Alex. Rose Dead.

The very sudden death of Alexander Rose occurred at his residence at Mountain Station on Thursday last, Nov. 5th 1908, at the age of 59 years. The deceased had always enjoyed good health, and was not sick at the time of his sudden demise, although he had a cold which he contracted while attending the funeral of the late Isaiah Barkley of Dunbar.

On the afternoon of Thursday last he was splitting wood in the shed of his house and it was there his wife saw him fall to the ground never to regain consciousness, heart failure being the cause of death. The funeral which was very largely attended took place on Saturday to Mountain Methodist church, where services were conducted by Rev. Raney, after which the remains were interred in the Elma cemetery.

Alex Rose, as he was familiarly known lived at Dunbar the greater part of his life and is well known throughout this district Six years the coming March be purchased the farm on which he died and since that time he visited us occasionally. In politics he was a staunch Reformer.

Holiness Movement Conference.

About the 14th session of the Holiness Movement church convened in Ottawa, commencing Oct. 20th, lasting until Nov. 1st 1908. As Rev. R. C. Horner is resting Rev. A.T. Warren presided. There was about one hundred preachers and Evangelist present from Ontario, Quebec, some from Manitoba and unity and harmony prevailed. There was an increase in membership, also a number of young men and women offered themselves for the work of the ministry to go to the uttermost parts of the earth to publish Salvation from sin to a lost race.

Missionary reports were most encouraging in addition to the missionaries sent out from the home land twenty-five of the natives embraced the religion of Jeasus and are now in Christian Ministry. Between three and four hundred joined our societies. They want many more preachers from here. They have $9,126.58 worth of property in Africa. The last Sabbath day of the conference, after a powerful sermon was preached by Rev. R. C. Horner from the text: "Do the work of an evangelist," ten of our young men were ordained to perform the functions of the ministry. A number of changes in stations were made of necessity. As a number have gone in to spend a term in college during winter months their places have to be filled.

One marked feature of the conference was a returned missionary from Egypt, Miss Edith Burke

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Some medium steers sold to-day at $4.35 to $4.50 per cwt. Heavier, animals not extra well fed, brought $4 to $4.25 per cwt.

A better tone dominated trading in butchers' cattle. Dealers would be better pleased if there was a bigger proportion of first-class stock. Choice steers were sold up to $4.75 per cwt. Good butchers' cattle, straight loads, sold at $4 to $4.40 per cwt. Medium and common were brought up at $3 to $3.85 per cwt. Common cows sold at $2 to $3 per cwt. For choice cows, the range was $3 to $4 per cwt. Steers of good quality for the distilleries were sold at $3.75 to $4 per cwt. Bulls were worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt. Farmers want many light feeders, 800 to 1,000 pounds, for the country. Eastern stockers around 500 pounds, sold at $1.50 to $1.75 per cwt. for the Buffalo market. An active business was transacted in choice milch cows. Sheep are steady and lambs firmer. Select hogs are strong at $6 per cwt., fed and watered off cars, Toronto. Lights and fats are 25 to 50c less per cwt., according to quality.

NEW GRAIN ELEVATOR.

Company to Erect $500,000 Structure at Port Arthur.

A despatch from Port Arthur says: A new company, to be known as the Thunder Bay Elevator Company, has been organized at Winnipeg and has signed an agreement with Port Arthur for the erection of a new elevator with a capacity of 1,500,000 bushels, to cost $500,000. The site is already procured and work will commence almost immediately. The promoters of the company are W. McWilliams, N. Bawlf, and C. B. Piper, who are the principal stockholders in the Empire Elevator Company, which has a plant at Fort William.

FIGHT WITH ROBBERS.

Two Bank Clerks at Marieville, Que., Act Bravely.

A despatch from Montreal says: The branch of the Eastern Townships Bank at Marieville, Que., was entered by robbers on Tuesday night, but they were beaten off. The noise of their entry aroused two clerks sleeping in the rear of the building, and hastily dressing, they took up arms and entered the room where the burglars were at work. The miscreants fired at them, and an exchange of shots followed. A bullet grazed the head of one clerk, but his condition is not serious. The bandits then fled without any booty being secured. They are being pursued by Chief McCaskill of the Provincial police and his assistants.

$63,000,000 WORTH EXEMPT.

Immense Amount of Property in Montreal Pays No Taxes.

A despatch from Montreal says: From a report just completed at the City Hall it is shown that properties which are exempted from paying property taxes will this year foot up a total exemption of over $63,000,000. The exemptions have risen in less than ten years' time by fully $25,000,000. The properties exempted are churches, parsonages, properties belonging to the Government and civic properties.

WESTERN COAL SHORTAGE.

Dealers in Some Towns Have Failed to Stock Up.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Still the cry of coal shortage comes from western towns, and an appeal for cars which it is impossible to supply. Coal stocks at Fort William and Port Arthur are ample for all requirements, and if the western centres are short they alone are to blame, as they were repeatedly warned to stock up before the rush of the fall began. Now loading facilities at Fort William are entirely inadequate to meet the demands, and wholesale dealers are over four hundred cars behind in their orders as a result. It may be weeks before some of the outside dealers will be able to have their orders filled, under conditions as at present. If there is any suffering, which is improbable, the people will have only their local dealers to blame. Anthracite prices are unchanged at 10.50 per ton, the figures which has prevailed for several years past.

ONE KILLED, MANY INJURED.

Passenger Train to Montreal Collides With Freight.

A despatch from Montreal says: At 10.50 on Friday morning, No. 5 passenger train, from Island Pond, due in Montreal at 11.10 p. m., collided with a freight train at the east-end yard at Danby, Que. A combination mail car and coach on the passenger train was telescoped, and one passenger, O. Tremblay, of Wheatlands, Que., was killed. Two of the train crew and eleven passengers were slightly injured.

PEMBROKE SWEPT BY FIRE

Flames Started in Factory and Licked Up Half the Business Section.

A despatch from Pembroke says: Over half the business section of Pembroke, including the best business blocks and two banks, the largest manufacturing concerns, two mills, and two hotels and several dwellings, were wiped out by fire which started at 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The loss is estimated at 500,000, and insurance at $240,000

The fire started in the National Manufacturing Company, a three-storey brick factory situated adjacent to the C. P. R. tracks. One supposed cause of the fire is sparks from a passing engine. The top storey was first noticed to be in flames, but by the time the firemen arrived the factory was doomed. From there it spread to the Wright tannery, a frame building adjacent, then to the frame stables of the Leland Hotel, and thence to the hotel itself, and across the street to a number of frame buildings. A terrible wind was blowing, and the burning embers and sparks were carried a block to the main street of the town, the fire breaking out in two distinct places. Several business blocks were completely destroyed, and the fire passed southwards, licking up several fine dwellings. By one o'clock the fire in the business section was under control, and two hours later all danger of the fire spreading in the residential section was removed.

HOTEL AND TOWN HALL SAVED.

The Copeland House, the largest hotel in the town, is standing with burned buildings on both sides and its frame outbuildings all burned in the rear. The Town Hall and several other residences caught fire, but were saved.

Business was completely suspended all day, and all classes of citizens assisted in the work of checking the fire and saving the goods. On orders of the Mayor, all the hotel bars were closed. Despite the fact that it was at an early hour in the morning there were no lives lost, and very few narrow escapes. From one of the houses which was burned the body of a Mrs. Sullivan, who died on Tuesday night, had to be carried to the Town Hall for safety.

In the Leland Hotel an Indian had to be called half a dozen times before he got up, and before he left the building it was in a mass of flames.

COMPLETELY GONE.

PARTLY DESTROYED:

Residences: Thos. Delahaye and Harry Irwin. Market block: John P Miller, wholesale provisions; Hardwood's jewelry store, Edwards & Harrison, photography and paint shops.

The stone bridge over the Muskrat River was badly broken and burnt.

...RTY 45.

...Parties in the Next U. S. Congress.

A despatch from New York says: Election returns from Congressional districts indicate that the House of Representatives in the 61st Congress will stand:—218 Republicans to 173 Democrats, giving a Republican majority of 45. The present House stands 224 Republicans and 167 Democrats, giving a Republican majority of 57. The Republicans lost twelve seats. While there were Republican gains in some states, notably in Pennsylvania, these were offset by striking Democratic victories in Indiana and Nebraska. The latest returns appear to increase instead of diminish Mr. Taft's sweeping victory. From present indications he has carried Missouri by 8,000, thus adding eighteen more electoral votes to the Republican column. Maryland, too, has gone Taftward, although it is probable that an official count will be necessary to determine the result of the balloting for the electoral ticket. Mr. Taft's probable vote in the electoral college will be 327 against a possible 156 for Bryan, Colorado being still in doubt. Eliminating Colorado, with its five electoral votes, Bryan apparently has carried only enough States to give him 151 votes in the electoral college. Conceding Colorado to Bryan, it is likely that Mr. Taft's majority in the electoral college will be 171.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTION.

Conference Will be Held in Toronto Nov. 25th and 26th.

A despatch from Toronto says: The meeting of the Canadian Conference of Charities and Correction at Toronto, Wednesday and Thursday, November 25th and 26th, promises to be one of the most interesting gatherings ever held in Canada. The programme, which has evidently been carefully prepared, deals with all phases of charitable work and corrective methods in this country. The aim of the Executive is evidently to bring together as never before all engaged or interested in public charities and the administration of justice to offenders. One of the public addresses at the Conference will be delivered by J. A. Leonard, Superintendent of the Ohio State Reformatory, on Prison Reform. Such important questions as the care of the consumptive, houses of refuge, hospital financing, our gaol juve... inebriate, ... are to be discuss... from every county in ... been promised and everyone ... ested is invited to attend.

HOW KING SPENT BIRTHDAY.

A despatch from London says: The King spent his 67th birthday in the family circle at Sandringham where he entertained a large house party, including the Queen of Norway, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the Russian and Austrian Ambassadors. The King occupied the morning in receiving a great number of telegrams of congratulation, among which were most cordial greetings from Emperor William and President Roosevelt. He received many handsome gifts.

DEATH OF HON. J. H. AGNEW.

Provincial Treasurer in the Government of Manitoba.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Hon. J. H. Agnew, Provincial Treasurer, died on Monday morning at 4 o'clock, succumbing to the effects of an operation for appendicitis performed a week ago. His life was despaired of at the time, but later he rallied, and was thought to be on a fair way to recovery when a relapse occurred on Sunday. From that time he sank rapidly until death ensued.

Tragedy on Carey Farm ... Lake, Manitoba.

A despatch from Swan Lake, Man., says: One of the most terrible tragedies in the history of Manitoba, and one which nearly wiped out an entire family, occurred on Friday morning on the farm of Edward Carey, near here, when Mrs. Carey, her five daughters, one son, and Miss Gillespie, a teacher in the Lake View School, who boarded with the Carey family, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home, while Mr. Carey himself was so terribly injured in the awful holocaust that he cannot long survive. Very little is known of how the fire, which cost eight lives, originated, as none of those who may have seen it remain to tell.

A despatch from Guelph says: Mrs. Robert Scott and two sons, Leonard and Murray, aged 11 and 13 years, of Hullet, were instantly killed on Wednesday morning on the Guelph and Goderich Railroad, two crossings east of Auburn and eleven miles from Goderich. They were driving to school and were struck by a light engine, running up from Guelph Junction. The horse escaped, but the buggy was struck, and all three occupants killed. A heavy snowstorm contributed to the occurrence.

THE NEW QUEBEC BRIDGE

The Government Will Take Over the Undertaking at Once.

A despatch from Quebec says: The Quebec Bridge Company will cease to exist on the first of December next, when the Dominion Government will assume full charge of the construction of the bridge, as an integral part of the Transcontinental Railway. The directorate of the Quebec Bridge Company have received official notice from the Department of Railways and Canals in keeping with the foregoing, and, according to the terms of the transfer, the Government will take over the company's assets and liabilities at the same time refunding the shareholders and directors of the Quebec Bridge Company the amount of their investment, etc.

This means that the Quebec bridge will be reconstructed under the supervision of the Dominion Government, and the work of construction commenced as soon as possible after the engineers entrusted with the plans have finished their work, and the plans have been properly approved. These plans are being prepared to provide much heavier metal in the superstructure than was used in the former structure.

WAR IMPROBABLE JUST NOW

Trouble in the Balkans May be Expected in the Spring, However.

A despatch from Vienna says: The Government has received a note from Russia proposing an international conference, but indicating that the programme for this meeting will be much vaguer than that issued in London some time ago. It suggests merely a discussion of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the independence of Bulgaria, the compensation to be paid by the latter to Turkey, the claims of Montenegro and Servia, the abolition of the capitulations and foreign post-offices in Turkey. The note does not protest against the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina or make any comment thereon, and is framed in an entirely non-committal manner. The consensus of opinion is, however, that Russia is determined to oppose the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and consequently there is considerable anxiety over Austria's determination not to budge on this point. The military preparations have not been relaxed, but the Government is of the opinion that hostilities are most improbable this Winter. On the other hand, if things do not settle before Spring trouble is likely to occur then.

CONSUMPTION'S STARTING POINT

Lies in Weak, Watery Blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make the Blood Rich and Red.

Bloodlessness is the starting point of consumption. When your blood is thin and watery your whole health declines. Your face grows pale, your appetite fails and your heart jumps and flutters at the least exertion or excitement. You are always weak and wretched and lose interest in everything. This is the point from which you may easily step into that hopeless decline that leads to consumption and the grave. What is actually needed to bring back health and strength and energy is the new rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. In all the world there is no other tonic medicine like them, and all who feel weak and easily tired should take these Pills at once, and regain new health.

Miss Ada Burke, The Range, N. B., says:—"I feel that I cannot say too much in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In March, 1907, I was attacked with whooping cough which clung to me for several months, and when the cough disappeared I was left weak and run down. All summer I was ailing, but when the autumn came I seemed to be completely worn out. For a whole month I never moved outside the house, and could scarcely walk about the house I was so weak. I had no appetite, my color was a greenish yellow. I had severe headaches and would be almost breathless at the least exertion. I took several bottles of medicine, but it did not help me, and then my mother got me three boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, when I had used them I was much better and by the time I had taken another three boxes I was again enjoying the best of health, with a hearty appetite, good color and renewed energy."

If you want new health and new strength try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a fair use of this medicine will not disappoint you. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for 2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What it lacks in size it makes up in potency. The remedies which it carries are put up in these small doses, because they are so powerful that only small doses are required. The full strength of the extracts is secured in this form and do their work thoroughly.

MOURNING IN BENGAL.

Third Anniversary of Partition of the Province.

A remarkable anti-European demonstration was made throughout Bengal recently on the occasion of the third anniversary of the partition of the province.

The natives observed the anniversary as a day of mourning, discarding their clothes and footwear and abstaining from food. All shops were closed in Calcutta.

Several police proclamations were posted everywhere forbidding meetings and processions after 5 o'clock, and ordering the arrest of any native found carrying weapons.

In consequence of the alarming rumors that the Bengalis contemplated an attack on Europeans, two companies of Gordon Higlanders were turned out for patrol duty, and the remainder of the regiment was kept under arms in the fort.

Two hundred police with fixed bayonets marched to the scene of the principal assemblage in Calcutta, while five hundred other police, including plain-clothes men armed with revolvers, were posted in the native city, in order to be ready to quell any rioting.

Forty thousand Bengalis paraded the streets, the procession being a mile and a half long, and stopping all traffic. Surendranath Banerjee, the "uncrowned king" of Bengal, was escorted by a bodyguard. He walked beneath the standard of Bengal.

The police prevented any speeches being made by the agitators, and ateempts to create disturbances were promptly suppressed. A European corporation official was attacked outside the university, and his carriage was stoned. One of the footmen was severely injured, and only escaped death in consequence of the bravery of the coachman.

INSULTED.

Andrew Thomas was a great "forgetter." He forgot to pay the money he owed, and to give people back the things he borrowed. Moreover, he was "touchy" on the subject, so that few of his friends liked to hint that he had any of their property in his possession. One day one of them took his courage in his hand.

"Where's that five dollars you borrowed of me last month, Andrew?" he asked. "I don't want to seem tight, but I've just got to—"

Andrew replied with dignity, "Did you ever see anything I didn't return? No, I guess you didn't."

TO THE GRAND WORK DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE DOING.

Fishermen Regard Them as a Boon to Mankind—Mr. Frank Banfield Tells How They Cured His Backache.

Garnish, Fortune Bay, Nfld., Nov. 9. (Special).—Among the fishermen here, who through exposure to wet and cold are subject to those pains and aches which come from diseased Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills are looked upon as a positive boon to mankind. They are never tired of telling how their Backaches and their Rheumatism vanish before the great Kidney remedy.

Among many others Mr. Frank Banfield, after years of suffering, has found relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills, and here is what he is telling his friends:—

"I find Dodd's Kidney Pills the best medicine for Backache I have ever used. I only used two boxes and they cured me of Backache I had had for five years. It started through a strain. My father's back also bothered him, and he got some relief from one pill I gave him. They were too precious to give him more. All persons suffering from Backache should use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Why do Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Backache? Simply because Backache is Kidney ache, and Dodd's Kidney Pills positively cure all Kidney aches and ills. This has been proved in thousands of cases in Canada. If you haven't used them yourself ask your neighbors.

It Retains Old and Makes New Friends. — Time was when Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil had but a small field of distribution, but now its territory is widespread. Those who first recognized its curative qualities still value it as a specific, and while it retains its old friends it is ever making new. It is certain that whoever once uses it will not be without it.

ONLY MADE DUST STICKY

EXPERIMENTS WITH LIQUIDS FOR PREVENTION.

All But Tar Found to be Useless in Preventing Dust on Roads.

The thousands of experiments for the suppression of dust on macadam roads which have been made during the past five years have now developed a vast amount of data on the subject, which is summarized in Municipal Engineering, as follows:

All kinds of promising compounds which make the dust sticky or heavy have been tried. Sometimes they have been of a character that would permit of their being dissolved in water, and used from an ordinary sprinkling cart, giving to the water a soapy or sticky character to delay evaporation.

Several of these liquids have demonstrated their ability to keep the road dustless for a short period. None of them aim to, or have succeeded in preventing dust formaoil treated roads have made much complaint against the treatment.

It has been generally recognized during the last year or two that all these methods are mere palliatives, and do not strike at the source of the trouble, namely the weakness of the natural macadam binder. Under old-style traffic a macadam road wore out very slowly, but automobiles will destroy the finest surfacing in a year, stripping the top dressing down to the No. 2 stone. The water then finds ready access and does great damage.

NO TOP DRESSING.

Many countries, facing the problem of automobile wear, preferred to give up all attempt at maintaining a top dressing of fine screened stone, and have admitted traffic directly upon the coarser stone, which constitutes the second layer. It was recognized that if this mosaic of No. 2 stone could only be made waterproof it would give tremendous durability, inasmuch as the abrasion on this surface, as compared with a surface of fine screenings, was practically nil. The mosaic, in fact, on an old road is practically non-dust-producing, but is very susceptible to disturbance by water and disruption by frost.

TAR FOUND BEST.

It has been found that tar could be used to make the mosaic waterproof. A tar compound is applied to the road in a liquid condition, and hardens among the fine interstices of the roadway somewhat like cement in concrete. It is absolutely waterproof and a road so treated will shed water like the proverbial duck's back. In fact, if the road happens to be imperfectly drained so as to leave puddles after a rain, the water in the puddles will not be absorbed by the road and will only disappear by evaporation.

A single treatment will give good results for a year, and will frequently show good effect much longer. Sprinkling is unnecessary and an occasional cleaning is the only care required.

A treatment for such roads costs about $300 per mile, and calls for no apparatus except an ordinary sprinkling cart with a special adjustable nozzle.

It is pretty well established that the tarviated surface preserves the road so well as to more than save its cost in the renewel of the stone. Automobile traffic, instead of breaking it up, actually makes it smoother.

Sad Death of Former Aultsvillian.

Conductor Amos R. Wells of the Grand Trunk Railway, was run over in the yards of the company at Point St. Charles on Monday of last week and killed. The victim was walking along the track, and apparently did not hear the fast approaching St. Hyacinthe express coming behind him. Both his arms and legs were fractured, and his head was also crushed. The body was taken to the morgue, where the inquest was held on Tuesday morning. The victim resided at 116 Paris street, Montreal. He had been in the employ of the company for some years and was always considered a careful man. The late Mr. Wells was a son of the late John H. Wells, of Hoasic, where he was born 44 years ago. His wife and son survive him. The funeral took place by the G.T.R. to Aultsville, where the remains were interred. Rev. Mr. Cassidy of the Aultsville Methodist Church, officiated at the funeral service. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved relatives.

The Late Mrs. J. J. MacLaughlin.

In the death of Mrs. J. J. MacLaughlin, in her 90th year, which occurred on Wednesday, Oct. 28th, the County of Dundas loses one of its oldest and most respected residents. Deceased was Bridget Gormley, the widow of the late John James MacLaughlin, for many years superintendent of schools for the county. Shortly after their marriage in Glengarry, Mr. and Mrs. MacLaughlin moved to this county settling in Hoasic, where they resided for forty-five years, and brought up a large family. Upon the death of her husband, a few years ago, Mrs. MacLaughlin came to Morrisburg and remained here up to the time of her death. She is mother of twelve children, all but two of whom survive her. Of all these only two live in Canada; Angus who has resided with his father here and Thos. J., Public Works Dept., Ottawa; the other survivors reside in the United States.

The testimony of those who knew this estimable lady best affords ample proof of the most unostentatious, untiring and saintly devotion to the cause of religion, charity and humanity. Considering the circumstances and environments of her life the deeds performed are little short of Christian heroism, and stamp her as one of the most unique and beautiful characters of her time.

The funeral service was conducted very impressively by Rev. Dr. Salmon, at St. Mary's church on Saturday morning and the remains were interred in the R. C. cemetery.—Morrisburg Leader.

MAKE IT YOURSELF.

There is so much rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready reljef in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

DEANERY OF STORMONT.

Important Conference Meeting at Trinity Church.

In Trinity Church on Wednesday evening His Lordship the Bishop of Ottawa administered the apostolic rite of confirmation to some 50 candidatss, who were presented by the rector, Rev. T. J. Stiles. His Lordship addressed the candidates upon the importance of the rite and the effect it should have on their lives in the future. The lesson was read by Rev. G. Gower Poole, of Crysler. There were also present Rev. R H. Archer, ot Winchester; Rev. A. D. Floyd of Mountain, and Rev. J. L. Homer, of Aultsville. A large congregation attended the impressive service.

The Deanery Conference opened on Thursday morning with a celebration of the Holy Communion in Trinity Church. There was a very large attendance, including those who were confirmed the evening previous. Rev. T. J. Stiles acted as server; Rev. R. H. Archer read the gospel; Rev. A. D. Floyd, the epistle, and Rev. J. L. Homer, staff bearer.

Matins were said in the church at 10 a.m., and after a conference of the clergy with the Bishop in the Rectory, they adjourned to Trinity Hall, where a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was in progress.

The following were in attendance at the conference from points outside of Cornwall:—

Ottawa—His Lordship the Bishop of the Diocese, Rev. E. A. Anderson, Miss F. Green, Grganizing Secretary of the Women's Auxiliary.

Moulinette—Mrs. Raymond, Mrs. Carl Robertson.

Wales—Rev. C, O. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Ransom.

Aultsville—Rev. Mr. Homer, Mrs. Homer, Mrs. Silmser.

Iroquois—Mrs. Strader, Deanery Secretary.

Morrisburg—Rural Dean Anderson, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Hepburn, Mrs. Olds.

Eamer's Corners—Mrs. James Speer, Mrs. George Speer.

Newington—Mrs, A. B. McAuley, Mrs. A. McMillan, Mrs. J. Bancroft, Mrs. Austin Snetsinger.

Avonmore—Miss Wiggins.

Crysler—Rev. M. G. Poole.

South Mountain—Rev. Mr Floyd.

Winchester—Rev. Mr. Archer.

Lancaster—Rev. Mr. Bailey, W. H. Carr.

There was also a large representation from the parishes of Trinity and Good Shepherd.

The clergy and visiting delegates were entertained by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary at lunch and tea in Trinity Hall.

After the reports of the different branches of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Girl's and Children's Auxiliaries and the Babies' Branches had been read, Mrs. Stiles gave a most interesting account of the triennial meetings of the W.A at Ottawa in September.

Miss Florence Green, Diocesan Organizing Secretary, gave a very graphic sketch of the Pan Anglican congress, which she attended.

Resolutions of sympathy were carried to the widow and family of R. N. Jones, of Aultsville, and the children of the late Mrs. Houston, of Ottawa.

Mrs. Strader was unanimously elected Deanery Secretary for the coming year.

After complimentary remarks by His Lordship the Bishop of Ottawa, the meeting closed with the benediction.

Three papers were read during the afternoon—the first on "Systematic and Proportionate Giving," by Rev. T. Bailey of Lancaster; the second by Rev. A. D. Floyd, on "Christian Unity," and the third on "The Responsibilities of Laymen," by Mr. George A. Stiles. There was a free discussion of all the papers by clergy and laymen.

The Rural Dean, Rev. G. S. Anderson, of Morrisburg, was unavoidably detained, but came in during the afternoon session.

Evensong was said at 7 30 by Rev. J. L. Homer; the lesson read by Rev. A. D. Floyd, and an excellent address given by Rev. E. A. Anderson, of Ottawa, on the Pan-Anglican Congress.

The benediction was pronounced by the Bishop, which brought a most successful and interesting gathering to a close.

W. A. FRASER

Canada's Author, Artist and Engineer.

Knowing the life of William A. Fraser, the books he has written seem inevitable. Each is the harvesting of certain distinct years of his living; renewed, revivified and transformed by his individuality. The nervous intensity of the writing, the incisive, forceful phrases, the keen observation, the humor, the originality, the sympathy with nature in all its phases, the artistic genius in catching instantly the essentials of a scene or an episode are characteristic of Fraser the man, as well as of Fraser the author. His books are himself; he writes because he loves to write, because he cannot help writing.

Born in Nova Scotia in 1859 of Scotch parentage, his early school days were spent in Boston and later in New York. His unusual artistic ability early became manifest, and it seemed that he was destined for a sculptor's life, but the death of his father changed his plans. He now paints scenes in his novels in vocabularic colors instead of with a brush. It was with regret that he temporarily gave up the oils of art for the oil of commerce and made a specialty of petroleum; but he was thorough and a second time mastered oil.

In 1881 he went to India as an expert for some English capitalists, and later the British government employed him on some mission in Beluchistan. Nine years he spent in India, Burma and the neighboring countries, not studying the country idly from an armchair, but in nine years of constant travel, where he saw everything and forgot nothing, and it is the splendid fruitage of these years that is garnered in his stories of India.

In 1889 he returned to Boston and married Miss Barber of Toronto, and the year following, went back with his wife for an eight months' stay in the Orient. On returning to Canada he settled in Toronto and for six years went each summer, surveying and doing other engineering work in the North-West. It was far away from the whirr of humanity; lonely, often having no roof but the starry sky, no bed but his blanket, no restaurant but his pouch. He met trappers and guides sometimes, grew to know and love the animals better, and his splendid stories of Canadian life and charmingly sympathetic animal stories would never have been written but for the payment of price in months of isolation. His first story was published in the "Detroit Free Press," and a few others soon afterward gave him that first rich taste of literary creation. He went each year to the North-West with greater reluctance as it cut out his time for writing, until finally reluctance led to rebellion and then to revolt, and he turned his back on it all forever and consecrated his life to literature and art. Mr. Fraser has had the honor of having his paintings hung on the line with the work of professional artists.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture

THIN BLOOD MADE STRONG

Tiredness and Weakness Overcome—A Joyous Letter.

"I admit because I neglected early treatment I am entirely to blame for the condition of weakness that for nearly two years made my life a real misery," writes Mrs. Hazen of Beauport. "At first I felt sort of flat in the morning and could do no more than pick at my breakfast. Later I remember my sleep was disturbed that dreamy, restless sleep, from which you finally awaken, feeling as if you could never get up. Then I became thin lost my color, got ntrvous and fearful about nothing, and kept thinking about myself all the time, and was irritable, cross and easily made cry. What would have become of me if had not taken Ferrozone I can't imagine. Ferrozone put new life into me from the start. It strengthened me from the start. It strengthened my nerves and brought back my color, and no healthier and brighter woman could be found anywhere I highly praise Ferrozone and advise sick people to take advatage of its health-conferring properties."

Ferrozone quickens the powers of both body and mind, simply because it forms lots of blood that's full of life and vitality. Ferrozone creates appetite, gives strength, vim and endurance, it's good for old people, good for everybody that needs better health. Thousands of men women and children use Ferrozone every day and all says it's the best nourishing, strengthening tonic made; try Ferrozone yourself, 50c. per box, six boxes for $2 50. A highly esteemed citizen of Crysler passed away suddenly last Friday, Oct. 31, in the person of John McMahon. Moran and Mrs. William Cashion, all of Crysler; also two brothers, Denis McMahon of Crysler, and Thos. McMahon of Chesterville. The funeral took place on Sunday, Nov. 1, from his residence to St. Mary's Church, Crysler, and thence to St. Mary's cemetery. The pall-bearers were J. Allen, M. E. Curran, E. Curran, D. McMahon, D. How To Improve Health.

No better way than to improve the blood—cleanse and enrich it,—give it nourishment and strength. This can be quickly done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills which have a vitalizing, purifying effect that is unequalled in any other medicine. With lots of pure rich blood circulating to all parts of the body, with snap and vim ning through every vein and arte health is inevitable. No ng tonic is as good as Dr lls. Sold by

Don't Cross Your Legs.

A most injurious habit, common alike to men and women, is that of sitting with one leg swung over the knee of the other. Headaches, cold feet, varcose veins, ulcers and many other discomforts attendant on imperfect circulation of the blood are directly traceable to this habit.

When the right leg is swung over the left knee the whole weight is sustained by this knee, placing all the pressure against the under part of the right leg between the calf and the knee cap. At this very place are a great number of large veins, arteries and nerves; the pressure on them crowds alt the tissues together and materially interferes with the circulation of the blood, and the disturbance of nature's process manifests it self in many bodily evils and inconveniences. Many who would not be guilty of crossing the legs in public often surrender to the temporary comfort of the position in the seclusion of their own rooms, It is wrong and injurious, because it defies nature, whose laws are more imperative than those of society.

HAWKING MACHINES.

Catarrh Sufferers Are Nothing But Hawking, Spitting and Blowing Machines, Says an Authority.

Is it possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform is being preached in the churches, schools and at public gatherings, that thousands of people will continue to suffer from catarrh when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a pleasant, medicated and antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure catarrh. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes, and crusts in the nose in a few days.

Mrs. H. W. Wilson, of Johnston St. Wallaceburg, Ont., says: "Yes we are great friends to Hyomei for the reason that Mr. Wilson has had catarrh for several years and tried several remedies and doctors, but nothing has relieved the trouble like Hyomei His trouble is from pains across the eyes and a burning or huskiness in his throat. Sometmes much difficulty in breathing, the glands in his eyes and nose swollen, and the disease made him literally sick all over. He cannot say enough in praise of Hyomei, and there is nothing that can give better relief to catarrh than this remedy, which we heartily recommend."

A complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1.00, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost only 50 cents ea W. G. Bolster sells it and guara it to exactly as advertised

WINCHESTER. SPRINGS.

Born at Winchester Springs on Saturday Oct. 31st, to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Barkley a daughter.

Mr. and Mr. Mason Casselman were called on to mourn the death of their little boy, Johnny, last week. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Seller on Thursday afternoon. The remains were placed in the cemetery at the Ridge.

Winchester Springs lost one of its oldest and most respected citizens last Wednesday in the person of Mrs. Ira McIntosh. Mrs. McIntosh had long been confined to her home. For several years she has never been outside the village and at times was confined to her bed. During all her trying circumstances she was satisfied that the hand and love of God was behind it all and would often say "I cannot understand why I am sick yet. Father knows best." It was an inspiration even in her severest to visit her, as she always looked on the bright side of everything, saw the good qualities of everybody, and was ever ready with a word of kindness and encouragement, and one could not visit her without coming away in better spirits, more cheerful, and feeling "it was good for me to be there." The service was conducted on Friday by the Rev. Seller, assisted by the Rev's. Thos. McAmmond, of Morrisburg; Shea and Pitt, of Winchester.

Resolution of Condolence.

At a regular meeting of Chesterville Lodge No. 333, A. O. U. W., held in Kearn's hall on Friday evening, Oct. 30th, 1908, it was moved by Bro. F. W. Merkley, and seconded by Bro. J. C. Wray, that

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to call to himself Sarah A. Stallmeyer, the wife of our worthy and respected brother, Francis Shirkey, esq., receiver of this lodge,

Resolved that we, the members of Chesterville Lodge A. O. U. W., desire to extend to the bereaved brother and his family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement,

Further resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Bro. Francis Shirkey, the Canadian Workman and the Chesterville RECORD.

Fined for Permitting a Raffle.

A short time ago Asa Hutt of Chesterville permitted a raffle to be held in his hall, which is an indictable offence under the criminal code. A charge was laid against him before Justice Bow and the case tried at Winchester. Judgement was deferred until Monday of last week, when Mr. Hutt was fined $30 and costs. He has given notice of appeal.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Love Kept Its Faith;

Or, The Girl With the Nut Brown Hair and Dreamy Eyes.

CHAPTER III.—(Cont'd).

Through all the years of his manhood, Jacob Graham had stood in the sight of his fellows for all that was straight, a man without a single element of meanness in his character. Long before Jacob opened his eyes on the world a certain sea-going member of the family, dipping his hand into a stocking discovered a variety of coins representing the value of a fiftieth part share in the brig Sarah, of which he held command, and forthwith coins and share changed ownership. Twelve months later the fiftieth part had multiplied into the complete share, and in the course of time this grew into the ship itself. With the passing of the years ship was added to ship, and the Grahams, retiring from the ranks of mariner owners, surrendered the tiller for the desk, the log-book for the ledger, and when Jacob slipped into his father's shoes, the family fortune was represented by a fleet of two brigs, two brigantines, and three schooners. To these four others had been added, and this was the patrimony which Jacob was now to hand down to young David.

To be sure, had Jacob been so minded the fleet might have been worked up into much more ambitious proportions, but quantity never made any appeal to the man. Quality was the only factor that counted. His wealth he reckoned by condition rather than extent, and his demands were represented by his declaration that he would rather own one ship that was sound than half a dozen with seams that were not above suspicion.

For such a man, I repeat, Death has few terrors, and yet with such as he there are moments when Faith is not so strong as Love. For Love remembers its own temptations, its own blunders, its own falls, its own follies, and peering with telescopic vision along the highways and by-paths of the years, agonizes over the things that may be. If only it might remain a little longer to keep watch and ward. Thus it was with Jacob Graham. As day followed day, and his vitality slowly ebbed out, his whole bearing was one of joyous confidence, perfect repose so far as himself was concerned, but whenever David was present his eyes filled with a passionate yearning, became steadfastly fixed upon the boy, and the nervous beat of the wasted fingers upon the counterpane revealed something of the intensity of the struggle.

In their wisdom, Dan and Bella refrained from speech, believing that words were incapable of comfort, but at last, with the end looming very near, the Captain felt that silence was no longer possible, and, sending David from the room, he asked—

"What is it, Jacob; is it about the laddie?"

Jacob looked his friend in the face and nodded.

"Well, you mustn't worry like this. I'm going to look after him, arn't I?"

"Yes—I know—I've made you my executor."

"Executor be blistered," Dan retorted. "I'm not going to look after his money only, I'm going to tak' the lad in tow as well, an' be his father-in-law, or whatever you like to co' it."

"God bless you for that, Dan—it's what—I've wanted to ask—and I haven't dared—but now—"

"Eh, Jacob, Jacob, is this what I've deserved after all these years?"

"No, Dan, no—but you understand. Now I'm better content, another wish gratified—It's been blessing on blessing—all through—this is one more to say thank you for—when I get over the bar."

"It's nothing o't sort," Dan broke in, "nothing o't sort; if it was something I didn't like doing, you might mak' a song about it, but this 'll be famous. David an' me 'll be as happy as if you were here yersel'.

"Now just lie back an' keep quiet an' I'll tell you what I've planned. At first I thought you'd like it if I came and lived here, but I hardly think that would do. You see, Bella's got a rasping tongue" — Jacob nodded—"and I'm a reglar divil myself when I'm roused" — Jacob smiled, for Dan was meek as a mouse—"and David might be a bit uncomfortable if Bella and me got cross and I took to keel-hauling her"—Jacob's form actually shook with silent mirth—"so David 'll bide here with Bella an' I'll slip over first thing after breakfast to see as he goes to school, an' last thing after tea I'll come again an' bide with him so as he'll nut be lonely an'—an'—an'—miss ye owe much——

"An' I'se see he gets a proper schooling, an' I'se teach him all he should know about ships, an' I'se knead all your wishes and ways into him, an' mak' a man of him as good as his father; an' then when he wants a wife, I'se pick one for him, a real good 'un, an' when he's wedded I'se give him away, an'—why, whativvers the matter?"

Jacob's thin fingers were lying over his tired eyes and down the rugged cheeks the tears were slowly chasing each other. A few seconds he remained thus, and then in a weak, hesitating voice he faltered—

"It's no use trying to thank you, Dan, but you know how I feel — I'm happy again. Now just let me talk a bit. I'm very tired — tired with travelling—but I must say what I've got to say—it may be my last chance.

"I can't be bothered telling you what I'm leaving my lad, you'll find all that in the books. What I'm anxious about is how he deals with it. And, first of all, don't let him be in a hurry over making money. You know I've seen lots of folks miserable for the want of it, but a heap more degradedby the possession of it. I could have left him as much again as I am doing, but it wouldn't have been worth having. There'd have been tear-stains on every golden sovereign, an' their clinkin' would have sounded like the sobbin' of hungry bairns an' the curses of widowed wives.

"You know what our ships have always been—clean, well-manned, and well fed—an', Dan, I want you to teach my lad to keep them like that.

"He mustn't try to save money on repairs, it's bad policy, an' it's wicked—sometimes murder. Then you'll see that he keeps a full crew on every ship—he'll find that the money spent on what some shippers 'd call extra wages will be more than repaid in a clear conscience. And don't let him have too much to do with them underwriter chaps—let him just cover his risk an' be content."

To these counsels some others were added, commands about the care of the widows, suggestions about pensions for the men, until at last his feeble body refused the bidding of his eager spirit, and he sank back exhausted.

On the following day he insisted that David should be told of the blow that was about to descend upon his young life, and then, whilst the boy sobbed his grief by the bedside, the old man delivered to him the spirit of the charge that he had laid upon Dan.

Only once thereafter did he revert to the subject. This was at the close of his last day on earth. All its hours he had passed peacefully, smilingly waiting for the rising of the tide, and just as the crimson radiance of the departing sun flooded the room with a glory that seemed prophetic, he beckoned his boy to his side, and, covering the little hand with his own, so bleached and worn, he brokenly exclaimed—

"You'll remember, David, won't you, lad? Clean hands, a clean name. The ships under a white ensign always. Promise me, lad, promise me."

Yearningly, searchingly, the wearied eyes peered into those of the boy. There was a moment's silence and then in a husky, half-choked voice David replied—

"Yes, dad, I promise. Your ships shall always be what they are."

Thus do we trifle, thus play with life and love, the twin forces over which we claim sovereign sway. With the darkening eyes of the father bent upon him, the boy pledged the days that were not yet in his keeping, placed a lien upon the things that on the morrow he would call his own; but not yet had life widened to his vision, not yet had the witchery of those other eyes cast their spell upon him, not yet had Ambition chanted the luring notes of its syren song in his ears, not yet had the Tempter made offer of the kingdom with its tinsel turrets and gardens of Dead Sea fruit—not yet, not yet.

Time enough for that; this the hour of consoling promise, the hour of agonizing betrayal is yet in Eternity's abyss. This at least may be said for David, that his vow was that of a stripling, and again that the heart of a dying man was lightened because of it.

"Bless you for that, my lad," old Jacob gasped. "I'll tell your mother when I get Home—tell her you've promised. She's been waiting a long time, but—I'll tell her you've promised, and—she'll be glad."

Over the year-wearied eyes the lids drooped in restful benediction, the shadows lengthened on the wall, the ruby changed to purple, and the purple melted into gray, and softly as an infant upon its mother's breast Jacob Graham fell asleep.

CHAPTER IV.

The bell had a box dedicated to its exclusive use, and to the man both bell and box were sacred. No one ever dreamed of Jimmy Rule as a sentimentalist; had anyone suggested the possession of a sentimental spirit to him, Jimmy without doubt would have failed in his effort to prove the meaning of the term, and would probably have ended in regarding it as one of reproach and its application as a flagrant attempt at insult. And yet where his bell was concerned sentiment bubbled out by his pores. From the day whereon it passed as an heirloom into his keeping no other hand had been known to touch it—indeed, on that occasion even so jealous had he been of his office and its insignia, that he smothered his grief, and bell in hand went the round of the town calling his own father's burying. And so through all the succeeding years. It was Jimmy who took the bell from its oaken ark, Jimmy who restored it, Jimmy who with religious care cleaned and polished it till it shone like purnished gold, Jimmy who talked to it. Listen:

"Weel, oald bell," tenderly lifting it by its ebony handle, and dusting an imaginary speck from its glistening surface, "thoo's gitten a wark of honor to-neet, an' thoo mun dui it weel. It's an honest man thoo's, to ring for, dusta hear?—an honest man—none o' your whitewashed sepulchres, but a downright good man, an's Jacob Graham mun hev' a grand buryin', seah thoo mun ring thy sweetest and loudest—sweet for him an' loud for them as listens; thoo mun send thy notes until every hoose, wakken t' sleepers, if there be any; an', remember, at ivvery stroke that it's Jacob Graham thoo's ringin' for."

Then Jimmy tucked his bell away under his cape, and turning down the lamp, went out into the night.

At the end of the street he halted, and with well-balanced movement of his wrist, wrung from the brazen throat three deeply melodious notes. As the first stroke broke quiveringly, figures sihouetted on the blinds told of responsive movement within the houses, ere the second died away, a dozen doors were thrown open, and whilst the tones of the third throbbed along the courts and rippled away into silence overhead, a dozen children gathered in a ring about the man, and in the doors, framed in the light from within, men and women took their stand. Then, in a voice ringing, penetrating, musical, even as that of the bell, Jimmy Rule made delivery of his message.

"All friends and neighbors—are requested to attend the funeral—of Jacob Graham—at the oald church—to-morrow afternoon—at three o'clock."

Bell in hand, for a moment the old man waited, and then, as the childish feet pattered again upon the pavement, and the listening groups vanished through the gaping doorways, he thrust his treasure underneath his cape, and moved away to the next corner appointed by custom's iron law for a repetition of his message.

Now, how it happened, Jimmy could never explain, but that night, for the first time during his official association with the "Death Bell," the bell-man ventured upon a variation of his firmly established formula. For twenty years he had "cried" every death in Allerdale, and to the burying of each, babe and veteran, penniless and purse-proud, he invited "all friends and neighbors" with the same trinity of strokes, the same string of phrase, the same musical modulations. But on this night an uncontrollable impulse fell upon him as he stood within sight and sound of the house wherein Michael Strang dwelt, and hissing hot the words sprang from his lips—words that, had he ever reached the point of analysis, Jimmy would have seen, were not so much an eulogy of Jacob Graham as a blast of reproach hurled at the man who stood in Allerdale life as Jacob Graham's antithesis.

"All friends and neighbors—are requested to attend the funeral—of Jacob Graham—at the oald church—to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock" — and then the searching addendum—"an', mind ye o' come, for Jacob Graham was a honest man."

THE "OLD SOMERSET" DEAL

"Aw—I'm with you there," replied Mr. Craven. "I have not lunched yet."

The upshot of it was that the two men adjourned to an hotel near by, where Mr. Wenter engaged a private room. After the meal he plied his guest assiduously with wine, though he himself drank but sparingly. The result was that he obtained in writing a promise from Mr. Craven to buy the Old Somerset Mine for £26.000.

"Of course, Mr. Craven, business is business," said Mr. Wenter. "I ought to have some guarantee for this."

"I am not accustomed to have my word doubted," began Mr. Craven, with a drunken attempt at dignity.

Wenter instantly began to pacify the injured aristocrat, and eventually learned that £30,000 was lodged at the International Bank in the name of Vernon St. John Craven—a fact that he verified during the afternoon.

"Very well, Mr. Craven," Wenter said. "I will call at your hotel with the necessary documents as soon as I can get them in order."

Mr. Wenter's first duty on reaching his office was to turn up an English Peerage, by which he found that Vernon St. John Craven was the third son of a duke. He also saw Mr. Craven's name in the list of saloon passengers on the R. M. S. Denbigh Castle.

"That means eleven thousand for me," he muttered, rapturously. "Another deal like this and I can retire."

He called on Mr. Gregory that afternoon and told him that he could not find a purchaser for the Old Somerset Mine, but that he was willing to buy it himself.

"I cannot give more than fifteen thousand," he said.

"Then you can reckon the deal is off," remarked Mr. Gregory, calmly.

Then followed a period of haggling. Slowly Mr. Gregory's limit was lowered and Mr. Wenter's price was raised, until they cried quits at £18,000. An appointment was fixed for the following afternoon for the title-deeds to be transferred to Mr. Wenter's name, and then the wily scamp withdrew.

"Hang him," he muttered, vindictively. "That only means eight thousand now. Well, I'll make Craven weigh out for expenses, anyway."

On the following afternoon Mr. Wenter entered the office of Mr. John Rankin, a solicitor, and found Mr. Gregory waiting. With him was a gentleman whom he recognized as Judge Witmore, a magistrate, who lived some miles out of Sydney and who was much respected.

The transfer was made and the title-deeds handed over, Judge Witmore signing as witness. Then, as though he was tearing out his heart-strings, Mr. Wenter produced notes for £18,000 and handed them over to Mr. Gregory.

Following this transaction Mr. Wenter sought Mr. Craven, but was informed that the latter had gone away for the week-end and would not be back until Monday afternoon. So Mr. Wenter was forced to wait, but he wrote a note to his client stating that he had secured the mine for him, and that he would call and see him on the following Monday. He carried out this promise, but on arriving at the hotel was presented with a letter from Mr Craven, in which the latter said he had forgotten Mr. Wenter's address, but would Mr. Wenter go on to Limbula, as he (Mr. Craven) had gone to see the mine.

Mentally confounding the energy of his client, Mr. Wenter set out for Limbula and arrived at the mine at about seven o'clock. Work had ceased for the day, but there were several miners standing around the Old Somerset shaft.

"Is there a Mr. Craven anywhere about, do you know?" he asked.

"Best ask Jack Gregory," said the man. He knows most everybody about."

"What can he be doing here?" Wenter thought as he hurried along he had no right still to be taking out gold. He rapped at the door and a voice bade him enter. A brawny man sat before a table piled up with nuggets.

"I'm looking for Mr. Jack Gregory," said Wenter.

"Then you needn't look no further, for you're looking at him."

"Eh?" gasped Wenter. "You are joking, I suppose. I want the Mr. Gregory who owned the Old Somerset Mine."

"Well, I'm Jack Gregory who owns the Old Somerset."

"You own it?" cried Wenter. "Why, it belongs to me!"

The man gazed at him. "You look as though he said, "but you're [illegible]

"Forgeries," he remarked, calmly. "That's what they are. They're darned good ones, though. Here"—he went on unlocking a small safe—"here are the real title-deeds. No, you don't"—this, as Mr. Wenter made an excited grab at them.

Then Mr. Wenter began to alternately rave, implore, and threaten. In trembling tones he told the story of the purchase of the mine.

"Was it last Monday week you saw this chap?" Jack Gregory asked.

"Yes," cried Wenter.

Then Gregory gave an apt description of the "Mr. Gregory" who had called on Mr. Wenter. "Is that him?" he asked.

"Yes, to the life."

"Lor' bless you, that's my mine manager; at least, he was. Now I remember you. He brought you down one day last week; told me he wanted to show a friend over the mine. And you sold my mine to this Mr. Craven. Snakes! but it's the funniest thing I've ever struck. Say, was this Craven a tall chap with an aristocratic dial?"

"Yes, yes!"

"That's my manager's old chum. My word! they've done you proper. You paid up; has Craven paid?"

"Not a cent!" Mr. Wenter screamed.

Jack Gregory went into a paroxysm of laughter, which so maddened Mr. Wenter that he made a furious spring at the mine-owner, and was knocked down for his pains.

"None of your monkey tricks now," Gregory said.

"I'll have the law on you," yelled Wenter. "Where's your manager? What's his name?"

"He's left, and you can find out his name somewhere else. We called him Smith, but that's not his proper name," said Gregory. "Now hook it, while you're safe."

Mr. Wenter, tears of rage and fear pouring down his face, gathered up his useless papers and ran. He reached Limbula to find the train gone. He raved like a madman, and was within an ace of spending the night in jail. But at length he spent a sleepless night in the only hotel at Limbula, and travelled to Sydney by the first up train in the morning. On the way he got out at the station nearest Judge Witmore's house, and called on that gentleman. To his horror the judge disclaimed all knowledge of the transaction, and speedily proved to Mr. Wenter that he was not in Sydney on that particular day.

Off bolted Mr. Wenter into Sydney. The solicitor's office was not yet open, so he went on to the shipping company's office, where he inquired after Mr. Craven. Here he met with another rebuff, for he received a totally fresh address. He found a new Mr. Craven, utterly unlike his client. This gentleman admitted having made a confidant of a Mr. Brown on the way out whose description tallied with that of Mr. Wenter's client.

Off he rushed to the hotel where the fictitious Mr. Craven had put up, to find that his client had never returned, but had paid his bill from Melbourne.

Mr. Wenter was almost broken down by the time he reached the police-station. He told the whole story, and efforts were made to trace "Mr. Gregory" and "Mr. Craven" without success.

A few months later a letter reached Mr. Wenter from London. It ran as follows:—

Ten years ago two young men, whose names need not be mentioned, landed at Sydney with a considerable amount of money, almost all of which was fleeced from them by Mr. Wenter. So they resolved to get level some day. The chance came when a sudden strike of gold was made in the Old Somerset Mine.

One of these young men, who called himself Smith, was mine manager to Mr. Jack Gregory; the other, who had taken the name of Brown, had returned to England. Brown came out to Australia in order to work with Smith in getting even with Mr. Wenter. His part was to act as a green new-comer, but to learn something en route to satisfy Mr. Wenter's suspicions. Prior to his arrival, Smith went into Sydney with the Old Somerset title-deeds, which he showed Mr. Wenter. Afterwards he had them very carefully copied. Then Smith called on Mr. Wenter and agreed to buy the mine for twenty-six thousand pounds, though he hardly possessed twenty-six thousand pence. It was Smith, who is a talented amateur actor, who made up as Judge Witmore, and so gave a finishing touch to the deal.

The astute Mr. Wenter was kept waiting while Smith and Brown made tracks, but both Smith and Brown wish they had been present when the cute Mr. Wenter interviewed the real Mr. Gregory—it must have been very funny.

Cheer up, old friend; we have got more than even. We trust other poor wretches you have driven to desperation will also get even with you some day.

Yours gratefully,

SMITH AND BROWN.

ROBBED OF HIS SLEEP.

He was rather given to late hours and his wife remonstrated with him, so he promised her faithfully that he would reform. It would have been all right if his friends had not heard of it.

"So John H. has reformed, has he? Humph, we'll see." They "saw" him in procession. First he met one old chum, then another, and it never dawned upon him that it was a conspiracy.

The first night that John H. reached home after he had made that promise to his wife, it was very late, or rather it was very early. In fact, it was early morning. He took off his boots, managed to hang his hat up, and walked softly into the room where his wife slumbered. So far all was good. He divested himself of his coat, and just as he was hanging it on the gas-bracket his wife woke up.

"Why, John!" she exclaimed; "what on earth are you getting up so early for?"

This was a poser, but John was equal to the occasion.

"That's all right," he said; "you know I've reformed, Mary, an' there's lots of people I've got to see early in the mornin'."

And he deliberately put on his coat and boots, found his hat, and went out again, while Mrs. H. turned over with a fiendish chuckle and went to sleep.

A BUSY FAMILY.

"Say, Bub," said the book agent, as he drew up at the gate of a house in a country town on which was swinging a barefooted boy, "is your pa around?"

"Nope. Pa's out breakin' in a colt," was the reply.

"Could I see your ma?"

"Nope. Ma's jest took a walk to break in a new pair of shoes."

"Is your big sister at home?"

"Nope. Pete Lawson fell over town an' busted his leg, an' she's gone over to break the news to his ma."

"Maybe I could see another one of your sisters?"

"Nope. The other's gone to town to break a $10 bill."

"Well, I guess I'll have to talk to your big brother, then. Will you call him, please?"

"Can't. He's breakin' stone up at the county jail."

"Your folks seem to be pretty well occupied," smiled the book agent. "Maybe I could interest you in a big book bargain?"

"Not me, mister," replied the boy. "That feller comin' over the hill called me squint-eyed yesterday, an' I'll soon be so busy breakin' his head that I won't have no time to talk to you."

CHOLERA AND THE GANGES.

Whitewashing the Reputation of the Sacred River.

The revolting customs which prevail among pilgrims to the Ganges, including promiscuous bathing by those who are well and those who are suffering from diseases of all sorts and the drinking of water from the bathing places, make the following item from the Indian Review somewhat of a surprise.

"The reputation of the water of the Ganges among the Hindu millions of India is known to all, and most of us were content to believe that in a hot and thirsty land like northern India such a magnificent river as the Ganges had many claims to be highly thought of, but it would appear as if modern science was coming to the aid of ancient tradition in maintaining a special blessedness of the water of the Ganges. E. H. Hankin, in the preface to the fifth edition of his excellent pamphlet on 'The Cause and Prevention of Cholera,' writes as follows:

"'Since I originally wrote this pamphlet I have discovered that the water of the Ganges and the Jumna is hostile to the growth of the cholera microbe, not only owing to the absence of food materials, but also owing to the actual presence of an antiseptic that has the power of destroying this microbe. At present I can make no suggestion as to the origin of this mysterious antiseptic.'"

A Good Samaritan Dolly

AFTER many, many years the Doll Fairy decided to visit her people on earth and to endeavor to make them happy. Her people, of course, are the little girls and the very little boys. And among these Wise Folk—for the girls and boys are the very wisest among mortals—she chose to make her appearance in the form of a doll.

"Mother, I should so like to have that beautiful doll!" cried the little girl, who was going shopping with her mother. So, because the mother was rich and her daughter always had whatever she wished, the doll with the flaxen curls and the large blue eyes, which opened and shut, and the doll even more than had the rich little girl.

Soon there came walking by a lad who seemed quite poor. He was searching for nuts, but only half-heartedly, since his thoughts were with his tiny sister, who lay very ill at home. Then he saw the doll.

And the boy was filled with wonderment as he said to himself, "Surely, there never was such a beautiful doll. How pleased little sister would be with it!"

Therefore the boy gently raised the Doll Fairy in his arms, and holding it carefully, so as not to soil the pretty dress, he bore it to the little girl who was sick.

"NEVER WAS THERE SUCH A BEAUTIFUL DOLL"

movable joints, became the possession of this little girl.

At first the lass was proud of her beautiful dolly and she was as happy as could be. But she was already beginning to tire of it, as rich little girls often do, on the day Nurse took her for a stroll in the park. Dolly was carried in the arms of her mistress.

Perhaps you have guessed that the lovely doll was none other than the Doll Fairy. And as the fairy had great power, when the little girl had finished her romp among the trees and upon the gorgeously tinted leaves laid in a carpet on the ground, she was made to forget all about the doll nestling at the base of a great oak. So the doll was left behind when the rich little girl began her journey homeward.

However, the Doll Fairy did not intend to remain idle. She had made one little girl happy for a time; now she wished to bring joy to some other girl—one who would appreciate the

This little girl, whose name was Lucy, cried with joy when she beheld her brother's gift. So glad was she that quickly the sickness left her. Not long was it before she was completely recovered.

"And I am sure the dolly is the reason for it all," she said.

Again the Doll Fairy used her magic, so that a thought came into the little girl's head, and she sighed, regretfully:

"Since the dolly came to make me happy and well, I'm sure it would do the same for some other little girl, who perhaps needs Dolly more than I."

From hand to hand passed the wonderful doll, bringing cheer and gladness into the home of many a little girl. And as the sprites in Fairyland report that she has not returned, I've no doubt her noble mission is not yet ended. Perhaps some one you know may own the Doll Fairy; but rest assured that she will not possess it long, for the Fairy wishes to please thousands and thousands of the lassies she loves before she goes back to her home in Fairyland.

DEADLY DRINKING FEAT.

Sheffield Miner Drank Pint of Whiskey in Four Minutes.

An inquest was held at Sheffield, England, recently on George Redgate, aged 61, a miner, of Handsworth, near Sheffield, who drank a bottle of whiskey for a wager.

Redgate was heard to remark that he could eat as much tripe as would make him a suite of clothes and a top coat, and then he "could sup a pint of whiskey in twenty-five minutes."

The bottle of whiskey was brought, and three men offered to pay for it if Redgate could carry out his boast. He did this easily, drinking the whiskey in four minutes. He had to be helped home, where he lay for a day unconscious, and afterwards developed gastritis, which ended in death from heart-failure.

The coroner remarked that the object of such a foolish wager—now rarer than formerly—was usually to have a laugh at the victim's expense.

A woman's idea of good medicine is any kind that doesn't taste good.

Unfinished Dreams

WHEN the story you're reading is thrilling,
And your spine with excitement is chilling,
How disturbing to read in the text:
"'Tis continued—this tale—in our next."

But it isn't as bad—not at all—
As the spiteful, the clamorous call
That awakens you always, it seems,
'Fore you get to the end of your dreams.

PRESBYTERY OF GLENGARRY

Important Meeting At Maxville, Ont.

According to appointment, the Presbytery of Glengarry met on Tuesday, Nov. 3, in Maxville, The moderator, the Rev J. U. Tanner presented a call from the congregation of Alexandria to the Rev. Donald stewart, B A., of Morewood. The call was very hearty and was signed by every member and adherent in the congregation. Mr. Tanner was appointed to prosecute the call before the Presbytery of Brockville, of which Mr. Stewart is a member.

There are at present two other vacancies in the Presbytery—Vankleek Hill and Knox Church, Lancaster—but both are looking forward to carry settlement.

The Rev. Dr. Maclean, of Avonmore, being in poor health, was granted three months' leave of absence. He is now in British Columbia.

The Rev. R. McKay, of Maxville, was appointed presbytery treasurer owing to the resignation and departure of the Rev I. D. Mackenzie, late of Lancaster.

Appointments for the next General Assembly to be held in Hamilton were: The Revs. K A. Gollan, Dunvegan; J. Harkness, Cornwall; H. N. MacLean, Avonmore, and G. W. Mingie, Lunenburg. Elders will be named later.

The Rev. James Hastie, of Gravel Hill and Monkland, resigned his appointment to these sections to accept a pressing call from Sawyerville, Que. Several from his congregation expressed deep regret at the prospect of losing Mr. Hastie and his highly-esteemed co laborer, Mrs Hastie. Their work has been very prosperous for the past two years The resignation takes effect on Nov. 23.

The Rev. F. H Russell, B. A., of Central India, was present and addressed the court at some length on the question of systematic giving to missions He spoke of the Laymen's Missionary Movement and the great succes attending it The Presbyterian Church in Canada proposes to raise, or aim at raising, one million dollars a year for missions, and to multiply its working force fivefold. Glengarry Presbytery is expected to aim at $26,000 of this amount. Men in the various congregations are called upon to set themselves to this work so that clergymen will not be defaulted so frequently for speaking on money from the pulpit

The French evangelization work was briefly reported on.

The Rev. N. H. McGillivray, of Cal gave in his accounts for augmentation and Home Mission grants, which were audited and found in perfect order.

The next regular meeting will be held in St. John's Church, Cornwall, on the last Tuesday in February, 1909, one week earlier than usual, as reports on Assembly remits will then be made. The committee appointed for this purpose was Dr. Harkness, the Rev. A. Govan and the Rev. J. Matheson.

The Mighty Power of Miona.

Mi-o-na, that extraordinary and perfect stomach tonic, will relieve dyspepsia in twenty-four hours.

It will cure and is guaranteed by W. G. Bolster to the readers of the RECORD to cure the most pitiful cases of dyspepsia, if taken according to directions.

Mi-o-na tablets not only cure dyspepsia, but all stomach disturbances, such as vomitting of pregnancy, sea or ear sickness and the stomach sickness after excessive indulgence.

Mi-o-na cures by strengthening and invigorating the flabby stomach walls and after a course of Mi-o-na treatment, constipation, if there is any, will entirely disappear.

Mrs. S Keast, of Clarksburg, says: "A bad stomach trouble that had bothered me for years, baffled and puzzled skilled physicians, was nicely relieved by my using Mi-o-na. My trouble was on account of food not digesting but fermenting in my stomach, forming a gas that gave me untold suffering and pain and also made me weak, nervous, irritable and unable to rest. Since using Mi-o-na I can go to bed at night and sleep and wake up in the morning refreshed. I cannot speak too higly of Mi-on-a."

Mi-o-na is a most economical treatment, a large box of tablets only 50 cents at a W. G. Bolster's, and the dyspeptic, nervous or otherwise, who does not give them is losing an opportunity to regain health."

GUINEA NOW HISTORY

PROVERBIAL BRITISH COIN WAS LAST MINTED IN 1813.

Poets Who Bravely Talk of the Coin Never Saw One—So Called Because of the Place Whence the Gold Came Was Subject to Violent Fluctuations In Value—First Coined In 1663.

With poet's license Tennyson tells us how "the jingle of the guinea helps the hurt that honor feels." It is doubtful if the poet ever heard a guinea jingle, and certainly few of the readers of "Locksley Hall" have ever set eyes on that coin.

And yet—such is the force of habit—we talk about guineas and reckon in guineas, and read about the jingling of guineas without ever asking ourselves why a coin which is no longer a coin persists in lingual currency, not only poetic but popular.

The last guinea issued from the mint bears date 1813; groats and maundies were copied in the era of Victoria; why, then, has mankind, including the poets, forgotten all about the latter and clung to the former? There seems no obvious reason.

It may be because the guinea had so long a reign, or because the word itself is "catchy," or because sellers have found readier customers for goods at "one guinea" than for goods at "one-pound one."

It was in the reign of Charles II., to be exact, in the year 1663, that the first golden guinea was brought into the world. It was part of a new coinage made in a new way, for it was milled, a device to prevent clipping, which, indeed, had been introduced in Elizabeth's time, but soon abandoned.

There were five-guinea, two-guinea, guinea and half-guinea pieces, and they were so named because many of them were made from gold brought from Guinea by the "Company of Royal Adventurers of England Trading Into Africa." In allusion, probably, to this company's arms, the King ordered that the pieces should bear the image of "a little white elephant which Wee intend as a marke of distinction from the rest of our gold and silver monies, and an incouragement unto the said Company in the importing of gold and silver to be coined."

On some of the coins, too, there is a castle, and the reason of this may be that in 1666 Sir Robert Holmes captured in Schelling Bay 160 Dutch sail containing bullion and gold dust from Cape Coast Castle, in Guinea, and that this booty found its way into the mint. The exploit is celebrated in Dryden's "Annus Mirabilis."

It is curious, in the light of this incident, that the guineas were cut by a Dutchman named John Roettier, who competed for the work with an Englishman, Thomas Simon, and beat him; while a foreigner again, the Frenchman Blondeau, had charge of the milling apparatus. Simon was disgusted at his defeat, and to show that he was really the better man made and presented to the King what came to be known as the "Petition Crown." The King, however, ignored this appeal.

The new coinage, apparently, caused no little stir, for the two immortal diarists of that day both mention it. "Now it was," wrote Evelyn on March 9, 1664, "that the fine new milled coin, both of white money and guineas, was established"; and Pepys tells us how "There dined with us to-day (March 9, 1663) Mr. Slingsby, of the Mint, who showed us all the new pieces, both of gold and silver, that were made for the King by Blondeau's way; and compared them with those made for Oliver. The pictures of the latter made by Symons (Simon), and of the King by one Rotyr (Roettier), a German, I think, that dined with us also."

The guinea, moreover, or rather the elephant upon the reverse side to that which bore the bust of Charles II., receives notice in Marvell's prose, where he speaks of a "great little animal," which "was on a sudden turned so yellow and grown withal so unwieldy that he might have passed current for the elephant upon a guinny"; and popular combinations of the word quickly arose, such as "guinea-dropper," a cheat who practiced the trick of dropping counterfeit coins, and "guinea-hen," a courtesan.

Our forefathers had much trouble with the coinage. Sometimes they could not get metal enough to coin; sometimes the market value of the metal used for coining was such that men found it profitable to melt down their money and sell it in bulk; sometimes kings, notably Henry VIII., debased the coinage; and, until milling became the rule, clipping was of constant practice.

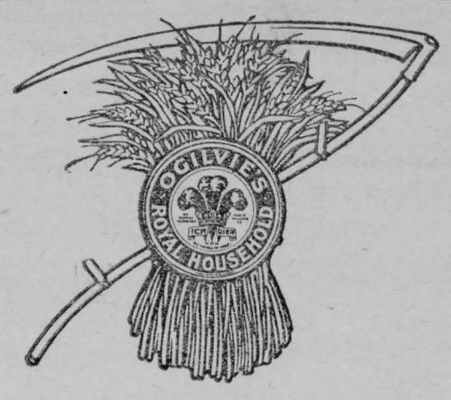

Silver was the sole standard until 1816, and consequently the golden guinea was subject to market fluctuations, according to the condition of the silver coin. It started its history at the value of 20 shillings, then rose as high as 30, and at other times was equal to 26, 22 and 20 shillings and sixpence.

Pepys, in 1666, quotes his goldsmith to the effect "that ginnys which I bought 2,000 of not long ago that cost me but 18 1-2d change will now cost me 22d; and but very few to be had at any price." Parliament finally took the matter up, and by John Locke's advice the guinea was fixed, in 1717, at 21 shillings, at which it remained until 1813, when it ceased to be issued, and yielded its place to the sovereign, which, by the way, it had originally displaced.

Willing to Oblige.

"Could I paint your old cow?" ventured the city artist.

"Sartinly, stranger," laughed the old farmer as he mopped his brow with a handkerchief. "Paint her green and she will look so much like the grass the tramps can't see her and milk her on the sly."
