Modern Equipment Modern Methods

Gone are the crude, harsh methods of conducting funerals used in the past. Modern methods and equipment have taken away much of the coldness. The funeral is conducted by us in such a way that the last memory is always a beautiful one. Those whom we serve are invariably impressed with with the calm, quiet dignity of the funerals—a fitting way to pay a last respect to a lovedone.

HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

No school in Eastern Ontario offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. It leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by 580 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to HENRY'S.

It is not surprising then that business men, in advertising for stenographers, specially say, "Graduates of Henry's Shorthand School preferred."

Casselman--Barkley

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, January 18th at the home of Mrs. John H. Barkley, Finch, when her youngest daughter, Annie Kathleen, became the bride of Mr. Aden Cecil Casselman, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Casselman of Berwick.

The drawing-room made a charming setting for the event with its evergreen arch prettily decorated with roses and white bells. Rev. W. A. McIntyre performed the marriage ceremony. Miss Evalene Barkley of Williamsburg, niece of the bride, presided at the piano and rendered Lohengrin's Wedding March during the entry of the bridal party.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. George Barkley of Chesterville, wore a charming gown of white crepe romaine trimmed with silver. Her bridal veil of white tulle was arranged in cap effect held with coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bride's attendant was Miss Mildred Casselman, sister of the groom. She was dressed in pink georgette crepe trimmed with silver lace and carried a bouquet of pink columbia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The groom was attended by the bride's brother, Dr. A. J. Barkley.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold bar pin set with pearls, to the bridesmaid, a gold shoulder pin, to the best man white gold cuff links and to the pianist, a signet ring.

During the signing of the register, Miss Eva McMillan rendered beautifully the solo, "Because," after which the young couple received the congratulations and good wishes from their friends.

After the ceremony dinner was served by Miss Lera Fetterly and Miss Eva McMillan, friends of the bride, the table decorations being of pink carnations and ferns.

The bride's travelling costume was of chestnut brown georgette trimmed with panne velvet with silk hat to match and blue needlepoint coat trimmed with brown fox fur. The happy couple left on the evening train for a trip to Ottawa, thence to Toronto and London after which they will reside near Berwick.

Burglary at Gallingertown

Another house has been broken into and robbed of all the available money and whatever things the robber or robbers took a fancy to. It would seem as if some one should take hold of the matter and do a bit of investigating and find who the robbers are and have them punished, as there have been a number of houses in a few miles radius, ransacked from top to bottom and robbed in the last few months. Now, are we going to let this go on and have it not safe to have any money around the house, or are we going to try and punish those deserving punishment?

CHESTERVILLE LOSES IN PERTH

Last night a hard fought game was lost to Perth in that town by a score a score of 4 to 3, with a Chesterville man placing the puck in his own net for a Perth counier.

SMITHS FALLS WIN IN FINCH

In a heavy scoring game at Finch Smiths Falls won 7 to 6, the winning goal coming ten seconds before the final whistle.

JUNIORS LOSE AT HOME

In a scheduled game in the Junior series on local ice last night Winchester were returned winners 2 to 1.

Chesterville Trims Finch Three to One

Monday night when Finch came to town for the first game of the season on local ice the old rivalry of the Central Ottawa Valley league of former years blossomed forth in all its luxuriousness, as Chesterville won handily by three to one.

Chesterville had a somewhat re-aranged team. Honeyborne was in his natural element on the defence filling Gamble's place, the latter not having yet recovered from injuries received in the Smiths Falls game. Leslie had the assignment on right wing and two new faces were added to the line-up in Bush and Duval who made their first apparance with the seniors.

With the ice in perfect condition the play was exceptionally fast for the whole sixty minutes, each team starting with the evident determination to put the result beyond any question of a tie game. Finch's fast forward line, however, found a hard nut to crack in the defence they had to penetrate before counters could be chalked up. Honeyborne and Harper made a hard proposition to be solved and when it had been apparently worked out the result was still a cipher when they stacked up against Hamilton in the nets. The play although fast in the first period was very cautious work on each side with much of the play being confined to centre ice with a number of spectacular rushes by Henry Ouderkirk and Brownlee from the one end and returned as quickly by Honeyborne and Harper, with neither pair able to bulge the twine. Casselman, Jarvis and Leslie were back-checking in good style and carried the puck back for many shots on McMillan which were all turned aside effectively until Jarvis taking a nice pass from Leslie bulged the twine for the only score of the period fourteen minutes after the start of play.

The second period saw the speed well maintained with the home boys adding a little more weight to their punch. Casselman was working like a trojan and would not be denied when half way through the session he slammed in the second counter, and to show that he knew how it was done repeated in less than a minute with the third giving his team a commanding lead in which position the period ended.

Joe Robertson had his hands full in the third period, the close checking was beginning to tell on the tempers of the players and there was a continual procession to the penalty box, sometimes single file and at others two abreast, until at one time Chesterville had only three men in front of Hamilton to face Finch's full squad but the latter failed to make the most of their opporunities until within three minutes of the final whistle when Billy Ouderkirk got one past Hamilton, while Chesterville's players were tumbling over each other. Hamilton blocked Billy coming from behind first at one corner of the net and then at the other and had him shut out when Honeyborne got the puck and in an attempt to hoist it to the other end of he ice the rubber slithered into the crowd and Billy swiped it in. It was at least some encouragement to get that one for all the good work done during the game by Brownlee, who was the shiftiest stick handler the visitors presented. All the Ouderkirk boys were in the limelight on different occasions, while McIntosh, Dickey, Preston and Rombough all play a smart brand of hoskey.

The teams:

Referee—J. Robertson, Ottawa.

Two Pass Away On Sunday At Winchester

Within a few hours the death angel called last Sunday at two homes, not more than two miles apart. In the forenoon while the service was in progress at the church he attended, Mr. John Dauley who was in his 78th year passed away after a great deal of suffering from bladder trouble. He resided about one mile west of Winchester Station. In the afternoon Mr. Edwin Baker, living one mile south of the Station, slipped away at the age of 79 years, after a gradual weakening during the past months. Both these men were highly respected in the communities in which they lived and both were members of the Winchester United church, the pastor of which, Rev. J. A. Waddell, conducted their funeral services. Each is survived by a wife and grown-up family.

Smiths Falls Record-News — Enthroned at the top of the Rideau Group, a valiant Smiths Falls team is at present sitting pretty and gazing into a future which is tinted with gold and rose. Four games played, three wins, on draw, no losses—quite a record and if the locals can continue in this sensational fashion the name of Smiths Falls will once again flash across the hockey heavens to be taken seriously. Finch the only team that has yet to play the locals and fans are keyed to concert pitch for the Finch game. If Smiths Falls can continue their rough riding gallop to a victory over Finch, they will be safely entrenched in first place and the goose will hang high in a certain town where C.P.R. engines puff and chug a song of triumph. According to experts, Finch should be soft for this glowing sextette but many a glorious opportunity has gone glimmering when the lucky ones grew overconfident. The locals, right now, have a sweet looking aggregation of home talent but their secret of success will be to look upon all teams as real opponents and play their finest hockey in every game. Perth put up a mighty fine game here on Friday and they are bound to improve during the season. Of course we are not claiming that the Perth team is any better than the locals, nothing of the kind, but a policy of "Keep Working" should be adopted and it ought to guarantee the Smiths Falls team a place in the finals. From Gilligan out, the locals are playing sensational hockey and we risk our brilliant reputation for predicting infallibly when we prophesy that ere the snow and ice fade into water, the Rideau Group will be kowtowing to Smiths Falls, 1927—1928 Champions.

Whole Milk vs. Skim Milk and Substitutes For Calves

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Calves Must Be Well Started.

It is a well known fact that the very best possible start must be given to the youngsters. To secure information on the cost of rearing calves a feeding experiment was conducted with 38 calves at the Cap Rouge Experimental Station.

Experiment.

The project consisted in feeding three lots of calves on different feeds until they were 24 weeks old; one lot received whole milk; the second skim milk and a home-mixed meal consisting of six parts corn, three parts oats, one and a half part flax seed, by weight, all ground together; the third lot received, Royal Purple calf meal, a well known commercial article. Besides these feeds the youngsters had all the clover hay, swede turnips, and corn silage which they would clean up. The feed, both liquid and solid, was weighed to the last pound, and the calves were put on the scales at birth, at four, eight, twelve, sixteen, twenty and twenty-four weeks.

Results.

Calculating feeds at current prices of the summer of 1925 (whole milk $2, skim milk 20c, Royal Purple meal $5, home-mixed meal $2.17, other concentrates $1.72 per 100 pounds, clover hay $9, corn silage $3, swede turnips $1.80 per ton) it cost for feed until the calves were 24 weeks old an average of $49.03 for each one raised on whole milk, while the figures were respectively $15.99 for each fed on Royal Purple meal, and $12.53 for each fed on the home-mixed meal. The cost per pound of gain was respectively 20.7 cents for whole milk, 7.4 cents for Royal Purple meal, and 6.26 cents for home-mixed meal.

Suggestions.

Whole milk after the first two or three weeks is completely out of the question, from the point of view of economy, as a feed for calves, and a good home-mixed meal is just as satisfactory and cheaper than Royal Purple meal.

The Wretch!

Sister-in-law (seeing baby for first time)—"Oh, Jack, she's got her mother's complexion."

Jack (the father)—"Then for goodness sake don't let her swallow it!"

Intensive Farming.

"Why are you running a steam roller over that field?" asked the stranger.

"I'm trying to raise mached potatoes," said the farmer.

William Arthur Bernard, Smiths Falls

William Arthur Bernard, a life-long resident of Smiths Falls, passed away at the Public Hospital on Sunday last, after a lengthy illness. Mr. Bernard had been ill for over a year but had only been confined to the hospital for two months. The late Mr. Bernard was born in Chesterville forty years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bernard. With his parents he moved to Smiths Falls when he was but one year old and the remainder of his life was spent in this town where he had many friends and acquaitances who will regret the passing of one who had endeared himself to all.

Mr. Bernard was a member of the Royal Black Preceptory, No. 135, L. O. L., No. 88, and also the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He had been employed with the C. P. R. for twenty-five years and was one of the finest engineers upon the road. Surviving, besides his sorrowing widow, are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Bernard of town, and one son and one daughter, Judson and Georgina Mr. Bernard was a member of the United Church.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from his late residence to the United church where the services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Semple, and from there to the Public cemetery where the interment was made. Members of the L. O. L., the R.B.P., and the B. of L.F. &E., attended to pay a last tribue to a friend and fellow member who had been respected and esteemed by all who knew him.

The pall bearers were Messrs. E. P. Mills, George Snider, L McNayr, Thos. Lever, Wm. Porter, and H. R. McCreary.

Testifying to the high esteem in which Mr. Bernard was held were the many floral offerings which were received. Floral offerings were received from the following:

Pillow, wife and children; mound father and mother; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lockwood, Toronto; wreath on base, Mr. J. Judge, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bates, Jasper; crescent, Mr. and Mrs. B. Stone and son, New York; B. of L. E. 381; wreath, R. B. P. 135; L. O. L. 88; pillow, B. of L. F. & E. 518; wreath, L. O. B. A. No. 8; mound, cross, neighbors; wreath, Mr. A. Boyd; spray, Mr. and Mrs. H. Weston; spray, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Quackenbush; boating comrades, anchor, H. B. Brownlee, James Menagh, Bob May, W. J. Briggs, H. Sherman, Tim Ildham, David Nichol, Bobby Naud, A. Wiseman, H. Jones and Edmund Ryan.

Those from out-of-town who attended to pay a last tribute to the deceased were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lockwood, of Toronto; Mr. Austin Hurd of Mountain Station; Mr. William Hummel of Chesterville; Mr. Frank Strikefoot and family and Mrs. Emma Ruthwell of Frankville, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Polk, Mr. John Bennett, Mr. Isaac Bennett and Mr. George Bennett and families, all of Toledo.—Smiths Falls Record-News.

Mrs. Amelia McMillan Lambkin Doing Good Work

The Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Welcome Home for Girls, of which Dr. Mary F. Fleckles of 255 Macon street is the president, has purchased the commodious dwelling at 139 Bainbridge street, corner of Stuyvesant avenue. This three-storey and basement white stone dwelling was obtained from the estate of the late Louis Martin and is in excellent condition, and as it faces the south is warm and cheerful as well as up-to-date in every particular. Dr. Fleckles when seen at her office this week was extremely pleased over the purchase.

"Our trend is upward," she said. "We had a house in Monroe street six years ago. From there we moved the Welcome Home for Girls to the double house, 629-631 Throop avenue, where we are now. We were never satisfied with those two small houses which are dark in the daytime and which are being more and more surrounded by business houses, so lately we sold them and were fortunate enough to acquire a home in a respectable residential section, for Bainbridge street, near Stuyvesant avenue, is the heart of the Stuyvesant district.

"The girls who come to the Home are not committed by a court as people have sometimes thought, but are girls who are stranded in New York, or are found destitute by church workers, or some private individual, and are referred to us. The doors of the Welcome Home stand open day and night for any girl in any sort of trouble who needs a real home for a short period of time until her worries can be straightened out and life can be made more comfortable for her. Many girls make mistakes when they are young and resent family authority, who will listen to the unbiased opinion of an outsider and take her advice. We have a superintendent, Mrs. Amelia Lambkin, who has her own methods of winning girlish hearts and helping tempestuous personalities to find themselves. She keeps the house full most of the time. We will now have 13 rooms, convenient transportation, light, heat, sunshine and respectability. We will move into our new home around the first of March and will have a big housewarming to which we will invite numerous friends. It will be wonderful for us to have large parlors where we can stage bazaars and entertainments. The members of the board are very much pleased. The decision was made without one dissenting voice. The girls are encouraged to adhere to their religions the influence of the Home being that of uplift only."

The Brooklyn Welcome Home enjoyed a very pleasant Christmas party last Thursday evening, December 29. The parlors were dressed in Christmas greens, a noble tree shone with colored electric lights and everywhere there were happy faces and a multitude of presents. Santa Claus must have emptied his entire pack in the parlors, judging from the amount of packages. The popularity of the superintendent, Mrs. Amelia McMillan Lambkin, could easily be seen from the number of gifts that were literally showered upon her. Somebody of a jocose turn of mind remarked that Mrs. Lambkin would have to turn into a centipede in order to wear all the stockings she received. Refreshments were served in the dining room, where some wonderful Christmas cakes, the gift of a good friend, delighted the eye as well as the taste. Several entertainments are being planned, the first of which will be a tea and reception given by the People's Political League of Kings County.

MEAT PRICES 25 YEARS AGO

Chesley Enterprise—William Lustig showed us his day book of 25 years ago and if the same prices prevailed these days it would be much easier to pay the higher coal bills. We notice that Ex-Reeve Heiserman paid the fabulous price of 21c for 1¾ lbs. of choice steak which is at the rate of 12c a lb. Geo. E. Krug and Chris Krug each paid 10c for a whole pound of bologna. Thos. Wettlaufer got a pound of steak on bargain day for 11c. He didn't tell Heiserman the secret of saving a cent a day. Geo. E. Krug also bought a whole chicken for 15c. Three nickels wouldn't go so far in buying chickens these days. War prices for hogs didn't prevail a quarter of a century ago, for we notice Chris Krug got 1½ lbs. of pork chop for 15c. Jim Milne was hanging paper in those days on the strength of beef bought at the rate of 1¼ lbs. for 10c. The same sum paid for 1¼ pounds of beef these days wouldn't be any thicker than Jim's wallpaper.

Recreating Old France at Quebec

In one of the most colorful and striking functions ever put on in this continent, it was reserved for the old city of Quebec to rediscover herself in the historic ball recently given in the two halls of the Legislative Assembly in the Ancient Capital. Although four hundred years of costumes and personalities were covered by the ball, it was the eighteenth century that was most prominently featured and it was mainly French historical characters who were shown. Louis XIV., "le Roi Soleil," was impersonated by the Hon. N. Perodeau, Lieutenant-Governor of the province; Lord and Lady Willingdon went back a little further and represented Charles I. of England and his Queen, Henrietta Maria. Premier Taschereau came out as d'Aguesseau, Chancellor and Comptroller under Louis XIV., and Mrs. Taschereau went as Marie Antoinette, ill-fated Queen of France. Miss Yvette McKenna, the debutante granddaughter of Hon. N. Perodeau, for whom the ball was given, appeared as Madame Louise de France, daughter of Louis XV. In all some 1,100 guests came to the ball and, since every one had to state beforehand in what character he or she would appear, there was no duplication, and the result was quite the most brilliant function ever shown in Quebec or probably any other city in America. Guests came from all parts of Canada and the Eastern United States, and the Chateau Frontenac was at capacity for some days beforehand to accommodate them

School Planters Win Cups

Many of the school yards of Canada are receiving a much needed improvement by planting for beautification. Where school gardening has been pursued in rural districts, good has been accomplished in making the school surroundings attractive with shrubbery and flowers and vines, and often with rows and beds of vegetables. But still too many school grounds continue to present the barest sort of appearance. Even a shade tree in many of them would give the schools the bit of charm they so badly need. The Canadian Horticultural Council has sensed the great need that exists to encourage school grounds beautification, and have for three years carried on contests in the different provinces with silver cups as prizes for the best kept and planted school grounds in each of the eleven districts, into which the Dominion is divided. Of these eleven districts, three are in the province of Ontario and are designated as the eastern, western and northern. The report for this year has been issued by the Secretary of the Council, Capt. L. F. Burrows, and it is found that one of the cups has found a permanent resting place at Elma, Section No. 2 at Listowel, having been successful in each of the three years since the competition started. In Eastern Ontario the Nation Valley school, located in Section No. 5 near Chesterville, is the winner this year as in 1925. In the western district the Maple Leaf school in North York Township, near Weston, won the cup this year. Other schools in which especially commendable planting and care has been done this year, received award of merit certificates. These include schools at Etobicoke, Port Dover, Hurdman's Bridge, Glen Oglivie, The Ridge, Blackburn, Quarries, Hawthorne, Elmwood, and Section No. 3 in Gloucester Township. Awards were decided by sets of before and after photographs and accompanied by essays describing the work, written by the teacher or the pupils. The competition in Ontario was in charge of Mr. George Simpson, as past president of the Ontario Horticultural Association as Chairman, and Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, Secretary of the Ontario Horticulural Association, Professor A. H. McLennan of the Ontario Agricultural College, Mr. W. E. Groves, Secretary of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, and Capt. L. F. Burrows, Secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council.

Daily Automobile Killings Will Average Seventy

Whatever else may happen during 1928, it is a practical certainty that more than 25,000 Americans will be killed in traffic accidents, and another 750,000 injured.

It is strange that the awful death toll of automobiles does not serve as a warning to automobile drivers and pedestrians alike, but it appears that it does not. While a slight lessening of the accident rate in proportion to the number of cars in use has been noted, the total number of casualties has steadily increased.

Many persons who worry over germs or minor dangers of other sorts will take chances on the highways which are bound to sooner or later end in disaster.

As recent statistics show three times as many casualties result from automobile accidents in a single yea as were suffered by United States forces during the entire World War. The war cost more lives, but the automobile is responsible for more injured.

Among the yearly automobile deaths are those of about 7,000 children of school age, the greatest number being between the ages of six and twelve years. The greatest numbr of accidents occur between five and six o'clock in the afternoon. Drivers and pedestrians are about equally at fault in their responsibilities for accidents, according to the best estimates available.

While the automobile is an indispensible convenience of modern life, it has already caused the death of almost as many persons as were killed in battle in all the American armies since the founding of the Republic.

Herr Burchmann of Berlin, was recently given a 3-year sentence for robbery and laughed heartily, thinking it a good joke. It seems that in addition to being philosphical, he also has a sense of humor. The joke lay in the fact that he had already been given sentences aggregating 208 years for committing some 500 robberies, so he didn't mind three years more.

Charles Wolf, a 15-year-old New York boy, has given up the idea of suicide, or has at least postponed it until warmer weather comes. He jumped into East River, but quickly climbed out again. When questioned he said: "I was going to commit suicide, but the water was too cold."

Major, a pet monkey owned by Thomas Charles, of Jersey City, has been taught to do a number of interesting stunts, including that of shining his master's shoes. A new kind of "monkey-shine."

Since making his joking remark about doing some whittling after he leaves the White House, President Coolidge has been showered with knives sent as gifts by manufacturers, and has asked that no more be presented. It is said that numerous small boys of Washington have offered to relieve Mr. Coolidge of the surplus hardware.

After keeping it on his shelves for many months, a second-hand dealer at Bristol, Eng., sold an old blue and white ginger jar for $3. He got a jar that was almost a jolt when he learned later that it had been resold in London for $30,000. Experts had discovered it to be one of the finest hawthorn china jars in existence.

Alexander Kazoz of Sioux City, has a house to rent, but after several weeks of advertising has been unable to find a tenant, possibly because he is too particular. The sign on the house reads: "This house for rent. Tenants must keep the Ten Commandments."

An odd account of a church service recently appeared in the Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Gazette, which told that "Last night Evangelist Scoville spoke on 'The Bible Hell' and Mr. Deloss Smith sang, 'We Will Meet You There.' "

BOUND TO BE CRITICIZED

Alliston Herald—The public-spirited citizen, who sets out to perform some civic service may as well settle down in the fist place to accept criticism. Whatever is done, no matter how done, is bound to be criticized most virulently by those who would not have undertaken the task themselves. Of course, a certain amount of this is legitimate, simply because no two people see anything from exactly the same angle. But the other kind of criticism which must contain some sort of jealousy, is disheartening, and sometimes hardening to the one some project which is not his personal concern. The person who always indulges in criticism that is destructive deteriorates in the course of time to being an unmitigated nuisance to his circle.

NOT JUDGED BY NAME

Arnprior Chronicle—The Renfrew Mercury thinks it rather humorous that a Priest is to be pastor of a Baptist church in Arnprior. We don't judge a man hy his name here any more, because we have a Gardner who is a postmaster, a Baker who is a tobacconist, a Farmer who is a shoe merchant, a Saver who is a good spender, a Slaughter who is a barber, a Box who is a good alderman, a Little who is big and one Jew who isn't in the clothing business.

THE PLACE OF ADVERTISING

Oshawa Times—Newspaper advertising and the automobile have combined to bring city shops to the very door of the farm house and the suburban home. Each day the newspapers bring a complete quotation of what can be bought, when it can be purchased, and the prices at which it can be purchased. The sale is actually made through the advertising -columns of the newspaper. A visit to the store next day by automobile completes the exchange of money for merchandise.

THE FIGHT THAT DID NOT TAKE PLACE

The rude tests to which pupils used to put young teachers have furnished many a good story. Here is another. Ben, a young man, had just granduated from college.

He took a country school to teach. The largest boy at school seemed to think that spelling was beneath his dignity and was surly and rebellious in manner. Ben for a while took no notice of the boy's rudeness, but one day he became so defiant that Ben saw the crisis had come.

"Tom, spell that word again, and spell it right," he said.

"I did spell it right."

"You know perfectly well what I mean. You spelled it correctly as far as the letters are concerned, but your manner was impertinent. You've got to spell that word again and spell it in a proper tone; otherwise you and I will go outdoors and fight. You are as big as I am, and maybe you can whip me; and if you do, of course I'll have to leave this school. But let me tell you something first. I'm poor, and I'm making my living here. I do'nt want to go, for I haven't money enough even to get home with. So if I fight I'll fight like a wildcat protecting her young. Tom, spell that word again."

Tom spelled it in an acceptable manner, and that is why the rest of the boys missed seeing a fight.

She—I bobbed my hair to show my independence.

He—Well, what did you bob your skirt for?

A SCOTTISH CAROL

As the work of the modern Scottish poets is but little known outside of Scotland, there must be a great number of Canadians who are unacquainted with this lovely carol by Alexander Gray, says "T. P.'s Weekly."

Reading it, one has a new and vivid realization of that scene in Bethlehem, long ago; one treads behind Joseph and Mary in the starlight, along the street; and one's heart gladdens with a new song that is surely an echo of the one the angels sang.

"'Twas a cauld, cauld nicht i' the back
o' the year;
The snaw lay deep, and the starns
shone clear;
And Mary kent that her time was near,
As she cam' to Bethlehem.
Quo' he: ' I houp I be na wrong,
But I'm thinkin' we'll find a place ere lang';
But there wasna room for them.
"She quo' quo she: 'O Joseph loon,
Rale tired am I, and wad fain lie doon.
Is there no a bed in the hale o' the toon?
For farrer I canna gae.'
At the ale-house door she keekit ben,
But there was sic a steer o' fremmyt
men,
She thocht tue hirsel': 'I dinna ken
What me and my man can dae.'

"And syne she spak: 'We'll hae to lie
I' the byre this nicht amang the kye
And the cattle beas', for a body maun try
To thole what needs maun be.'
And there amang the straie and the corn,
Whilst the owsie mooed, her bairnie was born.
O, wasna' that a maist joyous morn
For sinners like you and me?

"For the bairn that was born that nicht i' the sta'
Cam' doon frae Heaven to take awa'
Oor fecklessness, and bring us a'
Safe hame in the hender-en'.
Lord, at this yule-tide send us licht,
Hae mercy on us and herd us richt.
For the sake of the bairnie born that nicht,
O, mak' us better men!"

Walter Bungled It.

Henry: "I hear Walter's engagement's broken off. How's that, old man?"

Herbert: "He was trying to tell Phyllis how time stood still whenever he looked in her eyes, and it appears the silly ass didn't get it quite right. At any rate, he gave her to understand that, in his opinion, her face would stop a clock."

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schully, Locksley, was the scene of a very happy gathering on Monday night, Dec. 19th, when a large number of friends gathered to shower Miss Jean Darling their school teacher.

Little Miss Laua Radke acted as flower girl. The following address was read by Miss Ella Bucholty, after which a very prettily decorated basket filled with useful gifts was presented to the bride-to-be by two of her pupils Newton and Norman Holty.

Dear Miss Darling—We, as neighbors and young people of this school district, have had the pleasure to meet and to greet you as our teacher, and in the past years have formed a tie of friendship which we hope and trust shall never be broken. We may be separated here for a short span of years but hope to meet again in Our Father's home in that "greater life."

As a teacher you have made your influence felt, you have instructed the children in a very able manner. They have made splendid progress in their studies and always spoke well of you. You have won a warm place in our hearts, by your diligence and good conduct and untiring effort which always spells "Success." We appreciate the example you have set in attending divine worship with us, whenever possible, the help rendered by your vocal talent and the contribution you made toward the remodeling of our new commodious church.

We regret very much to learn of your early leaving us as teacher, though since you have made the great decision to change your name, we trust, yes, we believe you will always be the same "Darling." We feel highly gratified that you have chosen your life's companion among one of most industrious and progressive young men. May your matrimonial life bring to you and yours eternal joy and happiness. This act is an honorable estate, instituted by Almighty God, sanctioned by Christ, commended by the Apostle Paul. Now we ask you to please accept these tokens, which we shall present to you in the same humble spirit in which they are given and when you and your life's companion sit around the fire hearth, may you always be reminded by your surroundings of the friends and friendship in Ledgerwood School District.

Signed on behalf of your friends.

IT'S A GIRL

The old Ford has joined the procession of ancient history along with Barnum and the buffalo. The new Ford enters our lives with flowers and soft music and a pink ribbon across its dove-gray hood. The old Ford dripped oil in our upturned faces as we lay under it on country roads at midnight. The new Ford is shown off like a modiste's manikin to a generation which has lost the joy of getting its hands dirty. The old Ford ruined ten million pairs of overalls. The new Ford is unveiled in hotel ball-rooms by salesmen in dinner jackets.

The new Ford is new; but it isn't a Ford. It is swung low (sweet chariot) : it is the color of fog at sunrise or of trees at dawn; it has theft-proof coincidental locks, pressure grease-gun lubrication and five steel-spoke wheels; it is as silky as a debutante and as neat as a watch; it will go sixty-five miles an hour and thirty miles on a gallon; it has a gas tank behind the engine and a switch for all the lights behind the steering post; it was made with Johannsen precision gauges, accurate to the incalculable fraction of an inch, and it wipes its own windshield; it is masculine in reliability and feminine in grace; it is, in other words, the heart's desire of America.

But it isn't a Ford. It is a remarkable piece of machiney, but still it isn't a Ford, because the Ford was an educational institution as well as a machine. The old Ford, the old, black, rusty, cantankerous, obstinate, sputtering Ford, brought wisdom to many fools and made many wise men go raving, tearing mad. This new lily of the valley isn't going to teach us anything. It looks as if it would run indefinitely without complaint, which is all wrong. It is made for serenity and comfort, which is also all wrong. Where is the gas tank? Out in front where it can be reached. Where is the timer? Up on top where it can no longer bark your knuckles. Where are the brakebands? In a ridiculously exposed position where their value as trainers of character and refined language is completely lost.

We are degenerating. We are entering a period of Roman luxuy. The new Ford is a garage car. Back to the pioneer days when we threw sand under the fan belt and tightened the horn with a dime—the days when the Ford was a boy!

Smiths Falls Beat Finch On Soft Ice 4--3

Smiths Falls stepped farther ahead in the Rideau Group League Friday night, and they added another win to their unbroken string of victories when they nosed out the Finch team in a league fixture at Smiths Falls by a score of 4 to 3 after 60 minutes of the warmest kind of hockey played upon an ice sheet that bore many pools of water.

Archie Campbell, Bob Naud, Duke Moffatt and Baldy Hunter stood out in the Smiths Falls win, though every man on the team was a star. Lloyd Gilligan, their net guardian, again turned in a splendid game and saved his team many times after Finch rushes had penetrated through his defence.

Finch put up a desperate battle from start to finish and they extended the Falls to the limit. R. Ouderkirk in the Finch nets was quite a sensation, and Harvey and Henry Ouderkirk showed barrels of speed and were the mainsprings in the smart Finch machine.

The first period was productive of fast hockey and it was only after 13 minutes had passed that Baldy Hunter subbing for Harry O'Neil, coasted down the right wing, swung into centre and flipped in a hot crossfire that fooled Ouderkirk.

In the second stanza the scoring was more general and four goals were sunk into the mesh. Robillard scrambled through after nine minutes to knot up the count and a few seconds later Preston took a pass at the goal mouth to put Finch one goal to the good. A thoroughly aroused Smiths Falls team swept in and Campbell again tied up the score with a pretty solo effort that carried him through the entire team. Duke Moffatt put the Falls one to the good three minutes later when he sailed in to beat Ouderkirk on a long shot. Both teams played fast hockey for the remaining minutes but neither could score again.

Earle Moffatt put the home team two up after eleven minutes in the third stanza when he took Tommy Hamilton's pass at centre and worked in to place a nice goal behind Ouderkirk. Finch were attacking desperately and just before the period closed W. Ouderkirk forced Finch's third goal past Gilligan from a scramble in front of the nets.

Happy Hooper, of Ottawa refereed the game and had an easy job as play was very clean throughout. Only one penalty was issued, in the third period, when Bobby Naud of the Falls was gated for slashing.

The teams were:

Smiths Falls—Goal, Gilligan; defence, Naud and Ken Moffatt; forwards, O'Neil,, Campbell and Cookman; subs, Hamilton, Hunter, Earle Moffatt, Hutt.

Finch—Goal, R. Ouderkirk; defence, H. Ouderkirk, W. Brownlee; forwards, Dickie, Preston and Q. Ouderkirk; subs, Shaver, McLean, Robillard, B. Ouderkirk and McIntosh.

TWO PARSIMONIOUS TALKERS

"Well," said Ovid Langley, "maybe there is another town where there are two men as little given to talking as Si Herrick and Jim Baldwin, but I doubt it."

Mrs. Langley looked up from her knitting. "What they been doing now?"

"I dropped into the hardware store this afternoon after a pound of nails, and while I was there Si came in. He was carrying a tea kettle that needed soldering. Jim came up to wait on him, and Si just pointed to the spot that needed fixing.

"Without saying a word, Jim took the kettle and went off into the back room, and Si sat down and began to read a newspaper. After a time Jim came back and handed the kettle to Si. It had 'twenty cents' marked on the side.

"Si pulled out a quarter and gave it to him, and Jim put his hand into his pocket, took out a handful of change, picked out a nickel and handed it to Si; and Si went away, carrying the kettle. And, by Jimminy, neither of 'em had said a word."

"Well, said Mrs. Langley reflectively, "I guess if the truth was known there's a lot of talk goes on that ain't really necessary."

LABORER TO MAGNATE

From a boy laborer in a steel mill to the head of the largest industrial concern in the world is a big jump, but James A. Farrell, of the United States Steel Corporation, has made it.

When his father was lost at sea with his ship, young Farrell was 15 years old. He had to leave school to earn a living, so his hopes for a college education were shattered. At 16 he began as a laborer in a steel mill in his home city of New Haven, working 12 hours a day as was the rule at that time. But he somehow found opportunities for the study of books, as well as to gain a thorough knowledge of his work.

Before he was 21 he was foreman of 300 men in a Pittsburgh wire factory, then in turn became a salesman, sales manager and general manager. When his company became a part of the United States Steel Corporation he was placed in charge of a foreign end of its business until he became president in 1911. His recent advancement to chairman of the board gives him the most important place in American industry.

Mr. Farrell believes that a young man should begin at the bottom to learn a business, as he did. When his son wanted to enter shipping as a career Mr. Farrell had him work alongside of longshoremen and stevedores on the docks for a year.

Judging by his own outstanding success, it seems that Mr. Farrell has the correct idea about getting started right.

Congregations Join Presbytery

Two Italian congregations, that of Amherst Square and Rossland, who left the Presbyterian Church at the time of church union, returned to their former fold last night at a meeting of the Montreal Presbytery held in Knox Crescent church. The vote of the two congregations to return was unanimous and the petition was signed by 224 members.

"We were happy in Presbytery. We are not happy in church union," said Alfred D. Sebastiani, an elder, who referred to the United Church as "a big machine with a Ford motor." He went on to say that the Italian congregations would come back regardless of the possible cost and that though they had church buildings of their own they would be willing to begin where they had begun 50 years ago if necessary. He was supported in his declarations by Fracesco Apugliese and Michele Caluri, both elders.

Rev. Alan S. Reid, clerk of the Presbytery, was appointed as interim moderator. The elders will remain unchanged. A resolution recommending Rev. A. R. Osborn of Australia for admittance into the Presbytery of Canada, was passed. The chair was occupied by Rev. Dr. Hurst.—Contributed.

FATHER OF FORTY

Friends of J. A. Fetterly, aged 88, North Hinsworth Township farmer, are claiming for him the title of champion daddy of Northern Ontario if not the entire Dominion. Mr. Fetterly is the father of 40 children. The oldest is 45 and the youngest four. He had married thrice. Twenty- one children were born to the first union, seven to the second and 12 to the third. Two sons were killed in action in France. Mr. Fetterly does not know how many of his offspring are living, as they have drifted to various parts of Canada and the United States and some of them have ceased to correspond with him.

Recipe For A Happy New Year

Take twelve fine, full-grown months, see that these are thoroughly free from all old memories of bitterness, rancor, hate and jealousy; cleanse them completely from every clinging spite; pick off all specks of pettiness and littleness; in short, see that these months are freed from the past—have them as fresh and clean as when they first came from the great storehouse of Time.

Cut these months into thirty or thirty-one equal parts. This batch will keep for just one year. Do not attempt to make up the whole batch at one time (so many persons spoil the entire lot in this way), but prepare one day at a time, as follows:

Into each day put twelve parts of faith, eleven of patience, ten of courage, nine of work (some people omit this ingredient and so spoil the flavor of the rest), eight of hope, seven of fidelity, six of liberty, five of kindness, four of rest (leaving this out is like leaving the oil out of the salad—don't do it), three of prayer, two of meditation, and one well-selected resolution. If you have no conscientious scruples, put in about a teaspoonful of good spirits, a dash of fun, a pinch of folly, a sprinkling of play, and a heaping cupful of good humor.

Pour into the whole love ad libitum and mix with a vim. Cook thoroughly in a fervent heat; garnish with a few smiles and a sprig of joy; then serve with quietness, unselfishness, and cheerfulness. and a Happy New Year is a certainty.—H.M.S.
is a certainty.

All for Love.

Birthday or anniversary greetings —by telephone

When a birthday or anniversary comes around, and you want to congratulate a distant relative or friend, what that you could buy would mean so much to the recipient as the cheerful sound of your voice over the telephone?

With the first words of your greeting by Long Distance, memories of days spent together flash before the mind and the moments glow with these shared recollections of the past.

One of the greatest blessings Long Distance confers is the opportunity for renewing and strengthening the ties of friendship and affection between those who are separated by distance. Try it.

Caleb's Clever Sister-in-Law

"I may never have said it, Hyne," Caleb Peaslee began in a humble tone, "but I know I've always cal'lated to keep my place and buildin's up about as trig and tidy as the next man; but the next man needn't be a woman, if you want to compare me with anybody!"

"What's put you into such a state of mind 's this?" asked deacon Hyne, going straight to the root of the matter.

"My wife's sister," said Mr. Peaslee. "She's a good deal younger'n my wife, and she's a farmer—or a farmeress, or whatever a woman is that raises crops."

"Whereabouts?" inquired the deacon.

"Clear across the state," returned Mr. Peaslee, as if he wished it might be even farther. "She's one of these stirrin' women, and she's full of book farmin'. I ain't seen he farm, of course, but I shouldn't wonder if it might be wuth seein'," he added honestly.

"You know how it is,"

"You know how 'tis, Lysander,," he went on, " a married man has to listen to a lot he don't reely hear, so I s'pose my wife's told me all about her sister's makin' such a go of farmin', but if she has I ain't sensed it, not till this mornin' ,that is t' say.

"Mebbe a week ago," he went on, "my wife had a letter from her, and that night, when I'd sot down to read the paper, she up an' told me her sister was plannin' to pay us a little visit, she havin' some kind of errand up at the state farm. I was busy readin' about the way to git more aigs from less hens, so mebbe I didn't give her all the 'tention I'd ought to, but I did manage to say we'd make her welcome, and I s'pose in the back of my mind I had a notion she'd have a chance to see how a man run a farm, and that prob-bly she'd git some ideas that she c'd turn into money when she got abck home.

"Well," said Caleb, after a little silence that ended with a sigh, "she come yest'day, and things didn't come off jest as I figgered they would. I'm goin' to own up to you Hyne—I've got sot back today mor'n in all the years I've got my livin' farmin'; and I've earnt every jolt I've got!"

The deacon stared but offered no comment.

"Yes, Sir!" affirmed Caleb, with even more emphasis. "I started out this mornin' biggoty, and I ended up feelin' like a foolish child. This mornin' after breakfast," he went on, "I spoke to her in a kind sort of way and asked her if she didn't want to go out with me and see how I done things 'round the place. I figgered she'd say she did and be kind of p'lite 'bout it, but she sort of hesitated and then said something about it bein' a kind of thankless task to look over a place that had been carried on the same way for years; but she fin'ly came along with me out to'rds the henhouse. I was p'intin' out to her the way I'd got things fixed to suit me, and mebbe I did act 'sif I was teachin' her; but all at once she begun to tell how I'd got everything wrong—and b'fore she got through she was lecturin' me 'sif she was up on a platform and I was fifty people, 'stead of jest an old man that was so 'mazed he couldn't git his mouth together on 'count of s'prise!

"And from then on, Hyne," Caleb confessed, "I didn't do any talkin' at all. I didn't p'int out to her how she ought to run her hens, takin' my text from that piece I'd lately read in the paper. I'm glad I didn't, for, come to find out, she writes them pieces herself—though my wife and I didn't know it.

"But she does," he admitted, "and she give me her reasons for doin' the way she does with her hens—good reasons too. And she showed me where my cowbarn ain't right, and why I ought to paint oftener, and only one coat at a time, and how stone walls take up ground that ought to be bearin' crops, and more'n twenty things I'd been doin' that's put me out o' pocket every year. I started out puffed with pride and vain talk," Caleb owned sadly enough, "and I came back like a pricked puffball—and not a yip out of me.

"Come to find out," he said, "the business up at the state farm was jest to take on the lecturin' there between times when she ain't farmin. Seems she's been makin' thirty acres pay her more cash money than I've ever made off ninety, and they're willin' t' pay her most as much to tell others how to do it.

"And when I got fairly out of my daze," Caleb said, " you c'n b'lieve I felt small 'nough. But," he finished after a moment devoted to deep thought, "I truly don't know what the world's comin' to—I truly don't—with women settin' up to know more about farmin' than men; and provin' it on 'em!" He added dejectedly.

I pity no man because he has to work. If he is worth his salt he will work. I envy the man who has a work worth doing and does it well. There never has been devised, and there never will be devised, any law which will enable a man to succeed save by exercise of those qualities which have always been the prerequisites of success, the qualities of hard work. of keen intelligence, of unflinching will.

POOR CITY FOLKS

Kingston Whig-Standard—In how many Kingston homes is the family supply of bread baked by the housewife? We refer to the housewife only, of course, for a bread-baking daughter is unthinkable. But is there any home in Kingston where the housewife bakes the bread? We doubt very much if Kingston has many housewives so old-fashioned in that respect. Those who can remember back far enough to recall when homemade bread was always on the table, and fresh twice a week, have not forgotten how mother fretted about baking day, and made the bread last as long as possible and made the threat before and after every baking that if baker's bread were fit to eat she would use the bread pans for flower pots. And she made good that threat as soon as the baker learned how to make bread that compared with the kind mother used to make.

The Winter Cost of Egg Production

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The cost of eggs produced during the four winter months is a factor worth considering, where cash returns are the main objective and we take it that all poultry raisers have that objective in mind.

The importance of this is best demonstrated by taking two of the pens with the lowest winter production and comparing them with the two pens highest winter production, making a total of twenty-four birds in each lot. Lot 1 (low pens) laid 121 eggs at a total cost of $19 or $1.88 per dozen, the market value was $6, showing a loss of $13 or over 54 cents per bird. Lot 2 laid 1131 eggs at a feed cost of $21.97 or 23.3 per dozen. The market value of the eggs was $56.08, realizing a labor and investment return over feed cost of $34.11 or $1.42 per bird. Lot 2 consumed only $3.97 worth more feed than Lot 1, but they gave $50 more returns for feeds consumed.

From the preceding figures, one is certainly impressed with the importance of getting the pullets hatched early and having them well-matured by the last of October or first of November for it is during the winter months that one receives the best price for eggs. Moreover, if one can secure a profit over feed cost during the four winter months such as is shown from Lot 2, namely $1.42 per bird, satisfactory returns from the plant are fairly well assured. But on the other hand if the eggs are costing $1.88 to $2 per dozen to produce during the winter months with a market value of only 65 cents it will take many dozen during the summer months to overcome this handicap.

In comparing the quantities of the different kinds of feed fed and eaten by each lot it was very interesting to note that there was very little difference in he quantities consumed of grain, milk, grit or green feed or beef scrap fed in hoppers but Lot 2 (the heavy producers) consumed twice the quantity of dry mash and shell that Lot 1 consumed. Of course the dry mash so far as the hopper feeding was concerned, there was practically no difference.

To keep the winter cost at a minimum, raise bred-to-lay stock, have the pullets hatched as early as possible, have them properly matured by the first of November, then feed them properly during the winter. With grain fed twice daily in litter, dry mash in hoppers, a plentiful supply of grit, oyster shells, green feed and fresh water (with the chill taken off) the pullets will make satisfactory returns.

Far More Serious.

Sandy had been courting the fair Jean for two years. One evening, after Sandy had been silent for some 20 minutes, Jean murmured:

"A penny for your thoughts, Sandy."

"Weel," replied Sandy, with sudden boldness, "I was thunkin, I'd like tae kiss ye, lassie."

Jean blushed happily as this operation took place, but Sandy once again fell silent.

"An' what are ye thinkin' aboot noo?" asked the girl hopefully. "Anither?"

"Na, lassie; it's mair serious this time. I was just wonderin' when ye were goin' tae pay me that penny for ma thochts."

Auditors—Mrs. Barrie and Mrs. Doering.

After the meeting closed Mrs. McIntosh served a most dainty and delicious lunch.

The ladies were unanimous in tendering Mrs. McIntosh a vote of thanks.

Our February meeting will be held at the home of Miss Elliott.

MILK PRODUCTS FIRMS FORM A HUGE MERGER

The amalgamation of several of the world's largest milk products firms was announced yesterday by A. H. Terk, general superintendent of the Canadian Milk Products Company, Limited. Included in the combine are the Borden Milk Company of Canada and the United States; the Merill-Soule Company, of England and the United States; and the subsidary companies of both firms in the United States and Canada.

Although full details in connection with the merger, the largest of its kind to be consumated, were not available yet, the amalgamation is understood to involve millions of dollars.

The Canadian Milk Products Company, of which Mr. Terk is the head, is one of the subsidiary units ofthe Merill-Soule Company. In an interview, the official said that the Canadian company will continue as a separate unit ,and will be, as in the past, a subsidiary of the major company.

Cornwall Man Discharged In Shooting Case

Cornwall, Jan. 25.—The case of Arthur Sauve was dismissed here today. He was charged with shooting a man with intent to do bodily harm, the alleged offence occurring in September last on Lake St. Francis, when the accused and Sheriff Crepin, of Valleyfield, were duck hunting, and Joseph Myers and his son, John, of New York City, with John Senecal of Lancaster, as guide, were bass fishing near Sauve's blind. The case was heard before His Honor Judge O'Reilly, at the Court House here.

The evidence went to show that the fishing party were rowing comparatively close to the blind occupied by the duck hunters, who asked them to keep away from that vicinity, as it prevented ducks from coming near their decoys. The boat went down the river, and a few minutes later returned, and a similar request was made, with the warning that if any ducks came along they would shoot at the ducks. John Senecal, witness for the Crown, stated that when a gun was fired he felt a shot hit his back and sting him slightly.

Both the accused and Sheriff Crepin testified that they never shot at the rowboat, but at a sea pigeon.

His Honor, in dismissing the case, said he had no hesitation in declaring the accused "not guilty." The trouble arose, said His Honor, through the stubbornness of Mr. Senecal, Mr. Myers or his son, and he felt inclined to believe it was that of Senecal.. "The idea of a guide hanging around a blind, after getting warning the way he did, when he was asked to go away, when he was told they were shooting ducks, when he was asked to retire and give these men a chance to do what they were there for, to shoot, it was only stubbornness, it was want of decent manners and consideration on the part of Senecal to do what he ought to do, and he has given the gentleman who hired him, and he has given the defendant a great amount of unnecessary trouble, and if I could put the costs on Mr. Senecal, the whole thing, I think I would do it."

Carter Rubber Company Presents A Cushion

Our office chair has been presented with a new cushion, which in itself is hardly news, but this is a new kind of cushion, and a a product of the Carter Rubber Co., of Detroit, of which Mr. Howard G. Carter is the president, well and favorably known in his connection with the establishment of a milk condensery in this place. This cushion is of a new kind of rubber called sponge rubber developed and perfected by the company under Mr. Carter's direction, and which holds the secret formula by which it is produced . Sponge rubber is in much demand in the building of automobiles, the chief industry of Detroit, which heretofore has been dependent on a limited supply of inferior quality . Mr. Carter has had some very tempting inducements held out to his company for the establishment of a factory in Detroit, which are now under consideration.

While sponge rubber is likely to prove eventually very profitable to shareholders of the Carter Rubber Products Company, it is only one of of a very extensive line of rubber goods now offered to the public by this fast growing company. Shareholders who are interested will be welcome callers at The Record Office to examine this new product of their company.
