Chesterville Workers Win Wage Increases

A new collective bargaining agreement covering an increase in the wage rate, a cost-of-living bonus and a 48-hour week with overtime pay clause was accepted Monday evening by union members of the National Dairy Workers local 488 (CCL-CIO) employed by Nestle's Milk Products.

The new contract effective for a year's period calls for wage increases averaging 12 cents per hour, time-and-a-half for Dominion statutory holidays, and the continuation of the five cents per hour cost-of-living bonus.

While the union failed to establish a mutual pension fund, local union spokesmen were gratified that the company had agreed to continue the cost-of-living bonus with provision for an increase should the living cost rise above 150 points.

Taking part in the conferences which began last Wednesday and ended on Saturday were F. W. Marhofke, of Nestle's Company New York office, C. Bovet and W. J. Carr, of the Chesterville management, and Elmer Raycroft, international representative of the CIO: Nelson Laparde, president of local 488, and John Price, J. Fyke, A. Bowman, D. Simpson and O. Reforestation Begins In Winchester Township

A reforestation project designed primarily for water conservation had its inception near Chesterville during the past week when 19,000 spruce, pine and elm saplings were planted in the lowlying land of the Boyne section, three miles northwest of Chesterville.

The young saplings are a gift from the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and measure from six inches to two feet in height.

The first shipment from the nursery, consisting of 5,400 trees, were set out on five acres of the farm of Hugh Smith, and the second shipment of 13,000 evergreens will be planted on nine acres of the neighboring farm lands of Harold Durant, deputy-reeve of Winchester township, and a member of the Nation River Conservation Authority.

Council To Query Chesterville Ratepayers Concerning Action On Hospital Grant

Within the next few days the ratepayers of Chesterville will receive a post card through the mails asking them to make their wishes known regarding the giving of a grant to the Winchester and District Memorial Hospital by council.

At the regular meeting of the village council, attended by the reeve and councillors with exception of Mr. Turner, a delegation from the board of the Winchester Hospital was present to make a plea for consideration of a grant for the hospital. Speaking on behalf of the delegation, Mr. Hart Melvin stressed the need for the hospital in the area. "The building is paid for," he said. "What we need now is a sum of $60,000. to equip it." At the conclusion of his talk, his words were echoed by the other members of the delegation, Walter McDonald, Eric Casselman and Ray Dillabough. Council's discussion of the matter was finally settled when it was decided to ask the opinion of the ratepayers on the matter of a grant. A stamped and addressed post-card will be mailed to each taxpayer with instructions on it to state his wishes regarding a grant to be made or not to be made to the Winchester and District Memorial Hospital.

A delegation from College street waited on council for the purpose of obtaining relief from flooding. Speaking for the group, Mr. E. B. Lynch pointed out that water from as far away as Smith's hill drained down into the basin between his house and that of H. Barr. The reason for the continual flooding, in their opinion, was that the drain tile leading to the river was too small and plugged too easily. Council promised to see about it.

Bert McMillan felt that his garden lot needed some relief from underground floodin gthat seemed to be taking place. It was decided to shut off the water supply to the Legion Rink until the leak in the pipe could be fixed.

Final business was the decision to get the hydrants on King street fixed as soon as possible and to clean up the unsightly mess on the street.

Accounts were passed and paid with one exception.

NO APOLOGIES NEEDED

Tempus, the front page columnist in Montreal's Financial Times, did a remarkably good job of defending the profit system in the issue of Friday, February 27. In part, he wrote:

"If there is one thing to be noted from this price probe, it is that the leftist elements in the country are working on the basic theme that it is a sin to take a profit.

"Now I am for a profit every time. What's more, a fair profit should not have to be justified or be subject of apology. But we have got to such a point in our sloppy thinking . . . that we are already on the defensive every time anybody says that somebody is making money.

"The insidious feature of it all is that anybody should have to defend profits at all.. They are the very bulwarks of our system."

Unfortunately, we have been indoctrinated so much that many of us are already thinking like the followers of the socialists, whose great cry is "Share the Poverty."

SHORE BIRDS MIGRATE IN MAY

May is the month when the majority of shore birds migrate north, the ornithologists at the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology tell us. Many of them will be seen along water-edges and in marshes in Ontario. The Plover, Snipe and Sandpiper are popular names for those most common in Canada. The Piping Plover, sometimes called Beach Plover, is a bird of the sandy shore. It winters on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts from South Carolina to Texas and northern Mexico. The Killdeer, another of the shore birds that breeds in Ontario, is a friend to mankind. Sometimes it nests about the edges of the salt marsh but seems to prefer to rear its young about cultivated land and gardens, probably because the insects on which it feeds are abundant there. Killdeer are fond of newly-plowed land and follow the plow and cultivator in search of grubs and worms. They winter as far south as Peru and Venezuela in South America. The American Woodcock, another shore bird that breeds here, has been studied by ornithologists for more than a century, and still its periodical mysterious appearances and disappearances and its lines of migration are not fully understood. If it is not adequately protected, its extirpation is only a question of time. Of all the shore birds the Sandpipers make the longest trek of all. Most of them breed along the Arctic Coast and many winter in South America.

MAY POLES AND TOTEM-POLES

Druids with their tree worship appear to be associated, if obscurely, with the origin of the Maypole Festival in England. In any case, the festival has an ancient history. In earlier days the dances and other merry ceremonies were staged around a living tree, but certainly by the time of King Charles I the neatly trimmed pole for ceremonial use had been planted in many a rural corner of England. It was adorned with greenery and flowers, vari-coloured ribbons stretched from the lofty tip of it, and grasping the ribbons, dancers wove patterns with them as they circled the pole. It was a picturesque welcome to Spring.

If Canadians have been denied, except in rare instances, this phase of Maytime merry-making, at least they are familiar with decorated poles unknown in the English landscape. They are the Totem-Poles of the Pacific Coast Indians. As high as the entrance hall of the Royal Ontario Museum itself, examples of these poles are the first objects to greet the visitor. Like those in their native setting, they are evidence that those Indians put a literal interpretation on the genealogical "tree." This genealogy, however, is concerned with the delineation of supernatural beings with whom the ancestor of the individual erecting the pole came in contact. Animals such as bears, eagles, wolves or foxes are commonly the objects of this grotesque art. The large totem-poles developed from the functional house post, their "hugeness" facilitated by metal tools.

She Suspected the Worse

Another British story: "D'you know, Mrs. 'Arris, I sometimes wonder if me 'usband's grown tired of me."

"Whatever makes you say that, Mrs. Windsor?"

"Well, 'e ain't been 'ome for seven years."

Just once a year,
Do these things happen to mortals here,
The first greeness of the grass,
The honk of wild geese, gone in a flash.
April, smiling thru' her tears.
House cleaning fears
And washing piled in tiers,
But oh! that elusive scent
When the Misses Cedar from out their chests,
Don their new dress.
Mrs. Blackbird busy as a bee
He and she deciding where the new home will be.
Work driven farmers, with puckered brows,
Puzzling o'er this new law of Howe's,
To change the clock or not.
To milk the cows at five or six o'clock.
To suit capricious May's mood
To shed our shirt or no for good.
We'll ease our minds with hook and line
And fishing we will go.

I'va Dell.

THE DAY IS DONE

By Henry W. Longfellow

THE day is done, and the darkness
Falls from the wings of night,
As a feather is wafted downward
From an eagle in his flight.

I see the lights of the village
Gleam through the rain and the mist,
And a feeling of sadness comes o'er me
That my soul cannot resist:

A feeling of sadness and longing,
That is not akin to pain,
And resembles sorrow only
As the mist resembles the rain.

Come, read to me some poem,
Some simple and heartfelt lay,
That shall soothe this restless feeling,
And banish the thoughts of day.

Comfort

To slow music, the film showed the poor old mother discarded by her cruel children, trudging wearily along the road.

The pathos of it brought tears to the eyes of the well-dressed woman and the small boy with her heard her sob.

"Don't worry, mother," he said comfortingly, "When I grow up, I won't let you go to the poorhouse like that, I'll get you a taxi!"

MOREWOOD Y.P.U.

The regular meeting of the Morewood United Y.P.U. was held at the Parsonage on Wednesday, April 28th. Mr. Albert Bowman presided at the piano for a service of Gospel chorus singing. The president, Ken Steven, took over the meeting with the hymn, "Jesus Thou Joy of Loving Hearts". Dwight Reveler read Mark 16;12-20. The missionary convener, Jessie Byers then took over the meeting and called on Mrs. Copsey who gave an interesting and instructive message on Mission Work in India. In the business session it was decided to pay for additional lighting fixtures for church hall and the treasurer, Dwight Reveler, was instructed to write a cheque for $80.43 to settle the account. The meeting was closed with Taps and the Mizpah Benediction. The hostess served lunch.

Power For Eastern Ontairo Industries From St. Lawence Looks More Interesting

Prospects for developing the power resources of the St. Lawrence river are today brighter than at any time since the first report on the feasibility of such a plan was made about 1920, Hon. George H. Challies, Ontario Cabinet member of the provincial Hydro Electric Power Commission said in Morrisburg last week.

Mr. Challies who is MLA for Dundas and has been visiting his constituency for the past few days said the announcement made simultaneously by New York Governor Dewey and Premier Drew on Friday regarding an Ontario-New York agreement on power development of the St. Lawrence was of "tremendous significance" for all Eastern Ontario.

"I am more hopeful than at any time in nearly 30 years that the agreement will be concluded and that actual construction of a great powerhouse around Barnhart Island will be undertaken", Mr. Challies said.

"Negotiations between New York and Ontario on the subject of St. Lawrence power development have been in progress for upwards of a year and New York and Ontario hydro engineers are in agreement on all basic points.

"It will be a tremendous thing both for New York and ourselves to have an additional 1,100,000 horse-power at this mutually advantageous site west of Cornwall. Building of a dam on the river and erection of a powerhouse would in no way interfere with a St. Lawrence Deep Waterway plan as envisaged by the United States and Canadian governments.

"I see no reason why either the Dominion or the United States government should place any impediment in the joint Ontario-New York power development plans.

"Funds for the development have been provided in estimates of both parties."

Ontario, Mr. Challies revealed, has not only general but detailed plans for the compensation and re-location of owners of property along the St. Lawrence front whose holdings will come within the flood-basin of the new power project.

Iroquois Will Go

The town of Iroquois, located on the river between Morrisburg and Cardinal will be definitely wiped out by the water-storage lake once the dam at Barnhart Island is built. There would have to be an almost complete re-location of Morrisburg itself since rising waters would cover about 50 percent of the present town.

Among historic landmarks which would have to be relocated are the stone column commemorating the Battle of Crysler's Farm in the War of 1812-14, and the Whitney Memorial Church, three miles east of Morrisburg. Other communities which would have to move out house and home, bag and baggage, are Aultsville, Farran's Point, Dickenson's Landing and Mille Roches.

While some sections of these villages may be above the waterline of the new storage lake, they would be affected to such an extent that re-location would be almost mandatory. Mr. Challies said the Ontario Government had taken full cognizance of the effects of re-location and had far-reaching plans for carrying it out.

Plan New Communities

"There will be nothing haphazard about either the compensation or re-location of persons who will be affected by the power development," he said. "Not only will the railways and Highway No. 2 be entirely relocated, but we propose to build a whole series of model communities along the north shore of the area from Mille Roches westward to Cardinal. Provision has been made in estimates to cover the cost of this re-location."

Mr. Challies said he couldn't begin to estimate what availability of a million horsepower of cheap electricity would mean to Eastern Ontario. There was not a doubt but that such power right on the main railway and highway systems between Montreal and Toronto would bring about vast industrial development and would mean a very great increase in population of Eastern Ontario counties bordering on the St. Lawrence.

Building of the dam and power plant will rob the Cornwall area of one of the outstanding tourist attractions of Eastern Canada, the Long Sault Rapids. The rapids, which extend for several miles upstream from Cornwall and which are navigated only by the pleasure steamer "Rapids Prince", will be completely levelled off. In the early days, the Long Sault Rapids were the scene of daring feats of navigation by fur traders and military forces.

FROATS—JACKSON

The marriage of Georgina Phyllis, daughter of Mrs. Rosalie and the late Rev. Oliver Jackson, of St. John's, Newfoundland, to Graham John, son of Mrs. Flora and the late Adam Froats, of Williamsburg, took place in St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg, on Thursday at 3 p.m.

Rev. George Innes officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the wedding music was played by Miss Ethel Gordier.

The bride was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Gladys Hess, as matron-of-honor, and Borden Hess acted as best man.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown with fitted bodice of white satin having a yoke and peplum trimmed with lace and the full skirt of net. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white sweet-peas.

After a small reception at the bridegroom's home, Mr. and Mrs. Froats left by motor for their honeymoon. For travelling, the bride wore a three-piece suit of powder blue with white and navy accessories and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. Upon their return they will reside in Williamsburg.

McINTOSH—CASSELMAN

A quiet but pretty Spring wedding was solemnized at Williamsburg United Church on Saturday at 10 a.m., when Norma Joyce, eldest daughter of Mrs. Alice Casselman, Williamsburg, and the late A. J. (Keno) Casselman, was united in marriage to Lois Bert, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McIntosh, Williamsburg.

The church chancel was decorated with ferns and lovely Spring flowers. Officiating clergyman was Rev. Gerald Fee, pastor.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ramon, was attractively gowned in a button-down-the-back white Duchess satin creation, Bertha effect, with a high round neckline, bustle back and long sleeves pointed over the hands. She wore a finger-tip veil of white silk tulle illusion with a Juliet cap of white Duchess satin. She carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses and white sweetpeas.

Her only attendant was Miss Isobel Hess, Williamsburg. Attending the bridegroom was Paul Steinburg, also of Williamsburg. The wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Milford Merkley, and during the signing of the register Mrs. Lorne Hugabom sang "O Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The only out-of-town guest Mrs. W. H. Empey, of Wales, Ont., grandmother of the bride.

Upon their return from a wedding trip through Western Ontario and New York State, the young couple will take up residence in Williamsburg.

For travelling the bride chose a three-piece Kelly green gabardine ensemble, with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Assisting at the reception were girl friends of the bride, the Misses Marie Casselman, Ruth McIntosh, Barbara Hess and Betty Strader. Ushers were Mr. Gerald McPherson and Bill Strader.

MOREWOOD UNITED CHURCH

The services at the Morewood United Church were conducted on Sunday by the minister, Rev. W. J. Copsey. The Scripture lesson at the morning service was taken from Phil: 14, 1-23. The sermon theme was based on Acts IV, 36. "Joses, who by the Apostles was surnamed Barnabas, which is, being interpreted, the Son of Consolation". The outstanding service of Barnabas was putting heart into people. He encouraged the early church by selling his land and giving the proceeds to the Apostles to help the needy; he encouraged Saul in his early Christian days by vouching for him to the Apostles, he encouraged John Mark, the youth who turned back, by giving him a second chance, which Mark used to make good, and finally to write the Gospel of Mark. The spirit of Barnabas is needed in our day. It is the height of Christian service to put into the heart of the discouraged the determination to try again and by the grace of God to make good.

The Anthem "A Voice is Calling" was rendered by the choir, the duet parts being taken by Mrs. Jean Ballantyne and Mrs. Murray Dillabough.

At the Evening service the theme was taken from the story of the "Walk to Emmaus," Luke 24.19. "They constrained him saying, Abide with us for it is toward evening and the day is far spent". The presence of the Divine is needed in youth, the period of training; in the Noonday of life, the period of service, and particularly in the evening, the period of rest and reward, when the evening shadows fall and the curtain of life's little day comes down.

The Anthem "Great Grace" was rendered by the choir. Mrs. Sam Barrington presided at the organ at both services.

GARDEN CHATS:

By Lillian Allison

Hello Neighbour: Are you interested in getting "rich quick?" Well I'll tell you how. All you have to do is invent something that will be sure-death to quack. You could make a fortune. To date the only thing, they tell us to do with it is to dig and pull out quack roots by the hour. There's no use cutting them up; they grow better that way. The provoking part is that even if you dig out every root from your border this year, you can plan to do it all over again next year. Nature really succeeded in producing something to try the patience of every gardener when she put quack in this country.

You'll have guessed by now that I'm beginning to think about spading the border—or more correctly, having it spaded while I pull out the quack roots. A perennial border certainly involves a great deal of work, believe me. Every spring you have to rake it off, dig carefully around each plant and fill in the space with annuals for continuous bloom. Then you can start to weed and hoe immediately. By the time you get that done, it is time to cut off the delphiniums and things that are done blooming. Then the hoeing and weeding can continue right through until the frost comes.

It sounds pretty discouraging, doesn't it? Well, believe me it is. But when June comes and you are sure your pink peony is bigger and nicer than any other gardener's; you know that nobody in this county has a delphinium that can compare with your's: and you are sure that no Regal lily was ever as fragrant as your particular variety, you feel quite repaid for your labour.

A perennial border is really a joy. You always (with good planning) have some bloom and colour when the first tulips appear until late fall when the last Chrysanthemum is frozen. You always have something to put in that favourite vase for the dining table.

So take my advice and get a few perennials this spring. You soon forget your worries when you start to work with a spade or fork in your border. You really haven't time to worry—you're too busy "cussing" the quack.

Now for a call to all gardeners. The Horticultural Society is attempting to improve the Community Hall grounds this spring. To do all that Mr. Class of K.A.S. suggested would cost a bit of money, so we were wondering if you'd help us. I'm sure when you're working in your garden you'll find some shoots around some of your shrubs that you won't need. We'd love to have them.

Have you a spirrea that you would divide and give us some of it? We'd like dwarf mock orange—or even honey-suckle. A piece of hydrangea would be most acceptable or some of your smoke bush. If you have Caragana (Siberian Pea) by all means let us have some. Just dig off a piece of its root and all with a shovel or the ax. It will grow again and we need a lot of it.

If you'll only tell the Secretary or me what you can give, we'll tell you when we'll call for it or where you can leave it. We'll be quite happy to accept your offerings and you'll be glad to know you helped to beautify your Community Hall.

So long.

THE HOME GARDENER

A useful tip for the amateur gardener is to choose varieties of vegetables, flowers and shrubs which are recommended for the particular district in which he lives. Most seed catalogues have tables giving this information, and local seed merchants are generally ready to help in making suitable selections. This is particularly true of hedge plants and shrubs. Kinds which will survive the milder winters in some areas, are not hardy enough to withstand the colder weather elsewhere.

The variety of vegetable seed should be selected with an eye to its final use—fresh, or for canning, freezing or storing. Early and late maturing vegetable varieties are useful too, as by their combined use, fresh vegetables such as peas and beans can be harvested over a longer period.

CARE NEEDED WHEN FREEZING PRODUCE

It will soon be time to give attention to filling the pantry or home cold storage with preserved fruits and vegetables. Now that frozen products have been developed to such a high standard more of them are being put up.

Every year there is a growing appreciation of the high quality and fresh flavour of properly prepared frozen fruits and vegetables, says W. R. Phillips, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont.

Home canning involves longer cooking, more precise sterilizing and other procedures not required in freezing, says Mr. Phillips, but he warns "as simple as the freezing process is, however, many mistakes are being made which result in failure."

One common error is that the blanching of vegetables is not done properly. The blanching process consists of immersing the vegetables in boiling water or exposing them to steam for a short interval. Underblanching results in objectionable flavours and over-blanching produces a cooked product which may also be objectionable. Different vegetables require different blanching times, hence the instructions should be carefully studied.

Freshness of the raw product is also important. If fruits, and particularly vegetables, are held too long before freezing much of the original fresh flavour is lost. Freezing as soon as possible after harvest results in better tasting food accompanied with higher nutritional value. Thus a definite advantage is gained by obtaining fresh garden produce directly from the grower or, better still, using that which has been grown in your own garden.

When the fruits and vegetables are in the freezer they are inclined to lose moisture and become dry or shrivelled. The best means of controlling this is to use packages which will prevent moisture loss. Heavy wax, cellophane, rubber-like compounds and other materials are usually found adequate.

Having taken the precautions mentioned the only important precaution is to freeze promptly and hold at zero, or lower temperatures. It is frequently thought that just holding the product in the frozen state is sufficient. Dividends in the form of high quality and better appearance will result from zero or lower holding temperatures.

The Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and the Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, have publications available which will assist in making household freezing a success. Information for constructing household freezers is also available.

"I was struck by the beauty of this town," said the visitor.

"Serves you right," said the native. "You shouldn't get too familiar with her."

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hydro Home Economist

Hello Girls! Mother may not approve of your suggestions for helping her on Mother's Day unless you are "in the know". Do you know how to set the dinner table properly? For instance, if the dinner consists of soup, meat, potatoes and vegetables, bread and butter, pie and tea—the procedure is simple.

1. Take a tray to the dish cupboard and collect knives, forks, soup spoons, butter spreaders, butter knife, teaspoons, fruit or salad forks, sugar spoon, gravy spoon, carving set, serving spoons and salt and pepper.

2. Place tray on the corner of covered table and with knives in right hand and forks in left place them one inch from the edge of the table and about ten inches apart, with the tines of the fork turned up and the blades of the knife towards the plate. Make the rounds again with teaspoons in right hand and small forks in the left and lay them on outside of silver at the cover. The carving set should be in position on either side of the platter space with gravy spoon and butter knife parallel above this space.

The serving spoons, salts and peppers belong close to the centre at convenient places, while the sugar spoon is left near mother's plate. Leave the butter knives and soup spoons in a pile on the table while you get the china.

3. Collect the bread and butter plates, tumblers, cups and saucers, cream and sugar and be ambidextrous again as you place the plates in the upper left hand corner above each fork, and the tumblers an inch above the point of the knives. Leave the cream and sugar, and the stack of cups and saucers at the upper right side of mother's cover. Finally, with butter knives in left hand and soup spoons in the other, place the small knife across the small plate parallel to the edge of the table, and the soup spoon on the right of the teaspoon.

4. From the linen drawer take the serviettes and asbestos pads for vegetable dishes. The serviettes are placed on the left side with the open corner toward the plate. For this occasion put the asbestos pads near your cover so you can serve the vegetables.

5. Cut a thick slice of butter and put it on the dish on your tray; slice the bread with an even sawing motion and arrange on the bread tray; carry these items to the table on your tray in one trip.

6. Be wary about heating the dinner plates in a hot oven. They should be spread out on the shelves of a warm oven or stacked in the warming oven with a piece of paper between each one. The platter, vegetable dishes, gravy dish and tea pot should also be put in the warming oven.

7. If you have an extra serving tray, spread the pie plates out, cut the pie and use a pie knife or egg lifter to lift out the servings. The dessert can then be left ready to serve on the buffet.

8. To help make the gravy use a small mixing bowl for the paste. Measure 3 tablespoons of flour into it. Make a hole in the centre and add about ½ cup of cold water slowly as you stir to make a smooth paste. Press out any lumps, add more water if too thick. Now it is ready for mother to stir quickly into the hot meat juices.

9. If you help to drain the vegetables, put a sieve in another pan and using a pot holder to hold the saucepan handle, pour them into the sieve.

10. To fill the tumblers from a big pitcher, place a small towel in the left hand on the bowl of the jug and tip it with the right hand placed low on the handle. No spills this way.

11. Chairs should be in position before hot food is on the table. The seat of the chair should touch the side of the cloth unless the dining-room is too small for the people to move behind the chairs.

TAKE A TIP

Washing Dishes

1. Use hot water and ammonia. Wash glasses, then silver, rinse, then dry. Do not force towels into glasses; polish silver until dry, but do not rub knife blades or fork tines into towelling.

2. Empty out ammonia water. Use the hot rinse water in dish pan with mild soap for washing china. Rinse rack to reduce chance of chipping edges. Dry and put away carefully.

3. Any cooking utensils should be soaked before you begin dishwashing. Fill egg, meat, fish, dough dishes with clear cold water. To greasy dishes add soda to the water to cut fat.

4. Use dish cloths and towels for dishes only, not as stove cloths. Wash and rinse in a small amount of fresh water to cut fat.

5. Wipe out dish pan and clean sink with a fine cleaning powder.

THE QUESTION BOX

Miss T. R. asks: How to clean surface of electric stove.

Answer: Use a clean piece of cheesecloth. Dampen it and use baking soda to clean white enamel. Rub closed elements (on Off position) with a piece of waxed paper. Brush any charred food out of open elements (switch turned Off) with fine whisk.

Miss F. S. E. asks: What is the best method of cleaning a stained aluminum roast pan?

Answer: Remove charred food by leaving dry pan in warm oven and then rub with steel wool. Place the pan on end in a dishpan of strong vinegar and water. Bring to a boil. Turn it to bleach the other end of pan and boil for five minutes longer.

Note: Soda, lye or strong soaps will darken aluminum.
