NEWSBRIEFS

Help us celebrate our 1st century

Happy birthday to us! On Wednesday August 17, we're celebrating the Record's 100th anniversary of informing the people of northern Dundas and Stormont counties. To mark the occasion, we're holding an open house from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Stop by and have a piece of cake, and we'll show you around as well. We're at 7 King Street. Also, look for your copy of our special anniversary supplement in next week's Record.

Bench in for repairs

CHESTERVILLE — The popular bench near the Main Street Bridge at King and Water streets in Chesterville is in the village's shop for repairs. Village operations manager Peter Shahen said the bench suffered a broken board, and is being fixed and repainted. He could not say when it might be returned, and declined to say how the damage might have occurred. The bench is a popular gathering spot for local youths.

Marionville project's concerns will be addressed at meeting

MAPLE RIDGE — Winchester Township Reeve Claude Cousineau announced a public meeting on the Marionville water project will be held, but did not give a date. He said it would follow a meeting on common matters between Osgoode, Russell and Winchester Township council members.Residents have expressed concerns about the cost and the quality of water they would be receiving and requested a public meeting to clear the air.Russell Township has now received the tenders for the $3 million project. Since all were under budget, says clerk Gerry Belisle, the cost of the project should remain between $5,500 and $5,700 per resident.A water filtration plant planned for Embrun is expected to eliminate any water contamination problems.

Bereaved Families to meet Sept. 8

CORNWALL — The Cornwall and area chapter of Bereaved Families of Ontario will hold its monthly share and support night Sept. 8 in the library of Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School, 437 Sydney Street, from 7 to 9 p.m. The topic for the evening is "stigmatized deaths." The meeting is an informal information night for those who have lost a loved one through death.

Tips needed in Marionville B&E

Crime Stoppers this week is asking for the public's assistance in solving the July 25 break and enter of a Marionville home. Sometime between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., suspects kicked open a garage door, which led them to the house. Once inside, they stole four guns, two hunting bows, three VCRs, Nikko stereo equipment, CDs, cassettes, ammunition, a cordless phone, Nintendo game set and a red riding lawn tractor. The total value of the stolen property is $8,864. If you have any information on this or any crime, call Crime Stoppers toll-free at 1-800-265-TIPS (8477). If your tip leads to an arrest, you may qualify for a cash reward of up to $1,000. You do not have to reveal your identity to help solve a crime.

Province pitches in for well study

Greg Hewitt

MOREWOOD — Winchester Township has received a grant from the provincial government for a long-awaited study aimed at solving Morewood's well water and sewage problems.

The province announced late last month that it will fund a communal well and sewage study for the hamlet to the tune of $8,000 through its Jobs Ontario program.

No date has yet been set for the beginning of the study, which will determine the size and type of communal well system needed to cure the hamlet's water problems.

The $8,000 grant represents 70 per cent of the estimated $11,000 cost of the study. Ontario Clean Water Agency (OCWA) spokesman Ross Sanders said once the study is complete, the township may apply for up to 70 per cent of the cost of construction, plus another 15 per cent if criteria such as job creation and water efficiency are met.

The township has been fighting for progress on Morewood's water problems since the mid-1980s, when tests showed that 84 of the hamlet's 152 wells failed to meet water quality standards, 33 of which had unacceptable levels of bacterial contamination. Another 68 contained iron or other substances like sulphur, and all were classified as substandard because of water hardness.

The problems were thought to have been solved in October 1991, when the Ministry of the Environment announced a funding program for the individual correction of wells.

But the program was put on the back burner by the province, which later decided that Morewood needed a communal well system.

Winchester Township Reeve Claude Cousineau said he was glad to hear the news of the study grant, but noted that Morewood's problem has been "Studied to death instead of getting at it."

"We've learned to live with it, but it's a little frustrating sometimes."

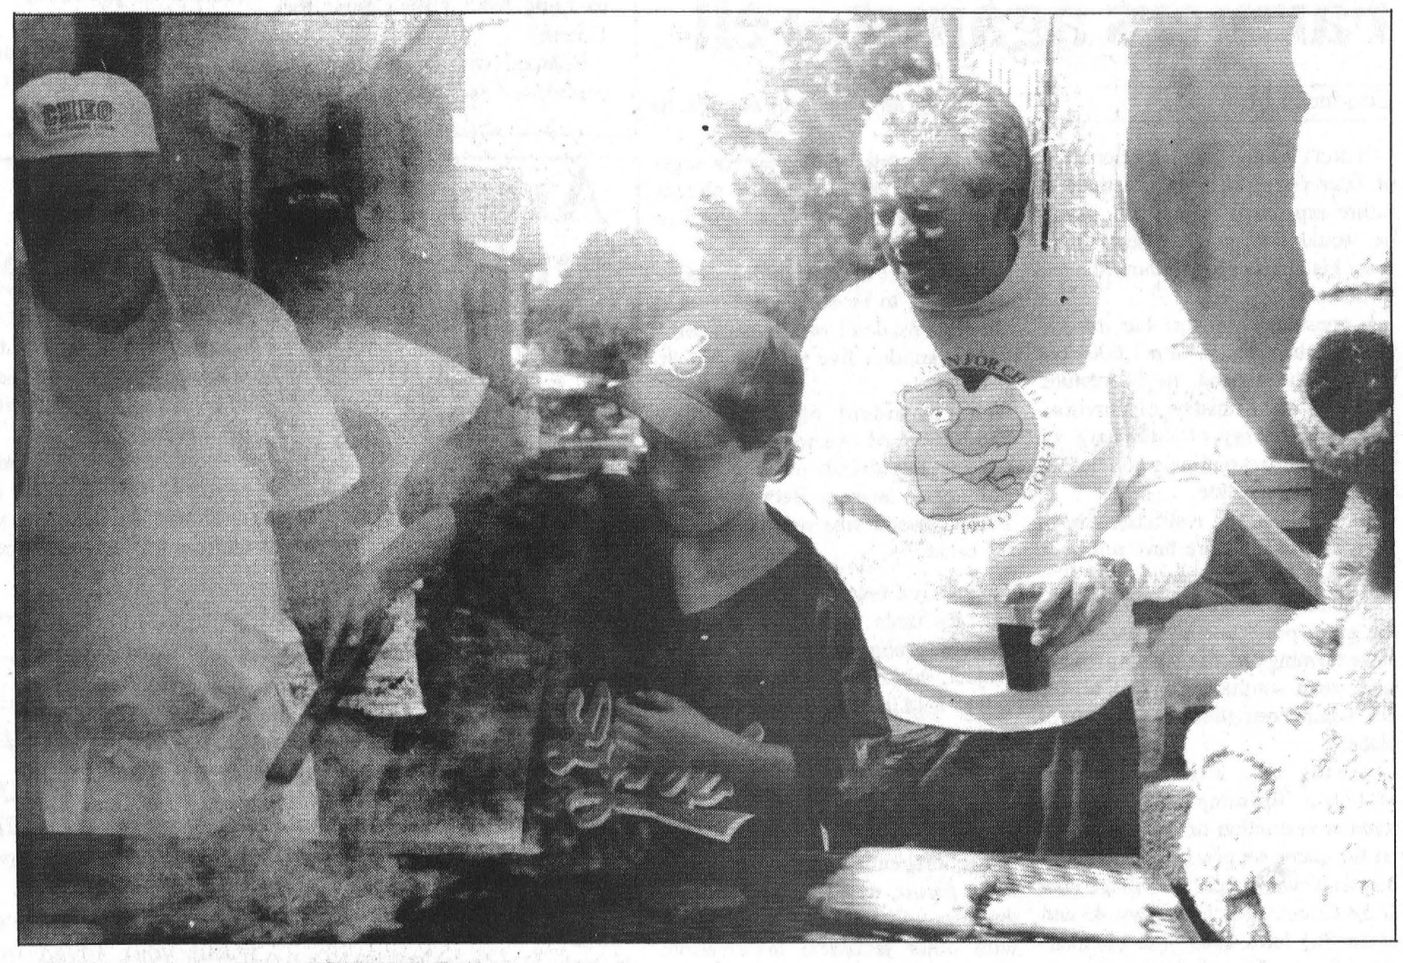
He said the township has been waiting for word on progress since a communal system was recommended more than a year ago.

"I guess when (the province) is broke it's hard for them to come up with money for all these projects," he said.

Cousineau said the township is talking with its consultants, Oliver, Mangione, McCalla and Associates about a peat moss system like one in place at Marionville's school. He said the province is not keen on that type of system, but said they have been proven effective in 20 years of use in the U.S.

The township must also find an abundant and clean water source, likely north or west of the hamlet, he said.

"I think we can get a good water source nearby, so that will keep the cost down."



Flipping for CHEO

Eleven-year-old Josh Fry and friend Max Keeping, of CJOH TV, tend to the burgers at the Giant Outdoor Barbecue for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario, held in Winchester Saturday in conjunction with Dairyfest. Josh co-hosted June's CHEO Telethon, during which Dundas County donated $35,000. The barbecue, organized by Chesterville's Heather Bourque, raised $800 for CHEO. Bourque is president of the Dundas Friends of CHEO chapter.

Council defends building permit fees

Mike Aiken
Record Staff

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — Osnabruck Township council turned down a request to lower building permit fees for farmers Monday night.

Building inspector Hilton Cryderman brought the issue before council after talking with township residents who felt the fees were too high.

Councillor Heine Bruining agreed with the residents saying, "If I was putting up a shed I'm not sure that I would pay them either."

Deputy-reeve Doug Leighton spoke in favor of the existing by law, which raised the cost of adding a farm building from $25 to six cents a square foot, in this case $144.

"We're not out of line with other townships," he said, adding the cost of the fees wouldn't discourage most people from continuing with their project.

Cryderman said he knew of four or five projects outstanding that were not licensed, but could not confirm that it was the cost of the permits that discouraged them.

"I think it's the wrong way to go," said Bruining. "That's not the way to go by hitting the small businesses all the time."

Lowering the fees would increase assessment in the township, and therefore tax revenues, since the township wouldn't have to spend time and money chasing illegal development.

Reeve Gordon Ross said, "I tend to agree, but we have a bylaw in place."

Council agreed to review the by law when it came due, but not before then.

"It's about time the guy that paddles his own canoe got a break," he said, adding those on government assistance and consultants were getting preferable treatment, referring to them as leeches and parasites.

Landowners organize against well

Mike Aiken
Record Staff

WINCHESTER TWP. — Morewood-area land owners are preparing for a fight against the Village of Winchester over a new municipal well.

Last Wednesday, the Morewood Esker Landowners Association received the support of the Dundas Federation of Agriculture, giving it a boost in its early stages.

"We've had a lot of positive response from people around the area," said founding member Denis St. Pierre.

Residents are worried their farming practices and future land use will be restricted once the well is in place. They are particularly concerned about possible restrictions on the use of fertilizers, such as liquid manure, which they say are important to their livelihood.

Dundas Federation of Agriculture representative Alvin Runnalls says it's something the federation intends to stay involved with, in order to make sure farmers are protected.

The Ministry of Environment and Energy has been looking at implementing a land-use policy, which association members fear will resemble the wetlands policy, which arbitrarily restricted land use around provincially designated areas without providing compensation to land owners.

Crysler area residents are also showing an interest in the association, since the village's well and water pipeline are near agricultural land.

Ludwig Bretzler of RR 2 Crysler says he wasn't told about any plans for land use restrictions when the village built a well nearby and made plans for a pipeline.

He says he makes extensive use of manure on his loose soil, which could be restricted on more than 150 acres of his 2,000 acre farm.

Plans take shape for village seniors' centre

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — It's been a long haul for Chesterville's Lorne Johnson. For a year and a half, he's led a group pushing for more accessible programming for the village's seniors.

And the group has pushed in the right direction, as plans for an addition to the Nelson LaPrade Centre are taking shape. The centre will become a satellite for Nor-Dun Seniors' Support Centre, and offer between 10 and 12 hours a week of programming for seniors.

Another 1,000 square feet will be added to the centre, doubling its size. Tenders for the work are expected to be awarded later this month, and construction could be completed early next year.

The project will paid for entirely by the United Counties, which in 1991 was given $3 million by the provincial government to upgrade facilities and programs for SD&G seniors.

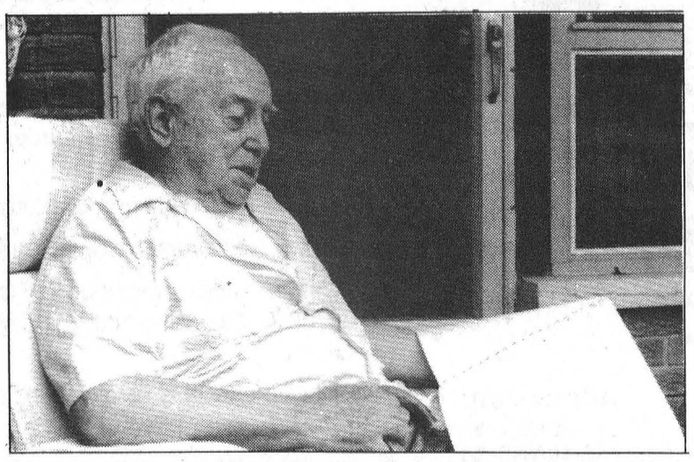
Debbie St. John-De Wit, who heads the counties' community residential alternatives projects, says when completed, the new facility will be an excellent benefit to Chesterville and area seniors.

Seniors' programming that will likely come to Chesterville includes a diner's club, foot care clinics and other presentations. It will also open the door to such services as friendly visiting and help with yard work. The programs, as with other outreach locations, are administered by VON.

The Nelson Laprade Centre is now used by Chesterville's Rotary Club, Boy Scouts and other groups for meetings. St. John-De Wit says that groups now using the centre won't be displaced, during and after construction. A movable wall will separate the ground floor into two halves so that two groups can use the centre at the same time.

St. John-De wit says, however, that no new staff will be hired to administer programs for the new facility because there's no budget for it at the counties. Existing staff, she says will be stretched. And volunteers from the community are welcome, she emphasizes.

St. John-De Wit credits a group of about a dozen seniors, like Lorne Johnson, who have been pushing for the centre for about a year and a half.



Lorne Johnson studies plans for addition to Nelson LaPrade Ctr.

"They thought it was great to have them in other communities, but they wanted to have one at home as well.

"It's been a long haul for them," she says. "(Johnson) deserves credit because he wouldn't let it slip. He was very dedicated to the project. The community needs more active people like that who won't give up and won't take no for an answer."

Johnson, who is chairman of the Community Residential Alternatives Advisory Commitee, said he is looking forward to the project's completion.

"We're quite pleased that there's progress being made. When the project is completed, we hope it will be well-used."

The village will contribute to the project with some roof and window repair and other minor maintenance.

Farmers against well

"I don't want to get restrictions now or later on in farming practices or future expansion," he added, saying he would not get sufficient yields from his alfalfa crop without the use of manure.

A consultant's report has recommended the creation of a 1,600-acre buffer zone around the Morewood esker, while Ministry of Environment and Energy officials have attended seminars outlining policies for well head protection.

While plans for restrictions have been discussed, there have not been any plans for compensation.

Winchester Reeve Bruce Kerr says the extra protection isn't necessary, since farming practices in the area are safer than southern Ontario or the US, where restrictions are already in place.

Farming near a village well in Mountain Township has continued without restriction or adverse affect on the water supply, he said, adding that land owners near the village well at the Country Kitchen (Hwy. 43 and Main St.) have been well compensated for any loss of water.

"If you have a a manure pit that's leaking, then you'd better fix it, whether it's next to a municipal well or not," he said.

The village has a good rapport with MOEE because it regularly carries out improvements to protect the water supply without being asked by ministry officials, Kerr said. Sub-divisions that were planned years ago are on hold until the well is completed, along with any expansion at Aults, he adds.

Unimpressed by the reeve's arguments, the association has already hired a lawyer to help them fight their case.

"We feel we have no choice because it's getting to be such a hot topic in Ontario. We don't want to come back to it in another five years," said St. Pierre.

The president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, Roger George, has already offered his support to area farmers. Between 15 and 20 Morewood area residents are on the esker.

Chief civil engineer Ron Cheek of J.L. Richards and Associates, the consulting engineering firm for the project, said Friday a public meeting will be held in the near future, before the report is filed, to update residents on test results and proceedings since Sept. 1992, when the public was last consulted.

A report, called an environmental study report, detailing the results of the tests will be made public along with other technical information, such as cost engineering cost estimates and the impact of the project on local residents. Members of the public will have 30 days to register their comments.

If they object to statements made in the report, they can request amendments to the report or a class environmental assessment, which is a more thorough study of the project, but would require approval from the minister of environment and energy.

Eight charged with weapon, drug offences

LONG SAULT — Eight Montreal and Lasalle, Que. men were arrested Saturday at Mille Roches Beach on the Long Sault Parkway after a report that weapons were seen.

Police investigated and at 7:10 p.m. stopped a vehicle carrying the men. Seized were two semi-automatic weapons and a small quantity of marijuana, according to Long Sault OPP Const. Joel Doiron.

Charged with possession of a prohibited weapon are Aaron Green, 30, Darren Scrub, 24, Verston Service, 24, Ronnie Campbell, 19, and Adam Michael, 25. Charged with possession of a prohibited weapon and possession of a narcotic is Franklin Green, 24. Charged with possession of a narcotic, possession of a prohibited weapon and breach of probation is Junior Graham, 27. And charged with possession of a weapon and breach of probation is Gary Demetris, 19.

The eight appeared in provincial court, criminal division, in Cornwall Monday.

Armed standoff ends without incident

INGLESIDE — An RR 2 Ingleside man faces charges in connection with a 12-hour armed standoff with police Sunday.

According to Long Sault OPP Const. Joel Doiron, police responded to a call of shots being fired at about 5 p.m. from a Dafoe Road residence in Osnabruck Township.

Officers cordoned off the area and the OPP Tactics and Rescue Unit was dispatched. The subject surrendered to police without incident after 12 hours.

In custody is Larry Aumell, who appeared in provincial court in Cornwall Monday on weapons charges and other offences.

Seniors

Chesterrville Reeve Jim Cook said it is convenient for the windows, for example, to be fixed at the same time as the other work. And he noted that seniors worked hard on the project.

"The seniors worked quite hard on getting this and it's ended an awful lot of meetings and a lot of input on this.

I think generally, they want some of the programs here. They wanted something in their own location they could walk to."

Milk's new look

Barbara-Ann Glaude of Berwick is the new dairy educator for Stormont County, responsible for classroom visits and public appearances to promote milk products. After eight years co-ordinating the activites of the dairy princess, Glaude says she is looking forward to spreading the message herself.

New look for new dairy educator

Mike Aiken
Record Staff

BERWICK — A familiar face will be seen in a new role as Berwick's Barbara-Ann Glaude takes over as Stormont's dairy educator.

Formerly known as the dairy princess, the educator will be asked to teach units on agriculture in local classrooms.

Traditionally, the princess was selected at the Avonmore Fair from among students.

But Glaude, 32, mother of four on a full-time farm, was selected by members of the Stormont milk committee from applicants for the position.

For eight years, Glaude organized appearances for the dairy princess as the county's dairy princess co-ordinator, but now she has stepped into the classroom herself, with 15 to 20 visits lined up.

"I grew up on the farm and have always been involved in community organizations," she said.

"I like the communication with children and like to spread the good word about agriculture in general, but particularly dairy," she said.

School boards have been working with the Ontario Milk Marketing Board in recent years to develop a curriculum to complement themes and events in the area.

The position itself is sponsored by the OMMB and local businesses as a part-time position.

Glaude hopes to promote the dairy industry through visits to classrooms to talk about Cornwall's Fall Fair and the Stormont County Fair in Newington.

"The idea is to develop ideas already in place and it's great to have the resources and the teachers as a guide," she says.

While many viewed the dairy princess as a ceremonial figurehead for handing out ribbons and leading parades, Glaude discounts the notion.

"It never was a beauty thing. That was a myth," she said.

Guidelines for the new position include lesson plans for elementary students. Grade 3 students last year learned about dairy production and the different breeds of cows, while Grade 7 and 8 students how dairy products are manufactured, related industries and careers related to milk production.

The position has become a good steppingstone for those interested in an agriculture-related career, she says.

While part-time, only those who have served as a county dairy educator can apply for the full-time province-wide position.

"I think it's an excellent opportunity to get involved in the dairy sector," Glaude said, adding she hasn't got the time at the moment to contemplate competing for the position.

Last year, Angela Dewar of Maxville, a first-year college student was selected as dairy princess, but underwent a very different process.

The new position can also be filled by men, with two being selected in the province last year.

Finch Township banking likely to return to Crysler

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

BERWICK — After being forced to look outside the municipality for banking services earlier this year, Finch Township's accounts will likely return home at the end of October.

The township took its business to Chesterville's Scotiabank when its previous bank, Crysler's Royal Bank branch, closed its doors in January after describing the area as "overbanked."

But with the National Bank opening its doors in Crysler in February after being wooed to the hamlet by a rallying community, the township will likely switch its accounts there at the end of October, the end of the banking year.

Finch Township Reeve Floyd Dingwall said he is confident an arrangement will be made with the National Bank. The township recently asked the bank for its rates on business such as borrowing.

Dingwall said considering the way the National Bank came to Crysler, it's important that the township supports it.

"After all, we were darn lucky to get one. If the township doesn't support it, then it's a tough one," he said.

Finch Township clerk Arnott Empey agreed that a switch to the National Bank in Crysler was likely. He said the bank's proposal to the township was "Pretty much in line with what the others were."

Empey also noted that the National Bank pays taxes in the township, and that it is less than half the distance from the municipal office in Berwick as Chesterville's Scotiabank.

"Now since the bank's in Crysler, I guess council feels they should support it," Empey said.

Both Chesterville's Scotiabank and the new National Bank branch in Crysler are offering no service charges to the township. The Royal Bank charged $90 per month in service charges and offered a slightly lower interest rate.

A place of their own

Aging is a natural process, it shouldn't mean a sentence of boredom or inactivity. It's important that seniors, like the rest of us, stay as active and informed as possible.

While programming and activities have always been available to Chesterville and area seniors, most have not exactly been in their backyard. Organized outreach programs are available in Finch, Williamsburg and Winchester, but not Chesterville. But in less than a year, once an addition to the Nelson LaPrade Centre is completed, Chesterville's seniors will have easy access to programs.

Learning, as the saying goes, is a life-long process. Occasional seminars on topics such as banking and heatlh care issues will be of great benefit to seniors.

The new satellite facility will tie together a range of programs, as well as give seniors a place to gather.

But the key to this project is accessibility. Chesterville and area seniors, many of whom do not drive, will not have to go to Winchester for programs. The programs will be coming to them.

The story behind the project is similar to the banking situation in Crysler earlier this year. It was those who stood to be affected themselves, in this case the seniors, who pushed the hardest for action.

Also, it's worth noting that the project's funding came from the United Counties, via the provincial government. Taxpayers are being asked to contribute very little. And the groups that now use the building will still have access to it. Hopefully, as senior Lorne Johnson put it, the facility and the programs it attracts will be well-used by local seniors.

The idea of helping seniors is something the rest of us should think about — with no additional money for staff, volunteers from the community are needed to help make the centre's programs run more smoothly.

Friendly visiting, for example, can be a two-way street. Spending an hour or two with a senior can be rewarding, and the sharing goes both ways.

As the population ages, it's important that the younger generation and those who make the decisions pay attention to the needs of our seniors. We'll be there ourselves someday.

OFF THE RECORD

A revolutionary approach to language

By Robin Morris
Etymology Editor

Here's something for the Parti and Bloc Quebecois to ponder during the run-up to the September provincial election: government attempts in France to purge the language of 3,000 "Franglaisisms" and replace them with newly-created French equivalents have been ruled unconstitutional because they infringe on the right to freedom of expression.

The ruling was handed down last month by France's Constitutional Council which judged that the right to freedom of speech as set out in the 1789 Declaration of the Rights of Man took precedent over efforts by the culture ministry and the Academie Francaise to cleanse the language of anglicisms and that while the language police may have the right to enforce the use of gallicisms among government members and employees, they are out of bounds when attempting to circumvent one of the holiest documents of the French Revolution.

Thank the Good Lord in His infinite wisdom that nothing like the Academie Francaise - or Quebec's infamous Office de la langue francaise - has ever been visited upon the English-speaking peoples of the world.

Created in 1635 by Cardinal Richelieu shortly before Francois I declared French - or Francien, the dialect spoken in and around Paris - to be the official language of (where else?) France, the Academie was initially innovative in its approach to standardizing the language and its spellings and instituted, among other things, the diacritic marks (accents, the cedilla and circumflex, which differentiate the sound of some vowels and consonants) that have bedevilled those attempting to learn the language ever since. (In contrast, English, to my limited knowledge, has only one diacritic mark, the diarysis - the two little dots over the second O in coordinate - which functions somewhat like the German umlaut. The rest of the language's phonetic vagaries, like the pronunciations of through, though and tough, must be committed to memory.)

In 1762, after about 40 years of work, the Academie had compiled a dictionary regularising the spellings of 5,000 words. In contrast, the first dictionary in the English language, Cawdrey's Table Alphabeticall, appeared in 1604 and contained some 3,000 words.

But that was before probably the most towering figure in English lexicography, Samuel Johnson, began work on his Dictionary of the English Language in 1746. Backed only by his publisher and with the help of just a few assistants, in nine years, Johnson, working in an attic room off Fleet Street compiled a two-volume work defining 43,000 words. For his nine years of labor, Johnson received the less-than-princely sum of 1,575 pounds sterling, from which amount he had to pay his assistants.

It's one of the distinguishing marks of English that the language has no central authority and the compilers of its dictionaries are entirely at the whim of the marketplace, unlike in France and Quebec where language is seen as part of the government mandate.

Now isn't that a frightening thought? Can you just imagine the Ontario provincial government having official authority over language? Bob and the Bolshies have done their damnedest to introduce "gender inclusive" words into Ontarians' vocabularies with the result that, like Latin, Ontario English now has three genders: masculine, feminine and New Democrat.

But other than that, English is more of a wildflower than a hothouse variety of language, happily grafting words and expressions from around the world onto its Anglo-Saxon rootstock. The result is that in 1980 the Oxford English Dictionary contained 615,000 entries. The slightly less comprehensive Webster's Third New International Dictionary listed 450,000. In that year about 200,000 English words were in common usage, compared to about 185,000 in German and only 100,000 in French. And that was before the information explosion brought on by the desktop computer and le software.

Demonstrating the indiscriminate borrowing by English is the term lingua franca, a Latin phrase meaning the French language but now used to describe the near-universal use of English. Talk about a metaphorical trip around the mulberry bush. Taken literally, it would drive members of the Academie round the twist to hear someone say that English is the language of the French, even if phrased in Latin.

When it comes to words, we have a surplus, much like softwood lumber products. And we believe in their unencumbered import and export, in a sort of an etymological version of free trade.

After all, where would English be without French? Lexicographers estimate that of the 10,000 words we borrowed from Norman French, roughly 7,500 are still in common use. Words with Norman roots describe our courts, governments, fashion and diet. (While we raise cattle, we eat beef; while we raise hogs, we eat pork.) Only about 4,500 Anglo-Saxon words survived the Danish and Norman conquests of Britain but we don't feel linguistically impoverished for that fact.

To the contrary, when it comes to the use of English and attempts by the governments of France and Quebec to curtail its use, we can utter a hearty vive la revolution!

THE FARMER'S WIFE

By Wyn Thompson

Nobody asked me but...Eastern Ontario is the grandest place in which to enjoy one-day vacations, and to come home stimulated and refreshed.

The traffic is still manageable, the highways and byways reasonably well maintained with interesting things just around each corner. The cottage industries that have sprung up and the hobbies people pursue never fail to astound me.

Today, I met a lady who is an Amateur Vintage Clothing historian and collector. Her entire collection includes some 75-100 pieces. But, this day she talked about the hoop or crinoline skirt, circa 1858-1860.

The dress on the model on display was made of silk and the lady's bonnet, circa 1850, folded up for easy carrying. The hoop under the dress was one hundred and fifty inches around and was considered small as hoops went.

"While it sometimes seems that hoop skirts have been around forever, they were only in fashion for 10-12 years," she said.

"Actually, full skirts began to develop 25 years prior to the introduction of the hoop," she continued, "and soon the empire waist began to disappear and waistlines began to drop."

Interestingly enough and monstrous in its amount, the female attire began with long drawers, a knee-length chemise, a flannel petticoat, another petticoat three and one-half yards in width, a petticoat to the knees with whalebone stays, one white petticoat with ruffles from the knees down, followed by two muslin petticoats, and of course, under all that a tightly laced corset. It would be a day's work just getting dressed each morning.

With difficulty I was told, and I hastened to think that some of the more adventurous skipped a layer or three. Some petticoats were fashioned of horse-hair (have you ever sat in Granny's parlor on a horse-hair settee), some were filled with wadding, some had straw bands, and of course, all were heavily starched.

Hoops, which reached the pinnacle of fashion in 1860, were actually welcomed as it freed the person from this excess of petticoats. The hoop was promoted by Charles Worth, a Parisian couturier. The hoop was introduced to the fashion stage by Napoleon's wife who simply adored them.

The hoop replaced the Elizabethan Farthingale. In the 19th century all females wore crinolines or hoops and they were a real menace in the factories, offices, china shops etc.

While it freed the legs of all those petticoats, there was the very real danger of getting caught in the machinery of the day.

The crinolines or hoops were made of watch spring steel and could be folded into small packets. There was a mechanism for hoisting them up and one young maiden was heard saying to her friend, "Another inch higher and you'll be quite irresistible."

Men, it seemed, actually swooned at the show of an ankle.

There was another danger in the wearing of a hoop and that was in a strong wind, you might literally take off skyward. Also, in crossing a stile if your hoop got caught, there was only one way to go and, that was head over heels.

Open fires were a terrible threat, as some homes had several fireplaces to which one might stray too close, with disastrous results. "With wire caging, it was impossible to wrap the body in a rug to extinguish the flames," the historian told me.

"Men hated them as they were ruinously expensive, yet the upper class had wardrobes full of them. Also the homes had to accommodate them with wide doors, wide hallways, stairways, and suitable furniture."

"As well," she continued, "can you imagine walking down a street, holding hands, or sitting on a sofa with a hooped lady?"

The hoop or crinoline disappeared as quickly as it had come. Initially, it set the elite apart but by the time its popularity had filtered down to the lower classes, the elite tired of it and were off on a quest for a fashion change.

"Not too unlikely today," dryly commented the Farmer.

Thus it was that the bustle appeared. "But that's a tale for another day," the church minister and clothing historian promised.

The sullen heat of the day has presaged rain, and the storm is forming now; clouds streaked with violent sunset colors from a backdrop of savage beauty on the brow of my hill.

A bank of cloud engulfed the sun, and it was as if a spotlight had been switched off. The landscape went a dull grey.

A huge drop of rain spattered on my arm. Thunder rolled.

I started back to the house and by the time I just about reached the door, the rain had become heavy.

A gust of wind blew the rain against my back, and I decided to postpone further weather warning research till a more favorable time.

This was my day!

To ponder: In this time and place of beautiful gardens so bountifully filled...,

"A spell lies on the Garden.
Summer sits.
With her finger on her lips as if she heard
The steps of Autumn echo on the hill."

Gertrude McGiffert, writer.

"When apple seeds, all white before,
Begin to darken at the core,
I know that summer, scarcely here,
Is gone until another year."

Edna St. Vincent Millay, American poet.

Local artist's designs are made to be worn

Greg Hewitt

Like most artists, Carolyn Dey strives to create beautiful work that catches people's attention.

But unlike other artists, Dey's canvas is clothing, and instead of paint she uses fabric to create a variety of scenes. Dey is a textile artist and owner of Caracoke Designs.

By cutting fabric shapes and sewing them onto jackets, sweatshirts and tea cozies, Dey creates colorful scenes of wildlife, cars, maple leafs or anything a customer wants.

The idea for Caracoke designs was born when Dey made a vest for her daughter on her fifth birthday six years ago. It carried a design of a mountain scene, and Dey had made it after seeing something similar in a magazine.

People asked her daughter where it came from and who made it.

"I thought, I could do better than that, and I did. And I got a good response from it. I've always sewn, always liked and enjoyed it," Dey says.

"When my children were grown and going to school, I thought, what am I going to do? I don't want to work for the government again."

Since then, Dey has opened a studio at her home east of Morewood, and employs two people part-time. And word-of-mouth is the only advertising she has needed.

"People will phone me up and say, 'I've seen one of your coats, can I come in and take a look at your work?' Usually someone has seen my work and they're on a mission.

"I'm open by chance or by appointment," she adds.

In her studio, Dey displays a sample of what is available, some of the more common designs such as a maple leaf emblem, mountain scene, and both male and female golfers.

But custom designs are a big part of Dey's work. Customers can come in with a photo or an idea, and choose their own colors.

Winchester Township's Carolyn Dey, wearing her maple leaf coat and showing a coat with a farm scene. Dey is a textile artist, and she specializes in custom designs. Inset is a bronco design she wore to the Calgary Stampede in June.

Among the specially-designed coats she has made are a tugboat for a Brockville tugboat owner and penguins for penguin paraphernalia collectors.

And at least two vintage car buffs — the owner of a 1954 Chev and the owner of a 1969 Impala — have ordered custom-designed clothing from Caracoke.

While most of her creations are worn locally, some are now far afield. She was commissioned to make a coat emblazoned with the Liberal Party logo for Prime Minister Jean Chretien, which was presented to him at a May 1992 rally in Cornwall.

And a wall-hanging Dey made of a Mountie looking at moose through binoculars now hangs in Denmark. Coats with the maple leaf design, Dey says, are popular with locals who are travelling overseas.

Other creations include wilderness scenes, with a loon or blue heron, and a farm scene in tribute to the area's main industry.

Dey makes the jackets and vests herself, with a cotton and polyester blend. They are windproof, water repellent and washable.

Christmas is obviously the busiest time at Caracoke, Dey says. And the Christmas presents are good advertisements. On the first morning of school last year after Christmas, she received four calls.

"I don't really put any money into advertising. I figure if I have a happy customer, that's all I need."

The name, Caracoke, is an approximation of the first two letters of Dey's family's first names. But she says with some humour that she's considering changing it to Dey Designs, because some people are confusing it with "karaoke."

An artist's studio tour of Dey's workshop is planned for Oct. 22 and 23.

Osnabruck Township may pay for 401 crash

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — Osnabruck Township may have to foot the bill for a trucking accident two years ago just off Highway 401.

The Ministry of Transport has asked the township to refund the $2,800 cost since the accident took place at the entrance to a gas station, which is private property.

"I don't see that the township should be paying the cost," said Reeve Gordon Ross. "It should be the trucking company or the driver."

Council voted to send the matter to its solicitor for advice before proceeding.

While entering the Esso station between Ingleside and Morrisburg along the highway, the rig overturned against the cement guardrails.

The OPP called the Ingleside Fire Department since it was closer to the scene than Williamsburg, which has jurisdiction.

Ingleside fire chief Shawn Lalonde said there has been an increase in calls along the highway within the last 18 months and the trucking companies don't feel responsible for the costs.

"If it was on Esso property there's not much we can do," he said.

Members of council and representatives of both the Ingleside and Newington Fire Departments agreed to continue responding to the calls if needed, regardless of who paid the bill.

Park approved for Manning Road sub-division

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — Osnabruck Township council reversed an earlier decision and agreed to develop parkland rather than take cash-in-lieu from developer David Brown at his Manning Road subdivision near Long Sault.

The two-phase development will have 62 lots, which could mean more than 200 residents.

"There will be a day when families will ask where their children will go to play and they won't want to cross a busy road to go into Long Sault," said Councillor Fran Laflamme.

Council had previously decided there were enough parks in the area to support the new development and it could use the cash to help maintain them. The township would have received about $3,500.

Two 1.9-acre parcels have been set aside by Brown to be joined when the second phase comes on line. When the project is finished they would form a park in the middle of the development.

Picture perfect weather combines with good entertainment as thousands flock to Dairyfest

WINCHESTER — The sun shone, the people came by the thousands and Dairyfest '94 provided the entertainment.

Organizers of this year's annual celebration might have been worried about the success of their four- day festival after a torrential rain caused them to shift the opening ceremonies indoors to the Winchester Community Centre.

But after Thursday night's downpour, the rest of the festivities closed out with picture perfect weather and a full schedule of events that went off like clockwork.

Frank Morgan, Dairyfest '94 committee co- chairperson, said attendance was up at all events. "The fire department collected 3,700 paid attendance on Sunday afternoon and they weren't taking money from the under 10 crowd. We sold 4,700 tickets for the old-fashioned picnic too," noted Morgan.

A casino night sponsored by the Winchester Lions Club and two evening dances welcomed capacity crowds while daytime activities drew people of all ages to the downtown core and community centre.

"We couldn't have asked for better weather or a better turnout," said Linda McMahon, committee co-chairperson.

Hungry supporters of the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario flocked to a barbecue held Saturday at Greg's Quality Meats. Loretta VanDellen, who along with her husband, owner Greg VanDellen and staff and volunteers, kept a steady stream of food served to Dairyfest celebrants, said the event exceeded last year's fund raising efforts.

She added, "We raised more than $800 for CHEO, that's $200 more than last year."

Corporate and area businesses donated more than $12,000 to sponsor Dairyfest events, making the festival a major destination to many visitors, according to Joel Steele, Dairyfest '94 co- chairperson. "It's a way for businesses to give back to the community each year," explained Steele.

One hundred and seventy cars drove onto the grounds of the Winchester ball diamond Sunday and captivated everyone from the diehard autophile to the novice car-lover.

Dave Johansen, an organizer of the classic car show, said entries from the United States, Quebec and across Ontario were part of the show.

"It was an excellent turnout," stated Johansen. "We couldn't have asked for better participation."

Organizers plan to build on the success of their initial show. Promised Johansen, "Next year we figure we can draw 250 cars to our show. The owners loved it and so did the crowds."

There were rebuilt Harley Davidsons, Model 'A' Fords and 1955 Crown Victorias, but the top 10 award winners were: Jim Knapp, Barry Kuehel, Tom Francis, Skip Wesley, Mike Ogilvie, Larry Turpin, Amy Prud'homme, Gord Nichol, Andre Bedard and Murray Trickey.

New GM announced for Co-op

KEMPTVILLE — Jamie McMahon will take over as general manager of the newly formed Agri-West co-op, otherwise known as Golden Triangle.

After six years as a comptroller for Newell Industries of Prescott, McMahon says he is looking forward to the new position.

A chartered accountant with a degree in commerce from McMaster University in Hamilton. He succeeds Anita Gilmer, who served as acting general manager throughout the merger proceedings.

"It's a challenging and interesting position," he said. "There are a lot of opportunities for growth. I'm hoping we can all work together and build it up."

Golden Triangle recently concluded a merger deal last month with four independent co-ops in Embrun, Casselman, St. Isidore and St. Albert.

Management is still awaiting the results of an offering statement mailed to shareholders last month, but early results are encouraging, says McMahon.

Four outlets will remain under the Golden Triangle name, in Chesterville, Finch, North Gower and Kemptville. The farm gate business, which includes bulk feed and fertilizer, will continue to be served by the new company.

"We're going to try to maintain and increase the Co-op presence," he says. "We're also trying to emphasize customer service."

The results of the offering statement should be known within two weeks. About 900 shareholders currently hold $368,000, of which $300,000 or 80 per cent is needed to meet equity requirements under the merger arrangement.

Deep Purple win has Pink Ladies seeing blue

CHESTERVILLE—Scoring champion Deanna Corbette- White scored both goals as C/WLBHL pennant-winning Deep Purple nipped the Pink Ladies 2-1 in the opening game of the "A" Pool round robin playoff here last Thursday.

The fourth-place Pink Ladies took the early lead on the regular-season champions when Lori Marriner cashed in on a Kim Moran pass at 9:25 of the first period and that score held until Deep Purple exploded for two goals and the 2-1 victory.

Corbett-White, who netted 20 goals during the regular season, tied the game with help from Vicki Holmes and Brenda Koekkoek with 4:13 left in period three. She then slapped in the winning goal on a solo effort at 3:36.

Jackie Boulanger posted the win and Sherry Stewart suffered the setback.

In the other "A" Pool playoff match the Green Hornets blanked the Orange Crushers 2-0.

On the "B" Pool front the Aqua Sooners got two goals from Linda Hamelin as they edged the Grasshoppers 3-2 and the Kookaberries received four points each from Laura Zrymiak and Rebecca Kennedy as they downed Fraser's Flyers 5-3.

HORNETS 2 - CRUSHERS 0

Diane Shane played a perfect game in the Hornet net as her team ran up a 2-0 decision in their first post-season action.

Kathryn Houze put the winning shot against the twine in Sandra Brunner's net 4:31 before the end of period one. Shana Marriner and Peggy Wilson engineered the play.

Shana Marriner put the game away when she fired a relay from Kris Rowe into the empty net with 1:03 left on the clock.

"B" POOL PLAY

Sandra Beggs was the game MVP for her winning goal as the Aqua Sooners edged the Grasshoppers 3-2.

Beggs took a pass from Brenda Moran and poked a shot through Brenda Dingwall's pads with 4:20 left in the game and her goal stood up as the Sooners posted the win.

Shelly Benoit scored from Michelle Laflamme at 9:46 of the first period and the Grasshoppers worked with that 1-0 lead until the second stanza.

Linda Hamelin came through with two goals in that second frame as the Sooners grabbed a 2-1 advantage. Carrie Barkley and Wendy Castle drew assists on the tying goal at 12:33 and Barkley drew another assist at 6:17.

The Grasshoppers battled back into a 2-2 situation at 12:53 of period three when Cathy Fawcett scored on a shot from the slot after Marilyn Collins hustled to get the puck out of the corner and into scoring position for the shooter.

But with 4:20 left to play Beggs came up with the game-winning shot.

Roxanne Backes posted the win and Brenda Dingwall took the loss.

BERRIES 5 - FLYERS 3

It was a 1-1 tie after a period but the Kookaberries took control and held 3-2 and 5-3 leads enroute to the win.

Laura Zrymiak and Rebecca Kennedy each collected a goal and three assists to lead the Kookaberries to victory. Kerry Kennedy and Martine Thurler chipped in a goal and an assist each. Shannon Summers potted a single.

Summers pegged the winning goal on a play started by Kennedy and Zyrmiak with 3:34 left in the game. Kennedy then added one into the empty net with 0:36 showing on the clock.

The Flyers forced an exciting finish when Charlene Johnston tied the game up at 3-3 scoring from Amy Fraser and Joanne Fawcett 5:40 before the final buzzer.

Johnston and Fraser each had a goal and one assist for the Flyers. Penny Douglas potted the other marker while Fawcett (2), Tonia Foley and Connie Bryan all earned assists.

PLAYOFFS CONTINUE

The second round of the playoffs will be played Thursday night with the Flyers tangling with the Grasshoppers at 7; at 8pm it's Purple versus the Crushers; at 9 the Sooners play the Kookaberries and at 10 the Hornets and Pink Laides face off.

The final round will be played Thurs., Aug. 18 with the Aqua Sooners and Flyers playing at 7; the Crushers facing the Pink Ladies at 8; Purple playing the Hornets at 9, and the Kookaberries playing the Grasshoppers at 10.

Underdogs upset league leaders

Forward Jason Fawcett and defenceman Jeff Hyndman were the heroes last Wednesday, scoring the winning goals in their respective C/WMBHL playoff games at the Chesterville Arena Wed., Aug. 3..

Hyndman slapped a blueline shot home with 1:30 left in the game, his second goal of the contest, as his team, sixth-place Frog's (Co-operators Insurance) knocked off the pennant-winning Jug's (Top Valu Gas Bar) Jokers 6-4.

Fawcett decided the overtime issue at 17:38 of the extra 20-minute session when he whipped an 18-foot shot home from the slot to give the fourth-ranked DPT Red Wings a 6-4 victory over the second place Legion 108 Blues.

Both games opened best of three round robin semifinal series.

FLYERS 6 - JOKERS 4

As they have over the past six weeks, Frog's Flyers continued to give their opponents fits. Scoring champ Todd Marcellus piled up six points and Jeff Hyndman pumped in a pair as they shocked the Jokers in their "A" series opener.

Jason "Doc" Kennedy put the Flyers up 1-0 tucking in a rebound provided by Jeff Holmes and Marcellus 0:56 before the end of period one.

They made it 2-0 at 13:48 of the middle frame as Hyndman scored from Marcellus and Mike Desormeaux but the Jokers evened things up at 2-2 before the period was over. Ben Henry cut the deficit to 2-1 scoring unassisted at 3:03 and Will O'-Connor tied it with help from Jerrold Boulanger and Glen Mackie 0:15 before the end of the second.

Jeff Holmes gave the Flyers a 3-2 edge scoring on a sharp angle from the left side at 12:50 of the final frame. Marcellus and Desormeaux set up the play. Marcellus made it 4-2, knocking in a rebound at 9:42 after Shawn Clark and Simon Wilson had created the pressure.

Once again the Jokers rebounded to tie the score. Boulanger fired in a pass out from O'Connor and Glen Mackie with 6:23 left and then Mackie tied it up (4-4) beating Dennis Desormeaux on a feed from Boulanger and Dereck Holmes with 2:22 left on the clock.

Hyndman cranked up and drilled a long twisting slap shot into Don Marcellus' net at 1:30 to make it 5-4. Clark and Marcellus assisted on the play.

Marcellus iced the victory as he rapped a shot off the boards in his zone and into the empty Jokers' net at 0:47. Mike Desormeaux and Jamie Kennedy set up the insurance marker.

WIN IN OT

It was an all-out battle to the final buzzer with the DPT Red Wings emerging the victors over the Legion 108 Blues.

Three divisions will begin looking at player prospects Sat., Aug. 27.

Major Pee Wees, under coach Glen Libby, (925-1156) skate at 3:45pmSUn., Aug. 28.

The same afternoon coach Owen Shortt (774-5010) invites Minor Pee Wee players out for a session at 2:30.

Major Atom hopefuls are slated to have ice time with coach Dave Wilson (345-7674) on Aug. 28 at 1:15pm.

Minor Atom-aged skaters and coach Dave McFadden (267-4162) will swing into action at 8:30am Sun., Sept. 4 at the Leo Boivin Community Centre in Prescott.

The tryout fee is $45 per player and must be paid prior to a player going on the ice for the first session. Cheques are to be made payable to the Rideau St. Lawrence "AA" Kings.

The $45 fee guarantees each player an opportunity to participate in the initial four tryout sessions. The fee also includes a Kings practice jersey. The tryouts can include an exhibition game as one of the sessions.

Players must wear full equipment to each session.

Last year all seven of the Kings teams qualified for the playoffs. The Major Atoms were defeated by Greater Kingston in the finals while the Midget Kings won the ODMHA playoffs and represented the ODMHA in the Air Canada Regionals in Ottawa. They also had nine players drafted by Cetnral Junior Hockey League clubs.

The Major Bantam Kings had six players taken in the CJHL and Ontario Major Junior Hockey League drafts.

Rudi's snaps United unbeaten string at 5

WILLIAMSTOWN—They did it again. Rudi's Sports edged the North Dundas United Old Timers 2-1 here Sunday and snapped the Maple Ridge based side's undefeated string at five.

Twice the two Cornwall District Soccer League - Second Division squads have met and twice the team from Char-Lan has won by 2-1 scores.

The loss levelled North Dundas' record at 6-6-1 and left them one point out of the fourth and final playoff spot. The loss could be a costly one because United has just three games left on its schedule.

"We really needed that game but we just couldn't score. We played strong defensively but couldn't score. The streak is definitely over," reported Earl McBean.

Bill Cruise scored the lone United goal.

In two other matches played last week North Dundas battled Osnabruck to a 1-1 draw in Ingleside on Tuesday and doubled the Avonmore II Pacers 4-2 at NDDHS on Thursday.

Bill Cruise gave United a 1-nil lead scoring in the first 10 minutes of the Osnabruck match. The home team tied it up scoring on a late penalty shot.

"That was a game we should have won," explained full back Terry Sloane. "The ball hit Andy Wattie high on the arm in our goal area and they (Osnabruck) were given a penalty shot and tied the game. Not a real good call."

Cedric Kaeslen continued his scoring streak, notching a pair in Thursday's 4-2 win over the Pacers. Kaeslen now has six goals in seven games. Gary Embury and Randy Steeds, with his eighth of the season, scored the other goals.

Dave Dauphinee registered the victory.

This week North Dundas travels to Cornwall to meet Cornwall City IV at Optimist West.

Underdogs top league leaders

Rene Boulanger scored with 1:32 left in regular time and Jason Fawcett pegged the winner in OT as the Wings ran to a 6-4 victory.

Dan "Oka" Adams gave the Wings a 1-0 lead after a period. Fawcett set up the play at 10:51.

Robbie Raistrick connected at 13:35 and 1:42 of the second to answer a Dave Harper goal as the teams finished two periods deadlocked at 2-2.

Rene Boulanger scored unassisted at 18:36 and Ken "Hound" Byers made it 4-2 for the Wings at 10:51 of the third but the Blues rallied, putting three consecutive goals into Brad Pringle's cage.

Jason Ouellette scored from Dennis Ouellette at 9:41, Ray Sherrer connected from Raistrick and Jamie Whitteker at 6:59 to tie it and Jason Ouellette ripped home a feed from brother Dennis with 3:13 left and it looked as if the Blues might pull off a 5-4 win.

Wings' captain Rene Boulanger, assisted by Adams and Byers, spoiled the Blues' celebrations when he drove a long shot through a maze of players and tied it up 5-5 with 1:32 left on the clock.

It didn't take a full three minutes to decide the outcome as Fawcett completed a three-man play involving veterans Ken Byers and Kevin Moore who got the ball to the rookie. Fawcett, breaking into the slot, beat Carl Andre cleanly with a rising shot to give the Wings a dramatic 6-5 win.

PLAYOFFS CONTINUE

Round two action will take place at the Chesterville Arena Thurs., Aug. 10 with the Legion 108 Blues squaring off against the DPT Red Wings at 7:30pm and Jug's Jokers playing Frog's Flyers at 8:30.

Shane lifts Sonics to 5th straight

MAPLE RIDGE—Rookie forward Brendan Shane continued to find the net here last Wednesday booting in a pair of goals in Winchester's 4-0 victory over Cornwall City II.

With the win the Sonics moved one game above the .500 level at 5-4-1. It was the fifth consecutive Cornwall District Soccer League-Division One victory for Winchester and moved them into third place, four points back of the co-leaders, Char- Lan I and Cornwall City I.

This week they face City I and the Avonmore Pacers in a race to qualify for the playoffs.

Coach Gary Streng said his team continued to move the ball well, passing quickly and getting the job done.

He praised the work of keeper Dave VanBruinessen, who posted his second consecutive shutout, and third in five games.

Van Bruinessen received some assistance from fullback Mark Jorgensen who kicked a sure goal away from the empty net early in the second half.

Winchester was leading 1-0 at the half and nursing that advantage when the ball squibbed away from Van Bruinessen. The net was open when Jorgensen came across the goal line and booted the ball out of harm's way.

Brendan Shane gave the Sonics a 1-nil lead scoring on a play started by a Jason VanOers' rush.

Minutes after Jorgensen made that big save for VanBruinessen, Shane keyed a play that resulted in a marker by Fabian "Fabio" Adams.

Shane took the ball into the 18-yard area and drew the keeper to him. A short cross back into the centre of the goal area gave Adams a free shot at the gaping net.

Fullback Steve Van Bruinessen was next to find twine and he made it a 3-nil match with his first goal of the season. Trent Antille initiated the play just over the midfield line setting up the three-on-one rush.

Brendan Shane made it 4-nil final combining with Doug Winters and Fabian Adams. Shane was able to toe the loose ball out of the back of a scrum and into the City II net.

In spite of enjoying several glittering scoring chances in the second half the final count remained at 4-nil.

TOURNEY PLAY

The Sonics took part in the Perth Rockers tournament over the past weekend and returned with a 1-1-1 record.

Winchester opened with a 1-nil win over the host Rockers. Fabian Adams put a foot on a Gary Streng cross to account for the goal.

"They (Perth) were a good ball control team but we played well defensively and having John (Streng) on the back line really helped," coach Streng reported.

Winchester's scoring touch left them as they drew their second game 0-0 and lost their third Sunday morning by a 1-nil count.

"We couldn't put our chances away and they did. Dave (Van Bruinessen) played great but they beat him on a good one-on-one play, he had no chance."

Streng reported the tournament was a well-run event featuring good field conditions and good officiating and added it was worth the trip.

Link forges gold chain

OTTAWA—Winchester's Murray Link enjoyed a heavy medal experience at the Terry Fox Facility here over the past weekend.

Link, 17, collected four medals while competing in the Royal Canadian Legion Dominion Command track and field meet.

The NDDHS student used a strong kick to win the 17 and under 1,500m in 3:58.53. He passed Quebec runners Daniel Cote and Marcel Ciampini on the final lap to grab the gold. Ciampini turned the tables on Link in the 800m out sprinting him to the wire. Ciampini won in 1:55.85 while Link clocked a 1:55.99.

Link also earned gold running the 800m in the team relay event.

His other silver medal came in the 17-and-under race walk, a new event for him.

This weekend he will compete in the 1994 Ontario Summer Games in Kingston.

Simms homer salvages tie

RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS—Dale Simms cranked out a second-inning home run here Monday night as the defending South Dundas Industrial Fastball League champion Williamsburg Sidewinders (11-4-2) tied the OC Rebels 1-1.

The Rebels (7-10-1) took a 1-0 lead in the opening stanza as Henry Lewin singled and scored on Mark Donnelly's RBI base hit. Simms' "dinger" tied it the next inning. Lyle Schell and Dan Hogaboam (Rebels) then locked horns over the next five scoreless innings.

The point allowed the fourth-place Rebels to tie the Riverside Raiders (6-9-3) for third spot at 15 points.

The other half of Monday's twin bill saw the Pidgeon Island A's blank the Iroquois Crushers 5-0 on Wes Baker's four-hit shutout.

Matt Bilmer and Jamie Smith gave the A's a 2-0 lead in the second inning. Smith then pounded out a solo homer in the fourth and opened up a 3-0 lead.

Rob Casselman added run number four in the fifth scoring on Smith's RBI single.

Wes Baker doubled and scored the fifth and final run on Mike Veltkemp's RBI single.

OTHER SCORES

Last Friday night the OC Rebels blanked Williamsburg 3-0 on Dan Hogaboam's nine-strikeout effort. Craig "JB" Smith took the loss.

Dan Hogaboam, Chuck McDermott and Ed Rutley supplied the Rebels' runs scoring in the sixth.

The same evening Pidgeon Island nipped Iroquois 3- 2. Mike Veltkemp, Greg Workman and Rob Casselman all scored in the A's sixth while Bruce Mullin and Tim Patterson had given the Crushers a 2-0 lead in the third.

On Aug. 3 the Riverside Raiders and Iroquois battled to a 3-3 draw.

Bobby Jack Hart posted the win and Fred Osler took the loss.

Area hall of famers welcome court decision on NHL pension funds

By Rich Thorpe
Special to The Record

PRESCOTT — "Everything worked out good."

That's how Prescott's hockey hall of famer and formner Inkerman Rocket Leo Boivin views the recent ruling by the Supreme Court of Canada ordering the National Hockey League to return an estimated $40-50 million in surplus pension funds to more than 800 former players who played in the league from 1957-1982.

Boivin played for close to 20 years in the National Hockey League with Toronto, Boston, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Minnesota. He also coached the St. Louis Blues and was a scout for St. Louis and Hartford.

The Supreme Courta upheld the rulings of two lower courts that had earlier sided in favor of the players. It recently refused to hear an appeal of the lower court rulings by the league.

The case stemmed from the fact that in 1982 and 1985 the National Hockey League used most of a $26.6-million surplus from the pension fund to top up the benefits for newer players.

"It's nice to see that (the case) is over," Boivin says. "For the older fellows every little bit counts."

When he first broke into the National Hockey League in 1951 with the Toronto Maple Leafs, Boivin, a defenceman known for his crushing body checks, says his pension contributions were $900 a year. The team provided no contributions.

"(That pension) would have been worth about $90 a month today and you can't buy too much with that," he says.

Although uncertain about the amount of the increase of his pension, Boivin says he is glad the former players are now getting their just rewards.

Another hall of famer with close ties to Eastern Ontario, Bobby Hull, spokesman for North Channel Nautical Village in nearby Johnstown, was one of a group of former players including Gordie Howe, Andy Bathgate, Eddie Shack, Allan Stanley and Leo Reise that initiated the suit against the NHL in 1990.

Hull said in the past a couple of attempts had been made by groups of NHL alumni to seek answers from the league about the pension. However, the players were, in his view, a little too sympathetic to the plight of the owners and too diplomatic.

"They weren't taking any steps to step on anyone's toes," he says.

In 1990, the current group met in a hotel in Toronto and formulated a direct plan of action. Many of hockey's legends were in attendance and afterwards "things really started to forge ahead," Hull recalls.

The fact that the current group was united in its position and determined to battle it out in court against the National Hockey League helped attract many reluctant former players to the cause.

"We had a real solid group," Hull recounts.

The case generated a lot of interest and support throughout Canada and United States and donations from NHL alumni and corporations flooded in for the players' legal fees.

Now that the National Hockey League has lost the case it will have to pick up the legal costs for the former players estimated by Hull to be in the neighborhood of $1-million.

"That money is going to go back in full to those who want it," he says.

Now that the case is all but settled, the alumni are going to turn their attention to many of their colleagues who have fallen upon hard times but are too proud to ask for help.

"There are a lot of guys who are having a tough time but pride won't let them come forward," he says. "We're going to help them out in every possible way we can."

Hull says the group will be holding benefit fundraisers for that cause.
