Home Garden Competition, 1923

Home Garden Competitions have become an important feature in the agriculture education of the boys and girls of the Province. Numerous of these Competitions are held in the different Counties and they are becoming increasingly popular from year to year. ### Mr. Silas C. Merkley, Williamsburg

The community of Williamsburg mourns the death of a highly respected citizen in the person of Mr. Silas C. Merkley, who passed from death into life on October 3rd, 1923, at his late home near Williamsburg, at the ripe old age of 86 years. He was predeceased by his wife about eleven years ago. The The late Mr. Merkley was a man of retiring disposition, a kindly nature and a good friend and neighbor. He is survived by three daughters, Sarah and G. Mae at home, Mrs. Myers of Toronto, and one son Harry of Ottawa. Also one sister, Maggie, survives. The funeral service was conducted in the Lutheran Church by his pastor, Rev. Theo. Isler, on Friday afternoon.

Rena Merkley, Williamsburg

The Angel of Death has again visited the vicinity of Williamsburg and claimed as its own the bright promising young life of Rena, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Merkley on Monday morning, October 15th, 1923, aged 13 years and one month. Her death, which occured after only a few days' illness, was a shock to the community. She was of a kind and gentle disposition and will be missed by her school mates, but most of all in her home by her parents and sisters.

She leaves to mourn, her father and mother and three sisters.

The fuueral service which was held at her late home on Tuesday afternoon was conducted by Rev. Howe of Elma. Interment was made in Mariatown cemetery. The pall bearers were four former school mates: Claire Carkner, Arthur Loucks, John E. McIntosh and George Barkley.

Mr. and Mrs. Merkley have the sincere sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

Duck Hunter's Close Call From Suffocation in Bog

Russell Coburn, a game warden residing in North Hastings, had a narrow escape from death in a bog in Conroy's marsh, near Robinson Lake. He was hunting ducks when he upset from a canoe and sank into a bog from which he could not extricate himself. His cries for heip brought Inspector W. Nugent and Fred Brandt to his assistance, they being nearby.

When rescued Coburn had sunk up to his shoulders and was only extricated after much difficulty.

Justice Not Always Slow

Philadelphia Bulletin—The State of Georgia was the scene recently of a sensational murder case, apparently a sort of tribal execution. The father of a large family, it was alleged, decided one of his daughters was not well treated by her husband and, calling on his sons and other sons-in-law for help, had the offending husband lured to a secluded spot and killed. It was a peculiar case, sure to make much talk, perhaps likely to arouse syn pathy for the accused, admirably calculated to make it difficult to obtain impartial jurors in a country community, certainly teeming with opportunities to invoke the law's delays, if only because of the number of defendants.

Within three weeks after the killing, the victim's father-in-law had been convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to be hanged this month. Next day one of the sons was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life. Three more men of the family were tried in one day, a son being found guilty and given life imprisonment and a son and son-in law being allowed to plead guilty of involuntary man-slaughter and be sentenced to three years in prison. At this writing a despatch from Newman, Ga., records that the sixth defendant has been put on trial for murder, within a month of the crime.

Family executions will be rare in Georgia for some time to come. Such work in the cause of justice does much toward offsetting the great harm done by poor work. Since we may at times have expressed unfavorable opinions of legal delays or practices, we feel bound to give praise to Georgia justice as exemplified at Newman. If justice were always administered in as prompt and stern a manner, murders would be far less common than they are.

Why Those Tears?

A teacher, trying to impress upon her children the importance of kindness to animals, took them for a walk in order to bring the lesson home to them.

Hearing a scream from little Johnny, she asked: "What's the matter, Johnny?"

"Ive been sitting on a wasp," was the tearful response, "and I'm afraid I've hurt the poor thing."

Whittaker the Optician will be in Chesterville on November 13th Finch 15th.

Sits On Dynamite is Blown To Pieces

Anthony Fernandez, 46, a native of Portugal, committed suicide at five o'clock Friday morning at Tupper Lake, a short distance east of Ogdensburg by exploding a heavy charge of dynamite which blew his body literally to pieces. He arose before daylight and went to the stone quarry where he had been employed for some time as dynamite expert. A sharp blast was heard, which, owing to the unusual hour was commented upon by many. Upon investigation the remains of Fernandez were discovered. He had placed two sticks of dynamite in a hole drilled the previous day, attached the battery wires and seated himself over the charge turned the lever on the battery. His body was blown to pieces, only the head and the upper part of the chest remaining.

After he had been severely gored by a bull on his farm at Notre Dame de Stanbridge early Monday morning, Francois Fontaine, 50, was saved from death at the horns of the enraged animal by the courage of his collie dog, Prince, which attacked and drove away the bull. Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. ### Dundas Teacher' Institute

The forty-ninth annual meeting of the Dundas Teachers' Institute was held at Morrisburg on Thursday and Friday of last week. The convention was opened by the president, Mr. J. C Fetterly, who gave an address on "Methods to aid discipline". He was followed by Mr. W.K. Farlinger, reeve of Morrisburg, who in a few well chosen words warmly welcomed the visitors to town.

At the afternoon session Miss Jean Beach led a discussion on "Methods of teaching spelling." Mr. J. E. Dawson gave a most interesting account of a trip to the coast which he had taken during the summer. Miss Luella Burnside who had taken a similar trip by a different route described some interesting scenes.

The convention was fortunate in having as one of the speakers Mr. H. W. Kerfoot of the Ottawa Normal School, who addressed the teachers on "Problems in School Management" A discussion followed led by Mr. D. L. Collison.

The last address of this session was by Mr. P. S. Boyd, who spoke on "The Simplification of the Curriculum". The discussion was led by Mr. R. Coligan, after which a resolution was passed by the convention to petition the Department of Education, asking that English History be eliminated from the new course of study for public schools.

After the meeting, cars provided by the citizens of Morrisburg, were waiting to convey the teachers to the Tack & Nail Co.'s factory.

The evening programme of moving pictures, music and sociability was most enjoyable.

Friday morning Miss Luella Burnside, delegate to the O.E.A., gave a splendid report of the meeting held in Toronto at Easter.

Mr. W. H. Kerfoot spoke on "Methods in Reading", discussion led by Mr. G. A. Foulds.

Mr. Springstead, District Rep. Department of Agriculture, addressed the teachers on "Teaching Agriculture Scientifically". This was of particular value to the teachers of rural schools; a discussion followed by Miss Ellice Smith.

Prof. E. K. Hampson of the Kemptville Agricultural School, made clear to the teachers the advantages offered to the girls and boys, pointing out the practical, scientific, cultural and economical value of the course.

Rev. C. O Carson gave an address on "Education".

Mr. Orvil E. Ault spoke on the "Basis of Legislative grants to schools and effects on salaries, with suggestions for improvements."

One of the new features of the convention introduced by Inspector H. B. Fetterly, M. A. was community singing. This proved a great success.

At the afternoon session a discussion on "Teaching Carpeting" was led by Mrs. E. M. Ennis and Miss Annable. This was followed by a discussion of the Entrance and Examinations.

Inspector Fetterly had charge of the Question Drawer and succeeded in clearing up many difficulties of the teachers.

Mr. Boyd in his address on "Jr. Red Cross" showed definitely its place on the school curriculum. Mr. Boyd has been appointed to help organize the Red Cross in the schools of Dundas.

Miss Mae Skilling gave a demonstration with the Columbia Grafanola to show its use in public schools.

New committees were formed for the year 1923—24 and a resolution passed accepting the invitation, extended by Prof. Hampson, to celebrate the Institute's 50th anniversary at Kemptville Agricultural School.

Looked That Way

Doris was radiant over a recent addition to the family, and rushed ont of the house to tell the news to a passing neighbour.

"Oh, you don't know what we've got upstairs?"

"What is it?" the neighbor asked.

"A new baby brother," said Doris, and she watched very closely the effect of her announcement.

"You don't say so!" the neighbor exclaimed. "Is he going to stay?"

"I think so." said Doris. He's got his things off."

Bull Plunges into Canal

Cornwall Standard—On Friday night last as a local drover was leading a two year old bull down Water Street at the end of a sturdy rope, the animal bolted across the grass just West of the sheds of the Canada Steamships Co. and went headlong into the canal. The drover called for assistance and Messrs. Vane Silmser and R. J. Fitzgerald, who have their offices at the wharf, responded, but this trio were not able to pull the bull out alone, so Mr. Fitzgerald enlisted the services of Officer Cowhey, who was patrolling his beat near the scene at the time, and a couple of other gentlemen, and an extra rope was fastened to one of the animal's hind legs by Mr. Silmser and it was pulled safely over the coping and marched away as if nothing had happened.

Humanity's Mirror

The newspaper gives an accurate picture of the times. When you read a newspaper, remember that the things you read there are the things that the greatest number of people are interested in and that in future generations, when the people of that far distant day desire to know how you lived, what your ideals and ambitions were, what things you attach most value to, they will look over the files of the newspapers.

If you desire the newspapers to show to coming generations that this generation is one of lofty ideals, that home life is sacred, that a man is valued for what he holds in his heart and in his head rather than for what he holds in the bank, that rests with you.

Tight-Rope Thrills

Miss Eleanora, an English tight-rope walker, had announced her intention of crossing Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, early in June. Should she succeed she will not be the first to accomplish this perilious feat.

It was in 1859 that Blondin announced his determination to cross Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, and world-wide interest was aroused. The rope was stretched over the falls nearly 250 feet above the rapids, and Blondin walked across, carrying a long balancing pole. Not content with this, he decided to take a passenger over on his back, and his manager, a Mr. Calcourt, volunteered, and was safely carried over.

During the next few years there were quite a number of people who copied Blondin's feats. One man rode across on a bicycle, while a Scotsman named McDonnell successfully performed the hazardous feat of walking to the centre of the rope and standing on his head for a short time before continuing his journey.

Perhaps the most sensational feat in the history of Niagara Falls was performed by Signora Spelterini, who successfully crossed with bushel baskets on he feet in place of the usual tight-rope walker's shoes!

Woman First Victim of Hunting Season

Mrs W. Parkyn Murray, wife of W. P. Murray, vice-president of the Murray-Kay Company, Toronto, was accidently shot while out hunting with a party of ladies in the Lake Nipissing district last Wednesday.

Mrs. Murray placed her shotgun against a tree when her shoe lace became untied. The gun was loaded, and the safety catch was left off. In stooping over to tie her shoe lace Mrs. Murray bumped against the gun, which fell over and exploded. Mrs. Murray received the full charge in her left side, close to her heart. It is stated that it is a miracle that she was not killed.

Mrs. Murray is now in Wellesly Hospital, and is reported to be resting comfortably. She was brought to Toronto on Friday after a tedious trip of a day and a half.

$1000 PRIZE CONTEST

Any responsible person, from any place, elegible to compete.

Last year two similar contests were announced by the undersigned, wherein two cash prizes of $1000 each, were to be given. Only girls were allowed to compete. They were carried through successfully and the girls received every cent of their money—the full $2000. The same will apply to this Prize offered. The experience gained staging these big events heretofore, has enabled me to arrange this coming contest so that not only will the successful candidates be sure of their prize money, but as well, each and every candidate competing will be paid for the work they do.

The $1000 will be divided into Eight Cash Prizes, ranging from $400, 1st Prize to $30 8th Prize, namely : $400, $200, $100, $80, $75, $65, $50, and $30, and will be given to the eight successful contestants who sell the greater number of tickets at 50c. each, between the date of Nov. 15th and Dec. 31st, 1923. for the benefit of Two Big Winter Carnivals which will be held at the Exhibition Grounds at Chesterville and Prescott. Chesterville dates will be Jan. 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th, 1924. Prescott dates Jan. 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th, 1924. Four days in each place—almost two whole weeks of winter enjoyment.

The big Carnival will consist of Winter Sports of all kinds, such as Hockey Matches, Marathon Skating Races, and Harness Racing over the ice.

Gladys Robinson, World's Champion Lady Skater, has promised to attend both Carnivals and give exhibitions of skating, also to compete in races for the best and fastest skaters.

Arrangements will be made whereby hockey teams from other towns may compete in matched games for Special Prizes.

A big Skating Rink will be made in the centre field at both Exhibition Grounds, in front of the grand stand, where these sports will be put on. Then, there will be two days of Harness Racing at each place over the ice, for Big Cash Prizes, which will be a guarantee of many trotters and pacers for the races.

Itemized programmes of all sports for the whole two weeks will be printed and issued later.

Now, listen. One 50 cent ticket will admit one person to the grounds the whole four days, and at both places. Eight admissions for 50 cents, providing ticket is purchased on or before contest closes.

These two Great Winter Carnivals may be carried through successfully, and each and every person, directly and indirectly concerned, benefited, providing there is a spirit of harmony and co-operation between all those who claim to be in sympathy with honorable and healthy sport.

For further particulars, conditions and enrty blanks for the ticket selling contest, write the undersigned. Entries to contest close Nov. 14th. Contest begins Nov. 15th and ends Dec. 31st, 1923.

Come along, make your entry. Join the merry band of candidates. Win a big cash prize now, while there is nothing else doing.

To Prospective Candidates for Big Contest

There is no doubt but this is the second biggest Cash Prize which has ever been given in any contest in and around Chesterville, and the first one was also given by the undersigned last year, when six local young ladies from this Banner County of Dundas secured the whole thousand dollars. I would therefore ask that you consider this from a truly business view point, because this is going to be a money making transaction for every one who takes part in it, whether it be a small girl or a small boy, a big girl or a big boy, and it is open to all responsible persons. Don't listen to those who might try and lead you to believe it is no good. I have put on several events here in Chesterville and I have done the town no real harm so far, nor do I intend to. The more candidates in this contest the easier it will be to win the Big First Prize of $400.00 in Cash. On the other hand, every candidate will make money, even those who don't win a prize at all, because I am going to give a liberal commission on every ticket sold by every candidate. They will have the cash right in their hand. They don't have to give me their commission thep keep it themselves. Now what could be surer and fairer? I intend to make money out of this event, and if I am successful most everybody else in and around Chesterville will make money. Now, come along bovs and girls, enter the big contest, join the merry band of candidates. We want as many as we can get. With your assistance I can make this coming event the greatest ever. If you don't win the Big Prize you will surely make money, because you will receive a liberal commission on every ticket sold. This is a grand way to earn some spending money for the Holidays. Make entry now with the Secretary. Tommy Ellis.

The Way Canada Is Kept Back

Last week the announcement was made of the intention of an American firm to erect a plant in the manufacture of pulp products, this following assurances from "reliable sources in Canada" that present pulpwood arrangements will not be disturbed. The plant is to be erected at Tonawanda, N. Y., is to cost $3,000,000, and will employ a large force of men, all to be paid out of the proceeds of raw material obtained in Canada.

This is a good illustration of the pulp situation. While we sit and dream the Americans step in Across the river from Tonawanda, and the great city of Buffalo, are the places known as Fort Erie and Bridgeburg. Both are as old, but neither as yet is out of the village class. What chance have they of growing, or ever amounting to anything when our precious raw, or half-finished material, is allowed to slip past their doors to feed machines on the American side?

The same applies to all Canada. Our towns continue to stagnate. With the greatest opportunity in the world their vital needs are ignored. Woodstock, we read, has gained one in population, Brantford remains about the same, Kingston, one of the oldest towns and important geographically, has lost over three hundred! What a boon that mill would mean to one of those places; if not one of them, then Bridgeburg, Welland or Port Colborne. Doesn't it belong to them? Is Tonawanda any better situated? Across from Port Colborne, by rail or water, is an immense market for pulp products. Dozens of boats, carrying grain from that port to Montreal, come back light. If they were filled with pulpwood the overhead would be greately reduced, and transportation rates, that great bugbear of today, eased all around. We cannot expect such an embargo to cure all our ills of course; nor can we direct American business men where to establish their plants, but we can so legislate that they will not continue to grow and fatten at our expense. This is a great trump card they play.

The Royal Commission now sitting in Nova Scotia is getting some queer evidence. People down there seem to be against the new law, and their evidence will be considered much more valuable no doubt than the expert comprehensive arguments of an altruist like Frank Barnjum. Little progress anyway is being made. We continue in the midst of a controversy amongst ourselves about whether to grow or not. To grow or not to grow, that is the thing. And while we argue the exploitation goes on. To the cackle of somebody's laughter the trees go down, and they will go down this year to the extent of nearly two million cords. Two million cords representing so many million dollars of national capital drained away. Is that a credible record of achievement and progress in the pulp line?

Games In Their Seasons

Youth's Companion—Is it true or merely a fancy that the absorbing interest of our generations in the great games—football, baseball, tennis—is helping the decadence of some of the lesser pastimes once popular? Forty years ago there were no school athletics in the modern sense of the term, but every school yard at recess time was the scene of a dozen different games. One of them, which seems to have disappeared utterly, was a glorified game of leapfrog called "head-and-footer" One after another the players leaped at ever-increasing distances over the back of a crouching boy who remained "down" until some unfortunate "spurred" him and had to take his place. It was particularly a frosty-weather game like "peelers and thieves," "French block-tag," shinny and football. One good thing about all those pastimes was that a player need not be especially brawny or nimble to engage in them.

As for seasonal sports, no bird was truer to its time of migration than was the schoolboy with his marbles and tops and kites. Marbles seem to have fallen from their high estate. Are their boys today who pride themselves on their marbels, treasuring like gold the smoky moss agates, the china alleys with the encirling lines of blue and red and green?

Do they make long quest for a boxwood top of just the desired beauty of grain and the perfect modeling that makes for miraculous spinning? Can they buy in all America a whip top such as used to hum by dozens up and down the streets of Long Island towns? Who is there among our boys that aspires to make and fly the biggest kite in the neighborhood—one that, when alott, pulls like the horses of Jehu? Does anyone nowadays ever see a boy on stilts?

And how about the girls? The girls of the present age, though scarcely out of the grammar school, seems to have at their tongue's end all the tactics and strategy of baseball and football. Have the bean bag and jackstones and return ball, once beloved of her mother and perhaps of her grandmother, no more a place in her young life? Is she no longer impelled by some strange instinct in the warm days of May to keep a pinwheel shop, taxing the resources of Mrs Murphy's little corner store for papers in silver and gold and rainbow hues? Perhaps pin wheels have gone the way of Mrs. Murphy's famous taffy, which in a few minutes after it was bought became inextricably blent with the saffron-hued butcher's paper in which it was wrapped.

If the games of 'roly-poly," "cat," "mumble-the-peg," "pom-pom-peel-away" and "stump master" are still played in our school yards and streets the signs thereof are neither visible nor audible. However, those who have left youth far behind must not speak with a voice of too assured dejection. Sometimes on turning into a quiet suburban street the wayfarer like a startled crusoe perceives the tracing of a hopscotch plan upon the walk or, if it be a genial afternoon in May, perhaps catches a glimpse in the distance under the sunny green of new foliage of the shining braids of a girl's hair rising and falling as she goes through all those intricate steps with a skip rope beloved of little girlhood for unremembered ages. If those sports persist, it may be that that the pastimes of the golden age are not extinct, but only unobserved by the dimming eyes of an older generation.

Skipper Hawks "Hay" Over Ocean

After having crossed the Atlantic twice, a consignment of 740 bales of pressed hay on board a Montreal ship, must be taken out of that port once more and dumped out into the Atlantic. The captain of the ship and the agents also hope they will be spared such an experience in future, and the mere mention to them of pressed hay is not funny. The hay in question was loaded first at Montreal and taken to London, but could not be unloaded there owing to the dockers' strike. The ship went over to Antwerp and unloaded the hay there, picking up a cargo at the same time for Montreal. On her return trip to Antwerp from Montreal the hay was still there, so the ship loaded it again and took it over to London.

It was there that red tape wove a knot that tied the hay up for keeps There being foot and mouth disease on the continent, the hay was refused admission to the United Kingdom on the ground that it had been in Antwerp and might be tainted. There was nothing for the captain to do, but bring the hay back to Montreal.

On his arrival here, Ottawa had something to say in the matter, and Canadian red tape went one better. The hay cannot be landed here, and the orders now stand that it must be dumped in mid-ocean. It cannot even be thrown in the river or the gulf. The Department of Agriculture has gone even further, and the ship is now in process of fumigation, all on the suspicion that the hay might have become tainted in Antwerp.

This hay has been a dead loss all round having taken up more than its total value in cargo space for two voyages. The carriers are also out the cost of the hay, and suffer from the delay caused in fumigating the ship. They may even have a damage suit against them by the skipper or consignee for non deliverv of goods. Meantime it is unsafe to talk about hay on the ship.

At The Wheel

Slow eye movements are the cause of many automobile accidents. A fraction of a second may mean life or death to the motorist, says an Illinois scientist. Also to the pedestrian. Slow hand movements on the steering wheel, slow foot movements on the brake, slow thoughts in consideration of the rights of others are also chargeable with many accidents. The traffic conditions require alertness of mind and body, and every man, whether pedestrian or motorist, is his own best lifesaver.

A shipment of silk from China, consisting of ten carloads, valued at two million dollars, went forward from Vancouver to New York under special guard over the Canadian Pacific lines recently.

Following the disastrous earthquakes and fires which devastated large areas in Japan, the Canadian Pacific liners "Empress of Canada" and "Empress of Australia" were thrown open to the accommodation of thousands of refugees, while the officers and men of the vessels did splendid work in organizing and assisting rescue parties.

The rapid increase in the export butter trade of Saskatchewan during the past year or two, has been the outstanding feature of the Provincial dairy industry. Recently the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries made a shipment of 25,000 lbs. of butter to China.

For almost two decades the major portion of the world's supply of cobalt has been derived from the silver-cobalt-nickel arsenides of the Cobalt district, according to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The cobalt production of Canada in 1922 was 569,960 pounds, which at $3.25 a pound, would be worth $1,852,370.

Canada's trade within the Empire is increasing. For the twelve months ended July, Canada exported to other parts of the Empire goods amounting to $453,437,899. This is in comparison with $354,992,074, the figure for the corresponding twelve months previous. Imports from British Empire countries during the two twelve months' periods were: Ended July, 1923, $195,811,190; ended July, 1922, $153,185,581.

A wheat crop of 382,514,000 bushels is forecasted in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The report is based upon the condition of crops at the end of July, and indicates that the Prairie Provinces will produce 357,295,000 bushels of wheat if weather conditions continue favorable. Manitoba, it is expected, will have a total wheat yield of 44,468,000 bushels; Saskatchewan 211,051,000; and Alberta 101,776,000 bushels. Alberta is the only province to show an increased yield as compared with 1922.

A party of five journalists, representing the leading newspapers of Switzerland, who recently arrived at Quebec, are the guests in Canada of E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway. They will tour the Dominion in the interests of Swiss colonization. Stops will be made at different points where Swiss people are farming, and opportunity will be given to members of the party to converse with them and get first hand knowledge as to the desirability of Canada as a place for Swiss colonists.

In a letter on "Canada and Land Settlement," published by the Morning Post, Sir Geo. McLaren Brown, European manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says that the agricultural salvation of Western Canada lies in mixed farming, which calls for smaller and more numerous agricultural holdings than wheat growing does, and results in closer settlement and better communication. The bigger and more densely settled the rural population, the more social amenities there are and greater advantages generally, he says.

"Smell anything, grandmother?" asking the youngster who was lying on the floor drawing.

Grandmother assured him she did not.

The young artist gave a few finishing touches and repeated his question. Grandmother sniffed the air and again declared she smelled nothing.

When a township issues debentures (or bonds) it gives a mortgage on the whole township for security to the buyers of the bonds for the loan of their money for a definite number of years at a satisfactory rate of interest.

If the amount required is large it is divided into small mortgages, (that is, bonds or debentures) of $500 or $1,000 each, with the same security behind each, so that investors with small sums may take advantage it.

Bonds or debentures are rated the safest kind of an investment.

Such is Fame.

Border Cities Star.—What is the value of popularity? Two men reached Detroit on the same train a few days ago. One was Charlie Chaplin, no need to say who he is; the other was Herbert Hoover—it may be necessary to tell some people that he is Secretary of Commerce of the United States.

According to the Detroit papers the porters fought for the privilege of carrying Charlie's bag and hundreds of people struggled to get a look at him. Nobody paid the slightest attention to Hoover. He could not even find anybody to carry his luggage. Hoover, the great organizer, the man who had saved millions of people from starvation, the man who had found it in his power to render such splendid service to humanity, ignored? Charlie Chaplin—but what's the use in making comparisons?

Laugh and the world laughs with you; and Charlie makes the world laugh. "Strange thing, this fame," Charlie is reported as saying. "It seems to come from nowhere, like that," and he snapped his fingers. "And it goes as it comes."

Even so. Sometime even Charlie's fame will go. It may be that after all the fame of Herbert Hoover will last the longer—wasn't the Hoover vacuum cleaner called after him?

November Rod and Gun

"The Great Western Stampede" by C. E. Gordon, a vivid story of the time when Calgary took on the appearance of old frontier days, is only one of the many interesting articles in the November issue of ROD AND GUN IN CANADA. Those who are interested in hunting, will enjoy the good moose hunting story by A. A. Merrill, "Bud Makes Good," the account of the perilous adventure on the lonely Gannet rock, "Duck Hunting on the Gannet Rock" by Bonnycastle Dale, and the thrilling capture of "My Nineteeth Black Bear" by Theodore J Stocks, who has hunted in the western mountains for fifteen years. A description of the strange island "Bare Island" by C. H. Gibbons is also of particular interest. The November issue contains a dozen good stories and articles for the sportsman, while all the regular departments, "Guns and Ammunition," "Along the Trapline," "Outdoor Talk," "Fishing Notes," and "Kennel," are full of interest and information. F. V. Williams, J. W. Winson, and Martin Hunter, well-known to readers of ROD AND GUN IN CANADA have all contributed good articles which will be enjoyed. From cover to cover, this issue is packed with interest for everyone keen on any chase of hunting and fishing or outdoor life.

A Bloodless Bull Fight

Last week a bull-fight was held in the old Roman arena at Arles, writes a correspondent of the "London Observer." This was one of many held at this season of the year in various parts of Provence where bull-fighting is almost the chief sport of the people. It is so popular that even in the country villages an arena of barrels is sometimes constructed, and the local peasants try some skill dodging some bull calf.

The Arles bull-fight was not so bloodthirsty, and therefore not so distasteful to English spectators, as those held in Spain, for there was no attempt to kill the bull, and there were no horses to be gored. The object of the athletes who took part was to seize a small rosette, which was fastened on with string between the horns of the bull, and after that was secured, to detach a few ribbons fastened to the bull's back. The aim of the bull was to toss the men who swarmed round him, and at the same time to avoid butting his horns too hard against the barricades set around the arena.

Of the men who took part, only one was slightly scratched on the arm, and each of the eight bulls trotted back out of the arena at the conclusion of a fifteen minutes' combat as cheerful as when he entered. The barricades around the arena were about 6 feet high, and were easily vaulted by the men whenever the bull was too close at hand. In fact, in the case of one particularly ferocious and agile bull, at least half of the men spent their time with one hand on the barricade ready to escape, and to the English spectator a Rugby football match would seem to be more exciting and even more dangerous.

Of the sportsmen taking part, fourteen were trained men, obviously accustomed to their task of distracting the bull's attention, while one of the two experts endeavoured to snatch the rosette. The remaining twelve men were obvious amateurs taking part from a sense of sport, and occasionally joined by some of the spectators when the bull was not too wild. The two "manades" were as quick as terriers in dodging the bull's horns and seizing the coveted rosette. Money rewards amounting in all to 2,000 francs were given. The sport was carried on with considerable skill, and different fashions of securing the trophy were adopted in each round.

In other parts of the route of France bull fighting is not so sportingly carried out. For example, on the Sunday before last the old Roman arena at Nimes was crowded by over 20,000 people to see a bull fight conducted in the Spanish fashion. The French Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals distributed thousands of leaflets against this "corrida," but their opposition had no result, and both horses and bulls were killed.

At the same time in Nimes, and in other parts of Provence, there is a strong party who object to the Spanish method of conducting bull fights and hope that the old traditions of the countryside will not be disturbed. Certainly the traditional bull fight of Provence, as seen at Arles last week, is an affair of skill and nimbleness.

Churches Acknowledge Motor Car as a Friend

That church organizations are now beginning to consider the motor car more of a help to attendance than a diversion from it, is shown by the call sent by the Ontario Religious Education Council for its coming convention. This body urges intending delegates to travel to the gathering in an automobile instead of in a train and in doing so states: Five delegates in a car will cost no more than two in a train. The roads are good and the way is plain." The suggestion contained in the convention call, which is being distributed among 600,000 persons, also reades: "Why not take an automobile load from your Sunday School. You will enjoy the trip to the provincial convention."

The New Doctor

"What like man is the new doctor, Rob?" asked one of the leading citizens of another man, soon after a new medical man had started to practice in the town.

Rob shook his head.

"I'm afraid he's a wee bit too fond of the drink, Andra," he replied gravely. "I went to call on him just in a friendly way the other nicht; and he was verra friendly and brocht oot the whisky bottle. He poured me oot a dram and took yin himsel'. Then he sat one side the table and I the 'tother, wi' the bottle between us. An', if ye'll believe me, he sat there drinking and drinking till I could scarcely see him."

Helping Him Along

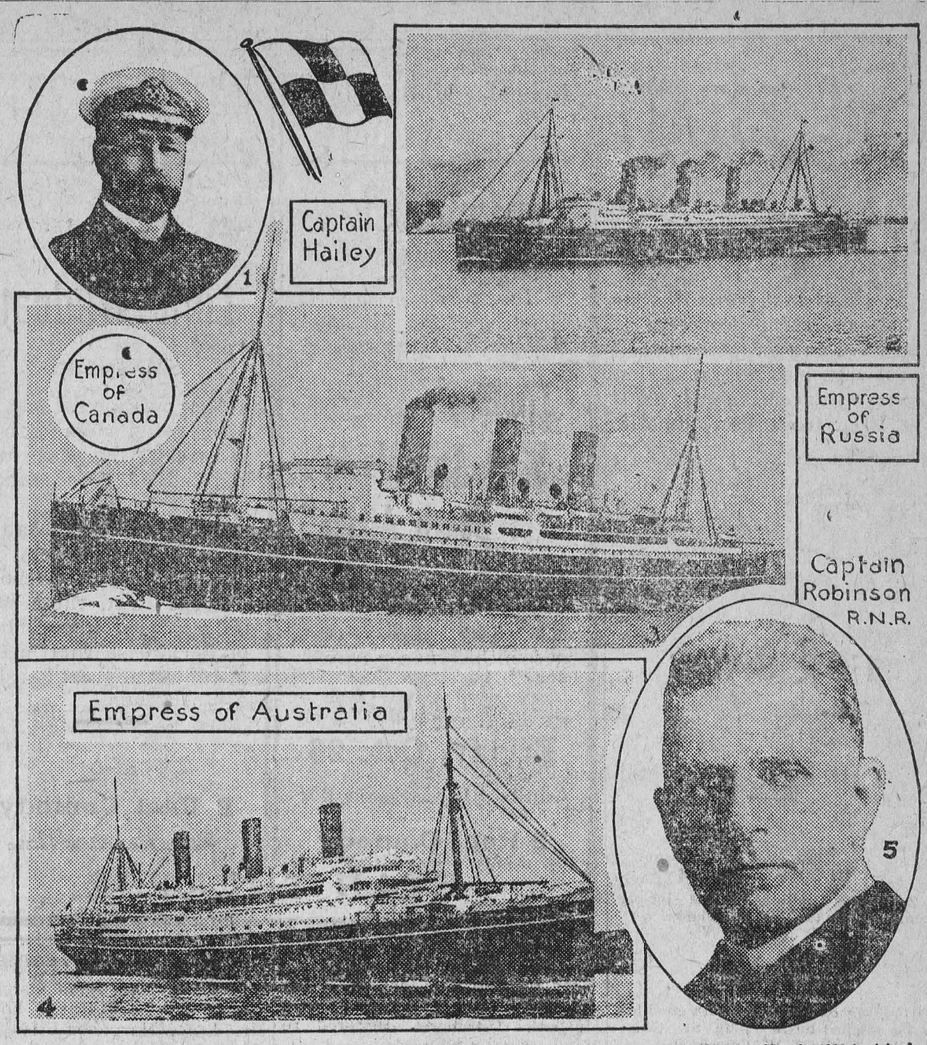
"Lady, could yer gimme a quarter to get where me family is?"

"Certainly, my poor man, here's a quarter Where is your family?"

"At de movies."



(1) Captain A. J. Hailey, R.N.R., commander of the Empress of Canada, was born at Bradford in 1874. In 1900 he joined the Canadian Pacific and in 1910 received his first command. During the war he commanded hospital ships, notable the "Empress of India" and the "Manitoba." His appointment to the "Canada" dates back to the launching of the liner. His last accomplishment was the capturing of the Blue Ribbon of the Pacific for the fastest journey across.

(2) The "Empress of Russia" was built by the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co., Ltd., of Glasgow, has quadruple screws and driven by steam turbines, which develop a speed of 20 knots per hour. She is a product of English best engineering and has the utmost in accommodation and luxury.

(3) The "Empress of Canada," 21,500 ton liner, was the second liner to give aid and shelter to destitutes of the Oriental turmoil. In addition to carrying about 800 passengers, she took 1,500 more on board where they received clothes and medical attention. She recently came to the limelight when she captured the Blue Ribbon of the Pacific, making the voyage from Yokohama and Vancouver in 8 days, 10 hours and 55 minutes. Her next winter program includes an elaborate cruise of the world, where she will take a limited number of globe trotters to no less than 18 foreign ports with many inland excursions included in the itinerary.

(4) The "Empress of Australia," often called the pride of the Pacific on account of her luxurious and comfortable reservations, rides with a length of 588 feet and is an oil-burning vessel of a registered tonnage of 22,000 tons.

(5) Captain Robinson, R.N.R., of the "Empress of Australia," whose heroic feats on the scene of the Oriental disaster, has prompted the Spanish ambassador at Tokyo to cable the King, recommending the bestowal of a decoration. Captain Robinson is one of the most popular skippers on the Pacific and has served on Canadian Pacific ships since 1895.

GRAPHIC tales of the Oriental disaster are daily being received on this continent Many of them contain harrowing experiences of surviving inhabitants of Tokyo, Yokohama and mountain resorts nearby, and make true the age-old adage. "Great disasters have produced great men."

Canada's participation in rescue work in the Far East was the first foreign aid to reach that stricken country and to-day the world has learned of unaccountable feats of bravery, deeds of generosity and self-sacrifice on the parts of several Canadians, who at the time of the turmoil were engaged in missionary or mercantile fields.

To Captain Robinson of the "Empress of Australia," and Captain Kent, river pilot, the country stands indebted for the rescue and care of 4,000 lives. The report goes on to state that the "Australia" was making ready to sail for Vancouver, when the city of Yokohama was seen crumbling and smothered under the tidal wave. The sea became so agitated that other ships broke loose and rammed the "Australia" injuring her propellers. In spite of such handicaps, Captain Robinson sailed his big liner to safety, where later it became the home of over 4,000 destitute survivors.

The "Empress of Canada," which happened to be one day out from Yokohama when the first despatches were flashed across the broad Pacific, wasted no time in rushing to the scene of destruction. The day was employed in providing accommodation, foodstuffs and clothes to those refugees whose need was most urgent. No less than 1,500 refugees found shelter on the "Empress of Australia" and were conveyed to Shanghai where medical attention and care are being provided by the authorities.

With every available inch of her cargo space crammed with foodstuffs for the earthquake stricken thousands of Japan, the "Empress of Russia" sailed from Vancouver on September 6th. Owing to her superior speed, the "Empress of Russia," included in a fleet of three relief ships now under way, is expected to be the first to reach Japan on September 17th.

Why Worry?

Worrying is a purely mental process. Only those who can think in the abstract can worry, and as this is a human attribute it naturally follows that only man, of all the animal kingdom, worries. The real cure for worrying is work—mental work. The seat of our worries is the mind and the mind is so constructed that we cannot carry a worry and another problem at the same time; the problem need not of necessity be a business one nor yet a scientific or profound one; concentrating on a game of chess or of whist or on a good book will occupy the mental faculties to the exclusion of worries. If we would occasionally give some attention to the worries of others we would soon have little time to concentrate on our own. So while we have so many means of getting rid of our worries, why worry?
