Compressor stolen

FINCH—A Campbell-Housefeld air compressor valued at $600 was stolen from the compound of the Finch Co-op on the evening of Nov. 26 or early on Nov. 27. Long Sault OPP Const. Bernie Gadbois said no suspects have been identified.

Sanctuary theft

INGLESIDE—A 1991 black Kawasaki all-terrain vehicle was stolen from an equipment shed at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary between Nov. 29 and 30, said Long Sault OPP Const. Bernie Gadbois. The vehicle is valued at $3,900. OPP have no suspects in the theft.

Tires taken

CHESTERVILLE—Four rims and tires were stolen from a vehicle belonging to John Herfkens, RR 3 Crysler between Nov. 29 and Dec. 2. The car was parked at Eagle Farm Equipment on Hwy. 43 between Chesterville and Winchester at the time of the theft. OPP Sgt. Jim Irvine valued the four chrome Center Line rims and four Eagle GT tires at $2,000. Const. Howard Smith is investigating.

Buick recovered

MOREWOOD—Winchester OPP Sgt. Jim Irvine said a red 1988 Buick Sommersett, licence plate number 882 NZR, belonging to David Liscumb of Chesterville, was recovered in a ditch on County Road 7 south of Morewood Nov. 28 after it was stolen while parked at a Morewood address the night before. Irvine is asking anyone who may have seen the vehicle or has information about the theft to contact Const. Norm Sarault.

Remembering Dec. 6

TORONTO—The anniversary of the massacre at the Ecole Polytechnique in Montreal has been proclaimed a provincial day of Remembrance and Action on Violence Against Women, Ontario Women's Issues Minister Marion Boyd announced last week. Boyd said December 6 will be a day to remember the 14 women killed at the Universite de Montreal engineering school in 1989, as well as "the thousands of other Canadian women who are abused, attacked, sexually assaulted and murdered every day of every year." Commemorative events are planned province-wide during the week of Dec. 6, including the launching of a handbook called "Your rights: an assaulted women's guide to the law," on Friday.

Knitters needed

WINCHESTER—Knitters are needed for the Winchester District Memorial Hospital's gift shop and East Ward. All wool will be provided at no cost to the knitters. Anyone who is interested can call Virley Edwards at 448-2067 or Lyn Cummings at 448-2730.

Seniors' party

CHESTERVILLE—The Chesterville Guides and Scouts will be providing the entertainment for the 15th annual Christmas party for senior citizens in the Chesterville Legion Hall on Sunday, Dec. 8 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. All local seniors are welcome to attend.

Chesterville merchants say no to Sunday shopping

Elizabeth Moreau
Record News Editor

CHESTERVILLE—Chesterville merchants are shunning Sunday shopping.

Few village retailers are taking advantage of the Ontario government's Sunday shopping bill, passed last week, which allows stores to open the four Sundays before Christmas.

Stores must close on Christmas Day, Boxing Day, and Sunday, Dec. 29.

Grocery store owner Mike Dean said his store won't be open on Sundays because it simply isn't worth the trouble. Dean opened the store one Sunday before Christmas last year, and did about 25 per cent of a normal day's business.

"Certainly if we could do even as much business as we do on a Tuesday (for example), we'd be open," he said.

But Dean said he is opposed to Sunday shopping in principle, saying Sunday is a day for families.

"In general, I'm dead against it," he said. "In retail, our employees already work long hours, six days a week. That's long enough."

Under the shopping bill, employees have the right to refuse to work on Sundays.

Dale McNaughton, who won't be opening his Seaway Valley Pharmacy on Sundays, agrees that Sunday should remain a "common pause day."

"A seven-day week is really the end of your family life," he said.

He said he would only consider opening on Sundays to dispense prescription drugs. Currently, Winchester District Memorial Hospital will provide medication during pharmacy off-hours, enough to last a patient until pharmacies re-open.

Joyce and Alan Sharkey are considering opening Al-Mor Ladies Wear and the Brookslyn jewelry store on Sunday, Dec. 22, but aren't yet sure.

Joyce Sharkey said staying open the Sunday before Christmas proved beneficial to the couple last year, but said she knows consumers only have so many Christmas dollars to spend.

"If they are going to spend money with us and we're not open on Sunday, then they'll come back," she said. "We're offering as many hours as we can."

Al-Mor and the Brookslyn, along with many other retailers, will be open until 9 p.m. from Monday to Saturday starting Monday, Dec. 9.

Naomi's party will bring old friends back together

Elizabeth Moreau
Record News Editor

WINCHESTER—Thanks to union members at Nestle Enterprises in Chesterville, about 60 women and children who spent part of the year at a battered women's shelter will be treated to a Christmas party.

The members of Nestle's union recently donated $500 to Naomi's Family Resource Centre in Winchester. The money will be used to buy food and gifts for the children at the shelter's second annual Christmas party.

Centre director Judith Running said between 50 and 60 women and children, all clients of the shelter over the past year, are expected to attend the party later this month.

Running said without the donation, the centre "would have been hard-pressed to provide the kind of gathering we're planning."

Union president Dwayne Hall said one of the 200 union members approached him about making a donation to Naomi's. The money came from a surplus in union dues.

"We had a surplus," Hall said. "So we figured it was time to help somebody else."

Running said the donation has allowed party organizers to find out exactly what kind of gift each child would like.

She said former shelter clients living on their own, many on fixed incomes, find it difficult to buy toys for their children around Christmas time.

Running said the party gives women a chance to make contact with friends they made while staying at the shelter. She said although women form close bonds while at the shelter, they often lose touch with one another when they leave.

"It's a chance for them to connect back with women they've been with at the shelter," Running said.

She said last year's party, the centre's first, brought many old friends back together.

Running said the centre has seen a sharp increase in the number of clients over the past year. She said the nine-bed shelter is full most of the time, the busiest it has been since it opened in 1987. At one point during the summer, the centre ran at 200 per cent occupancy.

Flu bug makes the rounds at area schools

AVONMORE—The halls at Tagwi High School in Avonmore weren't as busy as usual last week when about 100 students stayed home with flu-like symptoms.

And Monday morning, the effects of the flu virus were starting to be felt at North Dundas District High School, when between 25 and 30 students checked out after exhibiting the same signs of sickness.

Tagwi principal Jane Wright said students were starting to return on Thursday, after an average of two or three days at home with the bug.

Wright suspects the flu is responsible for most of the absences.

"It's a pretty normal round of the flu, with headaches, fever and the regular symptoms," Wright said, adding it's noticeable when almost a quarter of the school's 450 students are absent.

Wright said it's normal for the school to have a week of heavy flu cases this time of year or earlier. She noted there was "a real round" of flu cases at Tagwi eight or nine years ago.

"There's not much you can do to prevent it," she said, adding only a couple of teachers caught the virus.

NDDHS vice-principal Carl Ward said the 30 students who left Monday morning joined 10 or 20 more who stayed at home with the flu.

"It hasn't really hit until today, but it's taking its toll here," Ward said, adding there isn't much the school can do but hope the outbreak passes quickly.

He said the affected students complained of stomach aches, lack of energy, headaches, and general sickness.

"It may get worse before it gets better. It will probably peak this week and then taper off," Ward said.

Gisele Martin of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit (EOHU) in Cornwall said a nurse visited Tagwi and found that other ailments like colds were also causing the high number of absences.

But Martin said although the EOHU has received reports of flu-like symptoms in this area, they have not been clinically identified.

She described the flu, or influenza, as an acute disease of the respiratory tract with symptoms like fever, headache, sore throat and coughing, and general nausea.

Provincial auditor, OMAF target 'unsanitary' slaughterhouses

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

TORONTO—Ontario Minister of Food and Agriculture Elmer Buchanan announced last week the province will seek legislation to tighten enforcement of inspection standards of slaughterhouses.

And one local slaughterhouse owner is glad to hear something is being done to improve his industry's image.

Buchanan announced last Tuesday that legislation to strengthen inspection laws and enforcement procedures will be tabled at Queen's Park before Christmas and the new regulations will hopefully be in effect Jan. 1.

Buchanan was responding to provincial auditor Doug Archer's report which stated little was being done to ensure slaughterhouses found to be unsanitary were disciplined for failing to comply with orders to do so.

OMAF has been working on changes to the legislation since June.

Tom Henderson, owner of Tom Henderson's Custom Meat Cutting in Dunbar, said he spends between $300 and $350 every month on dry chemical solvents for cleaning his shop.

Every Tuesday, up to 20 beef cattle and up to 20 pigs are slaughtered there.

Henderson, who is proud of the cleanliness of his shop, said he is glad action will be taken to clean up offending slaughterhouses.

He said slaughterhouses with poor operating practices give reputable operations like his a bad image.

Ez Osti, who headed the slaughterhouse study as director of the provincial auditor's office, said in an interview last week the problem was in cases where slaughterhouses found to have rusty cutting equipment, dirty cutting tables, meat on the floor and improper refrigeration, nothing was done to ensure the problems were corrected.

Osti said inspectors, who are on hand whenever animals are slaughtered in one of Ontario's 260 licensed slaughterhouses, should refuse to re- issue licenses to offending slaughterhouses.

"In our report there's no standard follow-up procedure or time limit set for correction of these problems. The same problems have been identified for many years in the same slaughterhouses," Osti said.

Osti said under the Meat Inspections Act, OMAF's Livestock Inspection Branch has the authority to suspend licenses.

Osti based his study on reports of 35 licensed slaughterhouses, 10 of which were found to be "deficient."

He said it did not constitute a statistical study, but showed there was enough of a problem based on the information received.

"In these (10) cases none of the plants had their licenses revoked. Unless a tougher stand is taken and they start imposing suspensions, not too much will get done," Osti said.

OMAF chief meat inspector Dr. Tom Baker said his department knew enforcement was one area that needed improvement, and that's why they began working on new legislation last summer.

Baker also said the reports studied by the auditor's office were from 1990, and the Livestock Inspection Branch has since reorganized.

He said all annual plant audits done by his staff are now centralized through the main office, and steps have been taken to improve the follow-up process.

The 1991 plant audits, Baker said, have shown improvement.

"I'm really quite pleased to say in almost all cases the (offending) plants have either closed or have come up to our standards," Baker said.

Farmers united, ready for protest call

Elizabeth Moreau
Record News Editor

CHESTERVILLE—Local delegates attending the Ontario Federation of Agriculture's annual convention last week agree farmers are more united than ever in their fight for financial security.

"There seems to be a coming together of minds," said Alvin Runnalls, president of the Dundas Federation of Agriculture.

"Different groups of farmers are standing together...We all realize we're in a financial crunch."

In a speech to OFA members, president Roger George told farmers to be ready for a national protest, possibly before the end of the year.

Runnalls said there is enough support and solidarity in the farming community to organize an impromptu demonstration on Parliament Hill.

"We think we could get a massive demonstration together," he said. "And it should be soon..All farmers are in trouble."

Jim Winters, newly-elected president of the Stormont Federation of Agriculture, said farmers have to be ready to organize at any time.

"There definitely is going to be a protest," he said. "It's never been more important."

Winters said the show of solidarity among farmers at the convention was a positive step for the OFA.

"It's a problem they've had in the past, where all different segments of agriculture have gone their own way," he said.

Winters, like other dairy farmers, worries that the result of the ongoing General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade talks in Geneva will threaten Canadian supply-managed groups.

Other farmers worry that government aid packages won't be enough to keep them in business. The federal government recently announced $800 million to help Canadian farmers, while Ontario has pledged $35 million to its farmers.

And Runnalls said a panel of provincial ministers at the convention weren't promising any more help.

"(Ontario Treasurer Floyd) Laughren says there's no money," Runnalls said. "He was honest about it, anyway."

Flu bug visits area schools

Because the flu virus is spread through the air by water droplets, Martin said, people with flu symptoms should be careful when sneezing and coughing in order to prevent further spreading of the disease.

"If you have the flu, stay at home, get extra rest, drink juices, and take precautions to not spread it," she said.

The flu can spread quickly in crowded areas such as schools and workplaces, and the virus can incubate anywhere from 24 hours to four or five days in the body before symptoms develop.

The average length of a bout with the flu is one week.

More than 1,000 people in Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell counties have been vaccinated against the flu by the EOHU.

Because they are more susceptible to getting the flu, Martin recommends people over 65 and those with chronic cardiac or pulmonary illness get vaccinated by the EOHU or their family physician.

Otherwise, because their immune systems are weaker, their influenza can develop into pneumonia.

According to the Ontario Ministry of Health, Martin said, the flu is much less severe in people who are vaccinated, and vaccination reduces the number of deaths among elderly people and those with heart or lung disease.

Martin said until further study, the EOHU is not sure exactly what virus they are dealing with and how many cases are in the area.

The EOHU regularly monitors absenteeism rates in area schools, hospital and long-term care facilities during the flu season.

Chesterville Public School principal Kirsten Gee said she wasn't sure if any recent absences were flu-related.

She said 10 of the school's 204 students were absent Friday and 15 on Monday, which represents normal numbers.

Merry message

The posting of holiday greetings is a sure sign that Christmas is just around the corner. The town hall was decked out for the Christmas season by municipal workers last week.

Preparation underway for Santa Claus parades

CHESTERVILLE—Local groups are gearing up for their annual Santa Claus parades. The first area parade will be held in Chesterville on Saturday, Dec. 14 at 10:30 a.m.

The Chesterville Scouts will be collecting canned goods, non-perishable food items, and donations of money at their float. The theme of the float is "meeting the needs of the community."

Everything the Scouts collect will be donated to the Rotary Club and churches for Christmas baskets.

The Morewood parade will be held Saturday, Dec. 21 beginning at 1:30, sponsored by the local recreation association. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded.

Another Santa Claus parade will be heading through the streets of Berwick on Sunday, Dec. 15, starting at 2 p.m.

Constitutional reform is about many things.

But mostly it's about you.

As Canadians, we are now facing one of the most important challenges in our history. Proposals have been put forward by the Government of Canada to improve our Constitution. These proposals, for a more united and prosperous Canada in which all Canadians can feel at home, are currently being reviewed by a special parliamentary committee. They will also be considered by a series of conferences run by independent Canadian organizations.

Some of the proposals include:

- a Canada clause that speaks of our hopes and dreams as Canadians, our values, our diversity, our tolerance and our generosity of spirit
- recognizing the right of aboriginal peoples to govern themselves while being protected by Canadian law
- ensuring recognition of Quebec's distinctiveness and of minority language groups
- reforming the Senate to make it elected, effective and much more equitable than it is now
- strengthening Canada's economic union so Canadians can work and conduct business anywhere in the country
- guaranteeing property rights.

Slaughterhouse owner: The middle man of the beef industry

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

DUNBAR—Tom Henderson is glad the provincial auditor and Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food are cracking down on poorly operated slaughterhouses.

That's because Henderson, owner of Tom Henderson's Custom Meat Cutting in Dunbar, prides himself on the cleanliness of his operation and says badly managed slaughterhouses give ones like his a bad name.

Henderson's abattoir is one of 260 licensed slaughterhouses in Ontario.

An Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food meat inspector is at Henderson's every Tuesday to monitor the slaughtering. The inspector inspects every animal before and after it is killed.

The inspector also checks the lymph glands and observes the general health of the animals, and if an animal is thought to be in unacceptable condition for consumption, an OMAF veterinarian is called in.

If the veterinarian agrees, the entire animal is disposed along with the remains of slaughtered animals.

Inspectors also visit the shop throughout the week to make random checks.

Henderson has no problem with the inspection system. He says it works for him, as well as his customers.

"I like it that way. Nobody can say you're doing things you're not supposed to. I don't buy or kill sick beef," he says.

"I always score in the high 90s (on inspections) so I must be doing something right," he adds.

Henderson, 43, used to have a farm and a small meat shop. An uncle, who was a butcher for 40 years, taught him the skills of the trade. Ten years ago, he sold his farm and opened his abattoir.

"There are a lot of city people that just think meat comes in packages," Henderson says, adding he enjoys his work, and views it as a business, like any other.

Henderson's cuts are sold locally, through orders from regular customers, as well as in Cornwall, Ottawa, and London. He buys cattle for slaughter and slaughters for local farmers.

One steer from his plant was shipped to the Northwest Territories by plane, by a man who bought it and wanted to send it to his aunt.

Henderson says sending meat up north might be a good business opportunity, because meat is not readily available there.

His job, he says, is made easier by the rollers and two-tonne winches in the shop, so there isn't a lot of lifting involved in running the plant.

"It's not an easy job, but it's how you make it out to be for yourself," Henderson says.

His operation is a family affair. Among his five employees are his wife Betty, and sons Jim and Paul.

All the slaughtering at Henderson's is done on Tuesdays, and the rest of the week, except weekends, is spent cutting and packaging the week's meat.

And Henderson is proud of his operation. He and a friend built the air-powered slaughtering device for $5,000, instead of buying one for $12,000.

The men built the device after studying and measuring a factory-built model in Alfred.

The machine consists of a chamber complemented by a series of air-powered mechanisms for positioning the animal.

After cattle are herded into a narrow passageway, the animal to be slaughtered is contained in the chamber and restrained by the air-powered mechanisms.

The animal is then killed by a quick bolt to the forehead from a hand-held pistol.

The floor of the chamber is then tilted and the animal is dumped onto the floor where it is taken away for processing. Every animal is weighed as soon as it is killed.

Henderson says the method of slaughtering he uses is humane. It meets provincial regulations regarding the killing of animals, which dictate that an animal must be unconscious before it is processed, as well as the method of killing used.

The back room where animals are slaughtered doesn't seem like a slaughterhouse. The floors, walls and equipment are clean, and there is no trace of blood or any animal remains.

The only clues that Henderson's is a slaughterhouse, when visited any other day than Tuesday, are the meat hooks hanging in one corner of the shop, and the smell of the raw meat being cut and wrapped in the front of the building.

Dr. Tom Baker, OMAF's meat inspection program manager with the livestock inspection branch, says the inspection process is thorough and necessary.

"A lot of people aren't aware of just how intensely meat is inspected," he says, adding disease among animals can be detected quickly.

He says whenever cattle, pigs, or even poultry and rabbits are slaughtered for commercial use, an inspector is on hand "100 per cent of time."

The system, he says, is set up to prevent unhealthy animals from being processed for consumption.

Baker says Ontario's Meat Inspection Act, which regulates slaughterhouse operations, was originally set up to detect tuberculosis. Although the disease is not common now, the same system is still used as an effective method of inspection.

The Meat Inspections Act, besides outlining meat quality standards, also regulates sanitary conditions and ensures the humane treatment of animals, including transportation.

Baker says any operators found to be abusing animals or improperly stunning them will be charged under the act.

But generally, he says, slaughterhouse owners are dedicated to the people they serve and he has been "impressed" with most operations he knows of.

Larger meat processing plants, like Schneider's, must meet federal standards because they export meat to other provinces and buy animals from a wider area.

Henderson says his main expenses are hydro, taxes, wages and long-distance telephone calls.

"It costs a lot of money to run a slaughterhouse, but it's a business, and we like it," he says.

Henderson doesn't advertise his services, and says he doesn't have to.

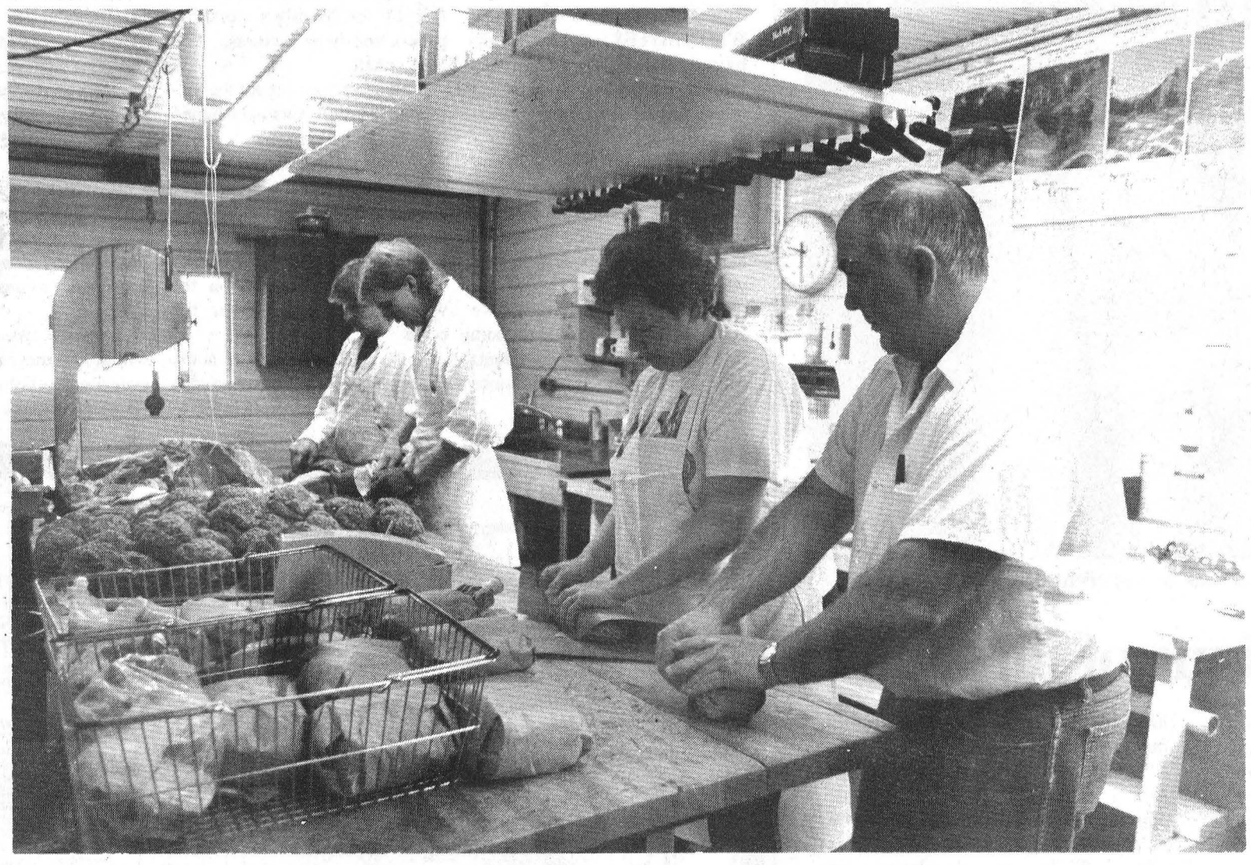
"I don't have to advertise. I have a lot of good customers, and if you treat customers right, you get them back."

He is worried, however, that government reductions in milk quotas and the farm crisis in general may have an effect on his business.

He says a lot of the small farmers, who are his main customers, may lose their farms.

"That's going to hurt us, but I'll have to see about it when the time comes," he says.

And when he has to increase his prices by a few cents per package to account for higher costs, he says, customers often complain.



Wrap up

Tom Henderson, right, wife Betty, son Jim and employee Rod Helmer process the week's beef. Henderson owns a custon meat cutting shop in Dunbar, which is one of 260 licensed slaughterhouses in Ontario. Henderson is glad the province is proposing to crack down on badly managed slaughterhouses, because he says they give reputable operations like his a bad name.

Interview

Shane Signs owner Sheldon Shane puts the finishing touches on one of his creations

Record Photo - Hewitt

Crysler resident creates signs of all kinds

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CRYSLER—Sheldon Shane used to drive trucks.

Now Shane, owner of Shane Signs off Nine Mile Rd. west of Crysler, paints trucks, and anything else people want him to.

"It's something I really enjoy doing. Ever since I was a kid in school, I was good at drawing, and everything sort of fell into place," Shane says.

In the eight years since he's been in business, Shane has painted everything from racing stripes on trucks, boats and snowmobiles, to commercial signs, election signs and just about everything else.

One of his biggest customers is Place d'Orleans Mall in Orleans. He also paints milk trucks for Ault, and MacEwen gasoline trucks.

He also painted the 'Welcome to Moose Creek' sign in Moose Creek, and a sign for a kennel in Thunder Bay.

But perhaps his most interesting endeavor is painting the blue and green signs farmers post outside their farms.

Shane's farm signs, which are usually four-by-six feet, and depict a cow on each side, have been ordered and sent as far away as Alberta, British Columbia and even Switzerland.

Shane says signs outside area farms often catch the eye of a visiting farm owner, and they approach him for a similar creation.

"If they're visiting relatives or driving down the countryside, they see other signs and ask where they came from. It comes back to me," Shane says as he puts the finishing touches on a sign bound for Switzerland, his second going to that country.

The signs, which are painted on both sides, sell for $325.

They are customized to the farmers' type of farm and type of cow they specialize in. For example, the sign Shane made for a farmer who had a dairy operation and cash crop operation depicted a cow pulling a wagon with three huge corn cobs in it.

Another specialty of Shane's is goofy cows. One side of the sign will have a perfectly- proportioned cow painted on it, and the other a cow more befitting a cartoon.

Some farmers, Shane says, aren't impressed when they see the cartoon cow, but others laugh and want a sign just like it.

Shane's shop, like any other successful enterprise, has entered the computer age. Most of the large lettering on his signs is not painted, but done by a machine.

The words for the sign are typed into a computer, and a cutting machine cuts the characters from a roll of colored adhesive paper. The words are then placed on the sign just like stickers.

"It's a lot faster than painting," Shane says.

But the rest of the sign, cows included, he paints by hand.

Shane, 31, is a naturally talented artist. He remembers doodling on his textbooks in high school instead of reading them.

He took a night course in graphic and sign drawing at Algonquin College a few years ago, but it didn't do him much good.

"Everything they told me I had more or less figured out on my own before," he says.

Shane's work keeps him busy. A year-and-a-half ago, he started Shane's Printing in Crysler, but had to hand the reins over to his sister Sharon in order to keep up with his signs.

"Sometimes I spend half the night in here, working away. And it's nice to get up in the morning and not worry about what you have to do - there's always lots of work," he says.

Shane employs his wife, Dianne, and three other full-time employees. He also provides two summer jobs for students.

"It's nice when you start something to see the finished product. That's what I like about it, instead of going to the office and doing the same job day in and day out," Shane says proudly.

Community helps Winchester fire victims

Liz Edwards
Special to The Record

WINCHESTER —Area residents have rallied to support a Winchester family who lost their home and most of their possessions in a recent fire.

"People have been bringing stuff right and left... I've had to turn people away," said fire victim Greg McConnell. "Everyone has been really good. It makes you feel good."

McConnell and his family have stayed in a trailer loaned to them by Mountain Township residents Mac and Eunice Holmes since the Nov. 25 fire.

Smoke, water and fire damaged almost everything in their Ottawa St. bungalow except for a trunk full of the family's personal papers and baby pictures, said McConnell.

"I was surprised (about the pictures). My wife was very happy with that," he said.

The fire, which began around 6:45 p.m., appears to have started along the north side of the house but Fire Chief Bruce Kerr said he is not sure whether an electrical panel located on the wall was responsible for the blaze.

McConnell, who was at home that evening, said he has no idea what caused the fire.

"I just smelled smoke and I got out," he said.

McConnell then ran to the neighbors to call the fire department. His wife Margaret and his two sons were visiting friends at the time of the incident.

Approximately 18 volunteer firefighters battled the flames from the outside for 45 minutes before entering the building. The smoke and flames in the main part of the house and the attic made it too dangerous for the firefighters to enter at first, said Kerr.

The fire was basically out within an hour and a half, however four firefighters stayed until 10 p.m. to make sure the blaze was completely extinguished, said Kerr. Two small fires were found still burning in the bathroom and the kitchen.

The house, which suffered approximately $100,000 in smoke, fire and water damage to its structure and contents, will have to be torn down and rebuilt but McConnell said insurance should take care of his losses.

The Winchester Fire Department put out three fires in November, making it an unusually busy month, said Kerr.

"I suppose it has been (busy) because it has been a relatively quiet summer and fall," he said.

When Canadians work together we can take on the world and win.

To succeed in today's world, Canadians must be able to compete because our jobs directly depend upon it. Our competitive edge will secure the prosperity we want for ourselves and our children. Prosperity that's measured not only by productivity but by better jobs, greater opportunities for young Canadians, support for health, social and senior citizen programs - and more.

We can achieve it by investing in our own abilities and being a country that says... yes we can.

Yes we can. We've got the proof.

A look at some of Canada's success stories proves it can be done... with real benefits for individuals, the communities they live in and for Canadian industry.

Hundreds of Canadian companies are achieving remarkable international success. They're creating jobs, developing new skills and opportunities for thousands of Canadians and creating markets around the world for Canadian products.

Yes we can. We've got the ability to build on our successes.

We have a history of working in co-operation with others for world class achievements in peacekeeping, medicine and space exploration. Now, with business, labour, governments, academic and social groups working together, we can achieve prosperity through international competitiveness. But there is one more critical factor: Canada's ultimate potential depends on the commitment of individual Canadians.

Yes we can. We've got the people.

It's time now to unite around our greatest economic challenge yet... preparing for a prosperous future. As individuals, there's a lot we can do. Put yourself in the picture through further education or skills development programs.

As parents, we can encourage our children to stay in school longer and start career planning activities sooner. As employers, we can think of training as a business investment and encourage a work environment where excellence and a commitment to learning are celebrated. Finally, as Canadians, we can become a positive part of the process through involvement in the consultations on our economic future.

CANADAIR GROUP, BOMBARDIER INC.
St. Laurent, Quebec
A world leader in aerial firefighting with its renowned water bomber, a major force in business aviation with 250 Challenger jets already delivered and the acknowledged leader in the development of regional commercial jet aircraft, Canadair is also a leader in job creation. Employment has increased by more than 2,000 since the Company's purchase by Bombardier Inc. in 1986.

STANLEY TOOLS
Smiths Falls, Ontario
If investing in the future opens the door to success, Stanley Tools of Smiths Falls, Ontario certainly has the key. Over the last two years, the Company has invested millions on equipment and worker training and retraining which will double production and increase employment by the mid 90's.

NEW FLYER INDUSTRIES LIMITED
Winnipeg, Manitoba
With exports accounting for 50% of sales and job creation up 82% over three years, it's hardly surprising that New Flyer Industries Limited of Winnipeg received a 1991 Canada Export Award. Already a major success in the U.S., New Flyer is now aggressively pursuing markets in Mexico, Europe and the Middle East.

Yes, we can.

Philippe Haziza will open his Chesterville office in the new year

Rural practice appeals to new doctor

Elizabeth Moreau
Record News Editor

CHESTERVILLE—By the time Philippe Haziza opens his office in Chesterville early next year, he hopes many village residents will already know him.

Haziza, a general practitioner who moved to Chesterville from Montreal last month, recently began practicing medicine in an office with Dr. Jack Adamson in South Mountain.

And he says before he starts his own practice on Industrial Dr., he'd like to get to know as many area residents as he can.

For Haziza, developing personal contacts with patients is part of being a doctor in a small community.

"It's important people feel comfortable with (their doctor), that they feel open," he says.

"I enjoy taking care of people, getting to know people and developing a relationship."

Haziza, who was born in Paris, France, grew up outside Montreal and studied medicine at the Universite de Montreal.

He says he doesn't miss the pressures of city life, and likes the eastern Ontario countryside.

"I've always wanted to have a farm," he says. "Or at least a house with a lot of land."

Haziza said he recently started looking for work in the eastern Ontario area, and one day called Winchester District Memorial Hospital. Chesterville's Dr. Gabriel Slowey happened to be on duty, and told Haziza there was a need for another doctor in the village.

He and his wife visited Chesterville, and were impressed.

"It's quiet and it's cute," he says, smiling.

Haziza's wife, Magalie Dube, is currently doing her residency at a Montreal hospital. The couple has been commuting on weekends to see each other, and running up expensive phone bills.

"It's been hard," Haziza admits.

Haziza, who is fluently bilingual, hopes people from Crysler and other French-speaking communities in the area will visit him in Chesterville.

Haziza recently acquired hospital privileges at Winchester District Memorial Hospital, so he will be able to send his patients there for hospitalization, X-rays, and tests. He will also be doing emergency calls at the hospital.

He says as a newcomer to the community, building a successful practise may be difficult, but thinks it will be a challenge.

"It's kind of a gamble. You don't know how people will respond."

But Haziza says he hopes his practice will grow through positive response from the community.

"I'll try as hard as possible to be myself—and set my own standards."

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

As Co-Chairmen of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital H.E.L.P. Fundraising Committee, we would like to sincerely thank the more than 10,000 contributors to our "door-to-door" campaign. We are also deeply appreciative of the over 500 canvassers who directed this canvass.

We are overwhelmed with the generosity and commitment of this community. Our original goal of $150,000 has been met and more than doubled to $303,835 collected to date.

The renovation of the hospital's facilities is well under way, ensuring the future viability of this health care center. It is the goal of the Board of Governors, medical staff and employees to continue the tradition of offering excellent quality health care in our rural community.

Our hospital has an ongoing need for community support and donations in the future.

Thank you for your H.E.L.P.

Sincerely,
Wayne Burns\Bob Weagant

DON'T FORGET
The Snowsuit Fund's Evolving Needs

Our own "Hats & Mittens" program needs Wool & Knitters

This year the fund finds itself with brand new snowsuits thanks to cash donations which have made it possible for them to purchase the garments at wholesale prices. Consequently, they would prefer to give all children new suits this year, and so would invite cash donations in lieu of used snowsuits. Of course they are grateful for all they receive as families are desperate for warm clothing for their children. The checklist below will give you an idea about the specific needs of the Snowsuit Fund at the present time.

☑ CASH ☑ BOOTS
☑ CANNED GOODS
☑ INFANT WEAR (new or used)

Gale Real Estate will be collecting the above items at Winchester Santa Claus Parade, on Saturday, Dec. 7.

WE ARE EVERYWHERE

IN MEMORIAMS

McDERMID - In loving memory of my dear sister Inez, who passed away Dec. 1, 1990.
God's garden gate stood open
One year ago today
With farewells left unspoken
You gently slipped away.
A golden heart stopped beating
Two loving hands are still
The one who did so much for us
Is resting at God's will.
Sadly missed by
Sister Leila and Family

IN MEMORIAM

PRESLEY - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Willard who passed away December 4, 1980.
The rolling stream of life flows on
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice and smile
Of one who once sat there.
Always remembered,
Ab, Joyce,
Rory and Tammy

IN MEMORIAMS

PRESLEY - In loving memory of a dear father Willard, who passed away Dec. 4, 1980.
There is a bridge of memories,
From here to Heaven above,
That keeps you very close to us
It's called the bridge of love.
As time goes by without you
And days turn into years
They hold a million memories
And a thousand silent tears
To us you were very special,
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all our hearts
That you were here today.
Always remembered,
Junior and Sheila

IN MEMORIAM

PRESLEY - In loving memory of a dear father Willard, who passed Dec. 4, 1980.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they'll wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
Which we have spent together.
Always remembered

Auxiliary report

The Winchester District Memoriral Hospital Auxiliary presented hospital board chairman Bob Weagent with the second instalment of its three- year, $150,000 pledge to the HELP fund. Reta Bray presented the $50,000 cheque at a recent meeting. Weagent reported that the new roof will be completed shortly, and renovations to the pediatrics department are complete. Treasurer Lee Wenz reported that the last month's annual bazaar raised upwards of $5,000. The I-EAST Christmas party will be held on Dec. 10 at 11 a.m., with the Osgoode Men's Choir providing entertainment. Freinds and visitors are welcome to attend. The auxiliary's next regular meeting will be on Dec. 12 at 11 a.m.

Long-term care

Members of the Ingleside Senior Citizens' Club discussed the Ontario government's new plan for redirection of long-term care services for seniors and the disabled at a recent meeting. Guest singer Garnet Carbino provided entertainment for the meeting, held at the Osnabruck Seniors' Support Centre.

St. Bernard's CWL

The December meeting of the St. Bernard's Catholic Women's League will be held at the home of Margaret Behnke. Members are asked to bring Christmas gifts for shut-ins. The CWL workshop was held earlier this month in St. Andrew's. Four members from St. Bernard's attended the workshop, which featured guest speaker Father Kevin Maloney.

Berwick W.I.

The November meeting of the Berwick W.I. was held in the Berwick Hall following a luncheon served to members of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 357 and others following Remembrance Day services. At the meeting, community members whose names are on the cenotaph were remembered.

First-hand help

Heidi Riley of the newly-opened Chesterville second-hand shop presented a $500 cheque to Dale McNaughton, Winchester District Memorial Hospital board of directors member. The money will go toward the hospital's HELP fund. Jo Saunders, who helped start the shop in Holy Trinity Anglican Church said it has been popular with consumers and donors alike since it opened in October. Record Photo - Moreau

Area groups expect more demand for Christmas baskets

Elizabeth Moreau
Record News Editor

DUNDELA—Organizers at Dundela's House of Lazarus are expecting more local families to need help this Christmas, after a year of layoffs, plant closures and recession.

Volunteer Myra Fawcett said Lazarus House distributed about 150 Christmas baskets last year, and expects to give out up to 200 this year.

She said although the group receives many donations, both from service clubs and private individuals, they never know until the last minute whether there will be enough to meet the community's needs.

"We just sort of play it by ear," she said. "But it usually works out."

Fawcett said she's expecting more families to need help putting toys under the tree and food on the table this Christmas, with many people feeling the effects of economic hard times.

Chesterville's Rotary Club will also be distributing food baskets this year. Organizer Jim Bancroft said the club helped 21 Chesterville area families last year.

Families who would like a Christmas basket are directed to the Rotary Club through United Counties Social Services caseworker Mark Hart.

Hart said he expects about 30 families will want food baskets.

He said with layoffs and a scarcity of local jobs, some people have had to apply for social assistance after their unemployment insurance runs out.

Town hall thefts not related

MAXVILLE—About $10,000 damage was done to the Maxville town and fire hall last week, when thieves pried open a door to the building, then broke through a concrete wall leading to a safe, according to Maxville OPP Sgt. Gerry Brunet.

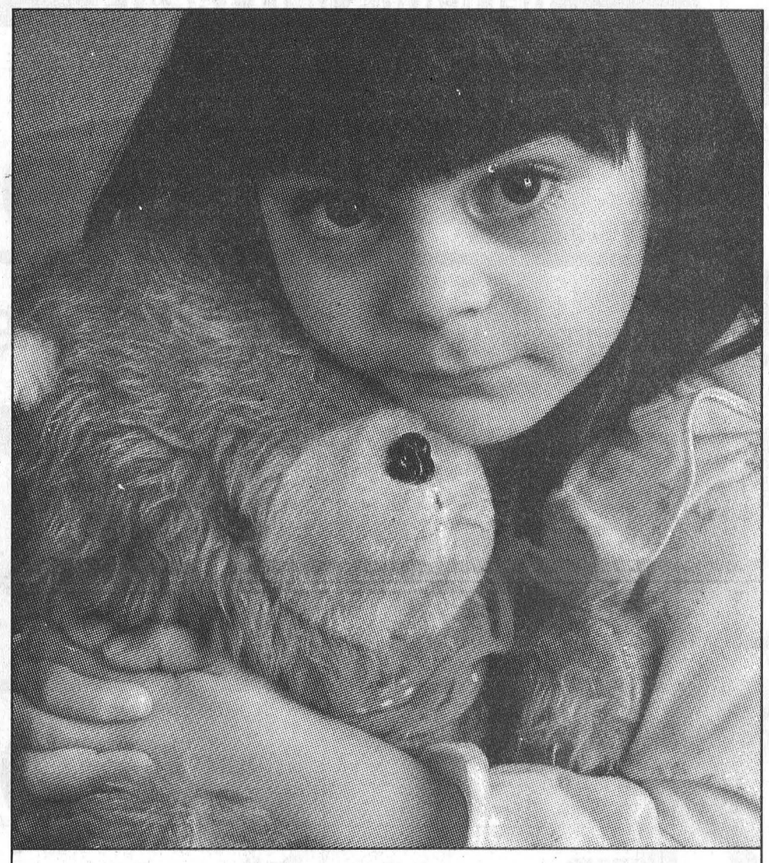
The theft occurred sometime between last Monday evening and early Tuesday morning, about a day after the town hall in Chesterville was broken into and ransacked.

Long Sault OPP Sgt. Al Crocker said that detachment's crime unit is treating the break-ins at Maxville and Chesterville as two separate incidents. Crocker said the different methods used in the two break-ins gave no indication that they were committed by the same people.

Brunet said the thieves in Maxville apparently used the "jaws of life", equipment used by the fire department to extricate accident victims from vehicles, to pry open doors inside the building and break through the safe.

He said about $700 was stolen from the safe, as well as four Motorola walkie-talkie portable radios, valued at about $4,000.

Brunet said five steel doors and frames were damaged, as well as the safe.



Tell her again why it's "ok" that daddy's not paying his family support.

A lot of fathers* in Ontario who are supposed to be paying family support, aren't. And it's time we got mad about it. Because they're hurting their kids – our kids – and they're hurting you and me.

It's not "ok" that over 80,000 kids are going without more than $400 million in support payments.

It's not "ok" that three-quarters of all family support isn't being paid the way it should be.

It's not "ok" that over $140 million of our tax dollars have gone to families who were forced to turn to social assistance because their support payments were not being made.

The Ontario Government's new Family Support Plan will introduce automatic wage deduction of support payments, and specify to whom and when they apply.

Because children shouldn't have to be told that daddy's not paying family support.

Please send me more information about automatic wage deduction in the new Family Support Plan Act.

Remembering the fallen

Every year in November, Canadians remember their war dead partly with the hope that with a constant reminder of the horrors of war, nothing like it will ever happen again.

Now, each December, Canadians remember victims of a different kind of war—victims who didn't even know they were entering battle.

December 6 has become the infamous anniversary of the atrocities committed by one man, and a symbol of a much larger problem. And one that bears remembering all year long.

Two years ago this week, a city shuddered in horror as the events surrounding the worst single act of violence in Canadian history unfolded before our eyes, and the movement to stop violence against women changed its course forever.

It changed the moment local radio and television stations began broadcasting the news that an armed madman was running through the halls of the Universite de Montreal's Ecole Polytechnique singling out and killing women.

For those of us who were in Montreal at the time of the massacre, the shock was almost paralyzing. That something so horrifying could happen in our city was almost unbelievable.

For many of us, never before had the reality of brutally senseless violence, and especially violence against women, hit so close to home.

As the days following the massacre wore on, tens of thousands of Montrealers, and doubtless many more Canadians, watched with sorrow and unutterable sympathy the televised funerals of the 14 women.

Newspapers, radio and television were filled with accounts of the slain women—their lives, their hopes, their families, their dreams. We saw pictures of them, filled with life. It wasn't long before we could recite every one of the 14 names.

And when we weren't filled with heartbreak for their families, many of us were filled with fear. The kind of fear you feel when you narrowly escape serious, even fatal, injury. The kind of fear that makes your body shake and your pulse race and your palms sweat.

It was that kind of fear because it could have been any one of us.

Marc Lepine could have walked into any classroom in any Montreal university. Marc Lepine was not looking for engineers when he went on his killing spree. He was looking for women.

It so happened that he felt an even more bizarre hatred toward female engineering students in particular, but his insane wrath could have taken its sad toll anywhere.

And most female students in Montreal two years ago were acutely aware that they could have been the targets. That we were not even safe in the hallowed halls of our universities was an indescribably frightening feeling.

But it jolted so many women into a harsh reality, and confirmed the fears of so many others. We are not safe, though we may once have liked to think so. And the struggle to stop violence against women is one that involves us all because we are all potential casualties.

Two years later, the struggle goes on but not without great strides behind it.

Thanks in part to the tireless efforts of a student who was at Polytechnique at the time of the massacre, new gun legislation was recently passed in the House of Commons.

Thanks to so many women who believed long before the massacre that violence against women is indeed a societal plague, the issue has come to the forefront of the media and public discussion.

And thanks to an increasing number of men who refuse to accept that violence against women is a "women's issue," more people are looking for solutions.

Ontario Women's Issues Minister Marion Boyd, has declared Dec. 6 a day for "remembrance and action on violence against women."

Remember Montreal, remember because it could have been anyone's daughter, sister, wife or mother. Remember so nothing like it will ever happen again.

Of Christmas gifts and parties

by Robin Morris
Managing Editor

Well, American Thanksgiving is over and the Christmas season has officially started. And nothing gets good old Yuletide under way better than the office Christmas party.

We had ours last Friday night (my brother and I are such Yule-kind-a-guys we can't wait to get a jump on the season. Actually, we can combine the U.S. Thanksgiving NFL games with a Friday night blast, get in the Vanier Cup game Saturday and Sunday's full NFL line-up. Now what could be more X-massy than that?)

Lots of major corporations are trimming back on Christmas this year as they fight the recession that threatens private business in this country while the federal government plays Santa Claus to the PSAC, promising its members jobs for life.

Now isn't that a Merry Christmas for all?

While the Eastern Bloc with its promises of jobs for all crumbles under the weight of its monstrously inefficient and noxious centrally planned economies, the bumbling buffoons who constitute what passes for the government of this country import a policy that makes a mockery of all the sacrifices that have been imposed on the wealth-producing sectors of this country's economy.

Big deal. Federal employees were legislated back to work without pay raises. Boola-boola-boo.

At least they had jobs to go back to.

Two hundred and sixty thousand jobs have been lost in Ontario's manufacturing industries this year, and a private sector that has had to cope with the double whammy of the recession and the imposition of the GST looks on while the federal government and its employees cut a sweet deal.

Add to this the pleas from Ottawa for a leaner and meaner private sector so that we can compete with the U.S. under the terms of the free trade deal.

And what do we get? Plant closures. Layoffs. Jobs shifting to the U.S. and other countries with a Third-World understanding of social safety nets.

Everywhere except within the cocoon of the federal government.

The Marxist geriatrics who run China have a term for this policy of lifetime job security. The Iron Rice Bowl they call it. Given the measure of service Canadians receive for their tax dollar, we could call the deal the government cut with the PSAC the Iron Featherbed.

It seems kind of coincidental in a way. It was during the reign of Tiberius nearly 2,000 years ago that all subjects of the Roman Empire were required to travel to the town of their birth to be registered for a sort of poll tax, which is what set Joseph and Mary on the road to Bethlehem.

Now we have to be registered for the GST, which is sending shoppers on long cross-border treks to avoid this most hated of taxes, and the federal government has given its employees the Christmas present of the promise of job security for their time militant here on earth. Makes you feel kind of warm and squishy inside, doesn't it?

Sorry about that.

So where was I? Oh yeah. Office Christmas parties.

Doing all those Christmas things, like drinking your face off, making as many trips to the buffet as a senator to the public trough for a slab of prime rib with enough growth promotants in it to turn you into an East German swimmer in one sitting and listening to such seasonal songs as Help Me Rhonda, House of the Rising Sun and You've Lost That Loving Feeling while the office fool (there never seems to be a shortage of volunteers for this position, come Christmas party time) belts out an off-tune, off-key and off-color version of Jingle Bells.

And talking about work.

Now, we always pay attention to buffet protocol at our parties (with the staffs of four newspapers plus assorted spouses, boy- and girlfriends, totalling over 90 we have to, if nothing else to prevent a massive food fight). So each table is called individually. (This also prevents a lot of useless standing around in line, which cuts into valuable drinking time — if you must be in line it might as well be in front of Mahogany Ridge as Roast Beef Mountain.)

And pity those who seat themselves at my table. Invariably, inevitably and immutably my table is the last one called.

We even moved across the room this year to an entirely diffrerent area code to avoid what I should have accepted by now as a timeless certainty.

Sure enough. For the second year running not only was our table called last, but being the perfect little gentleman my parents raised me to be, I was the last one served. Some had made their second and third trips before our number came up and I watched in amazement as they left the table looking for all the world like those European plate balancing troupes that used to be on Ed Sullivan or waitresses at Phil's Diner in the 'Burg with platters of roast beef, turkey, Swedish meatballs and salads balanced down from their shoulders to the tips of their fingers. At any second you expected to see them pull out those long sticks, put the plates on them, give 'em a spin and wait for Fritz the Magnificent to balance one on his forehead, all the while dancing like a demon to Katchaturian's The Sabre Dance.

In the meantime, the table that had been groaning under the weight of the buffet dinner was now only letting out intermittent whines as its load lessened appreciably. And still we hadn't been served. By this time the bar had been swept clean by this scribe of popcorn, chips and salted nuts, peppermint-flavored toothpicks and stray cocktail napkins.

What a half-hour before had been a magnificent example of what North America's beef producers can provide now resembled what is left after a pride of lions has finished its gnu au jus. A denuded rib here, a rib there. Little gristly bits rejected by 95 now-sated partyers, leaving No. 96 to pick like a forlorn hyena at the carcass.

"Are you guys sure you've had enough? I think I just found the liver."

At which prompt a fork appeared out of nowhere and stabbed the morsel, a voice saying, "Geez, thanks. I don't know how I could've missed it on the previous four trips."

Anybody for a cocktail napkin?

THE FARMER'S WIFES

By Wyn Thompson

December : Red or blue?

"Red is the color of December, that's for sure," a friend told me the other day.

"Well, I suppose you might say so," I replied, "I guess because we so often associate the color red with Christmas which happens to be celebrated in December."

My friend hurried away from the window display we had both been peering in at. Red for December, I muttered to myself as I took my leave. Obviously for her, red it was! But, I rather associate blue with December, I continued to debate the issue with myself.

December blues are visible on any sunny day when snow covers the ground. The snow is likely to be with us from now until Easter but, the sun is more occasional.

And yet, blue is not a dominant color on snowy or grey days, when the filigree silhouette of dark branches against pale skies is varied only by red or black barns, green-black evergreens, and the occasional brick or white clapboard house.

But on a translucent blue and gold day, the sky is an inverted bowl of ombre blue, delphinium blue at the core, delicately shading to a pastel of blues at the horizon.

On a snow-white landscape as the shortest day approaches, lengthening blue shadows reach out from every tree and snowdrift and, in fact, from every elevation of a weed stalk to a neighbor's towering silo. These blues are of the dark ominous variety.

The fields are a wash of grey blue and even the evergreens look a dark blue-green.

Just before the sun slips below the horizon, a burst of light illuminates my valley, turning the snow-covered slopes of Hill House a delicate peachy pink like the inside of a conch shell. The delicate colors last but a few moments and soon deepen to rose, lavender, then purple.

Suddenly twilight settles, over the towns and villages and countryside, with the muted blues until even the church steeples are a rich dark blue. Here and there the blue-blacks are punctuated by tiny yellow lights winking on in houses and shops and barns.

While curls of smoke reach up from chimneys, high in the darkened sky appears a white moon, serene and cold, happily riding the clouds of midnight blue.

On a muted blue late-afternoon, a very strong- minded nuthatch came to our green-roofed silo feeder and tried to arrange it so he could eat from it.

He finally succeeded by curling his toes over the edge of the roof and dropping down and grabbing. I told him through the window to be sensible and sit on the perch and eat, but then had to conclude there are a good many people who won't change their pattern either!

Perhaps the chickadees only seem more intelligent, but I think they are wise little characters. My little friend comes to the suet feeder, sits down bracing himself by his tail feathers, clings to the bars of the suet cage, and rocks his head back and forth. He is actually sitting on his tiny bum, and looks both silly and dear.

When he arrives and when he leaves, he sings his merry dee-dee-dee. It is such a cheery, sunny note, unlike the harsh and strident blue-jay voice, or the board room chatter of the sparrows.

One day this week a flock of grosbeaks arrived and their arrival made my day special. There they were, flashing with yellow color, looking like flowers in a May garden.

The downy woodpeckers come regularly, but only once did we have a pileated one and he stayed for but a few moments.

Without the birds, winter would be rather a quiet time at Hill House. For snow muffles the sounds from the neighbor's barns, and from the highway where the cars go by regularly.

But the air is alive with birds, and they discuss, talk, scold, and break into little songs.

At one time a bird enthusiast chastised me for writting only about cats and dogs and cows. Well, I have mended my ways.

And while I am the most amateurish amateur, I will run as quickly as I can to get just one look at a winter visitor, who is cracking a sunflower seed at the east lawn feeder.

"As with most things, the richness is there, if one but looks and listens," commented neighbor Amanda, during a discussion we had about familiar and unfamiliar things.

"Sometimes I wonder if we don't dislike what we do not understand, and like what we know well," she continued, "especially in the field of human relationships. Maybe that's why the religions of the world, each in their own unique way, admonish us to "Judge not..."

As the month of Christmas comes around again, I get out the bayberry candles each evening and simply enjoy a little candlelight while the fire glows in the fireplace, and supper cooks on the electric stove.

It is a time to enjoy the festival of lights and the joyful sights and sounds of this first month of winter.

Soon we will be putting up the greens around and about the house and my, they do smell so good. For the tree, we will get down the old ornaments, including the white reindeer that Irish once chewed an ear off. I set the fat candles in the window and think that I have made a good start on Christmas.

"Sharp is the frost, the Northern Light
Flickers and shoots his streamers bright;
Snowdrifts cumber the untracked road;
Bends the pine with its heavy load;
Each small star, though it shines so bright,
Looks half pinched with the cold night."
-Francis Rye 1887.

Keeping pets safe and warm in winter

Elizabeth Moreau
Record News Editor

WINCHESTER—Just as cars are tuned up as the winter months approach, pet owners are reminded that our four-footed friends need some special care in the cold weather, say the Ontario Humane Society and local veterinarians.

Dogs who are kept outside in winter months should have properly insulated dog houses, says Dr. Sheri Morris, a veterinarian at Dundas Veterinary Services.

Morris suggests using wood shavings, blankets or insulation material to keep dog houses warmer.

She also said dogs who spend the winter outside may need more food, because they burn more calories outdoors in the cold.

Indoor dogs, on the other hand, may get heavier over the winter if their exercise routine is relaxed. Morris said owners should try to exercise their indoor dogs as much as possible.

But owners who walk their dogs on salted roads should wash the dog's paws when they return home, as the salt can burn and irritate the paws, Morris said.

The Ontario Humane Society is also warning pet owners to watch that cats and dogs don't ingest ethylene glycol, a substance present in antifreeze, brake fluid and other items.

Since more people may be changing the antifreeze in their cars in the fall and winter months, Morris noted, special care should be taken that none of the liquid is spilled.

Morris said the substance is sticky and sweet-tasting to animals, and a very small amount could be fatal to a cat or dog, or cause kidney failure.

Felines are also vulnerable to cold weather. Morris said older cats, especially, are susceptible to frostbite on their ears in very cold weather. She said cat owners should try to keep their feline friends in the house on frosty nights.

The Ontario Humane Society also cautions motorists to be aware of cold cats seeking shelter beneath the hoods of their cars. Curious cats trying to keep warm may climb into car engines, and could be severely or fatally injured if the engine were started.

The humane society suggests motorists bang on the hood or honk the car horn before starting a car on a very cold day.

The second-hand shop in Chesterville's Holy Trinity Anglican Church got a boost last week when it received several bags full of snowsuits from the North Stormont Public School committee, which organized a recent snowsuit campaign. The snowsuits, mostly for children, are available at the shop for a small charge. Junior basketball Devils were no match for the Spartans

IROQUOIS - It wasn't even close.

The North Dundas Devils embarrassed the Seaway Spartans, 72-13, here last Friday in their first game of the season in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry junior boys' basketball league.

Sean Salter was again the Devils' main threat against their rivals. He came out in the opening quarter and poured in 16 points en route to a 22- point game to continue his recent success with the hoop.

"He played really well, and he's playing consistently good," junior Devils' coach Mark Lewis said.

But he added, "The only thing that I'd like for him to do is increase his intensity, but its hard to do when you're able to score the way he is."

The Devils scored 26 points in the first eight minutes of play, and had no problems holding back their opponents, giving up only two points.

During the second quarter the Devils cushioned their lead to 42 points, and led 45-3.

With the Devils already virtually guaranteed a win, Lewis restricted the scoring of his junior team. Lay-ups were the only way that Lewis wanted the team to score.

"It was kind of frustrating for the kids, because in the second half they were turning down shots that they would normally take in a game."

Lewis also changed their defensive strategy, and instead of sticking with man-to-man defence they worked on zone defence.

The Devils outscored the Spartans 16-6 in the third quarter to take a 61-9 lead into the final quarter, to which they kept adding. The Devils gave up another four points, but sunk another 11 points for their cause.

Lewis said the Devils "could have held (the Spartans) to fewer points and could have scored a lot more," if the Devils continued to work with the strategy used in the first half.

"We worked on things that we've never worked on during a game," he added.

All but one of the 10-man roster contributed to the Devils scoring game. Salter led the attack, Sean Hachey dropped in 12 points, Ryan Buske sunk 10 while Rod Merkley and Dan McLeod each added eight points. Jay Cull hooped six points, Mike Singh scored three, Scott Parsons made two points and Brendon Bumbaco sunk a shot from the foul line.

The Devils' were awarded 14 foul shots but were only able to get 50 per cent of them. Buske and McLeod were perfect from the line, scoring two- for-two.

The Spartans were also shooting 50 per cent from the line, sinking one of two shots.

North Dundas' next league game is tomorrow (Thursday) at home against the St. Lawrence Saints.

The junior Devils will also be holding a basketball tournament at home on Saturday, Dec. 7.

Gaels drop Warriors in final exhibition basketball game

GLENGARRY - The Glengarry Gaels junior boys' basketball team dropped the Tagwi Warriors 46-34 in exhibition play here last Friday.

Only seven members of the Warriors' junior team were able to make the trip to Glengarry. Others were forced to stay home due to a recent flu bug which kept many Tagwi students away from school.

The Gaels led 18-4 after the first half, but the Warriors came back, outscoring their opponents 12-4 in the second quarter to trail 22-16 at the halftime break.

Glengarry increased its advantage by two points in the third quarter, as Tagwi trailed by only eight points heading into the fourth quarter. But Glengarry outplayed them, winning 46-34.

"It's too late when you fall behind in the first quarter," junior Warriors' coach Joe Stelmach said. "But overall I was quite satisfied with the way the team played."

Stelmach said the Warriors' main problem throughout the game was the lack of offence.

"We didn't have enough offensive scoring, and if you don't have enough guys who can put it into the basket, it hurts the team," he said.

Stelmach attributed the Warriors weak offensive game to the absence of two of his key starters, Todd Stelmach and Brian Johns.

"Without those two, that made a difference of a good 22 points," he said.

Jamie Norman led the Warriors' offensive effort, hooping 13 points. Jeremy Nixon sunk 10 points, Daryl Sobering added five, Cyril Dixon scored four and Adam Loyer made two points.

The Warriors play their first game of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry junior boys' basketball league today (Wed. Dec. 4) They jump off against the St. Joseph's Panthers in Cornwall.

Senior Devils beat Spartans

IROQUOIS - Chad Simpson hooped 15 points here last Friday leading the visiting North Dundas Devils to a 50-29 SD&G Senior Boys' Basketball victory over the host Seaway Spartans.

Phil Burns added eight points to Simpson's total but the remainder of the North Dundas scoring stats weren't available.

Coach Gerry Jean reported his team ran a zone defence and took it easy because it was their first game situation of the season.

"We will do OK. We will win a few but lose most of our games but we will try and make it fun for the guys. They all have a lot of other things on their minds," he explained.

Jean says he has good players to work with and said everyone but the injured Cory Van Delst hit the scoreboard in their opening victory.

Hit sends Express' Van Delst to hospital, 72's win 9-3

FINCH - North Stormont Express forward Cory Van Delst ended up in the hospital last Thursday night after a cross check by Embrun 72's Marc Giroux.

Giroux slammed Van Delst into the boards behind the 72's net barely five minutes into the second period of the Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League game.

"It was a cheap shot, but Embrun's known for that," Express' co-coach Kevin Mackler said.

Van Delst was on the ice for about 15 minutes before the ambulance arrived to transfer him to the Winchester District Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released after X-rays were returned negative.

However, Van Delst has to undergo physiotherpy for whiplash, but expects to return to the lineup in a couple of weeks.

Other than a stiff sore neck, Van Delst said he is fine. But his doctor told him to take it easy for a while.

Giroux was given a game misconduct penalty for the hit on Van Delst.

Before Van Delst's injury, the Express had already given up four first-period goals. But just 17 seconds before the incident the Express scored their first goal of the game.

Dave Lavergne's unassisted goal with 4:15 played in the second period cut North Stormont's deficit to 4-1.

The Express made a game out of it when Kevin Villeneuve and Jeremy Logten teamed up for two straight goals.

Villeneuve scored at the 8:53 mark and again at 10:41 with assistance from Logten on both plays.

After fighting back to come within a goal of their opponents, the Express gave up three straight goals before the second period ended and the 72's held a 7-3 lead.

The 72's capped their scoring game with two more goals in the third period, to register the 9-3 victory over their hosts.

"We only played for seven minutes," Mackler said, referring to the second period, when they scored all three goals in just under seven minutes.

Express 11 - Eagles 5

ST-ISIDORE - John Mackler nailed in four goals and assisted on two others to lead the North Stormont Express to a 11-5 triumph over the St-Isidore Eagles last Friday.

Mike Stewart's unassisted goal with 4:33 played in the game put the Express ahead 1-0. But the Eagles struck back to tie the game at the 7:22 mark.

Under a minute later North Stormont was back on top, when Dave Duprau scored after connecting on a pass from Todd Hay.

Dave Lavergne's unassised goal midway through the period lifted the Express to a 3-1 lead. But before the period ended, the Eagles scored to stay within a goal of the leaders.

North Stormont put together a 7-2 lead before giving up another goal.

At 3:24 of the second frame, Lavergne started things off by capitalizing on a feed from Hay.

Mackler began his scoring bonanza at the 4:51 mark, when he finished off a play started by Kevin Villeneuve and Danny MacMillan.

Villeneuve went on to score a goal of his own under a minute later. Mackler and Roch Benoit assisted on the play.

Mackler's unassisted goal at 15:42 wrapped up the Express' second-period scoring burst.

The Eagles scored with 2:16 left and again with 1:35 left before the intermission to come within three goals of the Express.

Mackler needed just over four minutes of the final period to added another marker to the Express' lead, scoring unassisted.

Villeneuve went on to score the Express' ninth and tenth goals, but his efforts were interrupted when the Eagles scored their final goal of the contest at 6:36.

Mackler, Kevin Lalonde, Jeremy Logten and Benoit each drew an assist Villenuve's goals.

Mackler iced the Express' victory by firing in his fourth goal of the game with 4:58 left to play, increasing their lead to 11-5. Benoit and Villeneuve set up the final goal of the game.

North Stormont picked up a defenceman from the Morrisburg junior B Lions. Jason Robertson will play this Thursday night in Finch when the Vankleek Hill Cougars visit.

John Grady will be suiting up with the Express throughout his school break. He was a member of the club last season.

Atom C Demons win two of three games

CHESTERVILLE—The North Dundas Atom C No. Two Demons managed to win two of their three UCMHL games last week in spite of having their ranks depleted by the flu bug.

North Dundas opened their slate skating to a 2-0 win over the Lions in Morrisburg on Nov. 24.

Julien Whittam opened the scoring at 6:35 of the first period. Whittam, on loan from a novice affiliate team, scored unassisted. Despite numerous scoring opportunities the Two Demons were unable to solve Nicholas Hart's goaltending style and add to their lead until 2:28 of the third period when Chad Johnston, assisted by Joey Geertsma, finally put another puck into Morrisburg's net.

Although he wasn't overly busy in the North Dundas cage, Bobby Hamelin made several key saves to keep the Lions off of the scoresheet.

North Dundas continued their winning streak defeating Kemptville's No. Three Royals 7-2 on Saturday.

Kemptville jumped out to a 2-0 lead early in the first period but the Demons answered with two of their own before the period was over.

Marty Link sliced Kemptville's lead to 2-1 scoring with 4:30 left in the period. With two minutes to go Devon Cinnamon, who had assisted on the Link marker, tied it up scoring on a feed from Link.

In period two Chad Johnston scored the game- winning goal on an unassisted play at the 5:00 mark.

Three minutes later Devon Cinnamon scored again, this time finishing off a play started for him by Marty Link and Bradley Payne.

The Demons continued their attack on the Kemptville net in the final frame. Devon Cinnamon collected his second assist setting up Joey Geertsma at the four minute mark. Grant Booth then slapped in two goals in the final minute of the game to complete the scoring.

Brent Sheldrick collected two assists and Chad Johnston collected one on each of the final three goals.

Julien Whittam filled in admirably on the blueline for a second consecutive game.

Twenty four hours later the same two squads squared off in Kemptville and this time Kemptville turned things around rallying for a 4-2 win.

Period one of the encounter was scoreless.

North Dundas, again relying on help from the novice ranks, got on track in the second when Grant Booth scored from Marty Link and Bradley Payne and opened the game up at the 5:14 mark.

Joey Geertsma scored on an unassisted play a minute later and made it 2-0 but before the period was over Kemptville had cut their deficit to 2-1 on Jesse Buchanan's goal.

North Dundas held on to their 2-1 lead until the time had ticked away to 4:00.

Kemptville tied it up on a goal by Dave Leizert and then got the winner from Chris Clark 30 seconds later and an insurance goal from Chris Clark with 1:00 left on the clock.

Coach Bill Brannen thanked Julien Whittam, Dean Byveld, Derek Murdoch and Kris Lent who helped beef up his line-up.

Pee Wee Demons beat Jets 5-2 in exhibition play

OSGOODE—Five different shooters found the target here last Saturday as the visiting North Dundas Demons trimmed the host Metcalfe Jets 5-2 in a exhibition Pee Wee hockey match.

North Dundas led it 2-0 after a period on goals by Mike Casselman, who scored from Wes McLeod and Ryan Swerdfeger at 8:53 and Zack Gauvreau, who connected on a Mike Casselman relay at 6:21.

Craig Holmes cashed in on a play started by Ryan Filion and Jennifer McDonald with 1:08 left in period two to put the Demons up 3-0.

Stephen Henderson turned a feed from Tylor Copeland into a 4-0 lead with 5:35 left in the final period.

Metcalfe's Scott Vriend and Matthew Larabie beat Demons' Darryl Burns at 2:41 and 1:34 (respectively) to bring the Jets to within two at 4-2 but Tylor Copeland put a Henderson rebound into the Jets' net 21 seconds before the end of the game to give North Dundas a 5-2 win.

Sunday (Dec. 1) in Ogdensburg New York the Demons fell 4-3 to the home town Americans.

The New Yorkers scored the winner with 6:42 left in the game.

Ryan Filion bagged two of the Demons three goals finishing off plays started by Matthew Foley at 3:32 of period one and by Ryan Holmes and Craig Holmes with 5:25 left in the game.

Tylor Copeland rang up North Dundas' other goal when he scored from Henderson and Chris Mann at 8:51 of period two.

Bantam A Demons all tied up

WINCHESTER—Coach Brian Halpenny and his North Dundas Demons aren't losing games. But they aren't winning them either.

The Demons have come away from their last three UCMHL Bantam A contests with at least a point.

Sunday, Potsdam scored three times in the final 9:31 of the game and held the Demons to a 4-4 draw.

Last Thursday in Prescott the home town Rangers got a pair of third-period goals from Andrew Henderson as they tied North Dundas 4-4.

Here in Winchester on Nov. 24 the Demons took a 2- 0 lead in the first period only to find themselves tied 4-4 after two with Potsdam. It ended in a 5-5 tie when Craig Halpenny deposited a Jason Desormeaux relay in the New Yorkers' net 3:15 before the end of the game.

Geoff Hardy paced North Dundas' attack in that match scoring a pair of goals. Wally Cinnamon and Craig Halpenny each came up with a goal and one assist. Captain Murray Link supplied a single goal while Jason Desormeaux assisted on three and Barry Bell one goal.

Clint Hedge tended the Demons' cage.

RANGERS 4 - DEMONS 4

South Grenville led the Demons 1-0 after a period but North Dundas pulled even at 2-2 in the second.

Geoff Hardy converted a feed from Robbie Raistrick and Jason Desormeaux into the first Demon goal at 9:29 of the second. Murry Link made it 2-1 scoring from Steven Cross at 9:08 but the Rangers evened it up 2-2 scoring with 2:06 left in the period.

Wally Cinnamon took a relay from Craig Halpenny and put his team up 3-2 at 11:56 of the third. The Rangers got goals from Andrew Henderson at 8:30 and 5:24 to move in front 4-3 but Jason McDonald tied it up for North Dundas scoring unassisted.

DEMONS 4 - POTSDAM 4

Murray Link scored two of his three goals in the first period of Sunday's contest.

Link connected from Jason McDonald at 12:59 and Wally Cinnamon seven seconds later to make it 2-0.

Link's third goal came at 8:13 of period two and was set up by Cinnamon and Barry Bell.

Potsdam cut their deficit to 3-1 when they beat Clint Hedge at 6:47 of the second.

Jason Desormeaux's unassisted tally at 5:20 opened up a 4-1 gap for North Dundas but Potsdam took possession of period three and roared back to tie it up 4-4 scoring three unanswered goals.

Desormeaux's effort not enough for midget Demons

PRESCOTT - Jason Desormeaux did all the scoring for the North Dundas Midget Demons, but his two- goal effort wasn't enough to beat the South Grenville Rangers.

Last Tuesday, the Rangers mounted a 5-2 victory against the winless Demons during action in the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League.

The Demons got off to a good start against their opponents, taking a 1-0 lead at 7:22 of the first period when Desormeaux nailed in a pass from Colin Cotnam. Grant Williams also picked up an assist on the play.

But the Rangers struck back, netting the tying goal at the 10:35 mark.

The Rangers gained momentum in the second period, with a three-goal scoring spree by the Rangers.

The Rangers went ahead 2-1 with 8:24 played in the second frame. They quickly increased their lead with goals at 9:21 and at 10:22, allowing them to take a 4-1 lead into the final period.

At 5:51 of the third period, the Rangers fired in their fifth and final goal of the game to pad their already commanding lead.

Just 31 seconds later, the Demons' scoring deficit was cut to 5-2, when Desormeaux scored unassisted to register the final goal of the game.

Desormeaux has skated with the midget Demons in their last two games as well as playing full time for North Dundas' Bantam A Demons.

Although Desormeaux has only played two of the midget Demons' five regular scheduled games, he leads the scoring race with five points, with three goals and two assists.

Full time midget Demons' Grant Williams is ranked second with two goals and two assists in five games played.

Bantam Lions nip Demons

CHESTERVILLE—Steven Durocher ruined any hopes the North Dundas Bantam "C" No. Two Demons had of holding the Morrisburg Lions to a 3-3 tie here on Saturday.

The Lions' defenceman snapped a 3-3 deadlock scoring the game-winning goal with 7:41 left on the clock.

North Dundas had battled their way into a 3-3 draw when Shawn Johnson capitalized on a play started for him by Kyle Marriner and Dave Dauphinee at 14:36 of that final frame but Morrisburg came back and finished one goal better at 4-3.

The Demons led the Lions 2-1 after a period. Allan Potvin tied it up 1-1 scoring an unassisted play at 8:20. Paul Brennan then snapped in a pass from Potvin at 2:25 but the Lions scored a pair of unanswered markers in the second and led it 3-2 after two.

Skate away

The North Dundas Bantam C Demons posted a 5-2 victory over the visiting South Grenville Rangers last Thursday night in Chesterville. Kris Young was the driving force behind the win. Pictured above, Young goes around his opponent.

Young leads Bantam C Demons to victory

CHESTERVILLE - Kris Young scored three goals and assisted on another to lead the North Dundas No. One Bantam C Demons to a 5-2 victory over the South Grenville Rangers here last Tuesday.

It took 4:30 for Young to put together a quick 2-0 lead in the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League game, in which the home team's advantage would never be relinquished.

With just 1:19 played, Young drove the puck into the mesh after picking up a feed from Kirk Liscumb. Then at the 4:30 mark, Jason Douma and Jason Heuff's set up was finished off by Young.

North Dundas' netminder Troy Elliot gave up the first goal to South Grenville's Jason Gurner at 7:48 of the first period.

Young's unassisted goal at 13:49 of the second frame put the Demons ahead 3-1.

But the Rangers scored to cut their deficit to a single goal once again.

The Demons capitalized on a power-play situation, scoring twice within 11 seconds.

At 13:45, Scott Verhey and Young set up a play that was completed by Douma. Then Randy McLeod drilled in the puck on a pick up from Shawn Merkley. Liscumb also drew an assist on the play.

Neither club was able to score during the final period, allowing the Demons' 5-2 second-period lead to stand for the win.

Lions 3 - Demons 2

MORRISBURG - The North Dundas Bantam C No. One Demons were nipped 3-2 by the Morrisburg Lions on Sunday.

The Lions scored two unanswered goals in the opening period to take an early lead over the Demons.

The Lions' Chad Hanes did the damage to the Demons, scoring the 1-0 lead with 3:12 played in the game. He scored again with just 33 seconds remaining in the period.

Jeremy Herkens needed only 32 seconds of the final period to get the Demons on the scoreboard. He finished off a play started by Kris Young.

But the Lions struck back just over one minute later, when Demons' goaltender Troy Elliot was beaten by Kristain Bygott.

At 3:56, Randy McLeod scored to put the Demons within a single goal of their opponents, but the team was unable to get the tying goal. Shawn Merkley and Jason Douma drew assists on the play.

Junior Basketball Devils perfect in exhibition play

OTTAWA - The North Dundas Devils junior boys' basketball team finished off exhibition play with a perfect 3-0 record here last Tuesday, beating out Ridgemont's junior team 66-29.

"The guys are really coming together as a team," junior Devils' coach Mark Lewis said. "But we still made an awful lot of mistakes and we've got a lot of correcting to do."

Although the Devils have yet to lose a game, Lewis feels the team can be stronger, especially on offense.

"The defence is looking really good, but offensively we're a little stale."

Lewis said their early start to the season was extremely beneficial to the Devils, and was partly the reason for their strong performances in preseason.

"We've practiced probably a lot longer than some of the other teams, so we're a little better off and in a little better shape at this point in the season than a lot of other schools," Lewis said.

But he adds that just because the Devils have been winning doesn't mean they will do well in the regular season. Only the team can determine how well they will do this season.

"It's up to the kids. It's their attitude, and whether or not they stay focused on what they want," Lewis said.

He continued, "It takes a lot more than just a desire to win, you have to be focused on what you're going to do and be committed to it."

The Devils hooped a 24-6 lead after the first quarter, and were leading 31-23 at the half.

At the end of the third quarter, the Devils had put together a 43-25 lead and outscored their opponents 23-4 in the final quarter to win 66-29.

North Dundas' Sean Salter led the way to victory, pouring in 24 points against Ridgemont.

Mike Singh sunk 14 points, Rod Merkley and Dan McLeod each added eight, Ryan Buske scored six, Jason Ball made five points while Jay Cull sunk one shot from the foul line.

Rangers fight back to tie Pee Wee C Demons

WINCHESTER—Jason Riddell potted a pair of late third-period goals here last week leading South Grenville squad to a 3-3 UCMHL Pee Wee C tie with North Dundas.

Darcy Poulter gave South Grenville a 1-0 lead when he beat Shannon Zwarts at 8:32 of the first period.

North Dundas rallied with three straight goals and led it 3-1 when Riddell scored with 5:00 and :52 seconds left on the clock to bring South Grenville back to a 3-3 count.

Andrew Bradley knotted it up 1-1 for the Demons scoring from Dave Hilson and Mike Flowers with 4:05 left in period two. Rob Desormeaux gave the No. One Demons a 2-1 edge when he fired home a Joey Hillis relay at 2:47 of the same frame.

Mike Francis teamed up with Rory Moriarty and Mike Flowers and gave the Demons what seemed like a secure lead (3-1) with 5:57 showing on the clock but the difference was just enough for the tie.

White team rallies for tie

Green 4 - Blue 2

CHESTERVILLE - White fought back from a 1-0 first-half deficit to tie Maroon 2-2 last Wednesday during action in the Chesterville Men's Town Hockey League.

Ken Byers put Maroon ahead 1-0 in the opening half when he beat White's goaltender Jim Hume, picking up a play started by Chris Guy.

Kevin Byers connected with his brother Ken to score Maroon's second goal of the contest during the second half. Andy Winsor also drew an assist on the play.

Daryl Robinson put White back into the game, by setting up both successful plays for the White team in the second.

White's John Guy was the first to capitalize on a feed from Robinson while Derek Hyndman scored the goal for a 2-2 deadlock.

Two unanswered goals in the second half lifted Green to a 4-2 victory over Blue last Wednesday in the CMTH league.

During the first half, both teams struck between their opponents' pipes twice. Rodney Casselman and Pat Kelly did the work for Green, while Curtis McMillan and Denis Ouellette each scored once for Blue.

Green's Mark Smith fired in what would later prove to be the game winner after he connected on a play orchestrated by Kelly and Shawn Beckstead.

Jamie Utman ensured the Green team's win when he drilled the puck into the Blue team's net. Smith and Scott Gibson assisted on the play.

Jets nip Pee Wee C Demons

OSGOODE—Corey Bekkers and Sam Smith scored second period goals here Saturday as the Metcalfe Jets nipped the visiting North Dundas No. Two Demons 3-2 in a Pee Wee C exhibtion match.

Chris Juneau gave the Jets a 1-0 lead scoring from Corey Bekkers at 9:34 of period one. Bekkers and Sam Smith then upped the lead to 3-0 before North Dundas' Derik Gates was able to put the Demons on the scoreboard at 2:00. Scott Dellaire and Megan Arsenault engineered the goal.

The Demons made it a 3-2 final when Morgan Dillabough tapped in Andrew Roach's rebound with 11 seconds left in the game.

Last Friday in Chesterville Andrew Roach potted both goals as the Demons dropped a 4-2 decision to the South Grenville Mr. Gas Rangers. Scott Dellaire drew assists on both goals while Morgan Dillabough helped out on the third period tally.

On Nov. 23 North Dundas got a big three-goal effort from Terry Wagner as they battled Kemptville to a 5-5 draw.

Derik Gates and Andrew Roach each came up with a goal and one helper. Scott Dellaire engineered one goal.

Andrew Roach bagged the tying goal in that contest scoring on Scott Dellaire's pass with 1:47 left in the game.

THE COST OF FAT

Fat is thought to be public-health enemy number one. It is the most concentrated source of calories. We get 100 to a tablespoon no matter what kind of fat we eat. Gram for gram, we can gain more than twice the calories than we do from protein or carbohydrates.

Unfortunately, in the typical diet of North America, some 40 per cent of our daily calories come from fat. Nearly half is of the so-called saturated variety and a third of that fat comes directly from the meat we eat.

The link between fat and heart disease is so well documented and so well understood that it is one of our few absolute nutritional truths. The roster of scientists recommending a low-fat diet is famous: The Mayo Clinic, Harvard University, The Canadian and American Heart Associations, The Canadian and American Cancer Societies, The National Cancer Institute and the National Academy of Sciences to name just a few.

In study after study, researchers have documented that no group of people in the world who eat a low-fat/low-cholesterol diet has a high rate of heart disease.

The National Institutes of Health have established an absolute link between obesity and heart disease and the rate of diabetes is three times higher in obese than in normal-weight people. Obese males are more likely to get cancer of the colon, rectum and prostate; overweight women are at risk for cancer of the breast, uterus, ovaries, cervix and gallbladder. The evidence is so overwhelming that it is now recommended that anyone even 20 per cent over his or her ideal body weight is well advised to diet.

But it's not just our hearts that fats damage. Fats are also implicated in high blood pressure. We have all heard that people with high blood pressure should be careful of the amounts of salt they eat. Recent studies have indicated that, for most people, fat has more to do with hypertension than salt does.

Fat stored as excess weight can increase our risk for high blood pressure —in some cases even as much as five times — and scientists have found that less saturated fat in the diet leads to lower blood pressure.

There's more bad news about fats. Fat has the strongest link to cancer of any dietary component, according to the National Academy of Sciences Committee on Diet, Nutrition and Cancer. Doctors have long known this was true for cancers of the breast, colon and prostate. They now know that colon cancer is associated with high cholesterol levels.

Therefore it appears that the more fat we eat, the more cholesterol our livers may manufacture. As that cholesterol collects in our colon, it raises our chances of getting colon cancer.

Every month, doctors learn more about how fat promotes cancer. Interestingly, in one study, fried eggs had the single strongest association with ovarian cancer deaths. Women who ate eggs three or more times a week had a three times greater risk than those who ate them less than once a week.

My Silent Achievers this week are all of you who, during this most stressful and busiest of times, are making our regular exercise "fix" a priority. You will be the winners in the long run. Good Work!

We are so very lucky to be able to do it for ourselves.
