Bucketful of awareness

It might be an Internet sensation and arguably fun to do, but the ALS ice bucket challenge has a lot more meaning for Winchester's Como family. Since he was diagnosed with ALS more than a year ago, Raymond Como's children and grandchildren decided to participate in the awareness-raising venture, calling out friends, family, and coworkers to help them raise money to find a cure for the fatal disease. The group gathered at the Como farm just outside Winchester Sat., Aug. 23, where Alyssa, Kathy, and Brittany Cooper, Brenda Como, Sandra Miskiman, Kaitlyn Lecours, Linda and Steve Johnston, Stacey Cumming, and Tyler Como were the willing victims of a backhoe bucket filled with ice water.

Byvelds eyes second term

by Sandy Casselman
Press staff

MORRISBURG – Municipality of South Dundas Mayor Steven Byvelds has officially entered the election race.

Having filed his nomination papers Mon., Aug. 25, Byvelds is now in a head-to-head battle with current Councillor Evonne Delegarde for the township's top spot in this fall's municipal election.

No stranger to politics, Byvelds has served his community as a member of council for close to eight years, with time spent previously as councillor and deputy-mayor. In addition, he has sat on the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry (SD&G)'s council for more than four years, and served as warden in 2011.

Bergeron sets stage for deputy-mayoral battle

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WINCHESTER – The race for deputy-mayor may well be the only one Township of North Dundas voters will see in this fall's municipal election.

To date, incumbent Mayor Eric Duncan is the lone candidate vying for the municipality's top spot, while Tony Fraser, Al Armstrong, and John Thompson are each seeking re-election as councillors.

It seemed likely Gerry Boyce would be reappointed as the township's second in command through acclamation, but that is not the case.

Former Nestlé property for sale

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WINCHESTER – The Township of North Dundas is hoping a buyer will breathe new life into the once booming Nestlé property in Chesterville.

It was announced Mon., Aug. 25 that the municipality will accept tenders until the end of September in its bid to rid the township of ownership of the sprawling area.

The plant closed in 2006, with its architectural remains having sat in a skeletal state since that time, a shadow of what was once booming industry in the village.

At one time, Nestlé was North Dundas' largest employer, and three hundred workers were sent into unemployment when the site was shuttered.

First opened in 1918 as the Maple Leaf Condensed Milk Company, the plant was incorporated with Nestlé four years later.

When the closure announcement was made in May 2005, the factory was operating at 45 per cent capacity, and had been for some time. Much of the in-house equipment required continued maintenance to remain functional.

This is the first attempt North Dundas has ever made for sale of the property. Complete tender information is listed on the township's website and in an advertisement in this edition.

The municipality has set the minimum tender amount at $482,337.54.

Since Nestlé's vacancy, only Illamar Marshalling made use of a portion of the property, crating building materials for hundreds of new social housing units throughout Nunavut. However, the firm eventually moved to the Iroquois area.

Dundas Manor shocker:

Third administrator in five years exits

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WINCHESTER – It has been an administrative position consistently in flux at both Dundas Manor and Winchester District Memorial Hospital (WDMH).

Last week, Joanne Sidorchuk exited as the village long-term care home's top staff member, and at the same time vacated her role as the medical facility's vice-president of seniors' services.

She was appointed to the dual position in July 2013.

When contacted by the Winchester Press, hospital CEO Cholly Boland said he is "not going to comment" on the reasons for Sidorchuk's departure.

Boland had overseen the senior role and administration of Dundas Manor following Karl Samuelsson's death in April 2012. Samuelsson was hired in 2011 as WDMH's first-ever vice-president of seniors' services, while also supervising operation of the long-term care home.

In August 2012, Bernard Bouchard took on the role, but was let go last year for what Boland described as "performance reasons."

Bergeron: Vying for North Dundas deputy-mayor position

Last week, Chesterville-area resident Theresa Bergeron changed her candidacy course, exiting the race for councillor and positioning herself to challenge for the deputy-mayor title.

"I would like to be part of the decision making, not only for the township, but for the counties," she said. "North Dundas needs an intelligent woman, a farmer, and a person with a business [mind] on council, and I qualify on all points."

Bergeron is known locally as a crusader against wind turbines, having stood in opposition of the Brinston-area South Branch Wind Farm, and cajoling North Dundas council members to declare the municipality an unwilling host of alternative energy creation sites.

"Some media reports describe me as an anti-wind person getting into politics," she said. "I am anti-wind for all the reasons I have described during the past two years. As a business-person, I have seen the closing and exiting of manufacturing in Ontario that has affected my company."

Bergeron added that when she began her business, Thermohair, 22 years ago, the socks were manufactured in Ontario, while hair was scoured in Quebec. Today, the Quebec mill remains, but this province's factories have closed.

"The carding place in Cambridge simply closed. The spinning mill with three plants in Toronto moved to Peru, and the knitting company was bought out by a U.S. firm and closed. Where there were once at least 13 hosiery knitting firms in Ontario, only one is left and several times a year [the owner] receives offers from [U.S. firms] to establish there."

Bergeron has been farming in the township since 1976, continues to raise goats, and married into a family that oversees a fifth generation dairy farm on Crump Road north of Chesterville.

"I founded a business in 1992 from an idea [that] all those in the industry at that time told me 'it would never work,'" she said. "Twenty-two years later, it is a successful international corporation, which I oversee."

As for her time as deputy-mayor, should votes be cast in her favour, Bergeron said she intends to be forthright in her devotion to North Dundas' needs, and put the concerns of the population before her own.

"I moved into a community where community spirit still existed, and I would like to see it stay that way – a community where people would like to raise their family or establish a business," she said.

Nominations remain open until Fri., Sept. 12, with election day set for Oct. 27.

Chesterville-area resident Theresa Bergeron is now vying for the Township of North Dundas' deputy-mayor position in this fall's municipal election.

Byvelds

"I have worked with our [federal and provincial representatives] to ensure South Dundas is on their radar and we get our fair share of any funding that we require," Byvelds said.

On South Dundas' current council's list of achievements, Byvelds noted the completion of the Iroquois Wastewater Treatment Plant, rehabilitation work to sewer systems in all township villages, the securing of $3.2 million in funding (with the help of former MPP Jim Brownell) for the recently completed work to the Lakeshore Drive sewer line in Morrisburg, maintenance of what he refers to as "the best rural road system in Ontario," implementation of South Dundas' economic development plan, and the completion of the South Dundas Municipal Centre, which houses all township staff and council, as well as the St. Lawrence Medical Clinic and the SD&G County Library.

"We can be proud of what we have accomplished," he said. "We have moved South Dundas forward in a direction that was guided by our strategic plan. I believe we have accomplished a lot in South Dundas in the past four years, and I believe the next four will still require the leadership I bring to the table."

In putting his name forward for another term, Byvelds is promising "steady leadership," which he said is needed on the path forward.

"We will need to listen to all the people of South Dundas," he said. "I will commit to keeping budgets within reason knowing the challenges we all face. We need to continue to work on economic development to ensure our businesses can continue to provide for our needs, and support job creation."

In addition to maintaining the township's current infrastructure, Byvelds said it is necessary to look into developing more recreational opportunities, and working toward making it a more "walkable" community with hiking paths and sidewalks.

"The next four years can be an exciting time for South Dundas," the mayor said. "We live in one of the most picturesque parts of Ontario with the St. Lawrence River [to] the south and many beautiful farm and rural lands in the north. If elected, I will work closely with council and staff to grow and improve our community and continue to make it a great place to live, work, and play."

Ballooning ballot

Also filing papers on Aug. 25 was Dunbar-area resident Bert Geertsma, who is seeking a councillor position. He joins Iroquois resident Bill Ewing, and incumbent councillors Jim Graham and Archie Mellan.

Vying for the position of second in command are incumbent Deputy-Mayor Jim Locke and Brinston resident Leslie Disheau.

Dundas Manor

Sidorchuk, a 10-year veteran at the local hospital, has a master's degree, and has worked in long-term care as a physiotherapist. Prior to her positional change within the medical facility's upper management, she served for five years as WDMH's manager of cardiac and diagnostic services. Her other responsibilities have included managing the complex continuing care unit, which has a distinct seniors' focus; representing the medical facility in external initiatives, such as the Specialized Geriatric Network of Eastern Ontario; and overseeing the Senior Friendly Hospital Plan.

Sidorchuk could not be reached for comment by press time.

Meanwhile, an anonymous email sent to the Press said "serious safety concerns" are being covered up at Dundas Manor and linked Sidorchuk's departure to the problem.

According to Boland, however, there is no basis to the claim.

"I'm not sure about the theory behind the allegation – administrators are leaving because of safety or in spite of it?" he said. "Every health care organization can always improve the safety of the people it cares for, including hospitals, community organizations and long-term care homes; however, we know Dundas Manor's safety is already at a high level."

In fact, Boland added, health ministry inspectors are currently making stops in Eastern Ontario, and are expected at the village site in the coming months.

"We are subject to 'spot inspections' to ensure [quality of care and resident safety] is done," he said. "If the ministry is concerned about the frequency, severity, and nature of these incidents, they will show up unannounced to do an inspection."

Stolen vehicle charges

MORRISBURG – On Tues., Aug. 19, at approximately 1:23 am, an SD&G OPP officer attempted to stop a sport utility vehicle for a traffic violation (speeding) on Highway 401.

Voting this fall? Here's what you need to know

WINCHESTER – This fall's municipal election has been set for Mon., Oct. 27, with voters heading to the polls to choose township politicians and school board trustees.

Residents interested in submitting their names as candidates can now complete the necessary nomination forms, and submit to the municipal office by 2 pm Fri., Sept. 12.

In the Township of North Dundas, residents will be able to cast votes by phone or the Internet. Meanwhile, in the Municipality of South Dundas, the technological options will be made available, as will the choice of marking a paper ballot.

Should a municipal election occur as a result of having a greater number of candidates than required to fill the roles available, each eligible and registered elector will receive, by mail, a voter information letter containing the following information:

• The toll free telephone number to call and the website to visit to vote.

• A confidential and personalized identification number.

• A list of the candidates nominated for each office, and instructions on how to vote.

• The telephone number of the voter help centre.

As an added security feature, residents will be required to add their date of birth before voting.

If voters are unsure that a full date of birth is on the voter's list, they can contact the appropriate municipal office to have it added prior to voting. After Mon., Sept. 22, residents will be required to come into the municipal office to fill out a form and provide photo identification.

Voting will commence Wed., Oct. 22 at 9 am, and conclude Oct. 27 at 8 pm. Access by telephone and Internet will be available on a continuous six-day, 24-hour basis during this voting period. The telephone method requires use of a touch-tone telephone, while the Internet method requires use of a computer with appropriate access capabilities.

As in the past, no proxies are permitted with these alternate voting methods. Any individual, during the six-day voting period, may request assistance at a municipal office.

In addition, all county libraries have established Internet access centers for use by the public.

As well, to accommodate all electors, municipal offices will be open extra hours.

Drinking water review leads to $50K expense

by Sandy Casselman
Press staff

MORRISBURG – Municipality of South Dundas politicians received updates on both the township's drinking water system and its supporting infrastructure during the Tues., Aug. 12 council meeting, as per the province's Drinking Water Quality Management System (DWQMS) Element 20 regulations.

A report from public works manager, Chris Bazinet, indicated the annual management review was completed last month with three issues identified: the loss of a licensed operator and the inability to attract a new one; the need for compliance documentation software; and water and sewer rates.

As for the report on infrastructure, it was noted the Zebra mussel dechlorification line, located at the intake of the drinking water system located in the St. Lawrence River, needed immediate repair, and was completed in July. A $40,000 unbudgeted project, Bazinet said it would be accounted for by putting other budgeted items on hold until a later date.

In addition, two chemical feed system pumps had been identified as non-compliant by both staff and a Ministry of Environment official. The issue was rectified at a cost of $10,000.

New finger docks have been installed at the Morrisburg Waterfront, giving boaters an additional 60 feet of docking space. Press Photo – Casselman

Morrisburg waterfront now offers more docking space

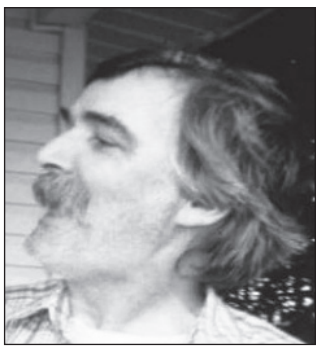

MORRISBURG – The Morrisburg Waterfront Committee recently released an update on its summer initiatives for the village's St. Lawrence Riverfront.

The new finger docks, donated by the Morrisburg and District Lions Club, are now installed, providing more than 60 additional feet of space for small watercraft to dock and come ashore.

The committee recently commissioned a "lock door" sign, which is designed to commemorate the canal system that ran along the waterfront prior to the construction of the Seaway.

As well, enhancements are being made within the park itself, including six new durable steel-top picnic tables at the Lions Club Pavilion, two of which are wheelchair accessible. New sidewalks leading visitors to the park have been installed. The sidewalks running on the east side of Ottawa Street at the waterfront will be lit with a series of energy efficient lights that match those running along the waterfront walking path, potentially making the park safer and more visually appealing.

Full plans for the waterfront are available online at www.southdundas.com.

Crysler resident Douglas Guy Brown, 57, was located in Kingston Fri., Aug. 22, two days after being reported missing.

Missing Crysler man located

KINGSTON – Douglas Guy Brown has been found unharmed.

The 57-year-old Crysler resident was first reported missing Wed., Aug. 20 after family members noted his vehicle had been returned to his village home, but he had not been heard from.

Two days later (Fri., Aug. 22), however, Brown was located by police in Kingston.

When Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry OPP officers first began to investigate the disappearance, an extensive search was initiated.

Const. Joel Doiron said phone calls and various tips from the public helped in locating Brown during the police's investigation.

No foul play is suspected.

Drivers beware

Increased pedestrian traffic, as students return to school

WINCHESTER – Children are heading back to school next week and motorists are reminded to be on the lookout for students and school buses.

"The OPP asks you to be attentive as the youth of our communities return to school in the coming weeks," Chief Superintendent Daniel Redmond, commander of the OPP East Region, said. "Safety is the number one priority."

The Highway Traffic Act states that every driver encountering a stopped school bus with its overhead red signal lights flashing should stop before reaching the bus and should not proceed until the bus moves or the lights have stopped flashing. The minimum fine for failing to stop is $400.

As well, many children walk to school and motorists should be aware of the increased pedestrian traffic. Many children may be distracted by the excitement of the first day of classes. Slow down in school zones and be extra cautious. Watch for Community Safety Zones, where speeding fines are increased.

Drivers can expect to see an increased police presence.

Historical society seeks information, school memorabilia

RUSSELL – The Russell and District Historical Society is looking for help with this year's installment of the Russell Heritage Festival.

Scheduled for Sat., Oct. 4, the 2014 event is set to celebrate schools with keynote speaker Joy Forbes, author of Perseverance, Pranks and Pride: Tales of One-Room Schoolhouses.

Russell Heritage Festival October 4

The historical society is looking for those people who went to former public and separate schools in the west end of the township – those in Russell Village or at North Russell, Pana, Felton, Gordonville, Marvelville, and Marionville.

"We need people to spread the word and to provide us with information – such as the names of former teachers, trustees, and students – and we especially need them to come out with their photos and memorabilia to the 'show and tell' session," Bob McDonald, president of the group, said. "If they wish, they could donate some of those items to the museum to enlarge our collection."

As for this year's festival, there is to be plenty of attractions, including tours of the village in a horse-drawn wagon, the official unveiling of a refurbished "milk rig," children's activities, and historical exhibits and demonstrations.

At the Russell House Pub, the knights and squires of the Armoured Company of the Sword are to demonstrate chivalry in action, exhibiting their skills with the sword in medieval dress.

For more information, contact McDonald at 613-868-9812 or email macdonaro@yahoo.ca.

Avonmore Oktoberfest on tap for September 6

AVONMORE – The 22nd annual Avonmore Oktoberfest is set for Sat., Sept. 6 with doors opening at 4 pm.

To be held at the Roxborough Agricultural Super Structure Building beside North Stormont Place on the fairgrounds, the seasonal event is to include an authentic German buffet from 5:30 to 7:30 pm with music by Montreal band Edelweiss beginning at 7 pm.

A crowd favourite each year is the wide variety of desserts, which are included with the meal, as well as the bar featuring a selection of German beers.

A limited number of tickets ($25) are available, and can be purchased at Scotiabank locations in Casselman, Chesterville, Cornwall, and Maxville, as well as at Barkley's Store in Avonmore.

Once again this year, Scotiabank has agreed to match the proceeds of tickets sold in their locations. Proceeds from the event are earmarked for the Roxborough Agricultural Society, which will use the funds for maintenance and other projects at the fairgrounds and throughout Avonmore.

For more information, call 613-538-2321.

Russell Fair's midway to be bigger than ever

RUSSELL – Russell Fair organizers have announced bigger and better amusement rides at this year's midway, along with new activities.

This year's installment of the Russell Agricultural Society's annual event is set to run from Thurs., Sept. 4 to Sun., Sept. 7.

Robertson Amusements, whose company slogan is "your safety is the number one priority," is set to provide bigger and better rides than in previous years. (Advance sales of ticket strips are available at a cost of $40 for 35 tickets. Later, at the fair, they will be $40 for 26 tickets.)

Meanwhile, organizers are currently accepting team registrations for the Amazing Race – Russell Fair Edition. Interested competitors are encouraged to have their friends download the Russell Fair App, which includes a voting option, as the top eight teams with the most votes are to be chosen to compete. The winning team is set to win $500, while the second and third place winners are to receive $300 and $100 respectively.

Going back to school? Get immunized first!

WINCHESTER – Immunization requirements for students heading back to Ontario classrooms this September have changed.

Formerly on the recommended list, immunizations against meningococcal disease, pertussis (whooping cough), and varicella (chicken pox) are now mandatory for school attendance, beginning this year (2014-2015). Students between the ages of four and 17 will need to have proof of the vaccinations in order to attend.

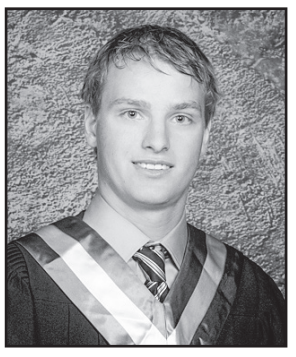

As well, the new regulations have altered the number of doses required for adequate protection against tetanus, diphtheria, polio, and mumps. However, no changes have been made to the measles and rubella immunization requirements.

Those students without valid immunizations, proof of immunization, or proof of exemptions may be suspended from school. Parents must inform the Eastern Ontario Health Unit (EOHU) every time their child receives a vaccine.

Vaccines protect children by causing their body to produce antibodies, which fight off disease.

For more information, call 613-933-1375 or visit www.eohu.ca.

Province unveils new municipal funding plan

WINCHESTER – Premier Kathleen Wynne, along with agriculture, food, and rural affairs minister Jeff Leal, recently announced funding support for small, rural, and northern municipalities.

The provincial government's plan to provide these communities with stable, annual funding needed to build and repair essential core infrastructure comes in the form of the new Ontario Community Infrastructure Fund, which is set to provide $100 million in annual funding for essential infrastructure projects.

Recognizing the different needs and challenges of individual municipalities, half of the available funding will be allocated annually, while the other half will be distributed via an application-based process with grants expected to be awarded in early 2015. To be eligible to apply for these funds, municipalities must have a population less than 100,000 as of the 2011 census.

"It's encouraging to see the province has built flexibility into this process. It recognizes the inherent depth of planning and co-ordination necessary for successful economic development," Barry Steinberg, CEO of Consulting Engineers of Ontario, said. "If communities can have a say and be part of the funding process, they will be more active in their strategic asset planning. Local leaders know what their communities need in terms of infrastructure refurbishment and new construction to grow and prosper."

Infrastructure funding for small communities supports the province's plan to invest more than $130 billion in public infrastructure throughout the next 10 years.

The jointly funded program will see both the provincial and federal governments provide $272 million for these projects.

Grillin' at 'Home'

Each year J.D. Van Noy, owner of Lannin Home Building Centre in Winchester, welcomes customers to the County Road 31 store for a complimentary barbecue, and this year was no different. Close to 100 visitors stopped by Tues., Aug. 19 for lunch with Van Noy and his crew. The owner is pictured manning the grill, while chatting with Albert and Lois Schaafsma.

Counties represented at AMO event

WINCHESTER – Representatives from the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry (SD&G) attended last week's annual Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) conference in London.

Association of Municipalities of Ontario conference

SD&G participates annually through the Eastern Ontario Wardens' Caucus, raising awareness on issues facing municipalities throughout the region. This year, the group was successful in securing delegations with several high profile provincial representatives, including municipal affairs minister Ted McMeekin, community safety minister Yasir Naqvi, and the official opposition. These opportunities were used to release the caucus' Economic Development Strategy for Eastern Ontario, and raise concerns regarding policing costs and infrastructure renewal.

"The AMO conference is another important opportunity for municipalities to lobby the provincial government. It is a forum for us to put forward – with one voice – what our policy and operational challenges are," Warden Eric Duncan said. "It is also an opportunity to say thank you and SD&G certainly does not lose sight of that."

Premier Kathleen Wynne was also in attendance, providing the keynote address to delegates on Tues., Aug. 19. The provincial government announced earlier this week that it would be moving forward with a new $100 million per year infrastructure fund for municipalities. The province also announced that it would not be pursuing any further action on joint and several liability – an important file that municipalities have lobbied strongly for action on in the past.

New program helps young entrepreneurs

WINCHESTER – A new entrepreneur program targeting 18-to-29-year-olds in Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry (SD&G), Cornwall, and Akwesasne was recently unveiled.

The Cornwall Business Enterprise Centre, in partnership with the provincial government, has launched "Starter Company," a program that is set to provide successful applicants with assistance to start, grow, or buy a small business. This includes training, business skills development, mentoring from local business leaders, and all-important access to capital.

"The program will partner young entrepreneurs with experts who will help them develop the skills needed to launch and sustain successful businesses," Candy Pollard, one of the centre's business consultants, said. "Program participants are also eligible to receive up to a $5,000 grant."

Eligible entrepreneurs include those purchasing an existing business, starting their own, or expanding their already existing business, which means establishing concrete growth goals, ideally including hiring of staff.

"Starter Company is expected to be very popular," Pollard said. "Local entrepreneurs looking to take advantage of this program should apply as soon as they have solidified their business vision in order to ensure the best possible chances of being accepted."

For more information, call Pollard at 613-933-0074 or visit www.businessenterprisecentre.ca.

Local case of equine virus confirmed by health unit

WINCHESTER – The Eastern Ontario Health Unit is dealing with a local case of the Eastern equine encephalitis virus (EEEV).

Normally found in wild birds, the virus can occasionally spread to horses and humans through the bite of infected mosquitoes. While a vaccine exists for horses, there is none for humans. The health unit is therefore issuing a reminder to everyone to take precautions against mosquito bites.

It was noted the horse in question had not been vaccinated.

"Although there's never been a reported human case of [the virus] in Ontario, it's a very serious disease in all ages and can even cause death," Dr. Paul Roumeliotis, medical officer of health, said.

While the health unit currently monitors mosquito pools for the West Nile virus and EEEV, surveillance is being increased as a precaution. There have been no positive pools yet in 2014; however, Roumeliotis said most cases occur in late summer and early fall, and mosquitoes remain active until the first frost.

Raising awareness with buckets of ice

Have you accepted the ALS Ice Bucket challenge? It is the social media craze that is currently serving as the spark for awareness about the debilitating disease.

Folks from all slices of life – Moms and Dads, sons and daughters, celebrities, politicians – have taken heed, and dumped icy water on their heads.

Medically known as amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, ALS is best associated with hall of fame baseball player Lou Gehrig (in fact, the affliction is most often attached to his moniker) or Sue Rodriguez, the Canadian who fought for the legal right to assisted suicide in the hopes to end her suffering. Ultimately, she took her own life, with the help of an anonymous physician, in 1994, three years after being diagnosed.

The neurodegenerative condition gradually paralyzes its victims and their vital systems, and usually kills within two to five years. It has no known cure, and, a fact that is considered much worse, no effective treatment. There are no pills to help slow down the deterioration or reverse the onslaught of devastation.

When compared to other major diseases, most notably cancer, it remains rare, with fewer than 3,000 Canadians currently living with it. But, it sneaks up much like a wolf in the night, ready to raid the henhouse, and leaves destruction in its wake.

This is good and bad news. The low number, which it really is, means a smaller percentage of this country's population is dealing with the disease. However, this also means ALS research remains criminally underfunded, and the disorder is an unknown beast.

This fact itself makes the Ice Bucket Challenge such a bizarre, sublime, and wholly joyous undertaking.

The challenge dates back to mid-2013, but it existed in obscurity until earlier this year when it began receiving increased media attention in the U.S. It then made its way to mainstream audiences during high profile morning television shows before going worldwide on the Internet.

What it has also done is open the proverbial floodgates for needed donations. In the U.S. alone, $5.7 million was realized in two weeks between late July and mid-August. The total then jumped to $7.6 million, reached $9.5 million, while by Fri., Aug. 22, the total was $53.3 million, having increased by $11.5 million in one day. To date, the total hovers near the $80 million mark. In this country, the total funds raised are much lower, ringing in at a respectable $7.1 million, which has ALS Canada nearing its $7.5 million goal.

In recent days, however, grumbling has become a normal part of the process. In some cases, yes, it is validated. Many folks despise bandwagon jumping, and this is largely the case when it comes to the Ice Bucket Challenge. A large number of criticisms have risen relating to the campaign, accusing participants of being self-congratulatory, focusing primarily on fun rather than donating money to charity, and substituting a trivial activity for more genuine involvement in charitable activities.

In Britain's The Daily Telegraph, columnist William Foxton described the challenge as "a middle-class wet-T-shirt contest for armchair clicktivists," lamenting the rise of clictivism, where activists use social media to organize and quantify success by keeping track of the many who "clicked" on the webpage or shared content. Others have argued the challenge encourages moral licensing, meaning that some people may use it as a substitute for other charitable acts. It has also been proposed that attracting donations for ALS through the challenge is "cannibalizing" potential donations that otherwise would have gone to other charities instead.

To this end, an argument can be made. While ALS undoubtedly deserves attention and continued research, so too do other afflictions. It is a struggle to determine how the donation pie should be sliced.

A fascinating percentage breakdown would be to see the ratio between Ice Bucket Challenge posts and donations made. Sadly, it's evident many are posting and not backing it up with a financial contribution. With the hundreds of thousands of videos circulating, the monetary totals should really be much higher.

It doesn't appear the challenge will end anytime soon, and social media users should prepare to view more and more. It will become tiring, yes, but, ultimately, the attention for ALS is needed.

So, do your part. Don't simply stroke your own ego and post a video. Make a donation (visit www.als.ca) and help in the fight.

This week, the Winchester Press shared the story of Rev. Glassford, who stopped by the St. Lawrence Street post office Saturday morning, "leaving his engine running and the gear in neutral, but something slipped and the car started away at a good pace. But, like all Fords, it kept to the track and behaved nicely until it was overtaken and brought to a halt."

1934

"A 'dyed in the wool' Tory weekly newspaper recently charged that the Press, just as soon as the Henry government was defeated, began praising and upholding the Hepburn government, and condemning its late friends," the editor said this week. "The charge is almost too contemptuous to refute, other than it shows there are still being published strictly party newspapers, whose editors cannot see anything wrong in the party they support, but everything that is wrong in the opposition."

1944

This week, readers learned that local merchant Hy Bessin had received a package – a German Flarechute – from Pte. Jimmy Jacobs, who was on active service with the Canadian troops in Italy: "The chute was made of good quality silk and was 48 feet in circumference. This particular kind of chute is used by the German Air Force for dropping flares."

1954

In this week's news, the Press reported: "Theatre thieves, who believe in stealing twice in the same night, broke into the Winchester and Picadilly [Williamsburg] Theatres last Thursday night, but were frustrated in their efforts to confiscate anything valuable. No money was taken, but considerable damage was inflicted."

1964

"Winchester's first Gold Medallion Home, [owned by Dwight Lannin], located in the new Crestview subdivision, was host to almost 300 persons last weekend. The many visitors were observing the very latest in all-electric living."

Although stock was sold and it appeared certain the project was on its way, it never materialized and all that remains of the once great scheme are these bits and pieces of the 'grade.'"

Rhonda Felker, Elizabeth Warren, Charlene Skuce, Angie Ganter, Jill Vasey, Debbie Sharkey, and Lorraine Hutt were pictured in this week's Press, as part of the "Dundas Power Line, [which] finished off a very successful season here last week winning the 1984 Winchester Girls' Ball Hockey League championship.

In a feud with Mountain Township, resident Kevin Allen turned a section of Boundary Road into a modern-day tombstone. Disgruntled with the way the municipality was dealing with a property dispute, Allen, who owned a gravestone business, loaded his truck with six one-metre-long 135-kilogram tombstones and laid them across the road, blocking traffic from passing. Unfortunately for the police, township officials, and residents wanting to use the road, nothing could be done because Allen owned the road.

With an audience of 5,000 watching, Iroquois' Hubert Merkley made an emergency exit from his car after his gas tank caught fire during the second heat of the South Mountain Fair's demolition derby. Security crews jumped into action dousing the flames, and Merkley walked away unharmed. Eighty cars competed.

Getting Jurassic over a beer with my new friend

From the Other Side
by Jeff Morris

I had this dream recently.

It was 20 minutes into the future.

I was on my way to see the big "Walking With Dinosaurs" show at Canadian Tire Centre (CTC) in Kanata. As I entered the building I was met by Baby T, the baby tyrannosaurus rex that is used for promotional appearances at schools and malls and other community gatherings.

We ended up sitting in Bert's Bar outside the CTC's main entrance, and we struck up a conversation.

"So what do you think of Eastern Ontario?" I asked him.

"It's alright," he said. "We've been all over the world on this tour, playing to sold out venues. Traveling is tough, but it's not as tough as it was back in the day."

The bartender came by and took our order for a couple of Coors Light. She asked Baby T for some identification and he laughed.

"Um, I'm 66 million years old," he said.

The bartender stood her ground.

"Maybe your species is, but as far as I'm concerned, you need a driver's license. I can also accept a health card, though I am not allowed to ask you for it."

Baby T shook his head, and in defeat, ordered a Perrier in a dish.

"Every time we come here, it's the same thing," Baby T said. "It's that damn Smart Serve program. I sure didn't have a problem getting served in Belgium. And as if I could drive a car with my little arms anyway."

I asked him if he was around when the show came here in 2008.

"I was," he said. "But I wasn't in the show. My visa to perform here hadn't come through."

I asked him if the show was as good.

"Dude, it is soooo much better," Baby T said. "We've come a long way over the last few years. We have a new show that is way bigger and way better than before. It'll blow your mind. We put the whole thing together in New Zealand and then rehearsed it in Tacoma, Wash., before starting this tour. We had to rehearse there in the convention centre because it was the only place in North America big enough to fit us all in."

Baby T said that he somewhat enjoyed his role as an ambassador for the show, especially interacting with humans.

"Face it," he said. "Sixty-six million years ago, I wouldn't have been sitting here with you having a Perrier. I would probably be ripping you apart with my parents and getting whatever parts I could. They would get the good cuts, and the younger and smaller ones like me would end up with, you know, the hot dog parts. But we're not here to eat you guys. We are here to take you back in time and put on an incredible show, so you can see us in our natural habitat and learn about us."

Baby T paused to take a slurp of his Perrier.

"You guys are so lucky you have arms long enough so that you can drink from a glass. And don't even get me started on how lucky you are to have thumbs."

He smiled – at least I think it was a smile – as he thought about humans.

"It's been great to see throughout the last few years how much you guys are learning about us," he said. "You are really making an effort. Your scientists are still working hard to learn about us, and I am glad these things are part of the show. For example, human scientists determined not that long ago dinosaurs were actually covered with feathers. Um, like, all they had to do was ask, but I am proud of the humans for figuring it out on their own. As a result, the dinosaurs in the show are now all covered with feathers. The narrator is going to explain how birds are direct descendants of dinosaurs during the show."

During his performances, Baby T likes to have fun with the crowd.

"I am affectionate with humans for the most part," he said. "I've gone vegan so I am not tempted to, you know, eat everyone when I meet them. We were at one of the malls last week, and when I saw a little human who was afraid, I acted all cute and sweet so they would open up a bit. But whenever there is a smartmouthed little human punk who thinks he is cool and showing off by acting like he is not afraid, I'll get right in his face and roar so loud it will curl his toe nails. We just want to be respected. If you are going to disrespect the dinosaur, get ready to soil yourself."

Thinking of respect, Baby T talked about how he spent the month.

"It kind of bugs me that Discovery Channel makes such a big deal over Shark Week," he said. "The sharks today are nothing like the sharks that we had back then. They used to eat us. I guess it's good for them to have survived all these millions of years and we didn't. It almost made me sick in my mouth when we all went out last week and we had to watch that Shark Week garbage on the big screen."

At that moment, I woke up from my dream. Baby T was being shown on television, promoting his recent show at the CTC. I decided then I had better get my tickets.

Get what you pay for

OTTAWA – We often receive inquiries from constituents asking the federal government to do something about gas prices. The federal government collects ten cents in excise tax, and five per cent in harmonized sales tax.

Oil is a commodity that is sold on the world market. No single country or company can control what investors and speculators will pay for oil. However, what our government can control and act on is to ensure that when you do purchase gas, you get the amount you pay for.

Canadians make countless purchases that involve measurement of the goods they're buying – whether it is gas for our cars or food for our families. We should be able to depend on the accuracy of those measurements, so we get what we pay for. Consumers should always be able to have confidence that what they pay reflects the advertised price, and the actual quantity they purchase.

That's why our Conservative government introduced and passed the Fairness at the Pumps Act, which came into law at the beginning of this month.

This legislation imposes fines for those who, through carelessness or ill intent, sell inaccurately measured goods. To deter this behavior and give consumers confidence, these fines are significant – up to $10,000 for minor offences, up to $25,000 for major offences and up to $50,000 for repeat offences.

The act also establishes regular inspections of gas pumps, retail food scales, and other devices to promote accountability. Measurement Canada will maintain oversight of inspections, undertaking follow-up inspections, on-site audits, and enforcement when necessary.

This addresses a potentially serious situation. Government studies found that up to six per cent of the time gas pumps do not accurately reflect the advertised price – and the retailer benefits two thirds of the time. By holding retailers accountable, careless behaviour and malicious intent will both be deterred.

Whether you're driving to work or setting out on a family vacation, fairness at the pumps will help make it a little more affordable. And fair measurements in the store will help with grocery bills and everyday living.

Our Conservative government will continue to stand up for hardworking Canadian families, and for all consumers. Fairness at the pump, the deli counter, and anywhere we spend our hard earned money is not too much to ask.

If you feel that you are not receiving full value for your money any time you purchase gas in Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry contact my office.

'400' officially open for visitors

by Sandy Casselman
Press staff

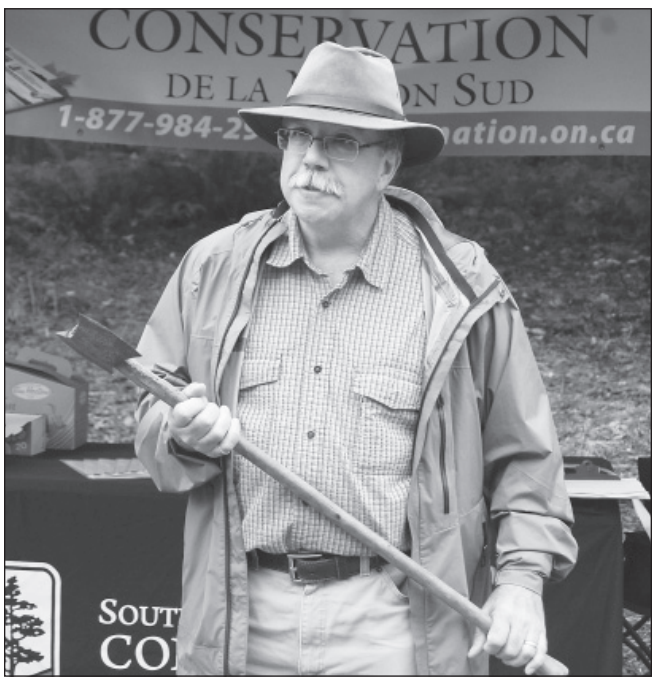

WILLIAMSBURG – The Municipality of South Dundas' once controversial "400" has officially become the Williamsburg Forest Conservation Area.

Representatives from the township, along with those from South Nation Conservation (SNC) and the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR), gathered at the northern outskirts of the property Fri., Aug. 22 to celebrate the historical event.

In a brief review of how the partnership developed, Mayor Steven Byvelds told the story of how council planned to sell the 400-acre property as surplus roughly three years ago, only to discover strong opposition from the public. Following a reversal of their decision to sell, council members eventually agreed to give the land to SNC provided it remains open for use by the public. (The land is to revert to South Dundas, should SNC decide to "sell" in the future. As well, SNC is set to pay taxes on the property to the municipality.)

South Nation Conservation (SNC), in partnership with the Municipality of South Dundas and the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR), officially opened the Williamsburg Forest Conservation Area Fri., Aug. 22. Preparing for the official ribbon-cutting ceremony are SNC general manager Dennis O'Grady, Brian Barkley, Mayor Steven Byvelds, SNC chair Bill Smirle, MNR representative Jeff Ward, and SNC past chair Lawrence Levere.

Brian Barkley spoke to the crowd about the forest's local history, sharing stories about the people who have ventured into its depths throughout the years.

Looking back, it was the former Williamsburg Township that purchased the land in 1961, as part of the province's Agreement Forest Family program, whereby the MNR managed the forest. It was purchased for roughly $1,716, Jeff Ward, MNR's acting resource management supervisor for the Kemptville district, said. In 1995, with the dissolution of the program, the property came under South Dundas' control.

"[The Williamsburg Forest] is an excellent example of how the public lands can be maintained for the public good," Ward said.

The land is open to the community for all sorts of purposes, including hunting, which requires a permit from SNC.

Summer student Ben Gallant, a fourth-year forestry student at the University of British Columbia, was tasked with traversing the entirety of the forest and cataloguing the various types of wildlife and trees inhabiting the area. He also provided a map of the various trails, water sources, and habitats currently existing within the 400-acre expanse.

Jim Hendry, SNC property team lead, said the forest is 83 per cent wetland, with provincially and regionally significant areas documented.

"We're quite blessed to have that much wetland in our area," he said.

As well, Hendry noted there are two White Spruce plantations taking up roughly 25 acres, with approximately 25 different species of trees identified throughout the greenspace. There is also a diverse population of wildlife, including a small herd of moose, roaming the property.

SNC project team lead Jim Hendry (left) and summer student Ben Gallant showed guests the locations of various waterways, wetlands, White Spruce plantations, and wildlife using an aerial map of the 400-acre property. Press Photos – Casselman

Local resident and avid forest supporter Brian Barkley shared stories of the many memory-making opportunities the forest has offered its visitors throughout the years, from youngsters traipsing to the middle of the forest to find the "tremendous crops of huckleberries" to those who now use it for all-terrain vehicle rides.

"In 50 years, hopefully there will be another group saying 'you know, you guys did the right thing back then,'" Barkley said.

Pre-4-H'ers hone skills

SOUTH MOUNTAIN – In addition to the annual 4-H Dairy Achievement Day at this year's South Mountain Fair, there was also a "pre" 4-H showmanship competition featuring children between the ages of two and 10-years-old.

Participants in the age two to four division, in order of their final placement by judge Lynn Boyd, were Ericka Mathers, Jules Bossel, Sam Clark, Carter Guy, Chandler Sloan, Henry Sloan, and Owen Parsons.

Those aged five to six placed as follows: Daphne Sloan, Meadow Verman, Schuyler Sloan, Charlie Sloan, Chris Clark, David Carr, and Jude Dagen-Bloom.

In the seven-year-old grouping, Felicity Porteous placed first, followed by Kerryanna Manneck, Abby Smail, Sarah Stewart, Dane Thompson, Tyler King, and Kaylee Parsons.

The final showing featured children between the ages of eight and 10: Taylor Mathers, Cameron Stewart, Nate Thompson, Caitlin Begg, Emmalyn Hutchinson, Colton Carmichael, Lily Carr, Caleb Machan, and Bentley Sloan.

Maple magic

While Winchester's 100 Club Park has a pool, playground equipment, a giant "sandbox," and lots of room to run, on Wed., Aug. 20 it had a little something more… magic. In partnership with the Township of North Dundas, two South Nation Conservation representatives brought along a little "Maple Magic" to share with the children. They talked about the many different maple tree species found in Canada, the types needed to make maple syrup, and how to tap a tree.

Above:

South Mountain resident Cory Coons is off to Los Angeles next month to participate in the city's 2014 Music Awards event at Whisky A Go-Go, where he is to perform songs from his latest album, Share a Little Time.

Persistence, passion pays off for local songwriter Cory Coons

by Sandy Casselman
Press staff

SOUTH MOUNTAIN – Cory Coons is moving full-steam ahead toward his goal of carving out a full-time music career for himself.

Acknowledging that it takes more than talent to succeed in the music industry, Coons has shown he also has the business sense required to get himself and his music seen and heard by the right people.

After years of sending his music to legendary record producer Ron Nevison, who has worked with such musical entertainers as The Rolling Stones, Bad Company, Led Zeppelin, The Who, Heart, Chicago, Survivor, and Ozzy Osbourne, Coons finally got a call back.

Nevison invited the South Mountain native to fly south to California in January, where Coons had one of his dreams realized. Nevison produced Coon's newest album, Share a Little Time. A mini-album, it contains three "commercial rock" releases all written and performed by Coons. While the album will not be officially released until sometime in the fall, the songs and videos – "Share a Little Time," "Seven Year Itch," and "Remember Me" – can be found on the Internet, Coons said.

Coming off the recent recording session with Nevison, which took him to Los Angeles and San Francisco, Coons said he is more than ready to have his voice heard.

In fact, he is heading back to Los Angeles with official sponsor (and long-time friend and former bandmate) Kevin Eamon, owner of Rock My House Music Centre in Kemptville, in less than a month. Coons is set to take the famous Whisky A Go-Go stage Thurs., Sept. 25 for the L.A. Music Awards nomination night, as he has been nominated in two categories – Male Singer/Songwriter and Record of the Year.

"Just playing there will be cool," Coons said.

To win, Coons will need the help of his friends, family, and fans, as the online "votes" (www.lamusicawards.net) he receives will have an impact on his final score and whether he is the one called to make his way down the red carpet to victory Wed., Nov. 12 at the official awards night, which is to be held at the Avalon Theatre.

Win or lose, Coons said the L.A. Music Awards is a major opportunity for international exposure, as "all types of media" are expected to be covering the event. He sees the experience as a possible "stepping stone," and a chance to catapult his music career forward.

"This is my passion," Coons said. "It's always been my passion."

Fans can learn more about Coons' long history with music and the evolution of his songwriting style by visiting his website (www.corymcoons.com).

Popular playwright set to take Upper Canada Playhouse stage

MORRISBURG – "Norm has an incredible way of reaching his audience. He gives them a lot to laugh about and a lot to think about, and very often at the same time!"

That is how Upper Canada Playhouse (UCP) artistic director Donnie Bowes applauded the many talents of Norm Foster, the man behind some of the Morrisburg theatre's popular productions.

On a First Name Basis premieres Sept. 4

Foster's most recent play, The Ladies Foursome, debuted on the UCP stage earlier this summer, and Foster himself is set to take the stage beginning Thurs., Sept. 4 in another of his brand new comedies, On a First Name Basis.

"It's always a pleasure to include his plays in our season and a special event to have him perform in them," Bowes said.

Along with Foster, actress Patricia Vanstone, who is new to the UCP stage, will bring this play to life, as she is taking on the role of Ms. Hopperstaad, David Kilbride (Foster)'s housekeeper of 28 years, whom he knows very little about.

The play takes place during an evening in the month of November, when the two finally get to know one another. The encounter leads to many surprising revelations.

Vanstone and Foster are the first and only actors ever to perform in this play, Bowes said, and "they wear their characters like a glove."

Directed by David Nairn and designed by John Thompson, On a First Name Basis is set to run from Sept. 4 to Sun., Sept. 28.

For more information, visit www.uppercanadaplayhouse.com or phone 613-543-3713.

Patricia Vanstone and Norm Foster are set to take the Upper Canada Playhouse stage in Foster's On a First Name Basis beginning Thurs., Sept. 4.

Morozuk, Bray pitch Sox into round two of NCBL playoffs

WINCHESTER – After staggering through the final weeks of the National Capital Baseball League Tier 2 schedule, the Winchester Sox have been reborn.

Riding the pitching arms of veteran Justin "Footer" Morozuk and rookie Tyler Bray, the Sox have swept their quarterfinal series (four points) with the Expos in impressive fashion posting 6-1 and 17-3 victories.

The fifth-place Sox (9-15-0) ousted the fourth-place Expos (12-12-0) and are currently waiting for the winner of the second-place River Hawks (17-6-1) and the seventh-place Marc Sports (8-16-0) to be declared. Winchester and that squad will play in the "B" semi-final (four point series, dates to be announced).

With their two-game elimination of the number-three ranked Braves (14-10-0), the sixth-place Metcalfe Mudd (8-15-1) must now challenge the pennant-winning Cornwall River Rats (20-4-0) in the A" semi-final.

Sox 17 – Expos 3

Morozuk and his defence mowed down the opposition in Monday's (Aug. 25) deciding game at Morgan Field enticing the Expos into 11 infield outs, including two 6-4-3 double plays. He fanned three and allowed three runs on four hits two walks and two errors. Morozuk faced 28 batters and stranded four runners with catcher Matt Ware calling the signals.

Offensively, Winchester dominated plating four runs in the third, seven in the fourth and six more in the bottom of the sixth.

Matt Uhrig paced the attack belting a grand salami in the sixth, an RBI double in the third and an RBI single in the fourth frame. He also scored three times in four trips.

Nik Paas and Cam Shaw also made three circuits. Paas reached on a single and two fielder's choices while Shaw drew two walks and singled. Ware (2), Andre Robidoux (2), Miguel Gagnon, Adrian Delorey, Joe Duggan (three singles, game MVP) and Alex Lipman delivered the other runs.

Sox 6 – Expos 1

Expos left-hander Dave Barnes whiffed 14 Sox, but wound up on the wrong side of a 6-1 decision at the Nepean Sportsplex.

New season

For the fifth consecutive year, the Pro Hockey Skills and Drills camp is preparing minor hockey players from around the region for their respective association's upcoming conditioning and evaluation sessions. Camp director Warren Holmes reports more than 160 young players are registered for the five-day program, which Holmes noted was down from last year's total, but felt it was a more manageable number. Monday's (Aug. 25) coaching staff for the novice group included Chris Hay (left), Jason Thompson, Chris Van Bridger, Warren Holmes, Clinton Holmes, Aron Sherrer and Tylor Copeland.

Rockets camp opens next week

WINCHESTER – Prospective members of the 2014-2015 North Dundas Junior Rockets will audition for head coach Gary "Woody" Klein-Swormink and his assistants, Shawn Smail and Robyn Sadler in one week.

Winchester's Joel Steele Community Centre will be home to the National Capital Junior Hockey League's Rockets during their fourth training camp. The first two-hour (8-10 pm) session has been booked for next Wednesday (Sept. 3). Another scrimmage will held on Friday (Sept. 5, 8-10 pm).

The Rockets will play their first exhibition game against the Cumberland Bandits at the Ray Friel Recreation Centre on Sat., Sept. 6 at 7:30 pm.

Two more scrimmages will take place on Winchester ice on Mon., Sept. 8 (8-10 pm) and Wed., Sept. 10 (8-9:30 pm). Exhibition games are planned for Fri., Sept. 12 in Embrun against the Panthers and Mon. Sept. 15 against a yet to be determined opponent.

North Dundas will skate in the league's opening showcase on Sat. Sept. 20. The event will be held at the Robert Guertin Arena where four games will be played. The Rockets are scheduled to take on the Cumberland Bandits at 4 pm.

North Dundas is set to host the Olympiques de Gatineau in their home opener at the Chesterville and District Arena on Sat., Sept. 27. The puck will drop at 7:30 pm.

Need a trainer

North Dundas has its coaching, managerial and executive staff in place, but is still looking to hire a level two trainer.

For more information, contact general manager Todd Smith at 613-448-3509 or email toadesmith@gmail.com.

Solid base

Coach Klein-Swormink is expecting at least 11 of last year's players to return to the team, which will give him a solid foundation to build this year's squad on.

The problem for the coach is that he has eight players eligible to play as overagers, unfortunately each team is allowed to sign just four. Captain Peter Klein-Swormink, Brent Simms, John Vanzyl, Adrian Lee, Jacob Luimes, Dustin Tinkler, Mitchell Haid and the team's top scorer, Kyle Adams, are all playing their final year of junior hockey, only four will suit up for North Dundas in 2014-2015.

Hawks introduce new head coach Paul Gagnon

WINCHESTER – A season of turmoil, initiated by the untimely passing of head coach Tom Kirkwood, sees the Winchester Jr. "B" Hawks having to introduce a second head coach in a matter of months.

The Hawks organization was able to call on a valuable contact in Nepean Raiders head coach and general manger Peter Goulet, who supported them following the passing of Kirkwood. Goulet was able to send Scott Cowie to Winchester as a replacement. Cowie successfully guided the Hawks down the stretch, through a four-game sweep of the Char-Lan Rebels in the semi-finals and eventually into the St. Lawrence Division championship round, which was won by the defending Eastern Ontario Junior Hockey League champion Casselman Vikings.

Unfortunately for the Hawks, Cowie and his young family relocated to Arnprior in the off-season prompting another coach hunt.

Once again, Goulet has stepped in and approached one of the Raiders' scouting staff, Paul Gagnon, about coaching in Winchester.

"Peter ask me if I would be interested," Gagnon told the Press on Monday night (Aug. 25). "And I said I would. I want to get the season going."

Gagnon, who played hockey in the "Q" [Quebec Major Junior Hockey League] and in Europe before beginning his coaching career, which most recently included his Prep School U17 "AAA" midget team in Quebec.

"I'm excited to get started and I can say we [Hawks] will not be fun to play against. We will have size and speed," he said.

Dale Murdoch comes back into the Hawks organization as an assistant coach. He has previously worked with Winchester head coaches Dave Corkery, Doug Armstrong and Todd Marcellus. In is work with the Hawks, which began in 1999, the Morewood resident was also the head bench boss for a season.

"For 27 years now I have said I was going to retire," Murdoch laughed. "If I do finally decide to quit coaching, I would like it to be with Winchester."

Opening night

The Hawks' opening scrimmage on Monday (Aug. 25) featured 18 skaters and four goaltenders. The returning vets included leading scorer Austin Rothe (23-25-48), Bryden van Kessel (14-15-39), captain Josh Stubbings (13-24-37), Kyle Richardson (10-21-31), Shawn Simms (11-11-22), Alex St. Marseille (8-6-14) and Kyle MacDonald (16 GP 3-2-5). Locals on the ice included Mason Durant, Tom Fingler and Dillon Clement.

GM Craig Smith said he wasn't concerned about the lack of numbers noting seven to eight players are due to return and three local 16-year-olds are in CCJHL and OHL camps.

• see pre-season schedule on page 13

Call to the bench

The Winchester Jr. "B" Hawks welcomed two new members to the club prior to Monday's (Aug. 25) opening session of training camp. Paul Gagnon of Gatineau, who has a quarter century of coaching experience, is the new head coach. Morewood's Dale Murdoch, a former head coach and assistant with the Hawks, was re-introduced as the new assistant bench boss. Monday's meet and greet included Hawks president Keith Ashton (left), treasurer John Adams, Murdoch, Gagnon and general manger Craig "JB" Smith.

Mahony fires ace at Cloverdale Links

WINCHESTER – Mark Mahony is the latest golfer to earn a spot on the trophy wall in the Cloverdale Links Golf Course pro shop.

Mahony was playing the Links on Monday (Aug. 25) when his shot from the tee on the 175-yard, par 3 No. 16 hole eluded the water hazard to the left and back of the green and rolled into the cup.

Mahony was presented his Hole-In-One trophy by Cloverdale staff.

Vahey double winner

SOUTH MOUNTAIN – Shane Vahey collected a couple of prizes playing in the Men's League at Sandy Row Golf Course.

Vahey shot a par 36, which happened to be last week's (Wed., Aug. 20) low gross score. He also claimed one of two stand-alone birdies. Bill Hogaboam registered the other one.

Roger Paquette and Jeff Leclair put their shots closest to the designated par three pins. Leclair also left his drive next to the sponsor's sign (Pride Seeds, Norm Tinkler). Chris Guy pounded out the longest drive.

A complete list of the winners is posted in the clubhouse.

Today's (Wed., Aug. 27) sponsor is O.L.G. (Keith Chawkin). The South Mountain branch of Scotiabank will host the final gathering of the Men's League season on Wed., Sept. 3.

Fun Day

League officials remind golfers to register for the Fun Day, which will be held on Sat., Sept. 6. It will be a shotgun start at 2 pm and the day will feature a buffet meal, awards, pictures and the presentation of the Merv Coons Memorial Trophy to the winner of the Two-Man Scramble.

Sox

Winchester's Tyler Bray fired third strikes by 13 Expos and recorded the one-run decision. He dished up four hits, hit one batter and walked three working with Ware.

Gagnon (BB) and Chris "Edgar" Hart (1B) plated Winchester's first runs in the second inning. Duggan drove in a run.

Gagnon (E3), Uhrig (E4) and Hart (FC) touched home in the fourth opening up a 5-0 lead. Hart (BB) made it six-zip scoring on Ware's RBI single in the sixth.

Expos spoiled Bray's shutout getting on the board in the top of the seventh.

North Dundas Old Timers blank Royals 2-nil, third consecutive win

CHESTERVILLE – Jason Eitzen cracked a pair of goals leading the North Dundas OT5 (Old Timers 5) United to a 2-nil decision over the Ottawa Royals.

Last week's (Fri., Aug. 23) victory was the third consecutive for North Dundas who shut down the Dynamo 4-1 in Hull on Fri., Aug. 15.

The United sport a winning record of 8-3-3 in the Ottawa Carleton Soccer League standings where they hold down fifth place (16 teams) with 27 points, one back of the Carleton Raiders (9-3-1). LACA Insurrectos (11-0-3) are the run-away pennant winners with 36 points.

North Dundas, with a win in their final game of the 2014 season on Friday (Aug. 29), could move up in the standings, possibly as high as third. The White Eagles (3-11-0) will provide the opposition when they visit Chesterville for a match at 7:30 pm.

With his two markers in the 2-nil win over the Royals, Eitzen has upped his total to seven, good enough for a tie for fifth place in the OT5 scoring race. The shutout left North Dundas' keepers Steve VanBruinessen and Andrew Machan with one goose egg each.

United 4 – Hull 1

North Dundas' scoring wizard Rodney MacKillican's hat trick was the difference as North Dundas trimmed the host Dynamo 4-1. Don Vreman sniped the single to bring his personal total to five. MacKillican leads the United in goal production with 16, third best in the division. Sporting Mexico striker Stephen Hearth leads the loop with 33 while Javier Alvarado is number two with 22.

MR6 United wins

The North Dundas United Soccer Club's OCSL week began last Wednesday (Aug. 20) with the Men's Rec 6 (MR6) United nipping the Spitfires 1-nil in Ottawa.

The decision snapped North Dundas' three-game losing string, improved their seventh-place (10 teams) record to 5-7-1 (16 points) and moved them to within two of the fifth-place Spitfires (6-6-0).

Dan Trumper's third goal of the campaign was the game winner. Paul Gibson registered the shutout, his second.

North Dundas will welcome the Ottawa Internationals (2-11-0) to the Chesterville Fairgrounds tonight (Wed., Aug. 27). The United's final game of the year will kick off at 8:15 pm.

WR4 loses 6-3

They cracked three goals, but the North Dundas Women's Rec 4 (WR4) United wasn't able to put the brakes on their current four-game losing skid.

Last week (Thurs., Aug. 21) a 6-3 setback at the hands of number four-ranked Fusion (7-5-1) left North Dundas (3-8-2) tied for seventh place at 11 points with Croatian Jadran.

Kaitlyn Hay netted her team-leading 13th goal and moved into fourth place in the divisional scoring race in the loss. Jenna Wouters and Rosalie Murton each cashed their third markers to complete the North Dundas offensive production. Hay owns fourth place, while Nepean Hotspurs Emillie Berlinguette stands alone in the scoring parade's top spot with 27 goals.

Tomorrow (Thurs., Aug. 28) the United's season will come to an end on the Chesterville Fairgrounds pitch where they will face the Cumberland Cobras (5-7-1) at 7:30 pm.

Sonics blanked

The North Dundas MR3 Sonics took a short road trip to Russell last week (Wed., Aug. 20) and were waxed 4-nil by the hometown Raiders.

Glenden Bakker, Phil Proper, Patrick McCaig and Pascal Leveille were the Russell marksmen. Keeper Jason Gauthier hung up his second zero of the campaign.

Their win pushed Russell (5-5-3) into a tie for sixth place (11 teams) with North Dundas (5-4-3) at 18 points. United will have the opportunity to slip by the Raiders as they conclude their season playing a pair of matches at the Mountain Memorial Community Park. Friday (Aug. 29), OSU (0-12-0) will provide the opposition. On Wed., Sept. 10, the OSU Rangers (2-9-0) will be the visitors.

U13 United win two of three tourney games

KEMPTVILLE – Hampered by the lack of bench strength the North Dundas U13 United took part in the South Side Soccer League's annual Fun Day Year-End Tournament.

Held on the grounds of the Kemptville Agricultural College on Sun. Aug. 17 the tournament afforded league teams the opportunity to play three games.

North Dundas, missing five regulars including keeper Darin Elliott, opened with a 3-nil win over the Ottawa Internationals 3, followed up by edging Nepean City#2 1-nil and finished the day losing 2-nil to the Seaway Kickers.

"We had a decent day despite being understaffed," explained coach Kevin Bell. "Midfielder Robbie Sallery filled in as our keeper and did an excellent job making key saves," he added.

North Dundas grabbed a 1-0 lead in their opener against the Ottawa Internationals 3 on a goal off of a corner kick. AP Ian Koch (filling in for missing center mid and top scorer Cameron Cotnam) kicked the ball into the box where Sadie Kirwin set up the opportunity for stopper Joey Hannaford who pounded it home.

United struck for a 2-0 lead in the second half. Striker Curtis Bell took a feed from Koch, ran it in and beat the keeper on the play. Chase Holmes engineered goal number three running it up the left side and crossing it to Bell whose shot stretched string.

Game 2

A week previous (Aug. 14) North Dundas handed Nepean City 2 an 8-nil shellacking in a league game. It was a much different result in the tournament as United had to scratch out a 1-nil victory.

Coach Bell noted Nepean had a new keeper who played a strong game frustrating his shooters throughout the game.

Curtis Bell was the only member of the United to beat the opposition keeper and did so after gathering in a pass from Kirwin in the first half.

"They were a much improved team than the one we beat 8-nil," noted the coach.

Kickers 2 – United 0

North Dundas fielded just 11 players for a match against Dundas County rivals from Iroquois and was blanked 2-nil.

"Seaway, a well coached team, with a slew of substitutes, were going to pass the ball long and try to tire us out, which it did" noted the coach. "All the kids were burnt out. Even though we did not win, I was proud of the effort all the players made."

The North Dundas U13 United, the North Dundas United Soccer Club's lone entry in the South Side Soccer League, is currently putting the finishing touches on their 2014 season. In 11 league and three tournament matches United has compiled a record of 11-2-1. The members of this year's U13 United are: keeper Darin Elliott – front; row two: (left) – Dylan Smith, Riley Stinson, Dylan Barkley, Ryan Dore, Grace Cave, Robbie Sallery, Sadie Kirwin; back (left) – coach Kevin Bell, Jackson McMillan, Curtis Bell, Cameron Cotnam, Joey Hannaford, Braedon Gordon, Olivia Salmon. Missing: Jacob Poirier-Hanniman, Chase Holmes and manager Leslie Cotnam.

The Williamsburg Major Pioneers finished third during the 2014 Upper Canada Little League Baseball League season and completed the year earning a silver medal in the league's playoff tournament in Kemptville (Aug. 8 – 10). Williamsburg trimmed the Winchester Black Sox 13-8, the Gananoque Islanders 20-4 and the Kemptville Grey Wildcats 8-7 to qualify for the gold-medal game against Brockville, who pumped the Pioneers 13-3. This year's Williamsburg Major Pioneers included: front (left): Kobey Young, Thomas Rae, Kayne McCadden, Trent Rae, Tyler Barkley, Nolan Henry, Curran Gilmour, Ben Lapier, Emytt Fetterly, T.J. Barnhart; back (left) – Ben Henry – ass't coach, Kent Young – head coach, Kendrew Byers, Dean Lapier, Chris Fetterly – ass't coach.

Valley League

The team representing the host course in Cornwall, Summer Heights, knocked off defending champion Cedar Glen in this year's Ladies Valley Golf Competition on Sun., Aug. 17. Summer Heights topped the chart with a total of 940 strokes. Prescott (988), Iroquois (1,006), Morrisburg (1,023) and Cedar Glen (1,042) followed in that order.

Cedar Glen's Carole Parent shot a low gross 94 and captured the Howard Wallace Trophy (low gross – senior).

Thank You!

During a time of illness and sorrow, we learned how much our family, friends, neighbours, Dixons Corners Community CRC and the Brinston community really means to us with the illness of Jessie (Mom) and the recent passing of Henry (Dad).

Our goal as a family was to bring Dad and Mom together to share one more moment. This was accomplished through the prayers and support from you. Words cannot be expressed to the doctors and nurses at the Queensway Carleton and Winchester District Memorial Hospitals who were rooting with us to make it happen and it did! It gave us all a sense of peace upon Dad's passing.

In particular we thank Dr. Domanko, who has been so supportive over the years to both Mom and Dad, Dr. Davey of WDMH and Dr. Lyengar of the Queensway Carleton. Nurses, we can only sum it up with ... you were outstanding!

In lieu of sending cards of thanks for the donations received, the family will make donations to the organizations of Henry's choosing, the WDMH and Wycliffe Bible Translation. Thank you.

It is deeply appreciated and will always be remembered by the family of Henry Geurkink, Jessie, Shirley, Ron and Brenda, Brenda and families
