HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

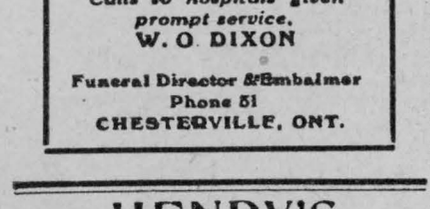

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Furthermore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

FERGUSON GOVERNMENT SWEEPS COUNTRY

Conservatives	89
Liberals	9
Progressives	3
Independent Conservatives	2
Liberal-Progressives	2
U. F. O.	1
Deferred	1
Doubtful	5

The four doubtful seats were Victoria North, Peterborough County, Durham and Kenora.

In giving the Ferguson Government a mandate to administer the affairs for a third consecutive term, the people of Ontario gave the administration the strongest legislative representation ever accorded a Government in the province.

The sweeping victory, which exceeded the hopes of the most optimistic Government supporters, was a ringing answer to the Prime Minister's declaration that he was willing to stake his political life on the Government's policy of control and sale of liquor by the Government—the issue on which he was returned to power in the 1926 general election.

The landslide that swept the Ferguson Government into power with at least 89 supporters in a House of 112 members, carried with it J. G. Lethbridge, the 74-year-old Progressive party leader, who waged a hard fight in West Middlesex which he had represented since 1919. He lost the seat in a three-cornered contest to Dr. L. W. Freele, the Conservative candidate, by the slim majority of 39 votes.

Lethbridge with demand a recount.

W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., the Liberal leader, saw his forces, which numbered 21 in the last House dwindle to 9. He was re-elected in Ontario South, but his majority of more than 2,000 in the 1926 election was cut down to a bare 1,000.

With four seats, Kenora, Victoria North Durham and Peterborough county doubtful, and the election in North Bruce deferred owing to the death yesterday of A. P. Mewhinney, the Liberal candidate, only three ,Progressives, one United Farmer, two Independent Conservatives, and two Liberal-Progressives were elected to augment the nine Liberals who will occupy the Opposition benches in the next House.

Premier Ferguson, whose majority in Grenville in 1926 was 1,247 votes, was re-elected by more than 2,000 majority over Rev. T. H. Bradley, his Prohibitionist opponent. The Prime Minister's eleven colleagues in the Cabinet also were re-elected.

Fire Destroys Large Barn Near Morewood

Last Thursday at the noon hour the large frame barn, 40 by 100 feet, together with a shed 24 by 48 feet, and large silo belonging to Mr. W. C. Glasgow, four miles west of Morewood, was totally destroyed by fire together with the season's crops and a number of fowl. The loss is estimated at over ten thousand dollars with $2,000 of insurance on the contents and an unstated amount on the buildings. All the stock was in the fields with the exception of one team of horses which was safely taken out.

The first indication of fire was when Mr. Glasgow and his man were working near the barn repairing a machine. The whole roof of the barn seemed to be blown off by an explosion with fire spreading everywhere. The force of the explosion drove the fire down the feed chutes into the stables preventing the saving of many articles there, only the team of horses being saved.

Mr. Glasgow will sell his stock by auction on Tuesday, Nov. 5th.

Kenmore Farmer Ordered To Pay $1,122.50 Wages

An 80-year-old farmer of Kenmore was scathingly denounced on Saturday for his treatment for seven years of an English immigrant boy who had worked for him during that period and received no wages, when Hon. Mr. Justice Kelly gave judgment in the last of the cases before him at the Fall assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario, in Ottawa, which closed on that day.

Judgment for $1,122.50 and costs, representing seven years' wages, with certain deductions, together with immediate execution was given by His Lordship in favor of the youth. S. Robert Broadfoot, K.C., who appeared for the plaintiff informing the court that he was in a position to prove that efforts had been made by the farmer to dispose of his property to defeat the ends of justice.

An Odd Case.

The case was one of the queerest that has been heard in years at the courthouse . Court officials were greatly amused at the character of some of the evidence.

The young man, W. J. Wakefield who is now 22 years old, sued David Harrison, farmer, of Kenmore, for $1,168.15 back wages. He came as an immigrant from England when only 13 years old was taken direct to the Harrison farm where he lived until he was 21 years old. During that time he received clothing to the value of $208, and membership sash and badge in the Oragne Young Britons to the value of $8.85. He had been given 50 cents on occasions to attend picnics and dinners of the Orange Young Britons, but no wages during the seven years and some months.

No other hired help was engaged on the 150-acre farm. There was a fair amount of stock.

Since coming of age the youth had worked for another farmer for $30 a month and board. The Orange regalia had been taken away from him by Harrison.

Defendant's case was that the plaintiff had been boarded and maintained and there had been no agreement to pay wages to him. Defendant claimed in his evidence that when the lad first came from England he was too small to work, though he had learned to milk cows and had done other odd jobs from the first. He was not sent to school, defendant claiming he could not make him go.

Endorsed Cheque.

Defendant admitted under a gruelling cross-examination by Mr. Broadfoot that when a cheque for $37.50 arrived for 15 days' work done by the youth on county road work he made him endorse it over to himself. Defendant claimed he had been feeding and clothing plaintaiff and was entitled to the money.

At the same time he professeed plaintiff was not able to do much work on the farm. Three suits of clothes had been given the lad in seven years, it was testified.

Asked by Mr. Broadfoot if he ever spent money on books or doctoring for the youth, defendant admitted he had done neither.

"Did you ever let him attend the Ottawa fair?" asked Mr. Broadfoot.

"No, but he always went to Metcalfe Fair," replied the defendant amid the laughter of the court.

Another amusing passage had to do with a certain dollar payment to the lad. A motorist had got into a ditch near the farm and the farmer pulled the car out with his team. He refused any payment from the motorist, he said, as he never charged for that kind of service.

"But the motorist gave the lad a dollar," queried Mr. Broadfoot.

"I told him not to take it," replied the farmer.

"And you took the dollar away from him?" thundered Mr. Broadfoot.

"Yes; because I had told him not to take it," answered the farmer, amid further laughter.

Mr. Broadfoot claimed defendant had told the young man to "get out" two days before he became of age when the farmer would have been forced to pay him wages. Defendant denied this.

Wakefield's present employer gave evidence on his behalf and said he was worth the $30 a month and board he was paying him.

A. E. Fripp, K.C., appeared for the defendant. In addressing the court, he argued that the youth was not entitled to wages. He nad been adopted as a son and as such was not legally entitled to sue for wages. Mr. Broadfoot denied the adoption an cited authority to show that an infant could sue in law.

The case was a non-jury one, and Mr. Justice Kelly in giving judgment said there was no evidence of adoption.

"I am somewhat reluctant to express myself on this case," remarked his lordship. "It is not pleasant, but it is necessary," he said.

The youth was strong, and healthy and endowed with intelligence and was quite capable of learning all that was necessary on the farm, he declared.

Ancient Law Required That Children Be Perfumed

Dr. Munro, who has come to Queen's University from Manitoba College of Agriculture, gave an interesting address upon "The Chemistry of Toilet Preparations." He spoke of the toilet accessories dating back to antiquity, saying that in the Tigris-Euphrates Valley, in 2100 B.C., it was decreed that all children should be anointed with perfume twice daily. There was an excellent reason for the proclamation as the use of soap was not known in those days.

First Baby Born On Airplane Trip

A daughter was born to Dr. and Mrs. T. W Evans, of Miami, aboard a large cabin airplane as it circled 1,200 feet above Miami. The baby, a seven and one-half pound girl, was born 20 minutes after the plane took off from the airport, piloted by a commercial pilot.

Covered Skating Rink For Iroquois

The project launched a few days ago for the erection of a new skating rink in Iroquois has met with a loyal response from the citizens of Iroquois and district. At the public meeting $3620 was subscribed in a few minutes. This amount has since been increased to over $6,800, and the prospects look very bright for the raising of the remainder of the $10,000 needed to cover the cost of the new rink.

Long Lived Family

An Ontario family living in Vancouver contests the claims of the Rodgers family of Welland to the longevity record of the Dominion with a combined yearage of 453. First is A. C. Campbell, of Vancouver, who says the combined ages of his brothers and sisters reach the total of 518 years. Mr. Campbell says the ages of the seven children are, Jessie, 82; Robert, 80, James, 78; Annie, 74; Archibald, J., 72; May, 67; Alex C., 65. Five of them are at present living in Markham, Ont., where the family has resided for 60 years, one at Richmond Hill, Ont., and one in Vancouver. Born of a Scottish father and an Irish mother who were married in Montreal, members of the family have lived practically all their lives in Ontario.

Invisible Border Makes Many Curious Problems

Considerable publicity has been given the curious case of Arthur Plante, who owns a house on the border between the United States and Canada, at Malone, N.Y. He has been forbidden to enter the United States, and therefore deprived of the use of that part of his dwelling which is in that country. But his woodshed is in Canada and for the past few weeks he has been trying to make it habitable for there he expects to spend the months of what newspaper correspondents have called the cold Canadian winter—though we imagine it is not much colder than the winter a few feet further south. At the moment the decision has gone against Plante. The explanation of the customs official is that Plante never made a proper entry to the United States. Moreover, the two former owners of the house he bought, which is in rather a sparsely settled part of the community, were suspected of smuggling, although no such suspicion attaches to Plante. It is possible that he may appeal against the ruling. If not, his house will be offered for sale in the near future.

Smuggling Facilities.

If Plante is now a Canadian, it is probably through some oversight, for he has lived in the United States for the past 30 years, making a living as a carpenter and plying his trade as far west as California. A few weeks ago he bought the house which has received so much notoriety, but when he tried to enter it he was informed that he is not a resident of the United States and, moreover, that he was not a welcome visitor. In short, Plante was forbidden to enter his own home. American jurisdiction did not extend to the woodshed and here he has been pottering about ever since. The fact that the customs people note that the district is sparsely populated is a hint that some illicit traffic between the house and woodshed is anticipated. Plante, however, declares he is simply one of that quite numerous class known locally as line-bound. All along the border are people who for various good and personal reasons never cross the line. What are regarded as offences on one side are not so regarded on the other. For example, there is a considerable difference in the liquor laws of the State of New York and the Province of Quebec.

House Specially Built.

In this part of the country there is no natural geographical boundary. One can step from one country into the other without being conscious of any greater purity in the air as he goes into the United States or any appreciable enlarging of his personal liberties. Here and there the boundary line is marked by stone posts. Customs officers can be seen and occasional police, vigilant, it is charitably assumed, to put down the liquor traffic between the two nations. But in many communities people cross the line daily or perhaps scores of times daily in the course of their employment. These are known to officials on both sides and are rarely interfered with. But the coming of a stranger naturally attracts the attention of the police, and in the case of Plante he was under suspicion because of the reputation of the people who had previously owned the residence he bought. In the past there have been many houses built straddling the line with the object of frustrating the laws of one country or the other and these have given customs officials and police plenty of trouble.

Defying the Law.

The customs men dragged him back across the line and put him in jail. A writ of habeas corpus was applied for and when the case came to trial the judge sternly reprimanded the customs officers and ordered the release of King. Recently another baffling problem was presented to the border officials. Some question arose concerning a woman whose kitchen, it was found, was built across the line. Every time she walked to her ice box to get a chop she crossed into Canada and when she returned to her stove she was in the United States. But perhaps every time she went to the ice box to get a bottle of beer she was in Canada where such a proceeding would be considered not only legal but maybe praiseworthy. Maybe this was the objection. At any rate, it was concluded that she could not be supervised unless a customs official was to become a permanent resident of her kitchen, and, as the lady wielded a vigorous broom the problem remained unsolved.

Gathering in the Sheaves.

They were leaving the hotel room.

"Have you forgotten anything?" she asked him.

"I don't think so," he replied; "I've got all of the towels, the Gideon Bible and the dresser scarf."

—o—

A man came up to a minister, and shaking his hand heartily, exclaimed, "How are you, sir? Ye remember me. I'm sure."

"Well. I can't say that I do," said the minister doubtfully.

"Oh, but ye must. Ye married me ten years ago. Don't ye mind the man who forgot his schedule?"

"Ah," said the minister, "I remember you now. You got an awful fright that night."

"I did that, an' I've got her yet.'

"How do you know he didn't find his ball?" inquired the second golfer.

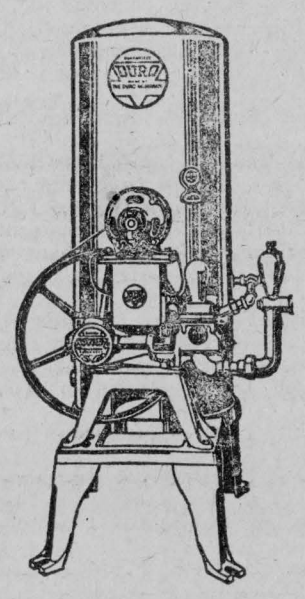

"Because I have it in my pocket," replied the first golfer, triumphantly.

Wealth From Waste

It is now proposed to squeeze the oil out of the famous British Columbia salt water fish, the pilchard, mix it with lead from the Trail smelter, turpentine from Ontario and certain coloring material and with a Canadian made paint brush apply the solution evenly to the surface of houses, barns and other buildings constructed of British Columbia lumber. The pilchard found himself during the war period. Before the war he was a despised fish, enjoying perfect liberty while his neeighbors, the salmon, halibut and cod, were regularly hooked or netted to make a Friday dinner for mankind. When the food shortage came, the B. C. pilchard was discovered to be a fairly palatable fish, overrich in oils. Since the war the market for pilchards has fallen off owing to the extreme fatness of the fish.

Counties' Council

The October session of the Counties' Council of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry opened at the Council Chamber, Court House, Cornwall, on Monday evening, Oct. 21st, when, in welcoming the members back to their duties, the Warden, Mr. Glenn A. Shaver, of Lunenburg, Reeve of Osnabruck Township, spoke as follows:—

Gentlemen—Once more I have the privilege and pleasure of welcoming you back to the Council Chamber to attend the third session of the Counties' Council of these United Counties this year, and which, unless some unforeseen circumstance should present itself, will be the final session for the year 1929.

I am glad to see that nearly all the members are able to be present. No doubt many of you are here at considerable inconvenience to yourselves and families and at a sacrifice to your own business. The fact that you are here proves your conscientiousness and determination to faithfully discharge the duties which you assumed to your various municipalities as well as to these counties as a whole, when you accepted your nominations for Reeve or Deputy in your various municipalities.

In addition to your regular duties, many of you are at the present time interested in the Provincial election. Two of our present members are candidates for election.

May I just remark that it appears that this Council is turning out to be a school for the development of parliamentary candidates. In the present Provincial campaign there are seven candidates in the field for election in these United Counties. All of these seven candidates have been active in municipal life in their respective municipalities and six of the seven have been or are members of this Council Board. While they cannot all be successful, we hope that those of them who are honoured by the choice of their electorate will find pleasure and success in their political lines. We feel that the knowledge of the needs of the people which they have acquired through their municipal career will be an aid to them in advocating legislation for the benefit of our Province.

While it is, I think, generally conceded, that party form of Government is best for our country, I think it a mistake to let party politics enter into municipal life. Probably one of the things that stands out most prominently in our County Council administration is the fact that it is free from party politics, that it makes no differences whether a subject is introduced by a Grit or a Tory it will receive equal consideration by all of the members. I understand that all County Councils do not follow such sane lines—that some Councils even go so far along the political line that they have found it necessary to have a working agreement whereby they will elect alternately a Grit or a Tory for their Warden and thus save dividing politically on that point at least.

But I am glad to be able to say that I feel in these counties a member can come to this board, knowing he belongs to a minority of its members, whether it be in polictics, creed or race, and that he will receive fair treatment and that his suggestions and proposals will received unbiased consideration by all. This has been the practice in the past and I hope will continue to be followed in the future. I know that even though we are now in the midst of a political campaign, on which there are differences of opinion amongst the members, that you will not vary from the course which has been pursued in the past.

While it is not my purpose at the present time to go into the details of the year's work, I might just refer to a few of our principal expenditures. In going over these items, one thing seems to stand out prominently, and that is our contribution to charity, amounting this year to in the neighbour hood of $75,000, made up as follows:

The maintainance of the indigent sick in the Hospitals, amounting to approximately $29,000.

The maintainance of our indigent aged in the House of Refuge, amounting to about $17,000. In this connection I would like you to know that everything within reason is being done for these aged people, about 95 in number, I believe, at the present time. The new heating plant has been installed and is giving good satisfaction and I am confident that the inmates will be warm and comfortable this winter at a very great saving in the cost of fuel. I must mention that the Superintendent and Matron are looking after these old people in a kindly and efficient manner and I consider the counties are fortunate in having them in charge.

Then there is our contribution to the Mothers' Allowance Act, amounting this year to about $28,000.

After November 1st the Old Age Pensions Act will be in operation and while it is too soon to estimate the expenditure with it, I think we are safe in saying that our contribution for charitable purposes in 1930 will be close to $100,000.

During the past season considerable progress has been made in the improvement of our County Roads, both by way of maintenance and construction. It has been said that "progress in anything important was never made in a hurry" and while this may or may not apply to our roads, I feel however that satisfactory progress is being made and that in a few years' time with a continuation of that progress we will have a system of County Roads second to no county in the Province insofar as serviceability is concerned.

This year saw the introduction of new methods in the maintance of gravel and consolidated stone roads by use of a power maintainer and the gradual addition of small quantities of new matter, giving results more gratifying than anticipated. I feel that this work will be laying a good foundation for a new method of the construction of macadam, which has also been introduced this year. This method, to my mind, is more economical and will be more satis factory than the water bound macadam. I refer particulrly to mixed in place macadam, sometimes referred to as "Re-tread." It appears that this type of surface can be constructed at a comparatively low cost on a well-maintained gravel or traffic-bound stone road, giving service during construction, so to speak. I must also refer to the motor truck patrol, which is doing good work, and as important as any method of maintenance or construction, as it detects the holes and breaks which would soon destroy our investment.

While, as I said, progress is being made in a very satisfactory way, the officials of the Road Department have many problems to deal with and are attempting to eliminate inefficiencies which are bound to creep in on any public works.

I hope that the chairmen of the different committees will get their various committies together as soon as possible in order that business may be advanced as rapidly as possible.

The Warden was greeted with loud applause.

The Clerk, Mr. A. K. MacMillan, called the roll. The following is a list of the members:

Brief Session.

Reading of the Report of the House of Refuge committee by Warden Glenn Shaver, constituted the main event of interest at a short half-hour session Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Shaver reported an enrolment of 96 inmates, which taxes the capacity of the institution. Of this total, 35 are eligible for old age pensions. Of these several will take up residence with friends and relatives and the remainder have stated that they wish to obtain the pension.

Reporting on the expenses at the House of Refuge, the chairman stated that extensive repairing had been done at the institution. The only outlay required was for the actual cost of the materials, the repairs having been made by gaol labor under the supervision of T. W. Ault.

Warden Shaver also reported that a new heating equipment had been installed, which was expected to give a better and uniform heating through out the building at less cost. The outlay for coal this year was $924 as compared with $2128 in the previous Winter.

On motion of McDonald, seconded by McPherson ,the report of this committee was adopted.

Many Reports Presented.

Presentation of reports of various committees occupied the greater portion of the final session of the Counties' Council Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Howard J. Munro, chairman of the education committee, presented the first report, first item of which was a recommendation that the clerk write the secretary of the High School Entrance Board of Ontario of Glengarry requesting that the Board dispense with the written examinations of Group One and that the pupils be allowed to pass on the certificates of the principal of the Public, High or Normal Schools Board.

The schools in the United Counties were awarded the following grants for the year ending June, 1928—Finch, $1368.67; Alexandria, 1615.00; Morrisburg, $1838.25; Chesterville, $1376.24; Williamstown, $1467.03; Cornwall, $1880.72; Morewood, $1212.14; Iroquois, $1401.81; Avonmore, $1350.95; Winchester, $1508.37, and Maxville, $257.24.

The committee recommended that the requisition from North Mountain Continuation School for $1100.63 for maintenance of Dundas pupils be paid. Referring to the matter brought before the Council at the previous session in connection with a requisition from the Morewood High School for an increase of their grant, the committee recommended that the subject be left in the hands of the clerk, who should inform the board of the Morewood School that they should bring the matter before the 1930 council and there would receive consideration of the matter.

The County Properties' Committee, having received three tenders for wood from H. D. McDiarmid at $8.50 a cord; D. J. McDonell at $8.00 a cord, reported that the latter tender be accepted and the clerk authorized to notify Mr. Cameron. A complaint having been laid by J. C. Alguire, Counties' Registrar, referring to the usefulness of the caretaker of his building, the matter was left in the hands of Henry Williams for investigation. The committee reported that they had visited the gaol yards and the House of Refuge and found everything to be satisfactory. They recommended that the appreciation of the council be extended to T. W. Ault for his work in connection with the the County Buildings.

Roads and Bridges Committee recommended that accident claims which had been received by the Council be referred to the Insurance companies for investigation. A separate claim for damages by W. Servage, who asked for $7.50, was not acted upon. The committee recommended that the Bell Telephone Compny be given permission to re-construct the pole lines from Bonville to St. Andrews. They further recommended that the Coufurther recommended that the Council confirm By-law 1169 dealing with the closing of the south end of Hickory avenue. Warden Glenn Shaver read a report of the expenditures. The Council was recommended to memorialize the Department of Highways asking that a legislation be passed to increase restrictions on township and county roads from October 1st to May 31. The report was accepted and adopted in full.

Finance Report.

H. J. Strader, chairman of the Finance Committee, announced that the general Counties accounts totalled $450,689.32 for the past session and asked that payment be made. They recommended that the accounts of W. B. Lawson, K.C., for $181.70, and G. A. Watson, P.M., for $325.54 be paid. The treasurer read his sessional report. The committee recommended that the grant of $100 to the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders be paid at once. They also moved that the Old Age Pensions by-law be amended, providing the secretary with a salary of $100 per year. They further stated that they would recommend that the time for the land tax sale be postponed until January Session of 1930 were completed.

On both the resolutions and communications committees, nothing new was brought forward.

Dr. A. D. McMillan, Finch

After a long illness, Dr. Alexander D. McMillan, died at the home of his father, Donald McMillan, at Finch, on Saturday. Dr. McMillan although an invalid for years, was one of the best beloved residents of the Finch community and his death came as a heavy blow to his many friends.

Born on the old homestead at Finch on November 17, 1876, he was educated at the local school and at Cornwall. For a time he taught school in Stormont and Glengarry. He graduated in medicine at Queen's University in 1905. He practised at Apple Hill until 1914, when ill-health forced him to retire from active life. He had lived at the family home since then.

Besides his father, he leaves one sister, Miss Catharine McMillan, at home; and four brothers, John McMillan, Calgary; Hugh McMillan, Beachburg; Angus and James McMillan, of Finch.

The funeral was held from the family home at one p.m., Tuesday, to Finch cemetery.

Aged Pine Tree

Remarkable in size, symmetry and the soundness of its wood ,a white pinetree which has been lying fifty years or more on Coulonge Lake, was utilized this week for wood and yielded seventeen cords. The pine measured one hundred and forty-five feet from tip to base, which showed a diameter of five feet, ten inches. Twenty feet higher up the diameter was but six inches less. The first branch was three feet through, and the second two feet six inches.—Perth Expositor.

Chesterville Men Arrested By Cornwall Police

Three arrests were made by City Police Sunday morning following an accident near St. Andrews on the Cornwall-St. Andrews road in which Daniel Poirer, Monckland, suffered a broken leg and severe injuries to his face and head. He is at present a patient at Hotel Dieu hospital, where he was reported this morning to be making progress towards recovery.

Police state that Poirer was walking north along the highway, a few hundred yards north of St. Andrews village, when a car driven by William Perkins struck him from behind. Perkins stopped a short distance from the scene of the accident and with the assistance of the occupants of his car and Clarence St. John, of Cornwall, another motorist who arrived a few moments later, placed the injured man in the car with the intention of taking him to Cornwall. A short distance north of Cornwall the touring car took to the ditch and partially overturned, wrecking the top and one or two fenders.

Constables Cory Moore and William Caul of the city police arrived on the scene at this juncture, placed Perkins and his two companions, William Tyres and Aifred Lalonde, under arrest and had Poirer taken to Hotel Dieu in a taxi. Constable Caul drove the Perkins car to Cornwall.

In Police Court Monday, Perkins was charged with being intoxicated while in charge of an automobile but hearing was adjourned for one week. Fines of $10 and costs were imposed by Magistrate J. C. Milligan upon Tyres and Lalonde.—Cornwall Freeholder.

Mr and Mrs. John Griffith and Mrs. J. C. Griffith and Master Willie, of Gouverneur, are visiting their aunt, Mrs Mallon Caselman.

Mr. Dalton Steinburg and Mr. Jos. Moore made a business trip to Ottawa on Saturday.

Youthful Accident Victim Buried

That "In the midst of Life we are in Death" was sadly realized by the people of Berwick on Wednesday evening, October 23rd, when a fair young life in the person of Leon, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Killoran, was suddenly snatched from this world, as the result of an automobile accident in front of his home.

Leon was an active lad, well beloved for his never failing charm of manner and cheerful disposition. Time cannot erase these attributes from our memory, and his life, short though it has been, will be a reminder of everything that is beautiful.

The funeral, which was a very large one, was held on Friday at one p.m. in St. Paul's United church, Rev. A. W. Stewart officiating.

The pall bearers were six of his young chums—Arthur Rutley, Elgin Alguire, Jack McQuaig, Willie Kearns, Bruce Rutley and Francis Dutt, while six of his classmates carried the flowers.

Floral offerings included: Wreaths, the Family, Mr. Talcott, Mr. C. McQuaig, Mr. Lorne Hutt, Mr. Willis Miller; Sprays, Grandmother, Business Men of Berwick, Berwick Sunday School, Berwick Public School, Miss Munro, Miss McRae.

Friends from a distance attending the funeral were—Mrs. Orrv Harper, Mrs. Mattice, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Eamon, Mr. Giles Harper, of Morrisburg; Mr. John Smith and Mrs. Keating, of Ottawa.

STRADERS HILL

Mrs. J. Hanson and Mrs. H. Hanson were callers at Mrs. B. Strader's on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Strader is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. A. Casselman, at Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Eslie Pitt and Miss Olive Strader were callers at Mrs. G. Cunningham's, Sunday, at Williamsburg.

Mr. J. Casselman, Mr. Iven Casselman and Miss Nina, Mr. and Mrs. B. Strader motored to Morrisburg on Tuesday and spent some time there with friends.

Visitors at Mr. Henry Hanson's on Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Casselman and little boys, Mrs. Bertha Casselman, of Winchester Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Byron Riddle, of Dundela, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Barnhart and baby.

Apple Hill Men Killed As Express Hits Wagon

Two well-known residents of Apple Hill, 25 miles east of Chesterville, were killed, and a young boy narrowly escaped death, when a milk wagon was run down by the fast Montreal-Chicago C. P.R. express on the level crossing close to Apple Hill station, at 11.05 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Victims of the accident were: Malcolm A. McDermid, 72 years old, and his son, Albert McDermid, 41 years old. Joseph Lefebvre, a 17-year-old neighbor whom they were giving a "lift" home, saw the oncoming express and leapt from the rear of the wagon to save his life literally by inches.

Both farmers met an instantaneous death, their bodies being dragged more than 50 yards by the engine. The horse was killed and the wagon demolished.

Dr. J. Howard Munro, of Maxville, coroner for the district, held an inquest at Apple Hill Station shortly after the accident, and adjourned the hearing until November 6, at 7.30 o'clock.

The scene of the accident is regarded as particularly dangerous in view of the fact that the tracks are obscured when trains approach from the east.

The train crew reported that the driver of the wagon apparently saw the train when it was only three car lengths away from the crossing and made a desperate attempt to rein in his horse. The startled animal was slow in stopping, and was not brought to a halt until the wagon was right across the railway tracks.

The train, travelling between 50 and 60 miles an hour, was brought to a stop within fifty yards and the crew went to the rescue of the victims. The younger man was found on the cow catcher and the father under the wheels.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dafoe and Miss Greta were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Pier, Third Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Burnham and Mr. Newcombe, of Ogdensburg, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wereley on Sunday.

Mr. Robert Dafoe spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Dafoe.

A large and appreciative congregation from the four corners of the county listened to the rendering of several beautiful selections by the United Male Choir voices on Sunday evening, October 27th, in Gallingertown United church. The choir was under the leadership of Mr. John Morgan, Aultsville, with Mrs. Orval Beckstead as organist. We extend to the choir and organist a vote of thanks and hope that a repetition of the same will be given us again in the near future.

On Monday evening, October 21st, over one hundred friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wereley to welcome their eldest daughter, Blanche, and her husband, Mr. Harold Wright, of Philadelphia. A very pleasant evening was spent in music and social intercourse. About eleven o'clock the party was called to order and Mrs. Clarence Cryderman read the following address to Mr. and Mrs. Wright: "Dear Blanche and Harold, — We. your friends and neighbors, have gathered here this evening to welcome you home, to spend a social time with you and to extend to to you our congratulations and best wishes for your future happiness. By your quiet and cheerful disposition you have won many friends and endeared yourself to the hearts of all by your charming manner. Altho' we have never met you, Harold, we are glad to welcome you here to-night as Blanche's husband and hope that you will soon feel at home among us. Please accept these gifts as a slight token of remembrance from your many friends and neighbors." Mr. Wright responded by a few words in which he thanked those present for their gifts and good wishes. All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Mrs. Wright then cut the bride's cake and a dainty lunch was enjoyed by all. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Folly of Margin Buying

We were talking with a prominent financial personage the other and he said, "You would be astonished if you knew the number of people who have lost their homes in the past few weeks." He was referring to the alarming fluctuations on the stock market, a subject on which hs is particularly well informed. Further conversation revealed the fact that the men who had lost their homes were not men likely to have a spare home, or any immediate prospects of acquiring a new one, but people on moderate salaries who had mortgaged their life-savings as represented in their homes to gamble on the stock market.

Again and again we have tried to make it clear that the right of a man to do what he wants with his own property is all but unlimited, but we should fail in a duty if we did not from time to time call attention not to the wickedness but to the absolute folly or even madness of the man of small means risking his money on margin. If a man can afford to buy a stock outright he can, if he gives sufficient thought to business, make wise investments. But merely to follow the stampede of the crowd to buy on margin whatever stock happens to be popular at the moment is to take the road to the poor house and invest the Old Age pensions act with a pathetic personal interest.

When a man buys on margin no amount of wisdom can save him from disaster. His only safeguards are unlimited funds and an iron determination to hang on. The stock he buys may be worth much more than it registers at the time of his purchase. But that has nothing to do with the matter. It will not prevent the manipulators of the market forcing it down if it is in their interests to do so. Indeed, who is to say at any moment what a stock is worth? Is it worth what it is selling at to-day, or what it was selling at a week ago, or what it may be selling at a week from now? Who knows, and who cares any more than one cares about the actual value of the set of dice with which a fortune may be swept away.

King's Health Is Returning Slowly

King George's health is slowly but steadily returning in the bracing air of Sandringham, where he is leading the happy life of a country squire. Although the King is not quite robust, those who have seen him bring back stories of his simple, regular life and say he is looking better now than he has done for the last five years.

He arises for breakfast at 8.30 with clock-like regularity. Whatever the weather permits, he spends the entire morning out of doors, visiting his stud farm or walking on the estate with Snip, his favorite fox terrier.

After luncheon the King takes a nap for an hour and a half each day and spends the late afternoons in the library listening to the radio or the new electric gramaphone. Dinner is 7.30 p.m. and bedtime is seldom later than 9.30 o'clock.

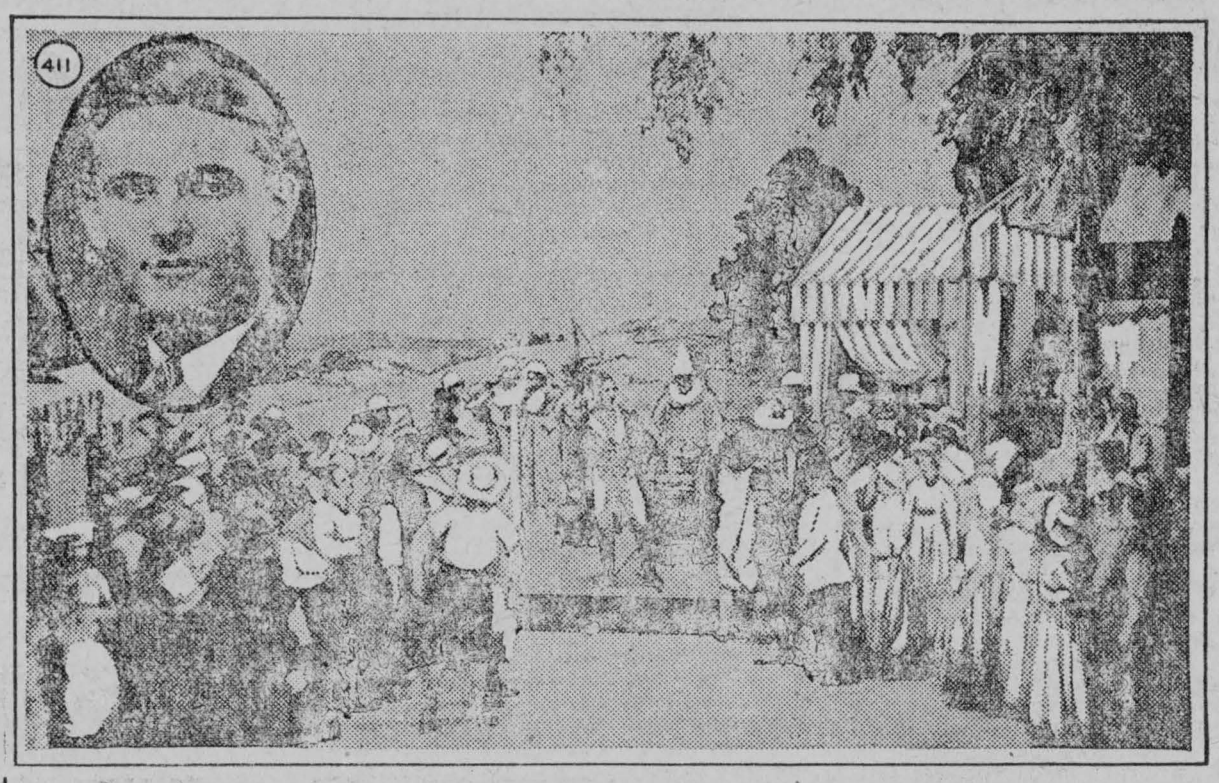

Next month the king will visit Buckingham Palace, just a year after he was stricken with his severe sickness.

Prize Fight Opera Premiere

When the English Music and Folk Dance Festival is held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, from November 13 to 18, the spot light will be turned on the first performance on this continent on November 15 of "Hugh the Drover", opera by Dr. Ralph Vaughan Williams, one of the greatest of modern composers. Written around early 19th century scenes in an English village, the costumes are picturesque and the setting is peculiarly suited to the folkmusic which inspired the composer. The unique feature of the opera is the great prize fight between the hero and the villain, the stakes being the hand of the heroine. This is one of the most realistic scenes ever put on any stage, and is a fight from start to knock-out. The cries of the crowd, the staccato singing of the principal, the exhortations of the backers of the two men are blended with orchestral effects in an ensemble that is a tour de force of modern musical representation, leaving the audience breathless and as excited as if they were spectators gathered around the ring, in one of the most remarkable curtains ever seen on the theatre. The part of Hugh is to be played by Allan Jones, a brilliant tenor of Welsh extraction, who has been starring in the Deauville Opera and the Opera Comique of Paris. Cut shows grouping of the players just before commencement of the fight, with Hugh in the centre and his opponent stripped for action at left. Inset shows Allan Jones.

Live Stock Hotel.

The finest live stock "hotel" known is the Royal Winter Fair. It will house with comfort 2,000 head of cattle, 2,000 sheep and 1,500 swine. A new judging ring augments the huge arena in the Royal Coliseum, the central building of the show. There are the rest and lounge rooms, shower baths, and warm sleeping quarters for attendants and exhibitors.

Big Enrolment at O. A. C.

President Christie of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, reports a largely increased enrolment this year. A total of 325 students have entered for the fall term as compared with 276 in 1928. MacDonald Hall has an enrolment of 214 ladies as compared with 190 last year. This gratifying increase emphasizes the need for greater accommodation, which will be supplied in the form of a new million dollar administration and residence building on which work has already commenced. It will be the largest building on the campus and its equipment and facilities will be modern in every respect. The date set for its completion is Sept. 1, 1930.

Fattening Turkeys.

Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner tables in Ontario will not lack for turkeys, judging from reports from different parts of the province. Turkeys raised in the open during the summer cannot stand close confinement during the fattening period and should therefore not be confined to pens. Confinement often results in the birds going off their feed and developing digestive troubles, sometimes in death. The proper time to commence fattening is four weeks before they are wanted for table use, which is usually in November and December. The young birds should be started feeding gradually. The feed should be composed of both mashes and whole grain, the mashes in the morning and at midday, and the whole grain at night. The mash is made up of equal parts of ground oats, barley meal, cornmeal and wheat bran, and should be fed in a moist condition from clean, "V"-shaped troughs. Whole corn is the best grain for fattening purposes and should be used for the evening meal. Never give them more than they will readily eat. Turkeys thrive best in the open and even in the fattening period should be allowed to roost outside, with protection, of course, from cold winds and rain.

Oats and Sow Thistle.

"Don't sow oats on fields infested with sow thistle. Rather sow clovers, plow them when very dry, and work thoroughly," is the advice of one farmer who has had experience with this noxious weed. Sow thistle, as well as other thistles, thrive in oats better than any other crop. It does not show very much in wheat or clover. Sow weed infested fields to any of the clovers and cut twice a year. By following this course, sow thistle will be largely eliminated.

It Pays to Spray.

Ontario farmers will this year harvest the cleanest apple crop in the history of the province. It is almost solely due to better spraying, which in turn is the result of the activities of the department's spray service. One farmer reports that his crop benefited to the extent of $1,000 by reason of spraying. Another claims to have lost $500 by not following instructions completely. Spraying must be done properly and thoroughly to yield the best results.

Your Water Supply.

"While drinking water in cities and towns is frequently analyzed as to purity, the wells in rural sections are too often taken for granted. In view of the long drought and the exceeding scarcity of water, farmers would do well to know just what kind of water is being used in their homes. In the last survey of well waters from farm homesteads, the samples submitted showed only some 24.4 per cent as pure and wholesome. Every farmer may have the water tested free of charge, provided samples are collected and sent in prepaid. We suggest that farmers in this district consult the medical health officer. It may save much sickness in the family.

Co-operative Ships Potatoes.

The Central Ontario Potato Growers' Association commenced active business last week by shipping their first car from Alliston. This association is meeting the problems of Ontario farmers by offering straight carloads of one variety grown from certified seed and graded not only to "Canada 1," but to the standard set for their own brand. They believe that by selling their high-class production under a brand name, which they are prepared to protect, that they can compete in all markets where quality counts.

Local branches are located at Craighurst, New Lowell, Alliston, Whitfield, Orangeville and Caledon. The main office is at Alliston and Carl Whiteside is the secretary-treasurer.

J. R. Hargreaves of Beachville was declared the grand champion plowman at the seventeenth annual international plowing match ina Kingston. Waterloo county won the special class for county teams, with York County second. The first individual prizes in the inter-county competition went to R. G Brown of Galt. It was one of the most successful in the history of the association.

The Potato Market.

Ottawa forecasts estimate the Canadian crop at about 16 per cent below that of last year. In Ontario the crop is nearly 30 per cent below that of 1928. The United States crop is one of the lightest in ten years, in fact, is the smallest with the exception of 1925. It will be readily appreciated that potatoes are in a strong position. Some Ontario and Quebec farmers are short of storage and require ready cash, but as soon as digging has been completed it is expected that prices will stiffen.

Export Apple Market.

Prospects for a heavier apple crop in Ontario this season add emphasis to the export market as a profitable outlet for the surplus fruit. United States apples are not likely to glut the British market this year and, although the Nova Scotia crop is heavy, Ontario apples invariably command a premium over the Maritime product in Britain, due chiefly to the fact that Ontario apples are inspected by the Government before exportation. The permanent appointment of an overseas representative in London will greatly benefit Ontario shippers. Full information may be secured from P. W. Hodgetts, Sec'y Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, Parliament Buildings Toronto.

Acreage of Crops.

Some interesting statistics have been compiled by the department dealing with the acreage of principal field crops of Ontario and the yield per acre in bushels for 1929 as compared with 1928. The acreage of fall wheat is shown to be about the same with an increase in the acre yield. Spring wheat, both in acreage and yield, was slightly off. Oats showed a similar tendency. More barley was planted but the acre-yield was lighter. Less rye was grown but the yield remained stationary. The acreage of peas dropped about 30 per cent and the yield per acre decreased. About 25 per cent more beans were grown and the yield increased. Alfalfa was off considerably from the heavy crops of 1927 and 1928, but still far above the average for the past 16 years. The yield was not so good. Alsike had a good year and a fair yield per acre. Sweet clover fell off both in acreage and yield. But hay and clover had the biggest acreage yet and a fine yield. The figures for other crops will be furnished at a later date. The logical conclusion to be draw from the above figures is that the unusually dry summer has not been so injurious as might be imagined.

A NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS

The hero of this story, though no longer a pasha of a great city, still lives in peace and tranquility in one of the secluded coast towns of Morocco. The tale of his magnificene in other days is not lost, nor is the story how he once met the demands of an income overspent. It was as ingenious as it was dishonest—which is saying much. The Tangier correspondent of the London Times writes:

At length the pasha's situation became serious. The crops the year before had been poor, and he had drained every possible source of revenue, legal and illegal, just and unjust. The Jews would lend no more. The tribesmen of the country round threatened revolt, but every day the expenses of his household increased. It was a matter of pulling through till harvest—but the harvest was a couple of months ahead. Two or three thousand pounds would suffice for the most pressing needs—the rest might wait; but how to raise even that paltry, insignificant sum? For the whole of one night he pondered, and in the morning he issued an edict.

There was danger, this document stated, from the surrounding tribes, whose loyalty to the sultan was in doubt. The walls were sufficient to defend the city, but it was of vital importance that the suburbs should not be raided, as the population was largely dependent for its food supplies on the gardens and grainaries situated outside. The military forces under his command, though sufficient to protect the town, were quite inadequate to venture outside and patrol the suburbs, and there was no cavalry. In these circumstances he proposed to raise a troop of horsemen. The men were to hand, but there were no horses, and the edict terminated in inviting every merchant of the town to provide a horse.

Now, unlike the Arab tribesmen of the country districts, the town Moor is no rider. He climbs now and then on the padded crimson saddle of a fat mule and ambles to his place of business or to pay a visit, but a horse is to him an annoying and dangerous quadruped, possessed of only two ideas: to fight every other horse it meets—for in Morocco only stallions are ridden—and to throw its rider. Accordingly not a single merchant possessed a horse and determined not to buy one until the absolute necessity arose, on the principle of "wait and see."

A few nights later, about ten o'clock, when all the inmates of his house were asleep, there was a tremendous knocking at the nail-studded door of the house of one of the principal merchants of the city. Hastily donning such garments as were within his reach, and wrapping his bed blanket around him, for the night was cold, the elderly gentleman called out from within and asked what was wanted.

"Open, in the name of the pasha!"

With the drawing of many bolts and the turning of great keys, the door was opened by the merchant himself, who timidly asked the reason for this late visit.

"We have called for your horse," replied the master of the pasha's household, who stood without surrounded by a half a dozen particularly evil-looking soldiers.

"My horse?"

"Yes, the horse you were commanded to buy. The tribes are in open revolt, and the horse is required at dawn."

"Oh, sir," replied the now affrighted merchant, "I have been looking for a horse ever since the pasha's edict was published, but in vain. I have searched high and low, but I couldn't find one. I left no corner or hole unexplored, but all without success—so help me all the saints of Islam, may peace be upon them!"

"Then you have no horse?" asked the pasha's representative roughly.

"Alas! my lord, tonight I have none— to-morrow I will endeavor—"

"To-morrow you will have no opportunity. My orders are to arrest and imprison every merchant who has not got his horse."

"Arrest! Imprison!" cried the miserable blanket-wrapped old gentleman.

"Yes, arrest and imprison."

"Pity! I beg pity!" he cried, weeping copiously. "You are a good and worthy man. Soften your heart. Find me some solution to this tragedy."

The master of the pasha's household seemed to ponder the matter deeply for a moment and then said, "Indeed I pity you with all my heart, but I must obey my orders—unless—"

"Unless?"

"I am ready to make a sacrifice. My own horse is here. I will sell it to you, and you can hand it over to the pasha."

"Oh, thank you. And the price?"

"Three hundred dollars."

"Three hundred dollars!" almost shrieked the merchant. "Three hundred dollars? Impossible!"

"I see you don't want to buy it." And, calling up his ill-looking soldiers, he ordered them to arrest the unfortunate man.

"I will pay! I will pay!" cried the merchant, and, leaving his blanket in the hands of the soldiers, he escaped indoors, to emerge a moment later with a large bag of coin.

"There is more than three hundred dollars there" he said, "far more, but it does not matter."

The master of the pasha's household ordered a man who led a horse by a rope to hand it over to the merchant. In the flickering light of the lamp the miserable individual found himself face to face with the object he most dreaded in the world, a horse; and what a horse! It appeared in the darkness immense; its eyes seemed to him to glow with unearthly fire, and as he unconsciously took hold of the rope it reared and neighed. With a cry of terror the merchant sought refuge inside his doorway.

"Come, come," said the pasha's representative, "you must take the horse," holding out the halter.

"Where—where can I take it?" piteously asked the merchant. "I have no stable."

"Your house—"

"My house! There are only women in my house, and even the courtyard is carpeted. Everyone would die of fright; besides, it would certainly kill me long before I got it in." And a fresh flood of tears stayed his words.

"Well, take it you must—unless—"

"Unless?"

"Unless I take it round to the pasha's stable tonight instead of to-morrow at dawn."

"Oh, my good friend, my savior, take it!" and he pressed more money into the officer's hand.

The cavalcade moved off, and, crying and shivering the merchant closed his door. It was only then he remembered that the soldiers had not given him back his blanket.

When the merchants of the city met to attend to their business the following day it was evident that they were all suffering from nervous shock. At first they guarded a discreet silence, but at length our friend related the episode of the previous night. Curiously enough, they had all had the same experience—and, more curious still, in every case it had been a ferocious, untamable gray horse, with fiery eyeballs which had screamed and reared, that they had one and all been obliged to buy at a wickedly exorbitant price for the pasha's cavalry.

The same day the pasha announced that he had been able to make peace with the surrounding tribes, and that all danger was over. As he sat in his garden he ordered one of his slaves to bring him a certain horse from the stable. A few minutes later, with a bound and a neigh, a vicious-looking stallion was led before him. He looked at it for a little while and smiled; then said, "Let that good horse have a double feed of barley to-night," and, feeling kindly disposed to all the world, and generous, he ordered his workmen to be paid three days' pay out of the twenty-six that he owed them, and went into the house to count the dollars.

Unlearned In Coffee Making

Ontario got a lot of adverse publicity from disgruntled tourists from the United States this summer, who nursed real or fancied grievances. The complainers were overwhelming outnumbered, everybody knew, by those who thoroughly enjoyed their visits to Canada, but it was the hot criticism that was being given the publicity. It is therefore worth noting that a column in the Toledo Blade, of recent date, was devoted to the pleasures of a 2,000-mile trip taken by the editor through Ontario and Quebec. His only criticism was that Canadians have not yet learned how to brew coffee. He found Canadian people uniformly courteous, our highways a delight to ride upon, our restaurants and hotels reasonable in their charges. Directional and warning signs, he declares, are perfect and, if their messages are obeyed, touring even on heavily-trafficed highways, may be done with utmost safety.

Each Family Ten Children

Bonfield, a few years ago a little pioneer settlement, now claims to lead Ontario in the number of children per family.

A check just completed by the parish priest shows that there is an average of 10 children for the 180 families that make up the village.

There are no childless homes.

All but two are French-Canadian. The exceptions are Irish.

The hamlet of a few years ago has a school accomodating more pupils than many towns in old Ontario.

For its size, Bonfield is said to possess the smallest roll of eligible voters in the province.

Hopeful Sign.

Old Settler: "I'll say she has. Last night she asked me if I snored."

Little Louise was lost on the street and was brought into the police station. The officers tried in every way to learn her name. Finally one of the officers said:

"What names does your mother call your father?"

"Why," said Louise, very innocently, "she don't call him any names; she

"White Empresses" to Call at Honolulu.

Honolulu, famous for its lovely Hawaiian dancers, its splendid-physiqued swimmers, wreaths of flowers, Waikiki Beach and lordly Diamond Head that flings its crest high in proud greeting or dignified farewell, is now to be added to the westward route of the famous Canadian Pacific liners—the White Empresses that long ago gained for Canada the Blue Ribbon for speed on the Pacific.

Starting December 7th from Victoria and Vancouver the Empress of Canada, which has just returned to service after being equipped with the fastest and most powerful engines on the Pacific, will inaugurate the new service and will call at Honolulu six days later.

Glimpses of some of the features of the "Island Paradise of the Pacific" are shown above, with (left) the giant prow of the 21,500 ton Empress of Canada. Behind the flower-decked maidens may be discerned the stately outlines of Diamond Head, famous in song and story. At the right is the Aloha Tower of the docks, that spells a Hawaiian welcome to the traveller.

Passengers to the Orient by the new Canadian Pacific service will be given the opportunity of staying over for the next ship or of paying a visit during the twelve hours the Empresses remain in Honolulu. Visitors to the Islands who plan to leave Jack Frost behind have many options for their return voyage. Several lines have co-operated with the Canadian company, and, after a long lazy winter on the sands of Waikiki Beach, travellers may return to Vancouver by the Canadian Australasian Royal Mail Line direct, or may come back by a Matson Line steamer to Portland, Seattle or San Francisco, or to Los Angeles by the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

HOW TO EAT

We are very often told how to eat and how important it is that our meals consist of a variety of foods. The proper selection of foods is the first item to be considered, and the next is to eat food in the right way after it has been selected. The following suggestions are made to cover the important subject of How To Eat.

Moderation should be practiced at all times. It is harmful to overeat, even of the proper foods. Excess does harm; it throws an unreasonable strain on the body and so tends to wear it out early. Premature old age is the common result of neglect of the watchword, "moderation."

Meals should be eaten in a quiet, restful manner. Food is not readily digested when the body is tired, or when the individual is worried or angry. A rest before meals is recommended to overcome body fatigue. Arguments or scoldings should never be carried on at meal lime. Active exercise should not be taken immediately after eating. Exercise is needed by the body, but so is rest, and one of the times when comparative rest is required by the body is after eating.

This same idea of rest is the reason why meals should be eaten regularly. The number of meals and the hour is a matter of individual preference and custom. When meals are eaten irregularly, or when food is taken between meals, the digestive system is not given the periods of rest which it requires if it is to do its work properly. Eating between meals should be avoided. The person who requires extra nourishment should take it regularly.

Nature has provided means for the mastification of food. Food should be eaten slowly and it should be thoroughly chewed before it is swallowed. It should not bewashed down with a drink before it is masticated. There is no objection to the use of beverages in moderation with meals, but they should be taken when the mouth is empty.

another cause of "LINE'S BUSY" —business lost

WHEN a call comes for a man at the far end of the office the line is tied up for useless minutes until he reaches the telephone. Anyone else trying to call is told: "Line's Busy", but in reality the line is idle.

An office with only one telephone when it needs two or three, or an office in which telephones are poorly located, is a sure cause of unnecessary "Line's Busy", a sure time-waster, a sure business loser.

"Line's Busy" is the chief cause of the million telephone calls a day in Ontario and Quebec which fail to get through. They mean two million minutes a day wasted — congestion of traffic — constant irritation — a handicap to all business.

We are making every effort to provide the best possible telephone service.* But it takes three people to complete a call. Only through public co-operation can we reach maximum efficiency.

We would be glad at any time to have our experts survey your telephone facilities and submit a report. It will save time — yours and other people's — and it will get business for you which you are now losing through "Line's Busy."

*New telephone plant and service improvements will mean an outlay for 1929 alone, of more than $27,000,000.

Chesterville Women's Institute

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held Tuesday afternoon in the Library Hall, a day earlier than usual on account of the room being used for a polling booth on Wednesday.

After the appointment of Mrs. Barkley and Mrs. Hutt as delegates to the convention in Ottawa the first three days of next week, discussion centred on the desirability of having a Public Health nurse in Chesterville with the opinion unanimously in favor of such a safe-guard to the health of the community. It was decided that a letter should be forwarded to the Board of Health voicing the approval of the Institute and urging that such an appointment should be made.

Mrs. W. N. Fulton contributed a solo to the entertainment and a paper was read by Miss Moad which had been prepared by Mrs. James Bogart, of Morewood, on the early history of Morewood. Current events were handled by five of the members.

Mesdames Dixon, W. N. Fulton, O. D. Casselman, I. Smith, E. C. Barwich and W. Hamilton formed the committee in charge.

Grantley Couple Honored

On the eve of the departure of Mr. and Mrs Bert McMillan from Grantley for their new home at Wakefield, Que., where the family moved last week, the neighbors and friends of the Grantley community gathered around them and presented them with fibre chairs as a parting gift of remembrance when the following address was read:

Dear Bert and Mayme,—

When we heard a month ago, that you were preparing to leave our neighborhood for a year's sojourn in Wakefield, we all felt deep regret at the loss of such good neighobrs, even for a short time.

However, we wish you prosperity and happiness in your new home and business and if, at the end of the year, you find it your plan of life to come again to live at Grantley, we assure you we shall welcome you heartily.

We beg you to accept this parting gift and again voice our regret at your departure.

Signed on behalf of your friends,
Milton Carr, James Hesson.
October 24. 1929.

Mr McMillan replied in a very fitting manner to the expression of regret at their departure and thanked all for the kindness shown to them. Refreshments were served and the evening spent in dancing.

Mrs. A. McMillan entertained a few of her neighbor ladies to a quilting bee on Wednesday.

Coroner's Jury Gives Verdict Death of Berwick Boy

At the inquest Monday at Berwick into the death of Leon Killoran, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Killoran, of Berwick, the jury returned a verdict that the boy "came to his death by being struck by an automobile driven by Myles Johnston, of Crysler, on October 23 on the county highway."

Evidence showed the boy, who had been standing talking with a chum and was starting towards his home across the road, was struck by the automobile and thrown 50 feet. Mr. Johnston, evidence showed, drove on 150 feet stopped and, when he did not see the boy, drove on.

He was stopped at Finch, four miles away, and told to return to Crysler. Evidence was given by Charles Thompson and William Elliott, who picked up the body from the road; Mrs. Carmel Smirle, Millen Smirle, Mrs. James Killoran, William Meldrum, Miss Lizzie Munro, George L. McLean, of Finch; Dr. Joseph Gormerly, of Crysler; Provincial Constable Wilfrid Bertrand, of Cornwall, and Mr. Johnston.

Dr. J. M. Pollock, coroner, conducted the inquest, assisted by J. G. Harkness, K.C.

Presbyterian W.M.S.

Presbyterian W. M. S. was held in St. Andrews church on Sunday evening, October 27th. Mr. Fulford occupied the pulpit in his usual most acceptable way, and the address of the evening was delivered by Miss Lamont, Field Secretary of the W. M. S. for Ontario and Quebec. Miss Lamont, in a very charming manner, put before the congregation the responsibilities of the membership of the Presbyterian Church in Canada in carrying the gospel message to those millions, both at home and abroad, who still know it not. The quiet sincerity of the speaker, so evidently born of a deep and strong conviction, could not do otherwise than make a lasting impression on Miss Lamont's audience. The choir, assisted by several members of the choir from Dunbar church, rendered suitable numbers most acceptably. An interesting feature of the service was the presentation of two Life Membership Certificates and a gold emblem to be worn by a Life Member of the W. M. S. One certificate was given by the W. M. S. to Miss Isabel Rae, as the oldest member of the local society and a member of one of the church's oldest families. The address was read by Mrs. L. H. Doering and the presentation made by Miss Helen Jamieson. The gold pin, emblematic of life membership in the W. M. S. was the gift of her niece to Miss Agnes Rae. In the absence of the giver, Mrs. Barrie read a letter from her and Mrs. C. McIntosh decorated Miss Rae.

Another Life Membership certificate was given by the Ladies' Aid of the church to Mrs. Short in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. Roland Shaver, who had been the loved president of the Ladies' Aid. The address to Mrs. Short was read by Mrs. Baldrey and the presentation made by Mrs. Garrow.

The entire service was very interesting and the Thankoffering collection most gratifying.

IN MEMORIAM

Dillabough—In loving memory of my dear wife who departed this life November 6th, 1927.

You suffered much and murmured not;
I watched you day by day,
Until, at last, with broken heart,
I saw you pass away.
You're not forgotten, Bertha, dear,
Or ever shall your memory fade,
For my thoughts are ever with you
In the grave where you are laid.

Sadly missed by Husband, Harvey Dillabough.
