Municipal electors make final decision

Dillabough returned in first challenge

BONNIE McNAIRN
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — Incumbent reeve, Bill Dillabough, successfully held off a strong challenge from former deputy-reeve Harland Veinotte, here Monday when voters returned him to office for his seventh consecutive term.

With the exception of the November 5th advance poll, Dillabough won all polls in the village for a 727 total to Veinotte's 569.

His biggest win came in the west end where the combined 3a and 3b polls put him ahead by 76 votes. He led in the centre town poll with 48 votes and in the east end with 25.,

"I'm very pleased with the results and looking forward to another good term," said Dillabough. "It's important to put the community first and the people have given me a vote of confidence."

It was the first challenge for Dillabough since he became reeve in 1974 when he defeated fellow councillor Bob Bright by 35 votes. Incumbent reeve Earl Baker did not seek re-election that year.

"We'll have a busy agenda in the next three years as we have a lot of things that have to be done," said Dillabough. "To start with, our biggest problem is with the sewer and it's going to take up a lot of our time."

"After that a lot of other things will fall into place like the problem with the water tower."

Dillabough was graciously congratulated by Veinotte who last served the village of Morrisburg as deputy-reeve in the 1982-85 term.

Veinotte, whose election platform, included the possibility of lighting Highway 2 into the village couldn't resist one last kick at the cat.

"You going to put those lights up or what?" he asked Dillabough.

"I can't answer that, it's up to the next council," said Dillabough.

Close race for councillors

It was a close race for village councillors, Peter Remillard leading the polls with 779 votes, followed by Gord McGregor with 740 and Dirk Testerink with 725.

Linda Bowers was unsuccessful in her first bid for village council, but was just 49 votes off, with a 676 total. Willard Steinburg trailed, well back, at 268.

The three successful candidates all commented on how close the results were and all cited the sewer as their number one priority.

"I expected it to be close," said Testerink, "I'm just pleased to be in."

"The sewer is obviously our big problem," said McGregor. "We've spent $1.5 million dollars on it and doesn't work."

Remillard led the west end combined polls 3a and 3b with 332 votes followed by Testerink at 305 and Bowers with 300.

Centre town went to McGregor with 221 followed by Remillard at 216 and the east end went to Testerink with 172 followed by McGregor at 162.

It is a complete turnover for Morrisburg council although Remillard is familiar with most village matters having been village solicitor and McGregor has experience having served on council in the 1980 term when he swept the polls with 797 votes.

They are joined by Peter McCooeye who was acclaimed deputy-reeve, replacing Bill Shearing. McCooeye is entering his second term of municipal politics having served the village in the last term as councillor.

Voter turn out high

Of the 1,912 eligible voters in the village of Morrisburg, 1,320 or 69 per cent cast their votes Monday.

Poll one (east end), where there are 428 eligible voters had 288 out, poll two (centre town) had 385 of the 639 eligible voters out, poll 3a (west end) had 219 out of a possible 460 and poll 3b (west end) had 242 of an eligible 385 voters.

Seventy-eight people voted in the November 5th advance poll and 34 in the November 10th advance poll.

The turnout of 69 per cent matches the 69 per cent figure for the 1985 municipal election and is down slightly from the 1982 election when there was a 71 per cent turnout.

Meets the challenge

Bill Dillabough was returned as reeve for the village of Morrisburg in Monday's municipal election defeating challenger Harland Veinotte by 158 votes. Above, Dillabough, who is entering his seventh term of office as reeve, is congratulated by his wife Phyllis.

Majority of voters cast ballot, choose new slate on council

IROQUOIS — Iroquois council will be full of new faces for the next three years, since not one incumbent has returned to office.

John McAllister was acclaimed as reeve this fall when no contestants appeared for the position by nomination deadline in mid-October. A veteran in municipal politics, McAllister sat on council for three consecutive terms from 1976 to 1982.

McAllister was not displeased to be acclaimed, saying that he had had his share of running for three council terms.

A number of onlookers gathered at the Civic Centre anticipating results from the election. Although the two polls were in by 8:00 p.m., they were not tallied for another couple of hours, due to a heavy count. Of 1,028 eligible voters, 672 or 65 per cent cast their vote.

The hotly-contested position of deputy-reeve went to challenger Ed Thompson. Just this summer, the village became eligible for the position, when an enumeration showed that there were 1,000 electors.

Thompson won the seat handily with 429 votes; incumbent councillor Lorraine Fader who also sought the position was visibly disappointed with 247 votes received.

"I'm pleased we had so much interest in the election," said Thompson. "We had a great all-candidates meeting, and a good vote. The new council will know they have the support of the majority of the people."

Other newcomers to council include Clare Brown who gained the highest number of votes for a councillor with 548 counted. Brown is also no stranger to politics having served as councillor from 1976 to 1978.

He is confident that the leadership of the new reeve and deputy-reeve will work well with the councillors chosen. "After a (tentative) swearing-in ceremony on December 6, and when we get the ball rolling, we will divide up the responsibilities like the Fire Department or the Recreation Committee, and talk to the groups involved," Brown said.

Wilfred Gibbons is pleased with his win of 501 votes, and Ron Miller won a seat with 378 ballots. Of his successful entry into politics, Miller said, "I'm happy to be the new kid on the block, and that I've been elected."

Miller is looking forward to serving on the recreation committee and the industrial commission.

Richard Zandbergen ran unsuccessfully with a total of 298 votes.

Osnabruck Township

Elliott hammers Zeran in deputy-reeve race

MIKE THOMPSON

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP—If Joe Voter was a betting man this municipal election and supported Carson Elliott, chances are he doubled his money by the time all was said and done.

Elliott, a veteran councillor, collected 1,165 votes Monday night, twice as many as the incumbent Peter Zeran who only managed to pick up 553.

"I think the key to my success was that I campaigned door-to-door and I also think my past record was definitely a factor," said Elliott after his sweeping victory.

Elliott, who promised to provide more services for the township's senior citizens, says his number one priority will be establishing a drop-in centre for the elderly.

"The two proposed sites are Ingleside and one in the Newington area, and I plan to make sure they're set up as soon as possible," he said.

"And of course I'm looking forward to working with Stewart (Hart, the township's acclaimed reeve) once again."

It appears that Hart will also be serving as the warden for the United Counties Council next year and Elliott said he will "provide strong support while he's off fulfilling his wardenship duties."

While Elliott was wallowing in his glory talking to friends and reporters, Zeran, the incumbent, chose to sit quietly alone.

"I'm going to do all the things I did before I started getting involved in politics," he said without elaborating.

Asked if he planned to keep involved in municipal affairs, he replied, "According to what the people said here tonight they obviously don't want me around."

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the evening was the number of votes councillor candidate Gordon Ross collected.

From the 1,718 people who cast ballots Monday, Ross managed to collect more than 61 per cent of the total number with 1,057.

No other candidate even came close. In fact, Ross almost received as many votes as the last three candidates collected together, with Wayne Summers' 288, Joe Carboni's 333 and Ray Smith's 484.

"I would just like to thank the people who supported me during this election and I can only promise to do as much as I can for them during the next three years," said the municipal government veteran.

Ross won't be the only one on council with experience as incumbents Jim Bancroft and Donald McElheran both were returned.

"I think it's a vote of confidence from the ratepayers in the township," explained McElheran who picked up 985 votes.

"I think many of them were satisfied with our performance during the past three years and all I can say to that is that I hope I can serve them as well as we did this time."

Bancroft, who received 950 votes, agreed with McElheran's assessment.

"I believe we made some difficult decisions and we stood by them and I think the people respected us for that."

As for council's immediate plans, the two men said they would like to continue working towards the $1.4 million recreation facility with the S.D.&G. Board of Education as well as trying to bring more industry to the area.

"These aren't any new goals or promises we made," said McElheran.

"They are something we've been working on the for the past three years."

The one election result that didn't really surprise anybody was the question of providing French language services for the municipality. Over 83 per cent of the voting public said they weren't prepared to pay additional taxes to provide services in both official languages.

Williamsburg Township

New councillors represent variety of areas

CATHERINE THOMPSON

WILLIAMSBURG — Williamsburg Township voters elected three new councillors Monday evening, opting for Robert Gillard, Trevor Tolley, and David Carkner from four contestants.

Reeve Johnny Whitteker returned unopposed to his position as he has been for 31 years, and Lyle Van Allen was acclaimed as deputy-reeve.

David Carkner's hard work and getting out to meet the people paid off with the lion's share of votes at 801.

Veteran in politics, Rowdy Gillard made a good comeback with 754 votes. Gillard has two years experience as councillor, and six years as deputy-reeve.

He was pleased with the results of the election, but disappointed with voter turnout, at 44.5 per cent.

Only 1,210 of 2,716 eligible voters exercised their rights.

"Having so many different polls was confusing to the voters, and some got turned off and didn't vote," said Gillard.

"Next time, we'll have to work out a better system of informing them, perhaps by individual notices," he said.

Trevor Tolley ran again for a council seat, this time winning with 715 votes. In 1985, he ran for council but was defeated by a few hundred votes.

Arden Schneckenburger was defeated in his bid, garnering only 599 votes.

Reeve pleased

Incumbent Reeve Johnny Whitteker was pleased with the results of the election, but said he was disappointed there wasn't a bigger vote turnout, at least 50 per cent.

"I am well satisfied with the new councillors," he said. "We have councillors who are spread out all over the township, not all in the same area."

"Rowdy Gillard is on the south side, and has experience in looking after that part of the township. Trevor Tolley, located near Williamsburg, with his experience at Carleton University will be a good addition to council, and David Carkner is in the north-east corner, where there is a need."

Whitteker says that a nursing home, a satellite for those who are beyond looking after themselves, and the new subdivision planned for west of Morrisburg will be the major areas for consideration in the next term.

Also of great concern is the problem of waste disposal. Whitteker would like to see a garbage pick-up and recycling set up within the township rather than private pick-up.

French services rejected

MIKE THOMPSON

DUNDAS COUNTY — Residents from two local communities answered a very loud Non Merci when they were asked if they were prepared to pay additional funds in order to provide French language services for their municipality.

Both Osnabruck Township and Iroquois Village held a referendum on the issue and asked residents to fill out their ballots during the municipal election Monday.

More than 83 per cent of Osnabruck's residents said they weren't in favor of the proposal and defeated it by a 1,466 to 247 vote.

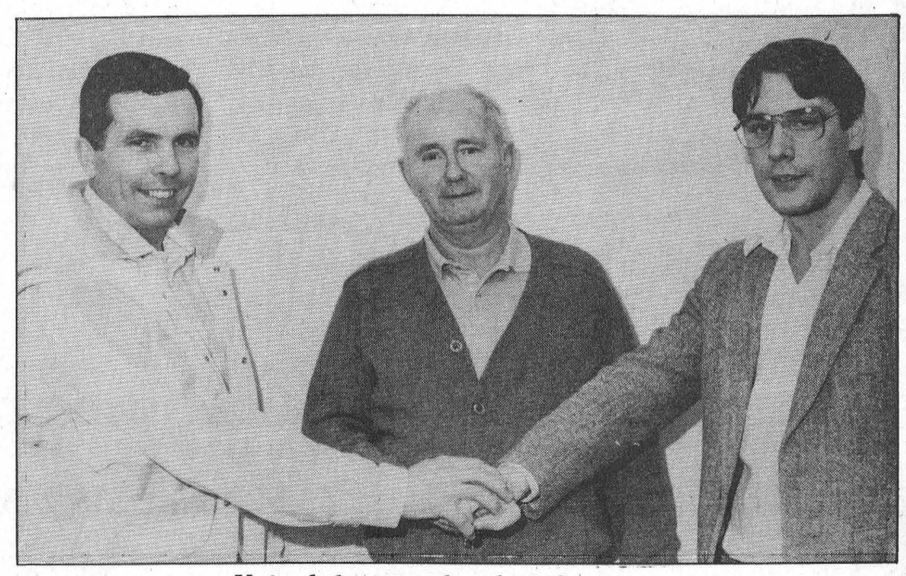
The Iroquois result was much the same iwth 582 turning down the resolution and only 90 supporting it.

"I'm not surprised at the results because of the way the question was expressed," said Iroquois' new reeve John McAllister, who also teaches French at Seaway District High School.

McAllister said the way the question was phrased "one could only expect a resounding non-supportive reply."

"It was an unnecessary question in Iroquois. There's no need for French services in Iroquois so why provide them."

"As far as I'm concerned the question was unnecessary, irrelevant and the answer was obvious."



United they stand and ready to serve

There's nothing new about Osnabruck Township's newly-elected council with incumbants Jim Bancroft, left, Donald McElheran right, returning for another term. One-time deputy-reeve and former councillor, Gord Ross, centre, will also return to municipal politics after finishing first in the election for councillor.

Safe treatment of PCBs possible, chemist

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MAITLAND — One of the major issues of our time is a war against toxic waste.

This war is against our future, our planet, and our children, a group of about 200 was told here last Tuesday by Dr. Paul Connett, a chemist from St. Lawrence University, Canton, New York.

The meeting was organized by POWI, People Against Waste Incineration, a group opposing a proposed hazardous waste burning plant south of Highway 401, on the Blue Church Road.

Many township residents have been enfuriated by their council's option-to-purchase agreement with Environmental Systems Company, (ENSCO), a U.S. based company, for 50 acres of land here in exchange for $100,000 and a promise to provide most of the cost of a new Hwy. 401 interchange.

Connett recently returned from a visit to British Columbia to investigate another facility proposed by ENSCO, only to be told that the U.S. company intended to build a plant across the river in Maitland.

ENSCO also owns a plant in Eldorado Arkansas, one in Arizona, and four mobile units.

Hazardous waste problem two-fold

Connett explained that there are two parts to the hazardous waste problem — one lies with the manufacturers of the chemicals, and one lies in the fact that people sense the democratic process is running away from them.

"People are sick and tied of these so-called public hearings to find out if something is safe, knowing full well that the officials sitting there with glassy eyes have already made up their minds that it's safe and this is just a little charade they're going through," said Connett.

"The manufacturers introduce 1,000 new toxic materials a year and have no idea of their impact, because they bear little or no responsibility for the chemicals once they leave the factories."

"Their costs don't include mapping up the toxics at the other end," he added.

Waste reduction

Connett recommends the manufacturers be made to recognize their production of waste and "not provide a toilet for them in Maitland to get rid of it." A study by the Office of Technological Assessment in Washington, D.C. suggests that hazardous waste could be reduced by 50 per cent.

Waste reduction, exchange, recycling and reclamation should be practised before incineration is even considered. A safe chemical treatment of polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) with a compound called potassium polyethylene glycol would pull the chlorine off and convert it to chlorine ions which are harmless, according to Connett.

The remaining structures called hydrocarbons would be safe to burn in cement kilns which are readily available. At present when PCBs are burned in an incinerator, chlorine is released which the operators hope will be neutralized by acid scrubbers.

But some of the chlorine will compound with carbon and other compounds in the process, turning into furans, which are much more toxics than PCBs.

Incinerator suspected in health problems

Doctors report a higher incidence in El Dorado both of Lou Gehrig's disease, a fatal neurological disorder and also of brain tumours, in numbers exceeding the national average. But the diseases can not be definitely tracked down to any one source because of the existence of two other chemical companies in the town.

Even if air pollution control devices are in good working order, says Connett, there is still the problem of where to deposit the ash which he claimed usually ends up in poor areas or black minority areas in the U.S. where the people have no political clout.

A political decision

"The decision to allow a commercial hazardous waste venture into the community should lie ultimately with the people, and not with the Ministry of the Environment," says Connett. "It is a political decision and should be dealt with politically."

An example of disregarding the people occurred in Augusta Township where residents woke up and found that council "local folks who have no idea of the difference between a hazardous waste incinerator and the back end of a bus" signed the deal with the Arkansas-based company, he said.

"People should not trust to regulatory agencies such as the Ministry of the Environment to look after them," says Connett. "They should look after their own interests through networking and citizens groups."

He proposed that POWI meet with a similar group called Work on Waste (WOW), a U.S. based coalition he heads in Canton, New York, to sign a treaty against transnational pollution. WOW is opposed to a massive solid waste incinerator proposed for the City of Ogdensburg.

The resulting POW WOW is to take place November 19, at 11:30 a.m., on the international bridge between Ogdensburg and Prescott.

Names remain the same at local school boards

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

DUNDAS COUNTY — The results of the local school board elections proved to be about as exciting as a geometry class with almost all the incumbents returning.

Representing residents on the separate school board as the English language trustee will be Peter Van Moorsel who returns through acclamation.

However, the board had to elect their French language trustee with new-comer Jean-Charles Landry challenging the incumbent Alphonse Lamarche.

The long-time trustee soundly defeated Landry by a 469 to 157 vote.

The public school board results were much the same.

For Morrisburg and Williamsburg the public board's English language trustee will once again be Susan Adams who returns through acclamation.

The same goes for Dale Beckstead who represents Matilda and Iroquois.

Osnabruck has its own English language trustee and William Flemming will again return for another term untested.

The only real race for the school boards comes from the public board's French language committee.

With 151 of the 186 polls officially counted, first-time candidate Daniel Morin appears to be giving the two incumbents, Charlemagne Lamarche and Basile Marchand a run for their money.

Lamarche, the long-time committee chairman is in the lead with 193 votes, while Morin is second with 140 and trailing is Marchand with only 92.

Cornwall's city hall is the official returning office but they were busy counting votes for their municipal election and do not have the results for the school board completed.

United in Remembrance

Lest we forget

Brave Canadians remembered during poignant service

MORRISBURG—The proof is there

Throughout its history as a world nation, Canada has answered the call time and time again.

The Battle of Somme — World War I

On the first day of the battle, July 1, 1916, the 1st Newfoundland Regiment was annihilated, marking the beginning of five months of futile and bloody fighting.

By the time it was called off in November, the Allies had lost more than 623,000 troops, including over 24,000 Canadians.

Dieppe — World War II

In the early morning of August 9, 1942 a major offensive was launched against the Germans along the coastal town of Dieppe, France.

The march was a major disaster.

Half the Canadian troops involved in the raid were evacuated, 900 were killed and 1,300 were taken prisoner.

The Korean Conflict

On the night of April 24, 1951, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry encountered heavy fighting along the Kap' Yong River valley.

Though 10 were killed and 23 wounded, the Canadians, with the Australians managed to halt the offensive and were awarded Distinguished Unit Citations from the U.S. government.

In all, more than 1,700,000 Canadians served in these three major conflicts.

Last Friday, about 300 residents, including many local men and women who served, visited the village's Legion Hall to pay tribute to not only those who lost their lives but to those who answered the call.

Following the one-hour service, the branch's secretary-treasurer Cam Martel said three Morrisburg men deserved special mention.

"Here today we have three gentlemen who served in the First World War, Lee Van Allen, Charlie Crober and Jimmy Fraser. We certainly appreciate them coming out today," Martel said.

Perhaps it's that personal attention that makes Remembrance Day ceremonies so important to small town residents.

In the country's smaller communities, like Morrisburg, residents are more familiar with their neighbors and more often share in their joys and sorrows.

"Eternal God, our dwelling place in all generations on this Day of Remembrance renew in our minds and souls all fair and noble memories, all high and holy traditions in our country's history," said Donald Prunner, who read the service's invocation.

"And especially help us with true and grateful hearts to recall our debt to those who in the days of battle game their all for our safety and freedom."

It's your decision on Monday

It's your future at stake

Every voter in Canada must seriously weigh the awesome responsibility which evolves upon him or her in the federal election next Monday. This has rightly been called the most important election in Canada's history, for upon its outcome depends the future of this land as an independent nation.

Many Canadians, far too many, still harbor the naive belief that, under the proposed "free trade pact" of the Mulroney government, they would simply be allowed to import cheaper towels, clothing, whiskey and wine, meat, electronic equipment and other goodies from the United States without any additional charges. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

But then truth has never been a primary concern of some politicians. Canadians can still remember the assurances they were given in 1984, that their pensions, health care, and other social programs were indeed a "sacred trust", and would never be lessened. They got those assurances from the man who became Prime Minister and the man who became his finance minister. And less than a year following the election, they proposed to de-index the Old Age Pension. Not until they were forced by senior citizens across the country, did they change their tactics.

Today, while they claim to have made substantial reductions in the national deficit, the total national debt is escalating at a record rate.

Canadian voters of 1988 have the same assurances from the same men about the safety of their cherished social programs. They also have the trade agreement, and the promised "tax reform", a program which would place a hidden tax on almost every item you use in your daily life. Voters must consider and weigh all of these, and then most importantly of all, they must weigh the credibility (or lack of it), of those who seek their support.

If you are a Canadian citizen, 18 years of age or older, and your name is on the voters list, you are entitled to partake in this most momentous decision in Canada's history, a decision to remain independent and free, or to come under the influence of another nation, and a far different ideology. It is a fateful day for Canada. Don't waste your vote on impossible, implausible or irrelevant causes. It's your country. It's your future, and that of your children. Give it your best shot!

Use your headlights properly

The death rate for motor vehicle accidents occurring at night is almost three times greater than for daytime crashes, according to The Ontario Safety League. The severity of the crashes at night is almost always much greater as well. Many such crashes are single vehicle happenings and involve a car running off the road, down a gully or ravine, or into a tree, a pole, or other fixed object. While there are many causes for these night crashes, the improper care and use of the vehicle's headlights often plays an important part.

The Safety League provides some safety suggestions on the care and use of your headlights in order to reduce the chances of an accident due to poor visibility. Especially at this time of year, when weather conditions can change so suddenly and unpredictably, these are very important to the driver:

1. Clean your headlights when you clean your windshield. When driving on a muddy road, or in winter slush, pull off the road occasionally, and clean them again. Dirt, snow, salt or mud can reduce the output of your headlights by as much as 75 per cent.

2. When driving at night, be careful not to overload the rear of your car. Too much weight in the rear will tilt the headlights upward and reduce the lighting on the roadway.

3. When the visibility is poor (night, fog, rain or sleet), don't stare at the centre line of the road as you are driving. Move your eyes slightly to scan the highway. Such staring can have a hypnotic effect, and result in an accident.

4. In fog, heavy rain or snow, when headlights must be used, reduce your speed and use the low-beam lights.

5. Always be sure your headlights are aimed properly; have them checked periodically and adjusted when necessary.

6. High beams serve a useful purpose. They can help you to see more, and to detect potential problems and dangers at much greater distances. But be sure you switch to low for oncoming traffic, when following another vehicle, or when a car passes yours. In Ontario, the law requires you to switch to low beams when within 150 m of an oncoming vehicle, and within 60 m when following another vehicle.

7. When one of your headlights goes out, or becomes defective, have it replaced immediately. The loss of a light means the loss of visibility, and puts you, your passengers and your vehicle at very great risk.

8. Keep your battery always fully charged, and your alternator/generator and your voltage regulator in proper working order. If your headlights periodically go dim while you are driving, you probably have a defect in your electrical system.

9. If your car is equipped with fuses for its electrical system, keep spares in the glove box for emergencies (and be sure you know how to use them).

10. Remember that operating a vehicle with parking lights only, at any time of the day or night, is very, very dangerous, illegal and strictly prohibited!

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Bonnie McNairn

1978

Incumbent Al Belanger, Gerry Rosenquist and Harland Veinotte were all returned as councillors defeating Cameron Martel. Reeve Bill Dillabough and Deputy-Reeve Mike McInnis had been returned by acclamation. Belanger led the polls with a 683 vote total, Gerry Rosenquist totalled 669, Veinotte 656 and Martel pulled in 512 votes. John Allison was returned as Hydro Commissioner and was joined by Bill Barclay who narrowly defeated Willard Steinburg. Ron Pilkington finished fourth down some 207 votes.

In the municipal election in Williamsburg Township, former councillor Rowdy Gillard defeated incumbent deputy-reeve Glen Cunningham by more than 200 votes. It was also the first time Cunningham had run for the position as he had been acclaimed on two previous occasions. Gillard received 761 votes and Cunningham fell short of the mark by 213 votes.

Long time reeve Edwin Waldroff was defeated in Osnabruck Township and several other members of the past council were also dropped. The voters in Osnabruck had been given much to consider with mammoth problems in sewer, water, expansion, industry and a new municipal clerk. In the five-name ballot for deputy-reeve, three incumbents were dropped from the political scene with Garnet Ezard scoring a heavy victory with 665 votes over incumbent councillor Clayton Ouderkirk who finished second with 417. Mr. Beavers had been reeve for the past eight years. Nominated for council were A.W. Guay, Art Edgerton, Lorne Laurie, Dain Connor, Harry Duvall, Len Belaire, Willard Steinberg, Lawrence Coligan and Fred Broder.

D.T. Henderson, well known Morrisburg druggist, died at his home in Morrisburg, November 19th.

Plans were near completion for a grand dance to open the new building being erected on Isabella Street by the Morrisburg Building Company of which the president was M.R. Seeley D.C., D.D.T. The building was to be occupied by Morrisburg Industries Ltd.

1938

At Reddick's Grocery, black tea was 48 cents a pound and a five pound box of chocolates was 98 cents.

In one of the most violent attacks on alcoholism imaginable, the Roman Catholic Church of Quebec was to open a widespread campaign to stamp it out of the province.

1928

The November 16th, 1928 issue of The Leader reported that George Hodge had been promoted to Superintendent of the Williamsburg Canal, with headquarters in Morrisburg.

Dear Sir:

I am hoping that on election day the voters of Stormont-Dundas will consider what a strong economy we have here and the jobs that are available here now and remember just 4 years ago the high interest rates, heavy unemployment, and the economy downturned.

We have been served well with the Tory Team Government and with Free(er) Trade we can all look to the future with continued prosperity without any detraction from our social programs or marketing boards.

Bilingualism is an 1867 constitutional premise of our country, but at the same time merit and need must dictate. Only a member of the next government can see to our needs in Stormont-Dundas. Voters should consider carefully how they vote or they may get a result they deplore.

Yours truly,
Doug Grenkie

Dear Sir:

The coming election in Canada will be as fateful for Americans as Canadians. We were given no say in whether we wanted this Free Trade Treaty, but fortunately spirited opposition in Canada has now forced an election. It certainly wasn't planned that way.

The politicians are making a big deal out of the loss of Canada's national identity. This is a very valid fear, but it also applies to America's national identity. This economic merger is just the second in a series that is meant to establish a one-world economy. This will require a one-world government to run it. It won't be run by democratically-elected politicians but by the big financial giants of this world — the mega corporation chiefs and international bankers. Our present constitutional guarantees will be worth nothing.

The first stage is already under way in Europe. Now the financiers are pressing for a common currency unit to allow them to move huge sums of capital across national boundaries at will. Mrs. Thatcher has wisely and courageously revoted by saying she is not about to surrender political control over British affairs at Westminster to a group of planners in Brussels. She added that each nation is far better off being itself, with its own identity, culture and monetary system. Once these are given up it will be next-to-impossible to retrieve them.

I have been a lifelong Conservative, but on this issue they deserve to be kicked out of office. I hope Canadians will do Americans a huge favor by doing just that on November 21.

Sincerely yours,
Ian B. Patten

Dear Sir:

Hopefully, you will allow me to express my views as I have done for the past 20 years as a weekly newspaper columnist in Saskatchewan.

Perhaps I'm getting too old, too conservative, out of touch with the times. Perhaps I possess too much of that rustic purity of our primitive prairie people. There is one news item in this federal election campaign that did shock me into writing this letter.

In the November 1st edition of the Regiona Leader-Post, Dale Eisler, the paper's political editor wrote the following news story.

The NDP National Party President, Johanna den Hertog, has campaigned with the self-proclaimed "gay" MP Svend Robinson, doing what they refer to as "the gay-bar-tour." The same NDP party president is running for election in a Vancouver riding and has a very active worker in Dennis Dahl, a lawyer and yet another self-proclaimed homosexual.

I quote Mr. Dahl, "The NDP is the only party where "gay" and lesbians can actually get organized." Dahl goes on further to say, "There can be a "gay" caucus in the NDP."

There could well be homosexuals in the Conservative or Liberal ranks, but none have made it public. I thank them for that.

The openness of the NDP on the question of homosexuality appears to be the next thing to promotion of this way of life.

It is a sad commentary of our time and smacks those of us who have respect for the traditional family values.

Yours truly,
Ray L. Bailey

Susan Kersley

Morrisburg Public School's new French teacher is working on a game for her students as one of a variety of approaches to make learning more fun. —C. Thompson photo

French teacher has busy timetable

MORRISBURG — Susan Kersley, the new French teacher at Morrisburg Public School believes that learning should be made enjoyable because children learn best by enjoying what they are doing.

But sequential learning based on repetition forms a good part of language training. Even so, "techniques are available to change a lesson a little bit each time," says Susan Kersley.

Now in her 10th year of French teaching, Susan knows that her chosen occupation can be a busy one, especially with today's emphasis on a variety of techniques and oral instruction.

She sees approximately 141 students every day from Grades 1 to Grade 8, and has one 40-minute preparation period a week. An "itinerant," she travels from room to room, with the exception of Grades 7 and 8, who come to see her.

Kersley gained her teaching degree at Althouse College, Western University, and had her first year's experience in a secondary school in London, Ontario.

From there, she went to Nova Scotia, teaching at Kentville Elementary School, later taking a position in the City of North York at Highland Junior High.

Kemptville Elementary School was her next assignment, followed by a move to Morrisburg Public. Morrisburg Public.

So far, Susan is enjoying the experience.

"There's a sense of community here," she said. "I like the school, the kids and the staff."

Trinity United Church women discuss 'crisis in farming'

President, Mrs. Harry Pollock, opened the November meeting of the UCW of Trinity United Church, Ingleside with a reading concerning Armistice Day.

The worship service led by Mrs. Keith Brownell of Unit One dealt with Genesis 32: 24-32 telling of Jacob wrestling with an angel, and in her meditation wondered how we wrestle with our problems in this day and age.

The speaker, Mrs. Helen Chisholm was introduced by Mrs. Roy Poapst. Mrs. Chisholm and her husband Rev. Don Chisholm of the St. Lawrence Pastoral Charge of the United Church had attended a seminal held at the University of Guelph dealing with "Crisis in Farming". This was in connection with the on-going programs of Continuing Education.

Mrs. Chisholm stated that, since she had always lived in the city she was quite unaware of the problems facing the farmers and was completely amazed at much of the information presented by the delegates who were representative, not only of farmers but of folk from every walk of life. Because of this the discussions were varied and most informative.

Some of the statistics were astounding. Eighteen per cent of our population is rural, but only four per cent are famous. A day-care program would be difficult to implement on the farm, which results in many accidents when the children have to be taken to the work place. Seventy three per cent of all farmers' wives work away from the farm as well as on the farm in order to keep the farm sovent.

Because of the quots system for imports of fruit and vegetables from other countries it is very difficult for the farmer to sell produce during the productive summer season, since foreign countries have year-round contracts. It is better to buy these items from the local outdoor markets or to be in contact with someone who has a market garden. In this way the income goes directly to the farmer.

Churches are becoming more aware of these problems and are helping to set up Education Courses such as this one and the delegates are expected to tell others about the problems.

Mrs. Ray Dixon thanked Mrs. Chisholm and presented her with a gift. Lunch was served by Unit Three which allowed us to have a time of fellowship and ask further questions regarding this important subject.

Following the break, the regular business meeting was held and several announcements were made. Mrs. Margaret Markell reported on the "Drop In Centre" which is held the last Thursday of each month in the church hall from 11:30 to 1:30. Anyone wishing transportation could contact Mrs. Markell at 534-2003.

A note from Norma Brown, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wiley enclosing a cheque for the Scholarship Fund was received with gratitude. The installation of the officers for 1989 will be held at a church service early in the New Year.

Various members have offered to assist Marie Biggar in a presentation of a Chancel Drama at the regular church service on Dec. 18. Final plans for the bazaar which was held on Nov. 5 were made. The meeting was adjourned.

Family-oriented ministry

Pentecostal minister Terry Pitt is show with his wife Ellen and son Mitchell. "It's exciting being in Morrisburg," says Pitt, "to see what the Lord is going to do with both our lives."

Community life involvement important to new minister

MORRISBURG — One day seven years ago, while engaged in routine work at a textile plant, Morrisburg's new Pentecostal minister, Terry Pitt, decided to follow a calling to the ministry he had felt since the age of 15.

The next day, he went to his pastor to get an application for Eastern Pentecostal Bible college in Peterborough, and enrolled that September.

"While working at the factory, I listened to the voice of God saying there was something greater in the future for me," said Pitt in an interview here Friday.

Although he knew from an early age what he wished to do with his life, Pitt hesitated to commit himself because he had an inkling of the pastorship's burden from his brother-in-law's experience as pastor of a Pentecostal church in Prescott.

The job at the textile plant was one of a number of jobs he took as well as an electronic technician's course, before he decided to stop wasting his time.

Pitt had his first experience pastoring in Kaladar, a village of about 300, starting February 1985. In that congregation, he and his wife became very involved within ministering to young people.

"We had a group of 15 young people each Friday, and a very large Sunday School," he said.

He also ministered to seniors. Other important features were a men's fellowship breakfast, a women's group which participated in ministry, crafts and prayer meetings.

Playing on a "non-body hockey league" made him many friends and allowed the community to view him in another light.

Pitt moved to Morrisburg October 25, to replace Pastor Robert Farbin, who had moved to Kingston. A Shawville, Quebec native, he finds the village of Morrisburg similar to his home town, with well-kept properties and a close-knit community.

One of his main goals is to become involved in community life, which he feels is part of pastoring. His ministry is also strongly family-oriented.

"We love the community and look forward to seeing it grow numerically and spiritually," he said.

Maurice J. Grimes Lodge opens for cancer patients

OTTAWA — The Canadian Cancer Society's newly-expanded Maurice J. Grimes Lodge at the Ottawa Civic Hospital officially opened recently.

Ron Potter, Ontario President of the Cancer Society, and many dedicated volunteers were on hand to turn over the building to Michael Meighen, President of Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation, in ceremonies which began at 3:00 p.m.

The Lodge now offers accommodation for 60 out-of-town cancer patients and the offices of the Canadian Cancer Society are also located within the building.

"Cancer patients receive both emotional and physical support at the Lodge," says June Davidson, Lodge Manager.

"As well as accommodation, meals and medical supervision which are covered under OHIP, the Lodge offers a homelike atmosphere for people when they need it most.

Volunteers who help out on a regular basis ensure its friendly atmosphere."

Lounge areas, crafts, recreation facilities, a dining room and beauty shop all contribute to the informal setting.

Canadian Cancer Society volunteers throughout the Carleton and Eastern Ontario Districts are raising $2 million dollars to fund the renovation and expansion programs in this area.

This project was part of an Ottawa Lodge expansion program and included the Alta Vista Lodge at the Ottawa General Hospital which opened in 1987.

The two lodges serve the Ontario counties of Carleton, Dundas, Glengarry, Lanark, Leeds, Prescott, Renfrew, Russell, Stormont and Grenville. Some residents also come from western Quebec and northern Ontario.

The rooms include two beds and a private bath and residents also have the use of a dining room and lounge area for relaxation, television and games. Kitchen facilities are open for snacks, there is a solarium, beauty shops, and recreation, special events, and crafts are provided.

Pollution from incinerator could affect Morrisburg

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MAITLAND—People Opposing Waste Incinerator (POWI) will be involving those in surrounding townships in their fight.

Dr. Paul Connett, professor of chemistry at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N.Y., cites a study which found that drinking one quart of milk from a cow farmed near an incinerator would be equal to breathing the same air for eight months.

He says that a toxic waste incinerator could release a host of harmful substances into the surrounding environment, everything from carcinogens, metals and dioxons affecting the entire area for a radius of 100 kilometers.

Ken Forrest, co-chairman of POWI is one of a number of "anti-plant" candidates running in the November 14 election.

Forrest claims there are a number of irregularities in the deal worked out between Augusta Township and ENSCO of Arkansas to sell land for a hazardous waste plant in the township, and that there were secret meetings between ENSCO and the Ministry of the Environment for months.

"We feel the deal's been rubberstamped, so we're calling for an RCMP investigation," he said. He and POWI co-chairman Gunter Haas detailed a letter describing the circumstances of the ENSCO proposal to be given to Environment Minister Jim Bradley, and asked for a meeting.

Sometime this week, they are to meet with Bradley's legislative assistant at Queen's Park, Toronto.

A letter has also been drafted to be sent to Premier David Peterson, NDP leader Bob Rae and PC leader Andy Brant, outlining the ENSCO proposal and calling for a public inquiry.

No documentation submitted

Jack Pruner, district officer for the Ministry of the Environment (MOE), says that the company has not submitted any documentation. However, he knows of two meetings that took place between company representatives and MOE officials.

One meeting was in Toronto, and the other was in the Kingston MOE office between ministry officials and Tom Meredith, vice-president of the New Environmental League, a Canadian subsidiary of ENSCO.

"The proposal will be subjectedto an individual environmental assessment, involving representatives for the ministries, townships and citizens groups involved," he said.

Morrisburg downwind of the plant

"You are definitely in the danger zone," said Forrest. "Prescott, Cardinal, Iroquois and Morrisburg will all be downwind of the plant, and six days of the week, the wind blows in your direction."

"If we do win the election, we'll hold public meetings in Brockville, and from Prescott down to Morrisburg, and all over," he added.

CNIB canvass exceeds $20,000 in donations

WILLIAMSBURG — Twenty members of the Dundas County Board of the C.N.I.B. met in Winchester Lions' hall for the fall meeting.

The recent canvass will exceed the $20,000 mark — each area showing a very satisfactory and encouraging increase in givings. A sincere thanks to all canvassers and to all those who were so generous in their support.

Doug MacArthur, District Administrator, touched on the work of Mrs. Donna Quiggan with the Deaf-Blind clients in the five counties in this area, and the case workers, Mrs. Jane McDonald's help with those elderly clients with sight impairment.

The matter of more public exposure to the fact that C.N.I.B. has "In Memoriam" cards available at the various funeral homes was discussed.

It was decided that the annual Christmas gifts will be discontinued except to the several youngsters enrolled in our area.

The annual meeting is planned for May 9, and will take the form of a pot luck supper. Our speaker will highlight the diagnosis and care of various sight problems.

All are encouraged to support the work of the C.N.I.B.

Why people are turning to Steve Corrie

Honesty and integrity
Both the Conservatives and Liberals have been in power and both have broken their election promises. Steve Corrie believes it's time to end the patronage game and bring integrity back to government.

Fairness for everyone
Why should wage earners pay income tax when thousands of profitable corporations pay none? Steve Corrie feels everyone should pay their fair share. He also opposes the new federal sales tax which will take billions out of our pockets.

Committed to community
Steve is proud of the heritage of the people of this area. He has served faithfully on many local organizations including minor hockey, minor soccer, school committees, environmental action groups and health care protection committees.

Knowledge of government
Steve understands government and how it should work. He knows the issues and promotes a Canadian solution to our local and national problems.

Christian education elicits many questions

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

IROQUOIS—How should parents who want to teach their children a non-violent ethic respond if their child wants war toys? Or how and when do parents broach the delicate topic of sex education with their teen?

These were just a few of the questions raised in an ecumenical Christian workshop attended by about 30 on the weekend here at Seaway High School.

The workshop on Christian education, attended by residents from the whole of Dundas County, and one from Canton, New York, focussed on topics related to the spiritual development of children, and how it impinges on the rest of their development.

Mrs. Lorraine O'Connell, of Montreal, P.Q., led discussions on children and justice issues. She is a member of "Parenting for Peace and Justice Network," an organization formed in 1981 as a network of families who seek alternative lifestyles that are simpler, non-violent, more co-operative, multicultural, non-sexist, globally conscious, and prayerful.

One tool she recommended for the many situations children are bombarded with, is a family meeting where a child can bring problems and conflicts to the meeting, and be involved in decision making.

This workshop on parenting was valuable not so much from the point of view of how-to's in parenting, but from the kind of questions and discussions elicited.

How can we as parents or educators promote values of justice and peace for our children? How can we help children deal with violent issues like the threat of nuclear war, to give them a sense of hope?

Sex Education

Jack Barkley, teacher at Nationview Public School dealt with sex education — how, when and why the delicate subject should be broached with children.

Barkley said that in a class poll, 50 per cent of children said they could talk to their parents on any subject, whereas only two per cent could discuss sex.

He stressed the importance of a teenager's self-esteem, and the values of honesty, relating to children and being an "askable parent".

Shelley Prins, an Elder and Sunday School Superintendant at Knox Presbyterian Church, stressed firmness and common sense in dealing with the age-old problem of discipline.

She emphasized the importance of setting limits to children's behaviour, but added that tact should be used. For example, a child can be made to change behaviour problems like thumb-sucking more readily if the child can be made to realize that a problem is his or her own as well as his parents'.

Other discussion groups

Father Jim McGillivray, Parish Priest for St. Cecilia's in Iroquois and St. Mary's in Morrisburg, discussed Teens and Morals, and Rev. Bert and Marilyn de Bruijn of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, Chesterville dealt with the Spiritual Development of children.

Reverend David Crawley, Anglican rector of a joint church parish in Morrisburg and Iroquois chaired the Christian Education Committee, and Youth Minister Gordon Webber directed the children's music program.

Mrs. Pat Bedford, Christian Educator of All Saints Anglican Church, Ottawa led the workshop in reflection exercises and discussion.

Leslie Waddell entertained with three piano selections. The guest speaker for the meeting was Rev. Ross Thomson, who talked on the motto, the value and use of time, from creation to infinity. Program convenor was Mrs. Ralph Casselman.

Mrs. Clair Algire reported on the Ottawa Area Convention that she had attended.

The Christmas meeting will be held at Park Drive Villa, when all residents are invited, and will be entertained.

MARITIME MARIONNETTES

Puppet show comes to Iroquois

The Iroquois Public Library presents Cinderella, with Maritime Marionnettes, at the Civic Centre, Dundas Street and Elizabeth Drive, on Friday, November 18 at 7 p.m. Admission is by Series Pass, or $2.00 at the door.

The well loved story of Cinderella is set in Medieval times and performed with music by Prokofiev. This is a fine show with a challenging and increasingly rare form of puppet, the true string marionnette.

The impressive and finely-crafted wooden marionettes, or string puppets, come to life in the hands of their creators, Darryl and Heather Taylor. Since Darryl and Heather returned from the United States (where they performed coast-to-coast for the National Marionette Theatre) they have been consistently enchanting audiences with their own touring company, Maritime Marionettes, based in Nova Scotia.

Everyone is invited to the show, which is sponsored by your public library, the Ontario Library Service — Rideau, the Ontario Arts Council, and Outreach Ontario, a programme of the Ministry of Culture and Communications.

On top in Legion dart tourney

MORRISBURG — It took 29 games of darts but when it was all over the team of Lyle Beckstead, Karen Beckstead, Ernie Beckstead and Sandra Baker claimed the championship of the Morrisburg Legion Mixed Dart League tournament played here Saturday.

The Beckstead team placed third in preliminary round action with 15 wins out of a possible 22, behind the Bobby Jack Hart team which had 18 and the Mel Typahir foursome which had 17.

Three teams tied for the final playoff spot with 11 points, including the Carl Schwertdfeger, Elsie Guindon, and Guy Hart entries.

A three-way playoff saw Hart knocked off by Guindon and Guindon in turn retired by the Baker entry with the winning throw coming from Carl Schwertdfeger.

This placed Baker against Bobby Jack Hart and Beckstead versus Typhair in the best of three semi-finals.

Cathy Sherman gave Typhair the first win in their match but Lyle Beckstead and Sandra Baker came through in games two and three to earn the right to advance.

In the other playoff Bobby Jack Hart and Gail Robinson came up with the wins to knock off Carl Schwertdfeger.

In the best-of-five final, the Bobby Jack Hart team of Gail Robinson, Eric Don and Mary Casselman counted big but then couldn't get the outs, allowing Beckstead to come back in the first and second games for the wins from Ernie Beckstead.

Gail Robinson struck for Hart in game three but Lyle Beckstead finished it for the championship win in game four.

The Typhair team finished third and the Schwertdfeger entry was fourth.

High scores for the day went to Francis Burt and Cathy Sherman, both with 140s, and there was a five-way playoff in the men's category all with 140s.

Winning after the nine-dart throw off were Ernie Beckstead and Don Dewolfe.

Junior B Lions find nemesis, lose again to Char-Lan Rebels

MORRISBURG — The Morrisburg Junior B Lions have found their nemesis in the Char-Lan Rebels, the two now having met three times since the season began, and the Lions unable to secure a win.

Friday night on home ice the Lions again fell victim to the Rebels this time by a crunching 8-2 score, the Lions managing only single goals in the first and second periods.

Sunday night in Athens, however, the Lions got back on track against the Aeros to come up with a 5-3 win to boost their season record to 6W-5L-1T for a fourth place standing overall in St. Lawrence Division play.

The Alexandria Glens hold first place on 17 points and right on their heels are the Rebels with 16. Kemptville is fourth with 14 and the Lions one point back at 13.

The Winchester Hawks bring up the rear with eight points.

The Lions opened the scoring Friday night against the Rebels with a goal from Robbie Whitteker at 7:42 of the first period with assists going to Randy Jodoin and Rod Lemieux.

Rebels in command

This seemed to only charge up the Rebels who hit for three consecutive tallies to carry a 3-1 advantage into the second.

Jason Smith came through for the Lions only tally in the second with help from Lemieux and Sean Baker and from then on it was the Rebels game.

Kevin Poapst, once again, had an outstanding performance beating Lions' goaltender Kevin Eamon for four goals and Matt Germaine had a pair. Blake MacDonell and Daryl Menard provided singles.

The Rebels were assessed 17 minor penalties and a 10 minute misconduct to Kevin Chaffe while the Lions sat out 13 minors.

Sunday night in Athens Andy Cummins was in net for the Lions as they worked their way to a 5-3 win.

Gain edge in second

Playing to a 1-1 first period tie they gained the edge in the second to carry a 4-3 advantage into the finals.

Mike Sargeant gave them a two-goal lead at 14:27 of the third and the Lions held on for the 5-3 win.

The Aeros opened the scoring 57 seconds into the game on a goal by Heath Hedden and it wasn't until the 17:11 mark that the Lions were able to even it with a tally from Jason Smith assisted by Johnny Morrow.

The Lions turned it on in the second for three consecutive counters from Randy Jodoin, Mike Sargeant and Robbie Whitteker to move ahead 4-1 but the Aeros came charging back.

Edwin Palmer hit at 15:41 and Jeff Seed at 18:32 to cut the Lions' advantage to 4-3 heading into the third.

Cummins held the Aeros from the scoreboard in the third, and Mike Sargeant struck for his second of the game for the 5-3 Lions' win.

The Lions handled five minor penalties and the Aeros three.

Coming Up — The Lions have only one game this weekend and that's in Winchester on Sunday beginning at 8 p.m.

Corden leads Hills to win and first place standing in town league hockey

MORRISBURG — Led by the two-goal performance of Scott Corden, Hills put together a 6-2 victory over the Flyers in town league hockey action here Thursday night to move all alone into first place.

The two went into the evening action tied at five points, Hummells trailing at four and Veinottes in the basement with three.

When it was all over, not only had Hills taken possession of first place but Hummells had produced a 4-3 win against Veinottes to move into second, one point up on the Flyers.

Hills 6 — Flyers 2

Corden opened the scoring for Hills early in the first frame and at 11:49 Jamie Whitteker hit for his first of two to tie it.

Doug Brunt gave Hills the edge heading into the second with a tally at 19:38.

Second period action was dominated by Hills with four consecutive tallies from Fred Osler, Bill Lawlor, Ian Hooles and Corden, the latter finishing it with 4:06 left in the game.

Whitteker counted the final Flyers' tally at 18:58 of the second and final period.

Hummels 4 — Veinottes 3

Don Fairweather came up big for Hummells in the last five minutes of their game against Veinottes, his first goal tying the game at 15:45 and his second at 16:22 giving them the win.

The two had played to a 1-1 first period tie on goals from Frank Hummell and Earl Nesbitt but early in the second Veinottes took the lead when Tom Hodgson beat Archie Mellan, unassisted.

The advantage was shortlived when Allen McNairn returned the favor for Hummells, beating Jeff Fowler unassisted.

Veinottes took a 3-2 lead at 7:20, with Gary Jarvis counting but then Fairweather took over for two, giving Hummells the 4-3 win.

Most valuable players named by soccer club

MORRISBURG — Player-coach Holger Andersen has been named the Seaway Valley Spartan's Soccer Club most valuable player and joining him in the winner's circle were Gayle Ault and Cathy Gibson who tied for the award in the ladies section.

Andersen led the team in scoring with six goals while Ault led the ladies in the finals with some strong goalkeeping. Gibson, a midfielder, was a consistent performer the team could always count on.

Next year shaping up

As the 1988 soccer season winds down the Spartans are now busy with preparations for a busy 1989 which is their 10th anniversary.

The 1989 Spartan Cup will take place from May 20-21 and it is hoped there will be 12 ladies and mens teams in the sixth annual competition. Jay Merkley and Brian Bennet will be running the Spartans dance in May.

The Club executive for the upcoming year includes Bill Ault president, Jay Merkley vice-president and Bob Fowler secretary-treasurer.

Changes in minor system

The executive has unamimously approved the application of Cathy Gibson for the position of Director of Minor Development. Gibson is currently enrolled at York University in Toronto.

The Spartan minor division will take its next step in its development this coming summer since the club has been accepted into the Chesterville and District Minor Soccer Association.

It will be decided in the spring which of the local minor teams will enter into actual league play.

A minor division of the Spartan Cup is also being considered for next season and the executive is looking for a tournament date sometime in August.

Coming Up — Indoor soccer is set to roll with a $25 registration fee and a Spartan player of the year will be named in December.

The award will go to a person who best represents sportsmanship and dedication as well as, but not necessarily, talent.

Nominations will be accepted by the executive.

SD&G playoff basketball underway

Spartans defeat Tagwi in finale

IROQUOIS — The Seaway Spartan senior girls' basketball team finished the regular season on a winning note last Wednesday when they defeated the Tagwi Warriors, last year's S.D.&G. senior A champs, 42-38 to bring their record to 7-3.

The 7-3 record allowed them to tie with General Vanier for second place behind Char-Lan which finished with an undefeated 10-0 record. Fourth spot was wrapped up by Rothwell-Osnabruck at 3-7 and the Warriors and St. Joe's finished out of the playoffs with a 2-8 and 1-9 records respectively.

Sudden death semi-final games were played yesterday (Tuesday) between Char-Lan and Rothwell-Osnabruck, and Seaway and General Vanier.

Comeback win

Last Wednesday the Spartans had to fight their way back for the win after trailing the Warriors 24-19 at halftime.

Lisa Van Hoof led Seaway's scoring with 15 points, while Kim Bucking added 13 and Kathryn Houze dropped five. Heather Crawley was good for four, Jennifer McNairn three and Stephanie Dodge had two.

Answering for the Warriors were Erica Hollingdrake with 19 points and Susan Sproul with 13.

Yesterday's semi-final match between Seaway and General Vanier was anybody's game, the two splitting their regular season matches. Seaway lost to GV at home by 12 points and came through for a win in Cornwall by six points.

As a result of the point spread in the two games GV was given the home court advantage in the semi-final.

New approach for annual weekend hockey tournament

MORRISBURG — The Williamsburg Oldtimers re-vamped their annual tournament this year, throwing in a little cash and changing the format to come up with what they hope will be some very competitive hockey this weekend.

Dropping the oldtimer age categories and going with open teams, the tournament has attracted teams from throughout the district including Ottawa, Cornwall, Waddington and Brockville.

"We felt the old format had been well-used and decided to go to something different," said organizer Wade Roles. "We had no trouble with the change in fact we had to turn a couple of teams away."

"We should see some good hockey as there are a lot of former Junior A and even former pros who are in the team lineups."

In total there are 16 teams in the tournament and by the time it is over, early Sunday evening, 22 games will have been played.

Teams with first game losses will move to the B side of the tournament while the winners will advance into A competition.

The first game a team wins is worth $50, the second $100, the third $200 and the fourth $300. So the team that works its way to the A championship will pocket $650 and the B champs will win $600.

Only four teams, those that lose their opener as well as game two, will leave the tournament without winning cash.

Three games will be played Friday night beginning at 7:30 p.m. and action resumes Saturday morning at 9. The finals are scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Go Morrisburg Go!

The annual senior flag football tournament was played at Morrisburg Public School Tuesday and when it was all over Morrisburg had taken the silverware. Above Julie Wells cheers the Morrisburg team to victory over St. Cecilia's in their opening game. Full details will be provided next week.

Championship football final Sunday

League leaders dropped

MORRISBURG — The flag football league championship will be played this Sunday, but neither of the top regular season finishers will be seeing action.

In semi-final action here Sunday both the Red Stingers, who finished first in the regular season, and the second place Blue Fossils were eliminated.

A shortage of players was obviously a deciding factor in the Stingers-Green game, the Stingers taking a 14-7 loss from the Green Machine led by quarter backs Dave Tait and Doug Wilson.

The 30-19 White Pepper win over the Fossils was an exciting encounter, the Fossils leading 13-12 at the half and the Peppers turning it around in second half action for three touchdowns and a 30-19 win.

Greens 14 — Reds 7

The Greens got on the scoreboard in the first half of their game against the Reds. Dave Tait throwing to Rick Stanczak for an 18 yard touchdown run. Their attempt at the extra point was good allowing them to carry a 7-0 lead into the second half.

The Greens put it away in the second half, quarterback Doug Wilson throwing a 65-yard touchdown pass to Doug Brunt. Again the extra point attempt was good.

The Reds managed their scoring in the second half, quarterback Leo Lafortune throwing a 10 yard-pass to Steve Casselman for the TD and a five yard pass to Casselman again for the extra point.

Doug Brunt and Rick Stanczak led the Greens, snagging eight passes between them and each coming up with a touchdown.

Peppers 30 — Fossils 19

The Blue Fossils claimed a 13-12 first half lead in their match against the White Peppers, quarterback Tom Dawley throwing to Cam Dillabough for the first touchdown and to Sam Laurin for the second.

They picked up their extra point on the Laurin touchdown, Dawley throwing to Phillip Dillabough.

The first half Peppers touchdowns came on throws from Tom Peppers to Eugene McInnis for a 75 yard run and to Willie Peppers for a 65 yard run.

In the second half the Peppers turned it on, Harry Peppers throwing to Willie Peppers and Tom Peppers for touchdowns and Gary McInnis finishing it off with an interception touchdown.

The Fossils got one back when Phillip Dillabough threw to Steve Coligan.

The Peppers and Greens advance to the playoff championship final scheduled for Sunday morning.

Threes win house

MORRISBURG — The Twos and Threes squared off in Morrisburg Novice House League action here Saturday, the latter counting on a four goal performance from Jamie Barkley to register a 4-3 win.

Barkley opened the scoring for the Threes early in the first frame, but Chris Barkley answered to keep it even with 3:28 showing on the clock. Barkley's second tally, with 30 seconds left in the period, allowed the Threes to carry the advantage into the second.

Barkley hit again, midway into the second, but a pair of goals from Michael DeJong and Robbie Stitt tied the game as the teams headed into third period action.

The Threes registered the win on Barkley's fourth tally with 2:17 left in the game.

Brad Boivin was between the pipes for the Twos while Jamie Robson handled the action for the Threes.

Atom C Lions up-ended

MORRISBURG—The Morrisburg Atom C Lions opened the scoring against Metcalfe here Sunday night but were then held from the scoreboard as their visitors worked their way to a 6-1 victory.

Chris Krug put the Lions on the scoreboard at 3:02 of the first period, with help from Julie Rice and Jason Bailey, but that was to be it as Metcalfe went on for the win.

Late in the first Brian MacEachern tied the game 1-1 and a pair of counters from Mike Geral and a single from Steven Kargus in the second gave Metcalfe a 4-1 lead heading into the final.

They finished it off with a pair of goals in the last five minutes of play from Danny Perron and Kargus which gave them the 6-1 win.

Darren MacDonald was between the Metcalfe pipes for the win while Patrick Vaughan handled the Morrisburg duties.

Curling Chatter

MORRISBURG — The Gamble Cup District Mixed Competition was played at the Morrisburg Curling Club Saturday with two teams from Metcalfe, Russell, Winchester and Morrisburg competing.

Mable Gamble was on hand to present the Cup and pins to the winning rink of Laurie Duguay, Edith Lamourex, Bob Lamourex and Peggy Duguay representing the Russell Curling Club.

Runner-up was the Dave Franklin rink from Metcalfe and the consolation draw winners were Ron Rutley, Dorothy Geymonat, John Geymonat and Lee Ann Munro from Winchester.

The Gerry Adams rink from Morrisburg lost both games of the day, the first one in an extra half end to the eventual cup winners and the second by one point to the consolation draw winners.

Bob Bedingfield's rink won their first game handily but lost their second to Dave Franklin.

The Little Rocks started their season Sunday and all participants are asked to take note that play will begin at 1:30 p.m. until further notice.

Innovative music program

Roll over Beethoven here comes Stampville school

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

IROQUOIS — Mike Nowickyj, a music teacher at Seaway District High School often urges his Grade 7 and 8 students to blow their own horn.

"If a kid has some type of special talent then there's absolutely nothing wrong with showing it off," he says.

In fact, Nowickyj says it's the times, when we shine, that we fondly recall for the rest of our lives "and not necessarily what we learned in trigonometry class."

He says it's important that students, especially young teenagers, receive some positive re-enforcement regardless of how small their accomplishments are.

"We all remember how we felt when a teacher praised us for doing something good. Well, all I'm really trying to do is make the kids proud of their achievements and more importantly themselves."

This boost of self-esteem is particularly important to Nowickyj's youngest students — the 12, 13 and 14-year-olds from Stampville School.

As the new kids on the Seaway scene, the Grade 7 and 8's often feel inadequate compared to the older, more-established students.

"Their confidence is already shaky to start with, so I don't think it makes very good sense to start criticizing their mistakes," he rationalizes.

In spite of their lack of self-confidence, these younger students can rest assured that the musical instruction they're receiving will only place them at an advantage over kids from the various other schools in the area.

"That's a fact," says Ken MacLennan, a superintendent with the S.D.&G. Board of Education.

He says music classes at the elementary level, are typically limited to vocal instruction because of the lack of proper facilities, such as suitable teachers and adequate instruments.

"I think the reason the program is so significant is due to the fact that there's a practical component as well as a theoretical one," he says.

"Children are able to translate notes on sheet and use their hands to interpret those markings," MacLennan says.

He credits Nowickyj's enthusiasm and Stampville's principal, Gerry Morrell's foresight.

"The feedback I've been getting from some parents has been nothing but positive."

Morrell isn't so sure about the parents but as far as the kids are concerned "they seem to love it."

The junior high students, like the Seaway students, are encouraged to take the instruments home to practise.

"It's just great to see the boys and girls coming back to the school lugging their instruments and telling me how they had such a good time in music today," Morrell says.

In addition to Nowickyj's music class, the Stampville students also study drafting, as well as use Seaway's library and gymnasium facilities.

"I thought that if the kids were going to be there they might as well take advantage of what the high school has to offer," he rationalizes.

Fortunately, Nowickyj's timetable was not preoccupied with other classes.

"I also think, Phil Lloyd (Seaway's principal) deserves a lot of credit for letting us use his school, as well as Mike Nowickyj and Ken MacLennan because without their support our kids wouldn't have been able to take advantage of all the opportunities," Morrell says.

"We have to keep in mind as educators, that we're here for the kids and judging by their enthusiasm and attitude we must be doing something right."

Stampville School's blowhards

Police Report

MORRISBURG — The local OPP detachment wants to set the record straight about four-way stop signs.

Const. Morgan Hill says due to mounting concern from local motorists regarding rights of way it is time to clarify some of the confusion — particularly with all the new road signs in the village.

"According to the law, when two or more vehicles approach a stop-sign intersection at approximately the same time, the driver on the left must yield the right of way to the vehicle on the right side."

MORRISBURG — Two area women suffered minor injuries when their cars collided Tuesday evening at the Highway 31 and Highway 2 intersection.

Police say a 1987 Plymouth, driven by Audrey Casselman of King Street Williamsburg, was southbound on Highway 31 when it collided with a 1983 Buick, driven by Edna Schell of Osgoode.

Apparently the Casselman vehicle entered the intersection to make a left turn but struck the Schell vehicle which was heading straight through.

Both women were taken to the Morrisburg clinic and were treated and released.

The two vehicles sustained moderate damage.

Welcoming the troops

Jay Glynn (left) of Prescott is dressed in World War II fatigues, and is accompanied by his sweetheart, Lisa Taylor, also of Prescott, in a 1940's ensemble. Commentary by Barb Sargeant of Prescott tells us that Taylor wears a "patterned crepe dress, with a coat, whose colour is shaded to the dress exactly. A soft loose tie at the neckline and slight shearing at the yoke help to complete the bodice. The skirt has a series of pleats sewn over the hip line, almost around the entire skirt. The coat lining is the surprise. The designer has matched the colour shading to the dress exactly, and the seamstress has incorporated the lining into the seaming of the coat." —C. Thompson photo

Antique clothing draws big crowd

CATHERINE THOMPSON

IROQUOIS — History came alive in a beautiful way here last Saturday for a large number of spectators who attended a vintage fashion show in the Civic Centre.

The aesthetic visual effects, accompanying music and sparkling commentary to the fashion parade drew audible sighs of delight and a standing ovation from the audience.

The clothing included 58 pieces from the pre-1900's right up to the 1950's, and was modelled by ladies from the Coligan and Leacy Vintage Fashion Troupe, residents of Prescott and Brockville.

Owner of "Country Curiousities", a vintage clothing store in Prescott, Ann Kindervater (maiden name — Coligan), started the fashion collection in Morrisburg in 1987, and continues today buying, selling, and trading vintage clothing from her store for her business and the collection.

Barb Sergeant (maiden name — Leacy), a retired museologist also of Prescott, researched and did the write-ups for all the pieces of clothing. Clothes are selected from the entire area, some originating from across the border.

Some items have been appraised at the McCord Institute in Montreal between $2000 to $3000. The troupe has visited adjacent towns, from Brockville to Prescott and in the United States, for a total of three shows in 1987, and 11 this year. Their next performance is to be in Kingston, Ontario.

Proceeds from last Saturday are to raise funds for a new typewriter for the Iroquois library.

The troupe donates 100 per cent of show proceeds to charities, and will travel almost anywhere if their travelling expenses are paid.

Happy 16th Birthday

Report from Norm Warner ..

Child Tax Credit
Prepayment Cheques

The Minister of National Revenue, Elmer MacKay, announced recently that Child Tax Credit prepayment cheques totalling $515 million, have been mailed to approximately 700,000 families across the country.

The $375 advance payment is approximately two thirds of the maximum Child Tax Credit of $559 per eligible child which is up from $489 last year. Approximately 1.2 million eligible children are covered by the prepayment program.

The Minister said that families who qualify for the advance payment and who have filed their 1987 income tax return need not apply for it. On the basis of information on hand, Revenue Canada, Taxation has arranged for the cheques to be sent automatically to Canadian mothers, or in some cases fathers if they receive the family allowance payments. The prepayment is a portion of the Child Tax Credit and is available only to those whose annual net family income does not exceed $16,000.

To qualify for the prepayment this year, taxpayers must also have received a Child Tax Credit for 1987 on behalf of an eligible child. An eligible child is one for whom parents will be entitled to receive Family Allowance benefits in January 1989. Children who turned 18 during 1988 may also be eligible, as long as parents were entitled to receive Family Allowance benefits for that child in the month the child turned 18. To obtain the balance of the $559 Child Tax Credit, taxpayers must file a 1988 income tax return on or before April 30, 1989.

In addition to the prepayment, taxpayers may qualify for a supplement of $100 for each child six years of age and under, if no claim was made for 1987 for any child care expenses. For those taxpayers who qualify, this supplement will be added to their cheque.

The Minister also noted that some taxpayers may not receive their cheques immediately if they have moved recently and have not provided a change of address. Any eligible person who has not received the prepayment by the end of November should contact their local taxation office. Upon verification of eligibility, departmental officials will issue a prepayment cheque. As a measure of security, a change of address cannot be accepted over the phone.

Although parents may not have qualified for the advance Child Tax Credit payment, they may still be eligible for the full Child Tax Credit when they file a 1988 income tax return. If their net income is $24,090 or less, they are entitled to the full credit. The maximum credit is reduced by $5 for each $100 of net family income above $24,090. Also, if taxpayers did not qualify for the prepayment of the supplement, they will be eligible to claim an an additional $100 on their return for each child age six and under for whom no child care expenses were claimed.

The prepayment of the Child Tax Credit and supplement does not apply to a child born this year. However, if parents meet the conditions for the advance payment when they file their 1988 tax return, they will automatically receive the prepayment next year.

For additional information on the Child Tax Credit of the Child Tax Credit and Supplement prepayment program, taxpayers are asked to contact their local district taxation office.
