T.P. "Tommy" Gorman Tells Rotarians Of Sport Promoting

The regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club Monday evening had a practically full attendance of members who brought along with them Rev. A. E. Martineau, Morewood; Morley Beckstead, Morrisburg; Geo. McCaffrey, Russell; Crawford Barkley, G. C. Lacey and Delbert Hutt of town as their guests.

One of the attractions of the meeting was the presence of that well-known sports promoter Mr. T. P. (Tommy) Gorman of Ottawa, as guest speaker. Tommy Gorman has been connected with almost all lines of athletics and the horse racing game from Mexico to Montreal. This summer he placed a professional ball club in Ottawa under the leadership of that one time great pitcher of the big leagues, Daffy Dean, to carry off the championship of the league with high class ball players which Tommy placed at his disposal.

Mr. Gorman in the course of his long career in sports has had a great many experiences and from these he has accumulated a vast store of amusing incidents which in the course of the evening he related to is audience as only he can tell them.

It is said Mr. Gorman was the man who suggested the playing of baseball under lights by the big leaguers, all of whom have now adopted it. He went further Monday evening and spoke of the desirability of all athletic sports being played under lights, even in towns and villages, where he said it should be the plan of every community to provide these places for their young folks.

The speaker was introduced by Matt Flynn in a short statement giving some of the highlights of Mr. Gorman's career and of the readiness with which he responded to the invitation to address the club. Dr. Hutt expressed the thanks of the club as he told of his long acquaintance with Mr. Gorman, going back to those days when the speaker was a prominent lacrosse player, in which sport the Doctor also excelled.

Dr. Lloyd of Kingston, a former member of the Rotary Club was among those at the meeting.

Rev. A. E. Martineau took advantage of the occasion to present a plan to establish a camping place and athletic field on the banks of the Rideau river near Osgoode at the point known as the Lighthouse, to fill a long felt want in this section of Eastern Ontario. The idea is to establish a place where the younger members of this district may spend a two-weeks period under proper supervision and instruction during the holiday season, with separate camps held for the boys and for the girls and where Sunday Schools could hold their picnics. While no appeals could be made at the Rotary meeting for financial assistance many members were favorably impressed with the project.

Arrested Charged With Hallville Hold-Up

Three men faced charges of armed robbery in Magistrate's Court Tuesday, as the result of the Sunday night holdup of two elderly persons and were remanded in custody.

The trio—Thomas Hill, 24, Ernest Sullivan, 32, and John Stenerson, 18—were arrested Monday night by provincial police. They live at Mountain station, a small settlement in northwestern Dundas county.

Police said Kenneth Cumming and his sister, who live on a desolate section of road in the nearby Hallville area, were held up at revolver point at midnight Sunday by "two or three" masked men.

Cumming, a cattle buyer reputed to carry large sums of money, was told to give up his cash or "I'll blow a hole through you." He produced a few dollars and was ordered to get more. He did so, giving the men $30 in all.

FORMERLY OF MOREWOOD DIED AT HOQUIAM, WASH.

The death is reported of Mrs. Simon Gordon, of Hoquiam, Wash., a member of a well-known Morewood family who passed away last Friday at the age of 72 years. Before her marriage she was the former Minnie Agnes Dillabough, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dillabough. She is survived by her husband and two daughters in Hoquiam, and three sisters, Mrs. Allen Smirle, Mrs. William Steen and Mrs. Jake Steen, all of Morewood, and four brothers, Elder of Kenmore, Thomas of Chesterville and Weldon and Stanley of Morewood.

6-Year Old Morrisburg Boy Gets Movie Contract

A six-year-old boy with the IQ of a 12-year-old, Colvin McNeely, son of Mr. and Mrs. McNeely of Morrisburg, will share honors with Deborah Kerr and Clark Gable in a Hollywood production, the title of which has not yet been announced.

Accompanying his mother on a tour of the United States with a three-week stop-over in Los Angeles and Hollywood, Colvin had his lucky break when he appeared on a radio program.

Arranges Test

Art Linkletter, the announcer, was so delighted with the lad's precocious responses that he arranged for the child prodigy and his mother to visit Crossroads of the World, an agency set up to interview children with screen potentialities.

At the agency Colvin scored 140 in his IQ test and immediately joined the Screen Children's Guild and signed a short-term contract for a picture starring Miss Kerr and Gable.

Mr. McNeely, the owner of a drugstore in Morrisburg, explained that all first contracts are short term and only extended if the actor proves his ability.

"However", he said, "should Colvin not make a success of his movie acting, he has an offer from the Quiz Kids to join their program."

May Change Fortune

The tour was taken for the purpose of improving the health of Mrs. McNeely, who has spent two years in hospital. A ticket agency arranged the trip, routing them through the States and planning the three-week stopover in Hollywood which may change the course of the McNeely family's fortune.

At the age of six, Colvin is doing fourth grade work at Mrs. Forster's School in Morrisburg and quite amazes his teachers with his ability to learn. He will leave with his mother for Hollywood as soon as he secures a visa for an extended visit to the United States. Mr. McNeely will follow as soon as it is convenient for him to leave his business.

No special training will be required, other than coaching for screen work, and Colvin will continue at school while working on his first movie.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Giles Celebrate Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Giles celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Saturday and were at home to their many friends in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles were married in 1922 at Felton, Ont., by the Rev. Neil Patterson, Mrs. Giles being the former Ella McLaren, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. McLaren, of Felton.

Many messages of congratulations and gifts were received during the day.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Millar, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McLaren and family of Russell, Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. Elmer Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Duncan of Vernon; Mrs. Peter McLaren and Donalda and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stewart and Neil of Morewood; Mrs. Fred Beckstead, of Mountain.

Ray Dillabough Addresses Russell Lions' Club

A dinner of the Russell Lions Club was held last evening in the Commercial Hotel. Among the out-of-town guests present were Past District Deputy Governor Frank Casselman, of Chesterville, Lawrence Doering, president of the Chesterville Rotary Club, Fred Cass, vice-president of the Chesterville Rotary Club, Leon Marcellus, immediate past president of the Chesterville Club and G. A. Rawson, of Flin Flon, Manitoba. Mr. Rawson is the father of Lion Secretary-Treasurer Eric Rawson and brought greetings to the club from Western Canada.

The speaker was Ray Dillabough of Chesterville, who was introduced by Lion Tamer John Twiname. Mr. Dillabough remarked that is was just like coming home, as he had come to Russell 32 years ago as a young man to take the principalship of the Russell Public School. Here he had married and here, also, two of his children had been born. The topic of his address was "Child Delinquency", pointing out that in his estimation it was a misnomer. There was not such a thing as child deliquency but that it was parental delinquency. In concluding his remarks he pointed out the great work that might be done by service clubs in this field. President E. G. Rankin expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Dillabough for his most outstanding and instructive address.

Community Hall Is To Have New Heating System

Many protests of discomfort will be stilled at last with the news that the council has ordered a new adequate heating system for the Community hall. The order for the boiler and equipment was placed with a large manufacturing concern in Ottawa last Friday for the latest type low pressure steam boiler, radiators, and fan units. The downstairs of the Hall will be heated with radiators, with the fan units installed in the lobby and in the Auditorium. $4,000 has been alloted for the installation and confidence is expressed that the heating system will finally be on a par with the other appointments of the Hall.

During the council meeting of last Thursday night, the September meeting, attention was called to the new lights that had been installed in the residential sections of the village. There will be others to follow as were ordered at the June meeting but the electrician has been held up through shortage of supplies.

Present at the meeting was Mr. Don Cross to discuss with the council the possibilities of further action on securing a better road outlet for him from his farm. Although anxious to give Mr. Cross all assistance possible the council was of the opinion that the Cross road would have to be a joint affair to be taken up with Winchester Township council, Chesterville Village council, Mr. Cross and Mr. Eric Casselman who owns the land adjoining the road.

On their application, permission was given to the Bell Telephone to install an underground cable conduit from the repeater station north of town to the dial station on King street opposite the Record Office. At the same time permission was given to replace and renew seven pole anchors in other parts of the village.

Householders will be happy to see the garbage collector take away the tired Xmas tree after Christmas. In the new contract that will be submitted for garbage collection there will be a claus to that effect.

With instructions to the clerk to buy "Cats'-Eye" "Slow" signs for the north entrance to the town the meeting closed. Present at the meeting were Reeve Boyd and Councillors McMillan, Flynn, Merkley and Turner.

WILL BE NEW ISSUE CANADA SAVINGS BONDS

The decision to offer a second series of Canada Savings Bonds, forecast some time ago, has been confirmed by the Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance. The new issue goes on sale on October 14th.

The Minister of Finance stated that the second series of Canada Savings Bonds will be dated November 1st, 1947, and will bear interest at the rate of 2¾% each year for ten years. They may be redeemed at any time at any bank in Canada for full face value plus interest and will be registered in the owners name—affording protection against loss. Not more than $1,000 of this series may be registered in any one name.

Mr. Abbott pointed out that the new series will enable the continuance of the Payroll Savings Plan now in operation in thousands of organizations throughout the country, and will also permit its installation by other companies who recognize its value. The new Canada Savings Bonds will also be available for purchase by the general public, who may buy them for cash or on instalments.

Mr. Abbott said that the reception given to Canada Savings Bonds since their introduction last October had provided the main reason for the new offering. Purchases have been made since that time by more than 1,200,000 Canadians. This total includes 623,840 employees who used Payroll Savings Plan facilities provided by their employers.

Although the decision to offer a second series is based primarily on demonstrated public demand for these facilities, it was explained by Mr. Abbott that the Government also has in mind the value of widespread holdings of Canada Savings Bonds in the national Economy. Present holdings have already rendered more than a million Canadians better able to meet personal emergencies or to carry out personal plans. Such personal resources are regarded as an element of strength and stability in the nation.

Arrangements for the sale of the second series will be made by the Bank of Canada, and will be similar to those followed for the first series. It is expected that authorized sales agens will include investment dealers, and banks and other savings institutions. Enquiry indicates that employers and the executives of labour organizations, who have consistently provided leadership in the development of the Payroll Savings Plan, will join again in ensuring that its benefits continue. It is also apparent that the favourable comment and support of all public information facilities will be maintained. It was pointed out that this support has always been an important factor in the general response to Canada Savings Bonds.

Every appropriate means of informing the public of the details of the new series will be used. Mr. Abbott stated that it is confidently expected that Canadians will again recognize this fine investment opportunity and will make plans to take full advantage of it.

Broke

Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed were silent as the train bore them swiftly home at the end of their honeymoon.

Mr. Newlywed had spent every available penny and his pay day was two weeks off.

But as they neared home, the young wife gave a merry laugh.

"I'm going to tell you a secret that will cheer you up, Billy," she said. "Before we went away I hid ten dollars in the dresser."

"Yes," moaned her husband, "I know. I found it."

PIONEER LIFE IN MINIATURE

An exhibition of objects connected with Pioneer Life in Ontario, represented in exact models on the scale of one inch to the foot, has been opened at the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology. These models are the work of J. McNeeley McCrea of Toronto, who has been making them since 1935. Mr. McCrea was himself born and brought up in Ontario, and is familiar with the old buildings of the Province and the types of furniture and farm equipment used by the early settlers. He intends to put his knowledge of the subject into a book to be called: "The Wooden Age In Old Ontario," but he feels that the models can be used to give an understanding and appreciation of pioneer problems and the courage and ingenuity used in overcoming them. The range of models is very comprehensive and shows log and frame dwellings, a shoemaker's shop, a carpenter's shop, a school house, a sugar camp complete with equipment, innumerable objects used in farming and various trades, and even typical bridges and fences. Stumppuliers and stone-lifters are shown, a tiny spinning wheel that can spin wool, a horse-driven circular saw as used by the pioneer carpenter, and everything necessary to manufacture hand-made shingles.

Although it was not possible to include every variety of implement and equipment, representative types have been chosen, and it can be said that the exhibition contains an exact representation in miniature of almost everything needed in the way of tools and equipment by the early settlers, and may be considered as being a cross-section of Ontario pioneer life.

Model-making is a labour of love with Mr. McCrea, who has never yet sold a model, and wishes them to be used for educational purposes only, as a permanent memorial to the early days of Ontario.

KEEP LOVE IN YOUR LIFE

By Thomas Curtis Clark

Keep love in your life, my friend,
If you would have perfect joy;
Keep love, never let her depart—
For who would his life destroy?
When love is no more, 'tis the journey's end.
And Regret and Fear shall your way attend.
Keep love in your life, my friend.

Keep love in your life always Thought tempted to bid her go;
Keep love the bride of your heart,
If you would a true life know.
For life's no longer than love, I say;
With the end of love comes the close of day,
And the chill of death 'mid the shadows gray.
Keep love in you life alway.

Fruit dealer: "My scales are all right, madam. Have you weighed your little boy?"

Seagulls Are Friends Of Mankind

The common seagull is an object of constant interest to people of the Great Lakes and also some places inland, where it frequently goes to obtain its food.

Its grace and beauty have been admired countless times by passengers on the lake steamers as they have watched the birds hovering about and diving for scraps of food. Riding gracefully on their wings, frequently on the windward side of the ship where the updraft sustains them without apparent effort of their own, they exemplify the poetry of motion.

The seagull comes in the early spring with its screams to herald the opening of navigation and it remains as a sort of scavenger, deserving the protection of the law which saves it from the man with a gun. It cleans the shoreline, and in cities like Port Arthur, where the garbage is dumped in the open, it helps to clean it away. Residents of the south end and patrons at all the ball games often watch with interest the flocks coming and going to the region where the refuse from five thousand households is dumped, and wonder what the birds would do if the waste material were consigned instead to an incinerator. The seagull also appears often on the island farms in the season of plowing, evidently looking for the live things that are brought up by the turning of the sod.

The naturalists tell you that even more remarkable than their flight is their eyesight, which calls them from a distance of many miles to a spot where food may be had.

Like practically all bird life, the gulls are a great boon to humanity. They serve a double purpose. They both attack insects, devouring huge quanities of the enemies of the field crops, and also act as scavengers along our summer resorts and other shorelines. In the course of this latter role, they give great delight to summer visitors who regularly feed them. The birds become quite tame during this period, many birdlovers getting them to take tidbits from their hands.

While their beauty is a great asset, their great value is in their quest for food, insects, and refuse along the shoreline. They can spot a worm, mouse or other food from a great height. They eat continually. doing away with enough food to seemingly fill birds three or four times their size. It is said by some observers that the gull will swallow a fish and that in the gullet the flesh of the fish is separated from the bones, the bones then being expelled while the fish goes to the stomach for digestion.

In Salt Lake City, there is a monument to them, a form of thanksgiving to the part they played in wiping out a great plague of grasshoppers on the land 100 years ago.

Rightfully protected by law and public opinion, seldom if ever are the seagulls victims of even those thoughtless people who so wantonly kill wild life.

TIME FOR DECISION

By George W. James
The Statesman, Bowmanville

(ARTICLE NO. 16)

Having dealt at some length with the question of by-lateral agreements and domestic controls instituted by the government to commandeer farm production at prices in which farmers have no say and which have been described by Liberal Senator Crerar as, "the greatest gamble in modern times" and having shown how, under this government policy farmers have lost all freedom over their surplus products, the next point of interest is probably the question of immigration.

Big Question

For with farm production falling all down the line, particulars of which will be shown later in this column, the farmers of Canada. right now, are very closely questioning how long they can be expected to conform to the arbitary regulations, which as they see it, offer little hope of recapturing world markets under multi-lateral policies that are now thrown into the discard by the government at Ottawa.

The Payoff

The argument in the mind of the average farmer at the moment is this: "Compelled by the government to produce and deliver, largely to one market only, Great Britain, at a price far under that charged all other nations, what will be the payoff when other nations get back to a point of recovery under which they can bargain for the imports they must have to live?" And these imports are, as in the past, mainly food products.

Immigration

So Canadian farmers naturally turn to the question of immigration; that is, if we have restrictions in selling food to peoples abroad, why not bring the best of them we can get out to Canada where they can not only add to our national production but at the same time increase the domestic demand for farm production. If we do this we need no longer hire ships to send food abroad.

Question Opened

Well, this question has been debated in the House of Commons during the present session. It was opened up in February by John Bracken, leader of the Progressive-Conservative party. He challenged the government on the question and outlined what ought to be done in the circumstances. With what result? The whole matter remained dormant until May 1st after Prime Minister Mackenzie King had returned from his prolonged holiday in the Southern States. The public will be interested in what these leaders had to say.

Which Party

In view of the fact that the next election hinges upon two factors, and two factors only, that is whether the Bracken party or the dissolving Liberal party will form the next government after the next election which is not too far distant, it will be accepted by most of the electorate as fair appraisal to examine just what has been proposed by these opposing forces on immigration.

Main Questions

What is Canada's best policy at this time in relation to immigration? Are we falling down on the job in this regard under the present government? What countries are getting the jump on us in this all-important respect? These are some of the points which will follow upon the question opened up in this article.

EXECUTIVE DEFINED

An executive has practically nothing to do . . . That is . . . except: To decide what is to be done . . . to tell somebody to do it . . . to listen to reasons why it should not be done . . . why it should be done by somebody else . . . or why it should be done in a different way . . . to prepare arguments in rebuttal that shall be convincing and conclusive . . . to follow up to see if the thing has been done . . . to discover that it has not been done . . . to enquire why it has not been done . . . to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it, and did not do it . . . to follow up a second time to see if the thing has been done . . . to discover that it has been done but done incorrectly . . . to point out how it should have been done . . . to conclude that as long as it has been done . . . it may as well be left as it is . . . to wonder if it is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing correctly . . . to reflect that the person at fault has a wife and seven children . . . and that certainly no other executive in the world would put up with him for another moment . . . and that . . . in all probability . . . any successor would be just as bad . . . and probably worse . . .

CANADIAN POULTRY IN DEMAND IN U.S.

Good quality Canadian live poultry is finding a particularly ready market, in cities in the United States adjoining the international border.

Reports from Detroit to the Dominion Department of Agriculture at the end of August were to the effect that, providing the poultry is in the top quality brackets from 100,000 to 150,000 pounds per week can readily be absorbed on that market. From August 1 to August 23 shipments of poultry through Windsor, Sarnia and Sombra, Ont., totalled 460,000 lbs.

Since controls were removed on the export of poultry about August 1, permits to the extent of over 11,000,000 pounds were issued up to August 26.

MASTODON SKELETON UNEARTHED BY MUSEUM

Under the general direction of Dr. L. S. Russell, Director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Palaeontology, a party is unearthing the skeleton of an adult female Mastodon from a farm near Rodney, Ontario. This Rodney discovery offers an almost unique opportunity to excavate Mastodon remains that have not been disturbed to any extent by previous non-scientific digging.

The American Mastodon, an extinct member of the Elephant family that resembled in general features the living Elephants, was a characteristic animal of this continent during the Ice Age. There is some reason to believe that the Mastodon did not become extinct during that Age, but lingered on into Post-glacial time, some 30,000 years ago or less. It is hoped that the excavation at Rodney will produce evidence to determine the duration of Mastodon existence.

NATIONAL IMMUNIZATION WEEK, OCTOBER 5 TO 11

Toronto—Dr. Nelles Silverthorne, chairman of the Health League of Canada's National Immunization Committee, has announced that the Dominion's fifth annual National Immunization Week will be observed during the week of October 5, next.

This annual national observance is designed to draw attention to the fact that certain communicable diseases, which are still taking toll among the nation's children, are largely preventable. National Immunization Week is just another means of emphasizing to the general public something they should know already —that toxoid prevents diphtheria; that whooping cough vaccine prevents whooping cough and that vaccination prevents smallpox.

The "Week" is sponsored by the Health League in cooperation with departments of health throughout the nation.

Quite So!

BROWNLEE—HEHIR

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on August 19th, at seven o'clock in Southminster United church, Ottawa, when Miss Leda Grace Hehir, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dannie Hehir, Newington, became the bride of Norman Henry Brownlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brownlee of Newington, in the presence of friends and relatives.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. D. Donald, of Ottawa.

The bride looked charming in a street-length turquoise blue satin back crepe dress with a corsage of roses. Her matching shoulder-length pink veil was arranged with a wreath of white comb roses, with pink gloves and shoes to match. She wore a two strand string of pears.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ida Brownlee, sister of the groom, wore a street-length deep rose alpine dress, with shoulder-length pink veil held by white comb roses and a corsage of white gladioli.

Andy Boucher was the groom's attendant.

Following the ceremony the young couple had photos taken at the studio on Spark street after which a supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Keeler of Ottawa. The evening was spent in dancing.

While in Ottawa the young couple visited friends there, also taking in Ottawa Exhibition.

On their return to Newington they were showered with confetti and welcomed by a number of friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Brownlee will reside in Brantford.

DILLABOUGH—BOWMAN

Summer flowers decorated St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Morrisburg, on Monday, for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Irene Bowman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bowman, and Mr. Dwight Campbell Dillabough son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Dillabough of Chesterville. Rev. F. L. Howald officiated, and the organist was Mrs. F. L. Howald.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and attended by her sister, Miss Reatha Bowman as bridesmaid. Mr. Douglas Dillabough was best man for his brother.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length picture gown of white taffeta, worn with lace mittens. Her fingertip veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

After a reception at Casselman Memorial Hall, the couple left on a motor trip to points West. The bride travelled in a pale blue gabardine suit with black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Dillabough will reside in Kingston.

Happy?

Recently a friend of the family said to an old Boston miser, "Pete, I hear your nephew is going to marry. On that occasion you ought to do something to make him happy."

"You think so?" said the old man.

"I certainly do."

"O.K.," was the generous rejoinder; "I'll pretend I'm dangerously ill."

The lawyer and the doctor, and other professional men, often have a touch of civilization; the banker and the merchant seldom.—Jim Tully

STARLING IN ONTARIO

Recent reports from Normandy, France, that there has been a "catastrophic" decline in the starling population there, commencing with a winter of exceptional severity in 1939-1940, have created interest—and perhaps hope—among ornithologists in Canada. European starlings were introduced to North America as recently as 1890-91, says L. L. Snyder, Curator of Birds at the Royal Ontario Museum. On March 6th, 1890, eighty starlings were liberated in Central Park, New York City, and on April 25th, 1891, forty more. From these 120 birds originated all the millions of starlings which have spread rapidly throughout eastern North America and are constantly invading new territory. In Ontario they have been observed as far north as James and Hudson Bays, and there are records of their appearance in Manitoba and Alberta. In view of these reports from Normandy, ornithologists on this side of the Atlantic will be on the alert for possible changes in the population of the European starling here, radical enough to be observed.

Famous Child Surgeon Urges Greater Driving Care

Traffic accidents in which children are killed or injured can be further reduced if motorists assume their full responsibility, Dr. R. M. Wansbrough, senior surgeon of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, says in a statement in support of the Ontario Department of Highways' traffic safety program.

Dr. Wansbrough's statement follows closely the recent announcement of the Hon. George H. Doucett, Minister of Highways, that nine fewer children were killed in traffic accidents in July of this year than in July of last year and that "while this single statistic is no ground for complacency, it is a hopeful sign that Ontario is making progress in the battle against traffic accidents."

Familiar with child injuries ranging all the way from minor abrasions and bruises to bodies horribly mangled, Dr. Wansbrough states that "fast driving by motorists on narrow streets is the biggest contributing factor to these accidents. I'd like to impress this on every motorist, that to reduce the child accident toll you must reduce speed on narrow streets, proceed with extra caution and alertness through all areas where children are at play, take extra care when approaching or passing a child on a bicycle."

Dr. Wansbrough says that the largest group of child accident victims come from areas where no playgrounds are provided and children are forced to play on the streets. Many accidents are caused from "two children on one bicycle, or a child riding a bicycle carelessly or riding in traffic before he has learned how to ride properly. Children always have done and will continue to do those things which put their lives in danger. We can educate children in traffic safety—and they learn too—but we must never forget that a child is too young to estimate the hazards. He is too young to judge the speed of an approaching vehicle, and will dart directly in front of it—sometimes missing death by a thin margin—and other times not missing it."

A child, Dr. Wansbrough explains, is also too young to appreciate the reality of traffic hazards or the pain of injuries or the imminence of death. In short, children require the guidance and protection of adults, and instinctively depend on it. It is, in the final analysis, an adult responsibility to watch out for our children at all times, and especially when behind the wheel of a car.

Accident victims are not pretty pictures, the senior surgeon of the famous Sick Children's Hospital states. Many youngsters receive injuries that disfigure them horribly. "For example, not long ago we admitted a pretty little girl, an accident victim. That is, she was pretty before the accident. As a result of the accident, in which she was dragged quite a distance over tar and gravel, her face was badly burned by friction against the rough road surface, and a large surface of skin so deeply impregnated with tiny black particles of grit that plastic surgery will be necessary to remove the disfigurement. Other disfigurements and crippling results are the loss of all teeth, the loss of eyes, ears, limbs, spinal injuries causing total or partial paralysis, head injuries causing loss of hearing and other faculties."

"Legs broken above the knee are very common," Dr. Wansbrough explains, "for the simple reason that where a car's bumper would hit an adult below the knees, a small child is naturally hit by the bumper higher up—below the hips. Fractures here are more painful and slower to mend. They mean that the little victim has to spend many weeks in the hospital, and learn to walk all over again in many cases."

Dr. Wansbrough, who has been connected with the Hospital for Sick Children for twenty-three years, says that during that time he has seen just about every type of injury it is possible for a child to suffer and still live.

"...and please hurry Doctor!"

If you have ever faced an emergency, you know how important it is to get right-of-way for urgent calls. Remember the master rule "Do unto others as you would like them to do for you — and do it first."

The $3,500,000 being spent this year alone will provide more rural lines and mean fewer parties on each line.

Fisherman's Luck

On Friday of this week I had just finished rolling and packing about three thousand feet of hose which had been tested and dried when I heard the drone and cough of a little one lung aeroplane engine, and without looking up I knew that Mr. Tayor, our District Forester, was coming in for a landing.

The plane taxied up to our small dock here at Londa headquarters and out stepped Mr. Taylor and Mr. Barnes, our District Crown Timber agent. In a matter of half hour or so our business was completed and we were called to a hearty supper cooked by one of the boys, whose culinary ability is unsurpassed in this area.

At the table, the subject of fishing came up and we informed our official guest that the pickerel were biting good at the bridge in Michiwakenda Lake, about fifty feet from the headquarters. They could not be held back, so without pausing for coffee or an aftermeal cigarette, away they went down to the bridge armed with rods, reels, plugs, sinkers, hooks, etc., but, mind you, no landing net!

Fishing started off pretty well with Mr. Taylor landing one about four pounds. I joined the party with a rod and reel, and a couple of the other boys started fishing with hand lines. I hooked a small one and Mr. Taylor reeled in a couple more, while Mr. Barnes made the air blue swearing at his new sixteen dollar reel and twenty dollar rod which would beat anything I have ever seen in a backslashing contest.

After we had caught three or four more pickerel Mr. Taylor decided to try a cast upstream. He made a beautiful cast and just started reeling in when—snap!—a strike! and it almost pulled him into the water. One of the boys hollered not to let him get under the bridge, but the water was too fast and downstream went Mr. Fish. It cut the water while it was fighting for its life with the fisherman, and after a couple of minutes of violent jerking by the fish, away it went, leaving Mr. Taylor holding his rod and reel minus about twenty feet of nylon line, and bemoaning the loss of his best plug which he claims to have had for thirteen years.

Mr. Barnes had, by this time, given up and was praying for the ability to refrain from throwing his new rod and reel into the lake because it couldn't catch any fish. It started to darken down, so our visitors were forced to leave, with Mr. Taylor still mourning the loss of his precious plug.

Saturday morning, at about six-thirty, while waiting for breakfast, I took a walk down to the bridge to try a few casts. I didn't get any strikes, but. on my second cast, I had a follow up and saw the big pike with the plug still in his mouth. I didnt say anything because they would have dubbed it a good fish story, but at noon I tried again and in a few minutes I had landed him.

I never thought to ask Mr. Taylor if he was prepared to offer any reward for the retrieving of the plug which is obviously of a great intrinsic value to the owner but, well, what do you think?—C. A. Crichton.

Not Lion-Hearted

A Negro employed at one of the film sutdios in Hollywood for crowd work was told that in one scene he was to get into a bed and that a lion would then be put in with him.

"Put a lion in bed with me?" he yelled, terrified. "No, sah, not this child. Ah quit right here and now."

"But there's no need to be frightened," answered the director. "The lion won't hurt you. This lion was brought up on milk."

"So was Ah brought up on milk," answered the man, "but Ah eats meat now!"

An Englishman wanted to move his furniture from France to Britain and the removal firms which he approached said that they could do the move in three months. So he hired a Miles Aerovan and the entire removal was completed by air in 36 hours. An additional advantage was that the insurance premium was only one-third of the sum normally charged for the land and sea route. The furniture, in this case, weighed a little less than a ton.

Willing Little Helper

At a hospital party, a patient noticed that one of the feminine entertainers was only nibbling at the refreshments. 'What's the matter, honey " he asked her. "Why don't you eat this wonderful cake?'

"I have to watch my figure," the singer explained.

The patient smiled. "You eat the cake," he ordered. "I'll watch your figure."

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hello Homemakers! Grapes—Ontario's last perishable fruit of the season is ripening, and the time is now ripe to fill spare jars with grapes—with grape juice to be served hot or cold, as a sauce to top desserts, or in gelatine for fruit salads. This delicious fruit is quite inexpensive and the period for cooking or canning is usually short. Fortunately, too, grapes are easy to "do down".

Canned Grapes: For years mother has used the following simple method: Wash grapes (preferably Concords) and pull from stems. Put one cup in quart sealer. Add 1¼ cups sugar. Fill the sealer to over-flowing with boiling water . . .it must be boiling. Seal and store.

Grape Juice without Sugar: After picking grapes, leave for two or three days to mellow. Pick over and wash. Add ¼ cup water for each cup fruit. Simmer until tender—do not boil. Press through cheesecloth. Clarify by straining again through another cloth. Reheat juice to simmering point only, stirring constantly. Pour into sterilized bottles. Cap and immerse in hot water bath, kept at simmering point, for 15 minutes.

GARDEN CHATS: By Mrs. Harry Allison

Hello Neighbours: I'm in no mood tonight to write about flower gardens or their kin. Believe me, I'm tired. To-morrow is the day we thresh here and anyone on a farm or related to one knows what that means to the lady of the house. Oh, well, mother's here to help me so I'd better relax and take things easy. I'll live longer that way.

Remember last week, I said I'd tell you the method for planting your tomato seeds now. To begin with, choose one or two perfect tomatoes and leave them on the vines until they are dead ripe. (No doubt a worm or hen or something will be blad to devour them before that, but try your luck). Then place a layer of dry soil in a box or pan, lay the ripe tomatoes on that and cover with another layer of soil. One lady says to leave this out-side until after a frost which will freeze the tomatoes, but another says to place the box in the cellar immediately and forget about it. Next spring when other folks are searching for some unfrozen soil in which to plant seeds, you will simply bring up the box, water it and stand back while the seedlings shoot up. It seems the rotted tomato provides ample fertilizer for the young seedlings and they are exceptionally healthy. So try your luck. It sounds easy. By the way, I am indebted to Mrs. Archie Black, Mrs. Allison Graham and Mrs. Donald Cross for the above information.

Speaking of tomatoes, did anyone ever try the idea of wrapping green tomatoes in paper and storing them so that they are ripe and ready to slice for Christmas. I've read about it, but have never known anyone who actually tried it. I'd be most interested to hear from anyone who has had the experience with the idea and to pass it on through "Garden Chats".

When we are on the subject of experiments, I tried growing ornamental gourds this year. After everything was transplanted from the hotbed, I just poked the seeds in all through it, and did they grow? They've chocked out weeds and grass; they've climbed the garden fence; they've covered the ground for five feet around the bed. They're simply loaded with gourds and flowers.

You, perhaps, saw the ones I took to the Flower Show. Well I learned something that day from Mr. Gammon about them. I had picked them too young. I thought that at the rate they were growing they would soon reach the dimensions of cow-pumpkins, so I halted their growth. He told me, however, that they grow to a certain size, then stop and ripen, and I shouldn't pick them until after the first light frost. Then their shell will be hard so they won't decay. A coat or two of varnish or shellac will preserve them well into next summer. They are rather pretty on a buffet arranged in a fruit bowl. Then too, their odd colours and shapes make them interesting to grow.

Mother used to grow a variety she called "Mock Oranges". They were exactly the same colour, size and shape of the "sixty cents a dozen" variety of the real thing. A bowl of them on the table caused plenty of fun. Callers would stare greedily at them wondering why she didn't pass them, and many a guest looked rather foolish when she did. In fact they found their way to breakfast trays, etc., never failing to fill their places as "mock oranges." I'd like to know where to find some seed for them. I could use a laugh too.

My column must be running out, so I'll just say

So long until next week.

EARLY CHICKS NOW PAYING PRODUCERS

Poultry raisers were urged early this year by Poultry Services, Dominion Department of Agriculture to buy or hatch chicks a month to two months earlier than usually so as to make eggs available in the fall and winter for export to Great Britain. They are now benefiting by the payoff. Two cars of new crop eggs were offered to the Special Products Board on August 22, for shipment to Great Britain against the British egg contract. This was a full month earlier than in 1946, and the 1947 early hatched pullets should enable producers to continue egg deliveries throughout the fall and winter, when Britain wants them most and pays a premium for them, say officials of the Department.

Announcement has been made officially through the British Food Mission, that the agreement with Canada for the sale of eggs and egg products extending to the end of January, 1949, will not be affected by measures being taken by Britain to strengthen her economic position.

SHELDRICK—ALLISON

On Saturday evening, September 6 on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Allison of North Russell, a pretty wedding took place when Jean Alma Allison was married to Amos Frederick Sheldrick, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheldrick, of Metcalfe. Rev. E. C. Warren officiated.

Mr. Amon Sheldrick of Metcalfe was best man.

For the wedding the bride was attired in a floor length dress of white over taffeta with a high neckline and long full sleeves, a floor length veil was arranged from a coronet head dress, she carried a cascade bouquet of white and red gladioli.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, after which the young couple left for a trip to Niagara Falls, United States and Northern Ontario. The bride's travelling costume was a wool rosewood suit with a shoulder corsage of lilies of the valley, wearing a black off-the-face hat with black accessories.

LOCAL CALF MAKES NICE SHOWING

After winning First in his class and Reserve Junior Championship at Chesterville Black and White Day, he went to South Mountain Fair at the end of last week and took all the firsts and specials he was eligible for.

BEAVER'S TREE-FELLING EQUIPMENT

Borrowing a beaver skull from the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology recently, a Toronto x-ray technician made several radiographs of it. He had read that by stop-watch timing, a beaver helping to construct a dam across a Canadian stream had cut through a branch, two inches in diameter, in precisely 50 seconds, and he wanted some light on that busy woodsman's cutting equipment. Radiographs revealed why the upper and lower incisor teeth of the big rodents are such sufficient tools for the job. Semi-circular in setting and with a base line of two inches, the upper pair have an unshakable anchorage in the jaw, and the lowers are imbeded in the mandible for practically its entire length. In both instances these teeth have a keen, chisel-like cutting edge. These deeply anchored incisors wear down with the constant wood-cutting activities of the beaver but this loss is replaced by the continuous growth of the incisor teeth during the lifetime of the beaver. Why these animals have been called 'nation builders,' how they inspired much exploration in the early days of Canada, and other facts about the busy beavers are set forth in a striking exhibit at the Royal Ontario Museum.
