VOLUME 107, NO. 2. MORRISBURG, ONT., FRIDAY, JANUARY 10th, 1969 SINGLE COPIES 10c

First Meeting of New Council

The inaugural meeting of Morrisburg Village Council was held on Thursday, January 2 in the council chambers of the Civic Centre. Clerk Lloyd C. Barkley conducted the induction ceremony whereby members will hold office for the next two years. This was followed by dedication by Rev. Garfield Bruce of Lakeshore Drive United Church.

Council members appointed to commissions were: Reeve C. F. McInnis — Commissioner of finance and industry: Deputy Reeve Edwin Jones — Commissioner of street lighting, fire protection by-law enforcement and recreation; Council member Earl Baker — commissioner of streets and — J. R. Bright and E. Bruce Tuttle will share duties as commissioners of water sanitation and health.

Reeve McInnis briefly addressed council stating that he had found his six years on council a rewarding and interesting experience. He urged members of council to become familiar with the Municipal Act as set out by the government. He outlined possible plans and problems to be approached in the near future for the betterment of the village.

He reported that the former council had purchased the street lighting system from the local hydro for $266.58. He explained that the annual capital charge of $2000 had reduced the debt to the place where it was now considered advisable for the town to take over the system and use the money to begin a program of updating street light ing in the old section of the town.

Discussion was conducted regard ing the many items now involved under the heading of "administration" in the annual report presented to property owners and tenants. The clerk suggested that a meeting be held with representatives of the press for the purpose of explaining the hidden costs so that people may actually know what it represents.

Council met at eleven a.m. and conducted preliminary business. Following a recess for luncheon members of council and press made an inspection tour of the Community Centre, the sewage disposal plant, the pumping station and the old High School Building.

Each year sees additions and improvements to the Community Centre building. New netting has been put in place to protect the onlookers — it is heavier and fastened into flat iron holdings. Ceiling heaters have been placed in the dressing rooms and four new rooms one for an office and the others to house equipment have been built over the entry and restaurant.

Town engineer and works superintendant Clare VanAllen led guests through immaculate buildings, primary and secondary sewage treatment plants which were in a condition of spotless cleanliness and gleaming paint that overshoes were automatically removed. Morrisburg is the one village in the area with a secondary treatment plant which automatically takes over in case of failure at plant number one.

The one interesting point at the water pumping station is a rotary, travelling screen that goes down to a depth of 60 feet into the well to keep it clean of weeds and debris. Here machines record and maintain the level at the water tower, and as at the other plants, the cleanliness and efficiency of the operation is a joy to see. Residents interested in seeing how these plants are operated would find it a rewarding experience to have Mr. VanAllen shiw them around. Every report to Council from the Water Resources and the Health unit comments Morrisburg on the calibre of work being done here.

An evening session of council which lasted from 7 to 11 p.m. saw further appointments: Gordon Servage, fire chief and Edward Casselman, deputy fire chief. Prolonged discussion was conducted regarding the Morrisburg and District Community Centre Board whose duty is to recommend to Council suggestions but who, in themselves have no outside power to spend funds, and it was finally decided that the five members of council constitute that board.

Beloved Doctor Passes in Hospital

The community of Prescott and the entire St. Lawrence Valley was saddened Thursday, January 2nd, when it became known that its best loved and venerated physician, Dr. Charles McPherson had died at Brockville General Hospital. He was 92 years of age and cause of death was given as old age.

Charles Franklin McPherson was the oldest practising physician from Queen's University. He had become a local legend in many ways. When he graduated at 20 years of age, he was too young to practise back in 1896, so, until after his 21st birthday he continued his studies in New York. Here he learned practical medicine and despite his 19th century training, he kept abreast of modern trends, and advances.

Since the late 1890s he handled the medical needs of Prescott and the surrounding community all alone until 1914, when Dr. W. J. Taugher, who had graduated from Queen's and married Dr. McPherson's sister, joined him at Prescott. Details of those years were hazy in Dr. McPherson's memory except that he delivered many thousands of babies, and pay was not too good Most of the births occurred at home, and in winter he travelled by horse and cutter, completing many journeys on snowshoes. He bought his first automobile in 1913 just before the arrival of Dr. Taugher, who also served the area faithfully until his death in 1959.

Dr. McPherson was a bachelor. One of his idosyncracies was his dislike of "dressing up". He wore a black suit jacket and vest, often with a workman's flannel shirt under the vest, and he seldom wore an overcoat. He was an honourable gentleman whose patients loved and respected him. He had worked daily until about a month ago, he began slowing up. He could always be reached in the middle of the night. He was personally interested in his patients and there were no telephone diagnoses given. He went out and attended the patient.

Last May he was presented with a commemorative plaque by the Leeds and Grenville Branch of the Ontario Medical Association. In 1962, he received the Community Service Award of the Chamber of Commerce. Also in 1962, he was honoured at a conference of coroners, after completing sixty years as coroner at Prescott. He held the position until 1967, when a new law forced him to vacate the post because of his age.

He was Medical Officer of Health from 1904 to 1955 when that job disappeared with the formation of the United Counties Health Unit.

Dr. Charles McPherson has been described as "a man who, with dedication, fulfilled his duties as a medical practitioner with the faithfulness and humility which had made him a well loved citizen.

Funeral service was conducted on Saturday, January 4th at a capacity-filled St. Paul's United Church, Prescott. Rev. Lloyd Martin conducted the 2 p.m. ceremony. The body was placed in Sandy Hill vault to await spring burial.

The doctor is survived by his sister, Mrs. W. J. Taugher.

Hundreds of messages of sympathy, floral tributes and contributions to various medical funds were received.

Combines to Get Dressing Room

Murray Ball, representing the Morrisburg Combines, et with Council at Wednesday night's meeting, requesting that dressing room no. 3, with its corner storage room, in the Community Centre, be assigned as home quarters for the team. Ever since the opening of the Community Centre and the formation of the highly successful team, room 3 was home base until last year when the Combines played out of Brockville, and the Juniors moved in. Mr. Ball said: "We have a heavy Combines schedule coming up; we need that storage room for sticks, medical kit and other equipment. I wouldn't want anyone to think I am superstitious . . . but we really want room 3".

After that eloquent plea, Councillors Robert Bright and E. Bruce Tuttle were given the go-ahead to build a similar storage apartment in room 2, for use by the junior team.

Edwin Jones, commissioner in charge of the dog catcher department, reported that he had investigated the situation and there appears to be no ome in the vicinity prepared to take the contract. It was decided that, as in the past few years, John Lascelle of Cornwall, be appointed to continue on a monthly basis. The question of Council meeting with Sgt. Boyd and other officials of the O.P.P., regarding the hiring of a by-law officer for the village since the busi- allowed to a by-law, matically continue phone answering service as in former years, at a salary of $40 per month.

A by-law was passed appointing the following members to the Morrisburg and District Recreation Committee: Robert Bright, Bruce Tuttle, John Allison, Judy Ing, Dallas Merkley, Paul Barkley, Willard Steinberg, Fred Devaul, Gordon Mc Gregor and Al Reynolds.

Edwin Jones, commissioner of fire protection, suggested that areas around fire hydrants be cleared and hydrants tested for efficiency of working condition.

A by-law was passed authorizing the borrowing of monies, up to the amount of $60,000.00 if required, until taxes are received.

It was decided that the $10 fee for Council to join the Association of Ontario Municipalities, be paid by the clerk. It was also ascertained that all members of Council will attend the convention, an interesting and educational series of meetings to be held at Hamilton in February. The Clerk was also authorized to forward the $20 fee required for membership in the Association of Mayors and Reeves for the Province of Ontario.

Reeve McInnis expressed interest in seeing Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce become active, chiefly because of the need for promotion of tourism. The clerk was authorized to assure the organization of Council's support and interest.

Last year Morrisburg had decided to forego joining the Eastern Ontario Development Council. After some discussion at this meeting, it was decided that benefit could be gained by membership, providing representatives made a point of being present at meetings.

Cornwall Hospital Will Help Addicts

The Cornwall General Hospital and the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation have recently organized a program for the assistance of patients addicted to either alcohol or drugs. Mr. Peter Barkway, community consultant with the Alcoholic and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Ont. will join the staff of the Social Work Department under the Director of Social Work, Mr. Andre Bergeron. As a member of the Social Work Department, Mr. Barkway will be chiefly responsible for the counselling of alcoholics as referred to the Department by their physicians.

A resident of Cornwall since 1963, Mr. Barkway brings to this program a vast amount of knowledge and experience. After obtaining his B.A. degree from Queen's University, he proceeded to Trinity College, University of Toronto, and there obtained his Bachelor's degree in Sacred Theology. This was soon followed by intensive courses and training seminars in alcoholism and his appointment as Community Consultant to the City of Cornwall by the A and D Research Foundation. Mr. Barkway's interest in the community has been demonstrated by appointments he has held in the past such as President of the Cornwall Youth Residence and Board member of the Children's Aid Society. In addition he was named the Jaycee Outstanding Young Man of the Year in 1967.

In accepting the appointment, Mr. Barkway has this to say, "The Alcoholism Research Foundation regards this project as an interim measure which will lead to an increasing awareness among hospital personnel of the need for providing increased service to addicted patients. If this aim is successful, it is hoped that a need for additional funds for further work in this area can be demonstrated".

Mr. Bergeron added, "With referrals being restricted for the exclusive use of the medical profession, we anticipate a growing cooperation with all those community agencies and personnel already active in providing services to those addicted and their families." He also indicated that Mr. Barkway would continue in his role as Community Consultant for the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation and that the need for this type of program would be totally assessed after a full year of operation.

Before implementation, the program was discussed with the medical staff and the administrator of General Hospital and the Assistant Regional Director of the A and D Foundation.

MORE ABOUT A CEMETERY VAULT

Having read and endorsed Mr. Laurie's suggestion that Morrisburg needs a funeral vault, investigation has brought to light the fact that we have an excellent one in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. It is located on the property line west of the village beyond Casselman's Creek.

From old Highway 2, a long lane extends north to the cemetery and it has been learned that this lane could be kept open for $100 per winter season.

The amount needed to build a new vault was estimated at $10,000. The existing vault opens to the west and for a few hundred dollars that could be changed to face the lane to the east.

For as far back as many of us can remember the Morrisburg vault was the stop-over station for cases awaiting spring burial. Add to that the fact that Mount Pleasant Cemetery is Morrisburg's original burying ground used by all denominations in the area over a century ago. It appears to be eminently suitable for our needs.

FENCEVIEWER GETS SNOWMOBILE RIDE

At the inaugural meeting of Morrisburg council, as required by law, three fence viewers were appointed to office. Former reeve Fred A. Hill, Frank Barkley and Miriam Coligan.

It happened the following day that fence viewer number three met with a memorable and breathtaking experience. Having circumspectly driven her veteran tudor vehicle around the corner of Maud and Victoria Streets, she was flagged down by a strange apparition clad in what appeared to be a bright blue quilted space suit and a red balaclava none other than His Worship, the Reeve.

When Mr. McInnis suggested a trial run on his new blue ski-doo what could a mere fence viewer be expected to do? With some trepidition she seated herself on the contraption and clutching the driver like a drowning porpoise clinging to a life raft they sped across the village park at breakneck speed

It proved to be an unexpectedly exciting and exhilerating trip to be wholeheartedly recommended.

Lands and Forests Weekly Report

OPENING DATES FOR TROUT

by: R. T. Ellah,
Fisheries Management Officer

Now that winter is here to stay and the lakes and rivers are frozen, one's thoughts turn to ice fishing.

With the invention of the snowmobile, winter angling has become a popular sport in Ontario. Many lakes are now accessible that were previously isolated because of deep snow and distance from roads.

Opening and closing dates for trout species in the Counties of Prescott, Glengarry, Russell, Stormont, Carleton, Dundas and Grenville and including the Townships of Lafant, Darling and Pakenham, in Lanark County are as follows:

Brook Trout and Rainbow Trout January 1st to September 30th, 1969.

Lake Trout, February 22nd to September 30th, 1969.

In the remainder of Lanark and Leeds County the Brook and Lake Trout season opens on February 22 and cloes on September 30th, 1969.

Catch and possession limit for the Lake and Rainbow Trout is five (5) per day. Brook Trout is ten (10) pounds plus one (1) fish or fifteen (15) fish whichever is the lesser.

Starting January the 1st, 1969, an angling licence is required for male residents, nineteen years of age or over. The cost of this licence is $3.00 and may be obtained at any licence issuers or Department of Lands and Forests Office.

Lists of waters in the Kemptville District that are planted with Brook and Lake Trout are available at any office of the Department of Lands and Forests in the Kemptville District.

Incidently the Pike and Walleye season is open in the Kemptville District to March 31st, 1969 with the exception of Leeds and Lanark County where the season closes on February 28th, 1969.

However, Lavant, Darling and Pakenham Townships in the County of Lanark are open to March 31st, 1969.

FOREST PROTECTION IN THE WINTER

by: Ken Pride,
Forestry Technician

At the N.C.C. Greenbelt Forest, a forest protection program is required even in the winter time. Since this forest is located close to Ottawa, the largest population centre in the Kemptville District, enlisting the co-operation of the public makes up much of the work.

When the temperature drops below zero, the young trees in plantations become very brittle and are easily broken off. In these plantations a snowmobile is a hazard to the trees and protection is required. This is accomplished by closing young plantations to snowmobile travel and encouraging the use of trails through the more mature stands. Signs are erected to indicate the open and closed areas.

Considerable time is spent every December on "Christmas Tree Patrols". Department of Lands and Forests Personnel patrol the Green belt Forest Area to inform the public that trees are not to be removed from the plantations.

During this period signs are also posted explaining that trees are not to be removed from these plant ations. Sad as it may seem, Christmas trees are no longer available just for the taking from wherever they are growing.

At the present time, a timber operator is cutting elm for pulpwood and sawlogs at the corner of the Lesters Road and the Albion Road. This too is forest protection of sorts. Since there is presently no cure for the Dutch Elm Disease, the best policy is to harvest the infected trees before they die. After the cutting is completed, the remaining brush and slash will be scattered and sprayed to ensure that it will not become a breeding area for the elm bark beetles which spread the disease. In this operation approximately 1,200 cords of pulpwood and 1000,000 fbm of sawlogs will be cut.

Finally, we spend considerable time teaching our staff and some of the local municipal fire department personnel how to fight brush and forest fires.

Yes, forest protection is getting to be a year round business.

ANALYSIS OF DAIRY HERDS DONE BY COMPUTORS

Macdonald College will make use of computor printout equipment in its display at the National Salon of Agriculture and Food Industries, held in Montreal, February 6 to 16, 1969.

In a booth to be located in Concordia Hall at the Place Bonaventure, Macdonald will make use of the Dairy Herd Analysis Service to demonstrate the theme of the show 'Communication'. DHAS involves gathering of information on individual dairy farms, rapidly processing this data, preparing records and calculating recommendations on dairy herd management, and communicates this information back to the farm, within a week after the monthly visit of the DHAS supervisor.

At the Macdonald booth, visitors will see the computor print-out unit preparing the same forms that participating farmers receive. In addition, another unit will be programmed to permit each farm visitor to compare his dairy herd management with herds on the service for such traits as herd size, animal size, average annual production, feed cost in producing 100 lbs. of milk or hours of labour to produce 100 lbs. of milk.

Many people have expressed concern that computors would take over society and that their grograms would require masses of people to conform to pre-determined standards.

SUPER JOE. The hopes of the New York Jets will ride on the right arm of quarterback Joe Namath in Sunday's Super Bowl championship game against the Baltimore Colts. The Colts have been made overwhelming favorites by the bookmakers and a win by the Jets would be the upset of the year in professional sports.—TNS

May Import Farm Machinery From Britain

In a special executive meeting hel don January 3rd, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture decided to widen its avenue of farm machinery imports from Britain. Application forms will be made available to Ontario farmers by which they may order the machinery they wish to purchase through the Federation.

Some monts ago the OFA imported seven tractors from Britain to illustrate the inflated input costs confronting farmers and their cost of production. The seven tractors saved the buying farmers about $20,000.

The executive decision will allow the farmer to order any piece of machinery he wishes if it is available according to his own personal specifications. Each farmer must contact the Federation by special application form stating the machinery he wishes to purchase and its specifications.

This must be accompanied by a non-returnable $10 service fee. This will entitle the farmer to a Federation quote price on the machinery desired if it is available and a special order form. The order form must then be returned with a certified cheque for the purchase.

It is known that a number of farmers wish to purchase combines for their operations. The Federation may save as much or more than 50% per piece of machinery for the farmer through the importation operation.

DEAR DORIS advice from Doris Clark

Is it pity or love?

DEAR DORIS — I wrote to you before saying that my boy friend didn't seem to like kissing and I couldn't understand it. I have now discovered that the reason is because he is not satisfied with kissing. I am 18 and he is 21. We have lengthy discussions on the subject every time we are together.

I know he likes me very much and he says that he doesn't want to lose me, but he feels like he will go out of his mind if he doesn't have the experience of sex with me.

He said that he never used to be like this before but all his friends are always talking about their experiences. It has made him more aware of his desires.

Nervous Wreck

DEAR WRECK — Poor you! Ask him to think a little harder about those desires and give some thought to why they are normal. Also, let him talk to men a few years older about what real love involves.

One protects one's beloved. A man worthy of the name puts his own desires second. And if you begin going all the way, there's no stopping the practice. The pity of it is the shame and self-loathing which all too often follow such indulgence.

Smart girls are still holding out for a marriage licence and a little gold band, fourth finger, left hand.

DEAR DORIS — How can I help my nine-year-old son? He is in grade three and failed last year. He seems to be really slow when it comes to reading.

Also, I'd like to mention that he is taking both French and English.

Worried

DEAR WORRIED — There are so many reasons for slow reading! Even the most basic ones sometimes escape us, like poor eyesight or hearing. It may be he is just not concentrating. Then there is the reversal condition, in which a child actually sees things backwards and has to get special help in readjusting. Want my leaflet about this?

There may be brain damage, tensions created at home, or low mental age. There may be too much confusion in two languages.

Check with doctor and teacher first. Never punish your boy; encourage him with interesting, easily read stories in good-sized print. I can recommend suitable books and further resources if what I have suggested is not enough.

DEAR DORIS — My mother, who has turned 70, now has the attitude that she has lived her "three score and 10" and nobody needs her anymore. She just sits. What can I do to stir her up?

Puzzled Daughter

DEAR PUZZLED — Your mother hasn't heard that medical science has stretched out the traditional life span. People are now livng to 80, 90 and even 100 years of age, quite frequently. And enjoying it.

A prominent specialist in aging suggests the following:

1. Ward off the aches and pains with a regular check-up.
2. Eat more proteins, vitamins, fluids; fewer fats and calories.
3. Get a good daily walk. Touch toes 10 times a day (doctor permitting).
4. Rest; include two lay-me-downs during the day.
5. Keep learning something; keep into things.
6. Keep spruced up.

DEAR DORIS — My girl friend and I are both 14. We feel there is no harm in riding to school with a certain respectable boy that we both admire.

However, both our parents disapprove strongly. Do you feel that one's reputation can be harmed by just riding to school?

Not Flirts

DEAR NOT FLIRTS — There's more to it than that. To have a licence your respectable boy has to be considerably older than you, and a youthful driver, at that. Insurance rates for teen-age drivers would justify some concern for your safety.

They may also see this shuttle service as the first step to dating; another concern for girls 14.

Add the fact that a regular walk is a prized health habit! And don't let yourself in for a daily date which might later prove embarrassing.

SNOWMOBILERS KILLED ON C.N. RIGHT OF WAY

Two snowmobile drivers were kill ed and six others injured more or less seriously during the last few weeks, in the St. Lawrence Region, while they were driving on Canadian National's right-of-way. The trains involved also sustained damages.

The altogether too popular practice of driving snowmobiles on the railway right-of-way is an extreme ly dangerous one; the driver can not hear an approaching train because of the noise of his motor and particularly if his machine is riding between the tracks he cannot get out of the way in time to avoid an accident.

The Railway Act makes it an offense to trespass on the Railway right-of-way; prosecution can lead to fines of up to $100.00.

If personal risks and the possibility of a fine are not sufficient cause to convince snowmobile drivers that they must not ride their machines on the railway right-of-way, they are urged to consider the fact that their foolhardiness might also cause derailments and involve the loss of many lives.

Let's hear your views

Nothing like a good dose of the 'flu to make you feel like turning out a column of deathless prose. I feel like a fighter on the ropes in the fourteenth round with the crowd yelling to the other guy, "Kill him! Kill him!"

So perhaps you'll forgive if we don't sparkle too brilliantly today, and just clear up some items this week, then begin the New Year with a fresh slate and a sound constitution.

We had a very merry Christmas, thank you. But an insidious old custom is being revived. No less than three different groups of carollers appeared at the door, and had to be suitably entertained. By the time the last gang had left, we were well into Christmas morning, among other things.

It's a charming old tradition, but I hope it doesn't spread too far. If it does, next Christmas Eve I think I'll just call the cops and have the carollers charged with disturbing the peace. It would be a lot cheaper.

For once, everything fitted when the gifts were opened. See me in my new off-white turtleneck sweater and Pierre Trudeau will look like somebody from Hayfork Centre.

Kim, with her usual exquisite sense of timing, almost turned Boxing-Day into a boxing match when she announced she'd like to go to Israel and work on a kibbutz for a year, after finshing high school. So a couple of years from now, I may be a Jewish grandfather. That would be a switch.

Church bells and a blazing log fire and jolly evening with old friends brought in the New Year on a pleasant note. Not for me the $30-a-couple New Year's Eve in a nightclub with a lot of idiots in paper hats, throwing streamers, blowing their little horns and kissing everyone in sight.

Speaking of bells, Lt. Col. John McEwing of Spokane, Wash., retired, has a bell in the belfrey which is bothering him. Describing himself in a letter as a "sentimental nut," he says he has bought the bell from the little red schoolhouse he attended as a boy, near Port Elgin, Ontario.

That bell has many memo-es for him. He planned to present it, no strings attached, to the new consolidated school which has replaced the little one-room country schools, as a symbol of all of them, those humble institutions where many a great man got his start.

The Colonel flew east and talked to the architect responsible. He was enthusiastic. But the trustees stalled. They were going out of office at the end of the year, and "couldn't make up their minds" about having something as old-fashioned as an 1875 school bell on the premises.

To me, it seems an excellent idea, and I hope the new board will be receptive to the Colonel's idea. We talk a lot about Canadiana, and preserving our heritage. Why sell it to the scrap dealers?

This brings us in a roundabout way to the new school system in Ontario, which promises to be interesting. The old local school boards, chosen in their own communities, are being scrapped, and county boards, elected, have already replaced them.

Theoretically, the idea is a good one. It should give equality of educational opportunity to all children. That's the purpose. In the bad old days, before 1969, the fatter centres got the best facilities and often the best teachers, while the leaner ones had to struggle along with what they could afford.

I hope it works. But I have reservations. Many a time have I seen something made bigger, so that it would be more efficient and cheaper to run. Usually, the opposite occurs. Expenses increase and efficiency decreases, because of sheer size.

Parkinson's Law takes over. Empire-building begins. Already hundreds of new administrative jobs have been created for the new system. Under it, board members will receive a stipend, and no doubt, expenses. The old boards worked for nothing. Paper-work will double, then triple, and so on.

Hope I'm wrong. It will take a couple of years to tell. And by that time, the system may be so rigid that changing it will be like getting an ele to stop standing on yo Any comments?

Electric heating offers so many advantages, you might easily expect it to be expensive. Surprise. Electric heating is clean and quiet, yet comparable in cost to any automatic heating system. That's why people who live in electrically-heated homes aren't necessarily wealthy. Just comfortable.

INTERNATIONAL BODY REGULATES GREAT LAKES

Who regulates Lake St. Lawrence flows and Lake Ontario levels?

Inquiries received by Ontario Hydro indicate confusion about which agency controls these important international bodies of water.

Hydro said that between last July and late fal the level of Lake St. Lawrence fell several feet and consequently a considerable amount of shoreline was exposed. Questions were asked by property-holders and others who used the lake for recreational purposes.

Lake St. Lawrence, which was cre ated by enlarging St. Lawrence river channels, releases water from Lake Ontario. Since water flows downhill, an increase of a few feet in the slope between Kingston on Lake Ontario and the Moses-Saunders power dam can mean a sizeable speedup in the amount of water passing down the channel to Montreal.

For example, in November the slope was about five feet, compared with a slope of three and a half feet in July. As a result the average November flow was 265,000 cubic feet per second through the dam compared with July's average of 245,000 cfs.

If the flow were to be increased, which is considered possible, the slope would increase from its present five feet and the level of Lake St. Lawrence would be correspondingly lower.

While Ontario Hydro and the Power Authority of the State of New York facilities are used for control, they are only two of a number of voices on a board representing all users which determines the flow. This is the International St. Lawrence River Board of Control which regulates the river for the International Joint Commission.

The board represents the Canadian and United States federal governments, Ontario, Quebec and New York State. It takes into consideration the water needs of all users, determines the appropriate flow each week in the light of prevailing conditions and advises the respective governments.

The method of advice is that each week a telegram is received by Ontario Hydro from the federal Minister of Transport, or his authorized representative, following advice from the Board, advising Ontario Hydro of the authorized flow to be released, Ontario Hydro follows this advice.

An official of Hydro said, "The details of the plan are much too complex to spell out briefly but, essentially, increased supplies (water) to Lake Ontario will require an increased outflow (through the power dam) and, due to the accompanying increase in slope, a lower level will prevail on Lake St. Lawrence and vice versa.'

Explaining the amount of variation that can be expected in Lake St. Lawrence levels the Hydro official said, "Over a period of 50 years or more the extremes of variation caused by regulations may reach six feet, exposing or submerging perhaps 100 to 200 feet of shore line depending on the slope. Westwards from the power dam, the variation diminishes, but it is still about five feet at Lake Ontario.

"During the year, but mostly in spring and fall, variations which last for several days may occur due to the effects of wind and barometric pressure over Lake Ontario These phenomena may raise or lower the level at Kingston by creating an upward surge or by depressing the surface and these effects are passed down the river to Lake St. Lawrence.

"Variations of more than two feet have occurred due to such weather influences.

"Daily variations of less than one foot in the level occur because of power operations. During the night the electrical load is reduced and so is the flow. This causes the level in Lake St. Lawrence to rise. During the day this flow is higher and the level is a bit lower".

- Curling News -

The season is well under way at the Morrisburg Curling Club. The increased membership has been very encouraging. The opening draw in the ladies 'Day Curlers' was won by C. Robertson's team with M. Ing at 3rd, A. Patterson 2nd, and L. Brunt. Runner-up teams was skipped by B. Hess, with E. Brais, E. VanAllen and D. Myers.

The 'Night Curlers' first competition was won by Ethel Crober's team with J. McGillis as 3rd, J. Organ 2nd and J. Conlin, lead. The second highest honours went to Ruth Eamon and her team of E. MacDonald, E. Allison, and K. Weegar.

In the men's 'Turkey Draw' the Big Birds ewnt to Howie Eamon's team with A. Reynolds, H. Fairbairn, and C. Phoenix. Little Birds were won by Ed Casselman, helped by S. Perry, R. O'Brien and W. Shearing.

Under way in the men's division is the keen competition for the coveted 'Dodge Cup' at one time the most prized trophy in the Club. The Ladies are now competing for the Casselman and Edgerton Trophies.

Coming events at the Curling Club include a dance on Saturday, January 11th and a local mixed Bonspiel and Pt-Luck supper on Saturday, January 18th.

The lake levels are measured in terms of feet above sea level. Over a period of years the height above sea level of Lake St. Lawrence at the power dam could reach a maximum of 244 feet with a minimum of 235 feet — a variation of nine feet.

At Prescott the maximum level could reach 236 feet and a minimum 240 feet, with a possible extreme variation of six feet.

THE DUGOUT

"The Dugout" Morrisburg's thrift shop is located in the former Children's Aid offices. During the holiday season and the exereme cold weather many articles have been distributed and now replacements of every type will be appreciated. There is a demand for bedding and overshoes — as well as cooking utensils and dishes. Does anyone have an ordinary teakettle- The day that request was made, the clerk in charge of the operation said, "I think I have one. I have been married for over thirty years and I know one was included in my shower gifts" — But an extensive search failed to find the teakettle.

The Thrift Shop is sponsored by the Seaway District Community Service group, — an organization that sponsored successful summer camps for children last year at Dixons Corners and at Glen Becker.

The Dugout is open every Saturday and Friday afternoon from two o'clock and every Friday evening from seven to nine. Prices of all articles are nominal.

MARCH OF DIMES EXPLAINS ITS PURPOSE

A new leaflet issued by the Rehabilitation Foundation for the Disabled is "a concise expression of the reasons we should support the March of Dimes campaign this month", according to Mrs. Jean Caine, Chief Marching Mother for Ontario. The campaign runs thru the month of January and closes with a house-to-house blitz on Monday, January 27th.

Entitled "Who does it Help?" the leaflet details the Foundation's work in assessment, workshops, homebound work, clinics, and research. It states that, in brief, "we help disable adults in this province".

The Foundation, which conducts the March of Dimes campaign in some 430 communities throughout the province, (it is also a member of 29 United Appeals and does not campaign in those areas), is the principal agency in Ontario for assessing the capabilities of the handicapped. "Even the Provincial Government uses our services for this purpose", it is stated. During 1968, some 1,500 people were assessed.

Ten workshops are operated in different parts of the province: at Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie, Timmins, Sudbury, Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto, St. Catherines, Hamilton and Kitchener. An eleventh is about to be opened in Windsor. In these workshops, disabled people pork under observation and graduate to competitive employment outside.

Homebound work is provided, whenever possible, for people whose efficiency is less than 50 per cent of normal. Clinics are operated in remote areas so that people with orthopaedic problems will not have to travel to the large centres. And research is conducted to learn more about common disabling conditions and to find better methods of diagnosis and treatment.

"The work supported by March of Dimes dollars is really indispensable", said Mrs. Caine. "I'm sure everyone will want to play a part on behalf of disabled adults. They want to be independent, but they need a boost from us".

DID YOU KEEP CHRISTMAS?

Were you willing to forget what you have done for other people and remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you and think of what you owe the world; to put your rights in the background, your duties in the middle distance and your chances to do a little more than your duty in the foreground; to see that your fellowmen are just as real as you and to try to look behind their faces to see their hearts; to know that probably the only good reason for your existence i nsot what you are going to get out of life but what you are going to give to life . . . were you willing to do these things for a day??? — Then you kept Christmas.

And if you kept Christmas for a day, why not always??? (A little thought for you to carry with you through 1969).

BROOD SOWS, HAY LOST IN BLAZE

A barn used for hay storage and as stabling for livestock on the Ivain Tinkess farm between Osnabruck Centre and Lunenburg, burned last Thursday. The structure was a total loss.

Mr. Tinkess was working in a shed, after using his tractor to plow the driveway which had been blocked by drifting snow. While adjusting the machine he saw what he thought at first to be drifting snow.

It soon became apparent that the barn was smoking, the fire being in the part of it used for storing hay. Strenuous efforts to get animals out of the barn were only partly successful. Two steers and a heifer were removed. Four broood sows and a young one were either lost or had to be destroyed.

Ingleside fire department responded to the call for assistance, but was able to do comparatively little. The wooden building was largely in flames by the time the fire truck could reach the scene. No estimate of the loss was immediately available. The building, a season's feed, some farm equipment and livestock were included in the loss.

CAN POLLUTION CAUSE CHILDREN'S CANCER?

Chemicals which pollute the air we breathe, the water we drink, and the food we eat are posing a threat of cancer and of dangerous genetic mutations, Dr. S. S. Epstein warned at the recent 21st birthday of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation.

He said that society must decide how much danger it is willing to accept ,and ballance the benefits which food additives. pesticides, etc., offer to modern society against the hazards these chemicals create.

The threats due to pollution include poisoning, deformation of the embryo, cancer and genetic damage. "Many human cancers are due to chemical pollutants and hence are ultimately preventable. Also, genetic effects of chemical pollutants are probably of greater importance than the more familiar hazards of X-Rays", said Dr. Epstein, who is chief of the Laboratories of Environmental Toxicology and Carcinogenesis at the Children's Cancer Research Foundation.

"With increasing urbanization and industrialization of modern society, our environment has become progressively contaminated with a complex array of chemical pollutants which pose a wide range of potential hazards".

"The major categories of these chemicals are represented by pollutants of air, particularly with products of fuel combustion or on a more personal level with tobacco smoke pollutants of water, with agricultural or industrial effluents; and pollutants of food, with additives, pesticides, or naturally- occurring plant or fungal poisons. Additional, but more restricted. types of exposure can occur occupationally, from contamination with industrial chemicals, and therapeutically, particularly from the widespread use of certain drugs.

"As many of these chemicals, such as certain food additives or pesticides, play a necessary role in modern life, the recognition and measurement of the various hazards they pose and the definition of the degree of acceptability of these hazards is of obvious practical importance".

Soil and Crop Conference

The 1969 Soil and Crop Improvement Conference will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, January 15th and 16th at the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology, Kemptville, Ontario. This occasion will be the 21st annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Associations and will attract over 300 agriculturalists, including, delegates, farmers, agribusiness people and department of Agriculture personnel, from the 11 Eastern Counties of Ontario.

The theme of the Conference this year is "Corn: Managing your Marketing". This theme was established due to the increase in interest of the corn crop — both for silage and for grain. Production practices in growing corn have advanced rapidly in recent years. Eastern Ontario corn growers are now concerned about what they can do with tis crop, once it is mature in the fall. The conference programme suggests choices available to a corn grower and has speak ers experienced in the uses of the corn crop who will address the conference.

Other topics covered during the conference are "Credit for farm operations", "The Price of and Marketing of Corn", as well as "Custom harvesting of the Corn Crop". a panel discussion on each afternoon will allow audience participation ad certanly attract interest i nthe programme.

A further highlight of the conference will be the presentation of the H. Harris McNish Award on the afternoon of the second day. This award is given annually to the farmer giving most outstanding leadership i nEastern Ontario Agriculture.

Closed circuit TV will be used to facilitate easier communication between the speakers and the large audience.

Conference programmes will be available in advance of the conference from each county Agricultural Representative.

A letter to Joe Namath

Dear Joe Namath:

Well Joe, you and your guys made it. I know how happy you must be — Super Joe and his Super Jets in the Super Bowl — 15,000 big ones for the winning team.

But honestly Joe, don't you wish your enemy was New Orleans or Philadelphia? I'll bet ya a bundle Joe that if you and I sat down and had a private chat about the game, and you voiced your true feelings, your remarks would go something like this: "We'll (the Jets) need all the breaks and have to play above our heads to even make it close. Baltimore is just too strong strong for our team. Baltimore is probably the finest balanced team in the history of professional football.

"When a player the calibre of Johnny Unitas is your backup quarterback, you must have a powerhouse. And, in four games this year, the Colts didn't allow a single point.

"Yes, I would have to agree, we don't have any hope of winning."

But I realize you can't make a public statement of that nature. Joe, I realize it just wouldn't be the best for team morale. It's too bad that you must give your views to the press in a pro-New York vein.

But don't worry Joe, they'll print them in sports pages across North America. They'll write that you said the Jets have an excellent chance of winning the game. Gee, come to think of it maybe you shouldn't say anything. Why make a monkey out of yourself?

Hey, I've got a great idea! Listen Joe, when the scribes ask for your views on the game, just use that old dodge of "no comment." Boy, will it worry everybody.

And that way nobody will know what to write or say, and that'll get you off the hook. No sense saying that Baltimore has an impregnable defence, 'cause we all know that. You won't cause any news bulletins by reporting that you feel the Colts' offence is explosive.

Just blink your baby blue eyes, run your fingers through your long black hair and offer nothing but your famous Hollywood smile. Diversion, man, diversion.

Of course you're going to have to be careful about what you say when questioned about your own team.

Just give them the usual stuff about what a great bunch of fellas are on the Jets and what a fine coaching staff . . . er, well maybe you'd better not dwell on the coaching staff angle too long, Joe. Somebody might ask you about your feelings toward your head coach, Weeb Ewbank. Ya know what I mean, don't ya pal?

You and I know that it isn't any secret about your feelings for dear old Weeb. Oh, by the way, here's another tip for you. Please old buddy, don't become embroiled in any lengthy discussions with members of the press off the field. You know that you can become somewhat argumentive with the press, and jeez, Joe, it might turn out to be a Baltimore reporter. Just think about what the consequences might be if that was the case.

Anyway Joe, the game will soon be over. Just a few more days and you can tour the country inspecting your drive-in restaurant chain. Now isn't that something to look forward to?

I guess you're wondering why I haven't given you much advice on what to do in the game against Baltimore. Well, I've tried to make that point clear, but if you feel you need a little encouragement, here's an idea.

The first time the Jets receive the ball, call a quarterback sneak . . . and after you've been smashed to the ground don't get up . . . the people will understand . . . we all know that your knees aren't properly hinged and injuries do happen.

I sure hope you take my advice pal. I'm going to close now and bet this year's paycheque on the Colts. Talk to ya later.

During 1968, Ontario Hydro was launched into the largest expansion program in its history at an unprecedented cost of $2 billion. In the next 10 years, nine power stations, seven of which are under construction, will more than double the generating capacity of Hydro's existing 73 stations. Because Ontario has ample supplies of uranium, but no coal, nuclear generation is preferred economically. End shields (lower right) and other reactor parts were delivered to Pickering, a nuclear power station east of Toronto. Even though most fuel must be imported, operating flexibility requires coal-fired stations. A giant bucket wheel (centre) provides the "teeth" of a computerized conveyor system which will deliver up to 2000 tons of coal an hour at the two-million-kilowatt Lambton station, near Sarnia. Aubrey Falls (lower left), a hydraulic plant on the Mississagi River, begins operation in 1969. During 1968, Hydro pioneered a technique of tightening live transmission lines to enable them to carry more power (upper right). The procedure saved building a new line. The year's prize for ingenuity, however, goes to two Hydro employees who used a mouse with a string attached to its tail to help thread a cable through an inaccessible duct at Douglas Point nuclear station.
