OURS AND OTHERS

A matter of safety

Chesterville Public School pupils held their annual Christmas concert the other night and it was a most successful affair. Teachers and students are to be congratulated for their efforts.

The use of Legion Hall for a function as well attended as the above leaves something to be desired.

Legion Hall is of considerable value to the community in its public use. It is just the right size for the average dinner or small entertainment if not more than a hundred and fifty wish to be seated comfortably. When more than that attend things become a bit sticky.

The public school concert automatically starts with about 125 small children churning about like a pot of boiling beans. Add to that almost the same number of fond parents and spectators, and the auditorium is too crowded for comfort.

When aisles and doorways become blocked completely with heedless small bodies, then it is time to change the pattern. Fire and all its terrors could turn a pleasant affair into a holocaust in an instant.

We would suggest Chesterville Public School consider the use of Community Hall auditorium in the future. Now that the heating system has been changed, the noisy fans will be no problem, and the safety factor there is a great deal higher.

GUEST EDITORIAL—By Rev E. B. Bugden

The Message of Christmas

The Message of Christmas has an historical setting which is beautifully described for us in Holy Writ. When the "tidings of great joy, which shall be for all people," was announced the glory of God illuminated the heavens, angelic music reverberated over the hills, a bright, guiding star shone forth and humble shepherds and wise men were constrained to "go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass" and to bow in worship and adoration before the Babe "lying in a manger."

The Message of Christmas transcends its historical setting in the sense that it is heard again and again, and,

"Where meek souls will receive him, still
The dear Christ enters in."

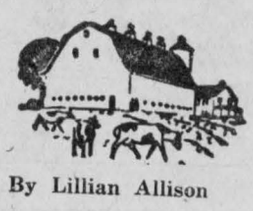

It is ever new. It's meaning and glory are as fresh as each recurrence of the glad season. Someone has referred to Christmas as the "Circle of love" of which Jesus is the centre. How could one better describe Christmas? How better set forth its message for

"Love came down at Christmas,
Love all lovely, love Divine."

That love is an all-inclusive circle. And, when the Babe of Bethlehem is made the centre of human relationships all people are found within it, even as God intended when He gave "His only begotten Son."

The joy of Christmas is not known merely in hearing the message, but in receiving it. Christ must receive a welcome in our hearts. We must accept Him as the supreme gift and blessing of God for our lives. When we do this we shall understand the song of the angels, because we know the peace that He intends for us, even amidst the noise and strifes and discords of a troubled world. When we do this we share with the shepherds the wonder and glory of His coming. Like Mary, we ponder the mystery in our hearts. And, like the wise men, we follow the star of faith that beckons us to the place of worship and adoration.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

I've just spent a few minutes thumbing through a very colourful Christmas book that I haven't read for a long time. One section I re-read thoroughly. It has to do with Christmas customs in other lands. Now I have an idea that some of the natives of other lands would not recognize some of the customs that are attributed to their country.

For example, would the Dutch people agree that in Holland today little children on Christmas Eve stuff their wooden shoes with hay and carrots and place them on the window sill for St. Nick's white horses? Then they find on Christmas morning that the hay and carrots have been replaced with gifts and toys. It seems to me St. Nick comes early in December in Holland and that Christmas Eve and Christmas Day are purely religious occasions.

So I imagine the Christmas customs mentioned are not exactly as described in the book. These are probably ancient customs that are observed now by only a small portion of the people. Some of them, however, are very lovely and well worth preserving.

In England I suppose there are some families that still bring in the Yule log on Christmas Eve, sit on it then salute it for good luck. And I suppose that in some parts carolers gather in the cathedrals to sing the old hymns at midnight or to re-enact the ancient plays that come from Norman and Saxon days.

In a few countries like Ireland some people set up the table on Christmas Eve believing that their ancestors return to their old homes during the night and will require food.

Processions on Christmas Day or Christmas Eve seem to play a major role in the celebrations in many European countries as well as in Mexico and Brazil. Some are purely religious parades headed by the priests. But others are comprised of masked people in hideous costumes representing the wise men, etc., or carrying miniature creches as they sing.

In other countries prosperity is assured for the ensuing year on Christmas. Guests in Bulgaria bring corn and sprinkle it on the steps and on the father of the house. In another country they heap grain in the corners. This will bring a good harvest.

I think one of the old Russian customs would be highly entertaining. It is called the Five Piles of Grain. At midnight a sleeping hen is taken from the roost and brought into the kitchen. On the floor are five piles of grain representing wealth, death, etc. While the hen is still sleepy and befuddled she is set down among them. Great fun follows as the hen awakes and begins to eat.

An Austrian custom centres around light. Large candles are prepared. While the family sings hymns the father lights one candle with a taper and chants, "Christ is born, Christ is born." Then each member takes turns lighting a candle and repeating, "Praise the Lord! Christ is born."

Christmas in Czechoslavakia means the ending of all quarrels and the beginning of a new year among friends. All people visit their friends and foes and forgive any misunderstandings that have arisen during the year. Now, there's a custom worth observing.

In Norway one of the charming customs is to remember the birds and animals. The cattle are given extra feed and sheaves of grain saved from the harvest decorate the gateway, the barn door and a high pole in the yard for the bird's Christmas dinner.

In French Canada the book, which was printed in U.S.A., says the people go to midnight mass which is followed by an elaborate after-church dinner at home. The holiday season lasts until January 6, the feast of Epiphany.

Now what about our Christmas customs? Santa, the tree, the exchanging of gifts and cards, a huge dinner for the family, church services for many —these are perhaps our Christmas customs. And each home has its own peculiar brand of them.

But let me insist that we do have Christmas customs. That Christmas follows a certain pattern each year. And let us find some place in that pattern for the Christmas story, a church service and carol singing. These patterns are what your children will remember with special pleasure when they're far away.

A very Merry Christmas to you all.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT HELD BY HYNDMAN SCHOOL

Mrs Francis and pupils of Hyndman school held their annual Christmas concert on Saturday evening, with a good attendance. Hubert Robinson was chairman for the very entertaining program and Mrs Gordon Gilmer, music teacher, was pianist.

Santa made his appearance at the close of the program and gifts were distributed from the tree.

Nature's thermometers

Insects are so completely in the grip of the weather that some are living thermometers. An observer can read from their actions the temperature in degrees Fahrenheit.

Famous for its accuracy is the snowy tree cricket, a half-inch-long denizen of the trees.

In North America it begins its serenade about the middle of July and cintinues into the autumn. The male "sings" by rubbing its wings together, producing a "treat, treat, treat," sounding through the night.

The tempo is determined by the temperature. The warmer it is, the fatesr the cricket chirps.

To take a reading, count the number of chirps in 5 seconds and add 40. The resulting figure is the temperature in Fahrenheit, accurate within a degree or two. The crickets simplify the process by not competing with each other. They chirp in unison.

All insects, being cold-blooded, are greatly affected by the temperature of the air. It determines the temperature of their bodies, hence their rate of activity.

A scientist, with stopwatch, thermometer and ruler found ants on a California mountain travelling 52 feet an hour at 50 degrees Fahrenheit. When the temperature doubled the ants scurried 780 feet an hour—15 times faster.

One species of grasshopper has two songs—a daylight chant and an evening serenade. It is so sensitive it will change its tune if a cloud passes under the sun.

Observers note that many grasshoppers fly only when the mercury stands at 85 degrees or higher. Certain moths seem to be unable to fly unless their body temperatures are above 63 degrees.

Contrary to folklore, no insect knows enough about the weather to predict it.

Most famous for this supposed ability is the woolly bear—a furry caterpillar with black head and tail and a reddish brown midsection. Legend going back to colonial days claims the width of the brown section indicates the severity of the winter to come. The wider the band, the milder the winter.

Some years ago, Dr C. H. Curran, curator of insects and spiders at the American Museum of Natural History, set out to test the theory. Selecting a fine fall day when the leaves were turning and the air was bracing, he led an expedition to gather woolly bears near New York City. Measured, tabulated and averaged out, the caterpillars' bands indicated a mild winter. A mild winter followed.

For four consecutive years the bears called the turn. Builders, coal and oil merchants, and even skiers, began to shower in requests for the latest woolly word.

Then the bears went sour. They predicted as well as ever, but the weather didn't follow. After nine years of pleasant summer safaris. Dr Curran announced to the world what he had long suspected: the woolly bears' bands proved nothing.

Sheer curtains drape better and resist dust if starched lightly.

CAR POOL

A few weeks ago Londoners Mrs Fay Strom and Charles Capell each owned a small British automobile. Same make; same body style; same year—1939.

Both cars had seen better days. Both were taken to the same garage for repairs.

Now it seems somebody owns one automobile, who that somebody is hasn't been decided.

The question was posed because a mechanic at the garage looked at the two cars and thought he could make one spruce vehicle out of the two. That was the plan of action he followed.

After putting together the best bits of both cars the mechanic sold what was left over. He later drew a £40 fine for his efforts.

Police informed Mrs Strom, a 42-year-old housewife, and Capell, a 40-year-old truck driver, that their joint car was available for whichever of them owned it.

Both came along, checked it over and promptly disagreed.

"It's my car," said Mrs Strom. "Look, the engine is mine."

"That's not worth much," said Capell. "The bodywork and chassis are mine."

Each found several parts from his, or her, former car and offered the other a few pounds to renounce the claim. Both refused. "So we're keeping the car for now," said a police spokesman. "We won't let it go until they reach some agreement."

Canned salmon was first exported from British Columbia in the early 1870's.

Sales of natural gas in Canada are 15.4 percent higher than last year.

The pampas, treeless plains of Argentina, cover about 250,000 square miles.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

The "Record" joins the many friends of Mr and Mrs W. O. Dixon, Chesterville, in wishing them congratulations on their 50th wedding anniversary which they will observe Saturday, December 27.

FIRE ALARM WEDNESDAY CALLS OUT BRIGADE

Wednesday night volunteer firemen turned out in jig time to answer a call. A raging chimney fire at the residence of Nelson Laprade threatened to flame out of control and needed immediate attention.

Firemen under direction of Chief Hehir soon had the blaze under control and safe. Hose had been laid from the Mill Street hydrant west to the Hummel house where the Laprades live. The extreme cold hampered efforts to get the brittle hose back on the truck and cold fingers did not help any.

Many attend Public School concert

Last Thursday night Chesterville parents and friends turned out in large numbers to enjoy the annual public school concert here. Legion Hall was filled to bulging.

Rev Douglas O. Fry, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was chairman for the evening. During the course of the evening he complimented the teachers and students on the fine showing they were making. While at times the youthful enthusiasm became a little deafening, on the whole the pupils showed their discipline with excellent behaviour.

The program ranged from chorus numbers to small plays and community singing led by girls of Grades 7 and 8. Drills and dances were performed with excellent precision and the whole concert moved smoothly and easily.

Principal Hosea Droppo and his teaching staff were introduced midway through the program to the audience. They received a solid round of applause from the crowd.

The program numbers were as follows:

Opening chorus, Grades 5 and 6; rhythm band, Grade 1; song, Stephen Durant; chorus, Grades 1 and 2; drill, Grades 5 and 6; dance, Grade 2; play, "The Forgotten Toy," by Grades 3 and 4; community singing, "The First Noel" and "Hark the Herald Angels," led by Grades 7 and 8; play, "Christmas Birthday," by Grades 1, 2 and 3; chorus, Grades 7 and 8; play, "A Party Line," Grade 6; play, "A Farm for Sale," Grade 7; community singing; play, "Wanted—a Housekeeper," Grade 8.

Following the National Anthem, Santa Claus made his appearance.

The U.S. headquarters of the international labour unions receive $35,000,000 a year from dues paid by Canadian members.

The world's first long distance telephone call was made in 1884.

The Record camera was at the public school concert and these are some of the scenes preserved on film. One of the problems confronting a photographer at such a time is what to take and what not to take. We tried to get as many of the actors as possible, but that partly defeats the end because the pictures must be small to gather in the crowded stage. Here they are, and who recognizes who in the multitude?—Record Photos.

Osnabruck Centre W.I. holds December meeting

The December meeting of Osnabruck Centre W.I. was held at the home of Mrs Delbert Flintoff. The motto, "You cannot do a kindness too soon, because you never know how soon will be too late," was commented on by Mrs Lloyd Gallinger who gave an appropriate poem, "Neighbours."

Christmas carols were sung and much enjoyed.

Mrs Willard Rutley, Ingleside, was the winner of the beautifully decorated Christmas cake which was given to the W.I. by Mrs Delbert Flintoff and Mrs D. Beckstead.

Twenty-one sick and shut-ins will be remembered at the holiday season with the usual candy or flowers and a gift goes to the patients in the Women's Institute Ward of St. Lawrence Sanatorium.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants, Mrs Lloyd Gallinger and Mrs John Grandaw, and a social half hour enjoyed.

Mrs D. Rutley proposed a vote of thanks.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Wilson Mattice on January 21 at 2 p.m. Each member is asked to bring a donation for sale by auction at this meeting. Mrs Mattice will give a knitting demonstration.

Carols reflect spirit of Christmas

What would Christmas be without carols? How well they express both the joy and solemnity of Christmastide, when even the least musical among us awakened to the spirit of the season through traditional songs.

"And suddenly there was with the Angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying 'Glory to God in the Highest'."

Beginning with this "first carol," as the years went by each people and each nation contributed to the music of Christmas.

Traditional folk songs were set to music and passed by word of mouth from one generation to the next.

Many of the Christmas carols were the work of great writers and composers who found inspiration for their creative genius in the always-new story of Christmas.

Musicians such as Felix Mendolssohn, Friedrich Handel and Franz Gruber composed some of our best known carols, while Martin Luther, Charles Wesley, Isaac Watts and Phillip Brooks are listed among the more famous of the lyric writers.

Carols are usually either religious or convivial. The religious carols are often included in church services, and hail the birth of the Holy Child. The convivial exalt the fun and festivities of the season.

Just about the best known and the best loved Christmas carol, "Silent Night," is comparatively recent, having been composed in the early 19th century by Franz Gruber and Fr. Joseph Mohr in Arnsdorf, Austria.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my sincere satisfaction and thanks for all the support I have received in the past twelve years. During that time, when I have been privileged to serve the township of Winchester both as councillor and reeve, I have tried to the best of my ability to answer the calls made upon my time and willingness to serve. All has not been always rosy, but I say sincerely, it has been a wonderful and rewarding experience to have been able to help in the work of township and counties' council. May I offer you the compliments of the season and the best of everything for the New Year.

Basil Dawley.

Providing current for outdoor lights

The exterior of your home and grounds offer a tremendous decorating opportunity. But practice safety outside as well as inside. Be sure all outside wire is No. 12 or No. 14, rubber insulated and heavy duty.

Best source of current for outdoor lighting is a permanent, protected outdoor-type receptacle, or a garage or porch lamp. Even without such an outlet, you can safely reach an indoor receptacle. Merely drill a hole in a board which will fit a convenient window snugly. Close the window on the board and run the outdoor wire in through the hole in the board. The window can be brace-locked with a stick.

Dr R. S. Peat to join O.H.S.C.

Dr R. S. Peat, Medical Officer or Health for the past 12½ years, has resigned to take an important post with the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

Dr Peat will join the commission on January 1, the date on which the new Ontario Hospital Plan comes into effect. He will be in charge of developing a program for the handling of chronic and convalescent care under the program.

Dr Peat went to Cornwall in 1945 to become director and Medical Officer of Health of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Health Unit. It has charge of all public health work in Cornwall and the United Counties.

Oil in Brazil has been a state monopoly since 1952.

Light up the outside of your house

Light in outline form around a doorway, outdoor candles and lighted sprays are highly successful main entrance decorations, proved over years of use. Many standing "specialty" units, such as Santas, Snowmen and Carolers and the like have more recently come into greater use near front doorways.

The eaves of your roof represent an ideal display point for Christmas lighting. The most common difficulty in eave lighting is a tendency for lights to sag. Eliminate this problem by running the outdoor Christmas sets through drive rings hammered into the eaves at regular intervals up to the house corners and roof peaks. The drive rings will carry your Christmas string of lights in straight and beautiful lines, outlining your home perfectly. Drive rings are available at hardware stores everywhere.

CARE of Canada helps those in need

Three million food packages, as personal gifts from Canadians and Americans, have been set as the goal of CARE's 1958 annual Food Crusade to help feed hungry peoples around the world.

Each package contains 22 pounds of surplus food—flour, milk powder, corn meals and cheese—enough to supplement the diet of four persons for one month. One package can be sent for a $1 contribution.

Under the direction of CARE mission chiefs, the packages will be distributed to the neediest families and groups in 13 countries: Columbia, Egypt, Greece, Hong Kong, India, Israel, Italy, Korea, Macau, Pakistan, Poland, West Germany and Berlin, and Yugoslavia.

Recipients are selected solely on the basis of need, regardless of race, creed or colour. CARE mission staffs work closely with local private and official welfare agencies to assure effective distribution and use. Deliveries are made directly to needy families, or through feeding programs at schools, hospitals, orphanages and other welfare institutions.

The desperate need for relief assistance is dramatically evident from United Nations surveys, which reveal that two thirds of the world's peoples are underfed. Lack of land, of tools, of farming knowledge are the basic causes. Wars, aggressions, disasters multiply the hunger. Today, as never before, nations are striving to increase production. Meanwhile, millions of people never get enough to eat.

"At a time when our farm abundance contrasts so sharply with world hunger, CARE calls to the Canadian people for personal action," said Paul J. Courian, director of CARE of Canada. "During the Christmas season especially, we must do all we can to spread the spirit of brotherhood across the earth, as well as at home."

Contributions in any amount can be sent to CARE of Canada, Ottawa. An official receipt will be issued.

Original Name

Lake Manitoba, covering 1,900 square miles, was first called Lac des Prairies by the explorer La Verendrye in 1738.

Lighting evergreens on your lawn

Evergreen trees on your front lawn can be especially appealing when lighted. Generally, lights of a single colour are preferred on outdoor evergreens. For an enriched effect, however, try this. Make your topmost light white, and mix perhaps two blue lights with an overall pattern of green lights.

In order to protect a valuable spruce or Douglas fir, you can build a teepee to carry the light strings.

Pound stakes into the ground around the tree, inside the spread of the branches, at regular intervals. Then lead rigid wire up from the stakes to a point several inches below the tree top. Fit a padded wire collar around the tree stem at this point and fasten wires to the collar.

John George Allen

John George Allen, of 45 First Avenue, Ottawa, an employee of Mahoney and Rich Company for 18 years, died in hospital Tuesday last after a long illness. He was 86 and had retired in 1940.

A native of Chesterville, he went to Ottawa in 1922. He was the son of the late George Allen and the former Margaret Walsh. He married the former Cecile McCloskey in 1900 in Chesterville.

Mr Allen attended St. Mary's Church.

He is survived by four sons, Daniel and Vincent, of Ottawa; William, Morrisburg, and Leo, Toronto; two daughters, Mrs John Desrosier (Margaret) and Mrs Harold Kearns (Eileen), both of Ottawa, and nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held from the Gauthier Funeral Home, Ottawa, to St. Mary's Church, Chesterville, for service on Thursday morning.

Interment in the parish cemetery.

May this Christmas be a merry one . . . and may the New Year bring each and every one of you added happiness and continued prosperity!

To Meet Men's Need

IF IN THE town of Bethlehem
No Christ-child had been born,
If to the earth no Prince of Peace
Had come on Christmas morn;
If o'er the hills of Galilee
No holy feet had trod—
No Master with the words all-wise
To teach the way of God.

If no Redeemer had been sent—
No Jesus Christ divine,
To pay the price, with His own life,
Of all your sin and mine;
If there had been no Sinless One
To die on Calvary's tree,
How sad! How dark! How desolate
Each human life would be!

But our dear Father up in Heaven,
With His great heart of love,
Knew that earth's children needed Christ—
His dear Son from above;
And so He sent to Bethlehem
The Saviour to be born—
The Sinless One—the Son of God—
The Christ — on Christmas morn!

—Cora Baker Hill.

Christmas cards had small beginning

Just 115 years ago, on a cold December day in 1843, an English educator and art patron named Henry Cole sat down at the desk in his library, and with a flourish of his pen, introduced a custom that has grown to encompass every country in the world.

He addressed to his friends what were probably the first Christmas cards ever made.

The cards depicted a typically Victorian family gathered at the "festive board," and bore the now-classic greeting "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You."

Two months earlier in what was a historic move, Cole commissioned John Calcott Horsley, a Royal Academy artist, to design the card. He printed a thousand lithographed copies, whihh were then hand-tinted by a professional "colourer."

That December, early in the month, Cole posted some of the cards to his friends and offered the remainder for sale in a London stationers shop.

The appearance of Henry Cole's card in London in the 1840's coincided, curiously, with a period of great interest in Christmas in England.

Prince Albert, Victoria's consort, is reputed to have introduced the first decorated Christmas tree to England in this era, and Charles Dickens published his greatest Christmas story, "A Christmas Carol," in the very same year.

Christmas cards appeared on this side of the Atlantic shortly thereafter. Their early origin is uncertain but a New York dry goods merchant, R. J. Pease, designed, printed and mailed one of the first examples of American Christmas cards as an advertisement for his goods.

May only the good things be yours!
May you know only peace and happiness!

EASY SUPPERS

YOU WILL LIKELY have cold turkey on hand after Christmas. For a quick and easy supper, when friends drop in, serve cold turkey, a green or jelly salad and a quick bread to give that added touch.

Onion Bread

This is my favourite for a quick company supper. It can be prepared in a jiffy too.

1-3 cup chopped onion
1 tbsp. butter
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
1½ cups teabiscuit mix
¾ cup grating cheese
½ tbsp. poppy seed

Cook onion in fat till light brown. Combine egg and milk; add to biscuit mix and stir until just moistened. Add onion and half the cheese, grated. Spread dough in greased baking dish. Sprinkle with remaining cheese and poppy seed. Pour melted butter over top and bake in 400 degree oven 20 minutes. Serve hot.

Sugar Muffins

PROTECT BRUSHES

Unless a paint brush is specifically designed for "edgewise" use, the broad side of the brush should always be used.

Painting with the edge of a brush tends to make it "finger" or divide in clumps. If it is necessary to use a wide brush edgewise, as in a corner, the fingering should be removed at once by giving the brush several strokes broadside.

If "fingers" are left in a brush overnight, they will take a permanent set and the brush will be ruined.
