CAMEO HIGHLIGHTS

"BROTHER RAT AND A BABY" with Priscilla Lane and the same cast as was in "Brother Rat" of last season will be here for three nights starting August 12th. You'll enjoy every minute of it.

"THE DOCTOR TAKES A WIFE" with Loretta Young and Ray Milland another of the season's top pictures is for August 19-20-21, and is one no one should miss.

"LILLIAN RUSSELL" with Alyce Faye and Don Ameche playing the leading roles is a very worthy successor to "Alexander's Rag Time Band" which made such a hit last year. It will be here on August 22-23-24.

But the really big event of the season will be "REBECCA" conceded by all to be the best picture of 1940, ban none. With Lawrence Olivier and Joan Fontaine as the stars, this picture has broken house records nearly everywhere. We will have it for you on August 26-27-28.

Following it and coming soon, we will have lovely Olivia deHavilland in "MY LOVE CAME BACK" which has also taken the country by storm, and also "TORRID ZONE", "BROTHER ORCHID", "IRENE", "MARYLAND", "STAR DUST", and many others for your Must See list.

Tying Up With NATIONALLY ADVERTISED GOODS

When you read the full page advertisements in your favourite magazine do you ever realize how many of them are written for this store. They do not describe goods sold a long way off, in another city, perhaps another country, but right here in your own home town.

A phone message to 10 will bring any of these Nationally Advertised goods to your door.

Old English Wax; Valspar Varnish Stain; Muresco Wall Finish; Alabastine Alatint; O'Cedar Mops and Polish; Liquid Veneer; 3-1 Oil; Gillett's Lye; Dic-a-do; Snap Hand Cleaner; Big Ben Alarm Clocks; Dak Watches; Thermos Bottles; Perfection Oil Burner Wicks; Pyrex Overware; "Wearever" Aluminum; Gillette Safety Razors; Auto Strop Safety Razors; Ever-ready Flash Lights; Mazda Lamps; Carborundum Stones.

This is only a partial list. You will find many others in our store, all at attractive prices.

PROCLAMATION

I hereby proclaim Wednesday the Seventh day of August 1940 a CIVIC HOLIDAY and trust the day will be generally observed, as far as possible.

By order,
FRED H. BRODER,
DATED AT MORRISBURG, JULY 31st, 1940. REEVE.

National Registration

On August 19, 20 and 21 a great army of Canadian people - all those, male or female over the age of 16 - will move out to the points of registration and fill in the cards containing a number of questions.

Why is this registration taking place? This country is at war. It must put forth the utmost possible effort to accomplish its purpose. That purpose is the defeat of the enemy.

In order to do this, it must marshall the full forces of the nation - all the human, moral, material and spiritual forces of Canada.

There can be no slacking. We need more planes, tanks, ammunition. To produce them we need more men, women, materials, money. The nation must produce more, spend less, and to be frank about it, pay more taxes.

Then it is necessary that our young men should be trained for home defence. They will be called up at an early date for a brief period of intensive military training.

Yes, we are at war. Registration means simply, organization for greater effort - for victory. Register early. To answer the questions takes only a few minutes work if you will come prepared to answer. Read the questions in this paper, and know the answers you have to make before you go to register. Where so many must give their all you will not hesitate in doing your part.

Help the Registration

There are many ways in which you can help the work of national registration. First, of course, register and register early.

It is anticipated that eight million people will register during the three days - August 19, 20, and 21. That is not quite twice the number of people who polled their votes in the last election, but its fairly close to it.

Perhaps the deputy registrar in your own territory could use your services. You might help on the day of registration.

It ought to be a matter of honour in this particular district to have the registration as full and complete as possible.

Women and Registration

War has always made a heavy demand on the services of the womanhood of a nation.

Totalitarian war makes an even heavier demand. Modern war involves far more than the fighting forces - it goes behind the lines. It involves home defence. It calls for the strengthening of the moral and spiritual forces of the nation, and also an increase not only in the production of war materials, but an increase in general production as well.

We not only have to produce more so far as war materials are concerned, but we must produce products for export because it is necessary that many war materials must be purchased abroad, and the nation must accumulate the foreign exchange necessary for these purchases.

In war conditions the strength of the army in the field must be maintained, but the strength of the army of workers at home must also be increased. It is, therefore, only natural that more and more women ought to be drawn into the army of production in order to strengthen the nation in this time of conflict.

The women of Canada can help by filling in the registration card with care, and encouraging others to do the same. National registration day should produce a clear record of the womanpower of the nation.

Registration is Necessary

You have a date with your country on August 19, 20, or 21. Do not neglect it. There are penalties involving fine and imprisonment, but no one should be penalized for neglect.

If you are absent from home on that day, register at the nearest point of registration. The Registrar will forward your answers to the proper designation.

Answer the questions definitely, especially 14 and 17. These deal with the question of your present employment and capacity for other work. Your answers may be helpful to you as the demand for labour increases. National production for war purposes means demand for more men and women.

W.H. Valentine Heagle Died on Tuesday

Death removed another of Morrisburg's best known and most universally esteemed residents this week in the person of William Henry Valentine Heagle, who passed away at his home on Fourth Street on Tuesday. Although he had been in failing health for the past few months, Mr. Heagle had been confined to his bed for only two weeks prior to his death He had reached the age of 79 years.

The late Mr. Heagle was born in the Seventh Concession of Williamsburg Township, near Dunbar, on November 29th, 1860. He grew up there, and spent most of his life farming until he came to establish his home in Morrisburg, some 20 years ago.

During his years spent in Morrisburg, Mr. Heagle had become a familiar character, known and loved by all. He was a staunch adherent to the United Church, and to the Conservative party.

Mr. Heagle is survived by two sisters, Miss Lucy Heagle of Morrisburg who made her home with her brother and Mrs. Burslem, a twin sister of the deceased, of South Mountain; also two brothers, George, of Morrisburg and John of Toronto.

The funeral which was very largely attended was held yesterday, (Thursday) from his late residence to the United Church of Canada. The Pastor, Rev. J. A. Payton, was in charge of the service.

Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

A large number of floral tributes told of the high esteem in which deceased was held.

Middagh-Barnhart

A wedding of local interest took place at Wall Street United church, Brockville, recently, when Miss Shirley Marie Barnhart, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barnhart, of Brockville, was united in marriage with Burton Harry Middagh, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Middagh, also of Brockville. Rev. R. Douglas Smith officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and Miss Irene Middagh, cousin of the bride was the bridesmaid. The groom was assisted by Carl McLennan, Brockville.

The bride wore a gown of heaven blue sheer with hat to match and white accessories. She carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses and bouvardia.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Long Beach, west of Brockville. Assisting in receiving the 50 guests were the mothers of the bride and groom.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Middagh left for Toronto and other western points, travelling by motor. On their return they will reside in Brockville.

The groom is formerly of Morrisburg, his father having conducted a successful butcher business here for many years

MAKING NEW BOMBING TARGETS

The Prescott marine depot has now begun the manufacture of a new type of water target for practice use by Canada's pilots in training. A dozen of the newly designed targets, of two sizes, will be produced immediately and placed in use on an inland lake for trial. The larger size is in the shape of a 30-foot triangle at the base, made of cedar, surmounted by thick cork buttress with a crib-work of oak supports. This in turn will have a stout pole, upright from the centre, with a wicker basket on top for sighting. The target will be floated by three long metal tanks, each with protective bulkheads. The whole will be painted in matching shades of orange and sand and it will be visible from a great distance in the air.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V
THE TWO WAYS — Psalm 1; Matthew 7:24-27

Golden Text: "For Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the wicked shall perish." Ps. 1:6.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time — While we do not know when the First Psalm was written, the words quoted from Matthew were spoken in the spring of A.D. 27.

Place — No one is able to identify the place in which the First Psalm was written; neither are we quite sure where the mountain was located on which Christ delivered this great Sermon, though it is generally understood to be in Judaea.

In this lesson we perceive life is never a failure unless there is a cause for that failure, whether it be in one's own conduct and character, or in outside circumstances. God does not want men to fail in life, to come to disaster, and the verses which we study in this lesson are divine instructions from our heavenly Father telling us how to live so that life may be all that we want it to be and all that God desires it to be.

A GODLY MAN

Ps. 1:1: Blessed is the man. By the term "blessedness" we understand the highest good for man regarded as a gift from God, or as enjoyed in some divine relationship. Throughout the Bible this is centred in the idea of life. From the great spiritual passages in the Old Testament we conclude that God's desire is for every man to be truly blessed, to be satisfied with life; and that God continually instructs man how this blessed life may be obtained. In this psalm the negative aspects of such a life of blessedness precede the positive. That walketh not in the counsel of the wicked, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of scoffers. 2. But his delight is in the law of Jehovah; and on his law doth he meditate day and night. The secret of deliverance from a life of wickedness is to be fully occupied with the things of righteousness. How can one know what the way of the Lord is? By studying the word of God, meditating upon it, testing one's life by it.

HE SHALL PROSPER

3. And he shall be like a tree that is planted by the streams of water, that bringeth forth its fruit in its season, whose leaf also doth not wither; and whatsoever he doeth it shall prosper. The life of the godly man is maintained by the supplies of grace drawn from constant communion with God through his revelation. The law of the Lord is at once soil and stream. In the one aspect fastening a life to it gives stability; in the other, freshening and means of growth. The psalm anticipates Christ's teaching of the good tree bringing forth good fruit, and also tells how his precept of making the tree good is to be obeyed — namely, by transplanting it from the soil of self-will to that of delight in the law. The last clause of verse 3 must not be taken as a promise of wealth for every one who lives according to the word of God, but a promise of success in whatever such a man undertakes. The man of God is a sane man, a strong man, a man whom men will honor and trust and reward in the things of this life.

AN UNGODLY MAN

4. The wicked are not so, but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away. Compare Ps. 35:5, Job 21:18, Isa., 17:13; Hos. 13:3). The scattering of chaff by the wind is a common figure in the Old Testament for the sudden destruction of the wicked. Here it describes their character as well as their fate. 5. Therefore the wicked shall not stand in the judgment (the wicked shall not be able to keep his feet in a time of judgement). Nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

TWO ALTERNATIVES

6. For Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; But the way of the wicked shall perish. Here is, as it were, a summary of all that has gone before, emphasizing God's infinite providence and omnipotence.

Matthew 7:24. Every one therefore that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them, shall be likened unto a wise man, who built his house upon the rock.

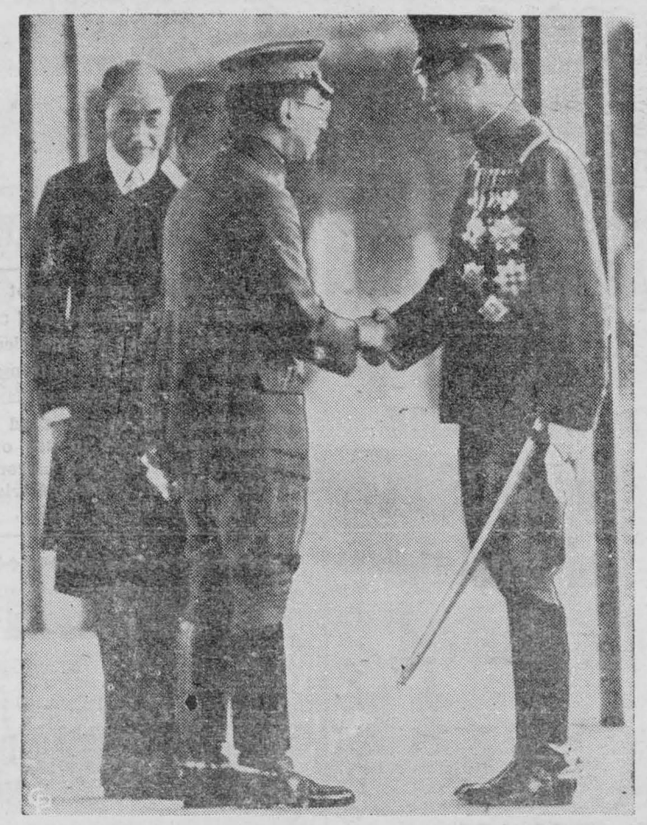

25. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not; for it was founded upon the rock.

26. And every one that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand:

27. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and smote upon that house; and it fell; and great was the fall thereof.

Throughout the Scriptures there are continually recognized only two major classes of men, the righteous and the wicked; those who know God, and those who do not know God. The truth which the Psalmist at the beginning of the Psalter sets forth in a parable of the tree, our Lord here sets forth, even more vividly, in a parable of building houses. Every man builds. But notice the difference. It is not in the men who build; or in the materials with which they build; but in the foundation upon which they build. The foundation is everything. Hear then, the imperial claim of Christ. He says: Take these sayings of mine, and build on them; and no storm can destroy your building.

Two Eastern Emperors Exchange Handclasps

Emperor Hirohito of Japan, LEFT, and Emperor Kangte of Manchoukuo exchange imperial handclasps as they meet at the Tokyo railroad station on the arrival of Emperor Kangte to celebrate the 2,600th anniversary of the founding of the Japanese empire. Kangte is the puppet emperor set up by the Japanese after the conquest of what once was Manchuria.

Africa Yields Teeth Of Neanderthal Man

Harvard scientists point to three cave man teeth, recently discovered, as the first tangible evidence of the existence of the Neanderthal man on the North American continent.

The teeth, believed about 50,000 years old, have been added to the exhibits of Harvard's Peabody Museum after being dug up by Carleton Coon, anthropologist, on the Atlantic coats of Tangier in Morocco.

225 Construction Contracts Awarded

The Department of Munitions and Supply and its predecessor purchasing bodies up to July 10, placed construction contracts for 225 projects in the Dominion involving a total expenditure of more than $26,000,000.

Contracts include the construction of naval, military, air force, and air-training plan buildings, together with defense projects and the erection of plants for the production of war materials.

VIEWPOINTS

Canada's director of public information has launched a new series of interesting broadcasts which will be heard each Sunday evening at ten. Those who heard the first two speakers, Dorothy Thompson, top-ranking woman columnist on this continent, and Fred Birchall, Member of the Parliamentary press gallery for the New York Times at Ottawa, will appreciate what the Government is trying to bring to the Canadian public, in offering expert viewpoints on the world struggle to preserve freedom and justice for everyone.

This series, entitled "Let's Face The Facts", is a radio feature that every Canadian should make it a point to hear. You can enjoy these talks by tuning in CBL, CKOC, CBC, CFRB, CKLW, CKSO or CJIC, for one of these stations reaches every part of Ontario.

NOTES AND NEWS

When anyone's program has been on the air three thousand times, it's a sure sign the people must like it. On August 3rd, the Rev. G. W. Tebbs, alias, Old Man Sunshine, will broadcast his three thousandth program from CKOC, in Hamilton.

Few organists on the air lanes have the personality reflected in their offerings that is heard from the organ at CFRB when Ruby Ramsay Rouse is at the console. Ruby lately has been featuring a swell tune, Lenore, which is another hit from the prolific writings of T. Reginald Sloan, that Hamilton barrister, who, in his spare time, has given the music world such hits as "All Pals Together," "Roll Up Your Old Umbrella" and "God Bless the Shores of England." Miss Rouse's playing and Reg. Sloan's compositions make real listening.

By the way, things are happening to the Bumstead family, the comic strip folks heard from the Columbia network every Monday evening at 7:30. It seems a visiting celebrity comes to town — and with the entire community vieing to entertain him, Dagwood brings home a stranger — with electric results. This is one of the funniest serials on the air lanes.

If you like drama, there's a good play heard from the NBC-Red network Wednesday nights at 9:30 . . . when "Mr. District Attorney" is offered. Jay Jostyn, Vicki Viola and Len Doyle, play the principal parts in this excellent bit of drama.

WEEKLY SPOTLIGHT

Monday — Music You Want from CKOC at 3:30 . . . Toronto Symphony Band via CBL at 8:30 . . . Guy Lombardo's orchestra from the Columbia chain at ten . . . Wednesday — Stranger than Fiction on CKOC at 6:30 . . . Sheep and Goats Club from Chicago via Mutual network at 8:00 . . . They Shall Not Pass, on the CBC chain at ten . . . Friday — Happy Valley folks at 12:45 p.m. from CKOC . . . Johnny presents, a drama, from the Columbia stations at nine . . . Don Ameche troupe at ten on the NBC-Red network . . . Saturday — Novelties in Music from CBL at 7:00 . . . Hawaii Calls on the Mutual chain at 9:15 . . . Grant Park concert from Chicago, on the NBC-blue network at 9:30.

Saving Ontario's Natural Resources

By G. C. TONER

(No. 1)

Talk of the conservation of our natural resources has become fashionable of late years. Few people, however, seem to understand the true meaning of such conservation. Many think it means that we should keep our wild life, our forests, our fishes, undisturbed and unutilized, with the natural increase locked away from the people. Others believe that some portion of these resources should be harvested but fail to take account of the complications that arise when nature becomes unbalanced. A few look forward, believing our resources can yield much if harvested properly under scientific management.

Conservation of natural resources means the wise use of everything that grows or lives upon the land. It means the maintenance of our soil and water. It means that our natural products must be utilized in such a way that an ample surplus is left for seed or breeding stock. It means that the harvesting must not spoil the environment. These would seem to be commonsense rules, easily applied. Actually, they are disregarded and the result is depletion.

THE NEW VIEWPOINT

The changes that have taken place in the lumbering industry illustrate the new viewpoint. The old method was to go into the woods and make a clear sweep, taking everything merchantable and leaving the debris lying where it fell. Far too often this debris has caught fire and when this happened it took several years for even berry bushes to cover the scar. In some cases it required generations before desirable timber covered the countryside again. Often this fire destroyed the humus of the soil and rains soon washed away the fertile upper layers. The bedrock is near the surface, over much of Ontario, where fire left a barren desert without soil.

The modern way of lumbering is largely selective. Only the desirable mature trees are cut, the remainder carefully protected so that another crop will come on quickly. The debris is handled in such a way that there is no great fire menace of tinder-dry brush in drought periods. The wild creatures are not unduly disturbed and the soil is left intact. Enough young trees are left to hold the snow and the rain so that the underground water table is not lowered. All the work is planned to keep the forests on a sustained yield, managed as a crop rather than like a mine.

PLANNING AHEAD

Conservation means planning ahead for sustained yields of all natural resources. This planning must include every animal and every plant for they interact upon one another in many ways. An important part of any effort is scientific research because it is only through the applications of biological principles that we will be able to conserve some of our resources now sadly depleted. Trees are turned into lumber with very little disturbance of the environment by the modern forester. Our fishes, fur-bearers and game must be managed in a similar way.

Farm Notes . . .

Farmers Should Save Themselves

Only the farmers themselves can save Canadian agriculture as an industry, speakers declared at a recent meeting of all York County farm organizations in Newmarket as a York County branch of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture was formed.

"If we leave everything to government boards we will be burdened with a bureaucracy we don't want," said H. H. Hannam, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario. He said the Federation now has 300,000 members across the country.

Mr. Hannam cited figures to show that average farm income had fallen from $1,000 in 1926 to $400 in 1939 and predicted disaster to the nation if the trend continued. All other Canadian industries have a root in agriculture, he said.

"The prices the farmer pays for his necessities and tools have very steadily risen, whereas the prices he gets for his products have sharply fallen," said Mr. Hannam, claiming the farmers would have to organize to protect their interests just as manufacturers do.

Seventy delegates attended the meeting and 36 county organizations were represented.

Railway Brakeman Is Loaned to Film Company For Movie

Samuel H. (Smoky) Shaw, a native of Everett, Ont., has been braking on C. P. R. trains out of Medicine Hat, Calgary and other Alberta points since 1917 but he has found a new temporary vocation—that of a movie star. Picture shows the railroad man, who is now known as Clark Gable to his friends, in a scene on the open observation of C.P.R. No. 7 between Calgary and Banff with British film actor Eric Portman. At the camera is Fred Young, chief cameraman of the Ortus film production "Forty-Ninth Parallel" now in the making at Banff, Lake O'Hara and Montreal. Stars of the picture are Raymond Massey, Elizabeth Bergner, and Leslie Howard, but to his friends and most C.P.R. folk in the west Smoky Shaw is the real one. He has been loaned to the film company at the request of the director, Michael Powell, for the shooting of all the railroad sequences. Smoky now resides at Medicine Hat, Alta. —C.P.R. Photo.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent the sharp points of feathers or pine needles from working through the covers of cushions or pillows?

A. This can be prevented, when filling cushions or pillows, if the wrong side of the material is rubbed thoroughly with beeswax.

Q. How can I make a good cement for mending broken china?

A. Stir some plaster of Paris into the beaten white of an egg, to the consistency of paste.

Q. How can I destroy perspiration odor on the body?

A. Bathe in a basin of warm water, to which has been added two tablespoons of compound spirit of ammonia. This will leave the skin clean and fresh.

Q. How can I prevent circles from forming, and also remove the odor, after cleaning a fabric with gasoline?

A. After cleaning with the gasoline, put about one-third part vinegar into the water with which the cloth is dampened before ironing. This will prevent any circles from forming and will remove the gasoline scent.

Q. How can I deodorize gasoline?

A. Add five or six drops of oil of sassafras to each quart of gasoline used.

Tourists May Visit Commons

Rules Are Imposed; Caution Is Exercised in Tourist Calls

Toursits and other visitors have not been denied admission to the Parliament Buildings but certain restrictions have been imposed, Speaker James Glen told the House of Commons last week. He described reports to the effect all visitors were barred as incorrect.

"Instructions have been given that where visitors desire to enter the building they do so if accompanied by some person who is responsible, who is well-known or who holds a responsible position," said the Speaker.

MUST BE ACCOMPANIED

Cases have arisen, he said, where members of parties of visitors being shown about the building by guides became seperated from the parties and disappeared. In view of conditions and the fact that the previous building had been lost by fire in the first Great War this could not be permitted.

Accordingly, all visitors would have to be accompanied by some person known to the officials, who would be responsible for them. It was necessary that members of the protective staff know where all persons admitted to the building were.

The Speaker also asked the cooperation of members of Parliament.

Cornwall's Most Radio-Conscious

Cornwall, youngest city of the Dominion, holds the title of being more radio conscious than any other city or town in Canada with a population of 5,000 or more, according to statistics issued at Ottawa by the radio division of the transport department.

In Cornwall, licenses issued during the last fiscal year averaged 369 per 1,000 of population. Cornwall also led all other communities in the fiscal years of 1936-37 and 1937-38.

Love Notes to Gold Are Found In Pianos

O. W. Haines, a Los Angeles piano tuner observing his sixty-first birthday, estimated he had sweetened more than 6,000,000 sour notes. He added:

"I have found in pianos everything from love letters to false teeth, from salt shakers to $500 in $20 gold pieces."

Q. When you are going to have a guest who is very careless about ashes and cigarette ends, is it all right to ask this guest to be careful?

A. If this guest MUST be invited, in spite of causing you such uneasiness, the only thing to do is to place ash trays in every possible place where he may sit.

Q. When a girl and her escort enter a restaurant together, shouldn't the girl go first?

A. Yes; the girl should follow the waiter to the table, her escort last.

Q. What is the symbolism of zinnias?

A. Thoughts of absent friends.

Q. When a young woman's best girl friend is soon leaving for a month's vacation, what is the best way to show friendship?

A. It would be nice to give her a gift that you know will be nice for her trip. Or you might give her a party before she leaves.

Q. Doesn't it show poor taste for a person to attempt to display his knowledge on any particular subject, when with others?

A. Yes, We always find that the ablest person is the simplest and most modest.

Q. How should a girl introduce her escort to another girl?

A. "Edith, this is Edward Carter — Edith Hall."

HEALTH TOPICS

Watch Sunburn

Watch that sunburn, advised the Health League of Canada, in a recent bulletin.

Sunlight is necessary to vigorous health, and so are eggs, meat, milk and cheese. But after being deprived of direct sunlight on the greater part of the skin for many months, one should no more expose himself to hours of direct sunlight than he should indulge in a banquet of a dozen eggs, half a bullock, a gallon of milk and an entire cheese at one sitting.

The Health League advises that tan is becoming, but it should be acquired gradually. Sun-baths also should not exceed ten minutes for the first time. An additional five minutes might be added to subsequent sunnings.

Long and unaccustomed exposure to hot sun rays is likely to result in severe burns,, and these may be as deep and dangerous as burns received in other ways.

· HAVE · YOU HEARD?

The tailor was selling his best friend a new suit. He was raving about the garment.

"I'm telling you, Harry," he said, "that even your best friend won't recognize you in that suit! Just take a walk outside for a minute and get the feel of the garment."

Harry went out and returned a moment later. The proprietor rushed up to him with a happy smile. "Good morning, stranger," he beamed. "What can I do for you?"

First Farmer: "It is a bad season — my corn is hardly an inch high."

Second Farmer: "That is nothing — the sparrows have to kneel to eat mine."

The manager of an Aberdeen firm called the bookkeeper into his office.

"Macpherson," he said, "the accountant is leaving, and I'm gaun tae gie you his job."

The young bookkeeper's face lit up with expectation.

"Thank you, sir," he relied. "And what will my salary be now?"

The manager shook his head.

"The same as you're gettin', but ye'll ha'e a hat-peg to yersel now," he replied.

A new summer cottage was named "The Nutshell." It bore its name only a fortnight because the owner became exasperated by boys who called nearly every day to ask: "Is the Colonel in?"

Little James, aged four, was at the piano and doing his best to reach the keys at the same time he operated the pedals, just as he had seen his mother do. After many efforts he cried out in disgust, "I can play the keys all right, but I can't reach the gas."

Angry Customer "These eggs are not fresh."

Grocer: "Not fresh? Well, sir the boy only brought them from the country this morning."

Customer: "What country?"

At the end of the first week away from home on a new job the young husband wrote to his wife.

"Made foreman — feather in my cap."

After the second week he wrote: "Made manager — another feather in my cap."

But after the third week he wired: "Sacked — send money."

His wife telegraphed back: "Use feathers. Fly home."

Burma Highway Is Like Movie Dream

Threads Way Through The Snow-Capped Hills and Rice Fields

The Burma Road, which Great Britain has agreed to close to halt a flow of war supplies to the Chinese Central Government, is a highway which might have been conceived by a Hollywood director and executed by the Pharahos of ancient Egypt.

It is a vital part of the 2,000-mile long trade route from Burma's seaport of Rangoon to the Yangtse river, connecting the Burmese railroad at Lashio with Kunming (formerly called Yunnanfu), the capital of Yunnnan Province.

Work on the most difficult stretch of the great new road, between the Burma border and Kunming, was not started until the fall of 1937, when military exigencies caused the British authorities to cut through a freight route to British Asia to ship products to regions cut off by the Japanese occupation of Pacific ports.

The Hollywood setting is provided by sparsely settled regions of snowcapped mountains and ricebordered plateau lakes, tropical jungles of bamboo and teakwood, and forests of towering evergreens where bands of gibbons scream in the shadows and strange birds chatter and sing.

The suggestion of ancient Egyptian methods of construction is inescapable. Most of the construction was done by hand by thousands of men, women and children with only a few crude tools.

Canada's Making Wild Life Survey

Dominion Government Is Sponsoring A Study of the Fur-Bearing Population of Our Country

Many of Canada's valuable fur-bearing animals are subject to a marked fluctuation in numbers, according to the Department of Mines and Resources which, with the assistance of the Bureau of Animal Population, Oxford University, and the Hudson's Bay Company, is making a study of wild life populations.

This survey takes the form of an annual questionnaire distributed to resident traders, trappers, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and officers of government departments stationed in the Northwest Territories. The investigation is carried on from year to year because the situation is changing continually and it is hoped that the work will produce data from which a forecast can be made relating to the expected abundance of each important species.

The results of the study may also suggest measures to prevent unnecessary depletion of any species of wild life during the periods of scarcity.

What Science Is Doing

NEW VITAMIN M

Discovery of a new vitamin M, affecting the number of red and white cells in the blood, has been announced by Dr. Paul L. Day of the University of Arkansas. Liver is the chief source of the vitamin, according to Dr. Day, who is now studying other meats as possible sources.

HEAT OF CIGARETTE

Every puff of a cigarette generates heat of 1,375 degrees Fahrenheit, engineers of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company recently discovered in demonstrating an optical pyrometer used to measure the heat of gases and metals by their colors.

SKIN RESISTS INFECTION

Within an hour after dangerous bacteria enter a scratch, the skin all over the body becomes resistant to those same germs.

This discovery of natural resistance to infection, made in tests on rabbits was reported last week in Science, journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The germs were streptococci and staphylococci. Both cause bad infections and diseases.

CAN SPOT CAMOUFLAGE

Prof. George B. Riggs, last week peered through his green eyeshade visor. Green trees and plants appeared red. But when he gazed out through the same green vizor at a green-painted bench or fence, they retained their natural appearance.

So, Prof. Riggs disclosed, he believes he stumbled onto the basic principle of a goggle which might permit aerial observers to spot camouflaged gun emplacements.

Prof. Riggs, botanist at the University of Washington oceanographic laboratories, said he believed the distinction between natural and green-painted objects was due to the chlorophyll (green coloring material in growing plants) giving off a reddish florescence when viewed throuh the special goggle lens.

Behavior During Electric Storms

Advice to Golfers, Swimmers, Housewives on How to Escape Being Struck by Lightning

Some "don'ts" for in-and-out-of-door behavior during lightning storms have been suggested by Dr. Karl B. McEachron, head of the General Electric Company's high-voltage engineering laboratory at Pittsfield, Mass.

Golfers, several of whom were killed last summer when they took shelter under trees, are warned to remain in the open during an electric storm and not to hold on to the clubs. Swimmers are warned to stay out of the water until the storm passes.

STAY AWAY FROM PIANO

Housewives need not stop using their needles during a storm, but should not use their electric sewing machines. It is best to stay away from the piano and to postpone the bath as long as the lightning is flashing.

To those who still may believe that lightning never strikes twice in the same place, Dr. McEachron reveals that the Empire State Building in New York City is struck forty or fifty times a year.

Morrisburg Boy Strokes to Victory At Canadian Henley

Eric Roy, former resident of Morrisburg, and now living in Hamilton, brought victory to himself and crew by stroking the Leander junior heavy eight to a Canadian title at the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, which was held last week on the placid waters of the old Welland Canal at Port Dalhousie.

Toronto Argos had beaten Leanders in one of Thursday's heats and were favoured to repeat in the final. Friday's race was a battle from the start, however, the Hamiltonians gaining the lead at the start by upping their stroke to forty. Once ahead they eased off, but had enough left to stand off Argo's powerful finishing drive. Overlooked entirely by the experts, the locals scored a smashing victory after one of the most gruelling stretch drives seen in years.

Leanders won by three- quarters of a length, with Detroit finishing 3rd, outclassed by both Canadian crews.

The winning crew was composed of Lee Munroe, cox, Eric Roy, stroke, and Henry Ashworth, Toar Steinmetz, Gordon Ramey, Bill Chillman, Ken Pirie, Sid Cox and Fred Weise, bow.

Coming from a family of well-known athletes and sportsmen, the famous Mallen brothers of hockey and golf fame, Eric is keeping up the reputation of bringing home honours as an oarsman. He is well known here, having taken part in several track meets in this district while attending the local Collegiate. Eric is a former member of the Brockville Rowing Club, and it was there that he got his start towards his first Canadian title.

Red Cross Excursion On "Rapids Prince"

Mr. George D. Howith announces that the Chamber of Commerce has completed all local arrangements for the excursion to be held next Monday August 5th by the Iroquois Red Cross Society.

The S.S. Rapid's Prince, palatial liner of the Canada Steamship Lines, will load at Morrisburg in the lock at the end of Lock and Union Streets, on Riverside Drive at 12 noon, standard time. The trip will be up the canal, touching Iroquois to load passengers at 1 p. m., at Cardinal at 1.-45 and at Prescott at 2.45. She will then proceed to the Thousand Islands above Brockville, and come down on the outside, shooting all the rapids to Morrisburg, where she will land again in the canal lock at 6.30 or 7 o'clock.

This enjoyable trip will be made for $1.00 per person. The Morrisburg Boys' Band will be in attendance and Mr. Howith has arranged that they will be the guests of the Canada Steamship Lines. Arrangements have been made also that tickets being sold in Morrisburg and vicinity under the Boys' Band sponsorship with the Lions Club helping with the Boys' Band fund towards completion of the Band stand and uniforms will receive 25 per cent of the gross Morrisburg sale of tickets.

Dancing will be enjoyed on board ship on this trip and refreshments will be served on board by the Iroquois Red Cross Society.

THE FRONT OF STEEL

"THE FRONT OF STEEL", fourth in the series of films made by the National Film Board in co-operation with the Director of Public Information is being released in Canadian theatres this week.

The film describes for the first time in Canada, the full implications of modern war, and what Canada is doing to meet the challenge of blitzkreig.

It shows what blitzkreig is and how its technique was developed in Germany during the six years of Nazi rule before war broke out. In brilliant pictures never before shown in Canada, one sees the materials and tactics of mechanized war, the armoured divisions in all their strength and precision, new methods of army co-operation, newly-developed light and heavy tanks, new devices like flame throwers and new bodies of men like parachutists in full fighting kit.

The real story of the film is what lies behind this wall of fire and steel. The most important single fact upon which depends our whole capacity to meet the new challenge is the skill of the industrial worker at his machine. The picture shows the way in which Britain and Canada have organized themselves to carry on total war and how they are pitting their industrial might and their resources against those of Germany. The story is told of the concentration of Canada's power to this end, the conversion of industries from peace time to war time needs, the intensification of effort all along the line to turn out more engines, more tanks, more guns, more ships, more shells, more planes. It is the story of what total war means to every worker in Canada.

10 DON'TS FOR SWIMMERS

The large number of young people and older people as well, who annually lose their lives by drowning is causing increasing concern to authorities. They are asking the public to pay close attention to the following 10 'dont's', when in or near the water.

Don't use an inner tube to learn to swim. It may slip away from you —and leave you in deep water.

Don't use rafts. They may carry you beyond yor depth.

Don't try to swim after a ball, or other floating object. The wind can blow it faster than you can swim.

Don't climb out on rock piers or docks. You may slip on the moss covered rocks and break your arm or leg.

Don't dive into water before investigating. Some day you may hit your head on sunken logs or rocks, and break your neck.

Don't go swimming alone . Even a good swimmer may get a cramp.

Don't get into a canoe unless with an experienced boatman and swimmer. Never stand up, change your seat or try to dress in a canoe.

Don't cry out for help unless you mean it. Some day you may need help and people will think you are clown-inf.

Don't go swimming immediately after a meal. At least an hour is necessary to allow your digestive organs to complete their task.

..Don't tamper with livesaving equipment on beaches.

NATIONAL STOCK TAKING NEEDS NATIONAL REGISTRATION

WHERE TO REGISTER

Registration offices are being set up by electoral districts in the same manner as in the last Dominion election.

Registrants are required to register in the regular polling subdivisions of their own constituencies. But should a registrant be in some other province or district out of the regular polling subdivision on Registration Days, he or she may register at any registration office convenient, upon satisfactory explanation to the local deputy registrar.

Your Registration Certificate

To every person answering the questionnaire fully and satisfactorily a certificate of registration will be issued by the local deputy registrar. This is a small card which must be carried on the person at all times.

Penalty for Non-Registration — Failure to register will make any male or female, married or single, over the age of 16 years, liable to a fine not exceeding Two hundred dollars, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding Three months, or to both such fine and imprisonment, and moreover to a further penalty not exceeding Ten dollars for each day, after the day upon which he should have registered, during which he shall continue to be unregistered.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away on August 2nd, 1939.

I cannot say, and I will not say,
That he is dead, he is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land.
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since he lingers there
And you, oh you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of here.
Think of him still as the same, I say
He is not dead, he is just away.

Rev. Knowles Leaves Iroquois

Rev. Thos. Knowles, Pastor of the Iroquois United church, bid goodbye last Sunday to the congregation, among whom he had labored for the past twelve years.

Mr. Knowles and his wife were the recipients of many gifts and expressions of good wishes for them in their new field of labour at Huntingdon Que.

Mr. Knowles said that it was his earnest desire to return some day to Iroquois to spend the remaining days of his life quietly among the people whom he had come to know and love.

Lawrence Whitteker

Brinston, Ont.— Lawrence Whitteker, a highly-esteemed resident of this district died at his home early Friday morning, July 26th. He was born at Dundela, and was in his 79th year.

He had been seriously ill during the past winter, but had rallied and was about as usual until six days ago.

Left to mourn him are three daughters, Mrs. Roy Barkley, Williamsburg, Mrs. Glenn Baker, Winchester Springs, Mildred at home; one son, Mahlon, at home; and 13 grandchildren; also two brothers and two sisters, Levi of Williamsburg, Will, of Dundela, Dora, of Dundela, and Mrs. William Beckstead of Froatburn. His wife predeceased him 33 years ago.

The funeral was held from his late residence at 2 p.m. Saturday. Service was conducted by his Pastor, Rev. C. R. Cronmiller and burial was made in Williamsburg Cemetery.

MR JUSTICE H. E. ROSE FIRST TO LOAN RIFLE

TORONTO, Aug. 1—(C.P.)— During the first Great War, Chief Justice Hugh E. ose was a member of a home defence rifle club. Today he turned in his rifle, a Ross service weapon.

He loaned the rifle for use of the newly recruited civil guard which has been raised to protect Ontaro from saboteurs and fifth columnists, the first weapon received by provincial authorities in their projected appeal for firearms for the guards.

Next Tuesday, Attorney-General Gordon Conant will make a formal appeal for 10,000 rifles and 12-gauge shotguns. The weapons will be collected and kept under strict guard by Ontario provincial police at various posts throughout the province.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Lawrence Whitteker wish to thank their friends and neighbours for the many acts of kindness and words of sympathy at the time of the death of their father. 31p

THE WAR-WEEK—Commentary on Current Events

Britain Scorns Hitler Peace; "Die Cast", Declares Berlin

Adolf Hitler's failure last week to induce Britain to accept his "final" peace offer left him with but one alternative — to make good his threat to "annihilate" England, at whatever cost to Germany.

But as the zero hour approached, in the war's forty-fifth week, it was still a matter of guesswork how Hitler would go about breaking the power of Britain. Would he attempt it through a wholesale invasion of the British Isles? Or would he try to bring the country to its knees by pulverizing it with mass air attacks, at the same time imposing a starvation blockade by destruction of British shipping?

DOUBLE-HEADER ASSAULT

Would the attack on Britain be coupled with a simultaneous blow in the Mediterranean? Many experts last week expressed that belief. The Battle of Britain could not be a simple, straightforward affair. The conflict would have to be divided into two interlocking phases—the direct German assault on England, and the Battle of the Mediterranean (Mussolini's affair) — for from the Axis standpoint, Britain's hold on the Mediterranean would have to be broken before victory could be achieved.

One factor during the week was seen as likely to postpone the new German offensive for the time being, and that was the situation in the Balkans. Russia's thrusting of a finger into the Rumanian political pot at a moment so inopportune to Germany might be causing Hitler serious worry and giving him occasion for pause.

THE ANSWER

BRITAIN: Britain's answer to Hitler's "last chance" peace proposal came promptly, in the deeds of British air forces blasting anew at German targets; in the staggering new war budget which demanded that Britain give up almost 70 per cent of the national income to finance the war; and in the words of Viscount Halifax, British Foreign Minister, reaffirming the will to fight on.

During the week, the Government announced its formal recognition of the Czecho-Slovak National Committee in Exile, headed by former Czech President Dr. Eduard Benes, as the legal government of the German-held nation ..... Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that he did not believe in the exodus of children to Canada and the United States; he thought the movement entirely unwarranted . . . the Admiralty announced the loss of the famous submarine "Salmon" (which sighted the "Bremen" last December) . . . German air attacks covered practically the whole island, ranging from Scotland to the Channel and from the North Sea to the Irish Sea. Aircraft and munitions factories were bombed, railroads and other communications, troop concentrations, coastal defense works, port facilities . . .

TO GERMANY VIA SPAIN

SPAIN: Britain's second biggest worry of the week, next to actual invasion, was the Spanish situation. General Franco had just finished declaring that it was his duty to fulfill the desire of Queen Isabella and return Gibraltar to Spain, and that he had an army of 2,000,000 men ready to back up his contention. It was anticipated that he would make a move against the Rock, aided by German guns across the Bay from Gibraltar (which had been there since the time of the Spanish Civil War) . . . American citizens returning on the liner "Manhattan" reported German soldiers overrunning Spain.

SPAIN AND THE AXIS

By last week everybody knew that Germany was getting oil supplies from the western hemisphere via Spain. The moment appeared to be at hand when Britain would have to clamp down with a blockade through which Spain would be permitted to receive only such imports as are not classified as contraband. Such a move, necessary since British victory depends to a great extent on the ability to prevent Germany from receiving essential supplies from the western world, might draw Spain into the war on the side of the Axis powers.

* * *

FRANCE: The Fascist regime of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain last week ordered the arrest and trial of former high French Government leaders, including ex-Premier Edouard Daladier, because of their roles in "declaring and continuing the war" against Germany. The trial will be part of a new "domestic moral purge" of France by Petain's new authoritarian regime. At the same time all Frenchmen, including Daladier, who fled from France after May 10, were ordered deprived of citizenship, their property and fortunes to be confiscated . . .

DOESN'T FEAR GERMANY

RUSSIA: Comforting word came from Moscow last week. Through diplomatic channels Josef V. Stalin informed Great Britain that Russia will keep out of the European war and sees no reason to fear German domination of Europe, reliable sources disclosed. The Russian leader was reported to have said that the possibility of German domination of Europe presented no problem for Russia, because he refused to believe it would come about.

According to indications, last week Russia was following up the incorporation of the three Baltic States (Lithuania, Latvia and Esthonia) into the Soviet Union with efforts to arrive at further clarification of her relations with Finland . . . Better feeling between Russia and Turkey was evidenced when the Turkish press made a clear-cut proposal for an alliance with Russia . . .

TOWARD THE AXIS

BALKANS: A pro-Axis trend among the small countries of southeastern Europe was evident in many quarters last week. Rumania, which had been going more and more pro-Nazi for some time past, moved to confiscate the largest British oil company in Rumania; sent some of its chief ministers to confer with Ribbentrop on Balkan politics. To Berlin went Bulgarian government representatives, hoping to gain back the Dobruja from Rumania with the blessing of Hitler. Hungary appeared to think that Germany would shortly help her get part of Transylvania from Rumania. Would Germany seek to "strengthen" the Balkans by a peaceful settlement now, of these revisionist claims?

Curiously enough, the only country which seemed ready to support Rumania against the claims of Hungary was Soviet Russia . . . In the Rumanian capital, Russian quarters indicated they felt the Soviet had become a Balkan power since acquisition of Bessarabia and therefore expected to be consulted on further political or economic plans involving Balkan countries; while rumors ran that Russia had sent a note to Rumania stressing the desirability of a "popular government" at Bucharest. . . .

CHINA WON'T QUIT

FAR EAST: The closing of the Burma Road and the Hong Kong route into China left Chiang-kai-shek's Central Chinese government with but one hope of securing supplies from the outside world—over the Old Silk Road threading up through the inaccessible, unknown Northwest into Russia. Nevertheless, undaunted, Generalissimo Chiang declared that the far eastern war would not be shortened by the closing-off of those two important arteries. "No third power can shake China's determination to resist until her territorial and sovereign integrity is attained," Chiang asserted.

SHARING THE WORLD

In Japan, the minister of home affairs in the new Konoye government said: "We cannot doubt that the day soon will come when Japan can share the world with Germany and Italy." But otherwise the new regime appeared to be proceeding cautiously in all fields. Prince Konoye in a radio address to the nation declared that the government would assiduously keep open the door for the closest relations with Germany, Italy and Russia but would not close it against any friendly overtures that might be made by the U. S. and Britain.

From this same address diplomats drew the conclusion that in the domestic field there would be a gradual intensification of the trend toward totalitarianism, without any immediate drastic steps. The Japanese Government appeared to realize that, in the end, it will stand or fall on general public opinion and hence will not follow blindly any line of action recommended by the extreme militarists. (One thing the Government knows without shadow of doubt and that is that the people want the China war stopped as soon as possible, and will concentrate every effort to that end).

NEW DEAL IS DOMINANT

UNITED STATES: With the acceptance by President Roosevelt of a third-term nomination and the naming of Henry A. Wallace as his running-mate, the New Deal came back into control of the Democratic Party in the United States, says the Christian Science Monitor. Seven years after Mr. Roosevelt took office, it is his men who are in important managerial positions and his lieutenants who guided the Democratic convention and will guide the election campaign. Those who lost control of the Party were James A. Farley, Vice-President Garner and certain Senators with Republican leanings.

Next in interest to the American public last week was the conference in Havana on Pan-American Defense attended by the Foreign Ministers of the 21 American republics (Canada ostensibly was not invited). Principal problems on the agenda were economic and military defense of the western hemisphere and disposition of European-owned New World colonies. Under fire even before the conference were several proposals, chief among them the U. S.-sponsored trade-cartel plan for this whole hemisphere; and Cuba's strong suggestion that a Pan-American protectorate be established over all foreign-owned islands off North or South America. Disruptive forces were at work at the conference, and touches of the Nazi hand were seen in more than one diplomatic manoeuvre on the part of the Latin-American republics.

U.S. CONSCRIPTION PROGRAM

In Washington, the U. S. Justice and State Departments announced changes in immigration regulations to facilitate entry of "child guests" from abroad under 16 years . . . the Department of Justice ruled that United States citizens in Great Britain could enlist in the Royal Air Force without losing their citizenship, providing they did not take the British oath of allegiance . . . the National Defence Advisory Commission reported that the country had obtained or will obtain all the supplies necessary for America's armament program . . the Senate Military Committee approved a revised bill providing for registration of 42,000,000 men, of whom 1,500,000 would be drafted in the first year. It was the first peace-time compulsory military training program in the history of the United States . . .

CANADA: The war, unemployment insurance, the grain problem. Each of these would be enough to keep the Parliament of Canada going for a whole session. But last week, the hottest and most uncomfortable of the summer, the House had to deal with all three.

Opposition to the passing of the bill providing for unemployment insurance continued to accumulate. Unanimously approved in principle when it came before the House for second reading, strong pressure against it was applied in special committee by representatives of the Canadian Manufacturers Association. It was also expected to be opposed in the Senate, but labor groups were all for the measure.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT WHEAT

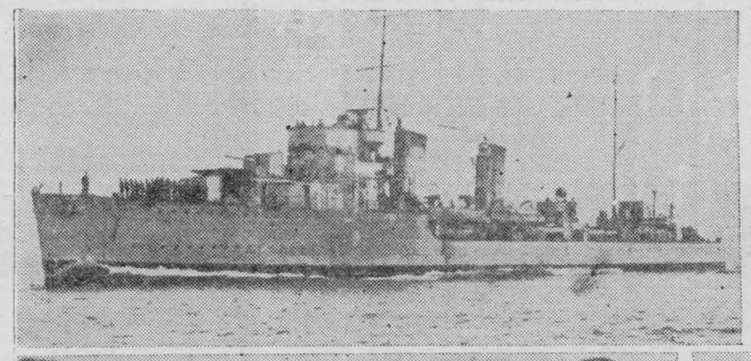

Three prairie wheat pools last week made several suggestions to Federal authorities on how to relieve the anticipated storage congestion when delivery of this summer's prairie grain harvest starts The four main points submitted by the pool organizations to the Government were: That the Canadian Wheat Board should handle all the wheat; that some method be worked out for financing wheat stored on the farm; that farmers be protected against past indebtedness as present prices are too low to leave any surplus after paying current taxes and family living expenses; that a domestic price be set for wheat which could be used to meet all or a portion of the Government's loss on wheat when the final was less than the initial price.

PUBLICITY FROM HITLER

An army shake-up took place in the Dominion last week which saw younger men placed in top positions. The new key man of the army in Canada is now Major-General H. D. G. Crerar, chief of the general staff . . . Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of war services, and Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, minster of national defense for naval services, were both added to the war committee of the Cabinet . . .

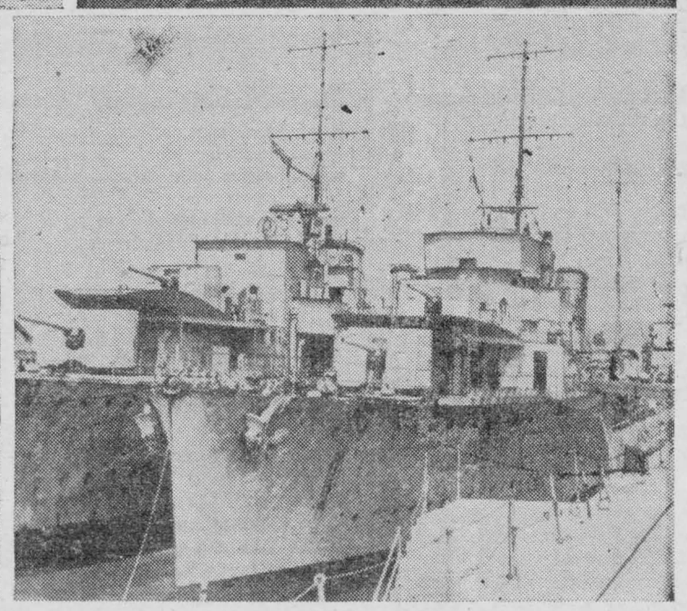

Canada achieved public mention in a new quarter last week: Hitler referred to the Dominion in two different passages of his "last-chance-for peace" speech. He spoke of British leaders carrying on the war from Canada should Britain itself be conquered by Germany . . .

Royal Canadian Navy On Active Service In British Waters

These pictures of the Royal Canadian Navy were taken in British waters where units of the Canadian naval forces have already distinguished themselves in action and have suffered a grievous loss in the sinking of the destroyer Fraser. H.M.C.S. Skeena, first Canadian ship to arrive in English waters, is pictured TOP LEFT, and LOWER RIGHT two of the Canadian warships are shown tied to a dock in an English port. The Canadian officers at TOP RIGHT are Lt.-Comm. H. G. DeWolf, Lt.-Comm. H. N. Lay and Lt.-Comm. J. C. Hibberd. Some of the brawny Canadian tars manning the ships are pictured LOWER LEFT as they went ashore on a brief leave. The pictures were released by the British ministry of information.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SALLY BLAIR — heroine. She had everything that popularity could win her, except

DAN REYNOLDS — hero. He might have had Sally but while he was on skis

COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So . . . But go on with the story.

Last week: Dan sends a short farewell letter to Sally, whose heart is now broken completely, irreparably.

CHAPTER XX

"Sally, my sweet," Corey Porter said, for the hundredth time, "I do not see why you won't give in. You know you are going to marry me one of these days. Why won't you admit that you are? Why do you make me keep on telling you, my love?"

This was three months since Dan Reynolds had gone away. Three months during which Sally had had no other word from him, except that one farewell letter which she still kept locked in her jewel case. And three months during which the weight on Sally's heart had not grown much lighter.

"There isn't any reason why you can't marry me, is there?" Corey persisted. For Corey was a most persistent young man. He had just showered Sally with persistency all during these past three months. He had sent her flowers and candy, books and perfume; he had squired her around, escorted her to all the gay spots, courted her in a way that would have won any girl's heart. Except Sally's which was broken.

"No, there isn't any reason," Sally answered. Truthfully. There really was not. For now Sally knew, after these three long months of heartache, that Dan would never come back. She had waited, all this while, still hoping that he might, in spite of that letter locked in her jewel case.

"Then why don't you name the day?" Corey persisted further. This was on their way home from a football game, in which Dartmouth had scored a triumphant victory over Cornell. They had stopped at a favorite inn for coffee and sandwiches and to get warmed before the long drive back.

* * *

MIGHT AS WELL FORGET

Why didn't she? Sally wondered, looking at Corey. He had been very good to her, very patient — for Corey. He was a young man any girl might well want to marry. So blond and easy to look at, so gay and glamorous, so much a part of the luxurious easy world that Sally always had known. The world that Dan had despised, from which he had run away.

There was no use now in hoping that Dan would ever return. She might as well forget him! She might as well destroy the letter that was the one thing she had left of him. She might as well mend her broken heart as best she could.

Yet she could not bring herself to say the words that might do that, the words that Corey wanted her to say. She supposed she would say them some time. It was very difficult to hold out against such persistency as Corey's. And Sally was so awfully tired, so weary — perhaps because of that dull ache that pressed against her heart.

"I've got something for you," Corey said now, his blue eyes looking into hers across the intimate little table. "Since you admitted there's no reason why you shouldn't accept it, my sweet, I want to give it to you today." He put his hand in an inside pocket, drew forth a tiny square box. He had been carrying that box for a long time, waiting for just such a moment. He felt the moment had come.

The inn was practically deserted, except for a few scattered couples. The lights were low, the room warm and cozy, the gypsy orchestra was murmuring a love song.

HE WOULDN'T GIVE UP

Corey opened the box, took something from it, reached across for Sally's hand. Before she could stop him he had slipped a ring on her third finger, a square-cut diamond that sparkled up at her in a blaze of challenging brilliance.

"Oh, but Corey — you shouldn't! I can't!" Sally's lovely face was distressed, flushing becomingly in the soft rosy light. Corey had had no right to purchase a ring, to put it on her finger, when she had not given him any reason to think she could accept it. But it was like him to do it in just that way, refusing to admit that she could do anything but accept it. Corey who always won in the end.

"Why shouldn't I? Why can't you wear it?" His challenge matched that of the sparkling stone. "Don't take it off, Sally. Wear it — until you make up your mind, anyway."

"But I can't make up my mind," Sally said, sadly.

"Then let me do it for you!" and Corey's smile was triumphant. He caught both her hands in his, and crushed them so that the new ring pressed into her soft skin, hurting it, even as Sally's heart, fluttering in uncertainty, ached.

She might as well let him do that. She knew Corey would not give up until he had won. She liked Corey, more than any other friend. She could not hope to find any other so faithful, so persistent. Anyone else who would make up her mind for her.

It's time, Sally told herself, that she stopped thinking of Dan, hoping that he might some day come back. He never would. He did not want to live in her world. He had not asked her to go with him to live in his. He had told her that she was not the sort of girl he wanted.

WHY NOT?

During these long months those words had been in back of every thought that Sally had had. They had wounded her at first, but gradually they had begun to hurt in a different way. They taunted her, they stung her pride, they stirred her to rebellion and on toward anger. She knew, though he had not told her, that that was what Dan, writing them, had meant they should do. He had meant to hurt her, deliberately. He had meant to arouse her anger, to make her come to despise him for them. He had wanted her to put him out of her world, forever.

Sally did not take off the ring. After she withdrew her hands from Corey's firm clasp, she left it where he had placed it. It was a very beautiful ring. The kind of ring that a girl like Sally should wear.

She laughed shortly, thinking of that. She said, "Why not?" And the light in her dark eyes was dangerously bright, as long ago it often had been. Perhaps in that instant the old Sally Blair, Queen of the carnival, party and glamor girl, came back. The Sally that that other girl, who had loved Dan Reynolds, had tried so hard to kill.

"You mean you'll wear it?" Corey asked. He had known that he could win her in time. Yet somehow, maybe because of something else that lay behind the brightness in Sally's dark eyes, his high moment of triumph held a tinge of remorse.

Or, maybe, in spite of being what he could not help being, Corey Porter had enough decency and goodness in him to have to experience that one moment, at least, of self contempt and reproach.

Sally nodded. What difference did it make whether she wore Corey's ring or not? What did anything matter in her gay, glamorous world? She had not succeeded in killing Sally Blair, but she could kill that other one, the one who had been Dan's friend, the girl he had believed in.

Oh, she promised herself grimly, perhaps to cover up the ache in her breast, she would begin, right now, to do a very good job of that!

Being Fat Just State of Mind

Alfred Hitchcock, Famed British Movie Director Decries Mental Anguish Occasioned By Reducing Diet

Being fat is just a state of mind, and losing weight is mainly a mental process, says one of the world's most famous fat men, Alfred Hitchcock, the British movie director.

Three months ago, Hitchcock weighed 292 pounds. He now weighs 250 pounds. And he hopes in a year to be down to a neat 180.

He has accomplished this by dieting—by eschewing two of his three huge meals a day and by cutting the third meal down to a meagre normal size.

LOSING WEIGHT, MENTAL PROCESS

But it isn't the lack of food that has taken three inches off his waistline he insists. It's the mental anguish, the constant consciousness of the food he's missing.

"It works," he says, "the same way cooks get fat. It's mental. People say, "Oh, they're always tasting thngs . . .' But that isn't the reason. You can't 'taste' a steak you're preparing for somebody else, can you?"

CONSCIOUS OF LACK

"Hitch" is as famous for his food as for his unusual pictures such as "The 39 Steps," based on the book by the late Baron Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada. It is said that before he was getting $800,000 for five picures in Hollywood, he would ofter borrow a pound (then $5) and spent it all on a lunch.

Handy Hints

When your light-colored leather gloves show signs of grubbiness, put them on and rub gently with a perfectly clean cloth dipped in a white shoe cream. Look after your husband's felt hat; slight surface spots can be removed easily and at once by rubbing gently with fine sandpaper. If baby's pram or cot blanket gets worn, cut out funny animals from colored wool material or from felt, and applique them over the worn parts; baby will bless you and the blanket will last longer and look smart.

Never throw away orange peel; dry it in the oven, put into a net bag and hang it in the wardrobe to keep moths away. When stewing fruit, add a few dates stoned and cut up, and stew them along with the fruit; use only two-thirds the normal amount of sugar for sweetening the fruit then. Look around you, you country readers, and help yourself to nature's vegetables. Young stinging-nettles (pick them in leather gloves, mind!) cooked like spinach and served with a dollop of butter on top, will fool the family completely and will improve their complexions at the same time.

Autumn Fashions' Mannish Trend

South American Influence Is Also Expected to Continue

This is the nervous in-between season for the makers of women's clothes, a period when everybody watches everybody else, waiting to see which way fashion will jump.

With Paris not saying a word, clothng manufacturers are uncertain where to look for inspiration, says Amy Porter, fashion writer for The Associated Press.

SLIM LINES, FURS, PLAINNESS

The general outlines for fall are there—slim lines, rich furs and fabrics, an absence of fussy detail. But fashion still needs something to talk about, a shot in the arm for promotional purposes. Something like the hourglass corset or the up-hair do of other seasons.

Out of last spring's fashion trends, two seem likely to carry on into fall—the mannish trend and the South American trend.

AZTEC PRINTS

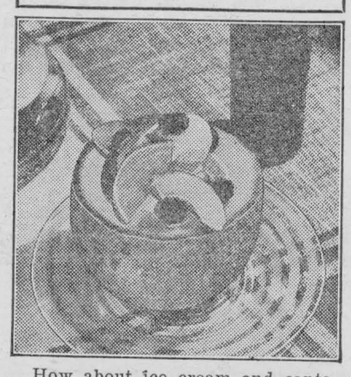

The mannish trend will be felt in college girl clothes—suits and sport things. Smith and Vassar started it by buying jackets in men's wear shops. Style scouts took notice, and this fall every college shop will offer boyish sack suits made up in masculine-looking tweeds.

The South American trend was strong early in the spring, faded for a while, and now is strong again. There are likely to be more and more tambourine hats, black lace shawls, sombreros, Aztec prints.

The Truth About Mother Hubbard

A long-forgotten manuscript identified by the Bodleian Library, Oxford, England, proves that Mother Hubbard, of nursery-rhyme fame, really did exist. Miss May Stubbington came across the original manuscript of the famous nursery rhyme while going over some old family papers. It was written in 1804 by Miss Sarah Martin, daughter of Sir Henry Martin, of Lockynge. So the rhyme, which is world-famous and thought by many to be centuries old is quite young. The inspiration of it was Mother Hubbard, housekeeper to the famous old West Country family of Bastard —whose present representative is Colonel Reginald Bastard, of Kitley, Devon. She had a dog she was fond of, and had gone to find it a bone when Miss Martin arrived. So the dog's unhappy dilemma was handed down to history!

Ice Cream and Cantaloupe

How about ice cream and cantaloupe for a porch supper during hot weather? Make it something special — cantaloupe a la mode, garnished with fresh peaches and blackberries for good measure.

The vanilla ice cream for which we are giving you the recipe is going to be one of the easiest, nicest and most economical you have ever made. Not too rich, but smooth and full-bodied. Made with only one part cream to three parts milk, which is one-third to one-sixth as much as most recipes call for — a feature that will delight your household budget and prove a boon to those of your family who love ice cream but find it too fattening. And using no eggs, so you can guess how simple it is. All this because it is a rennet-custard ice cream, and rennet has a way with milk, as you rennet-custard fans already know. But why should we tell you about it, when it's so easy to try it for yourselves?

Vanilla Ice Cream in Cantaloupe

2 rennet tablets
2 tablespoons cold water
3 cups milk
1 cup heavy cream
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon vanilla

Dissolve rennet tablets in cold water. Warm the milk, cream, sugar and flavoring to LUKE-WARM — not hot, stirring constantly. Remove from stove. Add dissolved tablets, stir a few seconds; pour immediately into freezer can and let set at room temperature until firm and cool. Freeze in ice and salt mixture, 4 parts ice to 1 part ice cream salt. Turn freezer about 10 minutes. Remove dasher. Repack with ice and salt and let set until ready to serve.

Serve in halves of thoroughly chilled cantaloupes, with a garnish of sugared sliced peaches and fresh blackberries. Serves 8.

WAR-TIME FOODS (Continued)

Last week I discussed the book "Food for Health" published by the Canadian Medical Association as a guide for all homemakers to prepare for their families meals having the necessary requirements for the body's needs but at a minimum cost.

Last week I gave you an outline suggesting menus for Breakfast and luncheon or supper and this week I should like to continue with the outline for dinner menus and then give you a few comments on the rest of the book's suggestions.

Dinner Menus

Soup (if desired) Clear, with or without vegetables.

Meat or fish-meat loaf, shepherd's pie, Irish stew, pot roast or scalloped pink salmon.

Potatoes, mashed, scalloped or baked.

A second vegetable, cabbage, carrots, turnips, canned tomatoes or fresh fruit in season.

Bread. Whole wheat or white with butter.

Dessert. Apple pie, baked rice pudding, tapioca custard, blanc mange or fruit in season, fresh or cooked.

Tea for adults, small glass of milk for children.

Change your meals from day to day, but make sure that during the week your family uses the amounts of the various foods in your list.

Food Costs: The food lists in this book are based on the following prices:

Food Costs: The food lists in this book are based on the following prices:

Food	Price	Unit
Milk	.12	Qt.
Cheese	.23	lb.
Butter	.29	lb.
Potatoes	.29	pk.
Green vegetables	.07	lb.
Root vegetables	.03	lb.
Tomatoes	.10	lb.
Dried vegetables	.09	lb.
Dried fruit	.11	lb.
Fresh fruit	.06	lb.
Meat or Fish	.16	lb.
Eggs "A" med.	.26	doz.
Bread	.09	loaf
Cereals	.05	lb.
Fats	.10	lb.
Sugar and Sweets	.08	lb.

Quart — 40 ounces
Bread — 24 ounces
Peck of Potatoes — 15 lbs.

As we told you last week the daily cost per adult was 26 cents a person; 24 cts. for 1 child. Below is the diet for one adult. I have just one criticism of the outline: I have been taught 1 pint of milk per day per adult and 1 qt. for each child was the minimum. "Food For Health" specifies a little less, but if your family is one which does not have tea and coffee regularly you perhaps could cut down and save on the miscellaneous list, which we outlined last week for you:

For 1 adult:

Food	Amt. per wk.
Milk	4 pts.
Cheese	¼ lb.
Butter	¾ lb.
	.50 per week
Potatoes	4 lbs.
Fresh vegetables	5 lbs.
Dried vegetables
Fresh Fruit	2 lbs.
Dried Fruit	½ lb.
	.50 per week
Meat or fish	1½ lbs.
Eggs	3
	.30 per week
Bread	2 loaves
Flour and Cereal	1 lb. .25 per week
Other foods and flavorings	.30 per week

Fashion Flashes

Soldier's blue woollen is featured for a one-piece dress with narrow waistband, which adds gold buttons. The buttons are worked in double file in the skirt —a treatment that is being much used for fall.

—o—

A three-piece suit, features the long-fitted jacket that buttons up to high club collar and has four patch pockets. The topcoat is a boxy one, the tweed fabric a blend of wools, said to feature camel hair.

—o—

As a college girl feature, the long Bahama shirt is much favored. It is a man's type of shirt-jacket of about knuckle-length, boxy and casual. It comes in flannel with contrasting flannel skirt. Simply tailored flannel jacket suits are highlighted too.

—o—

Pleats are nicely worked in groups to give fullness without much flare. A shirred tunnel for the belt is smartly used on one casual jersey dress with big pockets. Plain wool jerseys, corduroy with jersey, cashmere blend jersey, herringbone tweed and plaid wool mixtures are accented.

—o—

One-piece dresses form a group all their own, ranging from a simple shirtwaist style that buttons all the way down one side to a spectator dress in jersey with high collarless neckline, back buttons and below-elbow sleeves.

—o—

Off-centre closings lead fashion news in slim autumn dress coats.

Barbering Wife Saves Thousands

H. M. (Uncle Marion) Holland, 96 on July 27, and his 88-year-old wife, Pamelia (Aunt Meal), of Marion, Ky., have celebrated 73 wedding anniversaries and figure they have saved $2,700 because Uncle Marion didn't need to go to a barber shop.

Aunt Meal believes she's one of the best barbers of her age. "All through the years we had 'barbering day' and I could cut Mr. Holland's hair and shave him too," she said.
