A NEW PRIVILEGE

Finance Minister Announces that All Victory Bonds May Be Registeted

The following announcement has been made from Ottawa — The finance Minister of Canada has issued a new instruction in connection with the Victory Bonds, which will be of much benefit and importance to many small investors. He has decided to grant the privilege of the registration of all bonds, that is to say, that bonds of all denominations, including the $50.00 bond, may be registered as to principal and as to principal and interest.

In previous loans the privilege of registration was necessarily confined to bonds of the larger denomination, such as $1,000 bonds or more. Bonds of lower denominations were issued as bearer bonds with coupons attached, and while carrying equal benefits as to principal and interest were liable to being lost by the owners. Under the privilege now given by the Finance Minister, the buyer of any bond (whatever the denomination) may have it registered, in which case the interest will be paid by cheque, and the bond, if lost, may be replaced after proper evidence has been shown.

It is believed that this privilege will be greatly appreciated by many thousands of small investors, who will thus be assured of the absolute safety of their investment even against fire or carelessness or any other accidental cause of loss. This improvement in the issue will involve extra work upon the Department of Finance, but Sir Thomas White considers that its benefits will more than offset the labor involved.

The Coming Flection

The general election is on. Nominations are to take place on Monday, November 19th, and polling four weeks later on Monday, December 17th. All the preliminaries for carrying out the new and greatly altered election act have been completed and the lever pulled which sets in motion the machinery of the law. The unusual period of four weeks which will intervene between nomination and election day is attributed to the operation of the Military Voters' Act and time required for polling overseas. At home, as usual, the voting will be confined to one day. Overseas it will begin within a week after nomination and continue up to the hour which the polls will close in Canada. The result will not be known definitely on election night, except in the event of the Union government sweeping all before it. The soldiers' votes will be counted in Paris and London, respectively, but counting will not begin until all the ballot bags shall have been collected. The delay, however, will not exceed thirty days, and bags returned after that being rejected.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Hiram Carman

Mrs. Hiram Carman, one of the oldest residents of Dundas County, eldest daughter of the late Mr. Michael Ross, who was one of the original settlers of Dundas County, being of U.E.L. descent, died at her home on Wednesday, November 14, 1917 aged 93 years, 4 months, 25 days.

The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Julia Ann Ross, was born in Osnabruck in 1824. Being a daughter of the late Michael Ross, she was, by the way, also a sister of the late John S. Ross, who will be remembered by the old settlers as one of the most prominent men of this county, having represented Dundas County in the Legislature for some 14 years and was one of the first to serve on the Council Board of the Village of Iroquois after it was incorporated. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sidney Merkley of Vancouver and Mrs. Wm. Patton of Montreal; and two daughters, Mrs. Catherine Adams at home, and Mrs. H. H. Bradfield, Morrisburg.

A perfect lady at all times and under all circumstances, with as charming and spotless a character as any of the noble women who have died in ages gone by, she inspired the respect and love of all who were acquainted with her. Having attained a ripe old age, and her earthly work being well done, she went to sleep last Tuesday evening like a tired child, and it was just as the birds carolled the coming of a new day that her spirit took its flight heavenward, and today hundreds who loved her mourn her and sympathize with the surviving members of the family.

The funeral will take place on Sat., Nov. 17, at 2 p.m. from her late residence to St. James Church, where the services will be conducted by Rev. C. O. Carson.

Address and Entertainment in the Music Hall

On Tuesday, Dec. 4th., Major T. M. Best, who has been over three years in the war, will give an address in the Music Hall on behalf of the Y.M.C.A. work at the front. There will also be several numbers by local talent on the program.

"Is it that you would rather not be seen with me?"

With a rush of eagerness she answered: "No—oh, no! Please do not believe that, Duncan!"

"Then let us get along," he said shortly, and tramped on.

Accepting the inevitable, she kept by his side, not without a certain inward trepidation, since a meeting would undoubtedly be awkward. Yet what choice had she in the matter? Only the choice of offending him again by flatly refusing his escort; and she was feeling far too glad of having made her peace with this so unmanageable man—a gladness which at this moment amounted to light-heartedness—to court that danger so soon again.

With the minutes the trepidation passed, perhaps diverted by the interest of the subject started, for Duncan, fresh from a conflict with the manager, had got launched on a theme round which his daily life was wrapping itself more and more closely.

"He thinks to frighten me out of going to law, but he'll sooner frighten the deer off the hills and the seals out of the loch."

Fenella listened with the alarmed interest which the subject always aroused in her, yet to-day she was listening with but one ear, as it were. With the other she was hearkening to the voice of the leaping burns which, through the darkness, called on: "I come! I come!" to the impatient river below. Their hurry and their shouts served but to make more palpable the cool, blossom-scented peace of the glen.

Fenella was quite astonished when the bridge was reached, beyond which protection became superfluous; and the good-night she gave her escort was devoid of that condescension which hitherto had marked her most gracious mood, and all the warmer for that consciousness of a reparation due.

CHAPTER X.

"Red wi' plood, and plack wi' smoke—that's what it was— the most hell-like night that th' Almighty ever sent to curse this mortal earth."

Thus spoke Lame Liz, propped against a mound of chintz-covered pillows, her large flat face—enlarged yet by the supplementary frill of a perpetual nightcap—looming out of the shadows of the cupboard-bed in which she spent her days.

This was the sort of thing she loved; thus to hold her court in the midst of a half-circle of attentive listeners, the very doubt and half-repulsion of whose gaze flattered her secretly, tribute as it was to that uncanny reputation which it was the object of her life to live up to. For there were gruesome things said about Lame Liz. That she possessed the "second sight" no one seriously doubted; but it was not this which caused most people to choose the further side of the road when passing her hut—nor was her supposed familiarity with the spirits of the dead calculated to lower her in her neighbors' esteem. She might be frere cochon with as many ghosts as she chose, and no one think the worse of her. But Ardloch's large-mindedness in matters occult drew the line at the arch-enemy of manhind, and it was with no less than intimacy with him that Lame Liz was universally credited. Unholy rites in lonely places, the assumed form of both four-footed and feathered beasts, all this was put down to her account. Her very infirmity had, according to popular belief, been caused by a stray shot fired on a certain full-moon night on which she was masquerading as a hare, which, hitting her—for the time being—furry hip, had ever since kept her tied to that bed, so often abandoned with evil intentions.

Upon all these points Mabel had been informed before entering the sibyl's hut, where, to her deep disappointment, she found nothing but a very ordinary old woman in a night-cap, and with surroundings which had nothing whatever in common with a sibyl's cave—for the unwashed plates and soiled linen, in Adam M'Donnell's hut so conspicuous by their absence, flourished here unchecked. Whatever other uses Liz might be supposed to make of broomsticks, their normal, domestic use was obviously much neglected within these walls.

But when she began to talk, matters improved, for the store of incidents which, with a vigour of consonants highly diverting to Mabel's English ears, she laboriously produced, was well calculated to further that rare luxury: a genuine shiver. Already the company had been regaled with supernatural anecdotes, and had heard expounded the meaning of the "corpse-lights," whose mission, floating over the Burial Island, was to forefell a death in one of the three chief families of the community. And now Albert M'Donnell, leaning insinuatingly forward upon the stool that was his seat, and exchanging meanwhile a glance of amused understanding with Mabel, made an approach to a more delicate subject.

"Will you not tell this lady, Liz, how you came to be confined to your bed?"

At this, in the dim light of the recess, Liz might be seen to straighten—perhaps to stiffen herself upon the pillows, while her large, knotted hands, folded on the top of the patchwork coverlet, unclasped uneasily, and then shakily refolded.

"No, no, Mr. Albert! Ye know full well that that's forbidden talk, just calculated to bring Father Grey down upon me with his penances. I'm thinkin' he wud no be ofer well pleased to have peen listenin' this last half-hour. He's just wild against any talk of the 'seein';'—suppersteeshun, he calls it. If by ill-luck he should coom in now and find ye all here, he'd guess in a moment what you've peen after; and he whiles cooms in at this very hour," finished Liz, the frill of her dingy nightcap visibly quivering in a crescendo of agitation.

"She's a Roman Catholic," explained Albert, aside to Mabel; then aloud: "Father Grey isn't anywhere near, and we won't betray you. Come: Liz; what was the truth of that nightly adventure thirty years ago,—or was it thirty-five?"

But Liz, though visibly tempted, continued to shake her large head. The delight of posing as a genuine "spaewife" evidently fought hard against her dread of Father Grey, with whom, upon this very subject, she stood in a chronic feud. For Father Grey, despite his mild white hairs, had declared war to the knife against beliefs which he termed "heathenish."

"He can't take it in, poor man, and how should he?" Liz would say, with a pity which was real. "He's no o' our folk, and they Southerners have no imageenashun."

But for all that she writhed under the spiritual threats of the man of no imagination, and submitted to the extent of never positively confirming the legend concerning her own lameness, though not to the point of admitting—as he would have her do—that nothing more occult than "the rheumatics" forbade her putting her foot to the ground. At this humiliating confession she stopped short, today as always, while the darkness of the hints which she allowed to hover around the subject, and which, issuing from the depths of the cavernous bed, gained considerably in darkness, might be supposed to reconcile conscience and desire.

From this point the company, perhaps gorged with the supernatural, had turned to more earthly matters.

"Red wi' plood, and plack wi' fire," repeated Liz, obviously pleased with her own choice of epithets, and settling herself in her pillows for the narrative of the "Massacker," for which she had been called upon.

"Maybe ye've read in yer history books"—("No, I haven't," interpolated Mabel, from mere force of habit)—"how the usurrper called William putt his heel down on our folk, and how the chiefs were held to make their submeeshun by a certain day, or else to lose their heads. Well, our chief, Alan Macdonald, held out to the last—God pless him!—and when he did set out wi' heavy heart and his auld, weary feet, the road was ower bad, or else he made a mistake about the place, and he missed the turn by quite a wee bit, an because of that wee bit the bloody order was given. They do say that the auld chief's submeeshun was kept from the English William by the M'Muirs, of course, who stood in favor just then, and who for a hundred years had been thirsting for our blood. And wherefore? Because of a few head o' cattle, forsooth, which the puir fools had been too feckless to guard, and which our folk had better use for than they. And it was done in cold blood too—in cold, Saxon blood; for the company of red-coats that came from the South were too weak to do it alone. For fourteen days they sat in our huts, eatin' our bread, warmin' themsels at our hearthstone, kissin' our maids, and all the while waitin' for the other red-coats from the North that were to help them in the butcherin'. Fearfu' must have been the oaths that bound them to silence; for some o' them had hearts the stane in the glen—it's no far off the monument—to which one o' the red-coats—one o' those that kissed the lasses, I'm thinkin'—tried to speak the truth wi'out breakin' his word. 'Oh, in their bodies. They'll show you stane,' he said, and stood before it, 'if I was you I'd lift myself out o' a place where such black deeds are gettin' ready, and I'd leap ower the mountains rather than look upon that which be comin'.' But our folks were deaf and blind, as honest folks are, and they went on feedin' their murderers, and the chief himself lit the candles every evenin' on the card-table, to do honor to the English captain who was quartered upon him.

"It was at the card-table they were sittin' when the signal-shot was fired by the company from the North, comin' down the glen. They'll show ye the thorn-bush where the gun went off, and they'll show you the walls up the glen with the mark of the smoke still upon them and the brackens growin' out o' them,—for it was at that shot that the murderin' and the firin' began. Wi' the chief it began. Upon his own doorstep he fell, whither he had stepped out to hearken if more shots were comin'—stabbed in the back by the very man who had sat at his table for two weeks. And in the huts the English swords held fine harvest. Like bullocks our people were butchered—wherefore? Wherefore?" asked Liz, sitting up slowly in her bed, one big, gaunt hand clenching in mid-air. "For the sake of those very bullocks which those fools ha not known how to herd. Ah, it was a night that the M'Muirs had seen in their dreams for long—for long! And yet, by the mercy of God, they did not get all the blood they wanted. The old bull fell, but the bull-calves got away over the hills. It was the snow that helped the brave boys, the heavy snow and their own wits. For more than a mile they walked as folk say the crabs do—backwards—and so made fools o' the thick-skulled English murderers. Red wi' plood—red wi' plood—that's what it was!"

DOMESTIC SCIENCE AT HOME

Seventeenth Lesson—Meats.

Meat is a bundle of lean, muscular fibers that are held together by connective tissue, containing albumen, or protein; gelatinoids, or gelatine, and extractives or flavoring.

There are two factors to be remembered when cooking meat:

First. When making soups, broths and teas, the meat is placed in cold water and brought slowly to boil and then cooked on the simmering burner at a temperature of 165 to 180 degrees Fahrenheit. By using this method, a rich delicious broth is obtained which contains all the nutriment of the meat.

Second. When searing the outer surface of the meat quickly use a strong heat. This keeps the juices and nutriment in the meat. Then continue cooking the desired length of time. By using this method all the gelatinoids and extractives are kept in the meat.

It is a known fect that albumen, gelatinoids and extractives or flavoring in meat are soluble in cold water.

Marketing

Many housewives try to eliminate this feature of the household regime as much as possible and so order by telephone or leave it until the last minute and then rush out to buy anything, helter-skelter. The purchasing of food supplies should be the most important duty of the housewife. In this day of advancing prices it behooves us to husband very carefully our resources. Get full value for each penny spent.

By this I do not mean purchasing cheap foods, but that you must know just what you want and the time to get it. Cook in an appetizing manner and serve temptingly and you will feel well repaid by the hearty appreciation of your family.

Do not order by telephone if you can possibly help it. Slip on your hat and coat and see for yourself just what you are paying for. Under your own personal supervision your butcher or grocer will give you much better service.

Many housewives feel very inexperienced at buying. When about to purchase meat and unable to make a choice of cuts she invariably falls back on, "Oh, I guess steak or chops will do." Or, "I really don't know what to get; I'm tired of meat, anyway." Many butchers, realizing this state of affairs, gladly take advantage of it and play upon it to the utmost of their powers.

Know the Various Cuts

It will be found that knowing the cuts of meat and being able to judge by appearance will help, but first and foremost the odor of the meat will give you a definite idea about its condition. The odors of poultry and fish will help you in the same way. Meat should have a good appearance. By this I mean it should have a good red color shortly after cutting. The fat should be creamy white and firm in appearance, and should have a pleasant meaty odor. All this is absolutely essential for good meat.

About 26 per cent. of the beef carcass is in the fine and fancy cuts of meat and, therefore, accordingly high in price, because three out of five women usually say "steak."

Here are a few recipes for the cheaper cuts of meat, which are delicious and nutritious, and they will be heartily welcomed by the man of the family:

Casserole of Shin Beef

Prepare two pounds of shin beef by browning quickly in two tablespoonfuls of fat in hot frying pan. Then put in casserole dish or baking dish and add four medium-sized onions, six potatoes, one pint of water. Put the cover on the dish and bake for one hour in a moderate oven. Or use a saucepan that can be covered tightly and then cook on the simmering burner. Thicken the gravy with browned flour. Season with salt, pepper and finely chopped parsley. Then serve.

Reducing Expenses

The war has so increased the cost of living, the housewife must make her money go further.

By using Red Rose Tea, which chiefly consists of strong, rich Assam teas, she can keep her tea bills down. The rich Assam strength requires less tea in the pot—and there's only one tea with the rich Red Rose flavor!

KERENSKY'S GOVERNMENT FORCED TO CAPITULATE UNDER GUN FIRE

Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates Are in Control of Petrograd —Peace With Teutons Demanded.

A despatch from Petrograd says: Another revolution has broken out. Extremists, led by Lenine, have wrested the reins of power from Premier Kerensky and the latter is reported to be fleeing to Moscow.

A Congress of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates of all Russia has convened in Petrograd and will discuss the questions of organization of power, peace and war, and the formation of a Constituent Assembly. A delegation has been named by the Congress to confer with other revolutionary and democratic organizations with a view to initiating peace negotiations for the purpose of "taking steps to stop the bloodshed."

Government forces holding the Winter Palace were compelled to capitulate early Thursday morning under the fire of the cruiser Aurora and the cannon of the St. Peter and St. Paul Fortress across the Neva. At 2 o'clock Thursday morning, the Woman's Battalion, which had been defending the Winter Palace, surrendered.

The Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates are in complete control of the city.

Premier Kerensky was reported Wednesday night at Luga, 85 miles southwest of Petrograd.

Late Wednesday evening, after the Government forces had been driven into the Winter Palace, the palace was besieged and a lively fire of machine guns and rifles began. The cruiser Aurora, which was moored at the Nicolai Bridge, moved up within range, firing shrapnel. Meanwhile the guns of the St. Peter and St. Paul Fortress opened fire. The palace stood out under the glare of the searchlights of the cruiser and offered a good target for the guns. The defenders held out for four hours, replying as best they could with machine guns and rifles.

ARMISTICE OF THREE MONTHS

Proposal of Lenine, the Maximalist Leader in Petrograd.

A despatch from Petrograd says: The Revolutionary Committee, supported by the military garrison, has taken over all Government offices in Moscow, according to a telegram received by David R. Francis, the American Ambassador, from the American Consul-General in Moscow.

The despatch from the Consul-General was dated Thursday, and added that conditions in the city were quiet.

"We plan to offer an armistice of three months, during which elected representatives from all nations, and not the diplomats, are to settle the questions of peace," said Nikolai Lenine, the Maximalist leader, in a speech before the Workmen's and Soldiers' Congress on Friday.

"We offer these terms," M. Lenine added, "but we are willing to consider any proposals for peace, no matter from which side. We offer a just peace, but will not accept unjust terms."

EXEMPTION CLAIMS AGGREGATE 206,167.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Claims for exemption filed throughout the Dominion totalled 206,167 and 16,433 reports for service.

Taking the whole period since the issue of the proclamation, Vancouver has the highest percentage of reports for service. The Vancouver percentage is 22.71; Kenora is second with 17.95, and Calgary third with 11.49.

FINNS DECLARE STATE OF WAR

Russian Governor Deposed by Soldiers' Committee.

Helsingfors, Finland, Nov. 11.—A state of war has been declared in Finland. The Provisional Soldiers' Committee has appointed a sailor named Schiecks Commissary of Finland in place of Governor-General Nekrasoff.

The Diet is in session and Russian representation in it has been completely ignored. It has voted to elect a state directorate with supreme power.

SHOUL BE NO RISE IN PRICES OF SUGAR.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Dealers who have advanced the price of sugar to their customers during the past month are taking an improper advantage of the present temporary shortage and exacting an unfair profit. Such is the effect of a statement issued by the Food Controller. Mr. Hanna added that there was no excuse for retail prices to-day being higher than they were a month or six weeks ago. He pointed out that for the month of September the prices of sugar in all parts of Canada were between 10 and 11 cents per pound.

ITALY'S ARMIES TO BE DIRECTED BY ALLIED STRATEGISTS

Inter-Allied Military Committee Formed After Historic Conference—Cadorna Succeeded by Gen. Diaz.

A despatch from Italian Army Headquarters says: The conference of British, French and Italian representatives has resulted in the creation of a permanent inter-allied military committee.

New leadership for the Italian army has been provided.

General Cadorna, who has been in supreme command of the Italian army since the beginning of the war, has been given a place on the new committee.

New heads of the Italian army have been named. Gen. Diaz has been appointed first in command, with Gen. Badoglio second and Gen. Grandino third.

Gen. Foch, chief of staff of the French War Ministry, and Gen. Wilson, sub-chief of the British general staff, will serve on the inter-allied committee with Gen. Cadorna.

Among military officers the decision of the allies to create a permanent military committee has caused great satisfaction. It is accepted as evidence that the allies have awakened to the necessity for the closest union of the whole length of the western front for the political and military conduct of the war.

The Italian armies continue their retreat across the Venetian plains toward the Piave River, where it is expected a stand shortly will be made by them, aided by large reinforcements from the British and French armies, and under a newly-formed command, which is to work in conjunction with a permanent inter-allied conference of military officers.

DEFEAT OF TURKS IN HOLY LAND AND CAPTURE OF GAZA ANNOUNCED

Gen. Allenby's Forces Take Famous City—Gen. Maude's Troops Occupy Strongly-Entrenched Position on Tigris.

A despatch from London, says:—The British have captured the city of Gaza, in Palestine, the War Office announces.

The British have made an advance of nine miles, carrying the whole Turkish system of defences in this region and capturing two towns in addition to Gaza.

A later despatch says:—There are indications of a general retirement northward by the Turkish forces in Palestine.

The British pushed beyond Gaza, on the right and left, the advance penetrating as far as the mouth of the Wadi-Hesi, eight miles north of the original British line. The British captures of prisoners, guns and stores are consideable in volume.

General Allenby reports that there were considerable captures of prisoners, guns, ammunition and stores, but no details are yet available.

A despatch from London says:—Tekrit, on the Tigris River, in Mesepotamia, 90 miles north-west of Bagdad, was occupied by the British on November 6, the War Office announced on Thursday.

The text of the statement reads: "Following the successful action fought near Dup on November 2, our troops advanced further up the Tigris and on November 5th attacked the Turks, who were holding a strongly-entrenched position covering Tekrit. Under the fire of our artillery our troops with great gallanty crossed 1,200 yards of open country and the Indian Sikh and rifle regiments, pressing home the attack, captured the first two lines of the enemy trenches, inflicting heavy casualties. These trenches were consolidated, and a Turkish counter-attack proved unsuccessful.

A despatch from London says:—The entire Turkish army in Palestine is retreating towards the north. British airplanes are following up the retiring Turks and bombing them.

Forty Turkish guns were captured, says the British Official statement announcing the Ottoman retreat.

British and French naval forces are co-operating against the Turkish communications along the Mediterranean coast.

The following official communication was issued by the War Office on Friday evening concerning the operations in Mesopotamia:

"The clearing of the battle-field at Tekrit (on the Tigris north-west of Bagdad) is continuing. A large amount of war material has been found on the battlefield, in addition to that reported in Thursday's communication, especially guns and small arm munitions. The total number of prisoners captured since the action at Dur on November 2 is 319, including 17 officers. A large number of Turkish dead have been buried."

BRITISH ADVANCE IN FLANDERS

Half a Mile at Passchendaele on 2,500-Yard Front.

London, Nov. 11.—Driving resistlessly northward along the Passchendaele Ridge Saturday, Haig's troops won all their objectives within four hours, and even pressed beyond them at some points. The attack was made on a front of 2,500 yards (1½ miles) and the German lines were pierced half a mile. The operation widened the salient about Passchendaele and Goeberg considerably, giving the British a firm grip on their recently-acquired positions on the northern crest of the ridge.

ICELAND DECIDES ON REVOLT UNLESS GRANTED FLAG

A despatch from London says:—Iceland is threatening to revolt against Denmark because the island's demand of a separate flag has not been granted.

Despatches from Scandinavia say that all political parties and virtually the entire people on the island are disposed to declare their independence unless all their demands are granted. Recently the people of Iceland appealed for home rule. This was granted, but the request for a separate flag was not acted upon.

BRAZIL WILL CONTROL ALL GERMAN BANKS.

A despatch from Rio Janeiro says: The Chamber of Deputies has adopted all the measures recommended to the Congress by President Braz as reprisals against German agents, as well as supplementary measures, including a state of siege. These measures include the annulment of contracts for public works entered into with Germans; prohibition of new land concessions to German subjects and of the transfer of ownership of German properties; control of German banks and German commercial firms and the internment of German suspects.

Do You Carve This Way?

A famous French chef lays down the following laws for carving roast chicken:

Lay the chicken on its side.

Stick your fork into the leg and lift it up, meanwhile holding down firmly the rest of the chicken.

Cut through the joint on the back; pressing the joint between the leg and second joint, cut through.

Stick your fork into the wing so as not to interfere with the knife; cut through the joint and loosen the meat surrounding it; pull down with the fork and press firmly on the carcass with the knife.

Do all this carefully and you can pull all the meat from the breast with the wing.

Now cut each breast crosswise in half.

Turn the chicken over and carve the other side.

It was at one time stated that there were in Holland at least 9,900 large windmills, of which the sails ranged from 80 to 100 feet long. At that time their yearly cost was reported to be nearly $10,000,000. The mills are used for many purposes—for sawing timber, beating hemp, grinding, but their principal use has always been to pump water from the lowlands into the canals, to protect the little country from being inundated.

BRITISH AND FRENCH REINFORCEMENTS REACH THE ITALIAN LINE

Teutons Recapture Asiago—British Batteries Are Now in Position and Shelling The Enemy.

London, Nov. 11.—On the Italian front the Italian line in the north has stiffened under the reinforcement it has received from the British and French. Even the German official communication does not mention any further retirement by the Italians, but, on the contrary, admits that east of Asiago, where the Austro-Germans made gains late last week, the Italians in strong force attacked the invaders and recaptured lost positions. The Italians took about 100 prisoners. In the Sugana Valley an enemy advance guard was captured.

Along the middle and southern reaches of the Piave, the Italians are holding their line tenaciously, although they have been forced to give up the Vidor bridgehead, north-east of Treviso, after having fought a delaying battle in which they had time to blow up the bridge crossing the stream.

Italian Headquarters, Nov. 10.—British batteries have taken their position along the front line prepared to give support to the heroic services heretofore chiefly borne by the Italian rearguards in the effort to stay the Austro-German advance.

ITALIAN TROOPS STILL RETREAT

Considerable Fighting in Hills of Vittorio and at Northern Points.

A despatch from New York says: The Associated Press issued the following on Thursday night:

There has been no cessation in the retreat of the Italians across the Venetian Plains towards the new line of defense, on which it is purposed to stand and face the invading Germans and Austro-Hungarians. The larger units of the Italians are falling back without molestation, according to the Rome official communication, but considerable fighting has taken place in the hills of Vittorio and at other points in the north.

The Berlin War Office says that on the middle Tagliamento River Italian troops who were still standing out against the invaders were captured. A General and 17,000 additional Italian troops are reported to have been captured, bringing the total prisoners since the retreat from the Isonzo began to more than 250,000, according to Berlin. It is also said that in excess of 2,300 guns have fallen into the hands of the Teutonic allies.

Along the line in France and Belgium only artillery duels and raiding operations by the French and British forces are taking place.

GERMANS SHOT DOWN MEN WHO SURRENDERED.

A despatch from London says: The Reuter correspondent at the British front says:

About four hundred prisoners were taken at Passchendaele. A considerable number were killed by the fire of their own guns as they were being brought back, whether by accident or design has not been learned, otherwise the total would have been much higher.

The order attributed to von Hindenburg that if Passchendaele was taken it must be retaken has not borne fruit. By nightfall the Canadians were reported well dug in around the half-moon of captured ground, and plentifully supplied with machine guns.

TO MAKE SHELLS FOR U.S. ARMY

Canadian Firms Receive Orders for Large Quantities.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—Negotiations conducted by the Imperial Munitions Board at Washington have resulted in the placing of a large order for 75 mm. shells, to be produced from Canadian plants for the United States Government. It is stated that from six to seven and one-half million shells will, under this arrangement, be produced in Canada during the first seven months of 1918.

The Imeprial Munitions Board will act for the United States authorities in placing the contract and supervising the production of these shells in Canada.

The United States ordnance department will supply the steel and component parts. The Canadian manufacturers will forge the steel and machine and assemble the shells.

ADVANCE IN PALESTINE

Gen. Allenby's Troops Capture Askalon, 40 Miles From Jerusalem.

London, Nov. 10.—Capture of Askalon, ten miles beyond Gaza, and only 40 miles from Jerusalem, by the British, was officially announced in a report from the Egyptian front to-day. Over 100 prisoners and eight field guns were also taken. The Turkish losses exclusive of prisoners are 10,000. The number of guns captured has been increased to more than 70.

AMERICAN TROOPS ARRIVING IN INCREASING NUMBERS.

With the American Army in France, Nov. 11.—Gen Pershing said to the correspondents to-day: "Troops and supplies are arriving in increasing numbers." Thanks to the French, British and American navies, he continued, the submarine to date had not claimed the life of a single American soldier on the troopships bound for France.

Ringworm on Child's Head

Caused Great Distress and Spread to Neck and Ears — Cure Was Speedily Effected When Right Treatment Was Recommended

Grand Bend, Ont., November 16th—There is no disease of the skin more obstinate than ringworm. and the mother who writes this letter does so fully realizing what it will mean to other anxious mothers to know about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This remarkable cure was brought about two years ago, and as there has been no return of the distressing disease there can be no doubt that the cure is permanent.

Mrs. D. Stebbins, Grand Bend, Ont. writes: "I am going to tell you of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment. My little girl had sores come out on her head which looked like ringworms. They were spreading fast and I tried home treatment, but nothing helped her. I took her to the doctor, and he opened some of the sores, which were as big as the yoke of an egg. The salve he gave me to put on was very severe, and the poor child would cry for an hour or more after an application. For six weeks it continued to spread all over her head and came down to her neck and ears. She suffered terribly. At last some kind ladies told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I got a box, and the first time I put it on she was relieved of pain, and the second time the swelling was all gone. Before we had finished the first box the sores were nearly all gone. I have told all the people around here about your Ointment, and I cannot praise it too much. It is now two years since my little girl was troubled in this way and it never came back, so you can see she is completely cured. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of others who may be suffering in a similar manner.

Joseph Brenner. J. P. endorses this statement as follows; "This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Mrs. D Stebbins of Grand Bend, Ont. and believe her statement with reference to Dr. Chase's Ointment to be true and correct."

Akron Young Man Enjoys U. S. Marines

The East Akron, Ohio, paper of recent date contained the appended article which speaks for itself. Mr. Prunner referred to in the article is a nephew of Mr Delacey Prunner of this village.

"Altho I've endured some real hardships, I've never regretted joining the United States Marines," says Max Leroy Pruner, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Pruner, 61 North Court.

Pruner, who is not yet 18, joined the marines at the age of 16 and was among the first to see active service during the uprising in Santo Domingo, where he had some existing experiences chasing bandit rebels thru mud and mountains.

"The elder Pruner, "Del" as he is familiarly known among his host of friends on North Hill and nearly all the employes of the N.O.T., where he has been employed for the last 16 years, seemed as proud of his soldier son as a 10-year-old chap would be of a new pair of red-top boots, when seen by a Press man.

"This is what "Max" writes home:—

"Dear Mother,—I suppose you think I've forgotten all about writing home, but indeed I have not, it has just been a month and a half since I've been in Santiago, where I could write to you. After reaching Santiago we got orders to leave for Samana LaMar, way up in the mountains, it was a hundred and eighty miles from Santiago. We went part of the way by train, part by boat and hiked the rest of the way

"We joined the thirty-second company from Sanches and started with a 30-mule pack train up the mountains after a rebel named Viecentieco.

"It seems this rebel bandit had been raiding the towns along the coast when he ran into a couple of American engineers, the fool up and killed them. The killing of these engineers put the Sammies on edge and we hiked over some awful trails. It rained almost all the time and we waded thru mud up to our waist, the mules would get stuck and we would have to unpack and repack them it was some hike.

"We were all of the first day travelling nine miles to a small town where we put up for the night in an old church, we left bright and early next morning for Hatjomajor, where we joined the twelfth company. Hiking on to the next village where we camped for two days in a church.

"Our next stop was at Holveara, on the coast, a hike of 27 miles, and I was certainly all in when we reached there. Two men in the company gave out, and one became ill with the fever. We had to cross one river 28 times and all the clothes we had was on our backs, some of the boys had no socks because they were completely out on the first day.

"Altogether we hiked 96 miles without getting a glimpse of Vicentieco. At Holveara we rested for a couple of days, then turned the pack animals loose and took a boat back to Samana La Mar, where we heard our elusive bandit was not 10 miles away. It was night, very dark, but we started to hike, the only way one could tell where he was going was to hold the hand of the man in front, and if you fell down in the mud, there was no stopping for you, you were simply dragged along until you could right yourself on your feet again.

"We reached the village where our enemy was believed to be in hiding—about a dozen shacks—we surrounded the place and then waited until dawn when we rushed the place only to find the rebel gone.

"We left about 10 o'clock that night for Samana La Mar where some of the men were stationed while others were sent to the surrounding towns.

"We soon had the bandid rebel cornered and upon his capture he was taken to the woods and shot. We sure didn't have any love for that gentleman after all the hiking we did to get him. After this little encounter we returned to Santiago to await orders, where I found four letters waiting for me, say but I was glad to get them. Please write soon again.

"Max Leroy Pruner."

Departing Citizens Honored

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dawson on Friday, Nov 2nd to say farewell on the occasion of their departure for Syracuse. After a pleasing evening's entertainment, the following address was read by Mr. Milton Payne:—

To Mr. and Mrs. A. Dawson:

"Dear Friends,—As you are about to take your departure from our midst, we felt we could not let you go without, in some way, expressing our regret. You have grown up from childhood as one of us, we have met you almost daily as the years rolled by, and we have as a result acquired respect and admiration for you such as is only felt for true friends. How we shall miss you! Your pleasant smile, your warm hand-clasp of friendship will be gone, we can only hope not forever, but that some day we can welcome you back again. What a pleasure that would be!

Your hospitable home was ever thrown open in a social way, which to enter was to feel at home. You have had the happy tact of being true host and hostess. The pleasure you have given has been your only reward, and now comes that irreparable break in our social life, a gap that cannot be filled. The church and business life will be left with a void difficult to fill. Therefore we felt that we could not let you go without in some way doing something to keep you in memory of us and so ask you to accept this gift as a small token of our friendship and good will.

"Wishing you every success in your new home and a full measure of happiness.

SAMUEL WYLIE,
JOHN HANSON.

In departing from our midst, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dawson carry with them the well-wishes of the whole community for a happy life in their future home

Get Behind the Wheel of a Ford and Drive

TRY it just once! Ask your friend to let you "pilot" his car on an open stretch. You'll like it, and will be surprised how easily the Ford is handled and driven.

If you have never felt the thrill of driving your own car, there is something good in store for you. It is vastly different from just riding—being a passenger. And especially so if you drive a Ford.

Young boys, girls, women and even grandfathers—thousands of them—are driving Ford cars and enjoying it. A Ford stops and starts in traffic with exceptional ease and smoothness, while on country roads and hills its strength and power show to advantage.

Buy a Ford and you will want to be behind "the wheel" constantly.

In Memoriam

In sad, but loving memory of Signaller Donald H. Pruner, 87th Bn. who died of wounds on November 18th., 1916, at No. 9 Casualty Clearing Station some where in France.

* * *

He went away in perfect health,
He looked so young and brave,
But little he thought how soon
He would be laid in a lonely grave.
But the hardest time is yet to come,
When the Warriors all return,
And we miss amongst the cheering crowd,
The face of our dear Don.

Inserted by his mother,
MRS. DAVID WOOD.

To wilful men the injuries that they themselves produce, must be their schoolmasters.—Shakespeare.

"NOTHING BUT A COLD."

A very great factor in catching colds is the disturbance of the body's equilibrium by passing from the superheated home, where one gets into a perspiration, into the freezing open. Healthy living is the constant and right adjustment of internal relations to external relations. Normal relations are thrown completely out of gear by the procedure just stated.

An intimate feature of the common cold is catarrh, inflammation of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat. Some catarrhs have a nervous relation. People nervously exhausted—neurasthenic—are apt to get a catarrh in the fall and not to be rid of it until winter is well past. Such folk will have a nervous catarrh simply from the apprehension of catching cold.

The neglected cold, considering its consequences, is the most serious of human ailments. Could its sum total in suffering, money loss, inconvenience, in its infection danger, and in the fatalities which are oftentimes, though perhaps remotely sequel to it—could this sum total be properly appreciated, no one in his senses would say the common cold is a trifling thing.

The common cold leads to, predisposes to many diseases, by weakening the body and by destroying the protective properties against germs, inherent in the mucous membranes of the nose and throat. To two diseases the common cold leads pre-eminently—consumption and pneumonia. The captain of the men of death and his first lieutenant, pneumonia, account between them for more than half of all human mortality.

Cold seem to be the exclusive privilege of civilization. The human race probably did not begin to snuffle until it began to build houses and to wear clothes. The next step toward the handkerchief era was when houses began to be heated. Then, instead of a glorious, healthy, vigorous battling with the elements, people crowded into their superheated dwellings and then they began to know the nature of colds. Fresh air abounds all over the surface of God's earth, except in the houses which man has built. Not fresh air, but the want of it, is the cause of many diseases, the preface to which are colds.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Catarrh and the Nasal Duct.

I have catarrh of the nose. The nasal passage is choked up, causing the eye on the affected side to become feverish and to feel very enlarged.

Answer—Don't temporize for a moment. There is at least inflammation of the lachrymal or tear duct, which runs from the eye-socket to the nose. Possibly also extension of the catarrhal inflammation to the orbit, the eye socket.

Globus Hystericus.

What is the cause of a slight strangling feeling in the throat, a kind of dryness that keeps me from swallowing. The trouble is at the Adam's apple.

Answer—I could not of course be sure in the circumstances; but the trouble is probably globus hystericus as the doctors call it—a symptom of hysteria. Better be examined however and be sure.

MOTHER-WISDOM

During Knighthood Years Children Need Most Patient Treatment

By Helen Johnson Keyes

In a former article we decided that children will be good if they are given a chance. Shall we look further into parents' duty and privilege in this direction?

Boys and girls at the knighthood age, from ten to fourteen years, are wild, strange and incomprehensible to most grown-ups. Boys want to fight, to throw stones, to have secrets. They are like the knights we read of, who went out to seek adventures, to try their swords against other brave knights; who made trouble just in order to mend it; who loved masks and disguises, wizards, dungeons and castles. These knights seem absurd and childish to us, but they worshipped God, served their country and were true to the best in themselves.

Girls become sentimental, mysterious, full of giggles. They are less wholesome than the boys of their age but they can be led easily to sweetness and religious enthusiasm. It is a fine, brave age, both for our girls and boys.

It is an age of idealism, of hero-worship and reverence. They find out something then which gives them an insight always into the higher, nobler aims of life. We do not want our children to become the sort of men and women who forget God because they have too much to do, who slight love because they are concerned only about money, who see nothing beyond the monotony of the daily tasks.

Allow them then the special preparation granted by this period in childhood when romance and poetry throb with life. They will never forget it. Its spirit will come back to encourage and cheer them in years of maturity when days have grown intolerably dull. It will be like a window then, into the land of promise. Through it will shine the "light that never was on land or sea" but which makes bright the hearts of those who know how to "become as little children."

Whatever your boys and girls do at this age, try to remember that back of their deeds is idealism. What I mean by idealism is rule by ideas. In the animal stage they were ruled by their stomachs; in the savage stage by their five senses; in the period of knighthood, ideas have taken hold of them.

The ideas may be foolish, laughable, dangerous; nevertheless, they are the first reaching-out of the soul and spirit toward things not born of the flesh. Do not ridicule them or you may kill a soul.

Let your children have at this time, plenty of space, plenty of hard, open-air fun as well as systematic work and companions of their own ages. Their stone-throwing, their "gangs" are not necessarily dangerous to the community; even the sentimentality of the girls may be turned into useful channels. All these age-developments can be controlled and made educational. We shall have more to say about them in another article.

Remember that although this period is very difficult for the parents, it is worth while to be patient and affectionate. It leads into adolescence and unless mothers and fathers have held their boys and girls close to them all through their previous development, it will be impossible to establish so late, that intimate sympathy necessary to wholesome, virtuous development at the trying age when they grow into maturity.

Let them be co-operators on the farm, not mere laborers; make their home a pleasant place for them and their friends; give them cheerful bedrooms of their own where they can be alone sometimes. Respect them and let them know you do.

By the time they are fourteen they begin to belong to the generation in which they are really living. This period lasts from fourteen to eighteen years of age. They have a firmer understanding than before of property, of truth, of peaceful relations. Nevertheless, there are strange and painful changes going on in their bodies and minds which make these adolescent boys and girls restless, unhappy, cross, unfriendly.

They desire and need hours of solitude, they require to be managed with an almost divine patience, for they are suffering in many ways. Their self-assertiveness and their unruliness tax us to the utmost but this is not an age for the discipline of words. Regular, wholesome work on the farm and in the home should be employed but no nagging, no fault-finding, no spying upon their occupations.

It is an age of rebellion. Boys and girls who have always been obedient and steady become disobedient and unreliable. This mood will pass. If you have been gentle and sympathetic, ready to help, ready to provide time for wholesome play and companionship, you will find your children very close to you when they come out of this chrysalis stage, bright-winged butterflies.

How different now are the experiences and outlooks of the wise and unwise mother! The one has healthy children, firmly established in habits of observation and work, with ideals of courage, family life, religion, to exalt the routine of daily labor, to give that routine meaning and an object. The other has children already embittered, sour and bored. Indigestion, lack of self-control, lack of interest in the world and other people; a sense of isolation even from mother and father, perhaps render them unable to make the supreme struggle for purity and usefulness in the hour of budding manhood and womanhood.

You see what I meant when I said, "Children will be good if you give them a chance to be." That is the duty and privilege of all mothers and fathers. It is not easy. Oh no! But it is worth while. Someone has said, "A mother has the power to sow a thought and reap an act; to sow an act and reap a character; to sow a character and reap a destiny." Is it not the most wonderful and rewarding thing in the world, then, to be a wise mother?

Perhaps some of us have only begun to learn this wisdom when our babies are no longer babies but well on the road to older boyhood and girlhood. All is not lost even then! Love can accomplish wonders when will to do better goes hand in hand with it. A child is like a plant and responds quickly to improved treatment.

Hogs

Feeding Fall Litters.

Pigs raised by a mature sow get a better start while young and give greater profits than the pigs from a young, immature sow. To increase the number of brood sows by selection from last fall's litters, one should choose the thrifty, broad-chested sows and leave out the narrow-chested, pinch-bellied ones to be prepared for a market for a convenient season.

Pigs sired by mature boars are generally larger and more thrifty while young than those sired by immature boars. It is expected that the fall pigs will be farrowed as early as October. At that time the sows with their pigs should be allowed to run in the open where there is an abundance of green feed, clover, alfalfa, rape, or rye. If the sows are fed sloppy feed at that time they will give a liberal amount of milk.

When the pigs are about three weeks old they will want to eat more than the milk they can get from their mother. A small shallow trough should be placed where the sow cannot get to it. Scald some middlings, stir and pour in some milk; if the milk is sweet, all the better. Put into the feed about a tablespoonful of molasses. Drive the little pigs carefully over the trough. They will get the odor from the molasses, put their noses to the feed, lap it, and begin to eat.

It will not be necessary to drive the pigs to the trough again. They will go to the same place the next day. They should be fed some warm feed twice each day. If any feed is left in the trough it may be put where the sow can clean it up. Always feed the pigs in a clean trough.

After feeding the pigs in this way for a week or two, coarser feed can be used, and sour or butter-milk in the place of sweet milk. But one should continue to scald the grain feed and feed the pigs while it is warm. Increase the amount of the feed as the pigs grow.

Pigs fed in this manner should weigh 50 pounds at weaning time, when they are about eight weeks of age. If the warm feed is continued, there will be no check in the growth by taking the sow away from them.

Always give the pigs a warm, dry place in which to sleep. Do not allow much air space above the nest. Give an opportunity for an abundance of exercise and a variety of feed. It is practicable to push them to popular market weights by the time they are seven months of age. The gains are made more cheaply before that time than it is possible to make them after that age. As true patriots we must not miss planning for the fall litters, and when they arrive we should make the most of them.

Reforestation.

The problem of reforesting areas that are otherwise unproductive should be considered by agriculturists. Perhaps next in importance to the disposal of brush and slash is the effect of close cutting on hillsides. In many instances, the clearing of trees from a slope has encouraged a washing of soil that not only ruins the slope but also buries the productive field at its foot and greatly increases the damage done by brooks at flood conditions.

Horse Sense

On some Belgian farms before the war horses brought in as much income as the land itself. Belgium will need help in horse growing after the war. Can't we do something at it? Have to be pretty good horses if we do, for those people are past-masters in horse breeding, especially in the draft type.

Growing colts should never be wintered on hardwood floors. Box stalls with well-drained dirt floors should be provided for them. Roadster colts need more space for exercise than the draft colts. Good colts are always the product of a liberal, careful feeding. A stunted colt is always the starved colt, and it can never hope to catch up.

Well-mated teams sell to much better advantage than single animals. It is a pretty good plan, when you have a horse or colt for sale, to buy a mate and sell the two together. The increase of twenty-five per cent. in selling price will warrant it if the animals are well matched in size, color, conformation and strength.

Mrs. Progress and Mrs. Oldways.

"Do tell me why you put that piece of old muslin over the turkey?" asked Mrs. Oldways of her neighbor. "I'm rather curious to know."

"To keep in the steam and make the bird tender," replied Mrs. Progress.

"But does the turkey get brown when roasted that way?"

"Indeed it does, but a half hour or so before serving I remove the cloth, put the turkey back in the oven, and I feel sure that it will be cooked to a turn, deliciously tender and as nice a shade of brown as one could ask for."

"Well, the [illegible] new to me, but it sounds good. I have a mind to try it," said Mrs. Oldways as she went out of the door.

Keep Windows Open.

Get into the habit of living in a house with all the windows open, rain or shine—night and day. You can't possibly get too much fresh air. The very fact that people say their houses are damp and chilly shows that the windows have not been open enough, says a prominent health authority.

Damp houses come from not having enough air to dry them out. Even on the rainy days it were better to open wide the windows and let the fresh air in and even a little rain—than to shut the windows down, stopping the entrance of fresh air.

The healthiest people in the world are the savages, and they live out of doors in the rain as well as in the sunshine. Don't be afraid of fresh air at any time.

Do not neglect a cold. Keep yourself in good physical condition by observing the laws of health. Dress warmly, but not too heavily; get all the fresh air and sunshine you can; sleep with your window partly open at night and keep yourself well by every other possible means.

The potato was first introduced into Spain by Hieronymus Cardan, a monk, in 1553; into England by Sir John Hawkins and Sir Francis Drake in 1563; and into Ireland by Sir Walter Raleigh in 1586.

Soils and Crops

By Agronomist

This Department is for the use of our farm readers who want the advice of an expert on any question regarding soil, seed, crops, etc. If your question is of sufficient general interest, it will be answered through this column. If stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed with your letter, a complete answer will be mailed to you. Address Agronomist, care of Wilson Publishing Co., Ltd., 73 Adelaide St. W., Toronto.

C.H.:—I have a piece of sod land that I wish to plant in corn next spring. Should I spread manure on before it is plowed?

Answer:—I would advise you to have your sod ground plowed this fall, and allowed to stand over winter. Then spread the manure on top of the plowed furrows in the spring before you disk the ground in preparation for corn. On very heavy soil it is sometimes advisable to plow in strawy manure in order to open up the soil. Conversely on very sandy soil it is sometimes advisable to plow in strawy manure in order to give body to the sandy land, but on normal loam soil the treatment recommended has given the best results.

L.J.:—What is the best way to plant and handle a bean crop? Are bean harvesters satisfactory? What is the best soil for beans?

Answer:—1. Beans do best on a fairly compact well prepared seed-bed that is loose on top. They thrive on a fertile soil that is neither extremely light, nor too heavy and compact. The soil should be well drained. Beans are a quick-growing, short-seasoned, early maturing crop. An abundance of available plantfood is needed in order to produce rapid growth and maximum yield. On a medium loam soil the application of 200 to 600 pounds per acre of a fertilizer carrying 1 to 2 per cent. ammonia and 8 to 12 per cent. available phosphoric acid along with 1 per cent potash, if it is obtainable, will give this rapid start and vigorous growth. Successful bean growers apply this fertilizer through the attachment of the grain drill, either at seeding time or one or two weeks previous to planting. If you have no fertilizer attachment on the grain drill apply the fertilizer through a lime distributor previous to drilling, but be sure to work in the fertilizer by thorough disking and harrowing the soil before the beans are planted. The amount of seed to plant per acre depends upon the variety. Two to four pecks of the pea bean or four to five pecks of the larger variety has given good results.

In cultivating the beans be careful not to cultivate too deeply. Be roots are shallow. Do not cut these roots or cultivate the beans when they are wet, since there is a danger of spreading disease at this time. As a rule bean harvesters do satisfactory work.

P.T.:—1. In your opinion what is the best variety of potato for marketing? 2. I wish to seed a six-acre field to alfalfa in the spring. What variety would you advise? 3. Is it best to sow grass seed in front or behind the disks in a disk seed drill? The field is a sandy loam.

Answer:—1. There is no best variety of potatoes for all markets. Professor Zavitz of Ontario Agricultural College, who has given the subject careful and long study, reports in his most recent bulletin tha t for table quality, Empire State, Rose's New Invincible, Rural New Yorker No. 2, White Elephant, and Stray Beauty are all good potatoes. The first four rank above 75, when judged on the basis of 100 for perfect table potatoes. They are also heavy yielders. For early potatoes, Stray Beauty, Howe's Premium, and Early Ohio rank high. 2. As a general rule Grimm alfalfa has given exceedingly good results in the middle west. There are other hardy strains being introduced from seed which is imported from Russia. 3. Grass seed may be sown broadcast in front of the disks, or the conveyers from the grass seed box may be attached so that the seed is sown with the grain seed, falling through the boot. On a sandy loam soil, if the grain is not sown too deeply, the latter method usually will give the best results. If the grain is being sown very deeply, however, it would be better to allow the grass seed to drop broadcast in front of the disks and to rely upon its being thoroughly covered by the chain drags which follow the drilling attachment, or if press wheels are attached, they will deposit the seed satisfactorily.

Poultry

When Poultry is Ripe for Market.

The roasting fowl must be young, full grown, plump and well finished. It is ripe for a choice roaster only a short time. It is well finished when fat and lean meat are well intermixed in good proportions. An unfinished fowl lacks flavor, and does not present an appetizing appearance when prepared for the table. The flesh appears shrunken and the bones are prominent. Besides, the meat will be dry and tough.

Before starting to lay, the pullet makes an ideal roaster, but after she has started to lay the flesh becomes tough. When the spurs of the cockerel harden, the flesh toughens.

Hog fat is not a desirable condition for market poultry. Close-grained carcasses are preferred. Large, rough, coarse fowls are not in good demand. There is better eating in a stag than in a male that has been mated. As a rule, a hen is a better roasting fowl than a male.

The spring chicken is one hatched not earlier than February, nor later than May, and is ripe for market when two or three pounds in weight. Chicks hatched the last of August, or the first week in September, are fit for the broiler market about the end of November.

The Dairy

Hair in the region of the udder should be kept short by clipping, since the hair harbors dirt.

If strongly flavored foods such as turnips or cabbage are given at any time except immediately after milking, the milk is likely to have the flavor of the foods.

To insure strong, vigorous, healthy winter calves, provide the pregnant mother with clover or alfalfa hay, corn silage, and from two to four pounds of a grain mixture composed of two parts oats, two parts wheat bran and one part by weight of linseed-oil meal. Grain should be fed sparingly for a few days prior to and after calving.

It is always desirable to grind all grains for the dairy cow because of the large amount of feed that a cow must digest in order to produce well.

When butter becomes strong and rancid, break it up into new milk, working this through it; then take out the butter, wash it and work the milk out of it as you did the buttermilk in the beginning.

Glad to Hear of Promotion.

Private Smith, after serving three weeks with the forces had fallen beneath the avenging eye of the C.O. for some petty offense. Thereafter he sent this touching epistle to his mother: "Dear Mother—I am now a defaulter." His grief was too great to write more, so he got a comrade to mail it for him, and sat him down to do his punishment in silence. Five days later he got this: "My Dear son—I am so glad to hear of your promotion. Be sure to be kind to the men under you, and never forget that you were a private once yourself."

THE MAGNETIC NORTH POLE.

Why the Needle of the Compass Points North.

Why does the compass needle point north? Because the earth is a magnet, not differing essentially in its magnetic properties from a bar of magnetized steel.

It has two poles of greatest intensity, and, like most large steel magnets, there are several supplemental poles of lesser intensity. Just as the pole of one bar magnet attracts the end of another, so the magnet poles of the earth behave toward poles of the compass needle, unlike poles attracting, and like poles repelling each other.

But it is not correct to say that the needle always points north; there are few localities where it does so, and these are constantly changing.

An irregular line drawn from the mouth of the Oronoco River through the east coast of Hayti, Charleston, S.C., and Detroit, Mich., represents very nearly the line in which there is no variation to-day.

In all places east of this line the north end of the needle swings slightly to the westward; in all places west of it to the eastward. At the mouth of the Columbia River the variation of the compass is about 22 degrees east; in Alaska it is from 40 to 60 degrees east; midway between New York and Liverpool it is about 35 degrees west.

The magnetic north pole is at present on or near the northwestern shore of Boothia-Peninsula, in the northern part of North America. Its position is constantly changing, and in 600 years it has moved half way round the geographical pole.

Prose Verse.

It was a pitiful mistake, an error sad and grim. I waited for the railway train; the light was low and dim. It came at last, and from a car there stepped a dainty dame, and, looking up and down the place, she straight unto me came.

"Oh, Jack!" she cried, "oh, dear old Jack!" and kissed me as she spake, then looked again and, frightened, cried:—

"Oh, what a bad mistake!"

I said, "Forgive me, madam fair, for I am not your Jack, and as regards the kiss you gave, I'll straightway give it back."

And since that night I've often stood upon that platform dim, but only once in a man's whole life do such things come to him.

FIFTEEN YEARS USE OF BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Thousands of mothers keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house as long as there are little ones about. Among them is Mrs. Marcel D. LeBlanc, Memramcook West, N.B., who says:—"For the past fifteen years I have never been without Baby's Own Tablets. Whenever any of my children are ailing the Tablets promptly relieve them. I have such faith in them that I never hesitate in recommending them to any of my friends who have little ones in the home." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IN ORCHARD AND FIELD.

We'd all be healthier if, instead of so many pork barrels down in the cellar, we had more apple barrels.

The wrapper you use does not sell your apples. It is the apple inside the wrapper.

A clean barrel or box makes apples look better to the buyer and may lead to a better sale.

In cold climates the ideal time to prune fruit trees it not in the fall or winter; wait till the severe weather is over.

An apple that has been well cured in an open outhouse will last longer than one put down cellar as soon as gathered.

It's all right to label young trees, but be careful not to have the wire so tight that it will girdle the wood and kill the tree.

Newly planted trees in exposed windy locations may need staking; but watch out that the ties do not chafe the bark and thus ruin the trees.

The fall orchard work will not be done until you have picked up all the decayed apples and put them out of the way. No man who loves his orchard will leave them to multiply worm pests.

A rat in the fruit cellar is fully as bad as a bull in a China shop. Make it a business to capture the pest and stop up the hole where he came in.

It may be that some suckers have started around the base of your trees since the last trimming. Cut every one of these out before snow comes.

Late in the fall plow a furrow down through the orchard between every two rows of trees if the ground is apt to be wet. The trees will do a great deal better for this surface drainage. Also, perhaps some tile drains are needed underground.

Ideal mulching materials—clean straw and marsh hay.

The right time to mulch the strawberry bed is immediately after the ground freezes.

Fall plowing is all right on some soils, and in some places, but hillsides or sloping, washy fields should be kept in grass or in cover crops through the winter.

STUDY AND EXERCISE

Overstudy and lack of exercise make thin bloodless children. Study does not usually hurt a child at school unless the studies encroach on time that should be spent in out-of-doors exercise. But lack of exercise and overstudy is a combination that brings on St. Vitus Dance. If your boy or girl at school is thin and pale, listless and inattentive, has a fickle appetite, is unable to stand still or sit still, you must remember that health is much more important than education, and more time should be given to exercise and recreation.

See to it at once that the child does not overstudy, gets plenty of out-of-door exercise, sleeps ten out of every twenty-four hours, and takes a safe, reliable tonic like Dr. Williams Pink Pills until the color returns to the cheeks and lips and the appetite becomes normal. For growing children who become pale and thin Dr. Williams Pink Pills are not only safe but in most cases are the very best tonic that can be taken. These pills build up the blood, strengthen the nerves and assist nature in keeping pace with rapid growth.

You can get Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Origin of Passports.

Passports, which are so much in evidence at present, began as sea-letters, guaranteeing a safe passage for ships. A form of sea-letter was appended to the Treaty of the Pyrenees in 1659. The more familiar passport is simply a permit authorizing a person to pass into or out of a country. As such it would seem well within the province of any Government to refuse it to any individual who proposes to undertake a journey for an object that Government does not approve. In fact, "permission to circulate," as our Gaelic friends express it, is a favor and not a right.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding tissue.

A small bottle of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's foot.

If your druggist hasn't stocked this new drug yet, tell him to get a small bottle of freezone for you from his wholesale drug house.

The Royal House.

A very common error is to assume that it is the house of Guelph which rules over the British Empire. The royal family were Guelphs from the accession of George I. to the accession of Edward VII., who was the first King of the house of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. Ill informed jersons are rather apt to dwell on the German connections of the royal house of Britain, to the exclusion of all considerations of its British elements. The King, for instance, is a descendant of Alfred the Great, of Edgar Atheling, of William the Conqueror and of Robert Bruce, to mention but a few of his illustrious ancestors.

BROKEN DOWN IN HEALTH

Woman Tells How $5 Worth of Pinkham's Compound Made Her Well.

Lima, Ohio.—"I was all broken down in health from a displacement. One of my lady friends came to see me and she advised me to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I began taking your remedies and took $5.00 worth and in two months was a well woman after three doctors said I never would stand up straight again. I was a midwife for seven years and I recommended the Vegetable Compound to every woman to take before birth and afterwards, and they all got along so nicely that it surely is a godsend to suffering women. If women wish to write to me I will be delighted to answer them."—Mrs. JENNIE MOYER, 342 E. North St., Lima, Ohio.

Women who suffer from displacements, weakness, irregularities, nervousness, backache, or bearing-down pains, need the tonic properties of the roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Doctors Tell Why They Prescribe Bon-Opto.
Explain How It Strengthens Eyesight Remarkably In a Week's Time In Many Instances.

Has Seen Eyesight Improve from 75 to 100% in a Remarkably Short Time.

Boston, Mass.—Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that Doctors and Eye Specialists now agree there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using Bon-Opto: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses, and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eyestrain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years, both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now, and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses.

Dr. Beck, an eye specialist of nearly twenty years practice, says: "Two prominent eye specialists, after a thorough examination of a young girl aged twelve, decided that to save the sight of her right eye the left must be removed. A friend advised her father to try Bon-Opto before permitting the operation. Within three days a decided improvement was noticeable, within a week the inflammation had almost disappeared, and at the end of six weeks all danger was past and the eye saved. I saw the case again to-day. The eye ball has perfect motion. When she began to use Bon-Opto it was in a fixed position. The conjunctival inflammation has disappeared. Her vision is now 20/30 (20/20 is normal as you know) as against 20/2000 when she began the use of Bon-Opto. Another patient came to me suffering from Blepharitis Marginalis with all the usual symptoms such as morning agglutination of the lids, chronic conjunctivitis and ephiphora. Her eyes had the dull, suffused expression common to such cases. She used Bon-Opto and not only overcame her distressing condition but so strengthened her eyesight that she was able to dispense with her distance glasses and her headache and neuralgia left her. In this instance I should say her eyesight was improved 100 per cent."

Dr. Judkins says: "While house surgeon at a New England Eye and Ear Infirmary and during many years in general dispensary practice, I found oculists too prone to operate and opticians too willing to prescribe glasses, and both inclined to neglect the strengthening and developing of the eyesight. The success of Bon-Opto in strengthening the eyesight will soon make eyeglasses old-fashioned. The Director of Medical Inspection of Boston Schools in a report published February 20, 1917, states that only 14,016 pupils out of 89,175 examined need to wear glasses now, a marked decrease over the previous report. Bon-Opto is hastening the eyeglassless age in bespectacled Boston."

Dr. Smith, an oculist of wide experience, says: "I have treated in private practice a number of serious opthalmic diseases with Bon-Opto and am able to report ultimate recovery in both acute and chronic cases. Mr. B. came to my office suffering with an infected eye. The condition was so serious that an operation for enucleation seemed imperative. Before resorting to the operative method I prescribed Bon-Opto and in twenty-four hours the secretion had lessened, inflammatory symptoms began to subside, and in seven days the eye was cured and retained its normal vision. Another case of extreme convergent strabismus (cross eyes) escaped the surgeon's knife by the timely use of your treatment. The tightened external muscles yielded to the soothing and anodyne effects of Bon-Opto. By cleansing the lids of secretions and acting as a tonic for the eyeball itself the vision is rendered more acute, hence the number of cases of discarded glasses."

Dr. Connor says: "My eyes were in bad condition owing to the severe strain arising from protracted microscopical research work. Bon-Opto used according to directions rendered a surprising service. I found my eyes remarkably strengthened, so much so I have put aside my glasses without discomfort. Several of my colleagues have also used it and we are agreed as to its results. In a few days, under my observation, the eyes of an astigmatic case were so improved that glasses have been discarded by the patient."

"Bon-Opto Is Hastening the Eyeglassless Age in Bespectacled Boston."

Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of Bon-Opto and if you want to strengthen your eyes, go to any drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start, and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE—A city physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, Bon-Opto is a remarkable eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto is not a patent medicine or secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances, or refund the money. It is dispensed by all good druggists, including general stores; also by G. Tamblyn and T. Eaton & Co., Toronto.
