Four Young Men Have Narrow Escape

Friday evening about ten-thirty, four young men, Billy Marcellus, Ronnie McLean, Bill Bailey and Lorne Marcellus, returning from Williamsburg in a truck, were all more or less injured when the truck crashed into the ditch coming through Dunbar. It is said the accident was caused when a horse drawn vehicle pulled out from a Dunbar store just ahead of the truck. The brakes are said to have been applied but the truck was too close to the other rig to avoid a collision and the driver of the truck took to the ditch rather than hit it. Ronnie McLean was the most severely injured with an arm believed at first to be broken and other cuts and bruises. Lorne Marcellus had the thumb of his right hand dislocated and his left leg bruised. Bailey and Billy Marcellus were bruised and cut but not seriously injured. The front part of the truck was a complete wreck.

BOWLERS WIN ANOTHER ROUND IN GOVERNOR GENERALS

Monday night at Prescott Chesterville lawn bowlers in the Governor General's competition playing against two rinks from Kingston won the round by one shot. Eric Casselman's rink won their game four up after being down 21 to 6 at the eleventh end, winning out 28-24. Dr. Hutt's rink after a hard battle all the way dropped the game by three points.

CHRISTIANS MUST BE CLEAN

Dundas-Grenville W.M.S. Rally and mid-summer executive were held at Merrickville on August 2nd. Rev. A. R. and Mrs. Graham, who have recently returned from India gave most interesting addresses on their work as missionaries. Mr. Graham spoke twice devoting one hour to his work and the other to showing what British government has done for India, the large extent to which British India is now self-governing and that the great hindrance to complete self-government is lack of unity within the country. Mrs. Graham, dressed in a sari of scarlet and gold, told of her work as a nurse, teaching simple home remedies, and that a Christian must be clean.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Entertains Dunbar Group

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church, Chesterville, held their July meeting at the home of Mrs. J.A. Munro. The members gathered on the porch and enjoyed the breezes and the wonderful out-of-doors. The W.M.S. and Girls' Group of Dunbar were guests of the Chesterville Auxiliary.

The programme opened with the Apostles Creed in unison followed by the singing of the 19th Psalm and the Lord's Prayer. The Scripture lesson was taken from Eph. 6 chap., 10-17 verses.

Minutes of the June meeting held at the home of Mrs. Fyke were read and approved. The Roll Call was answered by each member reading 2 lines of hymn 295. Then followed the Roll Call for the Welcome and Welfare Department and Mrs. Munro took the Glad Tidings Prayer.

Words of welcome were then spoken by the president to the Dunbar guests.

A very splendid reading was then given by Miss Berneyce Dillabough entitled "Do Missions Pay?". The closing lines were, "Yes, missions pay I'll take more stock. Through Life Eternal missions pay."

Most of the business was held over until the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. C. T. McIntosh.

One of Edgar Guest's poems was read by the president, "Imperishable" and another poem, "The Eternal God is on His Throne" by Lewis Milligan.

A very grand and original paper composed by Mrs. Chas. Marselis, taken from St. Matt. 10, verse 42, was read by Mrs. D. A. Dillabough and greatly enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Dillabough brought greetings from the W.M.S. and Girls of Dunbar. The very interesting meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the War hymn composed by Mrs. (Rev.) Gibson; National Anthem and prayer by Miss Jamieson for our glorious British Empire, the King and United Nations, our sons and daughters in the struggle and their families.

Mrs. J. A. and Mrs. Dwaine Munro served a most dainty and delicious lunch which was greatly appreciated by all. Mrs. C. T. McIntosh and Mrs. Rae voiced the thanks of the society to the Mesdames Munro.

SERIOUSLY INJURED WHILE LOADING GRAIN

Saturday last John Brooks of the Ninth, when loading grain on a wagon in the field fell from the load while the load was in motion, a wheel passing across his neck and jaw. His neck was not broken but his jaw was fractured. He was taken to Ottawa Civic hospital in Harry Henderson's ambulance.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN AND CROP AT WINCHESTER SPRINGS

Yesterday afternoon during threshing operations at the farm of Dwain McIntosh at Winchester Springs, fire starting in the barns, destroyed the hay and grain which was then in the barn. Just how the fire started is not known.

FIRE IN FIELDS SUNDAY CAUSES EXCITEMENT

The quiet of Sunday afternoon was broken by the fire alarm when a call was received from down the Finch road for assistance at the farms of Lloyd McMillan and Thos. Foley. Fire had started from some unknown cause in the dry grass in an uncultivated field and was spreading so quickly that adjacent grain fields were in danger. As the fire could not be fought for lack of water a call was made for Winchester brigade and their chemical engine, which quickly responded. The actual damage did not amount to a great deal.

Harold Munro, Nation Valley Saves Drowning Girl

A week ago last Sunday when Harold T. Munro of Nation Valley, was with a party picnicing at the Lighthouse along the Rideau river saved the life of a girl 18 or 20 years of age. Harold Munro was swimming at the time but did not belong to the party of which the young lady was one. She apparently could not swim very well and got beyond her depth and went into a deep hole. Her own companions did not see her but Munro noticed she was in difficulty. She was going down for the third time when Munro reached her and brought her safely to the bank. She was not much the worse for her experience but considerably flustered when she found herself on solid ground that she faded away without thanking her rescuer. Her name was not learned.

NICELY PRINTED GOLD MINES

"Come on in, the water's fine," seems to be the rallying cry of mining promoters and brokers, not to say prospectors in Ontario these days. There was probably never a time when there was so much feverish activity in respect to mining and tales of promising prospects and the results of diamond drilling suffice to keep the interest alive. This speculative excitement is being carried on in the face of the fact that the report of the half-yearly gold production in Ontario indicates a considerable recession in tonnage milled and value of bullion produced. During the first six months of 1944 the gold mines treated 3,478,390 tons of ore resulting in a recovery of 865,724 ounces of gold, 145,330 ounces of silver, valued at $33,387,253. The figures for the comparable period of 1943 were: tons milled 4,293,787, ounces of gold 1,106,075, ounces of silver 159,909, for a value of $42,-646,953. This represents a decrease of 18.9 percent in tonnage handled, 21.7 per cent in gold recovered, 9 percent in silver recovered, and 21.7 percent in value. These figures indicate that production value for the year 1944 will be the lowest since 1934, at the time when the price of gold was pegged at $35 per ounce, and the gold output in ounces may well be a new low record since 1930. In the field of new surface development and exploration, however, there has rarely been recorded such activity in the annals of the Ontario mining industry. The search for gold is spreading across the Province, and there are indications that this activity, which was first noticed last fall, shows no sign of decreasing. The strikes in the Yellowknife area have caused many adventurers to seek the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Distant fields look green, but even now based on manpower shortage there are intimations that development work on the new discoveries will not keep pace with the stock selling industry. Fortune, truly a rich man's magazine, has been investigating the mining situation in Canada and has reached the conclusion that gold mines are not a recommended investment for widows, orphans, young husbands, or the man with a salary. Toronto is a propaganda centre of the gold mining market and Fortune says brokers are free to admit that the market is active for the same reason that the horse racing business is good. The people have money and like the horse racing fans are willing to risk it on long shot, and experts claim that the odds against picking a winner that will eventually produce gold is at least 100 to 1.

PLANE STOW AWAY SENT HOME

Elderly men who can recall the days when as youths they entertained visions of forsaking the home fold and running away to sea will sympathize with the frustration of the Midland boy who was foiled in an attempt to stow away in a giant Liberator bomber at Montreal with a view to reaching Britain and entering the fighting services. Norman May is but 15 years of age, and for the past two years has been shipping out of lake boats. His ambition was to get into the fighting service as all the other male members of his family are in the front ranks. With his spirit, if the war lasts much longer undoubtedly Norman will be found in the ranks of the voluntary soldiers confronting the Nazis in battle. In the meantime he has consented to return home and take matters easy until he is old enough for acceptance in the Merchant Navy. The incident serves to show that it is planes and not ships that appeal to youth today. It is not like the old time longing depicted by the poet:

"The shabby tramp that like a wedge
Is hammered through the seas,
The little brown clad brigantine
That traps the lightest breeze,
I would be content to sail
On any one of these.
Around the world which is so full of wonders."

HOLIDAYS AND STRIKES

It may be the weather or the plethora of jobs but for some time past workers in many branches of industry have exhibited a very militant attitude not only in regard to hours of work and pay but other prerogatives that hardly entered into the situation some years ago. The late J. Cameron, editor of the Hamilton Spectator, once wrote that in the very warm weather the employer goes to the seaside and the employee goes on strike and they both have a holiday. In some branches of industry it doesn't seem to require much persuasion to induce men to go on strike. To meet prevailing conditions the Ontario Labor Relations Board has ruled that the standard working week for employees in the hotel industry, restaurant industry and in retail stores shall be 48 hours beginning September 1st. In the hotel industry the maximum work week is exclusive of meal time periods and overtime hours of work are permitted as required, subject to agreement between employers and employees "as long as the present labor crisis exists and the demands of war remain acute. In retail stores, beginning September 1, under the 48 hour week, "daily working hours may be arranged by an employer with his employees to exceed eight hours on a specified day or days but the remaining day or days of the work week shall be reduced by the number of hours worked in excess of eight in any day or days" so that an employee shall not work more than 48 hours a week. Overtime work is not to exceed 120 hours during a calendar year. It is ruled that as well as working the standard 48 hour week, restaurant employees must be on the premises nine hours where meals are served to them. In view of the present labor crisis, overtime work is permitted "in ration per calendar year of 100 hours for the period from September 1, 1944, to Dec. 1, 1944," this extension of overtime to be reviewed by the board before the end of this year.

UTILITY FURNITURE FOR THREE FOR $175

Mr. Hugh Dalton, President of the Board of Trade, London, says he can provide utility furniture for three people, exclusive of carpets and crockery, for about $175. Furniture includes a double bed, a single bed, a dresser with mirror, a dining table, two armchairs and six small chairs. These furnishing would cost about $600 in nonutility furniture, if they could be obtained at all in wartime. People who qualify for utility furniture have first call on the supplies of utility sheets, price-controlled blankets and utility mattresses. This is arranged by means of "priority dockets." The people who can apply for these dockets are people whose homes have been bombed; people setting up house because they have young children or are expecting a child; couples married on or after September 1st, 1939; couples who propose to marry within three months; and people who need a bed for a growing child. People whose bedding has been destroyed by bombing may also apply for dockets, even if they have not lost their furniture. These goods are not rationed. Only about one quarter of the total production of bedding will be reserved for docket holders; the greater part will be sold in the shops in the ordinary way to the general public.

UNUSUAL YEAR FOR DAMAGE BY WIND AND HAIL

Reports reaching the Ontario Department of Agriculture from various parts of the Province indicate that this has been an unusual year for the large amount of damage done by storms, wind and hail up to the present time. These reports have been confirmed by the personal observation of the Hon. T.L. Kennedy Minister of Agriculture, while in Northern Ontario recently and while on visits to other parts of the Province. Commenting on this, the Minister stated that many thousands of dollars of damage has been done to grain and other crops by severe hail storms and that in some sections of the Province windstorms have also caused considerable loss to farmers.

"It is very unusual," said the Minister, "to find hail and wind damage so widespread at this time of the year. I saw a great deal of damage in the New Liskeard and Englehart districts and in other parts of the North, and down here in old Ontario there are several sections that have been badly hit. So I would say that this has been a most unusual year in respect to losses incurred by our farmers because of wind and hail storms."

SMALL ARMS AMMUNITION TO BE AVAILABLE

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced that owing to the need for small arms ammunition by farmers, trappers and other essential users, there will be only a very small amount of ammunition for sportsmen and that will not be available before Sptember 1st. Sales will be by permit only. Details regarding the limit for the individual purchaser will be announced prior to the hunting season. Permits will not be issued before August 15.

DON'T FORGET WATER FOR WORKING HORSE

Most farmers know that it is not a good idea to let a horse fill up with water after eating. But few horses if given a good drink before their meal will drink much afterward.

When horses are being worked in the field it is an advantage to have some water during the morning and afternoon. It is better for both their health and usefulness.

No elaborate set-up is required to give a horse a drink during the day's work. Some farmers merely hitch their team to a stone boat place a half barrel of water on it, and haul this to a shady place in the field. At noon when the remainder of the water has become warm, they haul the drag back to the barnyard and refill the barrel with fresh water. The horses have to be driven back to the barn at noon anyway and it takes only a moment to hitch them to the stoneboat and fill the barrel with water. Then, too, if the farmer happens to be feeling a bit tired he can hop on the boat for a free ride.

But the main advantage of toting water on a stoneboat or on anything that can be drawn is that a farmer can then refresh his horses in the very place they most appreciate a drink, in the field.

Right Gender.

A young ensign with a reputation as a Lothario tried to refuse when he was invited to a charity affair. He gave the excuse that he was working on something important.

"Oh, in that case, just bring your work along with you," the hostess suggested. "W'd love to have her, too."

MEAT RATIONING UNLIKELY THIS YEAR

According to a statement issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board there is little chance of meat rationing being resumed in Canada this year. Only unforseen changes in supply and demand would bring about rationing, although the conditions which prevailed in May, 1943, still exist. Two main reasons which brought about meat rationing were that it was necessary to make as large a meat supply as possible available for shipment overseas and also to ensure the equal distribution of supplies remaining in Canada. These things are both being accomplished now without rationing.

Shoot It

A young English naval officer home on leave was discussing arrangements for his wedding.

Mother, who was anxious to make a good show, exclaimed:

"Tom, don't forget when the cake is cut you must help the bride to cut it with your sword."

"But," said Tom, "I haven't a sword—only a revolver."

"Well," said father, "I can't see naught else for it lad. Tha'll ha' to shoot it!"

Wear it on YOUR arm!

DOMESTIC INCIDENT

Henry and his bride Isabelle, were so painfully polite to each other when they called on a friend the other evening that their host, a married man of several years' standing, immediately diagnosed their manners as symptoms of a domestic rift. Tactful questioning revealed the trouble.

It seems that Isabelle had decided that as it was a fine Saturday afternoon, it was an excellent time to wash the windows. Henry had planned to play golf, but they compromised on window-washing as giving him an equivalent amount of fresh air and exercise, in more elevating company than he would have at the club. That was settled amicably enough, and it was agreed that a fair division of work would be for Henry to wash the outsides of the windows while Isabelle did the insides.

All might have been well, had they not elected to wash the same windows at the same time. With each pane of glass an argument ensued. Isabelle, looking towards the light, could see clearly the spots that Henry was missing, but the closed windows made communication difficult. From time to time her criticisms were unjustified for the spot turned out to be on her side of the glass. On such occasions Henry's attempts to express "I told you so" in pantomime, while maintaining his balance on a shaky ladder, reached a high level of dramatic art, greatly appreciated by the neighbors, but not by Isabelle.

Luckily, after they told the story, they both began to see that it had an amusing side, and complete reconciliation was achieved before the evening was over. Incidentally, Henry has permission to play golf next Saturday.

Mr. Cederic McLeod of Smiths Falls visited his home here at the week-end.

How It Started

A writer says it is not known who invented the game of golf. One theory is that it was a Scottish woman who objected to her husband drinking at home.

Electric Table Lamp Presented to Mrs. McPherson

At a recent meeting of Beckstead Red Cross Unit at Mahlon Beckstead's home, Mrs. Morley McPherson of Elma, (formerly of Beckstead) was pleasantly surprised. At the close of the business Mrs. McPherson was presented with a beautiful electric table lamp and a towel set and the following address:

July 26, 1944.

Dear Mrs. McPherson: It is with mixed feelings that we have met this evening. Sorry that there has gone from our midst one who has proven herself such a valued worker in our Red Cross Unit by knitting, sewing or helping in any way to make our work a success. Happy that you have not gone so far but that you can meet with us, like tonight, from time to time, that we can renew old acquaintances.

We could not let you go, without trying to show you in some small way, the gratitude we feel for your untiring efforts. We ask you to accept these gifts as a reminder of your friends in this community, who wish you many happy years in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Red Cross: Mrs. Frank Whittaker, Mrs. Burton Beckstead.

Although completely taken by surprise Mrs. McPherson responded in a few well chosen words of thanks and assured all present of a cordial welcome at her new home at Elma. All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," after which a dainty lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed by all.

It Doesn't Leave a Lot for the Civilian

WHEN war demands have been filled . . . when invasion gasoline, aviation gasoline, Navy fuel oil, petroleum for the manufacture of explosives, synthetic rubber, and gasoline for war industry, farming and essential trucking all have been taken from Canada's oil supply—it doesn't leave a lot for the civilian!

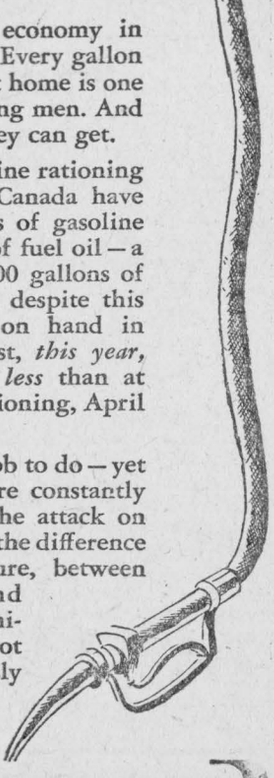

Figure it out for yourself. It takes 5,250,000 gallons of gasoline to fuel 5,000 bombers and fighters for a mission over Germany. It takes enough oil for one fueling of a battleship to heat an average house for 350 years. It takes 18,000 gallons of gasoline to keep one armoured division on the move for one hour.

From petroleum and petroleum gases we obtain the gasoline and fuels needed to power planes and ships and tanks as well as the raw material for acetone, ammonia and toluol for explosives, organic chemicals for anaesthetics, naphthas for camouflage paints and plastics and resins for war weapons production.

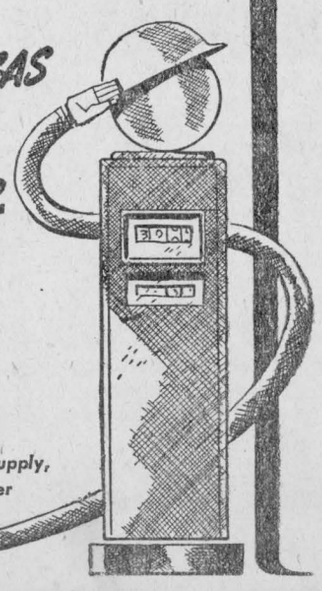

This is why civilian gasoline is short. This is why it's up to every motorist, to every owner of an oil-heated home, to exercise the strictest economy in gasoline or fuel oil usage. Every gallon we can do without here at home is one gallon more for the fighting men. And they need every gallon they can get.

Two full years of gasoline rationing and fuel oil control in Canada have saved 393,000,000 gallons of gasoline and 175 million gallons of fuel oil—a total saving of 568,000,000 gallons of petroleum products. Yet, despite this saving, gasoline stocks on hand in Canada, as of March 31st, this year, were 55,000,000 gallons less than at the commencement of rationing, April 1, 1942.

Oil has a mighty war job to do—yet supplies are short and are constantly dwindling. Oil powers the attack on every front. Oil can mean the difference between success or failure, between light casualty lists and heavy. Oil is vital ammunition—not to be wasted, not to be needlessly, frivolously spent.

LESS CIVILIAN GAS MEANS MORE "FIGHTING GAS" FOR THE FORCES

An announcement issued by
The Department of Munitions and Supply,
Honourable C. D. Howe, Minister

Answering Your Questions about the Gasoline Shortage

What are Canada's total yearly requirements of motor gasoline? . . . Approximately 800,000,000 gallons. Do these requirements have to cover both military and civilian needs? . . . Yes. Why cannot this supply be increased? . . . Because total hemispheric supplies are inadequate to meet both the colossal war demand and civilian needs. There is not enough oil, there are not enough tankers, for both. How much of Canada's petroleum needs is supplied from Canadian wells? . . . Only 15% Why can't this home production be increased? . . . Every effort is being made to do so. More new wells are being drilled or prepared for drilling, than at any time in the history of Western Canada, but we have yet to find a new Turner Valley. War does not wait for new production.

WORST SABOTEURS IN CANADA

The full extent of the enormous destruction of food products by rats has been brought home forcibly to the nation at large through the peremptory war demand for the conservation of every particle of food supplies.

A campaign of rat control or extermination is a vital part of the wartime food conservation program not only in centres where large supplies of food products are stored, but on the farm, where it has been estimated each rat does at least one dollar's worth of damage each year. Those who have made an intensive study of rats place the loss caused by city rats at $2 each annually.

Rats destroy each year as much as thousands of farmers can produce. In addition to destroying millions of dollars worth of food, rats spread typhus and other diseases, and even start costly fires by chewing on insulated wires.

If enemy agents did as much damage as rats, there would be an uproar throughout the country. Most of the rats are to be found on farms where it is estimated there are at least two rats to every human being.

In recent years rats have migrated from cities to the rural areas in greater numbers than ever before, because the modernization of cities and towns has left them fewer places to breed and survive.

The most destructive type of rat is the common brown rat. It lives in basements, cellars, under barns, in poultry houses, hollow walls and empty boxes.

To control them the most effective way is to make buildings as rat proof as possible. Poison baits and traps also help to keep them down. Keeping food and water away from them is another effective measure of control.

Rats are among Canada's worst saboteurs at any time. In wartime when the need for conserving food is imperative, they should be exterminated.

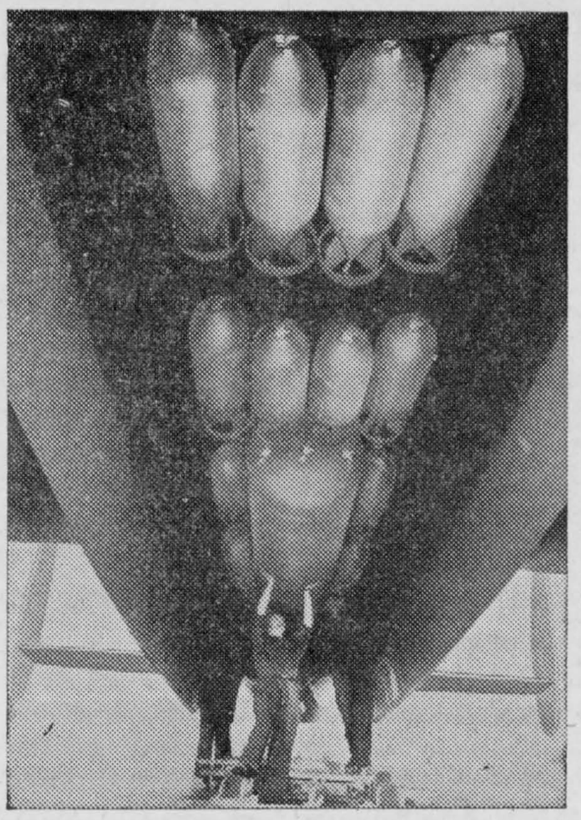

He'll Be Angry

Little Mary was heartbroken when her pet canary died, and to pacify her, her father gave her an empty cigar box and with much ceremony, assisted in burying the box in the garden.

"Dad," whispered Mary, after the funeral was over, "will my dear little birdie go to Heaven?"

"I expect so," replied the father. "Why?"

"I was only thinking," murmured the youngster, "how cross St. Peter will be when he opens the box and finds it isn't cigars after all."

97 ..... NOT OUT: VETERAN R.A.F. BOMBER

Bomber Command veteran Lancaster "S" for "Sugar" has just completed her 97th operation, she has been flying over enemy territory for a year and nine months has dropped nearly a million pounds of bombs on enemy targets using nearly a hundred and fifty thousand gallons of petrol. The bomber served its early part as a Pathfinder, doing sixty odd trips and was then known as "Q" for "Queenie". Six months ago it was transferred to an Australian Squadron and renamed.

Picture Shows: A close up view of "S" for "Sugar's" cargo of bombs, including a cookie and several five hundred pounders.

LONGER LIFE FOR MILKER RUBBER PARTS

(Science Service Notes.)

Rubber of the quality required for milker inflations is very scarce these days. Consequently it is important that each milking machine owner does all he can to prolong the life of the rubber parts. This can be done by keeping them as clean as possible, preventing their exposure to strong light, and by a periodical treatment to extract the butterfat which works into the pores of the rubber and ultimately makes it flabby.

A treatment which originated in New Zealand, and which has given very good results at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, consists in boiling the inflations for four or five hours in a strong (4 percent) caustic solution. Four heaping teaspoonfu's per quart of water, or 2 cans of household lye in 3 gallons of water is the solution recommended by the Division of Bacteriology and Dairy Research, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture. The inflations are then removed and rinsed several times in hot water brushing to remove any dirt loosened by the treatment. If the lye solution is allowed to cool undisturbed, a surprising amount of soap formed through the interaction of the extracted butterfat and the lye, will solidify on the surface. Inflations treated in this manner once a month will have longer life, while in many cases the bacterial content of the milk drawn through the machine will be lower.

A mimeographed sheet giving more detailed directions covering this method may be had on applying to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

USED CAR SALES UNDER NEW REGULATIONS

New regulations by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, effective August 1st, will curtail the sale of used cars at illegal prices. The public is asked to assist in a drive against "black marketing" by reporting any attempt at price violation. Private sales will be closely checked and individuals advertising used cars must give full particulars. The signed statement on every sale must bear the signature of a witness and be completed in triplicate. One copy is to be sent to the nearest local board within four days of sale. J. H. Berry, Motor Vehicle Administrator, said, "We are out to get equitable distribution of used cars at a fair price in order to maintain essential transportation in wartime."

THE DREAMS AHEAD.
By Edwin Carlisle Litsey

WHAT would we do in this world of ours,
Were it not for the dreams ahead?
For thorns are mixed with the blooming flowers,
No matter which path we tread.

And each of us has his golden goal,
Stretching far into the years;
And ever he climbs with a hopeful soul,
With alternate smiles and tears.

That dream ahead is what holds him up
Through the storms of a ceaseless fight;
When his lips are pressed to the wormwood's cup,
And clouds shut out the light.

'Tis Heaven itself that points out a hereafter and intimates enternity to man.—Addison.

CARE OF MILKING MACHINES
(Science Service Notes)

Few inventions have done more to reduce drudgery and save time on the farm than the milking machine. With its aid, milk production has been maintained during these war years even though far fewer able-bodied men are available to milk cows. However, there is another side to the picture. Unless mechanical milkers are given proper care, bacteria grow in the machine and enormous numbers may be added to the milk. Complaints and rejections follow, with trouble for all concerned. This was particularly true during and after the first Great War, and as a result many farmers still have a strong prejudice against milking machines.

Since the last war a great deal of research has been done to develop simple yet effective methods of caring for milking machines. The culmination of these studies has been the development of a method by the Division of Bacteriology and Dairy Research, Science Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, which is the most nearly foolproof of any tested there.

In brief, the machines are given a suction rinse with clear cold or luke warm water immediately the last cow has been milked. The pail and pail-head are then cared for in the same manner as the other metal utensils, while the teat-cup assembly is placed on a solution rack and filled with a weak solution of common lye. This remains in the tubes until just before the next milking when it is discarded. Daily dismantling and brushing of the teat-cup assembly is not necessary, as the lye solution not only keeps down the growth of bacteria but also dissolves or removes any traces of milk solids left after the clear water rinse. This method thus maintains the milking machine in excellent sanitary condition with a minimum expenditure of time and effort. More details concerning this method are given in Wartime Pamphlet No. 54 entitled "The Milking Machine", copies of which may be obtained free by writing to Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SHARED ACCOMMODATION LEASES PROTECTED BY NEW ORDER

Good news for quiet, law-abiding tenants is the recent order issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which states that tenants who are not now under notice to vacate will not be made to do so before May 1st, 1945. This gives tenants of houses, apartments, flats, rooms and parts of houses, the same protective privileges as are now enjoyed by occupants of houses, flats and apartments. Boarders are not covered by this order nor does it apply to certain congested areas such as Halifax, Montreal and Kingston, which some time ago were brought under special administrative control involving registration and rate fixing.

Lieut. Jack Morris Writes Interestingly To Mrs. Morris About Invasion

My Dear Ida:

I'm really at sea this time and not only mentally but physically and I am sitting in my truck writing on a map-board and hope you can make out my scribble. After writing my Sunday letter we were marshaled and sent to the docks. We loaded out our landing ship tank and I got to bed about 2.30 a.m. You've seen photos of these craft in the papers with their huge "jaws" open to allow vehicles to load and disembark. It's marvellous the way we were taken on board. The truck was placed on a lift and hoisted to the upper deck. When I wakened in my bunk next morning we were anchored quite a distance from shore. During the morning we weighed anchor and we thought we were away but we just moved to a new anchorage. I thought the convoy I came over in was a big gathering of ships but what I've seen the past couple of days has opened my eyes and I saw one of the Big Ones that has fired tons of shells into the beachheads, cruisers, destroyers, mine sweepers, M. T. B.'s, landing ships of all kinds. It's truly a wonderful sight for a landlubber. But the inaction is getting us down. We eat, sleep, read and play cards and wait. Mostly, we wait. This craft is taking part in its fourth invasion so you can see it's done some travelling. We officers eat with the ship's officers and in the wardroom (diningroom to landlubbers) is a log painted on the wall listing the names of the beaches she's landed on. All the main beaches we've read of and a score of others. One beachname is painted in red, the reason being she got a "pocket" there. She received over forty hits but landed her complement and after repairs has been getting on with the job of carrying bad news for Hitler.

As I look out over the sea as I write I can see many scores of ships, all carrying troops and supplies for the boys across the Channel. It's just after 8 p.m. and I heard the 7 p.m. news as I ate supper in which reports indicated stiff fighting but satisfactory progress. Each transport has one or two balloons flying and it is a strange sight to see them swaying about in the wind at the end of their cables like huge birds or caged animals as they toss to and fro with the ship. The radio is connected to the ships land hailer tonight and we are enjoying an American programme over the Allied Expeditionary Forces radio — Lionel Barrymore just starred in a skit. The radio is a God-send here for the newscasts as we are without our supply of daily papers.

We've a big job ahead of us with mail. We expect to find the last couple of weeks letters to be waiting for us and we'll have to sort it and despatch it as quickly as we can for mail means more than ever now.

You'd smile if you could see our set-up here. The boys have rigged up a couple of big tarpaulins over a couple of carriers my truck and one behind, and under that they have their camp beds set up. As Sgt. Mc Laughlin says, all they need is a canary in a cage to make it really home. We're feeding quite well here. Breakfast from 8-9, consisting of bacon and beans today; dinner at 12, mashed potatoes, bully beef and a sweet (no tea); tea at 4.00, just a cup of tea; supper at seven, soup, individual meat pies, mashed potatoes, bread and cheese and coffee. How good this coffee tastes after a fast from it of over two months. With this inaction (providing I don't have to use my "bags vomit" too much when we put out to sea) I'm afraid I'm going to put on a bit of extra weight. Maybe I'll get some exercise over there to wear it off. Major Rowley had his 35th birthday Monday and there was a cute little girl who visited the boys at the car park who had her 10th birthday the same date. Her name is June and as I looked at her and chatted I felt a pang of homesickness as I thought of our little big ten-year-old who will be 11 in a little over a month. My, how the time flies.

June 20th, 1944.

The Camp Rations are certainly grand food, especially with some fresh steaks added as we had tonight. Every now and then a cow or pig will walk into a Jerry mine and there's fresh meat ready for the taking. We've had steak a couple of times now. The lads in the companies are living in grand style with fresh eggs and milk and the odd chicken, all of which they purchase from the inhabitants. As a whole the people are very friendly and co-operative. Of course the people of Normandy have been friends of the English for centuries. When we were moving in from the coast we saw many little groups of refugees making their way back to their homes with their pitiful little bundles on wheel barrows and bicycles. One group I can recall seemed to be Grandpere and Grandmama, papa and mama and a couple of children. They appear well fed but their clothing is quite shabby. As we pass the kiddies on the roads they give us the V for Victory sign and smile at us. Bless their hearts, I do feel sorry for them. I am surprised that so many of the houses appear untouched by shells and bombs. The buildings hereabout are all stone and very old. The large places and Chateaux have massive stone walls about them. The house where one of our companies has its H.Q. is dated 1776. The roads are nothing like the perfect thoroughfares of England. Most are dirt roads with dust swirling to the heavens and we must always remember that dust draws shell fire. We don't take any chances especially if he has one of his 88 mm. guns about. They're wicked babies; but I've seen two that our boys made short work of. Going back to the rations, we had steak and kidney pudding, diced potatoes and fruit pudding for lunch, as well as hard biscuits and jam and tea. The tea comes in cans with the sugar and dried milk and we just put in hot water and boil it for a few minutes. There is also included a chocolate bar, about eight candies (hard) and eight cigs per man.

June 18, 1944.

My Dearest Sweetheart:—This is my first letter from this side of the Channel. As it is Sunday night I just have to keep my date with the best Sweetheart in the world, and I do mean that. If further proof were required, I could state that I have received no less than seven letters from her since I landed on this side of the water. Letters 261, 262 and 263 were awaiting me when I arrived on Thursday at our new camp; 267 and 268 with Connie's nice letter of 5 June came yesterday, and just a few minutes ago (it's now 7.15) I got 265 and 266. Also yesterday I got a pleasant surprise in the form of a 1-lb box of Laura Secords from Harold and Marguerite Hamiton. That gift was very thoughtful, and I do appreciate it very, very much. Until I can get a letter away to them will you please thank them for me. Needless to say I sampled them right away. Boy, they were good. Just now I received another surprise. This time Mother's parcel of 6 May. I haven't had time to open that as yet. But it won't stay tied up very long. We received word this afternoon to pick up more mail, so as we were visiting the Companies in a Jeep we took a trailer along for it. We found no less than 46 bags at the mail point. So we had to borrow a three ton truck from one of the companies. The driver was no other than Percy Plantz. He was here last night also, so I've had a couple of chats with him. We are very anxious to know what it was that Ross Munro wrote about in which he mentioned my name along with the three majors. You see, only one of the majors mentioned actually was in the assault. I can't tell you the reason why some of us were left out, but I will be able to later. We were very much disappointed not to have been there, but we were a part of a vast plan and could not do anything about it. I'll give a rather general picture tonight and later make a full report of our past experiences. We had a delightful passage in ideal weather after being very bored as we were held up with one thing and another for several days. When we arrived Jerry put up a good show for us on the beach, but our Canadian AA gunners were equal to him and brought down five. We slept in the open that night and after going through the usual "channels" arrived here at lunch time. I got my "office" set up immediately in my truck and after supper turned to digging my slit trench. Thereby hangs a tale. The first person I met after dismounting from the truck was Jim Fleming. He is the picture of health and says he feels even better than before he entered hospital. After getting over the jaundice he developed German measles, so had about seven weeks there. He had been sleeping right next to our location, and as they were moving he offered me a nice slit trench already dug, so I was several jumps ahead of the rest of the gang. After supper I widened it so I could put my bed and bedroll in, covered all with a big tarp I scrounged on the other side, and I'm as snug as a bug in a rug. You see, we have to play safety first against the odd shell or fragment from our Ack-Ack as they paste away at Jerry during the night. We have been very well fed to date. Rations are in the form of the packs you have read of in the papers. Each box is sufficient for 14 men for one day and contains everything in tins. Excellent food. Just heat the cans in boiling water and there is your stew, vegetable dinner, pudding or what have you. You should have seen us cooking our first meal in France from the 24-hour packs each man carried. We carry a Coleman one-burner in my truck (something also buckshee) and it is grand to cook on. It was just like Scouting over again, you know. I can't say anything about operations, but I can this, and proudly, that our Division has excelled itself, and is second to none in the whole invading force. Gen. Eisenhower singled us out for special mention. We have suffered the inevitable casualties but it is too early for me to give out any names until next-of-kin are notified. However, none from near home have been hit. Captured Germans say they are afraid of the Canadians—they don't drop when the firing starts but come in firing as they run. The Padre has been in each day and has been a very busy man. We had a church service this morning with the rest of the troops in this area and our tiny group marched in with parade ground style with the Pipe Major and his pipes. The service was very beautiful and the Padre had a wonderful sermon. He had planned on a communion service also, but he had received an urgent call and so was unable to hold it. I have been a very busy boy from morning until well after dark each day. I receive dozens of messages each day and it is quite a task keeping my maps up-to-date along with the many other things that crop up in an I.O.'s job. My next important duty, which will take some time, I'm afraid, is to consolidate the diary's of all the coys into one for the Battalion. It'll mean a couple of days or more of plugging, I guess for there are 18 days gone by now. It could not be done before, however.. Hurray, another letter just came in! No. 264—that completes my mail to date! I think that is marvellous when one considers the scope of the past week or so of operations. Well, Sweetheart, in a couple of days I'll be an old man of 35. One of our officers remarked the other day (just after I had taken a shower) that I was getting very gray. Boy, was I mad! I wonder. I am getting a bit silvery on the temples, I must admit, in the last four months. Oh, boy, "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine". But I don't feel a bit older than when I left home. Maybe a bit wiser, perhaps require a bit more sleep. But when I get back home I will utilize the one bit of knowledge I have gained in that I won't be high-tailing it out each night to some meeting or other, I'll sit back and enjoy the comforts of home that I have learned to appreciate so much in the period I have been away. How much nicer it would be to crawl into that wonderful bed of ours tonight in place of a hole in the ground.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! Pickling is one of the many ways to save surplus fruit and vegetables. Cucumbers are one of the common vegetables that may be preserved in many ways to give variety to our inexpensive winter menus. Pickling is a matter of brining and curing without destroying the colour or flavour, or food value.

The equipment needed is comparatively simple, but you must be able to store in a cool, dry place if you are storing in odd jars sealed with wartime wax or crocks.

We suggest recipes requiring little or no sugar although we have had several requests for those using sugar. But, naturally, if you have sufficient sugar, "go to it" and make the kind that pleases your family.

SACCHARINE PICKLE

1 teaspoon powdered saccharine, ½ cup salt, 2 tablespoons white mustard seed, ½ cup dry mustard, 2 tablespoons turmeric, 1 teaspoon curry powder, ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 cup cold vinegar, 1 cup corn syrup, 9 cups cold vinegar, 1 large cauliflower, 8 large cucumbers, 10 small green tomatoes, 6 small onions.

Combine saccharine, salt, mustard seed, dry mustard, turmeric, curry powder and cayenne very thoroughly; mix into a smooth paste with the 1 cup vinegar, adding it gradually at first and combining thoroughly after each addition. Add corn syrup and the 9 cups vinegar. Place this dressing in a thoroughly-clean large crock.

Break cauliflower in small flowerettes and soak in salted water about half an hour. Drain, cover with boiling water and boil 10 minutes. Drain and let cool.

Wash cucumbers and tomatoes and peel the onions; cut all into small cubes.

Add prepared vegetables to dressing in the crock and combine well. Cover crock with a clean tea towel (or other cloth), and cover with the thoroughly-clean lid. Place crock in a cool place (the cellar floor is good) and stir the pickle twice a day for two weeks.

CHILI SAUCE.

12 large ripe tomatoes, 2 large onions, 4 green peppers, tbsp. salt, 4 tbsp. br. sugar, 1 tbsp. cloves, 1 tbsp. allspice, 1 tsp. grated nutmeg, 1 pint vinegar.

Peel the tomatoes and onions. Cut tomatoes in small pieces and chop the onions and peppers fine. Add the remaining ingredients, heat gradually to boiling point and cook slowly two and one-half to three hours; stir frequently. If the vinegar is strong dilute it with water.

DILL PICKLES

Select cucumbers of "dill" size. Wipe and arrange in jars with layers of dill and mixed spices in the bottom, centre and top of the jar. Cover with hot brine made of ½ cup salt to 7 cups boiling water. Seal and let stand two months before using.

PICKLED ONIONS

1 qt. small pickling onions, 1 qt. white wine vinegar, 2 teaspoons pepper corns, 1 teaspoon salt.

Bring vinegar and seasonings to boiling point and remove scum. Peel onions, put into the boiling liquid and simmer about three minutes or until the onions are transparent. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

TAKE A TIP

1. Too much salt or sugar or too strong vinegar may make pickles shrivelled and tough.
2. A brine too weak will tend to soften pickles. The recommended solution to crisp cucumbers is one pound of salt to five quarts of water.
3. Keep pickled cucumbers green, put a thick layer of fresh green grape or cherry leaves between layers of cucumbers and on top of them before pouring on the brine.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. R. B. asks: Why does chili sauce, cooked in an enamel pan, turn a brownish colour?

Answer: Allspice and cloves tend to darken sauces more than other spices. We suggest exact measurements of the seasonings.

Mrs. K. F. asks: Will a zinc tub be all right to soak cucumbers in brine?

Answer: No. We suggest that you put them in two or three crocks or enamel basins in preference to zinc or tin containers.

Mrs. T. B. asks: Recipe for Bread and Butter Pickles.

Answer: 6 qts. cucumbers, sliced; 1 dozen onions sliced; 4 green peppers, sliced; salt (½ cup), 6 whole cloves, 1 qt. vinegar, 8 cups sugar, 3 tablespoons turmeric, ¼ cup mustard seed.

Wash cucumbers and slice without peeling. Arrange vegetables in alternate layers in a large bowl, sprinkle with salt. Let stand for three hours, then drain. Cover with cold water, then drain. Combine remaining ingredients and heat until sugar is dissolved. Add the vegetables and bring just to the boiling point, but do not boil. Seal in sterilized jars.

Mrs. S. T. asks: Ingredients for syrups to use on fruit to pickle.

Answer: 8 pounds fruit, cinnamon, 2 tablespoons whole cloves, 4 cups vinegar, 2 tablespoons whole allspice, 4 pounds sugar, 2 cups water.

Mrs. Phil Casselman Opens Home to Grantley W.A.

The Grantley Women's Association was entertained at the home of Mrs. Phil Casselman on Wednesday afternoon, August 2nd.

Mrs. S. B. Casselman, the President, opened the meeting with the hymn "O God our Help in Ages Past". Mrs. Kittle gave the scripture reading and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

There were 13 members and 9 visitors present, one new member was added to the roll call. Total collection $8.38 including birthday gifts, some aprons were handed in to the committee.

Two pleasing piano solos were given by Misses Florence and Shirley McMillan, "Farewell Waltz" and "Tales from Vienna Woods". A vocal duet "When the Mists have Rolled Away" by Mrs. Claude Carr and Mrs. Bert McMillan; Readings, "The Weaver", by Mrs. Donald Casselman; "In the Cool of the Evening" by Miss Florence McMillan.

The hymn "My Faith Looks up to Thee" and the Mizpah Benediction, brought the meeting to a close after which lunch was served by the hostess.

The Association will meet in September at the home of the secretary, Miss Feader.

OVERSEAS

Ray Mackness is a name that should be on the corner-stone of Canadian radio. He stepped over the broadcasting threshhold at 17 and has doubled his age in the service of the listening public. He joined the CBC in 1938, but, like over a hundred of its other members, has been on active service since early in the war. He is attached to the RCAF overseas.

WARTIME SERVICE ..

Frustration of perfectly normal needs is part of the lot of every civilian in wartime. He gets some unsubtle flattery twice a year, when his money is needed for Victory Loans, and he is reguarly told that his co-operation is essential in supporting the price ceiling; but in general, the civilian and his needs are matters to be shelved for the duration.

The attitude of officialdom towards the unessential civilian is understandable. It is even excusable, when civilians complain about not being able to secure such things as gasoline, tires and railway reservations for pleasure travelling. What is not so easy to bear is the attitude of some civilians towards others, particularly in matters of service.

If one sends a suit to a cleaning establishment, the chances are that it returns still bearing the grime and gravy that made the cleaning desirable. If one complains, every intonation of the young lady at the other end of the telephone line suggests that one is utterly unreasonable to expect to receive the service that one has bought and paid for.

Business executives are worried about the loss of goodwill accruing from the attitude of their employees. A hotel manager, to whom a friend complained about some gratuitous rudeness from a servant, frankly said: "What can I do? If I scold her, she'll quit, and National Selective Service will send me someone worse, if they send me anyone at all."

Occasionally, inefficient service reaches the peak of an art. A traveller reports that his latest Pullman porter was the worst in his long experience. He was slow in answering the bell, made up the berths sloppily, left shoes unshined. At the terminal the traveller deposited half his customary tip in the outstretched palm and said: "If you had given me half decent service on this trip, I'd have given you a good tip."

The porter looked at the coins and said: "Well, boss, thank you for this much anyway."

DARLING—SMITH

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on July 26, at 2.30 p.m. at the United Church parsonage, Chesterville, when Isobel Mabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith became the bride of Roy Darling, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Darling. Rev. W. Wright officiated.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a street-length dress of heavenly blue with matching half-hat and white accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses. Her only attendant was, Miss Grace Smith, sister of the bride, who wore a street length dress of turquoise blue with white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Douglas Durant.

Following the marriage a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a buffet luncheon was served to immediate relatives and friends.

Amid showers of good wishes the happy couple left for western points and the United States.

For travelling the bride wore a navy and white two piece dress with white dutch hat and accessories.

On their return they will reside near Chesterville.

The guest speaker at the Rotary Club this week was the Rev. H. Keith Markell of St. Giles Presbyterian Church, Ottawa. Through his subject "The Spiritual Sources of Freedom", the speaker showed the close alliance between liberty and religion. The speech was notable for its depth of thought and the wealth of information it contained.

Flying High ..

A colored soldier was busy around the wrong end of a mule when it suddenly lashed out with both feet and sent him sailing. As he hit the ground, his comrades called stretcher bearers, who put the unlucky fellow on a stretcher and started to carry him off.

The colored boy opened his eyes and gazed at the reeling sky overhead. Feeling around he encountered nothing but empty space.

"Lawdy, Lawdy," he groaned. "I ain't hit de ground yet."

Fire Insurance
COVERING
MERCANTILE, MANUFACTURING, RESIDENTIAL, AND FARM PROPERTY
WINDSTORM & AUTOMOBILE RISKS ALSO
Prices of Farm Products have advanced but the rates for Fire Insurance in our Companies remain the same and are the lowest in the Province for this class. No fees asked nor premium notes or other obligations required, as our securities—as sound companies—are on deposit with the Dominion Government, Department of Insurance.
FARM PROPERTY INSURANCE
CARRIED UNDER THREE-YEAR OR ONE- YEAR SYSTEM AS NECESSARY

PEACE OF MIND
Only if you KNOW you are adequately protected by good automobile insurance can you drive with that peace of mind which makes motoring a pleasure. Only in this way can you protect yourself against serious financial loss through bodily injury to other persons or their property.
Because nowadays you are driving fewer miles than you used to is certainly no reason for being without the protection an Automobile policy will give you.
Remember that your car is older and, therefore, less reliable mechanically. And remember that it takes but a split fraction of a second for "something" to happen.
Let us plan your automobile insurance to give you the protection you need TODAY.
