HENRY'S Shorthand School
Ottawa, Ont.

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

Wonderful Spring Weather

The weather for Easter week throughout this district has been nothing short of wonderful, with clear sunshine throughout most of each day, and each succeeding day just a trifle more salubrious than the one gone before. With the almost uncanny disappearance of the winter's snows and most of the roads as dry as midsummer, it is hard to realize that we are but entering the second week of April. However, we still lack rain and although the land is drying out in a most remarkable manner with the higher places ready for operations, conditions will not continue so good if considerable moisture is not soon received. There has not been more than a few hours of continuous rain since early last fall.

Contest Concert Last Night Drew Large Crowd

The Music Hall last night was almost filled to capacity when a novel concert was the attraction, the programme being supplied by rival groups, one headed by Mr. Milton Shaver, the other by Mr. Lawrence Doering, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Presbyterran church. The decision on the relative merits of the offerings was left for the audience to make at the conclusion, which, from the applause, seemed sightly to favour that sponsored by Mr. Shaver.

The two parts were on distinctly different lines, Mr. Doering's, which was presented first, was entirely a coloured affair with a brief skit well presented, enriched with the tuneful melodies and lively dances of the people of the southland, while that of Mr. Shaver also including a short sketch was featured by a male quartette, a kazoo band, a vocal solo, and an instrumental number. An orchestra rendered several selections most acceptably, adding much pleasure to the diversified programme, in the reporting of which we have purposely refrained from particularizing on the excellence of individual numbers where all were so well executed.

Mrs. Biccum, Spencerville

Margaret Jane McFadden, widow of the late Edward Biccum, passed away at the home of her nephew near Spencerville, on the morning of April 4th. Her remains were brought to Winchester where she had formerly lived and the funeral held in St. Paul's church on Monday afternoon at one-thirty, being conducted by Rev. W. D. Turner, assisted by Revs. Waddell and J. Ostrom.

Mrs. Biccum had lived with her late husband on a farm in the Melvin Settlement the greater part of their lives until Mr. Biccum's health failed, when they moved to Winchester where he passed away some years ago and where Mrs. Biccum continued to live until recently when her health failed and she went to live with her friends near Spencerville.

Interment was made in Maple Ridge cemetery.

Runaway Horse Crashed Into Dry Goods Store

Monday morning about 8.30 a runaway horse speeding north on King street crashed head and shoulders into the window of David's dry goods store which was badly wrecked, scattering glass and milk cans on the sidewalk where the contents of four cans ran to the gutter.

Delbert Hummel, who lives about two miles east of Chesterville, was on his way to deliver the morning's milk at the condensery, when a breeching strap of the harness broke as he was crossing the bridge and the horse dashed away uncontrolled. As an attempt was made to guide the animal off of King street the horse crashed into the window and Hummel was thrown to the pavement, sustaining a broken arm and severe bruises. The horse received several minor cuts and bruises, while the contents of the window were uninjured.

Morewood High School Literary Society Met

The April meeting of the Literary Society of Morewood High School was held on Thursday last, and was opened by the scholars singing "O Canada." A diploma was presented to Miss Louva Allison, who, as president, spoke a few words of welcome to the visitors. Mildred McLaughlin then gave an interesting address on "Sir Wilfred Laurier," which was followed by a humorous recitation by Marion Marcellus. The Lower school students presented a dialogue entitled "How Sarah Saved Pa."

An interesting address on the life of Beethoven was given by Blanche Loucks. Donald Faulkner gave a recitation, which was followed by the school paper read by Doris Bowles.

The Secretary, Alta Loucks, read the minutes of the last meeting which were adopted as correct.

The Lower school presented another dialogue entitled "The Family Flurry."

The meeting, which was enjoyed by all closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Smith---Merkley

At the United Church Manse, Morrisburg, Wednesday evening, April 1, at half-past eight the wedding took place of Miss Vera Merkley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Merkley, of Dunbar, to Mr. J. Angus Smith, of Chesterville. The bride, looking very charming in silk crepe made on long lines with accessories to match and travelling in coat, hat and dress of beige ambre was attended by Miss Hazel McMillan, and the groom by Mr. Maurice Beckstead.

After the bridal ceremony the young couple left by motor on a trip to Toronto and other western points amid the good wishes of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were the recipients of a large number of choice and costly gifts, including several cheques.

Many Seek Shelter

At least one branch of the tourist traffic has been active in Chesterville, according to our local constable, who reports that he has had fifty-eight non-paying guests in the local lock-up on over-night visits since the first of January. Eleven were kept during last week. Many of these men were given supper and breakfast by the municipality. On Sunday afternoon there were fourteen hoboes passed through on board one car of a freight train going east.

David Webster, Dunbar

The funeral of the late David Webster, of Dunbar, who passed away last Monday after a lingering illness, took place Wednesday afternoon when interment was made in Grantley cemetery, services being conducted by Rev. A. H. Sproule. Mr. Webster was 81 years of age at the time of his death and for many years had carried on the blacksmithing business at Dunbar, where he was well and favourably known. He is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Delia McMillan, and a family of grown-up children, Martha, of Calgary; Albert M., of Springwater, Sask.; Ernest, of Ottawa; Edwin, of Renown, Sask., and Charles, of Landis, Sask.

Burglars at Morrisburg

The store on Main street, Morrisburg, owned and operated by Joseph Trevan, was entered by thieves Monday night, and about $150 worth of dry goods was stolen. The burglars did considerable damage to the building.

The building, which is a small frame structure at the west end of the business section of Main Street, was entered by the rear window of the second storey from an adjoining roof. The upstairs being empty, the thieves were not hampered in going to the front and down the stairs. The stairway being separated from the store by a thin partition, the men found it necessary to break through this partition in order to enter Trevan's store.

Upon entering his place of business Mr. Trevan discovered the partition slit from ceiling to floor, but the door, which had been unbolted, standing open. The marauders left the place by the rear entrance. They took with them about $150 worth of stockings, sweaters, caps, scarves, raincoats, ladies' spring coats and two suits. All the clothing stolen was in small sizes. The ony trace left by the thieves were two half-eaten apples.

Restless Village Guests Ungrateful For Assistance

Some folks, it seems, don't appreciate a good thing when they get it and this was the case with two knights of the road Thursday night. They had asked Reeve Casselman for supper and a place to sleep and were given both. When told they would be placed in a cell and locked in until morning they readily assented and handed over their knives, matches and other incidentals. Although they had a bed and a warm place for the night business seemingly was pressing and they didn't care to wait for their release in the morning. Having concealed a knife, they managed to cut within half an inch of the padlock and freedom. The heavy door is of threeply hardwood and sure took some hacking, and they were almost good enough for it. They wouldn'a give any reason for their act on Friday morning when Constable Craig released them and allowed them to proceed.

Sunday morning as Mr. Wm. Smith and family were proceeding to church the horse which he was driving became unmanageable on Victoria street when a breeching broke and the horse proceeded to free itself from the buggy. Mrs. Smith and her daughter jumped quickly from the rig while the horse headed for the United church sheds, before reaching them the buggy came into collision with Mr. A. J. Forward's auto which had one fender considerably damaged.

Fish With Four Legs And Lizard-Like Head

Sucker fishermen report that streams emptying into the St. Lawrence river in the district are this year swarming with queer species of water lizard, known as mud puppies, and dozens of the creatures are being displayed in goldfish bowls and aquariums in the windows of Cornwall stores. The mud puppies range from three to fifteen inches in length, are light brown to black in colour and have four legs and a head like a lizard. A distinctive feature is a set of bright red external gills protruding from behind the creature's head.

Despite the fact that they are believed to be a rare species, mud puppies are being found in hundreds in the smaller streams. Although of wicked appearance they are stated to be absolutely harmless.

Killed on Prescott Highway

On the Prescott Highway Sunday evening at 6.30 o'clock, Isaac Chartrand, 38-year-old resident of Osgoode, was hurled to his death as he stepped in front of an automobile driven by Garnet Woods of Kemptville.

Chartrand, who, with his brothers, David and Eddie, was going to Ogdensburg, where their father died suddenly that afternoon, had reached a point about four miles south of Kemptville when they met a car bearing Miss H. Craig, Miss Emma Chartrand and Joseph Chartrand, who were returning from the hospital.

Both cars turned and stopped close to each other. Isaac Chartrand crossed to the other car, where he learned of his father's death, and had turned to cross to his car when the auto driven by Woods is said to have cut between the stationary cars and hit the man, hurling him several feet in the air.

The injured man was removed to the verandah of a nearby house and died 15 minutes later before medical aid arrived. A jury was empanelled and viewed the remains Monday morning. There was no charge made against Woods at the time of the accident.

A MATTER OF MEMORY

WE often wonder, says the Mitchell paper, how many of us "old timers" can recall when we put our shirts on over our heads; when anybody could hitch up a horse; when there were no such things as wrist watches: and a hired girl was lucky to get $2.50 a week. Or how many remember when kids collected cigarette papers; when everybody had tonsils and kept 'em; when nobody had appendicitis and most everybody kept the Sabbath. Surely there must be a lot of folks around here who can remember when they carried a lantern on the dashboard of the spring wagon and drove it through the mud and dirt most of the time; when they slept on a straw tick and took a bath on Saturday night; when women wore Mother Hubbards and when a brick covered with a carpet served as a doorstep; and when congress gaiters were the most stylish shoes. This isn't a sign that you are getting old. It's a sure sign of a good memory.

Williamsburg Council

The Council met in Williamsburg on April 4th, members all present. Minutes of previous meeting read and adopted.

Orren Casselman made application to the Council to cancel his Hydro contract, which was granted so far as the Council was concerned.

The Road Superintendent was instructed to hire a suitable man to operate the tractor, wages not to exceed 40c per hour.

The following resolution direct to Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, was passed:—"The Council, feeling that one of the heaviest burdens carried by Agriculture to-day is that of high freight rates, wishes to draw your attention of the following resolution: 'Whereas prices obtainable for farm products are now on the average considerable below pre-war prices, and, whereas the farmers find it practically impossible to make a fair living on their farms, and, whereas freight charges on hauling farm products to market are the same as they were when prices of these products were at their peak, being in some cases several times what the Ontario farmer receives net to-day for his products, and whereas, we believe that the keen competition which trucking services now provide for the railways can best be overcome by establishing competitive freight rates and securing a larger volume of business; therefore, we urge on the Government, through your department, the necessity of a downward revision of rates on farm commodities, so that at the low prices now prevailing the farmers may be enabled to make a living which will compare favourably with that enjoyed by other classes who perform a service of no greater value.

A by-law was passed apportioning $15,000.00 for Township road expenditure.

"Oh, I learned that secret when I discovered Shredded Wheat. It's the whole wheat, you know, and has iron for making red blood and all the elements for building healthy tissue and bone. And by the way, it's ready-cooked and ever so easy to serve for breakfast or lunch. I just pour milk or cream over the biscuits. On cold mornings I heat the milk—it makes a most delicious hot cereal, and with fruit it's a treat at any time."

The Last Straw.

Jones, a gloomy individual, decided to turn over a new leaf, so he went home whistling, kissed his wife and the kids, then proceeded to shave and clean up for dinner.

When the meal was over, he insisted on washing the dishes, and sang lustily as his wife looked on with amazement. The job finished, he took off his kitchen apron and found his better half in tears.

"Why, what's the matter, dear?" he asked.

"Oh, everything's gone wrong today," she said. "The clothes line broke and let the washing down in the dirt. The twins got into a fight at school and came home with black eyes. Mary fell down and tore her dress, and, to cap the climax, here you come home drunk."

"I WANT MY MAMA"

It was really the first time Dorothy had ever been away from home alone. She was happy as could be at Aunty's, and romped and played the whole day long—till bedtime came—then a terrible fit of homesickness came over her.

Aunty was at her wits' end—till she thought of Long Distance. In just a few seconds Dorothy's mother was talking to her little girl . . . quietly, firmly, cheerily . . . then she told her to let Aunty tuck her away in bed.

Everything was all right after that. Dorothy felt that her mother really wasn't far away after all. And the telephone had saved Aunty from an awkward predicament—at a cost of just 35 cents.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m. Just give "Long Distance" the number you want — it speeds up the service.

Dunbar Lady Honoured

A very pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent Tuesday, March 31st, in the new parish hall at Dunbar when her many friends and neighbours assembled in honour of Miss Vera Merkley on the eve of her marriage, showing the high esteem in which she was held by one and all. The evening was spent in music and games until about midnight when Vera was called to the platform and a very appropriate address was read by Mr. Geo. K. Casselman of Dunbar, and the bride-to-be was presented with a handsome set of dishes, a set of silverware and a linen table cloth.

Following is the address:

Dear Vera,- We, your many friends and neighbours, on learning that you were about to begin your journey on Matrimonial seas, have assembled here this evening for a few hours to renew our friendship and present our good wishes. It is with much regret we learn of your departure from our midst, for we have found you a trustworthy friend and a jolly companion at all times. Your friendship is greatly appreciated by everyone who knows you. You will be greatly missed by young and old. As a worker in our church we have always found you a willing helper. You have been a faithful member of our choir and league and in both have rendered assistance in everything we undertook. We hope to have the pleasure of seeing you again in both places on the occasions you visit your home in the future. Knowing how we will miss you from our circle, we express our sympathy to your father and mother in losing you from the home circle, but we hope the times you see them will be many.

On leaving our midst, we, your old friends, hope you will find as many new friends who will be kind to you and help you through any little difficulties you may face during the future years. In token of our great esteem, we beg you to accept these gifts and may you never use them without letting your thoughts dwell for a few moments on your old friends. Now, may God bless you both and make you the happiest couple of the year.

Signed on behalf of the Luther League, Neighbours and Friends.

Vera replied in a few well chosen words, after which the crowd sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Refreshments, consisting of cake, sandwiches and coffee, were served.

GROW GREENS AND SALADS

GREENS AND SALADS should form a part of the dietary of every family throughout the year. They are highly palatable, satisfy the appetite, and furnish the bulky foods which are so necessary. Best of all, they are filled with minerals, salts and vitamins which are so essential for the blood, nerves, bones and teeth. Fortunately, greens and salads are very easily grown, no matter whether they are the warm crops such as mustard and cress, or the cold crops such as endive and lettuce. Parsley, chard, spinach, kale and cabbage are all easy to grow.

Many of those who have not had gardens for years will have them this year. Many thousands of farm boys who have been living in the city are now back on the old homestead, and probably several times that number of city men will see to it that at least a few seeds are planted in their particular bit of soil. Those who are not fortunate enough to be working full time, will find an opportunity during their spare hours to do more planting than they have done for a long time. Later on their tables will be enriched with fresh vegetables that they perhaps could not afford to have unless they had grown them.

BARLEY IN LIVE STOCK FEEDING

IN a pamphlet recently issued by the Animal Husbandry Division, Experimental Farms Branch, Department of Agriculture, entitled, "The Greater Use of Barley in Live Stock Feeding," which deals in considerable detail with barley as a food for beef cattle, dairy cattle, horses, sheep and swine, there is the following foreword:—

> "Barley should be regarded as practically the equal of corn with all classes of live stock in the feeding of which the latter grain has played an important part. It is a Canadian produce admirably suited to widespread production under Canadian conditions, climatic and cultural. It is equally well qualified for a place in the growing and finishing rations of Canadian live stock."

Much other useful information re the feeding value of barley compared to other feeds and for the various classes of live stock is summarized as follows:—

1. Barley is a Canadian-grown product relatively cheaper than imported corn.
2. It is now readily available at comparatively low prices.
3. In total digestible nutrients, it is excelled only by wheat and corn.
4. Barley lacks slightly in palatability as compared with corn and is best fed in conjunction with other grains.
5. Being of a carbonaceous or fattening nature, it may be most advantageously used with meat producing animals in both the growing and fattening stages.
6. It is generally recognized as the most useful Canadian grown grain for swine feeding.
7. It is almost equally useful in the feeding and finishing of beef cattle.
8. With oats, it forms a good base for dairy cattle grain mixtures where the additional protein required to balance the ration is otherwise supplied, for example, by alfalfa or high protein cereal-legume hay crops.
9. Barley may be safely and economically fed to work horses as a part of the grain ration. It is best rolled or bruised.
10. Barley, rolled, cracked or loosely ground, combines well with oats in the fattening of lambs.

This very timely pamphlet (No. 127, N. S.) and also a similar one covering poultry feeding (No. 128, N. S.) may be obtained by writing to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

NOW COMES CANNED WORMS

THE fishing season is in the offing, and already the urge is coming over many disciples of Isaac Walton. In this connection the latest industry or rather farming occupation is that of a "worm farm" being operated by an enterprising indivdual in California. This man cultivates the soil in a manner conducive to the health and welfare of worms. His knowledge of their requirements would seem to be amazing. The enterprise is purely commercial, for the man packs the delectable morsels for the fish in tin cans with sufficient moisture and food to keep them alive for ninety days and ships them to a fairly extensive clientele of anglers. Many a man has felt the urge to go fishing and after a long search for worms has felt some of the pleasant anticipation vanish after a fruitless or rather wormless search. This drawback may now be remedied if worm farms become at all extensive in their operations.

Darning Needle Found in Man

J. S. Elliott, of Exeter, has had the remarkable experience of having a three-inch darning needle pass through his body. Mr. Elliott, who had no recollection of swallowing the needle, suffered from pain five years ago, but the cause of the trouble was not located. Recently Mr. Elliott had a recurrence of the same trouble and consulted a doctor. After a thorough examination was made the doctor discovered and removed the long, sharp cause of the trouble. It seems incredible that such an object could go through the stomach and other parts without causing pain and inconvenience, but the fact remains and the doctor has the needle as evidence.

A Blanket Finish.

It was a good many years ago that Deacon Calahan took his wife to the races.

Just as the horses were lining up at the barrier, Mrs. Callahan grasped the deacon nervously by the arm, and in a voice which was filled with emotion asked him for a safety pin, meanwhile grasping frantically for something that seemed to be slipping around the knees.

Just then someone nearby shouted "They're off!" And Mrs. Callahan fainted.

Tommy: "Nurse, did you say you would kiss me if I were good all day?"

Handsome Nurse: "Yes, dear; and so I will now."

Tommy: "No, nurse. I have sold the kiss to my big brother for half a dollar."

Mrs. Hatt stopped to talk to her friend, and her husband waited at a short distanct.

Presently she rejoined him again.

"H'm," he commenced, "and what was that woman talking about?"

"Business," she replied offhandedly.

"Yes, I know," murmured hubby sternly, "but whose?"

BLOOD PURIFIERS

We often hear persons speak of their blood as being thin or in a bad condition, and this, most frequently, in the spring of the year.

There is a popular belief that when spring comes, the body should be given a purge to rid it of the poisons which are supposed to have accumulated during the winter, and to follow this by a tonic to purify the blood.

It is true that by the time the spring comes, there are a number of people who do not feel well. They are all tired out, and their appearance answers the description they give of themselves. No wonder they feel miserably and look it! For months, they have led the kind of life which would make anyone lose his health. They shut themselves into hot rooms with no ventilation, take no exercise, never go out into the fresh air, and eat just as much as they do when they are active during the summer. It is bad habits of living during the winter months that cause the trouble; the blood has nothing to do with it.

Prevention is better than cure, but if you have not been taking reasonable care of your health during the winter and you are now feeling the results of your carelessness, you will want to know what you should do.

The only way to get back what you have lost is by paying attention to the points you have neglected. Health which you have lost by your indifference will not be regained by the use of "spring tonics." Health is found in fresh air, exercise and attention to the diet.

The body is quite capable of ridding itself of its waste material if it is given half a chance. Use water internally and externally. Take a warm bath at least once a week to help the skin to function properly. Drink a glass or two of water before breakfast and between each meal to help elimination. Cultivate regular toilet habits. Fresh cool air acts as a stimulant for the whole body and, together with sunshine, is nature's own spring tonic.

The body cannot be healthy unless it is kept in good running order by exercise. The big muscles of the body must be kept in condition by use. Whether it is work or play which brings them into use does not matter so long as they are used .

Eat according to the work you are doing. Let your diet consist of a wide variety of foods, and remember that milk, green vegetables and fruits should be used regularly.

The blood is as clean and pure in the springtime as at any other time. Alterations in the blood are brought about by certain diseases, but not by the seasons of the year.

Blood purifiers are not required. What is needed, and all that is needed is healthy living.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 14 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

A bishop had been speaking with some feeling about the use of cosmetics by girls.

No Lure to Strike.

Fatigued Felix (the tramp): "I sometimes think our profession is just the meanest business goin'."

Hungry Henry: "What' wrong with it?"

Fatigued Felix: "Well, when other fellers is abused they kin strike; but the only way we could strike would be by goin' to work!"

The Girl: "I should think you'd be as happy as a king when you're in the air!"

Aviator: "Happier! I'm an ace."

"Please hurry," said the wife impatiently, addressing her husband. "Have you never buttoned a dress behind before?"

"No," said the husband, also impatiently, "you never had a dress buttoned before behind."

News and Information For the Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Utilization of the by-products of farming is one of the solutions to successful farming. Farmers should utilize the skimmed portion of their crops, as well as the cream.

The fallacy of holding eggs for a rise in the market has been frequently shown, as these eggs invariably grade seconds. Farmers are urged to market their eggs in the very best of condition, which naturally is as soon after laying as possible, so that they will get the benefit of official grading.

Feed to a Finish

Farmers who are feeding cattle for beef are asked to note that considerable numbers of half-fat cattle have been brought in by shippers. The market has enough depression factors to contend with, and shippers are requested in their own interest not to sacrifice half-finished stock and thereby adversely affect the market as a whole. Feed your beef cattle to a finish and get all the market has to offer.

A Word to Corn Raisers

The corn borer is not the greatest enemy of the corn raisers of Western Ontario, according to Prof. L. Caeser. The farmer's own failure to choose seed suited for Canadian conditions and poor judgment in planting are responsible for quite as much damage as the corn borer. Pro. Caesar points out that United States varieties of corn are for the most part unsuited to growth in Western Ontario and there is plenty of seed corn of the right type available in this part of the country. He further declares that corn is planted too quickly in the majority of cases. Poor varieties of seed and too thick planting caused more loss to growers in 1930 than the corn borer.

Registration of Holsteins

Advanced registration work with the Holstein breeders has been gradually gaining ground since July last when the first of the herd-grading demonstrations took place. Already more than 4,000 cows have been classified, and with the opening of spring a busy season for the inspectors is predicted.

Some of the leading counties with herds graded include: Leeds, 33; Oxford, 18; Glengarry, 18; Grenville, 21; Haldimand, 34; Perth, 23; Prince Edward, 17; York, 13; Waterloo, 16; Quebec, 32.

In Leeds County of 457 cows graded, 442 were classified good or better; Oxford, 299 out of 302; Perth, 208 out of 235; Waterloo, 185 out of 186; Grenville, 242 out of 246; Haldimand, 255 out of 261; York, 188 out of 195; Glengarry 191 out of 197, and Quebec, 206 out of 312. It will thus be observed that the number of cows and heifers qualifying as "fair" or "poor" has been proportionately small.

Buy Seeds Early

In recent years the tendency has been to put off the buying of seed until spring is actually in sight. Formerly the peak of the purchasing season was early in March, with many farmers laying in supplies in mid-winter. Now the period of most active buying has shifted well on into April. The purchase of seed, the foundation upon which all agriculture rests, is too important an item to be left to the last minutes. Ground is drying out fast in all localities and only a little warmer weather is needed to make conditions right for sowing. A rush buying of seeds is against both farmers' and seedsmen's interests, as naturaly a large volume of business cannot be handled so sastisfactorily as if spread over a week or two. The buyer has not the same opportunity to consider quality and proper varieties and there is the risk of local supplies running short. Also there is a temptation to accept inferior untested seed which invariably results in low crops and dirty fields. The sale is prohibited for seeding purposes of any thing that does not come up to the rigid standards laid down by the Seeds Act. Buyers are warned against any seed that has not been government-tested and approved.

Weekly Crop Report

Alfalfa and clovers are in a better condition now than they were in 1930 according to the weekly report of the agricultural representatives. At the same time, eggs have reached their lowest values in years. The maple syrup harvest, it is said, will not be up to the standard of recent seasons.

In Bruce, fall wheat and clovers are still covered with snow and the farmers find the feed situation exceptionally good. Less seed grain will be purchased in Glengarry this season than in recent years. Low egg prices have stimulated Grenville farmers to cull their flocks. Milk production here is 25 per cent higher than last winter. Halton reports fall wheat and clovers as coming out of the winter in fairly satisfactory condition. In Leeds there is considerable activity as regards livestock and a number of cheese factories have opened. Wheat and clovers in Lincoln are in better shape than in 1930 while several growers have already planted early peas. Norfork reports an increase in flue-cured tobacco acreage to 20,000 acres. The new seed cleaning plant in Ontario is being given much patronage with a good demand for the certified product. Renfrew farmers have disposed of between 10,000 and 12,000 bushels of mixed car lots of seed barley at fair prices. Spring cultivation has started in the Welland district for the vegetable sections. Pure seed for mixing is very scarce in Wellington, the report blaming this factor for poor yields.

Quack Grass Control

Spring tillage or late fall tillage is not a satisfactory means of destroying quack or couch grass, according to one authority who has given three years' observation to the work and who declares unqualifiedly that summer is distinctly the most dependable season for destroying quack grass by tillage. The degree of control is in direct proportion to the thoroughness of tillage, timeliness of the operation and favourableness of weather conditions. Ordinary cultivation is not effective in control. An occasional and half-hearted stirring of the soil stimulates the weed's growth. The one-way disk plough has been found very effective in quack grass control and has a low operating cost.

A Valuable Booklet

Prepared in the hope that it will create a keener appreciation of first-class beef on the part of Canadian consumers, a booklet covers in a brief but clear manner such subjects as the food value of beef, selection and care, and the relationship of the higher-priced cuts. More than half the booklet is devoted to practical suggestions on how best to cook beef and the last few pages contain many excellent recipes Beef grading and its value in protecting the consumer and stimulating the consumer are thoroughly explained and the booklet should prove helpful to Canadian housewives and retail meat merchants. Copies can be obtained from either the provincial or federal department of Agriculture or at your local agricultural office.

Fighting Rural Fires

For several yetrs a determined fight against rural fires has been carried on by the Ontario fire marshal E. P. Heaton, and his assistants. The barn losses in late summer and fall he blames largely on spontaneous combustion, the result of storing green and damp hay in the mows. For general protection the fire marshal recommends more care in the handling and storing of gasoline. This, he would place at a safe distance from inflammable material and would store in red tins, so it could not be mistaken for anything else. Many rural fires he blames on poorly constructed chimneys. These should be built right to the ground floor, for the masonary is liable to crack and allow explosive gases to leak out. Long pipes leading to a chimney are condemned, and also the careless leading of these pipes through partitions. He urges adoption of community fire-fighting apparatus or arrangements with the nearest town or village so that the apparatus would be at the call of farmers For this work he recommends a light truck, equipped with chemical apparatus and several small extinguishers. Several organizations have aready been formed where a score or more farmers have joined in purchasing fire-fighting equipment and transportation. The truck is stored at a strategic place and is summoned by telephone.

TURN SLACK HOURS INTO FOOD

ARE YOU working five days a week, or four, or three? If so, you have a number of hours that may be wasted or be made profitable—just as you wish.

Many men are using some of these slack hours and turning little plots of ground into blossoming rows of tomatoes, potatoes, beans, or peas. Not only are they keeping themselves physically fit but they are assuring their wives that a little later there will be plenty of fresh garden vegetables for the children as well as the adults.

It is surprising what can be produced from even a little plot of ground. It may be a backyard, a side yard, or something large enough to be entitled to the name "garden." A few seeds, a little fertilizer, a little time, and a little work will combine to turn this plot of ground into something worth while.

Incidentally, it won't be long before you can turn some of your slack hours into a garden. When you buy your seeds from your neighbourhood store check up the planting dates with your calendar and see how soon you are assured of two or three dates of good hard work at any rate.

A Strong Motive.

It was the young lawyer's first case, and he was bubbling over with pride and enthusiasm as he stood in court.

"Now," said he, addressing the defendant, "you say you came to town to look for work? I put it to you, there was another stronger motive that brough you all this distance."

"Well," hesitated the defendant, "there was—"

"Ah!" cried the lawyer, triumphantly, "and what was it?"

"A locomotive."

CHEAPER CUT RECIPES

By Etta Bitta Pye

HERE ARE TWO RECIPES for meat dishes that may be made from the cheaper cuts. They are delicious, economical and the touch of sugar used adds to the food value of the whole without increasing the cost noticeably.

Beef Loaf.

1½ pounds round of beef
1 quart cold water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon sage and thyme, mixed,
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
salt and pepper

Simmer the beef in the water with the salt until the meat is tender. Cool. Remove bones and fat, and chop very fine. Boil the liquid until reduced to one cup. Add vinegar, sugar, sage, sauce, thyme, salt and pepper. Mix with the meat. Press into a buttered mold and leave to become thoroughly cold. Serve with tomatoes and lettuce with mayonnaise.

Stuffed Flank Steak.

Have a flank steak trimmed and scored, that is, cut all over the surface in criss-cross lines. Mix together one cup bread crumbs; one small onion, chopped; one-half cup grated raw carrot; one-half cup finely diced celery; one tablespoon minced parsley; one teaspoon sugar; salt and pepper to taste, and one-third cup hot water or enough to moisten. Spread this mixture over the flank steak. Roll up as tightly as possible. Tie firmly and sprinkle with flour, pepper and salt. Brown quickly in hot fat. Then place in a covered pan and bake in a moderate oven for one and one-half hours. Baste two or three times during the cooking with two tablespoons butter melted in one-third cup boiling water. When done, remove the strings. Serve with brown gravy made from the fat in the pan.

STARTING THE BROODER CHICKS

THE most important single factor in brooding chicks is the vitality of the chicks themselves. All crippled and weak chicks should be killed upon removal from the incubator. In transferring from the incubator to the brooder care should be taken to see that they are well covered so that no chilling will take place.

A reasonable amount of variation in the temperature of the brooder house will do no harm in providing that the temperature under the hover does not go below 100 degrees F. Higher temperatures under the hover are desirable, however, since it causes the chicks to spread out well over the floor at night and prevent crowding around the stove. As the chicks begin to feather out the temperatures are lowered gradually. The chicks themselves are the best guide to temperature and the degree of their comfort is plainly indicated by their actions. For the first few days it will be necessary to confine the chicks fairly closely about the hover until such time as they know enough to return to the stove when cold.

Immediately upon being placed in the brooder slightly warmed water should be given and a small feed of chick size grit placed in the pen. Hoppers of mash may be put down immediately since experiments over a period of years the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, have clearly indicated that more rapid growth and lower mortality rate may be expected when this is done. Chicks receiving their first feed immediately after entering the brooder (approximately 24 hours after hatching) almost invariably gave superior results. Once the hoppers of mash are put down they are not again removed since experiments have shown that greater gains are made under these conditions. Chick size grit and shell should be available to the chicks at all times.

Chick scratch is usually given after the first week and fresh cut green feed daily. If fresh greens are not available, oats sprouted in trays with a green shoot of three to four inches in height will supply succulent green tops for the birds. Greenfeed, when outside grown, should come from areas where fowl have not previously run, if possible. Unless the chicks can get outside by the end of the first week or ten days, No. 1 crude cod liver oil at the rate of 1 per cent should be a constituent of the mash. As soon as weather conditions permit, windows should be opened to permit unfiltered sunlight to the floor of the pens.

A publication giving more detailed information as to suitable rations, etc., for brooding chicks may be obtained, gratis, by writing to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

A young man took his girl friend for an automobile ride and the car broke down. While waiting for help, the young man began to make love and said:

"My kisses will put new life into you."

"Then for goodness sake," she replied, "kiss the car and let's get going home."

SQUARE PIES

Winnipeg Evening Tribune

A SCOTTISH LASSIE, working in a Philadelphia bakeship, recently discovered that it was a sinfu' waste of oven space to bake pies in circular tins. So she started baking them in square tins—and the idea is spreading like wildfire through the bakeshops of the world.

Pies can now be made as Henry Ford makes plate glass, by a continuous process in which the ingredients flow on one end of a moving table and emerge in the finished state at the other end. Pie producers are pleased; they can turn out more and better pie at lower cost.

But how about the consumer? Is he getting all the pie to which he is entitled? Does he get the full benefit of the new technique?

Pie eaters are notoriously sensitive and are likely to resent anything in the nature of economic injustice. Have these reckless innovators reflected on the fact that it is impossible to cut a square pie into six pieces without perpetrating an injustice?

With a circular pie, it is just possible to serve everyone, even an odd number, with a slice in which the proper proportion of rim crust and filling has not been disturbed. A square pie can be seperated into fourths or eighths without disturbing the harmony of crust and filling, but any other division raises problems which call for an Einstein.

The good old circular pie, on the other hand can be divided into sixths or even fifths or sevenths, by any amateur pie cutter. And that is an advantage which pie eaters will not lightly surrender.

Motorist's Wife: "What lovely fleecy clouds. I'd just love to be up there sitting on one of them.
