

Community Night Planned For Army Week

Last night at the Monument square the first of two 'Community Nights' was held. Featured was the local Boys Band in a military programme, and speakers included Colonel Frank Min of the Glengarry Highlanders and Capt. Jack Phillips, Mayor of Cornwall.

Another 'Community Night' will be held next Thursday, when the band program and military activities will centre around 'Army Week'.

Both these nights are sponsored by Morrisburg's newly formed Civilian Recruiting Committee, whose aim it is to bring the local battalion of the Highlanders (Reserve) up to strength.

Members of the Civilian Recruiting Committee are: F. H. Broder, E. S. Coones, G. H. Challies, T. Connor, C. M. Crober, S. G. Finnie, G. A. Foulds, Roy Geach, Eddie Jones, A. Laurin, P. Oudekirk, T. R. Parker, Major Snider and D. K. M. Stewart.

Miss A. Doris Tracy Honoured

On Tuesday night, June 23rd, the staff of the Morrisburg Public School gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coligan to honour Miss Doris Tracy, whose marriage will take place next month.

During the evening, an address was read by Principal G. A. Foulds, and Miss Tracy was presented with a lovely Kenwood blanket. Miss Tracy made a fitting reply, thanking her co-workers for their thoughtful gift.

Later refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was brought to a close.

On Friday afternoon, June 19th, the pupils of Miss Tracy's class gathered together and presented their teacher with a beautiful Royal Albert China cake plate, as a token of their respect and esteem.

A surprise party was held for Miss Tracy by the Knox Young Women's Club on Monday, June 22nd in the Church basement.

Games were enjoyed and during the evening an address was read to Miss Tracy by Mrs. E. Crober, while Mrs. J. S. Toshack presented the bride-to-be with a beautiful coffee table on behalf of the club.

Miss Tracy, although taken by surprise, expressed her thanks in a fitting reply and all joined in singing 'For She's A Jolly Good Fellow'.

Later refreshments were served.

Large Packs Of Cigarettes Will Cost 5 Cents More

The extra one cent per five cigarettes excise tax imposed by the new budget will be paid directly by the consumer, the Revenue Department has ruled.

It means a direct price increase. Stocks now on hand must be sold at the current and lower prices. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has ruled that manufacturers, distributors and retailers may not increase prices of cigarettes on which excise was paid on pre-budget rates.

A new war-tax stamp likely will be overset on the old excise stamp, making it clear that the consumer pays directly out-of-pocket and across-the-counter for his higher priced smokes.

The budget set out that the increased tax was one cent for each five cigarettes or fraction thereof.

On that basis, new stocks of cigarettes, manufactured on the post-budget excise rates will cost:

Packages of 22... new price 30 cents, old price 25 cents.
Packages of 20... new price 24 cents, old price, 20c.
Packages of 10... new price 12 cents, old price 10 cents.
Packages of nine... new price 12 cents, old price 10 cents.

No Increase Yet In Price of Beer

No increase in beer prices are permitted in Canada until stocks produced before the higher taxes imposed by the 1942-43 budget have been disposed of, it was announced at Ottawa yesterday.

"In accordance with the order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board no increases will be permitted in beer prices until further advised", David Sim, administrator of alcoholic beverages for the board, told the Canadian Press.

Wires have gone out to all breweries in Canada not to increase prices until the board gives permission. With the brewer's prices fixed it is expected beer in stores and beverage rooms also will remain unchanged.

No information was available as to how long it would take to dispose of pre-budget beer. The excise tax increase under the budget is around nine cents a gallon.

Tewsley-Weegar

The marriage of Miss Orlean, Jennie Weegar, daughter of Mr. George Weegar and the late Mrs. Weegar, of Williamsburg, to Mr. Jack Wellington Tewsley, son of Mr. H. H. Tewsley and the late Mrs. Tewsley of Peterboro, took place quietly at 8.30 on Friday evening at the Lutheran Parsonage in Williamsburg, with Rev. C. R. Cronmiller officiating.

The bride wore a blue silk mesh dress, cut on princess lines with applied flowers and V-neckline. Her hat was shiny blue straw with matching veil and navy blue accessories. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Locke, as matron of honour, and Mr. Parker Locke acted as the best man.

Miss Locke was wearing a pink crepe dress with jacket, pink flowered hat with matching veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom left on a trip to Niagara Falls, and points west. Going away, the bride wore a green and brown printed silk dress with pale green redingote and brown accessories. They will reside in Williamsburg.

A LOCAL CHALLENGE

(The following editorial is adapted from the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder of June 22, 1942, and is reprinted here at the request of Lieut. Col. W. J. Franklin, of the S. D. & G. Highlanders.)

There is in Morrisburg, a civilian committee on recruiting turning every wheel to aid Col. W. J. Franklin of the Second Battalion, S. D. & G. Highlanders up to field strength before the reserve unit moves into summer camp at Connaught Ranges. One Civilian Committeeman has written the following "Challenge to Every Canadian":—

Every true Canadian is impatient with the progress of the present war and feels he himself should be doing more towards bringing final Victory. If he is over active army age, or unable to meet the rigid medical requirements for modern war, he is probably employed in a business or industry working directly or indirectly on War work.

This gives him a certain satisfaction, knowing that he is producing something which will in some way make itself felt against the Axis powers, but he also feels it is not enough when the enemy is already almost on our shores.

And it is not enough. The War is no longer only in Europe, or Asia—Canada is threatened and must be defended.

And to be defended successfully,

DUNDAS HOLSTEIN BREEDERS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Holstein Breeders in Dundas County assembled at Memorial Park, Brinston, Ontario, on Wednesday, June 17 for their annual Field Day. Ideal picnic weather prevailed and a large crowd was in attendance.

The crowd was called to order by the president, Mr. C. Allison Graham who made a few brief remarks and welcomed the breeders. Mr. A. V. Langton, Eastern Ontario Fieldman, was then called on and informed the gathering that live stock had been secured from the herds of Mr. W.A. Cameron and W. J. Fawcett to conduct a judging competition and a demonstration on Selective Registration.

Mr. R. M. Holtby discussed Holstein Type, after which Mr. F. H. Cotton, Acting Agricultural Representative, conducted the judging competition on a class of mature Holstein cows and also on a class of 2-year-old heifers. Some forty boys and men took part in the competition. Mr. Cotton called on Mr. James Henderson to act as official judge in placing the mature class and on Mr. R. M. Holtby to place the class of heifers. Much enthusiasm was shown and discussion followed the placing of these classes.

A demonstration on Selective Registration was given by Mr. R. M. Holtby of Port Perry, Ont. who pointed out the different classifications of cattle.

A picnic luncheon was held at noon when the crowd assembled in groups and spent an enjoyable hour.

The afternoon programme was presided over by the President who gave a resume of the activities of the Club during the past year, mentioning the work being done to assist the Calf Club Boys, and the sponsoring of a Black and White Day.

Mr. James Henderson, president of the Holstein-Friesian Association was called on and in a few brief well chosen words, reviewed the activities of the parent association and also brought greetings from same.

F. H. Cotton was next called upon and in a few brief remarks, introduced the Guest Speaker, Dr. E.S. Archibald, Director, Dominion Experimental Farms, Ottawa.

Dr. Archibald chose as his subject "Problems Allied to the Dairy Industry in War". The value of using good sires, producing good cattle for breeding stock was stressed. He reviewed the building up of the Holstein Breed and paid tribute to the part breeders and Dairy Farmers in general were playing in the Great War effort.

Reviewing the possibilities for Agriculture in the post-war period, Dr. Archibald said: "We will have to become more conscious of the dependence of Agriculture on manufacturing industry and vice versa".

The sale of tickets on a Holstein heifer calf, netted the Association the sum of Seventy-Five Dollars, and after the expenses in paying for the calf and printing tickets had been deducted, was turned over to the Red Cross Society. The draw on the calf concluded the day's program, and was conducted by R. M. Holtby. Mr. Russell Canning of Cardinal was declared the lucky winner.

Many Farmers Still Need Help With Crops

Already many farmers in Eastern Ontario have found high school boys who have volunteered to work during their summer vacation as farm workers, surprisingly satisfactory. They have shown a desire to do their best, knowing that they are doing a patriotic duty. They are the principle type of help just now available to farmers. There is still a demand for help from a considerable number of farmers in several counties of Eastern Ontario, says S. J. MacLeod, who has his office with the Ontario Agricultural Representative at Morrisburg.

Authorities of the Provincial Department of Agriculture say that a good deal of help during the busiest period of the year could be given to farmers by men in the city serving one day a week or spending part of their vacation on the farm. There are hundreds of men in cities, towns and villages, who were brought up on farms, and to spend a vacation working at this time of emergency would help their health by a change of work, renew the associations of their youth and help in the production of essential food products. The average pay for high school workers is around $20 per month and upwards, with room and board.

Any boy or man who would like to help relieve the farm labor shortage should get in touch with S. J. MacLeod, c/o Agricultural Representative, Morrisburg.

VOICE OF THE PRESS

LIKE INCENDIARY BOMB
When Mrs. Conrad Gauthier, 1046 Parent Avenue, let the grease for potato chips catch fire, she demonstrated what not to do with an incendiary bomb. Mrs. Gauthier rushed to the sink with the blazing pan of grease and poured water on it. Instead of putting out the fire, the water carried the burning grease to the curtains and the fire was on its way.

That's what happens when water is poured on an incendiary bomb. It simply carries the fire along with it and the blaze spreads to wherever it is taken by the flow of water.

Instead of putting water on an incendiary bomb, smother it with sand or earth.

SHOULD BE HATED
Some pious church people overseas have been protesting because British troops have been told to hate their Axis adversaries. Why shouldn't they hate them? Not since the Dark Ages—and perhaps not even then—has this world seen anything so diabolical or sinister as the typical Nazi. The trouble is that most of us don't hate them as they deserve to be hated.

THE WAR - WEEK — Commentary on Current Events

Britain, the United States, Russia Pledge Co-ordinated War Effort

The scratch of diplomats' pens for the brief space of a day sounded more loudly last week over the warring world than the bursting of bombs and the roar of mechanized weapons, writes the New York Times. The United States, Britain and Russia had affixed their signatures to documents of far-reaching import. A mutual assistance pact between London and Moscow, a master lease-lend contract for supplies from the American arsenal to the Red Army and understandings in regard to a second European front—through such instruments the three mightiest members of the United Nations pledged their peoples and resources to a coordinated effort for the duration and in the peace to come. Almost three years after Britain picked up the gage of battle, almost a year after Russia's soil was invaded and half a year after the United States was struck at Pearl Harbor, the prospect appeared of an Allied blueprint to set against the aggressors' plans for new orders.

Atlantic Charter As Basis

The dramatic ocean rendezvous, in August of 1941, between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill laid the political foundation. The Atlantic Charter listed the principles of non-aggression, self-determination, reciprocal trade, freedom of the seas, social security and freedom from "fear and want" as the basis for "a better future for the world." The charter was accepted in the Declaration of the United Nations at the start of 1942. It still stands as the cornerstone on which the Allies intend to reconstruct post-war society.

A global military strategy—the toughest field of all—is slowly emerging from a long round of staff talks spread from Chungking through Moscow and London to Washington. It appears to be based on the acceptance of Hitlerite Germany as the most dangerous of the aggressors, and therefore the one to be struck first and hardest by a synchronized offensive, by the Soviet on the first front, by the British and Americans on a second front. The agreements disclosed last week touch on all these factors and represent the culmination of the drive for an efficiently coordinated United Nations.

Mr. Brown

Last week it was disclosed that Mr. Molotov had flown to London and Washington in a Soviet bombing plane manned by Soviet fliers. Official Britain and America welcomed the representative of their ally warmly but with no clicking heels, rattling swords, blaring bands; he was called Mr. Brown to keep his identity secret until he had returned to his own country. Mr. Brown—he spoke no English, was accompanied by a Russian interpreter—rode a suburban train from the airfield into London and not a commuter recognized him. He strolled the White House lawn in sight of thousands of office workers and went unrecognized.

Pact With Britain

Back in Moscow last week Mr. Molotov reported to his government that Mr. Brown had been a very busy man on his trip. In addition to the sight-seeing, there had been long hours of hard work. He had three great achievements to report. They were:

(1) The signing of a twenty-year mutual assistance pact with Great Britain. There were two principal points in the pact. The first:

"In virtue of the alliance established between the United Kingdom and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the high contracting parties mutually undertake to afford one another military and other assistance, against Germany and all those States which are associated with her in acts of aggression in Europe."

The second:

"The high contracting parties declare their desire to unite with other like-minded States in adopting proposals for common action to preserve peace and resist aggression in the post-war period."

Lease-Lend With U. S.

(2) The signing of a master lease-lend agreement with the United States, which was described by the United States State Department as an "additional link in the chain of solidarity being forged by the United Nations in their twofold task of prosecuting the war against aggression to a successful conclusion and of creating a new and better world."

(3) Agreement with both American and British leaders on "the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

War Production Program

In order to complete the organization needed for the most effective use of the combined resources of the United States and the United Kingdom for the prosecution of the war, there is hereby established a Combined Production and Resources Board.

From the White House last week came these words to harness the great industrial machines of Great Britain and the United States into one fighting team. They came backed by the authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. The war production program of the two nations will not only be made as one but that program will be adjusted to continually meet changing military requirements. At the same time a Combined Food Board was charged with insuring ample food for the fighting men and civilians of all the United Nations.

Second Front in Europe

The orders meant that Great Britain and the United States are stripping for battles to come. They meant that factories in Sheffield, England, and Detroit, U.S.A., will work together building tanks when tanks are needed, invasion barges when invasion barges are needed, that raw materials will be routed to the plants that can use them fastest, that shells made in Birmingham will fit guns made in Pittsburgh. Some of the plans under consideration are that ships returning from England would soon be carrying battle scrap for reworking into new guns, that America's aircraft factories may specialize in bombers while Britain turns out the fighters.

The committee links together the war effort of 132,000,000 Americans, 42,000,000 Britons, 11,000,000 Canadians, great industrial machines in the British Midlands and throughout Canada and the United States. Together they control more than 48 per cent of the world's coal, 41 per cent of the world's iron ore, 61 per cent of the world's petroleum. Britain's biggest asset, her empire, spread over almost one-fourth of the world's habitable land, containing 600,000,000 people and vast sources of the stuffs of war, is open to the committee through the connections of its various parts with the mother country.

The material of war were being produced, assembled, given into the hands of the troops against the day when the United Nations can grant Russia's request and open the second front in Europe.

British Save Bread To Save Convoys

Britain's stern wartime program brought forth new rules for table etiquette recently. Lord Woolton, Minister of Food, preparing to open a "save bread, save convoys" exhibition at Charing Cross underground station, gave this advice on economy table manners:

Do not break a roll, cut it. The remainder can be used in the kitchen.

Do not cut and butter bread in quantity. Cut from the loaf on the table as needed.

Do not serve butter or jam on your plate. Spread it directly on the bread.

SYNOPSIS

Andy Hardy invites Melodie Nesbit to a high school alumni dance at the request of his father, Judge Hardy, who is trying to show the 17-year-old daughter of separated and still quarrelling parents some warmth of human companionship. Melodie begins to fall for Andy (who is in trouble enough, being charged by an F.B.I. man with stealing his sedan which Andy was just towing to the garage where he works.) Melodie invites Andy to the Spinsters' Skip and he is unable to get out of going.

CHAPTER FIVE

Andy, to save Melodie embarrassment (as he assured his father) manipulated things so that he met her at the high school auditorium. She wore a floor-length, white evening coat buttoned tightly about her neck. He met her with a brave attempt at gallantry.

"Duck in and tear off the paper bag, Melodie. There's going to be no breaking tonight. I'm gonna dance straight through with you!" Left with the chaffing stage, Andy pleaded: "I'm on a slab tonight, fellas, flat busted, and I don't expect much charity from you termites, but couldn't you just once—" He broke off, open-mouthed at a vision of loveliness coming towards him from the ladies' cloak room. "Holly mackerel!" he gasped, realizing it was Melodie Nesbit. Her sleek, black evening gown was tight to the very floor, with long sleeves, a narrow "v" in front. And her hair was done up in a tall and stunning pompadour.

"Hardy, do you see what I see?" whispered Harry Land in awe.

"Omigosh! This, my friends, is the most sensational event since Rome burned! Take a good look, wolves! Tonight you are going to pay me!" He advanced, admiration beaming from his face and eyes, to Melodie. "Hi, there, Gorgeous! Let's put the show on the road!" Melodie was the sensation of the dance.

Andy had danced with her but a few minutes when he noticed Harry Land staring hungrily at Melodie. Behind her back he gestured to Harry who thereupon made his way to them.

"Break?" he asked, his voice all but trembling.

"Can't you refuse your old pal," said Andy warmly, surrendering the reluctant Melodie. He returned to the stage. "Now, you dogs! This time Melodie's really going to be the belle of the ball! IOU's ready? And cash besides! Green stuff! Folding money! You know you gotta dance with Melodie. She's gonna make Carvel the talk of the world."

Andy and Melodie approached her mother's home silently. At the steps they halted and faced each other. She was miserably unhappy, for she had fallen in love with Andy, and his conscience was bothering him.

"I hope you didn't mind leaving a little early," she said.

"No . . . only you had three more dances booked."

"With the . . . wolves . . . not with you. Why, Andrew? Didn't I have poise?"

"Yeah," he replied, avoiding her eyes, "super-terrific poise."

"Was I attractive to the other fellow?"

"You can snag any boy in town by throwing the switch," he replied with hollow enthusiasm.

"Any guy but you?" She couldn't help asking the question.

Uncomfortable, embarrassed, he was evasive. "Never before in the history of Carvel has a girl been such a ball of fire."

"You didn't have to pay the boys this time, did you?" she smiled.

Andy was flustered. "How'd you ever hear that?"

"Oh, I heard tonight. Girls can be pretty cruel that way."

"They were kinda jealous tonight, you were so sensational, I . . . I got back all I paid out before! And I made quite a profit, too!"

"Good!" Melodie was silent for a moment or two, then she asked, simply, directly, almost humbly: "Andy, what's wrong with me?"

"Not a thing!" he asserted in an agony of self-reproach.

"Except!" she questioned.

"Melodie," he appealed, "could we not just talk any more? . . . I . . . I feel awful."

She realized he could not say what she wanted to hear. With an effort she controlled her voice and said, "Good night, Andrew."

She watched him walking slowly and unhappily away for a time then went into the house. She stopped short in the hallway at loud voices coming from the living room. Her father and mother, who had tried to be tolerant of each other for Melodie's sake since Judge Hardy's threat to take her away from them both, were at each other hammer and tongs. Unobserved, Melodie listened, her heart thumping wildly.

"I will not withdraw my suit, for Melodie's custody," her father said viciously, "unless once and for all you admit to her you've lied about me!"

"You haven't told her horrible things about me?" her mother retorted shrewishly. "Oh, no, certainly not."

"But she believes you."

"Of course, she does! I'm her mother. She even believes this new 'sweetness and light' is her real father because I told her so! More fool I am!"

"Oh, if there were only some way I could make her see you as the unscrupulous liar you are!" Sickened, her cheeks gone pale, her eyes dry and wide open in terrified disillusionment, Melodie turned and went out the door, closing it silently after her . . .

Judge Hardy sat on the side porch, a small reading lamp lit beside him, when Andy reached home, he went slowly to his father and was at once struck by the unhappy look on his face.

"Something wrong, Dad?"

Judge Hardy motioned for silence and lowered his own voice. "Marion—she isn't home and she said she'd positively be in by midnight. I've got a call in for the Red Door Inn. Line's been busy."

"Marian's just going through a silly stage, Dad, don't fret. If that wolf Willis didn't close up a joint, he'd think he was slipping."

"Of course—" Judge Hardy was struck by the unhappy look on Andy's face. "What's your problem?"

"I had a little trouble with Melodie Nesbit tonight."

"It's rather apparent that Melodie likes you pretty well."

"Yeah. Tonight she kinda lost all control of her emotions." Andy was really worried. "Dad, I'm a strong, healthy, normal young fella, and here I don't fall for a girl that's got zip dripping from every pore. It don't make sense."

His father was surprised. "Not Melodie? A zip-dripper?"

"Yes, Melodie. Love turned her into a dream queen—a fever frau—to all the guys but me—"

"Perhaps you're growing up," said his father soberly.

"If that's growing up, I'm not sure whether I like it or not. Dad, she . . . she cried."

"Son, you're passing another milestone. It always comes as a shock when a man first finds out that some girl—well—some girl cried."

"You mean life is like that?"

"Sometimes a man is helpless except to hurt, if he's a man fine enough not to take advantage of the situation for a moment's cheap excitement . . . like you, my son."

"And tonight at the dance she told me she as so happy about everything."

"She is. You are only a stage she is going through."

"Like I used to go through?"

At his father's nod, Andy continued: "Harry Land's really in love with Melodie, but he's too bashful to even let her know . . . Gosh, Dad, I'm in a love triangle!"

"Sure it isn't a quadrangle? Sure Polly Benedict's coming home tomorrow doesn't influence your position?"

Andy's eyes opened wide. "Polly coming home tomorrow?"

"Didn't you know? Her father told me yesterday."

"I didn't know. Dad, I don't think Polly is influencing my position. I admit I was knocked for a goal when she went away, but now I've outgrown her. In fact, I wrote and told her so."

"That's too bad. Melodie is too proud and honorable to cut in if you and Polly were—"

"If we were going steady, Dad?" Oh boy, that's a swell way out!"

The telephone rang and Judge Hardy reached for it through the open window. "Red Door Inn? . . . Is Miss Marian Hardy there with Mr. Jefferson Willis? . . . Oh, thank you very much." He hung up and his face had a worried look. "Marian and Jeff Willis left there three hours ago."

LEADS TASK FORCE

Rear Admiral Robert C. Griffen commands a powerful U. S. naval force serving with the British home fleet.

"Marian wouldn't stay parked somewhere that long. Dad, let me go and look for them. I know every good place to park a car within fifty miles."

"But, if there's nothing wrong, we'd feel—" "Listen, Dad. We don't want any talk. We gotta think of Marian's reputation."

His father interposed no further objections and Andy hurried to the garage. As Judge Hardy listened to the whirring of the car's motor growing fainter, a light step on the porch caused him to look up. He arose quickly.

"Why, Melodie!" He went to her, alarmed at the stricken look on her face.

"Judge Hardy, could you arrange to get me some money from my father so I could go away somewhere . . . maybe to school?"

"Aren't you dramatizing things a little, Melodie? In a few months Andrew to you will be only—"

She interrupted. "I . . . I heard my father and mother fighting tonight. All that I thought was fine . . . since that day in your court . . . is rotten! I never want to see them again!"

"My dear child! I'm afraid I have handled things very badly," said Judge Hardy, self-reproachfully. "I think I'll phone your mother and keep you here tonight."

TABLE TALKS

By SADIE B. CHAMBERS

With care the amount of sugar allowed each family should be sufficient for the ordinary cooking, but with fruit season and holiday visitors there will be a strain on the sugar allowance. Dieticians are being asked to encourage the use of corn syrup and honey as substitutes. Many are using them entirely in their cooking.

From the laboratory of one of Canada's most noted food experts and dieticians comes the following recipes—

Rhubarb Custard Pie

- 1 egg
- ¾ cup white sugar
- ¾ cup corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 3 cups rhubarb cut in one-inch pieces

Method: Line a nine inch pie pan with pastry. Beat egg till light. Add the sugar, syrup, salt and corn starch and the melted butter. Add rhubarb and pour into raw shell. Cover with criss-cross lattice work of ¾ inch strips of pastry. Bake in hot oven for 15 minutes; reduce heat to 350° and continue cooking for 25 to 30 minutes or until rhubarb is cooked.

Orange Cake

- ¾ cup shortening
- ¾ cup brown sugar
- ¾ cup corn syrup
- 2 eggs
- 1 orange, 1 cup raisins put through food chopper
- 2 cups pastry flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup sour milk

Method: Cream shortening gradually; add sugar and corn syrup. Add the well beaten eggs. Add orange and raisin mixture; blend well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with sour milk. Pour into 9 inch layer cake pans lined with waxed paper. When cool put together with Orange cream filling and ice with butter icing.

Orange Cream Filling

- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tablespoon white sugar
- 2 tablespoons corn syrup
- ½ tablespoon grated orange rind
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ½ cup cream stiffly whipped

Mix thoroughly all ingredients except cream. Cook until thick. Chill and combine with whipped cream.

Butter Icing

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon corn syrup
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups icing sugar sifted
- 2 tablespoons cream or hot water

V.C.'s Awarded For Removal Of Bombs

The Admiralty announced not long ago that Victoria Crosses, Britain's highest award for valor, had been conferred upon two men who removed two unexploded bombs which had become imbedded in the streamlined casing of the gun of the submarine Thrasher.

Lieut. Peter S. W. Roberts, 25, and Petty Officer Thos. W. Gould, 28, pushed and dragged one bomb twenty feet through a narrow space of the gun casing until it could be lowered over the side.

"Every time the bomb was moved," said the Admiralty, "there was a loud twanging noise as of a broken spring."

The bombs were dropped when the submarine was attacked by depth charges and aircraft after it had sunk a heavily escorted supply ship.

CEREAL CRUMBS TAKE A BOW

By BARBARA B. BROOKS

There's no need to struggle with a food-chopper or grater when your recipe calls for dry crumbs. Here's a much easier and quicker way: Place crisp cereal flakes between two folds of a towel, roll to desired fineness, shake the crumbs into a bowl — and there you are! Crumbs, a clean towel and a rolling pin.

This is one of those cases where the easiest way is the best way. For the toasty flavour of crisp corn flakes or oven-popped rice adds an extra finish that's hard to beat. Here are recipes in which cereal crumbs are an important ingredient:

- | | |
|---------------|--------------------------|
| ½ cup butter | 1 teaspoon baking powder |
| 1 cup sugar | ½ teaspoon salt |
| 1 egg | 1 cup finely cut dates |
| 1½ cups flour | ½ cup corn flake crumbs |
- Cream butter and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until fluffy. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture along with dates. Mix well. Roll one teaspoon of mixture in cereal crumbs and flatten down on greased cookie sheet. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) about 20 minutes. Remove from pan while warm.

Yield: 3 dozen cookies (1½ inches in diameter).

Browned Paprika Potatoes

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--------------------|
| 6 medium potatoes | 1 cup corn flakes |
| 1 tablespoon melted fat or drippings | 1 teaspoon paprika |
| | 1 teaspoon salt |
- Pare potatoes and cook in boiling water about 20 minutes. Drain and brush with fat. Roll corn flakes into fine crumbs and mix with paprika and salt. Roll potatoes in crumb mixture until well covered. Bake in shallow greased baking pan in moderately hot oven (425°F.) about 35 minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

Oven-Fried Fish

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 pound fish fillets or fresh fish | 1 cup milk |
| 4 cups corn flakes | 1 tablespoon salt |
| | 4 teaspoons salad oil |
- Cut fish into serving pieces, allowing about ¾ pound for each serving. Roll corn flakes into fine crumbs. Add salt to milk. Dip fish in milk, then in crumbs and arrange on well oiled baking sheet. Sprinkle all over top of fish. Bake in very hot oven (500°F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

Yield: 4 servings.

BY THE EDITOR

THIS IS NOT JUSTIFIED

If all the crimes committed in the name of sweet charity could be recorded on the same sheet of paper, some of the paper companies would necessarily have to get a machine to make a much larger sheet of paper than any now existing.

One of the most atrocious bits of business of which we or any other thinking citizen ever heard, was the so-called 'Festival' sponsored here last week by the local Lions' Club, with the permission of the local council, (of whom we believe three are members of the aforementioned organization.)

The troupe in charge of the 'festival' was undoubtedly the most flea-bitten-looking group of individuals which it has ever been the displeasure of yours truly to look upon.

Aside from the lowering influence on the morals of the younger generation, this show probably took with them out of this district several thousands of dollars. There are also stories, although some of these may be unfounded, of individuals having their pockets picked by members of the troupe. But that is not all. We are asked daily by our Government to economize and save in the use of gasoline. But all the rides and shows in last week's festival were either powered or lighted by gasoline power with the electricity generated by a gas-motored generator belonging to the troupe. In addition to the money taken out of the district, there must have been hundreds of gallons of gasoline used by that generator during the week's course.

However, the troupe had the permission of the local council to come here.

While we may be critical of things past, criticism cannot do anything about them, but it can prevent a recurrence in the future. It is said that the same organization will sponsor another similar show, put on by a different company later this summer. It is up to the citizens of this community to see that their council does not grant permission for any such repetition.

We do not object to a little relaxation from the daily grind, especially in war time, when our nerves are apt to be on edge, and our bodies need more relaxation; nor are we opposed to the raising of funds for charitable purposes by the Lions Club, or any other charitable organization. But we most emphatically are opposed to shows of this type and calibre even being allowed to stop over night in this community. There are many other ways of raising money, money that could be spent in our own district, and which might then return to those who had supplied it in the first place. One must remember that only a small percentage of the money realized at that festival, will eventually be used for charitable purposes. By now the biggest part of the money is a good many miles away from here.

Merchants should think of the decreased purchasing power of their customers as a result of the week's 'festival'. Many of those customers who spent their money last week will be buying on credit for some time to come.

There can be no justification for this thing in war time, and citizens should let their representatives know just how they feel about it.

CAN YOU SMILE IN THE FACE OF DEFEAT?

Can you smile, when all the world appears against you
And dark shadows seem to hover everywhere;
And still face defeat without a single murmur
And not even blink an eye or raise a hair?
Can you smile, yet keep on working for a purpose
Though many a friend declares it is no use;
And close your eyes to those who ridicule you
And then shower you with ignorant abuse?
Can you smile and keep the spark of hope still burning,
With the odds against you mounting up each day;
And press towards the prize you dearly envy
And don't ever look behind you or delay?
Can you smile, and yet continue with your trying
With a feeling that some day you'll reach the goal;
If you can it's simply just an indication
You're a man possessing courage, heart and soul.

The universe pays every man in his own coin. If you smile, it smiles upon you in return; if you sing, you will be invited into gay company; if you think, you will be entertained by thinkers; and if you love the world and earnestly seek the good that is therein, it will pour into your lap the treasures of the earth. —Winchester Press.

JUST TWO REASONS TO WORRY

There are only two reasons for worry. Either you're successful or you're not successful. If you're successful, there's nothing to worry about. If you're not successful there are only two things to worry about—your health is either good or you're sick. If your health is good, there's nothing to worry about, and if you're sick, there's only two things to worry about. You're either going to get well or you're going to die. If you're going to get well, there's nothing to worry about, and if you're not going to get well, there are only two things to worry about. You're either going to heaven or you're not going to heaven. If you're going to heaven, there's nothing to worry about, and if you're going to the other place, you'll be so doggone busy shaking hands with old friends you won't have time to worry. So, why worry?

ATLANTIC MAIL

In two years and seven months of war, despatches of Atlantic mail have exceeded 750,000 bags. In that time there have been only 14 losses by enemy action, representing 26,230 bags of mail of all descriptions. In other words, more than 723,000 of the bags despatched, have got through notwithstanding the desperate and sustained efforts of the Nazis to sink the entire British merchant marine and navy.

In 1939, 3 bags were lost by enemy action; in 1940, 10345 bags; in 1941, 12,947 bags and in 1942 to date, 2,935 bags. Considering conditions on the Atlantic, the record is a proud one, and justifies the observation that a special Providence looks after the navy and the Post Office.

FIRST AID

A fellow being trained in first aid methods, was given the following poser by his instructor:

Suppose a man was very pale, sweating profusely, unconscious, and bleeding from his eyes, nose and ears; his skull fractured, back broken, arms and legs smashed, besides several other injuries, internal and otherwise. What would be the first thing you would do in a case of that kind?

The young fellow meditated a moment and replied: Prof., I think the first thing I would do, would be to bury him!

A. R. P.

A group of mothers, waiting around the doorway of an infant's department to meet their children as they came out of school, were discussing the progress of A. R. P., in their neighbourhood. Said one: "Yer know Mrs. A. 'as got a bucket o' sand in 'er 'ouse and so 'as Mrs. F. They say it's fer them incendiary bombs. Datt' I calls it! I 'bet if we get any bombs, there's not one in a thous- and 'at 'll ever drop i' t' bucket'".

Quebec voted no on the plebiscite and was the only province to do so. Nova Scotia says it will not accept the cut in gasoline rations. British Columbia says it is not getting enough war orders. Ontario's Premier Hepburn always insists on taking a stand opposite to that of Canada's Prime Minister. Alberta wants its own currency and banking system. And so on. So far there haven't been any kicks from the Northwest Territories. —Financial Post.

We don't know who said it, but we saw this statement in print the other day: "There was never a time when there were so many people who knew so little about so much".

If you have listened carefully to opinions expressed in homes, in the stores, in the offices, and even in the Houses of Parliament, there must have been times when the truth of that statement must have almost overwhelmed you.

Perhaps you have noticed it!

Those people who are doing so much chewing about Mr. Isley's new budget, should wait until the 30 per cent tax comes into effect on chewing gum. Then they would have more to chew about (or would it be less to chew about?)

FAREWELL GATHERING FOR MISS MARIE HESS

Last Wednesday night, a large number of young people from Williamsburg and vicinity gathered in the I. O. O. F. Hall, Williamsburg to bid farewell to Miss Marie Hess, and to make her a presentation prior to her departure for Toronto where she will reside.

Dancing was enjoyed until nearly midnight, when at the proper time, Billie Strader read an address to Miss Hess, in which all expressed their regret at her departure, and wishing her every success in her new home, and Gerald McPherson presented her with a wrist watch on behalf of all present.

Marie, although surprised, expressed her thanks fittingly for the kindness of her friends and all joined in singing: For She's A Jolly Good Fellow.

Dancing was again resumed until a late hour.

HIGH PRAISE FOR WEEKLIES

The following letter has been received by the Canadian Weekly News papers Association from J. N. Kelly, publicity director in the recent Red Cross campaign:

"Someone once told me that the weekly newspapers are the backbone of the nation! Having been through this Red Cross campaign, I have reached the firm conclusion that the weekly newspapers are more than that—they are also the backbone of the Canadian Red Cross. The magnificent help to help to us in this appeal has been astonishing to me and I know that a lot of the credit for the support we have received, is due in no small measure to you.

Sincerely yours,
J. N. KELLY,

That rubber stamp means

We can say Canada's cotton textile industry is 11 times ahead of its war production records of 1914-18.

The industry is delivering about 215,000,000 yards a year of aircraft fabric, ammunition pouches, anti-gas cloth, camouflage netting, gun covers, parachute webbing, powder bags, uniform cloth, web equipment and other essential materials.

Dominion Textile is proud to have a part in this. We also wish to report that our plant employees are earning 28% more per hour than in 1939, and we pay 5.4 times more in taxes than the total paid in dividends to our several thousand shareholders.

FARM COMMANDOS
AND HELP HARVEST
FOOD for VICTORY

SPEND a day or two each week on the farm during harvesting. Join the thousands of Farm Commandos who are prepared to "close up shop" or lay down their tools for a time, if necessary, to "raid" the harvest fields and help ensure the safe harvest of millions of dollars worth of precious food.

Farm Commando Brigades are springing up in Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, Service Clubs and Churches all over Ontario—bringing together townsmen who are willing to make a direct, patriotic contribution to the War Effort and gain the good-will of neighboring farmers at the same time.

If there is no Farm Commando Brigade forming in your locality, take it up with your Service Club, Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce or Church Executive and get your local Brigade started at once.

The need for a great emergency reserve of Farm Commandos is urgent. The "stake" is tremendous. Ontario farmers must have every possible man-hour of labour during harvesting to prevent irreplaceable loss of foods to the Allied War Effort and to Canada herself.

Your help is needed—NOW. Volunteer in The Farm Commando Brigade and be ready to help if harvest emergencies arise.

With 500,000 marchers and 2,500,000 spectators, New York went all-out in its greatest parade—a 10-hour, day and night procession of victory-confident Americans. British troops, in their summer uniform shorts, add an international note to the spectacle as they swing past Vice President Wallace and King George of Greece on the reviewing stand.

What Science Is Doing

SOME BIG BUSINESS IN FARMING

Elmer von Glahn, a farmer in California, also rates as a big business man, as his 40,000 acre tract yields a $1,500,000 harvest in a year, says Popular Science Monthly.

With a floating dredge capable of running half a year without refueling, five airplanes, and a fleet of tractors, trucks, and land scrapers, Von Glahn will harvest grain and cotton worth $1,500,000 from his farm this year. This 40,000-acre farm in the San Joaquin Valley has been made as fertile as the Nile Valley by the ingenious and intelligent use of machinery, which not only plants and harvests the crops, but keeps under control Tulare Lake, the source of life to the farm yet a constant threat of flood.

On Von Glahn's farm—lying in a 25 mile crescent on the shores of the lake—irrigation is done in a big way. Four huge electric pumps suck up 12,000 gallons of water a minute, five other sets lift it 36 feet and fill 25 miles of main canals and hundreds of miles of secondary ditches. Water is turned in on patches as big as 5,500 acres and allowed to stand for 20 days or so at a time.

But this farmer is not content with ordinary irrigation. In a drought, even the deepest canals might fail. To meet this possibility there is ready a wheeled machine which can scoop water from wells and lay it over an acre a day to a depth of from 1 to 12 inches.

During the flood season, Von Glahn tours his lands by plane. His special machine for flood fighting is a huge floating dredge with a three yard bucket. It is operated by a two man crew and can be rushed to any danger spot in the levee for quick repair work before crevices become too large. In an elevator and warehouse, one man handles 85 tons of grain an hour as it rides endless belts from the pit.

Establishes Joint Production Board

U. S. and U. K. To Pool All Food Resources

A saving of 25 per cent in ocean shipping space may result from the establishment of a British-American War Production Board, authoritative sources estimated recently.

In addition, further economies in cargo space may be effected through the creation of an Anglo-American food board.

The two new agencies, designed to combine the war and food production efforts of the two countries, were announced by President Roosevelt in behalf of himself and Premier Winston Churchill. Donald M. Nelson, war production board director, and Oliver Lyttleton, British minister of production, will form the production board.

Three Objectives

An authorized spokesman said these three objectives were the immediate goals:

1. Savings of shipping space through allocation of production in such a way that supplies could be moved from the producing area closest to the war theatre for which they are intended. In some cases—such as India—machine tools and equipment might be moved there to set up local manufacturing units.

2. Standardization as far as possible of weapons used by the United Nations so that ammunition and parts would be interchangeable.

3. Consideration of the total United States—British production

How Can I?

Combined Food Board

One development from the joint production effort, officials said, might be a concentration of bomber production in the United States while Britain steps up production of fighter planes. Bombers can be flown to England, but smaller planes have to be taken in ships.

The "combined food board" was expected to fulfill virtually the same functions in regard to correlating the production and distribution of food among the United Nations. It also will seek to reduce shipping space by restriction of non-essential imports, increased use of concentrated foods and improved methods of stowing and packing.

In addition the board will deal with all other questions of food policy and strategy. The entire food resources of the United States and Britain will be considered as a common pool.

H.M.S. "Penelope" Now "Pepperpot"

Cruiser Shot Full of Holes Is Re-christened

The British cruiser Penelope is so full of holes her crew has re-christened her the H.M.S. "Pepperpot," but she's being patched up to defy again air and sub attacks, her skipper said, in telling of his hair-raising experiences.

Captain Angus Nicholl said his ship, called one of the "most bombed boats afloat," had been patched up at Malta, again at Gibraltar, and now is at an Eastern United States port for a "face-lifting" operation.

She was a whole ship when Capt. Nicholl assumed command in March, 1940.

During air raids at Malta, she earned the nickname "Pepperpot." Between Malta and Gibraltar, the crew ran into more gunfire and plugged her holes with wood. For a while the crew called her the "Porcupine."

After a direct bomb hit, the decks were so littered the crew alluded to her as "The Rock Garden."

"It's not so bad being bombed at sea," the doughty skipper said. "You can twist and turn and wriggle. You watch the plane until he is committed to his dive, and then change your course."

"You feel hurt in your dignity if you are hit at sea."

Captain Nicholl told how an aerial bomb hit the gangplank when they were tied up helplessly at Malta. Shrapnel killed one officer and three crew members, wounding 50 others.

"I got a splinter in a place not usually mentioned," he said.

But repairs which were expected to take a month were completed in two weeks by an undaunted crew.

About the time the Germans reported the Penelope "seriously damaged," he took to the Med-

How Can I?

Q. How can I remove iron rust?

A. Iron rust is easily removed by applying a mixture of salt and lemon juice. Rub thoroughly.

Q. How can I stiffen organdie trimmings, such as collar and cuff sets?

A. They will have just the right amount of stiffening if they are dipped into water in which rice has been boiled.

Q. How can I mend a small hole in a screen?

A. By first trimming the edges until it is roughly square. Cut a new piece of wire cloth about an inch larger each way than the hole. Pull out several wires on each side of the patch and bend so that the wires stick out at right angles. Place over the hole and push the wires through the screen, bending back through the screening until the new piece is firmly in place.

Q. How can I make the flower pots look attractive?

A. Cover the pots with two or three thicknesses of paraffin paper, then with crepe tissue paper. The paraffin prevents moisture from penetrating to the tissue paper.

Q. How can I soften dried shoe polish?

A. A small quantity of turpentine added to dry shoe polish will soften it almost immediately.

Have You Heard?

An elderly woman had been to hear her nephew preach for the first time, and she thought it a very poor sermon.

Later that day she asked: "James, why did you enter the ministry?"

"Because I was called," he answered.

"James," said the aunt, looking solemnly at him, "are you sure it wasn't some other noise you heard?"

The following correction appeared in a local newspaper: "We stated last week that Mr. John Doe was a 'detective' in the police force. This was a typographical error. Mr. Doe is really a detective in the police force."

Hot words had passed between the two youngsters so rapidly that finally they both halted for want of ideas. Then one had a brain-wave.

"Garn!" he sneered. "Yer muvver takes in washing!"

"Course she does," retorted the other. "Dye think she'd leave it aht in the black-out for yer muvver to pinch?"

"Does the foreman know that the trench has fallen in?" asked the contractor.

"Well, sir," replied the workman, "we're digging him out to tell him."

Sandy was thinking seriously of marriage. "And do ye no' read in bed?" he asked Jean anxiously. "Ay, Sandy," replied Jean, who wasn't Scots for nothing, "but only be it a bright moonlight night, ye ken."

She got her mon.

Husband: "You must think automobiles grow on trees." Wife: "Silly! Everybody knows they come from plants."

"By Jove, old boy, I couldn't believe it when I heard you were in hospital. Why, last night I saw you dancing with a pretty blonde."

"Yes, so did my wife."

"Agnes married a self-made man."

"Yes, but she compelled him to make extensive alterations."

12,000 Said Killed In Cologne Raid

Reuters said in a recent dispatch that Otto Abetz, the German "Ambassador" in Paris, had acknowledged in conversations that 11,000 to 12,000 persons were killed in the RAF-RAAF bombing of Cologne and that 180,000 persons had been ordered evacuated.

GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Taught To Swim In Flaming Water

The four trunk-clad Navy officers emerged dripping from the flame-swept swimming pool, looked ruefully at the sun—and complained of its blistering heat.

The officers were giving the final test to the most spectacular swimming lesson to be taught at the United States Navy's pre-flight training school at the University of Georgia—that men can swim through burning oil and gasoline and escape injury.

Lieut. W. F. Foster, chief swimming coach at the school, and a former instructor at Southern Methodist University, termed the test "extremely satisfactory."

The swimmer propels himself under the blazing oil until his lung-held oxygen supply is about exhausted. At this point he pushes hard for the surface and as he breaks water, slaps the flames away, takes a deep breath and sinks again.

"Kill That Rat"

The government has declared war on rats as part of the war on the enemies of democracy. At a time when everything possible is being done to combat waste to the benefit of the greater war effort, it is estimated that rats do damage of at least $115,000,000 a year in Britain in their gigantic secret banquets in places where the nation's food is stored. An Agriculture Ministry film "Kill That Rat" is being shown all over the country to make the people rat conscious.

NO RATIONING HERE

"There's no rationing at our house" ran a recent headline penned by editor Dinty Moore of the Grenfell (Sask.) Sun. The article goes on to say: "The Government has decreed that we must be rationed on sugar, tea, coffee, tires, gas—rationed this and rationed on that. So far they have not put a ban on one thing and we have taken advantage of the fact, to wit: MOORE—Born at the Loveridge home, Grenfell, Sask., on Monday, June 8, to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. 'Dinty' Moors, a daughter—Elizabeth Margaret (Betty) Both are doing fine. Daddy has also recovered very nicely after being 'under the weather' all winter."
