European Crisis May Not Bring War

Outstanding features of the present European crisis, which have resulted from the German-Polish dispute over Danzig and the Polish Corridor, are summed up this morning in the following press despatches:

LONDON—Diplomatic circles say British-German secret exchanges failed thus far to produce anything like solution of European crisis; Prime Minister Chamberlain sends new note to Hitler; Hitler reply expected; Great Britain rushes war preparations at top speed.

BERLIN—Hitler establishes special cabinet council "for defence of the realm;" confers with top ranking military leaders and cabinet members; reported holding firm on demands; optimism continues.

WARSAW—Large scale "partial mobilization" ordered simultaneously with reports no immediate settlement foreseen; foreign office spokesman says Hitler's latest note to Britain "even more bitter' than Sunday communication to Daladier; new order expected to swell armed forces to more than 2,000,000.

PARIS—France requisitions all railroads; puts finishing touches to war preparations; General Maxime Weygand, Great War hero and former army commander, flies to Syria reportedly to assume command of French-British-Turkish forces in Near East if war comes.

ROME—Informed Italians say Mussolini putting whole weight behind comprehensive settlement of German and Italian claims: "out with Versailles!" says Il Duce's newspaper; King Victor Emmanuel replies to Roosevelt peace appeal, saying Italy doing "whatever is possible to bring peace with justice."

BRATISLAVA — Slovak government surrenders powers to German army; neutral observers say 300,000 German troops concentrated at strategic points on Polish frontier.

WASHINGTON — American, British peace aims declared identical in unusually cordial greeting between Roosevelt and Marquess of Lothian, new British ambassador; War Resources Board tells President it is rapidly perfecting plans for mobilization of industry in case of war.

International Plowing Match Creating Interest

Prospects for the 1939 International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Demonstration, which is being held at Brockville on October 10, 11, 12 and 13, are very promising. Interest has been stimulated by the announcement that two champions from the British Isles will compete, and also by the addition of the Trans-Atlantic Class whereby two Ontario Plowmen will earn free trips to the British Isles next winter. His Excellency, Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, has graciously accepted an invitation to again visit the Match.

NORTHERN LIGHTS DID NOT BRING COOLER WEATHER

An unusually brilliant display of Northern Lights attracted the attention of residents in this district on Friday night. Astronomers believe the display foreshadows a change in temperature, possibly cooler weather.

The streamers of light in the sky were at their best between 11 and 12 o'clock, when they flickered in the northern sky with uncanny brilliancy. The lights are generally thought to be caused by positive and negative electrical charges in the air coming in contact, causing a luminous discharge.

Many District Weddings Held

BALDWIN-VANBRIDGER

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Anglican rectory here on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Jean VanBridger, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. VanBridger, Piety Hill, was united in marriage with Mr. Harold Baldwin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baldwin, of Inkerman. Rev. J. A. L. Ellacott officiated.

The bride was attired in a street-length model of military blue sheer, fashioned with a waist-length cape and fitted bodice, with fine pleating in front, and white trimmings. Her accessories were in navy.

Miss Helen VanBridger, who attended her sister as bridesmaid, wore a street-length dress of fuchsia crepe, which was fashioned with a wide girdle and applique in gold. Her accessories were in blending tones.

Mr. Ralph Baldwin, brother of the groom, performed the duties of best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at Allison's Tourist Home, Morrisburg, attended by the members of the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin left by motor on a trip to Syracuse and points in New York State. On their return they will take up residence on a farm near Williamsburg.

Honoured By Church

On the Friday evening, prior to her marriage, Miss VanBridger was honoured by members of St. Matthias' Anglican Church, at an event held at the rectory. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. J. A. L. Ellacott, Mrs. A. B. Cowan, Miss Myrtle Kean and Miss Marjorie Barnard.

During the evening the following presentations took place: A Mantle Clock, by Mrs. Ellacott, on behalf of the church, and a Linen Table Cloth, by Miss Marjorie Barnard, on behalf of the Girls' Auxiliary, of which Miss VanBridger was a leader. Accompanying addresses were read by Mrs. Cowan and Miss Kean, to which the guest-of-honour made a fitting reply.

The clock was carried into the room by little Miss Helen Rose, while a corsage of pansies was presented to the bride-to-be by Master Maynard Cowan.

As Miss VanBridger entered the room, a wedding march was played by Mr. Cowan.

Following the presentations, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Before leaving, the guests all signed their names in the beautiful bride's book, designed by Miss Verna Crawford.

FOLKARD—CAMPBELL

Vernon Presbyterian church was adorned with bankings of fern and pastel shade gladioli on Wednesday evening, August 23, at seven o'clock for the marriage of Miss Mima Campbell, of Vernon, to Mr. Clifford John Folkard, of Waterdown, Ont. Rev. C. L. Mitchell officiated at the service.

Miss Anna Crerar presided at the organ and during the signing of the register Mrs. G. D. Crerar sang "Because."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Campbell, of Vernon, and her attendants were Miss Gladys Folkard, sister of the groom as bridesmaid, and little Miss Doris Folkard, niece of the groom, as flower girl. The groom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Folkard, of Vernon, was attended by Mr John C. Campbell, brother of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a cleverly fashioned orchid chiffon dress over taffeta. The bodice was designed with shirring and the skirt was bouffant style. Her headdress was a tiara of gardenias and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Queen's blue chiffon in a model gown was worn by the bridesmaid. Her accessories were matching and she wore a corsage bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

The little flower girl was wearing a quaint frock in yellow organdy and she carried a nosegay of summer flowers.

The bride's mother was wearing a smart ensemble in black crepe styled with a jacket, the bodice being shirred and designed in pink chiffon. She wore a corsage of sweet peas.

Mrs. Folkard was wearing a smartly fashioned daytime dress of black crepe with touches of white.

At the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. E. J. York, grandmother of the bride, presided at the tea table which was centered with a wedding cake. Later Mr. and Mrs. Folkard left on a trip to Western Ontario. The bride wore a grey tailored suit, a dusty pink blouse and a black off-the-face hat. They will take up residence in Waterdown, Ont., on their return.

The groom is a member of the staff of the public school in Waterdown.

ROBINSON—CAMERON

The wedding of Miss Helen Nora Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cameron, of Morrisburg, and Robert Edward Robinson, son of Mrs. Edward Robinson and the late Mr. Robinson, of South Mountain, former residents of Winchester, took place at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday last. The ceremony was performed by Rev R. Douglas Smith, of Brockville, a former pastor of Morrisburg United church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and attended by her sister, Miss Mildred Cameron, nurse-in-training at Kingston General Hospital. The bridegroom was supported by Leonard Laurin. Mrs. Arthur Casselman played the wedding march. Gladioli, hydrangeas, zinnias, ferns and asters attractively decorated the drawing room.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white crepe-back satin, princess effect, long sleeves. She wore a net veil and with full skirt and top jacket, tied in front with a sash, and with old-fashioned white slippers, and carried a bouquet of gladioli and carnations.

The bridesmaid wore a blue taffeta gown and silver slippers, and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress. The bride's mother, who for several weeks has been a patient in the General hospital at Kingston, was unable to attend.

Following a buffet luncheon, the couple left immediately on their honeymoon, which will include Nigaara Falls and the World's Fair at New York. For travelling the bride chose a navy blue dress, with hat and accessories to match, and three-quarter length sand coat. On their return they will reside in South Mountain where the bridegroom is principal of the Public School.

Guests from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Murphy, Brinston; Mrs. Carl Brown, Lisbon, N. Y.; Mrs. Charles A. Dawley, Canton, N. Y.; Mrs. Edward Robinson and Miss Edna Robinson, South Mountain; Miss Rita Laurin, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Miss Hazel Berkley, Ottawa; Miss Mildred Cameron, Kingston, and Mrs. Douglas Smith, Brockville.

Local Film To Be Screened Saturday

Some very interesting moving pictures of Winchester were shot this week by an English Moving Picture Company, who intend to use several of them in a travelogue film entitled "Rural Life In Canada." Were you fortunate enough to be caught by the camera? If you were, you will be able to "see yourself as others see you" at the local town hall this Saturday night. The pictures taken here are being rushed to completion and will be shown on the screen Saturday night. There will be two showings, one at 7.30 and one at 9 p.m. In addition, there will be a comic stage presentation, which should make the entertainment worth attending. To help defray expenses of making the film of Winchester, there will be an admission charge on Saturday night of 30c for adults and 15c for children. At the conclusion of the show, a copy of the film will be given to the municipal council, free of any cost.

From reports of other places, where similar pictures were made by this Company, the films have produced pictures better than were anticipated.

Mike Carlton, the camera man, started the local film on Saturday night, when he took several street scenes of the crowd on St. Lawrence and Main Streets. On Tuesday morning he took some fine shots of the town, including many public buildings, stores, etc.

In the afternoon a large number of school children, as well as many of the older folk, gathered at the school grounds and the majority of them were caught by the camera, we were informed by the operator. On this occasion, a number of older boys decorated their bicycles, while a few of the younger chaps appeared on the scene with decorated tricycles. The prize for the former was won by Ormond McConnell, while Master Reggie Fetterly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fetterly, was awarded the prize for the best decorated trike. A prize was also given for the best pet, it being won by little Miss Anne Gemeroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gemeroy. The prize winners were given close-ups in the film. Other features of the afternoon filming were shots taken of Sam Ault and Bud Utman, "the Corn Husker and the Aristocrat"; Ray Lannin, "a country gentleman driving a fine pair of steeds"; Freddie Patterson, "Buffalo Bill on a Shetland Pony"; all kinds of dogs, cats, rabbits and other pets and their owners; school children on parade: officials of the town; Chief Herbert Helmer directing traffic; Winchester Fire Department answering a fire call, which turned out to be a false alarm; and many other interesting scenes.

All of these pictures will be shown on the screen Saturday night. Come and see yourself in the movies, probably you will discover that you do not need to act to be a comedian or a clown.

If the pictures are not as good as you expect them to be, blame it on the director, Reeve T. O. Keyes, who took the part of Alexander Corda during the "shooting." But we are almost certain you will be more than satisfied with the local film, so be sure and see it.

Labour Day Will Be Observed As Holiday In Winchester, Monday

According to the Business Men's Agreement, Labor Day, which this year falls on Monday, September 4th, will be observed as a holiday in Winchester. As all local business places will be closed on that day, residents are reminded to lay in an extra supply of provisions to last them over the long weekend.

Indian Signs Forecast Winter Two Weeks Earlier

According to Indian signs, used to forecast weather long before the white man became an inhabitant of the North American continent, winter will descend from the Arctic two weeks earlier this season than in the past few years.

Here are a few of the more noticeable signs of an early winter, pointed out by the Red men in Northern Manitoba:

The muskrats are searching for winter homes, which they don't usually do before the first of September; ducklings flew two weeks ahead of schedule; the plant life has developed quickly this season—Indians are picking berries which generally were not ripe until September.

Dr. J. H. Grisdale Passes At Iroquois

In the presence of his neighbors, officials of the Department of Agriculture with whom he worked most of his life, and his many friends, the funeral of Dr. J. H. Grisdale, former deputy minister of agriculture, was held at Iroquois on Saturday morning. The rooms and lawns of his farm home were crowded during the ceremony, a sincere tribute to the varied interests and many friendships of the late agriculturist.

Rev. Thomas Knowles, of the United Church, Iroquois, conducted the simple service, following which the body was taken to Hudson, P.Q., for burial. The pall bearers were Dr. Grisdale's three sons, J. Hume, A. Jose and Simpson; his son-in-law, G. Frederick Graham; and Donald Robertson.

Honorary pall bearers were close associates and friends—George Rothwell, Dr. E. S. Archibald, H. S. Arkell, Dr. George Hilton, H. H. McElroy, D. D. Gray, C. M. Godard, Charles E. Mortureau.

Dr. Grisdale died suddenly at his home, two and a half miles from Iroquois, on Thursday morning last. He was in his 70th year and, although in failing health for some time, his death came as a shock to his former associates and friends in the Ottawa Valley. He had been seriously ill for the past six weeks.

John Hiram Grisdale was born at Ste. Marthe, Que., in 1870, the son of farming parents. He attended school first at Vankleek Hill, later going to Albert College, Belleville. From the latter he graduated to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. His years at this college were outstanding. He was a gold medalist and leader in other respects. He also attended Iowa State College and Toronto University.

Govt. Service in 1898.

Prior to joining the government service, he entered, in 1898, the International Livestock Judging Competition and emerged with the first prize against a score of competitors.

The following year he returned to Canada to take over the important post of agriculturist at the Central Experimental Farm, at Ottawa. He remained in this position until 1911 when he was appointed Director of the Dominion Experimental Farms. His earlier technical training and practical knowledge of farming made him an ideal head of the experimental farms branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Research Conference

Dr. Grisdale headed the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Research Conference in London in 1927, and in 1928 represented Canada on the Imperial Bureau Executive Council, meeting to consider a scheme for the establishment, on an Imperial basis, of clearing houses for information on certain branches of agricultural science and to inaugurate the controlling authority for such clearing houses.

While the technical head of the department of agriculture, Dr. Grisdale was a member of the Canadian Research Council and joint chairman of the council's committee on tuberculosis. He also acted as joint chairman of the committee to study the important question of cereal rust.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN CANADA TO BE OCTOBER 9

Announcement by President Roosevelt of a plan to celebrate Thanksgiving Day in the United States a week earlier this year drew attention to the fact that in Canada this year's date for the annual harvest time holiday has been fixed.

In recent years it has been customary in Canada to celebrate Thanksgiving Day on the second Monday in October, and no change will be made this year. October 9th has been officially announced as Thanksgiving Day in Canada.

ORMOND B. Y. P. U.

The Young People's meeting, held last Friday evening, was opened by the president, Mrs. Gibbons. Several hymns were sung and Rev. Mr. Armstrong led the prayer period.

The Fellowship Leader, Gordon MacDonald, took charge. Scripture was read by Mrs. A. K. MacDonald and a topic: "Turning the other cheek," given by Mrs. H. MacIntosh. Another hymn was sung, and Miss Helen MacDonald read Matt. 5:38-48. Another topic "Second Mile," was given by Mrs. Fred MacDonald. Following a hymn, Rev. Mr. Armstrong closed with prayer.

Local Barn And Contents Destroyed By Fire

Fire, believed to have been started from some ignitabel material which was blown through a threshing mill, completely destroyed a large frame barn, the property of Mr. Thomas Edgerton, 2 miles north east of Winchester, on Saturday afternoon last. Consumed with the barn were 30 tons of hay, 13 tons of straw, and some machinery, owned by Mr. Arthur Annable.

Threshing operations had been in progress less than half an hour before the fire was discovered, and it is believed that a spark or some heated substance was carried into the straw through the blower.

Mr. Annable and a helper, Art Nicholson, had just started to do the evening milking when smoke was discovered coming through a partition. An investigation revealed that the straw mow was all afire. The men released the cattle from the building, which was completely destroyed.

Mr. Edgerton, the owner, estimates his loss at about $1,000, which is partly covered by insurance.

Slot Machines To Be Cleared Out

Slot machine gambling is likely to become soon a topic of strong conversation in and around the attorney-general's office at Queen's Park. There may be repercussions in the Legislature a little later on.

From a reputable commercial traveller, it was learned this week that literally hundreds of these machines are being operated quite openly throughout Ontario with little opposition from police authorities. He reports that youngsters in their early teens put in their nickels, dimes and quarters as well as adults—and while adults are looking on.

For those who are not initiated, it should be explained that the slot machine is a device by which you put in your money and pull a lever. You may get nothing back; you may get back three coins, or eight, or, if you are very lucky, a "jackpot" which often reaches a total of two dollars. It is a straight gamble along similar principles as those of the roulette wheel.

The organization behind these machines has planted units in practically every summer resort throughout the province. In an area close to one of the smaller Muskoka lakes there are five operating on the counters of small refreshment stands. You can see them being played from the main road skirting the lake. Out on the highway, two or three miles away, there is another slot machine operated in plain view of provincial policemen who patrol the road.

Such a defiance of the law is bound to come to a head before many more days have passed.

RECENT CRISIS BRINGS LOCAL MILITIA ACTION

When orders were issued at Ottawa last Saturday for guarding, by militia unit volunteers, public works in Canada, the local Regiment, The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, with headquarters at Cornwall, was assigned the duty of guarding the St. Lawrence canal locks from Cardinal east. Saturday evening the guards were on the Cornwall canal and by Sunday evening after a busy day recruiting by the officers, the whole system was under guard. At present a detachment of 100 men under Major James Shaver, of Cornwall, is on duty and civilians are not allowed on the canals from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. At Morrisburg there is stationed a guard of twenty men and an officer, while a similar detachment, under Capt. James Morrison, of Iroquois, is taking care of the Cardinal-Iroquois stretch of canal. Latest reports from Cornwall indicate that the guard would be strengthened.

Ontario Session May Be Held September 12th

Premier Hepburn said recently decision had not been made on a date for a special session of the Ontario legislature but "we expect it will be Sept. 12."

Mr. Hepburn said the Succession Duties Act amendment will be the only legislation before the House.

"We propose to establish once and for all our right to investigate estates where fraud is suspected," Mr. Hepburn said. "We only want to investigate and if we feel that fraud is proven and collect further duties, the estate has recourse to the courts."

Mr. Hepburn said "financial interests have attempted to create the impression that we were penalizing." He said the session would not last more than three days unless the Conservative opposition debates the measure at extreme length.

PREPARING THE YOUNGSTERS FOR SCHOOL

Another few days and the school bell will be calling the children back to work, after a two months' vacation. Parents are, no doubt, spending much time just at present, preparing clothes, etc., for the children to wear, and thinking very little about what their youngsters will accomplish academically during the next term.

This is a sad mistake and one that a great majority of parents are guilty of. In many cases, it takes the co-operation of the father and mother, along with the efforts of the teacher, to keep the student interested in his or her studies throughout the year, especially in these days when there are so many attractions to divert the students' attention from school studies.

If your child slipped up on his exams last June, you are probably as much to blame as he or she—it's a sane conclusion that the teacher wasn't all at fault. You should lay out a program right now, whereby your children will be given certain periods each evening for home-study, and see that they devote this period for that phase of their school-work. This will not only benefit the student, but will assist the teachers in their duties.

In the upper grades of Public School, as well as High School classes, much of the student's progress depends on how much home study he applies to the various subjects. The teacher can instruct the students on what home-study they should indulge in, but it is up to the parents to see that the students do it.

If you have a youngster who is just starting to school, Jane Quigg, a teacher herself, with a rare understanding of children, has the following to say about beginners, in a current issue of Parents' Magazine:

"Here are suggestions that I have offered at various times or have felt like offering. On the first day of school take your child to the teacher. Introduce yourself and the child and as quickly as possible go, without lingering good-byes. I stress this, because I once heard a mother say, 'Good-bye Edward dear,' then with a tearful look at Edward, say 'Oh! I am sure he will cry. He just cannot bear to be separated from.' When the mother reached the door, she turned and waved good-bye. Once outside the door—it was a glass one—she waved another tearful good-by, which brought the desired result, and Edward burst into loud, angry wails. After a week of this procedure I bravely suggested that Father bring Edward to school instead, and from that time everything went well.

The writer goes on to say that a child, to be happy in school, needs to get up early enough to dress properly, eat a good breakfast and attend to his toilet duties before he leaves the house.

It is very important that there be careful inspection to see that the child is well. If there are symptoms of a cold, or if there is a skin rash of any kind, keep him at home.

Parents can be of great assistance to the teacher and helpful to the children by showing interest in the children's work. Be sure to have a bulletin board where papers brought home by the child can be displayed. This is a good job for Father, if he is at all handy with tools. The bulletin board should be a simple affair made of burlap, on an easel, so that it can readily be moved from room to room. If the child is ill, he will naturally want it in his room. To see his work displayed brings pride and satisfaction to a child, and will most certainly encourage him to improve.

Miss Quigg observes that she once suggested to a mother that a moveable blackboard might be of value to her child, who was having difficulty in learning to write. The mother told her, years later, that she had used the idea with other children with good results. The blackboard was moved from kitchen to living room, to dining room, to bedroom, and the mother became teacher and cook at the same time.

When your child begins reading at school encourage him to read at home. This will give him confidence in class.

If the child is very shy it is often a good idea to ask the teacher to the home and let child and teacher meet in a social way without tension. Naturally, you won't discuss the child's difficulties in his hearing. That is one thing parents must never, never do.

Miss Quigg advises parents to visit the school. If you have problems to discuss wait until after school is dismissed. The teacher is as anxious as you are that your child should be happy and make progress."

THE EUROPEAN CRISIS

"Will there be war in Europe?" is the question everyone has been asking during the past few days. Only one man can answer that—Adolph Hitler, the German dictator. It is he who is responsible for the latest European crisis, which has kept the whole world watching and waiting for peace or armed conflict. Only time will tell whether Europe is to be the scene of another war, involving practically every nation in the world, and one which would not only mean moral and physical disaster, but also financial bankruptcy.

A frightful thing it is that the megalomania of one man should bring the world to such a pass. "Germany must have a free hand in Eastern Europe." No longer is German unity the excuse. There must be German world rule—German world tyranny. Poland is merely another step. Other nations, other peoples, must submit to whatever the German mania for domination shall decree. The imaginary "Aryan race" must sit on top of the world.

So swiftly have events been taking place in Europe that the rest of the world is wondering what will be next. Germany and Italy have been grabbing everything lying around loose in the territorial way. France and Great Britain, trying to check the banditry, start to negotiate with Russia for an alliance. Seems curious, since France has already a treaty of alliance with Russia. Suddenly Germany announces a treaty with Russia. This seems to leave Russia free to fight Japan. But Germany and Italy are supposed to have an alliance with Japan. Germany and Italy seem to be on the eve of attacking Poland in order that Germany may get Danzig.

Danzig, which is a free city, governing itself, seems to want to be governed by a German dictator, and to be ready to subject itself to war to get a dictator; the dictators of Germany and Italy seem to be ready to engage upon years of war and to lose millions of the lives of their people to oblige Danzig; and if Poland doesn't like it, the Governments of Britain and France are obligated to engage in years of war and lose millions of lives of their people in order, not merely to help Poland, but to check a German banditry which threatens to engulf all Europe.

It is impossible to guess what is going to come out of all this, or how soon; but with a mentality like Hitler in control of Germany, there is too much reason to fear that war is certain, soon or late. For a time, there seemed reason to think that he might be satisfied by bringing all German stock into the new Germany; but his seizure of Bohemia, which is not German, showed that in his diseased mind it is not merely German unity but German power that is his mania—and the world seems certain to suffer horribly for it.

Many people criticized the Munich Agreement at the time of the Czecho-Slovak crisis, and would not like to see the present dispute, between Germany and Poland, settled by a similar method. Maybe they are right, but let us look back a few years and see what resulted from the nations taking up arms to settle their differences. The following table, compiled after the Great War, which lasted from 1914 to 1918, needs no explanation:

Nation	Men Enlisted	Lives Lost	Total Casualties
British Empire	10,000,000	975,000	3,049,991
Russia	14,000,000	3,000,000	8,000,000
France	7,000,000	1,500,000	4,500,000
Italy	5,000,000	500,000	1,500,000
United States	3,764,700	72,738	262,693
Rumania	600,000	150,000	400,000
Belgium	500,000	100,000	350,000
Serbia	500,000	125,000	375,000
Total for Allies	41,364,700	6,422,738	18,437,684
Germany	12,000,000	2,750,000	8,500,000
Austria-Hungary	7,500,000	1,750,000	5,000,000
Turkey	1,750,000	300,000	1,000,000
Bulgaria	1,100,000	200,000	550,000
Total for Enemy	22,350,000	5,000,000	15,050,000

Total for all belligerents—63,714,700 men enlisted; 11,422,738 lives lost; 33,487,684 casualties.

The war expenditures of the various belligerents have been estimated as follows:

Britain	$60,000,000,000
United States	$50,000,000,000
France	$40,000,000,000
Russia	$30,000,000,000
Italy	$15,000,000,000
Rumania	$ 3,000,000,000
Serbia	$ 2,000,000,000
Belgium	$ 2,000,000,000
Total for Allies	$202,000,000,000
Germany	$52,000,000,000
Austria-Hungary	$30,000,000,000
Turkey	$ 5,000,000,000
Bulgaria	$ 3,000,000,000
Total for Enemy	$110,000,000,000
Total Cost of War	$312,000,000,000

The casualties of the Canadian forces, which were included in the above totals for the British Empire are officially given as follows: Officers, 9,989; other ranks, 204,397. Total number of lives lost, 60,383. Total number of men enlisted, 598,765.

IT IS THE PEOPLE WHO PAY

The number of Canadians who are under the impression that they pay no taxes is surprisingly large. They have not a taxable income, perhaps, because the average married man with dependent children is exempt. But every time he goes into a store to buy a suit of clothes, a hat or a pair of shoes, a sales tax of eight per cent. is included in the price. The same applies to women who buy hats, shoes, stockings and other articles for personal use. It applies to virtually every article that goes into the home; to every bit of machinery and raw material used in industry; to every desk, chair, filing cabinet and other equipment, the Toronto Globe and Mail points out. The fact is the sales tax is the mightiest revenue-producer the Canadian government has. It yields more than $2,000,000 a week, yet the general public is unaware of its existence. It would not be nearly so painless if people were told every time they visited a store that for every $100 spent they must pay $8 in taxation to help meet the deficit on the Canadian National Railways, or the interset charges piled up by prodigal governments.

The alarming trend of public finance is revealed in a survey of federal and provincial accounts. Since the present administration assumed office the funded debt of the Dominion has increased by a quarter of a billion dollars. The government is spending this year $150,000,000 more than it did in the first year of its reign. And whether the average citizen likes it or not, he is helping to pay the shot. The taxation levied by federal and provincial governments during the past year worked out at $52.24 per capita, or roughly a dollar a week for every man, woman and child in the country. Governments have an insatiable appetite. Their financial requirements are apparently unlimited and it is a staggering fact that the direct and guaranteed net funded debt of the Dominion and the province, not including municipalities or other borrowing bodies, now exceeds $6,000,000,000. They are taking from the people in taxes and other charges more than $750,000,000 annually.

The current account revenue of Dominion and provinces has increased by $300,000,000 in the last five years, from $465,000,000 in 1933 to $763,000,000 in 1938. The bulk was raised by taxation. Farmers, city folk, business, industry, groan under the heavy load. And there will be no relief until the public realizes that every demand for a new wharf, a new post office, pensions at sixty, subsidies and bonuses of various kinds means a new demand on its pay envelopes.

The Dominion government this year is spending between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000. There is great rejoicing because 2,000,000 of it is coming to Toronto to build a palatial postal terminal. But where did Ottawa get the $2,000,000 in the first place? From the taxes on everything the people eat and wear and use; from the beverages they drink and the cigarettes they smoke; from the eight per cent. levy that is made on every purchase, and from other imposts.

The sooner governments and people learn that they cannot spend themselves back into prosperity the better it will be for the nation. Those who think the Finance Minister is getting from some secret or magic source millions for public works, for railways that are always in "the red," for wheat bonuses that may cost the country anywhere from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 this year, and for other doubtful enterprises, are dwelling in a fool's paradise. The government has but one source of revenue, and that is the pockets of the taxpayers. It is the people who pay, today, tomorrow and always.

ENGLISH DOCTORS' DILEMMA

Neither in Canada nor Great Britain do children drink enough milk for perfect health. This fact has long been stressed by the medical profession.

In England, there has been a strong agitation to increase the consumption of milk and the movement has presented a dilemma to the doctors.

They know how essential milk is for the growth of children, but on the other hand they also know how dangerous milk can be when it is not made safe by pasteurization. In the absence of compulsory pasteurization they have to refrain from urging the use of the one food they realize is most needed.

The point was recently advanced in the House of Lords by Viscount Astor when he said that the great need at the moment was cheaper and safer milk. A few days before he had addressed a conference organized by the British Medical Association and he told the House of Lords that up to date the great medical profession had not been able to act with complete vigor in the campaign because they realized the difficulty in urging mothers to give their children more milk when they could not, at the same time, guarantee that the milk available was reasonably safe.

It was indeed regrettable that two or three of the main proposals of the Milk Bill which the Government brought forward last December, which would have assisted substantially in making the milk supply cheaper and safer, had been dropped and were not included in the present Milk Bill. There was prejudice, in some minds, Viscount Astor said, against the pasteurization of milk. His own inclination was to oppose pasteurization because he was a milk producer who wanted to sell raw milk, but he had to recognize that there was this problem and he thought that the farmers were shortsighted if and when they opposed measures to facilitate the pasteurization of milk which did not come from tubercle-free cows. Evidence as to the value of pasteurization was overwhelming. If there was an educational campaign he hoped the findings of authoritative bodies on pasteurization would be put before the public.

The Wonderland of Botany In Canada

In the wonderland of botany there is an enchantment with the quality of a dream that seems to lure us on into the very heart of beauty and adventure. To be lured thus is the wish of most of us—a wish attainable by all.

One of the botanical wonders of the world is surely the supreme beauty of our Canadian woodland in June; as we roam through the trunk-columned aisles and transepts of our beloved maples. Each leafy glade becomes to us a vast arborescent, cloistered abbey, where the shadows spread deep pools of quietness and where silence is complete, cool and fragrant, but for the wistfully soft voices of the choir of rustling leaves and the whispers of weirdly-sweet Aeolian harmonies of the woodland organ, swellnig and sinking with an almost supernatural cadence as a gentle wind harps mystic pastorales upon the twigs. The very sunlight entering our abbey—fragrant and peaceful as the inside of a flower—is of a peculiar quality, at once soothing and cheerful as it strikes through the lush, green, latticed depths of the foliage—clerestory and bough-groined ceiling.

Of all midsummers, that of Canada is to us the most lovely; when the sun and sky combine together to chant one harmonious song of the joy of life; when the hay fills the air with a drowsy fragrance of soporific and most alluring sweetness, and from wood and copse, from every tree and hedgerow the birds are carolling in blithe chorus.

Flowers are all racing one another in their mad rush to bloom and to enjoy their full share of sunlight. The very ox-eye daisies seem to ogle the sun with their yellow eyes.

When Midsummer Eve is fragrant with the languorous scent of wild flowers, and all over the countryside there reigns a solemn hush of deep, pregnant and magical silence we like to turn our thoughts to simpler times when people believed that it was on Midsummer Eve that fairies danced in the meadows and wrote messages to us mortals upon the grass with flowers; and that those who stood under an elder tree would see the King of those mischievous sprites—the elves. People who are familiar with Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," will of course remember the playful malice of "Puck."

Our wonderland of botany as seen with the eye, the magnifying-glass and the imagination extends through the whole world, embracing earth, air and water. There is no limit to where we may wander in search of new wonders.

It is our purpose to meander hither and thither in quest of adventure, often found in the most unlikely places and when we least expect it. We may venture into the land of the microscope, where undreamt wonders await us; we may travel abroad and gasp in the humidity of tropical forests; enjoy the mystic scents of Araby; circle the globe to the Antipodes; wander over arid deserts and rest in the shade of sheltering palms; and sometimes even deep into the folk-lore, legend and superstition in which botany is steeped, probably for all time.

In the course of our travels in this wonderland we will not always meet with such lovely things as our Canadian June; for there is an ugly as well as a beautiful side to Nature. Nature is a stern dictatrix. She can be cruel and ruthless, demanding obedience of all on penalty of death, or what is even worse—disease or affliction.

Yes, indeed there is a great struggle for existence in the plant Kingdom, where, as with us, the victory is to the strong.

"The man who sends his money away for any goods which may be purchased at home, providing he can get anything for the same value, is really injuring the town and decreasing the possibility of his neighbour continuing in work. In the passing of Dr. J. H. Grisdale, of Iroquois, Eastern Ontario loses a noted leader in Agriculture. He was a man who loved the farm and every thing connected with it—so much so that after years in the government service at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and after serving as a very efficient Deputy Minister of Agriculture, he returned to the life of a practical farmer and prominent breeder of Jersey Cattle. He took an active part at all farm and agricultural gatherings, where he was always a welcome figure, one whose advice and opinions were frequently asked and always respected. Affable, kindly yet outspoken at all times, Dr. Grisdale was a personality in Canadian Agriculture and will be sorely missed.

Somebody says that everything worth having costs what it is worth. We cannot look for many bargains in life. A good education is worth having, but we do not find it on the bargain counter. It must be paid for in full, with hard study, close attention, the sacrifice of many an hour's fun that might lower the classroom record next day. But we can turn that same saying around—things that are worth having are worth what they cost. Who would not rather plan and save and buy a good coat at a fair price than have a shoddy one that cost little? Who would not rather have a good education at the price of hard study than a shoddy one gotten by slipshod work in school? And who wouldn't rather have a fine, outstanding, worthwhile Christian character, won at the price of continuous consecrated effort and fervent prayer, than a poor, weak, spineless existence, at the cost of aimless drifting along the lines of least resistance?

"Well," said the other, "we're pretty sure we have, but we can't prove it."

THE POET'S CORNER

NEW LIGHT IN OLD LAMPS

Inside the narrow attic of my soul,
Among the broken fragments of its dreams,
With need of something great to make it whole,
Came Love,—a lantern in the room;
Its rays, like splendid jewels in the gloom.....
—And all that was before
Both featureless and gray,
Took form and color
Since Love came to stay.

GARDEN BEAUTY

(There are said to be over ten thousand varieties of daisies.)

A beauty even second-rate
My garden seldom shows
Through my attempts to cultivate
The lily and the rose;
My efforts with the pink and pea
Produce, to my vexation,
At best a thin and thoroughly
Decrepid vegetation.

To grow them every year I try
With very scant avail,
But it is wrong to think that I
Invariably fail;
This summer, as in seasons past,
The neighbours it amazes
To gaze upon my truly vast
Variety of daisies.

It tends to drive my gloom away
To gather from the press
There's many another kind I may
Hope shortly to possess;
No special pains I'll need to take
To reach a record figure;
They'll come unsought if I but make
The lawn a little bigger.

Cookies Always Apropos

By Frances Lee Barton

TIME marches on. New dishes appear. New methods of cooking are discovered. But the cookie is as popular with us as it was with our parents or our grandparents. New recipes like the following should tend to make it even more popular:

Mahogany Ice Box Cookies

4 cups sifted cake flour; 4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 1¼ cups softened butter or other shortening; 1½ cups sugar; 2 eggs, unbeaten; 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 2 cups shredded coconut.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine butter, sugar, eggs, chocolate, and vanilla, beating with spoon until blended; then add coconut. Add flour gradually, mixing well after each addition. Divide dough in two parts. Place on waxed paper and shape in rolls, 1½ inches in diameter; roll each in waxed paper. Chill overnight, or until firm enough to slice. Cut in ⅛ inch slices; bake on ungreased baking sheet in moderate oven (350° F.) 10 minutes, or until done. Makes 7 dozen cookies.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Next time you have trouble in deciding which new maid or hired man to put to work, imagine having the task of examining some 50,000 persons in more than 1,000 competitions for positions as widely different as editor and entomologist, or test pilot and seamstress. Then you will have a keener conception of part of the annual work of the Civil Service Commission at Ottawa, the Dominion's employment agency.

Naturally the same yard stick cannot be used to measure the capacities of those applying for such a wide variety of positions as is found in the Government Service. The Commission has to size up each situation and decide what form of examination will give the best results. The candidate might be faced with a written, oral or practical test, or a combination of any of these. Or he might not be faced with any of them: for a very satisfactory examination for technical positions is one in which a Board looks over the application forms, references, and careers of the candidates and arranges them in order of merit, either with or without a subsequent oral examination or competitive interview as these examinations are called in the British Civil Service.

Whatever the form of examination used in its competitions, the Commission is concerned first with getting as many qualified persons as possible to apply, and second in arranging them in their proper position of merit and assigning them for duty in order from the eligible list.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Starching.

For garments that require just a little starching, the water from boiled rice may be used.

Improves Gravy.

Add a touch of burnt sugar to the flour which you use in making roast-beef or lamb gravy, and it will create a pleasant flavor.

Painting Screens.

Painting the inside of a window screen white and the outside black impairs the vision of people from the outside but not those on the inside.

The Kitchen Table.

Try pasting the oilcloth on the kitchen table instead of tacking it. It will wear twice as long, and will not wrinkle or crack when wiping off.

Scars From Burns.

When burns or scalds are healing, it is a good plan to rub the new skin several times a day with good sweet oil to prevent scars. Persist until the new skin is soft and flexible.

Cleaning Phonograph Records

Fingerprints, grease, and dirt may be removed from phonograph records by use of a weak solution of soap in water. Moisten a wisp of absorbent cotton with this solution and wipe the record. Then wipe the surface with plain water.

Heating the Oven.

After lighting the gas burners of the oven, wait for about two minutes and then open the oven door for a second This permits the moist air to escape and the oven consequently will heat far more quickly after the ventilation.

Hanging Garments.

Spring clothes pins snapped at the shoulders of a dress or coat will keep it from slipping off the hanger. Rubber bands, doubled and fastened around the ends of coat hangers, will also prevent garments from slipping off.

Removing Burnt Food.

Burnt food can be removed from aluminum cooking vessels by placing dry over the fire. As soon as the food is charred it will loosen and should be removed immediately. Acids, such as tomato or lemon juice, will brighten cleaned aluminum.

THE SENSE OF TASTE

Man tastes with his tongue while some animals, for example fishes, taste with the whole body. An infant tastes with the middle part of his tongue and an adult determines with the sides of his tongue whether food is pleasing or not.

Food is tasted by means of the taste buds of which the cow has about 15,000, the antelope 50,000 and man about 3,000. The whale has very few taste buds and gulps its food so quickly that it does not bother about the taste. Among horned cattle, taste is important, and they scrupulously select the grasses they like.

We know four distinct tastes: sweet, salty, bitter, sour. The sweet taste is perceived on the tongue the quickest, because the taste buds for sweets are located at the tip of the tongue; then comes salty and sour taste. Bitter things are tasted at the back of the tongue.

Taste can be regulated. Warm coffee requires less sugar than cold, because warmth is a stimulant to the taste buds. No matter how much sugar is added to ice cream it will not seem too sweet, because when cooled the taste buds scarcely function. If the tongue is rubbed with ice, one fails to perceive different tastes, a good method in taking bitter drugs. Taste is a fine sense. It can be trained. Tea tasters are able to tell the place of origin of a tea after a single tasting. Wine tasters can tell from where a certain variety of wine came and also whether the grapes from which it was made grew in a sunny or a shady field.

Junior Farmer Training Is Proving Valuable

Peter Yurick, age 23, Port Arthur District, leads way to Grand Champion Holstein Female Honors at Lakehead Exhibition in Five Years of Breeding.

The undoubted value of the Junior Farmer and Boys' Club program sponsored and fostered by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Representatives Branch, has been well illustrated from time to time, but a really striking example of what youthful enthusiasm plus sound, scientific breeding methods taught to all Ontario Junior Farmers will do, is provided by young Peter Yurick, R. R. 1, Port Arthur, who this year carried off the Grand Championship for best Holstein female at the Lakehead exhibition, Port Arthur and Fort William.

Five years ago when Peter was but 18 years of age, he realized through his Boys' Club training that he must have purebred stock if he was to go places in the farming industry. He didn't have any money but he was willing to work. He bought a purebred Holstein bull and worked all winter in the bush to pay for it. Next year he bought one purebred cow and the following year a cow and heifer.

Last year he bought three cows from Douglas Hart, famous Woodstock breeder, and at the recent Lakehead exhibition, he showed eleven of his herd of sixteen, obtaining 6 Firsts, 4 Seconds and 1 Third, as well as Grand Champion Holstein female.

Peter has been president for three years of the Baird Junior Farmers' Ass'n., the largest of the 15 Junior Farmer Clubs of the district. He sells his milk for $2.05 per cwt. for 3.4 milk delivered.

He is but one of the 5000 Junior Farmers out to improve Ontario Agriculture.

But Peter hasn't waited until that time. when they grow up.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hollingsworth and family were into Ottawa Saturday.

Miss Glenna Murdock returned home on Saturday evening after spending three weeks at Cornwall.

Late Avner Collison.

After an illness of seven months, there passed away on August 11th, a respected resident at his home near South Mountain, in the person of Avner Collison, in his 74th year. Deceased was born near Brinston, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Silas Collison. When a young man he moved to Mountain, where he became a farmer, and in 1894 he married Miss Martha J. Kenney. To this union were born two sons and three daughters: Roy, of Calgary, Alta.; Mrs. Robert Jackson, of Millar's Corners; Mrs. Chris Forrester, of South Mountain; Mrs. Jas. Oshier, of Osgoode Station, and Archie, at home. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Ella Leizert, of Kemptville, and four brothers, Reuben, of Iroquois; and Alfred, Edward and Harvey, of Saskatchewan.

The late Mr. Collison was of a quiet, kindly disposition and will be greatly missed by his family and friends. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

The funeral service, which was largely attended, was held in the church and conducted by Rev. T. Revie. Burial was in South Gower Cemetery.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received, testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

King and Queen "Revisit" Canada at C. N. E. Show

Colour Movies of Tour Life Size Photographs Will Be Seen At C. N. E.

(By Frederick Griffin)

Who would not like to have the King and Queen back again in Canada? Who would not wish to live once more those great days when Their Majesties crossed the Dominion from coast to coast? To hear the cheers? To witness the pageants of the various cities and towns? To glmipse again the Queen's grace and her tender smile, the responsive wave of the slim, bronzed King?

It is not possible to have them here in person, but at the Canadian National Exhibition it will be possible to see them as they appeared in Canada; to have a thrilling, close-up view of the couple who captured Canada's heart; to revel in the royal cavalcade across the continent in all its majesty, beauty and color.

This will be made possible for tens of thousands of visitors through pictures. There will be, firstly, still photographs of a sort never before assembled in such a way and, secondly, a program of the finest color movies, giving the highlights of the tour.

Royalty, Science on View

This exhibit is only part of a great feature of five-fold, topical interest which The Toronto Daily Star is sponsoring at the fair. The exhibit will link the march of royalty with the march of science.

For, besides the still and motion pictures of Their Majesites' visit, there will be a demonstration of television, a demonstration of wirephoto reception and sending, and a demonstration of facsimile news transmission.

While the crowds are sure to be delighted by the royal photographs and the great story told by the movies of the tour, there is little doubt that the display of television and the other wonders of modern communication will add to the attraction of a show which will occupy a big block of space in the former Ontario government building.

This is the handsome gray stone building, with stone lions appropriately giving a regal touch to the main entrance, which is the most westerly building of the fair. It is right down on the lake-front drive-way, just inside the entrance from Sunnyside.

Spacious and ideally situated for such an exhibit, the building will be a magnet for visitors. The main entrance on the south leads into a handsome courtyard where the Ontario department of game and fisheries will display a picturesque wild life exhibit of bear, beaver, fox, birds and fish.

This year the inner court will have as added attraction an unusual Indian display put on by the federal department of the interior. Here will be Indians in their native costume, working at their handicrafts, weaving, making pottery, doing beadwork and the like. The red men and their ladies will also exhibit their native dances.

From the court four entrances will lead into The Star's exhibit area. The one immediately to your left on entering will lead right into the great exhibition of royal tour photographs. Here the whole southwest wing of the building will be devoted to this display of photographs.

This wing, lofty and spacious, will be a dignified setting for the display of royal photographs. These photographs, over fifty in number, will be the very cream of the pictures taken on Their Majesties' visit to Canada. They will give close-up, almost speaking contact with the King and Queen. They will picture in vivid detail many of the most moving incidents of the tour.

Movie Treat of C.N.E.

The color movies, capturing as they do the vivid uniforms, the flags, the King's varying attire, the Queen's lovely dresses all in their natural hues, are expected to be an outstanding hit of the C.N.E. Only color movies can give the full quality of this unparalleled and colorful sequence of events from Quebec to Vancouver, from Victoria to Washington, from New York to Halifax, which comprised the royal tour. Here you will see action, color, emotion, in a film record that is without a peer.

These royal tour films will be shown in a series of continuous performances in the theatre of the National Industries Building, as the former government building is now known. It is a galleried theatre, with every seat giving a perfect view. There will be no admission charge either to the motion pictures or to the hall of photographs.

Demonstration Explains It

What is television? What has been accomplished to date? What are the possibilities right now? How does it work? How are scenes staged and broadcasts made? What do televised images look like on the reception screen?

All these questions will be answered at the demonstration to be staged at The Star's exhibit.

See How Photos Wired

Would you like to see how, during the royal tour, whether Their Majesties were in Quebec or Vancouver, photos were received in The Star office within a few minutes and printed in the next edition? Are you interested in knowing how photographs taken of an event hundreds of miles away may be sent over the telephone wires like a long-distance call?

Then come to the fair and visit this wirephoto demonstration.

For the duration of the C.N.E. The Star will move its entire wirephoto installation from its own building to the foyer of the old government building. Here, visible to all, it will be in the immediate proximity of the royal tour photographs and other features already described.

Here visitors may see how a big newspaper, simultaneously with a network of other big newspapers up and down the continent, receives its daily quota of wired photographs of faraway events for reproduction in the next edition. They will witness the arrival, over the wires, of photographs which will appear in that day's editions of The Star.

They will also witness the transmission of photographs, taken right in the Exhibition grounds.

Already Seen Practical

Facsimile transmission and reception is not many months old but is already regarded by many as a practical proposition of the near future.

At the Toronto Daily Star's exhibit it will be possible to view both transmission and reception. Visitors will see how the copy is fed to the "scanner" or transmitter machine at one end of the booth and how it comes out—in facsimile—on the receiving machine at the other end of the display.

This facsimile demonstration, like the other four features of the five-fold show, will be on every day and evening throughout the fair. From the royal tour still and movie photographs to facsimile, it will be a grand exhibit.

We'll be greatly mistaken if one of the constantly thronged spots of the Exhibition is not The Star's big-time display of royalty and novelty. No doubt we'll all be seeing you there.

Here is an astonishing advance made not long ago in the speed with which a modern newspaper may picture a current event. Once a photographer's "shot" of a subject is developed and printed—say in 10 minutes—it takes a mere eight minutes to transmit it by wirephoto apparatus over the telephone wire for 10, 100 or 1,000 miles.

At the remaining booth will be given a demonstration of the latest wonder of the news world: Facsimile.

THE KING AND QUEEN AT OTTAWA

Their Majesties as they appeared during their history-making visit to the nation's capital

NATIONAL INDUSTRIES BUILDING IN WHICH THE FOLLOWING FIVE GREAT EXHIBITS WILL BE HOUSED

Royal Murals

One of the exits from the theatre where The Star's movie films of the royal visit will be shown, leads into the large and beautifully located south-west gallery of the building with a series of large arched windows overlooking the lake. In this gallery The Star will present a pictorial record of the royal visit from Buckingham Palace to North America and back to Buckingham Palace, by a series of enlarged photographs showing many close ups of Their Majesties and dramtaic scenes accompanying their visit.

Royal Movies

Color films of the royal visit will be shown free of charge in the well ventilated theatre, the main entrances to which are from the open court. The films will make live again in the minds of those who see them, the incomparable days of May and June when the King and Queen visited Canada. The movie will show the royal departure from England, the arrival of the King and Queen in Quebec, their progress across Canada, their visit to the United States, their departure from the Maritimes, their visit to Newfoundland, and their arrival home in England.

Wirephoto

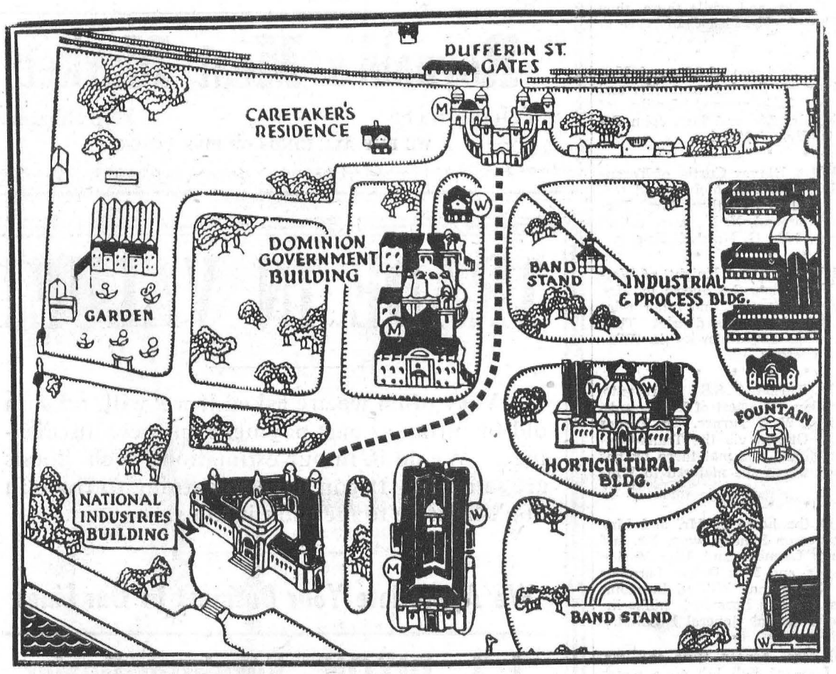
During the period of the Canadian National Exhibition, The Star will move its Wirephoto installation from its own building to the foyer at the west end of the National Industries Building, formerly the Government Building, immediately adjoining its gallery of royal visit photographs. Here, during the Exhibition, will be received from all parts of the world the regular wired photo service of The Star, including the pictures which will actually be used in the paper, so that the public can see for itself this remarkable invention which permits The Star to print today, photographs of events occurring thousands of miles away.

Television

The television demonstration will be under the joint sponsorship of The Star, the C. N. E. and RCA Victor. It will be the only part of The Star's five-fold exhibit for which an admission fee (10c) will be charged. By arrangement with the C.N.E. and RCA-Victor, a percentage of the receipts will be donated to The Star Fresh Air Fund. In this demonstration the public will be shown people and scenes being televised, including some members of the audience. In northwest wing of National Industries Building.

Facsimile—Broadcasting a Newspaper

In the lobby connecting and immediately adjoining the television display in the northwest and southwest wings of the building there will be the demonstration of facsimile in conjunction with RCA-Victor. By this method, The Star will supply to RCA-Victor, every day during the Exhibition, news bulletins, photographs and other newspaper features which will be fed into a transmitting machine called a scanner. This machine will transmit the material exactly as it was presented, and another machine will receive and reproduce it.



WHERE TO FIND THE EXHIBITS AT THE C. N. E.

Diagram (ABOVE) shows the exact location of the National Industries Building at the south-western end of the C.N.E. grounds in which The Toronto Star's five exhibits will be displayed. The five-fold show runs continuously throughout each day during the period of the Exhibition, Aug. 26 to Sept. 9.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NEWS

Open Season for Partridge Shooting.

The open season will be in two parts this year, as follows: Oct. 9th to 14th inclusive and Nov. 6th to 11th inclusive. The resident hunting licenses have been received during the past week by the issuer, Mr. Geo. E. Earle.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dixon announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Rae, to Douglas Beckett McGee, of Toronto, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McGee, of Chesterville, the marriage to take place the latter part of September.

T. B. Clinic To Be Held.

The St. Lawrence Sanatorium will hold a T. B. Clinic in the local Town Hall from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday, September 12th. Any person wishing to take advantage of the free clinic may do so by notifying their physician, who will make the appointment for them.

Able to Leave Hospital.

The many friends of Mrs. Harold Levere will be pleased to know that she has recovered sufficiently to leave the Ottawa Civic Hospital, where she had been a patient for over a month, and where she underwent a serious operation. At present she is resting at the home of relatives in Ottawa, before returning to her home here.

Arrived In England.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dixon received a cablegram from their son, Lloyd, who sailed for England on August 18th, informing them that he had arrived safely on Sunday, having spent ten days on the ocean. He also told his parents not to worry, that conditions in England were quite normal, regardless of the war scare.

Tea For Miss Rae Dixon.

Mrs. Charles Graham and daughter, Miss Aura, Chesterville, were hostesses at a delightfully arranged tea in honor of Miss Rae Dixon, one of next month's brides. Assisting the hostesses were Misses Betty Bolster, Phoebe Graham and Jean Allison. The bride-elect was presented with a beautiful luncheon set in cut-work.

Auto License Not Half Price.

According to information received from the Ontario Dept. of Highways by Mrs. A. F. Utman, local license issuer, the fee for auto licenses will not be reduced to half price on September 1st, as has been the custom in previous years. The letter stated that the issuer would be informed, at a later date, when the half price would be effective.

Recovering From Injuries

We are pleased to report that Mr. Langton Carr, who has been confined to the Ottawa Civic Hospital for two months, owing to injuries received in an automobile accident during the early summer, is progressing favourably, and is expected to be around again before long. The cast was removed from Langton's hip and leg last week, and it is expected that he will be able to return to his home in a few days.

Honored Before Leaving.

The presentation of a silk parasol was made on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. Hutt, Osgoode, to Mrs. R. Dillabough, who is leaving Osgoode to take up residence at Fort Francis, Ont. Mrs. Dillabough has been a member of the Osgoode W. I. for a number of years. Mrs. Harold Clarke read the address and Mrs. A. E. Nixon made the presentation. Mrs. Dillabough was the former Miss Gladys Conley, of Winchester.

Chesterville Fair Next Week.

Monday and Tuesday, September 4th and 5th, are the dates of the annual exhibition, sponsored by Chesterville and District Agricultural Society. A fine program has been arranged for both days and if fair weather prevails, the exhibition should be well patronized. The entries in the several live stock classes are reported heavy and no doubt competition will be keen. Among other attractions there will be a program of horse racing.

Spoke In United Church.

Rev. Thos. Meredith spoke in the United Church Sunday morning on part of the last verse of I Kings, 17: "I know that thou art a man of God," which, he said, is the highest emolument that can be given any one. Goodness is always respected. He urged his hearers to let their lights shine before men. By our fruits we are known. An interesting talk on fishing was given to the children, in which they were urged to fish for other children in order to bring them to Sunday School and to Church.

Married At Mountain.

A wedding of much interest in this district took place on Thursday last at St. Andrew's United Church manse, Mountain, when Greta Margaret, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Allen, of Mountain, was united in marriage to Donald Clarke, second son of Mrs. Hezikiah Clarke and the late Mr. Clarke. Rev. G. A. Beatty officiated.

The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Kerr, and Earl Richardson, of Mountain, was best man.

The bride was gowned in an attractive model of blue crepe with blue accessories. Only the immediate families were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark left by motor for Ottawa and Toronto. On their return they will reside at Mountain.

Surprised By Friends.

An enjoyable evening was spent on August 14th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carruthers, of Nation Valley, when a number of their neighbors and friends joined with them on the occasion of their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers were taken completely by surprise but a royal welcome was extended to the visitors, and their gracious hospitality will long be remembered by those privileged to be present.

During the evening, Mr. Malcolm Rae presented a beautiful piece of crystal and silver to Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers on behalf of their friends. Both feelingly expressed their thanks and appreciation for the gift and for the kindly remembrance of the occasion, and also expressed the hope that all would return often to share with them the pleasure of enjoying the gift.

Dainty refreshments were served by the sponsors, Mrs. Enos Munro and Mrs. Malcolm Rae.

Stores To Remain Open.

Yesterday was the last of the Wednesday half-holidays to be observed by local business places, for this year. From now on the stores will be open on Wednesday afternoon the same as on other days.

Y. P. Convention Held Here.

The Young People's Convention, held in the local Wesleyan Methodist Tabernacle on Friday, Saturday and Sunday last, was largely attended. The guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. S. W. Paine, of Houghton College, Houghton, N. Y.

Fractures Arm.

Mr. Geo. Barkley, aged farmer of the Williamsburg district, suffered a double compound fracture of one of his arms last Thursday afternoon, when he fell off a wagon which was jolted by the horses. He was brought to the office of Dr. J. J. McKendry, who assisted by Dr. P. McLaughlin, reduced the fractures.

Badly Scalded.

While operating a threshing machine at the farm of George Brooks, Dunbar, recently, John Carlyle, also of Dunbar, was terribly scalded by boiling water when the radiator cap was removed from the tractor for the purpose of replenishing the supply. Both arms, the upper part of his body and his hip were most severely scalded. He is confined to his bed under the care of Dr. Gross of Winchester and Miss Nettie Thom, R. N.

Extend Daylight Saving Time.

Due to a shortage of electric power and being unable to obtain an adequate supply from the Hydro Electric Power Commission, the Iroquois village council in order to meet the emergency held a special meeting last week. The council decided to extend the period of daylight saving in the village to Saturday, September 16, at midnight, or longer, if necessary. The action was necessary in order not to have the peak loads in rural districts and in Iroquois occurring at the same time.

Guard Canal at Morrisburg.

The canal and locks at Morrisburg were placed under armed guard last Friday morning for the first time since 1918. Orders were received on Thursday last from the Department of National Defence at Ottawa to have the men report for duty on Friday. The men are armed with rifles and also wear a government arm band. Members of the guard have been recruited from the Morrisburg branch of the Canadian Legion and will remain on duty until the European crisis is settled.

Local Boys Won Fair Prizes.

Under the direction of Herbert Graham, agricultural representative, Morrisburg, Dundas and West Stormont Calf Club exhibits at the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, did remarkably well.

In the competition for Jersey individual calves, members of the Newington Calf Club were successful in winning 1st, 2nd and 4th, and also won 1st prize in the division where three calves were entered.

In the Holstein competition, in a class of 35, Allison Fawcett, Winchester, was 1st; Keith Fawcett, Winchester, 2nd; Dwight Dawley, Winchester, 9th. Their group of three calves also won 1st for the Chesterville Calf Club.

Schools Will Re-Open Sept. 5th.

The local Public and High School will re-open for the Fall Term on Tuesday, September 5th. On the Public School staff, one new teacher, Miss Craig, of Metcalfe, has been engaged, succeeding Miss June Sharpe, who resigned to accept a school near Morewood. On the High School staff, two new teachers will make their appearance. They are J. Horace Boothe, B.A., of Toronto, and Ralph W. Froats, B.A., of Mariatown.

The new wing at the High School has been completed, and this, along with alterations made to the interior of the main building, gives Winchester a High School that is second to none in Eastern Ontario. With the additional classrooms for the teaching of domestic science and vocational training, and the highly efficient staff of teachers, the local school should attract many district students this year.

A Bower of Beauty.

Local residents who often go motoring down the Nation road towards Nation Valley, inform us that the lawns adjoining the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Merkley, are a bower of beauty at the present time. We are not surprised that their attention is attracted—we drive down to the valley quite frequently just to get a glimpse of Mr. Merkley's beautiful flower garden and it sure is a treat for the eyes, especially at this time of year, when the colour scheme of the different foliage is at its best.

To create such a beauty spot requires considerable work and careful planning, but it would appear that Mr. and Mrs. Merkley are experts at this phase of gardening, judging from the appearance of their lawns, etc. If you want to glance at a flower garden that has everything in the way of scenic beauty, visit the hospitable home of our good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Merkley, Nation Valley

CARKNER CLAN MEET AT ORMOND

About seventy descendants (and members of their families) of the "John Carkner of Ormond" branch of the Carkner family, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reoch on Tuesday evening, Aug. 29th. Mrs. Reoch is a grand-daughter.

Mr. A. D. Carkner, of 465 Parkdale Ave., Ottawa, who is the sole surviving member of his parents' family, told something of the hardships endured by his forefathers when they left comfortable homes in the U. S. A., (they being United Empire Loyalists) rather than take up arms against their King and Country.

A Committee, presided over by Mr. Percy D. Carkner, was appointed to arrange for future meetings, he being in direct line the "oldest son."

FOR SALE

Two acres of land with good house and well; barn, 28 x 22; woodshed and garage, 24 x 15; poultry houses for 100 hens; colony houses and small orchard. Situated 1-2 mile north of Morewood village.
