BURIED AT GRANTLEY

The burial took place at Grantley on Friday last of Ethel Frances Bryan, wife of Mr. P. A. Shaver of Ottawa, who passed away in Water street hospital in that city on Tuesday, Dec. 16th. Mrs. Shaver's relatives live in Western Canada, five brothers, one of whom, Dr. Bryan of Port Arthur, attended the funeral. There is no family.

VERY SEVERE WEATHER

Saturday afternoon the weather turned very cold and continued so for the week end and until Tuesday morning when a slight moderation was in evidence. Those people wishing for a good old fashioned winter have surely come into their own this Christmas time. During Saturday night the mercury slumped to sixteen below zero and did not appear above for about two days.

HOCKEY CLUB DANCE

A dance for the benefit of the hockey club will take place in the Music Hall here, on Tuesday evening Dec. 30th, when a popular five piece orchestra will furnish the music. Admission $1.00.

DANCE AT CRYSLER

An "Old Time" dance is billed for Crysler for to-morrow night in the Music Hall at that place when Dubois Four Piece Orchestra will supply the music, the old time square dances will be featured under the management of a prompter. Admission $1.25 with the tax extra.

AN OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS

With plenty of snow for good sleighing and good ice at the rink for skating, surely this must be the old-fashioned Christmas we have heard so many sigh for during the past twenty or twenty-five years.

BETHUNE BUSH CONCERT

very successful school concert was held at the Bethune Bush school on Wednesday evening, Dec. 17th, under the leadership of their teacher Miss Greta Earle, and also Mrs. D. Dillabough. Mr. S. O. Kendrick made a most capable chairman. The children and young people of the community acted their parts very efficienty in the various drills, dialogues, choruses, etc. The programme concluded with the unloading of a well-loaded tree by Santa Claus.

VISIT OF DR THOMAS

On Sunday morning last, Dr. Ernest Thomas of Toronto, presented the claims of the Department of Evangelism and Social Service in the Methodist church. In spite of the bitter cold, a considerable congregation was present. Dr. Thomas is one of the most brilliant minds of Canadian Methodism, passionately devoted to what he believes to be right, and unsparing in his attacks on the evils of organized selfishness and prejudice. He dealt with the newer evangelistic method of getting people, especially young people, into groups for the intensive study of the life of Jesus. Also he illustrated the need of social service by reference to the needless infant mortality in the cities. Curiously enough, Dr. Richard Roberts, of the American Presbyterian Church, Montreal, spoke last Sunday on the same theme. In the afternoon Dr. Thomas taught the Sunday school lesson, by the discussion method, to a group of intensely interested men. In the judgment of the writer, it was the finest demonstration of Bible teaching he had ever seen.

Dr. Thomas preached at Morewood in the evening, from which point it aws understood, he proceeded to Kingston. His visits to the various points of Canadian Methodism ought to do great good in stirring up a greater interest in educational evangelism.

I wish you

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

and

A HAPPY and PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

Yours sincerely,
George Hunt.

CHRISTMAS

If a canvass of Canadian children between the ages of four and eighteen were to be made and each child were asked what holiday in all the year he or she liked best, can there be any doubt that Christmas would receive an almost unanimous vote? The very fact that there is one day in all the year to which every child looks forward with joyous anticipation is enough in itself to create in the grown-ups a sentiment of affection for that day. Mothers, we suspect, are not really much interested in Mothers' Day, and the proposal to establish a Fathers' Day has, we believe, never received a warmly appreciative response from the fathers; but mothers and fathers throughout the country take the keenest interest in what is for them the children's day.

It is natural that Christmas, commemorating the birth of the Christ child, should have come to be the children's day. The Christmas story appeals to the child's imagination; the Christmas carols have a special charm for the child's ear; the gayly decorated Christmas tree and the quaint Christmas stocking equally amuse and please the child. But the delight of surprise and acquisition when fascinating presents emerge from wrappings of white paper and colored ribbon is not all that Christmas means to children; they like the day because on it they make presents as well as receive them; the appreciation shown for their little gifts to father and mother, brothers and sisters, gives them their sunniest joy.

Often we hear people lamenting the reciprocal aspect of Christmas—the obligation to give a present to some one who has given a present to them. However awkward and burdensome the custom of exchanging presents with persons outside the family circle, Christmas is the day in in all the year that binds the family most closely together; because it is the children's day, it is also the family's day.

MR POUNDER RECEIVES PLEASANT SURPRISE

The following letter and reply tell their own story.

Christmas, 1924
Chesterville, Ont.

Rev. Roy Pounder:
Pastor Trinity Methodist Church,
Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Mr. Pounder::—

As tangible evidence of our appreciation of your work among us since July and of our continued sympathy and co-operation with you in your work, we ask you to accept the enclosed.

Wishing you a very happy Christmas we are yours in the work.

This letter enclosing one hundred dollars in gold was signed by a number of prominent members of the Methodist church and congregation. Mr. Pounder was deeply touched by this token of loyalty and appreciation, and has sent the following letter to each one of the generous donors.

Dear Friend:—

Words fail to convey the depth of feeling stirred in my heart by the generous Christmas gift which I received to-day. I appreciate the gift of gold; but more deeply still do I appreciate what is more precious than gold, the loyalty of loving hearts. To the sensitive heart of your pastor there is an exquisite sweetness in the good will of my friends, which will linger with me in the days to come and cause me to associate with this Christmas season one of the most beautiful memories of my life.

Wishing you and yours all the joys of the Christmas season, I am, as ever,

Yours very cordially,
Roy M. Pounder.

COMMUNICATION

Editor of The Record:—

There was a communication in your paper some time ago signed by R. Steven refering to a certain resolution sent to Brockville Presbytery by the Managing Board of Morewood Presbyterian Church stating that the resolution had met its just dolement at Presbytery and had been thrown out. I wish to make it plain that the resolution was not thrown out as stated in the communication in The Record but was refered back to the Managing board to be transmitted in the regular way namely, through the session. At a recent meeting of the session and at the last regular meeting of Presbytery the resolution was dealt with by the Presbytery and a committee was appointed to wait in the Session and Managing Board of Morewood congregation. The committee came to hand and met with the Board and Session on Dec. 17th and some of the vexatious problems that had faced the managing board for sometime was cleared up much to the satisfaction of the Board.

81 1 PER CENT TO DECIDE FOR UNITED CHURCH

The results of an official census of the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in Canada on the question of Church Union were published in a statement issued at the headquarters of the Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening, when the last returns from the 77 Prebyteries, as reported, 1,307 will enter the United Church; this being 80.1 per cent. of the total. The number of those reported to have definitely decided not to enter the Union is 197; being 12 per cent. of the total. The balance of 126 ministers are reported to be undecided as to whether they will enter the Union or not.

"The census was conducted by responsible men in each of the 77 presbyteries by means of a uniform questionaire. No minister was required to make a declaration one way or the other, the census being purely voluntary, and it is reported that many of the 126 undeclared took advantage of this condition, for the time being. Some of the foreign missionaries and a few others with whom the presbyteries' representatives were not in touch, owing to distance, are not included in the above figures.

"It is noted from the returns that the ministers who have declared that they will not enter the Union are almost all in local centres, and if they were distributed over the 77 presbyteries there would be less than three ministers to a presbytery. The ministers of the Presbyterian Church have no vote in the congregational voting which commences on Monday, December 22, and the above returns are important as showing their position."

Boss Hasn't Learned It

"But, John dear, before we were married you told me you were worth fifty dollars a week."

"I am but the boss just gives me twenty."

Here and There

Rex Beach, the eminent American author, was recently in New Brunswick as a guest of W. G. McIntyre. On leaving for his home in the United States at the conclusion of his visit, Mr. Beach expressed himself as a strong booster for the hunting and fishing possibilities of the province, charmed with its scenic beauties, delighted with its people and solemnly proposing to return with his gang next year.

The largest and one of the most valuable shipments of foxes ever to pass through Montreal, Que., by Dominion Express Company, was handled by that organization recently. There were 35 animals in the shipment, valued at $17,000, 30 being silverblack foxes and the rest black foxes. The former were destined for exhibition at Minneapolis, while the latter went to different points in the Canadian West.

The Eastern International Dog-Sled Derby, which was so successful last year, will again be held at Quebec in 1925, the dates set being February 19th, 20th and 21st. As on former occasions, the distance to be covered will be 120 miles, at an average rate of 40 miles a day. Earl Bridges, Le Pas, Manitoba, now holds the handsome trophy awarded for the race and is expected to defend his honors. Many teams are already working out.

A decided acquisition to Trois Rivieres, Que., is the new Canadian Pacific Railway station, which was opened there on November 8th. The building is Italian in design. Rose and Macdonald, of Montreal, were the architects. Remarkable speed was made in the construction, as the contract for the work was only signed on June 2nd last. The opening ceremony was performed by Grant Hall, vice-president of the company, in the presence of many notables.

Three moose and one deer was the total bag of W. B. Leeds, jr., young American multi-millionaire, and his friends, Nils Florman, Albert Hopkins, Paul Smith and Mortimer Davis, jr., as the result of their recent hunting trip into the Kipawa district. The leader of the party expressed himself as delighted with the results, as he had not hoped for such luck. Great quantities of game of all kinds were seen.

That the Land of Evangeline (Nova Scotia) now ships over 2,000,000 bushels of apples abroad annually was the recent statement of F. G. J. Comeau, general freight and passenger agent, Dominion Atlantic Railway. A number of British apple growers and buyers are at present putting large tracts of land under fruit. With the apple growing industry increasing from year to year, at the rate of two to three hundred per cent per decade, only twenty per cent of the orchard land available in the province is yet under fruit.

Perhaps the most remarkable, certainly the first aerial stowaway in history was discovered by Pilot Caldwell of the Laurentide Air Service, operating in the neighborhood of the Rouyn gold-fields, the other day. Caldwell, on rising for a long flight, found his machine so badly balanced as to be almost unmanagable. Cigarette butts and other clues led to the uncovering of the extra weight, which turned out to be a miner. As the man had taken this cheap but decidedly dangerous way of reaching civilization in order to see his sick wife, he was not detained or punished.

The Wrong Type

Max—"Did my wife make a speech at the meeting this afternoon?"

—"Well,, I don't believe I've ever met your wife, but a large, distinguished-looking woman got up and started by saying she couldn't find words to express her feelings."

"That wasn't my wife."

old her mother died.
spent much time on her fathe
and consequently was out of schoo much of the year. When she was fourteen years old and in one of the low grades she left school altogether.

Six years later she was employed in a millinery shop she heard George Leslie Mackay, the missionary, tell of his experiences in Formosa. Hearing of the beautiful island and the marvelous changes that the Gospel had wrought in the lives of the natives made her long to become a missionary. "But I cannot; I have no education," she thought. So she contributed money to the work.

Then she listened to Dr. Robertson of the New Hebrides, and again she heard the call to enter the service; but she said to herself, "Surely God would never ask me, for I have no education." And again she gave mnoey.

The call was so insistent, however, that she finally offered herself. But owing to her lack of education the missionery board kindly declined her services.

Then Margaret decided she would get an education. A teacher gave her a ist of books proper to fit her for the grammar school, but she could not study successfully by herself; so she went back to school with small boys and girls. She was then twenty-two years old, and she used to pray that the boys and girls would not laugh at her. In four years she was graduated. Then one happy day she entered Queen's University, Kingston, as a medical student and later took a postgraduate course in London. When she offered herself agaain as a missionary, in 1890, she was accepted and sent to India.

At first the natives called her "foreign devil" and threatened her, but now they worship her as a queen. In the city of Neemuch Margaret has cared for the sick and the plague-stricken. She has always lifted the soul as she healed the body. Now, though she is old, she is still at work.

Women of Saskatchewan recently sent her a small automobile. In her letter of thanks she said that now she can cover much more ground and go to many more villages in a day.

She has been feted and honored by kings and potentates. One of the honors of which she is justly proud is a medal that the King and Queen of England presented to her at the Durbar at Delhi in 1911 for distinguished service.

I once heard her say that the ninety-first Psalm was literally fulfilled in her life. She has trodden on the lion and the adder. Thousands have fallen at her sidew ith cholera, yet God has given her long life.

Who Claimed 'Em?

"During a stay in the South," says a Baltimore man, "I attended divine service in a country church, the minister of which, in making a certain announcement, seemed to have been prepared for untoward results from preaching.

"There are some flowers here,' "for those are sick at the this service.' "

Colli ore the Walkerto ssociation, a business m organization, Mr. E. Roy Sayles spoke on the "Community Newspaper." He opened by outlining the situation as it is today, with the larger centres threatening the extinction of the small town merchant, making it necessary in order to succeed for the local merchant to fight the departmental store with their own weapons of publicity. There are many good forms of advertising, he said, but the cheapest of all is the weekly newspaper through which the merchant can reach many hundreds of homes in town and district for a few cents, the merest fraction of what it would cost to reach them in any other way. Mr. Sayles, further appealed to the merchants to make the best use of the space which they are paying for in the town papers. A good rule was to talk in the ad. pust as you talk to your own customers. Ads. in the local papers are news. Make your advertisements just as newsy and attractive as possible. Together the merchant and the newspaper may prove a strong combination.

Expensive Error

Master—Jane, you really must get rid of the cobwebs when you're cleaning. I've just taken a huge one off our bedpost and put it in the fire.

Jane—Oh, sir, that was madam's new dance frock!

as saying a spell back, he did tendout on her consid'able; I ain't syin' how much nor whether she wa'n't willin' he should up to a certain point. I ain't sayin' 'bout that, because I don't know for certain one single thing about what she thought. I ony know what I think myself, and and that is he thought she was goin' to take up withhim for good and all, and that she didn't have no sech idea from the beginnin'.

"She was always lugging that camera round with her and was f'rever and eternally snappin' at things with it—me and my wife and the hired man and the cows and the hens and even a passel of shotes that was feed' many pictures of the city feller too. Some of 'em he knew about at the time, and some of 'em he never mistrusted a thingabout, I reckon.

"I run along that way till a few days ago, and then my wife and I both noticed she was gettin' some irked at the way the young feller kep' aafter her; seemed like he wasn't willin' to be away from her at all. She didn't say anythig, but we both noticed her lookin' at him odd times kind of cur'us and speculatin', and it was plain 'nough she was turnin' somethin' over in her mind.

"Day b'fore yest'day she asked me if I couldn't darken a room for her out in the shed, so she could print off some of the pictures she'd took. I rigged up apiece of hoss blanket over the window and chinked up a crack or two, and she went to work in there, and come evenin' she had lot of pictures got ready. She brought 'em down and left 'em on the tabe in was pretty red when he laid that one down.

"II ain't goin' to try to tell you of all of 'em, but the last one he bothered to look at was one she took when he didn't know anybody was lookin', I know well 'nough. It was one where he was out by the back kitchen door, talkin' to that light haired Clare Beeson, that my wife had to help in the kitchen a spell. He looked in that one the most foolish and languishin' of anything I ever saw in the semblance of a human.

"He gave that picture just one look—and talk about turnin' red in the face; his face was wuss'n red; it g arnet! He slammed that picture down on the table, and he wheeled and put off upstairs, and beside him a ramrod would have been as limber and yieldin' as a willer twig! And he didn't come down again either—not to supper nor to breakfast nor any time till 'bout twenty minutes before train time. I drove him to the fepot, and he wa'n't very sociable on the way either.

"So," concluded Mr. Peaslee, "while he didn't exactly get no for an answer he got jest as good as that. Wouldn't you say so, Hyne?"

THEY BASK IN MID-WINTER SUNSHINE

Port of Spain, Trinidad. Below, Light lunch after a dip in the open air swimming pool on the deck of the 'Montroyal." Inset, "You go way f'om heah."

Why pick on me?" says the little fellow, "there are many other things which can interest you and hold your attention." And so there are, but after all the native life of the "Isles of the Blest" is worth a little study, is it not? Take this little Jamaician for instance. If you took away his shirt and his broom handle you would not leave him much other than a full tummy, yet he is a British subject, and as such has an opportunity of becoming—well—of doing pretty well for himself and of gathering enough of this world's substance to give him comfort at least in his later years. He will grow up in a ramshackle old hut on the edge of the town maybe, and learn to be jealous of his rights as a citizen; and when he comes to the age of understanding he will be more English than the English. As a matter of fact he will, in all probability, speak at least two "English" languages. In one of these he might implore you to buy his fruits or lace bark souvenirs or direct you over the fine road that form a work over the island, and in the other h converse with his kind. This language s as foreign as any you will meet with in your the West Indies, but if you listen intently en will catch an "I" and an "an" or a "Yes"; th ally your ear will be able to distinguish a and you will wonder that you could no the dialect.

Heifer Imprisoned For Ten Days

One day last week while threshing at the farm of Mr. Frank Mack, second line, Erin, the men were surprised to find, wedged in between two mowsof grain, a yearling heifer. The aaimnl was the property of Mr. J. Edwards, a neighbor. Ten days previous several of Edwards' cattle had strayed to Mack's and got into thebarn. In driving them home it was not noticed that one was- missing, but later a search for the missingan imal was made, but without success. Both the owner and Mr. Mack were greatly surprised at the find. The animal had gotten in between the mows and instead of backing out had worked its way in quite a distance. It had failed in flesh but will recover from the ten days' fast without water and only the dry ends of sheaf oats for fodder.—Acton Free Press.

The Wisdom of Aquiring Good Bonds Now

Shrewd investors seek to maintain the most favourable interest possible from bonds of good quality. They purchase bonds which will assure them high rates for long periods regardless of any fluctuations in the money market that may occur. The advantage of maintaining a good income for a long period is interestingly exemplified by the following experience:

In November 1919, Canadian investors were offered a choice of 5-year or 15-year Victory Loan 5½ per cent. bonds—both at par. The 5-year bonds now fall due and will be redeemed at 100—their face value. Holders of the 15-year bonds (due 1934) will continue to receive 5½ per cent. for a further 10 years. These bonds are now quoted at about 104 and interest.

CHRISTMAS IN THE COUNTRY

Christmas in the farm homes and in the rural schools! What memories it brings to thousands of men and women in crowded cities as well as in the open country. The spirit of making others happy is abroad in the land. At this happy time when our main objective is to add to the joy of the Christmas season for our boys and girls may we not also take stock of the kind of permanent service we are giving our children in providing for their future welfare and happiness especially for their education? Houses and lands, money and jewels, may be of temporary endurance. Good health, a trained mind, and a sound moral inheritance are treasures stored where moth can not enter nor rust destroy The best Christmas gift any community can give its children is an efficient school, one which assures in so far as it is humanly possible the spiritual and intellectual training that prepares them for the "good life."

School trustees and parents, why not, when you go to a Christmas program at your school, look about you carefully, see that the school building is sanitary, comfortable and convenient for its purpose? Desks must be occupied five hours a day by school children; eyes must be used day after day, the children need a new school building for a Christmas present if these things are not satisfactory. The Christmas vacation is a good time to make necessary repairs, to remodel unsuitable buildings, or arouse sentiment for a new one.

MORE PRIZE WINNERS FROM CANADA

The fact that Canadian farmers living in the peninsula bounded by Lakes Huron and Erie won all tne first prizes and several second premiums for flint corn at the current ernational Live Stock Show at cago, supplanting Minnesota and akotas, is making the agriculists of Canada plume themselves.

The region in which the prize corn was grown was covered with a dense growth of forest less than 100 years ago. It is a level plain, with a soil of the greatest richness, which, after it has been cleared of timber, needed only plowing and draining to bring it to a high degree of fertility. It has for many years produced bumper crops and the yield the first season was enormous.

As is usually the case, there is a fly in the ointment of the farmers in the favored region between Chatham and Windsor, due to the invasion of that pestiferous agent for crop destruction, the corn borer. Campaigns of the most widespread and intelligent character have been organized in an endeavor to cope with the newest trouble-maker with which the tiller of the soil has to deal with. Quarantines have been established at the American borders, in the hope that the area in which the borers have appeared can be segregated.

Taking a majority of the prizes for Clydesdale and Shire horses is nothing new for the farmers and stock breeders of the Canadian North-West, nor is it an unusual occurrence for the sheep men of Ontario to gather in their share of the premiums for sheep. Now when you mention corn in the western part of Ontario the average farmer sticks out his chest, steps high and shows other signs of enthusiasm.—New York Herald-Tribune.

PAYING FOR ROADS

Reports of Hon. George S. Henry's address to the Truck Owners' and Drivers' Association have suggest that the Minister of Public Works and Highways has about concluded to recommend to the Ontario Government the imposition of a tax on gasoline sold in the Province for the popuision of motor vehicles. Mr. Henry is quoted as having asserted to the truck owners and drivers that the collection of such a tax was the most equitable way of making users of highways contribute to the cost of their upkeep.

No one will quarrel with Mr. Henry's desire to distribute the cost of highway maintenance equitably. Moved by the same desire the Quebec Government a year ago revised its system of taxation of motor vehicles. It argued that wear and tear on roads was caused by motor vehicles in proportion to their weight and the extent to which they were driven. It, therefore, abandoned the issuance of motor licenses on the basis of the horse power of automobile engines and adopted a plan whereby the fee for such a license is based upon the weight of the vehicles. It also levied a gasoline tax in order to take from the motorist a contribution measured by the exextent of his driving. Mr. Henry has given no intimation of any intention to readjust the present scale of motor license fees, although he very plainly told the truck owners that a larger contribution to the upkeep of roads would be expected from the owner of the average automobile. Possibly he regards the gasoline tax as sufficient for his purpose, because gasoline consumption is governed by the weight and power of a motor car as well as by the distance it travels. Motor owners who might favor imposition of a gasoline tax as part of a scheme for the re-distribution of the burden of motor taxation probably will not welcome it as an addition to that burden and to the cost of motor operation. Motorists have pointed out that they paid into the provincial Treasury in license fees last year $4,750,000, and that that sum represented a large proportion of the cost of highway maintenance during the year. Mr. Henry replies that that sum is not sufficient to meet requirements if the Government is to carry on development without adding to the capital expenditures of the Province. Moreover, his deputy, Mr. Squires, adds that motor vehicles constitute ninety-one per cent. of the traffic on the roads.

It may occur to some people that those who travel on the roads are not the only beneficiaries of highway improvement. Property owners benefit by increased values of their land, for instance, and some businesses benefit from better roads. Motorists, however, will not complain if asked to bear their fair share of the expense of keeping up the roads. They must admit that Mr. Henry has spoken frankly of the plans he is considering and may find some comfort in the assurance that they profit by the extension of the system of good roads by reductions in their expenditures on fuel, tires and cost of maintenance of their cars.

A Regular Take-Off

"Of course I love you, Tom," and she took off her shoes. "Yes, we will get married some day," and she took off her stockings. "We will have the sweetest little bungalow," and she took off her sport sweater. "We will have a lot of little flower beds," and she took off her skirt. "Tom, dear, why can't we be married in the spring when all the world is filled with laughter?" and she took off her camisole. "If you prefer the fall I prefer it too, because we are as one, sweetheart," and she took off her petticoat because she was an old-fashioned girl. "Tom dear, tell me once more that you love me," and she removed the last vestiges of her clothing. "Tom, honey, I better say good-night for I have to get up early in the morning." And she hung up the receiver.—Exchange.

THE RANDOM SHOT

I shot an arrow into the air
It fell in the distance, I knew not where,
Till a neighbour said that it killed his calf
And I had to pay him 6 and ½.
I bought some poison to slay some rats,
And a neighbour swore it killed his cats,
And rather than argue across the fence,
I paid him four dollars and 50 cents.
One night I set sailing a toy balloon,
And hoped it would soar till it reached the moon,
But the candle fell on a farmer's straw,
And he said I must settle or go to law.
And that is the way with the random shot—
It never hits in the proper spot,
And the joke you sprung, that you think so smart,
May leave a wound in some fellow's heart.

IN THE PHYSICIAN'S PLACE

The room was deathly still. In the intense silence nothing could be heard except the hurried ticking of the little brass clock upon the mantel and the labored breathing of the patient. The physician sat by the bedside with his watch in one hand and the fingers of the other lightly pressing the wrist of the sick man.

Presently the doctor rose and, slipping his watch into his pocket, turned to the frail little woman sitting at the foot of the bed. "There's nothing more to do, my friend," he said with a faint tremor in his voice. "It's just a question of time now, of hours, maybe only minutes." He paused and then continued softly, "I know I can say this to you, Mrs. Foreman, because I know who is going to come and sit by you when I go out of this home. You can't realize how much easier it makes it for the physician to say these words when he knows his patients have the faith.

"Yes," he went on meditatively, "it means more to us than most folks think. Do you know, Mrs. Foreman, few doctors are unbelievers? Why? Well, they see so much. We know our so-called cures are only temporary at best. We only delay the coming of death; we don't destroy it. The cordon of doctors round the royal couch can do more than that, though the fee were an empire. There comes a time when we have to give up. We can do no more. We have tried everything, done everything. And when that hour comes we know that there is only one thing in the world that can help our patient; it's what we call Christianity—faith in God if you please. There has been only one physician in the history of the world who said 'I will never leave thee nor forsake thee.' You know who that was.

"I'm an old man, and I've seen a lot," he continued as he reached for his hat and medicine case. Folks can ask me a hundred questions about Christianity that I can't answer. But I do know this: it bridges the gulf. I don't have to be able to analyze the water I drink, tell who dug the well or when it was dug, in order to quench my thirst. If it satisfies and meets my needs, that's enough for me. So when I go out and Christianity comes in and sits by the bed and says, 'Lean upon me,' and I see my patient close his eyes with a smile and go to sleep like a trusting child on its mother's breast—well, it's pretty hard to convince me there's nothing in religion. I know there is."

EARACHE

There are two good reasons why we should not have earache. In the first place it hurts "like fury," and in the second it is sometimes a symptom that serious trouble is beginning. People used to be more likely to disregard the warning than they are in these days of ear specialists. You will hear men and women of sixty years or so laugh and say "Why, I was brought up on earache! We thought nothing of it; it was regarded as one of the drawbacks of being a child!"

We have changed all that, and sometimes the danger lies in too much anxiety, for every earache does not betoken serious mischief. Some children seem to have earache with little provocation. Often it is found to be an extension, sort of flaring up, of a chronic catarrhal state, and adenoids are generally present. The nerve system of the ear communicates with the nerve system of other parts of the head and face, so that a pain in the ear may be only sympathic and not signify trouble in the ear itself. Anyone who has suffered with an ulcerated throat is familiar with the sharp pain that shoots up into the ear during swallowing.

When we come to the really serious troubles that may cause earache we move into the province of the ear specialist, whose services, when required [illegible] delay [illegible] the m[illegible] media[illegible] the n[illegible] forma[illegible] son a[illegible] regar[illegible] seriuc[illegible] rule i[illegible] day we know that it is inadvisable to allow pus to form anywhere in the body, especially in the ear. Finally any persistent inflammation in the ear should at once lead to an examination for signs of tuberculosis.

An $18,000 Rolls-Royce might be a great improvement over the one-horse-shay, but it is no greater an improvement than is Williams' Camphorated Mustard Cream over the old mustard plaster remedy. Williams' Cream does not burn or blister; causes no mess or muss. There's nothing better for rheumatism or a cold in the chest. 35c at your druggists.

Mrs. Hippley met her errant husband on the stairs.

"This is a pretty time of the night for you to be getting in!" she stormed.

"Ishn't it dear?" beamed Mr. Hippley, "I dishtinctly saw two moons myself. Yesh, beau'ful night, my dear!"

Quebec to Have New Sport Facilities

With the first fall of snow covering the ground Quebec is putting the finishing touches to a programme of winter activities that will extend throughout the season and cover every phase of outdoor sport. A ski jump that will rival those of Montreal and Ottawa, and attract amateur skiers of international fame is planned for this city, and engineers are already at work making surveys and plans for its erection on the Dandurand Terrace property of the Quebec Seminary. The jump will be opened in due course under the auspices of the Frontenac Winter Sports Club, a new sportive organization under the patronage of the Chateau Frontenac and direction of E. Des Baillets, internationally known winter sportsman, who has drawn up a programme of international competitions, including figure skating, curling, ski-running and jumping, hockey and other events to take place in this city during the coming season. Mr. Des Baillets is supported by local civic, sporting, military and other authorities, while a number of offices in the Frontenac Winter Sports Club have been left open for representatives of clubs in the United States.

Featuring in the programme already outlined are ski, hockey and skating tournaments at which Canadian and American Universities will compete. In this connection it is announced that the Princeton University hockey team will meet the Sons of Ireland in Quebec, February 10th, and on the following day will meet the McGill team at the new Forum in Montreal. The American team comes from the University of which the late Woodrow Wilson was president when elected to the Presidency of the United States.

Ski-joring will receive much attention and owners of fast horses are being encouraged to train them for that sport. Races will be held on a track of well beaten snow. The Chateau dog team will play its usual part in aiding sport and merriment, and will be housed in a little Eskimo igloo, adding to their picturesqueness.

FINCH

The Chautauqua Camp Fire Girls concert in Massey Hall, Finch, on December 11th, was a decided success in every way. "The Indian Huntresses Drill" by the eight young ladies namely:—Wilemena Forsythe, Evelyn Wiseman, Thelma Raymond, Helen Johnston, Blanche Bush, Margaret Alguire, Sadie Preston and Nancy Forsythe was very effective and pretty. The gowns, moccasins, leggins, headbands, bows and arrows, were silver and white and each took her part so well, that won the applause from the audience.

The violin and saxophone duetts by Geo. Adams and Lilburn Nephew were rendered well by both artists assisted at the piano by Mrs. John Casselman, who is one of Finch's leading accompanists.

The piano duetts by the Misses Jennie Cameron and Leila McConnell, who are both instrumentalists worthy of note, were also well received.

The Comedy, "Maidens All Forlorn" in three acts, which was last on the programme was very original and comical. The Misses Eileen MacLeod, Helen Johnston and Leila McConnell, cousins looked very dainty in their costumes of today, and each delivered her part in a very pleasing manner, while their Aunt Miss Merle Flynn, an old maid of forty-five, created much laughter from the audience with her very antique gowns and headdress and took her part in a manner which is worthy of note. The Irish landlady, Mrs. Maloney, Miss Eva Otta, was also antique in her dress and caused laughter by her Irish manners, and took her part well. Lastly the doctor who turned out to be a woman and was none other than Miss Ruth Hoople, who looked quite professional in her attire and manners. She also took her part in an effective manner. This is the first concert the Chautauqua Camp Fire Girls have ever put on here, and as each one is in her teen age and a school girl, the manner in which each one took her part is worthy of praise.
