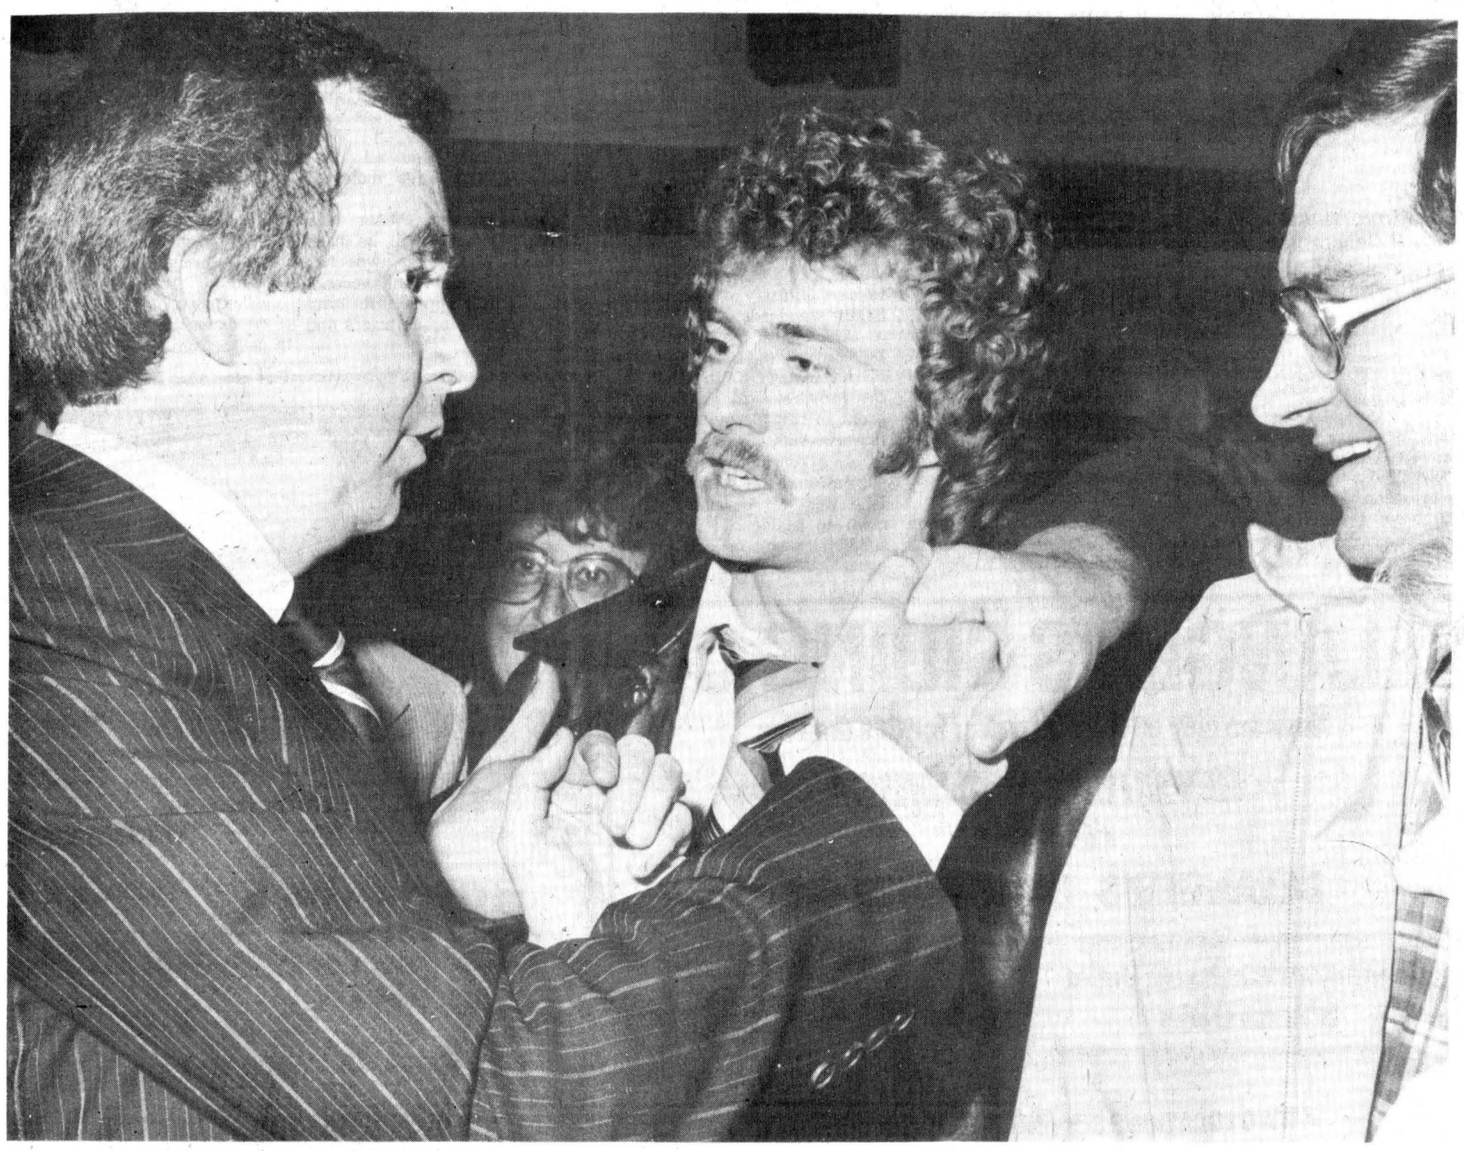
THE CHESTERVILLE
RECORD

Vol. 84, No. 36 Chesterville, Ont. Single copy 20c Wednesday, May 9, 1979



National PC leader Joe Clark was mobbed by supporters as Conservatives from across Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry, Prescott, Russell converged on the Cornwall Civic Complex to hear the Tory chief denounce Prime Minister Trudeau's 11-year record and to hold up the United Counties as an example of the pioneering spirit that built Canada. Conservative candidate Dick Aubry spoke briefly in introducing the leader but his GPR counterpart, Gordon Johnson, elected to attend a candidate meeting in Rockland rather than the Cornwall rally. Williamsburg's taxes up nine mills

WILLIAMSBURG (Staff) - Education is mainly to blame for the nine-mill increase in residential and commercial property taxes in Williamsburg Township this year.

Township council handed down its 1979 budget and mill rate at its regular meeting here Saturday. The figures show that residential public school supporters will end up paying an extra $8.50 in taxes per $1,000 of assessment this year while separate school supporters face a smaller increase of $7 per $1,000.

Commercial properties whose taxes support the public school system will go up $9.50 per $1,000 of assessment and separate school commercial properties will be assessed an extra $7.90 in taxes per $1,000 of assessment.

Taxes on residential public school properties will be 116.2 mills this year - up from 1978's figure of 107.7 - and separate

RWDSU rejects company's offer

(Staff) - Members of the Retail, Wholesale, Department Stores Union voted overwhelmingly Friday to turn down the latest contract offer of Nestle (Canada) Ltd.

Ninety-six point three per cent of Local 488, RWDSU's 318 members voted to reject the company's offer of a new two-year contract.

Negotiations on a new contract started last December and the two parties had five sessions at the bargaining table before last Friday's vote. The last meeting was held May 1.

Asking for an 18-per-cent wage increase in the first year and a 15-per-cent increase the second year plus a cost of living allowance in the two-year pact, the union rejected the company's offer of nine per cent in the first year and eight per cent in the second. Included in management's offer was a 10-per-cent-per-hour bonus on top of the increase for top tradesmen.

Local 488, president Doug Merkley, told The Record Monday the union is "not happy" with the company's offer.

However, the company's benefit package was closer to union requests than were the monetary settlements, said Mr. Merkley.

Nestle offered dental plan improvements and a weekly indemnity increase for both years.

The union also rejected settlement terms for vacation periods.

It is seeking six weeks' vacation for employees after 25 years with the company, five weeks after 18 years, four weeks after 10 years and three weeks after five years. The company offered three weeks after six years and four weeks after 14 years effective in the first year of the contract and three weeks after five years and four weeks after 13 effective in the second year.

Employees now receive three weeks vacation after seven years with the company and four weeks after 15 years.

Conciliation officer R.F. Pryor was present at last Tuesday's meeting to review the negotiations. He will submit a report to the Ministry of Labor possibly this week, said Nestle personnel manager Murray Duncan Monday.

The union can legally strike 16 days after the contents of the report are released to both parties by the Ministry.

Usually the conciliation officer submits a "no-board" report without recommendations. However, if mediation is recommended, "We'll accept all the help we can get," said Mr. Duncan.

Either side can refuse mediation, however.

Mr. Duncan expects negotiations to continue but hesitated to speculate on the outcome.

Joe Clark in Cornwall:

SD&G an example for Canada

CORNWALL (Staff) - The Progressive-Conservative party shares the "big dream" of the late pioneers of the United Counties in its desire to return to Canada's image of a "nation of builders" Tory chief Joe Clark told a cheering crowd of over 1500 here last Thursday night.

In a speech carefully tailored for local consumption, the High River, Alberta native likened the party's mortgage deductibility scheme to the vision of Canada of men like the MacGillivray brothers of Charlottenburgh Township who founded the North-west Company and whose adventurous fur traders "opened up the resources and made it possible for people like my father to move to the west".

Mr. Clark also touched on local issues when he said a Conservative government would lower cheese imports to Canada to no more than 35-million pounds from their present level of 45-million and he promised a better deal for senior citizens and housewives by promising to dismantle legislation disallowing full pension benefits to those employed over the age of 65 and to make the Canada Pension Plan more accessible to such non wage-earners as housemakers.

Mr. Clark spent about five hours in the riding.

Local Conservatives were disappointed that the scheduled mainstreeting tour of the Pitt St. Mall was cancelled at the last minute but Mr. Clark's aides said the leader was tired after speaking the night before in Pointe Clair and having spent the day campaigning in Belleville, Trenton and Napanee.

Instead of pounding the pavement, he closeted himself with his advisors for a briefing before delivering his 40-minute speech at the Civic Complex.

On his arrival at the complex, he greeted Iroquois native Edith Morrison, who turned 103 May 7, before diving into the crowd waiting for him downstairs. His tumultuous welcome was matched as he was mobbed by well wishers on his way back to the bus that would whisk him to Ottawa before leaving the next morning for Saskatchewan.

His speech was held together by two common threads; attacks on Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and promises of how a Conservative government would foster provincial co-operation.

A Conservative government would bring a "fresh new face to federalism" which, combined with Quebec's "tremendous cultural self confidence" would defeat separatist forces in the province."

Turning to the other end of the country, he dismissed the prime minister's claims that Alberta poses a threat to confederation and that Albertans are "blue-eyed Arabs". The province is showing "very real initiative" not only in developing its own resource industry but in putting its resource capital to work in other parts of the world.

It is a western Canadian company that is redeveloping most of the downtown cores of major North American cities and it was Calgary money and expertise that developed Britain's North Sea oilfields, he offered as proof.

Playing on the theme of provincial co-operation he said the Conservative-led provinces of Alberta and Ontario - which the prime minister said would gang up on a Conservative federal government - have shown understanding for each other's problems. "It was Ontario that pulled the west through when we had our doubts. It was Ontario that kept the west building."

The Liberals are destroying confidence in Canada as witnessed by the outflow of $4-billion in foreign capital since 1974 but Conservatives would restore the kind of confidence in their government that Canadians

Finch Township again tops tile drainage list

(Staff) - Tile drainage allocations for 1979 have been announced by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and once again Finch Township heads the list in Stormont and Dundas counties.

Letters were sent out to township clerk-treasurers last Friday and show that this year Finch Township's allocation increased to $159,400 from $141,600 in 1978.

Winchester Township received the second-largest allocation, $153,700, up from the $138,400 it received as its 1978 primary allocation.

Lancaster Township continues to be the most heavily tile-drained township in the United Counties and this year the "sunken township's" allocation was again the largest in the seven easternmost counties. Lancaster will receive $240,000 this year, up from the $195,300 it received as its primary 1978 allocation.

Even with the increases, neither Finch nor Winchester Townships will be able to handle all the applications they have received to date.

Finch Township clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey said Tuesday that the $160,000 his municipality is receiving "will cover just about half of our applications." Even with the $15,000 limit the township has put on the loans it will give to farmers for tiling projects, Finch couldn't cover last year's requests and a considerable portion of the 1979 allocation will go towards paying for projects completed in 1978.

Council received another $60,000 in applications at its meeting Monday night, Mr. Empey said.

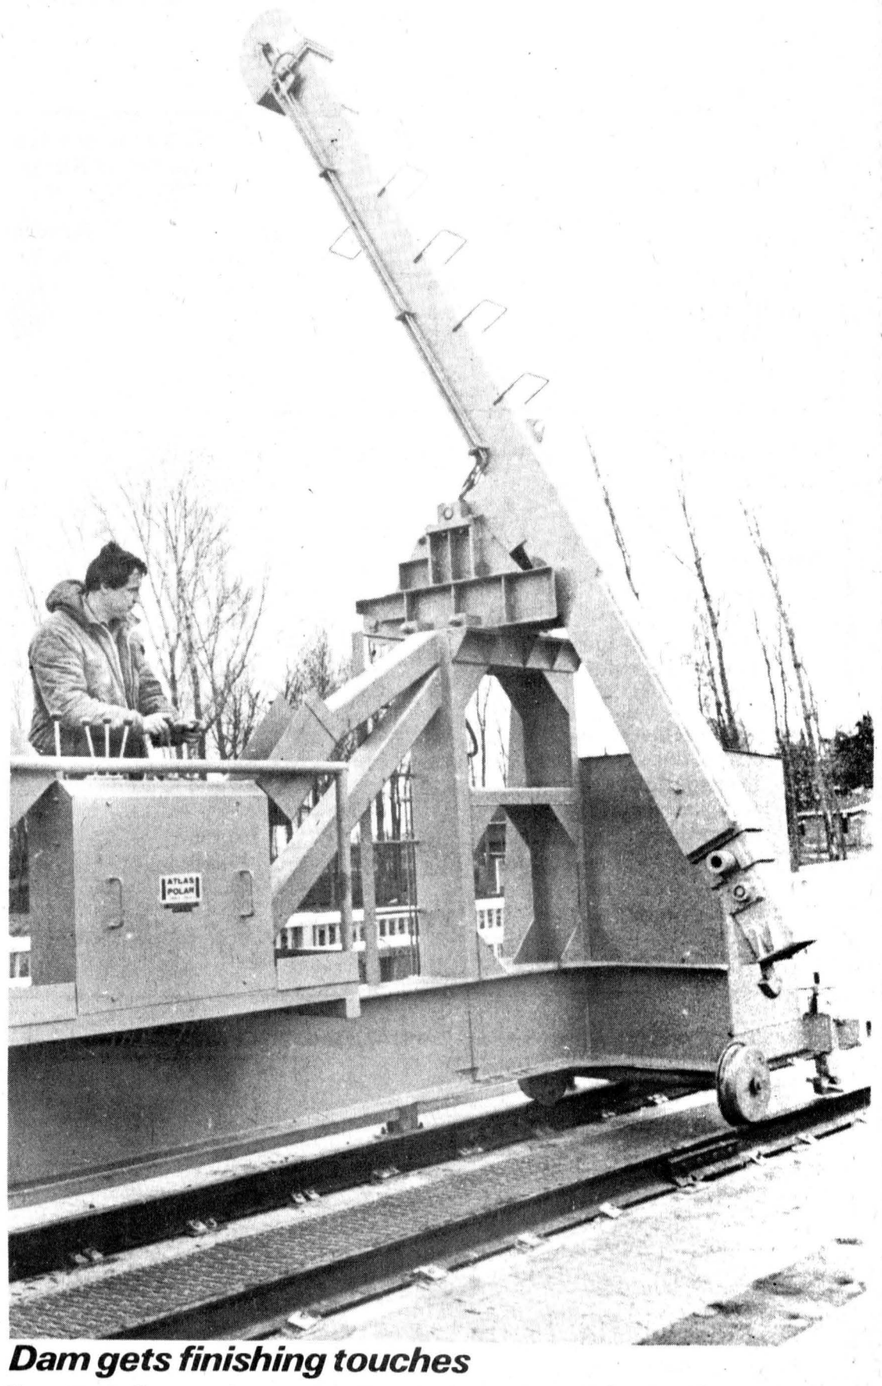
Winchester Township will clean up the $36,000 worth of projects left over from last year before lending any of its 1979 allocation. In all, it has received $288,000 in applications this year and loans will be made on a first-done-first-served basis, according to clerk-treasurer Glenn MacGregor. Monday night council accepted another $17,700 in applications, depending on funding.

Supplementary allocations will be made in the fall, according to Paul Burton of the drainage branch of the ministry of agriculture.

Mr. Burton said funds will be taken from municipalities which won't be using their full allocations and will be awarded to townships which need more funds, based on questionaires the ministry will be sending to clerks across the province.

Last year both Winchester and Finch Townships each received an extra $50,000 in supplementary allocations.

Other allocations in Stormont and Dundas for 1979 with 1978 allocations in brackets are: Osnabruck, $13,700 ($15,400); Cornwall, $10,000 ($10,000); Roxborough, $49,700 ($69,800); Matilda, $128,000 ($93,000); Mountain, $121,500 ($105,900) and Williamsburg, $31,200 ($18,200).



Dam gets finishing touches

Uwe Bockelkamp of Ecolaire Canada Ltd., Kitchener, operates the stop log lifter installed on the Chesterville dam last week. The machine, which travels across the top of the dam on a railway-like track, has two movable booms which can raise or lower the wooden stop logs in four of the dam's bays. Ecolaire is installing the dam's electric control gate this week.

Transport dumps in field

An international transport carrying 35 tons of potash flipped off county road 14 at the junction of county road 12 into the ditch Friday evening. Driver Delmer Perkins of North Gower was taken to Cornwall General Hospital and later released. Damage was estimated at $50,000 which included the cost of the fertilizer which spilled into an adjacent field. Long Sault OPP Constable Robert Taplay is investigating the accident, reported at 9:40pm Friday. Saturday morning found a number of curious passersby investigating the wreck. - staff photo -

Canada Week committee applies for $6,000 grant

(Staff) - Chesterville's Canada Week committee expects a decision in a couple of weeks on its application for funds to aid the community in celebrating the nation's birthday with a week-long party.

Bev Giles, secretary-tresurer of the recently formed committee, told The Record Friday afternoon communities which applied to the federal government for special funding are to start hearing back by May 15. But, Mrs. Giles said the Chesterville application went in a little late and an answer may not be forthcoming until late May.

The committee has applied for $6,000 and community organizations, businesses and individuals must match that figure in various forms.

Mrs. Giles noted the committee set $6,000 as the figure for the first year because only 70 per cent of that will be received a second year. "We (the committee) want to make sure we have enough to put on a good show," she commented.

The Chamber of Commerce has officially proclaimed June 25 to July 1 as "Canada Week".

Martin Derks is chairman of the committee which will not meet again until word is received on the application for funds. Until that time, people who would like to help in organizing the week or have event ideas are asked to contact committee members.

The local committee's theme is "Come on Chesterville, let's get together; Canada, it's you and me".

To kick off the celebration, the Chamber will hold a dance at the arena Sat., June 23 and will wind it up with an all-day program for village and area children on the fairgrounds Sun., July 1.

Mrs. Giles said all community groups have indicated great interest.

Most of the events held during the week will be free, explained Mrs. Giles, who has opened a special bank account and would appreciate any donations to help buy prizes and fireworks.

Plans have also been made to decorate store windows and purchase at a resonable price flags, pins, posters and bumper stickers.

Along with the C of C-sponsored dance, other tentative events for the week include soccer and baseball tournaments for children, a children's talent show, bicycle and tricycle decorating contests, a square dance, bingo, street dance, pet show, bicycle and safety rodeo, community tea, breakfast, barbecue, pony rides, a parade, fire works display and ecumenical church service.

"We've got quite a few things going but we've got to get things confirmed," Mrs. Giles said.

She has a tentative schedule of events for the week but noted it is subject to many alterations.

Williamsburg to clean up

WILLIAMSBURG (Staff) - Williamsburg township garbage disposal site is one step further towards being cleaned up.

Williamsburg Township council passed a bylaw at its regular meeting Saturday entering into an agreement with the crown for the construction of a well and land drainage at the site to meet Ministry of Environment health standards.

The cost of the scheme may be above the $10,000, reported clerk-treasurer Keith Schell, but the province will pay a $3,000 grant to help defray the cost to the township.

In other business the township altered the status of some land west of Morrisburg from rural to residential so that a subdivision can be built in that area.

Williamsburg taxes up nine mills school taxes increase from 106.9 to 113.9. On the commercial side, taxes for public school supporters will increase from 122.4 mills to 131.9 and separate supporters will see their commercial taxes go from 121.5 to 129.4 mills.

Residents of the police village of Williamsburg will pay an additional 10 mills - the same as last year - and property owners in Winchester Springs will pay the same 9.6 mills police village levy they had in 1978. The commercial levy in Williamsburg Police Village stays at 11.8 mills and the commercial rate in Winchester Springs will remain at an extra 12 mills. Fire protection in the township's first concession will still cost residential property owners one extra mill and commercial owners an extra 1.2 mills.

While township mill rates on residential properties have increased 3.2 mills county rates have decreased an equal amount maintaining the general mill rate before education taxes at 41.9 mills. Similarly for commercial properties the township rate has dropped equally from 18.9 to 15.2. The 1979 rate of 49.3 mills remains the same as that of 1978.

While education costs account for much of the mill rate increase - $5 ,000 - the township's own expenditures have also pushed up the rate. Up $40,000 from $482,321 to $522,834 the largest estimated expenses include an increase of $10,000 toward garbage disposal site improvements required by the Ministry of Environment, an extra $9,000 for zoning changes and a $10,000 allotment to a reserve fund for which the township has already accumulated $67,000.

Total expenditures have risen to $1,075,998 from $981,969 in 1978 - up over $90,000.

Among the smaller increases in the United Counties requisition for $118,833 - $4,000 more than 1978. An estimated $40,000 of that amount will be paid by Ontario General Support and Equalization grants, however, leaving the township with a reduced finanical burden of $75,772, according to clerk-treasurer Keith Schell.

Provincial grants will pay for a large part of the expenditures. In fact they have increased by almost $90,000 this year. Close to $13,000 will also be supplied from the township's surplus funds which have reached a net of $61,191. The rest will be collected mainly from taxes.

Clark in Cornwall

already have in their country, Mr. Clark said.

"There is no country in the world with such profound resources as Canada" - he said in attacking the prime minister's claim that Canadians may have to learn to do with less.

Anyone who says Canadians should lower their expectations is "dead wrong" and is "selling the country short". There is no other nation in the world where individuals have cause to raise their expectations," he said.

Mr. Clark also promised a change in style and substance of the federal government if he and his party are victorious May 22. The power of parliament would be restored by allowing the leader of the opposition to examine the spending of any two government departments of his choice and by giving parliamentary committees the power to investigate any issues they wish.

Council wants to get to bottom of drain

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - Winchester Township council wants to get to the bottom of the drainage problem on the farm of Frank Schoones, RR3 Chesterville, and has asked a local contractor to dig up the trouble spots on the underground section of the $75,000 William Hamilton drain which crosses Mr. Schoones' property.

Dietrich Bros. Construction Ltd. has agreed to dig up the trouble spots - which are creating sink holes on the Schoones farm - but said at Monday night's council meeting this in no way implies that Dietrich Bros., who installed the drain, are responsible for the problem.

Council has agreed to have an impartial observer - Bob Kelly, a ministry of Agriculture and Food drainage specialist - on the site to determine whether the fault lies with the construction company or the engineers - A.J. Graham.

Bill McDowell, an engineer with A.J. Graham, and township drainage commissioner N.P. Armstrong will also be on the site to examine the damaged tile.

Council decided Monday night to go ahead with the repairs and worry about the cost and responsibility after the damage has been rectified.

Mr. Schoones told council Monday night he was assessed $7,000 as his share of the drain.

"I don't mind paying it but I would like to see some sort of guarantees and I suggest that we need better performance in the future".

He said the holes began appearing about two weeks ago and according to ARDA official Don Knapp, "you could put this whole council chamber in the largest hole".

Mr. McDowell urged that the damage be repaired as soons as possible and said his company would "assume its share of the nost if the problem has resulted from an engineering fault".

Laying groundwork from air

(Staff) - The groundwork for the renovation of the South Nation River is being done from the air following the letting of a $77,000 contract to an Ottawa firm for an aerial photgraphic study of the watershed.

General Photgrammetric Services Division, McElhenny Surveying and Engineering Ltd., has been carrying out an aerial study of the basin for the past week and has completed its high-level flying. Low-level flying - at 5,000 ft. - is continuing this week.

General Photogrammetric was one of four companies which bid on the invitational tender. Its bid of $77,144.82 was the lowest. The $132,869.29 tendered by Kenting Earth Sciences Ltd. Of Ottawa was the highest.

Resource manager Robin Rogers says information gained from the aerial study will be used to obtain elevations throughout the watershed and for planning flood reduction works.

IN MEMORIAM

MOAK — In loving memory of our parents, William, May 21, 1964 and Bessie Moak, May 7, 1972.
Days of sadness still come o'er us
As it dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of them are often near.
But this will never wipe out
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

Laryngitis fails to silence politician Lumley

DIXONS CORNERS (Staff) - Laryngitis, the politician's "kiss of death", didn't deter Ed Lumley from addressing over 200 supporters at a Liberal party rally at the Matilda Community Hall here last Thursday night.

Speaking in a raspy voice on national unity and the economy the Liberal incumbent for Stormont-Dundas defended Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's choice of issues in the federal election.

Admitting he does not always agree with Mr. Trudeau - "Mr. Trudeau may not be the most popular person in these parts" - Mr. Lumley nevertheless said, a leader's job is to point out crisis areas. Later, away from the podium, he reitereated his statement.

"A leader's job is not to be politically expedient but to do what's right".

Suggesting that Eastern Ontario be held up to the rest of Canada as an example of unity, he said Eastern Ontarians take it for granted that English and French live together harmoniously.

The challenge of the nation is unity, he continued. "We live it everyday."

Addressing economic issues, Mr. Lumley remarked on the reduction in unemployment experieneed in the Cornwall area since 1970. While he was mayor of the city and while an MP, he recalled, unemployment dropped twice from one of the highest rates in the country - 24 per cent to below the national average. The MP attributed this to the area residents' "desire to improve".

Commenting further on the local economic scene, Mr. Lumley said no area benefits more from the devalued dollar than this area.

"We live in a narrow world because we've had things so good." Other countries envy us," he reminded his audience. On this note he made a plea for national pride.

"Despite the oil price increase in 1973, we've come out ahead," he said. Canada is the only western industrialized country that has not had a decrease in job creation or growth, he added.

Praising municipal governments for taking advantage of federal programs, the incumbent summarized his own role in Eastern Ontario.

"All I've done is whatever you local people have asked me to do," he said.

Defending his affiliation with the Liberal party, for which he has been criticised by the other two candidates, Mr. Lumley commented, "Trudeau is an asset not a cross to bear".

As parliamentary secretary to Jean Chretien, Mr. Lumley observed that the finance minister epitomizes the difficulties of the current Liberal government.

"When the dollar is going down he had to take the flak, Now that itis going up the news is on the back page."

Ward rewarded

Federal MP Ed Lumley (left chatted with Chesterville councillor Carl Ward (right), at a rally for the incumbent Thursday evening in Matilda Township Hall. Mr. Lumley expressed the desire to win Dundas County which is traditionally Conservative. He met with approximately 200 supporters while the Seaway District High School Concert Band entertained, later to be replaced by Mike Shaver and his discs.

ED LUMLEY and the FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

Working for Rural SD&G

ACTION + CO-OPERATION = RESULTS

The true test of an elected official is not just being elected but far more important, are the accomplishments generating during one's term of office. Although it takes the dedicated work of many people to achieve positive results, a good M.P. acting as a catalyst, negotiator, following up, etc. can be instrumental in assisting his constituents with the many government programs available to the people of Canada.

One of Ed Lumley's resolutions upon being elected in '74 was his commitment to ensure that the rural areas of his constituency would have greater access to Government assistance. In some cases this meant a great deal of work and co-operation between the Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments and - or the local organization.

Although the following is only a sample of the Federal assistance to rural SD&G during Ed Lumley's term of office we believe that it demonstrates conclusively that he has more than fulfilled his commitment to the rural areas of his constituency.

Ed Lumley is the only M.P. in Canada's history outside of the Minister himself, to have initiated 3 Federal-Provincial multi-million dollar General Development Sub-Agreements. The first, commonly called the 'Cornwall Infrastructure Agreement' ($1,7 m.) is completed and the second, commonly called the 'Hybrid Poplar Agreement' ($4.7 m.) is presently being implemented.

The third and by far the biggest agreement is now being negotiated by the Government of Ontario and Canada. This Agriculture and Forestry based Sub-Agreement for Eastern Ontario which will include financial assistance for the South Nation River project, was announced in principle by the respective Ministers late last year.

As the Mayor of the City of Cornwall and as an Eastern Ontario M.P., Ed Lumley has spent countless hours on these agreements. As the Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Regional Development and the Minister of Finance, he not only worked directly on these Federal-Provincial agreements but also he was very instrumental in obtaining 2 extensions to the ARDA program after it was phased out in other parts of Canada. Further when this program was finally terminated Ed spearheaded the recently announced decision by the Federal Government to extend over $1 million dollars of assistance for drainage projects not completed by the original finalization date.

In the last 5 years almost $3 million has been allocated to over 170 projects in just the Job Creation - (winter and student summer) and Senior Citizen 'New Horizon' programs alone.

Following is the breakdown by Township:

	Projects	$
Winchester Twp. including Chesterville, Winchester & Morewood	30	420,735
Williamsburg Twp. including Morrisburg & Winchester Springs	32	422,046
Finch Twp. incl. Crysler & Finch	20	219,418
Osnabruck Twp. incl. Ingleside, Lunenburg & Newington	15	192,244
Roxborough Twp. incl. Moose Creek & Avonmore	9	103,480

1500 turn out for Joe

A crowd of over 1500 jammed the Cornwall Civic Complex last Thursday night to hear Progressive-Conservative leader Joe Clark outline his party's policies and attack the record of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau. Among those who greeted the leader was (top photo) former Finch Township reeve Johnson Ouderkirk. (Photo above) Dick Aubry and his leader struggle through the large crowd following Mr. Clark's speech. Dear Ann Landers:

ATTENTION - ALL FIRST COUSINS WHO WANT TO MARRY: My recent information was incorrect. State laws vary. Approximately 30 states permit it - 20 don't. Call your local marriage licence bureau to find out where your state stands.

Dear Ann: A while back you printed "Rules Guaranteed to Break Up A Marriage". When I read them I laughed out loud. I didn't realize that one day my own marriage would be destroyed by in-laws. Please print them again. Every married couple should keep it taped to the kitchen wall.

-Bluegrass Country

Dear B.G.C.: Many readers have asked for a rerun. Here it is -- with pleasure.

1. When a son or daughter lets you know they plan to be married, show hostility to the person of his or her choice. After all, marriage means less love and attention for parents and they have a right to resent it.

2. Expect your married children to spend every Sunday and holiday at your home. Act hurt if they have other plans.

3. If your married children have problems with their mates, encourage them to come home to you. Let them know your home is still theirs, no matter what. Listen attentively to all complaints and point out additional faults which may have gone unobserved. Remember, a drop of water can wear away a rock.

4. If your married children are having financial problems, rush in with the checkbook. If you have having financial problems yourself, borrow, if necessary, but let them know they'll never have to do without anything so long as you are around.

5. If a married child has a drinking problem, keep telling him his mate drove him to it. It will make him feel better. Everyone needs someone to blame.

6. If your married child gets an opportunity for advancement which takes him to another city, tell him family is more important than money and if he leaves, God will punish him for not obeying the commandment, "Honor they father and mother".

7. If there are grandchildren, smother them with gifts. If the parents object, tell them to keep out of it. After all, grandchildren are to spoil. Sneak money to the kids secretly if you have to. They'll love you for it.

8. If your married child has a difference of opinion with his mate, get into the act and fan the flame. Family loyalty is a beautiful thing. Maybe you can turn a minor agrument into a major hassle and break up the marriage. Sign me - Star Witness Who Saw It Happen

Dear Star: Beautiful, just beautiful.

Dear Ann Landers: If there any proper salutation other than "Dear Sir" that can be used with a business letter? I feel silly addressing a letter to "Sir" when the recipient may be a woman. Also, it reeks of chauvinism, doesn't it?

"To Whom It May Concern" and "Dear Person" are all I can think of - and they both sound wrong. Can you come up with something else? Please try. - Smithburg, Maryland.

Dear Mary: Sorry, my noodle can't produce anything superior to "Dear Sir or Madame" - which I think sounds worse than "To Whom It May Concern". As for "Dear Person" - forget it. It's the pits.

If anyone out there has anything better to suggest I'll print it.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious - lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity". Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Village responds

(Special) - Chesterville residents, businesses and professional people always can be counted upon to respond generously to the annual appeal of the Ontario Heart Foundation.

This year the total receipts from the annual canvass were $957.20, $100 more than last year's donations.

Directed by Rev. E. Earle Eaton, who canvassed the business and professional segment of the community, residential canvassers, to whom considerable appreciation is due, included Harold J. Barrett, T. Hess, Mrs. Allison Graham, Mrs. Roy Meldrum, Mrs. Rene Moss, Mrs. Edwin Forward, Mrs. Leonard Masterson, Mrs. Gerald McMillan, Mrs. C. DeRooy, Mrs. Janet Beazer, Miss Helen Hughson and Lisa Morrison.

Many hours of canvassing, much of it in inclement weather, were done by this group of loyal supporters of the cause. Mrs. Rena Merkley and Mrs. A. Shay turned in the donations from the senior citizen complex.

Ed Lumley

This is the second in a series of candidate profiles in Stormont-Dundas. Next week the NDP's Brian Peters will be featured

The countdown to May 22

(Staff) - There is no riding in Canada that is touched in so many different ways by federal legislation, incumbent Ed Lumley says in speaking of the unique nature of Stormont-Dundas.

He sees the constituency as a microcosm of Canada, containing as it does as many diverse elements as the country as a whole.

The riding contains populations whose native languages are English and French; there is a clearly-defined rural-urban split reflected in the differences of the economics of the city versus rural areas and in the food producer-consumer divergence; the riding shares the international border with the United States; it contains a large population of native people and is close enough to Quebec to feel the repercussions of that province's political decisions.

"Most national policies have an effect in some way on some part of the riding and in that we're very unique."

Asked how a Member of Parliament goes about representing such differing interests, he says that is one of the challenges that has made his job as MP so interesting for the past five years.

"Take the question of marketing boards, for instance. If I was from Toronto, the chances are that I would be 99 per cent against them. If I was from Glengarry, Prescott, Russell, the chances are that I would be 99 per cent in favor. But in a riding with large urban and rural populations, you really have to think a question out and rationalize it over a much broader spectrum."

When he first ran for the House of Commons, in the July 1974 general election, he had two major objects in mind - and both of them - the Cornwall Civic Complex and the Transport Canada Training Institute - related to his position as mayor of Cornwall. But during the past five years "I had a whole new world opened to me, a very intriguing and exciting world. I wondered how I was ever going to understand agriculture and especially the milk situation but now at least I know how the industry is set up."

Going back to the diversity of Stormont-Dundas, the first-term MP says during his time in Ottawa he has learned that "Part of the job as an MP is to find out what effect national policy will have on the constituency. Government is so complex and it's not broken down so that people can understand it. To get a handle on national policy you have to break it down to see how it will affect you locally." Because of the differences in Stormont-Dundas, most federal legislation has an effect on at least one part or another of the riding but he sees one major government decision - to allow the Canadian dollar to float to its own level - as affecting all of the constituency.

It is the economic side of the issues - national as well as his local role - on which he is basing his campaign.

The devalued dollar and its effects on the local economy are paramount among these and are the major reasons why unemployment in the Cornwall area has dropped "from 24 per cent to below eight per cent".

He says he can't believe his Conservative opponent Dick Aubry is taking a negative attitude towards the dollar's fall in value although he admits he "wouldn't want to base a long-term industrial strategy on a lower dollar". Still, the smaller dollar is "allowing us to catch up" and is mainly responsible for the boom in Cornwall's factories.

"Our plant capacity utilization is running at about 89 per cent. Full capacity is 92 to 93 per cent. The textile and pulp and paper industries are running at full capacity and our per capita investment is higher now in Canada than it is in the U.S.

"Joe Clark is saying that there is no confidence in the Canadian economy but if that's so, why is our per capita investment so high.

"There is no area in Canada that benefits more from the devalued dollar than Stormont-Dundas."

A plant tour at Morbern Industries Ltd., a firm manufacturing vinyl products for seating in recreational vehicles and heavy industrial tractors quickly backs up the incumbent on this claim.

No sooner is he through the plant's front door than Doug Fobert, vice-president of finance, comes up and demands to know why the dollar has been allowed to float upward. A low dollar is essential to the company, which exports about 60 per cent of its products to the U.S. Morbean employs about 250 persons and "without the U.S. market we couldn't exist," Mr. Fobert tells the candidate.

The devalued dollar has allowed Morbean to maintain its markets and to increase its payroll by 40 employees over the past two years. "With the devalued dollar we are able to maintain our viability and it must be valued at no higher than 85 cents U.S.," Mr. Fobert says.

However, earlier in the day the double-edged side of devaluation was demonstrated during a tour of Cornwall Spinners Ltd., a firm in the new 400-acre industrial park, which manufactures yarn for the carpet industry.

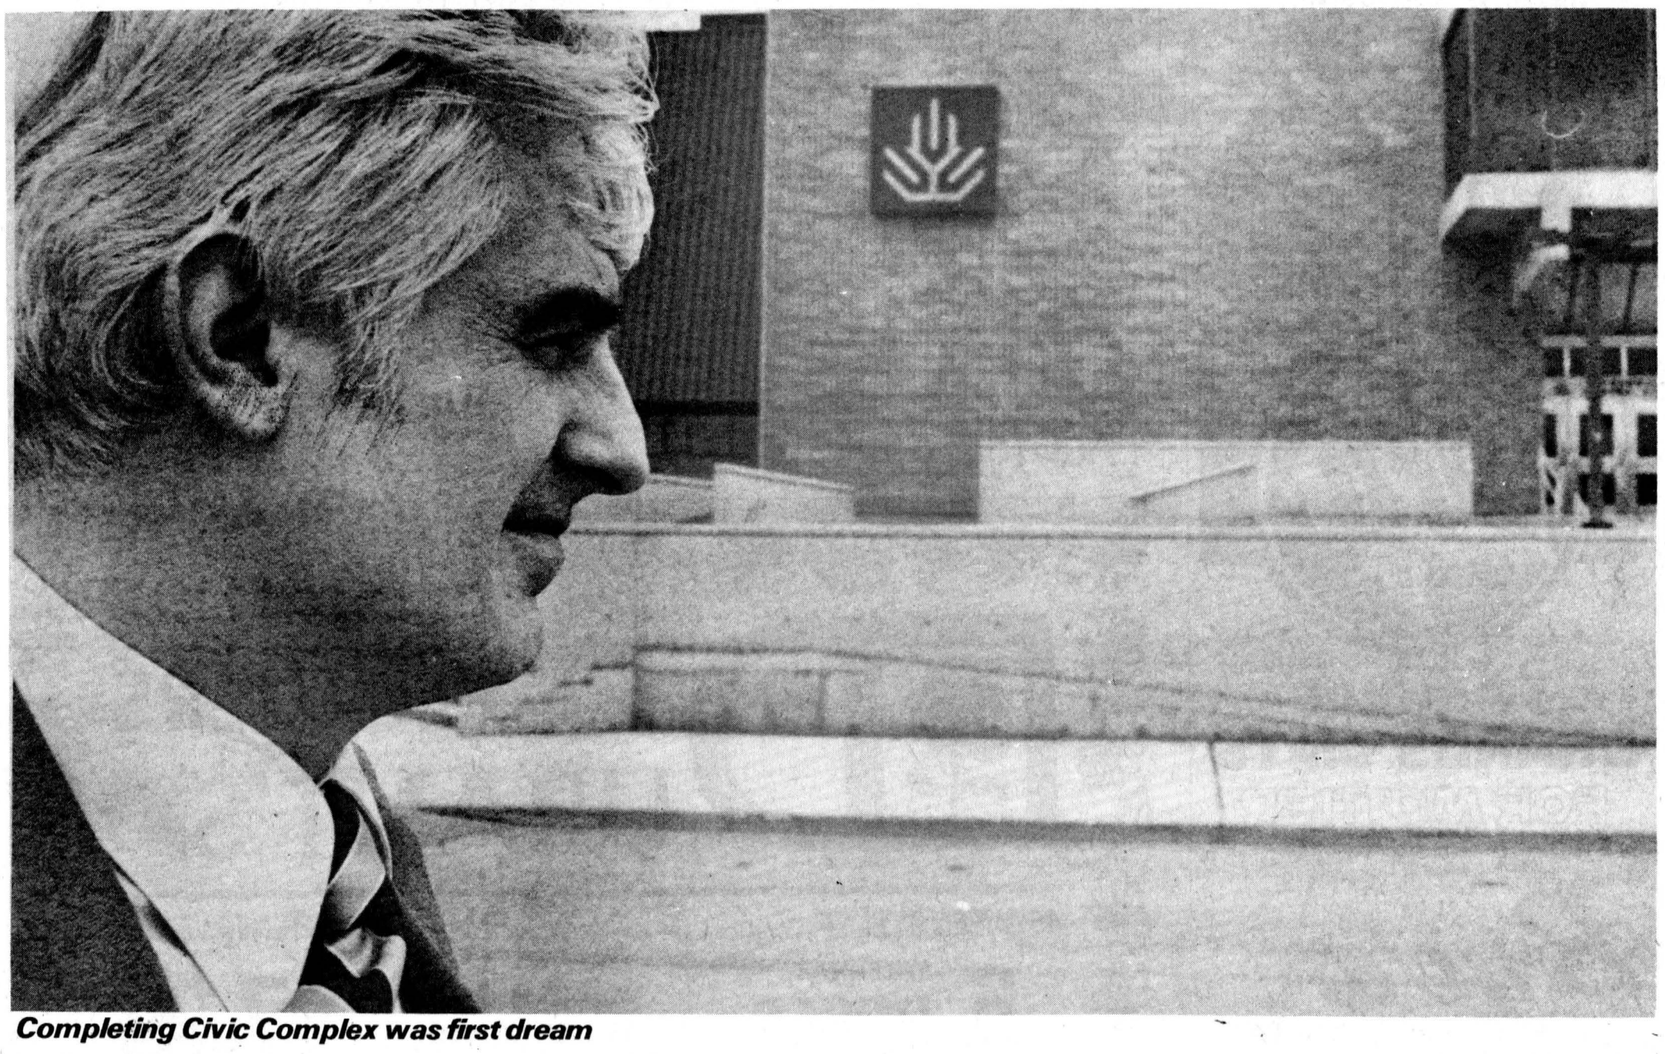
The textile industry is in a constant state of change with the state of the art demanding new technology changes every two or three years. Because its manufacturing equipment is produced in the U.S. the lower dollar results in higher purchasing costs, which, one company official said, increased the price of one particultural piece of equipment 20 per cent between the time it was ordered and delivered.

However, he agrees that Ottawa's accelerated depreciation scheme, which allows the price of machinery to be written off over two years, offsets the disadvantages. Later in the day Mr. Lumley said he hadn't realized until that morning's tour the importance of that piece of fedeal legislation to the riding.

He speaks with pride of his role while mayor of Cornwall - a post he held from 1971 until after his 1974 election to parliament - in getting the $17-million General Development Agreement between Ottawa and Toronto which developed the 400-acre industrial park, built the Civic Complex, developed Water St. and Guindon Park and developed the industrial site for Combustion Engineering Ltd.

Since being elected to Ottawa, he has participated in two more GDA sub-agreements and has become the first MP to have initiated three such agreements.

The latter two - one for the Eastern Ontario hybrid poplar agreement, which guarantees a supply of raw materials for the area's pulp and paper manufacturers, and the other for rural resource development and primary manufacturing - will provide most of their benefits to the rural areas, an important consideration for the incumbent who says he has striven while in office to respresent the two halves of the riding equally.



Completing Civic Complex was first dream

Of this concern to give fair representation to the outlying areas, Mr. Lumley says, "the fedeal government has provided over $3-million in direct job creation grants - not counting subsidies to industry nor New Horizon grants - across the riding and there is no municipality in Stormont-Dundas which as failed to receive "at least one project in every winter and summer job program where applications were made".

Turning to rural issues, he says the Conservatives policy of lowering cheese import quotas won't have much of an effect on Eastern Ontario because the problem here lies with quota-class industrial milk, not with quota-free supplies for specialty cheeses.

Since the import quotas deal largely with specialty cheeses, the incumbent can't see the Tories' policy as having any more than a "fraction of one per cent of impact on cheddar cheese" milk supplies.

The Conservative policy may even have a harmful effect on the cheese industry by eliminating some varieties that are coming into the country in very small quantities. These cheeses are largely being used to "educate" consumers and once they gain acceptance, a larger domestic market will result.

"I can understand why Joe Clark is doing it but after all, who stopped the new specialty cheese plant from coming into Eastern Ontario a couple of years ago? It certainly wasn't the federal government."

More important to Eastern Ontario dairy producers is the government's effort to have more aged cheddar exported to Britain which now forms part of Ottawa's General Agreement on Trades and Tariffs negotiations.

He defends his announcement last week of the extension of Ottawa's participation in ARDA and the resulting $1-million which will be supplied by the federal government for 18 municipal drainage projects in SD&G. The timing of the announcment wasn't politically motivated, he claims. Rather, it came in mid-campaign because he had found three more applications for ARDA funding that municipal clerks had missed and the announcement had to wait until they could be included.

His role as incumbent creates advantages at the same time that it poses disadvantages to his re-election efforts.

While the other candidates are out pounding the pavement, Mr. Lumley has to spend at least a part of each day on constituency problems, dividing his time between Pitt St. campaign headquarters and his Second St. riding office.

Constituency business keeps intruding during the campaign and during rare moments at home, holding up meals, taking over the dining room table and turning the family into political errand-runners.

He spent three days last week juggling Canada Works and Young Canada Works grant applications from across the riding to make sure they weren't overlapping "when I realize I should have been wearing out shoe leather" and while the announcement of another round of job creation grants will undoubtedly enhance his re-election hopes, it will inevitably lead to cries of unfair practices from his opponents.

"I know I'll get flak over announcing summer job programs in the middle of a campaign but these programs are announced at the same time every year."

But it's not as bad as in 1974 when he defeated Fern Guindon and ended up wearing threehats at the same time - MP for Stormont-Dundas, mayor of Cornwall as well as fulfilling provincial duties because of Mr. Guindon's resignation from the legislature to run in the federal election.

"Twenty-hour days were the norm for four months (from July to the end of his term as mayor. That was one crazy period."

During his term in parliament Mr. Lumley has been close to the seat of power but a cabinet post evaded him during his first five years in the Commons. I 1975 he became chairman of the Ontario Liberal caucus and head of the parliamentary committee on Regional Economic Development, stepping up a year later to become parliamentary secretary to Marcel Lessard, minister responsible for the Department of Regional Economics Expansion and in 1977 he became parliamentary secretary to finance minister Jean Chretien.

His participation in international trade negotiations - in which he says he played a very small part - have given him an appreciation of the importance of leadership in government.

Asked about the issues in this campaign he stresses that the "real issue is leadership" but dwells on the importance of a strong leader in international affairs rather than how it relates to national unity.

"Because so much of our GNP depends on other nations, it is extremely important to have respected leadership in international circles" giving as an example GATT negotiations, which put smaller countries like Canada against industrial giants like the U.S., Japan and Germany, and the "Nixonomics" of the early 1970s when the U.S. raised its tariffs and froze out Canadian goods.

"If Prime Minister Trudeau hadn't had a strong rapport with Washington the consequences would have been very serious for Canada."

The prime minister has exhibited strong leadership in all realms of government, according to Mr. Lumley, "In any situation, strong leadership usually culminates in positive results."

Asked about other parties' claims that he has avoided having the prime minister in the riding to campaign for him, he laughs and says, "If I wanted I could get him here and put 5,000 people in the Civic Complex to meet him."

Asked why he sold out his interests in his business to go into federal politics, he says he "feels good to have contributed something to society. I'm glad my kids can walk down the street and can keep their heads up knowing their family has done something for Canada.

"Politics is strictly a means to an end. It's just a way to improve things and is our system for providing change. Elections are a time for partisan politics. The rest of the time is for government."

Dunbar is scheduled to go on the air map next week, when R.H. "Dick" Fawcett, the flying cheesemaker, will have a plane delivered to him on Monday. he has a field near his factory cleared of obstacles which will become the first field used for regular landings in this area. The new plane is a Taylor 40 Cub, a high wing monoplane.

Pupils of the High, Public and Separate schools received this week bronze medals commemorating the visit of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to Canada. He said industrialists near the Nazis group have taken steps to liquidate their holdings with the intention of migrating to another country to start business anew. Canada is particularly attractive.

The number of western rebels against the Government on the budget would have been much larger but for the hurried intervention of Ministers Gardiner and Euler with notices that the Agricultural bonusing bills which have been before the House for several weeks will be withdrawn and revised measures substituted. These notices were interjected as the House of Commons was dealing with the budget in order to assure western Liberals that the Government was prepared to once more alter its decision about the guaranteed minimum price.

Bryan White, editor of the Ottawa Farm Journal opened his talk to the Chesterville Rotary Club by stating that the dairy industry represented $700,000,000 in the economy of Canada. In reviewing the present depression in the industry, he drew attention to several points. In spite of half the world being underfed and in urgent need of essential food products such as milk the lack of dollars hinders the free flow of goods to the needful areas. Another cause is to be found in the great expansion of the dairy industry during the war years. The industry met every demand made on it during those difficult times and it has not yet completely readjusted to the changed conditions. Margarine was the last and most important item mentioned as a cause of the difficulties.

Hon. Lionel Chevrier who has represented Stormont in the Federal government since 1935, was last evening unanimously chosen as the Liberal standard bearer in the county in the approaching general election. Hon. L.B. Pearson, minister of External Affairs, spoke in support of Hon. Mr. Chevrier and told the 500-person gathering at Finch Community Hall that in the ranks of the cabinet ministers "there is no one respected more for his energy and abiltiy in getting things done than Mr. Chevrier."

Recently, 36 young men were graduated from the two-year course at the Agricultural College at Guelph. Practically all went back to the farm. According to reliable sources, more agricultural college graduates on a per capita basis are going back to farms in Canada than in any other country.

With the announcement of a provincial election for June 11, the Liberals of the riding announced their intention of holding a delegated convention. It will be in Spencerville Township Hall on Tuesday, May 12. There is considerale speculation as to the candidate the Grits will chosse. Most attention centres on Mrs. Lillian Allison, of Chesterville, who from here seems to stand the best chance of getting the nod from the delegates.

Local farmers, members of Chesterville Concentrated Milk Producers Association, are up in arms. Over the weekend, it was announced the support price paid by the government on powdered milk would be dropped from 15c per pound to 10c per pound. That is equal to 40c per hundred of whole milk. The association feels there is a lack of foresight in the announced program, especially as it applies to the Chesterville shippers. They feel the Minister of Agriculture has been unrealistic to their particular market.

Premier Frost has finally announced dissolution of the Ontario legislature and has set the election date for June 11. It was not entirely unexpected. The Conservatives have been in power in Ontario now for 16 years. They have been operating with an overwhelming majority of late and occasionally the 80-odd total seems to have gone to the head of the leader. He has come uncomfortably close to being publicly dictatorial by times.

Paul Hellyer, MP, Toronto Trinity, speaking on behalf of Peter Manley, MPP, at the Stormont Liberal convention at Finch last week, blasted federal government financial policies, said Canadian world prestige was slipping under the Diefenbaker administration and described the proposed new Canadian Bill of Rights as inadequate. "Return Peter Manley to Queen's Park," he exhorted his audience. "A Liberal government at Toronto will help to set the stage for removing the present inadequate administration at Ottawa."

Peter Manley, Stormont MPP was unanimously elected to carry the county's Liberal colours. One subject he discussed was the Ontario hospitalization plan. Terming it "a steal" from Hon. Paul Martin, former federal health minister, he said premiums were now paying all costs and that a Liberal administration would look after those chronically ill, those needing custodial care and out-patients under the same set-up.

Who can remain housebound past the first week of May? All in one wild seizure, cattails, fiddleheads, and nettles are up for the picking. Three days later, marsh margiolds, which a British friend calls cowslips, are blossoming in mass array.

The tedious job of preparing the garden, ploughing in last winter's manure, de-stoning, and smoothing with patience begins in earnest. Meanwhile the air has filled with blackflies soon to be followed by mosquitoes. Some days, a blessed breeze holds them at bay.

May means grass, manna to the cows after a winter on hay. They set about grazing with ferocious intensity. The tonic of spring juices creates a great amount of mooing, bawling and running around which tests fences to the limit. There's a great deal of horsing around in the animal kingdom. A neighbor's peas and onions are up.

The peepers gave voice in April but only this week have they found their true range. Once they're in full swing, it is deafening to walk along the swamp at night. It is the nicest form of noise pollution, though.

Life goes on apace with never a dull moment. The other evening, we had a visit from a couple from Switzerland. They are here on a three-week holiday. For those faithful readers, you will recall that it was some ten years ago that I told you about our trip to Europe. This was my first visit with the lady although we have corresponded and my, how we did talk. The man has been to Canada oftener.

We discovered that gasoline is $3.10 per gallon. Never mind the litres... I asked them to speak my language so I would understand. The Farmer looked askance for he has mastered the metric system. I probably never will. I will go on oblivious to the change.

Clothing, groceries, shoes and other staples are equally high priced. They have the same energy-saving concerns as we. In fact, they had experienced one car-less Sunday and found it delightfully free of noise. A happy calm reigned. "In fact, said the lady, "when we went walking, the people smiled and spoke to us although they didn't know us. There was time to be friendly, I guess."

Today I went to the market. The only prerequisite for such a visit is a love of food...all kinds of food. Once upon a time, over a hundred years ago, this market was a bustling, noisy centre of activity as it fed the city of Ottawa from well-stocked stalls of meats, cheeses, breads, eggs, butter, maple products and fresh produce.

Now having been nicely renovated, it adds even more spice to the city. Such a display of foods. In today's market you can indulge your taste buds to the limit. Smell and savor food in every form.

To prepare for a good day on market square, provide yourself with comfortable shoes, some type of tote bag, and a good browsing companion. Not one who wants to hurry, hurry, hurry...

Plan to be on site early and you will succumb to the enticing aroma of fresh coffee. It will be hard to resist, so don't. Have a small cup of some exotic brew and a pastry to accompany it.

At this time of day the square is not crowded, and it is the best time for viewing the whole scene without pushing and shoving. If you wish, sit a spell to sip your coffee and imagine, if you can, what this market meant to the social life of the community so long ago.

Actually, the buildings have changed little; it is what the vendors purvey that has changed. There are still cheeses, only now they are from all nations. The fruits and vegetables tend to be from the United States but when local produce is abundant and seasonal, that is what you will find.

What do I actually like best about the market? Well, best of all, I like the sense of festivity that is present at all season of the year.

I have finished my coffee and am prepared to walk around. I take one section at a time, and work my way up and down the aisles both indoors and out. One direction you can order fowl or buy fat, juicy sausage. The other direction offers rich pastries, unusual teas, pates, homemade jellies, Oriental specialties and a great variety of fresh juice stands

You are in a magic garden of foods. Everything is the best and everything is here at your fingertips. The fish market has the freshest fish ever. The produce stands have the biggest lettuces and avocados, oranges the size of grapefruit, and strawberries, fit for a Queen's tart, from California.

Visions of my Sunday dinner menu races through my head. It must be time for lunch. The desire to eat becomes overwhelming and I decide on some ethnic food of which I am not acquainted. I sit on a bench and spread my purchases on Farmer's Rye Bread, cover it nicely with hot mustard, take one bite and announce it fit for a king. Or queen.

To work off your lunch, you should now do the outside perimeter of the market area covering the shops and craft corners. Now is the time to think about serious purchases as you encounter a pottery corner, a kitchen boutique with every imaginable utensil to turn you into a gourmet cook, a book stall with nothing but Canadiana, and a wonderful shop with nothing but natural foods.

There is a spirit shop not far away and a boutique where you can buy a tote bag if you forgot your own. Or simply need another one to fill. Be sure to inspect the handcraft booths, largely local and very young in spirit.

The whole atmosphere is one of enthusiasm, yet the average shopper age is forty, and you will see many middle-aged and senior citizens in the crowd? It has nothing to do with chronological age. The marketplace always makes me feel young. As I look around, I feel it has the same effect on other people too.

The market, it seems to me, must be as real today as when it was originally conceived, and it answers the concept of marketing, meeting the needs of a people. And, of course, it is the people who make the market.

I plan to go each season of this year. It has become a priority with me.

We have yet to make our first work trip to the cottage. I always rather dread that first excursion for it means Work! Work! Work! However, I do enjoy the river. We often talk of parting with it as it is a lot of extra work but, to date, have not taken that momentous step.

The seeding and planting of the fields are the order of the day and farmers work from daylight to long after dusk. There seems to be no time for rocking on the front porch, a group of us remarked the other day. However, that must be because we do other things instead.

A few weeks back, I stated that I intended to savor time this year, not jush dash from the facet of livng to another. Well, I really meant it. And this weekend, if all is well, I plan to implement such a schedule. I will report back in a month.

Also I am going to go through a physical fitness testing program this month. The mere mention of it makes the Farmer double up with laughter. However if I don't measure up, he'll never know. And I will embark upon an excercise program that is scheduled to my needs alone. Most any one would be better than no one, the Farmer informs me.

Ah well, I never did like exercising but...

Sarah has mastered her two wheel bicycle and I still ride my three wheeler. I don't mind being laughed at. It's rather fun to have horns sound along the road, as I peddle merrily on my way.

Darcy is a real little farmer and doesn't like the truck or tractor to depart for the field without him. Lady and Baron share his sentiments so by times the vehicles are rather crowded.

May can be fickle too. It was cold this morning with a threat of frost for tonight. Surely it will end in the warm embrace of summer.

heralding ontario's spring

A caller to an Ottawa open-line radio program last week said that in the five years she has lived in Chesterville, she has not yet discovered the existence of any organizations to belong to. The program centred around how people felt about the towns in which they lived, and this particular caller told the program's host that life in Chesterville was boring. The host glibly shot back that life in small towns must be dull, dull, dull. Those who are active in community organizations should pity this pair - one for suffering from lack of information, the other for talking about something he obviously knows little about.

A brief glimpse at the list of organizations in this village - similar to lists that could be drawn up in any village like Chesterville across Canada - shows that life in small communities is anything but dull, if only the individual gets out and finds out what is going on. There is an incredible variety of organizations to belong to; a tremendous diversity of volunteer work to be done by those willing to do it, and a large number of groups that just feel good belonging to.

At the risk of insulting some organizations or group by omitting it from the list, here is what villages like Chesterville has to offer: men's and women's divisions of the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society, Rotary, Chamber of Commerce (open to men and women whether they are engaged in business or not), IOOF, Rebekahs, Royal Canadian Legion and its Women's Auxiliary, Women's Institute, hospital Auxiliary, Connaught Rod and Gun Club, minor hockey, firefighters and the wives' auxiliary, Meals on Wheels, senior citizens club, UCW, CWL, ACW, WMS, broomball, softball and figure skating, the impromptu Canada Week Committee, school committees for both St. Mary's and Chesterville Public, Dundas County Association for the Mentally Retarded, leaders for the Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Beavers, Guides and Brownies, bowling leagues, town league hockey and fastball and women's broomball and fastball, snowmobile clubs, organizations like the Cancer Society, CNIB, Heart Fund, etc., the newly-formed parents' group to organize and supervise activities for teenagers - all this without mentioning the need for leaders for church youth groups. As well, there are two Lions Clubs - in Finch and Winchester - within a 10-minute drive; the Winchester curling club, another short drive; Morrisburg Canadian Club; golf courses; St. Lawrence Parks and Upper Canada Village. Granted all these involve some driving, but how fast can a person in the city get from point A to point B having to fight urban traffic or relying on OC Transpo?

True, some of our organizations may lack the glamor of being a supporter of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra or spending the afternoon at the Royal Ontario Museum, but to say there is nothing to do in a small town is like saying God didn't make little green apples. - robin morris -

Cancer clinic in Ingleside

The Stormont Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society attracted 93 women to its highly-publicized breast self-examination clinic Saturday. With bus service provided by Delaney's throughout Stormont County and almost 50 volunteers, including three doctors and 16 nurses, Mrs. Irene Casselman, head of the campaign, was slightly disappointed at the response although she believes it was a successful project. Part of the clinic included an introductory videotype in the IOOF hall (above) Mrs. Myles Nephew (left) and Mrs. Russell Dillabough (right) display posters explaining examination procedure. The clinic provided women with individual guidance on how to check for breast cancer at the St. Lawrence Medical Centre, Ingleside.

RRCA names first resources manager

MARTINTOWN (Staff) - The Raisin River Conservation Authority is boasting about the appointment of its first general manager.

Formerly "on loan" to the authority as acting resources manager employed by the Ministry of Natural Resources, Jay Currier replaced retiring acting resources manager Arthur Chalk in January. Mr. Currier has exchanged less responsibility for more in addition to accepting a salary hike to $23,000 annually.

The creation of a managerial position reflects the growth of the authority's programs, said Mr. Currier Thurs., May 3. It had reached a point, he said, where the authority needed someone who could handle administrative duties as well as technical responsibilities.

In principle, the appointment of a general manager will give the authority more independence, he said.

Still, he has not totally severed the economic or information lifeline to the provincial government. The ministry will subisidize his salary by 66 per cent and will also provide needed expertise. Mr Currier expects to be in frequent contact with the government office.

By creating the position of general manager, the authority has erased the possibility of a manger finding himself in a compromising position. Instead of answering to both the authority and the ministry a general manager is responsible only to the authority.

Mr. Currier is the first general manager to be appointed to a conservation authority in Eastern Ontario. Similar positions have been created in other parts of the province, however.

Cyclists ride despite cold wind

A bitter wind didn't stop bicyclists from starting the 40 kilometre bike-a-thon route along the Long Sault Parkway Saturday but it stopped some from completing it. The Ingleside-Osnabruck Rotary club held the event to raise funds to build kitchen facilities at the Stormont fairgrounds in Newington. Rotarian Earl Jeacle "guesstimates" that the 210 participants - half of whom started before 9:30am - will raise $2,000 from per kilometre pledges. Three participants (above) are just starting from the Parkway's west entrance as the Watsons, Helmers and Werts of Newington roll in with a trailerful of bikes and kids to begin their trek.

$27,200 grant for RRCA

MARTINTOWN (Staff) - Raisin River Conservation Authority has received a 16 per cent supplementary grant from the provincial government for its main branch channelization this year.

The Ministry of Natural Resources granted $27,200 April 27 - 16 per cent of its 1979 budget of $170,000 - in addition to its regular 55 per cent grant, said the authority's secretary-treasurer Janet Decarie Fri., May 4. The ministry offers the 15 to 20 per cent supplementary grant to aid smaller authorities, she said. The grant depends on the authority's annual budget and is adjusted yearly.

Altogether, the ministry will pick up 71 per cent of this year's tab, leaving 29 per cent to be paid by the three benefitting municipalities - Roxborough, Osnabruck and Cornwall Townships. Ten per cent of their share will be paid by the seven non-benefitting townships belinging to the authority.

The four-year $800,000 channelization project was approved in February. The authority plans to spend $170,000 this year surveying the seven-mile stretch between St. Andrews and the Osnabruck-Cornwall Township boundary and flood-proofing in St. Andrews. It also expects to begin channelization in this stretch but has not pinpointed a particular section, yet.

Field survey work is underway and the final design is on the drawing board, said general manager Jay Currier Thurs., May 3. He expects this preliminary work to be completed by July when the authority will tender for contracts.

Two inspectors hired by Osnabruck Twp.

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Staff) - Osnabruck Township council hired two new employees at its regular meeting Tues., May 1 - a building official and a drainage inspector.

John Wheeler has been hired jointly with Cornwall Township to enforce the Ontario Building Code and zoning in both Osnabruck and Cornwall Townships. Because this is the first time the township has hired a full-time building official, there is a six-month probationary period.

Previously the township has employed Richie Warren part-time. Employed by several other townships, Mr. Warren inspected buildings only when permits were required, according to township clerk Lois Smith.

Cornwall and Osnabruck Townships will share the salary cost. Cornwall will also supply a van, the cost of which will be shared with Osnabruck.

The township also hired a drainage inspector for the first time. William Rutley, Ingleside, will be paid on an hourly basis to inspect municipal drains for maintenance and beaver dams, etc.

The position is up for review within a month. Council will assess the demands of the job and decide on the appropriate method of payment - whether on an hourly basis or on the basis of a mileage maintenance check.

Representatives from Cornwall Township were present to discuss the joint hiring of a building inspector. Because Osnabruck Township council had already hired Mr. Rutley, Cornwall Township council will be considering his appointment as well.

Spruce, Hoople and Piercey Streets received some attention Tuesday.

Council has initiated an inquiry by road superintendent, Bart Whitton, to determine whether the developers or the township are responsible for grading and seeding of the road ditches along these streets. They have never been graded or seeded.

If Mr. Whitton cannot determine responsibility a solicitor will be consulted, said Mrs. Smith.

The council is also investigating the cost of street lights and their installation along these streets. It will price the lights from suppliers and decide how many streets it can light on a yearly basis before asking for tenders.

Reforestation efforts stepped up

CORNWALL (Special) - Reforestation efforts being carried out by the Ministry of Natural Resources in the United Counties of Prescott-Russell and the United Counties of Dundas-Stormont-Glengarry are increasing on private land.

The area, with a great deal of idle land originally cleared for agriculture but found not to be productive, is being planted with trees that will provide a strong economic base for the forests industries in Eastern Ontario.

To date, the bulk of spring plantings has been on public land either Crown Land; land owned by the counties and managed by the Ministry of Natural Resources under a lease agreement, or land purchased by a conservation authority.

In 1967, the Woodlands Improvement Act (WIA) provided private land owners with the opportunity of reforestating their property to increase its value. In the following years, between 15 and 30 WIA agreements were signed annually for private land reforestation.

Last year, however, 50 agreements were signed for planting this spring and Geoff Highm, forester in the Cornwall district, expects that number to increase this year for planting next spring.

Once an agreement is signed, the Ministry of Natural Resources prepares the site for planting the most suitable tree species. The next spring, trees from the G. Howard Ferguson Forest Station in Kemptville are planted on the site.

Most of these trees are pine or spruce species.

This spring, the Ministry of Natural Resources is hiring private companies to plant many of the WIA sites to Ministry specifications. The ministry is doing some planting with its own crews as well.

Under the WIA agreement, the landowner agrees to protect the planted trees for 15 years from weeds and disease. The ministry provides training and assistance to landowners to do this.

Samis backs Peters

Low turnout at NDP rally

CORNWALL (Staff) - Maybe it was the competition from Saturday night's NHL playoff game, but for the second time in two weeks the New Democratic Party failed to draw much support for a rally here.

A crowd of only about 35 turned out at the House of Labor here Saturday night to meet candidate Brian Peters and despite a disco and presence of NDP MLA George Samis, most of the tables in the hall remained empty throughout the evening.

Very few Canadian Paperworkers' Union members have come out to the rallies even after their executive have publically supported the NDP in this election. NDP candidate Brian Peters said the situation in Cornwall is a particular one.

The NDP is having problems in this area getting total commitments from unions, said Mr. Peters, although he believes there are a lot of supporters.

Union members, especially older ones, are hesitant to support the NDP because they related the party with their union executive which displeased members in a decision it made over a strike four years ago in Cornwall, said Mr. Peters. He also observed that those with more to lose support the NDP less.

"Workers should realize that they haven't got advantages. In some cases they are worse off today than they were five years ago."

CPU representative Wilfred Oliver, present at both rallies, said the union effort in Cornwall to support the NDP, a decision endorsed by union conventions, was to distribute a pamphlet it had printed last week.

"We're doing what we can," he told the Record.

Union support may be influenced by a visit May 16 and 17 by union vice-president of the Manitoba-Ontario region, Tom Curley, who was disappointed at the low-turnout at the first rally. He will be taping a one-hour talk on cable channel 11 and plantgating BASF Canada Ltd., Columbia Finishing and both the paper and craft mills of Domtar with Mr. Peters in an effort to elicit support.

Mr. Samis and Mr. Peters sought workers for the campaign in their respective speeches at the rally.

Already the NDP has finished its first canvass in Cornwall where the party is concentrating its campaign because the chance to unseat Mr. Lumley is in the city, said Mr. Peters.

Long distance calls easier

CRYSLER (Special) - Bell Canada is introducing automatic number identification here May 12.

This means that Crysler (987) telephone users who dial their own long distance calls no longer will hear an operator come on the line to ask their number.

Instead, when they direct distance dial, their number will be registered automatically on tape in the telephone switching office.

"This will make DDD faster and more convenient for our subscribers", according to Ray Jette, Cornwall, Bell's manager for this area.

Mr. Jette said the equipment will serve customers with individual and two-party line service only. Those with multi-party line service still will be asked by an operator to give their telephone number when they dial their own long distance calls.

BRIAN PETERS NDP

A FAIR DEAL FOR STORMONT — DUNDAS

THIS ELECTION IS ABOUT PRICES

So was the last one. We opposed the Conservative's promise of wage and price controls. So did Trudeau, but he and his M.P.'s introduced them after the election. Shouldn't this make you wonder about the Liberal promises this election?

IT'S TIME WE GOT SERIOUS ABOUT PRICES

Trudeau's Anit-Inflation Board strictly controlled your wages, but allowed prices to soar (though not at the farm gate)
BRIAN PETERS and the NDP want to introduce legislation to ROLL BACK any unfair price increases by large corporations
We can do this, because we don't accept campaign funds from them, as do the other two parties

Rev. Donald N. MacMillan

Finch Township native honored with doctorate

(Special) - Rev. Donald N. MacMillan, a native of Finch Township and minister of Kenyon Church, Dunvegan, for 24 years, will be honored by the Senate of Presbyterian College, Montreal, when the degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa, is conferred upon him.

The ceremony will be a part of the college's 112th annual convocation, to be held this evening (Wednesday) in the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, in downtown Montreal.

Rev. W. Standord Reid, M.A., Th.M., Ph.D., will similarly be honored. It is expected that 13 students will receive graduating diplomas.

In inviting the acceptance of the degree, Dr. Klempa, principal of Presbyterian College, wrote on behalf of the College Senate, "The college is conscious and deeply grateful for your faithful service during the past 19 years. Your years as professor of systematic theology and then as acting principal of Presbyterian College were years during which Presbyterian College saw growth in its numbers and its continuing programme for minsters. Your contribution to the work of the whole church, as well as your years as minister of Kenyon Church, Dunvegan, deserve recognition and honor".

Dr. MacMillan is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacMillan. He attended St. Luke's Public School, Finch and graduated in 1926 from Avonmore High School.

From McGill University he obtained his BA in 1929 and his MA the following year. He graduated from Presbyterian College in 1933 with his Bachelor of Divinity. Two years later he received his doctorate in Theology from the University of Edinburgh.

Immediately Dr. MacMillan undertook the pastorate in Kenyon Church, which was to extend over a 24-year period. He was ordained and inducted July 4, 1935. He was granted leave of absence to serve as a chaplain with the RCAF from Jan. 1941 to Sept. 1945.

He served as moderator of the Presbytery of Glengarry for three terms and was moderator of the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa in 1949. He was chairman of General Assembly's Board of Education from 1954 to 1959.

In June 1959 Dr. MacMillan was appointed to the chair of systematic theology. He was granted a sabbatical study leave in Switzerland, in 1972 and was acting prinicpal of Presbyterian College from 1973 to 1978, a position from which he retired in August of last year.

Dr. MacMillan married Jean MacLean, of Ottawa in October, 1936. They have two sons, Dr. Donald Kenneth MacMillan, Finch, and Robert Neil MacMillan, a teacher in Lisgar Collegiate, Ottawa.

St. Lawrence Parks ready to open May 15

MORRISBURG (Special) - May 15 marks the start of the 19th consecutive year of operation for the St. Lawrence Parks Commission. On that date, all recreational and historical facilities will open to the public, with the exception of Upper Canada Golf Course which opened May 5.

Since the official opening on June 24, 1961, over 48-million have visited the commission's recreational resources, including 1,693,000 camper groups, 5,043,000 visitors to Upper Canada Village and 3,184,000 at Old Fort Henry in Kingston.

The commission's 15 major campgrounds, located along the St. Lawrence from the Bay of Quinte to the Quebec border, offer outdoor recreation for camping enthusiasts from far and near.

There are over 2,600 tent and trailer sites, many with electrical hook-ups available, on thousands of acres of Commission parklands. Picnic areas, nature trails, riding trails and supervised swimming beaches offer a variety of leisure time recreational options.

Upper Canada Village on highway two east of Morrisburg offers the visitor an opportunity to experience the life of early Eastern Ontario. History is brought alive for thousands of visitors each year in this living museum of 35 carefully restored buildings and their contents. Crafts and demonstrations such as spinning, weaving, quilt-making, blacksmithing, cheesemaking and breadmaking, industry and transportation portray pionner life of over a century ago.

The Fort Henry Guard, dressed in authentic uniforms and using equipment of 1867, presents daily precision drills for visitors. Each Wednesday and Saturday evening during July and August, the Guard presents a spectacular Ceremonial Retreat, beginning at 7:30pm weather permitting.

Crysler Marina, a mile west of Upper Canada Village on highway two, offers dockside services, while Crysler Park Airstrip immediately west of the golf course, is available for light aircraft during daylight hours.

Shelley Holmes (second from left) and three others danced the 1920s Charleston and Danielle Gryspeerdt (second from right) disco-danced to the beat of the 70s with 13 others. Hydro proposes another increase (Staff) - Village residents can expect another hike in their 1980 Hydro rates if Ontario Hydro's proposal for average bulk power increases of 9.5 per cent is accepted by the Ontario Energy Board (OEB).

Hydro announced last week that it would be seeking the increase for wholesale power supplied to municipalities and 100 large industrial customers because of a forecast of $202-million in increased costs.

Power rates in Chesterville were raised by 9.4 per cent at the beginning of 1979 to cover Ontario Hydro increases in the price of bulk power supplied to the municipality.

The 1980 increase, if accepted by OEB, would be about $3 for each residential customer, plus any increase in distribution costs at the local utility level.

The actual increase in the wholesale cost of power supplied to Ontario's 332 municipal utilities will differ in each case, depending on individual demand, energy use and supply conditions but will average 9.9 per cent, according to Ontario Hydro chairman Robert Taylor.

For the first time in six years, large industrial customers supplied by the provincial corporation will face a smaller increase than will municipal utilities. Hydro has proposed a 7.8 per cent increase for industrial customers.

Real fishy

LONG SAULT (Staff) - Fishing is a leisurely sport and one that offers an edible record but Condy Ward discovered that sometimes there is more to fishing than fish.

Sitting by the banks of the St. Lawrence Saturday the 13-year-old caught a floating wine bottle which contained a less-than-cryptic message. It read:

"This is the first officer of the Eastcliff Hall with a full load of pig iron. We are presently sinking in the channel of the St. Lawrence. There is no hope of anyone surviving. Finder of this note come to ship's watery grave. In boiler room two in a steel cabinet in the corner there is a million dollars worth of platinum plates".

Though the signature was apparently illegible Sheila Ward, Condy's mother, deciphered it as that of Robert Mansfield.

The Eastcliff Hall sank in the St. Lawrence several years ago. Long Sault OPP dismiss the message as a hoax claiming an officer would not have had enough time to write it, said Mrs. Ward, also an employee of the Long Sault OPP station.

The bottle had the remains of the label still attached identifying it as a bottle of "Baby Bear". It's base was pitted, as if it had been eroded.

Berwick man helping organize district sports show

CORNWALL (Special) - When the doors of the Cornwall Civic Complex swing open September 21 to signal the start of the first sports show ever held in the district, one of the people responsible for this historic event will be area resident Owen Manley.

The Seaway Valley Sports Show, to run for three days, will be the first of its kind in the area and a special effort is being made to draw exhibitors and spectators from the rural areas, Manley says.

The Berwick resident is no stranger to this community or the sporting world. Son of the former Stormont MPP Peter Manley, the younger Manley has been employed with Nestle Canada Ltd. in Chesterville for 13 years.

A professional ski instructor, he was honored by Cornwall and district sportsmen last year when he received an award for his contribution to the field of skiing.

Fully licensed by the Canadian Ski Instructors' Alliance, Manley has been skiing for 23 years and is a member and past president of the Cornwall Ski Club and a former member of the Ottawa Ski Club.

Owen Manley

He was a bronze medalist in the recreational alpine racing event sponsored by Molson's and was director of the Cornwall Ski Club School from 1974-77. He was technical advisor to the YMCA-YWCA Ski School in 1972.

"There is currently no vehicle for adequately making the community aware of the many sporting goods and services available to them," Manley says.

"Larger centres such as Ottawa have tremendous success with their sports shows and we felt that sporting activity in this area has grown to the stage where we deserved a show of our own.

"Using the ample facilities of the Cornwall Civic Complex, we intend to put on a top quality show that will draw exhibitors from as far away as Brockville and Upper New York."

Manley and the other show organizers are emphasizing the Counties-wide aspect of the show.

"We want rural people to realize that this show is as much for them as it is for Cornwall residents. Consequently, we'll be around knocking on doors in the Chesterville-Winchester area over the next several weeks offering space to interested merchants and sports organizations.

Over 200 booths are available, Manley reports, and an intensive radio, television and newspaper advertising campaign is being developed to attract people from throughout the United Counties, Western Quebec and New York State.

The booths are being expertly designed by a display company and professional entertainment is also being lined up.

"It's a big undertaking - we realize that," Manley notes. "But we also recognize that the area needs something like this to make more people aware of the sporting opportunities that exist.

"We intend to cover a wide range of sporting goods and services as well as other fall and winter recreational activities.

"We've had tremendous encouragement so far and have already sold several booths simply by word of mouth. Many merchants have told us how they feel an area sports show is long overdue. We plan to make it an annual occurrence."

Ingleside returns to men's ball loop

(Staff) - After a brief absence from competing in the North Stormont Intermediate Men's Fastball League, Ingleside has rejoined the fold.

Treasure Island Inn will represent the riverfront village in the league which has been expanded to six teams for the coming season. It had five member clubs a year ago.

Defending champion Newington is back again this season with opposition from Berwick, Osnabruck Centre, Avonmore and Chesterville.

Representatives of a possible Monkland entry attended the recent organizational meeting but league officials were told on the weekend that the community would not seek a league franchise.

To start, league games will be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday with the Sunday games to be dropped after a few weeks. It is expected the regular season will open next week but no official playing dates have been set yet.

Local teenagers get alternative

(Staff) - Three village couples have taken the initiative to provide some "loosely supervised" fun for Chesterville's youth.

A dance was held back in March and just Saturday past over 40 village youths embarked on a bus trip to a roller disco in Ottawa.

Organizers say they have not advertised either of the two events, which in their minds were well attended. Thirty kids went to the dance and 44 to the roller disco.

Heading the on-going program are Rev. and Mrs. Fred Reed, Tom and Dot Hewitt and Bruce and Mary Morrison. More volunteers are stepping forward all the time.

Mrs. Hewitt explained Tuesday morning the main reason for holding the outings is simply to "give kids 12-16 years an alternative to hanging around".

Events have only been heard about by word of mouth around town and at school.

Involved persons are meeting later this week, said Mrs. Hewitt, to organize a dance for June 1 and possibly talk up interest in some outdoor activities for the summer months.

Mrs. Hewitt notes a financial record is being kept with the main objective being to keep the ledger as close to zero as possible. In fact, she notes the three couples may already be out a couple of dollars.

Rev. Reed of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church commented the small group is "not narrow" but merely hope to offer guidance for village youngsters, who are at the "awkward age" of between 12 and 16 years. It is at the age that youths want to attend dances but can't because of such things as liquor regulations.

Rev. Reed says the events have nothing to do with the church or religion. The outings are planned by a group of people who feel alcohol, etc. are not well-enough controlled as they would like to have it.

The outings are well chaperoned by adults, commented Rev. Reed, but it is hoped to give the youngsters freedom to move around and do what they want.

The group knows what youngsters will attend events and enjoy themselves and those are the ones they would like to see.

For the dance, youngsters had to sign in when they entered and parents were aware of where they were and how they were getting home. The dance went from 8-11pm.

Cyclists raise $350 for Winchester Township Snowmobile Club

Eighteen of 21 cyclists completed the 20 mile bike-a-thon sponsored by the Winchester Township Snowmobile Club Saturday. The club will earn approximately $350 from the third annual event which officials say may be the last. Officials say most of the 300 pledge sheets were picked up from the various places and they find it difficult to understand why there weren't more participants. Timmy Hess was first to complete the course which went from Chesterville to Winchester, east on the County Road 3 and south on County Road 7 back to Chesterville. Participants are asked to collect their pledges and turn them in to John VanBruinessen at Durant's Flowers in Chesterville by this weekend. The draw for the bike or tickets to the roller disco in Ottawa will be held when all the money is collected. In the left photo, Damian Laflamme, left, Mike Ganter and Marque Laflamme make time on CR 3 while in the right photo Robert Larose signs a pledge sheet at one of the checkpoints.

Minor hockey president ready for challenge ahead

(Staff) - When George Flanigan offered on April 9 to serve as president of the Chesterville and District Minor Hockey Association for the 1979-80 season there was an instant sigh by the 16 persons in attendance at the association's annual meeting.

The sighs were of relief because no one would be "hornswoggled" into taking the CDMHA's top post. A second reaction to Mr. Flanigan stepping forward to accept the position was that of "who is this newcomer".

George Flanigan is just that to Chesterville, a newcomer, having moved here from Cornwall a little over a year ago.

Upon moving here he had intentions of getting involved with the village's minor hockey program. He moved quickly right to the top with nobody offering as much as a thimble full of resistance.

But he took the giant step and now he hopes to develop a tighter ship. He looks now to vice-president Peter DeRooy Jr. and treasurer Doug Rance to help him select a secretary and referee-in-chief.

Flanigan agrees he may not have lived here very long and many of his views of the hockey association are still unfounded but he thinks he has something to offer.

Flanigan's term started immediately upon volunteering and he says he was "promised all the books within a week but it's over a month now" and he still doesn't have them.

Until he gets the books, he can't sit down with the other executive members and plan for next year. He wants to get started as soon as possible.

"Personal contact" is what he wants more of to get more people to attend public meetings. He says parents are good workers at the rink, in cheering and transporting the youngsters.

When asked about how he first heard of the annual meeting, Flanigan said he received a letter in the mail inviting him to attend. It was the first meeting he knew of, he added.

He commented it didn't seem right that he should have to volunteer for the presidency and will be working to set up a nominating committee to work all year. He though it was humorous that people were waiting to get out of minor hockey work rather than getting into it.

The call to get minor hockey players back to learning the basic skills and inject more fun in game has landed on Flanigan's ears. He has a son playing in the Atom division and wants boys up to and including that level "being taught the basic skills to a greater degree. I would like to see more practices and less games at the lower levels".

Flanigan's son played approximately 28 games with the Atom B Flyers during the past season and he would like to see that figure reduced to about 10. He suggest 12-15 games for the Atom A squad.

He says "It's difficult to have fun playing hockey if you don't know the skills of skating, passing and shooting."

He believes the association executive and coaches should meet and agree on the path local minor hockey players should be taking. It's not good to have coaches working in contrast.

Flanigan agrees refereeing is not an easy chore and the Ottawa District Minor Hockey Association has done a lot in sponsoring clinics each year but the local association has to help itself. He would like to have the referee-in-chief spot monitor the local boys in the striped-shirts to help them improve.

He finds no individual faults but would like more minor infractions (high sticking, cross-checking, slashing, charging, boarding) called. He sees too much of the chippy style of play.

He also would like the association to come down hard on fighters. He would like a one-game suspension for a fight, two games for a second major, three games for a third and lengthy suspensions beyond that.

He has pelnty of ideas, whether minor hockey parents agree or not. But there is one thing for certain everyone agrees on - George Flanigan and his executive have a tall order to fill.

ND students square S-S Challenge Series

By Steve Grubb
and Ron Porteous

Spring gradually becomes more summer-like and, as the days grow increasingly longer, so too do the students grow increasingly more restless.

One effort to settle down the students came last Thursday when the students and staff battled in the Pentathlon. The teachers tried stalling tactics which partially worked when, on Wednesday, part of the students' team had to leave on the band trip. Not deterred, recruits were grabbed and furiously drilled with obvious results, we won.

The students jumped into an early lead when Bruce Beattie and Wilma KelinSwormink combined to outflip Mr. Trillo and Mrs. Danaher in the pancake race. This lead was extended when the blindfolded trio of Jenny Quinn, Bill Billings, and Jeff Derue broke ten balloons faster than the equally blindofolded teachers' team of Mr. Bowen, Mrs. Lapointe, and Mr. Oulahen.

The cracker chew was by far one of the closest contests. After Mr. Green had beaten Laura Wouters and Bruce Beattie was victorious over Mr. Chiarot, the stage was set for the final where Mr. Green, with the benefit of years of experience in these games, narrowly beat out a fast chewing challenger.

With the students ahead 2-1, the teachers needed a strong showing in the egg throw and clean up they did. Mr. Paquette and Mr. Lewis out tossed Ellen Blaine and Dianne Baker, Mrs. McKay and Mr. Sloan, and Paul Gibson and Rob Taylor and tied the competition with only one event remaining.

Down 5-4 in the total series, the pressure was on the students who responded with a convincing victory in the chugalug to win the Pentathlon three vents to two and also tie up the Staff-Student Challenge Series at five wins apiece. The team of Jeff Derue, Ian Matthews, Bruce Beattie and Pete MacLeod easily beat Miss Moffat, Mr. Bowen, Mr. Raffan, and Mr. Harper.

Thursday (tomorrow) the school track meet is being held. The winners and top finishers in each event will represent our school at the SD&G meet held at Seaway next Thurs., May 17.

Our Senior band has just returned from a trip to Kingston where they played nine concerts in four days, mostly at public schools. All involved had a great time.

On Tuesday, there was an assembly where prizes were awarded to the winners in the magazine selling campaign and eight members of the Athletic Association got pies in the faces because we didn't reach our goal of $10,000. We did raise over $8600 and would like to tahnk all the members of the strrounding communities for their support and participation.

Co-chairmen named for minor ball loop

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Staff) - Recreation department heads for Chesterville and Osnabruck Township will serve as co-chairmen of the Osnabruck and District Minor Softball League this season.

Rick St. Dennis of Chesterville and Osnabruck Township's Joe DuVall recently agreed to share the top post of the area's minor softball program.

Last year's president Bob Thompson of Ingleside will step down but not out of the picture by agreeing to help the two recreation directors when need be.

The duo will handle all league grieveances and set up the regular season schedules.

Gail Shaver of Finch was named the league's secretary-treasurer.

All communities represented in the league last year were represented at last week's meeting.

Team officials will meet again at 8pm Thurs., May 24 at the Osnabruck Township hall to establish what teams will be completing in what divisions this coming season.

In Chesterville, youngsters are in search of coaches with only the midget girls' team boasting of persons looking after the managerial duties.

Williamsburg opens schedule next Thursday

(Staff) - Many of the area's ball diamonds are still too wet to even hold practices on but it will not stop the Dundas Fastball League from getting one of its earliest starts ever on the regular campaign.

Next. Thurs., May 17, the Pioneers will open the season in Maynard against the Roadrunners and the defending chapion Brockville Commercial Stars will be in Cardinal. The following night, Brockville plays in Williamsburg. The four teams will each play a 24-game season.

The DFL's big three - Brockville, Cardinal and Williamsburg - are also entered in the Canada Day Weekend Ontario Amateur Softball Association Senior A elimination tournament at Kemptville.

The tournament is being sponsored for the second time in the event's 14 year history by the Kemptville Lions Club. Kemptville hosted 24 teams back in 1974 and this year's event will feature 26 teams from all parts of the province.

The opening pitch will be tossed Fri., June 29 with the final out to be made Mon., July 2.

Eastern Ontario will also be represented by two Ottawa teams - Ottawa Turpins and Ottawa Vic Tanny - both of the Ottawa Metro League.

Opening round draw for the tournament was held recently in Toronto and it has St. Catharines stacked up against Williamsburg, Ottawa Vic Tannys playing Windsor and Ottawa Turpins meeting Brockville all at 7pm opening night.

At 9pm opening night, Cardinal will take to the field against Richmond Hill, World champions back in 1973.

Saturday, Watertown play Oshawa R & H, Newmarket meets Waterloo and London goes against Toronto Beaches at 9am. At 11am, Woodstock plays Grimsby, Kitchener goes against Toronto Golden Bears and Owen Sound meets St. Thomas.

Hamilton plays Oshawa M.C.L. (formerly known as Tony's) at 1pm as does Guelph meet Sault Ste. Marie and Petrolia play Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Oshawa M.C.L. has been picked as early favorites to advance to the Canadian championships as Ontario's representative because they will have left-hander Pete Landers doing their hurling.
