Newsbriefs

Bunny sale

CHESTERVILLE — The Chesterville and District Lions Club will hold its annual Easter Bunny Sale over the next few weeks to raise money for the Winchester District Memorial Hospital building fund. Lions Club members will be selling the chocolate bunnies door-to-door Saturday morning in Chesterville at a cost of $3 each. If anyone misses their chance to purchase a bunny they can call Terry Ducolon after 3 p.m. at 448-3452.

Deer accident

MONKLAND — A car driven by a Cornwall man was severely damaged this week when it struck a deer on Highway 43 south of Monkland. Patrick Camacho, 34, of Cornwall, was unable to avoid the deer which jumped out of a ditch and in front of his vehicle along Highway 43. There have been numerous sightings of deer in the area by local residents, said Const. Bernie Gadbois of the Long Sault OPP. The animals are usually more of a hazard to motorists in the fall during deer-hunting season, he said.

Diabetes assn.

CORNWALL — There will be a general meeting of the Canadian Diabetes Association at St. Joseph's Villa in Cornwall, Monday, April 2, 1990 at 7:30. There will be a guest speaker present for the meeting.

Not mandatory

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — Osnabruck Township won't implement mandatory garbage pickup for township residents, at least not yet. Council is reviewing its garbage pickup to determine if residents in the township's built-up areas are paying for the service. It was suggested at the time to make garbage pickup in all built-up areas mandatory to avoid the problem of determining who is paying for the service. But Deputy Reeve Carson Elliott said last week mandatory garbage pickup likely won't be implemented until recycling is in place in the township.

Free trade could hurt Ault Foods

OTTAWA — Weakening Canada's supply management system for marketing farm products could have disastrous effects on the dairy processing industry, parliamentarians were told Tuesday.

Graham Freeman, chief executive officer of Ault Foods Ltd., urged the House of Commons Standings Committee on Agriculture to push for a government commitment "that provides Canadians processors with the opportunity to compete fairly."

"If our government does not ensure that our input costs are competitively priced with those processed products allowed into Canada, we are going to be dead in the water," he warned. "I mean that Ault Foods, the largest dairy processor in Canada, will close down operations in this country and quickly. Dairy margins are too thin too sustain any material cost difference."

Freeman was among processors and producers who will testify before the committee as it examines trade issues affecting agriculture. The hearings are expected to wind down in June.

In a telephone interview from his Etobicoke office, Freeman said that if existing barriers to the trade of dairy products between Canada and the U.S. were lifted, Ault's would no longer be able to operate in this country.

Because Ault's relies on volume to offset a low profit margin, it would be impossible to compete with American processors who operate in an economy not constrained by supply management, he indicated, explaining that if American processors undercut Canadian prices by 35 to 40 per cent, Ault's would lose money "on every pound of cheese produced in Winchester."

"How long are we going to lose money on every pound of cheese?"

The government must ensure a level playing field is developed and maintained before the dairy industry can compete with the U.S. or globally, he said.

Freeman said Ault's is firmly behind processors who want to protect the supply management system practised here, and its related marketing boards. "We're supporting the government in fighting very hard to save the marketing boards," he said.

"Free trade and the (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) decision on Article XI to allow imports of ice cream and yogurt from the U.S. into Canada, has a potentially devastating impact on our business," Freeman told the committee. "We need to strengthen GATT and to strengthen article XI of the agreement. We would like to preserve milk marketing boards and preserve supply managed sanctions."

"We need sanctions in place that protect our industry in Canada," Freeman said. "We need to do something about this and we need to do it now. But let us not cannibalize ourselves, piece by piece, under the threat of free trade.

"Either the system can be made sound in total and confirmed through the GATT process, or we must change the system. Let us not negotiate away pieces, such ice cream and yogurt -- that type of behavior undermines the confidence in the system, thus curtailing the very investment commitment that we need to move towards world competitiveness -- that state that we will eventually have to arrive at or perish."

Counties to keep tax hike under seven per cent

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CORNWALL — United Counties Council will likely keep its budget increase down to 6.5 per cent this year, almost half as much as last year's increase.

Counties council members were in budget meetings all day yesterday and Monday, trying to keep its annual budget increase out of the double digits. Warden Claude Cousineau said early yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon, it looks like council will be successful.

Taking the major bite out of the budget will be social services, mainly general welfare assistance, which is expected to increase 32.8 per cent. Cousineau blamed the increase on changes to the program by the province allowing more people to use the program.

The mandatory services such as social services, because they've jumped the rates in this new STEP program, are about 32.8 per cent."

The STEP program allows anyone making $30,000 a year with two children and a wife actively seeking work can draw welfare. That and other provincial program changes mean more social service expenditures for county government.

Council members have managed to keep increases for expenditures on general administration and wages at 4.5 per cent.

Schools offer farm course

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

WINCHESTER — A new six-week course covering practical aspects of farming is starting this week at two area high schools this week.

The experimental program, called Practical Aspects of Farming, is aimed at Grade 10 students at Tagwi Secondary School and North Dundas District High School who are considering summer employment at farms this year.

One of the program's co-ordinators, Maria Thompson who is with the Local Agricultural Employment Board (LAEB) in Winchester, said 17 students were enrolled in the course at NDDHS and 20 at Tagwi. Both classes were limited to 20 students.

The once-a-week course will teach the students different aspects of farming. The program was started to give students the skills necessary for working on a farm.

The farm industry is suffering from a skilled labor shortage. "In terms of employment, it's an area where there aren't enough bodies to go around. It's harder and harder to find people to do work on farms," she said.

Thompson is hoping the experimental courses will be successful so they can be offered at other schools to create skilled farm helpers.

"What is very important is that the students will evaluate the course," she said.

Slightly more than half of the students enrolled in the course live on farms. The rest are considering summer employment on farms. But Thompson said the students are too young to decide on a career in farming.

"It would be nice if there were students who are considering agriculture as a career," she said.

The course starts with a lecture on the problems of farming. The students at NDDHS, have already had their first session. Then in the coming weeks the lectures will deal with specific topics. The students will receive lectures on dairy farming, beef farming, farm safety, equipment and on relations between employers and employees.

The guest lecturers will be farmers and business men who have volunteered to share their expertise with the students, said Thompson.

The course was organized by LAEB and approved by the SD&G Board of Education and students will receive a certificate upon completion of the course.

Ducks to raise money

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The South Nation River in Chesterville will be awash with yellow rubber ducks next month.

Up to 500 ducks will be racing for charity April 21, from the boat launch at Queen St. to the Main St. bridge.

At stake is a $500 first prize, for the person whose duck crosses the finishing line first. To race a duck, participants have to dole out $5 and then hope the river's current carries their duck the fastest.

"It's strictly a fun event and it does go for a worthwhile cause, in supporting the various activities the Rotary (members) involve themselves in," said Rotary President Jim Cumming, Tuesday morning.

The Rotary club, which is organizing the first-time event, hopes to make $1,400 for its charity causes. "They (the profits) will be used to support, either local, or national, or international projects. We haven't specifically designated them (the funds) to one cause," he said.

The Rotary club gives to a variety of causes including the Rotary Foundation, Rotel, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the Tri-county Literacy Council, the scouting movement, Meals on Wheels, and the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

Cumming estimates about 40 per cent of the 500 ducks have been sold. "So I'm hoping we'll have a total sellout. In some cases people are calling us and requesting that we come over and sell them a ticket."

If every ticket is sold, the race will earn $2,500. Prize money will cost the club $600 and another $500 goes toward renting the ducks. That leaves up to $1,400 for charity, if all the ducks are raced.

In addition to the first prize of $500, the second prize winner will net $100 and $50 goes to third place finisher.

The 500 ducks are being trained and fed in a secret location. Anyone wishing to race a duck should contact a Rotary club member or purchase a ticket at a Chesterville business.

The race is being limited to the 500 ducks, said Cumming.

The majority of Dundas residents oppose GST

Yves Cossette

OTTAWA — A vast majority of people in Stormont and Dundas Counties are against the proposed goods and services tax says local MP Bob Kilger.

"I think you'll find people in Stormont-Dundas are in tune with the national perception with 75 per cent to 80 per cent opposed," he said Tuesday afternoon.

Recent polls have said as many as four out of five Canadians are opposed to the GST. "Whether it's people in labor or whether it's people in small business, the same anxieties, concerns prevail in Stormont-Dundas as they do throughout Ontario and the rest of the country," Kilger said.

The proposed tax is such a change to traditional taxation methods that it has led to a tax revolt. More than 600,000 Canadians have already signed a letter petition in opposition to the tax, and last week, a phone petition received 70,000 calls against the tax, said Kilger.

The phone petition had to be extended by two days until last Sunday night, March 20. Another phone line had to be added, because callers were jamming the first phone line.

Although he hasn't been flooed with phone calls opposing the GST, the main topic of discussion at Kilger's speaking engagements at local service clubs and businesses has been the tax.

"People are wondering if there isn't something that can be done to change the government's intention in implementing this new taxation," he said.

Kilger wouldn't say whether he believed the public outcry would change the federal government's plan to go ahead with the tax, but he did say the government's firm commitment to the GST wavered when it lowered the proposed GST from nine per cent to seven per cent.

"Our only hope is with the increasing number of people signing the petitions or attending anti-GST rallies," the government will back down.

Kilger feels tax reform is necessary and that the manufacturers tax is outdated, but the government should have come up with more comprehensive tax reform. It should "recognize and adhere to the policy that you pay according to your ability to pay and in that sense give us the fairest form of tax reform available to us," he said.

People with higher earnings should pay the greater amount of tax, but the GST affects lower income people hardest because the seven per cent rate is the same for all income levels. "That itself is a very regressive form of taxation," he said.

Kilger does not think the tax revolt is as explosive as in the United Kingdom, where a proposed head tax has led to rioting. The petitions here have been organized to give Canadians an option to vent their displeasure

The proposed bill on GST was debated in the House of Commons for second reading in early February and it is now before the Standing Committee of Finances for hearings.

The GST is supposed to take effect starting next year. That still leaves plenty of time to organize opposition to it. "As the awareness increases...I think you'll find the written petitions will go on," he said.

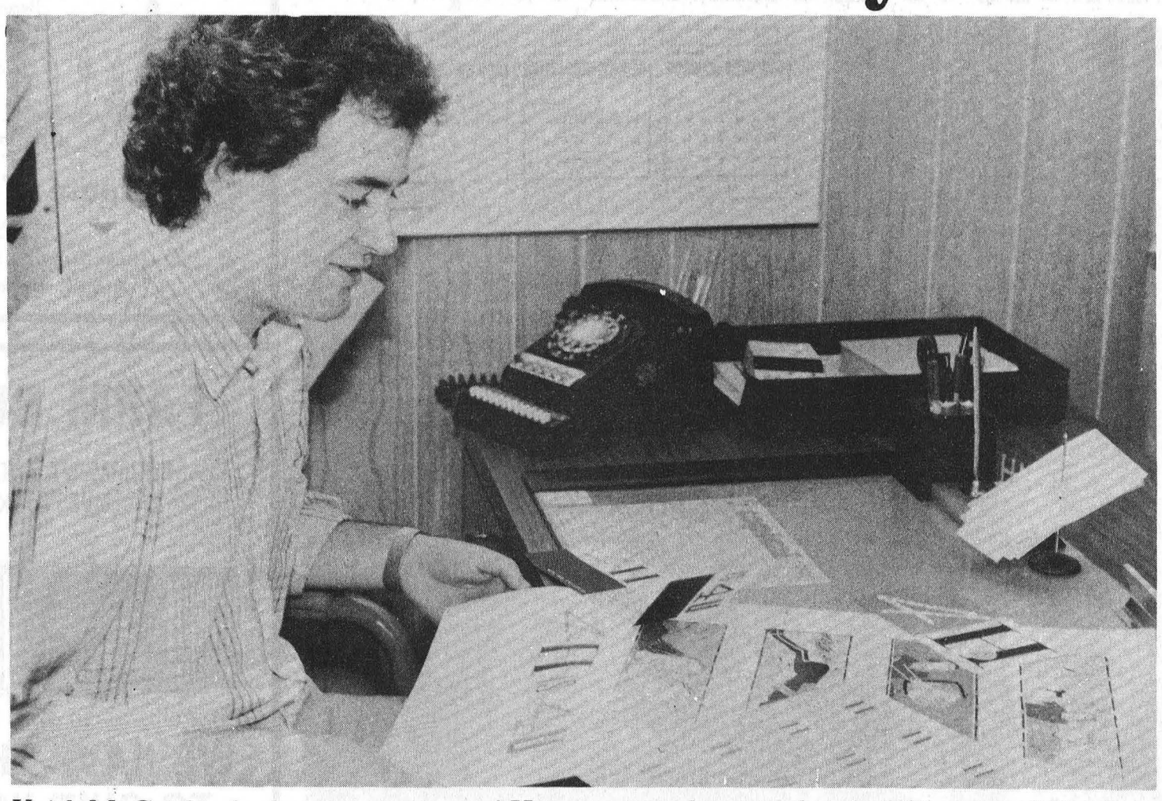
4-H clubs boast new look for youth

Greg Kielec
Record Staff



Keith McGriskin looks over some new 4-H promotional material at the Wincheter OMAF

GUELPH — A new marketing campaign featuring Ontario's "new look" 4-H program is hoping to attract more rural youth to the program.

And one of the ways the officials hope to spread the word about the program is through word of mouth, county to county, at the grassroots level.

Information meetings will be held by 4-H clubs across the province to spread the word about 4-H in their home counties over the next 12 to 18 months. Some clubs are already aggressively promoting the new campaign, others are in the midst of planning to start their campaigns.

Cindy Lindsay, communications specialist with the ministry branch in Guelph which runs the province's 4-H program, said grassroots marketing should net positive results for 4-H. "Peer pressure has quite an influence on kids," she said Thursday.

She hopes peer pressure will have a positive influence, helping 4-H members convince non-urban youths to join the program. And 4-H officials are also hoping the new image being marketed will attract more people to the program.

"I think we are also looking for a stronger impact in the new image of 4-H; that people have a better understanding of what 4-H is about," Lindsay said.

Officials in charge of the 4-H program won't look at just the number of new members recruited to determine how successful the new campaign is. They will also look at the educational effect of the program; how well the new 4-H message was brought to potential members.

"So that's another aspect of the evaluation. So it's not going based solely on numbers," Lindsay said.

The new 4-H marketing campaign, complete with slick, colorful posters and brochures labelled with the campaign's slogan 4-H is 4-U, was devised after a study into the program found many rural youths knew little about the program and its benefits.

"As a branch, we reviewed the 4-H program over the last year-and-a-half, and in that review came out a number of factors, and one was that we needed to more aggressively promote 4-H, partly because there's a perception out there that 4-H is only for farm kids, that cows and cooking is its traditional image."

In the marketing campaign, 4-H clubs will let rural youths know that 4-H is a club for them as well, not just for children of farm families. Clubs will also stress that 4-H is not strictly a farm-oriented club, but that it has many other different facets appealing to non-farm rural youth.

"4-H really has a lot more to offer than that," Lindsay said.

Keith McGriskin, Dundas County rural organization specialist, person in charge of 4-H in the county, said the glitzy new marketing campaign is impressive.

"It's quite a different approach to 4-H. It's very current," he said.

In Dundas County, 4-H members and leaders will stress to rural youth there is much more to the program than just cows and cooking, "that maybe their perception is not entirely accurate."

In Dundas, 4-H supporters will highlight the non-farming projects such as the new project Best Foot Forward, which deals with things such as how to deal with a wide range of issues, from coping with the death of a friend or family member to table etiquette.

The social and fun aspect, which has always been a part of the 4-H program will be emphasized as well, McGriskin said.

The campaign in Dundas County will focus mainly on the youths living in the villages, such as in Chesterville and Winchester.

And a family night is being planned for April 28 to attract interest in the Dundas County club, one of a number of meetings that will be held by county 4-H clubs across the province. The evening will be "fun, lively and active" and show area parents and children what the club has to offer, McGriskin said.

Judy Rousell, ROS for Stormont County, said the new marketing campaign should help attract more youth into the program. "I think it's certainly a plus for 4-H to have this," she said.

She also was impressed with the new-look marketing campaign being used to promote the program. "It's colorful, it's nice. It gives them a whole new image of 4-H."

The Stormont club is also forming a committee to help with the marketing campaign at the local. And a family information night will also help to help promote the program.

Lindsay said officials aren't predicting how much they will be able to raise membership with the new campaign. Because 4-H competes with so many other youth activities, it is difficult to predict how many youths clubs will attract.

The recent evaluation of the program won't be the last one either, she said. "You always have to evaluate. It's always an ongoing process."

Right now, she hopes the benefits of the program alone will be enough to encourage more youths to join. "There's a whole wealth of things for kids to apply for and to do. And...it all works on the basic purpose of 4-H and for the personal development of these kids."

DFC promotes rewording of Article 11

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — A policy analyst with the Dairy Farmers of Canada said his organization's proposed wording changes to Article 11 are necessary to strengthen the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

"The Dairy Farmers of Canada (DFC) is placing top priority on promoting its wording for Article 11 which addresses the concerns of the industry, and provides a workable framework to maintain a viable supply management program in the future," said Rick Phillips, speaking at the annual Dundas County Milk Committee meeting.

The DFC paper entitled Necessary GATT principles for supply management, Article 11, was distributed last fall to the ministers for agriculture, external affairs, international trade, and other MPs, Phillips told the 100 or so dairy farmers at the meeting.

Phillips said the federal government is considering the DFC's proposal and is presently developing a new wording for Article 11, which will be submitted to the GATT negotiating group in about a month's time. He added Ottawa has assured his group it will be consulted on any further wording changes.

Local cattle salesman sells business to mountain couple

WINCHESTER — Allison Fawcett has no regrets in bringing a storied 22 years in the cattle selling business to a close.

Fawcett, who recently sold his half of the Fawcett Brother's Sale Arena to Terry and Mary Spratt of Mountain, said he is not sad to be leaving the business.

"It's something for a younger couple," he said from the family farmhouse just west of Winchester.

Fawcett is quick to give wife Jean credit for her part as bookkeeper, for the business which began in August 1968.

"Jean was a key person in our sales," he said. "The books and advertising are one of the important parts in the business."

Jean said she kept an index when the business first began, to keep track of the sales. She now has a record of every one of the 500 sales the Fawcetts have conducted in the business' history.

The highest overall sale was the 'Top 40' sale at Sunnylodge Farm owned by Carl and Muriel Smith of Chesterville, on Nov. 11, 1985. The 40-head of selected cattle averaged $6,840.

Fawcett also recalls the biggest dispersal sale in the business' history was the Maeford Holstein herd belonging to Allan and Jean Baker of Inkerman on April 4, 1986. The 60-head herd averaged $3,800.

The Fawcetts not only worked at the sales, where they were in partnership with brother Ralph, but also raised seven children and took care of the farm — Fawcettdale Holsteins, which they bought in 1955.

Although Fawcett still goes to the barn every morning and evening, sons Hugh and David take care of milking 40 cows. They have about 95 head of cattle overall, and still do some showing at South Mountain and Chesterville Fairs, as well as the Eastern Ontario Championship Show held annually at Kemptville College.

Fawcett says he's been showing cattle for 50 years, and following in his father's footsteps, was named Master Holstein Breeder, (the highest honor that can be achieved by a Holstein breeder in Canada), in 1975. His father William was given the distinction in 1946, in becoming the first person to receive the Master Breeder Award in Dundas County.

Fawcett has also judged at the Royal Winter Fair, on the occasion of its 50th anniversary in 1978, and has judged every major Holstein show across Canada.

He is also past-president of the Holstein Association of Canada and the Dundas Holstein Club and was a 4-H leader for 25 years.

Fawcett stressed that although he is retiring from the cattle sales he will not be completely removed from the farm scene. He now hopes to have more time for another interest — showing horses.

He recently purchased a team of commercial horses which he has shown at a number of local fairs.

The new partner in the Fawcett's Sale Arena, Terry Spratt, said he decided to take on the new venture because it was a good opportunity, and partially because cattle dealing is in his blood.

He said his father used to be a cattle dealer in the Manotick area a number of years ago, before Terry was born, and when he was a young boy.

Spratt also said he enjoys working with purebred cattle.

A 50 per cent partner with Ralph Fawcett, Spratt figures he should be quite busy between juggling his work at the sales arena and working on his farm at home.

"We had our first sale last week. I was surprised how much work it will be," he said.

Along with his wife, Mary, Spratt currently operates a 400-acre dairy farm near Mountain with about 120-head of Holsteins and milks 35-40.

With no hired help, he feels it would be almost impossible to operate a farm of this size and still be able to keep up his end of the new partnership, so Spratt plans to reduce the dairy operation to allow more time for the new venture.

He said he may reduce the stock and possibly sell some of the land from his farm.

Spratt said his wife, who is currently working part-time in Ottawa, will be quitting to take over the bookwork from Jean.

With the operation running smoothly over the past years at the Sales Arena, Spratt doesn't foresee any major changes to the business with him as a new partner. He said he's been fixing up a few gates and things around the barn over the past few days, but he is just planning to "take a little time to get used to the idea."

Jean and Allison Fawcett have no regrets selling business to couple

Hospital auxiliary urges ticket return

WINCHESTER — President Gail VanNoy at the March meeting of the hospital auxiliary urged members who had tickets on the oil painting to see that they were returned before they leave for vacations because the draw will be made at the annual Dessert and Games Party on April 9, 1990 at the hospital.

The Chesterville Unit turned in six knitted baby sets, three pairs of spiral baby socks and two baby toques. Golden Valley Unit brought five crib quilts made and donated by two ladies from Metcalfe, a knitted baby set from Metcalfe, six pairs of spiral socks, covered coat hangers, two wool dolls from a lady in Vernon and $1,050 from the Golden Valley Unit of the auxiliary.

Louise Shaw reported a very busy and pleasant month of activities with the Sunshine Circle Group and patients in the Long Term Care area of the hospital.

The main lobby of the hospital is now decorated, but some of the chairs have not arrived. Two rooms will be refurnished during the spring break at a cost of about $1,000 each, thanks to the generosity of the Winchester Women's Institute and the Lannin family.

The Gift Shoppe turned over $2,500, making its total $10,000 this year. A knitted sleeper was received from a lady in Florida for our Gift Shoppe. Final arrangements were made for our annual Dessert and Games Party on April 9 at 1:30 p.m. at the hospital. Desserts should be in by 1 p.m. if possible. Everyone is welcome. Further details are in the Coming Events columns in local papers.

There will be a very important auxiliary board meeting April 5 at 1:30 p.m. in the hospital conference room and auxiliary board members are urged to attend.

County council passed a $17.8 million budget last year, with an increase of 11 per cent over the previous year's budget. Former warden Stewart Hart blamed last year's increases on a freeze on transfer payments to the province.

Cousineau said some toes had to be stepped on to keep this year's budget increase at a reasonable level.

"I've been working on budgets for six weeks and I'm not too popular with a few administrators." But he added: "I've got to be responsible to the public. And I think it looks pretty good."

The good news in the county budget is that Maxville Manor and Winchester District Memorial Hospital will likely get grants requested for capital projects. The manor has requested $1.2 million for renovations and WDMH has requested $1 million for its upgrade.

But funding for Maxville Manor will get first priority with county council. Council committed to the Maxville Manor request prior to the WDMH funding request and may not be able to pay the grant over the five-year time period it expected it would.

Council may look at paying the grant over a longer period or convince the province to kick-in its share of the grant first, allowing the counties to pay its share later, Cousineau said.

"I think we're going to make a commitment and the details (are) to be ironed out later. We're thinking possibly because the province has funding coming from Wintario and all those lotteries that are going to hospitals, possibly that they would fund this project up front."

In order to pay the Maxville Manor grant, council will take money out of its reserves and also use interest earned from its St. Lawrence Estate funds. Cousineau said WDMH shouldn't be neglected by the counties. "There's no question we have to keep our hospital open in the west end of the counties." He is happy with how the budgetting process has turned out. "I'm pleased. I was a little worried with some of the things I proposed at some of the budget meetings in each department but they went by with flying colors."

"I said we have to sharpen our pencils. I knew it was coming." Just from talking with county administrator Raymond Lapointe and social services staff, he knew there would be large increases in that area, Cousineau said.

His zeal to keep costs down may have saddled him with the image of being the tough guy, "ya, ya, ya, us tough boys from Dundas," he said with a laugh. But he is willing to live with the reputation to keep costs in line.

"Everytime we got cut, I was the one who was doing the cutting. That's why I'm not very popular maybe with the administrative staff."

But he added: "I've got to answer to the public." And keeping the costs down in this year's budget is in the public's interest.

He said most staff members understand the motive to his cost cutting. "They think I'm fair. It's very touchy and it's hard decisions, but it's fair."

Koala Kreme signs agreement Ault Foods Ltd.

TORONTO — Robert C.B. Shaddick, President of Koala Kreme (Canada) Ltd., announced March 6 that Koala Kreme has signed a 10-year agreement with Ault Foods Limited to manufacture and distribute the Koala Kreme lines of soft-serve and hard-pack premium frozen yogurt in food-service and retail markets across Canada. The product will be introduced to the trade early in April.

"Koala Kreme frozen yogurt will contain the authentic Australian ingredients which have made it one of the best selling yogurts down under, since it was introduced six years ago", said Shaddick.

"It has the same taste and texture as super premium ice cream, but only 25 per cent of the calories, fat and cholesterol."

Robert Shaddick was recently appointed president of the newly-formed Koala Kreme (Canada) Ltd., a subsidiary of Koala Kreme Inc., which trades on the Alberta Stock Exchange, and is licensed by Koala Kreme Pty. Ltd., Surfer's Paradise, Australia.

Shaddick has a strong financial, analytical and marketing background. He was previously associated with a private merchant bank, where he was responsible for dealing with ventures and capital investments in highly technical mergers and acquisitions.

According to a 1989 study of the North American yogurt market, yogurt is the fastest growing dairy product, outpacing sales growth of even ice cream and cheese. Sales have been spurred by consumer health concerns as well as new product introductions and aggressive marketing by major suppliers.

Koala Kreme yogurt was introduced into the United States a year ago. Recent consumer reaction to taste testing of the product was excellent: the taste, flavors and texture were considered to be exceptional.

CARDS OF THANKS

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our gratitude and thanks to the people of Morewood and surrounding area for their generosity and kindness following our fire. Special thanks to Robert and Shirley Lalonde and to the Morewood Fire Department.

Dave and Muriel Rivers

CARD OF THANKS

My heartfelt thanks to the Albert Street neighbors, the principal and staff of N.D.D.H.S., Audrey Cross for the sympathy shown me on the passing of my beloved Maggie on March 1, 1990, for the flowers, cards, masses and generous contributions to the Alzheimer Society. My special appreciation to our dear daughter Jeannie and her husband Carl Ward whose devoted and untiring support sustained me during my loss.

John McKeigan

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all of my relatives, friends and neighbors for their visits, gifts, treats, plants, flowers, phone calls, get well cards plus birthday cards and many acts of kindness while I was a patient in the W.D.M.H. Special thanks to Sharon Smail for taking me to the hospital. Thanks to my brother Aurelien and Reina for taking care of my house and myself after I returned home. Thanks also to Father Jim Esper for his visit and sharing of God's word and prayers. Special thanks to Drs. Dawes, Chande, Domanko and to the nurses on the 1st floor for their excellent care and for room mate. Your kindness will always be remembered.

Sincerely Cyprienne (Cippie) Cross

GROVES — In loving memory of a dear mother Edith, who passed away March 25, 1986.
Remembering you is easy
We do it every day.
Missing you is the heartache
That never goes away.
We have learned with silent effort
To hide the tears that start.
But we cannot hide the longing
That lies within our hearts.

IN MEMORIAM

GROVES — In loving memory of a dear mother Edith, who passed away March 25, 1986.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile
A loving heart that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was right
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew
Some gentle act of love she'd do
No thought of self but of the other
I know He said "Well done, mother."

Welcome children and parents to your Public School system

1 GET READY

The first years are the most important years of the child's school life. Early impressions affect the way in which children will react to people, to new experiences and to life in general.

Our Kindergarten programs help children grow in a child-centered, activity-oriented atmosphere through providing opportunities for each child to:

1. develop a happy, positive attitude to learning;
2. adjust to his/her new environment;
3. strengthen self-confidence and self-worth;
4. develop independence;
5. form good habits of health and safety;
6. learn to accept routines and responsibilities;
7. develop concepts and skills appropriate to his/her stage of maturity;
8. inspire creativity and individuality by learning through play;
9. learn about himself and his world;
10. experience natural curiosity by exploring and discovering through play;
11. trust, accept and respect others and their property.

SUGGESTIONS TO PARENTS
You Can Help!

BEFORE SCHOOL BEGINS:

1. Read to your child often — the greater the variety the better.
2. Provide opportunities for your child to play with other children.
3. Introduce a brief period away from family members e.g. babysitter, relatives, friends.
4. Encourage your child to accept responsibility and independence.
   (a) dressing and undressing
   (b) tidying up
   (c) personal hygiene
5. Discover the route your child will travel to and from school. Several "dress rehearsals" are important.
6. Take time to talk and listen to your child. Speak slowly and clearly. Discourage baby talk.
7. Always discipline in a consistent, honest and gentle but firm manner. Praise good behaviour.
8. Select and control your child's television viewing.
9. Enrich your child's education by providing new experiences, e.g. parks, library, beach trips by car, train, bus, airplane, picking strawberries, etc.
10. Build a working partnership with your child's teacher. Together you can develop your child's concept and give him/her needed support and guidance.

2 GET SET

REGISTRATION OF BEGINNERS

Parents of children eligible to attend Junior Kindergarten, Senior Kindergarten and Grade 1 for September 4, 1990, who have children who are registering for shcool for the first time are requested to contact the school between Monday, March 26 and Friday, March 30 in order to arrange an appointment for registration.

CHILDREN ARE REQUIRED TO BE FOUR YEARS OF AGE ON OR BEFORE DECEMBER 31, 1990 FOR ADMISSION TO JUNIOR KINDERGARTEN.

CHILDREN ARE REQUIRED TO BE FIVE YEARS OF AGE ON OR BEFORE DECEMBER 31, 1990 FOR ADMISSION TO SENIOR KINDERGARTEN.

CHILDREN ARE REQUIRED TO BE SIX YEARS OF AGE ON OR BEFORE DECEMBER 31, 1990 FOR ADMISSION TO GRADE 1.

EARLY IDENTIFICATION

The Ministry of Education requires all Ontario School Boards to have a process which includes:

1. consultation with parents;
2. awareness of language development;
3. a variety of strategies for reviewing social, emotional, intellectual and physical development;
4. program modification when required;
5. assistance from other professionals to determine appropriate learning programs.

Our process is not intended to be definitive or predictive of the present needs of each child. Our objective is to provide the best program possible for your child.

AFTER YOUR CHILD ENTERS SCHOOL:
KEEP ON HELPING

1. Smile and praise all of your child's efforts. Remember the "process" is more important than the " product". Praise works wonders.
2. Maintain a positive, encouraging attitude towards your child's learning.
3. Work in harmony with your child's teacher so that your child's progress may be enhanced.
4. Provide a "special" place for things brought home to share with your family. Your child will not necessarily bring home "artistic creations" each day.
5. The rate of development and stages of maturity vary greatly from child to child but children use the same stepping stones on the road to maturity . Avoid comparing your child to another.
6. Establish regular routines relating to meals, bedtime and tidying up.
7. Show your child love, encouragement and support.
8. Be an attentive and interested listener.

Life in armed forces mundane, says army reservist

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — "The Canadian Armed Forces -- choose a career -- live the adventure" is the slogan that rounds off a slick ad that promotes the life in Canada's defense forces.

But Chesterville native Bert de Bruijn, just back from a six month peace keeping tour of Cyprus, as an army reservist, portrays a life in the Canadian armed forces that is routine, with often mundane duties and long hours. "I didn't like the shift work in the observation post on the (ceasefire) line. It was pretty boring" he said.

However, if patrolling the cease-fire line between two opposing military forces in Cyprus, an Eastern Mediterranean island nation, has settled into a routine, it is because tensions on the island have calmed sufficiently since the days when the United Nationals first sent a peacekeeping force to monitor a ceasefire in 1964.

When de Bruijn first arrived in September, lst year, it was to relieve another unit, because the Canadian contingent of U.N. forces are rotated every six months.

That according to de Bruijn wasn't really a challenge. The Canadian U.N. contingent that was recently sent down to Nicaragua to monitor the ceasefire between rebels and the government there would be a challenge, "because you're starting from scratch," he said.

de Bruijn, a Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highland Army Reservist based in Cornwall returned from Cyprus March 13. He also remembers the positive side of his stay in Cyprus, where he established friendships with his platoon mates, who were from across Canada, as well as soldiers from the Danish and Austrian contingents.

The trip to Cyprus was de Bruijn's first trip overseas and the many subtle differences between Cyprus and Canada made the tour a learning experience. On his return to Chesterville last week, the impact of the differences hit home. "It's the little things that hit you, having clean air to breathe, pressure in the showers, not having soldiers walk all over the place," he said.

He noticed that lax exhaust emission controls for cars in Cyprus resulted in poor air quality on the island. "We would go jogging at six in the morning and when the early morning cars went by, you couldn't breathe. It's that bad, the pollution," he said.

de Bruijn's early morning jobs took place in Nicosia, Cyprus' capital city, where he was based. There, with a contingent of the Royal Canadian Regiment (RCR) an infantly unit to which he was attached, de Bruijn was part of a force that monitored a cease-fire line that runs right through the city's centre and divides the country into Greek and Turkish sectors.

The dividing line has existed since 1974 when military forces of Turkey invaded the northern third of the island to protect Turkish Cypriots from a Greek backed coup d' etat.

During de Bruijn's stint in Cyprus there was no threat of fighting between the two opposing military forces, but there were periodic demonstrations by Greek Cypriot students at Nicosia's one border checkpoint between divided halves of the country.

In December the arrest of one of the demonstrating students sparked daily protests at the buffer zone and during the last three to four weeks of his stay, de Bruijn's platoon was on constant alert in case Greek Cypriot authorities were unable to hold back the demonstrators, who demanded unification with Greece.

That meant de Bruijn had to spend the last two weeks of his tour manning an observation post 12 hours a day and then remain on alert during his off hours, which meant he remained in his combat dress while sleeping. "Everyone had to be ready to get up and go in a moment's notice," he said.

In spite of sometimes vocal demonstrations by the students, there were no serious attempts to cross the border into the Turkish Cypriot zone, and the local police were able to contain the situation.

Not all of de Bruijn's time was spent monitoring the cease-fire line. With his colleagues and friends he found time to do sightseeing and visit the island. As a U.N. soldier he had access to both Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot sides of the island.

"We had a lot of good times together," he said. de Bruijn, was the only member of his reserve unit in Cornwall to go to Cyprus. As a reservist he filled in for regular RCR soldiers who didn't accompany their unit to Cyprus because they could support the unit from their home base.

While some of the full time soldiers accepted the reservists as equals amost immediately, others took longer, but towards the end of his six months in Cyprus the reservists proved to be as competent as the regulars. "Once they could see we knew what we were doing, the respect would form," he said.

Having been a neutral observer for six months of the two conflicting sides, de Bruijn feels the two are still far apart from resolving their differences. "It's a country very much divided," he said.

Ever since independence in 1960 Greek and Turkish Cypriots have been unable to resolve constitutional differences. Negotiations have been going on for some time, but they are mired in petty disputes, said de Bruijn.

On a couple of occasions, de Bruijn had the opportunity to leave the island. 'I got away as much as I could, because if you didn't you were working on your time off,' " he said.

His two week vacation to Malta, a small Mediterranean Island near Sicily was a lot of fun. Travelling on his own, de Bruijn went from youth hostel to youth hostel meeting other young people.

He was also impressed by the Maltese. They were really friendly as opposed to Cypriots, who he found somewhat distant. If you're a U.N. soldier, you really stand out and I guess some people might shy away from you," he said.

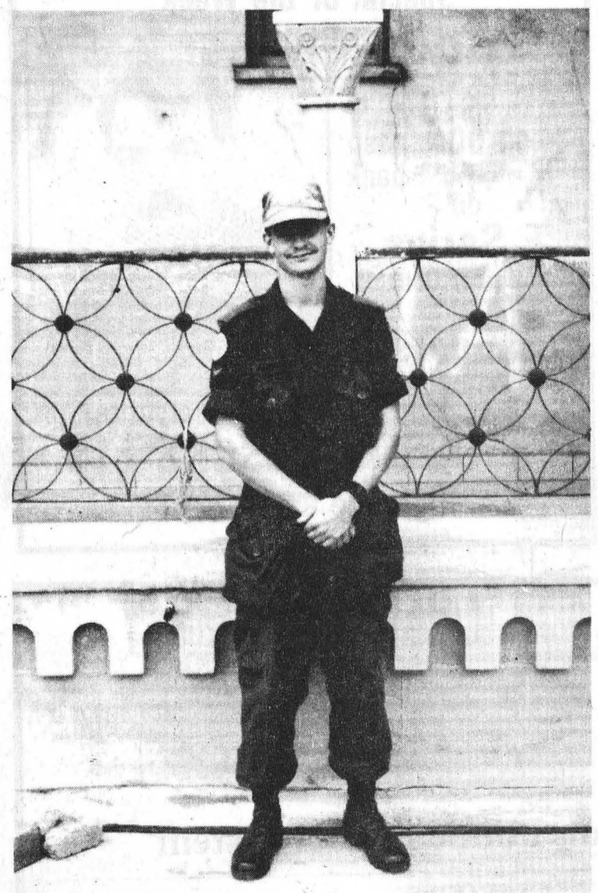
de Bruijn also went on a three-day cruise to Egypt, which included a visit to that country's largest city and capital, Cairo. But he did not leave Egypt with a good impression, taking frequent notice of that country's poverty.

He admitted what he saw was limited, because he was travelling bus most of the time, but the images of shanty towns, which he described as "low income tenements where people are packed in like sardines for fifty blocks at a time," overshadowed everything else he saw there.

A reservist for two years now, de Bruijn had initially applied to be sent the peacekeeping units serving at the Golan heights, the cease-fire lines separating Israel and Syria. Instead he was sent to Cyprus.

de Bruijn had also seriously considered a full-time military career, having even applied to the Royal Military College in Kingston. But after his six month experience in Cyprus he plans to forego a full-time military career and hopes to take arts and English at Brock University in St. Catharines this fall.

Until fall he plans to spend the most time with the SD&G highland reservists in Cornwall, he said.



Peacekeeper
Pte. Bert de Bruijn, an army reservist, returned home to last week after serving six months with the United Nations peacekeeping forces in Cyprus. The Cheserville native was stationed in the country's capital Nicosia. There he helped monitor a cease fire line that keeps opposing Greek Cypriots and Turkish Cypriots apart.

Racial intolerance

Canadians, by and large, are known worldwide as a tolerant people. But that tolerance seems to be dissipating, being replaced instead by a wave of intolerance.

The growing intolerance in our own community was exemplified by a man who came to The Record this week with a stuffed animal dressed in a Royal Canadian Mounted Police uniform and wearing a turban. The monkey (the stuffed animal carried by the man) was dressed up to mock a government decision to allow Sihks in the RCMP to wear turbans.

The man said it was time for Canadians to take a stand on such issues as Sihks in the RCMP wearing turbans. If Canadians soon don't take a stand against minorities, the country will be overrun with immigrants and the "true" Canadians will be in the minority.

The man believed -- a popular belief among many people against ethnic minorities -- that immigrants take jobs which would otherwise be given to native Canadians. He also stated, in an apparent contradiction to a previous argument, that immigrants are burdening Canada's social programs by coming into the country and going on welfare.

Although his views are those of just one person, there are many more who share the same beliefs. And the intolerance shown by the man and by other Canadians is a clear sign many people have a lack of understanding about ethnic minorities.

Arguments that immigrants steal well-paying jobs from "true" Canadians and that they take the easy life by using welfare, show ignorance of those intolerant of ethnic minorities.

It is true, and it is documented by Statistics Canada, that immigrants do take jobs in this country. But it is generally the low-paying jobs that most "true" Canadians won't lower themselves to that immigrants take.

And the willingness of immigrants to get a job -- no matter how low-paying -- and stay in the workforce, means they could not possibly be taxing our social system. In fact, studies have shown that immigrants contribute to our social system.

If anyone takes advantage of Canada's social programs, it is the "true" Canadians -- whatever a true, definitive Canadian is -- not immigrants.

Thinking positive

A little bit of tolerance and understanding could be in order for a dispute in Chesterville over youths skateboarding on a ramp built at a local church. The ramp was built so village youths would have a place to practice skateboarding other than on the streets.

The youths now believe their ramp is in jeopardy and they could soon be back on streets because of complaints by neighboring property owners about noise from youths using the ramp to practice their craft.

There is no shortage of complaints about the actions of youth in Chesterville, yet so few "adults" are willing to do something for their town's children. If youths are seen running the streets or hanging out at Beckers on King Street, people complain, yet when there is a chance to do something for Chesterville youths, no one comes forward.

A blatant example of apathy among the town's youth and the town's adults as well was the lack of response to form a youth group, proposed by a local band, with money raised by that same band. Two meetings held to attract adults and youths to form a youth group failed. Not a single person showed up.

It is fine for people to offer criticism of things they are unhappy with in their town. But the criticism offered should be constructive and the people should be willing to follow up their criticism with positive action.

From Chesterville's Past

79 From the Record March 3, 1910

A quiet wedding took place near Dunbar on Wednesday, Feb. 23, at the home of the bride's mother, when Carrie E., youngest daughter of the late W.R. Allison, was united marriage to Anson J. Deeks, of Elma, by the Rev. Johnson Seller, of Elma.

It is reported at Bluefields, Nicaragua, that President Madriz has fled from the capital, Managua. The report is not believed.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was at his office in the Parliament Buildings, Ottawa yesterday, for the first time in several days.

Measles are quite prevalent all over Eastern Ontario and in Northeastern New York State. At Governeur, N.Y. there are 230 cases, and at Watertown, 200.

Twenty-five of the snowshoers were entertained at the home of Miss Jean Munroe on Friday evening last. The moonlight and the splendid condition of the snow combined to make the tramp one of the most enjoyable of the season so far. A most pleasant evening was spent at Mr. Munroe's home and the excellent supper was much enjoyed by the girls and boys and sustained them in a fine way for the long tramp home.

30 From the Record March 6, 1930

Chesterville's Junior hockeyists passed out of the picture last Friday night when they failed to reduce the three-goal lead of the Perth club when Chesterville was defeated in Perth in the first of the two game play-down by a score of 4-1, holding the visitors to a 2-2 score.

The ladies of the Catholic Women's League were hostesses at a delightfully arranged shower held in the Separate School auditorium on Monday evening, March 3, in honor of Miss Mary Gibbons, whose marriage took place the following day. In a few well-chosen words, Mrs. Jas. McAvoy, president of the league, made the presentation of a beautiful floor lamp, after which dainty refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening spent.

50 From the Record March 16, 1950

Snow banks and icy streets seemed a world away when on Wednesday afternoon and evening fashion minded ladies of Chesterville and District attended the showing of Spring Styles held in the Auditorium of the Community Hall. Sponsored by the W.I. and by courtesy of Mrs. L.M. Colquhoun the event gave a lift to the spirits by now rather weary of winter and as there is no tonic so effective to a lady as a new hat. The whole show was truly delightful.

The annual Easter Seals campaign opens this week, sponsored again by the Chesterville Rotary Club. During the past year the Crippled Children's Committee of the Club has been able to help many children in the countryside who would otherwise have had little chance of medical attention. The donations received during the campaign are used solely for the aid to underprivileged and crippled youngsters.

Progress was made Tuesday night by the Planning Committee of the Chesterville Community Centre. Subcommittees were appointed to visit district rinks and to obtain figures on the frontage and depth of four available sites. Reeve Charles McMillan acted as Chairman of the meeting which was attended by 10 of the 13 members of the committee, and was named on the deputation along with Leon Marcellus, James Popham and Chas. Abel, to visit additional arenas to secure date on revenue, operating costs, construction costs and sizes of auditoriums.

60 From the Record March 10, 1960

Williamsburg Township council met March 5 in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Williamsburg, with all members present. Council approved of an expenditure of $650,000 for a new school in the North Dundas District High School area.

A fashion show, consisting of gowns and hats of other days, was the main entertainment at the miscellaneous shower of Trinity United Church W.A. Mrs. Foster Bowman, program committee chairman, acted as commentator for the first half of the show while Mrs. Donald Cross provided appropriate piano music.

Minorities are needed in RCMP

For the Record

Yves Cossette

A man with a stuffed animal monkey barged his way into The Record office last Friday wondering if the newspaper would run a photograph of him and his monkey.

The stuffed animal, clad in an RCMP uniform, with a turban, dagger and a pin "Je parle Anglais" -- I speak English", was the man's way of mocking the federal government's decision to allow religious Sikh Mounties to substitute the traditonal stetson for turbans.

To religious Sikhs, the turbans are a necessity in observing their faith.

But to many Canadians, especially in the west, it has been met with little understanding and the federal government's decision has sparked an uproar against the decision.

The primary argument has been that the decision is a breech of tradition. However traditions are only good as long as they don't impede progress. A special hat was introduced in the mid-1970's for female members, and the stetson has not always been the RCMP's official headgear.

The RCMP made its decision, after some delay, to avoid excluding a minority from the police force. But more importantly, allowing religious Sikhs to join the RCMP gives the federal police force a vital communications link to the ethnic group.

Allowing ethnic groups to join the Mounties helps build trust between the police force and ethnic people who often come from countries where the police is more an instrument of repression than a protector of rights.

But for the most part, the argument in favor of tradition is just a smoke screen for hidden justifications which range from anti-immigration to outright racism.

The man with the stuffed monkey argued immigrants when coming to Canada should conform to Canadian cultural norms. He never specified what those norms were.

In fact Canadian culture as such has never been clearly defined, mostly because Canada never has been a homogenous nation. Since the 1960s when immigrants from southern Europe began arriving in Canada, the country has gradually evolved from a bicultural state to a multicultural one.

Crucial to the peaceful transition to a multicultural state is tolerance for the differences between various ethnic groups.

Unfortunately intolerance has grown towards immigrants because many non-European people are now arriving and many Canadians are afraid of being swamped by people with differing cultural backgrounds.

If we practice selective immigration by letting only those who conform to adapt to the existing Canadian way -- eg: white and preferably English speaking -- are we not creating an atmosphere of apartheid?

While the man with the stuffed monkey fears what will happen if non-white people continue to come to Canada and fail to adapt to what he sees as the Canadian way, he forgets to mention most of these people come to Canada in search of a new life to escape political or religious persecution, and for economic reasons as well. Those are more or less the same reasons previous immigrants have come to Canada for.

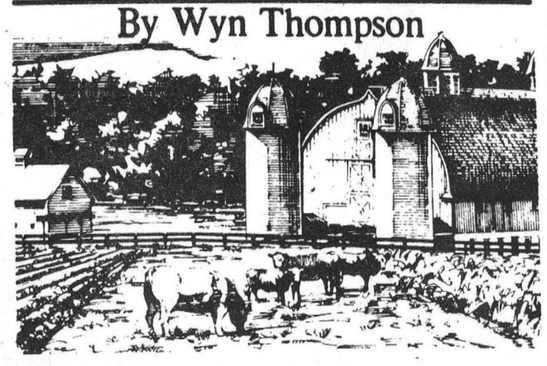
And it is Canada's prosperity and political climate free of repression which is only possible through tolerance for different ideas and cultures.

Letting religious Sikhs wear turbans while donning an RCMP uniform is a continuation of a live and let live policy that comes from tolerance.

Maybe the federal government should invest the money they've been wasting on an ad campaign to promote the GST to promote the merits of a tolerant multicultural society.

The Farmer's Wife

By Wyn Thompson



The calendar says it is spring but we are wandering between two worlds, one dead, and the other powerless to be born. A delightful moment of suspense.

As a new season approaches, I like to think a bit about the previous season, or so. As I considered the last half of the autumn season and the total winter season, I came to the conclusion that it was a six-month period of goosebump history that unfolded before our very eyes.

Goosebumps stood out on our arms as the Berlin Wall was torn down chunk by cement chunk. The Communist Party willing to share power? Were they? Would they?

In mid-February, unimaginable goosebumps...as Nelson Mandela walked to freedom. Dignified, proud, compassionate.

His first words, "I greet you in the name of peace, democracy and freedom for all," electrified a goosebumped world.

And so it is that during the last six months, we have witnessed a time of beginning. And what a beginning. Even the doom's day clock had to be adjusted.

Seen in the light of these historic events, the cascading economic gloom of our country took on a new significance. There was hope, we felt as we watched the unfolding of such goosebumpy events, that sane minds would prevail in our country, as they had in the past.

Of course, our plate is till full of goosebump events with yet another leadership race heating up. How fortunate to be able to watch such events unfold on television.

How challenging and stimulating to be a part of a global village, I remarked to the Farmer. "As an observer," was his reply to our coffee cup discussion.

Now, I am not an avid meeting attender. In fact, on a list of things I'd like to do I'd rate cleaning the bathtub or grooming the dog before going to a meeting.

But it was not with even a smidgeon of reluctance that I agreed to go to an environmental meeting the other day. It concerned women and the environment in celebration of International Women's Week.

Actually, the reason I went stems from when I was a youngster. I was the one who preferred to say 'No', face-to-face, especially during the winter season, thinking it somehow more humane, so I suspect it was a similar kind of thinking that made me attend the meeting.

Sending a cheque would have been easier but more cowardly. However, what actually sold me on the idea was the fact that the invitation was printed on recycled paper. These people meant business.

The deputy mayor spoke well. Now I have heard mayors and their deputies...but let's not get into that. He spoke well.

We heard what representatives from government, business, concerned citizens and teens were doing. And just as importantly, we learned what we could do to help our environment.

I learned so much, not surprising as I have so much to learn and so little time left to do it in. I came home recommitted to the idea that concern for the environment has to start at home.

Particularly since Mr. Wilson stood up in the House of Commons and delivered the 'It's do-it-yourselve-time budget." There was no environmental legislation...need I say more.

We were told that rural Canadians, which includes the citizens of villages, towns, and countryside, were brought up not to waste anything, and to reuse as much as possible. So it shouldn't be hard to convince people of the need for action.

To be truthful, this meeting took place in a more urban than rural municipality, in fact a relatively wealthy one, but they like to think of themselves as country. That's just great, especially for the environment.

We cannot help but applaud all the recycling industries and all those valiant workers, municipal and private, who spend so much time promoting recycling to schools, businesses, and organizations in our area.

It is the people who work day in and day out behind the scenes, making sure that things get done, who make the difference. So it's do-it-yourself-time...generally the best policy.

Amanda came over this afternoon and during our conversation about her seed catalogue order, she informed me that she and Sam had ordered two dozen fairly good sized trees for spring planting.

"Well, what do you know," I replied, "you are exceeding the number required to clear the carbon created per person, and that's great."

"Do you know that I never see a lovely tree but I repeat to myself the poets comment," "I think that I shall never see a poem lovely as a tree," she laughed.

"Of course," she continued, "lovely as they are, trees provide much more than shade, wind protection, erosion control, and wood and fruit products. They are absolutely necessary if we are going to prevent the greenhouse effect that is presently destroying our atmosphere."

"I heard a speaker the other day say that the trees we plant in our own backyards may be our best defence against the greenhouse effect. They cool our homes in summer and shelter them in winter.

They remove the carbon dioxide from the atmosphere which will slow the global warming; they filter dust from the very air we breathe, muffle noise, and give us a nice bit of privacy," I emphasized.

"Sam read the other day that over time, man has destroyed a third of the world's forests, which continue to disappear at an alarming rate. In fact, he said that a forested area the size of a football field is eliminated every second," she replied.

"It is up to us to see that our countryside is saved, our wildlife and forest land preserved, and this in turn will control pollution and soil erosion," I concluded.

"My goodness, all you two need is a soap box each and a corner to put them on," laughed the Farmer who had slipped in from a woodlot management seminar unnoticed either by Amanda or myself.

As Amanda took her leave she said it was a perfect sugar day. I agreed for last night it had frozen hard, and today the sun shone warm, so every one of the trees Sam had tapped should be dripping sap into the shining pails that hang from the spiles.

"Perhaps tomorrow we should go to the bush and see his operation," she flung back over her shoulder to which I replied it would be a great idea.

Sewage engineering
Eric Tousignanth, engineer with McNeely Engineering, climbs out of a manhole on King St. in Chesterville to check some data on his computer. Tousignanth was checking the sewage flow in the manhole in front of Dean Super Food Store as well as a number of other locations in the village last week. The work is being done as part of a study funded by the Ontario Ministry of Environment into municipal sewer systems. The firm will check if portions of the sewer are leaking in rain water with a video camera after the general area of a leak is determined, after which repairs will be made. Record Photo-Kielec

Council plans paving of road west of North Lunenburg

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

NORTH LUNENBURG — A concession road west of North Lunenburg in Osnabruck may get a sheet of asphalt to replace stones and potholes in the near future.

But how much of the road is paved will depend on the amount of money spent safeguarding a bridge just a few hundred yards down the road.

Council decided at a recent meeting it would put guard rails at the bridge because of the steep incline at the creek running underneath the structure.

The old cement bridge is at the bottom of a slight hill and council members feared crossing the bridge may be hazardous for drivers in the winter.

"I definitely think there should be guard rails. There's no doubt about that," said Councillor Gordon Ross.

It was also suggested the cement abutments at the bridge be removed, but Reeve Stewart Hart said it could be a costly and difficult process and that it may not even be necessary.

Ross said the abutments should be left as is, but he recommended a guard rail be installed 80 ft. on either side of the bridge.

He also recommended a bridge north of Newington also have guard rails installed. He added council should decide once and for all whether to install the guard rails or leave the bridge as is.

"We've been going to do that for 10 years. But it never got done," he said.

It was estimated by council installing the guard rails would cost about $6,000, and that money wouldn't be available in the budget to do the work this year on the bridge north of Newington.

Hart said there is a lack of consensus among residents over whether the guard rails are even needed. Some residents have said guard rails are needed, but others say they are unnecessary.

At present, it is the bridge at North Lunenburg that is receiving priority. Elliott said numerous area residents have complained about the bridge, but he didn't know if it has been the cause of any accidents.

It is obvious that safety measures need to be taken, he said. "If it becomes icy and slippery, it does become a hazard."

An engineer's report was done on the bridge and it has indicated that the bridge is structurally sound. It is the steep incline near the bridge which has worried residents.

Ross said if guard rails are going to be installed, council should go all the way, not skimp on quality to save a few dollars. "If you're not going to do it right, don't do it all."

Jr. farmers to host judging day

OTTAWA — The Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa will be the location of the ninth Annual Jr. Farmer Judging Day on March 31.

Once again the Jr. Farmers are inviting the rural youth to come and test their skills in judging farm animals, crops, a mystery class and answering a general quiz.

Participants are invited to enter in teams of four or as individuals. Trophies will be awarded to the highest scoring individual of each class and also to the top three overall individuals and top three overall teams.

The awards will be presented at the wrap-up dance that evening, which will be held at the Kars R.A.

For a $5 registration fee per person, anyone interested can participate in this educational and fun-filled program.

For more information contact Peter Ruiter 226-5175 or come to the Dairy Barn of the Experimental Farm at 9 a.m. March 31, 1990. A catered lunch will be available for a nominal fee.

Local WI compiles 75 years of hisory for anniversary

BERWICK — The Berwick W.I. held their meeting at the home of member Mary Luykx on March 8.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with the Opening Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect, after which President Jessie Ouderkirk read a quotation from "Dear Abby - The heart of education is in our literature, so read for knowledge and read for pleasure. The person who does not read is no better off than the person who cannot read."

The minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report were read by secretary-treasurer Violet Robertson and adopted as read. Correspondence was also read by Violet, which included a letter from the president of F.W.I.O. announcing the conference which will be taking place at Carleton University. The theme: Women and Environment - - National Issue. This was brought up at the Kingston Conference in 1987 and, at the time, a three year commitment was made to Waste Management and Recycling.

There was much discussion about our 75th Anniversary. A report by Irene Casselman, the Curator of the Tweedsmuir History, made us realize that the date we had settled upon at the last meeting would have to be postponed. Compiling 75 years of history is no easy task and Irene has worked relentlessly towards having this completed for our anniversary. It is getting there but, in order to do this justice and have a finished product worthy of the time and effort Irene has given to this endeavor, our celebration has been postponed to Sunday, May 27, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Barbara Lariviere, convener of Citizenship and Legislation, read two articles from current newspapers: (1) Perspective by Bob Roth which appeared in last week's Seaway News -- "New Poll Says Canadians Are Bigots". The article was truthful and gave us much food for thought. (2) An item from last Tuesday's Ottawa Citizen: "Accord Threatens Our Solidarity", and it quotes "Canada could become fragmented into something resembling 10 fiefdoms each headed by its own miniature Prime Minister". This was from an essay by Marjorie Bowker, a retired Provincial Judge from Alberta. Her essay has a great deal of depth and is worth reading. It is available for $4 at Print 2000 - 99 Bank Street, Ottawa.

The meeting ended with two very funny stories read by President Jessie Ouderkirk.

Junk business busy form of retirement

MOREWOOD — "I've tried everything," said Cecil McNabb, as he rocked back on an old chair Friday, just inside a garage filled with a variety of antiques in differing stages of repair.

Winchester Township reeve from 1959 to 1976, the 74-year-old McNabb talks fondly of his two-decade-old hobby, far removed from the world of politics.

"For 20 years I've been at this junk business," he says later in the interview, describing the pastime as a form of retirement. "It's fun. We're retired and if you didn't do something like this you'd go crazy."

Retirement for NacNabb and his wife Evelynn has been spent charging off to garage and auction sales on a regular basis and even skipping over the border on more than one occasion to buy collectibles from 'pickers' in the U.S.

A picker, explains MacNabb, is someone who goes from house to house buying up all kinds of bits and pieces and reselling the merchandise.

MacNabb fixes up his purchases and refinishes furniture with stripping down and respraying brass beds among the more time consuming. And it's the brass beds which have held a special spot in his heart and pocket book.

"I handle a couple of hundred beds a year. Brass beds are getting very, very hard to get now. They're in demand."

MacNabb has been selling his fixed-up purchases in the Ottawa area for the past 20 years, with the Stittsville Flea Market home to his "hobby" for the last 12 years.

"I still think it's the best flea market in the area," he says of the large lot located west of Nepean along Hwy. 17, which is always overflowing with bargain hunters on warm, sunny summer days.

MacNabb says he has manned his spot in Stittsville for more than a decade almost every Sunday at the one-day-a-week, all-year-round market.

"We don't miss many because we pay whether we're there or not," he says. MacNabb recalls paying $30 a month 12 years ago for a 30 ft. by 10 ft. slot for his stand (that was 10 cents a square foot). Today he is paying $240 a month for a 10 ft. by 12 ft. spot.

But money is no longer a driving force for MacNabb he contends.

"There was a time you was making money," he says with a true oldtimer's drawl. "I'd say it was more for enjoyment than profit today. As far as a money-making venture today I'd say no. It gives you something to do."

Something to do, like arriving in Ottawa this particular Friday at about 8:30 a.m. for an estate garage sale that didn't get started until 10 a.m. When MacNabb and his wife arrived, however, there were already 100 or so eager antique hunters "lined up way back in the street" waiting to part with some money.

There is an art to collecting what is being sold as junk and to recall it as an antique, explains the veteran shopper.

"It's very hard to buy and it's very hard to sell," he said. Average younger persons don't know the value of an antique. We (MacNabb and his wife) pretty well know the selling price of an item" before they buy it.

Doing the garage sale circuit is also an acquired skill.

"You have to know a city well to go in for garage sales," he said. "We watch the paper. We watch for the garage sales. We go to the better classes of houses."

While the whole process of this hobby appears to do well to pass the time for MacNabb, one aspect in particular stands out as the most pleasurable.

"It's more enjoyment buying it than selling it," he said. "You meet an awful lot of fine people. I like meeting people."

While MacNabb has been preoccupied with buying, improving and reselling brass beds, his wife Evelynn has kept her eye out for more personal items such as post cards and dolls, and old books.

"She likes the rare books and she knows her books, don't think she don't," said MacNabb.

"I'll buy anything, she'll say I can make a dollar in," he says with a laugh. But MacNabb is ready to consider yet another retirement, after already stepping down from municipal politics, farming and as a labor foreman. This time he is thinking of retiring from his hobby.

Ministry compiles flammability tests on aerosol products

OTTAWA — The Federal Consumer and Corporate Affairs department has completed flammability tests on the four novelty aerosol products (usually referred to as "flying string") sold in Canada.

Three brands and fifteen lots of the fourth brand tested were found to be highly flammable.

Following a warning bulletin issued on February 23, 1990, Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada conducted tests on the following brands: Fil Volant, Fil Spaghetti, Festival Serpentine and Super String, which are brands available in Canada.

In all samples of the first three brands tested, either the stream from the can ignited when exposed to a flame or the foam burned when projected onto a surface after being exposed to a flame. In the case of Super String, the cans bearing lot numbers of V930 to V945 were found to be flammable.

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada has contacted distributors of these products and all have agreed to voluntarily remove the flammable products from sale.

Consumers should dispose of any of the flammable products by spraying the contents into a waste container away from flames or heat sources. The empty container should be thrown out into the garbage, but the cans should not be punctured or disposed of in an incinerator or trash compactor.

The minister urges consumers to be very cautious. "These products are very dangerous and should not be considered as toys", said Consumer Minister Pierre Blais.

Ducks Unlimited combines programs

CHESTERVILLE — Ducks Unlimited Canada will combine wildlife sensitive land management programs and wetland reconstruction methods in 1990 to restore deteriorating waterfowl habitat across the nation.

Directors of the privately-funded conservation organization, meeting in Winnipeg in early March, approved a record $46 million budget to finance operations aimed at developing 23,000 hectares of waterfowl habitat.

The directors set goals to raise almost $13.7 million within Canada through community fundraising events and corporate sponsorship, and to recruit at least 135,000 Canadians to financially support Ducks Unlimited Canada.

In 1989, Canadians provided $11.9 million toward the corporation's budget. The revenue balance is provided by Ducks Unlimited, Inc., the United States partner in the Ducks Unlimited international network.

Diary secrets

Area families participate in unique waste pilot project

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

BAINSVILLE — Keeping a diary is usually a very private activity. However, 25 area families will be asked to reveal their innermost diary secrets, on garbage disposal, by the end of this week.

The 25 residents are taking part in a unique pilot project, which will have them record their waste disposal habits, over a week in a garbage diary, in an effort to first assess and then educate families on disposal habits.

The objective of the project is to cut down on waste going to landfill sites.

"We feel that people can actually reduce the amount of garbage going to a landfill if they practice what we call the four R's, which are responsibility, reduction, reuse and recycling," said one of the project's architects Patricia Ager of Bainsville.

The garbage diary project is being run by the Waste-Management Pilot Project, a subcommittee of the Public Liaison Committee (PLC) of the Stormont Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan.

Ager, the PLC representative for Lancaster Township said the project is designed to prepare residents to become more actively involved in the waste management process.

The experiment, funded by the Ministry of Environment, runs in three stages. The participating families will keep track of their daily garbage output for one week and are required to separate dry waste from wet waste. At the end of the week the refuse will be collected by PLC volunteers to be weighed and the diaries will be analyzed.

The second stage entails a work shop, where the participants will be taught composting and future waste-management practices.

Then in April, the third stage, the families will keep another diary for a week using reduction techniques they acquired at the workshop.

The project size was kept down because of the limited MOE funds and volunteers running the project. "We felt it was a more controlled group and we could get the message across to a smaller group rather than trying to do it with a whole community," she said.

The garbage diary is the first such project in Ontario and if the outcome is successful, it may be adopted by other public organizations.

In addition to the 25 families attending the composting workshop on March 31, other area residents are invited to take part.

Ager is hoping participants to the workshop will take what they have learned and teach composting and other waste-management techniques to other communities.

The PLC considers the diary and workshop an important step toward future waste-management in Stormont and Glengarry counties. The waste-management study has chosen a plan that will separate wet garbage for composting and dry materials for possible recycling.

But just selecting a plan isn't enough. "We feel the price tag for the option which we have selected...is very expensive and we just feel if people were more aware of things they could be doing to change to change the whole process, then perhaps we wouldn't have to spend all this money," Ager said.

The projected cost for the Stormont-Glengarry waste-management option is $103 million, she said.

The PLC study will also help teach residents the blue box recycling program is not the be all, end all solution to overflowing landfill sites. Ager stressed that recycling was only one part of the waste-management process and at the last of the four Rs.

Waste-management starts with responsibility, buying environmentally friendly products, reducing the number of things to throw out by reusing, plastic bags, containers and bottles. Only then does recycling come into consideration, she said.

PeeWee B Demons dumped in B title game

CHESTERVILLE — The North Dundas PeeWee B Demons were gracious hosts in a tourney they hosted over the weekend at the Chesterville Arena.

The Demons lost their opening game against Kemptville, when they were outshot in an overtime shootout 2-0, and fell 5-3. They came back to dump South Grenville 3-1 and advanced to the B Final against Athens, but were doubled 4-2.

Things seemed to be going the Demons' way when late in the first period, Kyle Marriner beat Athens' netminder Kevin Cinnamon with 38 seconds to play, but Athens replied with a pair in the second and two more in the third to take the B crown.

James Topping provided the scoring touch in the second, solving Daryl Holmes twice to give Athens a 2-1 lead. Denis Dickson at 7:00 and Mark Hartley, three minutes later, made it a 4-1 game.

Randy McLeod scored an inconsequential late goal for North Dundas.

Against Kemptville, which went on to eventually win the eight team tourney, the Demons held a 2-0 lead after the opening period, but failed to build upon that, allowing instead two second period goals by Kemptville's Shawn King who tied it up with his second at the eight minute mark. Robbie Raistrick, who set up the Demons' earlier goals, each scored by Steve Cross, put North Dundas back in the lead going into the final frame, when he scored an unassisted goal on Kemptville goaltender Ryan Blackwell.

The Demons failed to hold onto their slim margin when at 5:32, Darren Robinson put the tying goal past Holmes.

There were two goals scored in extra time, when both teams were forced to go to a shootout to determine the winner; both scored by Kemptville.

Shawn King and Michael Wetzel managed to beat Holmes, while the Demon sharpshooters failed to get the puck past Ryan Blackwell.

The Demon's next outing was a successful encounter against South Grenville, in which they spotted the visitors a one to nothing lead and then scored a late second period goal and two more in the final stages of the third period to defeat South Grenville 3-1.

After the teams played a scoreless first period, they combined for two quick goals in three minutes. Following George Lochtie's opening goal, the Demons evened things when Cross netted his third of the tourney, completing a passing play with Robbie Raistrick and Craig Beckstead.

The same two players combined to set up Allan Potvin at the 10 minute mark of the final frame, to provide the winning margin. McLeod added an insurance goal with 51 seconds to play.

In the A final, Metcalfe seemed headed for an easy win after scoring three first period goals and playing through scoreless second period. But when Brennan Cassidy's shot rang off the post and into the net at the eight minute mark of the third period, the Kemptville team woke up and played inspired hockey for the remainder of the game, in which time they managed to tie the score.

Kemptville pulled within one when King slid the puck past Patrick Jones with 5:33 to play, and the comeback was made complete two minute later, when Andrew Butler beat Jones.

Following a pair of scoreless overtime periods, in which the teams played first four aside and then three aside, the clubs went to a shootout.

Kemptville managed three goals in the shooting showdown, while Metcalfe counted with two. King and Butler, with their second each and Kyle Tataryn scored in the shootout for the winners, while Cedric Nizman and Steven James countered for Metcalfe. Nizman, Jeff Hay, Eric Levesque scored in a losing cause during regulation time.

Other tournament scores: Morrisburg 3-South Grenville 1; Metcalfe 2-Athens 1; South End Capitals 4-Westport 0; Kemptville 4-Morrisburg 2; Athens 4-South End Capitals 2; Metcalfe 7-Westport 3.

Number One
Kemptville's PeeWee B's, which won the A Crown at a tournament played here last weekend. Shawn King was instrumental in heading the drive to the Crown, scoring five times in the tourney, including two in the Final, which Kemptville won in a shootout -- 6-5 over Metcalfe.

Ross' triple overtime marker makes Atom A Demons winners

SMITHS FALLS — Jason Ross struck a championship blow for the North Dundas - Chesterville Rotary Atom A Demons here Sunday.

Ross nailed his second goal of the game in the third period of overtime, to give the Demons a dramatic 4-3 victory over the home town Smiths Falls Bears and the 1990 Smiths Falls Rotary Club Atom Tournament championship.

North Dundas, usually sponsored by Seaway Valley Pharmacy, were generously supported by the Chesterville Rotary Club for that organization's annual event.

Goalie Darryl Beck played perfectly for the tournaments first two games, posting back-to-back shutouts. He first whitewashed the Rideau St. Lawrence Kings 2-0 and then eliminated the Carleton Place Kings 3-0 before running into strong opposition in the championship match.

The Demons netted both goals in the second period of their opening 2-0 decision over the Rideau St. Lawrence Kings.

Ryan Filion netted the winner, on a play set up for him by Wes McLeod at 8:32. McLeod then made it 2-0 scoring from Jason Ross with 1:15 left in the same frame.

The Demons outshot the Kings 17-10.

Beck stopped all 15 shots Carleton Place fired at him and registered a 3-0 win in the semi-final round.

Warren Holmes scored what would prove to be the winning goal with 49 seconds left in period one. Stephen Henderson and Craig Holmes drew assists on the play.

Jason Ross then inflated the Demons' lead to 2-0, scoring unassisted with 6:29 left in period three.

Warren Holmes salted away the win notching his second tally of the game with 4:21 left on the clock. Once again Henderson and Craig Holmes engineered the play.

"A" FINAL

Smiths Falls Bears roared out to a 2-1 first period lead on the Demons.

Jed Thompson opened up a 1-0 lead scoring at 7:43. North Dundas replied when Jason Ross coverted a pass from Ryan Filion with 1:52 to play in the period but Dave Morris' marker 18 seconds later allowed the Bears to carry a 2-1 lead into period two.

Terry Wagner rammed home the tying goal (2-2) hitting from Filion and Wes McLeod with 4:27 left in period two.

The teams skated through a scoreless third period and into the first overtime session tied up at two.

Warren Holmes took a relay from Craig Holmes and scored what looked to be the winning goal (3-2) with 1:29 left on the clock.

His goal stood up until Jed Thompson fooled Darryl Beck and tied the game with a scant four seconds left to play.

Play ranged into period six (third overtime) but failed to snap the 3-3 deadlock.

Jason Ross finally turned in the hero's effort scoring the winning goal in that sixth frame. Ross' second goal of the encounter lifted North Dundas to a 4-3 win and gave them the 1990 Smiths Falls Rotary Club Novice Tournament championship.

White takes MTL early lead

CHESTERVILLE — Three goals in the last six minutes pulled White out of a 4-2 deficit and into a 5-4 victory to take the opening game of the Men's Town League hockey final.

Terry Barkley scored two of the comeback goals including the winner with just 30 seconds remaining. Barkley had a hand in all the goals, scoring twice and assisting on the other three as White took an early lead in the best of five series.

John Guy and Darryl Shelp had a goal and an assist each in a losing cause for Green.

White took the early lead on a goal from Gary Beisheim midday through the first frame, but Guy tied it just a minute and a half later when he completed a passing play with Sandy Johnston and Keith Moore.

Green, which led the MTL all season and finished the year with 27 points, almost twice as many as the 14 White compiled, took a three to one lead late in the second period on goals from Paul Robertson and Wally Vandekemp. The goals came just 52 seconds apart.

Dale Williams scored to bring White within two when he beat Rob Carkner just 59 seconds later.

The Green lead was increased to 4-2 at the 14:23 mark of the third period, when Shelp cashed in to provide White with what seemed at the time, to be an uphill challenge.

White got their climbing boots on and up they went, beginning with Barkley's first tally, coming unassisted, with 6:16 to play.

Kevin Boyce made it a one goal game with under three minutes remaining, setting the stage for Barkley's heroics.

Game Two will be played Wednesday, March 21 at the Arena, beginning at 7:30.

Before the Ottawa-Finland game, North Dundas' Ladies Romeks team played Morrisburg's Charlie's Angels but the result was less than heavenly for the locals, who dropped a 3-1 decision.

Okay, Here's the Plan
The Finnish National Womens' team, prepare themselves before playing a group of women all-stars from the Ottawa region last Thursday in Morrisburg. The Fins are in the area competing in the first Women's World Ice Hockey Championship, taking place in the Nation's Capital. They started on the right skate, dumping the local all-stars 9-5.

EOJCHL Update

FINCH — The Rockland Nats and Embrun 72's are locked up at one game apiece in their best of seven Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League quarterfinal series.

The Nats embarrassed Embrun with an 11-1 win last Friday, but the 72's showed some spunk and came back with eleven goals of their own last Sunday, to dump Rockland 11-8.

Meanwhile, Casselman has rebounded from a one game to nothing deficit to take a two games to one lead in their best of seven quarterfinal series with St. Isidore.

The Eagles clawed their way by the Stars 8-5 last Wednesday, but Casselman came back with an identical 8-5 win last Friday, tying the series at one.

On Sunday, the Stars edged St. Isidore 6-5 to take the lead.

Both series resume on Wednesday evening.

Monday morning. The only thing that annoys me more than Monday morning is Sunday afternoon. Sunday afternoon annoys me more than Monday morning, because I know that lurking behind Sunday afternoon is, yikes, Monday morning.

Driving into the alley between Beckers and The Record, I was struck by the multitude of broken glass, glistening in the sunlight. At first it appeared quite appealing; thousands of tiny crystals acting as prisms refracting the light in the most picturesque of ways.

Readjusting my sunglasses, and hitting the brakes simultaneously, it hit me. This was not the stuff of which art is made. This wasn't beautiful. This was a shame. A damn shame. Where did all these glass particles come from? The alley wasn't this bad when I left on Friday. Maybe something happened over St. Patrick's Day. Must have. I leave it, a relatively dirty alley on Friday and then 'poof', the alley is suddenly Full O'Glass on Monday.

Putting the car into low gear and my hope that the tires wouldn't blow into high gear, I thrust forward on the sea of glass to the space I usually park.

I know it's my space because it says so, right on the south wall of the Record: Private Property -- Tennant and Delivery Parking Only.

(I'm sort of a private person, I am a tennant and I try my best to deliver the news.)

Having successfully installed my car into its destined berth, I perused the pavement and was utterly disgusted with what I saw.

Put it this way, if I had had three bottles of crazy glue; four and a half months -- maybe five -- six tops; a bunch of empty cardboard boxes and a whole lot of patience, I'd have bagged, or should I say 'boxed' a big pay day. The way I figure it, and this is just a ball park figure, I could have pieced together: seven bottles of Diet Coke; six, maybe seven 750 millilitre bottles of either Seven Up or Diet Seven Up (it's so very hard to tell them apart when they're smashed into sliver like pieces); and enough beer bottle fragments to make either a large case of Labatt's Blue or two and a half six-packs consisting of some odd label hybrid.

I don't know what kind of Night of the Broken Glass or 'Kristalnacht' was held here over the weekend, but I do know that someone left quite a mess.

All those Seven Up drinkers, were 'Up For It' all right. Up for smashing their empties over private property. The Coke drinkers didn't hold back either. This was 'The Real Thing'. It was all over the place, even broken bottles of Blue. I guess that's just 'The Way We Play' around here.

Well, not anymore. People in this village had better get their crap together -- and put it in its proper place -- the trash bins, which as of Tuesday morning, have been put into place for the summer.

"Usually I wait to put them out at about the first of April, because we get a storm and you gotta plow and this and that, says Big Jack Smith, the Village Foreman, "but this year, I thought 'ah, heck', so we put two of 'em out last week, and the rest went out this morning."

So there you have it. Right from Big Jack's mouth. The bins are on the street -- seven of them in all.

Big Jack is also less than pleased with all the debris garnishing area streets, especially near Beckers.

"I think it's the kids, eh? I don't know, in front of Beckers there, it just seems it's always a mess. And they spill drinks you know, and flies get at it. I guess because that place is open until what? 11 o'clock or twelve?"

So who's to blame?

"I don't know," says Big Jack. "I don't know what to tell you. If you watch sometimes here around town on a Saturday night and they have a chicken barbecue back at the Legion, there. That parking lot over there, at the bank, it's just terrible. They just open the window and drop them out."

"It's the whole damn area, says Big Jack, but it's worse around there."

Now the last person I'm going to point an accusatory finger at is Tim Roles, the manager of Beckers. He's one of the nicest people I've come across since coming to Chesterville. (I also still owe him five bucks). Tim's role lies in selling the products to us. What we do with the empty package after we are done is totally up to us. If I were to point an accusatory finger at those who are responsible for the trash in Chesterville's streets, I would fall approximately 1400 digits short. It is you and it is I who are to blame.

Every morning Big Jack's boys, Danny Roy and Richard Elliott comb the streets in search of rubbish. Needless to say they have not been having any trouble locating any.

It is our responsibility, however, to ensure that this spring and summer doesn't leave Danny and Richard with severe back problems.

I'd hate to have them feel the way I do today. My back is killing me. My back is killing me because on Tuesday, a few of us at the paper decided to sweep the alley beside our building.

I did more sweeping than Al Hackner at the Brier. Between my two co-workers and myself, we managed to get rid of all the glass.

After some intense and sometimes bitter negotiations, it was decided that I was not going to be purchasing any adhesives in order to glue my way to prosperity, but I probably saved myself some money in the long run, because my car's tires, for the moment anyway are safe from broken glass.

It's going to be a warm spring and summer. When out at Beckers, or Mike Dean's or Freshmart, can we try, just a little bit, to keep the place tidy?

I'd hate to have to yell at you from my window.

More late scores coming over the Record wire.

North Dundas Atom C Two's got the better of their Number One counterparts on March 7, taking an Upper Canada Minor Hockey League game by a 5-1 margin. The Demon Two's were in full command of this affair which would have ended with a shutout performance for goaltender Jason Blackburn if not for the lone Number One goal, off the stick of Shawn Neilson, with just 33 seconds to play.

Chris Mann led the Demon Two attack with a hattrick. Single goals went to Chris Leyenaar and Andrew Bradley. Jamie Magee and Robbie Desormeaux each contributed a pair of assists.

The Two's scored two in the first and three in the second to cruise to a five goal lead until Blackburn's late game goal broke One's scoring silence.

Morrisburg spotted North Dundas PeeWee C One Demons a 1-0 lead before scoring three straight unanswered goals in a 3-1 Upper Canada Minor Hockey League win March 8.

Mike Easter scored twice for the winners, who netted markers in all three frames.

Jason Sloan's goal, midway through the first period gave North Dundas a shortlived one to nothing lead until Matt Wilson's scored tied the game at the 7:21 mark.

With the Demons' Anthony Mann off for tripping, Easter put the puck past Troy Elliott to give Morrisburg the lead with three minutes to play in the second period.

Easter scored the game's final marker with 1:03 remaining to make the final 3-1.

In Atom C play on March 17, the North Dundas Demon Ones and Russell Warriors played to a 2-2 tie.

North Dundas scored both of their goals in the opening period to take a 2-0 lead, but the Warriors replied with two of their own in the middle frame, to pull even.

David Hilson supplied the game's first goal at the 14:40 mark of the first period, beating Henry Nicholas in the Warrior net.

Shawn Neilson added to the lead ten minutes later to make it 2-0, but goals from the two Jeffrey's, O'Neil and Mondoux, pulled the Warriors even.

Both Henry and Miles Hanscomb played flawlessly in goal in the game's final frame.

Scott Thompson led a potent Louisville attack with three goals and two assists in his club's 6-1 trouncing of North Dundas in Senior Novice play March 13.

Louisville scored early and often, taking a 3-0 lead after one and a 5-0 lead in the second, until Trevor Walker scored with 5:26 remaining, to put North Dundas on the board.

Les Haggett scored in the third period to complete the scoring, Corey Blackburn netted two for the winners.

All the scoring was done in the third period as the North Dundas Intermediate Demons took a 2-1 decision over Embrun in a match disputed March 18.

Nicolas Bruyere and Barrett Brundie in the Embrun and North Dundas nets respectively, kept the game scoreless until the 11 minute mark of the third period when Pamela Heuff beat Bruyere, giving the Demons a 1-0 lead.

Matthew Carkner augmented that lead to 2-0 with just under four minutes to play when he hooked up with Heuff and Becky Kleinswormik to score the games second goal.

....Brundie's shutout bid fell short with but 45 seconds to play, when Shawn Breckon beat the Demon goaltender, converting a pass from Jean Sebastien Caron.

Fitness Forum

by Jennifer Gregoire, Reg. N.

Just how young are you?

A few years ago, a book titled "Think Yourself Thin" became an overnight best-seller. Why? Because its premise was: Concentrate on a conviction that you're losing weight and the pounds will drop off. The system worked for a lot of people, possibly because it made them so conscious of food and calories that they eased up on eating.

Why not a book called "Think Yourself Young"? It would, no doubt, have equal success -- because nothing can help you look younger more effectively than your mind, with the additional help of exercise and nutrition, of course! Think young and you'll find yourself acting young, feeling young, looking young. On the other hand, think old, and you won't need a birth certificate to establish your maturity. Your attitude will tell it to the world.

The dictionary defines personality as "the sum total of individual, behavioural, and emotional tendencies, something evidenced by distinguishing character traits, attitudes, or habits". It doesn't distinguish between young and old personalities because it doesn't need to. We're familiar with both types. Wherever you go, you meet them -- at the office, in school, in stores; even at home. They're instantly recognizable. The youthful personality is usually friendly, tolerant, positive, and open to new ideas (eg. exercising regularly and changing eating habits for the better). The "old" personality is apt to be negative, critical, impatient, and inflexible. (eg. "I don't have time to exercise", and "if I want to lose weight, I'll just use one of those fad diets")...acid qualities, all, that tend to etch lines in the face.

Youth is eternally linked with sparkle, gaiety, enthusiam, and love. Have we gradually let ourselves slip into a nagging, irritable state of mind and cranky, unpleasant ways?

It's easy to let aging attitudes sneak up on us if we're not paying attention. All too soon, those attitudes prevail and turn into aging habits or mannerisms that establish our image for others.

If we get out of bed in the morning, wrap ourselves in shabby robes, shuffle downstairs, yawn our way through breakfast, grumble about the weather and our job, then we're playing the "old" game.

If we get up with a positive attitude, maybe even plan to (gasp!) attend an exercise class that day, that's acting young, moving young, looking younger.

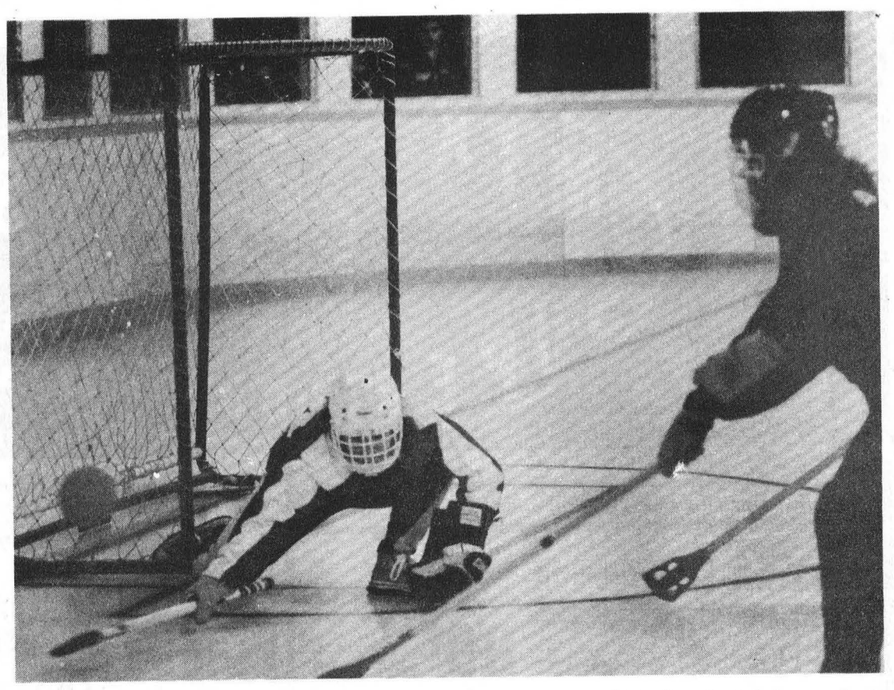
We should try to think of ourselves as younger...don't say "Mirror, mirror on the wall, I'm the dreariest of them all." We must think positively; forget about encroaching wrinkles...pick a favorite age and stick with it!

Here's a quick quiz to help us see if we're letting our attitudes age us. Three yeses...start renovating attitudes, five and you're headed for trouble:

1. Do you resent others being cheerful around you when you're not feeling that way?
2. Do you make an effort to talk to others, or wait for them to speak first?
3. Do you get upset when someone drops in unexpectedly to visit?
4. Are you intolerant of others' mistakes?
5. Has it been a while since you read a best seller?
6. Are you unable to identify any current popular song? (I think we're safe here!)
7. When you go to a party, you really wish you were home in your comfy sweatsuit?
8. Do you avoid making new friends, especially ones younger than you?
9. Do you think many current fashions are too extreme?
10. In conversations, do you frequently say, "I remember when..."?

My Silent Achiever this week is a Lab Assistant at Nestle's . This pretty brunette with the lovely smile has been changing her eating habits, eating smarter, and exercising regularly, and has lost more than an amazing 25 pounds in the last few months. She's definitely staying young! Well Done!

We are so very lucky to be able to do it for ourselves.



This Crysler attack was thwarted as were all of Finch's efforts until the final 2:07, when Shanna Sullivan scored to give Finch a 1-0 win and the local girls broomball title. Finch took the five game series in 3 straight games. Record Photo-Brennae

Russell to face Morewood

ORMOND — It will be Russell against Morewood to determine the top area mens' broomball team. The Magnum Force earned a berth in the A Pool final of the Winchester and District Broomball League last Sunday, with a 2-1 decision over Ormond, taking the series in two straight matches.

Morewood made the final grade, courtesy of a two game sweep of Toyes' Hill.

The game was a physical one, with 11 penalties being handed out and it was the penalties which Ormond took that spelled out its demise, as both 'Force goals came when Russell held the manpower advantage.

With Dan McDiarmid in the box for an elbowing penalty, Russell's Dave Bols scored for an early one to nothing lead, midway through the opening frame.

Russell increased their lead to two 8:50 into the second period, when Geoff Corey put one past Ben Melenhorst, again, with Ormond playing a man short. This time John Velthuis was the guilty party, having been sent off at the 7:14 mark for roughing.

Ormond came back with a goal just 82 seconds later, when McDiarmid managed to beat John Rystephanuck to make it 2-1, but that is as close as Ormond would get.

The loss marked the second straight one goal defeat for Ormond, which was shutout 1-0 last week by the 'Force.

The B Pool series will pit Prescott Road, which got by Newington in two consecutive games, against Manotick, which swept Winchester, also in two straight.

Both series begin Sunday, with the A Final starting at 8 p.m. and the B sweeps facing of at 9 p.m.

Eastern Ontario teams fared well at the Ontario Broomball Championships in Clinton, Ontario, coming home with three gold as well as a bronze medal.

Embrun Plumbing beat Barrie Rangers 3-1 to take the Men's Elite Division. The Black Hawks, also from Embrun, and the Embrun Broomball League, downed a team from Oshawa called the Flying Squirrels, by that same 3-1 score.

In the Ladies' Elite Division, Alfred Sport shut out the Palmerston Cougars 4-0.

The Ladies' Intermediate Division was won by Embrun Sport.

Atom Demons defeated in OT

PERTH — Chris Hesse' goal at 2:11 of sudden death overtime gave the Richmond Royals a dramatic 7-6 win over the North Dundas, Seaway Valley Pharmacy Demons in the "B" final of the Perth Blue Wings' Atom Tournament here last week.

Jason Ross gave North Dundas a 6-5 lead scoring unassisted at 7:37 of the third period, but Richmond forced OT when Steve Wasylko tied it up 6-6 scoring with 3:21 left on the clock.

Hesse then gave Richmond the "B" Division championship scoring at 2:11 of the extra session.

North Dundas trailed Richmond 3-1 after a period but were up 5-4 after two frames.

Craig Holmes netted the Demons' first-period goal scoring from Warren Holmes and Stephen Holmes at 6:47.

Jason Ross then launched the Demons' big second period comeback, scoring unassisted at 10:31. Warren Holmes netted unassisted markers at 4:16 and four seconds. Ryan Filion hit from Terry Wagner at 1:30 as the Demons took a 5-4 lead into the final frame.

North Dundas went to the "B" bracket losing 2-0 to the Renfrew Timberwolves in the first round.

But Ryan Filion's goal, in a shoot-out, gave North Dundas new life and a 4-3 (semi-final) win over Orleans.

Goalie Darryl Beck stopped 28 shots in regulation time and all three Orleans' shooters in the overtime showdown to send North Dundas into the B final.

Stephen Henderson's first goal, assisted by Warren Holmes and Craig Holmes, put North Dundas on the board in period one.

Craig Holmes closed the gap to 3-2 scoring from Henderson and Ryan Swerdfeger early in the final frame.

Henderson struck for the tying goal, using a feed from Terry Wagner with 1:35 left on the clock to make it a 3-3 contest.

Ryan Filion then decided the game in North Dundas' favor notching his shoot-out goal.

MVP Matthew Carkner (Left) who scored seven goals and assisted on four others in the tourny, and goalie Ryan Matte accepted the trophy.

Local lines

Every week the Record Sports asks the local sporting community a question pertaining to sports making news.

We knew it was just a matter of time before the owners and players would get together and make a rational decision. As in any dispute, the only way to reach an amicable agreement is for both sides to give a little bit. It's ironic that baseball, the so called game of inches, has been able to survive the big shot business attitude which seems to be the makeup of both the owners and the players -- two sides who seem so unwilling to budge even an inch from their demands.

Who loses? Ask Floridians who work in restaurants and hotels, truckers, paid to deliver luggage and equipment. Ask the little boys and girls who wait all year long for their school break so their parents can bring them to Florida or Arizona, to get that one good look at a Timmy Raines or a Jimmy Key. But alas, the game of baseball is so popular, and its skin, so resilient, that it will survive; come July, when the Jays are battling the Sox for the AL East, and the 'Spos are battling the odds to reach .500, we will have long forgotten the latest labor dispute.

The settlement, reached in the wee hours of the morning will push the season back about a week, meaning opening day will be April 9, instead of April 2.

With this in mind, we asked the question: What does it mean to you, now that the baseball labor dispute is over?

"It means I can't go down to the Expos home opener like I had planned to. I'm pleased that it's over, it's about time we got started with baseball again."

Terry Gray,
President,
Eastern Ontario Broomball Association

"Not a hell of a lot. I'm not all that interested in baseball. I do watch the World Series and I like the Montreal Expos and Toronto Blue Jays, but I'm not all that interested. Now if you had said hockey..."

Demons win pair of tournies, extend win streak to six

MORRISBURG — Two days, two tournament championships made the 1990 March Break a memorable one for North Dundas' No. One Demons.

Last Wednesday the No. Ones defeated all comers in their home rink as they captured the 1990 North Dundas Minor Hockey Association's Intermediate Novice Tournament championship.

Here in Morrisburg Thursday (March 8), the Shawn Chambers - Al McLean-coached Demons extended their win string to six games, as they posted three wins en route to the Morrisburg Lions Minor Hockey Tournament title.

Constant encouragement by coach Chambers and his assistant McLean enabled the Demons (seven, eight and nine-year-olds) to ice six of their strongest efforts (over two days) of the season.

Fresh from their victory in Winchester, the No. Ones rolled into town and promptly dealt the two Morrisburg squads back-to- back defeats. In their opener the Demons doubled the Morrisburg Whites 6-3. In semi-final action North Dundas eliminated the Blue Lions 4-1.

In the championship match, the No. Ones faced Russell's No. Two Warriors and fell behind 1-0 to some very stiff opposition.

But the Demons were able to rally, thanks to some opportune scoring and tight defence, and edge the Warriors 3-1.

Jordan Dale-Hill snapped a 1-1 tie in the championships match with the winning goal. Jonathan Chambers and Julian Whittam added the tying and insurance goals.

Tiffany Holmes, the Demons' best defensive forward, earned two assists while Devon Cinnamon and Kelly Beckstead picked up one each.
