Close race for second place in Atom League

With only two games left for each team to play prior to the finals, a battle for second place is shaping up between Winchester, Dunbar and Chesterville Blues of the local Atoms hockey leagus. Only two points separate 2nd and last places. Riding the crest of a two-game winning streak, the Chesterville Aces are out in front, leading the pack by a not-to-comfortable two point lead.

In recent action, a game scheduled for Saturday Feb. 3rd suffered the baseball players complaint - the game was rained out. It was played the following Wednesday with the Aces getting by Dunbar 1 - 0. The goal was scored by Barry Lajoie from Genier and Clement early in the first period. On the previous evening in Winchester, David Cross counted twice for the Blues as they turned back a rapidly-improving Winchester team 2 - 0. Assists went to Beckstead, L. Cook, Giroux and Smith.

The Winchester boys came on strong on Saturday, with the help of the new coaching staff of "Toe" Raistrick and "Punch" Imrie, they shut out the Blues 1 - 0 to register their first shutout of the season. Doug Crowder fired the winner in the second period, assisted by Angus and Rennick. At the same time in Dunbar, goals by Barry Lajoie and Jeff Smith were enough to defeat the Dunbar team 2 - 0. The goals for the Aces were assisted by Shane with two and Smith and Lajoie.

The next games see the two Chesterville entries squaring off on the local rink this coming Saturday morning at 9 a.m. and Dunbar paying their visit to the big Winchester arena on Tuesday at 5.30 p.m.

Newington winter carnival last Saturday found the village full of action and fun. In spite of the rough weather a good crowd was on hand at the rink in the evening to choose a winter carnival queen. Roxborough Agric. Society hold annual announce fair date change for 1968

In an effort to free the local fair from conflicts with other district fall fairs, the directors of the Roxborough Agricultural Society, at their annual meeting last Saturday, have decided that the annual fall fair in Avonmore will be held on Friday and Saturday, August 23rd and 24th, three weeks earlier than the usual dates.

The directors, in reviewing last year's program, felt that in so far as two other fall fairs were being held simultaneously there was little doubt that all three fairs suffered to a degree. In spite of this, M. F. McRae, secretary - treasurer of the Board, reported that there was an increase in attendance and interest.

It was agreed that the August dates would be an experiment. The dates, coinciding with the opening of the Central Canada Exhibition in Ottawa, met with the approval of several cattle exhibitors.

Calvin S. Grant, re-elected to the presidency for a second year, thanked the directors and members who had worked for a better fair in Centennial Year, an ambition which was realized in a variety of ways.

Stewart M. Crawford was elected as first vice-president and Glenn McIntyre to the position of second vice-president.

M. F. McRae was re-appointed as secretary - treasurer.

Rev. D. W. Pipe and Mrs Maurice Brunet were added to the Board of Directors.

Judged from the success of the English riding class of horses featured at last year's show, the feature will be repeated again this year. Mrs Maurice Brunet will be asked to be responsible for drafting a suitable prize list.

Jack H. Bush, general manager and grounds superintendent, reviewed the improvements made last year and outlined plans for the betterment of facilities in 1968. He spoke with considerable enthusiasm on erecting a new all-purpose building in the near future.

It was decided to keep the present format of the prize list for at least another year. The prize list underwent a thorough revision last year. An approach will be made to co-operating business men to give cash donations in lieu of merchandise prizes.

The society will again sponsor 4-H Calf Clubs in the district. Emphasis will continue to be placed on the school exhibits.

The six sweetest phrases in the language according to a survey are: "I love you," "Dinner is served," "All is forgiven," "Sleep till noon," "Keep the change," and "Here's that ten I owe you."

Power failure caused by car-accident

Temperature frigid outside cold ears by morning inside

The area served by the high voltage feeders reaching up from the Glen Becker transformer station was out of power for nearly five hours early Sunday morning. A careening automobile driven by E. Skuce of Winchester sheared a pair of service poles just north of Winchester CPR station. The 44,000-volt line was taken out and so was the feeder line into the village of Winchester proper. The accident occurred right at the village substation. That line was not in operation for two hours after the rest of the area was back in business.

Houses in Chesterville and district were rather cool by early morning. The lines went down at 2.50 a.m. and power was back by 7.50 a.m. Sunday The 5-hour outage left oil, gas and electric homes without heat while the thermometer hovered at about ten below. The wind of up to 20 miles per hour added to the chilling effect.

North Dundas District High School suffered some damage to its heating installations. The outage caught some of the venting systems open on the unit heaters. The cafeteria was flooded because of broken pipes, as were several classrooms in the second floor additions. The green house contents were nearly all badly frosted and most soft plants

Mrs Bert Gillard conducts meeting of Trinity U. C. W.

Mrs Bert Gillard conducted the meeting of Trinity United U.C.W., which was in the form of a money shower. Mrs Dalton Docksteader assisted as secretary and approximately 60 members and guests attended.

Worship was based on the theme "Prayers" and was conducted by Mrs Gillard and Mrs Lapp.

Merkley, Mrs Don Cross, Miss Ida B. Merkley, Mrs Geo. Barkley, Mrs G. Wemerman, Mrs Al Kilby, Mrs Wm. B. Hamilton and Miss Katie Harper.

Races this Sunday

Intense cold forced the cancellation of the Recreation Committee's snowmobile races last Sunday. Blowing snow and a falling thermometer caused the executive to call the races off. The weather cleared later but the cold stayed.

Ample parking area has been cleared at the Chesterville Fair grounds. The first events are slated to get underway at one-thirty sharp. A lively time is expected.

CRUMBS from Graham's Loaf

Every little while we have to have a hearty laugh at ourselves. We mean the messes we get into just reporting the news. This week is a good example. One of our daily compatriots found there had been an accident out on 401. That part was right. The rest of the gem was slightly garbled. Stewart Fisher was travelling west and a feller clobbered him as he travelled east. Damage was extensive. Actually Stuart F. Allan, village keeper of the Queen's mail, was sloping home after taking Ruth out to the service centre where she spends her spare time when not feeding and watering Stu. He followed a Highways snow plow as it came up to the turnoff near Hy. 31. Stu slowed up when the plow stirred up a snow cloud and a lad behind shortened the Allan car considerably.

When the snow had settled the accident turned out to be a rear end collision and postmaster Allan had a thick lip, two frosted ears and a pile of rather ruptured car. The Mercedes-Benz that clobbered him will also need some dental work in the grill area. Fortunately neither driver suffered any extensive injury. The post master does resemble Dumbo, the flying elephant, though. The Ubangi aspect is slowly subsiding to his normal smile.

This week we have had fun reading a small volume called "Spasybo." It tells in considerable detail of the experiences of a Canadian weekly newspaper publisher in Russia. Dan Murray is publisher of the Alaska Highway News, at Fort St. John, B.C. He enjoyed the trip to the country of the Reds but he was glad to come back to Canada. As he said in closing: "I'd just like to say that if there is anyone in Canada who thinks our way of life leaves a lot to be desired, I'd tell them to visit Russia." If you want a most enjoyable and amusing hour and a half, send Dan $2.50 at Fort St. John. His book will be well worth the money.

It is some time now that we have opened the eyes of Castle dwellers to the dangers inherent in the new female fashions. Having been raised on a strict diet of modesty and rectitude, we must needs raise an occasional outcry about the heights that are skirted in the name of fashion.

The easy sitting chairs of the Castle have been replaced with narrow hard benches. In the recent days of cushiony seats, there seemed to be several deplorable tendencies making themselves evident. The miniskirts of the visiting females would become merely a line of final defense against a flanking movement of considerable proportions. In spite of valiant efforts to tug, pull and otherwise stretch the material, no covering action was maintained. The only answer seemed to be benches that had no give, sag or creep. They are not very comfortable but one can sit facing the ladies now without either staring off over the left shoulder or appearing to leer.

The big frost the other night was hardly helped when hydro power suffered a breakdown. The only person comfortable at the Castle was the dog. He sleeps outside anyway. We paddled around in a very disjointed fashion wondering just what furniture we would burn first if things got any colder. And up at NDDHS the modern conveniences came apart at the seams and it took a day and a night to get things back to normal.

Out at S.S. No. 9, Miss Malloy would gather us all around the big iron stove when the weather was neither fit for man nor beast. School kids didn't matter too much and out there the only thing to freeze was the ink in the bottles. It always did that at night anyway, so who cared.

The sessions around the stove were fun. Everyone wore all his gear, the firewood would finally get the old pot belly burner red hot, and Doc Carroll would be persuaded to spin the rhyme about "And you can go to Derby town and see the same as I." About the time the goose grease was running out of the shoe pacs and various layers of clothing were hotting up the small boys, the teacher would call it a day and by 3.30 everyone would be sent home. We often wonder if it was the cold or the heat that made the lady call it a day. By the end of the week, farmer kids were ready for the Saturday night bath and it was better to not heat them up too much.

It was so much fun riding behind a horse, we hear, that people now get out and about behind little iron horses. And this Sunday come one-thirty in the afternoon the committee in charge will try again to set up the snowmobile races. Last Sunday turned up a windchill factor of a mere 45-below. Some folks thought that a mite cool.

OPINIONS . . . OURS AND OTHERS

The new school divisions—a headache?

The Robarts government has come forward with a further consolidation of power. This time the school system of the province is in for a drastic overhaul. It sounds fairly reasonable until the outlines become blurred with local problems. We are almost automatic in our outcry against certain changes in the status quo; this change is not adding anything but confusion.

The Three United Counties will undertake to run all the schools from Mountain to Williamstown. The system will be all-embracing with the exception of separate schools. These parochial units will amble along as usual with little interference from the outside. All public schools and secondary schools will be consolidated into a school division with one board to run it and with elected representatives as members of the board. The Counties' Council will show its authority by designating the municipalities or groups of municipalities that may elect board members. Separated towns and cities such as Cornwall will hold their own elections across the electorate for their board members. In both cases, the elections will be in designated areas and only for public school supporters. Members of the board to represent the separate schools, either in the city or out in the townships or villages, will be elected by a general vote across the counties.

The number of board members for the United Counties will be 16 of which at least 6 must be public school supporters. The other ten members may be either supporters of public or separate schools, depending on the equalized assessment as it applies to public or separate school supporters for residential and farm assessment.

The first thing that comes to mind in the picture of the new arrangements is the lack of participation offered the new board in separate school affairs. While public schools across the counties will come under the control of the new division board, they may well end up with a minimum number of public school ratepayers on the board. Cornwall will figure largely in the board's composition and it is getting to be quite a chunk of a city, with a heavy separate school assessment. The city will be afforded the number of board members according to their assessment divided by the total public school county assessment and multiplied by the board members allowed. As an example, if the total assessment for residential and farm came to $90,000,000, of which $45,000,000 supports public schools and $45,000,000 supports separate schools, the number of trustees to be elected by public school ratepayers is 45/90 of 16, that is 8; the number of trustees to be elected by separate school supporters would be in the same manner, 8. It must be noted here the above figures have no relation to the actual assessment figures of the city of Cornwall and the rest of the municipalities that make up the United Counties. We are merely simplifying the method used to reach the total number of board members. Actual figures are not available to the "Record" as this is being written. The city of Cornwall has never before entered directly into county affairs in such a manner.

The United Counties stretch a devil of a long way from east to west. Over against the Grenville border, down to beyond Lancaster is quite a hike. It is also going to be interesting to see what influence about two or at the outside three men will have under certain circumstances. They will represent Mountain District High School, North Dundas District High School, South Dundas District High School, North Stormont High School and all the township area public school boards of this west side. It will be up to the members of Counties Council to do a Solomon act and decide what boundaries to set when they start to hatch the egg of representation for the public school supporters. No problem exisits for the separate school supporters; they will be chosen by general vote across the whole division.

The plan presented by the Department of Education has a couple of nuggets of information that are less than realistic; at least a few things are being suggested that appear to be new when in reality, they are not so. In the matter of taxation, the eggheads suggest that at last the ratepayers will get a tax bill that will tell him exactly what he is paying for education. Anyone in Ontario who has been paying taxes and does not know what his local levy for education is, needs to learn to read. Tax bills for years have been spelling out the rate it costs for public, separate and secondary school education. Now it will come under a big fat lump of education cost with the figures set by the trustee board, but collected naturally by the local municipalities. To add to the general confusion, the trustee board will issue a separate tax bill for education. One good thing about the system: it does let the struggling councils get away from that great, big 50 per cent or more that had to be added to the local rates for school purposes. It will still have to be collected, but the target will be more visible for those who aim with ballots.

We think with pride of a tremendous example of co-operation and genuine desire to work together as is demonstrated by the big school at NDDHS. The new system of division control about to go into effect is going to dilute and depersonalize much of that spirit. The larger unit will need much more supervisory control from government trained personnel; one of the basics of getting larger is that of opening the door for even more bureaucratic control. The actual personal involvement by board members in local school affairs will become almost impossible. How can one man, or at the most two, participate in the round of official functions that have become part of the big central schools? It is doubtful if representatives from Lancaster will be anxious to sit in on a graduation at NDDHS when Williamstown is stirring up a little thing the same night or the next evening.

This newspaper has decried the vision or lack of vision of Toronto planners for many years. We still do, and this consolidation of schools is a further demonstration of the unreality of some of the ivory tower lads. We are spread all over the map, with a great amount of space between bodies. The threads of control will need to be as strong as Rapunzil's hair to keep a central school board informed and able to do its chores.

Hardly Olympic style, but we're getting there

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law is one of the loveliest people in the world. She is 72 years old and has never caused a minute's trouble. I realize I am a very lucky girl.

The only problem is that she has a laugh that sounds like a rooster crowing and it drives me out of my mind. The other night we asked two couples to join us at the theatre. Suddenly that unmistakable laugh pierced the silence. I felt my face get hot and I glanced at my husband who gave me that "Heaven help us" look.

One of our guests who is a newcomer to the city turned to me and said, "Did you ever hear such a hideous laugh in all your life?" I did not reply although I was tempted to say, "Yes, I hear it quite often. That's my mother-in-law."

Do you feel I should say something to the dear, sweet woman about her laugh? I am sure I could be tactful about it and she would not be offended. Please advise.—Philadelphia Q.

Dear Philly Q.: Say nothing. If you are lucky you will hear that laugh for another 10 years. And now I" tell you something that will be hard to believe—one of these days you will miss it.

* * * *

Dear Ann Landers: I spent last weekend with a friend who lives in another city. On Sunday she asked me if I wanted to attend church with her and I said yes. This woman and I are not of the same faith.

The ritual was foreign to me but I did my best to follow the services. I was greatly impressed by the beautiful music and the devotion of the worshippers. When the members of the congregation knelt I remained seated since people of my faith do not kneel when they pray.

Shortly after we arrived home my hostess let me know I had embarrassed her by remaining seated when the other worshippers knelt. I tried to explain that kneeling is not consistent with my religious training but she insisted that when in Rome one does as the Romans do. If I am wrong, I will apologize. What do you say?—L.L.L.

Dear L.L.L.: Kneeling is not part of my religion, either, and I do not kneel when I worship in churches and cathedrals. No Roman (in or outside Rome) has ever criticized me. In fact, they have always been most gracious and have made me feel welcome and comfortable.

* * * *

Dear Ann Landers: I am a boy who is 10 years old. I have a problem that is giving me grey hair at a very young age. My hair will be as white as Grandpa's by the time I am 12 if you don't help me with this problem.

My dog is named Pal. He is part collie and part German shepherd. Pal is my best friend. He likes my bed better than he likes his own bed and this is the problem. Mom does not want me to let Pal in my bed because she says it is not healthy. We give Pal a bath every week and we brush him in between times. He has never been sick in his life which is more than I can say for myself. Please tell Mom she is wrong.—Robert.

Dear Robert: If your Mom doesn't want Pal in your bed, that should settle it. Keep him out. I'm sure thousands of boys grow up sharing their beds with their dogs and they never got sick from it but I can see your mother's point and I'm on her side.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Send for the booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Write to Ann Landers in care of this newspaper enclosing 35c in coin plus 5c for postage and a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope.

PLAN WALK OVER POLE

Dr Roy M. Koerner's polar studies are going to be reversed this year—from the South Pole and North Pole.

The British-born Ohio State University glaciologist studied the snows of Antarctica for the university's institute of polar studies a year ago. This season, he is preparing to make scientific observations as part of a four-man British expedition across the North Pole.

Dr Koerner has been a staff member of the institute for five years. He said the North Pole party plans what it calls "the longest, coldest walk ever attempted by man" — from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitsbergen, north of Norway, behind dog sledges — a journey of about 16 months and some 3,000 miles.

O'Leary's wife woke in the middle of the night to hear her husband creeping about in the kitchen.

"What might ye be lookin' fer, darlin'?" she called out.

"Nothin'!" called back O'Leary.

"Oh," said his wife cheerfully, "then you'll find it in the bottle where the whisky used to be."

Osnabruck Centre W.I. holds February meeting

Mrs Delbert Flintoff, citizenship convenor, gave an interesting paper on the Yukon at Osnabruck Centre W. I. February meeting held at the home of Mrs John Grandaw.

Mrs Flintoff recommended the Yukon as a wonderful place for a trip. The scenery is beautiful and there are no traffic lights and no parking meters. She suggested, as interesting and informative reading, the book "People of the deer" by Farley Mawat.

Mrs Jake Grandaw, president, conducted the meeting. Mrs Jennie Flegg, secretary-treasurer, read the financial report and the correspondence. There were 20 members and 4 visitors present.

A number of completed articles were turned in for Canadian Save the Children fund. It was decided to order trees to replace a number of dead ones at Pleasant Valley cemetary. Plans were made for Summary Day.

Mrs Grandaw welcomed to the meeting, Mrs Gladstone Warner, a former life member of Osnabruck Centre Women's Institute. Mrs Warner now resides in Russell, and she brought greetings from Russell W. I.

Mrs Lloyd Gallinger read a letter from the International Correspondent of the Women's Institute in Victoria, Australia. The letter stated that their section of Australia they were experiencing the worst drought in living history. Many sheep had ded, and many mor had o be almost given away. The kangaroos are a menace, as they trample the crops.

Mrs Delbert Flintoff conducted a contest and passed out Valentine fortunes. The winner was Miss Eva Baker. The hostess and her assistants, Mrs Robert May and Mrs Lloyd Gallinger, served a delicious lunch. They were thanked by Mrs Obrey Cryderman.

Mrs Fred Cryderman will be hostess for the March meeting.

WEAVING WOLVES

The tale comes from Prague, Czechoslovakia, that three wolves drank the jar of homemade plum brandy a moonshiner had hidden in a field near Michalovce, a town near the Soviet border. Finding the wolves a bit wobbly the moonshiner loaded them on a cart and hurried off to collect a $165 bounty on the live animals. He got the reward but had to pay back $32.50 as a fine for his illegal distillery.

Busy week in North Stor. League

Finch wins first game in North Stormont Junior C Hockey League

The week's action in the North Stormont Junior C Hockey League saw Finch serve notice that they are not to be counted out of the play-offs. On Feb. 6, the Finch boys picked up their first victory of the season by defeating Chesterville 4 to 3.

Ian McLean opened the scoring after two minutes of play. H. Price added Finch's second goal, only to see Chesterville roar back with goals by B. Hutt and Bob Lajoie. The period ended in a 2-2 tie, but in the second Steve St. Pierre scored the lone goal giving Finch a 3-2 lead. St. Pierre picked his second goal in the third. At 9 minutes, D. Robinson scored for Chesterville to cut Finch's lead, but Jim Legue in nets for Finch held the Chesterville boys at bay for the last half to have Finch hit the win column for the first time. Eight penalities were handed out with majors going to McLean of Finch and Harper of Chesterville.

The second game of the night had Newington Flyers pitted against Avonmore. The Flyers extended their winning streak and defeated Avonmore 8 -5. The game was a free-wheeling, high-scoring one with relatively few penalties; three were called against Avonmore. In the first period, Bill Beaudette put the Flyers in the lead with Bob Grant replying for Avonmore. But in the second, the Newington boys found the mark and struck for four. Scorers were S. Tait, Kent Snetsinger, Harold Prieur and Larry Winters. Bob Grant picked up his second of the night in an effort to keep Avonmore in the game. Murray McMillan scored three goals for Avonmore, but his hat-trick was matched by the Flyer's Larry Winters scoring his second and third of the night. Kent Snetsinger finished off for Newington at 17 minutes with his second goal. The win moved Newington into sole possession of third place.

On Thursday the 8th, Finch led by Steve St. Pierre with two goals, defeated Berwick 4 - 2. St. Pierre put Finch in the lead after one minute of play in the first; in the second, Mike Casselman scored to tie it for Berwick. Bernard Foley and Ian MacLean scored for Finch early in the third. With six minutes left David Ouderkirk put Berwick back in the game, but in the final minute, St. Pierre put the game out of reach and gave Finch its second victory in as many nights. The week's play moved Finch out of the cellar and into a tie for fifth place with Chesterville.

The second game saw a determined bid by Chesterville upset the strong league-leading Osnabruck Juniors. In a tight low-scoring game, Dave Collins gave Osnabruck a 1-0 lead at the halfway mark of the first period. Chesterville came out in the second ready to play. At the 30 second mark D. Carkner equalized the score. Thirty-seven minutes of close, fast hockey followed until at 18 minutes of the 3rd Max Rutley of the Osna. team scored what proved to be the tie-breaking and winning goal. The win for Osnabruck moved them four points up on second-place Avonmore.

The Saturday contest between Newington and Berwick was postponed to a later date. With only seven games left in the regular schedule the action continues at Finch Community Arena this week.

N. Stormont Intermediates stage crowd-pleasers at Finch Centre

Supporters of the North Stormont Intermediate Hockey League were rewarded for being at the Finch Community Centre on Wednesday night for the teams served up two really enjoyable hard fought and cleanly played games.

In the opening game Morewood hung up an 8 to 4 win over Berwick as Ray Imrie and Ian MacNabb cleared the path with two goals each. Eddie Blais, R. Cayer, Cliff Steinburg and D. Cheney each had singles as the winners captured the first period 2 to 1, the middle frame 3 to 1 and the final 20 minutes 3 to 2. Berwick goals came from Mike Casselman, Ken Ouderkirk, K. Dingwall and Cliff Lang. Bert McMahon and Peter Verhoven, the rival net minders, turned in excellent performances as they were tested repeatedly. Only six minor penalties were awarded with Morewood having 4 and Berwick 2.

In the night-cap, Finch ground out a 6 to 4 victory over Crysler. With the score tied 4 times in the first 40 minutes of play, Finch finally took control after 11 minutes of the final period as Barry Brownlee sank his second goal of the game and added an insurance marker at the 19-minute mark to get his hat trick and push the game beyond Crysler's reach.

Steve St. Pierre scored twice for the winners with Percy Brownlee adding a single. Claude Cayer had two for Crysler with Andre St. Pierre and Pierre Courvile tipping in one each. Crysler picked up 3 of the the mnor penalties with Finch grabbing 2. Peter Monast was brilliant in the Finch net with Roger Charette giving a steady display as the opposing goaler.

The definite upswing in hockey interest throughout the district was noticeable on Friday night as the largest crowd of the season enjoyed the excellent double bill provided by the North Stormont Intermediate Hockey League at the Finch arena.

The opening game featured Finch vs Berwick with both teams playing with the usual vim and vigour. Finch captured this crowd pleasing game 5 to 2 after taking the first period 2 to 1, holding things level at 1-1 in the second and grabbing the final frame 2 to 0.

Barry Brownlee lead the Finch attack with two goals as Don Munro, John Neville and Steve St. Pierre assisted with singles. Ken Dingwall and Tom Moore scored for Berwick. Six penalies were handed out and shared equally.

Crysler edged Morewood 3 to 1 in the night cap. This game provided plenty of thrills as Crysler took the first and second periods with identical scores of 1 to 0 and held Morewood to a 1-1 draw in the final 20 minutes. Charette starred in the Crysler net as the Morewood snipers bombarded him and lost his shut-out when Ray Imrie sank one from close in during the third period. Andre St. Pierre, Claude St. Pierre and Peter Courville scored for Crysler.

COLLECTS ELEPHANTS

The story comes from Saint John, N.B., that seven-year-old George Letson heard of projects undertaken for Canada's Centennial and decided he wanted to celebrate himself. He did—with elephants.

During the year he collected 100 pictures and metal and stuffed elephants—one for each of Canada's birthdays since Confederation in 1867.

He took a shine to elephants in the summer of 1966 when he visited Animaland, a collection of animal models near Sussex, N.B.

"They have a statue of an elephant there and I'll bet it's bigger than a tree."

Most of the elephants were presents from family and friends.

"I have names for just about all my elephants," says George, "but sometimes I can't remember them all."

Your Federal Report ...

By Mrs Jean Wadds, M.P.

It is regrettable that the Federal Government did not interrupt its sittings so that all Members of Parliament could concentrate on the Constitutional Conference being held on Parliament Hill this week.

This has long been anticipated as the most important gathering in Canada's history as a federal state, in other words, since 1867. What happens here this week will at least influence, if not determine, the pattern this country will follow for the next hundred years. To those of us representing federal ridings, active in political competition and critical of the present federal government, it seems vital that we know first hand what was said. I find myself reacting very differently than some of the journalists writing about it. They have stressed different personalities and quotations and by-passed some that seemed most important to me. It was a wise decision, made by the Hon. Lester Pearson, to open the Conference to the television cameras. Canadians can see for themselves, form their own opinions, rid themselves of preconceptions and prejudices.

I have been one of those not unduly impressed by the unorthodox Minister of Justice, the Hon. Pierre Elliott Trudeau. I am the last person to demand dressing to the teeth, in fact, generally quite the opposite. However, it did seem that the new member in a worn tweed coat, ascot scarf or open-necked shirt, pale and sandal shod, was not likely to stay long in the formal rather dreary House of Commons. It was hard to tell whether he was completely relaxed or completely bored. It was harder still to imagine him putting in long hours of campaigning, or his acceptability in many parts of Canada.

Gradually rumour turned to fact and Mr Trudeau was becoming the favourite son of many prominent Canadians. Premier Bennett of British Columbia, Premier Joey Smallwood of Newfoundland both gave him glowing testimonials. His complete bilingualism, in fact biculturalism, gave him poise and authority in the famous two solitudes. Here it seemed was a young man with a brilliant scholastic background who completely understood both the French heritage and the British heritage. People pointed to his middle name "Elliott" and to the fact that he is a graduate of the University of Montreal, Harvard University, the University of Paris and the London School of Economics.

Knowing of the young man's longstanding friendship with Rene Levesque the alleged support of him for the Liberal leadership by the nationalistic Minister of Manpower and Immigration, Jean Marchand, his conduct at the Constitutional Conference was awaited with curiosity and interest.

It can only be said that he rose to the occasion. Gone were the sloppy, informal clothes. In a dark suit, white shirt and black tie he looked suddenly elegant. He sat erect, even Buddha like, and his former nonchalance now appeared as tight, alert concentration.

He quickly, expertly stated the case for a stronger, not weaker, federal government. He asked simply and effectively why French-speaking Canadians would want to be members of a federal government if they were only figure heads. If Quebec were given the special status she demanded, in the Quebec Parliament would be the action, the power and the challenge.

Mr Trudeau is too sphinx-like and too sophisticated to show much surprise, but he obviously was very surprised to find that many of the other Premiers showed a willingness to give all to Quebec, more than he as a French Cabinet Minister would expect.

To me, as an English Canadian, it was the most startling moment of the whole debate on national unity when this French Minister said "If the other provinces allow Quebec to have her cake and eat it — with icing and candles — then why should I as a Quebec resident, a French Canadian, be the one to object?"

Mr Trudeau expressed concern, a concern I feel, as to what the Province of Quebec really means by equality.

Mr Pearson's jocular style may serve well in some diplomatic struggles but his timing was bad when he said "ten and one make two. That's the new mathematics." It appeared that even his Minister of Justice does not agree that 10 and 1 make 2.

Hungarian partridge make substantial gains

The Hungarian partridge population has held up well during the past few years in spite of fairly heavy hunting pressure that has been exerted on this much admired game bird.

There was a noted increase during 1967 in the number of birds reported by hunters and many coveys of twelve to twenty-five birds were observed during July and August.

Weather was very wet last Spring but this did not seem to affect the hatching period to any extent.

Hunting conditions were very good as many grain fields were left unharvested. Some fields of cob corn were not harvested until after the freeze-up. These fields provided excellent cover for the birds and no doubt made hunting a little more difficult. However, anyone hunting with a good dog had little or not problems in finding birds. Without a dog one may walk past a covey within ten to twenty yards and the birds will sit tight and not flush.

During the hunting season of 1967, four hundred and thirty-five birds were aged and sexed and the proportion of adults to juveniles was: adults 16.3%, juveniles, 83.7%.

During the last two months, numerous coveys of nine to 18 birds have been observed in many parts of the District. With normal weather conditions and protection given these birds, along with the co-operation of many farmers who feed a number of birds during the critical periods, we look forward to as good or better population of Hungarian partridge for the season of 1968.—D. O. Sylvester, Fish and Wildlife Supervisor, Ont. Dept. Lands and Forests.

STUFFED KIWI A REAL HIT

A stuffed kiwi, pressed into service at Auckland, N.Z., zoo as a photographic model, has been such a success that it has been given a permanent job.

The kiwi, a strange flightless bird with hair instead of feathers, is the New Zealand national symbol, but it is rare.

Auckland zoo recently was down to one kiwi, and it became so exhausted from being produced constantly to pose for photographers that the zoo authorities put a stuffed kiwi on display in an ideal pose for photographs. Few photographers noticed that it was not alive.

The zoo kiwi colony has since been augmented, but the new birds are taking time to adjust to civilization and publicity. Meanwhile the stand-in kiwi is carrying on with the job.

EVERYBODY EATS TRY THESE

STRETCHING THE FOOD DOLLAR

WITH RISING COSTS FACING US on every side, we should try to stretch the food dollars as far as possible. Here are some recipes and ideas from the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food to help us do just that.

Using left-overs in an appetizing way is always a good means of saving pennies.

- ¼ cup butter
- 3 tbsps. flour
- 1¼ tsp onion
- 2 cups milk
- ¾ cup cooked, sliced carrots
- ½ cup cooked peas
- 4 cups hot, mashed potatoes
- Slices of cooked pot roast
- Melted butter

For White Sauce — Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and seasonings, stir until smooth. Add milk slowly and cook until smooth and thick; stir constantly. Add half of the peas and carrots.

Preheat broiler. Heap potatoes around edge of 10" x 6" x 2" baking dish. Spoon most of white sauce into centre of baking dish; layer slices of pot roast in the sauce. Spoon remaining sauce over meat and distribute remaining vegetables over this. Brush meat and vegetables with melted butter. Broil 5 minutes or until golden brown and heated through. Makes 6 servings.

Pink Salmon Saves Money

Canned pink salmon, though less highly coloured than Sockeye or Coho salmon, has the same nutrient value, practically the same flavour, and will save you money. One 7¾-oz. can of pink salmon costs about 12c to 14c less than the medium red Coho and about 22c to 25c less than the deep red Sockeye. The money saved using pink salmon combined with other ingredients in a salmon casserole will more than compensate for its paler colour. When colour is important, it can be easily achieved with a drop of food colour.

Seven Seas Casserole

- 10 oz. condensed cream of mushroom soup
- ⅓ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 1/3 cup water
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 1/3 cup Minute rice
- 10 oz. frozen peas, partially thawed
- 7 oz. pink salmon
- ½ cup grated cheese
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- Pepper
- Paprika

Combine soup, water, lemon juice, salt, and pepper in a saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Pour about half of this mixture into a 1½-quart casserole. Then, in layers, add rice (uncooked), peas, and salmon. Add remaining soup. Sprinkle with cheese and paprika. Cut through the mixture with a knife after about 10 minutes of baking to help distribute the soup mixture. Casserole is done when rice is tender. Makes 4 servings.

Beef Stew

The chive biscuits add a new touch to beef stew, which is always an economical dish.

- 1½ lbs. stewing beef
- ½ cup seasoned biscuit mix
- 1 small clove garlic, cut up
- 2/3 cup commercial sour cream
- Chive biscuits (recipe below)
- ½ cup cooked tomatoes
- 2 onions, chopped
- 3 large carrots, sliced
- 3 potatoes, cut in chunks
- ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Roll beef in seasoned biscuit mix. Brown meat thoroughly on all sides in hot fat. Add vegetables and garlic, sauté until onions are transparent. Add enough water to cover the vegetables and meat. Cover tightly and cook over low heat until meat is tender (1½ to 2 hours). Add more water if necessary during cooking. Add sour cream, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Heat over to 425 degrees F. Pour stew into a 2-quart casserole and cover hot mixture with chive biscuits. Bake 15 to 20 minutes.

Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Chive Biscuits

Add 2/3 cup commercial sour cream, 1/3 cup water, and 1 tablespoon chopped chives all at once to prepared biscuit mix (2 cups). Beat hard for 20 strokes; knead 8 to 10 times; cut about 12 biscuits.

Food Bargains

When shopping for food "specials," make sure that the "special" price is really special. Genuine bargains in food may result when a product is in good supply, or when a retailer overbuys and wants to move the product quickly off his shelf. Frequently, too, retailers may purchase an item at an especially good price passing the saving on to consumers. Items may also be offered at exceptionally low prices to attract customers into the store.

When buying any food "special," it is wise to check the grade and quality carefully, ensuring that the bargain price is lower than usual compared to an item of the same grade and quality.
