of North Dundas District High School and they have sponsored 4-H Homemaking clubs since 1939 when Phoebe Graham and Grace Allison led the first project, The Club Girl Entertains.

For a period of of two years a Junior Women's Institute operated in Chesterville but disbanded when it seemed that members of that age were going away to school, college or jobs.

Agri-school

These two grade 3 and 4 students from St. Bernard's School in Blossom Park in Ottawa enjoyed petting the calves at the farm of Ken Hillis near Morewood. Blair Hillis holds the calf to give the boys a better position. The tour of the farm on Monday for 60 of the school children was given as part of Agri-Food Week.

Don Rose made welcome by Metcalfe Ayrshires

METCALFE (Staff) - Ayrshire breeder Don Rose didn't leave his first-ever Metcalfe Ayrshire show empty-handed, rather cleaned up the lion's share of the hardware.

Among the Rose sweep were the Grand Champion rosette, the Junior and Reserve champion ribbons, Reserve Best Udder and several firsts.

Golden Collen Carol gained her third Grand this summer while Ken Campbell's Dunrobin Flashy Nell took reserve. The two reversed the order for the udder class.

The Donald Maurice Hughes Memorial Trophy, awarded the top Junior Champion went to Rose's Rosayre Judy ET. Second went to his Rosayre Fiona 19N. Both were Junior Heifers.

John K. Campbell took breeder's herd and Ken Campbell placed second.

The Champion and Reserve were the top two mature cows, in that order.

Top five-year-old was Memory Lane Melody for John K. Campbell and second was Ken Campbell's Scotchdale Kelly's Fancy, who gained a first for his four-year-old, Wallaceburn Beautiful.

The top three-year-old was Ayrvale Bluebell for John Campbell second place went to Barbara Merkley and Sons for Bonnie Brae Bunty.

John Campbell's two-year-old Ayrvale Brighton gained him a first and David Merkley's Picnic Grove Mila IM gained him a second.

The top senior heifer was Scotchdale Kelly's Memory with second place awarded to Rose Briar Maisie IN, owned by Neil Kittle.

The top two intermediate heifers were Ken Campbell's Ann's Dairy Princess and Darymor Ringo's Diana, owned by David Merkley. The Junior heifers were Junior and Reserve Champion.

MacGregor team in the money at Metcalfe Guernsey Show

METCALFE (Staff) - Glen Haven Farms, owned by Rhod and Malcolm MacGregor of Morewood were definitely in the money last weekend as both the Grand Champion and Reserve rosettes were awarded to their herd.

Winning Grand for the MacGregor's was Glen Haven Prince's Bebe, the number one four-year-old and in Reserve was the grande dame of the herd, Tannery Hill Admiral's Gypsy, the first-place mature cow.

The herd didn't stop its win there by any means, taking Best Uddered and Reserve cow with the same two animals in that order and winning the Breeder's Herd class.

Second to the MacGregor's in breeder's herd was Harry Nooyen; Leslie McEwen placed third.

Placing second to the Reserve in mature cows was Comer SG Ella, owned by Ivor Williams.

The top five-year-old was Mr. Williams' Carronlea TH Vanessa. Second went to Harry Nooyen's Tall Pine MRK Rose.

Second to the Champion in the four-year-old class was Mr. Nooyen's Holland Heights GL Faydora.

The top two three-year-olds were Glen Haven Prince's Jackalyn for the MacGregor's and Carronlea RM Barmaid for Ivor Williams.

The two farms placed in the same order for two-year-olds, Glen Haven Pat and Holland Heights Alstar Jody.

The best Senior Heifer was Glen Haven Jason's Matilda and second was Holland Heights THA Dutchess, for the two farms again.

The best Intermediate Heifer was the Nooyens' Holland Heights DF Fleecy followed by the MacGregors' Glen Haven Deacon's Gail. The top Junior was Showcase Geisha owned by Ivor Williams and second was Glen Haven Jason's Noreen.

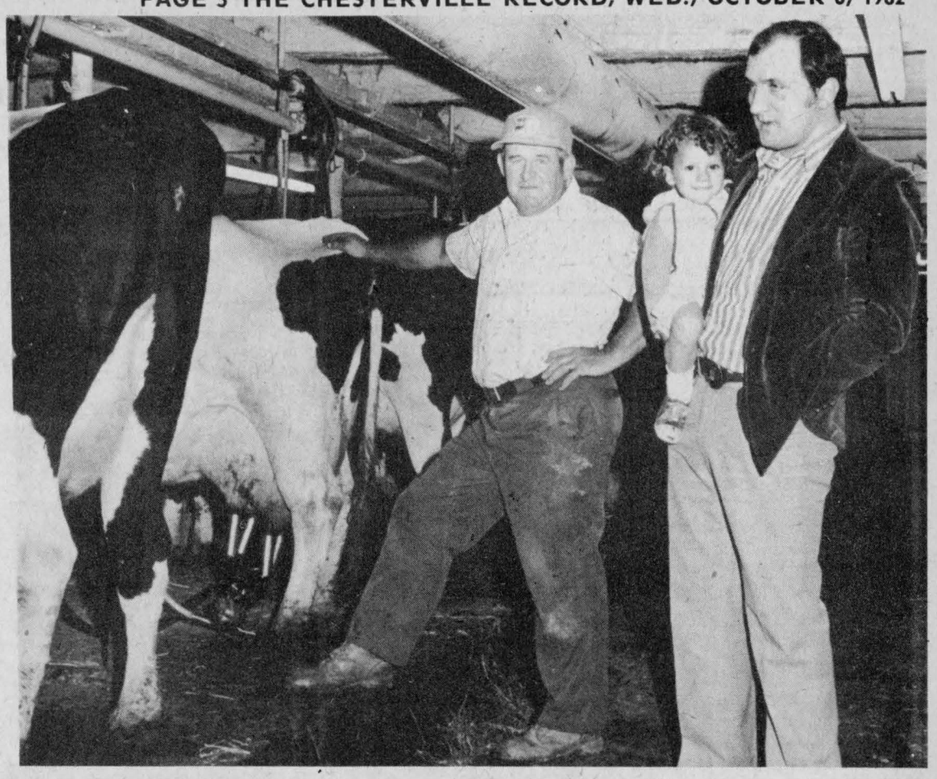
The Junior and Reserve Champion were Glen Haven Jason's Matilda and Showcase Geisha, in that order.

Historic gardens

After 400 years of tender care, the Annapolis Royal Historic Gardens are ready to be shown to the public.

Visitors are invited to the 4 ha (10 acre) site located in Annapolis, Nova Scotia's farmer capital. Beauty and history abound on the hillside gardens overlooking the wetlands and meadows of the Allains River Valley. The hillside land has been hoed and weeded for four centuries, and still houses plants that date back to gardens originally planted by French explorers, Acadian dike-builders and British settlers.

At the gardens, one can wander in a rose maze of 1600 bushes, study the construction of an ancient Acadian cottage, romp through a meadow, hide in tall elephant grass, call to the ducks in the distant wildfowl sanctuary, stroll through the Victorian gardens and generally just enjoy it all.



Sunday on the farm

Bob and Laura Fannin of Ottawa visited the Crysler farm of Barry and Lorna Armstrong Sunday as part of Agri-Food Week. The couple brought their two young children, Jennifer 5½, and Carlo, 2½, and his mother, Florence Fannin along for the visit to the farm. Mr. Fannin had heard about the tours while listening to a radio program on CBC in Ottawa. The program featured Agri-Food Week, and interestingly, Barry Armstrong was on the show that day. Stormont AgRep Dale Miller's telephone number was given on the program and from there the Fannin's set up a visit.

Way to go, Bebe

Glen Haven's Prince's Bebe, being lead by Malcolm MacGregor (left) was the Grand Champion at the Metcalfe Fair Guernsey Show last Friday. Not to be outdone, another MacGregor entry, Admiral Hill Tannery's Gypsy being lead by Rhod MacGregor (right) took Reserve. The MacGregor herd from Morewood took a majority of the awards in the show.

Break and enter tops list in OPP summary

WINCHESTER (Staff) - In the August-September Winchester Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police summary, break and enter tops the list in volume of occurrences and both a fatal hunting accident and complicated fraud were investigated.

Second to break and enter in the 281 occurrences logged was theft under $200, which appears 21 times on the force's books.

Wilful damage (15) was also dominant and theft over $200 at 10 occurrences was frequent.

Other problems in this area during the two months were three assaults, nine theft of automobiles, four possession of stolen property and two cases of arson.

Of the 281 occurrences, 167 charges were laid including 36 criminal charges, 11 liquor charges, three other provincial statute offences and 116 Highway Traffic Act charges.

An auto theft occurred Sun., Sept. 26 at 3:15am when Donald Johnston of RR3 Winchester was awakened by noise in his yard. Upon investigating, Mr. Johnston noticed his car leaving the yard. The brown 1979 Chevrolet BelAir was subsequently recovered by Kemptville OPP near Heckston, Tues., Sept. 28. The investigation is being carried out by Const. Gary Imbeau.

A charge of intoxicated in a public place and of having liquor were laid against two area men.

Orlean Ruth Froats dies Sept. 28

Orlean Ruth Froats of 35 Joseph St., Chesterville, died Tues., Sept. 28, 1982, in the Winchester District Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Froats, a housewife was 77.

She was born August 29, 1905, in Williamsburg Township, a daughter of Ezera Barkley and the former Freelove Robinson.

She was educated at local schools and was a member of the United Church.

Mrs. Froats is predeceased by her husband Russell Froats, who died October 30, 1969.

She is survived by two daughters, Beatrice (Mrs. Arthur MacDonald), Ottawa, and Leona (Mrs. Ralph Butler), Oakville, two grandchildren, Debbie Edward of Mississauga and Stephen Butler of Kitchener and by five great-grandchildren, Kimberley, Rhonda, Stephanie, Amber and Russell. She is also survived by twin sister Kathleen Bouck and sister Velma Allen. She is predeceased by three brothers.

Funeral services were conducted from the Vice and Craig Funeral Home, Chesterville, Thurs., Sept. 30, 1982 at 2pm. Rev. L.M. Ferguson officiated.

Interment was at Maple Ridge Cemetery. Pallbearers were Roy Meldrum, Freeman Beckstead, Carl Merkley, Earl Cross, Charles Smith and Bob McLaughlin.

Plate collection – Scenery on display

CORNWALL (Special) - Collecting plates is nothing new and the exhibit 'Canadian Scenery for the Table' a collection of 19th century views of British North American on Staffordshire demonstrates why the past-time has continued.

On display daily at Inverarden Regency Cottage Museum in Cornwall, Ont., throughout the month of October the exhibition is made up of pieces drawn from private and public collections. Consisting of nearly 100 pieces of eartenware, many which have never before been on public display, the show depicts mid 19th century Canada not as it was, but how the romantically inclined Victorians wished it to be.

Borrowing freely from the engravings of British born artists William Henry Bartlett, issued in his 1842 Canadian Scenery Illustrated, English potters started producing transfer printed earthenware with his scenes for the Canadian market from 1843 to the 1890s.

The British firm of Ridgeway, Morely, Wear and Company produced the commonly seen 'Agricultural Vase' series which featured various Canadian scenes. By 1843 Podmore, Walker and Company commenced producing pottery especially for the Candian market with the pattern known as 'British America'. This series freely adapted more than a dozen of Bartlett's more famous views. These ware were well marked and are found with the name of the view on the back. They were produced for dinner and tea services.

Soon Francis Morely and Company entered the field with their 'Lake' series which continued under the Ashworth name until the 1880s.

Transfer printed earthenware with scenes proved to be very popular and attracted many different potters. By the 1880s plates were being made to commemorate special events, for businesses, public institutions such as the Quebec Lunatic Asylum, depicting Canadian sports, and about Arctic exploration in the unattributed 'Arctic Scenery' series.

The exhibit on display at Inverarden in Cornwall for the month of October is a truly unique opportunity to view this rare collection in a structure dating 1820.

Ingleside residents co-operation appreciated says Bart Whitton

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Staff) - Osnabruck Township council held a special meeting last Tuesday to ensure no backlog of business would occur while members of council are away at the ACRO convention (Agricultural Communities of Rural Ontario).

The agenda consisted of routine business including a pat on the back for Ingleside villagers and the Kraft factory. Bart Whitton, Public Works Superintendent who had asked for voluntary cutbacks while the water tower was being painted said he appreciated the level of co-operation, telling council the demand had been reduced by one-half.

A preliminary report, submitted by engineer Derek Smith, on the proposed waste disposal site, was received by council. Following its examination, council will ask Mr. Smith to speak to them on the report, and said clerk-treasurer Tom Melesky, a hearing may follow.

In other environment concerns, council was advised that a study of Newington and area sewage problems will be undertaken with the Ministry of Environment.

Residents of the village are being kept advised directly by the ministry, Mr. Melesky told council but councillors will be given the results of the study by next spring. The study will be performed and completed over the winter months.

Hand in hand with the sewage disposal study, MOE often performs a water supply study, council were informed by Rick Eamon of the ministry and although it has not yet been approved, he told council he did not foresee any difficulty in obtaining approval.

Acknowledgement was received from the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation of a Wintario funds application for the Hoople Street park playground and drinking fountain. Council will be notified of approval or denial at a later date, explained Mr. Melesky.

The government of Ontario restraint program was discussed at some length. The detailed outline and forms for the program as it pertains to township employees will be forthcoming, explained Mr. Melesky.

He continued that although salary increases have been restricted to five per cent, special provision has been made for increases of more than five per cent for those employees making less than $15,000 per year and that non-monetary items are still negotiable.

A request by Harvey Armstrong to have garbage pick up for five permanent trailer sites at Lakeview Campsites was granted.

Project leaves only $2,000 in roads budget

BERWICK (Staff) - By the time Finch Township finishes paying their portion of work on a ditch and sidewalk in Crysler they'll have only approximately $2,000 left in their roads budget for the two months remaining in 1982.

Township clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey told members of council here at a meeting last Friday night that the final costs of the filling of a ditch, and addition of a sewer, parking lane, and sidewalk in front of the Crysler Post office and the Royal Bank in Crysler was completed.

The work, done in conjunction with the United Counties, will cost the township $20,069.91. A portion of that total, $16,652, is eligible for a road subsidy of 55 per cent from the provincial government, and the remaining amount, $3,417 is eligible for a special sidewalk grant of 50 per cent.

With that bill paid the township will be left with about $2,000 in their roads budget for the rest of the year.

In other business council gave Roads Superintendent Reg Burd the go-ahead to lower a culvert across the boundary road between Winchester Township and Finch Township.

Landowner Sven Jorgensen, who lives in Finch Township along the boundary road, requested council have a culvert leading from his land to the Gervais- Paquette- McMahon Drain lowered to allow the water from his land to run into the drain.

Although the drain is located primarily in Russell Township that municipality has refused to help Mr. Jorgensen. Finch Township council agreed that Mr. Jorgensen was receiving little benefit from the drain, which he was assessed into, when his water couldn't run into the drain. As a ratepayer in the township council agreed to help him.

In other business council requested clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey have Finch Township Drainage Superintendent, John Stidwell, check into the legalities of drain maintenance.

The question of jurisdiction came up before council when Russell Township asked if there were objections to Russell doing maintenance on the portion of the Hebert Drain in Finch Township.

Mr. Empey told council that from his readings of the Drainage Act that one municipality could not do maintenance on a drain in another municipality.

Resident offers dump caretaker services

BERWICK (Staff) - A Finch Township resident who offered the municipality his services as the dump caretaker, will be asked to attend the next township council meeting to talk with council about the job.

Township clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey told council that Bruce Tracy, who lives one road north of the dump and who in the past received council's permission to remove wood from the dump, talked to him about the job of dump caretaker.

Mr. Tracy said he would be willing to do the job for $200 per month, which he estimated would cover his costs, particularly in the winter when his car would be running a lot to keep him warm.

Mr. Tracy has already taken a keen interest in the dump, noted Mr. Empey. He has already fixed up some items at the dump, and caught people from other municipalities using the dump.

The dump, is supposed to be open only two days a week. Monday and Saturday, 9am to 5pm, and only to residents of Finch Township and Finch Village.

Mr. Tracy said if he was given a key to the dump, he would allow people to enter on other days during the week as well.

Because of Mr. Tracy's interest in the job and the need for more control at the dump council agreed to speak with him.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Smith mark 40th

In honor of their parents 40th Anniversary, the family of Graham and Gladys Smith entertained friends and relatives to a dinner-dance held at Paddy's Inn, Morrisburg recently. Mrs. Smith was the former Gladys Wingard of Williamsburg.

Guests at the head table were the original wedding party with the exception of Garnet Edgerton the best man, deceased some years ago.

The table was centred with a beautifully decorated Anniversary cake, gift of Barbara and Brenda Smith. Mrs. Smith was assisted in serving the cake by Mesdames Ruth (Smith) Widdis, Gladys (Cunningham) Hess and Edna (Cunningham) Garlough, the bride's attendants of forty years ago. Dr. Douglas Smith of Lakefield was toastmaster.

Guests were present from Kelowna, BC., Lakefield, Cornwall, Brockville, Ashton, Morrisburg, Prescott, Winchester and Chesterville.

Music for dancing was provided by Mrs. Don Cross and Lynden MacNilage.

United Empire Loyalists hold annual meeting Oct. 3

(Special) - St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg, was the scene for the annual meeting of the St. Lawrence Branch of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Canada on October 3rd.

Some 40 members and interested persons attended the meeting, toured the church and enjoyed a pot luck supper.

President Violet Hare announced that this would be the last meeting of the year - as no meetings are held during the winter. The spring meeting will be held May 15, 1983, at Sir John Johnson's School, Cornwall.

The president reported on her first year in office, followed by Secretary Florence English's yearend report. Treasurer Keith Casselman reported the financial status of the branch. Genealogist Lynne O'Brien reported 211 members with more joining. She also stated that people had visited her home in Morrisburg this summer from all over Canada and the United States looking for information on their roots.

Elmer Meek of the Bi-Centennial reported that the printing of the Kings Royal Regiment of New York history is planned for April 1983 as our Bi-Centennial project.

Past president Stanley McNairn reported that there were 89 people going on the bus trip to the Mohawk Valley Thanksgiving weekend - with members coming from Heritage Branch, Montreal and St. Lawrence Branch.

Branch auditor, Graham Van Allen introduced the guest speaker - Mr. Charles Whitteker of Williamsburg.

Mr. Whitteker, as a member of the St. Peter's Church Council welcomed everyone to St. Peter's. He told the history of the Church, beginning with the start of the Lutheran Church in Riverside. Rev. Herman Hayunga was consecrated in 1827 as minister of St. Peter's Church, erected by "the members of the Evangelical Lutheran and Presbyterian Congregations - in the 5th concession of the Upper-Bush in the township of Williamsburg."

Rev. J. Fishburn was the minister for 1864 and 1865 and during this time the present St. Peter's Church was built at a cost of $5108 exclusive of donated labor and materials.

Mr. Whitteker noted that two of the ministers were called back for second terms - Rev. Hayunga served 1826 to 1830 and 1832 to 1837; Rev. Jacob Maurer 1905 to 1908 and 1913 to 1918 while father and son Rev. J. Fishburn 1864-1865 and son Rev. M.H. Fishburn 1882-1890 also served. Only four members of the congregation entered the Ministry in the 156 year history of the church - Rev. John E. Whitteker, Rev. W. Frank Whitteker, Rev. C. Hugh Whitteker and Rev. Arnold Gordier.

Mr. Keith Casselman thanked Mr. Whitteker for his informative speech and presented him with a gift.

The afternoon was concluded with the pot luck supper which was enjoyed by all.

Appointments made to Agri exec.

(Special) - The reorganization of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, begun earlier this year, is nearing completion following the announcement of two executive appointments today by Deputy Minister Duncan Allan.

"These appointments will help the ministry meet its commitment to reduce the risk factors and income fluctuations inherent in agricultural production," Mr. Allan said.

The new appointments are Bernard McCabe as director of the Economics branch effective today and Nancy Bardecki as director, Farm Assistance Programs, effective September 9.

Bernard McCabe joined the ministry in 1973 as an economist specializing in policy and land use. Since 1978, Mr. McCabe has served as associate director of the Economics branch.

Mr. McCabe holds degrees from three universities including a BSc in agriculture from University College, Dublin, Ireland; an MSc in agricultural economics from Iowa State University and an MA in agricultural economics from the University of Wisconsin.

Nancy Bardecki comes to the ministry from the Ministry of Treasury and Economics where, since 1973, she was a senior economist in the Fiscal Planning Policy branch . As part of her duties, she worked on the initial development of the Ontario Farm Adjustment Assistance program.

Prior to joining the Ontario government as a research economist with the Ministry of Community and Social Services in 1973, Mr. Bardecki earned an Honours BA and an MA from the University of Guelph, specializing in agricultural economics.

Chesterville Senior Citizens holds election of officers

CHESTERVILLE (Special) - The Chesterville Senior Citizen's Club resumed their meetings for the 1982-83 year on the first Wednesday of September.

The pot-luck dinner was held on Wed., Sept. 29 at 12:30pm with a good attendance.

After a sumptous meal the president, Verla Beckstead, called the business meeting to order.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and several choruses of Happy Birthday were sung to different members. Cards of sumpathy were sent to the families of Olive Merkley and Orleen Froats, who passed away this week.

The positions of club officers were declared vacant and the election of new officers were held. The president, Mrs. Beckstead, agreed to stay on in the position. The secretary, Mrs. York, and the treasurer, Harlon Helmer also agreed to stay in the same positions for another term. The new vice-president is Eric McMillan, and the new second vice-president is Milton Stewart. Jean Thompson remained as the press secretary.

Mrs. Waldrof played several selections on her harmonica. Miss Dillabough conducted a Tupperware demonstration, which all enjoyed.

Anna Frances Proulx dies in hospital

Anna Frances Proulx of West End Villa, Ottawa, died Fri., Oct. 1, 1982, at the Queensway Carleton Hospital. Mrs Proulx, a housewife and civil servant, was 89.

Born August 9, 1893 in Chesterville she was a daughter of Louis LaPierre and Lucy Graham. She received her education at local Chesterville schools, and was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Surviving her is one brother, Thomas Lapierre. She is predeceased by her husband, Joseph Proulx.

Funeral services were conducted from St. Mary's in Chesterville Mon., Oct. 4, 1982, at 10am. Father Appelman officiated.

Interment was at St. Mary's Cemetery. Pallbearers were Eric McMillan, Ron Lynch, Ray James, Jack MacMillan, Bert Lynch, and Wendall Harper.

Sock Hop raises $240 for Terry Fox fund

Tagwiscope

by Christine Lalonde

We are back once again for another successful school year. We hope this year will be even more fun-filled and contain many events at which we, as students, can show our school spirit.

We would like to extend a very warm welcome to all new staff members to Tagwi: Miss H. Aristow from GVSS, Mr. R. Brunelle from CCVS, Mrs. N. English from NDDHS, Mr. T. Francis from GVSS, Mr. I. Lavoie from GDHS, Mr. D Marshall from Ottawa, Mr. J. Mazi from GVSS, Mr. L. Poirier from GDHS, and Mr. R. Price from GDHS. We would also like to welcome Miss Bodo who is replacing Mrs. Stidwill, an art teacher who is on maternity leave. Also new to our teaching staff is Mr. Blasko, principal for Tagwi. We hope all new staff members enjoy their stay at our school.

Our student government consists of Lisa Degan, head girl, Dave Phillips, head boy, Graham Scott, social convener, Julie Robertson, senior treasurer, Tracy Warwick, junior treasurer, Debbie Young, secretary, and Linda VanderWielen, French translator. We are sure they will try to make this year enjoyable for all students.

Our first Sock-hop was held on September 24th. Our own system was used with Donny Massia and Warren MacIntosh acting as Disc Jockeys. All proceeds went to the Terry Fox fund. The amount raised was $240.

SALE OF SPICES

Once again Tagwi students will be selling spices. The past year was very successful. We hope that all those who helped support our school in previous years will continue doing so this year. Thank you in advance for your support.

Easter Seal Society founded by clubs

Chesterville Rotary

Due to the absence of President Martin Derks, who was away attending another meeting, the Monday night meeting of the Chesterville Rotary was chaired by vice-president Dale McNaughton.

After an excellent dinner and a sing-song led by Leon Marcellus, Dale welcomed 12 guests of the Crippled Childrens District Council and introduced the evenings guest speaker, Don Hart of the Easter Seal Society. Mr. Hart outlined the aims and responsibilities of the society, which has an annual budget of $9-million, $75,000 of which is a grant from the federal government.

Mr. Hart pointed out that the society was founded by service clubs and still depends greatly on service clubs for financial help. The speaker was thanked by Rotarian Bob Saunders. After the close of the meeting, the District Council met.

The District Conference was held at the Chateau Laurier on Oct. 1, 2, 3 and was well attended. The trophy for highest attendance at club weekly meetings was presented and of the 58 Rotary clubs in District 704, the Chesterville club placed second and failed to capture the trophy by 4-10 of one per cent.

Rotarian Bob Bennet had a youth exchange booth at the conference which was very well presented.

Mariners continue sailing

(Special) - Members and friends of Chesterville Harbor, Mariners With Christ, held their monthly "sailing" at Eatonholm in Chesterville, Monday evening. The Rev. E. Earle Eaton, host and captain, "piloted" the "Good Ship Faith".

Mrs. Milton Shay, purser, "logged the voyage". Capt. Eaton led a song service, which he accompanied on the piano; he also played and sang some of his own songs. The Mariners' chart and report were shared by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Vardy, Mrs. Nina Woods, Mrs. Duart MacLean, Dr. Dalton Docksteader, and Mrs. Eaton. Discussion followed, centering about expansion of the Gospel signs ministry, prime project of Mariners.

Mr. Vardy gave a devotional talk, and Mrs. Vardy favored with a vocal solo, "He Giveth More Grace", accompanied by Mr. Eaton.

Scripture was read by the captain, who also led in prayer, followed by several others. Refreshments were served by a hospitality committee, including Mrs. Shay, Mrs. MacLean, Mrs. Arthur Dillabough, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Piebe Dejong and Mrs. Eaton.

Winchester Hospital negotiations at a standstill due to restraint

WINCHESTER (Staff) - CUPE members at Winchester District Memorial Hospital are working under last year's contract and negotiations are at a standstill.

The pronouncement sounds more dire than it actually is. Both the centrally negotiated service staff and the directly negotiated clerical-technical staff contracts are in a holding pattern because of the proposed Ontario government bill covering restraint practices, according to the hospital's director of finance, James O'Gorman.

Central negotiations are carried out in Toronto between CUPE and the Ontario Hospital Association, he explained and direct negotiations are carried out here between the Winchester hospital and the CUPE local. Nurses, not members of a union, are paid based on a centrally negotiated settlement between Ontario Nurses' Association and several hospitals, he said.

Negotiations had started at the central level, said Mr. O'Gorman but local negotiations were due to start in one week when the Ontario government brought out their late September restraint guideline proposal.

Further clarification on which employees will be affected to what extent is needed before any further steps can be taken, he explained. Several meetings with the Ontario Hospital Association have taken place but regulations will have to be clearer, he said.

This will be the second contract the CUPE local will have with the hospital. The first required lengthy negotiations but according to hospital administrator Bert Stel, that was because the staff felt there was catching up to be done.

The hospital launched a budget appeal to the Ministry of Health following last year's settlement since it meant a total of approximately $200,000 in unfunded costs.

The ministry is presently reviewing the 1980-81 and 81-82 year-end deficit settlements said Mr. O'Gorman and noted the financial consultant for the Eastern Ontario Team of the Ministry of Health acknowledges the hospital is in a position to have their appeal granted, although no decision has been made.

Hugh Carey addresses Mount Carmel House Auxiliary members

by Aline Gormley

The Mount Carmel House Auxillary held it's annual meeting at Shalom House, St. Raphel's Wed., Sept. 15. Marie MacDonald presiding, welcomed the gathering. The meeting opened with a scripture reading and the parable of the Good Samaritain. Reports were given and approved. Of particular interest was the financial report and the president's year-end report. A gift presentation of $2,500. was made to Ray Billard, executive-director of Mount Carmel House who personally accepted and thanked the auxiliary for their dedication and generosity in support of the work accomplished at the board level.

Invited guest speaker Hugh Carey, counsellor at Cornwall General Hospital gave an informative talk on the problems faced by the spouse of an alcoholic (male or female) in a family situation. He explained the various emotional stages a person undergoes until an acceptance stage is reached. Coping with a situation of this kind is real for whoever experiences such feelings; however when guidance is conceived and accepted the encountered grief can more easily be resolved.

Nancy Beaudette who recently entertained spectators at the Mount Carmel Benefit Concert came along once more with her guitar and beautiful voice. Nancy gave a short history of her dedication to the movements of the Spirit. She interpreted three of her songs to the delight of the group who wished her every success in her new career.

In appreciation to both speaker and entertainer small token gifts were presented.

Doreen Johnson on behalf of the nominating committee announced the new slate of officers. Marie MacDonald will occupy the chair for another term; 1st vice-president is Theresa Quinn; 2nd vice-president, Lorraine Billard; treasurer, Adair Masterson; recording-secretary, Mary McGillis and correspondence-secretary, Celia Kehoe. All present agreed and offered support to add to the quality of past endeavors.

This being membership night Maureen Bissonnette, newly appointed member accepted yearly dues. June MacDonald, now heading the telephone committee will carry out duties for this term. The group then adjourned to enjoy refreshments served by social convenor Lorraine Sabourin assisted by Blanche Gauthier.

This first yearly meeting was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended. Members are reminded of the next meeting to be held at Mount Carmel House on Wed., Oct. 13. A member's presence is as significant as their anticipated collaboration in planning future activities.

WDMH Auxiliary plans an Irish concert Oct. 23

WINCHESTER (Special) - The September meeting of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary took place on Thurs., Sept. 9 with 25 members present. Gail Van Noy, president chaired the meeting.

Through the summer months the senior and junior volunteers worked a total of 1366½ hours. Teen volunteers, under the direction of Jean Holmes, were responsible for 928 hours.

The Aug. 18, blood donor clinic was attended by 251 people and 227 units of blood were collected. The next clinic is slated for Nov. 10.

Mrs. Lee Wenz, gift shoppe chairperson presented the auxiliary with a cheque for $1000. Various committees have yet to meet after a summer recess and reports are expected in October.

Arlene Davidson, social and special events convenor, reported that Festival '82 netted the auxiliary $1424.05. Plans for Festival '83 and a return performance of the Central Band of the Canadian Forces are all ready underway. An Irish concert on Oct. 23 at North Dundas District High School, is planned. Tickets will be available from auxiliary members in October.

An Olde Fashioned Christmas Bazaar will also take place on Sat., Nov. 20 at the Winchester Public School.

Mrs. Van Noy reminded members of the Regional Conference in Alexandria on Wed., Oct. 6. The auxiliary also plans on sending two delegates to the convention in Toronto, Nov. 29-Dec. 1.

District news

(Special) - The Rev. E. Earle Eaton was in Alexandria on Tuesday for a meeting of Glengarry Christian Council; Wednesday he was in Cornwall for a luncheon meeting of Information Cornwall executive; Thursday morning conducted a worship service at Dundas Manor in Winchester, and in the evening participated in a meeting of Seaway Valley Presbytery at Cornwall.

He spent Friday in Ottawa, attending an Ontario government seminar on energy conservation; and in the evening participated in a Gospel Fellowship prayer meeting in Cornwall.

Saturday he attended a Gospel Fellowship Prayer Breakfast in Ottawa, and Apple Hill . Mr. Eaton gave reports at meetings of Presbytery and Information services, and conferred with administration personnel at Mt. Carmel House, St. Raphael's.

Sunday Mr. Eaton conducted services at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Winchester and Knox Presbyterian Church at Mountain; in the evening participated in a thank-offering service at Winchester.

THIS AD COULD BE ALL THAT'S STANDING BETWEEN YOU AND A FOSTER CHILD.

On the surface, it's not difficult to have a mistaken impression about foster care.

And if you never take the time to crack the surface, and find out the facts, you might very well be denying yourself, and a foster child, a very rewarding experience.

Your willingness to care may be all the qualification you need to be a foster parent. Financial assistance, guidance and support are available to foster parents.

The personal rewards of sharing your love with a child or young person who really needs you are very great.

Please contact your local Children's Aid Society or Family and Children's Services, and find out more about foster care.

The children need you now, more than ever before. And maybe you need them too.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

It was raining lightly. A quiet, thin but steady rain that blew red, yellow and orange leaves against the living room window and reminded me that another brutal Eastern Ontario winter was all too close. The Farmer was reading some agricultural periodical in a chair next to the small, crackling, wood-burning fireplace.

"Anything interesting?"

He looked up from his paper. "Everything's fine in the agricultural picture if one puts it in the proper relationship to all the other world's woes, for it is all a sorry sight." He went on reading obviously not wanting to be disturbed further.

I picked up the newspaper. The 6 and five was big news. In one fell swoop Mr. Davis settled a lot of things for the public servants the other night. Now if business, government and labour fall in behind this battle-cry of 6 and five to the rescue perhaps we will get out of this morass we find ourselves in.

What else is new? Dome, hardly new, will require we the taxpayers to bail them out. That along with baling out the government from its 19 billion dollar deficit should provide us with a place to put our extra money for the next few years at least.

Three quarters of the world is going to bed hungry while the rest of us are eating ourselves to death it appears. The Jews and Christians are meeting to discuss the spiritual dimension of aging.

Maureen does not knock Margaret's decorating tastes in her new book 'Residences.' It's just a straightforward history of three official residences: the Prime Minister's house at 24 Sussex Drive, his home at Harrington Lake, and Stornway, the residence of the leader of the Opposition. This will never do, Maureen, for into everyone's life must be hurled a few snide remarks. For this and this alone will we, the average Canadian, part with $24.95.

I threw the paper down. I should never pick it up on the weekend for first it causes a wash of depression to sweep over me followed all to quickly by a wave of cynicism. Neither productive to the recuperative requirements of a weekend away from the motley world of survival.

I got up and dragged in the bushel of gourds I had given to me that afternoon. I will shellac enough for the wooden dough tray and a copper bowl and in a short time they will look like sponges. They never keep well for us no matter how I attempt to preserve them, but they are lovely for a while with their Mexican colours and varied shapes.

The Indians used them for dippers and bowls and I wonder how they preserved them. And they are used as musical instruments in some countries where somehow the pulp is removed and the seeds left in. The rattling seeds make an excellent percussion instrument.

I'd better pick some autumn leaves tomorrow and some materials for a dried winter bouquet. I said to no one in particular. "Also I said to someone in particular," there is a magnificent new book out entitled 'Pods' and we have an anniversary coming up soon."

'Pods' is a beautifully illustrated book on that facet of each plant's life. It would be a tremendous help in identification of species in autumn and winter. It fascinated me when I browsed through it recently and I felt it would add a whole new dimension to my life. A bridge from cynicism to the real facts of life.

I noticed a few knights of the road in recent weeks. I recalled the days of my youth, when occasionally in the spring, a few hoboes came through and most people fed them a hearty meal in return for raking the yard or bringing in some wood. After they finished their apple pie and third cup of tea, they would move on. They were shabby men, but I do not think anyone was ever afraid of them.

There was a rumour that they marked the houses where they were most welcome so others following them would find the best reception, but even though my friends and I searched, we never found a mark anywhere on our village houses. We especially scrutinized the minister's house for they were supposed to be received the best there. So it must have been like an Indian sign.

In our valley, we are visited by the Jehovah Witnesses. They come walking up the lane, always a pair of them, and they are fine, respectable people. They never ask for anything but they will leave their literature. I have to admire them for being willing to serve their faith although it is a strange one to me.

Our opportunities to subscribe to magazines to put people through college has disappeared. The last one that came to Lone Pine shouted at me and waved his fists. I opened the door and let the two dogs out, one of which was a German Shepherd, and he stopped arguing. In fact, he ran to the gate and vanished up the road.

This type of selling has been replaced of course, by telephone soliciting. The scenario goes like this, I have just come in from the garden and am preparing to take a much needed bath, in fact I have usually sunk deep into a soap filled tub, when the phone rings. I struggle up, pull on my robe and drip water on the good carpet all the way to the phone where I am informed that I have been selected to receive a free this or that to celebrate something or other. This enrages me for I cannot see why I should celebrate being removed from the relaxing depths of a much needed bath.

I drip back to the bath, enraged at the unwarranted invasion of the privacy of my home, and while I am sorry for the people who make their living this way, I still would not buy so much as a pin in this manner.

A BROKEN CIGARETTE IS A LITTLE FREEDOM GAINED.

The Editor's Notebook

It's a matter of interest

Most Canadians won't be crying themselves to sleep because of the recent news that the major Canadian banks won't be making as big a profit this year as they did last.

Those with savings accounts in Canadian banks are well aware of the difference in interest rates paid on money in these accounts and the amount of interest consumers pay for borrowing money from the bank. Often it is a staggering difference.

A study by McCarthy Securities Ltd., Toronto, reveals that the profits of the five major chartered banks will drop 22 per cent this year, mostly because of a huge increase in bad loans.

Somehow that story had a similar ring. It seems only last week that the Canadian government bailed Dome Petroleum and several major Canadian banks out of a $7.4-billion debt. The banks made another loan that turned bad?

Rumour was that if the Canadian government didn't step in and rescue both the company and the investors some of the banks wouldn't survive.

Canadian banks seem to hold an enviable position in our society. When times are good, and the banks don't make the mistake of loaning a lot of money to those who can't pay it back, they make huge profits.

The setting of interest rates may explain a portion of the profit.

The amount of interest paid on savings accounts isn't even in the same ball park as the amount of interest the bank charges for loans. Are the costs of administration so high that such a difference is required? Certainly it can't be the average wage of a bank employee that demands the difference in the two interest rates, as most agree they are among the lowest paid.

When times are bad economically, interest rates soar on bank consumer loans, while the interest paid on savings accounts seem to inch a notch or two upward. And if times become really bad, and more and more people stop paying their loans, the bank's profits fall.

But the banks will never have to fear - they will probably never be responsible for their own poor business judgements, in loaning money to those who can't pay it back. The banks are supported by the Canadian government - which is, of course, all Canadians. Even those with savings accounts not earning very much interest. -mary macdonald-

It could happen to you

While this is Agri-Food Week, there is another label for this week that has been around for quite some time. It is Fire Prevention Week.

Most area fire departments will be visiting schools, and talking to the public about fire prevention, some time this week. These firefighters are attempting to help each of us, through education about one of the most horrible of killers.

For our safety, and the safety of those we love, we must listen to what they have to say. If your child comes home from school this week and tells you the school held a practice fire drill with the firemen there watching, show interest. Let your child know, through your concern, that a safe and quick exit from the school building is important.

If there is a display set up by a fire department in your area stop and look at it. They probably could answer some of your questions about fire safety?

With many people using wood stoves and other means of heating their homes more and more, fire departments are attempting to keep informed about preventing fires caused through such new innovations. Share this knowledge with them.

Next time you read a newspaper or hear a news report about a fire, listen carefully. Realize how easily the fire began, and how easily it could happen to anyone.

Your fire department wants to help you before you have a fire. Help them prevent fires.

Farmers income to decline again 70,000 more non-farm jobs to be lost

October 1, 1982

Dear Editor,

At this point in our economic crisis, Canada has a choice to make. We can continue to waste money on non-productive and ineffective government programs, such as large corporate bailouts, energy, self-sufficiency, and ad hoc work programs which only provide a temporary stall in our economic decline.

Or, we can start to recognize the importance of the basic resource industries that built this country and made it propsperous, such as agriculture, forestry, fishing, mining, etc. By stabilizing and supporting these industries now, we can stop the economic decline, re-establish our base, and get on the road to recovery.

Let's take agriculture as an example. According to US government study, it was found that for every $1-million generated by farmers into the economy, 100 other people in the nation are provided with jobs. This means that in 1981, 1.7 million Canadians were employed because Canada's 318,000 farmers generated approximately $17-billion into our economy.

However, since 1980, high interest rates, spiralling input costs together with disastrously low selling prices for many commodities, net farm incomes have eroded. Many farmers have gone bankrupt and most others have either had to sell off assets, increase their debt position, seek off-farm employment or reduce their purchases.

The net effect is less money being circulated into the economy at the grassroots level. This is destroying rural Canada and is now penetrating our urban society with increasing thousands being laid off at companies like Massey-Ferguson, International Harvester, Dofasco, Stelco, railways, etc., etc. The ripple effect continues to the smallest of businesses and to individual Canadians. Agriculture's $130-billion capital investment is probably the largest of any industry in Canada. Affect the farmers' purchasing power and you have serious economic problems.

Now, according to Agriculture Canada's July forecast, net farm income is expected to decline again for 1982, this time by 17 per cent. This is a reduction of about $700-million, leading to approximately 70,000 more non-farm jobs lost. A further decline is also expected for 1983.

Financial restraint is only part of the solution. Stabilizing the economy through support of our essential basic resource industries is also necessary if economic recovery is wanted. Preserve the base now or perish tomorrow.

Emergency income stabilization programs are immediately required for many farm commodities if society wants these farmers to survive. Farmers cannot wait any longer for their provincial and federal ministers to decide on realistic national programs. Nor can the country survive as a whole if the separate and unequal provincial stabilization schemes are allowed to continue.

Federal and provincial jealousies and differences must be set aside to resolve these problems in agriculture today. We must also stop listening to the ridiculous debate on marketing boards and meaningless environmental issues by the space cadets in our society.

Low farm commodity prices are the result of a surplus supply. But farmers are in a "catch 22" situation. They cannot afford to grow the crops nor can they afford not to. Society has benefitted from the production efforts of our farmers for a long time, but now comes the time when society has to share the costs and risks in order that we may all prosper again. Canadians may have to pay farmers not to grow crops, but up surpluses, increase exports, or share in some way the cost of stabilization and recovery.

Our government financial and investment policies have led to a situation where we are deeply concerned about the lack of foreign and business investment, yet we understand that Canadians' personal savings accounts now total into the billions of dollars.

Imagine the potential if government business investment incentives were changed. Imagine the potential for job creation if individual Canadians could receive tax advantages through investment in certain if individual Canadians could receive tax advantages through investment in certain industries. We did it for the Canadian movie industry. Imagine if agriculture, food and other important basic industries could be partly unburdened from their high interest costs. Farmers alone paid $2.2-billion in interest costs on their debts in 1981 - an increase of $600-million from 1980. It would seem that more Canadians would benefit by having that money percolate up from the grassroots rather than go directly into financial institutions.

There are many other possibilities that can be explored. For example, in 1980, Canada exported close to $8-billion in food products and imported about $5-billion. This gave Canada a trade surplus of $2.7-billion - a very positive gain. However, about $3.5-billion of these imports consisted of identical products grown in Canada. Buying Canadian grown and processed products could have provided an additional 350,000 jobs in the non-farm workplace. There is also great potential in exports sales in the future.

Let's rearrange our priorities while there is still some remaining hope and confidence.

DATA Day organizers thank contributors

The Editor,
The Chesterville Record.

Dear Sir:

The organizers of DATA Day '82, held on Sat., Sept. 18th would like to thank all those who in any way contributed to the success of this 3rd annual information program for young people.

The overwhelming response of citizens from Morrisburg and surrounding communities to the appeals for assistance in providing such a program is most encouraging.

While a handful of people can organize such an event, the overall result is totally dependent on the cooperation and support of all concerned citizens. You are the people who made DATA Day such a success!

Only through total community awareness will the problems of drug and alcohol abuse and the consequences of such action be dealt with effectively.

The special guests who so willingly contributed their time and talents so the program all expressed pleasure and amazement at the spirit and initiative shown by this community. They found it encouraging to see a community band together in such a positive manner, in an attempt to place the problems of such abuse in their proper perspective, and commended this community on its unique approach to a worldwide social illness.

To all who helped in any way, through donations of time, money, or food, and especially to the press, who have been so supportive in promoting these programs, our most sincere thanks.

Yours truly,
THE DATA Committee

Farm wives acknowledge, "Mother had it harder" without conveniences

(Staff) - Part of the purpose of Agri-Food Week (Oct. 4 to 8) is to familiarize urban (and town) dwellers with the roles of farmers and their wives. This public relations campaign has actually been underway for several years, fostered by Women for the Survival of Agriculture (WSA).

WSA pioneer Dianne Harkin, a Winchester area farm woman was also involved in the public relations committee of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture as chairman which is where the seed of Agri-Food week was sown.

WSA provides an indicator of how the role of the farm wife has changed through the years, said Mrs. Harkin earlier this week.

Two women who have seen first-hand how farm wives have changed are Marion Byers of the Crysler area and Alida Scheepers, of RR2 Winchester. Both women were raised on a farm and saw their mothers taking an active part in the farm. And both have seen their own farm operations and children grow to the point where they are called on for occasional help. Neither of their husbands, Archie Byers and Peter Scheepers, have a full-time hired man but do have a full grown son to help with farm duties.

Although both women agree they make an important contribution to the farm and provide farm and barn labor when the need arises, they acknowledge that their mothers had it tougher.

Alida and her husband milk Holsteins in Winchester Township. She was raised on a dairy farm as part of a family of five girls and two boys.

Farming was a family affair, she recalls. During haying lunches were brought to the field and the youngest children safely stowed beneath a tree while the work went on.

The older children might be allowed to drive the horses (there was no money for tractors though they were available).

The garden, then as now, she said, belonged to the woman. The washing of milk cans, feeding calves and washing the milkers was always mother's job.

Her mother's generation were an important part of the farm but she can't say she remembers her parents being equal partners. The women had the house as their domain and the men had the barns.

When she and her husband were married, they moved to the city; Peter worked as a crane operator and she as a teacher. She remembered the work involved in a farm and didn't want to be tied to that. The entire time the couple lived in Ottawa (July until March), however, there had to be animals in the house and Peter went crazy with the little there was to do in the city, she recalls.

When they made the decision to move back to Winchester and operate the family farm in partnership with Peter's father, it was a disappointment for her.

When, two babies later, the elder Mr. Scheepers wanted out of farming, Alida found herself helping to milk 50 cows and tending for calves. In fact, until her due date for both younger sons, Kevin and Duane, she milked until the last day and then took two weeks off.

Now, however, she has four sons who help with barn chores and field work. It is truly a team effort where everyone has their own duties. If all hands are occupied Alida could find herself trucking a load of cattle to the sale barn, picking rocks or milking the entire herd.

The four boys have provided a break but Alida doesn't delude herself that the situation will continue forever. She has seen other friends whose children grow up and go away; they soon find themselves back in the barn regularly at the age of 45.

Marion Byers, homemaker, school bus driver and farm wife, declares herself 'spoiled'. After more than 25 years of marriage she feels she is the 'emergency' helper rather than a full-time outside worker.

She and her husband, Archie rely heavily on their son, Brent, 22, who does the milking of their purebred Holsteins and without whom they would have to re-examine being on the farm, she said.

When Marion was growing up as part of a family of seven boys and two girls, she helped in the high season field chores but never in the barn since neither she nor her older sister were allowed to see things like cows freshening.

After she and Archie lived in the city and returned home weekends, she began to help out more since her brothers had begun to move away, too, but had never seen a cow freshen until she and her new husband arrived at their Crysler area farm two years after they were married.

Marion remembers her mother as an equal partner to her father, helping to plan the strategy of when to sell what grain or buy what livestock. She helped in the fields and her pocket money was the popular chicken and turkey flock.

There was no doubt in either her or Archie's mind they would return to the farm, she remembers. City jobs of office work for Marion and two jobs for Archie would definitely be traded in for farm life. The two jobs weren't to raise the couple's bank account, clarifies Marion, rather she said, Archie went crazy in the city with nothing to do in the evenings.

When the young couple moved on to the farm Archie's father bought for them, they begun with only a few cows, no hydro and no water, remembers Marion who now boasts a comfortable and well-appointed modern bungalow remodelled from their once two-storey farm house.

Their two children, Cheryl and Brent were taken to the barn and secured in their cradles to the wall, remembers their mother, while milking took place. Her granddaughter would never stand for that, she laughs, being such a busy little thing.

Somehow, back then, things were just done; it didn't seem hard, said Marion. Now, however, she enjoys the conveniences she and her husband have worked hard to earn.

Record Recipes

by Chris Brown

After having taken some mail and calls for a repeat of a last year's recipe I decided to look it up and reprint it rather than keep looking it up. 'Lo and behold, when I did, it turns out last year's printing was also a reprint. How time flies when you're having fun!

As with my comments last year, there isn't much time left to get those last few (or many) off the vines and into the basement.

Green tomato mincemeat is a great way to use up the unripened stubborn laggards as well as providing a tasty pie that offers no hint of its main ingredient.

When sealed the jars keep well and I'm still using up last year's big batch.

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT

8 lb. green tomatoes (weighed after chopped and drained)
4 lb. brown sugar
1 lb. currants
1 cup suet
2 tsp. salt
1 lb. raisins
4 cups choppped and peeled apples
1 cup vinegar
½ cup molasses
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 cup, any fruit juice
½ to 1 cup rum, optional

Chop the tomatoes and then place them in a large kettle of cold water. Bring this to a boil then set aside for half an hour. Drain them, add more cold water and boil again. Drain them thoroughly then.

Add the sugar, currants, suet, raisins, apples, salt, vinegar and molasses. Boil hard for 15 to 20 minutes. Add the spices and the fruit juice and bottle in sterlized jars. Cover with paraffin wax or cap loosely and then process by the boiling water method.

I prefer paraffin since it wastes less time and the sugar-vinegar preserve the fruit.

The rum is added to taste during the last boiling minutes. When I got this recipe the rum was not in it so it certainly doesn't suffer by the absence but it certainly does pick it up!

WI history an eye opener

(Staff) - An organization that has been particularly active in publicizing the predicament of modern-day farmers has been Women for the Survival of Agriculture. Nearly 100 years ago, an equally foresighted group of women formed the informed vanguard of farmers' wives - the Women's Institute.

Begun as a offshoot of the Farmer's Institute in Stony Creek, the original purpose of the Women's Institute (as it became known as its second meeting) was to "promote that knowledge of Household Science which shall lead to improvement in household architecture with special attention to home sanitation, to a better understanding of the economic and hygenic value of foods and fuels and to a more scientific care of children with a view of raising the general health of our people."

The founder of WI was a woman considered to be a radical in her time, Adelaide Hunter Hoodless.

Mrs. Hoodless was spurred into her campaign against faulty health practices by the death of her youngest child who drank contaminated milk. According to the book, Ontario Women's Institute Story, Mrs. Hoodless was even more shocked to learn that many babies were dying from the same cause and was forming the theory that domestic science should be taught to girls as part of their formal education.

Among Mrs. Hoodless' other campaigns were an effort to teach girls better household methods through the fledgling Young Women's Christian Associaton (YWCA) and the founding of MacDonald Institute in Guelph and MacDonald College at St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, where Domestic Science was offered as a degree program.

According to the Ontario Women's Institute Story, "She was ridiculed in the press and from some pulpits as one of the despised 'new women'. Her ideas were said to be wild. Why doesn't she stay home and look after her children? was one of the questions asked about her."

Mrs. Hoodless was also instrumental in the formation of a Home Economics branch of the provincial government.

Although the present WI groups tend to be viewed as a combination social and service club, when they found their beginnings back in Stony Creek, WI was an instrument of social change.

A parallel that can be drawn between Mrs. Hoodless and WSA organizer Dianne Harkin is the efforts the two women made to attend 'regular' farmers' meetings.

Mrs. Hoodless saw the need for women to be involved in such things as the farmers were learning, sanitation, health and other related topics, but she wanted the principles applied to human health.

Mrs. Harkin went to farm meetings to be more involved in her farm's life. She said she felt tolerated by the men and not entirely welcome.

Instead then, in 1975 during International Women's Year some 25 women decided to learn the isseus and how to go about farm lobbying in an effort to use their skills to help their family farms.

The first-ever Farm Women's Conference was held in December, 1980 at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa as part of the group's lobbying and as a result of one of Mrs. Harkin's suggestion at an Ontario Federation of Agriculture meeting Agri-Food Week (Oct. 4 to 11) was born.

The week began as an agricultural appreciation week, she said but grew to embrace every aspect of the industry.

Mrs. Harkin said she began by attending Women's Institute meetings but became frustrated with the procedure involved in bringing about change through that organization.

One day WSA will have outlived its purpose and some other group will rise to answer the needs of its particular participants, she concluded.

Midget winners

Glengarry District High School played host to four teams in the first invitational midget soccer tournament of the SD and G athletic schedule. La Citadelle rolled through the four team round robin for the first place trophy, defeating St. Lawrence 5-2, Glengarry 2-0 and Char-Lan 6-1. Here, La Citadelle captain Pete Fornasier accepts the trophy from Mr. Frazer, the tournament organizer.

Judy Erola addresses women's conference Oct. 16

CORNWALL (Special) - A local group's concerns with the issue of women's rights in the Canadian constitution and a sociologist's desire to concern her students with local issues have resulted in a conference on women's issues to be held at St. Lawrence College Sat., Oct. 16.

Judy Erola, Minister of State for Mines and Minister responsible for the Status of Women will be the keynote guest speaker at the conference.

The topic of her address will be "The Impact of the Canadian Constitution on Women".

The conference is being co-sponsored by the Cornwall campus of the University of Ottawa and St. Lawrence College.

Jeannine Poirier, U of O co-ordinator here, said the idea for the conference came from a group of local women who had gotten together last November for informal discussions at the time when women's rights in the new constitution were being debated at the national level.

The group got together with sociologist and part-time U of O teacher Jocelyne Talbot who has, in her own words, "a long history of involvement in the feminist movement," and is "a person who believes in equal rights".

She also considers the conference a means of encouraging students in her sociology classes at the Cornwall campus to look at local issues in conjunction with the theoretical aspects of their studies.

Through her teaching at the Cornwall campus Talbot has become familiar with many of the local groups already concerned with women's issues. She said the coming conference will allow these groups to get together to share concerns.

The day-long conference will open with a multicultural panel, discussion that will include a francophone, an anglophone and a native woman.

Judy Erola's address is scheduled for the second half of the morning and the afternoon will be devoted to workshops and a plenary session.

Three workshops will be conducted simultaneously in English and French. They are entitled "Women and Health", "Violence Against Women", and "Masculine and Feminine Stereotyping".

The workshop "Women-Employment-Management" will be conducted in English only and "Les hommes et la sexualite" will be conducted in French only.

Talbot said one purpose of the conference is to eliminate myths about stereotpyes and the women's movement.

Another aim is to encourage women to take positive steps to correct injustices. "You may complain," said Talbot, "but what are you going to do about it?"

To register or for more information on the conference, contact Jeannine Poirier at 938-6989.

Rose Marie Hauch wins bronze medal in Australia and the confidence of her father in Chesterville

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Rose Marie Hauch had no doubts about doing well when she left for Brisbane, Australia and the Commonwealth Games in September. Since her students days at North Dundas District High School, the Chesterville resident has accumulated countless hours of training in her quest to become the best female shot putter in the world.

Her father, however, wasn't as sure. He was proud of her accomplishments but felt that she may have already reached her peak.

Matthias Hauch is sure now. On Tuesday morning he received a call from a neighbour asking if he had heard the news. His 24-year-old daughter had won Canada a bronze medal.

"I didn't see it myself," he said of his daughter's televised performance. "I had been watching a lot of the games but I can't be glued to the darn thing all day."

But missing it on television hasn't dampened his enthusiasm for her achievement.

"I was excited and proud for her. After all the hard work and effort she put into it, you like to see some results. There will be no stopping her now."

"I suppose she knew she was going to do something. The Ottawa national meet (Hauch, just back from meets in Europe, threw 15.85 metres, far below her personal best of 16.96 metres) was a disappointment for her. She wanted to prove what she could really do at the Commonwealth Games."

Matthias Hauch admitted that he didn't share the same amount of confidence. He had seen her throwing distances decline as the games approached and he thought her decision to train with Toronto throwing coach Ivan Pentarch for two weeks before the Canadian team left for Australia would do more harm than good.

"For a while she seemed to win everything. We have medals all over the house. But then she slowed down and I thought maybe that was it. I went along with her training but I told her a few times that I didn't think she was going to go any further than this."

"She told me her coach said she could do it. She knew she could do it."

"I guess I didn't really understand the sport, how long it takes to improve. When she went to Tornoto I was worried that she would get confused with new and old techniques, that it would hurt her throwing."

"Now, I don't have any doubts left in me."

Rose Marie Hauch earned her bronze medal with a throw of 16.91 metres. Judith Oakes of England finished in first with a distance of 17.92 metres, a Commonwealth Games record, and Australia's Gail Mulhall placed second with a throw of 17.68 metres.

Carmen Inesco, who finished ahead of Hauch at the nationals in Ottawa this summer, finished in sixth place. The Bruno, Quebec native threw a distance of 16.80 metres.

In the mid-1970s, Rose Marie Hauch was the star athlete in North Dundas District High School's track and field program under the direction of Hugh Conlin, becoming the first athlete at the school to win a gold medal at the provincial championships.

Her first attempt at the Commonwealth Games in 1978 ended in disappointment. In the shot put trials for the Canadian team, where only the top two finishers were eligible for selection, she placed third.

Matthias Hauch said his daughter's pursuit of her goal has had a high price, not only in physical effort but with money.

During her two week stay in Toronto, she was forced to stay in a hotel while she trained. The bill came to $500.

And more money wil be needed if she is to realize her plans of training in Germany for a year in preparation for the 1984 Olympics.

"It doesn't seem fair," her father said. "It's a struggle for athletes to survive. Because of their training it's hard to hold a full time job. And unless you win you don't seem to get much money."

But he feels the effort and money is worth it. He would, however, like to see a replay of the shot put event on television.

"I flipped the channels around this morning and all I heard about was that the Canadians had climbed Mount Everest.

To him Rose Marie Hauch had climbed her own personal Mount Everest.

Winchester Township Snowmobile Club back on the tracks

WINCHESTER (Staff) - After a year's absence, the Winchester Township Snowmobile Association is back in business for the 1982-83 season.

The announcement was made during a September 28 meeting in which an executive committee was selected. It had been vacant positions on the executive last year which had forced the club to cancel its activities.

"It shows there is still interest", said Bob Larose, co-founder of the club which started in 1976. "We stopped operating last year because nobody wanted to run it. We resolved to try it again this year and we got the 10 people we needed to run the club. In fact, 29 people attended the meeting, more than we've had for a while."

Serving the areas of Chesterville, Morewood, and Winchester, the Winchester Snowmobile Association is responsible for maintaining about 320 kilometres of trails, working out agreements with land owners to allow snowmobile operators on their land, providing operating lessons, and setting up social events.

Larose admitted the lack of interest led to the cancellation of the club's activities last year, and that the membership in 1981 was just half of what it was three years ago, but said they were the effect of causes club organizers couldn't control.

"The weather conditions played a big part", he said. "People wait until there is snow, and not just the first snowfall, before they think of signing up. Last year there wasn't much of it."

And then, he added, there was the economy. "The snowmobile I bought in 1977 for $900 is now $2,400. That's quite a difference. Obviously some people are going to hestiate at the cost of owning and maintaining a snowmobile."

Larose said the problems were shared by clubs across Ontario and that several, including some larger than Winchester, were forced to cancel their season.

He said that the resurgeance of the Winchester club, which was named a few years ago as one of the best in the province by the Ministry of Natural Resources, would be beneficial to both snowmobile operators and the community at large.

"To me, it's the only safe way to snowmobile. We provide paths (with a tractor-pulled machine that "grooms" two lanes in the snow and fills in holes in the path) that keep them off the road We're trying to make it a safe sport."

"And the landowners", he said, "have given us an extremely good response. The paths have reduced incidents of fence cutting by people who get lost. Our paths are all well signed so that drivers know that if they follow it they are going to get out."

"In fact", he added, "last year I personally got calls from landowners who wanted to help keep the club going."

The safety aspect will also be enhanced by the resumption of riding lessons, Larose said. Available to those 12 years of age and over, the lessons are a credited course with the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs and the Ministry of Transport.

"It's been very successful over the years", he said. "In the three years it's been going, we've trained about 200 people. The safety aspect is stressed and if they don't pass the course test they don't get their licence."

As for the club's chance at surviving the second time around, Larose said he's confident.

"The interest is there and the money looks like it will be there. Of course, you'd never get enough members to support a club. We've always stayed in the black but only because of government grants. This year the government has changed the law to allow us to use a "user pay" system for those using our trails. That will help."

The Winchester Township Snowmobile Club will be holding its next meeting on October 14 at the Winchester Community Centre at 8pm.

Pioneers hold awards night

BOUCK'S HILL (Staff) - The Williamsburg Senior "A" Pioneers wound up the 1982 season here on October 2 with an awards ceremony commemorating a year in the Metro Fastball League that, while not their best, was still impressive.

For pitcher Danny Hogaboam, the individual awards became a pleasant repeat of last year's ceremonies and firmly established him as the team's, and the league's ace pitcher.

Hogaboam received the league trophy as best pitcher for the second year in a row as well as being named the team's most valuable player. He was presented with the Arden Tricky Trophy by Marjorie Tricky.

On September 18, at the league's annual banquet in Aylmer, Quebec, Hogaboam was presented with the Braves Du Coin Trophy as the top pitcher in the Metro Fastball League.

Only in his second year on the circuit, he continued in 1982 the form that earned him the league's MVP and Rookie of the Year awards in 1981.

This year Hogaboam struck 133 batters and fashioned an incredible ERA of 1.00 in 91 innings.

And he also proved that he could come through in clutch situations this season. In a special presentation, his teammates awarded him a trophy for his perfect game against the Hull Volants in the last game of the regular schedule, a win that propelled the Pioneers into the playoffs.

Mike Waddell presented the Phil Casselman Memorial Trophy for sportsmanlike conduct to Jim Hand while Perry Morrell was picked as the recipient of the Ken Barber Trophy as the most improved player.

The George Strader trophy for the leading hitter went to "Big" Doug Casselman. Casselman held on to the league batting average for most of the season, dropping into second place with .322 as the season ended. He maintained the lead with the highest number of singles, getting to first base safely 17 times.

The Pioneers also demonstrated during the awards ceremony that they are not a team that dumps their veterans. In what now has become a tradition, the team presented a gift of luggage to players celebrating their tenth anniversary with the Pioneers. Bill Hogaboam received the luggage this year.

The awards night wasn't strictly for the Pioneers, however. Their namesakes in the Squirt division were treated to meals and individual trophies for their success in reaching the finals of the All-Ontario Squirt tournament held in Kingston last month.

The senior Pioneers had supplied the Squirt club with uniforms and money for the tournament.

HOMEOWNERS
HOLD YOUR BREATH AND READ THIS.

If your chimney is defective, your house may be feeling just like you do right now. Because heating systems take in oxygen and release carbon dioxide. Just like you do.

But when a furnace can't get enough oxygen, or carbon dioxide can't escape, your house can't "breathe." Carbon monoxide can be created and that is a dangerous situation for you and your family.

A clean and clear chimney is necessary to vent your furnace properly.

Here are some warning signs of chimney deterioration:

- ☐ loose mortar and bricks
- ☐ white powder or water stains on chimney above roof
- ☐ water stains at the chimney's clean-out door.

YOU MAY NEED A CHIMNEY LINER TO PREVENT EROSION OF THE MASONRY.

For your safety, and for your peace of mind, have your heating system and chimney inspected and cleaned annually by a qualified contractor. You and your house will both breathe a sigh of relief.

North Dundas senior girls get first win

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Although it's early in the season, coach Chris Bowen considered it an important victory as the North Dundas District High School senior girls defeated the Glengarry Gaels 28-23 at North Dundas on September 30.

Bowen, in his first year behind the bench, said the win was a big lift after losing their SD and G season opener 48-24 to Vankleek Hill Collegiate.

"It's good to get the first win under our belt. It wasn't too long in coming."

Bowen said he'd like to see improvement in the North Dundas attack but added that things are now falling in place.

"We had a very short practice season and so the team is learning as they play", Bowen said. "I think the team learned a lot from their mistakes last week."

North Dundas led the game from the beginning, chalking up quarter leads of 8-6, 21-14, 25-16, and 28-23.

The offence was sparked by the play of Alice Koekkoek who was good for 10 points including a pair of foul shots. Adding to the attack with four points was Deane Saunders. Patti Milne, Debbie McVey, J. Freda, Tracy McIntosh, Nicole Van Vlaaderen, and Paula Rhyndress each contributed a pair of points.

Glengarry's highest scorer, Ann Morris, was held to two baskets.

Glengarry coach Mike Owens, also in his first year behind the bench, said he didn't want to take anything away from the play of the North Dundas squad but said his team is still trying to learn to adjust to the larger gyms.

"One of the disadvantages of coming from a small school", he said, "is the size of the gym. The kids are having a hard time adapting to the larger surface."

Owens said he was pleased with his team's performance despite the loss. "The kids really put out the effort. It was basically a case of a day when they are not going in."

The loss left Glengarry tied with North Dundas with a record of one win and one loss. Glengarry won its opener against Hawkesbury 54-20.

Winchester trap, skeet shoot off

WINCHESTER (Staff) - The Winchester Trap and Skeet Club held its annual shoot off in Winchester on October 3.

In the Trap "A" class, Don Adams placed first ahead of Garry Elliott and Danny Leblanc.

Eldon Holmes was the winner in the Trap "B" class while Jake Geertsma and Gary Hoy took second and third place honors.

The Trap "C" class was taken by Fred Laforge. Reg Baird came in second.

Harry Leblanc finished in first place in the "A" class of the Skeet shooting event while Jake Geertsma topped the field in the "B" class. Doug Ball finished second and Gary Hoy placed third.

The winning order in the "C" class was Garry Elliott, Eldon Holmes, and Fred Laforge.

Women's self-defence course set

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - There is no warning. As the young woman passes an alley entrance, she is grabbed by the arm and swung against the wall. Before she can scream, a hand is pushed flat against her mouth while the other draws her body towards his.

The blows come in quick succession. She lifts her knee sharply into his groin and then jams her thumbs into his eyes. As he falls back, she rushes from the alley to get help.

Andy Forward, a black belt in the martial art Tae Kwon Do, is not a proponent of violence. In fact, he emphasizes that Tae Kwon Do, popularly known as Korean Karate is a sport and one that is being groomed for inclusion in the 1988 Olympics. But he doesn't deny that the techniques learned in the sport are invaluable for incidents like the above.

On October 30 and 31, Forward, a teacher at the Chesterville Tae Kwon Do Club, and Winchester OPP constable Gary Imbeau will hold a four hour course on self-defense for women at Maple Ridge Public School. The course will focus not only on how to escape from an attacker but also on how to avoid attacks and what to do after an attack.

"We're not going to take a woman and in four hours make her into a fighting machine", Forward says. "We want to equip them with the knowledge to keep them from completely panicking, so that they can defend themselves and escape."

And escape, he says, will be the focus of the course.

"A woman can't actually fight with an animal that outweighs her by 100 lbs. but at least we can teach her a few principles on how to create those few seconds that allows her to escape."

OPP constable Gary Imbeau agrees with the emphasis of the course.

"The main thing in any kind of self-defense", he says, "is to have an escape route. The rule of thumb is that what you first see and think you can handle may not be as it appears."

"The OPP's position on defending yourself is to use common sense. There's a danger in people who are partly trained in attempting to defend themselves. They over-react and get in trouble. This course will teach defence at close quarters, it's not an attack program. In other words, if you can get away, you will."

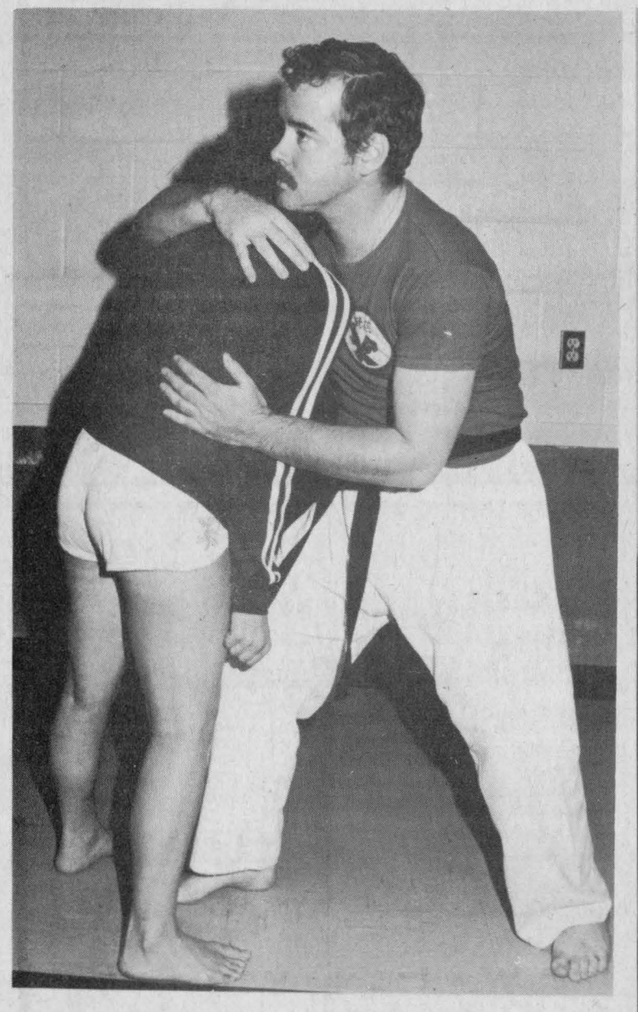
Imbeau says women must also know that their escape is not the end of the episode. They must report the incident to the police immediately or face the prospect of defending themselves again, this time in court.

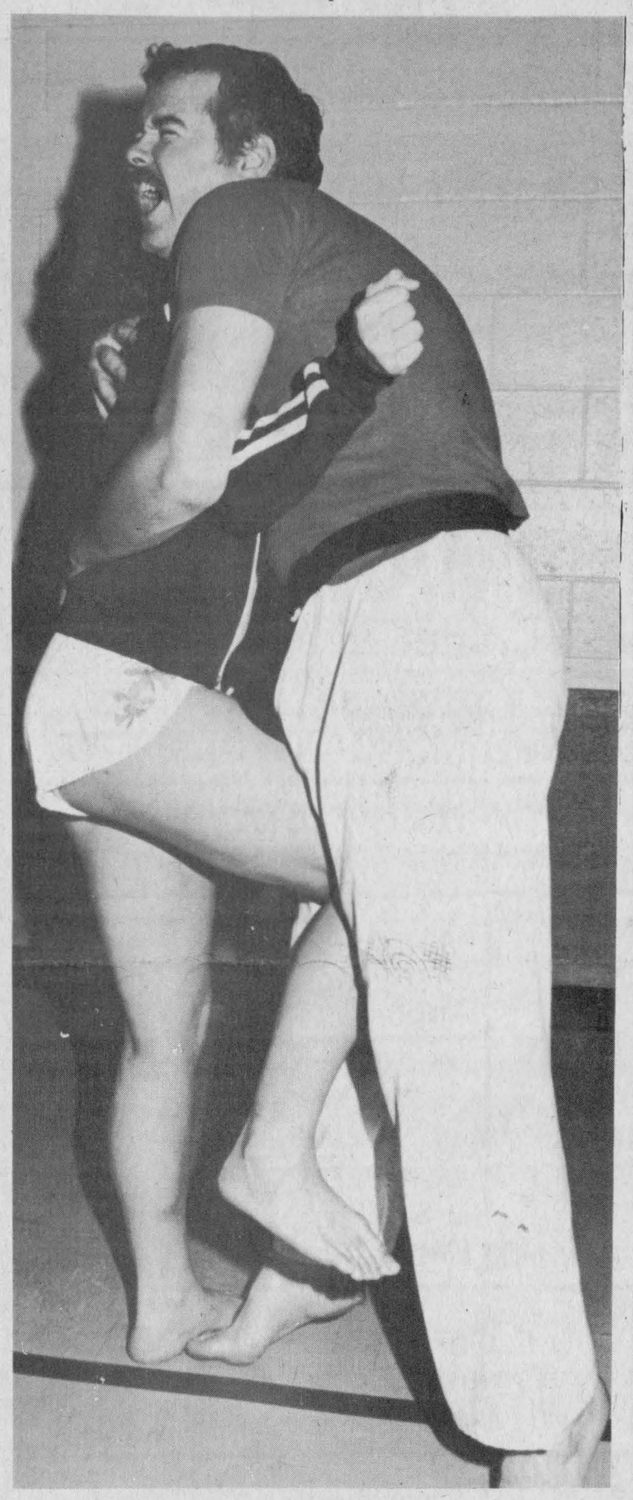
A man who has had his eyes gouged, Imbeau says, may report it to the police and fabricate a story with the woman as the agressor. A woman's plea of self-defense becomes more difficult to prove when a charge of assault is laid against her first.

Andy Forward says the club decided to run the course, which a modified version of a women's self-defense program run by the Tae Eun Lee Tae Kwon Do schools in Ottawa, because of a demand from women themselves.

The class will be closed to men to "minimize self-consciousness about trying this sort of thing."

The course will be held on October 30 and 31 from 2 to 4pm at Maple Ridge Public School. The registration fee is $10 per person.





Tae Kwon Do teacher Andy Forward and Angela Wade show some of the moves that will be taught when the Chesterville Tae Kwon Do club holds a self-defence program for woman on October 30 and 31. The four hour class, Forward says, will emphasize ways of escaping rather than trying to turn the student into a martial arts fighter. OPP constable Barry Imbreau will give a talk on how women can protect themselves against attack.
