Herman E. A. Cleland Passed Away Sunday

WAS HIGHLY ESTEEMED CITIZEN OF SOUTH MOUNTAIN. FUNERAL HELD ON TUESDAY.

The death occurred on Sunday last of a prominent and widely esteemed citizen of South Mountain in the person of Herman E. A. Cleland, in his 67th year. The deceased had been in good health until the morning of his death, when he was seized with a very severe heart attack. In spite of immediate medical attention, he failed to rally and passed away early that evening.

The late Mr. Cleland was born in South Mountain in 1870, the son of the late Thomas Cleland and his wife, Mary Jane Gray, and had lived most of his life in that district. As a young man he was an employee of Mr. A. W. Beach, of Winchester.

Following his marriage to Miss Eva Locke, the deceased took up residence in South Mountain, where he carried on a splendid furniture and undertaking business for the past 35 years.

The deceased was very active in municipal affairs, and served for some years as trustee of the village of South Mountain. His keen interest in local enterprises led him to take a prominent part in the work of the Mountain Agricultural Society in which organization he served as secretary for 7 years.

The late Mr. Cleland was also prominent in the work of fraternal societies, and was a Past District Deputy Grand Master of the Oddfellows' Lodge He was a charter member of South Mountain Lodge and took a keen interest in its welfare. At the time of his death, the deceased was one of the Grand Lodge Officers, being attached to the District Deputy Grand Master's team. He was also a member of the Independent Order of Forresters.

Known throughout the entire district for his kindly and affable disposition, his integrity and gentlemanly manner, the late Mr. Cleland will be missed by a wide circle of friends.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Oddfellows' Lodge, with Bro. C. E. Murdock, N.G., as Director of Ceremonies. Representatives from the various Oddfellows Lodges in Cardinal,, Kemptville, Winchester and Mountain were present to pay their final respects to the late Mr. Cleland.

The impressive service was conducted by Rev. W. R. Johnston, pastor of the United Church, and chaplain of the South Mountain Lodge. The choir was present and led in the singing, with Mrs. Lorne Armstrong presiding at the organ. Interment was made in the Union Cemetery with six Past District Deuty Grand Masters of the Oddfellow's Lodge acting as pall bearers.

Those left to mourn his death include his widow, and one daughter, Jessie, at home.

Will Johnston and Charlie Cross were victorious in the final match of the local Bowling Club doubles competition last evening, against T. O. VanBridger and Neil Hutt, and were declared Club champions for 1936. A real battle was witnessed from the opening end and the score 16-12 indicates the play.

Kemptville Town Clerk Arrested On Friday

WAS LOCATED AT HIS HOME IN KEMPTVILLE AFTER WIDE SEARCH BY POLICE

William H. Guest, suspended town clerk of the village of Kemptville, for whom police have been conducting a provincial wide search during the past few weeks, was arrested on Friday evening last when police authorities entered his home at Kemptville and found him sleeping in bed. He was arrested on a warrant charging theft of municipal funds, following an audit of the town's books, which revealed shortages in the relief accounts.

His automobile had been found at the Canadian Pacific depot at Bedell by the station agent, Mr. S. E. Smith, early Friday morning. Believing that the wanted man was in the vicinity of the town, Provincial Constable George E. Buck and Chief J. McIntyre renewed their search of the town and district which resulted in the arrest of Mr. Guest at his home at 8 p.m.

When the officers arrived at his home they were unable to gain admittance and telephoned to Mrs. Guest who was staying with her father in Ottawa. She drove to Kemptville with the house keys and admitted the officers. Mr. Guest was found asleep in bed.

Was In Montreal.

Following his arrest, Mr. Guest said that he had been in Montreal for some days and that Thursday afternoon he telephoned a friend to bring his car to the station as he was coming home that night by train. When he arrived at the station Thursday night, the car was not in sight so he walked home. He said that his friend must have brought the car to the station to meet a later train and left it there. He did not reveal the name of the friend.

Mr. Guest informed the police that he had been at his home since his arrival on Friday morning.

Guest appeared in magistrate's court at Brockville, on Saturday before Mrs. Elinore Hare, J. P., and without having to plead, was remanded until Sept. 5th at 10.30 a.m. Guest was not represented by counsel, and no request for bail was made

SERVICE BULLETIN
By
FENNELL FEED COMPANY

Here is the latest egg market report from the Department at Ottawa:

Paying prices on August 28th this year and previous years:—

	1936	1935	1934
Montreal	29-30	25-26	22
Toronto	26	24	20
Winnipeg	21	20	15
Vancouver	31	25	25

Montreal, August 28th—The egg market there has held steady to firm during the current week. Good quality eggs of the top grades have been quite scarce and have advanced in price."

Present prices are well ahead of previous years on the same date. It looks as though egg prices might be fairly attractive a little later on in the season.

Will your pullets be laying when the market is at its best?

Are they getting enough animal protein feeds in their ration to fit them for heavy egg production?

It would seem to be a good time right now to give the flock a little extra attention and have them ready to lay when prices are highest.

Bring in your own grain and have your poultry feeds made up to order

You will have a first class Growing or Laying Mash with a small outlay of cash.

We can supply Meat Meal, Fish Meal, Bone Meal, Alfalfa Leaf, Charcoal, Buttermilk Powder, Cod Liver Oil, etc., and put up any ration you want.

Just bring in the grain, we will grind it and mix the feed while you wait.

X-L-O CONCENTRATE

The handiest way to make up your own mash is to use X-L-O Concentrate.

100 lbs. X-L-O Concentrate added to 200 lbs. mixed grain will make a mash with about 18 per cent protein.

The Concentrate has all the ingredients needed for either a Growing or Laying Mash. For a Growing Mash more grain can be used in the mixture—about 100 lbs. Concentrate to 300 lbs. of ground grain.

We will mix it for you or you can mix the Concentrate in at home.

In any case it will always pay to feed a well balanced ration.

THE FALL FAIRS

The season of Fall Fairs is upon us once more, and the directors of the various Agricultural Societies are working hard with plans for the approaching exhibitions in this district.

It is regrettable that the Winchester Fair was allowed to go into decline, for the Agricultural Society was, without doubt, an asset to this community. The Smiths' Falls Record-News is right when it says:

"It gives the farmer an opportunity to display his stock and produce and thus compare his "goods" with fellow agriculturists in the district. Amateur gardeners also can take advantage of these fairs by exhibiting vegetables and flowers from their garden plots, and housewives may show their ability with exhibits of home-cooking and other domestic products.

"Fall Fairs are also reunions. At these events acquaintances are renewed and a visit can be enjoyed with old friends. The main characteristics of the real people of our country can be about as well discerned at these fall fairs as at any function of our national life. There one sees the result of the persistent and indomitable industry of our people The fatness of the cattle, the well-groomed horses, the meatiness of the wholesome hogs, the perfection of those vegetables and fruits, these are among the signs of untiring labour."

The citizens of Winchester and district will have the opportunity to attend three excellent fairs during the next two or three weeks. The Russell Fair is first on the list, the directors having decided on Sept. 8th and 9th as the dates for their annual exhibition. The Mountain Agricultural Society have announced their Fair on September 10th and 11th, while Metcalfe Fair will be held on September 15th and 16th.

This has been a splendid year for the farmers throughout this district with excellent crops reported from all sides. As a consequence the exhibits to be seen at the various Fall Fairs should be of a high order. According to reports the directors of the Agricultural Societies are enthusiastic over the way in which the citizens in general are showing an interest in the Fairs. Everything gives promise of large entries in the different classes

It is to be hoped that the citizens of Winchester will reserve the above mentioned dates and plan now to attend the district fairs, thus showing their interest in the Societies whose chief object is to promote the interests of agriculture, horticulture and stock raising in this area.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY IN CANADA

Canadians are justly proud of their educational institutions. In few countries of the world do children receive more schooling, and in few countries is as high a proportion of the population able to read and write. But a recent investigation raises the question whether Canadians exercise their reading ability as much as they might be expected to do. Their use of public libraries does not make it seem so.

The average Canadian, counting men, women and children, borrows two books from a public library in a year; the average person in the United States borrows nearly twice as many. Ontario people are the only ones in Canada using the public library as much as the United States people do on the whole. And in California each person reads more than twice as many public library books as in Ontario.

The difference is not due to cost for it takes nine cents to circulate a book in Canada, and ten cents in the United States. Rather we get just about what we pay for. Libraries in Canada cost eighteen cents per person, in the United States 38 cents.

Our total expenditure on public libraries in 1935 was considerably less than two per cent of what we spent for public schools, and a little more than ten per cent. of what we spent for universities and colleges.

This information is supplied by the Education Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The opening of School heralds the arrival of Fall, with subsequent thoughts of the winter's coal, snow drifts, zero weather, last year's fuel bill, goloshes, cold feet and Santa Claus.

We offer our hearty congratulations to the editor and staff of the Stirling News-Argus upon achieving the fifty-eighth year of publication. The News-Argus is welcomed at our desk each week, and we extend best wishes for continued service and success.

The tax-ridden motorists of the province, no doubt, pinched themselves to see if they were really awake, when the rumour spread from Queen's Park recently that automobile license fees might be reduced another year.

Such being the case, the motorists of the province will welcome some definite announcement to that effect from the powers-that-be in Toronto.

The appeal brought forward by Cornwall Township against the equalized assessment fixed by the counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry, opened last week at the court house, Cornwall, with Judge F. T. Costello on the bench. After hearing numerous witnesses, the hearing was adjourned until Sept. 8th.

The result will, no doubt, prove of interest to tax payers throughout the Counties, as this is the third appeal against the assessment, launched by Cornwall Township in the past four years.

An important feature of the strike of 1700 employees of the Courtauld's (Canada) Ltd., at Cornwall is emphasized in a recent item which appeared in the Financial Post. The article states:

Loss estimated at more than $2,000 an hour is said to be incurred by the company, caused by wastage in the automatic viscose process used in the manufacture of rayon."

Such being the case, it would appear that the strike has been a costly affair insofar as the company is concerned, to say nothing of the loss in pay-checks to the workers.

FARM NEAR METCALFE SUFFERS $3,000 LOSS

A large barn, machine shed, piggery and henhouse on the farm of David Morrison, near Metcalfe, was destroyed by fire on Thursday evening last, with a loss estimated at $3,000, partly covered with insurance. The barn was filled with hay and this continued to burn long into the night and to threaten the farmhouse as the sparks were blown toward the house by an east wind. Neighbors stayed up until near midnight with wet blankets and pails of water beating out sparks on the sides and roof of the house.

None of the stock suffered as the livestock is in pasture and the pigs were all removed before the flames reached the piggery. Neighbors gathered to form a bucket brigade but were helpless to stem the flames.

A short play was presented by Misses Carrie Ellis, Alvera Boyd and Olive Dagg. Mrs. J. C. Morphy displayed a beautiful old red shawl and sang "That Little Old Red Shawl My Mother Wore," accompanied at the piano by Miss Doris Nixon.

A feature of the program was a comparison of the grandmother of 1876 and the grandmother of 1936. Mrs. Ida Wallace took the part of the grandmother of today while Miss Verna Swerdfeger dressed in a beautiful gown 60 years of age, was the dear old lady of by-gone days.

Following the program, afternoon tea was served to the grandmothers with Mrs. Harry Boyd and Mrs. D. Robb pouring tea. Each grandmother was presented with a fancy basket of old-fashioned candies.

Mrs. R. Dagg moved a vote of thanks to all those contributing to the program. while Mrs. L. A. Wilson, on behalf of the grandmothers, voiced their appreciation of the afternoon's entertainment.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

OUR GOLDEN FRUIT

Our golden harvest has come again. Warm, fragrant peaches lie ripe in the sun, and orchards and markets seem like counting-houses filled with golden doubloons. Perhaps that is how the story of the Golden Apples arose in Greek mythology. Peaches so luscious and golden seemed to the ancient Greeks like precious metal—and what name would better suit their glowing beauty than "Golden Apples."

To many homemakers the peach season is the most enjoyable of all on summer's food calendar. They can bake, preserve and pickle peaches, make them into salads and desserts, and still the supply is not exhausted. Farm and city markets are crowded with boxes and baskets piled high with fruit of warmth and color. The musky, sweet odor of peach fuzz and rich juice seems to hover over orchard and kitchen. Tables are made colorful with peaches in a fresh fruit centrepiece Meals are made interesting by serving peaches in delicious and varying ways.

Here are a few new ideas for presenting this golden fruit, as well as some new twists to old and well-loved peach recipes.

All Bran Pastry

1-4 cup all bran, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1-2 cup shortening, 5 tbsps. cold water (more or less).

Roll all bran until fine and combine with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out on lightly floured board to about one-eigth inch in thickness. Yield: 1-2 crust pie or two 8-inch pastry shells.

Peach Turnovers

1 cup sweetened, sliced peaches

Make all bran pastry, rolling dough out to one-fourth inch thickness. Cut into large rounds (5 inches in diameter) with biscuit cutter. On one half place a mound of sliced peaches. Moisten edge of dough. Fold other half over to cover peaches, and crimp down edges using a fork or cookie crimper. Put a dot of butter on top of each. Place on a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Something spicy to serve with roasts, and very attractive, too, is Peaches au Gratin.

Peaches au Gratin

3 large peaches, *1-4 cup corn flake crumbs, 1-4 cup butter.

Pare and halve peaches. Roll in corn flake crumbs, place in buttered baking dish, cut side up. In hollow insert several whole cloves, add a little brown sugar. Dot with butter and sprinkle with lemon juice. Bake in hot oven until fruit is tender and crumbs are brown (10-12 minutes). Serve hot.

*Note: It requires 1 cup whole corn flakes to make 1-4 cup corn flake crumbs.

Peach Cobbler is an old way of serving peaches, but deliciously new with the all bran dough used. It is good served hot or cold with thick cream.

Peach Cobbler

4 cups sliced peaches, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 tbsps. butter, 2 to 3 tbsps. flour, 1-2 tsp. nutmeg, 1-4 tsp. cinnamon.

Place peaches, sugar, spices and butter in deep pan. Sprinkle with flour. Prepare biscuit dough, roll out to one-half inch in thickness and place over top of peaches. Bake in moderately hot oven for 30 minutes. Serves 8.

All-Bran Buttermilk Biscuits

1-2 cup all bran, 3-4 cup buttermilk, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1-2 tsp. soda, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1-2 cup fat.

Soak all bran in buttermilk. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse cornmeal. Add soaked all bran; stir until dough follows fork around bowl. Turn onto floured board; knead lightly a few seconds; roll or pat to one-half inch thickness.

Note: SWEET MILK RECIPE: If sweet milk is used instead of buttermilk, omit soda and increase baking powder to 3 teaspoons.

Fresh peach pie is tempting and taste satisfying. It should be eaten warm, or at least soon after it has been baked.

SYNOPSIS . . . Silas Spelle, high-handed, low-principled cattle baron, is out to smash the local bank and force foreclosure on the small ranchers of the Kanab desert country so that he can seize their range lands. He is opposed by Ed. Starbuck, president of the Cattlemen's Bank, and by San Juan Delevan, prominent rancher who has been crippled by a fall from his horse. Tex Whipple and his partner, Johnny Clehoe, are cowpunchers employed by San Juan Delevan to fight the rustlers and protect his interests.

A week after they had gone on their quest Tex Whipple and Johnny Clehoe rode slowly up out of the gulf of the Kanab Desert, to where the San Juan Plateau loomed dim and purple in the violet dusk. They were gaunt, hollow-eyed and weary Their faces; their clothes; their horses were gray with dust and the grime of the desert. Their eyes were bloodshot; their lips cracked and raw from the bite of alkali dust. In front of them, slow and ponderous, moved the cattle they had regained from the rustlers. It had been a terrific task to nurse exhausted and faltering brutes across the torrid wastes but the job was nearly done now and the cattle were traveling faster, having smelled the water in the troughs on the slope above.

Arriving at the corrals Tex and Johnny turned their charges over to Pink Crosby and Pod Fortune, all that remained of the Box D punchers, then unsaddled their horses, turned them into the pasture and walked with stiff, awkward strides up to the ranchhouse.

San Juan Delevan and his daughter Ronny were on the veranda.

"We brought yore cows back, San Juan," said Tex wearily. "Had to bump off two o' yore former punchers to get 'em. But they're all here, every dang haid."

"Good boys," rumbled San Juan. "By God, it's a relief to find men yuh can trust. Ronny, yuh go help Chang rustle grub for Tex an' the kid. Set it on this table. Tex, yuh an' Johnny go wash up an' then while yuh eat yuh can give me the story."

A good wash and plentiful food made new men out of Tex and Johnny. Johnny ate until he nearly fell out of the chair and until even Ronny was moved to remark about it.

"Goodness Tex, don't you ever feed this child of yours? It seems impossible to fill him up."

"Miss Ronny," drawled Tex, "I'll apologize for him. Ordinarily I'd be plumb ashamed of him but I gotta admit he dang near earned the right to eat his fool haid off this trip."

Johnny was quite shameless and unabashed. He yawned and grinned and rolled a smoke.

"Ain't often I get service like this. Gotta make the most of it, y'betcha. An' yuh know yuh'd feel offended if I didn't eat yore cookin'," he ended, addressing these words to Ronny. "I could do with that kind of cookin' the rest of my life, I'll tell a man."

"Haw! Haw!" rumbled San Juan as Ronny blushed and fled. "Kinda sudden, that kid, eh Tex?"

"He's purty danged fresh if yuh ask me," chuckled Tex. "If'n he don't mind his manners I'll work him over with a quirt."

"Huh," snorted Johnny. "Jest try it, yuh frazzled out ole tie string. Now to show yuh I'm a gentleman I'm goin' in an' help Chang wash the dishes."

"Heh—heh," sniffed Tex scornfully. "Gettin' mighty considerate of that Chink seems to me. Wonder if yuh think yuh're foolin' anybody. I hope the little lady smacks yore face with a dish rag."

When Johnny had gone the levity slipped immediately from Tex's face. He turned to San Juan.

"Sorry the kid an' me had to salivate those gents with the cattle."

"I'm not," bit out San Juan savagely. "Shore they had it comin' the damned double-crossin' coyotes. Things trailed out jest as I figgered they would at the Springs. They wa'nt no marks of any stampede was there?"

"None whatsoever," answered Tex. "The sign showed they jest cut out that bunch an' headed 'em northwest."

"I knew it. Ever since I got hurt I been figgerin' Wade an' his crowd was crooked. Pink Crosby an' Pod Fortune are good boys but the rest was workin' with Wade. Yuh know Tex, I'll tell yuh somethin' about how I got hurt. I was drivin' a thousand haid of my prime stuff to the railroad at Sawtelle. We had the herd bedded down at Skelton Springs. The night was quiet, no wind or nothin'. I was sound asleep when the break came. Fust thing I knew they was a lot of bellerin' an' shoutin' an' when I got outa my tarp I saw the cattle was on the run. I chucked a hull on a bronc an' forked him an' lit out to try an' turn 'em so they'd take to millin'. It was dark as the ace of spades an' everybody was ridin' hell-catoot. They was men ridin' on both sides of me.

"All of a sudden on plain level ground my hoss turned a somersault. O'course I hit hard an' my light went out. When I came to it was jest breakin' day. My back was hurtin' like hell an' I seemed dead from the waist down. My bronc was lyin' jest as he fell, with a broken neck. They was a canteen tied to the saddle an' as I was dryer'n hell I drug myself over to him to get a drink. While I was restin' I got to figgerin' it was kinda funny that hoss should have fallen thataway on level ground. I looked him over an' jest above the fetlock of the near front laig I found where he'd been burned with a rope."

"Hell!" burst out Tex. "Yuh don't mean to tell me one of them dang

"Don't stall for time," the bandit snarled.

snakes roped yore hoss an' throwed him apurpose?"

"Tex, that's jest exactly what happened."

"Then the whole thing was a set-up—stampede an' all?"

"I figger it was. An' they run off with eight hundred haid of my stock. I couldn't do nothin'. I was a danged sick man. Wonder yet why I didn't die. Loosin' them cattle jest about broke me. I got a mortgage I was gonna clear up with the sale of that herd. An' it's taken the last of my ready cash to bring in that last herd what I bought over on the Simon's Gulch range across the desert. I shore am travelin' on the ragged aidge right now. An' I don't know how the hell I'm gonna take up that mortgage. I can't stall off Ed Starbuck much longer, an' still keep my self-respect. Ed was over to see me the other day yuh know, that was him yuh rode in with. Ed's one white man, but he cain't run his bank on nothin'."

At this moment there came the clink of a shod hoof against rock.

Tex was instantly alert. "Hoss comin'," he pronounced softly.

Through the dim murk a rider approached, coming in along the Carillion trail. There was the sound of a stumble and then a volley of curses in a harsh, Scottish brogue.

Delevan grinned and leaned back. "Okeh Tex," he chuckled. "That's Doc McMurdo. Tough ole Scotchman but pure gold underneath. Comin' out to take a look at this damned back of mine I suppose."

The rider dismounted before the veranda with another rumble of profanity.

"Light down Doc, light down," called San Juan. "Yuh seem to be havin' yore troubles."

"'Tis the dommed trail, mon," rasped McMurdo. "And this crazy, drunken baste I've been r-r-riding. Twice he na'threw me. How's the back, Delevan?"

"About the same Doc, no better—no worse."

"Lucky ye ar'r-e to be alive. Delevan—I've bad news for ye. The bank's been r-r-obbed. Starbuck, Stinson and Bur-r-ney are dead, poor-r deevils."

"What?" exploded Delevan. "The bank robbed—Starbuck daid—an' the rest? I—hell—when did it happen, Mc?"

"Thursday afternoon. The dom thieves got clear away. The sheerif has come and gone wi'out doing a thing. 'Tis a wor-rthless mon he is. An e-ex-aminer is on hand and declares the bank insolvent. 'Tis r-rumor has it that that scheming, gr-rasping Silas Spelle is taking over all the bank's paper and mortgages."

Delevan laughed harshly, hopelessly. "That means I'm finished. Spelle will foreclose on me the first damn thing he does. He's been wantin' my range for a long time. Tex, I reckon yore job won't last long now."

Tex was thoughtful for a moment. "How much is that mortgage worth?"

"Ten thousand dollars. O'course I could cover it if I wanted to sell off all my stock. But without stock, what good would the range do me?"

"That's right," nodded Tex. "San Juan, would you consider goin' in pardners?"

"Who with?"

"Me—me an' the kid."

"Tex—I'd jump at the chance. It'd be the best thing whatever happened to me. Bein' tied to this damn chair the way I am I cain't get around an' take care of my spread like I should. With yuh an' the kid in with me we could make things hum—but, wait a minute. We're fergettin' Spelle an' that damn mortgage."

"Not a leetle bit, we ain't," snapped Tex. "I been lookin' for a chance like this. Johnny's old enough now to start settlin' down an' gettin' his spurs hooked into somethin' permanent. I got a pretty stake saved up fer the kid an' I know where I can get more. Together it'll be plenty to squelch Mister Silas Spelle. An' we'll make the kid foreman, San Juan. He needs some responsibility now, somethin' to make him ferget his kid stuff an' turn man. Yuh got a sweet range here—the kind I been lookin' for fer a long time. Is it a go?"

"Tex—it shore is. Yore talk puts some strength in this damned, worthless ole carcass of mine. Shake!"

Daylight the following morning found Tex far out on the Kanab Desert, pounding along at a steady lope. He had three horses and was changing from one to the other every two hours. In this way he did not have to halt to rest them. All through the scorching day he rode steadily. At evening he halted for half an hour at a brackish, green scummed water-hole. While the horses were drinking and resting Tex wolfed down a couple of powdery sandwiches, took a long drink at his canteen, rolled a smoke, then resumed his steady ride.

The pale moon rose, arched and descended. The black heart of the dawn took form, hovered—lightened—and was gone. The sun came up. And with it's rising Tex rode up to the shipping town of Sawtelle. It was rails end of a spur the S. W. & P. had thrown up along the western edge of the Kanab Desert to tap the cattle ranges of the district and a few mining operations subject to sporadic outbursts of activity.

Tex went direct to the railroad station. He was greeted at the ticket window by a yawning, heavy-eyed agent.

"When's the next train out?" demanded Tex.

"Nine fifteen. Ticket? Where to?"

"Sevier."

The agent selected a strip of paste board, pounded dates on it and slipped it through the wicket. "Twelve dollars and forty-two cents."

Tex folded up the ticket and stowed it away and tossed a golden double eagle on the counter.

"Keep the change a minute," he adjured. "Can I send some telegrams from here?"

"Sure. Here's the pad. Write 'em out."

"WHAT IS LIFE TO YOU?"

To the preacher life's a sermon,
To the joker it's a jest;
To the miser life is money,
To the loafer life is rest.
To the lawyer life's a trial,
To the poet life's a song;
To the doctor life's a patient
That needs treatment right along,
To the soldier life's a battle,
To the teacher life's a school;
Life's a good thing to the grafter,
It's a failure to the fool.

To the man upon the engine
Life's a long and heavy grade;
It's a gamble to the gambler,
To the merchant life is trade.
Life's a picture to the artist,
To the rascal life's a fraud;
Life perhaps is but a burden
To the man beneath the hod
Life is lovely to the lover,
To the player life's a play;
Life may be a load of trouble
To the man upon the dray.
Life is but a long vacation
To the man who loves his work;
Life's an everlasting effort
To shun duty, to the shirk.
To the earnest Christian worker
Life's a story ever new;
Life is what we try to make it—
Brother, what is life to you?

SEVERELY INJURED IN DIVE OFF SPRING BOARD

Suffering from a spinal injury close to the neck received while diving Thursday last at Becketts Landing, Stanley Burton, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Burton, of Kemptville, was reported to be in serious condition at the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

The accident occurred at 5.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon last, when the the boy, in making a somersault dive from the springboard, slipped and fell heavily on it, striking his head and neck.

VENTNOR W.I.

The Ventnor Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Wallace Davidson on Thursday last and took the form of a grandmothers' meeting. The president, Mrs. John Gray, was in the chair and was assisted in the business by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Chas Brown.. The members decided to each donate two chairs for the new institution hall and purchase the remainder needed to furnish the room

The program was presented in honor of the grandmothers. The roll call was answered by "your grandmothers' maiden names." Current events were given by Mrs. Roy Henderson, and a paper read by Mrs. Wilfred Coons. A vocal trio by three little girls, Joy Gamble, Doreen Riddell and Beatrice Kennedy, was enjoyed. Mrs. Wm. Gamble was the accompanist throughout the program

A button hole contest was won by Mrs. John Davidson and Mrs. Wilfred Coons, and the groups led by Mrs. John Gray and Mrs. Roy Henderson won in a written contest. Refreshments were served by the social committee, Mrs. Charles Ferguson,
Charles Ferguson and Mrs. John Davidson.

LOVELY LITTLE LADY

No little girl can begin to entertain too early. Being a charming hostess may be born in some of us, but most people have to practice a bit before they entertain gracefully. Mothers should start the social training of their girls by letting them invite their friends in often for tea or light refreshments on the lawn during the long summer afternoons.

It is important that these affairs be kept informal. Children may so easily become constrained if there are too many elders around or if everything is too party-ish. They should learn to look on parties as a time when they can be naturally gay with congenial people, rather than as stiff, ceremonial occasions

If her daughter is under ten, probably mother should plan and serve the refreshments. This insures their success. But if the young lady is in her teens it will be fun for her to do her own planning, with a little help on the serving. Nothing elaborate should ever be attempted, for that will take the pleasure out of it for the young hostess. She mustn't be made to feel that this is anything more difficult than the many times she and Judy have eaten fresh rhubarb from the garden, or borrowed apples from mother's kitchen to take on their private picnics in a vacant lot. The entire spirit of a young girl's entertaining should be one of impromptu hospitality. If this carries over into her grown-up entertaining, she will be a lucky girl and that rare person, a good hostess.

A suitable menu for these afternoon get-togethers is given here. It is simple and very dainty and reflects the coolness of a terraced garden. Serve it buffet or plate style.

WHAT DID YOU DO?

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of man
And bearing about all the burden he can,
Did you give him a smile? He was downcast and blue,
And the smile would have helped him to battle it through.
Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down hill,
And the world, so he fancied, was using him ill,
Did you give him a word? Did you show him the road,
Or did you just let him go on with his load?
Do you know what it means, just a clasp of the hand,
When a man has been bearing just all he can stand?
Did you stop when he asked you to give him a lift?
Or were you so busy you left him to drift?
Oh, I know what you mean! what you say may be true,
But the test of your manhood is: What did you do?
Did you reach out your hand? Did you find him the road?
Or did you just let him go by with his load?

DISCARD RAZOR BLADES

Household discoveries are always intriguing and beneficial. Although this one may sound like a lot of trouble, in reality it isn't and you will be particularly pleased with the result. It pertains to the use of discarded safety razor blades for ripping seams which many hesitate to use through fear of cutting fingers.

But to overcome the danger: Cut away the band of metal with which the tops of calendars are bound. Cut off a piece of the metal the length of the razor blade. With a sharp knife pry open and remove the calendar paper (using a fine darning needle for the purpose). The metal should be opened only enough to permit the insertion of the blade of the razor. Lay blade on a hard surface and hammer down the metal, to make a tight binding that will hold the blade securely. If the blade is of the type that has holes in the centre, thread a darning needle with twine and sew through the holes and up over the back of the metal binding (or handle) to keep it firm. This metal binding can easily be pried open and the old blade removed when you wish to replace it with a new sharp one.

CATTLE EXPORTS CONTINUE

While Ontario Holstein breeders in the Western part of the Province have continued with July exports equal to those of 1935, there was a slight falling off for the last two weeks of the month on animals sold for export from the more Eastern Counties. There has, however, been considerable activity in the vicinity of Mallorytown, the shipments being principally to New York and Vermont States. These were chosen from the herd of Ardon Warren, H. S. Forrester, L. O. Warren, Norman Hutchinson, all of Mallorytown; Milton T. Greer, J. S. Humphrey, W. J. Webster, Clark Foley, W. A. Molton and A. J. Horton, Lansdowne; and E. H. Wills, Lyndhurst. Other Eastern Ontario exports of one or more animals were made from the herds of A H. Fair, Kingston; A. M. Bagg, Greenfield; F. G. Beggs, Oxford Mills, Leonard J. McNaughton, Maxville; Arthur H. McMillan, Finch; Hamilton McKendry, Metcalfe; G. Erskine Robertson and J. A Pritchard, Osgoode Station; J. W. Cameron, Perth; J. R. Donaldson, Merrickville, and H. E. Bolton, of Picton.

NEW MARKERS TO BE STRIKING

According to a recent announcement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways, the 1937 license plates will have the letter in the centre of the plates, with the numbers on either side. The new markers are said to be striking, with a background of coronation red and a white crown in each corner, in honour of the coronation of His Majesty, King Edward VIII.

A sketch of the work done in 1936 was given by Mrs. Miles Marcellus, of Dunbar. Mrs. Turner, of Winchester, Presbyterial president; delighted her hearers with a wonderful address on "The History of Presbyterian Missions in Canada," telling of it from its inception to the present day. The ladies' quartette of Winchester gave a beautiful number, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Grey and Miss Empey being the members.

A vote of thanks to all who had assisted in any way with the programme was given by Mrs. Brownell and seconded by Mrs. Chas. Marselis. The Misses Isla Barkley and Evelyn Marselis took up the offering and the dedicatory prayer was offered by Rev. George Extense. "Faith of our Fathers," was sung, and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. A. O. Thompson, of Morewood.

Lunch was served by the Dunbar ladies and a social hour was spent, bringing to a close another mile stone in the history of the Missionary Society of Dunbar Presbyterian church that will always remain vivid in the minds of those present.

Greetings were received from former pastors and friends, Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Mason, Rev. A. Nimmo, Rev. Kalem, Rev. Bell Rev. Cameron.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER

GIVE GOOD MEASURE IN BINDER TWINE

There has been little complaint as to the quality of binder twine sold in Canada in recent years. The law requires that each ball of binder twine sold, whether Canadian made or imported, bears a label showing the number of feet per pound in the ball. These statements as to length, for example, 500, 550, 600 or 650 feet to the pound, are checked by inspectors of the Seed Branch..

A certain tolerance is allowed under the Act in consideration of variations which naturally must occur. However, of the three hundred samples or more tested annually, more than half have shown a greater length to the pound than the label called for. In samples which did not meet the guarantee, the deficiencies in length per pound were inconsiderable, and only in occasional cases did the deficiency exceed the limit allowed. Since 1930, the proportion of samples found to have shortages has not amounted to three per cent. of the total number of samples tested, the proportion in 1935 being less than half of one per cent.

CRATE FEED POULTRY AND INCREASE ECONOMY

A substantial amount of money in the aggregate is lost by farmers every year due to sending their poultry to market not properly finished. Far too much of the poultry offered on both the domestic and export markets is below the Milkfed A and Milkfed B classes for which a premium up to as high as three cents per pound is paid over the lower grades.

The sure and certain way to raise the grade is by the comparatively simple process of crate feeding the birds on a ration of finely-ground home grains, potatoes and sour milk.

There are various fattening mixtures that give good results, but the point is to make use of the feed produced and available on the farm. The best results will be obtained if the birds are put in disinfected crates two or three weeks before marketing. The crates should be put in reasonably warm quarters free from draughts and the birds should be fed morning and evening. The following ration is recommended: Equal parts of oats and wheat, with barley or buckwheat; add potatoes at the rate of one-third of the total weight of the meal mixture; mix with sour milk so that the mixture will pour easily.

The beginning of the feeding period is most important. If the birds are placed in the feeding crates with food in their crops, they should miss a meal and should be fed sparingly for about two days. Immediately on being placed in feeding crates birds should be given a purgative in the form of Epsom salts in the first feed, the dosage being at the rate of one pound of Epsom salts to one hundred birds. The salts should be dissolved in water and the solution used for mixing the first feed.

Feeding the birds all they will eat the first day results in loss of appetite and weight. It is better to leave the birds without feed for the first twenty-four hours after putting them in the crates than to overfeed them. For the first few days the birds should be kept fairly hungry and never satisfied until they become used to their confined quarters. After that as much feed as they will take may be given two or three times a day. After every feed, however, the troughs should be cleaned, and a supply of grit should be available two or three times a week.

INTERNATIONAL PLOWING MATCH TO BE HELD AT CORNWALL

The enthusiasm displayed to date by farmers and agricultural experts of the Province of Quebec and New York State, as well as those in Ontario, promises to make the International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Demonstration to be held from Oct. 6 to 9 at Cornwall, Ont., by far the largest and most international event of its kind in the world, according to a statement issued this week by J. A. Carroll, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and Secretary-Manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, under whose auspices it is held each year.

"Many new features will be included on the official program this year," Mr. Carroll announced, "and foremost among these will be the new 'visitors' class' which is open only to residents of the United States, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces. This competition will be held on the closing day of the match and, because of the international aspect of this year's meeting, will probably be watched with the keenest interest by all who attend."

Mr. Carroll stated that several groups of farmers across the border were planning to charter busses to bring contestants and visitors to Cornwall. He said that he had informed their farm bureaus that the Ontario Highway Traffic Act permitted motor busses while on chartered trips to operate in this province without Ontario registration plates.

Officials of the match have been assured of a strong contingent of skilled plowmen from Quebec, prize winners in many contests in their own province. These contestants will also demonstrate the excellent progress made in horse-breeding in Quebec by bringing teams representing the breeds most used in Quebec. They will include Percheron, Belgian, Clydesdale, and the native French-Canadian breed. The latter was evolved in Quebec and is the only breed of horse originated in Canada. These teams will qualify for the horse show held during the match by participating in the plowing contests.

An old-world touch will be provided by a few yoke of oxen from the French-speaking province which will participate in a special plowing demonstration. Also on display will be at least one pair of the French-Canadian breed of cattle.

Plans for the four-day assembly at Cornwall have been thoroughly worked out by the executive of the Ontario Plowmen's Association in co-operation with the Eastern Counties Plowmen's Association, made up of ten branches from the seven Ontario counties of Glengarry, Stormont, Dundas, Grenville, Carleton, Prescott and Russell.

Ten local committees are completing all details which they claim will make this year's match the greatest in the history of the association and exhibition plowing.

There will be more than 30 competitions on the program, with trophy and cash awards valued at over $4,000.

As the match will be held within 25 miles of the Quebec boundary and just across the Roosevelt Bridge from the international border, the executive committee has been given every assurance that many thousands of spectators will come from Quebec and the United States to support their local contestants, and present indications point to the breaking of last year's record of more than 500 competitors and 100,000 spectators.

Bowlers of Province Invited to Leamington

Members of the Leamington Lawn Bowling Club are extending an invitation to every bowling club in the province to be present for their annual "Sun Parlor Tournament" to be held in that town on Monday, October 12th (Thanksgiving Day). The tournament has the promise of being one of the largest ever held in the province as already a number of entries have been received. According to the announcement, play will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and four fifteen-end games will be played. Over $500 in prizes will be offered to the rinks scoring the highest scores, besides other prizes that will be awarded the rink coming the longest distance. There will be a lucky prize awarded. The value of the first prizes will be over $70, second $60 and third $50.

The Leamington Club has excellent greens located in the heart of the town. Special entertainment is being planned for all bowlers who attend. The town has several good hotels where first-class accommodation may be obtained. In addition to these it has a number of high-class restaurants, where meals may be purchased at reasonable rates. The town is located in the heart of the fruit and vegetable-growing district of the county of Essex, and it is the intention of the club members to show the visitors through the large Heinz plant which is now running to capacity, employing over 1,500 hands. Jack Miner's bird sanctuary is only eight miles from Leamington and bowlers and their wives will have the opportunity of visiting it while in Leamington. Another attraction is Point Pelee National Park, only a few miles south-east of Leamington. Here thousands of people from all parts of Canada and United States visit every summer. The weather in Leamington district during October is much the same as September weather in Dundas county. For a number of years bowling has been carried on until New Year's Day, so that bowlers in Eastern Ontario need have no fear of bad weather conditions. Several bowlers in Winchester, Chesterville, Prescott, Kemptville and other eastern towns and villages have already received invitations to attend this mammoth tournament. Only the first 60 rinks will be accepted, so it is imperative that entries be sent in as soon as possible. The entry fee as stated on the invitations is $8. per rink. The committee in charge of the tournament includes W. W. Link, the president Walter Kipping, secretary, Sam Ferguson, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Phil. Fader, a former Winchester boy, is in charge of the advertising and publicity committee.

The Leamington bowlers hope that Eastern Ontario will be well represented mammoth tournament, and promise all a real good time.

BYRON MAGEE HONOURED

Members of the local Citizens' Band took part in a unique event on Sunday afternoon last at Merrickville, when 11 bands from the surrounding district gathered to pay tribute to Mr. Byron Magee, who has been an active bandsman for 70 years.

Over 180 musicians took part in the parade to Mr. Magee's residence, after which he was escorted to the community park, where over 2500 people listened to a splendid band concert rendered by the massed bands in his honour.

As the concert drew to a close, Mr. and Mrs. Magee were presented with beautiful baskets of roses as a mark of appreciation for his valuable aid to music among the district bands. Mr. Magee, who is 81 years old, was visibly affected by the kindness thus shown, and expressed his pleasure at renewing acquaintances with so many old friends.

"Byron" Magee is well known in Winchester, having played on numerous occasions with the Winchester Citizens' Band. He always gave generously of his talents and is held in high esteem by all those who are privileged to know him.

Those members of the Citizens' Band who gladly took part in the happy event at Merrickville were Messrs. Jack Latimer, James Larue, W. F. Workman, Frank, Lorne and Arnold Hogaboam.

THE WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The opening Fall meeting was held in the United Church Sunday School rooms on Tuesday afternoon of this week with a good attendance. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. J. W. Ault, who conducted the opening devotions, reading a portion of John 4 and leading in prayer. The secretary Mrs. E. Fennell, read the minutes of the June meeting and both old and new business was dealt with. The Executive was appointed to plan for the dinner.

It was decided to have Heckston choir put their play on here during September if possible. The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

OXFORD GROUP MEETINGS

Several teams went out on Sunday to hold meetings. One led by Dr. McKendry conducted the service in Dundela church at 11 a.m. Again at 2.30 p.m., Mr. O. Wallace was leader of the same team at Rowena, and at 7.30 p.m. in Haddo church the leader was Mrs. McKendry. Four from Ottawa were present and assisted in the afternoon and evening services. Three Times Winner

"Donnie" Bush broke into the ranks of organized baseball in 1905 at the age of 17, when he became a member of the Dayton team, old Central League, later going to the South Bend club of the same league.

Transferred to Cincinnati after the start of the 1908 season, Bush showed himself to be a sensational shortstop and late in the same season became a member of the Detroit Tigers. Strange as it seems, each of the three teams for whom he played that season won the championships of their respective leagues.

Darwin's Theory

Charles Darwin had his interest first aroused in the subject that ultimately led to his famed theory regarding evolution and the origin of species when, as a young man, he embarked on a voyage around the world with Admiral Fitzroy, in 1832, as the expedition's naturalist.

Struck with the similarity between prehistoric and existing animals of the various lands he visited, the idea dawned upon him that perhaps various species of animals were not simply created but had arrived at their forms only through slow development and modification. Thus began his life's work.

After spending years in experimentation and research, in 1856 he started work in England on preparing the huge amount of data he had amassed for publication. Then, one day in 1858 just as his material was about ready for publication, he received a manuscript from an old naturalist friend in India, Alfred Russell Wallace, who wished Darwin's opinion of his work. Upon perusing the manuscript, Darwin was amazed to find that Wallace, working entirely independently, had arrived at almost exactly the same conclusions as himself.

As a consequence, Russell and Darwin were honored as collaborators on the theory, though Darwin's priority on the subject was recognized."

FAREWELL HELD

A farewell reception, in honour of Mrs. Lumsdale Carr, of Ottawa, who has served for nearly two years as organist and choir leader of the United Church, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. L. Boyd on Sunday evening last, following the evening church service.

Mr. E. M. Shaver read an appropriate address on behalf of the members of the choir, while Mrs. Percy Durant presented Mrs. Carr with a silver rose bowl. A social time was enjoyed during which candy was served by Mesdames W. A. Sherwood, W. J. L. Boyd, and Miss Pearl Bolton.

The following was the address:

Dear Mrs. Carr:—

As this is the last evening in which you officiate as our Organist and Choir Leader, before terminating our relations as Leader and Choir, we wish to express to you our great appreciation of your services in that dual capacity and and of the uniform kind and considerate treatment, we, as Choir Members, have received at your hands during your occupancy of the position.

We realize that at times and perhaps many times, by our irregularity in attendance, inattention to explanations and lack of knowledge of music, we have been unto you as a "thorn in the flesh" and it required great forbearance on your part not to reprimand us severely for our shortcomings, but you just smiled benignly and possessed your soul in patience, in the hope that when the time came for us to demonstrate before a critical congregation, the result of your training, we would at least remember and put into our efforts the outstanding points to which you had directed our attention.

The distance you had to travel each week and frequently several times each week, to come to Choir Practice and officiate on Sunday, required great perseverance and courage, for at times the roads and weather conditions were such as would have discouraged many of less fortitude, but you faced these difficulties undismayed and with few exceptions we could count on your presence.

The regular attendance and valued assistance given by your sons each night of practice and at the Sunday services was greatly appreciated, as were the solos rendered by your talented daughter, when she helped us on our programmes on numerous special occasions.

We assure you of our very high regard for you personally and we hope that you may soon have a more conveniently located choir to lead and train and will always be pleased to hear of your success and advancement in your chosen profession.

We would ask you to accept this Silver Rose Bowl as a small remembrance of our relations as Leader and Choir.

With all best wishes for your future health and happiness

Signed on behalf of the Choir.
