Brinston Team Wins Midget Tournament

See Page Four Pictures

Brinston Midgets captured the first place position and received a cheque for $50.00 for their efforts during the Midget Ball Tournament here Saturday last.

There were only six teams entered in the tournament but all reported an enjoyable day and some excellent ball games.

Runner-up during the day was a team from Gloucester South, who received a $25.00 cheque for their efforts.

The weatherman threatened to cancel the event early in the day but as the morning wore on and the teams arrived, the skies cleared enough to get the games underway.

Teams entered were from Iroquois, Pakenham, Mountain, Brinston, Osgoode, Gloucester South.

Legion Ladies' Auxiliary members were lephopping during the day, serving hot dogs and drinks to the teams and to an excellent attendance of fans who showed up to watch the games during the day and into the evening.

A special thanks has been extended to the Iroquois Lions Club for the generous use of their new eating booth for both this tournament and the tournaments of a week ago involving Junior and Intermediate teams.

Prescott Band To Play Here Sun., Aug. 22nd

Arrangements have been completed to have the South Grenville District High School band "Summer Sound '71" play a concert in Iroquois this month.

The concert will be presented out-of-doors on Sunday, August 22nd, at the camping grounds just off Carman Road from 6.30 to 8 p.m.

The band will be playing at Upper Canada Village in the afternoon and will stop over in Iroquois on their way home.

Plans are to have the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion prepare a hamburger-hot dog feed for the youngsters in the band at 5 p.m.

The visit of the band will coincide with the many other events planned for that weekend, including the Fly-in Breakfast Sunday morning and lawn bowling and ball tournaments at the weekend.

Mourn J. E. Milligan

James E. Milligan, a well-known cattleman, horseman and farmer in this district for many years, died July 11th. For many years he had also been a buyer for Canada Packers and through these associations and the 33 years that he spent as a Councillor on Matilda Township Council, he made many friends and acquaintances who mourn his passing.

Mr. Milligan was born August 25, 1890, on the Matilda Township farm where he lived all his life and where his father before him (the late Thomas Milligan) was born in 1858.

The funeral service was held at Weagant Funeral Home at South Mountain with burial at Hainsville Cemetery.

Pallbearers were John Thompson, Percy Gilmer, Garnet Sears, Dwight Gilmer, Harry Patterson and Dalton Dillabough.

Surviving are two sisters Mrs. T. P. Maxwell, Ottawa, and Mrs. J. A. Girard, Arlington, Va; nephews and nieces, Miss Viola Milligan, Iroquois; Dr. Thomas M. Maxwell, Mountain; Mrs. A. G. Davidson, Ottawa; Mrs. D. R. Henderson, Monroe, N.Y.; Richard and Janet Girard, Arlington, Va.

Efforts Being Made To Attract Doctor Here

Following numerous requests by Iroquois residents, the Village Council has instituted measures which it is hoped will attract a resident doctor to the community.

The move comes after the local clinic office closed last month and on the retirement of Dr. C. R. Marcellus who had served the village and district for many years.

St. Lawrence Medical Clinic, with its office located at Morrisburg, serves the area but residents of the village feel the need for a resident doctor and an office in the village for those without cars or who find it an inconvenience to travel out-of-town.

Advertisements are being placed in medical journals and letters have been written to medical schools in the hopes of bringing a doctor to the community.

MEETING THURSDAY

Anyone interested in Summer Carnival weekend and offering ideas are invited to a public meeting, Thursday night in Civic Centre.

Fredrick Wellington "Cyclone" Taylor, one of hockey's great immortals and the oldest living professional hockey player, was a recent visitor to Upper Canada Village and other recreation facilities operated by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

Although advanced in years he was keenly interested in the recreational complex developed by the Commission and in a leisurely tour accompanied by Dr. K. A. Phillips, Commissioner and G. W. Arthurs, Public Relations Officer, discussions on the history of Loyalist Settlement and hockey provided a delightful contrast.

While "Cyclone" was reluctant to talk about his personal fame and contribution to hockey he reminisced about those early days and the many changes in the sport which have occurred over the years. Born at Tara, Ontario he played his first hockey in Listowel and when about twenty years of age moved to Portage La Prairie to play in the Manitoba Senior Amateur League. In 1905, 1906, and 1907 he played in the International Professional League in the United States, which was the fore-runner of Professional Hockey and at that time there were no ice markings whatever.

In December 1907, Canadian Hockey promoters started teams in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal and Quebec and these four teams were the real beginning of Pro Hockey in Canada. In Ottawa "Cyclone" became one of the famous "Silver Seven" and stayed two years. Coached by Pete Green, The Silver Seven-Percy Lesure at Goal, Harvey Pulford at the Point, Cyclone Taylor at Cover-point, Marty Walsh at Centre, Harry Westwick at Rover, Alf Smith at Right Wing and Tom Phillips at Left Wing-wrote a chapter in hockey that will live as long as the game is played.

As we strolled through the Village "Cyclone" recalled, with a twinkle in his eye, the famous occasion on March 17, St. Patrick's Day, 1910, when he skated backwards the length of the ice to score a legendary goal.

While playing hockey at Portage La Prairie in Manitoba, Sports Writers nicknamed him "Tornado". Later when playing the U. S. Professional Hockey League he was called "Thunderbolt". After scoring four goals in a game at Ottawa, Sport Writer Malcolm T. Brice of the Ottawa Free Press christened him "Cyclone" and this nickname has remained all through the years.

With some nostalgia "Cyclone" recalled that when he went to play for the Renfrew Millionaires he was paid $5,250 for one year of course was an exceptional salary at the time.

During his hockey career he always played at the "Coverpoint". It was not until 1911 when the Patrick Brothers initiated the numbering hockey sweaters that "Cyclone" wore number Four and did so for the remainder of his hockey career. Up to this time hockey games were sixty minutes duration with no substitutions and again it was the Patrick Brothers who started the three twenty minute periods.

Taylor played on two Stanley Cup teams, in Ottawa in 1909 and Vancouver in 1915.

The son of a member of Parliament of Burrard, B.C. "Cyclone" was married in 1914 and has five children. He has had many honours, He was the first living hockey player to be elected to the Hall of Fame in 1948. He was awarded the OBE in Turn Off The Tube!

The "boob tube" has become more of a way of life in this country than the hot dog or the hamburger. As a matter of fact, so much so, that there isn't a place left that isn't being invaded by the machine.

During the past week we've seen TV sets in trailers and sitting outside at camp grounds, with people ringed in a semi-circle watching old movies that they wouldn't have taken the time to go to see at a theatre, yet they sit glued to the picture as if the end of the world was coming and they didn't want to miss the mess.

Here we are in the midst of summer when we Canadians take to the great outdoors, accompanied by thousands of American neighbours who think we have the greatest camping country in the world, and instead of getting our bellies tanned and our lungs full of fresh country air, we sit in cramped quarters viewing mankind's imitation of entertainment.

But there are those who take walks in the moonlight, sit in the sun until they're one brown shade, take dips every hour in the pool or river, cook their meals over an open fire or just sit in the shade of the nearest tree and contemplate.

We like the latter approach to summertime, but realize that we're in the minority and that there's little we can do about it. Even if we had the ambition to try!

Now that we've hit that month of August we can see the bend in the summertime road and without much effort, realize that Fall will soon be upon us, then Winter and Christmas.

Not that we're wishing our life away, but by mentioning it we thought we might tempt a few more people into taking better advantage of summer while they still have time.

Getting back to Nature for a while may have a desired effect on many of us who, for the remainder of the year, just don't have time to enjoy this benefit. When we talk to visitors to our country, who drive upwards of a 1,000 miles to live in our wooded areas, we should realize that we've got something here that we should appreciate more. Maybe it takes others to remind us of what we have and take for granted?

Off The Hook?

The possibility that 18-year-olds will be given full rights to enter into binding business agreements will come as welcome news to many parents who hitherto have had to back their youngsters with their assurance of paying the bill should the son or daughter default.

On the other hand, many merchants will take a close look at this credit, especially if the 18-year-old is unemployed.

Finance companies, banks and any lending institutions will already be holding directors' meetings to decide just how to handle this new and large sector of the economy!

With "rights" come "responsibilities"... a hard and fast rule no matter what the generation or its gap!

BLACK TIE FUSS LEAVES BILL COLD

By Bill Smiley

Well, here we are half-way through the summer, and I've been having a whale of a time on my holidays.

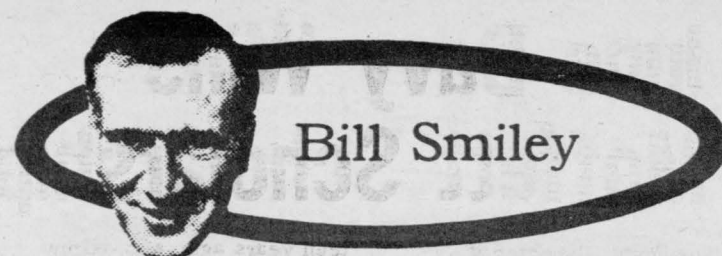

The farthest I've been away from home, with friends scooting to Europe, the west coast, the east coast, is out to the hotel to deliver or pick up my daughter the waitress, ten miles. I've played five holes of golf, been in swimming once, and haven't even got my fishing rod out of the trunk of the car, where it's been since last summer.

If that makes you think I must be a pretty useless tool, you're dead on.

Somehow, the days fly by. They remind me of tracer bullets, which come screaming straight at you and for some reason, miss and disappear. Good old tracer bullets; may I never see one again.

But that reminds me there is one bright spot ahead. The Canadian Fighter Pilots Association is having its biennial gathering at the end of the summer and I'm invited to go and poison myself for three days in the company of other sprightly, sagging, balding, paunching chaps, 99 per cent of whom I have never met.

It might be fun, but I think I'll pass it up. These re-unions are more saddening than joyful. I'd get more fun out of taking out the old album and looking at what I was in those days: sloppy hat, top button undone, handlebar moustache and a devilish twinkle in my eye.

My daughter says the twinkle is still there, though my wife lifts her eyebrows. I just snort. That's the best answer when you're not sure of your ground.

Perhaps the real reason I won't go is that for one of the dinners, there is a note saying "Black tie optional". Actually, I look pretty danged distinguished in a black tie, but I detest everything the phrase stands for: pseudo-sophisticated middle-class snobbery.

I'm not knocking the old fighter pilots. Most of them came from pretty humble surroundings, as I did, and have done well in life. After all, we were the pick of the crop (and no snorting, please, from the army and navy, who gave us a hand occasionally and got in our way frequently).

But "black tie optional" is a bit rich for my blood. And I can hear all the dead ones hooting with laughter at this innocent bit of pomposity. And I wonder how many of the alcoholics and the failures will be there, black tie or none.

And there's another reunion. It's a prisoners-of-war (air force) deal. This, too, I'd enjoy if I knew anybody. But I tried one or two of these and wound up as lonely as a lobster at a clam-bake.

All these fat, red-faced Canadians pounding each other on the back and retelling ancient lies, while I looked for one familiar face. All my friends in prison camp were Czechs and Poles and Norwegians and Rhodesians and South Africans and Irish and Welsh and Scots. Must have been in the wrong camp.

And of course there's the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association coming up. I still have a special relationship with the weeklies, and many good old friends among their editors. At least I don't feel like an outsider at their conventions.

But I probably won't go. Who would drive Kim to work? Who would settle the fights between her and her mother? Who would continue to fail to put up the new clothes-line and repair the handle on the bathroom door? No, I'm essential right here, at home.

It's not that I'm anti-social. I'd thoroughly enjoy mixing it up with old fighter pilots, old p.o.w.'s and old editors. And I could prob-

My sons, Jack and Freddie, are great surfboard riders. They can outride me any day, and because there's not much at which they can beat me (yet), they are tickled pink about it.

I don't mind. I remember how proud I was the day I beat my Dad at golf. He shook my hand and acknowledged that I was growing up.

I learned much from Dad. He was a lot of fun, and yet I valued just as much his serious moments. There was no doubt about his deep and abiding love for God. The memory of his quiet voice speaking of God steadied me through several rough spots in my life.

That's why on Sunday mornings I start to church with a boy on each side of me. I want God to be a reality in their lives as He has been in mine.

June Davy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Davy, of Cardinal is the happy recipient of the George M. Moffett Scholarship awarded annually by the Whitehall Foundation to the sons and or daughters of The Canada Starch Company Limited—a member company of CPC International, Inc.

June's father is a millwright mechanic in the Machine Shop at the Cardinal Plant of The Canada Starch Company Limited.

June is a 1971 graduate of South Grenville D.H.S., Prescott, Ontario. She has been active in concerts and bands and has won honors in all subjects. She plans to use her scholarship at the University of Guelph.

Winners are chosen on the basis of scholastic ability, personality, participation in extra-curricular activities and other indications of character and capability. There were 32 George M. Moffett Scholarships awarded to sons and daughters of CPC International who are secondary school seniors.

Ten Honorary Awards are given worldwide with primary emphasis upon the student's academic achievement, character, and future promise. These students have no financial need but have to keep the same high standards while working toward their degrees.

The scholarships are renewable for the regular four-year degree course, if the students continue to meet the standards of the scholarship Selection Committee. Scholarships for the college student applicants are for the balance of time required to attain a degree.

Since the Moffett Scholarship program started fourteen years ago, approximately 750 scholarships have been awarded. By the end of this year, the Whitehall Foundation will have paid over $1,600,000 to George M. Moffett scholarship participants; making this one of the nation's largest programs offering financial assistance for higher education to corporate employees and their children.

George M. Moffett was President of Corn Products from 1931 to 1945. The company today is a leading manufacturer and marketer of consumer and industrial products. CPC International Inc. has 44,000 employees operating at more than 115 plants and research facilities in the U.S. and 39 countries abroad.

Buckle Those Belts!

Seat belts, when used, have proven time and again that they do save lives.

When a vehicle is in collision with another object, everything inside the vehicle becomes a missile hurtling forward at a tremendous rate of speed. If you and your passengers are not buckled up, you also become missiles streaking ahead at the rate of speed you were travelling before the accident.

The mere thought of bones being crushed when striking metal in the car or skin being lacerated and torn while going through the windshield should be enough incentive to make you buckle up your seat belt before you set the car in motion.

Seat belts can save lives, but only if they are being used. Remember, buckle up for safety sake.

Ontario provincial police in Dundas County patrolled 10,257 miles while working 830 hours. During this period, 66 charges were laid while 62 warnings were issued under the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario.

Ontario Provincial Police from Morrisburg investigated 5 thefts, 1 break and enter, and 26 miscellaneous complaints.

One person was charged for theft, while one other person was charged with impaired driving. Four persons were charged under the Liquor Control Act of Ontario.

Letter To The Editor

Mr. Editor:

Many citizens have expressed recently in private conversation the pleasure they gained by attending the Third Annual Canadian Legion Branch 370 Fastball Tournament.

In relation to such a function, I would like at this time on behalf of all the community and area to compliment the members of Royal Canadian Legion Branch 370 firstly for having the foresight to promote this event and secondly to congratulate them on an outstanding performance in presenting their Third Annual Tournament.

Few People if any realize that these organizers spent several hours attending meetings working on plans so that everything would operate like clock-work.

In addition, they were responsible for being in attendance to execute the various aspects of this event on Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday from 8 a. m. to midnight.

The results of their labour were successful. However, a feeling that more people should have attended the attraction their generosity in supporting our community and its many needs year-in and out.

Finally, after working on their own tournament July 23 to 25th, on Saturday July 31st, they once again demonstrated their goodwill and administered a day long Midget Tournament.

Gentlemen enough cannot be said as to how several citizens enjoyed both your projects and the food you served was another highlight of the promotion where here may be a bouquet issued the Auxiliary for their effort at the various food booths.

In conclusion on behalf of all the community, I personally wish to compliment all those connected with the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 370 for a job well done and like many, look forward to your tournament in 1972. Congratulations!!

Sincerely,
Leo J. De Bellefeuille.

Miss Kuhlman's ministry is heard on several radio stations, inclusive of C. J. E. T. Smiths Falls (Monday thru Friday at 2:00 p. m.) and she is also seen on certain television channels.

In many communities, people who have received help have established bus service to Pittsburg, and areas such as Cornwall, Brockville, Smiths Falls and Perth have regular pilgrimages monthly.

The spirit of inquiry has taken me to Pittsburg three times, and I am convinced that Miss Kuhlman is authentic in her ministry of healing, and in her desire to renew within the Christian community a Christ centred, Spirit-filled healing ministry.

Miss Kuhlman will be at the O'Keefe centre in Toronto on August 29th, doors opening at 1 p. m. Those who are planning to go are wise to arrive several hours early.

Stuffed Shirts

It was Daddy's birthday, and we'd bought him a purple shirt.

Quite a decent shirt, actually, if the price was anything to go by, and it looked pretty dashing lying there in the silver box. They'd decorated the shirt with a cardboard bow-tie which showed through the cellophane window in the box, and as I said to the children, it's great the trouble they take these days in packaging a thing so that it looks good. In the old days you'd wander into a store and have a rake around until you found the shirt you wanted, and it would be hanging there on a rack among a dozen others, with nothing at all to make it look special.

I though my husband winced a little when he opened the wrapping paper and got his first glimpse of the colour.

"It is one of the 'IN' shades this year, isn't it?" I asked anxiously.

"Yeah it's in all right, he assured me. Margie pointed out that it would go with the veins in his nose, which wasn't very tactful, but he laughed anyway. He didn't think he had any 'IN' trousers to wear with it, but I said we'd all keep our eyes open, and with a little luck Santa Claus might find a pair of matching purple pants by Christmas.

"Try it on, Daddy," the little ones pleaded, "we wanna see ya in the purple shirt."

"All right," Daddy agreed, taking it out of the box, "but it'll be a fast try-on because I've to be in town in half an hour."

It took a little time to locate all the pins that had been used to skewer the sleeves to the body, and of course we had to hunt for the one that fell on the floor, because the baby is crawling everywhere now.

Daddy found it, sharp side up, but he said it was just a little prick and he didn't have time to bother with a bandaid.

"You'll bleed to death," said Susan matter-of-factly, and three year old Hilary sat on the floor with her blanket and chanted. "Bleedin' Daddy, bleedin' Daddy, bleedin' Daddy" until her brother told her pleasantly to shut up or we'd have a bleedin' Hilary, too.

All the buttons had to be undone (would you believe they'd even fastened the sleeves) and it was while he was struggling with the middle one we noticed he'd got a blood stain right there on the pocket.

"Never mind, dear", I

MILK PRODUCERS GROUP
HOLD PICNIC ON LAWN
AT C. McINNIS HOME

The former executive of the Brockville Concentrated Milk Producers Association accompanied by their wives enjoyed a picnic on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McInnis on Sunday, August 1st.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore of Lyn, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hanna, Jasper; Mr. and Mrs. George Montgomery, Cardinal; Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Spicer, Fairfield; Mr. and Mrs. Rae McKinley, Algonquin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ferguson, Ottawa West; Mrs. Clifford Stead, Brockville and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McInnis, Iroquois.

All enjoyed a delicious smorgasbord dinner served by the ladies. Following lunch the ladies wandered about the spacious lawns and admired the many lovely roses, Tea roses, Floribundas, Grootendorst, Hanson and Cabbage roses. Further along their admiring glances turned to two long rows of double petunias all in full bloom, with marigolds in the centre. Also the large bed of single petunias with the sunflowers in the background saying good morning to all. The ladies were amazed at the long bed of dahlias of many colours, some over six feet tall. The ladies were each presented with a rose at the end of their tour.

Birthday cards were signed by all present and sent to Mr. Floyd Bissell of Ingle-side and Mr. Bryon Bennett of Algonquin, both of whom are ill.

The men discussed the plight of the dairy farmer, perhaps 30% of who have been forced to quit the milk cow herds since the present milk Marketing Board started operations.

soothed, "a little salty water will take it out completely, make it good as new again."

Before the top button could be unfastened Daddy had to take off the cute bow tie, and it turned out that the cardboard went all the way around the neck as well. I guess he felt he was running short of time a little, because he did sort of yank at the top button after the tie came off, and -- you guessed it--the button pinged off too.

We don't know where it went.

"Try it on, anyway, I urged, because were all waiting to see him in it, so after hauling out the cardboard cunningly hidden inside the shirt, he tried it on.

As I said to the children after Daddy left for town, you can't depend on things these days, and just because a shirt box states that the shirt inside has a 34 inch sleeve is no guarantee that this will be the case. They'd be further ahead to scrap their crummy packaging and hang their stupid shirts on a plain hanger, for Heaven's sake, where a man could quietly try the thing on or his wife could measure the sleeve before good money was paid for it, and while I did something about this idiot-bloodstain--as if I hadn't enough to do already without putting around the sink dabbing salty water on shirts that hadn't been worn--would they all get down on hands and knees and hunt for the scrubby, worthless, piddling top button.

14th WEEKLY REPORT FROM F. M. CASS, Q. C., M.P.P.

Fourth Session Ends - And It Looks Like An Election This Fall

The fourth and probably last Session of the Ontario Parliament finally adjourned on Wednesday, July 28th, after three late night sittings ending at 2 a.m., 3.15 a.m. and 4.30 a.m. respectively and with the House re-opening each following day at 10 a.m. Consequently the Members and the House staff have welcomed the Summer Recess.

All Departmental Estimates were completed and the Supply Bill to provide money for provincial government services during the current year duly passed. Although the debate on the budget was not completed. Prior to adjournment some 21 new bills were given Royal Assent to bring the total for this Session to some 125. Among this last group were several very important and rather controversial bills such as that to initiate no-fault automobile insurance, to preserve the environment, to regulate pits and quarries, to enfranchise young people at the age of 18 and give legal liquor consuming rights to them (although the sections of the bill to convert young people into adults at law at age 18 with full contract and other similar rights and powers, will not be proclaimed in force for some time) and certain changes in the Election Act.

Whether or not this Legislature will meet again in late summer or early fall remains, of course, in the sole discretion of Prime Minister Davis. There is important legislation which it seems the Government would wish to have enacted before a general election, but an early dissolution of this Parliament followed by an election in early September is quite a possibility.

Despite its late opening, due to changes in the Conservative Party and Government leadership, the present fourth

Session of the 28th Parliament of Ontario has recorded, as outlined above, an impressive list of legislation, much of it making changes in long standing laws but reflecting the changing attitude of our people - such as voting and drinking, environment preservation, more lenient laws concerning consumption of alcohol.

Should the Legislature be dissolved and the general election called without completing this Session just ended, this will, of course, be my last report to you, my constituents for so many years. I have appreciated the courtesy of the Editor in printing these short reports each week during the various Sessions; equally have I appreciated the many comments from readers.

Olive joins me in wishing all a safe, restful and happy summer.

Be On Guard For Counterfeit Money

The counterfeit and forgery section of the anti-rackets branch, Ontario Provincial Police, warn the public that counterfeit American currency is again being passed throughout Ontario.

Denominations of ten, twenty, fifty and one hundred dollars are being passed off on the unsuspecting public. The most popular, however, is a counterfeit ten which should be easy to detect because of poor printing on the face of the note. It is described as a very poor facsimile. The five most common serial numbers that have appeared on the tens to date are:

A 30593255 C
A 37954162 A
B 95468355 A
A 94238850 A
A 29198289 B

The public is advised that should they suspect they have received a counterfeit note the following steps be taken:

1. Do not return it to the passer-even if he offers to exchange it for a genuine note.
2. Delay the passer on any excuse if at all possible.
3. Call your police division or department
4. Mentally obtain a good description of the passer.

If he runs out or leaves before the arrival of the police attempt to obtain his vehicle license number and write it down.

5. If you suspect you have a counterfeit hot do not attempt to pass it off. The sentence for knowingly passing off a counterfeit note is up to 14 years.

OFF THE CUFF

By Charles Edwards

One of the privileges granted to anyone who owns or rents a piece of this earth is the right to do battle with the weeds that would overrun his paradise. For the last few years we've had a running fight with a patch of something quite aptly called Creeping Charlie. It crept in quite unobtrusively a couple of years ago and has been creeping across the whole lawn ever since. Actually the stuff isn't that offensive when you come right down to it. Unlike most weeds, it grows close to the ground and doesn't need cutting. And it's certainly harder than grass. It can withstand heat, rain, or drought and still continue to creep relentlessly across the finest turf, choking out even the dandelions.

In any cast tradition dictates that getting rid of weeds is the honourable thing to do so we set out with sprayer in hand to conduct the purge. A light breeze was blowing that proved to our undoing. Just a scent of the weed killer was enough to finish off several delicate flowers in the neighbours yard. They promptly curled up their leaves and died. It didn't bother the creeping Charlie, but at least it killed off the dandelions so all was not lost.

Winter came and went and with the first sunny Spring day came a new crop of Creeping Charlie. Improved technology and a five dollar bill provided a new type of spray guaranteed effective against the spread of our friend Charlie. Effective it was and it killed anything with a leaf that was broader than a cheque book on Christmas Eve. A week after the spraying there wasn't enough greenery to provide a snack for a diet conscious rabbit. The relief was quite temporary. The small print on the can points out that one application is required every two months in the first season, and the reason was obvious in a couple of weeks. The little round leaves began their relentless quest to take over the whole yard. Another spraying slows them never-ending battle. Which just goes to show that when the artificial turf which is

In spite of continuing concern expressed by foresters over the past few decades the practice of excessive grazing farm woodlots continues. No woodlot will remain in good condition when livestock are allowed to graze it.

Livestock grazing in a farm woodlot will browse the hardwood seedling growth of valuable species such as, sugar maple, white ash and basswood, leaving species of little or no timber value such as, ironwood, blue beech and ribes plants to take over.

Heavy grazing livestock will trample and break young sapling growth and their hooves will upset the delicate humus layer which serves to hold moisture.

The bark on older buttressed tree roots will be damaged exposing the wood in places to infection by wood rooting fungi.

An overall decline in the health and vigour of the trees will be noticed over a decade or so. An absence of being used on football fields is sold for lawns, it should be the hottest thing since sliced bread. Then instead of spraying, we can vacuum or wash the back yard.

The Pastured Woodlot

seedlings of valuable timber species will be noted. A compaction of the forest floor will occur as the humus and litter layers are distributed. The main canopy layer of trees will gradually thin out as trees die thus exposing the forest floor to increased light. The light permits the establishment of grasses and a sod layer which largely prevents any further establishment of seedlings.

Continued heavy grazing causes dieback in the crowns of the once healthy trees. It also causes defective boles and trees blow down more often.

The food value of forage grown under shade is very small. Actually the only advantage of permitting livestock in the woodlot is protection from the sun. With that in mind, it is advisable to fence the woodlot permitting the livestock to roam in an acre or less of woodlot to obtain shade.

Are the young trees of your woodlot mostly ironwoods? Do these trees look defective and unhealthy? Is soil compacted? If so you will probably find your woodlot has a long history of grazing. The road to recovery of your woodlot will take many years, but you must start somewhere. Perhaps a fence so the livestock can not get in next year.

Also call up your local forester and have him visit your woodlot to offer advice on the cutting that should be done to improve your woodlot.

Plans For Spills

A wide ranging plan for dealing with spills of oil and other hazardous materials in Ontario waterways has been introduced by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Evolved over a two-year period, the plan provides the framework for positive, co-ordinated action in the notification, control, containment and clean-up of spills. All navigable and non-navigable waters of Ontario, including the Great Lakes, their tributaries and other bodies of water covered in this plan.

Basically, the scheme entails use of an Operations Centre located at the head office of OWRC to integrate and co-ordinate resources provided by municipalities, industries and other agencies of cope with spill incidents. When a spill which requires total implementation of the plan is reported to the centre, an on-scene commander pre-designated by the commission will take complete charge of all activities related to response and clean-up. (Recent amendments to the OWRC Act make it mandatory that all spill incidents be reported to the Commission). Regional operations teams, consisting of personnel from various governmental departments with an interest in spill combat are being established to provide scientific and technical advice to the on-scene commander. Another phase of the contingency plan determines where specialized equipment that may be essential in an emergency may be readily obtained in the various regions throughout the province and in U.S. areas adjacent to the Great Lakes.

Besides undertaking the common operations in the event of a spill and providing technical advice, the commission will alert all water users may be affected by a spill and provide liaison with other concerned persons and agencies in the U.S. and Canada. Maintenance of the most up-to-date methods of spill control and containment is a prime objective of the plan.

Information derived from a continuous evaluation of new methods for spill combat will be distributed to interest parties.

The contingency plan will also attempt to determine financial liability for the cost of clean-up operations. The development of local contingency measures, either individually or cooperatively is encouraged. To date, responsible companies agencies and other interested groups have developed over twenty such cooperative contingency measures.

CARDS OF THANKS

My sincere thanks to my many friends and neighbours who remembered me with visits, cards and flowers and also to those who assisted at my home while I was a patient in Brockville General Hospital.

Harvey Barkley 1p

We cannot find words to adequately express our thanks to our host of friends and relatives for their many acts of kindness at the time of our accident and since. Special thanks to the clergy and congregations who had prayers for us as well as individual prayers. For all the calls both personal and by phone, cards, letters, gifts, food and transportation we are very grateful. May God bless you all. Vera and Linden Barkley.

The family of the late Ivan Seeley wish to express their heartfelt thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends, and neighbours for their many acts of kindness to the Rev. Gee for his comforting words, the messages of sympathy, cards, floral tributes, and donations to the Cancer and Heart funds, also the food sent to the home and those who helped after the funeral. The many expressions of kindness will long be remembered.

We extend "Grateful

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of my Grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Hanson, who passed away August 10, 1970.

A Golden Heart stopped beating,
Two busy hands at rest,
God broke my heart to prove to me,
He always takes the best.
Looking back with memories,
Upon the path we trod,
I bless the years I had with you,
And leave the rest to God.

Sadly missed and never forgotten: Granddaughter Patsy.

In Memory of Mrs. Bertha Hanson who passed away August 10, 1970.

Our lips cannot tell what we miss her.
Our hearts cannot tell what to say.
God only knows how we miss her.
In a home that is lonesome to-day.

Sadly Missed By: Mrs. Alton Riddell, John & Joyce.

Today in the twilight of his years Fred Taylor is quiet and unassuming with a rich sense of humour. In the annals of hockey it is recorded that during a game played in February 1913 between Vancouver and Victoria, Taylor scored seven goals. When asked about this feat his reply was a typically modest one that he just "felt like skating".
