The Morrisburg Leader

LXXVIII, NO. 17 — MORRISBURG, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 26th, 1940. — 1.50 PER YEAR.

Final Meeting of Canadian Club

The final meeting of the Morrisburg Canadian Club for the season will be held on Friday, May 3rd in the Club Rooms, at 6.30 p.m. Standard Time.

The Club has been fortunate in securing as a speaker for the occasion, Bernard O. Schonevegal, J.P. Mr. Schonevegel is a South African of Dutch descent, and former Mayor of King Williamstown. He was at one time one of General Smuts' right hand men in the Cape Province. Mr. Schonevegel is a vigorous and a forceful speaker, and is well qualified to speak on his native land and the problems which confront her and the Empire at this time.

Local Man Heir In $120,000 Estate

Mrs. Susan Black Nicol, of Ottawa and formerly of Brockville, who died on January 3, 1940, left an estate valued at $120,959, according to her will filed for probate in surrogate court in Ottawa. After a number of bequests, the residue of the estate is to be divided equally between her brother Lawrence Black of Morrisburg, and a nphew, Lawrence B. Black of Prescott, better known in Morrisburg as "Larry". The will provided for bequests of $5,000 to Mrs. Jessie Auld Walker of Guelph; $5,000 to David Stuart Nicol, a nephew; $10,000 to Patrick Joseph Moran, Ottawa, son of Mrs. Isobel Moran with whom she resided in Ottawa; personal effects, household goods and an automobile to her brother, Lawrence Black of Morrisburg. J. James Shaw, of Hespler, was named as stle executor.

County Board of Health to Test All High School Students for T. B.

The new Board of Health for the United Counties has arranged with the St. Lawrence Sanatorium for the tuberculin testing of all High School and Continuation School pupils in the three United Counties, reactors to this test to receive an X—ray free of change. These tests will be carried out under the supervision of Dr. G. W. Cragg, Superintendant of the Sanatorium.

It is expected that the first tests will be made at the Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School early in May and it is probable that several other High Schools will be done before the first of June. It is hoped that other High Schools will receive the test next fall following the summer vacation.

The reasen for making these tests is that a considerable number of cases of tuberculosis have been found in various High Schools. A single pupil, not knowing he has Tuberculosis, may infect several other pupils. Children of High School age pick up this infection very readily and there is no parent who knows the suffering that T.B. can cause who would expose his child to the disease if it is in his power to prevent it.

When these tests are made it is hoped that the response will be 100 per cent. If only one pupil misses the test, you may still have a source of infection in the school. The test is a simple skin test only, and does not inconvenience the pupil or interfere with his attendance at school.

In Glengarry County, the Alexandria High School pupils have received this test with X-ray of reactors on three occasions. In the three years, only one case was found who required treatment in the Sanatorium. Several other pupils, however, showed evidence of heavy infection in their X-Ray and these were advised to either stop school or to continue school with extra hours of rest. If as a result of these examinations, only one of these children with heavy infection is prevented from developing the disease with the consequent expense of Sanatorium treatment, (which averages about $1000 per case), the saving will pay for these tests at the Alexandria High School for at least 40 years.

With The Girl Guides

Tuesday night we welcomed three new members to our ranks. They are Betty Gamble, Joan Smith and Dorothy Ing. May they enjoy Guiding to their heart's content.

Many Tenderfoot tests were passed and a great many second class tests were received and pased. Five Girl Guide Blazer Badges were drawn for, the winners being: Evelyn Crober Irene Gamble, Betty Duvall, Roberta Devaul and Jennet Mattice.

Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pruner were entertained by the Leaders and Seconders. It was a fitting Anniversary celebration. It had been planned at a Patrol Meeting. When lunch was prepared, Miss Beverly McGannon and Joyce Clark escorted Mr. and Mrs. Pruner to the dining room, and after the song "Happy Anniversary to you," Mary Laurin presented a dainty box of carnations and daffodils as a gift from the Leaders and Seconders. These beautiful spring flowers graced the table during the lunch. Miss Claudine Kerr presented a beautiful wedding cake, as it were, which brought back many fond memories. Another lovely cake was also received, the gift of Mrs. Agulnik. It was a most enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Pruner later conveyed to the Leaders and Seconders their sincere appreciation for the beautiful gifts, and they expressed the hope that they may live to celebrate some Guide's Anniversary. May their wishes be granted.

Truck Thief Gets Reformatory Term

Keith Dovell, alias Roy McLean, aged 18, of Toronto, who stole the local Department of Transport truck at Farran's Point and drove it until he was arrested near Brockville, pleaded guilty in magistrate's court at Cornwall on Monday and was sentenced to serve a year in the Ontario reformatory. Dovell also pleaded guilty to stealing $49.50 in Toronto and Magistrate Bergeron said "you have been a problem since a juvenile". Dovell made off with the truck when its driver, William Halliday, of Morrisburg paused at Farran's Point after having given him a ride.

History of Telephone in Morrisburg Traced on 60th Anniversary

The celebration on Monday of the Diamond Jubilee Anniversary of the Bell Telephone Company recalls the extraordinary changes that have been brought about in social and business life by the speeding up of voice communication. The anniversary also reminds us that Morrisburg has continued to benefit, down through the years, by the inventions and developments which have refined telephony and increased man's voice range.

The longest voice-path possible over which a telephone user could project his voice would be to Perth, Australia, about 15,000 miles. And only forty years ago, a long-distance telephone call connecting points separated by three or four hundred miles caused as much excitement almost as does a heavyweight championship boxing match or a world's series baseball game today.

The progress of the telephone and its offspring—radio, talkies, teletypewriter, wirephoto, electrical surgical instruments, etc.—has been nothing short of amazing, even to the experts themselves. Just sixty-six years have passed since Bell thought out the principle underlying the transmission of speech and sound To-day "there are no earthly limits to human speech" which has caused a writer to ponder the question "On the hundreth anniversary of the telephone, will we be able to converse with the inhabitants of Mars?"

The telephone came to Morrisburg commercially in the year 1883. Levi F. Selleck was the first Bell Telephone agent. There were a few private lines in use locally prior to the establishment of exchange service in 1887. Among the early local subscribers were Bradfield Bros., F. C. Denesha, J. F. Miller and and Son, Sherman House, and St. Lawrence Hall.

When the exchange was first operated it served 15 subscribers. The small primitive switchboard and its associated apparatus was located in a corner of Levi Selleck's drugstore on Main Street. The office was open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. week days; 2 to 4 p.m. Sundays; and 10 to 12 and 2 to 4 p.m. holidays.

The first commercial telephones had a range of only twenty miles for satisfactory transmission. Gradually, the first crude instruments were improved and refined. Copper wire replaced the galvanized iron lines which had been good enough for telegraph transmission and this improved conductor made inter-city communication available. Metallic circuits were introduced which eliminated static interference and cross talk and the voice range was expanded. The invention of the loading coil, which greatly reduces the transmission loss on a circuit, more than doubled man's potential voice reach. The development of the vacuum tube repeater enabled the lines to reach across continents. Radio-telephony was perfected, and by 1027 telephone users could chat across the Atlantic.

Then followed the linking together into a globe-encircling network of the telephone systems of about 80 countries or territories. In normal times, from your telephone in Morrisburg, you can be connected with no more effort than it takes to place a call to Toronto, with any one of about 40,000,000 telephones throughout the world. The world has indeed become a neighbourhood. There are no earthly limits to human speech and telephone engineers are notoriously restless. Mars? Perhaps.

The Bell Telephone Company from the beginning pursued a far-sighted policy, building long distance lines as rapidly as possible in order to give subscribers wider and wider service. Morrisburg was soon joined to the surrounding towns and later to Toronto and Montreal. In 1886, it became necessary, in order to take care ofthe increasing demand for long distance service, to erect a second wire between this town and Prescott.

About 1888, Levi Selleck's title was changed by the Bell Company from Agent to Local Manager. Mr. Selleck continued in charge of local telephone matters until the end of 1906. Morrisburg's present local representative of the Bell Company, Mr. D.T. Henderson, succeded Mr. Selleck. Thus it will be seen that, in a telephone history dating back 57 years, there have been only two managers of the local telephone system. This is a record probably unsurpassed anywhere.

At the turn of the century there were24 telephones in Morrisburg. It was not until 8 years later that this community could boast of having 50 telephones and at that time few people expected to see the day when it would have 100. Many of these same people expect to witness, in the not-too-distant future the installation of the town's 500th telephone. The 100th instrument was connected in 1919, the 200th four years later, the 300th in 1926 and the 400th in 1937. On December 31st last, there were 409 telephones in Morrisburg.

NEWS PARADE

The battle for control of the North Sea and of Europe entered its second week with the fate of Scandinavia still hanging in the balance. The important port and railhead of Narvik was in British hands, and Allied forces were landing at a number of coastal points in northern Norway, but Denmark was gone; southern Norway was fast falling under the swastika, with the invading Germans using the same blitzkrieg tactics so devastating to Poland —Berlin insisted that the portion of Norway necessary to assure the success of the German mission was firmly in Nazi hands. Sweden's dilemma meanwhile had achieved the nightmare stage—at the least, the country could expect to be encircled; at the worst, it faced becoming a main battleground in the new and fiercer European conflict.

The Navy In Action

The one ray of hope that the tide might be turned against Hitler in Scandinavia was the aggressive new policy of the British War Cabinet. Here was action at last, meeting action. The brilliance of the Royal Navy in the battle of the Skagerrak, when one-third of the German fleet was reported sunk; the capture of Narvik; the laying of British mines in the Baltic which could mean the cutting-off of Germany's supply lines to the army in Norway gave ample reason for belief that Hitler's latest venture might yet end in frustration.

A Spreading Conflict

The extension of the area of combat to Scandinavia did not necessarily mean that the war would henceforth be confined to the north. On the other hand, last week the conflict gave new evidence of spreading east, west, and south, to bring more neutral nations within its scope . . . The warning speech of a high Italian authority, coupled with Italian naval manoeuvres off the Dodecanese islands in the Mediterranean, presaged that Italy might soon be in the war . . . Allied fleet movements were reported in the vicinity of Salonika, considered a likely spot from which Britain and France might jump off into any Balkan war . . . The lid appeared to be off in the Balkans, too, with Germany making further economic demands on Rumania, Yugoslavia and Hungary, and seeking to police the Danube region from the Black Sea to the German border . . . Rumors of a Nazi plot to kidnap Queen Wilhelmina and Crown Princess Juliana of Holland linked up with growing fears that the Low Countries were shortly to be invaded by the German armies . . . but in Berlin (wired New York Times' correspondent Brooks Peters) the belief persisted that the final decision in this war must come on the Western Front, and that steps designed to force it might come very shortly . . .

In Canada the home front was quiet. Prime Minister Mackenzie King was off on a brief holiday in the States, incidentally calling on President Roosevelt . . . Ottawa was preparing for the opening of the House May 16, expecting a session which would deal chiefly with the war, secondarily with unemployment insurance . . Spring was coming to Ontario and farmers were getting ready once more to go out on the land. . .

Speckled Trout Season Extended

Opening of the Ontario speckled trout season has been advanced from May 1 to April 27, Hon. Harry Nixon, provincial minister of game and fisheries, announces.

"May 1 is on a Wednesday and by advancing the season to the preceding Saturday, we will be able to give anglers a little break over the week-end," he said. "We expect it to be an exceptionally good season. There was a tremendous distribution of good-sized trout during the late fall."

Ontario Iron Being Assayed

Members of Physics Department U. of T. Are Up At Steep Rock Lake Investigating Rich Deposits

Iron ore deposits which are believed to be among the richest in the world are being investigated by members of the Physics Department of the University of Toronto.

The mines, discovered first last winter at Steep Rock Lake in Northern Ontario, were estimated to contain about 100,000,000 tons of the best ore, containing very little phosphorous and sulphur.

OF THE BEST ORE

Some time ago hematite was found on the south shore of the lake, but the deposit was detached. Then last winter, under the leadership of Dr. A. A. Brant, the scientific party used special instruments which enable the investigator to determine the magnetic properties of rocks, their electrical resistance and their pull of gravity. Operations are carried on during the winter because the ice on the lake makes a steady base for the instruments.

The exact geological structure of the bottom of the lake, to a depth of about 2,000 feet was determined. Dr. Brant indicated where test drills should be made through the ice and hematite was drawn to the surface.

Gardening ....

Feed The Lawn

No garden is complete without a lawn and the richer, greener and softer that lawn is, the better the whole picture.

The average person forgets that grass is an ordinary garden plant requiring food and care just as much as flowers or vegetables. Seed selection is also just as important. Good lawns are produced from top quality, packaged lawn grass mixtures, which contain proper proportions of the finer permanent grasses. Seed should be sown liberally and the ground fertilized. Rolling in the Spring and watering regularly are also advisable.

Sometimes tree roots work up towards the surface simply because there is water there and none beneath. Heavy watering of lawns once a week rather than light daily sprinkles will prevent this danger and will also be best for the lawn itself.

This treatment will keep grass a rich, dark green and growing fast enough to crowd out the weeds. Patches of the latter in old lawns are usually a sure sign that soil is wearing out and needs fertilizing. In hot weather grass should not be cut as short as often as in the Spring and Fall.

Speedy Vegetables Are Tender

Tender vegetables are quickly grown. A check by dry weather or anything else invariably causes woodiness. To eliminate such danger, experienced market gardeners push their plants along with frequent applications of commercial fertilizer. This must be applied carefully so as to be close to but not actually touching stems or roots.

Cultivation Is Vital

Aside from the planning and planting no early gardening job compares in importance with cultivation. Authorities do not ask one to keep the hoe going all Summer—far from it. But they do request that the garden be dug once thoroughly first thing in the Spring, then cultivated once or twice afterwards. With proper tools, the work need be no more than healthy exercise. For the purpose there is nothing better than a little three or five fingered cultivator or a Dutch hoe. Either of these implements will make short work of a vegetable or flower garden. Cultivation serves a double purpose, it keeps down weeds and it conserves moisture.

Lakes Expect Busy Season

Cargo Ships on Great Lakes Are Moving Out of Their Respective Docks

Hundreds of Great Lakes cargo vessels, trim and ready for one of the busiest seasons in their history, are once more riding at their moorings in a score of lake and river ports, free of the ice which has locked them in position during the winter.

Following official opening date for navigation April 15th, they are moving out of their respective docks to take on their heavy loads of wheat and ore, automobiles, coal, package freight, lumber and the various products of factories turning out war materials.

OLD VESSELS MADE TRIM

Every possible step has been taken to insure the maximum number of ships being available and owners have spent large sums and a good part of the winter months reconditioning vessels that have not moved for years.

Movies Teach R.A.F. Skyhawks

They Learn Their Mistakes From Films Shot During Actual Aerial Dog Fights

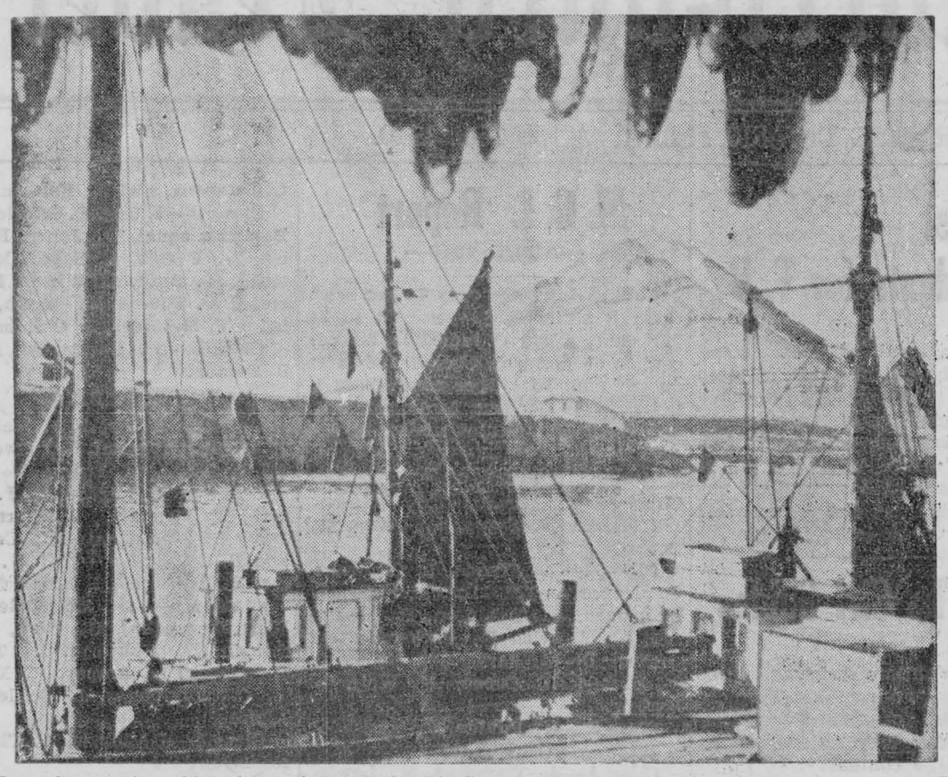

British fliers are learning fighting tactics from action films taken during dog fights in the air against enemy aircraft.

One such film, taken from the attacking British machine, shows the interception and shooting down of a German raider.

The device consists of a motion-picture camera lined up with the fighter pilot's eight guns. It operates automatically when the trigger button sets the eight guns in action. When the pilot takes his finger off the trigger, the guns cease firing — and the camera stops taking pictures. It operates with every burst of fire.

The show only lasts about a minute. But it shows the pilot errors he would otherwise never realize and sometimes reveals mistakes which enabled an enemy to get away.

With Hitler In Denmark, Greenland Presents New Problem for North America

Neutral countries which throw their lot in with Germany will forfeit their overseas possessions. Whether the forfeiture will be permanent or only for the duration of the war will have to be decided at the conclusion of the conflict. The British have already occupied the Faroe Islands, Danish possession north of Scotland and Iceland has announced its secession from Danish rule. Greenland, another Danish possession, will probably be administered under the direction of the Canadian government. Fishing boats are seen here in the harbor of Seoresbysund, Greenland. This immense Arctic province is wealthy with untouched natural resources.

Exams Aren't Sole Standard

The Test of A School is the Type of Citizens It Produces, Ottawa Educationist Believes

Dr. Florence S. Dunlop, supervisor of auxiliary classes and psychologist of public schools, Ottawa, captivated the large gathering of men and women who attended the 21st banquet of the Ontario Federation Home and School Association. Dr. Dunlop spoke on the "Handicapped Child."

"Do what you can to break down the false social notion that only children who pass examinations and go on to university are the worthwhile citizens; also to encourage a standard which will appraise a school, not by the scholarships attained, but by the worthwhile citizens it produces," she urged.

The combined help of good parents and teachers and access to plenty of the right kind of reading material are necessary education factors, stated Mrs. E. E. Reece at a symposium attended by Ontario Home and School Federation delegates.

Of all the building trades in Canada, character-building seems to be the lowest paid. Incan Empire Totalitarian

To see a totalitarian state from start to finish turn back all the way to prehistory and take a look at America, declares Science Service.

Incan Indians, a comparatively small group, conquered tribe after tribe of Indians over a huge area of South America and set up a rigid system to control life down to such matters as what people might wear, where they might live, whom they might marry, and what they might do for a living. It sounds very modern.

SPIES UPON SPIES

Incas moved subject peoples all about, placing new and foreign groups among those of trained loyalty. An official watched every ten households. Higher officials watched them in turn. All true to totalitarian form.

Speaking of this prehistoric Incan Empire — not modern Germany or Russia — Dr. Edwin M. Loeb of the University of California, once said that even an individual's "expression of joy or sorrow, nay, his very utterances and thoughs, were deemed matters of importance to the public weal."

Guard Secrets, Farmers Urged

Quit telling everybody all your business secrets", farmers were advised by R. A. Stewart, president of the Barrie Tanning Company. He was speaking at the luncheon of the Ontario Chamber of Agriculture.

"If there is overproduction of some farm commodity, everybody has access to the statistics showing that," he said. "The millers and other interests can thus take advantage of the over-production, to the disadvantage of the farmer. Business doesn't tell everybody what it is doing. Farmers shouldn't, either."

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SALLY BLAIR — heroine. She had everything that popularity could win her, except

DAN REYNOLDS — hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skis

COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So . . . But go on with the story.

Last week: In a fit of anger, Sally dashes down the mountain, and plunges headlong toward a wire fence. The last thing she remembers is Dan's cry ringing in her ears.

CHAPTER VI

When Sally next opened her eyes she was in a small room, a narrow white bed. She could hear the bells of Baker Library Tower, whose tall steeple kept guard over the campus, pealing out their college tunes, and summoning the students to classes. She still must be at the houseparty. But the houseparty was over. This was not the colorful, colonial room of the fraternity dorm.

Her head throbbed with a dull heavy ache; she felt too weary to care where she was. Then one hand seeking her burning temple, encountered bandages, remembrance then came back to Sally. She experienced again that swift downward flight and that terrific plunge forward, the giddy sensation of helpless skidding. Again she heard Dan's voice calling her name.

She stirred and gave a little groan and a nurse, in stiffly starched white uniform, bent over her.

"And how are you feeling now?" her pleasant, efficient voice inquired.

"How did I get here?" Sally countered with another question. Where was Dan? Had he carried her the rest of the way down that slippery ravine? Oh, what a little idiot she had been, trying to show off, trying to give vent to her injured pride and anger. Now he would think she needed lessons, not only in the art of ski-ing, but in good common sense!

"You're in a hospital," the nurse replied. Her cool hand on Sally's forehead cautioned her to lie quiet. "You had a bad tumble, my dear. But you're going to be as good as new in a week or so."

"A week!" Sally protested faintly.

"You're lucky to get off with that." The nurse's tone was grim.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN KILLED

There was no reply to this. She might have been killed. Sally saw, once more, the barbed-wire fence rushing up at her. She closed her eyes a moment.

After a while she opened them again. "Is anyone waiting to see me?" There was only one person Sally wanted to see.

The nurse shook her head. "But there is a wire from your father. He will be here sometime today, though Dr. Barnes, talking long distance, assured him it was not necessary."

Sally's eyes, behind closed lids, misted with tears of weak gratitude. Dear Daddy, she always could count on him. Always he had come when needed, always he got her everything that money could purchase.

"My face . . . ?" Sally asked, after another long moment. Her pretty face that had caused so many masculine hearts to pound more quickly. Would she look the same when those bulky bandages were removed?

"Just a few scratches," the nurse informed her soothingly. "There won't be even a scar. Thanks to the young man who got you here in time for Doctor Barnes to take the stitches."

DAN HURT?

"What young man?" Sally asked. There could only be one. But she wanted to hear his name. She wanted just to hear someone say it.

"Young Reynolds," the nurse said — "you know — the ski champion. It seems he was right behind you. He managed, by some spectacular leap or turn, to save you from being whirled into a fence. And then, though he was badly hurt himself . . ."

"Dan hurt?" Sally tried to sit up, her eyes wide open now. The nurse's strong hands gently held her back.

"Not too badly," she reassured her. "One leg banged up a bit . . ."

"How bad? You must tell me, please." Dan hurt, Dan who had hoped to make the Olympics, who was, such a beautiful, swift thing on his smooth long skis. Hurt because of her foolishness, her headstrong vanity.

"It looks like it may be a fracture," the nurse admitted. She did not divulge information about the patients as a rule. But the feverish intensity of this girl's bright eyes, the agonized pleading in them proved the exception. "I'm afraid he won't walk — or ski — in some time. But the miracle is how—with that leg — he managed to half carry, half drag you on down the mountain, get you on the rescue toboggan, and bring you here. That young man should have a medal for bravery!"

And Sally had called him a coward! She had told him he was afraid of the real things of life, that he would run away at the foot of the mountain.

WHAT HAD SHE DONE?

She buried her head in the pillow. She could not bear to face what she had done. It would be a long time, the nurse said, before Dan could ski. Maybe he could never ski again. Maybe she — Sally who loved him with all her heart, with every painful breath — had done this to him.

Her father got there late that afternoon. His relief when he found his beloved daughter, whom he managed to spoil as outrageously as everyone else, was not seriously hurt was almost beyond bounds.

"Well, well!" he said in his big booming voice, that matched the rest of him, for Sam Blair was a big man in more ways than one, "you came off lucky, as usual, honey. Just a few scratches, eh? Pretty badly shaken up. You must stay quiet a few days though, the doctor says. Then I'll bundle you off home — and no more of this scaring your old Dad half out of his senses!"

"Daddy, there's something you'll have to do for me," Sally said. She reached out for his hand, wanting to hold it. She must make him see this as she did.

"I expect you have only to name it." Her father smiled on her fondly.

A BITTER LESSON

Sally was not sure whether what she wanted was in his power or not. For Sally was learning the bitter lesson that there are some things that even love cannot meet. "It is about Dan Reynolds," she explained. "The boy who brought me here to the hospital." She repeated just what the nurse had told her. "We must do something for him, Daddy."

"Of course we'll do something for a lad like that," her father said. "We'll see to his doctor bills, all of his expenses. He must have the best of everything!" Nothing was too good for a young man who had done what this lad had done for his girl.

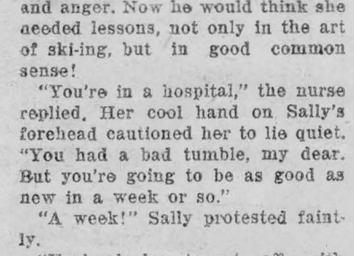

"I don't mean just that," Sally said. It was difficult to explain. She did not know what they could do for Dan, she who had taken away the one thing he loved, her father from his deep debt of gratitude. "We must find some way to help him afterwards. You see, Daddy," her dark eyes, turned to her father, were filled with a new pain, "Dan may never be able to ski again."

"That is indeed a very sad thing," her father returned soberly. "But we'll fix it somehow. It may not be as bad as you think, my dear. You forget I said this boy is to have the very best care, the finest doctors. And after that — well, we'll manage, somehow, to see that the right thing is done by him."

"Oh, Daddy!" It was all Sally could say just then. She clung to her father's hand more tightly. She might have known she could count on him.

But would Dan allow it? Would Dan accept help from the father of the girl who had caused his accident? A girl for whom he had no time, in whom he had refused to believe?

Two Young Girls Reared by Wolves

Near Midnapore, India — Discovered When Natives Dug Into Wolf-Den Under Ant-Heap

There have been several cases of children being brought up by animal foster-mothers, but the very strangest is that of the Wolf Girls of Midnapore, in India. They were discovered when natives dug into a wolf den under a huge ant-heap. Huddled together in the noisome den were four shapes — two wolf cubs and two children, girls of about 1½ and 8 years old.

A missionary, the Rev. J. A. L. Singh, removed the children to his orphanage and attempted to bring them back to a human way of life, but their animal upbringing had become ingrained in them. At first they would only eat raw meat, and ripped off their loin cloths. And they walked and ran on all fours. The younger child, Amala, died shortly afterwards. The elder, Kamala, lived for nine years at the orphanage. But she never learned to use her human faculties. Her vocabulary was limited to some forty words, and to the end she went down on all fours when she wished to move quickly. Covering the ground in this animal fashion she easily outpaced human beings.

SPRING TRIFLES

In the early spring days when the appetite seems to be lagging and the homemaker extra busy, there is perhaps a greater demand than ever for attractive desserts. Pineapples are now appearing and they always put up a rigid challenge for an all-season favorite. They have an incomparable flavor and an aromatic "air," which helps them wend their way into the highways and byways of nearly all type of menus, especially when something that is different is sought. Just one thing about pineapple: remember that fresh pineapple cannot be mixed successfully with gelatine unless it has been previously cooked. One of the acids of pineapple, uncooked, destroys proteins,—hence the result. However, do no allow this to discourage you, for fresh pineapple cooked does have a fresher taste, different from the fruit we have stored.

Pineapple Souffle

¼ cup butter
¼ cup cornstarch
1 cup milk
Pinch nutmeg
1 cup shredded pineapple
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter, add cornstarch, blend thoroughly. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Boil, add pineapple, beat eggs slightly, mix with sugar and add.

Cook until thickened but do not allow mixture to boil. Cool slightly, add flavorings and fold in egg whites beaten until stiff. Bake in a moderate oven. Serve hot with whipped cream Time in oven 45 minutes. Oven moderate. Serves 6.

Pineapple Parfait

1 medium sized pineapple
Fruit sugar
Vanilla Ice Cream
Whipped Cream
Maraschino cherries.

Several hours before serving, prepare pineapple, cutting in cubes or shredding (running through the food chopper is a favorite way) Mix one cup of fruit sugar for every cup of pineapple. Place this in refrigerator or cool place until ready to serve. Serving time, drain juice from pineapple and place alternate layers of ice cream and syrup in parfait glasses. Cover with the pineapple, top with whipped cream and maraschino cherry.

Pineapple Cream Whip

1½ tablespoons gelatine
¼ cup water
⅝ cup boiling water
1 pint cream (whipped)
¼ cup sugar
1 cup cooked grated pineapple
12 marshmallows
¼ cup chopped blanched almonds

Soak gelatine in cold water. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Stir occasionally, while cooling, until it thickens slightly. When the mixture is the consistency of strained honey, fold in stiffly-beaten cream sweetened with sugar, the pineapple and the marshmallows cut fine. Lastly add chopped almonds. Chill until firm.

Tapioca Maple Cream

One-third cup quick-cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups milk scalded
½ cup sugar
1 or 2 egg yolks slightly beaten
1 teaspoon flavoring
2 egg whites stiffly beaten

Add tapioca and salt to milk and cook 15 minutes in double boiler or until the tapioca is clear. Stir frequently. Add sugar and pour small amount of mixture over egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler over heat, and stir and cook until thickened. Remove from heat and add flavoring. Fold a small amount into egg white. Add to the remaining tapioca mixture and fold in. Chill.

Serve with whipped cream to which has been added some maple syrup. To ¼ pt. whipped cream, add 2 tablespoons maple syrup. Sprinkle with chopped pecans.

Older Woman Can Dress As Smartly

Start From Where And What You Are — And Make It Better

With a practical mind the mature woman who wants to be well dressed knows her figure problems and builds her costumes around them, not around her best points.

Heartening to women whose figures aren't young enough to wear every season's styles is the opinion of Spring Byington, charming Hollywood actress, aged 42: "I don't believe in the current vogue of trying to change your type every time a new waistline comes in. Start from where and what you are, and make it better.

"Necklines are important for mature women and the high, plain ones of this season may make you look dowdy. Best trick I know to counteract this is to nick a collar front and back, about an inch and a half deep — a heart-shaped cut to give the effect of a slimmer neck and face. The right necklace will do wonders, too — not a long string of beads or a chain, but one of the new choker necklaces that has pendants or tassels.

"And I know high heels are the most flattering kind but you can't be charming if your feet hurt. And there is a height of heel that is graceful but not too high. Judge for yourself from the shoe that has been the most satisfactory to you."

Cooking by Distance

On the American air routes passengers have a strange way of measuring meal times. On the Pacific Clippers it takes about 50 miles to eat an egg, and lunch, with coffee to follow, takes just over 100 miles.

Handy Hints

Annoying, isn't it, when the bristles of your pet hair brush go all soft and "goosey" on you! Here is a way of stiffening them up again. Make a strong solution of alum and dip the bristles into it until they are thoroughly soaked and then dry them as quickly as possible. They'll be quite firm and stiff again.

Bookcases built in the corner of a small apartment are convenient and require a small amount of space. If they are topped with wide panels of mirrors, the effect is decorative as well as pleasantly cool, and an impression of added size is given to the room.

To remove burned food from tin cooking utensils, fill the pan with cold water, add soda generously, bring to a boil and continue boiling until the food is softened. Never use a metal scraper or coarse abrasive on the utensils. Harsh scouring injures the outer tin scoating leaving the basic steel exposed.

A soggy, sticky dressing is no compliment to a tender fowl. When making bread stuffing, use stale bread preferably, or dry fresh bread in the oven before mixing, or toast fresh slices.

When baking a rich, dark fruit cake in a metal pan, line the pan with heavy greased brown paper; for a white fruit cake line with greased waxed paper.

Arbor Day Proverbs

As the tree so the fruit.

Great trees are uprooted in an hour.

A twig in time becomes a tree. —Latin.

Great trees often give more shade than fruit.

As the twig is bent the tree is inclined.—English.

Good fruit never comes from a bad tree.—Portuguese.

A tree often transplanted never grows nor thrives.

A walnut tree is as good to a poor man as a milch cow.—Italian.

All superfluous branches we lop away that bearing boughs may live.

HEPBURN GOING OUT

It is noted with interest that the Hamilton West Liberal Association has passed a resolution condemning the "dictatorial actions of the Hepburn government" and urging an immediate conference of the Ontario Liberal Association. The Hamilton Liberals also voiced their disapproval in no uncertain terms of Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten and Attorney-General Gordon Conant. "It is time", they said, "for a thorough housecleaning, and that seems to be the unanimous opinion". Many more Liberal Associations throughout the Province, (and many Conservative Associations as well), will thoroughly agree with the Hamilton body. Well, this is the housecleaning season. What is Ontario waiting for? If the present Queen's Park occupants are left there much longer, they may decide, as an economy measure, to suspend our franchise for the duration of the war.

UNTOWARD EVENTS SOUTH OF THE BORDER

Possibility was noted this week of sabotage being a cause of the tragic train wreck at Little Falls, N. Y., which claimed about thirty lives. A member of the crew testified that, contrary to reports, the train was not travelling 59 miles per hour. "The air had been on for 1000 feet", he said. "We were going at the proper speed of 45 miles per hour". Following his statement reports spread of sabotage by a foreign agent as the cause of the wreck.

A U. S.minister in Sweden was killed while on an errand of mercy in Norway.

A high ranking official in the U. S. Navy stated this week that war with Japan was inevitable.

These and other untoward events in Uncle Sam's domain are changing the outlook of the people of that country toward the present conflict.

While they still talk idealistically of "neutrality" they do so much in the manner of ten-year old Johnny referring to Santa Claus.

TWO COUNTRIES WITHOUT FRIENDS

Events have shown that Germany and Russia are countries without friends. They are not even friends of each other.

Stalin has not disguised the fact that he only has use for friends so long as they are useful to him. In other words his association with Hitler is only for what he can get out of it.

Premier Molotoff stated plainly the other day that Russia has no intention of being dragged into this war and as Germany is the only country that might seek to persuade Russia to come in that was a notice served to Hitler, Von Ribbentrop and the other Nazi leaders that they can expect no military aid from the Soviet.

STILL RULES THE WAVES

British and Allied troops have been transported to and landed in Norway without loss of a single life. Nothing could tell more strikingly of absolute British Sea power.

From Britain's nearest debarkation point to the northern Norwegian coast must be all of 400 miles. That thousands of troops should be carried in transports over these leagues of tempestuous seas without mishap, and apparently without attack, is proof of the impotence of Hitler's boasted air force.

Prior to this war, many military experts argued that transportation of large forces across the seas would be rendered perilous, if not impossible, by air power. They were wrong. What has thus far come, at any rate, is transportation of thousands of troops to France and of thousands more to Norway without casualties.

The inescapable conclusion is that neither under-sea power nor air power is anything like a match for the power of a surface navy. Nothing of the surprise element helped transport of the British troops to Norway. Germany knew that Allied troops were being sent (it was announced officially) to Norway. Yet despite this knowledge, and notwithstanding German air bases in Norway itself, the German air force was either unable to discover or afraid to attack convoyed Allied transports.

The whole business is a devastating repartee upon official German claims of the bombing and sinking of British cruisers.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The shipping strike is over and traffic on the lakes and river has begun. Score one for democracy over communism.

The Bank of New Zealand has loaned the government of that country £1,000,000 for war purposes—and without interest. Now there's our idea of a bank what is a bank.

A Roman Catholic Archbishop of Frieberg in Germany recently scored the debasing influence of the German State on the youth of the country, particularly its girlhood. It will be very surprising if he is left to speak from his pulpit next Sunday.

Within a few weeks, the Dominion Government will give Canadians a chance to buy War Savings Certificates. These will be within the reach of all, and it is hoped that as far as possible all will buy them. Not only will they be an incentive to thrift; they will enable all within the Dominion to have a stake in war effort, to make a direct, personal contribution towards financing the war.

OUR BANK

At most of the larger centres they have Boards of Trade, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs or some other organization to foster community effort. We here have to depend on ourselves boosting the advantages of our community.

We are fortunate in having a bank. Other villages, some with larger and some with smaller districts have lost theirs, and only with its closing did the people realize what the community had lost. No bank which can make a small profit is closed. This is true, no matter what outsiders say to the contrary. Like ourselves, banks have good, bad and fair years—when we do well, they do well.

We, not the bank officials, really have the say as to whether or not we have a bank. This may be new to our readers, but it is nevertheless true. We want our bank—no one can gainsay this—but are we giving it all our business, or dividing it up with some other party or other town or city?

Banks in the past have been lookde upon as something separate from and not dependant on the community little or no thought being given to the advantage we obtain therefrom, as few were ever closed. Times, however have changed — so have the banks and the people. Today it is our bank, not just a bank, and we alone can make it a success. Be sure then to give your bank all your banking business, ensuring to the best of your ability its stay in the community.

It's More Fun in the Car Up Front

WHY buy a car that's content to follow along—when little, if any, more money will put you in a McLaughlin-Buick up where the banners are flying?

This year's automotive style pattern was cut by Buick a good twelve months ago.

This year's performance tempo was set two years back by the Buick Dynaflash engine.

And this year's comfort standards still have some catching up to do to equal Buick's four coil springs, recoil-mounted Knee-Action and the Super's five-foot front seat room.

Eventually, perhaps, others may find a way to micropoise-balance engines after assembly in search of Buick's present silky smoothness. They may heavy-up their frames, and generally seek to equal Buick's staunchness. Meantime you'll have those blessings to enjoy.

You'll step out front at the touch of an eager treadle, swing through the gear changes with light-and-easy finger-flicking, pilot a joyous traveller that does everything with ease matched only by its smartness.

You'll drive the value-leader—for McLaughlin-Buick has many advanced features that will still be "new" a good two years from now.

That gives you something real to look into. Start looking now—to get in on all the fun.

A Message to Hitler . .

Only a few weeks to wait, and the first warm glow of Spring will touch the devastated lands and peoples of Europe. From the beginning of time, Herr Hitler, Spring has been nature's promise to mankind—a promise of new beauty, new life, and renewed inspiration for trust and fellowship among men.

But in this year of 1940, Spring may bring the fulfillment of another promise, Herr Hitler, your promise of mutilation and death for countless thousands of Men, Women and Innocent Cchildren. That is to be your Springtime contribution to the progress of the human race—your gift to the world as the leader of a national group engaged in spreading German culture in Europe.

For the so-called national interests and honour of Germany, you have pledged a Spring Harvest of Blood and Iron. Already, after many promises as easily broken as given, your Nazi war machine has violated three nations that were at fault only in possessing civilized instincts of a higher order than your own, and material resources ripe for plunder.

As one who has known and loved the German people, marveled at their genius for the arts and sciences of civilization, revered the great names of their poets and musicians, I, an American citizen, have watched with sorrow your rise to power, and the crippling and enslavement of the mind, spirit and goodwill of the nation. And yet, I have some understanding of the process by which a people can be pushed into bottomless pits of fanatical egoism, avarice and barbarity.

Herr Hitler, many years ago, a shrunken little German professor, who was to die insane, wrote a book. In it he extolled the German superman, hailed the warrior as nature's supreme achievement, glorified war and the conquest of the weak, and preached the Will to Power as Germany's highest destiny. Other writers invented the myth of the superior Aryan race, of which Germans were represented to be the purest representatives, and by that strange fiction entitled to rule the world.

You, Herr Hitler, soared high on the wings of such grim fairy tales and promises. Day and night the propaganda of your cult of war assailed the national concience of your people with the savage doctrine of Nietzsche and the call-to-the-race-to-conquer of Wilhelm Wirth. "God" it was proclaimed, "a Natzi God, has ordained a world dominated by Germans; has given Germany a sacred mission to rule or destroy "inferior" peoples."

By that revival of the law of the jungle, your cult gained followers, seized power, killed, imprisoned or exiled all who resisted its inhuman theories and practices, and thus, Herr Hitler, by means of concentration camps, firing squads and the headsman's axe, and by unceasing deadly propaganda, the collective minds of many Germans was poisoned, deluded and paralyzed. The others have been silenced.

Under your inspired guidance, Germany has abolished the forms of civilized justice, and has set up the supremacy of force and war as the legal principle of a German world order, in which man is doomed to live and die under a God-created Nazi dictator, and a regime of hate, greed and banditry.

Herr Hitler, upon this planet called Earth, man, during his stay is beset with the perils of natural forces that he must combat to remain even a short space of time. Then, too, selfishness and vanity have incited man against man in warfare. But slowly and surely through the ages, there has evolved a sense of interdependence among groups of men, an understanding and practice of mutual responsibility and altruism, of friendship and generosity, and a realization of spiritual values that came to a flowering in the life of the Nazarene.

All of these precious growths, the fruit of the wisdom of many generations of men—these have been denied and suppressed by your command. German children, young and old have been taught to hate with a psychopathic hatred, to see only through bloodshot eyes, to think only in terms of a single warped mind. The stream of energy of the German people has been turned aside from the building of civilization to the sabotage of the structure they helped to create. Your cult has imposed upon its own and other peoples stark cruelties that have shocked and united against Germany the public opinion of all free nations.

Would you have the world believe, Herr Hitler, that you and your group are the idols of the German people, a people bereft of all right to act or think for themselves, living under military law, hounded by a secret police, with the shadow of the executioner reaching over every home? A people led to economic ruin, and to slaughter in a senseless war? Do you exult in the enforced acclamations of a stricken multitude?

Think you, Herr Hitler, that one man in his moment on Earth can blow out the torch of reason, or nullify the divine attributes of mind and soul? If so, I disagree with you, for after a fleeting interval, the physical self returns to its separate elements and hate, frenzy and cruelty become only a shunned memory.

Herr Hitler, the purpose of this message to you is not solely to condemn. For you I hold the same sympathy as for an unfortunate whose offences against humanity are the products of a clouded vision. Plainly is it written in the records of medical science that an abnormal ego, when charged with an overpowering urge to inflict death and suffering upon others, and bordering on a revision to primitive brutality, is a mental illness Its causes and treatments are well known.

Herr Hitler, let an armistice be declared! Withdraw from the government of your people. Let the most learned physicians of Germany and America gather in a neutral country and courageously submit yourself to them for study and care. The roadway to that rendezvous will be paved with the pennies of American children and covered with the Spring blossoms of all the world.

In the name of the youth now living, whom you have promised to destroy this Springtime, and of the children who will never be born if your promise of Death in the Spring shall come to pass, will you not grant that boon to mankind?

The above open letter to Adolf Hitler was written by an American citizen, and has been passed by the Censorship Control Board.

May Ask Meighen To Become Leader

Ottawa, April 23— In some Conservative circles, the idea is mooted that Right Hon. Arthur Meighen will be asked to become a candidate for the Carleton County seat in the House of Commons. This would entail his resignation from the senate where he leads the Conservative party.

The idea is predicated on the belief that Hon. R. J. Manion may retire. In that event, a new leader would be chosen by a convention but that one would be held du[illegible] the war, is questionable. In the meantime, it is suggested Senator Meighen might lead.

It is doubted if he would now relinquish a post which he declined to do at the time of the last convention when pressure upon him was strong. Senator Meighen took no part in the recent election.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Everyone over the mental age of seven years knows perfectly well that a drunken man has no business driving an automobile. It is equally common knowledge that drunken people are driving automobiles every day and every night, and that so far we haven't found any very efficient way of keeping them from doing it.

ON THE SPOT

The Ontario Temperance federation has decided to get flashlight pictures of scenes of intemperance in beverage rooms, the proposal having been made by Rev. Allan Ferry of Owen Sound. If this plan is carried out, it is going to put some of the boys on the spot after they have pulled the old alibi of working late at the office.

1. Is a dignified person ever angry?

2. When one is eating in a crowded restaurant and a stranger wants to sit in a vacant chair at your table, and asks "Do you mind," what should one reply?

3. Who should be the last person seated at a church wedding, before the bridal procession starts down the aisle?

4. Isn't it poor manners for two persons to lean across a person who is sitting between them, to carry on a conversation?

5. What does a la mode mean?

6. Should a guest at an affair make introductions among the other guests?

Answers

1. Yes but when he becomes angry, he surely loses all dignity. It has been truthfully said, "A fit of anger is as fatal to dignity as a dose of arsenic to life." 2. "Not at all." 3. The mother of the bride. 4. Yes. If they persist, the third person may offer to change seats with one of them. 5. According to the fashion. When we speak of "pie a la mode," it means served with a mound of ice cream, because that is the fashion. 6. It is better to leave this duty to the hostess, unless the latter has asked one to do so.

These Three Kings Made Peace Efforts In Vain

The desperate efforts of this trio of monarchs to keep Scandinavia from becoming involved in the war between Germany and the Allies failed as Germany invaded Denmark and launched a lightning attack on Norway. The monarchs of the ill-fated Scandinavian countries are pictured LEFT to RIGHT, King Christian of Denmark, King Haakon, of Norway and King Gustaf, of Sweden.

- HAVE - YOU HEARD?

A placid old lady, who took life philosophically, sat knitting in the drawing-room. To her came rushing her ten-year-old granddaughter.

"Oh, granny," cried the girl, "father's just fallen off the roof!"

"I know, my child," replied the old lady, without even raising her eyes, "I saw him pass the window."

—o—

"What is the most pathetic picture in the world?"

"A horse fly sitting on a radiator cap."

—o—

Mark Twain once talked of gratitude. He didn't much care, he said, for gratitude of the noisy, boisterous kind. "Why," he exclaimed, "when some men discharge an obligation, you can hear the report for miles around."

—o—

Some men smile in the evening,
Some men smile at dawn,
But the man worth while
Is the man who can smile
When his two front teeth are gone.

—o—

The identity of the young lady is withheld, but the memory of her answer lingers on with the science instructor of a large high school.

On a written quiz he had asked the class to define a bolt and a nut, and explain the difference between them. On her paper the young lady wrote:

"A bolt is a thing like a stick of hard metal such as iron with a square bunch at one end and a lot of scratching wound around the other end. A nut is similar to the bolt only just the opposite being a hole in a little chunk of iron sawed off short with wrinkles around the inside of the hole."

The startled instructor marked that "first class honors."

There isn't much to be seen in a little town, but what you hear makes up for it.

HEALTH TOPICS

FASHION AND HEALTH

Comfort rather than a fashionable figure is recommended as a guide in wearing apparel for women by Dr. D. R. Deyoe, assistant medical advisor of Cornell University.

"The women of Queen Elizabeth's time," he said, "were not squeamish; they did not faint at the slightest provocation but from the pressure of their foundation garments on the nerve centre, the solar plexis."

Dr. Deyoe said he isn't trying to scare the women, but urged them to look behind women's fashions and to consider their effect on the health. "Will a new fashion bring pressure on the waist and other parts of the body and result in shortened breathing and nervous disorders?" he asked. "Will the high heel of a cleverly styled pair of shoes shorten the leg muscles and eventually cause pain?"

UNHAPPINESS RUINS IT

Social illness, a new medical term which describes persons who are sick for no other reason than unhappiness over their environment, was recognized last week by the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Edward Weiss, of Temple University, Philadelphia, said that a third of those who see a doctor do not have any definite bodily disease to account for their illness, and another third seem to have symptoms that are partly due to emotions.

"The ill-health," he said, "arises from long-standing dissatisfaction in the business, social or home life of the individual and this failure of adjustment to environment is manifested by a disturbance in some part of the personality, either as bodily symptoms of various kinds, capable of mimicking almost any disease, or as affections of the spirit."

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I cause butter to stay fresh longer?

A. If the butter is packed in a crock containing charcoal, it will stay fresh much longer than ordinarily.

Q. How can I stiffen the brushes of the sweeper?

A. Take the brushes out of the sweeper, put a little common baking soda into some hot water and dip the brushes into it several times. Allow to dry in the sun.

Q. How can I lubricate the meat chopper and egg beater without allowing any taste of the lubricant to be imparted to the food?

A. Use glycerine as a lubricant, and this will eliminate the possibility of any taste being imparted to the food.

Q. How can I clean grease-stained overalls?

A. Rub them well with lard, then scrub with a stiff brush, using a little ammonia in warm soapsuds.

Q. How can I cause curtains to hang evenly after laundering?

A. Slip curtain rods through the lower hems and leave them there for a few days. They will straighten the curtains.

Q. How can I make use of the spiced vinegar from cans of peaches?

A. This spiced vinegar makes a delicious flavoring for minced meat. It also makes a savory sauce for cabinet pudding.

What Science Is Doing

POWDERED IRON

Launching of a new industry of a highly promising character is forecast on the basis of methods perfected at Mellon Institute, Pitthburgh, for the preparation of electrolytic iron powder.

Designed to do in the field of metallurgy what modern plastics have accomplished for light industry, the new process is believed to make possible economical production, for example, of iron shapes not ordinarily forgeable.

PEDALLING SAVES LIVES

A new way to prevent blood clots and the fatal blocking of veins following some operations — by using bicycle pedals — is announced.

The method was reported last week as an effective aid in minimizing one of the greatest risks of surgery, the danger of post-operative complications.

It consists of elevating the foot of the patient's bed for from 24 to 48 hours after a major operation and then having the patient exercise on ordinary bicycle pedals mounted on the foot of the bed.

GLASS "STITCHES"

It soon may be possible to talk about the glass stitches in your operation.

Glass thread which can be drawn as fine as silk and spun into fibers of any thickness promises to be one of the newest developments in surgery.

It is smooth, easy to handle, easily sterilized and is absorbed slowly by the body when used to close up deep incisions, says Games Slater, the inventor.

POLLEN PILLS FOR ALLERGY

Eating pollen has now been tried as a medical remedy for hay fever and found quite effective.

One hundred and thirty hay fever victims acted as the guinea pigs at the University of Cleveland Allergy Clinic. About half of them took injection of the ragweed pollen, which is a standard method of relieving hay fever, while the other half swallowed capsules filled with the same pollen.

The results showed the swallowing method is almost as good as immunization by vaccination.

Morrisburg is making history in some of the American newspapers, even if it is in the "believe it or not" corner. In a copy of the Seattle Star which was handed to us this morning appears a familiar figure in the "Strange as it Seems" feature. It is a sketch of Fire-chief Herbert Clark of Morrisburg, who with his bicycle and fire extinguisher, claims to have lost only 10 per cent of all fires reported in 10 years.

* * *

A pleasant evening was spent on Friday last, when Mr. and Mrs. Herman I. Barclay, Iroquois, entertained in honour of their neice, Miss Leah Hodge, who has spent the past three months at their home, and who in the very near future will take up training as a nurse in the Ontario Hospital at Brockville. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and contests, into which all entered, and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. Later an expression of thank was tendered the host and hostess for the very enjoyable evening.

Walter G. Beckstead, of Morrisburg has resigned as justice of the peace. When he received the commission a few years ago, there were regular receipts of $100 per year plus fees. Now only the fees remain and at Morrisburg they amount to little, but the same amount of work is involved. Often Mr. Beckstead remained home when he wished to go elsewhere, lest calls be made upon him in his official capacity. Concluding that the commission was not worth the while to him, he returned it.

Snakes, Cranes-Summer?

Mrs. Sam Swerdfeger reports what she believes to be an uncommon occurrence this week. Her son Paul, aged 14, came upon 2 large snakes on his father's farm, and killed them. The reptiles were very large for this district, about two and a half feet long. This seems to be rather an early date for the lowly snakes to creep from their winter hide-out. Mrs. Swerdfeger also reports a large crane has been seen in that district for the past two weeks. Perhaps this is nature's promise of better weather instore——We hope.

The Boy Scouts held their weekly meeting in the United Church basement with perfect attendance on Tuesday night. After flag break, service stars were given to each scout who had served a year in the troop. Patrol flags were distributed to the patrol leaders and several new members acquainted with a few facts of scouting by Rev. Payton.

After the business of the troop was completed, games were held for which points were given to the winning patrol. At the end of the evening, the score was as follows: Wolves 7, Beavers 12, and Bulldogs, 6. At the close of the meeting, a court of honour was held during which is was decided to get a new flag rope and to immediately send in the scout charter for registration at Dominion Headquarters.

CAPTAIN GETS HAT

Captain R. Tremblay, of the tanker Transiter will be presented with a new hat by Chamber of Commerce officials when he puts into Prescott to-day. Captain Tremblay won the right to this award by piloting the first boat into port, which took place last Friday at the height of the seamen's strike. His arrival and departure at that time with a cargo of gasoline was made without fan fare on account of the strike. He is scheduled to return to-day when President J. Newsome and Secretary H. Roode, of the Chamber of Commerce, will do the usual honors. This is the first time Captain Tremblay has won a new hat at Prescott, the award falling for the last five years to Captain Bruce Nicholls of the collier Valley Camp, which arrived there on Saturday evening, 24 hours after the Transiter.
