CELEBRATE 50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Saddlemire, Williamsburg, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Monday, April 26th, with a reception for family and friends at their home, Williamsburg, the home they lived in since their marriage. On this occasion they were the recipients of many beautiful gifts as well as many messages of congratulations from friends and neighbors as well as members of their family.

On April 26th, 1881, Miss Minnie Casselman, daughter of the late William Casselman and his wife, the late Sarah Ann Casselman of Williamsburg, was united in marriage to Stanley Saddlemire, only son of the late Amos Saddlemire and his wife the late Lucy Deeks, the ceremony being performed at the Presbyterian Manse, Morrisburg, by Rev. Bayne. In their family are two daughters, Mrs. Frank Merkley of Williamsburg and Mrs. Gordon Render of Brockville, and two sons, Howard on the homestead and Dalton of Williamsburg, all of whom were present with their parents on this happy occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Saddlemire have 13 grand children.

A six o'clock buffet luncheon was served to the members of their family and their guests, numbering about sixty; the rooms were prettily decorated with cut flowers and potted plants and the table was adorned with pink tapers in silver holders and centered with a beautiful wedding cake which was cut by the bride of fifty years ago. Presiding over the serving was Mrs. Howard Saddlemire assisted by her daughters, the Misses Marion and Audrey Saddlemire. The evening was enjoyably open in social intercourse, recalling events of the past and progressive crokinole, interspersed with singing and musical selections on the piano. The guests included their sons and daughters and families, Rev. G. A. Adey and Miss Marion Adey, Mrs. Saddlemire's sisters and brothers and families, and Mr. Saddlemire's sisters and husbands, as well as many neighbors and friends.

Heartiest congratulations and good wishes were extended to the respected couple, accompanied by the wish that they may be spared for years yet to enjoy health and happiness.

DR. CHAS. D. EMPEY

Impressive tribute was paid to the memory of the late Dr. Charles Daniel Empey, who passed away on Friday afternoon last at Cooper Hospital, Camden, N.J., at the funeral service, which was held at the home of his brother, Mr. Clinton Empey, Centre St., Winchester, Wednesday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. W. D. Turner, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. W. S. Atchison of the United church. During the service, Mr. Fred Johnston sang: "The Lord is My Light and My Salvation," a favorite hymn of the deceased. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Clara Irving.

Following the service, interment took place at Maple Ridge cemetery.

The late Dr. Empey, who was better known to his many friends in this district as Carl, was born at Williamsburg 57 years ago, a son of the late Janasa J. Empey and his wife, Eliza A. Smyth. As a young man he was well known as a singer and was a soloist in the Winchester Methodist Church Choir, when it was under the direction of Mrs. Aaron Sweet. He received his early education in the Winchester public school and continuation schools and later attended Philadelphia Dental University. Following his graduation, he started practising as a dental surgeon at Camden, N.J., where he remained for the past twenty-five years. While a resident there, he had taken a great interest in the work of the various fraternal organizations and service clubs, and had endeared himself to a large circle of friends.

Besides his wife, who was the former Miss Lora I. O'Keefe, whom he married 24 years ago, he is survived by one sister, Miss Mary Empey of Winchester, and two brothers, Dr. Marshall Empey, of Hammond, N.Y. and John Clinton Empey of Winchester.

W. M. S. MEETING

The 11th annual meeting of the Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial, Women's Missionary Society, United Church of Canada, will be held in the United Church at South Mountain, Thursday, May 6th, 1937. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will be held. Mrs. D. R. Carson and Miss Elizabeth Read will be special speakers. Miss Read has been on the staff of Missions of the United Church for a number of years at Chisamba, West Africa.

INQUEST WILL BE HELD ON MAY 4th

According to information handed out this week by Dr. Peter McLaughlin, chief district coroner, the inquest into the death of Glenn Summers, who was killed on the highway at Winchester on April 1 when a large gasoline truck and several cars in a funeral procession were in collision, will be held in the local town hall at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, May 4.

The inquest was delayed owing to the fact that several of the witnesses to be called were not sufficiently recovered from injuries received in the accident.

Dr. McLaughlin said he was in conference with Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness of Cornwall and the date was definitely set for the inquiry as stated.

While the inquest will be into the death of Glenn Summers, who was instantly killed at the time of the accident, it will also cover the death of his father, Almon G. Summers, and A. E. Thoms, who both died of injuries the same day.

Dr. McLaughlin will conduct the inquiry, assisted by Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness. Rupert Broadfoot, K.C. of Ottawa, will be present in the interest of the Thoms estate, while the firm of McCracken, Fleming and Schroeder, also of Ottawa, will represent the Summers estate.

Jury Chosen

The jury will be composed of Walter Moffatt, Joseph S. Robinson, Ed. Shaver, Milton Fennell, Thos. Annable, A. E. Goodfellow, Wm. Leslie, Frank F. Davidson, Wm. Johnston, H. L. Hughes, J. D. Stewart and A. H. Hawkins.

Included in the list of witnesses, who will be summoned to give evidence are Joseph St. Armour, driver of the truck; Bernard Shaver, a passenger in the truck; Mrs. Almon Summers, the bereaved wife and mother who was in the Summers' car at the time of the accident; Arthur and Lyle Summers, occupants of the same car; Mr. and Mrs. Myles Harper, who were in between the Summers' car and the Thoms' car, but who escaped serious injury; Rev. D. W. Summers, who was leading the funeral procession; Mrs. Herbert Watson and Misses Hazel and Jessie Gordon, who were wheeling baby carriages and had stopped in a laneway just before the crash occurred; Sparling Dukelow an eye-witness, and Mrs. Clarke Hutt and Miss Olive Merkley, occupants of a horse-drawn vehicle, who had stopped along the highway to allow the funeral procession to pass.

Tesitmony by Chief Constable Herbert Helmer, Traffic Officer Eugene Rose and Drs. H. S. Grass and Neil Mallock will complete the lengthy list of witnesses.

TEMPERANCE MEETING

A very interesting meeting was held in the United Church, Morrisburg, on Thursday afternoon, April 22, in the interests of Temperance. The meeting was opened by the singing of a hymn followed by scripture reading 1. Cor. 8, by Mrs. Burkholder and prayer by Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Hilliard then introduced the speaker, Miss Duff of Toronto, Provincial Secretary of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

In opening her address Miss Duff said she could remember when she was attending public school that one of her teachers kept written on a black-board, several Bible verses, among which were these words: "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." These words made a lasting impression on her. As she grew to young womanhood her interest in temperance increased until she became a member of the W.C.T.U. and for a number of years has held the position she now holds.

In well-chosen words she clearly portrayed the conditions existing in our fair province—the numerous licensed hotels; liquor and beer stores even in our smallest towns and cities. For a number of years she has travelled extensively in the interests of Temperance, and it has been her privilege to visit a number of beverage rooms and can speak for what she has seen. She regretted that in many of the best homes wines, beers or liquors are often served.

Miss Duff also told of an incident she knew of quite well: "A confirmed drunkard had been cured by the gold cure. Six months later he met with an accident in which he was almost drowned. His rescuers, to revive him, thoughtlessly gave him a little brandy. When he regained consciousness the taste still remained, the appetite returned, and he became a much worse drunkard than before. But this is only one of the evil effects. She also showed by experiments the evil effects of alcohol on the human system, which physicians can confirm.

Not alone are the brewers and sellers of intoxicating liquors responsible for existing conditions, but many who call themselves Christians have gone into corn raising extensively. Some have even been known to tear out fine peach orchards to plant vineyards. For what purpose?

"What will it profit a man if he gain the whole world and loose his own soul?"

The audience appreciated Miss Duff's remarks and offered a vote of thanks.

Love Huntress

By H. GLYNN-WARD

Claudia Townsend meets Dick Whalen at a hockey game in Seattle one night. Her interest in Dick infuriates Wallace Bornell, rich young lumberman, who wants her to marry him. To get Dick out of the way, Wallace offers him a job in one of his lumber camps in British Columbia. Claudia, meanwhile, goes to Victoria with her father to see about a job for Dick. When she wires him that the job is his, Bornell manages to intercept the telegram. Dick then accepts Bornell's offer and goes north. At the lumber camp he discovers that the Bornell company is stealing timber. When he asks the boss, Braddock, for an explanation, he put him off and next day starts for Seattle. The following day Claudia stops in at Bornell's office and, by chance, overhears Bornell and Braddock plotting to do away with Dick.

CHAPTER VI

Claudia had her wits about her, sharper now than ever. She must find out more.

She heard Bornell say, "You'd better be off at once, or you'll miss the boat from Vancouver."

"No boat tonight," the man answered. "I'll have to wait till tomorrow."

They had opened the door and come out into the outer office as they spoke. They stopped short as they saw Claudia. But she was leaning back comfortably in a chair, intent on her hand-mirror, her powder-puff, and her nose.

"Why, Claudia!" Wallace exclaimed suspiciously. "What on earth are you doing here?"

She flashed a smile at him and looked back into her mirror.

"I thought I'd surprise you, Wally! I'm so cold and hungry, I just thought how nice a cup of tea would be—with you!"

There was a moment's dead silence as the two men exchanged glances. Had she heard anything? The seeming innocence of the girl, her utter nonchalance, disarmed suspicion.

"Why, I'm more than delighted—" Bornell dismissed Braddock with a nod, and the big man walked heavily out of the office. "Where shall we go? To what do I owe this most unusual invitation?"

"Well—I haven't seen you for three whole days, Wally, so I thought I'd look in on my way home to tell you that I'm going up to Banff for the winter sports in a day or so, with the Hodgsons, you know. In fact, they're there already."

She had risen and was walking casually towards the door. Bornell followed, putting an arm around her shoulders.

"Just one little kiss. . . " She pulled away from him—oh, how she hated him! But she tried to play up to him a little as they left the office.

* * *

She drove him in her car to a fashionable restaurant.

"I've a good mind to run up to Banff while you're here," he said when they had ordered tea.

"Why not? It would be fun! You must know British Columbia awfully well, Wally, you have so much property up there."

"Why no," he smiled. "Banff is in the Rockies."

"Where is it then? Anywhere where there's ice and snow and skiing?"

"Part of our holdings are in the far north."

"Couldn't we go and ski up there, a party of us? What town is nearest to your properties, Wally?"

"Oh— Fort George, and a little place called Burns Lake."

Burns Lake! That was what she had wanted to know. Now she was quite sure they had been talking about Dick Whalen.

After tea Claudia said goodbye to Bornell outside the office of a railway agency. Ostensibly she was going to find out about trains and fares to Banff, but her real reasons was to find out the whereabouts of Burns Lake.

When she returned home she found a letter waiting for her— a letter from Dick Whalen at Burns Lake!

She gasped in surprise when she saw it. But her surprise deepened as she read it. Here were explanations enough to damn Bornell forever!

* * *

It was Bornell who had offered Dick a job in his camps in the far north! Bornell had sounded none too fond of Dick when he had spoken of him to her. He must have wanted Dick out of the way! Quickly the motive for that suggested itself to Claudia—jealousy, on her account!

Dick had never received her telegram at all! But the hotel people had told her that it had been delivered. There must be some explanation. No wonder Dick had left her in silence. He thought she had let him down, failed in her promise.

A great load was lifted from her heart she could have cried aloud for joy and relief. Now she knew that Dick was all she had first thought of him. He had neither failed her nor snubbed her.

But Dick was in danger now! Bornell and that big man were going to "get rid of him" because of something he had found out! He must be warned immediately! The girl's dormant love for him had come surging up afresh. Her wits worked quickly. . . and all at once the idea came to her. She would go up there herself! It would be safer and more certain than any wire could be, or letter

She had found out that Burns Lake could be reached either by taking the boat to Prince Rupert and then going across country by train, or by going north from Vancouver by train and then westward. a long train journey. The big man, Braddock, whom Claudia had seen in Bornell's office, had said it would be just as quick to wait for tomorrow's boat.

She would go up by boat. Her family would think she was going to Banff; that would make it easy for her to take skis with her. It would not be altogether a lie, for she would turn up at Banff some time later—making a round-about journey.

* * *

Claudia knew nothing of logging-camps, except by hearsay. But the fact that she had been brought up in the lap of luxury had not deprived her of initiative, of one iota of her natural spunk. She armed herself with all the money she could lay hands on, her ski and winter outfit, and set out into the world of adventure prepared for anything.

On the boat she came face to face with Braddock, recognizing him immediately but giving no sign of it. He gave her a stare, then took the cigar out of his mouth, turned it over and over thoughtfully. Braddock was a shrewd and cunning man, by no means a fool.

Here was the girl he had seen waiting in the Bornell office, a girl who might or might not have heard him and Bornell talking. This was not the tourist season, and to find her here was a coincidence too strange to be by chance. If she were bound for the same destination as he—was it in Bornell's interest, or against it?

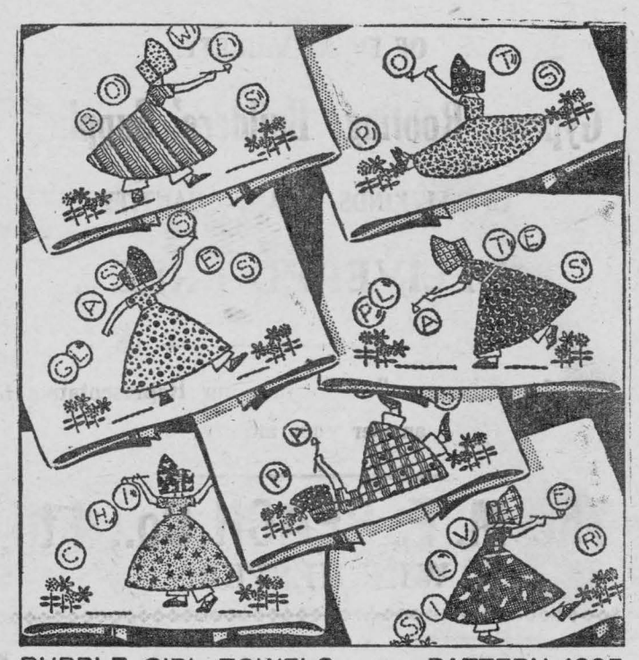

This girl might hold all their fates in the hollow of her little hands. Braddock was not the man to leave anything to chance.

He kept an eye on Claudia Townsend. When they reached Burns Lake long after dark, he saw her step out of the Pullman far ahead, and chuckled as he watched her standing there alone, looking about her obviously a bit bewildered at the immensity of the country around her, the lack of a porter of any sort, the few lights that came from the scattered dwellings of the village.

He hurried over to the inn, booked a sleigh to take him at once down to the camp, and saw to it that no other sleigh would be at Claudia's disposal until next morning.

CHOCOLATE AND ALMOND

Here is a cake that promises to be a hit this season and many other seasons too. It's a new and entirely different cake, and, of course, you want to be the first in your crowd to serve it. But it won't be your exclusive— recipe very long because everyone else will want to try it and after serving this cake once, it will become an outstanding favorite. Now, however, is your chance to make a name for yourself by being the first to serve this delicious Chocolate Almond Cake.

Because it is so good and for fear someone may not get a slice, the proportions given will make an extra large cake and you will appreciate that when the cake begins to disappear. It will prove ideal as your contribution towards a supper club, a church dinner or at your own bridge party.

It's an elegant looking cake too, and the combination of flavors — chocolate and almond and the combination of the rich brown and cream colors will please everyone.

Chocolate Almond Cake

2½ cups sifted cake flour.
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar
3 squares unsweetened chocolate melted
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup butter or other shortening
1 teaspoon soda
5 eggs, well beaten
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk

Sift flour once, measure, add the soda and salt, and sift together 3 times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream until it is light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well, then chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased loaf pan, 15 x 9 x 2 inches, in slow oven (325 Deg. F.) 50 minutes, or until done. Remove cake from pan, cut in halves crosswise and trim to straighten the edges. Put together with Toasted Almond Filling between layers and Mocha Chocolate Frosting on top and sides of cake. Decorate top with shredded toasted almonds, if desired.

Toasted Almond Filling

Cook 1 cup chopped blanched almonds slowly in 4 tablespoons butter until well toasted, stirring constantly. Recomve from fire and add a tablespoons top milk. Then add 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar gradually, beating until smooth. Stir in dash of salt and 2 tablespoons of vanilla. Cook until thick enough to spread. (For less luxurious filling use ½ or 3-4 of this recipe).

Mocha Chocolate Frosting

Cream 2 tablespoons butter; add 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar gradually, blending thoroughly. Add 1-8 teaspoon salt, and 2 squares of unsweetened chocolate, melted, and mix well. Then add 4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, alternately with ½ cup strong coffee, until of right consistency to spread. Beat after each addition until smooth.

Ten Questions

Q. How can I treat white curtains that are sunburned and yellowed from the summer's sun?

A. They can be made ecru by dipping in a coffee solution. The sunburned spots will be covered and the room will have a softer tone than when the curtains were white.

Q. How can I take proper care of the fingernails before cleaning and polishing the stove, or doing similar work?

A. Rub some soap under the fingernails and it will be impossible for them to accumulate dirt.

Q. How can I iron table linen so as to give it a satin gloss?

A. Iron on the wrong side first, then on the right side.

Q. How can I remove all small insects when preparing greens?

A. By sprinkling some baking soda on the greens before pouring water on them for the first washing.

Q. How can I clean greasy woodwork?

A. Try cleaning it with a cloth dipped in turpentine. Follow this by wiping with a cloth dipped in water, to which a little kerosene has been added.

Q. How can I remove ice cream from a can without difficulty?

A. Wrap a hot cloth around the can and the cream will slide out easily.

Q. What is a good remedy for freckles?

A. Bathe the face in fresh buttermilk, or mix two ounces of sour milk, or buttermilk, with two drams of grated horseradish, and six drams of cornmeal. Spread this mixture between thin muslin and apply to the affcted parts at night, leaving on as long as possible; but be careful not to get it in the eyes.

Q. How can I prevent leather shoes from hardening after being out in a heavy rain?

A. By washing the leather with warm water and then rubbing quite thoroughly with castor oil.

Q. How can I improve the flavors of gooseberry pie and elderberry pie?

A. Add a little salt to the gooseberry pie, and a tablespoonful of vinegar to the elderberry pie, to improve their flavors.

Q. How can I remove vegetable stains from the hands?

A. Try rubbing the juice of ripe cucumbers over them.

Says Hockey Rival Of Music In Canada

Mary Ramsay Praises Canadian Audiences After Recent Tour

NEW YORK—Mary Ramsay, Scottish pianist, and Anders Timberg, Swedish tenor, this week applauded Canadian audiences as "appreciative and responsive to music." They are returning to England after a tour of Canada.

"However, I must say we had one great rival—and that was hockey," added Miss Ramsay whimsically. "We had to postpone one concert as there was a big game the same evening."

She went on to tell of arriving in a western Canadian town for a concert and being met by the manager of the concert hall with the warning that the recital, if given, would fall upon empty seats as a hockey game was to be played that night.

"We finally went to the game ourselves and held our concert the next night," she said.

How Do They Get Them?

Revolvers are of no use against machine-guns, and so the Mounties will be equipped with rifles, to deal with gangster thugs. But how do the public rats get the machine-guns? There should be closer supervision over the sale of fire-arms on this continent. — Chatham News.

An Unusual Fatality

An imemnse crowd of people attended a funeral in London, Eng., to do honor to the memory of an Australian soldier who had been killed in a peculiar manner while in England as a member of the Australian military contingent to the coronation. He was hit by a bicyclist on Birdgate Walk, outside Wellington barracks where the Australian contingent is quartered.

The simplicity of the accident that took this man's life illustrates the anomalies that are found in the affairs of existence. Gunner Arthur Percy Sullivan, V.C., who was the victim of the mishap, won the Victoria Cross in 1919 when he rescued four comrades from a Russian swamp under heavy fire. After an experience of that kind, the normal conclusion would be that the subject would have a reasonable chance to escape the less spectacular hazards of the streets. But there is nothing certain in that connection and human beings must be prepared for the unexpected at all times — Galt Reporter.

Naming The Baby

A psychologist issues a warning to parents not to give them odd names. This also applies to what might be called the "period names" assigned to girls. It will be as easy to compute the ages of the "Marinas" of the present day as it was to compute the ages of the "Almas" and "Victorias" of the last. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

Bought Own Baskets

Giving the boys a cent for every fruit basket returned, a local grocer found himself getting on a buying campaign that rather astounded him at the unlimited supply of the basket market. Becoming suspicious of the never-failing stream of youthful basket vendors, he made bold one day to inquire into the methods of gathering the empties and one less sophisticated than the other let him into the secret that they were recruiting their supply from the stock contained in his back warehouse, or in other words he was buying the same baskets over and over again. The buying campaign stopped with the abruptness of a sit-down strike in an ammunition factory during a bombing raid. -- Walkerton Herald-Times.

Good Thing as Carriers

The Guelph Mercury points out that happiness is contagious. It is, and there are some people — bless them—who are "carriers" of it. It should not be regarded as a "disease" of childhood, or even of youth. No one is more to be pitied than the man or woman who has "developed an immunity". — Toronto Star.

An Industry Grows

The Coldwell Linen Mills, established at Iroquois, furnish an outstanding example of an industry growing and flourishing in a relatively small Ontario community. This plant, starting in a small way, has steadily expanded as its products have commanded an ever-growing share of the Canadian market, and another large addition about to be built illustrates the continued success which is attending the undertaking. —Brockville Recorder and Times.

Not in Favor

The moth is not a society favorite, even if it does frequently appear in a dress suit. — Ottawa Journal.

You Bet Your Life

If a man were to bet $17,000,000 against $1 that he could toss a booklet into the air, and catch it as it falls he certainly would be thought to be foolish. He probably would win, but the small gain would not be worth the tremendous risk. By the same token, the pedestrian who risks all the remaining minutes of his life just to save a single minute by crossing the street recklessly, is an exceedingly foolish man. In a booklet, "You Bet Your Life", that it has just issued, a prominent insurance company uses the above illustration among others, to demonstrate the folly of gambling with your life. — Kitchener Record.

Can Be Banished

In spite of marked progress during recent years as a result of immunization campaigns, we cannot say that diphtheria has been really conquered in Canada as long as the disease claims 160 lives in three months, as the latest report of the Bureau of Statistics indicates. But the means of complete conquest lies readily at hand if only individuals and communities will use it. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

Dean Inge As Prophet

Dean Inge has produced another book in which he discusses many things. One of his prophecies is that there will not be a devasting European war because of the lack of funds. He depicts Germany in such bad financial shape that he doubts whether the Hitler regime can last very much longer, and Italy, he avers, is not in much better case. The reverend gentleman has frequently proved himself a good forecaster. It is to be hoped that he is also one in this instance. —Brantford Expositor.

Floods and Droughts

The swamps, creeks and streams which are now so full to overflowing of water will be much less full a few weeks hence and mid-summer may see them almost bone-dry with the farmers dependent upon them for moisture complaining of the drought and being compelled to bring water for perhaps considerable distance to supply their stock and carry on other farm operations. This is one of the penalties that we must pay for the liberties which have been taken with the standing forests of other days and with the swamps that once stored up moisture for summer use. The provincial forester, E. J. Zavitz, said the other day that the preservation of existing swamps, together with the creation of additional ones, might become necessary if there is to be an ample supply of water. Int some parts of the United States, he pointed out, whole communities are being moved and the land upon which they stand is being turned back into marshes to protect watersheds and end floods and droughts. — Brockville Recorder.

Barrier to Happiness

One of the chief bars against happiness is the empty mind. People who have retired from business or after a lifetime of labor with no hobby or interest are bound to be thrust back in themselves, and the house of life is not intended for one solitary tenant. It should have a welcome for friends and hobbies and service for others. — Carleton Place Canadian.

THE EMPIRE

Italian Defeat

For Mussolini the worst of it is that his troops at Madrid really were defeated. The rout, for it was a rout, was on a limited scale, and no one can yet say whether it was an isolated episode or whether it was characteristic of the fighting quality of the Italians with Franco and therefore likely to recur. But within its limits it was serious; all the more serious because it is humilating and Divus Augustus is his own country, must not be humiliated. That is why the Italian people are told nothing of the defeat by their own press. That is why Signor Gayda, Mussolini's mouthpiece, is telling the public that the Italian troops at Madrid have been "rectifying their front," that old hypocrisy which became so stale a jest in the Great War.—Manchester Guardian.

Mine Host, John Bull

The way in which Britain manages the Coronation will colour, for good or bad, the opinions of scores of thousands of overseas visitors about the capability of our people. If the occasion and our pageantry are grand enough to bring the world flocking, our hospitality must guarantee everybody comfortable and fairly priced quarters. This responsibility is now being shouldered, with the approval of the Government, by an Accomodatio Committee set up by the Hotels and Restaurants Association, the Residential Hotels Association and the Travel and Industrial Development Association. Their enterprise—which deserves all praise — will secure a census of the available rooms for visitors. — London Daily Mail.

War Trophies To Be Used as Scrap King Takes Lead

LONDON—Led by the King, a movement is sweeping England to scrap the proud trophies won by the British armies on the field of battle to help finance Britain's $7,500,000,000 program for new armaments.

His Majesty started the campaign with an order to remove two German field pieces from the east terrace of Windsor Castle. It was he considered such war relics not in keeping with the beauty of the terrace and its famous sunken gardens.

Other hard won trophies will be offered for sale as so much scrap iron to help finance the rearmament program.

Lauds Small Farms

George Bouchard, M.P., Declares They Make For Contentment and Happiness

TORONTO — Canada had attempted to build a Babel tower that was "all materialism" and that embodied a "great confusion to tongues," said Georges Bouchard, M.P., from Quebec to a reporter, making a plea for the small farm and the fostering of the rustic arts.

Mr. Bouchard, who claims he is "intellectually" a tiller of the soil, and points out that his family have been part of the Quebec soil for ten generations, "since before 1680," arrived in Toronto to address the Handicraft Association of Canada, and to attend the executive meeting of the Canadian Association of Adult Education.

The member for Kamourasko is a professor in the Agricultural College at Sainte-Anne-de-la-Pocatiere, was the founder of the French-Canadian Women's Institutes and has made a hobby of handicrafts for more than twenty years.

He believes that if Canada is to enjoy stability and employment, as well as contentment and happiness, there must be a lot of small farms. The large indusrial farm has led to instability, over-production and unemployment. In his part of Quebec, where there is a shorter season, not as uniform a soil, and where the farms are not as close to the large centres as in Southern Ontario, the people are closer to a self-supporting basis.

Must Stop Motors While Filling Tank

New Regulations Cover the Handling and Storage of Gasoline

TORONTO — Regulations governing the handling and storage of gasoline have just come into effect. The act, passed at the recent session of the legislature comes under the fire marshals department.

Regulations require handlers of the gasoline to not smoke; tanks of more than 50 gallons capacity used for the transporting of gasoline must be permanently attached to the truck chassis; trucks used for the transportation of gasoline must carry fire extinguishers; special types of valves and non-leak tanks must be used.

Service stations are warned against the use of visible type of pumps where gasoline is displayed in a glass container of more than one gallon capacity. None of these shall be installed after January, 1942, and every such pump must be taken out of service by 1947. Pumps now installed on public streets, lanes or highways must be out of service also by 1947. And no pump shall henceforth be installed in such a way that a vehicle sits upon the street or highway while being served.

Owners of automobiles must turn off the engine when having the gasoline tank filled.

No petroleum product, such as the crank case oil shall be allowed to enter a sewer or subsurface drainage system. Officials of the department may limit the number of empty gasoline drums stored in any one place.

Cigarettes

Spice cans and syrup jars in the kitchen cupboard play a big part in giving certain cigarettes their distinctive flavors. Foster D. Snell, Inc., industrial chemists, report that among the flavoring agents commonly added to cigarettes are cocoa, chocolate, licorice, ginger, cinnamon, vanilla, molasses, rum, brandy, maple syrup, oils of anise, juniper, cloves, honey and sugar.

Buy Wheat in U. S.

WINNIPEG— Diminished supplies of Canadian wheat available for export at the Lakehead and in Eastern ports has resulted in Canadian and foreign exporters purchasing Canadian wheat at Duluth, Minn., grain traders said here.

Repurchase of 200,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern at Duluth by Canadian interests last week was confirmed. With only 1,899,320 bushels of Canadian wheat in store at Duluth, however, buying cannot be large.

The opening of lake navigation last week-end brought the problem of low available supplies of exportable wheat into the open. With approximately 38,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in store at Fort William and Port Arthur and Eastern Canadian and United States ports, compared with 108,000,000 last year, exporters are entering new markets seeking wheat to meet commitments abroad.

Span Canada in 21 Hours

OTTAWA—Transport Minister C. D. Howe has returned to Ottawa, after consulting President S. J. Hungerford of the Canadian National Railways on the projected trans-Canada airlines which will be controlled by the railway. The Minister said he still expected the transcontinental service would start next fall, depending on the delivery of planes and the construction of emergency landing fields, particularly in the West.

Parliament passed legislation last session to set up the $5,000,000 corporation to control the airline, 51 per cent. of the stock being retained by the C.N.R. The minority stock will be held by air companies operating the service.

Tentative plans call for an overnight jump from Montreal to Vancouver, leaving the East at 8 p.m. and arriving at the West Coast at 2 p.m. the following day. A connecting link will be flown from Montreal to Halifax, making a tran-Canada flight of twenty-one or twenty-two hours.

Plan to Protect Fisherman

WINNIPEG—Formation of a credit agency in New York for the protection of Lake Winnipeg fish producers from unscrupulous buyers was discussed at a conference between producers' and representativs and the Manitoba Department of Natural Resources. Hon. J. S. McDiarmid, Minister of Natural Resources, said the agency would keep a check on buyers with aid of the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New York.

Quints Will Wear Canadian Wool Suits

TORONTO—Next winter the five little sisters at Callander are going to wear suits made of Canadian wool, spun in Canadian homes.

That is the plan of the Canadian Wool Growers' Association revealed by Georges Bouchard, M.P. for Kamouraska, Quebec, a director of the wool growers.

Mr. Bouchard told a reporter here that the association intended to sponsor a competition for the best suits of Canadian wool, for the Dionne quintuplets. He asked the Handcrats Association of Canada for assistance in organizing the project, which would not only benefit the wool growers, but also the handcraft workers.

Saskatchewan Farmers Start Work In Earnest

REGINA—Seeding is general in most districts of Saskatchewan, according to Hon. J. G. Taggart, Minister of Agriculture. Surface moisture conditions are reported reasonably good though there is deficiency of subsoil moisture in some areas. Between thirty-five and forty men are leaving Regina daily for farm work, while thousands who were employed during the winter months under the farm bonus scheme are remaining on farms.

Eat 26 Dozen Eggs per Head at Oshawa

The City of Oshawa, Ontario, eats more eggs than any other city in the Dominion. This fact is revealed in the recent studies of the consumption of various food products in different cities and rural districts of Canada, carried out by the Economics Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the Provincial Departments.

With regard to the annual consumption of eggs, the City of Oshawa led with 26 dozens per capita. Saint John, N.B., and Quebec City scored a draw with 17 dozen per head in each city, and the inhabitants of Montreal were responsible for 16 dozens per person. The Chinese in Canada ate 12 dozens of eggs per head during the year, and the Japanese consumed 16 dozens per person.

Increase Prize List in Collingwood Fair

THORNBURY— The agricultural society of Collingwood township decided at a meeting to have a steel roof put on the horse sheds in the fair grounds. They added a separate class for Percheron horses, the prize list being increasd $30.

Arrangements were completed for field crop competitions in barley. The plot will require four acres of ground and entry fee will be $1. The provincia department will pay 50 per cent. of the costs.

Drastic Check on Cattle Disease

LONDON—So alarming has become the threat of the dreaded Bang's disease among Canadian cattle that the Western Fair, along with other leading exhibitions may adopt the precaution of compelling blood tests of animas entering the show.

Bang's disease is said to be greatly worrying agricultural authorities in the province. If unchecked, many herds may face semi-destruction, it is claimed. Added to this is the contention that Bang's disease causes undulent fever among humans.

The disease — contagious abortion among cattle — is also blamed for reducing the butter fat content of milk.

Sees Soy Bean A 'Wool' Source

Jackson, Miss.—Dr. H. E. Barnard, research director for the Farm Chemurgic Council, told the Mississippi Farm Chemurgic Conference today that soy beans, which last year attained the ranking of the American farmer's fourth largest cash crop, may become the source of an artificial wool he said, was produced from milk casien as practical operation in Italy The protein of soy beans is very similar in composition to the casien of milk, he added.

Best Musical Education World Can Offer Awaits Winnipeg Lad

WINNIPEG. — Arthur Benjamin prominent English critic, made plans last week to give Winnipeg's 12-year-old cellist, Lorne Munroe, whom Benjamin described as a genius, the "best musical education the world can provide."

"If Sir Hugh Allan of the Royal College of Music in England could hear the boy play just once, I'm almost certain a scholarship would be granted him," said the London critic, adjudicating at the Manitoba Musical Festival.

Benjamin offered to take Lorne to England with him, provide him with board and lodging in his own home and see that he is given the best musical education possible if a Winnipeg service club would undertake $1,000 annual maintenance expenses The service club is considering the offer.

Lorne has studied only in Winnipeg but he took his first cello instruction when he was three years of age and 2½ hours of daily practice in recent years have been under direction of his mother, a pianist. Mrs. Munroe, wife of Wallace R. Munroe, commercial artist, still teaches Lorne music theory.

Both mother and son were pleased with Mrs. Benjamin's offer but neither looked with particular excitement on the prospect of Lorne going to London.

"I'd like to see Lorne stay on this continent," Mr. Munroe said. "We'd like to have him go to some musical centre in the United States. I don't want to stand in his way but he's pretty young to be on the other side of the Atlantic from his family.

Neither mother nor father made any statement whether they would permit the boy to go to London should the opportunity materialize.

"It would be lonely, all right," was Lorne's only comment on the suggestion he study overseas.

Lorne does not find long hours of practice tedious. A sturdy, quiet and self-possessed boy, he likes to play his chosen instrument.

Ho Hum! Some people get all the breaks. If they're bad they turn out good, anyway that's what Hank Greenberg found out.

It appears Detroit Tigers' slugging first baseman broke a wrist at the start of last season and drew his full salary all year from the bench.

This year Hank was taken south on $1,000 contract, his wrist undergoing many tests before he was signed at his old salary.

It's a fact that in 1924 that Babe Ruth led the American League for his first and last time by batting .378, not a good average for the Babe, many times he has exceeded this mark.

This human fellow who is worshipped by every kid who owns a baseball, bat or glove, holds the lifetime home run record with 729.

Next to Ruth comes Ty Cobb, one of the greatest players that ever graced a diamond. Cobb is the holder of an all-time record of 12 batting championships.

It sure looks like the cows and chickens have been neglected out at the Feller farm. Anyway young Bob will be able to fatten them up now with a $10,000 baseball contract under his arm, thanks to his pappy's coaching.

Says Coronation Will Be 'Dreadful'

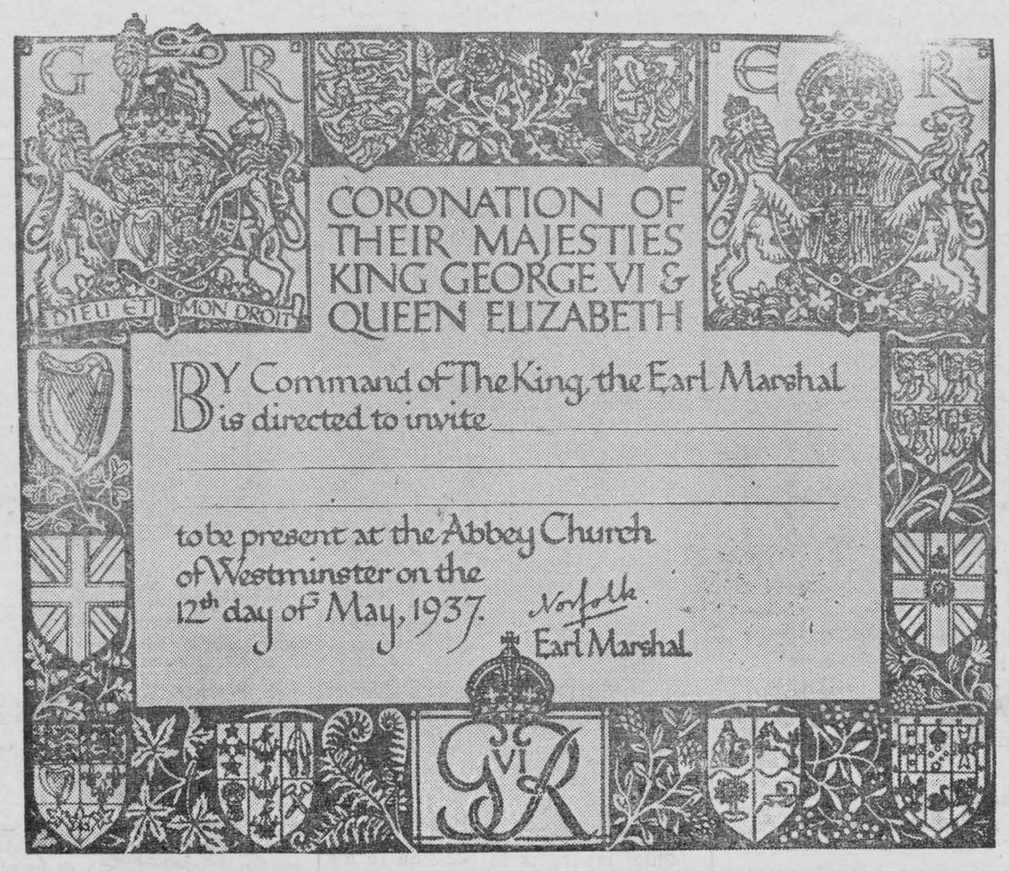

Woman Biographer Left England In Order to Avoid Event

NEW YORK. — Joan Haslip, 27-year-old biographer of "Parnell" was in New York today on her first visit to North America and on her arrival she said her main idea was to get away from London for the Coronation.

"It's going to be dreadful," Miss Haslip said. "I never saw London look so dreadful, with all those stands built up, and thousands of Australians all around. It seems absurd to me that they're running the Coronation this way. The King is supposed to a King of all the people, but with the prices they're charging for seats, certainly few of the working people will even get a look at him."

Miss Haslip was the second British literary figure to come here this week to avoid the Coronation. On Monday Aldous Huxley arrived on a similar journey and said so.

How Coronation Invitations Appear

Herewith is a copy of one of the 7,700 invitations to attend the Coronation which are now being issued. They bear the signature and coat-of-arms of the Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal. The invitations are printed on cards, 10½ by 8¾ in black.

GEORGE WILLIAM ROBINSON

Impressive tribute was paid to the memory of Mr. George William Robinson, by the large number of citizens, friends and relatives who attended the funeral held from his late residence to the United Church, Williamsburg, on Sunday morning. Mr. Robinson, a very highly esteemed resident of Williamsburg, passed away at his home on Thursday evening, April 22nd, 1937 after a short illness. Deceased had been in apparent good health and had celebrated his 82nd birthday on Thursday, April 15th. Early Sunday morning he was severely stricken; he passed into a coma and never regained consciousness and gradually kept sinking until the end came.

Mr. Robinson was the son of the late Jeremiah Robinson and his wife the late Eliza Mills, pioneer residents of this district. On August 14, 1881, he married Miss Marcella Loucks, of Williamsburg, who predeceased him April 26th, 1904. There were four children by this union, two daughters and two sons: Mrs. Herbbert Hanson (Ida) deceased. Mrs. Wilbert Strader (Pearl) of Strader's Hill; Mr. Lyell Robinson of Buckingham, Que.; and Charles Robinson (deceased). On April 11 1906, Mr. Robinson was united in marriage to the former Miss Sarah Buchan, who survives with one daughter (Thora), Mrs. Bernice Woods of Williamsburg.

After his first marriage he settled on a farm in the Sixth Concession of Williamsburg, where they resided for several years. In 1914 he moved to Williamsburg village, where he won the whole-hearted respect of the townspeople and where he resided until his death. Besides his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Wilbert Strader and Mrs. Bernice Woods and one son Lyell Robinson of Buckingham Que., He is survived by thirteen grandchildren, six great grandchildren, one sister, Miss Maria J. Robinson and one brother, Mr. James Robinson, both of Elma.

The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. A. Adey who spoke on the text found in Psalm 39-4th verse. The choir was in attendance under the direction of Mrs. R. A. Merkley, organist, and led in the singing of the hymns: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." "O God Our Help in Ages Past," and "Abide with Me", and also rendered an anthem "I Shall See Him As He Is."

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Edgar McIntosh, Isaac McIntosh, Stanley Saddlemire, Henry Merkley, David Short and Orlin P. Becker. The remains were placed in the Williamsburg vault to await burial in Williamsburg cemetery later.

Many beautiful floral offerings were received and included: sprays--Mrs. Geo. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Lyell Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Robinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, The Ladies Aid Society, of Williamsburg United Church, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Strader and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hanson and family, Mr. Walter Buchan and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Braniff. The Official Board of Williamsburg United Church; wreaths—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Strader and family, Mr. Harley Buchan, Teachers and Pupils of Williamsburg Public School; cut flowers—Miss Maude Buchan and Geo. Buchan. Among the friends from a distance attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Lyell Robinson of Buckingham, Que.; Mr. William Robinson, Chelsea, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. John Loucks and daughter, all of Chesterville. Mr. Harley Buchan, Granby, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Warner Kesk and son, Cornwall, Miss Viola Alguire, Miss Gladys Groves, Mrs. Janet Tates, Mr. Ernest Yates, all of Cornwall Centre; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beckstead, Morrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac McShane, Pleasant Valley, Mrs. Roy Hamilton. Brinston, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller, Dixons Corners, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wylie of Toyes Hill.

Many friends in this community join in expressing sincere sympathy to the bereaved family and friends.

HORATIO BARKLEY

The funeral of Horatio Barkley, well known Dundas county farmer, who died at his home at Dunbar, was held from the family residence to Elma United church.

Born in the vicinity of Elma, 65 years ago, Mr. Barkley was the son of the late Josiah Barkley and his wife, the former Miss Jane Hill. He has farmed in Winchester and Williamsburg township and for the past 16 years had been a resident of Dunbar. He was a member of Elma United church and had been in ill health for some time. His wife, the former Bertha Dillabough, whom he married 45 years ago, survives.

The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. R. S. Smith, assisted by Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, minister of the Williamsburg Lutheran church

Chief mourners in addition to his wife were one son, Harry Barkley of Orillia, Ont., three daughters, Mrs. Sanforth Barkley, Massena, N. Y.; Mrs. Erwin Casselman, Winchester Springs; Mrs. Lloyd Servage, Grantley; four sisters, Mrs. Ira Dillabough, Elma; Mrs. John Warren, Archer, Ont.; Mrs. George McMillan, Dunbar; and Mrs. James Beckstead, Grantley.

Interment was in the family plot at Elma cemetery.

TWO COWS KILLED AS MACHINE SHORTS

On Saturday morning a most unusual occurrence happened at the farm of Mr. George Humphrey, which is situated three miles east of Gananoque. Mr. Humphrey at 6 a.m. started to milk with the milking machine. As he turned on the switch of the motor the cows made such a disturbance he investigated to see if something was frightening them. The twenty cows fell down and Mr. Humphrey immediately turned off the power, and was horrified to see two of them had been electrocuted. The one at the far end away from the motor, and the sixth one from that one, were dead. The other eighteen were shocked. Mr. E. O. Emerson of Gananoque, electrician, was called to investigate, and he found the motor short-circuted the bales and carried the current to the cows.

HUGH ROBINSON

The funeral of Hugh Robinson, a resident of Winchester township for the past 24 years, was held to Trinity United church on Monday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. R. C. Tait, pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Cook of Ottawa, and Rev. H. Beach of Finch. The choir was in attendance under the direction of R. G. Hewitt. An appropriate duet, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer," was sung by Mrs. Allison Graham and Oline Casselman. Interment was in the family plot at Grantley cemetery.

Mr. Robinson was the son of the late Zachariah Robinson and his wife, Mary Jane Scott, and was born in the vicinity of Grantley, in the Township of Williamsburg. He lived near the place of his birth until 1913, when he moved to Winchester township, where he was well-known and a wide circle of friends mourn his passing. He first married the former Margaret Hill of Ashton, Ont., in 1885, who died 28 years ago. He later married the former Hannah Smith who survives.

In addition to his widow, those left include five sons, William J. Robinson, Seattle; Wm. G. Bernard of Morrisburg; Claude H. Camrose, Alta.; Melsan O., Grantley, and Hubert at home; three daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Johnston, Edmonton, Alta.; Gladys Robinson, Wetaskiwin, Alta. and Helen, Palmer Rapids, Ont.; two brothers, Rev. William J. Robinson St. Paul, Minn., and James A Robinson, San Judo, Alta.

BAKER—BAIN

The marriage of Miss Jessie Stewart Bain, only daughter of the late Mr. George Bain and of Mrs. Bain of Montreal, to Mr. Francis William Baker, B.A., eldest son of the late Mr. William G. Baker and Mrs. Baker of Morrisburg, took place very quietly on Saturday evening at half past seven o'clock in Trinity Memorial Chapel, Montreal. The Venerable Archdeacon John M. Almond officiated.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Donald Bain and was attended by Miss Grace Cummins of Montreal. She was dressed in Delphinium blue silk crepe with hat and shoes of the same shade, and carried gardenias.

Miss Cummins was gowned in rosewood crepe with accessories to correspond and carried pink roses.

Mr. Nelson Riva of Montreal acted as best man.

After the ceremony the happy couple with only the bridal attendants and immediate relatives enjoyed a luncheon at Queens Hotel, leaving afterwards for New York City.

Upon their return they will reside on 6th avenue St. Eustache Sur le Lac.

CARDINAL ODDFELLOWS' CHURCH PARADE

On Sunday evening the members of Regal Lodge No. 338, I.O.O.F., and Willow Rebekah Lodge No. 145 Cardinal, held their annual church parade to St. Paul's Anglican church. The service was conducted by Rev. Robert Booth, grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, as a memorial to the late Grand Master W. T. Kingston.

The church was filled to overflowing and visitors were present from all lodges of the district. Among the visitors was Colonel A. W. Gray, past grand master of Brockville, Sister Linda Clarke of Cornwall, past president of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, and several other district deputies and Grand Lodge officers, also Bro. Reynolds of Brockville over fifty years a member.

WE HAVE SEEN

Babies a few weeks old lying in a carriage with the hood thrown back, compelled to gaze at a bright summer sky.

This is a thoughtless and harmful practice.

Protect young eyes from glare of any kind and you will help the child to develop healthy eyes.

WINCHESTER CHEESE BOARD REORGANIZED

At a well-attended meeting of dairymen, held in the Winchester Town Hall on Saturday evening, the Winchester Cheese Board was reorganized with the following slate of officers being elected: President, Preston McIntosh, Winchester S. first vice-president, J. Cameron, South Mountain; second vice-president, Frank D. Milne, Vancamps; secretary-treasurer, Walter Moffatt, Winchester.

It was decided to hold regular meetings of the board at 8 p.m. each Saturday.

Reviews Operations

In giving an account of last year's activities, the president reported that 20,370 boxes of cheese had been sold on the board, involving the sum of $240,200. The highest price paid for cheese during the year was 15 1-6 cents per pound.

W. J. Stewart, of Morewood, president of the Dundas County Cheese Patrons' Association, addressed the farmers, giving an outline of the new Cheese Marketing Act passed in the provincial legislature on March 24th. It gives the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association the power to control the marketing of all cheese manufactured in Ontario and all such cheese must be sold on a cheese board. It also gives the O.C.P. Association the right to investigate the financial standing of all buyers, and to find out if they are buying for reliable firms.

Small cheese and fancy cheese may be sold privately with the consent of the Cheese Board, providing it meets with the approval of provincial and district Cheese Patrons' Association.

In order to finance the association's work, a fee of five cents on each 100 pounds of cheese will be collected. This will amount to approximately $45,000. Mr. Stewart said. He also announced that F. J. Ross, the provincial secretary, would also buy cheese on the different boards to help stabilize the price. Last year the government had allowed $100,000 for this purpose, it being returned by the association as soon as the cheese were exported. This same scheme would be carried out this year, Mr. Stewart stated, only on a much larger scale.

George J. Martin, dairy inspector, of Mountain, announced to the cheese makers that it was now compulsory to leave cheese unboxed for at least eight days after making, and that a heavy penalty would be the result of any infraction of the rule. He pointed out that last year ten per cent of the cheese was boxed too soon, making the rind soft, and the cheese defective. This resulted in a lower market price.

Market in England

J. A. Sanderson of Kemptville spoke of marketing conditions in England. He said that there was a universal demand for fodder cheese, and that there was no great surplus of cheese in England at the present time to depress prices. He predicted that the British market would be the best in years during the present season.

On motion of J. W. Ault, Winchester and Sandy McGruer, Williamsburg, A. W. McIntyre, Finch, president of the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association; W. J. Stewart of Morewood, and Walter Moffat, of Winchester, were named as a committee to interview D. F. Singleton, Dominion dairy commissioner, and request that the official grader be sent to Winchester on Monday of each week instead of Thursday, as had been done last year.

John Campbell of Kemptville; A. E. Nash, of Morrisburg, and W. J. McIntyre, of Mountain, were among the other speakers who addressed the meeting.

Although most of the factories in this district have just started to make cheese, 33 boxes were offered at the initial meeting of the board and were sold for 12 7-8 cents per pound. This was an increase of three cents per pound over the first sale last year. The cheese were of the colored variety.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Geo. Kennedy who passed away May 1st, 1926.
When evening shadows are falling,
And we are sitting alone;
In our hearts there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
Everyday our thoughts are wondering
To your grave not far away
Where they gently laid you
Eleven years ago today.

Sadly missed by her two daughters Mrs. Roy Robinson and Mrs. Arnold Fader.

NOTICE

Due to the fact that this whole page, next week, will be devoted entirely to the Coronation, we are including next week's Sunday School Lesson in this issue.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V.—May 2
ABRAHAM A MAN OF FAITH
(Genesis 11: 27—20; 18.)
Printed Text—Genesis 12: 1—9; 13: 14—18.

GOLDEN TEXT—By faith Abraham, when he was called, obeyed to go out unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance. Hebrews 11: 8.

The Lesson In Its Setting

Time—Abraham was born B.C. 2003 and reached Canaan about B.C. 1928. He separated from Lot four years later and rescued Lot B.C. 1921. Sodom was destroyed B.C. 1904.

Place—Tht City of Ur was in southern Chaldea. Haran was in Mesopotamia; Shechem in central Palestine; Sodom at the northern end of the Dead Sea; the plain of Mamre, which is Hebron, is located twenty miles south of Jerusalem. Gerar was nine miles southwest of Gaza.

"Now Jehovah said unto Abram" —The name "Abram" means "high father." Later in the narrative we shall find the name changed to Abraham (17: 4, 5). "Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto the land that I will show thee." This is undoubtedly the second call in Abram's life. The first one he had only partially obeyed (Acts 7: 2—4). God knew that Abram had come to an hour when he was ready to more fully obey God's commands. God never tells us to give up anything that is dear to us unless, at the same time, he gives us a promise of something even more precious that he will bestow upon us. (See Phil. 3: 4—14).

"And I will make of thee a great nation"—The Jews have been a great nation numerically, and are greater today than probably ever before. They have been great in commercial life; they have been greater in arts and sciences, but they have been supremely great in their spiritual influence, in giving us the Holy Scriptures, and the Son of God. "And I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and be thou a blessing." Abraham was blessed in being the father of the Hebrew people, in the privilege of walking with God, in receiving mighty promises from God, in being the father of the faithful; throughout all the ages he has been honored by Jew and Gentile, by Christians and Mohammedans. His place in Christian truth may be judged by the fact that he is mentioned more than seventy times in the New Testament.

"And I will bless them that bless thee, and him that curseth thee will I curse: and in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed."—(See Zech. 14: 16—19):— Abraham bestowed a blessing upon the world in being the first great character of the true God. Through him came that whole race of people who have so mightily blessed humanity by their Scriptures; through him came the Lord Jesus Christ.

"So Abraham went, as Jehovah had spoken unto him; and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran. And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Haran; and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan; and into the land of Canaan they came." Canaan is supposed to mean "merchant." See, e.g., Isa. 23: 11, the margin.

"And Abram passed through the land unto the place of Shechem." — This is the place where Abram first erected an altar. Shechem lay in the pass which cuts through mounts Ephraim, Ebal, and Gerizim, about twenty-five miles directly north of Jerusalem, in a valley which A. P. Stanley has called "the most beautiful, perhaps it might be said, the only very beautiful spot, in central Palestine."

"Unto the oak of Moreh. Moreh refers to the owner of the oak grove. "And the Canaanite was then in the land. This simply implies that the land was not open for Abram to enter upon immediate possession of it without challenge. It also intimates or admits of the supposition that there had been previous inhabitants who may have been subjugated by the invading Canaanites.

"And Jehovah appeared unto Abram, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land: and there builded he an altar unto Jehovah, who appeared unto him."— Here, for the first time, occurs a phrase that is to have such great significance throughout the Old and New Testaments, 'the Lord appeared.' How he actually appeared to Abram we are not told, and it is vain for us to speculate. We can be confident that God appeared in such a way that Abram knew that it was God who was speaking with him. Though the promise of the land was given to Abram, he himself never possessed Canaan: this was left for his seed, to follow some hundreds of years later (see Acts 7: 5).

"And he removed from thence unto the mountain on the east of Bethel, and pitched his tent, having Bethel on the west, and Ai on the east: and there he builded an altar unto Jehovah, and called upon the name of Jehovah. And Abram journeyed, going on still toward the South." —Bethel means 'the house of God,' and is to be identified with the modern town Beitin. It played a most important part in the life of Abram's grandson, Jacob (Gen. 28: 11). Why Abram continued to move southward we are not told: probably God would have him traverse the entire land which he had promised as a possession for his descendants.

"And Jehovah said unto Abram, after that Lot was separated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward and southward and eastward and westward. For all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed for ever."—This is the second promise Abraham has been given regarding the ultimate possession of Canaan, only this time the promise has a greater sweep, and its eternal aspect here first appears. God does not tease us by giving our souls visions of ultimate accomplishments, desires for service, but he leads us, and schools us, and equips us for the attainment of that which he has unveiled to our souls; one vision to one and another to another.

"And I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth: so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then may thy seed also be numbered"—For a fulfillment of this promise see Num. 23: 10; Duet. 1: 10; 10: 22; 28: 62. In Gen. 15: 5, Abraham is promised a seed as numerous as the stars of the heaven, and it has been suggested that the promise that his seed should be as the dust of the earth refers to his posterity according to the flesh, and the promise that his seed should be as numerous as the stars of the heaven, refers to his seed according to the Spirit, Gal. 3: 29; Heb. 2: 16).

"Arise, walk through the land in the length of it and in the breadth of it; for unto thee will I give it. And Abram moved his tent, and came and dwelt by the oaks of Mamre, which are in Hebron, and built there an altar unto Jehovah."—Acting immediately, as the heavenly voice directed, Abram moved his tents to the plain of Mamre, who later became his friend and ally (14: 13, 24), near Hebron, twenty-two miles south of Jerusalem, on the way to Beersheba, a town of great antiquity. Here he built an altar to God. It is not said anywhere that Lot ever built an altar to God. Erecting an altar for the worship of Jehovah in every place where Abram journeyed may be compared to Christian people immediately seeking a church home when they move to a new city; or a travelling man attending divine service every Lord's Day no matter how far from home he might be; or Christian people not allowing themselves, in strange cities, and when living in hotels, to fall asleep at night without hearing the voice of God from the pages of Holy Scripture.

LESSON VI.—May 9.
ABRAHAM A MAN OF PRAYER
(Chapter 18.)
Printed Text Genesis 18: 17—32.
GOLDEN TEXT— The supplication of a righteous man availeth much in its working. James 5: 16.

The Lesson In Its Setting

Time—Abraham's intercession for Sodom occurred B.C. 1904.

Place—Hebron, about twenty miles south of Jerusalem.

"And Jehovah said, Shall I hide from Abraham that which I do; Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him?"—God always knows what he is going to do in every circumstance concerning every individual and every nation. Some of these purposes he has revealed to us in his Holy Word, indeed thousands of them. Often by prayer and abiding in the will of God we come to know God's specific purposes for us at specific times, as we face certain circumstances. Our knowledge of what God will do strengthens us, encourages us to greater fervency in Christian work, delivers us from fear, and creates in us a hope that nothing can ever take away.

"For I have known him, to the end that he may command his children and his household after him, that they may keep the way of Jehovah, to do righteousness and justice; to the end that Jehovah may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him."—As it was only by obedience and righteousness that Abraham and his seed were to continue in God's favor, it was fair that they should be encouraged to do so by seeing the fruits of unrighteousness. So that as the Dead Sea lay throughout their whole history on their borders, reminding them of the wages of sin, they might never fail rightly to interpret its meaning and in every great catastrophe read the lesson, 'Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.' They could never attribute to chance this predicted judgment.

"And Jehovah said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous; I will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know."—There, far down the valley, lay the guilty cities, still and peaceful. No sound travelled to the patriarch's ears. Quiet though Sodom seemed in the far distance, and in the hush of the closing day; yet to God there was a cry, the cry of the maiden, the wife, and the child. These were the cries which had entered into the ears of the Lord God. Each sin has a cry. 'The voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me.' We must not conclude from the phraseology of these two verses that God did not know the actual condition in Sodom prevailing at this time: such expressions as we have here are used to indicate God's absolute justice in all his decisions, and to inform us that God never punishes any being or any community in wrath, but that he is fully justified in so doing.

Gen. 18: 22—23. "And the men turned from thence, and went toward Sodom: but Abraham stood yet before Jehovah. And Abraham drew near, and said, Wilt thou consume the righteous with the wicked? Peradventure there are fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou consume and not spare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein? That be far from thee to do after this manner, to slay the righteous with the wicked, that so the righteous should be as the wicked; that be far from thee: shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?"—This prayer of Abraham's arose from Abraham's knowledge of Gods purposes towards Sodom, and from Abraham's own love for Lot, and his feeling of deep responsibility for the son of his deceased brother, with whom for so many years he had lived and labored. Furthermore, Abraham knew God. He had absolute confidence in God as one who heard prayer, who always acted reasonably and justly, and to whom he could fervently pour out his heart's desires.

"And Jehovah said, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sake."— God accepted the test proposed by Abraham, though not necessarily thereby acquiescing in the absolute soundness of his logic; God said he would spare Sodom if fifty righteous could be found, not as an act of judgment, but as an exercise of mercy, because of the claims upon his mercy which grace admits the righteous to prefer.

"And Abraham answered and said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord, who am but dust and ashes. Peradventure there shall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou destroy all the city for lack of five. And he said, I will not destroy it, if I find there forty and five." — Abraham must have known the city of Sodom intimately, and he probably was convinced in his own heart that fifty righteous could not be found within the circumference of that city. He himself certainly never heard of fifty righteous men being there. Yet his heart is moved with pity for his own flesh and blood, who certainly would be destroyed in such a judgment as is about to descend upon this city. Accordingly, he asks God if he would not spare the city if only forty-five righteous could be found, and God answered his second petition as he had answered the first. It should be noticed that, in this second petition, Abraham appears even in deeper humility than in the first peition, as though he had no right to ask God anything, being but dust and ashes himself—he is dust at first and ashes at last.

"And he spake unto him again, and said, Peradventure there shall be forty found there. And he said, I will not do it for the forty's sake. And he said, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: peradventure there shall thirty be found there. And he said, I will not do it, if I find thirty there."—Twice again, continually reducing the number of those who, if found, would lead God to spare the city, does Abraham approach God on behalf of a doomed community. Here is true persistence in prayer, not letting go of God until our whole heart has been poured out before him, pleading with his as a man would plead with a friend. How wonderful for a mere creature to be on such terms with God as Abraham is here revealed to have been, and yet every Christian believer in Jesus Christ has an even greater right to exercise in entering 'into the holy place by the blood of Jesus, by the way which he dedicated for us.' (Heb. 10: 19, 20).

"And he said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord: peradventure there shall be twenty found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for the twenty's sake. And he said, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak yet but this once: peradventure ten shall be found. And he said, I will not destroy it for the ten's sake."—Twice again, still clinging to God for Sodom, does Abraham plead that God might not destroy this wicked city, once asking that it might be preserved if only twenty righteous should be found, and, finally asking if God would preserve it if only ten righteous should be found. And both times God answered Abraham in the affirmative. We are not told that God demanded that Abraham cease his intercession for Sodom: we may assume that Abraham simply thought he dared not ask God for more than he had already requested, and that to do so would be to presume upon the mercy of Jehovah. Abraham "felt that he had reached the limit of that liberty which God accords the believing suppliants at his throne."

As a fitting salute to Spring, Warner Brothers have released "The King and the Chorus Girl," and United Artists have put out "History Is Made at Night." They are both giddy and romantic and have set everyone to arguing over who is the greater matinee idol, Fernand Gravet or Charles Boyer. They are both grand romantic heroes. "The King and the Chorus Girl," is something of a nine day wonder because it is a Warner Brothers musical without a big production number to interrupt the gaiety. And "History Is Made at Night," is completely baffling because it mixes spectacular scenes and grim tragedy with farcical situations.

Talent scouts from the motion-picture studios are suspected of doing their hunting nowadays in nurseries, for suddenly all of Hollywood is in a dither over the child prodigies. If you did hear Betty Jaynes, the fifteen-year-old opera star on Bing Crosby's program a few weeks ago, just before she started work for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, you may have marveled at her talent. She is practically middle aged, compared to their newest discovery, for the new contract player is Suzanne Larson, aged ten, who will be featured in a musical "B Above High C," which gives you an idea of her voice range.

Farm Problems

Conducted by PROFESSOR HENRY C. BELL
with the co-operation of the various departments of Ontario Agricultural College

QUESTION: "Regarding fertilizers, what conditions call for a 20% phosphate? I was wondering if it was the price that was in its favor. We would like to sow grain again on land which had grain last year. Last year's dry spell has thrown our rotation out of order. Our land is sandy and gravel loam. Would you recommend sowing 20% phosphate alone? How would it be in conjunction with a light coat of manure, or would you recommend one of the regular fertilizers?" — J. R., Wentworth County.

ANSWER: You say that you would like to sow grain again on land which had grain last year. You also say that the land is sandy and gravelly loam. Chances are the level of available Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid and Potash will be fairly low in this soil for this year's crop. If you can spare it, a light coating of manure, I believe it would be good. In addition, I would recommend that you apply 250 lbs. per acre of 2-12-6 or 2-12-10 fertilizer. I would prefer the latter although it would cost a little more.

2-12-10 has given excellent results in our demonstration tests over the province, giving increases of 10 to 15 bushels per acre over unfertilized. 2-12-10 fertilizer at the rate I mentioned will cost you approximately $3.30 and 2-12-6 will cost $3.00 per acre. 20% Superphosphate would cost you $2.50 per acre, but it will not yield anything but Phosphoric Acid. This is the kind of plantfood which hastens ripening. 2-12-6 will add Nitrogen which gives straw growth and Potash which promotes the filling and healthiness of the crop. In our demonstration tests, we have found that both Nitrogen and Potash pay well under conditions which you mention, especially if you are seeding down with alfalfa or grass mixture. Best application of this fertilizer of course, is through the fertilizer section of the combined fertilizer and grain drill. The analysis of the soil would of course help us in reaching definite knowledge of the fertility levels of your soil, but since you say it was in grain last year, and since it is sandy and gravelly loam soil, I believe you would be safe in following the suggestion that I have given.

300,000 People Now Living Will Be Murdered

Although dimly aware of the facts before, because of its mathematical definiteness, we find something sharply arresting in the statement of a Department of Justice official that 300,000 persons now living in this country will some day be murdered, comments the Detroit News.

This means that, in spite of all the education, the moral and religious training, the attempts to improve those social conditions which may incite to violence, and the likelihood of punishment for murderous acts, one out of every 400 of us is almost certain to be shot, stabbed, poisoned, choked or blackjacked, and that approximately another one of each 400 is destined to be the instrument of our unexpected and unpleasant demise.

Besides provoking a shudder at the thought of our own danger when walking home in the dark, these figures should inspire some very sober thought. Just what stage of growth and evolution have human beings reached? Evidently it is a discouragingly low one.

We talk much of prosperity, of liberty, of culture, and so on, but it appears that there are deeper problems to be met than these about which we daily raise such argumentative hullabaloo. What of the fundamental ethical sense which is supposed to be an attribute of civilized man? That also is sadly lacking.

In a part of our work for the elevation of the race we must still go back to the elementary stages and strive to make ourselves just simply moral. Many of us, it seems, are only emerging from savagery, if not from unbridled animalism, and have a long climb ahead before we can properly be called civilized men.

Insuance Ethics

The London Spectator comments. Some of the Coronation insurances raise ethical rather than legal problems. That interested parties, notably persons or institutions with seats to let, should have taken out policies against loss incurred by any postponement of the Coronation is natural enough.

But the policies are not all of a standard type. Some were so drawn as to involve the underwriters in the payment of a specified sum " if the Coronation of King Edward VIII does not take place on May 12th, 1937,"— or words to that effect.

The language appears to have been a mere matter of form. No one, that is to say, was intentionally making provision for the possibility that King Edward might not be crowned on May 12th, but another King might. And there is obviously no fear that seats will be left empty because the central figure is to be King George. But claims have been made under the Edward VIII policies — and paid.

One of the great hospitals, I believe, has so benefited, and it may possibly be argued that a hospital is justified in raising funds by any legitimate expedient. But is, for example, a West End club? The question has arisen in connection with at least one of them, and the committee is, or was, divided. But the principle seems clear—no loss, no idemnification.

Rheumatism in Feet Relieved

Here is a story of a young man who had almost given up hope of taking part in active sports with his fellows again. He tells how he tried one remedy after another and how finally a former sufferer put him on the way to recovery:—

"Two years ago I started with pains in the feet which gradually got worse. I tried 'everything under the sun' but to no effect. Whilst waiting for treatment one evening, another patient advised me to try Kruschen Salts. That was twelve months ago; the relief was not sudden, but the pain and swelling gradually left my feet, and in six months I amazed my friends by taking long walks into the country. This year I have played a good deal of tennis, a thing which I had begun to think I should never do again."—C.W.

Rheumatic pain and swelling is frequently caused by excess uric acid accumulating in the body. Kruschen contains two ingredients which are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid deposits. Other ingredients in Kruschen assist the internal organs to expel this dissolved acid from the system.

Discovery Made In Purifying Food

Pulverized Carbon Attracts Unwanted Tastes and Odors

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — The gas masks of wartime have resulted in the discovery of a "magnet" that extracts the bad tastes and flavors and unwanted odors from food and drink.

The taste magnet, described to the American Chemical Society to-day by John W. Hassler of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co.(Tyrone, Pa., uses the same kind of carbon as gas masks

The carbon is "activated", that is it is given an unusual power of attractio. This is done by pulverizing the black material into particles so fine that the carbon is virtually all surface. In that condition it acquires the electrical forces common to the carbon atoms that form one of the basic substances of all the living world.

Use of the taste magnet is limited to food which can be temporarily reduced to a liquid or a gas during the treatment. It is also limited to the tastes and odors due to impurities.

"For example," said Hassler, "it is not possible to make quinine less bitter by treatment with activated carbon, because bitterness is a physiachemical property of quinine. However, if a liquid happens to contain quinine, then activated carbon will remove the bitter taste by actually absorbing the quinine and removing it from the solution."

He said that the carbon magnet takes unwanted flavors out of sorghum, cane and corn syrups, pineapple juice, vinegar and various drugs. It is particularly good, for cleaning up alcoholic liquors, wines, glycerines and water.

It has worked out well on lard and sugar. In the case of gelatin, the carbon removes virtually all traces of animal odors.

Wart Cure Given

A method of absorbing warts, which he said may be of use in some cancerous or pre-cancerous skin conditions, was reported by John R. Caldwell of Ohio State University, now with the Tennessee Eastman Corporation.

The water is first treated like the proverbial boy who swelled up because he drank water after over-eating dry apples. Sodium hydroxide is place on the wart, which thereupon fills itself full of water and becomes abnormally swollen.

"If," said Dr. Caldwell, "a wart swollen by the action of sodium hydroxide is immediately treated with diluted alcoholic hydrochloride acid, the proteins in the wart are coagulated. A portion of the wart comes off after a day or two. By repeating the process at suitable intervals the wart may usually be removed painlessly and with very little scar."

Some of the troubles of hay fever sufferers who fail to get relief from proteins whose injection is intended to immunize them, can be avoided by a discovery reported by five New Yorkers.

There has been trouble, they said, because proteins sometimes deteriorated after preparation. They found the enzymes present with the proteins are responsible. The scientists kill the enzymes by heat or formaldehyde, and report that this in all cases leaves the hay fever proteins unchanged.

GARDENING

By GORDON L. SMITH

It is a good plan to use started annual flowers plants secured from any seed store, greenhouse or florist for planting among tulips and others of the Spring flowering bulbs which will be past their best in a few more weeks as these hide the dying foliage. Then again, quick-growing annuals will always be useful for filling in any blind spots in the perennial beds where Winter has been unusually severe.

AND PERENNIALS TOO

It is not too late in most parts of Canada to order and plant perennial flowers and even shrubs and vines. Often towards the end of the season prices are lower and while the selection is not as wide as earlier, there should be a good choice.

THE NEW LAWN

Unless the ground was thoroughly cultivated and then allowed to lie idle the year before the lawn was sown there is bound to be a good deal of weed seed in the soil, and some of this will germinate after the lawn is sown. Such weeds should be removed constantly, especially in the earlier stages. A good lawn fertilier every year will push the grass along sufficiently to choke out most of these offenders. The first cutting of the grass in the spring is made with a very sharp mower to avoid pulling out plants when the ground is soft. Frequent rolling is also advised at this time.

For permanent lawns of deep green colour and fine texture, good quality package seed is advisable.

KITCHEN GARDENS

It is advisable of course, to keep a plentiful supply of salad material like leaf and head lettuce, onions and possibly celery in the kitchen garden. The latter is set out in the garden as well started plants usually after all danger of frost is over. For Fall storage, planting takes place in June or even July.

HAVE YOU HEARD

Many a child gets a whipping because he took after his father.

The young salesman, travelling for the first time in the backwoods section of the country, came down to the proprietor of a country hotel, after a wakeful night, with a complaint.

Young Salesman — "I saw two rats fighting in my room last night."

Love and a budget are the two most important factors in a successful marriage, says one well-known woman. In other words, the mating and the estimating.

A few fellows have been conducting a sit-down strike for years. They are not asking to be unionized. They have just been striking against all labor in general.

It is good to dream — it is far better to dream and then work to turn your dreams into realities. Faith is mighty, we are told — but faith plus action is irresistible — Desire must be backed by the sterner virtues before achievement is possible.

Sambo — Dat girl's all right, sho' nuff, but her figger jes' don't rhyme, dat's all.

Someone said an old maid is like an electric bulb without the current on.

Teacher (in geography class) — Now can anyone tell me where we find mangoes?"

Knowing Little Boy — "Yes, miss, wherever women goes."

Hard work and no play may create a dull boy but, very likely he will have some money in the bank.

Wife — "The paper says the man was shot by his wife at very close range.

Husband — "Then there must have been powder marks on the body."

Wife — "Yes, that's why she sot him."

The man afraid of his fingers never drives many nails.

Jeweller — "Did your watch stop when you dropped it?"

Customer — "Well, it didn't go all the way through the floor."

A man's first attempt to hold a girl on his knee might be called a trial balance.

Tourist — "The climate here is salubrious, isn't it?"

Native — "Say, friend, just write that word down for me, will you? I get tired of swearing at this climate in the same old way. That's a new one."

It is a great deal easier to talk ourselves into trouble than out of it.

First Glue Factory Employee (emerging from factory) — "What is that funny smell?"

Second Glue Factory Employee — "It's the fresh air."

Thinking to stop would prevent a lot of stopping to think.

Patient — "Nurse! Nurse! I believe my breath is getting shorter!"

Nurse — "Just take things easy, the doctor will soon put a stop to that."

The colder you treat some people the hotter it makes them.

He Didn't Want This Printed

There are people who are anxious to have something put in the paper. There are others who take exactly the opposite attitude, and this article has to do with one of the latter. At the risk of trouble later on we begin by giving the man's name—W. R. Parker; he is in the Customs Office and resides at 522 Charlotte Street. That, we believe, identifies him so there can be no error.

Mr. Parker plants bulbs and he does it so carefully and thoroughly that they seldom fail to grow and bloom. When they come to the stage of blooming they seem to enjoy it so thoroughly they bloom for a long time. His daffodils look like young sunflowers, and he grows tulips and hyacinths. He searches for the fertilizer he wants; he cuts and prepares the earth he prefers, and in the Fall he spends entire evenings working with his bulbs. During the Winter he keeps them in pots, cool and dark and moist, and insists they get well rooted before bringing them to the light. This year he had in all 225 pots filled with flowering bulbs.

We do not believe Mr. Parker will object to anything which has been so far written, but we must continue to the point where he insists that nothing be printed. He does not sell his flowers, but gives them all away — and he has been doing that for 17 years.

The Examiner first heard of it from a man outside the city who was in hospital here. He knew no person and found the days rather long until Mr. Parker arrived with a pot of flowers. How many sick folk and shut-in people have been treated similarly during all these 17 years we do not know, but the number would find totality only in a long and impressive list.

The idea seemed to be so entirely wholesome that the Examiner felt it was right that Mr. Parker's request that nothing be said about it should be put to one side for the moment. Living as we are, in an age when a good many folk are given to thinking of themselves it seemed right and just that the devotion of an ideal which Mr. Parker has held for 17 years (and perhaps longer) should be brought out in the open. So there it is and we believe our readers will agree that our judgment in this case was correct.—The Peterborough Examiner.

Holstein Sales In Canada at New High

That live stock conditions throughout Canada are showing marked improvement, particularly in the movement of pure bred cattle is evidenced by the sharp increase in revenue as shown by the quarterly statement by George M. Clemons, Secretary-Treasurer of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada.

From the latest figures, recorded sales of this breed for the first quarter of the current year have reached a new all-time high of 5,725, a gain of 31.9% over sales for the corresponding period of 1936.

Export trade in breeding animals, which is chiefly with the U.S.A., shows a 47% increase over January, February and March of 1936 — this being the highest 3-month period in the history of the Association.

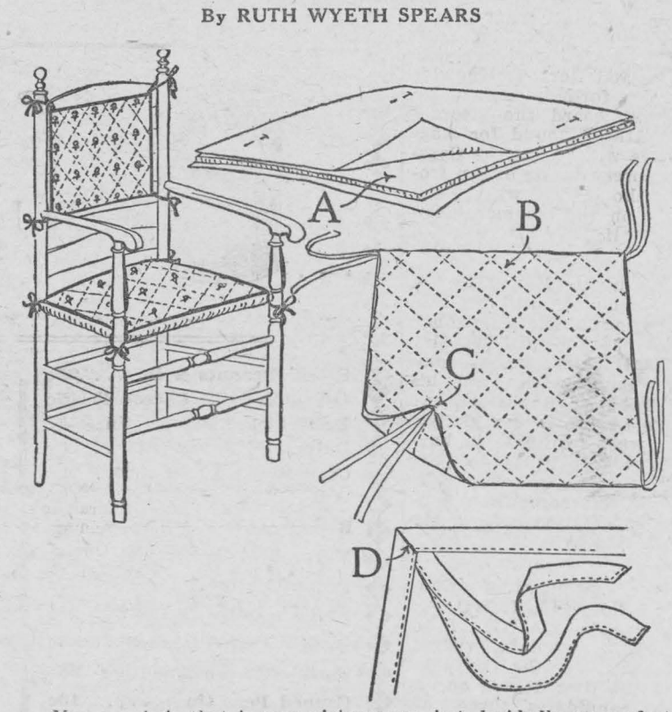

Registration total 10,293, a gain of 18.7% in the number of animals recorded; while Association receipts, derived from registrations, transfers and memberships, are up 13.7%.

Forest Tree Breeding

The tree planter is beginning now to pay more attention to the pedigree of his stock. Much of the bad plantations that we have are due to the fact that we have been planting trees of the wrong kind or "race." There are quite obviously trees of bad form and trees of good form, in any forest, and the trees of bad form have been found to remain trees of bad form no matter how carefully they are tended and managed.

QUILTED CHAIR PADS LEND A QUAINT TOUCH

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Many a chair that is now picturesque, but decidedly uncomfortable, might gain both in comfort and quaintness with the addition of quilted chair pads. Our great grandmothers used such pads on ladder-back chairs, and chose the gayest of chintzes both glazed and unglazed for them.

Today we can use duplicates of those fine old chintz patterns, and what charm they add to our room color schemes! Even the old quilt block designs of colonial days, with all their gay calico patterns, are reproduced in chintz now. You might like to use one of these for your chair pads, and if you do I suggest that you let your quilting follow the outline of the quilt block pattern in the chintz instead of using the diagonal quilting shown in this sketch.

You will find that in making such small things as chair pads the quilting may be done very efficiently on the sewing machine. Few people have time to do hand quilting any more, and decorators are using machine quilting for many purposes.

The pads shown here are made with one layer of sheet wadding between two layers of chintz. The edge bindings and ties are made of bias tape. Cut the three layers of the pad material exactly the size and shape you want them to be when finished. Place the sheet wadding between the two layers of chintz, as shown here at A. Either pin or baste in this position and then quilt as shown at B. Make the ties by stitching the lengthwise edges of the tape together and then tack the ties to the corners of the pad before it is bound, as shown hre at C. Now, bind the edges of the pad as at D, sewing the ties right in with the binding.

NOTE:—Mrs. Spears' new 48-page book of illustrations and directions for making curtains, slipcovers, dressing tables, and numerous other items for the home will be sent upon receipt of 14c, (10c plus 4c postage). Ask for SEWING, for the Interior decorator. Address: Mrs. Spears, Room 421, 73 Adelaide St. W., Toronto.

In any particular species, say Scots pine, Douglas fir, or spruce, there are individual specimens which develop clean, straight stems. These trees produce seed which will give rise to trees of similar type. There are others which have heavy crowns, strong, thick branches, and which, no matter how well they are reared, never produce clean stems with good quality timber; and their seed gives rise in turn to bad types of plants.

These differences are being noted, and an attempt is being made to discover the precise locality from which each type comes . . . .

The plants from different origins not only show differences in shape and in the quality of their timber, but they show variations in such important things as frost hardiness and resistance to disease. In some kinds, the buds flush too early, and are nipped by late frosts; or they carry on their growth too long in the late Autumn, and are killed by early frost.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Not until they were taken from their glass bowl and placed in a pail suspended from the beams did the other fish recuperate.

Benny Eats Old Cars

Just now junk has a new status in the world and now we shall know what to do with our old automobiles. The piles of ungainly, rusty car parts and bodies have been eyesores in many cities in the past few years. If they can be removed by the mere demand for scrap iron the civic outlook and community pride will be inspired.

If we lived in Buffalo, N.Y., we could attend quite decent obsequies of our faithful old cars and see how machinery deals with junk in the mass. The trouble with old automobiles has been the great loss if the car bodies were pitched into a crucible porcess or furnace for reconditioning. Buffalo has a giant auto-smashing machine, quaintly called "Big Benny." It saves the loss. It crushes old car bodies and bundles them into neat packages to cast into the steel furnaces to reduce more profitably.

This powerful auto-cruncher wolfs down 30 car bodies in an hour. The operator pushes a button, a magnetic crane lifts a car body, stripped of glass, wood, engine, wheels, chassis, and dumps it into a pit.

"Benny" grinds his teeth and the sides of the pit come together. Under terriffic pressure, a heavy ram moves forward against the rasping metal. "Benny" backs off, and the once sleek auto comes out of the pit, squeezed into a lump of metal about the size of an orange crate. The ponderous mechanical monster also relishes bed springs, oil barrels, old wastepaper baskets or any sheet steel graded as No. 2 heavy melt.

Green England

The returning traveller from any extra-European zone must rejoice in the exceeding greenness of England. There is no evergreen that can compare with grass. What immense areas in other lands are surfaced with sand, rubble, rock and scrub. What grass there is often enough resembles the starved stuff described by Robert Browning in "Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came." It may be daintily starred with dwarf flowers, like a quaint golf course by the old Dutch settlement of Swellendam in Cape Colony; but the greens which demand real grass have to be made of grit.

How pleasantly the grass in most English fields north of Southampton, as elsewhere, snuggles up to the hedgerows. We are forced as agritultural theorists to condemn grass as the thinnest, the least intensive form of cultivation, yet what natural wealth is in it! It is a widow's cruse, it stores wealth; and while the capital increases, the dividends, if small, are never intermittent.

It is a free gift. What pleasant treading as well as feeding for stock; and Bottom, a true Englishman, though temporarily an ass, was right enough in his panegyric: "Good hay, sweet hay hath no fellow"; and in the newest form of haymaking the trussed hay remains as green as the growing crop. Yet the greatest of all gifts given by the grass field and common is to the eyes. While grass grows the inhabitants of this island will live in a green, and therefore pleasant land.—London Spectator.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Nerves at Breaking Point

NO need for girls or women to suffer from periodic pains, headache or sideache. Many find that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a very beneficial tonic. This is what Mrs. J. Lizmore of 569 First St., Niagara Falls, Ont., said: "Years ago I was in a run-down, weakened condition, my nerves were at the breaking point, the least little thing irritated me and I could scarcely eat a thing. I had constant headaches, dizzy spells and felt so weak I just had to drag myself around. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and picked up steadily. I gained weight, my appetite improved and the headaches, and other trouble disappeared." Buy now!
