SERVICE, to Us IMPLIES MUCH

Among the things that characterize our service are personal attention to every detail of the funeral arrangement, and little acts of thoughtfulness that serve to lessen the trying strain of the hours before and during the funeral. Quiet efficiency and smoothness are the result. That, we believe, is the kind of service that wins approval.

Calls to hospitals given prompt service.

HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

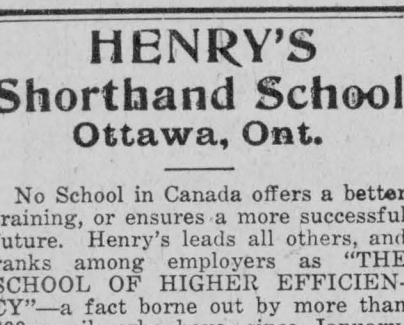

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

Mrs. Arthur Thom, Elma

Monday morning the many friends and relatives of Mrs. Arthur Thom of Elma, were much grieved to learn that she had passed away following a stroke on the previous Thursday, from which she did not rally. Mrs. Thom was well-known and very highly respected by a particularly large circle of friends. Two sons, Clark of Calgary, and Lyle at home, and one daughter, Miss Nettie, survive their parents, Mr. Thom having passed away five years ago.

The funeral was very largely attended at the family home yesterday afternoon where the services were conductd by Rev. A. J. Fowlie of Kemptville, the pall bearers being Messrs. W. H. Casselman, W. A. McElroy, John Casselman and MacKenzie Thom. Interment was made in Maple Ridge cemetery.

LINE UP WITH THE HOCKEY CLUB

The old guard that has stood behind the Chesterville Hockey club for years and regularly reaches down into its jeans and hands out the required amount to straighten up all outstanding indebtedness at the end of each season, will be interested to learn that the Town Council of Perth has just made a donation of $200 to its hockey club for the coming season. It takes a lot of money to maintain a senior hockey team during the long campaign and the men behind the club rarely expect to make a cent out of it. They enjoy the game and want to see the home town represented on the ice by a creditable aggregation of players. The money has to come from some source to pay the shot and the hockey fan is the logical place to look for it. That simply means that all hands should get out and boost the team through thick and thin, whether they are leading the race or trailing in last place. Its your club they are fighting for and its your town they represent when they go away from home. If the home folks won't support their team why expect strangers to do so. The players will give their best but a big home crowd is needed to bring forth that last wonderful rally that saves the day.

Reserve Tuesday evening for the Thanksgiving Supper in the United Church.

Angus Price Killed By Train This Morning

Angus Price, aged sixty, of Chesterville, laborer in a C.P.R. section gang, was instantly killed at 8.34 this morning when struck by a west-bound freight train directly opposite the platform at Chesterville station. Mr. Price was working between the rails of the westbound track just at the eastern end of the platform while the other members of the gang were a little to the east of him as a freight drawn by engine 3100, Engineer Young and Conductor Rabb in charge came west with sixty-five empty cars. The train was going slowly and after blowing for the station and the crossing, the bell was rung as an added warning to the working men. Price did not seem to notice the approach of the train as a further warning was given by short blasts of the whistle, until it was on top of him. He was stooping at his work as he was struck when he straightened up, his pick falling on top of the pilot of the engine as he rolled under the wheels. His right leg was severed below the knee, the left leg broken, nose broken and a severe wound sustained on the temple. The train stopped within three car lengths after striking Mr. Price. The remains were placed in the tool house and Coroner Dr. P. McLaughlin of Winchester, was notified, who was on the scene of the accident in less than an hour. After consulting with County Crown Attorney Harkness of Cornwall, an inquest was arranged to be held Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Price, two sons and two married daughters survive.

W. M. S. THANK-OFFERING AT MOREWOOD

The W.M.S. and Mission Band of the Morewood Presbyterian church held their annual Thank-offering in the Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 2nd. A large crowd was present and the program was much enjoyed by all. Mr. Nimmo presided and the church choir led the singing. The Mission Band gave a chorus. Mrs. Myers and Miss Lily Feeley sang a duet, and Mrs. W. C. McQuaig sang a solo after the offering. Mrs. Robt. Rainey, president of the W.M.S., gave a splendid paper on "Our Reasons for Thanksgiving," and Mrs. W. S. Feeley gave a paper on "Christian Stewardship."

Mrs. J. S. Riddell, the Presbyterial president, was present on her first visit to Morewood and gave a very inspiring address. Mr. Bell of the Chesterville Presbyterian church also gave a short talk.

The total offering for the evening was nearly eighty dollars.

HOOVER IS PRESIDENT-ELECT

The final returns of the United States presidential election show that the Electoral College will give Hoover 444 votes and Smith 87. The popular vote shows 18,299,708 for Hoover and 12,989,093 for Smith. Popular vote majority does not elect, a total of at least 266 electoral votes is necessary to elect.

ST. LUKE'S W. M. S., FINCH

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Luke's Presbyterian church was held on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 30th, at the home of Mrs. Catharine Gillies with a large attendance.

The president, Mrs. Thos. Sutherland, presided. Miss Isobel MacMillan and Mrs. Sutherland led in the devotional exercises. Mrs. Hugh W. McMillan had charge of the Bible study.

The roll call was answered by each member with a verse of Scripture on "Thanksgiving."

The secretary, Mrs. A. Beckstead, read the minutes of the last regular meeting, which were adopted.

A guest of the meeting was Miss Edith Sinclair of Toronto, Secretary of the Canadian Girls in Training, who gave an interesting and instructive address on "Immigration in Canada and Missionary Work Carried on in Northern Ontario.

A committee was chosen to secure a speaker for the Thank-offering meeting to be held later. The meeting was closed by singing and prayer in unison from the Glad Tidings. After the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. S. M. MacLean, and Misses Jennie and Mary A. Gillies, Misses Marguerite and Aileen MacLean and Nell Gillies.

The Bad Boy

"Come in," said the grocery-man to the bad boy. "I tell you, boy, I pity you. I understand your pa has got to drinking again." "I guess we have got him all right now. He is the scaredest man you ever saw." "How did you bring him to his senses?" said the grocery-man. "Well, ma tried having the minister talk to pa, but the minister counldn't brace him up and so ma said she guessed I would have to exercise my ingenuity on pa again. I told her that, if she would do just as I said, me and my chum would scare pa so he would swear off. She said she would. First, I took pa's spectacles down to the optician Saturday night, and had the glasses taken out and a pair put in their place that would magnify; and I took them home and put them in pa's spectacle-case. Then I got a suit of clothes from my uncle's trunk, half the size of pa's clothes. I got a plug hat three sizes smaller than pa's hat and put it in the same box. I got a shirt about half big enough for pa, and got a number fourteen collar—pa wears seventeen. Pa had promised to go to church Sunday morning, and ma put these small clothes where pa could put them on. I told ma, when pa woke up, to tell him he looked awfully bloated, and excite his curiosity and then send for me. Well, ma told pa he looked awfully bloated and that his dissipation was killing him. Pa said he guessed he wasn't bloated much; but he got up and put on his spectacles and looked at himself in the glass. You'd a died to see him look at himself. His face looked as big as two faces through the glasses, and his nose was a sight! Pa looked scared. Just then I came in and I said, "Oh, pa, what ails you? You are so swelled up I hardly knew you." Pa looked ill; and then he tried to get on the pants. Oh, my, it was all I could do to keep from laughing, to see him pull the pants on! The pants wouldn't come around pa by ten inches; and pa said he must have eaten something that didn't agree with him and laid it to the water-melon. Ma had to stuff her handkerchief in her mouth to keep from laughing, when she see papa look at hisself. The legs of the pants were so tight pa couldn't hardly breathe; and he turned and said, 'Hennery your pa is a mighty sick man'; and then ma and me laughed. But, when pa put on that condensed shirt, ma she laid down on the lounge and fairly yelled, and I laughed till my sides were sore. Pa got it over his head, and got his hands in the sleeves, and couldn't get it either way; and he couldn't see us laugh but he could hear us; and he said, 'It's funny, ain't it, to have a parent swelled up this way? If I bust you will both be sorry!' Well, ma took hold of one side of the shirt and I took hold of the other, and we pulled it on; and when pa's head came up through the collar his face was fairly blue. He then tried to get the collar on, but it wouldn't go half way round his neck. He sat down in a chair and panted, he was so out of breath; and pa said there was no use living if he was going to be a rival to a fat woman in a side show. Just then I put the plug hat on pa's head, and it was so small it was going to roll off, when pa tried to fit it on his head, and then took it off and looked inside of it to see if it was his hat; and when he found his name in it he said, 'Take it away. My head is all wrong too!' Then he told me to go for the doctor mighty quick. I got the doctor and told him what we were trying to do to pa, and he said he would finish the job. So the doc came in and pa was on the lounge; and when the doc saw him, he said it was lucky he was called. He put some pounded ice on pa's head first thing, ordered the shirt cut open, and we got the pants off. Then he gave pa an emetic, and had his feet soaked; and pa said, 'Doc, if you will bring me through this, I will never touch another drop.' The doc. told pa that his life was not worth a button if he ever drank again, and left about half a pint of sugar-pills to be fired into pa every five minutes. Ma and me sat up with pa all day Sunday and Monday morning I changed the spectacles and took the clothes home; and along about noon pa said he felt as though he could get up. Well, you never see a tickleder man than he was when he found the swelling had gone down so he could get his pants and shirt on; and he says that doctor is best in town. Ma says I am a smart boy, and pa has taken the pledge, and we are all right."

MURDER CHARGE LAID AGAINST MOUNTAIN MAN

A charge of murder has been laid against Christopher Moore, farmer, of Mountain Station, who, it is alleged, shot and fatally wounded Thomas Hart, 19-year-old English immigrant, the night of October 31.

The charge was preferred by Provincial Officer B. A. Kennard, acting under instructions of Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness of Cornwall.

Moore has been under arrest since November 1, from which time he has been in Cornwall jail. He had been held as a material witness but investigation by provincial police has resulted in the murder charge being laid.

For the purpose of conducting the preliminary hearing, Magistrate John McCormick went to Mountain Wednesday afternoon.

The charge of murder is the aftermath of a series of Hallowe'en pranks at Moore's home during which it is alleged Thomas Hart annoyed Moore, causing the latter to fire a rifle, one bullet of which fatally injured the young immigrant.

Cornwall police state Moore has worried considerably since his incarceration in the jail there and while he has not made any statement to them it is evident he feels his position keenly. He has been far from communicative and, police say, he spends the greater part of the day in thought.

D. MacGREGOR & SON, MOREWOOD

United Counties' Council October Session

(Concluded from last week.)

The Council resumed at 2 p.m. on Wednesday.

The Clerk read an application from Frank Lafave for the position of caretaker.

On motion of Messrs. V. McDonald and John Lafave that the application be referred to the Finance Committee for consideration and report.

A resolution of condolence on the death of James Adams, caretaker, was moved by Messrs. H. Williams and W. H Gallinger, a copy being ordered forwarded to the widow of deceased and a copy inserted in the minutes.

The report of the County Property Committee was presentd by the chairman, Mr. Williams, and was adopted.

The committee recommended that the contract for the steel filing cases for the Surrogate Registrar's and Crown Attorney's offices be awarded to the McLean Stationers at $1,135.00; that the contract for the roller book shelves for the Glengarry Registry Office be awarded to the same firm at $4.75 for each shelf; that a piece of linoleum 8 x 20 be purchased for the Glengarry Registry Office and that the caretaker of that office be paid the sum of $5.00 per month; that as no tenders were received for the supply of wood, the clerk called for more tenders and Mr. Williams, chairman, and the Clerk, were authorized to open the tenders and award the contract before the end of the year; that the House of Refuge Committee instruct the farmer to send a team to clean up the gaol yard.

Mr. McCrimmon, chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee, presented the report of that committee, which was adopted.

The committee recommended that Council concur in the advice given by R. C. Muir, Chief Engineer of Municipal Roads, Toronto, regarding the width of county roads under construction; that no action be taken with reference to claim for $25.50 from Romeo Meilleur of Alexandria, for accident to his car, and that Mr. Lawson protect the interest of the counties should Mr. Meilleur desire to collect his claim in the courts.

Mr. Beach, chairman of the Educational Committee, presented the report of that committee, which was adopted without amendment.

The committee reported that they had considered the appointment of High School Trustees for Maxville High School District and recommended the appointment of the following gentlemen:—Dr. R. T. O'Hara for one year; Peter A. Munro for two years; Duncan McKinnon for three years; that grants to the various High Schools, as defined by the Deputy Minister of Education, Toronto, be as follows: Finch, $1349.67; Alexandria, $1616.50; Morrisburg, $1867.89; Chesterville, $1360.05; Williamstown, $1434.33; Cornwall, $1880.72; Morewood, $1199.14; Iroquois, $1369.81; Avonmore, $1327.04; Winchester, $1546.12.

By-Law No. 2262, appointing Trustees for the Maxville High School, as contained in the report of the Educational Committee, was then passed.

Dr. Munro gave notice of a by-law respecting banking arrangements and Mr. J. D McDonald gave notice of a by-law regarding the appointment of a caretaker.

It was moved by Mr. Beach and Mr. Strader that Sub-Sec. 2 of Sec. 102 of the Assessment Act R. S. O., Chap. 238, be amended in such a manner as to provide that village councils should have the same power as cities and towns; that the Ontario Government be memorialized to this effect and a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Attorney-General and to each of the members of the Legislature in these Counties.

The Council then adjourned to meet at 10 a.m. on Thursday.

The Council resumed on Thursday morning.

The Warden invited Mr. F. B. Brownridge, manager of the Royal Bank, Cornwall, to address Council regarding the banking business of the counties. Mr. Brownridge referred to the fact that the Royal Bank had assisted greatly in the development of Cornwall and district and expressed the hope that Council would defer the banking question until the January session and enable the Royal Bank to submit terms upon which the counties' business could be handled. He thought all consideration should be given to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, as not many years ago they had come to the assistance of these counties when they were in serious financial difficulty.

Mr. Stewart, manager of the Bank of Montreal, and Mr. Currie, manager of the Bank of Commerce, also addressed Council on the banking question. Mr. Currie asked that the members consider what his banw had done for the counties eight years ago when it was the only bank that would advance them in their time of trouble.

Mr. Glenn A. Shaver, chairman, presented the report of the Finance Committee, which was finally adopted:

The committee recommended the appointment of Albert Earle as caretaker at a salary of $400.00 per annum; that the estate of the late C. U. Thompson be refunded the sum of $25.00, the auctioneers license which he purchased a few days prior to his death; that the usual grants of $250.00 to the Agricultural Representatives at Morrisburg and Alexandria be paid: that the time for the enforced collection of arrears of taxes by sale of lands be extended for six months from the June session of 1928; that Mr. H. Williams, chairman of the County Property Committee, be paid $50.00 for supervising repair work and construction of county buildings; that the offer of the Bank of Nova Scotia and Bank of Montreal be accepted and the necessary steps taken to complete the transfer, with due attention paid to the safeguarding of the interests of the various municipalities wth respect to commission charges, by other banks in the counties; the committee had passed accounts on general counties accounts aggregating $87,363.04; House of Refuge accounts of $7,449.90; County Road System accounts of $108,175.36, and that a by-law be passed providing for payment of same.

Messrs. Marselis and Lafave moved an amendment relative to the banking business, suggesting that action be deferred until the January session and that the different banks submit, in writing, approved by their head office, the best terms and conditions upon which they can handle the banking business of these counties.

The amendment was first voted on and was declared lost on the following division:

Yeas—Bryan, Dextras, W. H. Gallinger, Wallace Gallinger, Lafave, Marselis, Murray, V. McDonald, D. A. McIntosh, D. S. McIntosh, R. A. McLeod, Nugent, Pollock, Schell, Shaver, Williams—16.

Nays — Beach, Beattie, Blair, Brownlee, Brown, Clark, Crowder, Fitzgerald, Johnston, Morrison, Munro, J. D. McDonald, McCrimmon, McLachlan, Fred. MLceod, Nesbitt, Robertson, Raymond, Strader—19.

The main motion to adopt the report was declared carried on the same division.

Mr. Sparnham, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, thanked Council on behalf of his bank and the Bank of Montreal, for the transfer of the counties' business to the two banks mentioned.

The following by-laws were passed:

No. 2263—Extending for a period of six months the time for the enforced collection of the arrears of taxes by sale of land.

No. 2264—Appointing a caretaker for the counties' buildings.

No. 2265—For the payment of orders and accounts.

Messrs. Clark and Johnston moved that Mr. Beach and Mr. Shaver, chairman, be a sub-committee to assist the Clerk in drafting by-laws for the borrowing of money from the Bank of Montreal and the Bank of Nova Scotia or any other chartered bank.

The Council then adjourned until 7 p.m.

At the evening session, Mr. Shaver moved, seconded by Mr. Marselis that the following clauses be made part of the agreement with the Bank of Montreal and the Bank of Nova Scotia.

1—That the transfer of our bank account from the Canadian Bank of Commerce to the above mentioned banks wil not be made until Jan. 1st, 1929.

2—That the above banks will handle our account on a joint basis. That all cheques will have the names of both banks printed thereon and be payable at par at whichever bank they are presented. That the above banks will handle the accounts in such a manner as will make the least possible extra work in our office and for the officials and to this end will look after all clearing operations, so that the account, as far as the clerical work of our counties is concerned, will be carried on as nearly as possible as if it were handled by one bank.

3—That the above banks will agree to extend the terms and conditions of their offer for at least five years, with the exception of the rate of interest on loans, which will be agreed upon from year to year. That the service offered will not be terminated without six months' notice, in writing, to the treasurer of these Counties.

It was moved as an amendment that the date Nov. 15th, 1928, be substituted for the date Jan. 1st, 1929, and that the by-laws also bear that date.

The amendment was first voted on and was declared carried on the following division:

Yeas—Beach, Beattie, Blair, Brownlee, Brown, Clark, Crowder, Fitzgerald, Johnston, Morrison, Munro, J. D. McDonald, McCrimmon, D. S. McIntosh, McLachlan, Frd McLeod, Nesbitt, Robertson, Raymond, Strader—20.

Nays—Bryan, Dextras, W. H. Gallinger, Wallace Gallinger, Lafave, Marselis, Murray, V. McDonald, D. A. McIntosh, R. A. McLeod, Nugent, Pollock, Schell, Shaver, Williams—15

It was moved by Messrs. Pollock and Nugent that all county cheques going out to chartered banks in the counties, other than the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Bank of Montreal, be made payable at par. Carried.

The Warden invited Mr. C. C. Munro, an ex-Warden, to a seat within the railing and in accepting, Mr. Munro thanked the Warden for the courtesy.

A resolution was moved by Messrs. D. S. McIntosh and Fred. McLeod that this Council petition the Legislative Assembly of Ontario that the Assessment Act of Ontario be amended so as to provide that lands and premises and their appurtenances exempted by local municipalities shall not be exempted from county rates of assessment.

A copy of the resolution was ordered forwarded to the Attorney-General, the Minister of Highways, to the members-elect of the Legislative Assembly in these counties for action; and further, that the Clerk send a printed copy of this resolution to the County Clerk of every county or union of Counties in the Province of Ontario.

The resolution was carried.

This concluded the business of the session.

The Warden thanked the members for their great assistance during his tenure of office, remarking that this session was far more strenuous than he had expected, and he was sure all the members were glad that it was finished.

On motion of Messrs. Beach and Bryan, the Warden vacated the chair, which was taken by Mr. Williams, Reeve of Cornwall, who was the oldest member within the railing.

Mr. Williams thanked the mover and seconder and the other members for the great honor conferred upon him by appointing him chairman, even for only a few minutes, of such an honorable body.

Mr. Vincent McDonald, Reeve of the Township of Cornwall, on behalf of the committee of Council, read an address to the Warden by way of a vote of thanks for his faithful, impartial and energetic service. The presentation of the accompanying gold watch and chain, suitaby engraved, was made by Mr. Thos. Johnston, Reeve of the Township of Matilda. In presenting the address, Mr. McDonald, expressed his pleasure at being selected by the committee for such a purpose. The address was as follows—

To Angus A. Macdonell, Esq., Warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, for 1928:—

Sir:—As this is the closing day of the Fall Session of this body, it is possibly the last occasion when we shall meet at a given time and place, and therefore presents the last opportunity for giving expression to the feelings which animate us in regard to yourself, and to the very able, impartial, and courteous manner in which you have presided over our meetings and have discharged the other numerous and responsible duties pertaining to the position you have so worthily filled. We do not by any means forget the generous hospitality extended by you to the members and officials, with other invited guests, at a most enjoyable party, held in June, at Stanley Island, one of the beauty spots of the St. Lawrence River, situated in your own muncipality.

The present municipal year has been by no means an easy one for the presiding officer, as many matters of grave importance were under consideration, and we are much pleased to bear testimony to the calm and judicial way you have dealt with all such matters and to the dignified and impartal character of your rulings, and the quality of caution and "canniness" which distinguish the Scot. Each one of us will long remember the year 1928 as one in which business and pleasure were happily combined and each assigned to its proper place and degree.

As we have concluded that you are well worth "watching" and as we are about to separate as members of Council, though we hope individually to meet you frequently, we beg you to accept the accompanying time piece and in using it to recall the pleasant intimacy developed in the many years of our association.

In cosing we wish you to accept, on behalf of yourself and your family, the assurance of our highest regard, and our best wishes for your future health, prosperity and general well being. We also sincerely cherish the hope that one and all of us may meet you again on many occasions and renew the friendship which we esteem a privilege and an honour.

Signed on behalf of the members of the Council of 1928.

Thos. Johnston
John D. McDonald
V. McDonald.

After the reading of the address and the presentation of the watch and chain, the Warden, in reply, said: "I appreciate very much your very flattering address, which is perhaps too flattering." He also thanked the members for presenting him with such a beautiful gift and expressed his appreciation of the fine fellowship which existed between members and himself during the years he had been a member of the Council of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. Mr. Macdonell also stated that it would be a great pleasure for him to meet his contemporaries in future years.

The Warden's remarks were lustily applauded.

On resuming the chair, the Warden thanked the Clerk and the County Road Superintendent and all other county officials for the great assistance and respect given him during the year.

The members, at the Warden's request, arose in a body and sang the National Anthem, under the leadership of Mr. Chas. F. Marselis, Reeve of the Township of Williamsburg, and the Council of 1928 passed out of being.

During a Scripture examination an Irish boy was asked, "what will become of the proud man?"

"He'll be turned into an animal," was the prompt reply.

"An animal! what makes you say that?"

"Shure, sorr, the Bible says that he that exalted himself shall be a baste."

The happy merchant

Never before in the history of the world has it been possible for a merchant in good credit to do so much business with so little capital locked up in stock.

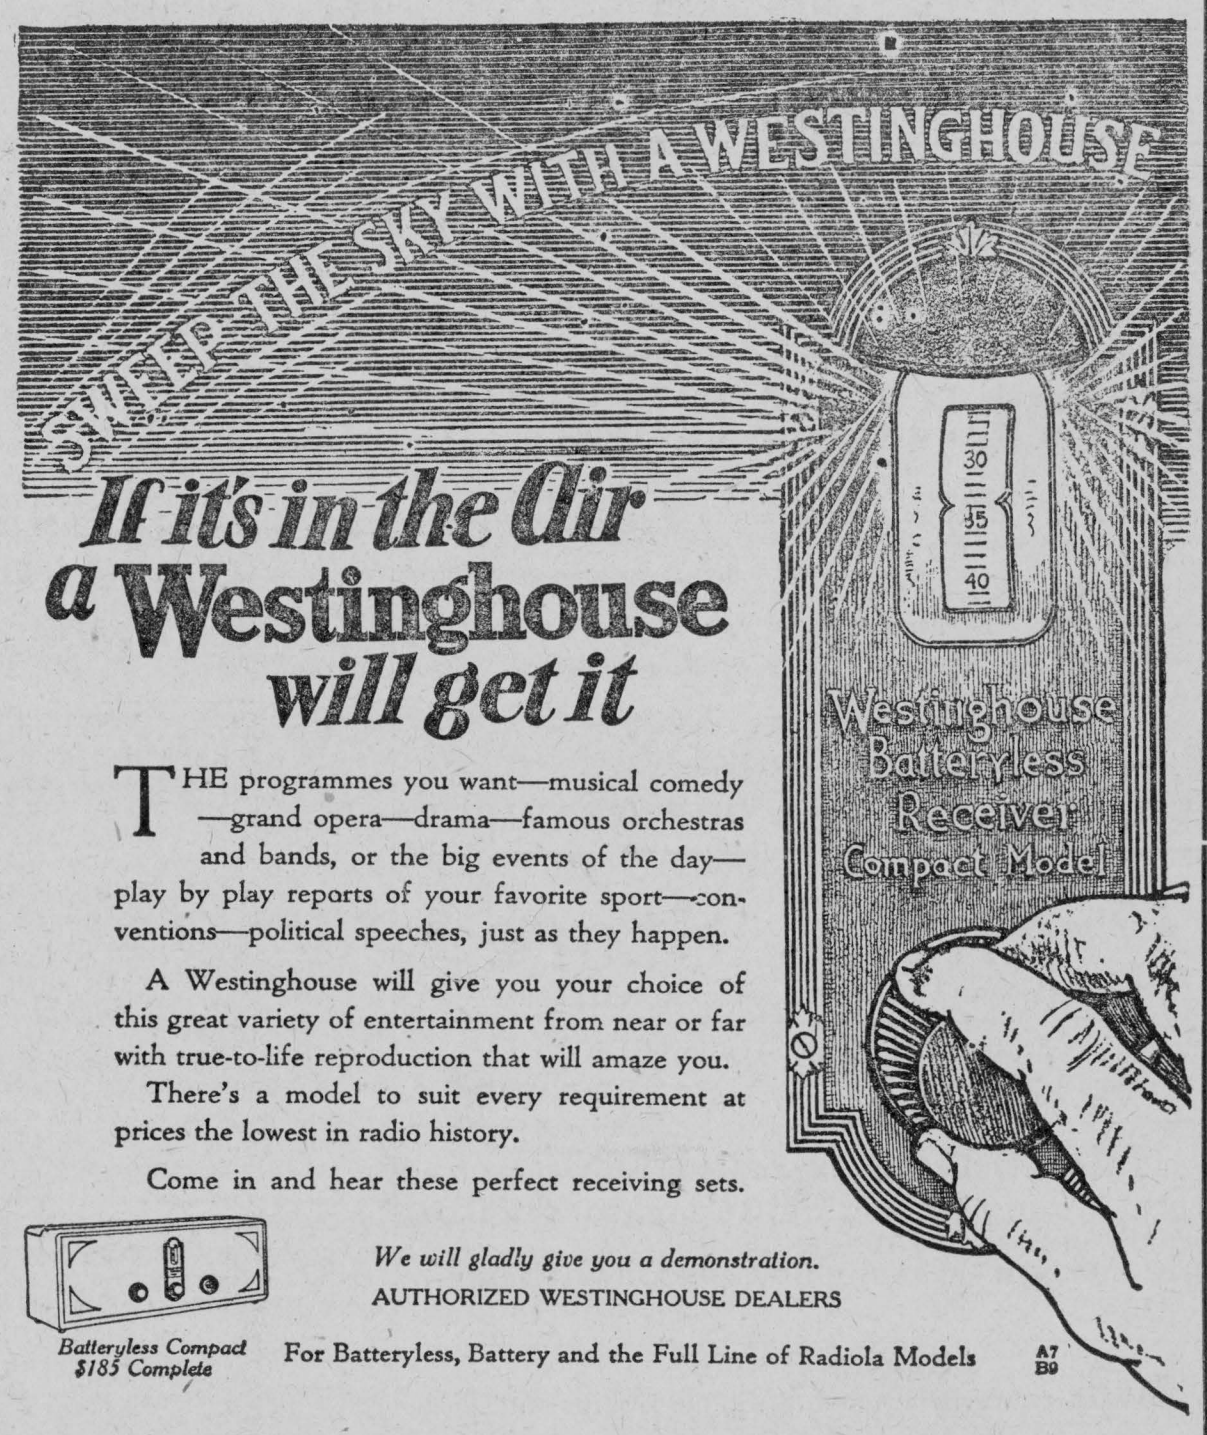

One important reason for the present prosperity is, that instead of having to buy a big stock at the beginning of each season, he is now able to buy small stocks and replenish them promptly by Long Distance.

Keep your customers for miles around coming to you for whatever they need. Invent ways of inducing them to visit your store, or to order from you by Long Distance and — they tell us —you will not be seriously bothered by competition.

Long Distance is making happy merchants in some towns. Don't overlook its great possibilities.

SUNDAY IN THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The services of public worship in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday will be conducted by the minister, Mr. C. Ritchie Bell, and will be of a special nature. In the morning the service will begin at 10.45 a.m. in order that the National Two Minutes of Silent Prayer may be observed at 11.00, after which the minister will lead in special prayer, remembering before God those who laid down their lives in the Great War, commending them to His mercy and loving-kindness, and praying for grace to follow their example of courage and sacrifice giving thanks and praise to Almighty God for the victory granted to our arms and deliverance from the power of our enemy. The sermon theme will be "The Higher Preparedness." What moral equivalent can we suggest to re-place war? Is there something we can prepare for that will take the place of military arms? The Church School and Minister's Bible Class meet at 10.00 a.m. In the evening the minister will preach a special Thanksgiving sermon, the title being 'Thanksgiving Day." The music of the day will be conducted by Miss Gertrude Weegar and will be in keeping with the special services.

RELIEF FROM CITY CHAP

The late lamented Norah Bayes, the singing actress, was talking one day in New York about foreign travel.

"When you travel in a foreign country without knowing the language," she said, "you get it in the neck."

"It's like the story."

"A New England farmer sat on his porch steps one sunny fall morning doing exercises with his fingers in the hope of driving the rheumatism out of his joints. A city chap happened to be passing at the time, and he said to himself:

" 'This poor farmer is deaf and dumb.'

"So, as he was thirsty, he took out some paper and a pencil, wrote, 'Will you sell me a quart of fresh, cool milk?' and handed the note over to the farmer.

"The farmer stopped his finger exercises, read the note, got up without a word and went into the house. He was back in a minute with a full pitcher.

"The city chap drank the milk and wrote 'How much?' on another slip of paper.

"'For answer the farmer held up five fingers three times. The city chap paid him, nodded and started off. But as he was passing out the gate he heard a chuckle and the words:

" 'Hi, mother! I jest sold a short quart o' sour mil fork 15 cents to a dummy!' "

FARMERS IN NORTH ARE IN BAD WAY

Distress among sttlers in Northern Ontario caused by unprecedented rain and floods will evoke ready sympathy from the older parts of Ontario where people live in greater comfort. Pioneering means a lot of hard work under the best circumstances, but in the Temiskaming district many of the farmers have lost practically their whole year's labor. Some have succeeded in saving a portion of their crops, but most of the hay and grain is still in the fields rotting from the wet. Nearly all are without winter food for their horses and cattle and some of them have already sold their milk cows because they will not be able to feed them during the winter. In the districts around North Bay and Sturgeon Falls more than 150 farmers have been nearly ruined through the submergence of their lands by the abnormally high waters of Lake Nipissing.

The condition of these unhappy settlers has been brought to the attention of the Provincial and Dominion Governments, which should take relief measures promptly. If, as it is claimed, there is no appropriation for such cases public opinion will support whatever expenditure may be necessary and will endorse it afterwards. We look for great developments in the North. We have induced people to take up land there partly in order to provide food of various kinds for the mining and timber camps, and those now in distress are entitled to prompt and adequate assistance. They are not asking for charity, but they need asssistance to carry them through the coming winter. It happens that the rain has injured or ruined many of the roads in the North and the council of Teck Township has made the practical request that the Ontario Government restore these roads by employing the settlers and members of the district who have suffered serious losses by the failure of crops. Work of this kind will enable them to retain their self-respect and will produce results valuable to the Government. There may be other ways of helping them, but whatever is decided up should be announced speedily in order to remove the gloom and perhaps despair which have fallen on these worthy people facing a hard winter.

REAL ACCIDENTS FEW

What are generally classed as accidents are in most cases not accidents at all, but merely the results of pure carelessnss or recklessness, according to a noted railway surgeon, who declares that really unpreventable accidents are very few.

The greater number of accidents are caused by failure to keep in mind the consequences of a slight mistake in judgment, or in "taking a chance" even when the danger is realized.

Of 25,000 deaths in the United States through automobile accidents each year, it is safe to say that 90 per cent of them are due to someone's disregard of ordinary safety precautions. The worst feature of this is that a reckless driver not only endangers himself but also trifles with the lives of others.

In accidents due to fire the same principle holds good. Everyone knows how easily the careless throwing of a lighted match may start a disastrous fire, yet millions of lighted matches, cigar and cigarette stubs are cast aside with little or no caution. Practically every fire that occurs is caused by stupid carelessness.

Accidents do happen, of course, under circumstances wherein no one appears to be at fault, but these are in the minority. Generally accidents are caused by ignorance, carelessness or wanton disregard of consequences.

NON-STOP PLOWING

Non-stop records in flying, swimming, dancing, piano-playing and other activities have been given a great deal of publicity of late, but one of the most interesting as well as useful tests of this nature to be reported was a plowing record recently set at the farm operated by the University of California

In this test a tractor was run continuously for 17 days and nights, drawing a disk plow, during which time the outfit travelled 1,330 miles and disked 1,280 acres of land. During the 408 hours of the test the engine was never stopped, but the tractor was halted 15 minutes four times a day for refuelling and servicing. Only one case of mechanical trouble developed, the loosening of a vavle push rod, but this was adjusted without stopping the engine. During the test 1,151 gallons of gasoline and 117 quarts of oil were consumed.

This demonstration may forecast a marked change in farming of the future, when mass production methods shall be applied to agriculture as they have already been applied to industry.

Heavenly Peace.

Doctor—"When you take your wife's temperature she must place the thermomoter under her tongue and keep her mouth closed for two minutes."

Mr. Jones—"Haven't you one that takes half an hour?"

Not So Good.

Author—Yes, I am doing very well. I make jokes and my wife makes pictures for them.

Painter—With me it's just the opposite. I make pictures and my wife jokes about them.

NEW EXAMINATION IS NOT NECES

Drivers who have a license from the Department of Highways permitting them to drive a car will not be required to take another examination for renewal of their card, it was stated at the license department. Drivers who secured licenses without examination last year also will be given permits on production of old ones.

WHAT IS A BOY?

He is a person who is going to carry on what you started.

He is to sit right where you are sitting and attend to those things you think are so important when you are gone

You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they wll be carried out depends on him.

Even if you make leagues and treaties, he will have to manage them.

He is going to sit at your desk in Parliament, and occupy your place on the supreme bench.

He will assume control of your cities, provinces and nations; your prisons, churches, schools, universities, and corporations.

All your work is going to be judged and praised or condemned by him.

Your reputation and your future are in his hands.

All your work is for him, and the fate of the nation and of humanity is in his hands.

So it might be as well to pay him some attention.

HOW THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE WORKS

A number of correspondents, interested in the United States election, profess ignorance of the workings of the Electoral College. They want to know precisely what the Electoral College is and just how it operates in electing a president.

The system is a rather complicated one. Each state in the union has a number of electoral votes equal to the total of its senators and congress and these are according to population. If a state has four representatives and two senators it would have six electoral votes in the Electoral College would influence the choice of a President to just that extent. These votes would be registered for the presidential candidate polling the largest vote in that state.

There are 531 electoral votes among all the states and a bare majority means that a candidate must secure 366 of them. New York has the largest voice in determining the presidential issue with 45 votes while Pennsylvania comes next with 38 votes. There are five states with only three votes each, Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico, Delaware, and Wyoming.

Idaho, Montana, New Hampshire, Utah, and Vermont have four votes each. Oregon and North Dakota have five votes. Thus it may be seen that New York State with its 45 votes can counterbalance the ten states named. It is evident, therefore, that a few of the larger states, such as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois (with 29 votes) exercise a commanding influence in a presidential contest.

Much is heard of the "solid South." It comprises Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Virginia and Texas. These states have always been overwhelmingly Democratic. They were so pronouncedly Democratic that elections were mostly perfunctory performances. In the South, after the nominations were made by the national conventions, they read about the campaign in the other states, but it did not touch them. Republicans were as helpless as Liberals in Toronto.

This time it is different. For the first time in years the South is in a political ferment, and everybody knows why, the reason is Smith's religion. If he were not a Catholic, he would have been accepted by the South just as readily as Woodroow Wilson, who voted the Volstead Bill, was, or even as Cox and Davis were. As things are, the general opinion seems to be that Smith will be lucky if he doesn't lose some of these states. Loss of any of them would be fatal. For even if Smith should carry New York, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Tennesee and Wisconsin, and the whole of the South, he would still be six votes short of election.—Exchange.

THE CUPBOARD OF MOTHER OF HUBBARD

"Tell us, mother—quick!"

"It's rather an unexpected pleasure," said mother mildly, dropping the yellow envelope. "She says she'll be here on the six-fifteen, and—"

"Who?"

"Mrs. Anderson Stuyvesant Howe," read mother, smiling.

"Mrs. Anderson Stuyv—goodness! Your old school friend, Mary Downs! You've told us about her dozens of times and—"

"Six-fifteen!" I interrupted in horror, thinking of our evening meal.

"And it's a quarter of five now. What in the name of all that's—"

"She is accustomed to a late dinner,'," explained mother.

"Well, she'll get a cold lunch here," said I with some feeling. "At a quarter of five on Friday we never have anything in the house but things for hash—and the fire is out."

"It must be made up," said Harriet wth decision. "Mrs. Anderson Stuyvesant Howe is accustomed to a late dinner; she shall have it."

"She is also accustomed to being served by a butler," said mother, looking at us with some pity.

"She can't have him—" Harriet was putting on her jacket as she spoke. "But if a very correct waitress changes her plates—"

"Waitress!"

"I will be waitress; you can call me Marie—when you don't forget it. I will go down town this minute, order up some canned soup, strawberries, beefsteak, mushrooms, fresh bread, olives—anything I can lay my hands on. I wish I could find some roast beef somewhere, just beginning to brown. You, Aurelia, will get out the best china, and see that the fire is brisk. Have the hash started; with a few frills it will do for one dish. Mother, please stir up the salad dressing and put on your best frock. That's all I ask of you—only do be sure to beat the oil in evenly enough."

And she was off like a flash of autocratic lightning.

"Hullo!" cried a masculine voice at the kitchen door half an hour later. "What's the matter with the Hubbard family? Anybody hurt!"

"Yes, badly—in our nerves. Go away and don't bother."

"Come in, Jerry, if you love us, and make yourself useful," and I held out the chopping bowl. "Hash this hash and don't ask no questions, there's a dear. We are in awful trouble."

"Looks like it," commented our athletic young friend and neighbor, accepting his task without a murmur, and beginning [illegible] number?"

"Do, and my blessing go with you," murmured Harriet. "And if you can make it conventient to put a pound of loaf sugar in your pocket on your way back no harm will be done."

"Girls," said mother some time afterward in a stage whisper, which made us drop everything and run, "I see a cab turning the corner."

Harriet dashed up stairs and was down again by the time the cab reached the door. She looked rather distinguished for a waitress, even in her cap and apron, and, though her face was a trifle red, she had assumed a most demure expression.

Mrs. Anderson Stuyvesant Howe entered with as much dignity as a rather dumpy and decidedly overdressed little woman could carry; its effect, however, was somewhat marred by a snort of imperfectly suppressed laughter from Jerry, who was behind a screen. He had returned from his errands just in time to join me in the act of crawling into this retreat. Harriet gave us a warning look from behind Mrs. Howe's back, and I clapped my handkerchief frantically over Jerry's mouth.

"Do be still," I begged. "If you give us away, Harriet will never forgive you."

"Great guns, but she thinks she's a swell," whispered Jerry in my ear. "Look at the gemlets. I thought it wasn't good form to sparkle like an electric fountain—before sundown." With a sudden clutch at my elbow he cried: "I smell something burning, sure as time. Look out, don't knock the screen down—"

We flew to the kitchen. It was the hash. I groaned as I lifted the spider from the fire.

"I said 'frizzle' it," whispered Jerry, regretfully, "not fizzle. Never mind—put some red pepper over the burns—she'll take a drink of water so quick she won't notice the taste."

A white-capped maid appeared from the big house next door—Jerry's home—appeared suddenly to my astonished gaze, bearing a large cake, covered with a napkin. Jerry met her with a smothered whoop.

"Here you are," he exulted. Mother sent it; I told her the awful hole you were in. Cook says she made it this morning."

"Jerry, your mother's an angel. So is your cook."

"She's all right," agreed Jerry with conviction. "Mother sent you a quart of cream too."

Harriet ran into the kitchen. "She's gone right upstairs to dress for din-face was a study as she served Mrs. Howe. I dared not look at Jerry as he bravely tasted the hash. Its appearance was really very good, and Harriet had deluged it with tomato sauce and parsley, but when Mrs. Howe hastily grabbed her glass of ice water I felt my self-control slipping away. Harriet made a sudden and most unwaitress-like escape from the room; Jerry coughed in his napkin; and I—well—I was only sixteen, and sixteen finds it easier to laugh than to be sober— I giggled.

Mrs. Howe glanced at me suspiciously, and I grew hysterical. Mother gave me a stern look, and this finished me. At this trying moment I caught sight of the hole in the middle of the table cloth peeping out from under the "cake-basket-jardinère," which had got pushed to one side. The absurdity of the whole pitiful attempt to "live up to" Mrs. Anderson Stuyvesant and her supposed elegance took possession of me. I buried my face in my napkin and laughed; then I cried. The company ceased to attend to anything but me.

"She has these attacks sometimes," explained mother, patting me gently on the back.

"Are they serious?" asked Jerry, politely. Then an evil spirit entered into him and he added, "Can I get something for Miss Aurelia? Ammonia—camphor—red pepper—anything?"

"Oh, don't!" I shrieked. Then I rose from the table, and Harriet led me from the room. She pinched my arm black and blue on the way, but it had no effect on me. I rushed upstairs and buried my face in my pillow. Meanwhile the dinner went on. By and by I recovered my self-possession, or thought I had done so, and went solemnly back to the dining-room.

"Better, dear?" asked mother cheerfully. "Will you have some of the— er—hash—brought back? Marie —"

"No, no," I said with my eyes on my plate. "I'll just take some salad, please."

There was a silence as Harriet moved slowly toward the kitchen. Presently she came back and served me with dessert, which the others were then eating. I understood.

There hadn't been much salad; and when I left the table our clever waitress had divided my share among the other plates. I had thought my shaken nerves were well under control, but they played me false again. I began to laugh once more, feebly, as one who would far rather not laugh, but is too weak to resist. Then mother forgot her part and brought down the house.

"Harriet, bring Aurelia some hartshorn."

Mrs. Howe stared. Jerry, after one convulsive effort to maintain his gravity, burst into a ringing laugh so uncontrolled and hearty that Harriet gave way without a struggle and joined in. Mother turned upon us one despairing look and succumbed. Mrs. Howe's face began to grow flushed under her powder. I fervently wished as I sat there shaking, that the earth would open and swallow us up, with all our hollow pretensions.

Mother recovered herself after a moment, and a glance at our guest's injured expression evidently made her decide upon a full confession. There was really nothing left to do but throw ourselves upon Mrs. Howe's mercy, and trust to her sense of humor.

"My dear Mary," she began apologetically, "you must excuse us if you can. After dinner we will tell you the whole story. We are really not trying to amuse ourselves at your expense, however it may seem."

Harriet untied her aprons strings and flung off her waitress' cap. She drew herself up to her full height and looked at Mrs. Howe like the young gentlewoman she really is. "Let me present myself, Mrs. Howe," she said. "I am Harriet, mother's daughter, not Marie, a waitress, and this performance is just a poor joke of my planning. But it's a joke on us, please be sure, not on our guest."

"Indeed," said Mrs. Howe. For a moment I thought she was going to be angry. "Snob," I said to myself, under my breath, and stopped laughing so suddenly that Jerry looked at me in astonishment. Mother led the the way to the sitting-room, Mrs. Howe, rustling and glowing and with a haughty expression about her very back, as it seemed to us who followed her.

"Nice actress you are," Jerry whispred in my ear. "All you need is an understudy ready to jump when you get rattled and run off the stage." But I was holding my breath and wondering what was going to come next.

"You see," said Harriet, with brave cheerfulness, "your telegram surprised us in rather a—well—Mother Hubbard's Cupboard happened to be very nearly bare, and we had to fly about to get ready. We girls are fond of pranks, you know, Mrs. Howe, and we thought it would be fun for us to play at the style we don't live in. Please do not think we were in the least ashamed of our house or our everyday ways."

She drew herself up a bit higher and glanced unconsciously from a fine old French print on the wall to the Persian rug beneath her two feet, two of the few treasures left us from a once luxurious home. Then in the midst of the awful silence she finished her explanation.

"Some funny things hoppened while we were getting ready which left my sister's nerves a little shaky, and she couldnt play her part through. We meant to have a little fun out of it, that's all. But we truly never meant to make you think we were making fun of you."

She looked at Mrs. Howe, half smiling. Our guest looked back at her with a softening face. Her diamonds flashed in the lamplight, and her elegant gown rustled, as she began for the first time that evening to laugh. The haughty expression vanished, and her real self showed through the aristocratic disguise she had so long tried to wear. The "snob" in her was gone, for the moment at least. She turned to mother.

"It makes me think," she said, "of the spreads we used to have, and the way we used to try to change the face of everything when one of the teachers knocked at the door. Remember, Sue, the one who always surprised us when we least expected it? We called her 'The Unbidden.' It was too bad of me to give you so little time for you to get ready. But I'm glad of it, for now I've seen what clever girls you have. I'm sorry—" with a jolly laugh—"little Miss Aurelia has these attacks; but if she'll just let me give her this vinaigrette of mine,"—she unfastened a little gleaming jeweled affair and put it into my hand,—"perhaps it won't remind her unpleasantly of this 'Unbidden'."

After all, there are "snobs" in cotton gowns, and truly fine hearts under much affectation. Mrs. Howe came down to breakfast next morning in the plainest of tailored dresses, and only seven diamonds where seventeen had shone the day before.
