THE NOMINATIONS

The official nomination at Winchester Springs on Monday was attended by a very large crowd. As was anticipated there were only two names placed in nomination—Irwin Hilliard as the government candidate, and W. H. Casselman of Chesterville, representing the United Farmers.

The proceedings took the usual course until the returning officer, Mr. Merrill of Mountain announced the names of the two candidates, when Mr. Geo. Hart of Winchester, a lawyer and official agent for the government candidate, protested the candidacy of the United Farmers' choice. The protest was made on the grounds that Mr. Casselman's papers were not sufficiently signed, that is, that no one paper had on it one hundred names. As a matter of fact no one paper would hold one hundred names and two or more sheets holding sixty names each had been pinned together giving more than the required number, but in some unaccountable manner between the time of presentation of the papers to the returning officer and the time of his announcement, the pin or pins had disappeared, leaving all the sheets loose and separate. It is undisputed that, the total of names on Mr. Casselman's papers was close to five hundred.

The farmers scented a scheme to disqualify their candidate and resented the action of Mr. Hilliard's agent in no uncertain manner. They would not budge out of the hall until the Returning Officer had made his ruling on the matter, which he did after a few minutes consideration, accepting Mr. Casselman's papers and granting a poll, thus spoiling any chance for an acclamation for Mr. Hilliard.

The crowd being so great an adjournment was made to the open air where the candidates spoke to the crowd from the balcony of Mr. Robt. Ball's residence. Mr. Hilliard spoke for an hour, reviewing what it was alleged the government had done for the farmers and promising what it would do if again returned to power, but what a government would do for a farmer did not go down very well with the audience, when that government's candidate showed what he would do with a farmer, when he singled out of the thousand present, a farmer of Winchester township, one whom the people of this township have been delighted on different occasions to give the highest municipal honors in their power. The attack was so premeditated and uncalled for that it nauseated many of Mr. Hilliard's former supporters and aroused their spirits of fair play in such a manner that many have tendered their support to his opponent.

During Mr. Casselman's address the aims and objects of the U.F.O. were presented in such a manner that it left no doubts in the minds of the farmers that their interests needed looking after and that they had chosen and would support, a farmer, capable of looking after them as the next member for Dundas.

Both candidates stated their attitude on prohibition. Both will vote "No" on each of the four questions. Mr. Casselman proved by reference to a letter of his published in The Record of Dec. 31st, 1908, that he then stood for abolishing the bars in Chesterville by the local option route. Mr. Hilliard forgot to tell the electors that he fought, tooth and nail with his party, which won out, against Mr. Rowell's attempt to banish all bars from Ontario at the last provincial elections.

Every Woman Has a Vote

A fact in connection with the present election and referendum campaign is that many women do not know that they have votes in both instances. The only qualification required by a woman is that she is at least twenty-one years of age. It is not necessary that any property be owned. If there is more than one woman in a house each one has a vote. Daughters have just as good a vote as their mother or father. When women go inside the polling booth they should be handed two ballots one to vote on the prohibition question and the other to vote for your choice of candidates to the provincial legislature. You will be handed by the deputy returning officer in charge at the polling booth the ballots folded, take them as handed to you and go and mark them as you wish. There is no hurry, take your time and see that your cross is made where you intended to make it. After you have marked your ballot fold it in the same way you received it and hand it back to the man who gave it to you. He will take a little slip off of it and place the other part in the ballot box. No one can tell how you voted after it is done. Your ballot cannot be traced when the votes are being counted and will only be counted exactly as you marked it.

Be sure and get two ballots and mark one for W. H. Casselman and the other "No' four times.

Enjoyable Euchre

A most enjoyable euchre was held in the Town Hall on Friday evening last, being the second of a series of the Ladies Auxiliary of St. Mary's Church, and proved a most enjoyable affair. Despite the stormy weather there was a large attendance. Cards being played at twenty-eight tables. Prizes were won by Mrs. Eli Harper and Mr. Jos. Graham. Refreshments were served and dancing followed for a short time. A pleasuring feature of these affairs is the early hour in which they close and will continue to close throughout the season. They are in charge of a very efficient committee and are chaperoned by a number of ladies of the parish.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Mrs. Gordon Foxten of South Mountain, (nee Edith Merkley of Dunbar), who went to rest a year ago, Oct. 16th, 1918.

Short and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all,
The blow was great, the shock severe;
We little thought her death so near
And only those who loved can tell
The pain of saving a last farewell.
Some may think that we forget her
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
That smiles hide all the while.

BETTER COOLING

(FARMERS CUT THIS OUT.)

At this time of the year when the sun is hot, and the flow of the milk is high, remember that more water is required to cool milk to the desired temperature. The more milk you have the more water is required. Don't try to cool eight cans in water that will only cool four cans. Change the water often. Milk cooled and not kept cool will sour.

CONTRIBUTED PROHIBITION NOTES

It is often difficult for people from the continent of Europe to realize the strength and extent of public opinion on this side of the Atlantic on the subject of the use of alcoholic beverages. A recent instance of this occurred at a luncheon in Philadelphia in honor of Cardinal Mercier:

"You have taught me," he said with a broad smile "to partake of a great dinner, a great banquet with water as the only beverage. When I return to Belgium and tell my people that I was entertained at such a great dinner with only water to drink they will not believe me. 'La verite souvent est tres invraisemblable,' they will exclaim, which, in English, is as saying, What we thought impossible has come true.' So now it gives me pleasure to toast you, ladies and gentlemen, with a glass of pure, fresh water."

Everything that tends to destroy the tyranny of drink in social life makes for the best interests of the community, and it will be a great day for Europe and the world when alcohol is seen to be absolutely unnecessary, and positively harmful, both on festive public occasions and also at all other times.

Toronto, October 13.—Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the hero of the Labrador Medical Missions, preached to the students of the University of Toronto yesterday on "Fait," but managed to get a few shots in on prohibition. A few of his outstanding remarks were:

"If you know of a better way to fight the liquor interests than by prohibition, bring it on. The liquor interests are not philanthropists that they want to give you a stronger beer to ward off influenza."

"The German atrocities were not barbaric. They were beer-baric."

"If you vote prohibition in now, the next general election will not need half the amount of alcohol now taken as medicine."

"What is the use of asking hospitals to cure drunken men and then send them to damn their families?"

---

We hear the children shouting,
They are shouting to the skies,
We see the children looking
With their anxious eager eyes,
They are saying to the Government
Spare us that bitter cup
And destroy the liquor traffic,
Before we all grow up.

We are the ones who suffer,
Mother and children alike,
Then why, or why do you wonder
We all take part in the fight,
Kaiser Barleycorn would like us,
He has been after us before
He has been our bitter enemy
Worse, yes, even worse than war.

How we wish for once to be grown-ups
To make our X under the "No"
We would surely mark our ballot
Neither above the line nor below,
Mark "Yes" for the return of whiskey
Oh, no, "not for Joe"
Voters, hark, to the voice of the children
And vote no, no, no, no.

Crawls Through Wilderness in Grim Race With Death.

Cobalt, Oct. 12.—A race with death, in which the principal traveled on his hands and knees through nine miles of wilderness, was the terrible experience of R. H. C. Browne, former editor of the Nugget and former police magistrate of Cobalt. Mr. Brown is now in Hailebury Hospital suffering from weakness from loss of blood and his experience. He is 55 years of age, but his ruggedness and out door life, it is believed, will enable him to pull through.

His is a story of adventure seldom equalled in the tales of the North In his nine miles of travel to try and reach help and a doctor he was forced to drag one leg along, it being entirely useless as a result of an accident. His trip was through bush and over rocks, in an area where he had never been before. It appears that Browne set out alone in the bush some time ago to inspect some mining properties in which he was interested, and which were located in the Matachewan region. After having crossed four portages he reachedthe 5th on the evening of Sunday, October 5th, and decided to camp there for the night as it was late. Accordingly he pitched his tent at the portage.

At 7 o'clock the next morning while splitting some wood for a fire his axe glanced off the log, striking his ankle and inflicting a deep gash. It had been his custom to keep his axe well sharpened, and it had a razor edge. One of the arteries in his ankle was severed, and within a few moments he saw that his condition was becoming serious, as the wound was bleeding profusely. With what rude first aid appliances he could muster he endeavored to stop the flow, but it was not until 16 hours later that the bleeding ceased, an improvised tourniquet having been used to advantage. In the meantime the weather became threatening and a storm broke with rain and snow. A high wind rose and the tent was carried away by it, so that the man was obliged to crawl after it and fix it up againas well as he could.

On Tuesday morning he was weak from loss of blood, although not suffering any severe pain. The weather was becoming colder, and he was alone in the midst of a country which was comparatively strange to him, so that he realized that death would be the only outcome if he remained. Although dubious of his ability to find his way back again so as to reach Otissue Landing, the nearest objective, he decided that the attempt must be made, and determined to risk the journey. With great difficulty he got into his canoe and started off to make as much of the journey by water as possible.

Sitting in the stern of the canoe his balance was unstable and, after having paddled a short distance, he felt himself growing weaker from the exercise and a sudden feeling of faintness came over him. The result was that in an instant the canoe upset and he was precipitated into the water. The man's position was precarious, but he was not far from the shore and encumbered as he was, he managed to reach land, there to fall exhausted while the canoe drifted away.

Although tempted to give up the struggle, the idea of dying there in the bush by a slow process of starvation, was abhorrent to him and he summoned all his energies together in an attempt to cross the intervening wilderness between himself and safety. For well over a full day he staggered, stumbled and crawled on hands and knees through one of the roughest sections of bush in Northern Ontario.

Experienced prospectors and bushmen who know something of the district say that they would hesitate to undertake the journey alone even if they thought they were physically capable of doing it. His clothing was partially frozen after the plunge in icey water and it was only the fact that he has an undoubtedly iron constitution which enabled him to press on towards his goal. About half way on the slow nine-mile travel he undid the bandage on his leg having almost decided to give up the struggle, but seeing that it had not bled in the meantime he got fresh courage and went ahead.

Later when he had practically given up all hope of reaching the landing, as he did not know whether he had taken the right direction or not, the whistle of the Otisse Mine blew for six o'clock. The sound told him that he had almost won and again he proceeded with the result that two hours later he crawled painfully out to the landing. From there an Indian took him by canoe to Long Rapids and thence he went to Elk Lake. His difficulties were not ended, however, as the nearest doctor was at Charlton. Reaching the latter place, the physician saw that his condition was serious and advised him to go to the hospital at Haileybury. The man is at present confined in Providence Hospital where he will likely be for some time and although not yet completely out of danger his rugged health will undoubtedly pull him through. The surprising fact is that he is well on in years.

Women Voters

Are we going to see the bar brought back?

That is the question which both men and women are asking. A large majority in fact nearly everybody will be sorry to see that evil reintroduced. Men who have little or no sympathy for prohibition would be loath to see the return of the bar, yet, many apparently quite reasonable people are allowing themselves to be persuaded by the active workers of the Liberty League that voting "yes" to all four questions of the referendum will not bring back the bar! One is inclined to think they cannot have taken the trouble even to have read those questions.

Voting "yes" to the four will most certainly bring back the bar. Voting "Yes" to question No. 1, will bring back the bar.

As was pointed out by the Hon. Mr. Ferguson last week, the only intelligent way is to take each of the four questions and treat it as one would a separate ballot, and vote as one's conscience dictates. Only, men and women alike must remember, that all four questions have to be answered.

A story has been told of an enthusiastic worker in the temperance cause who, in addressing a meeting exclaimed—"I shall take the four questions of the referendum and write one big "no" across them".

This lady whose zeal was greater than her knowledge of the proper treatment of a ballot, would do her own cause extensive harm if she advocated such a manner of procedure to women who may be voting for the first time.

Full particulars have been published as to how workers should explain carefully that no word must be written at all. All that has to be done is to mark a cross opposite the question, in the column marked "yes" or "no" which ever way you decide to vote. It is just as simple as it can be, and if, as has been hinted, a lot of women spoil their ballots, it will be rather a reflection upon the intelligence of the weaker set.

The great demand for more live stock of all classes, and the importance of placing it on the market in well finished condition is being recognized by the Ottawa Winter Fair board in revising their Prize list and making arrangements for the next show to be held in Ottawa, Jan 13th, to 16th, 1920.

How to say "No!"

Mark Your Ballot with an X after Each Question under the word "No"

| | | YES | NO |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Are you in favour of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act? | | X |
| 2 | Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale? | | X |
| 3 | Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favour such sale and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale? | | X |
| 4 | Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale? | | X |

Above is an exact reproduction of the Referendum ballot, showing the correct way to Vote in order to sustain the Ontario Temperance Act as it stands.

Everybody should study the four questions and realize exactly what they mean. Do not be misled by the insidious demand for "light" beer.

The beer of the ballot is 118% stronger than the Ontario Temperance Act now allows, and over five times as strong as the limit allowed for beer defined as non-intoxicating in Great Britain and the United States.

Answer Each Question

1. Unless you vote on every question your ballot is spoiled.
2. You must mark your answer to each question with an "X" only. Anything else would spoil your ballot.
3. Unless a majority vote "No" on question 1 the bars will be restored and the sale of all kinds of intoxicants permitted.
4. Unless a majority vote "No" on questions 2, 3 and 4 the Ontario Temperance Act will become almost worthless.
5. The only SAFE course is to mark your ballot as shown above.

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

Start a Graveyard

Someone has most wisely written: "Every man should have a graveyard of his own." In it he should bury all his mean thoughts, his hatreds, his anamosities, and his evil aspirations—bury them so deep there can be no resurrection. If you hear a bit of malicious gossip, bury it. And when you have finally filled the graveyard with the worst that was in you then you will find the world and all that goes to make it up a much better place to you than ever before.

Few Bond Buyers Affected by Tax

There is a general impression abroad that the total amount of money invested by any one subscriber in the Victory Loan 1919 will be subject to taxation. This impression is erroneous. It will be the interest from the investment that will be taxed, not the principal invested.

As a matter of fact very few investors in the new loan will be brought within the scope of the Income War Act by reason of investments in Victory Bonds. With small estates and investors the law does not become effective under $2,000 in the case of married persons or persons with dependents, and $1,000 in the case of married persons without dependents. Municipalities and fraternal societies will not be subject to taxation in their investments in the loan at all. The interest from the bonds will not be more taxable than ordinary income, subject to the general law of the land.

Owing Ourselves

It is estimated by Sir George Paish, the eminent economist, that interest-bearing foreigh securities held by Great Britain make a total of £5,000,000,000. British securities abroad do not exceed £1,000,000,000. There is a favorable balance, after allowing for all doubtful and Russian debts, of about £3,000,000,000. At an average rate of only 4 per cent. this means an annual income to Great Britain from this source alone of £120,000,000. No one can calculate the full effect of such a circulating asset to the people and Government of Great Britain

Up to this year the Government of Canada had sold Victory Bonds amounting to more than $1,200,000,000 to the Canadian people. The Loan now being floated will add materially to the total. If $1,700 000,000 be considered as the final outstanding war securities, at 5½ per cent, the total payment to Canadian Bondholders will reach $93,000,000 a year.

Consider the business advantage which must come from such a circulating and recurring asset. The business created by such a free movement of money will make up many times for the excess taxation required to meet the interest payments. To that extent, at least a "thundering big" public debt has advantages, when it is owing to the citizens of the country. If our War Loan securities were held abroad, the interest would be a severe drain on the country. That is the economic reason for popular Government loans.

The Need For Thrift

Saving is not always looked upon as a saving grace. If it were, there would not be over five per cent of the inhabitants of the United States and probably an equally large percentage of Canadians who are dependent upon public charity. During the past five years practically all commodity prices have risen steadily yet vast sums in the aggregate are now being spent for goods that the purchasers could very well do without. The production of luxuries requires the labour of thousands of men and the use of capital and materials that could be turned to better account in producing and distributing necessaries. It is surely obvious that such needless expenditures influence in a marked degree the trend of prices in general.

No right-thinking nation or individual desires to become a pauper, but to avoid such a fate thrift is a prime essential. At no other time in the history of Canada has thriftiness been more imperative. At no other time has prodigality been so much the rule It may be only a reaction following the enforced frugality of the later war years. It may be due to the surplus currency which war industries brought into being. But in any case, the general result is baneful and tends toward pauperism. If the discount on Canadian currency abroad is to be wiped out and the prices of necessaries reduced, national and personal thrift is a precept which must be put into practice.—A.D.

An Object Lesson in Fire Prevention

Fire and Water Engineering: The recent strike of the fire department of Cincinnati, Ohio, in which the city was without experienced firemen for eight days, may be taken as an illustration by all other cities of what can be done in the line of fire prevention when the public is really interested. When the strike began, on April 12th, volunteers were enrolled and word was sent to all business houses and property owners to take extraordinary care to avert danger of fires, as the city was practically unprotected. The result was that in the eight days during which the strike lasted the fire loss was $500, while the corresponding week in the preceding year the loss was $20,576, which amounted to a daily average loss of over $2,000 – more in a single day of the careless period than in the whole week when everyone felt a responsibility for the city's safety. This is an excellent object lesson on the fact that the average fire is simply and soley the result of carelessness, and teaches that fire prevention campaigns should be held "early and often."

Times Change

"In these days it's almost impossible to get what you want."

"Yes. I remember when my husband would give me anything I wanted if I merely cried a little. Now I have to go into hysterics."

Everyone Who Bought Canada's Victory Bonds Made Money . . . . . .

EVERY one of the million and a half subscribers to Canada's Victory Bonds knows that he can sell them today for more than he paid for them.

Every one who bought Canada's Victory Bonds has received 5½ per cent. interest per annum—paid twice a year.

Over half a million Canadians who bought Canada's Victory Bonds on the instalment plan saved money that they would not otherwise have saved.

The guarantee back of Canada's Victory Bonds is the same as the guarantee back of a One Dollar or a Two Dollar bill. There is this difference, however, that you get interest on the Victory Bonds and you don't on the One or Two Dollar bill.

Canada's Victory Bonds will always be accepted as security for a loan.

Banks are ready to loan money on Canada's Victory Bonds.

Canada's Victory Bonds may be turned into cash at any time.

There is no other way in which you can invest your money with such absolute security—paying such a good rate of interest.

Canada will soon give her citizens an opportunity to buy Victory Bonds 1919. It will probably be the last chance to buy Canada's Victory Bonds on such favorable terms.

Prepare to buy as many Victory Bonds this time as you now wish you had been able to buy the last time

A True Story for the Boys and Girls

Delilah was one of a family of four wild ducklings. She was hatched, however, by a domestic hen who acted as her foster-mother. Her place of birth was on the farm of Jack Miner, at Kingsville, Essex Co., Ont.

Delilah's sisters were Polly, Susan and Helen. They were wild enough little creatures at first but soon learned to eat custard and were so tame that a tap on a tin pan would bring them all running up for food.

Now, Mr. Miner had often been asked the question, "Do birds return to their homes?" He felt sure they did, but he had no proof. Here was a fine chance to make an experiment. So he marked each of these four ducks with an aluminum tag with the words, "Box 48, Kingsville, Ont.

They migrated on or about December 10, 1912. Helen got shot at lake St. Clair. On March 18 Delilah returned, and on March 30 Susan appeared, though wounded in the wing and foot. So the question as to the return of birds was answered.

In the autumn of 1913, they migrated again, and in the spring of 1914, back came Polly and Delilah and brought their mates with them too. The young drakes were shy at first, but the two ducks coaxed them down. They raised families that year, and, in the autum, away they went again.

In the spring of 1915, Delilah arrived on March 13 and Polly three days later. A shot had grazed across her beak and cut the side off, leaving it hanging. She just stood around with her mouth open. Jack Miner gave her custard and porridge and in two days, he had her in his hands. In about a week or so, he took both ducks to a photographer, stood them on a table and got a picture of them.

Notice how birds know their enemies and their friends. These ducks had been shying around trying to keep clear of people lying in ambush for them and now they were eating out of a man's hands These creatures are not so silly as we are apt to think them.

Polly stayed the winter of 1915-16 on Mr. Miner's place but in the spring of 1919 she was shot. Delilah, however, migrated regularly every autumn and returned the following spring, returning thus six times in all.

During the six seasons, she has raised five families, two of eight, two of nine, and one of twelve—forty-six ducklings in six years.

This shows that, if we protect the mother birds, we need have no fear of the extermination of our wild life. But it also shows what fearful destruction can be wrought by ind scriminate shooting, especially in the spring.

Remember that, though shooting may give you a little pleasure, it is well to limit your bag that, in future years, the birds may not have disappeared.

Keep Implements Under Cover

If one travels through the country at the present time, the haying and harvesting machinery on many farms may be seen standing in the field where last used. It may have been drawn out into the lane somewhere or may even be at the barn but not inside it. In the Prairie Provinces there seems to be a sort of reckless abandon regarding the use of machinery. When a binder breaks down it is often drawn off to one side of the field and forsaken when it could be easily repaired and made to serve for a season or two longer.

The prices of all kinds of farm implements have gone up and it is poor business to neglect the machinery by leaving it exposed to the weather The wooden parts soon rot away and the metal parts rust out. It takes longer also to get a rusty implement into working order again.

It is frequently stated that the farmer is and must be to-day more of a business man than formerly. Men in other lines of business where machinery is employed seo that it is oiled and properly cared for in order to keep down production costs. The farmer should do the same. When he pays the price that he has to pay today for machinery he should take good care of it. Cost of production can be reduced in this way, which means increased profits. Try it.—F C.N.

Successful Poultryman Has Long Lease on His Job.

When a poultryman goes out of business it may not be due to a failure. Some men leave poultry production for other lines of business in the same way that there are frequent changes in other lines of trade. However, the farmers and poultrymen who really like their birds dislike to sell out because of small failures and they dislike to give up when they have made a success because they like the business and realize that it has compensations above the profit in the money. That is why we have poultrymen who stick to the business even when their hens and their other farm operations have made them enough money to retire. They learn to like poultry and all kinds of live stock, and find that caring for the stock makes them happier than loafing. One fine thing about the poultry business is the fact that a man would never have to give it up for his health as it is a healthy occupation. Even an old man who likes poultry can stay with his business after he might be too old for another business. The poultryman who succeeds should be able to look forward to old age on the farm with as little fear as any man, because as long as he can get around at all he can do something that is worth while.—Michigan Farmer.

Both Were Saved

"The biggest fire I've ever seen was at New York," said an American. "It was a very high building and the ladders were not tall enough to reach the window in which a lady was standing "Well," he went on, "we were just beginning to despair when a lucky thought seemed to strike one of the firemen. Catching hold of a hose, he took it along side of the house and turned the nozzle upward so that a stream of water shot continuously past the window. Summing up her courage the lady stepped from the ledge, and putting her arms and legs around the jet of water, slid to the bottom and was saved." "Oh, that's nothing," said the Englishmen, "I was standing once watching building burn, when at the top storey a girl appeared. I stared, the policeman stared, in fact we all stared so hard that at last the girl walked down the stares.

Language all Its Own

Mrs. Flatbush—They say the English language has eighty-two sounds.

Mr. Flatbush—Is that all?

"Why, isn't that enough?"

"I suppose it is, but if that is a fact that cat next door certainly must know some other language beside English."

As Customs Change

"Any old fashioned horse thieves around Crimson Gulch?" asked the visitor in quest of adventure.

"No", replied Cactus Joe. "The hoss thieves have all gone east an' took to stealing motor cars, which is less risky and more remunerative".

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Cut Chore-Time in Half

Do you realize that an average farm uses one ton of water a day? How long are you going to handle this tremendous bulk by old-fashioned, wasteful methods?

Modern farmers let the wind pump and distribute their water. They cut chore-time in half. They have running water in the house, the barn and stables, and pasture.

Not with old-fashioned windmills. But with big, sturdy, efficient double-geared Toronto Windmills, constructed throughout of galvanized steel, strong and rust-proof.

A Toronto Pump and a Toronto Water-System, combined with a Toronto Windmill, gives you a real city water service.

Toronto Pumps and Water Systems can also be supplied with a gasoline engine or electric motor.

Our Windmill, Pumps and Water System booklets show you how to cut out waste time and energy on your farm—how to make more money. Write for them. They are sent free.

PROGRESS—PERFORMANCE—PROMISE

IF we have given worthy service during the trying time of war, may we not be relied upon to serve the nation faithfully and well in hastening the time of still greater prosperity and happiness? As we have begun, so we will continue; fearless in the discharge of duty and ever alert in the service to the people. Conscious of our shortcomings, and grateful for the opportunities we have had to serve our Province, we submit our record with confidence to the electors for their consideration and approval, and ask from a united people a mandate to carry on the Government of this Province.

WAR WORK

Ontario gave in men 232,895; in contributions $54,532,188; to Victory loans $540,465,550. Ontario provided 50 per cent. of Canada's war effort. The Ontario Government spent in war work over $10,000,000; maintained in England the most efficient military hospital in Europe; furnished club houses for the soldiers in London and Paris; made gifts of food and guns to the Mother Country; made large grants to the British Red Cross, Belgium, Serbian relief and other worthy patriotic objects. Ontario's war effort has made the name of Ontario respected in every corner of the world.

EDUCATION

Ontario's educational system is designed to provide the most efficient training possible for the boys and girls who are to become the future citizens of the state. Under the leadership of the Minister of Education no expenditure has been denied to accomplish this purpose. Generous grants have been made for agricultural technical and vocational training; returned soldiers are encouraged to enter the teaching profession; teachers' salaries have been raised and a superannuation scheme inaugurated; this year nearly $4,000,000 will be spent on education in Ontario.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Hydro is to-day the most extensive public-ownership enterprise of its kind in the world. Since its inception Hydro-Electric has saved to the consumers of electric power in Ontario over fifty millions of dollars. Hydro displaces annually 5,000,000 tons of coal. Hydro develops and distributes 350,000 horse power to over 200 municipalities, 175,000 domestic consumers and 6,000 customers for power. The Queenston-Chippewa undertaking will provide an economical development of 400,000 horse power, and the prospective ultimate development in the whole Province is over 1,000,000 horse power.

AGRICULTURE

The agricultural industry in Ontario is in a prosperous and thriving condition. Appropriations in 1904 amounted to $475,000; in 1919, $1,675,000. Last year the value of the farm products of Ontario was $550,000,000, and the value of the combined farm assets was one and a half billion dollars. Within the last three years ten thousand farm mortgages have been paid off. Encouragement has been extended to every branch of the industry, education has been fostered, and social conditions have been improved. Agriculture has receive the "earnest and unremitting attention of the Government."

FINANCE

In 1904 the income of Ontario was $4,464,000; in 1913 it was $11,178,302; in 1918 it was $19,270,123. This has been accomplished without resorting to direct taxation—apart from the war tax, which has been repealed. Out of this revenue the Government has returned to the people in larger grants, $3,807,000 for Education; $1,476,225 for Agriculture. The public services have been enlarged and ample grants have enabled important public duties to be undertaken.

HIGHWAYS

Good roads add wealth and comfort to rural life. The highway improvement programme of the Ontario Government is applied to both urban and rural districts. A complete system of roads, including provincial roads, provincial county roads, county roads and township roads with a mileage of 12,500 miles, has been worked out and will be constructed. The entire motor license revenue, with a large amount added, will be spent annually on this work.

LABOR

Ontario's industrial leadership in Canada has been maintained by broad and effective labor laws. Under the Workmen's Compensation Act $10,000,000 has been paid out in awards. Special safeguards have been provided for female and child labor. A minimum wage in Ontario is assured, and a direct representative of Labor will sit in the Cabinet. Free employment agencies have been established, and technical education has been encouraged.

HEALTH

Ontario's public health service is not excelled on the continent. Public health education, child welfare, sanitary engineering service, and the free distribution of anti-toxins and serums have conserved life and prevented epidemic. A scheme of pensions for mothers is to be established. The Provincial Board of Health supplied all the typhoid vaccine used by the Canadian troops in the war. This feature of the work has brought about a saving of over $100,000 a year to the people of the Province.

As a war measure the Ontario Temperance Act was so passed, suspending for the duration of the war the retail sale of liquor. The promise was given that as soon as the war was over the whole question of the character of the liquor legislation of Ontario would be submitted to the people by Referendum, and the will of the people would prevail. *This promise is now being fulfilled.

PROMISE

Greatest possible assistance to Agriculture—Faithful enforcement of the Referendum—Support of Hydro-Electric; cheap light and power for the farmer—Convert railway branch lines ino Hydro radials—Good roads in every part of Ontario—State pension fund for mothers—Direct representation of Labor in the Cabinet—A minimum wage—Housing accommodation—Legislation implementing the findings of the National Industrial Conference—Consideration to returned soldiers with Cabinet representation—Educational progress, technical and agricultural instruction—Improved transportation in Northern Ontario—Timber conservation—Encouragement in mining development—Enlargement of Ontario's free public health service.
