Chamber Thinks "Wet"

Pros and cons of making Winchester a "wet" municipality were discussed in some detail at the regular Monday morning coffee meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directorate. What the final result of the suggestion of changing the status of the village from dry is very much in question but the directors want to start the ball rolling and see what happens to the idea.

The Chamber did not discuss in depth what type of system could be possible for Winchester, but the essence was for provision of retail outlets for beer and liquor. At present Winchester is the only sizeable community east of Kingston that citizens and travellers cannot make a purchase of spirits nor partake of spirits in a public dining facility.

The Chamber proposes to throw the idea in the fire and bring it to a general meeting and make a presentation to municipal council at an early date. This final presentation to the town fathers would, of course, come after considerable study as to what type of facilities would be best suited for the village. Retail outlets will certainly be part of the package but additional facilities that could be sought will be given close perusal.

By suggesting a possible vote on the question, the Chamber would leave the final decision up to the local citizenry. Within the Chamber itself, two years ago, a vote was cast 19-3 in favour of making Winchester "wet." The business organization looks upon the liquor ban as archaic and feels the change would add impetus to Winchester business and create employment. Added employment would come from outlet staffs and other establishments that might open or be developed as a result of a "wet" vote.

The entire matter will be discussed in detail and depth by the Chamber before any final analysis is revealed.

Ministers Object

Ed. Note—The initial action by the Chamber of Commerce, a move to study the possibility of a vote for the sale of alcoholic beverages in Winchester, was criticized in a letter to this newspaper following two brief comments in a previous issue. The actual story of the Chamber's intentions appears for the first time this week. The letter, held over from last week, also appears here.

October 25th, 1965.

Dear Editor:

We write on behalf of the Winchester Ministerial Association, and would deeply appreciate the courtesy of the insertion of this letter in your valued newspaper.

Like you, sir, we regret that the local hotel now has the appearance of a "dilapidated old wreck." That, however, in our judgment, is one issue, but an entirely distinct matter is introduced when it is suggested that our village go "wet." This proposal we view with alarm, and we would express the hope that the Chamber of Commerce directors, working in co-operation with Village Council, will reject any overtures from those who would endeavour to exploit the situation which has now arisen.

The hotel looks hideous, yes, but so also does a drunken man or woman. How then is a licence the remedy?

Very sincerely yours,

George A. Cawfield, Secretary.
W. R. Schamehorn, President.

Curling Club Opening Party Planned For Saturday Evening

Saturday night should be an eight-ender affair for everyone at the Winchester Curling Club. It's the get acquainted, let's get ready for a season of good competition and fun party in the club rooms.

All members, old, new and prospective, are invited out to the gathering when there will be stones thrown on the ice at your leisure. Going into its first full year of operation the curling club is seeking as many as many new members as possible to keep the three sheets of excellent ice busy over the season.

Open curling and demonstrations for newcomers are slated, and with a friendly atmosphere in the club rooms it should be a swinging affair.

Reports from the club say that two sheets are ready to go and the third sheet is not far behind. The final scheduling details will be ironed out after Saturday evening's listing of curlers and play should start next week. So the invitation is out for members and friends of the club to be on hand Saturday evening for a really good show.

Esteemed Citizen James Utman Dies In Memorial Hospital At 92

Well known gentleman and sports enthusiast James E. Utman died in Winchester District Memorial Hospital at the age of 91.

A man with many many friends, he had lived the main part of his life in Winchester, after moving to town from the farm. He was the son of George Utman and his wife, Harriet Vancamp.

Active in the life of the Winchester United Church, he had been an elder and was an honorary life member of the Official Board. His association with sports was well known in the village as he was a keen softball fan of all local teams. He had a long history of successful business in the village.

He married the former Maude Bickford, who predeceased him 11 years ago. Mourning his passing are numerous nieces and nephews and other relatives.

Funeral service Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. was held at the Vice and Craig Funeral Home with interment in Maple Ridge Cemetery. Pall-bearers were Benson George, Lloyd Dixon, Harvey MacIntosh, Walter MacDonald Norman Utman and Fred Christie.

Many floral tributes and commemorative gifts were received.

Three In Grenville-Dundas

Candidates Confident Of Monday Victory

RENE BENOIT
New Democratic Party

Entered for the first time in the election marathon in Grenville-Dundas is New Democratic Party nominee Rene Benoit. A technician from South Mountain, Mr. Benoit has been on a rigorous campaign schedule moving around the riding and expounding his party's policies.

The recognized low man on the ladder, Mr. Benoit is confident of a good show of NDP votes in the Monday election. Supporters say they expect big things in the way of inroads into the votes totalled by the two major parties in the riding.

JOHN PALMER
Liberal

Liberal standard bearer John Palmer has covered the riding corner to corner shaking hands, answering questions and learning of the problems of the people he hopes to represent in Ottawa after November 8th.

"Big John" has made a good impression on the voters of the riding and has delved deeply in programs of action for the betterment of the two counties. Mr. Palmer, aspiring to a seat in the House, could be the first Liberal ever elected in the traditionally Conservative Grenville-Dundas.

MRS. JEAN WADDS
Progressive Conservative

Running in her fourth federal election, Mrs. Jean Wadds har had remarkable success in the federal political field. In her first three appearances at the polls she was the undisputed victor.

Mrs. Wadds in all her appearances throughout the riding has assured her supporters victory not only in Grenville-Dundas but across the country. She has based much of her campaign on a return to honest Conservative government.

She is anticipating a record riding majority.

Remembrance Service

Methodical beat of the drums and rhythmical blast of the bugle will indicate the veterans of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 108 in Winchester are marking Remembrance Day with their annual Church Parade and Service, followed by memorial services at the Cenotaph at the District Memorial Hospital Grounds. Sunday, November 7th, everyone will be wearing a poppy as they watch the Legionnaires parade with the North Dundas District High School Band and join the parade in church and memorial services.

All veterans are requested to meet at the Legion Hall at 10.30 a.m. for the formation of the parade to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at 11 a.m. Memorial service at the Cenotaph will be shortly after 12 noon at the completion of the parade to the memorial. Following the laying of the wreaths and the short service the parade will move to the Legion headquarters for dismissal.

The Legion hopes that everyone has had the opportunity to purchase a poppy or a memorial wreath and any persons who haven't and wish to do so would contact Archie Rice, committee chairman, as soon as possible.

Proud Poppy Salesman

"I think I should have a practice run, Mom, just to make sure I know how to do it!"

Keith McRoberts wasn't taking any chances when he went out to sell poppies for the Legion last Saturday — he had the operation of pinning on down pat and he didn't even stick his mother once. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McRoberts of Gladstone Street, Keith and his mates in Scouts and Cubs did an excellent job of seeing that everyone who wished received a poppy.

The fact that really counted was that Keith and his scouting friends wanted to help the Legion and gladly donated their time and effort to remember by doing in their own way. The Scouts and Cubs will be part of the Legion Church Parade Sunday.—Press Staff Photo

Council Investigating Full Sewer System

Prohibitive costs have made the construction of a St. Lawrence Street sewer from Main to Church a practical impossibility at this time. The same reason is behind the discarding of a possible plan to develop a main street system that would swing down Caleb Avenue and service residents along that street. Cost of the combined project was well over $14,000 and for the individual projects the estimated costs run in the neighbourhood of $8,500 each. The conclusion of the five-man municipal council and two representatives of the St. Lawrence Sewer Committee — too much money.

The alternative is to seek another method of finance to install the sewer in the business section or the heart of the village or the whole village. Under recent legislation Reeve Reynolds explained to council the Ontario Water Resources Commission, if the need is sufficient, can construct a sewer or water system in any municipality and rent it back to the corporation over a period of years until the project is paid for.

To investigate fully this legislation and see if it could apply to the village of Winchester in whole or part, Reeve Reynolds and Councillor A. E. Dukelow will travel to Toronto within two weeks for an interview with the Commission and to present the Winchester case to the OWRC for their advice, opinions and hopefully some sort of indication of what may come about as a result of the new legislation.

HALLOWEEN REPORT

Chief Constable Les Whitteker reported very little Halloween damage and that several small infractions and pranks were suitably dealt with and damaged property replaced. Damage totalled a few moved steps, missing garden fences, and reparked vehicles. Only costly damage was to a street light that was broken, and investigation will continue. Council lauded the police department for their effort and authorized payment of $55 to the extra police officers that were on special duty.

BITS AND PIECES

Test pumping of the new well in the north-east will be today. The Centennial Caravan will be in Winchester on May 20, 1967. Council registered disapproval with some of the insurance coverage carried by the village, and a letter stating their dissatisfaction was authorized to the holding agent. Engineer Freeland will be issued a trench inspector's certificate. Application was made for funds for the $12,175 fire hall addition and for $55,000 for the Public School addition. Council will lay a wreath at the Memorial Service Sunday at the Cenotaph.

ENGINEER REQUESTS

Town Engineer Reg. Freeland requested and received permission for the purchase of two tons of calcium chloride and 70 yards of sand for winter use; cold mix for potholes was to be ordered as well as new anodes for the high water tank and a quantity of stop signs.

Accounts passed for payment: Hydro, $808.55; water, $1,062.30, and village, $16,663.09.

HI spots
A ROUND-UP OF NEWS FROM THE DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOLS
OTHS MDHS NDDHS

N. D. D. H. S.
(By Brian Docksteader)

Another week has come and gone at North Dundas and with it has come success. On Wednesday afternoon our senior soccer team fought to a 1-1 tie tie with Mountain High School in a game packed with excitement. Then on Thursday, in the mud and snow, our senior football team, the Hawks, earned their way into the league finals by whipping North Stormont 31-1. What a game!

Friday saw events of two different natures. In the afternoon results from the October tests were sent home to the parents. Then in the evening, the Student Council held its annual Halloween Dance. A large crowd danced to the music of the Chan-Tays from Kingston. Prizes were given to the best costumes and thus, a large percentage of the gang dressed up for the occasion.

The inter-class competitions in volley-ball are now being planned and the inter-scholastic squads are practising. On Saturday, the girls' volleyball team travelled to Cornwall to play in a large tournament. The boys' basketball teams are now beginning to practice too. Yes, the time is passing by but North Dundas is moving with it.

VARIETY SHOW

Thursday night, October 28, the North Dundas District High School Variety Troupe travelled to Smiths Falls Ontario Hospital School and presented their show to an audience of approximately one thousand.

The show, introduced by Mary Graham, consisted of every type of song from the Italian theme from Mondo Cane, "More," sung by Tom Collins, to popular songs like "Don't Just Stand There," sung by Dolwyn Collins. Playing her guitar, Gloria Henderson sang one of her own compositions, "Strangest Dream." Two skits, "Love in the 1890's," and "The Vagabonds" were presented by their co-writers, Mary Jane Elliott and Suzanne Johnston. Piano duets and accompaniments were played by Jean Moffat, Debbie Graham and Carol Kilby. Josie Dickshei and Dennis St. Pierre played the accordian.

These solos and sing-alongs accompanied by Carol Kilby on banjo and Mark de Bruyn and Gloria Henderson on guitar were especially enjoyed by the audience. After the show the cast was treated to coffee and sandwiches in the cafeteria. The Variety Troupe was under the able direction of Mr. Pat Burnside.

BEWITCHING HALLOWEEN

OUT OF THIS WORLD COSTUMES

WINCHESTER Press

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1965

An air of mystery and suspense lurked in the Community Centre. Two gangsters obviously in town for a big caper leaned nonchantly against the north fence and surveyed the lovely girl in the skin-tight pink abbreviated costume. "It" walked casually around the arena circle taking notes on the other competition and making even a witch, bent and evil in her ways, look warily as they passed. Moving with all the stealth of her long ancestry, an Indian moved almost silently through the mass of goblins, magicians, beatniks, clowns, tramps, cowboys, old and haggard men and women. And still everyone waited and the air was charged with anticipation of something about to happen.

It wasn't a masquerade ball, it was Halloween Night in Winchester and some of the people remain to-day still unidentified other than a witch, gangster, magician, ghost or goblins. Although it was a little behind schedule the annual Halloween party in the arena for the kids saw more than 100 various types appear in an effort to win prizes for their costuming efforts and pick up a heaping bag of candy and a noisemaker from the co-sponsors, The 100 Club and Legion Branch 108.

The costumes, as in years past, showed tremendous ingenuity and many hours of hard work on the part of the hidden faces and probably mother at home or in the audience.

DOLLARS AND CENTS

Silver dollars and fifty-cent pieces went to the winners of the various costume classes and there was some difficult choices. A 35-year-old? lady, Mrs. Pearl Empey, came back for the same number of years to win the same prize as the oldest good sport in costume. Certainly the youngest on the Halloween scene was Harold Pyper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pyper. Little Harold was out and walking in fine style around the arena. The littlest clown ever, the youngest in costume, was only 18 months old.

The old, bent and crippled witch who cast a winning spell over the judges in the big costume parade was Dennis Carkner who took the silver for the best costume for originality. An Indian maiden who could have been right off the reservation she was so convincing, Edna Pyper won the best costume over-all class. The TV character "It" was there in the person of Kathy Holmes and won the title of funniest in the show.

In other prize classifications the pre-school age awards went to Heather Cook and Mark Redmond. In age classifications the winners were: 5 to 7 years, Beverley Hanes, Sandra Ault; 8 to 10 years, Nancy Kerkoff, Bill Workman; 11 and up, Dennis Carkner and Edna Pyper.

Remember Forevermore

Each of us will be wearing a red poppy on November 7th. The red poppies that blow in Flanders Fields are the symbol of what this great land of ours stands for and what so many have died for—freedom. Once a year we wear a poppy to show honour and respect for those who fought and died that we may live on in freedom and hope carrying their dreams of future with us for a better to-morrow. History tells us wars do not last forever, but let us not forget those who fought in the historic wars and gave us this land we cherish.

Two wars to end all wars have been fought in this the 20th century of progress, and the headlines in newspapers and the cry of the radio and television indicate that war is a possibility to-day or to-morrow. On this occasion when we remember the dead who fought on the far-flung line of battle and engraved their names on the death scroll in blood, let us pray for peace and brotherhood in the world that all people may march abreast in the climbing years.

On November 7th the Legion will mark Remembrance Day with a church parade and service followed by a service at the cenotaph, when we remember!

"LEST WE FORGET"

God give them rest — the unreturning brave—
Others he saved; no fairer crown they crave.
They fought that wars might cease forevermore;
They died for brotherhood on every shore;
And Heaven forbid that from our hearts shall fade
The solemn memory of the price they paid.

—Benjamin Copeland

Manners And Courtesy

Courtesy means that you refuse a favour in so considerate a way as to keep a friend, and do not grant credit in so grudging a way as to kill all hope of future business.

Considerations of manner and demeanour cannot be dismissed as frivolous or unimportant. They are significant elements in the lives of everyone from a statesman engaging in international diplomacy to the husband and wite making a go of marriage. In business, accomplishments are enhanced by observance of decorum and manners.

Every individual is required to operate within the symbol system of his culture. He uses recognized patterns of behaviour to demonstrate that he has the qualities that are respected by his fellow men.

Confucious said: "It is good manners which make the excellence of a neighbourhood. No wise man will settle where they are lacking."

It may be true, as some people say, that manners have progressively deteriorated as society has receded from the patriarchal stage through the industrial revolution to the affluent stage. One of the dangers in the growth of the democratic spirit is that people come to take bad manners as a demonstration of freedom from the discipline of a non-democracy, having not yet learned that the power of the people has its duties as well as its liberties.

How can we define good manners? To be well mannered is to do the thing you should do although you are not obliged to do it. This means being considehate of others, taking no unfair advantage, avoiding personalities that hurt people, and never being intentionally impolite.

Manners are of more importance than laws. The law touches us only here and there, now and then; manners vex or please us, exalt or debase us, constantly. Moses is known as the "great law-giver," particularly because he inscribed the Ten Commandments, but he entered the field of manners too. He went beyond the musts of a well organized society, and prescribed the conduct of a gentleman; to be gentle with those who are afflicted, to refrain from gossip, to respect the aged, and to be kind even to strangers.

No matter to what station in life you belong to or how highly educated you may be, you owe courtesy to your fellow man. Here is an illustration from the life of Sir Winston Churchill: On a day in May 1941 when he had already been standing on his feet in the House of Commons with hard news about the fighting in Crete, he rose a second time with a piece of welcome news, but he apoloziged all the same for interrupting the House: "I do not know whether I might venture, with great respect, to intervene for one moment, I have just received news that the "Bismarck" is sunk."

Good manners include tact, that are of all arts. Tact means taking pains and some trouble to see that others are not neglected, and doing the kind thing in a pleasant way. Great leaders are tactful in dealing with people, taking many precautions lesser men neglect.

Quick Canadian Facts

Since 1949, hourly wage rates in manufacturing have risen faster in Canada than in the U. S., by 112 per cent. here compared with 84 per cent. there.

Newsprint is the only manufactured product that the United States accepts from Canada in large volume.

Canada's civilian labor force totalled 6,920,000 in 1964, so that about one-third of the population are earners and taxpayers who pay the costs of government for themselves as well as for the remaining two-thirds of the people.

In Canada's earliest days newspaper publishers were required to post a bond to insure that the contents of each issue of their papers would be submitted for official approval prior to publication.

That College Education

It's not until you get a son or daughter off to college that you learn what a simple, unsophisticated, reactionary, narrow-minded, old-fashioned peasant you really are.

He, or she, will make it all quite clear to you on that first weekend home from the hallowed halls of learning.

Every fall, the blood pressure of countless fathers skyrockets, the tender hearts of hordes of loving mothers shatter, when the freshman student, beloved and cherished these 18 years, waltzes in with a bag of dirty laundry and a swollen ego.

We've had quite a fall of it, in our neighborhood. With a sigh of relief, we shipped our gawk of a boy off to one university, and amid floods of tears, the people next door sent their darling daughter to another.

Both were home last weekend. And both sets of parents spent the entire visit alternating with fury at the kids and shame at their own ignorance.

There's no question about it. A college education is a wonderful thing. In a matter of three of four weeks, smalltown kids who barely staggered through high school, and barely knew enough to change their socks or blow their noses, are transformed into pipe-smoking playboys or dashing, desirable women of the world. Imagine what a whole year will do.

The boys nonchalantly toss off a remark or two about beer parties, the girls light up a fag right there, while father's frown deepens and mother's jaw falls wider and wider.

The boys, with a solid basis of three weeks' lectures in political science, curtly enlighten their dads on the asinine political ideas the latter have cherished for 20 years.

The girls, secure in their three weeks of psychology, put their mothers into shock with casual comments on the necessity of a full sex life before marriage.

Both explain kindly to the old folks not only that all's wrong in the world, but also that God is no longer in His heaven. In fact, He isn't anywhere. He's just a "anthropomorphic projection of the need for a father image."

Both point out that the capitalistic system is driving us into a neurotic pursuit of the materialistic, that the dollar is essentially an evil thing. And both pocket, without comment, the extra 10 bucks you slip them on departure.

Our kid has discovered a new system, in which you can get along on four hours sleep at night. This is done by sleeping all day, which he did on the weekend. He assured us that he had worked out a rigid work schedule, which begins at 7 a.m. daily. But a few minutes later, he let it slip out that he scarcely ever ate breaklast at the dining-hall, because he slept in.

The girl next door nearly finished off her father. He gave her a blank cheque, the dope, to pay her first term's fees and residence dues, hoping he could scrape up the second term when it arrived. With admirable sang-froid, she filled in the cheque for the whole year's fees. Next day he received a call from his banker. He had to sell his last bonds to meet the overdraft.

Young Hugh is letting his hair grow long, has taken a lead role in the college revue, plays flamenco records at ear-splitting volume and is just busting to get in on a sit-in or a lie-down or some other form of civic disturbance, so he can be arrested.

The girl next door is disgusted that her mother can't read Chaucer in the original and believes the story about Adam and Eve. Her mom was weeping when she left. With rage.

Oh, well, I guess it's all worth it. Our grocery bill has dropped by $12 a week since Hugh left. And we'll have the last laugh next spring, when exams start.

HOW TO LOSE A DEBATE

A few weeks ago I wrote a column with which a reader violently disagreed.

Fine, this is a free country.

However, this reader, before dealing with the argument itself, started his letter by demanding to know who I am, where I earn my pay, and so forth. The implication was that because my ideas are different from his, I must be some kind of a subversive, a tool of communists or capitalists, a low fellow indeed. It was clear that if he had the power to do so, he would drag me before some kind of inquisition and lay bare the secrets of my life, if any. His attack had all the earmarks of the technique made famous by McCarthy, the U.S. senator. Only after he had made this effort to imply that I am a no-goodnick did he try to deal with the argument I had presented.

When he got around to the argument itself, he proved to be a little more effective. But if I am any judge of human nature, he had lost his case before he got to the meat of the debate. I am quite confident that most intelligent readers had already written him off because of the vitriolic nature of his opening blast. Then, when his argument showed weak spots, they would at once see that had he been on surer ground, he would not have needed to put such faith in the personal attack.

Now it is altogether likely that the reader who blasted me is a good fellow at heart. I am not interested in knowing his residence, the size of his bank account, or the color of his eyes, his religion, or how he parts his hair. I am interested in his logic or lack of it relating to the matter debated, for there is a principle involved. He might prove me to be the worst kind of blackguard imaginable, but if in this instance I am espousing a right principle, the fact that I am a Conservative, Liberal, NDP'er or Hottentot wouldn't change that fact. And if I erred in principle, then I'd still be wrong even if gold-plated haloes circled my brow-

Why Wear a Poppy?

By DON CRAWFORD

Public Relations Officer, Perth, Ont., Branch, R.C.L.

"Please wear a poppy," the lady said
And held one forth, but I shook my head.
Then I stopped and watched as she offered them there,
And her face was old and lined with care;
But beneath the scars the years had made
There remained a smile that refused to fade.

A boy came whistling down the street,
Bouncing along on carefree feet.
His smile was full of joy and fun,
"Lady," said he, "may I have one?"
When she pinned it on he turned to say,
"Why do we wear a poppy today?"

The lady smiled in her wistful way
And answered, "This is Remembrance Day,
And the poppy there is the symbol for
The gallant men who died in war.
And because they did, you and I are free—
That's why we wear a poppy, you see.

"I had a boy about your size,
With golden hair and big blue eyes.
He loved to play and jump and shout,
Free as a bird he would race about.
As the years went by, he learned and grew
And became a man — as you will, too.

"He was fine and strong, with a boyish smile,
But he'd seemed with us such a little while
When war broke out and he went away.
I still remember his face that day
When he smiled at me and said, 'Goodbye,
I'll be back soon, Mom, so please don't cry.'

"But the war went on and he had to stay,
And all I could do was wait and pray.
His letters told of the awful fight,
(I can see it still in my dreams at night),
With the tanks and guns and cruel barbed wire,
And the mine and bullets, the bombs and fire.

"Till at last, at last, the war was won—
And that's why we wear a poppy, son."
The small boy turned as if to go,
Then said, "Thanks, lady, I'm glad to know.
That sure did sound like an awful fight,
But your son — did he come back all right?"

A tear rolled down each faded cheek;
She shook her head but she didn't speak.
I sunk away in a sort of shame,
And if you were me you'd have done the same;
For our thanks, in giving, is oft delayed,
Though our freedom was bought— and thousands paid!

And so when we see a poppy worn,
Let us reflect on the burden borne
By those who gave their very all
When asked to answer their country's call
That we at home in peace might live.
Then wear a poppy! Remember — and Give!

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 8th

And Now, The Election . . .

Although candidates from every part of the country are still out on the hustings the end of the campaign trail is now in sight. It remains only for Canadians to go to the polls next Monday, November 8th, to vote for the candidate and party of their choice.

There is a great deal of speculation on the actual numbers expected to turn out to mark their ballots. The election has been widely criticized as being "unwanted" and "unnecessary" and Canadians across the country have shown more than a bit of apathy. It is to be hoped that the "undecided" voter will have made up his mind in the next couple of days and that all persons will make the effort to go to the polls on Monday.

The outcome is still anybody's guess. Both Liberals and Progressive Conservatives say they will form the next government. The NDP could make inroads in certain areas and the Social Credit is not expected to gain many seats east of British Columbia. Other fringe parties could spoil the efforts of candidates from the old line parties.

Election forecasts show very little change in the Maritimes. Quebec seems destined to produce quite a large number of seats for the Liberals. The prairie provinces are Conservative strongholds and are not likely to change. NDP and Social Credit will very likely get their fair share of unpredictable British Columbia. Ontario, where there are more people and more ridings than any other area in the country, holds the key. The party winning the greatest number of seats in this province holds a better than average chance of winning the election. Right now the betting fraternity are not giving odds either way. Despite Liberal propaganda it seems certain the Progressive Conservatives will improve their lot in this province on Monday. The all important point is how much of an improvement the Tories will make.

Again the undecided voter could be the difference. Right now the odds of either old line party gaining an over-all "majority" are slim.

In the readership area of The Winchester Press the ridings of Carleton and Grenville-Dundas hold the most interest. Carleton promises to be a real horse race again this election with incumbent Lloyd Francis fighting for his political life against former Immigration Minister Dick Bell of the Conservatives. Both are waging all out campaigns. There is no giving by either party. The NDP vote in Carleton could be a factor, and it could be just enough to bring the popular Conservative candidate back again in a riding which was once a bulwark of Conservatism.

Grenville-Dundas has three candidates in the running. They are NDP standard bearer Rene Benoit of South Mountain, Liberal John Palmer of Kemptville and incumbent Conservative Jean Wadds of Prescott. Mr. Benoit, likeable, intelligent gentleman, will very likely lose his deposit in this historic riding where the two old line parties remain supreme. Big John Palmer has used every ounce of strength in his large frame in this campaign. He has held many small meetings and has travelled the riding over and over again in some of the best back fence campaigning the riding has ever experienced. He is hampered, somewhat, by a lack of over-all support within his own ranks, but he deserves a high mark for running a first rate campaign on a shoestring budget.

Jean Wadds, experiencing her fourth election campaign in six years, is working harder than ever in this one. She is looking for her largest majority ever, and it looks at this point as though she will get it. In her six years in the House of Commons she has been an able representative for Grenville-Dundas. Integrity has been her by-word, hard work has been her theme. The opinion across the riding is that she has done a good job and there is no reason to vote against her. If she carries the front or south side of the riding, and in this newspaper's opinion she should, she will probably be re-elected with her biggest majority ever. Aside from the big Wind-up Rally Monday evening her campaign has been built on a series of small, informal meetings and coffee parties. At the same time she has stomped the riding from one end to the other and has matched her Liberal opponent in "getting out" to meet as many voters as possible. With her excellent background and with the hope of an over-all Tory win in the country, Grenville Dundas voters are looking to Mrs. Wadds as potential cabinet material — and this helps at election time.

This newspaper supports the Progressive Conservative party. In our opinion it is the only party at this time which can gain fair representation from every area of the country. And for the best type of government this is the kind of representation we must have.

800 Cheer Jean Wadds At PC Wind-Up Rally

Her supporters sang "When Jeanie wins the election again, hurrah, hurrah," and Grenville-Dundas Conservative candidate for the fourth time, Mrs. Jean Wadds threw slings and arrows at Liberal leader Pearson and his "bad" government.

The occasion was the big Wind-Up Rally in the North Dundas District High School auditorium on Monday evening when almost 1,000 supporters came out to hear the issues aired and meet their candidate.

Harpooning the 26th Parliament convened as it was by the Girts, Mrs. Wadds called it "the most inept since Confederation." She classified the past government as "undignified, undisciplined and corrupt" and said she had been "ashamed to be a member on the floor of the House" when so corrupt a party had been so completely bad for the country.

Striking down the action of the past Liberal government, she cut through Grit legislation that she emphasized "there was no use for." It was in her opinion "bad for the country, the priorities were not right and many of our economic problems ignored."

Dealing with the present election, the fifth in eight years and the last before this historic riding is split by redistribution, Mrs. Wadds said that "five elections should be enough for 25 years, instead, what did we get?" She disagreed wholeheartedly with the reasoning behind the calling of the election but pointed out that this was the chance the Conservatives and all honest people wanted, and had been waiting for — "to change the officials in Ottawa — the bureaucratic ministers who used to be heads of departments and who believe in more and more government control and take-over of what we earn and work hard to earn."

These are the ministers who Mrs. Wadds exclaimed are lead by the ruthless and irresponsible Minister of Finance who wants to spend six billion more dollars out of the individual pocket and institute the hotly disputed $2 billion medicare program and the $1 billion Canada Development Corporation.

Standing firm on the Conservative platform, she pointed out that the foremost problem of any government being formed today is that of "training our young people." It is the federal government with all its re-resources that must assist and guide the provincial government looking into the future and predicting what work and jobs will [illegible] part of our magnificent country's future."

Mrs. Wadds called the Pearson War of Poverty merely a War of Words. And these words were mainly already included in the Conservative ARDA legislation, one of the most widely accepted and most effective pieces of legislation ever passed. She said a return to Conservative administration of ARDA was especially important at this date to Dundas. This is the only legislation to clear up problems that are apparent in many of the areas of the riding.

Wrapping up her fiery speech the enthusiastic Mrs. Wadds asked for a return to the "national unity of 1958-62" and a rapid and complete retreat from the "bitter bickering of the past two years." In conclusion she projected she stood for a return to Conservative "honest, efficient government,'" At that point almost 1,000 people in the North Dundas District High School rose as one and gave the veteran parliamentarian a tremendous ovation.

Grenville-Dundas Progressive Conservative Association President W. J. L. Boyd of Winchester chaired the meeting that gave a standing ovation to the riding's provincial member, Fred M. Cass, and repeated loud and enthusiastic approval for Ontario Minister of Tourism and Information, James A. C. Auld, Stormont MPP Fern Guindon and Glengarry-Prescott MPP Ossie Villeneuve.

At one point in the meeting at a reference to Mr. Pearson by a speaker, a Tory supporter in the blue-tied crowd shouted "He is worse than Rivard."

As the hundreds of Conservative supporters left the auditorium ushers distributed campaign token matches but the fire had already been lit by the candidate herself. They were sold on Jean.

Queen's Honours Dr. O. E. Earl

Queen's University honoured Dr. R. O. Earl, former Dean of Arts and Science, by naming the university's new biology building Earl Hall.

Dr. R. O. Earl, who completed a two-year appointment in 1964 as Dean of Arts and Science at York University, retired from Queen's in 1959 after nearly 40 years of service, 22 of them as head of the Biology department. Dr. Earl has two sisters living in Winchester, Mrs. Arthur Christie and Mrs. Percy Durant.

The $2,900,000 biology building now under construction provides 18 undergraduate laboratories, two lecture amphitheatres, and lecture rooms joined by closed circuit television.

Expo '67 Passports Go On Sale Soon

Passports to Expo 67 will go on sale shortly. Passport is the word that the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition has chosen to name its admission ticket.

It's an appropriate word because admission to the Expo site will literally offer a "passport" to the world. Already 61 nations have indicated that they will come to Expo — and more countries are expected to make announcements soon.

The passports will be available at various prices and the sooner they are purchased, the better the bargain. From January [illegible] passports will be available for $1.80. On August 1, the price rises to $2 and remains there until February 28, 1967.

The regular price at the gate of Expo will be $2.50. All prices include free transportation on Expo's rapid transit system which will carry Expo visitors back and forth among the four areas of the World Exhibition.

Admission for children from two to 12 years of age will be half price in all categories.

Besides individual tickets, seven-day and seasonal passports will be sold. Here again, there are bargains for the early shopper. The regular price for a season passport is $35, but if the passport is purchased before July 31, 1966, the passport will cost only $20. If the purchaser visited the site 25 times on a $20 season passport, each visit would cost about 80 cents. And that's certainly a bargain.

All national industrial and theme pavilions are open to the public at no cost. The main transportation system is free. Visitors can even take a picnic lunch to the site, if they wish.

These advance admission passports will be available through women's groups, youth groups, credit unions, employers, service stations, department stores, retailers, transportation companies, travel agents and communications media. American Express will be the general agent in the United States.

Close Race In Carleton

A three-way fight for the sixth largest federal riding in Canada is shaping up in Carleton with three vigorous campaigns being fought door to door and through all the public media.

Incumbent Liberal member Lloyd Francis, who won the Conservative stronghold in 1963 is running full speed ahead in an effort to outpoll his rivals.

Former Conservative Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, R. A. Dick Bell carries the Tory banner in Carleton and is promoting his agricultural and parliamentary experience to his best advantage in an all-out campaign to win the riding and return it to the Conservative ranks.

Underdog in the race between the two big guns is New Democratic Party candidate Rev. Donald Stirling who is making a strong impression on the voters in each of his appearances

R. A. "Dick" Bell, PC candidate, is shown above left. At right is incumbent Liberal candidate Lloyd Francis.

The winning candidate?—only November 8th will tell.

Outspoken and Decisive

ELECT
DICK BELL
Carleton Progressive Conservative Candidate

Dick Bell is an outspoken, decisive man who will stand up in Parliament and make sure that Carleton is heard from. He will speak in favour of a strong central government, one Canadian Nation, not ten associated states. Dick Bell believes in the principles of confederation and the preservation of Canadian unity.

A Progressive Conservative government will seek to bring the same prosperity to the Eastern farmer that it achieved for the West. The Dairy Policy will be amended to assure Eastern farmers proper support prices. Balanced agricultural production will be achieved through ARDA, established by the Conservatives.
Dick Bell knows Carleton, knows Parliament, knows where he is going.

Baskets of pink and white feathered carnations adorned the altar of Vancamp United Church on Saturday, October 23rd, at two p.m. when Rev. W. E. Black, assisted by Mr. Mervyn Peters, joined in marriage Judy Carolyn Martel and Morris Charles Reavie. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Martel of Russell and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reavie, of Flinton, Ontario.

For her wedding day, the bride chose a floor-length bridal gown of peau de soie featuring a chain-on-chain eyelet lace bodice with scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. A chapel train, bordered in eyelet lace, fell from the waistline at the back of the gown. Her elbow-length veil was held by a floral spray headdress and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and white mums.

Her attendants were similarly attired in floor-length empire styled gowns of antique rose, deep aqua and olive green. The bodices of their gowns were velvet with scoop necklines and brief sleeves, with tiny bow accents and narrow streamers at the wastline accenting the peau de soie A line skirts. They wore small wedding ring headdresses with brief veils and carried nosegays of pink and white feathered carnations.

WHO SPEAKS OUT FOR CARLETON?

Look At The Record

THE 26th PARLIAMENT

Lloyd Francis spoke on 67 separate occasions in Parliament making many major speeches on issues of interest to Carleton's people.

Lloyd Francis took on the job of seeing that the Base Line—Heron Road Bridge went through. It is being built.

Lloyd Francis has repeatedly and publicly advocated collective bargaining rights for civil servants with the right of arbitration of disputes.

THE 25th PARLIAMENT

Except for the reading or tabling of reports and answers to questions prepared by civil servants, the Conservative candidate spoke only once in committee for less than a page.

The Diefenbaker government, of which the Conservative candidate was a member, refused to take any action on the bridge.

The Diefenbaker candidate voted against arbitration when it was presented as an amendment to the Civil Service Act by a Liberal M.P. (see pages 8023 and 8559 of 1961 Hansard).

Vows Exchanged At Morrisburg

Baskets of yellow and bronze mums adorned the altar of St. Mary's Church, Morrisburg, for the marriage of Myrna Lou Becksted and Donald Gordon Whelan on Saturday, October 30. Rev. D. W. MacDonald officiated at the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony and organ music was provided by Mrs. Lawrence Coligan of Morrisburg.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Weldon J. Becksted of Williamsburg and the groom is the oldest son of Mrs. Thomas J. Whelan of Morrisburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white peau de soie. The gown featured a chapel train and a matching jacket with jewel neck line and lilypoint sleeves. Lace applique edging accented the jacket, skirt and train. The gown was enhanced by a bouffant shoulder-length veil. The bride wore a small, heart-shaped rhinestone pendant, gift of the groom, and carried a white missal decorated with red sweetheart roses and lily of the valley streamers.

Mrs. Maureen Vickery of Prescott, sister of the groom, was matron of honour. The senior bridesmaid was Miss Emma Casselman of Ottawa, and junior bridesmaid was Miss Coleen Mayo of Kingston. The attendants wore identical floor-length gowns of deep violet peau de soie. Their gowns featured slightly scooped necklines, elbow-length sleeves, and straight skirts with soft pleating on sides and back. They wore violet shoulder-length veils held in place by matching wedding ring headdresses and carried semi-cascade bouquets of bronze and yellow mums.

The flower girl, Miss Kelly Price of Kemptville, niece of the bride, wore a short gown of white peau de soie accented by lace applique trim and a deep violet sash at waist. For her headdress she wore a ring of yellow and violet pom poms and carried a basket of violet and yellow mums.

Robert Vickery, of Prescott, the groom's brother-in-law, was best man and guests were ushered by Harold O'Gorman of Rochester, N. Y., cousin of the groom, and Peter McDermott of Morrisburg.

Following the ceremony, a reception for approximately 100 guests was held in the Civic Centre at Morrisburg. For receiving guests, the groom's mother chose a three-piece double knit wool suit in olive green with brown accessories. Her outfit was complimented by a corsage of yellow roses.

For a wedding trip to Western Ontario and the Eastern States, the bride donned a two-piece wool suit of winter white with deep rose accessories and a corsage of pink delight roses.

Guests attended the wedding from Detroit, Portage du Fort and Quyon, Que.; Cobden, Renfrew, Ottawa, Toronto, Kingston, Brockville, Kemptville, Prescott, Iroquois, Brinston, Williamsburg, Chesterville, Winchester and Morrisburg.

FOR GRENVILLE-DUNDAS

Palmer Stresses Positive Action

"Grenville-Dundas wants Action, positive action," asserted John Palmer, to an exuberant throng of supporters at Iroquois Monday night. "We can bring improvements to our riding, all we have to do is pitch in together and do something positive."

Mr. Palmer went on to outline a plan of action for the two counties, bold in concept and broad in scope.

As a starter the aspiring member of parliament brought forward a proposal for "sort of a minor Royal Commission on Grenville - Dundas." This, he said, could take a searching look at the possibilities in the area and bring our plans of action to better its economic growth.

Among the major problems Mr. Palmer sees the need for immediate action for the redevelopment of unused farmlands in the "forgotten area" of Grenville-Dundas. To this light he cited the present federal member's record of approximately one-half minute's verbal output pertaining to the riding during the last two years. Specifically he showed she had spoken only 69 words about Grenville-Dundas in that period of time.

Shifting into high gear he made a rapid circuit of the riding pointing out his program for progress.

Forecast is a bright future for the Morrisburg-Iroquois-Cardinal sector of the St. Lawrence Seaway. He is intent on cleaning up the Matilda waterfront and has suggested a custom officer in Morrisburg.

As his keynote he reiterated his philosophy that the urban dwellers can only be as prosperous as their farm neighbours and he advocates the formation of a National Dairy Commission with a view to increasing the farmer's return on milk to four dollars and beyond.

Winding up he asked his many supporters to give Grenville-Dundas the kind of representation it needs in Ottawa and join him in "making history" on November 8th.

He was thanked by Matilda Township Reeve Mahlon Zeron who said John was the man to get the job done for Grenville-Dundas.

The enthusiastic pre-election audience in the Iroquois Civic Centre on Monday evening gave the Grit hopeful a rousing ovation as he walked to and from the stage.

Yellowed Press Pages Tell Stories of 1901

Kenneth Carkner, Morrisburg, recently came across a yellowed clipping from a 1901 edition of the Winchester Press. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Carkner, were married in that year and had settled on a farm at Ormond. The clipping states:

"An exciting barn-raising took place at C. M. Carkner's a few days ago. The Tories took one sire under the leadership of Ira Docksteader and the Grits the other under H. Carkner. It is needless to say that the frame of that barn went up in double quick time. The referee was John Robinson who decided that the Tories finished more quickly than the Grits. There was great cheering when the decision was given and it was noticed that one Grit, who had forgotten his place, was among the Tories throwing up his hat until he was told where he was at.

"After the contest the men were all entertained at supper, their wants being administered to by a charming lot of young ladies. For the Tories there were Mrs. C. M. Carkner, Miss Ella McLean and Miss Lizzie McLean. For the Grits, Mrs. John McDonald, Miss Minnie McLean, Miss Biccum and Miss Jennie Porteous."

The Carkner barn still stands at Ormond. It has been moved to an adjoining farm.

New Motorcylce Restrictions Now In Effect

Two new restrictions on the operation of motorcycles were announced recently by Transport Minister Irwin Haskett.

A person holding only a temporary instruction permit may no longer carry a passenger on the pillion seat of a motorcycle, and a person with a temporary permit is now prohibited from driving a rented motorcycle.

Mr. Haskett said the new regulations, which are effectvie immediately, stem from an intensive and continuing study of accidents involving motorcycles.

"The number of motorcycles registered in Ontario has more than doubled in the past eight months," Mr. Haskett said.

"This development is the basic reason for the increase in motorcycle accidents this year. The number of motorcycles involved in acicdents has gone up in proportion to the greater number of motorcycles that are on the road.

"There were 22,042 motorcycles registed in Ontario at end of August, and a total of 1,588 were involved in accidntts in the first eight months of the year.

"My Department is concerned about every factor that contributes to the increase in accident totals, and this concern certainly includes the effects of the growing number of motorcycles," said Mr. Haskett. "We are continuing our study of this situation."

He said the previous peak of motorcycle registrations was in 1950, when there were nearly 14,000. At that time motorcycles accounted for a greater proportion of the total of motor vehicles, and were involved in a greater proportion of all accidents than is the case today.

Since then the number of motorcycles dwindled until their resurgence of popularity in the past two years.

With the increasing number of motorcyces on the road, Mr. Haskett pointed out that drivers of cars and trucks must be more alert for them.

"The motorcycle is a smaller vehicle than the driver is used to seeing," he said. "Many accidents would be avoided if the drivers of cars and trucks watched for motorcycles more carefully."

For motorcycle drivers he advised these extra safety measures:

(1) Wear a safety helmet. In case of accident the motorcyclist obviously is vulnerable to injury, even if the acident is minor.

(2) Obey exactly the same rules of the road that apply to cars.

(3) When following another vehicle, stay more than the normal distance behind. (Normal following distance is one car length for each 10 m.p.h. of speed.)

(4) Allow extra distance when passing a car or truck.

(5) Watch for slippery patches or loose gravel that can cause a motorcycle to go out of control.
