147 Majority Approve Fixed Assessment For Nestle's Milk Products

The voting on the fixed assessment for the Nestlé's Milk Plant was approved by a large majority last Monday. The final count was 160 in favour of granting the assessment with 13 registering their "nays".

The new plant that has been erected to the north and east of the present one got under way a couple of weeks ago with the first production of powedered coffee. With the wind right, village folk are treated to a breakfast odor all day when coffee is being roasted back at the plant. It is most appetizing.

Concern is felt concerning the water supply in the river that feeds the factory pumps. The level in the basin is dropping at the rate of an inch a day It is hoped that heavy rains will soon set in to afford relief before it will be necessary to start pumping above McElroy's.

Hugh Shaw, Elma Resident Celebrates 96th Birthday

Hugh Shaw, the oldest resident in this district, a descendant of pioneer settlers in Dundas county, marked his 96th birthday Wednesday at the home of his grandson, Hugh McMillan and Mrs. McMillan of Elma.

He was born near Hallville in 1852, during the fifteenth year of the reign of Queen Victoria. A son of the late Hugh Shaw and his wife Annie Wylie, he was raised on the homestead near Hallville.

Following his marriage in 1874 to the late Maria Hyndman, he farmed in the Hallville settlement and in the 1880's moved into the village where he opened a general store. He retired from business in 1906, and in 1926 Mr. and Mrs. Shaw moved to this district to be near their married daughter, Mrs. W. A. McMillan.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in 1934. Mrs. Shaw died three years later.

Geraldine Droppo Becomes Bride of John Ralph Guy

A pretty Fall wedding took place in Trinity United church on Saturday last, September 18th, at 2.30 p.m. when Geraldine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Droppo of Nation Valley, was united in marriage with Ralph John son of Mr. and Mrs. John Guy of Inkerman. The Rev. Mr. Gervan officiated at the ceremony. The church was prettily decorated with Fall blooms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length costume of Duchess satin, with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that came to a point over her hands. Her coronet of white beading held in place a full veil that ended in a train. She carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

Attending the bride were Misses Marjorie Gray and Ruth Locke as bridesmaids, dressed in identical costumes of maize organza, with shoulder length veils, long gloves of matching material and hair ornaments of pink flowers. They carried bouquets of gladioli tied with white satin bows. The matron of honour, Mrs. Brock Blackwell, only sister of the bride wore a pale blue silk taffeta dress, long blue gloves and a light blue shoulder length veil held in place by rosettes of blue flowers. She carried a bouquet of gladioli and asters. The little train bearers, Misses Joan and Jean Dagget looked charming in dresses of pink sheer. They had tiny hair ornaments of flowers.

The groom was supported by his brother, Charles Guy as best man, and the ushers were Gerald Droppo and Grant McIntosh.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride to about 75 guests. Receiving with the bride and groom was the mother of the bride dressed in black crepe trimmed with pink inserts and sequins. She carried pink carnations and black accessories. Mrs. Guy, mother of the groom was costumed in black sheer embroidered crepe with black and rose accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to Niagara Falls and points in Western Ontario. The bride chose a travelling costume of a light gray suit and black accessories. On their return, they will reside at Inkerman.

Among the out-of-town guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. Brock Blackwell, Walkerton, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dagget and family, Norfolk, NY.; Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Droppo, Massena, NY.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Droppo, Brockville; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Merkley and son Garrie, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Guy, Vancamp; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Presbyterial Visitation Starts At St. Andrew's Chesterville

The Presbytery of Brockville of the Presbyterian Church in Canada began a series of Presbyterial visits to all charges within its bounds with a visit to the local charge on Monday, September 20th. The meeting was held in St. Andrew's Church, Chesterville, and in the absence of the Moderator, the Reverend John Botting of Kemptville, the Rev. H. P. Maitland, a recent Moderator, presided. Officers and members from the three congregations in Chesterville, Dunbar and Morewood were present.

Questions were asked of the minister, of the ruling elders and of the managers, and it was pointed out that in some places the Presbytery pays an annual visit to each charge which visit is a very important event for all concerned. The service of public worship was conducted by the Moderator and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Eric Larsen of South Mountain. The Rev. John Botting pronounced Benediction.

The members of the Presbytery were entertained at supper at the Rotary Club, guests of Mr. H. G. Bigelow who is at present the representative elder for the pastoral charge. In the evening the Winchester charge was visited, the service being held in St. Paul's Church, Winchester, and the sermon preached by the Rev. Henry Cousens, B.D., of Brockville. Prayers were offered by the Rev. G. Edward Bingham, B.A., recently inducted minister of the Prescott congregation. Refreshments were served by the Goforth Girls' Group Those present from each of the congregations were commended for their interest as shown by their presence, and the Presbytery brought a blessing to each one.

Wildlife Division of Lands and Forests Counts Increase of Hungarian Partridge Thrive Eighteen Years In This Area

A familiar sight to farmers in this area is a small brown bird familiarly known as the "Hun" or Hungarian partridge. His inoffensive habits and friendly ways have earned him a permanent place on most of the farms here abouts. He is one of that tiny number of protected game birds that do no wrong whatever, and work all the time for the farmer. His appetite is entirely for weed seeds and insects and his interest in field grains is nil.

The fact that the Huns are plentiful in this district has led the Wildlife Division of the Department of Lands and Forests to do some investigating and some very interesting facts have emerged. In all Ontario, the only place where Hungarian partridge has thrived and increased is in the area east from Kemptville to the west side of Stormont County and in the north-south area between the water shed of the Nation River. One covey has been seen at the Prescott elevators and one on the south side of the Experimental Farm in Ottawa.

In 1930 eleven pairs of Hungarian partridge from Czechoslovakia were released just north of Cornwall near the St. Lawrence River. Only one covey was seen there that winter, and all the survivors migrated north over the watershed and entered the Nation Valley area about ten miles south of Chesterville. From that time on more and more farmers reported seeing the little brown birds in their fields until today every farm for miles around can boast of at least one covey. With all due respect to our careful farmers, the reason the little fellows seem to thrive in this area is that our fields with their luxuriant growths of weeds along the fences is just their measure, and we have lots of snow in the winter that affords them night cover from the extreme cold.

It was with considerable interest that members of the Chesterville Fish and Gamee Association learned of a project of a group of biologists from the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Department of Lands and Forests. It was decided to trap a number of birds in this locality so that breeding pairs would be available at the government hatcheries in the Province.

A couple of weeks ago the small group of biologists arrived in Chesterville, headed by Dr. Clark of Toronto. The method of trapping the birds was suggested by Mr. C. H. Lumsden of the St. Williams Station at Simcoe, Ont. Mr. Lumsden has had experience in estate work in Scotland with the Scottish variety of Hungarian partridge and the poacher's method of trapping birds was used with limited success.

The system is along this manner. During the day a biologist and his dog, in this case an English Setter, Winsome Lassie, hunt the fields of the farms spotting the coveys that the dog finds and points. Towards evening a large covey is found and the watcher keeps them under observation until it is nearly dark, and the birds have settled for the night, usually in an open stubble field at this time of the year. The bird man returns to his headquarters, picks up the rest of his party, in this case usually volunteers of the Fish and Game Association and the local Game Overseer and goes back to the roosting place of the birds. Several members of the group are armed with a small meshed net ten yards long and about three yards wide. In the dark, the biologist circles down wind of the quiet birds and with the dog on a long leash starts the upwind stalk. Fastened to the collar of Lasie are two tiny flashlights pointing up and letting the waiting men know what she is doing. Suddenly the bobbing lights stop dead still and that is the moment for the men holding the net to gallop towards the spots of light that signal the place of the birds. If the hunters are lucky, several brace of the frightened little birds will be taken gently from the net and placed in a crate to be shipped to their new home.

The bird catchers' luck was limited here because of the rising of the full moon. The light made it difficult for the hunters to get close to the wary birds before they flew. Mr. Lumsden hopes to be able to come back in the winter and try his hand at trapping around the farm buildings and in the fields on the snow.

If the Dundas Hungarians thrive in Western Ontario it will be a feather in the cap of the farmers here They have allowed the little birds to live and breed on their fields without harm for these last eighteen years in spite of the temptation to take an occasional one for the table. In so doing, a special hardy strain has been developed that is better able to withstand our long winters. From this strain it is hoped that other areas of Ontario can be stocked that up to now have not been able to support the cheerful Huns.

TO APPEAL FOR FUNDS FOR THE BLIND

Once again the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is appealing to the people of Chesterville for funds to maintain and extend its programme of services for the 21 blind people of Dundas County. The appeal is under the sponsorship of the Women's Institute, and will take the form of a tag day to be held on Saturday, Sept. 25th. It is hoped that the appeal for this worthy cause will meet with a most hearty and generous response.

Blindness plays no favourites. It can happen to anyone. It has happened to over fifteen thousand people living in Canada today; of all ages, of every race and creed, from every walk of life. If blindness should come upon you or one of your friends you would contact the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the only organizatin having the specialized services which blindness requires. The C.N.I.B. would gladly provide the servicess best suited to assist you and all services would be gratis. The funds required to maintain these services is provided by those still enjoying the precious gift of good eyesight. This is your opportunity to express your gratitude that you are not required to live "in the shadows."

This appeal is for funds required to maintain and expand the Institute's service programme in this county. All of the 21 registered blind persons are eligible for the services, which consist of regular visitations by institute workers to acertain needs; instruction in home adjustments, embossed type reading, handicrafts, and typing from the blind home teacher, use of the Institute's library of over 25,000 books in embossed type and on talking records, employment and occupational training for the employable blind, special emergency assistance in cash, fuel, clothing, artificial eyes, dentures, etc., for necessitous blind persons, suitable Christmas gifts and birthday remembrances, radio service consisting of radios on loan, free licenses and repairs and batteries for those who need such help.

For those unable to read braille, the Institute has established its talking book service so that if one has the proper type of machine, one can listen to recorded books read by excellent readers. In addition, there are many other services too numerous to mention. Five Dundas blind are receiving instruction from the home teacher, and some are already using the library, two have been provided with employment, many take advantage of the concessions obtained by the institute and a few have had to have special emergency assistance in cash and clothing. The majority of the county's sightless receive the free radio license, and all are given Christmas gifts.

Through the cooperation of the United Counties' Public Health Unit and the oculists, the Institute carries on extensive prevention of blindness activities, arranging for eye examinations and providing treatment and glasses, when recommended, for those who could not afford to provide these for themselves. As registration data show, over sixty percent of the blindness of Canada is due to preventable causes. C. N. I. B. officials feel that this prevention work is a major activity, second only to service for the sightless.

HARVESTING EAR CORN

Ear corn may be harvested by hand or by a mechanical picker.

In areas where corn is grown extensively for husking a considerable portion of the acreage is still harvested by hand. The corn may be cut and husked from stooks or husking may be done directy from the standing crop. There are some advantages in harvesting the crop by hand if the acreage is not too large to handle this way. The corn can be left standing until the ears are matured and dry, and in a suitable condition for satisfactory cribbing. One man should be able to husk half an acre a day without too much difficulty.

A mechanical corn picker is a time and labour saving device and may be either one-row or two-row type. A A one-row picker working satisfactorily should harvest about 5 acres of corn on the average day. To do a good job of husking it is necessary that the corn is well-matured, so that the ears will snap clean leaving the husks attached to the shank on the plant. There is little for the husking rolls to do if the corn snaps clean as it should. If the corn is immature, then the ear shanks tend to break, leaving the inner husks tightly bound around many of the ears. The husking rolls frequently fail to remove these husks and they become a serious problem in the cribbing of the corn unless they are removed by hand, which is a laborious job. Therefore the time of harvesting is important in relation to the maturity of the crop if a satisfactory husking job is to be done with a mechanical picker. This of course, emphasizes once again the importance of growing well-adapted hybrids.

Further information on harvesting of ear corn may be had by writing to the Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Winchester Springs District Loses Beloved Citizen

Winchester Township lost one of its oldest and highly respected citizens on September 5th, in the passing of Mrs. Enos T. Munro of Winchester Springs district. Mrs. Munro was in her 83rd year and had been in ill health for some time prior to her death. She was born at Lachute, Que., on December 5th, 1865, the eldest daughter of the late Samuel Smith and his wife Helen Green. Her maiden name being Mary Smith.

When a small child she moved with her parents to Chesterville. In the year 1888 she was united in marriage with Mr. Enos T. Munro, of Nation Valley, and moved to the Winchester Springs district where they spent more than 50 years on the farm they cleared from virgin forest.

In the year 1938 Mr. and Mrs. Munro celebrated the Golden Anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Munro predeceased her in the year 1944.

Mrs. Munro was a member of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Winchester.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, September 7th, from the home of her son in Oxford Township and was conducted by the Rev. John Botting of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Kemptville, who brought a comforting message to the bereaved family from the text "Asleep in Jesus." He was assisted by Rev. Willis Mack of Inkerman Wesleyan Methodist Church.

The esteem in which Mrs. Munro was held was shown by the beautiful floral tributes which surrounded the casket.

She was borne to her last resting place at Maple Ridge Cemetery by her five sons and a grandson.

Church News

MOREWOOD UNITED CHURCH

The services at Morewood United church were conducted by the minister, Rev. W. J. Copsey. The text was taken from Romans, 3:23-24, "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Being justified freely through the Redemption which is in Jesus Christ." The sermon stressed the facts suggested by the text; the universality of sin and that the Redemption of Christ is as wide as human need. Man is the child of God, created to know Him, to love Him and serve Him and enjoy His favour and fellowship. For man to realize this is to bring glory to God; to fail is to sin, to miss the mark to fall short of that glory which a renewed life brings to God. The sinner is a sick soul having a bad record, "Born in sin," a bad nature, "children of wrath fitted for destrustion," and a bad relationship, "ye are of your father, the devil." By the grace of God, all this may be changed. The record may be straightened out. "Being justified by faith we have peace with God." The bad nature may become the new nature. The believer is borne again. Old things have passed away and all things have become new. The old relationship becomes a new relationship. "Now we are the sons of God, having received not the spirit of bondage again to fear but the spirit of adoption whereby we cry, "Abba Father." The anthem rendered by the choir was "My Divine Guide."

The theme of the evening service was of the net cast into the sea. Matt. 13:47-50 "The kingdom of God is like unto a net that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind, which when it was full, they drew to the shore, and sat down and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away. So shall it be in the end of the world. The angels of God shall come forth and sever the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire; there shall be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth."

The parable teaches that human character is just by a divine standard. Right doing is approved of God, and rewarded. Wrong doing is condemned and the wages of sin fully paid. This very hour the scales are set, the books opened and the verdict read.

Miss Ellice Smith was organist at both services.

Distinguishing Mark

Dobbins was discussing his relatives with a new acquaintance.

"Now you take my wife," he remarked, "she has a twin sister so much like her that you'd never be able to tell them apart."

"I suppose that's easy for you, tho'" rejoined the other.

Dobbins sighed.

"Well, yes," he grudgingly admitted, "but it wouldn't be if my wife showed the same respect for me that her sister does."

George C. S. Weagant Dies In Kingston Hospital

The many friends of George C. S. Weagant will regret to learn of his death which occurred on Sunday, September 12, at Kingston General Hospital, after an illness of about six weeks. He had spent his life on his farm at Archer, until three years ago when ill health forced his retirement.

After leaving his farm he purchased a general store at Athens.

Besides his wife the former Lillian Weeger, he leaves three daughters and one son: (Doris) Mrs. Floyd Pruner of Athens, (Ruth) Mrs. Alton Shaver of Lombardy, (Lois) Mrs. Cecil Foley of Smiths Falls and Donald of Athens.

He was the son of the late Alexander W. Weagant and Mary Ida Sampson.

The funeral took place on September 14th, from the Thonold Lane funeral home at Aultsville to St. Paul's cemetery.

The many friends who attended and the large number of floral tributes and messages of sympathy received showed the esteem in which he was held.

Rev. Symonds, Anglican clergyman from Athens, officiated, assisted by Rev. Brodie of Aultsville.

Pallbearers were Albert Ferguson, J. Earl W. Wilson of Athens and Shalor Heagle, Rankin Haystead and Thomas Swerdfeger of Archer.
