Iroquois Wins At Soccer

The Fourth Annual Dundas County Elementary Soccer Tournament was held on three playing fields in Iroquois on Saturday, October 19th, 1974. There were twenty teams entered from the county schools consisting of six teams in the senior division and fourteen teams in the junior division. Competition was keen as teams struggled for victory in the all-important first game to determine whether a team would compete in the winner's division or the consolation round.

In the first round of senior play Morrisburg met with Iroquois, Maple Ridge with Nationview and Riverside Heights with Stampville, with teams from Iroquois, Nationview and Stampville emerging victorious. In the second round of play Iroquois and Maple Ridge battled to a 0-0 tie, with the game being awarded to Iroquois on the strength of a corner kick. Stampville received a bye in this round and then clashed with the determined Iroquois team in the final round which saw the home team, Iroquois, the winner by a 3-0 score.

In the senior consolation competition Morrisburg trounced Nationview 3-0 while Riverside Heights received a bye into the final round. These two teams fought ferociously to a 0-0 tie with the game being determined by a corner kick in favour of Morrisburg.

In the junior division of play the teams entering the winner's division at the end of the first round were Stampville, Elma, Nationview, Morewood and two teams from Inkerman.

HALLOWE'EN CAN BE FUN

There was a time when Hallowe'en night gave all the young people of the community an opportunity to play pranks on their friends and neighbours, collect as much candy and fruit as possible and head home to show off the booty. As the years passed, so did the type of entertainment of yesteryear and for a few years it seems that property damage was the outcome of the "fun" of Hallowe'en.

Organizations began looking for ways to help quell the violent actions by providing another means of letting of steam. Here in Iroquois a party is provided by the Lions Club and while for the most part, only youngsters show up in quantity, there are a number of adults who dress in costumes to enhance the evening's fun and games.

It gives the adults a chance to let their hair down and for one evening of the year at least, they are able to join the youngsters in the fun. It's too bad that there aren't more adults (18 and over) who would dress up for this one evening and become a youngster again.

Thanks to the Lions for carrying on this tradition for so many years.

A GREAT TIME OF YEAR

There's nothing like a drive in the Fall on a dirt road through bush country and with a wealth of color, the trees of many varieties give an outstanding view in October. These are the days of cold evenings and sunny days that remind us of a summer past and a winter ahead. When we hear of the ast coast getting heavy snowfalls, of tremendous winds in the south and floods around the world, we should consider the great advantage of living in this part of the world.

Sure the grocery bill and fuel bill is getting higher; certainly the cost of gasoline is getting prohibitive...as well as cigarettes and liquor and all the good things in life we enjoy. But we still have them to enjoy and if we pay a bit more to have them--most people don't seem to yell too long.

But if we couldn't get the things we want, if we didn't know where the food was coming from for our next meal, and our house was cold at night and we didn't have work...well the list could go on and on. There are times when we should be grateful...not just "think" we are fortunate, but voice this sentiment.

Certainly we ponder the decisions of our governments and wonder what in the world they are doing about this and that. But most certainly we don't want to lose anything that we have attained or achieved in worldly possessions. And while we sympathize with the problems of under developed countries for a moment (and a moment only) we soon pass these moments of thought from our mind in the greater interest of our own self preservation of the way in which we live.

Greed is an ugly word but it does convey a great deal of expression. Is it personal greed that prevents us from lending a helping hand in time of the need of others?

There are many people in this country who are in need, who haven't been blessed as many of us have been, who strive just to stay alive in a thoughtless world. When we read about an organization taking a crack at ending some of this misery, we feel grateful that someone is doing something. It's all a matter of getting involved in and with orderly help for others.

Bill Smiley

Oh, What A Beautiful Day

By Bill Smiley

IT'S a fine, nay, a beautiful October day, and I have a fine, nay, a beautiful feeling inside me. I've just spent a weekend with my grandbabby. The experience was enough to make me feel that the daily grind, which seems to get grindier and grindier, might be worthwhile after all.

The Jews have a saying, in one of their books, that killing a man is a terrible thing, because you are not only killing him, but the sons he might have and the sons they might have and so on and on. I think this is a fine thought.

This would apply equally to killing a woman, though the Old Testament Jews were not exactly sold on Women's Lib.

If I had been killed in the war, and there was a good chance I would be, that grandbab would not exist, and the whole world would be poorer. I'm not kidding.

The existence of so much delight and charm and laughter and love, all wrapped up in one perfectly formed nine-month old creation, restores my faith, which at times becomes a little tattered around the edges, in God.

Man alone, with all his gifts, could never devise the shine in that child's eyes, the mischievous two-tooth grin, the sinuosity of muscle, the incredible endurance.

The urchin is living proof to me that humans have a soul, a will, a spirit. Technology can put together a computer, but it can't begin to create, or even imitate, the glory that is a baby.

I can imagine man devising a machine which could reproduce the sonorous lines of Milton, the fantastic fancy of Shakespeare, but there would always be something missing.

Computers are clean things. They don't have to go to the bathroom. They don't have under-arm problems. No corns or constipation, arthritis or acne, piles or pimples. But something is missing. Soul? Maybe.

I'm not trying to foist upon you the idea that my grandson is perfect, or a genius, even though he is. I'm merely trying to remind you, if you have grandchildren, of what a joy they are, and if you now have only rotten kids, you have a precious experience in store for your nether years.

My grandbab is not the most beautiful child in the world. He'd probably come in second, or even third, in an international Beautiful Baby contest.

And he's not the smartest. I discovered this last summer, at the beach. He'd sit there, stark naked, pick up a handful of sand, and pour it over his left ear. Never his right. It was a lot of trouble, getting that sand out of his ear. And he liked to eat sand, was delighted if he got a handful with a stone in it, for chewing.

But he's got his grandfather's genes, which make him intelligent, charming, lovable, and pretty well all-round perfect, as I point out to my wife.

Unfortunately, he has his mother's jeans, as well. Which make him bad-tempered when crossed, make him knock over anything that's over-knockable. But also give him eyes like two huge dark grapes, a sense of humor, and a smile like a Christmas tree when the lights have just been plugged in.

I have no trouble coping with him, when he spends a visit. All I do is make sure I've had twelve hours sleep for the three nights before he arrives, do extensive calisthenics and some jogging for three days before he arrives. Then I'm ready for Super-Babe.

His parents are no problem. His mother is satisfied with a hug, a kiss, and a cheque. His father is satisfied with a full refrigerator, which he opens and starts rubbing his stomach one minute after we've shaken hands.

Then they disappear, and I have the kid on my lap. For about eight seconds. Then he gives a lurch, a twist, and he's down, crawling at about forty miles an hour straight into the fireplace.

Luckily, I'm prepared. The andirons are all locked away, except the broom, which he uses to comb his hair and bang his forehead. Everything breakable, reachable or fragile is locked in the vestibule.

I toss a chess set on the floor. Terrific. He picks up a rook, crawls to the coffee table, so carefully waxed and polished, and proceeds to scrawl graffiti on its shining surface. My wife looks on in horror. "What the hell. You can't take it with you," I offer.

I do a lot of other wrong things. I take off his wet diaper and let him crawl around on the Indian rug, bare bum. I sing to him barrack-room songs that would curdle the blood. I let him chew my fingers. I let him pull the cat's tail.

And finally, after three hours of straight action, I pull him up on my knee, hum an original lullaby which goes "Doo-dee-doo-dee-doo-dee-doo," and he goes to sleep.

Asleep, he's the utter innocent. Garden of Eden. Soft and warm. No hypocrisy, no lying, no violence, no evil. It's beautiful. Even though I'm so stiff I can't get out of my chair three hours later when his parents get home from the movies.

Closing The Cottage

It's time to close your cottage for the winter. You lock the windows and doors and make certain everything is secure. On your way home you wonder if you have done all you can to make your cottage safe.

You keep thinking of things you have read or hear. Things such as : every winter more and more cottages are broken into. Thieves steal anything of value that is portable. You wonder if there's not something more you could do to protect your valuables. Well there is. Join OPERATION IDENTIFICATION.

Operation Identification is a community service programme sponsored by The Ontario Insurance Agents and Brokers Association and has the full backing of the Ontario Provincial Police and most local police departments.

We want everyone in the community to put their own special indetifying mark on everything in your cottage or home that thieves might steal.

You can borrow an electric engraving pencil from your Independent Insurance Agent and mark your driver's licence number or your Social Insurance number on all your possessions.

After marking all your possessions put an Operation Identification sticker on the door and windows of your cottage and home to warn would be thieves that everything on the premises is marked for ready identification by the police.

Thieves are reluctant to steal things that can be easily identified. Marking your possessions also assists the police in returning stolen items to you quickly and with a minimum of fuss and bother.

Join Operation Identification today. Borrow an engraving pencil from your Independent Insurance Agent or contact your local Ontario Provincial Police detachment or local police department for more information. By joining the programme you will be doing yourself and your community a service by helping put thieves out of business.

Quebec's Language Act

Walter Baker M.P. Reports

In the last column, I referred to that part of my speech in the Throne Debate dealing with the new linguistic "quota system" for the Public Service of Canada.

In my judgment, the new approach announced by Prime Minister Trudeau will have a profound effect on recruiting practices in the Public Service. In this column, I would like to deal with Quebec's Language Act - commonly called Bill 22.

Since its passage, I have taken the position that the Prime Minister, as the Head of the Government of Canada, has a clear duty not to duck the issue, but to initiate action in the Supreme Court of Canada, to test its constitutionality. The text of the speech as taken from Hansard follows:

"I do not know of any statute or any act that has been adopted by the government of Canada, or by any province, which has built within it a greater capability for creating division in the country. I do not say that with any joy I say that as a matter of some considerable regret.

Many groups have commented on this bill. Perhaps the best comment made in respect of it was made by the Canadian Teacher's Federation, a group of concerned Canadians representing the educators of this country in all of its provinces and territories. That federation said:

In either case, there are two sets of rights to be respected. The linguistic minority-French or English-has a right to protection against repressive acts. The linguistic majority English or French has a right to be protected against domination by the minority. To violate these rights is offensive to common fairness and the idea of democracy.

One test of democracy, and of fairness is whether parents have freedom to choose, for their children's schooling, the official language that they judge to be the more advantageous.

The statement went on to set forth the policy of that national organization and ended by saying the Canadian Teacher's Federation:

-condemn oppressive measures such as those sections of Quebec's Bill 22 which take the right of choice away from parents and put it in the hands fo the bureaucrats of the French Language Board and the Quebec Civil Service.

I will not comment in this place on the way that was done in the provincial legislature, but I must say to you Mr. Speaker, that the way it was done was a defeat for democracy in this country, and the denial of parental choice sets a deplorable and dangerous precedent for Canada.

The Prime Minister has defended his refusal to refer the Official Language Act of Quebec to the Supreme Court of Canada to test its constitutionality, and he has justified his refusal with an allegation that Quebec has treated its language minority better than other provinces have treated their language minorities in the past.

Even if that allegation were true, I would ask whether this is the answer that ought to be given by a political leader who assured parliament, the Canadian public and the governments of all provinces, that in accepting and implementing the Official Languages Act of Canada they had assured the unity of Canada so far as the French Canadians in provinces other than Quebec are concerned? Surely if the governments of those provinces have committed sins of language discrimina-

Local Highland Dancers Win

The S.D. & G. Highland Dancing Assoc. held their first closed competition of the new season on October 19, at Bishop Mc Donnell School in Cornwall.

Several of Gayle Robertson's students from Iroquois and Morrisburg were entered and gave a good account of themselves.

Karen Gowanlock of Morrisburg placed 1st in both the Fling and Sword in the 6yrs and under class.

Karen Craig of Iroquois came third in the 6yrs and under Fling.

Cheryl Styles of Iroquois was second in the Beginner II and over, Sean Tribbles was fourth in both the Fling and Irish Jig.

Pam Gowanlock from Morrisburg danced in the Novice 10 and under section, collecting three third place medals for the Sword, Fling and S.T. She also placed fifth in the Sailors Hornepipe.

Cindy Patterson, Iroquois in the Intermediate 10 and under category was second in the fling, 1st in the Sword, 3rd in S.T. and fourth in the Sailor's Hornepipe.

Other competitors were Tracy Gilmer and Julie Waddell both from Iroquois.

Trick or Treat

Trick or treat time is here again and with it comes the problem of keeping our children safe. Every year we hear of young children being injured in accidents while going door to door. The following rules may assist you in helping your children keep safe this Hallowe'en.

Put makeup on your children's facees instead of masks, this will accord the child a better field of vision. Usually masks are too large for small children and could possibly hinder their view.

If children are quite young, make certain that an older brother or sister, or even yourself, accompanies them door to door. This is just added protection for their safety.

Make sure that any costumes worn can be easily seen at night. Children should wear something white or other appropriate light colour enabling them to be seen more readily.

Instruct your children to walk on the sidewalks wherever possible. If they should have to walk on the road, make sure that they walk well off the travelled portion of the highway, on the left side, facing traffic.

If you reside in an unusally dark area, give your youngster a flashlight to carry with him. This allows him to see where he is going and it also makes him more visible to motorists.

Check your child's treats before allowing him to eat any of them.

The Ontario Provincial Police have already received numerous complaints with regards to vandalism and damaged property. Anyone found committing offences of this nature are subject to arrest and prosecution.

Variety Show Great Success

The variety night of the Senior Citizen group "Helping Hands" was, according to the many phone calls, letters and personal contact, a great success.

More than 200 persons were present for this evening at the United Church in Brinston. There was surely no generation gap between young and old.

After a welcomed words of the President of the Helping Hands (Mrs. Lieverdink) she introduced Dr. Joyce as the Master of Ceremonies of the evening. Mr. Buma, the Chairman of the Helping Hands was unable to attend, because he just came home from the Hospital.

Everybody who participated in the program did excellent work. The program started with our National Anthem O Canada. At the piano and organ was Mrs. R. Coons, Mrs. McInnis, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Cooper and the young ladies, Ian M. Westerveld and Ch. Geurkink. Mouth-organ music was given by Mr. Bouwman and Mr. Van Boven, quartet by the Coopers, Hornet and Mrs. Perry. The Hoogeveen Brothers of Ottawa, solo's and duet's by Mrs. van Moorsel and Mr. and Mrs. Westerveld, the Seaway Singers of Morrisburg under excellent leadership of Mrs. Polak. They all took us along with their song and music, through Canada, from East to West, the overseas countries, the birds, the sea, farm life, the sheep, cows and the horses, to show us their way of life, the glory of the mountains, the valleys, and most of all they told us of the glory of the Heavenly Kingdom far above the skies. Many times the crowd joined in.

Mr. Elliot, President of the S.C. of "Good Companions" of Iroquois thanked us for the evening, they had enjoyed it very much. Rev. Joyce ended this evening with prayer. It was an evening well spent, with song and old Canadians, an if you were not there, you really missed something.

The "Helping Hands" appreciated it very much that so many members of the "Good Companions" were present. They had planned their Halloween Party on that same day, but they moved the date from October 25 to November 1. All the members of the Helping Hands are invited. It starts at 8 o'clock at the Civic Centre, Iroquois.

The next meeting of the "Helping Hands" will be on Wednesday, November 6, and starts at 10:30 a.m. in Brinston Memorial Hall. A full program is waiting for you and visitors are welcome.

The Senior Citizen group "Helping Hands" was very pleased when they received a a check of $400 of the Provincial Government. They are planning to use this money for a trip and a loudspeaker. This is a result of the Senior Citizen Week, instituted through the Hon. Mr. W. Davis, Premier of Ontario in connection with Municipal and Social Services.

In the final game of the day a strong Iroquois team put it all together to win 3-1 over Nationview defeated Morewood 4-0 and Iroquois eliminated Inkerman 5-0. In the final game of the day a strong Iroquois team put it all together to win 3-1 over Nationview and thereby declare Iroquois supremacy on the soccer field.

As an added attraction to this year's tournament a cheerleading competition was staged. Through the capable judging of Mrs. Jean Ward, Mrs. Joan Morrell and Mr. Sid Morrell, Riverside Heights was declared the winner, with honourable mention going to the girls from Nationview. A trophy donated by Mrs. Marion Michalicka was presented to the captain of the winning team.

Individual trophies presented by M. N. Hutchinson to the outstanding soccer players of the day with the Best Senior Halfback award being captured by Iroquois player Peter Van Boven. Other award winners were: Best Goaltender - Paul Beckensile of Nationview, Best Junior Halfback - Danny Trillo of Chesterville and Best Senior Forward - Don Veinotte of Morrisburg.

A very successful food booth was operated throughout the day by Mrs. Ruth Styles and crew and this helped greatly to revitalize both players and fans throughout the day.

Refereeing for the entire nineteen junior and seven senior games was handled by boys from Seaway District High School and they are to be commended for the capable manner in which they conducted all games. The Iroquois Public School would like to express their appreciation to Mr. Ray Delegarde and crew for the use of the bleachers and roadblocks throughout the day.

Good Citizenship deserves a medal

Do you know anyone here in Ontario who—through selflessness, humanity and kindness without expecting anything in return—has made this a better province in which to live?

That's the kind of person for whom the Ontario Medal for Good Citizenship was established.

Recipients are selected by an independent Advisory Council of Ontario citizens whose honorary chairman is the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province.

Anyone may nominate a person for the Ontario Medal, and nomination forms are available by writing:

Executive Secretary
Advisory Council
Ontario Medal for Good Citizenship
Queen's Park
Toronto, Ontario M7A 1P4

Making a nomination is itself an act of appreciation for good citizenship.

ONTARIO MEDAL FOR GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Delegates Pour Into Morrisburg

Honking, hooting and merry-making have become the order of the day once again as delegates pour in from all across Northern Ontario and Quebec for the Canada Goose conference held annually near this otherwise peaceful St. Lawrence town.

More than 6,000 delegates have already set up camp in the fields surrounding Upper Canada Village, Chrysler Farm Battlefield Park and on Ault Island.

Local residents, braced for the raucous get-together, say delegates can be found wandering aimlessly at all hours over park lawns along Highway 401.

Officials also claim dozen of conference-goers have been found in the morning laying barely conscious in the stubble of nearby cornfields, or sound asleep on their stomachs in the mud near the riverbank.

Constable Ralph O'Brien at the nearby Ontario Provincial Police detachment office on Highway 31 said so far there have been no complaints about the delegates, but that he personally wouldn't mind taking a shot at a few of them.

Unfortunately, there's no open season in the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary.

The "Delegates" are Canada Geese who are migrating south after spending the summer around Hudson and James Bay.

Right now, they're stopping for a rest at the 7,000-acre sanctuary near Upper Canada Village before continuing south to winter around Chesapeake and Delaware Bays.

The flocks at Upper Canada also include 2,000 residents who remain year-round except for several weeks in the winter.

For anyone interested in a closeup view of the geese, come to the sanctuary any day of the week between 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. -- feeding time, the sanctuary's finest, busiest hours.

Consumer and Corporate Affairs

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet today cautioned consumers that some automotive engine coolants being marketed are not considered by vehicle manufacturers to be suitable for many recent designs of cars.

"I am advised", Mr. Ouellet stated, "that the designs of cooling systems in recently-produced cars are generally based on the physical properties of coolants consisting essentially of ethylene glycol and water".

"Due to the world wide shortage of ethylene, products consisting of mixtures of alchohols and glycols as well as petroleum distillates, and solutions of calcium chloride, are being marketed at this time', he said. Depending upon the particular vehicle design, temperature and other operating factors, some of these alcohol products may boil with consequent over-heating and damage to the engine. Petroleum distillate products may in particular have adverse effect on some radiator hoses and may present a fire hazard in the event of leakage. Water solutions consisting only of calcium chloride may result in very rapid corrosion of aluminum engine blocks and also in similar damage to car radiators in general.

"The Product Safety Branch of my department is presently investigating products which may present fire hazards and I intend to take appropriate action under the Hazardous Products Act to protect consumers from any unnecessary safety risks", the Minister said. "Where misleading or fraudulent claims are made I will not hesitate to use the powers of the Combines Investigation Act".

Finally, Mr. Ouellet urged automobile owners to check their car manuals for information on recommended engine coolant products before purchase.

Dinner is served as usual at 7:00 p. m. at the Morrisburg Civic Centre on Thursday, October 31st.

Our Guest Speaker this evening is Dr. John Lunn. Dr. Lunn is a noted historian and has been actively engaged in the restoration of Fort Louisbourg in Nova Scotia.

As you may have noted in the papers, there was a recent fire at the site and I'm sure that Dr. Lunn will give us a full report.

Dr. Lunn will enhance his address with slides to show us how Louisbourg has been recreated.

We can ourselves compare this restoration to our own development of Upper Canada Village.

Our next meeting will be on Wednesday, November 20th, when our Guest speaker will be Reverend Robert Rumble.

Come on out and bring a friend. It is not too late to join.

tion in the past, they are now absolved.

I should like to ask whether the Prime Minister's statement is historically correct. Have the other provinces not treated their minorities as well as Quebec has in the past? Can the Prime Minister, reputed to be a constitutional authority, point ot breaches by each and every one of the provinces other than Quebec, of their constitutional duties under the British North America Act?

Putting these constitutional duties aside, and looking at the equity of the problem, can the Prime Minister name any province, other than Quebec and New Brunswick, in which 10 per cent or more of the population is French-speaking? The 10 per cent, I would remind him, is the definition of a French or English minority as contained in Canada's official languages act. According to the 1971 census, other than New Brunswick and Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba have the highest percentage of persons whose mother tongue was French. Here the percentages are only 6 percent, and not 10 percent. In the other provinces and the territories the percentage drops drastically. What is the formula of discrimination that the Prime Minister applies retroactively to these provinces in his broad and sweeping statement?

Considering these very low percentages, is the Prime Minister aware of certain other hard facts that have borne upon the actions of provincial governments other than Quebec in an effort to forge a nation out of colonies and a vast unsettled land, a vast unsettled land, a greater land mass than all but one or two other nations of the world?

Is he aware that during this century of building, the immigration policy of the federal government attracted English-speaking and non-French-speaking immigrants to Canada? Is he aware that during confederation the bulk of trade, has been with the United Kingdom and with the United States of America, and that these are two English speaking nations?

Is the Prime Minister aware that until very recent times only a small percentage of Canadians were able to enjoy an education that continued beyond grade school but today, for some, education extends into university, professional schools, Harvard, the London School of Economics and the Sorbonne? Since the early '30's people were fortunate, in the world in which we live, in enjoying opportunities to learn that other people never had previously.

Is the Prime Minister aware that throughout the past years of confederation there have not been sufficient competent teachers of French to meet the requirements of the provinces, and that today there are not sufficient, including those imported at high salaries, despite the advantages of modern aids to language education?

Does the Prime Minister (Mr. Trudeau) not share the knowledge of his Secretary of State (Mr. Faulkner) that many provinces, including Quebec, could not afford to institute proper bilingual language instruction without massive federal aid? Is not this financial aid an admission by the Prime Minister's government that the language defects in the educational systems of the provinces are not deliberate discrimination against those who speak the French language? Surely, these things must be obvious.

Does the Prime Minister, in steering Canada's foreigh policy in a moralistic leftist direction, intend to castigate France for suppressing the language of the Basques and Alsatians, and to catigate England which only recently recognized the Welsh language in the courts after banning Welsh as a barbarous language by statute many centuries ago?

What disturbs me about the situation, aside from the things he mentioned, is that the Prime Minister as a keeper of the constitution, such as it is, should wish to perpetuate the myth that there is something in the other provinces of this country which will not bear scrutiny. That myth ought to be called a myth before its repetition becomes a fact in this country."

In the next column, I will deal with the Future of the National Capital - What Should We Consider?
