That is less than the price of dog licenses in some cities here, so that the Italian bachelor cannot complain at the price he pays for his freedom. Anyway, a bachelor's life is a sort of a dog's life.

The Liquor Control Bill has passed the 2nd reading in the Legislature, and that means that its final passing is just a matter of routine. In May next you will be able to get as little as you want, and you can get as little as you want, without fear or trembling. A pleasing prospect surely.

In the following paragraph the Brockville Recorder-Times very concisely sums up the question: "If government control accomplishes all of the objects that have been predicted by its advocates and if it removes all of the objections that were made to the prohibitive system, its adoption will have been well worth while; if it fails to do so and if it is found, after experience, that government control brings with it greater evils than those which accompanied prohibition, the people always have it in their power to return to prohibition, or to adopt any other method that will produce more beneficial results."

A bill has been introduced into the Legislature providing that, "Every occupant of land, or of the land is unoccupied, the owner, shall not down destroy all weeds designated noxious by the regulations, as often in every year as is sufficient to prevent the ripening of their seeds." Farmers and gardeners throughout the Province of Ontario have reason for gratification over the steps taken by the Government to protect them against one of the greatest sources of annoyance and loss to which they are exposed in the pursuit of their vocation. If the owner or occupant of such land refuses or neglects to cut down such weeds, the inspector appointed to see the proper observance of this Act, may after giving notice, proceed to have the work done at a penalty imposed for the refusal to obey his order.

A Good Society

Unfortunately the Winchester Horticultural Society is not in as flourishing a financial condition as it should be, and that is why invitations have been sent out to many citizens to attend a social evening in Lannin's Hall to-morrow night. The Horticultural Society is one of the best intentioned organizations we have. Its members, or promoters, have in view only one object, that of making homes more beautiful by the growing of plants, shrubs and flowers, and the making of lives happier by this means. The Society is able to procure certain plants and seeds at a reduced rate, and this advantage is passed on to members. You pay a membership fee, and get more than the value of your fee in any selection of seeds, plants, trees or shrubs you may select. It is a splendid community work, and because of this the Press gives it hearty and generous support. If you want to help along a good cause and encourage those who are striving to keep up this society, just hand in your membership fee.

Mock Parliament Opens with Pomp and Finery

The doors of the Parliament Building in the Town Hall, were opened promptly at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, and after the usual business of the day, the Mock Parliament was in full swing with a very busy session on and some very lively debating. The young men of St. Paul's Presbyterian Guild held this Mock Parliament and social evening which was a big success.

Mr. George Johnston, President of the Guild acted as chairman. The Alert Trail Ranger Camp Orchestra gave some very pleasing musical selections, the big hits being Irish Melodies and choruses of 1926. Mr. Geo. Angus, Winchester's Harry Lauder, captivated the audience with favourite Scotch songs. The Parliament was the main feature. The Non-sense party in power under the Prime Minister, Will A. Fisher, the Nonsense with its leader Hon. Geo. Johnston. Both parties were greatly pleased with a very capable and trustworthy person as speaker in the personage of Hon. C. A. Dukelew. Some bills were introduced and were brought before this session and each Bill was entered into with lively discussion and some very capable debaters took part outside the leader. Hon. Alex. Davidson 21 minutes of work, and Hon. Hugh Knowland, Ex Minister of style were the outstanding debaters on the opposition side of the House, while the party in power all backed the Prime Minister in the Bills that were presented and the gallery certainly applauded some of the points that were brought out and will be looking for some great changes in this community in the near future. The lunch was served by the young men and the Final Chorus sung by them "Good Night Ladies" brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Rev. Mr. Waddell has returned home from Toronto.

Another Life Assurance Company is looking for an agent in Winchester. If this thing keeps up we will soon have agents inquiring one another to make a show of doing business.

Thomas E. Martin, a veteran of the Fenian Raid, who was assistant agent in the operating department of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Brockville from 1882 to 1887 and later agent at Prescott, died in Montreal on Thursday last after a long illness, aged 74 years.

The fellow who stops his paper because he becomes offended at some item that does not suit his fancy always imagines he is getting even with the publisher, but he is never missed. This only happens occasionally, for there are only a few people in any community who imagine a paper should contain nothing but what they approve of.

Miss Albert Whitney, sister-in-law of Sir James P. Whitney, died on Saturday at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Brockville. Mrs. Whitney, whose maiden name was Miss Annie Halpin, was born in Prescott 65 years ago. She is survived by her husband, Albert Whitney, brother of the late Premier, and one brother, Patrick K. Halpin of Prescott, and one sister Miss Margaret Halpin of Boston.

While a basketball game was being played at the Kemptville Agricultural School a few nights ago parties thought to be young men from the village visited the poultry department and did damage to some three hundred eggs by opening incubators, removing trays of eggs from one incubator to another so that it is impossible to tell from which strain the chicks that hatch are produced.

A cow owned by Mr. John Marshall of Normandy Township about seven miles from Durham, in a little over 35 months has given birth to less than eight calves, all of them still living. The cow's record in births is made up of a single calf nearly three years ago, then twin calves on the two next occasions, and last week triplets. The cow is a Durham, is a splendid animal, and her offspring are all strong and healthy and up to less than a month ago, when a couple of the older animals were sold, the family had remained in the possession of Mr. Marshall. There are many cases on record of a cow giving birth to twins, or even triplets, but it is doubtful if there is a record like this Normandy cow.

Attention Please

Several items of outside news are held over this week because they did not reach this office in time for this issue. Most of them refer to events of a week or more ago and might have been sent in last week or on Monday of this week, but most of them came to hand on Wednesday. We are willing to give space to all good news, but we would ask contributors to try and get their items to this office before Wednesday if at all possible.

Demonstrating Chevrolet

Melvins' Garage held a large crowd of interested men on Tuesday afternoon and evening who were there to see and hear the good features of the Chevrolet Car sold and demonstrated by experts from the factory in the persons of Messrs E. E. Beckel and L. Marshall. The Chevrolet is, according to the story told, noted for beauty, reliability, durability and dependability. It has the famous Fisher body, the latest in extra equipment, and is built to sustain a reputation for reliability. It was an interesting talk, and the motion picture shows were intended to show how transportation had advanced since the days of Adam.

The United Church

(Contributed)
In the absence of the pastor last Sunday, Mr. Geo. Pound of Kingston, took charge of both services here and preached at Harmony. Mr. Pound is not a stranger here, as he has spoken "Thank you" to the missionary work among the sailors on our inland lakes and rivers. In the morning taking 1 John 1:3 as a text work. He told of how this work was started 59 years ago through a prayer meeting being held in a home in St. Catharines, attended only by mothers who had sons out on the Great Lakes. They did more than pray. They sent a resolution to the Upper Canada Tract Society asking that a man be sent to distribute good literature to the sailor boys on the Welland Canal. A man was sent, Thomas Bowen by name. For years he labored there, and the work grew and spread.

An illustrated talk was given in the evening which proved very interesting to the large congregation present. The words of the hymn, "Let the lower lights be burning" were thrown on the screen at the beginning and "Thank you" to the missionaries who had labored there, and the closing in which all joined in singing. Among many scenes shown and explained by Mr. Pound were, Snug Harbor, Kingston, The Sailor's Rest Home Port Arthur, the Lachine Rapids, Elevators at Port Arthur, varieties of sailing vessels and pictures of Jas. S. Potter and Thomas Bowen who were veterans in this good work. In the morning the choir sang a beautiful anthem of praise and at night an evening hymn. Nineteen Juniors sang: "Make a little sunshine of your own." Next Sunday morning the Mizpah Mission Circle will present an impressive pageant: "The Challenge of the Cross." This is their annual thank-offering service. A liberal offering would be appreciated to help the Circle reach their allocation.

Unique Anniversary of Silver Wedding

(Toronto Paper)
Twenty-five years ago last Saturday in Winchester the marriage was solemnized of Mr. and Mrs. Toase by Rev. E. S. Logie of that town. Mr. and Mrs. Toase and their son, Reginald, have for several years been honored residents of West Toronto, living at 134 Maxey St., and active members of Victoria Presbyterian Church. And because Mrs. Toase loved her church and its work she took a beautiful way of celebrating her silver wedding.

She offered her home to the auxiliary of the W. M. S. for a silver tea and musicale the proceeds to be used for missionary purposes, and Mr. and Mrs. Toase's many friends came out in large numbers to offer their congratulations and best wishes for the continued health and happiness of the bride and groom, and to leave a substantial silver shower for missionary purposes. A happy feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a life membership certificate in the W. M. S. to Mrs. Toase by Mrs. D. L. T. McKerrill on behalf of the auxiliary. Rev. D. T. L. McKerrill followed with a speech of felicitations to the bride and groom and voiced the wishes of their many friends that may celebrate their golden wedding under as auspicious circumstances.

A surprise party was given them in the evening, about thirty-five of their neighbors, coming in laden with baskets in the good old fashioned way. A very delightful time was spent in games, music, etc. During the course of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Toase were presented with a handsome mahogany chesterfield table and an address of appreciation and congratulation.

Of Interest to Motorists

STEERING GEAR IS ONE OF VITAL POINTS OF CAR.

If a motorist can have adequate control over the direction in which his car travels he can usually avoid serious trouble. Even if he cannot stop the machine by applying the brake, he certainly can shut off the engine and eventually come to a halt. But if the steering apparatus of the vehicle suddenly ceases to function properly the driver is likely to be quite out of luck. Under such circumstances one is likely to appreciate the feelings of a person in a small boat approaching the precipice of Niagara Falls. Only by good fortune does the driver of a steerless car escape without mishap.

Fortunately, steering gears do not often go bad. This fact is due primarily to the great skill and care on the part of manufacturers of cars, who have done everything possible to make the steering apparatus fool proof. While no large percentage of the total number of motor accidents can be laid to steering gears that don't permit the driver to steer, yet there are enough of such undesirable incidents to warrant every motorist giving careful consideration to this important aspect of his motoring experience.

TO INSURE EASY STEERING.

In order to insure the easy steering of a car and to give it the necessary strength and the required flexibility the front wheels of an automobile are provided with certain peculiarities. At the lower end of the shaft on which the hand-steering wheel is located there is a gear. This is usually of the worm type, although other types are sometimes employed. Because of this gearing it is possible to swing the front wheels with very little effort on the part of the operator. At the same time it is necessary to exert considerable pressure on the front wheel to move the steering or hand wheel.

This is how the adjustment has been worked out: An arm from this steering gear connects through a drag link to a steering knuckle upon which one of the front wheels is mounted. The other front wheel is made to move in unison with the first through means of a tie rod connected to its steering knuckle. These knuckle joints are necessarily points of weakness as compared with a solid axle. Consequently there must be provided some means of furnishing strength.

UNDERGATHER AND FOREGATHER.

Suppose the front wheels were placed in a perfectly perpendicular position. It is easy to see that considerable leverage would then be exerted on the steering knuckle pins. This would make for weak construction and would also cause a big resistance to the turning movement that is incident to the steering. To overcome these faults the front wheels are given what is termed undergather. By this is meant the distance between them at the point where they touch the ground is less than at their tops.

As a result the weight of the vehicle bears directly on a line with the steering knuckle pins and no leverage is exerted. This undergather would result in excessive wear on the tires if both wheels were pointed straight ahead—that is, set parallel. To avoid this unnecessary wear the wheels are given what is called foregather, which means that they are slightly closer together at the front edge than at the rear. While this difference is only about three-eighths of an inch, it is very important that the front wheels toe in that much. Of course this does not apply to the rear wheels, which in practically all cases are exactly parallel to each other.

WHEELS ALWAYS POINT AHEAD.

In addition to this foregather and undergather, the steering knuckle pins are given a slight rake so as to produce a castor effect to the front wheels. This rake consists in placing the steering knuckle pins so that they lean backward. The result of this engineering project when steering is that the centre of turning of the steering knuckle is a little ahead of the point of contact where the tire touches the road. This is done so that the drag incident to pushing the wheel along the road is back of the centre of turning. The result is that the wheels will always point directly forward unless interfered with. So, if a control rod becomes loosened, the tendency of the car is to go straight ahead. This is all to the good and often prevents accidents.

First Jewels.

All the snowdrops are asleep.—
When will they grow?
Can they ever stir and wake
Hidden in the snow?

The frost creeps through the land,
Cold winds blow—
"Stay where you are," they cry,—
"Down in the snow."

Sunbeams softly kiss the earth,
Golden beams glow—
They care not for wind and frost,
Or the still snow.

Taken through the cold bleak ground
The snowdrops grow—
Only a sunbeam can draw from the dark
Lovely pearls of snow!

MEN AND WOMEN OF TO-DAY

"My Friend the Prince."

There is, we hear, an enterprising photographer in Sydney waiting for the visit of the Duke and Duchess of York in the hope that it will bring him a harvest as golden as the one he reaped on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales.

He had two large photographs of the Royal visit, one showing the Prince shaking hands with the Lord Mayor, the other a panorama of the multitude of faces in the crowd. By an ingenious method of enlarging the individual figures in the crowd, and substituting them for the Lord Mayor, he was able to produce photographs of the Prince shaking hands in the warmest, most intimate way with each person in the multitude.

This enabled thousands of people to send pictures of a memorable meeting (that never happened) to relatives in all parts of the country.

"Royal" Farm Laborer.

At the little village of Berden, Essex, lives a farm worker who, if he wished, could turn up his nose at people whose ancestors "came over with the Conqueror." He is Mr. Thomas William Goodwin, and his ancestry has been traced back to Earl Godwin, father of King Harold, who was killed at the Battle of Hastings, in 1066.

Deprived of their wealth and possessions when King Harold died, his relatives were obliged to take to the land and become farm laborers, keeping, however, the name of the Saxon king. To-day, Harold's descendants still plough the fields for a living.

Mr. Goodwin is a typical Saxon, with fair hair and blue eyes, and is quite content so long as he can do his work well, cultivate his patch of garden, and bring up his family of two daughters and one son, who is known in the village as "Little King Harold."

It was not until last Christmas that he knew anything about his kingly descent.

Comedy of H. G. Wells.

Mr. H. G. Wells must be highly amused at the fuss being made over him by the French postal authorities in the village of Grasse, where he is living just now. His post-bag has been so heavy that the postmaster, not knowing who he really was, began to suspect him of being a spy of some kind, engaged in fomenting a revolution. He informed the police and the villa was watched. Finally the Chief of Police visited Mr. Wells and asked Mr. Wells why he received so many letters. "I really don't know" was the answer. It is said that the authorities now believe him to be a fortune-teller of the swindling variety and are still watching him.

ADAMSON'S ADVENTURES—By O. Jacobsson.

Carpet Mending.

Spring had arrived before its time and had caught us all in our warm, winter clothes. A line of silver sunshine lay across the floor of the city cafe and played about the figure of the little woman who, altogether unembarrassed by the fact that she was very much in everybody's way, bent over her work of stitching a rent in the thick carpet, her shabby blouse and skirt contrasting oddly with the luxurious wraps of those whose passage in and out she greatly inconvenienced, her poor shoes exhibiting themselves in pathetic fashion behind her as she knelt.

The strip of silver sunshine played havoc with one's winter patience. It whispered of country places, and growing things, and infant beauty in salitude. The little woman looked up and blinked her eyes in the light.

"Lovely!" she said to no one in particular, and began to wind up the colored threads she had been using and place them in an old tin box by her side on the floor. Her work apparently was finished.

"Lovely!" she said again, and looked at us.

We agreed without much enthusiasm. We were teased from the insistent call of the strip of silver.

She patted the piece of carpet on which she had been engaged with her soiled fingers, and regarded it with evident satisfaction.

"You'd never know as there'd been a hole there—would you now," she said, appealing to us for confirmation, and eyeing the spot with her head on one side, much as a bird eyes a portion of soil in which it is interested. "It's all in the way you places the stitches, you see," she went on; "you follow the pattern and the pile, and that's what does it."

She sat back on her heels and packed up her sewing materials and the silver sunshine mounted up her faded clothes to her hair.

"Makes you think of the country, doesn't it?" she observed, while a party of fresh arrivals were forced to circumnavigate a table in order to avoid her. "It don't do, though, thinking of it too hard when there's holes wanting mending. I'm full up with rents this week—seems as though the whole town's got torn all at the same time!"

She removed herself and her belongings to a corner where stood one of the staff, and we saw her face lit up with the joy of accomplishment. And the stream of customers passed over the place where she had knelt, and trod the work of her hands.

Prepare Cellar Steps to Prevent Accidents.

Since the cellar stairs will be in frequent use during the winter and since they are ordinarily a rather dusky, shadowy flight, it is a good plan to paint the edges of the treads with white paint. The smallest fraction of light that reaches the steps will throw up the white strips into comparative vividness, and thus eliminate chances of tripping or missing a step because of the dim light.

ROADSIDE TREE PLANTING, MUTUAL INTEREST OF ENGLAND AND JAPAN

With Friendly Exchange of Trees, Shrubs and Seeds Between Two Nations Beautifying Highways.

The first roadside tree planting in England on an extensive scale has been accomplished by the County of Middlesex. Five miles of trees extend along the sides of the Great West Road, and 13 miles of trees have recently been planted on other new arterial roads, such as the great Cambridge Road, the North Circular Road, and the Great West Road Extension.

Every mile of the Great West Road has a different kind of tree. In years to come, therefore, a magnificent avenue of varying foliage will be seen; of beech, maple, lime, chestnut and plane trees. They are planted 25 feet apart on a carpet of grass 25 feet wide. Some day the planters hope, people will go to see that avenue of trees as they go to see the chestnuts in Bushey Park.

The Middlesex authorities have tried to put color into their roadside vista. Along the other new arterial roads have been planted red and white chestnut trees, beech and copper beech, scarlet tipped limes, Norway maples, Cornish elms, scarlet oak, purkey oak, and common ash. Only forest trees have been planted, because of their slow growth. The planters do not want to have to lop their trees. People have wondered why laburnum and almond trees have not been chosen, but their size makes them impossible even for a road 100 feet wide.

PLANTING IN TOKYO.

Tokyo, which has been planting trees in the streets since the beginning of the seventeenth century, held a conference in 1907 on the trees suitable for street planting. The superintendent of parks in Tokyo was in London recently and left the London County Council a report of his city's experience in planting street trees. He takes us back to the World Exposition in Vienna in 1875, when a visitor from Japan saw the Trees of Heaven and locust trees and brought them to Tokyo. It was curious that he should have gone so far for the Heaven Tree, for it belongs to China.

The earthquake in 1923 destroyed 14,300 of Tokyo's trees, leaving 10,300. A partially new start could therefore be made and there are now 15,300 trees in the streets. They include two of the best English street trees—the plane and a tree similar to the English acacia—Sophora Japonica. The Heaven Tree also flourishes, and, of course, the flowering cherry. Last spring Tokyo sent London 30 species of flowering cherries and plums among nearly 1,000 other trees, planted mostly in Peckham Rye Park.

The Japanese plant the weeping willow in their streets, but it does not "weep" so much as the English variety. The trees are planted on the sidewalks 24 feet apart in roads over 18 feet wide. Some of the new roads have two or three lines of trees. But there is no grass at their roots; Japan cannot grow grass because of the dry climate.

ENGLISH OAKS SENT.

English oak trees found an admirer in the Japanese park superintendent, and 100 little oaks have been sent by the London County Council in exchange for the Japanese trees. These are for one of the parks. It was the superintendent's idea to have the British Ambassador plant them in one of the parks. English visitors to Japanese parks will also presently see their own flowers, such as canterbury bells, delphinium, foxgloves, hollyhocks, honesty, clarkia, campanula, and asters.

Altogether, 271 English trees and shrubs in 21 varieties have gone to Tokyo, and a large collection of seeds. Tokyo sent in exchange seeds of 55 varieties of trees and shrubs, and these are being cultivated at Kew Gardens and other botanical centres, as well as at the London County Council Nursery at Avery Hill.

Good Music and Radio.

Having once heard a masterpiece over the wireless, the listener will naturally desire to relive the experience under still more favorable circumstances in the concert-room. The cinema may challenge the theatre and reduce the receipts of the music halls, but in the sphere of music we have as a nation so much ground to cover, so much progress to make, before we are abreast of the front line that no exponent of the art should judge too harshly even a mechanical development which tends to popularize the cause in which he is most deeply interested. For a time it may be true that listeners-in will not be patrons of concerts. They will choose the line of least resistance. But we venture to assert that for one who remains permanently satisfied in such a role, there will be twenty new patrons of the art who will seek every opportunity within their means to extend their knowledge.

The prospects of music in this country have been immensely improved both materially and culturally by the flood of song, recital and harmony which is poured forth nightly from the broadcasting centres. — Ottawa Citizen.

SECRETS OF A WOMAN'S MIND

Things a Wife Will Never Tell.

By Bernard Hollander, M.D.

Man's brain is the strongest in the region of his animal instincts; a typical woman's brain is strongest in the region of the affections.

The male was built as a fighting machine and had strength and boldness to provide the means of existence; while the female was endowed with grace and beauty to attract the male, who provided for her and her offspring.

Ordinarily, men are combative, women submissive. Male courage is aggressive; woman's courage is defensive. Man is firm; woman is more tenacious. A man has pluck; a woman has fortitude. A man has push; a woman patience. A man rules by commands; a woman by love.

A Woman's Insight.

Man begs with words, woman with glances and tenderness. Often she has more strength in her looks than man has in his laws, and more power in her tears than man in his arguments (as exemplified in law cases when the female witness is not to be beaten by cross-examining counsel).

Formerly woman had to stay at home because she bred children profusely, and that accentuated her feminine character. The maternal instinct in woman demands complete surrender and self-denying labors. Man can be self-centred; whereas woman, when she becomes a mother, makes another creature the focus of her interests and efforts.

Women readily enter into the feelings of others. Charity is a female virtue. Woman's sensibility is so keen that she enjoys much, but also suffers much. She is quick to feel the sorrows of others and to read by the slightest external signs what passes within them. For example, many women will see at a glance whether things have gone well or ill with a man, whether he is pleased or worried, met with failure or success, and especially whether he loves her still. It is this insight and exquisite gift of sympathy which renders women so invaluable in the chamber where sickness droops and pines.

Women being more emotional than men, and the feelings more lasting than thoughts, women cling to established custom and are conservative. They cannot bear to part with anything that they have seen grow up with their family, and they are tenacious, as a rule, in their religious beliefs.

Man Leads—But Woman Guides. The average woman hates any violent change, new laws and regulations, and she keeps up class distinctions. Whereas men of all positions in life will congregate, not so women. They are more particular.

The fallings of men are those of strength; the fallings of women are those of weakness. In matrimony it often happens that the clumsy inability of a coarser nature is unable to appreciate the feelings of the finer organization of women. The consciousness of the lack of muscular strength gives rise to the petty airs and petty ways which a good many women have for securing their aims.

Man has a strong temper; woman has a quick temper. She is not so strong bodily as man; hence she can give vent to her anger, not by brute force, but in language only, therefore the ready volubility of her speech. Thus it has been remarked that, though a woman's tongue is only three inches long, she can, when bad-tempered, kill with it a man six feet high. The violent passions and impulses altogether are stronger in man, and more men being engaged in the struggle for existence, more crimes are perpetrated by males.

Men are more methodical, women more tactful. Men make laws; women make manners. Their aesthetic emotions are strongly marked. Feminine "taste" is proverbially good. They will make things beautiful with little material, and oftentimes in the poorest surroundings. Women love personal decoration.

The average woman is frequently very generous in her actions, but not always in her feelings. A man may like or dislike certain persons or objects; a woman is given to extremes—she either loves or hates them.

Man Loves in a Hurry.

Woman's affections are so strong that she will not admit any fault in those she loves, and will allow no merit in those she dislikes. She will suggest a thousand excuses to herself for the folly of those she is fond of. That is also why women seldom tell a real untruth, for they first persuade themselves that what they are about to say is the truth. A woman will sometimes confess her sins, but rarely admit her faults. A man may acknowledge that he was in the wrong; a woman only that she was mistaken—and we forgive her.

Women are good keepers of their own secrets (especially of their age), but rarely of the secrets of others.

Man rules, woman reigns. Man may take the lead, but it is the woman who guides. Man selects and proposes; but it is the woman who gives the encouragement. Man may oppress woman, but it is the woman who influences man.

Man may be the head of the family; woman is the heart of it. A woman's head is more readily influenced by her heart, and a man's heart more readily by his head. Nor does love fill a man's nature as it does a woman's. He requires not so many proofs of affection; her submission to him is sufficient evidence of her love. She, on the other hand, thinks of his love all day, and requires definite assurances of affection several times in every twenty-four hours, verbally and in writing.

A man in love is in a hurry. He rushes through all the consecutive phases of emotion as if he wanted to have done with them. Woman wants to linger on each step. Man loves little and often; woman much and rarely. Woman will sacrifice her whole existence on the altar of love; a man will sometimes sacrifice the woman he loves like his very soul to gratify his ambition. So long as woman loves, she loves continuously; but man has lucid intervals. This is because man has more to do that woman and comes more in contact with the realities of life, so that he cannot allow himself to be captured by his inclinations.

There would be more real love between husbands and wives and there would be fewer failures in marriage if the mental differences of the two sexes were better understood. The success of marriage depends on mutual adaptability. There must be "give" and "take"; and this is impossible without a knowledge of each other's dispositions.

Not Fluent.
"Is he a solid talker?"
"I think so—his speech doesn't flow."

The Island of Mystery.

Easter Island, in the Southern Pacific, is the most mysterious spot in the world. In spite of years of research and study it remains a mystery. Aside from a few trees which have been planted there the island has not a tree or large shrub. The entire land is covered with huge stone images erected by a people of whom nothing is known. What the images represent who made them and how long ago they were erected no one knows. The images are crude and very much alike, probably some gods or devils—all making a mystery of which the world knows nothing.

RABBITS FOR PROFIT

We have a corner of our back yard for rabbits. It is fenced off with four-foot poultry-netting, one-inch mesh. Boards are laid around on the inside to prevent the little animals' scratching under. The enclosure is divided into pens, about six feet square, each doe having a separate pen and hutch.

For hutchers we use dry goods boxes turned down, or barrels sawed in two, with holes cut for doors. We give the pens frequent sweeping and dust them with lime, road-dust or ashes, to prevent bad odors.

We turn our old breeders outside during the day, if there are no plant-beds for them to destroy. They enjoy the freedom, the pens stay cleaner, and the bunnies always come back at night.

Each breeding-pen is provided with plenty of bedding material, such as hay, straw, excelsior, etc. The does carry in and arrange their own beds.

As soon as the little ones come from the nests, which is in about two weeks, the old bedding is removed and fresh provided. When the young are weaned, they are separated from the mother, and all of the same age are kept together. We are careful not to have different sizes in the same pen, as the older ones will get the lions' share of the feed, and also crowd the smaller ones in the beds. As soon as the sexes are known, they are separated, or the bucks will soon fight.

We have not found rabbits so prolific as they have been represented. Ours bring only six or seven litters a year, and from six to ten little ones at a time. If more than eight are born, some are apt to be runts, which we destroy. They grow as fast as ducklings, and become friers at two months. But they are naturally so tender that they will fry nicely even at four months.

Each bunny requires a handful of grain, preferably oats or mixed feed, daily, with a generous bunch of hay or green forage of some kind. They eat fruit parings, potato peelings, carrot tops, cabbage, bread scraps, onions, tree prunings and weeds from the fence-rows. We give a bran mash to the little ones at weaning time. Rabbits require fresh water and salt as regularly as a cow. —O. J.

THOUSANDS WELCOME WHITE EMPRESS

Over 10,000 people lined the coast at Vancouver to welcome the Canadian Pacific Empress of Canada, flagship of the Pacific fleet, when she steamed into her home port from the Orient recently, glistening in her new garb of white paint. She was escorted by several Canadian Government seaplanes. The decision of the Canadian Pacific to make their entire Pacific fleet white has met with approval in the shipping world and also by passengers, with whom these giant trans-Pacific liners are popular. They will be known as the "White Empresses of the Pacific," and make a beautiful picture steaming through the blue waters of the Pacific.

CONDITIONS THAT CALL FOR A TONIC

Symptoms That the Blood is Thin Should Not Be Neglected.

Weak, lacking in strength, energy and ambition, nervous, sleepless, poor appetite, digestion disturbed—these are the symptoms of a great majority of people who have been benefited by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The great value of this medicine in cases of this kind is proved by the statement of Mrs. W. Hensler, Kingston, Ont., who says: "Following a severe cold I was left in a run-down, nervous condition; I had pains in the back and limbs and could scarcely move about. I did not sleep well at night and was despondent and discouraged. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and can truthfully say that after the use of six boxes, the change in my condition was nothing short of marvellous. The pains vanished, I slept well, had a good appetite, and in every way felt well and strong. I also gave the pills to my daughter, who was in an anaemic condition and feeling quite miserable, and in her case, too, they restored health. I hope my experience may help some other weak person."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little book, "Building Up the Blood," which contains many useful health hints, will be sent free on request.

"Oh, Oh, doctor! Can't you get it work on my mouth quick?"
"Yes, just a minute now and I'll dive right in."

Paying a Debt.

Having enriched itself many times by borrowing convenient and expressive words from the French language, the English language is now paying a good share of its debt by making France a present of one of the most valuable and cherished words it possesses, a word dear to the heart of every English-speaking person—"home."

Singularly, considering that the French are a home-loving people, France has never had any equivalent for "home." The nearest she came to it was "foyer," meaning hearth, or "chez nous," at our house, both of which fall short of the significance of home. English-speaking people have often remarked the lack with commendation.

But now the phrase "to be home" is appearing in French newspapers as a caption for domestic and women's news and in advertisements of department and furniture stores. At first it was used in quotation marks, but, having successfully passed that probation stage, it appears on an equal footing with any French word—home, just like that.

If we had had to get along without home when France adopted it there would have been some prompt and vigorous objections. We could no more dispense with the word than with what it stands for. But, fortunately, there is plenty of home to go around, and the more the word is used, the better. You're welcome, France.

Her Idea of Sundials.

The Giltbags had made their pile and had bought a country house. Mrs. Giltbags went down and superintended the alterations herself. "Now, look here," she said, "this sundial is completely wasted here."
"Well, mum," said the patient workman, "where would you like me to put it?"
"Put it under the electric light in the hall," instructed Mrs. Giltbags. "Then we can see what time it is at night."

Well Meant.

Coal Still King:

Experts in all parts of the world are tackling the problem of how to use coal to the best advantage.

Professor Bergius, of Heidelberg, has reduced coal to a paste, and combined it with hydrogen at a very high temperature and pressure. The resulting fluid has all the properties of crude petroleum, and can be treated in the same way to produce petrol and other oils.

Another scientist reduces coal to a gaseous form and then liquefies the gases. He has produced methanol, which seems to have all the properties of wood alcohol; synthol, equivalent to a high-grade petrol; and a substitute for benzine.

General Patart, a Frenchman, has been experimenting with coal-produced synthetic alcohol, which shows a saving of 15 per cent. in calories over petrol. The temperature of the radiator in which it is used was considerably lower than in cars using petrol.

Soon it will be possible to distil coal at the pit, recover the valuable primary oils and gases, and then transmit them by long-distance piping to where they are wanted. Estimates show that the cost of transmitting 100,000 British thermal units would be slightly over three farthings for seventy-five miles.

A SIMPLE TREATMENT FOR CHILDREN'S COLDS

Cold in the head is very common at this time of year, especially in the very young. Neglect of a cold is prone to lead to serious consequences. To relieve all congestion of the system is the first step in treating a cold, whether in infants or adults. For the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal means of doing this. Containing no narcotics or other harmful drugs they soothe the child's fretfulness, relieve its suffering and ensure convalescence.

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for relieving indigestion, constipation and colic. They check diarrhoea; break up colds and simple fevers; promote health-giving sleep and make the dreaded teething period easy. The Tablets are the one medicine that a mother can give her little ones with perfect safety as they are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I Am Music."

Voice of the Universe, Priestess of Earth, Life's Lyric of Love, am I. Song of angels in the house of good; the snare and delusion of hell.

I whisper of passion; I breathe romance; I am the inspiration for work and play. Though I am a balm of peace, yet on the battlefields I stir men's hearts and urge them on to greater deeds of valor. I dwell in the peaceful chambers of content, but I am present always in the pits of war. I lead true lovers to the altar, I muse by the cradle, I stalk by the open grave. I am the incense upon which devout prayers rise heavenward. Know me, and I will comfort you always.

If my song be in your heart, you will hear my voice, in the babble of the brook, the chant of the birds, the rustle of the leaves, and the billows of the sea. The wind and rain and the flowers and the dew all speak to you of me. The rumble of traffic, the clatter of hoofs, the hum of the motor, the song of the mill; ah! I change the very air.

Down through the ages I have walked with men, yet none have ever fathomed me. With the prince and the beggar I roam the earth and all men love me. For I am the spirit of the very best that is in them, and they praise and strive for the best that is within me. I am the soul of the art. I am Music.—Robert L. Shepherd.

Schools and Disease.

There is a greater amount of spreading of disease through schools than elsewhere. Communicable diseases will spread through child contact. In our opinion, however, it is more than dangerous to close a school-room where a child suffering from a communicable disease has been found, fumigate the premises and re-admit the children without medical or nurse inspection.

Fumigating makes parents falsely believe that all germs have been killed and their children are safe. To permit children after being exposed to communicable disease to go back to school without inspection is to turn an outbreak into an epidemic.

These diseases involve children—not rooms. Practically every communicable disease starts from infection in the nose and throat. A close watch, therefore, on the nose and throat of the child will do more than any other measure to get the outbreak under control.

It is much safer to have your child in school, with daily inspection, during an epidemic, than to let him play on the street with un-inspected children who may be carriers of disease. All children with suspicious throats are sent home from school, therefore those allowed to remain are all "safe" playmates.

Mme. Beatrice Charlebois could not hold pen to write. Nerves completely shattered, health ruined. Now alert, vigorous and strong, she gives praise to Tanlac

The two-year ordeal which she passed through before Tanlac came to her permanent relief, was recently described by Mme. Beatrice Charlebois, of 22 Rose St., Ottawa.

"What I endured in that time could not be told," she said. "I was weak I could hardly walk. My appetite was poor and my stomach gave me no end of trouble. Gas and pains would bring on fainting spells."

"My nerves were so completely shattered that I jumped in fright every time the doorbell rang. My hand trembled so that it could not hold the pen to write my name. Night after night I've gone without sleep, too nervous to lie still for even a few moments. Even my housework became too much for me."

"I tried all kinds of remedies in those two years, but can honestly say Tanlac gave me my first real relief. It built me up so that I've gained 11 lbs., eat and sleep fine and have nerves as calm and steady as ever. Tanlac is worth its weight in gold."

Build up your health on Tanlac, nature's own tonic made from roots, herbs and barks. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.

Vernon

Vernon Women's Institute held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Porteous. There was a very large attendance and the meeting was interesting and instructive.

After the business had been disposed of, the program took the form of a demonstration on "Simple Desserts" splendidly given by Mrs. Howard Porteous, who showed the ladies many new and practical ways of making simple desserts. These desserts although made simply, are very dainty and appetizing, as may be testified to by all who were present, as they had the pleasant opportunity of tasting, the delectable samples of Mrs. Porteous' suggestions. The roll call read, "My First Photo," and as each member's name was called, she passed around her first photo for all to see. As some years have elapsed since our first photo was taken, the comments as each photo passed were very amusing. Plans were made for a concert to be held in Vernon sometime in the near future. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Unfortunately Mr. Listerene Halliott, a star performer, was called to New York. Rather than, present an inferior programme we postponed the event, the date of which will be found elsewhere in this paper. You will also see on the platform, prominent darkies among whom are, Mrs. Sally Euphemis Stoopencouch, Mrs. Ima Nutt, Mr. Orpheus A Newbrodyne and Rastus Iodine Overalls. Lets go.

NEWSPAPER CHANGES

Mr. Moore, who for over 40 years has published and edited the Acton Free Press is retiring and his partner Mr. G. A. Dills, who has been manager and assistant editor, will continue. The Acton Free Press is one of the best printed, cleanest and best edited weekly papers in Canada. It has always stood for Temperance and the moral uplift of the community. It, like other newspapers that have boldly stood out for the right, has been subjected to the usual unpleasant experiences that are the result of opposing evil. But it has maintained its position as a powerful influence in its community, and Mr. Moore, the retiring editor, gives up his post with the satisfaction of a long and honourable record.

HENRY'S SHORTHAND SCHOOL

Ottawa, Ont.

No school in Eastern Ontario offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. It leads all others, and ranks among employers as "The School of Higher Efficiency," a fact borne out by 580 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left Ottawa schools to come to Henry's.

It is not surprising then that business men, in advertising for stenographers, specifically say, Graduates of Henry's Shorthand School preferred. Write for particulars about our course.

Shuffle-Shoon.

No one has ever surpassed Eugene Field in writing verses for and about children. Like Peter Pan, he refused to grow up. Hence his wonderful understanding of children.

Shuffle-Shoon and Amber Locks Sit together, building blocks; Shuffle-Shoon is old and grey, Amber-Locks a little child; But, together at their play, Age and youth are reconciled, And with sympathetic glee Build their castles fair to see.

"When I grow to be a man," So the wee one's prattle ran, "I shall build a castle so— With a gateway broad and grand; Here a pretty vine shall grow, There a soldier guard shall stand; And the tower shall be so high, Folks will wonder, by-and-by!"

Shuffle-Shoon quoth: "Yes, I know; Thus I builded long ago! Here a gate, and there a wall, Here a window, there a door; Here a steeple wondrous tall, But the years have levelled low What I builded long ago!"

So they gossip at their play, Heedless of the fleeting day. One speaks of the Long Ago Where his dead hopes buried lie; One with chubby cheeks aglow Prattleth of the By-and-by; Side by side they build their blocks— Shuffle-Shoon and Amber-Locks.

Printed Word is Conquering Movie.

That the printed word has caused the downfall of the movies is the unusual statement of Percival Reuliers, of Boston.

"The first public exhibition of motion pictures at Koster & Bial's Music Hall, in 1896, wherein Anabelle, the dancer, and the surf at Dover shared the applause of a silk-hatted audience," he writes, "was a demonstration of pure pictorial language. The spectators in the front rows who started to leave for fear of a wetting from the waves and returned for Anabelle needed no titles to spur their reactions. The message of the pictures was direct and unmistakable as the voice of an Italian stage prompter.

"Steadily, in the ensuing thirty years, the motion picture lost its independence. As soon as some clever fellow in the studios discovered that something resembling the King's English could be used in printed titles to effect short cuts in the story and a savings in pictorial phraseology, the jig was up. "Come the dawn" and "Later and no place to go" were tokens of the surrender of pure pictorial drama to the helpful ministrations of an older form of expression. In 1909, these abouts these stock titles comprised less than one twelfth of the film footage. By 1926 the art of expression by moving pictorial images had made such rapid strides backward that for one fourth and often one third of the running time of a film it called upon the aid of the printed word. A few more titles per thousand feet of film and the twenty millions who have heretofore been classified as motion-picture fans will become an enormous addition to the reading public."

Lord Haldane's Mother.

"Few families have been united by bonds so close as those of the Haldanes of Cloan. The tie between a mother and a famous son has given rise to many tender and beautiful pages in history, but no page more tender and more beautiful than that tie between Lord Haldane and his mother. Here again we tread on ground too intimate for public gaze. In a daily correspondence of more than fifty years no pressure of public business or of abstract thought stood between the letter which, written nightly by the son from the heart of affairs in London, was read eagerly by the mother in the peaceful home at Cloan. Proud though she was of her eldest son, her other children gave her cause for pride no less deep. Each has left his or her mark on the life of our times."

"She was big enough to break the bonds of her early training, to see the justice of her children's point of view, to wheel into line with them. And from this time onward began a new phase of development which went on continuously. Instead of leading a forlorn existence defending some untenable position behind a sand-bag on a barricade, she came into step with her children and adventured with them wholeheartedly in the treasure rooms of the new knowledge and new ideas of our time."

"No woman I have ever known was more filled with what Meredith calls 'the rapture of the forward view.' This enthusiasm for the future was, I think, the most remarkable feature in a remarkable character. The melancholy foible of middle and old age with its face turned backwards and its heart filled with lamentations for the blessings of the past never touched her spirit. Pessimists and croakers fared badly in the upper room at Cloan. Her face was set to the sunrise and the future and her faith in the infinite powers of perfection in human nature made her hold out her hands to the changes through which growth and development alone can come. The advent of the Labor Government left her not only unmoved but wholly sympathetic to the venture."—From "Mary Elizabeth Haldane." Edited by her daughter.

Breaking the Rules.

It was an arduous task for the teacher to drum into her youthful pupils the principles of arithmetic. "Now listen," she said, "In order to subtract things have to be in the same denomination. This is what I mean: Now you couldn't take three apples from four peaches, nor eight marbles from twelve buttons. It must be three apples from four apples, and so on."

"Do you understand?" The majority seemed to grasp the idea. One perky little youngster in the rear, however, raised a timid hand. "Please, teacher," he inquired, "couldn't you take three quarts of milk from two cows?"

Our Adventures.

We all lunched upon an uncharted sea, unplumbed, unmarked, unbounded so far as we can tell.

We do not know whether we are bound for the Arctic regions of penury, hardship, and peril, for the torrid zone of strife and temptation; or whether all our lives we shall sail serenely, with an occasional gale to battle with, or a menacing iceberg to meet, wholly within temperate latitudes.

It is true we are piloted, and commanded at first. Father is captain of childhood's ship, and mother the pilot. But the time soon comes when the experience and knowledge we have gained in the narrow seas of home and school life, and in the sheltered harbors of youth, are called upon to serve, for better, for worse, to keep life on an even keel in all weathers.

Even before that time comes there is great and exciting adventure. It is not at all necessary to roam the world seeking it. Many an imaginative lad gets more out of life at sixteen than a man at sixty.

You have the great and thrilling adventure of work, whether of hand or brain, the joy of producing something, of being a creator. You did not discover your talents and aptitudes suddenly. You journeyed far to find them, and farther still to perfect them.

Now, if you are fortunate, you find the exercise of them has become life's most fascinating, satisfying, and absorbing occupation. In true work there is always something ahead, a farther peak to climb, which, when climbed, reveals still another and loftier height.

Sometimes, in life's prospecting, we discover what we believe to be a rich mine. It may not prove to be a mine of material wealth, but out of it we shall get jewels of character, the gold of experience. There is no real loss in life lived to the utmost, and good work is a philosopher's stone which transmutes even the base metals of trial and seeming failure into pure gold.

Then think of the adventure of companionship, of exploring your fellow-men. Have you never discovered a new thought in a friend's mind? Have you never exclaimed: "I never thought of that before!" That is adventure.

And what an adventure is the discovery of love! Though I think, being a mere man, the poet was right when he said:—

A woman is a foreign land Of which, though there he settle young,

A man will never quite understand The customs, politics, and tongue.

I also think that to trudge over rough and smooth, up hill and down dale, together is the best of all life's adventures.

Apple Pond Wakens.

Once more the pond in the cluster of apple trees reverberates with the coming of springtime. All winter long on the outskirts of the city it has been still and lonely; a placid rose tint over its surface as it greeted the early morning; at noon, a bowl of gold and blue; copper at twilight. Scarcely a ripple all winter, save when raindrops formed concentric designs upon its face.

A pomonic fragrance clings to its borders, where ungarnished apples have changed from a brilliant scarlet to a withered yellow with faint flushes of pink beneath a wrinkled skin which harbors the essence of the fruit that fell to earth months ago.

The pond lies in a gentle hollow between streets that are only wisps of lanes, faint impressions formed over tall grass which seems also to have suspended its growth during winter days.

Birds have come back with the first clear days, to people the branches of the apple trees about the isolated pool on the fringe of the city. White chickens pause and look up from the earth at the newcomers resting on the bare boughs. Dark feathers of the visitors have been glimpsed in the depths of the pond, and a rooster raises his voice to the tree tops in a lusty crow that resounds in the stillness.

A blue jay and many swallows glance at the little pond, an oasis in their journeyings across the desert of air. They alight in the neighborhood to bask for a moment in the beauty of this suburban scene.

In the early evening jolly frog troubadours now serenade the coming of the new spring that will soon peep into suburban gardens. With guitars and bass viol, they give a lyric poetry to the old pond that has been quiet for many months, and accompany their bass chorus by plashing in among the evening stars which the pond reflects.

Britain's Bravest Deed.

The Royal Humane Society has awarded its gold medal for the bravest deed of the year 1926 to Harry Smith, mate of the fishing boat Sarepta, who rescued a comrade in a violent storm off the coast of England. His vessel was returning to Lowestoft, its home port, when a sudden lurch threw one of the fishermen, engaged in cleaning nets, into the sea.

Before the ship could be stopped the sailor, wearing heavy boots and oilskins, was 300 yards astern and had missed the lifebuoy thrown to him. Smith discarded his boots and oilskins and leaped into the sea, reaching the now unconscious man and holding him until the ship was manoeuvred for rescue work with a life line. The task was extremely difficult, but Smith held on to his man, and the two were finally hauled on deck.

The society reports that it dealt with 550 cases during the year, while 600 persons were rewarded for saving 585 lives.

THE KING TO GIVE SIGNAL ON JULY 1ST

His Majesty Will Press Button in London for Canada's Sixtieth Birthday.

Ottawa.—His Majesty the King will open the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation next Dominion Day by touching a signal in London immediately after which the new carillon for the tower of Parliament Buildings will ring out and be broadcast to let all Canada know of the nation's sixtieth birthday.

This was practically approved by the National Jubilee Committee, which met in the House of Commons, with His Excellency the Governor-General presiding.

Formal organization was carried out and officers elected as follows:

Patrons—Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon.

Honorary Presidents—Premier King and Hon. Hugh Guthrie.

Honorary Vice-Presidents—The Lieutenant-Governors of the provinces.

Presidents—Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden and Sir Lomer Gouin.

Vice-Presidents—Rt. Hon. George P. Graham and Hon. Charles Maclellan.

Honorary Secretaries—G. C. Cowan and Jean Desy.

Honorary Treasurer—Hon. Herbert Marler.

The executive, upon which every Province of Canada is represented, is as follows:

Hon. J. D. Stewart, P.E.I.; Hon. Walter Foster, N.B.; Hon. A. W. Black, N.S.; Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Que.; Sir George Garneau, Que.; Sir George Perley, Que.; Thomas Ahearn, Ont.; Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Ont.; Thomas Moore, Ont.; J. W. Daffoe, Man.; M. J. Caldwell, Sask.; Hon. R. B. Bennett, Alta.; and Senator Hewitt Bostock, B.C.

Montreal.—Plans for marking the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation in a suitable manner were discussed at the executive meeting of the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Daughters of the Empire, held here. It was decided to hold a historical pageant tracing the development of Canada from early days up to the time of Confederation, the object being to bring home to school children the significance of Confederation in the history of their country.

Red Cross Outposts Do Signal Service to Settlers.

That in the past year in the thirty-seven Red Cross Outpost Hospitals, scattered through Northern Ontario, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and operating in 1926, 6,820 people were cared for by the Red Cross nurses; that there were 1,010 operations, of which 234 were major operations; that 515 children were born in the outposts; that 178 children were visited by the outpost nurses, where 4,341 children were examined; and that 3,300 homes were visited to give nursing care or to offer advice—are facts put forward in a statement recently issued from Red Cross Headquarters in Toronto. One of the most interesting features of this report is that it is shown that 743 mothers, who must otherwise have gone without expert care when their babies were born, were cared for in the outposts or by the nurses in homes, and that the death rate among both mothers and their infants was at a minimum. Since these figures were sent in, two more outposts have come into existence in outlying sections of Northern Ontario and the Red Cross is making every effort to expand this useful service in pioneering districts to meet the ever-increasing needs of remote settlers in all parts of the Dominion.

An additional report from the Canadian Red Cross shows that since the year 1924, 808 classes in Home Nursing have been organized in all provinces, at which 10,000 women and girls have taken instruction and that 2,300 are now taking Home Nursing in the 305 new classes organized in the year 1926.

Thousands of Swans, Geese Now Visiting Jack Miner

Kingsville.—Two thousand swans have arrived at Kingsville, Ont., in their annual spring trek to the North, and are being afforded ample protection from poachers. Five thousand geese have also reached the Jack Miner bird sanctuary, where they, too, are finding food and protection. Jack Miner's place is also the mecca these days of hundreds of humans who like to see the spring swarmings of the birds.

Ottawa Requested by American Astronomers to Broadcast Message to Arctic Assembling Mounted Police to Make Observations.

IN EARLY MORNING OF JUNE 15 AT BAKER LAKE.

Ottawa.—Harvard University is anxious that observations be taken of the eclipse of the moon in the early morning of June 15 at Baker Lake in the Northwest Territories. This lake in the Far North lies 150 miles west of the post of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Chesterfield Inlet, Hudson Bay. Director R. Meldrum Stewart of the Dominion Observatory here has received a communication from Harvard astronomers asking if it would be possible to obtain these observations.

It would be an arduous journey for the "Mounties," but officials here are inclined to think they would make it in the interests of science if word could be sent to the post at Chesterfield Inlet. The only means would be by radio, and it is expected the university will obtain the co-operation of one of the large broadcasting stations to send the message, which would be received both at the Inlet and at Fort Norman on the Mackenzie River, where there is another post.

The shadow of the earth will blot out the moon with the possible exception of one edge, where the border shadow and that of the moon will approximately coincide. Whether any light will come through will depend on atmospheric conditions at the time existing along an arc of the earth's surface extending approximately from Chesterfield Inlet to Fort Norman, as this will be the edge of the shadow. It is for this reason that the university has asked for observations at Baker Lake.

Fort Niagara "Castle" Used As Historical Museum

Buffalo, N.Y.—A grim, two-century-old stone guardian at the only occupied United States army post on the Canadian border is due to bear, before the year is ended, the flags of three great nations which have fought bloody battles over it.

The old "Castle" at Fort Niagara is on the way to becoming a museum filled with relics of Great Britain, France and the United States. The United States army is now engaged in preliminary restoration with $5,000 appropriated by Congress, and more has been asked in order to complete the work by fall. Promises of relics from both sides of the border forecast a rich supply of historic antiques.

Noted Fiddler Dies.

Aberdeen, Scotland.—James Scott Skinner, last of the fiddler-composers of Scottish dances, died here on March 17th, aged 83 years. Skinner was widely known as "the Strathspey king." He spent most of his life in Scotland. He played before Royalty at Balmoral Castle, and published many compositions.

Skinner visited the United States last March, when the "old fiddler" contests were thriving.

He was a foe of jazz, which, he said, "gets on your nerves and spoils your appetite." He preferred to play old songs, using an ancient instrument which was said to be more than 150 years old.

Cements.

A little melted pitch into which some brick dust has been stirred is the best cement to use for fixing knife blades into silver handles. One part of brick dust and two of pitch is the proper proportion for the mixture, which should be nearly filled the cavity in the handle before the blade is pushed in.

Metal can be fastened upon glass by using a cement made of 50 parts of dry white lead and 100 parts of pulverized white litharge, mixed to a plastic state with three parts of boiled linseed oil and one of copal varnish. This cement should be put on the metal and the glass pressed upon it; it dries quickly and becomes very hard.

Seven parts of plaster of Paris to one of iron filings stirred into a paste with water will fasten an iron railing into stone; there are other methods of doing this but most of them require a more complicated preparation.

A simple method of fastening a paper label to iron is to rub the place where the label is to go with a raw onion and then use paste or gum in the ordinary way.

What Colds Cost Us.

The germs that cause colds can be projected twenty feet in ordinary conversation, and colds cost us an average loss of ten days' activity annually, declared a doctor recently.

If everybody with a cold would stay at home at least the first day, the spread of the disease would be greatly reduced, because the germs can only transmit the cold during the first twenty-four hours of illness.

Stay at home; stay in bed; send for the doctor. These are three golden rules for anyone with a cold. Then the microbes will not be spread about to other people, and the patient will also be doing his best to avert serious complications to himself.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD BOY RESCUES TWO GIRLS

Climbing Over Blocks of Ice, Youngster Pulls Them from Grand River at Galt.

Galt.—Stanley Bates, aged 8, of Wellington street, is to-day Galt's youngest hero. He rescued two girls, Beatrice Robinson and Peggy Elliott, both about 8 years of age, from drowning in the swollen Grand River. Since the flood children have been attracted to the river. The two girls were standing on the bank, when suddenly both fell into the water, probably because of an attack of dizziness.

The two girls were in the grip of the current, which began to draw them from the bank, when young Bates climbed over blocks of ice. He pulled the Robinson girl out of the water, and the little Elliott girl managed to get a grip on a piece of ice, but she became dizzy and was about to fall back into the water, when he reached her and brought her safely to shore. The water in the river is still high on account of the flood of Sunday night.

Protest Proposed Railway.
The Quebec Occidental Railway has made application for a charter for a line to run from the junction of the Haricanaw and Turgeon rivers in Northern Quebec to Iroquois Falls, in Ontario. Map shows the location of the line if it were built as the crow flies. However, the plan of the promoters is to parallel the T. and N. O. for part of the distance, and this has led to a protest from the T. and N. O. officials.

Midday Nap for Mother.

Mothers who have to superintend the family midday meal and get the children off to school again would benefit by resting half an hour in a quiet room after the rush.

HOW AN 1825 STATUTE AFFECTED THE LABRADOR BOUNDARY

In the sketch map above the Labrador boundary, as decided by the Privy Council, is shown by the heavy black line. The portion from Ance Sablen, north to the 52nd parallel, is the one set out in the 1825 statute and was one of the most important factors in the determination of the term "coast." The Canadian contention that Labrador was a strip along the coast is indicated by the dot and dash line. There is still some doubt as to the headwaters of the Romaine River and Quebec authorities are hopeful that by a review of this point the boundary may run due north to the height of land above the Naskaupi River, thus giving Quebec the Grand Falls. This would include the territory shown shaded on the map, and which cuts a gash into Quebec. The hoped-for boundary is shown by the broken line.

USE OF INFLAMMABLE GAS IN CANADA

Inflammable gas was first experimentally produced from coal in 1739, but it was not until 1797 that its practical value as an illuminant was demonstrated; in 1812 it was first used to light Westminster Bridge in London. Its practical utility in solving one of the problems of the world's greatest centre of population led to its rapid adoption and, by 1815, the company operating in London had three plants and 15 miles of mains. Paris was similarly lighted in 1820, and in 1821 gas was first used for street lighting on this continent in the city of Baltimore. In 1822 it was used in Boston, and in 1823 in New York.

There is little need to dwell on the displacement of gas as the most popular illuminant by the flexible and convenient electricity. But for heat and for the purpose of domestic cooking, except in limited areas where "white coal" is particularly cheap, gas continues to be the most popular fuel wherever it is available. And in those areas of Canada where natural gas is obtainable, its low cost as compared with either coal or with artificial gas, and its great convenience, has led to its general use not only for domestic cooking, but for house and block heating and for industrial purposes.

CANADA SECOND HEAVIEST CONSUMER.

To-day Canada ranks second in the list of countries enjoying the luxuries of gas, being exceeded only by the United States, and this despite the fact that Canadians are probably the heaviest per capita consumers of electrical energy among all the nations of the world.

In Canada, the Provinces of New Brunswick, Ontario and Alberta have supplies of natural gas in commercial quantities, and in six provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia, manufactured gas is sold. Alberta, in 1925, had 86 producing gas wells, and in that year for the first time superseded Ontario as the leading producer of natural gas. The Alberta production amounted to 9,119,500 thousand cubic feet; Ontario's production was 7,143,962 thousand cubic feet; New Brunswick's output was recorded at 639,235 thousand cubic feet. Total production of natural gas in Canada during 1925 was 16,902,897 thousand cubic feet, valued at $6,833,005. The production of artificial gas totalled 26,651,684 thousand cubic feet, but of this amount only 13,507,487 thousand cubic feet were made at the various gas plants for sale to the public. The total selling value of gas-house products was $16,859,130, including nearly five millions in by-products.

HIGH HEAT CONTENT IN NATURAL GAS.

It is significant to note that the production of this cheap natural fuel exceeded by over one-quarter the sales of manufactured gas; and, as pointed out by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service, were the greater number of heat units in natural gas to be taken into account, the disparity in figures would be even more striking. Natural gas contains, roughly, 1,000 heat units (British Thermal Units) per cubic foot, as compared with from 400 to 600 for artificial gas. Manufactured gas, on the other hand, was made available to a greater number of people, as the population of cities supplied totalled slightly over two million.

Comparison of statistics for 1925 brings to light the interesting fact that the capital invested in the natural gas industry in Canada is greater than the entire capital invested in the "manufactured" illuminating and fuel gas industry, in which class is included not only manufactured coal and water gas, but acetylene gas and Pintsch oil gas. The 161 operating firms in the natural gas industry had an invested capital of $48,894,802 and 1,059 employees. The 44 artificial gas plants represented a capital investment of $46,129,651 and gave employment to 3,804 persons.

VALUE OF GAS IN TERMS OF COAL.

In Ontario, where coal has to be brought long distances and mostly imported from the United States, it is of interest to note that the Ontario Department of Mines, in its annual report on the natural gas industry for 1923, has worked out the value to the province of this resource in terms of coal. It finds that, neglecting the cost to municipalities of hauling away ashes, it would have cost $14,432,432 to replace natural gas which sold for $4,066,224. It would have been necessary to import 400,361 tons of coal worth $3,008,410 wholesale, for use direct and in manufacturing gas. It continues the comparison further, taking into account the production of petroleum in the gas fields of Ontario, the loss to municipalities in taxes, etc., and finds that substitute fuels would have cost 3 1/2 times as much as natural gas in 1923.

Synopsis of Proceedings of Provincial Legislature

PROGRESS DAY BY DAY

MARCH 10TH.—House in Committee. Premier Ferguson stated on query of Hon. Harry Nixon (Prog., Brant) that he proposed filling office of Minister of Education "until certain objectives in educational policy were reached," thus saving Province the $8,000 salary of such Minister. Supplementary estimates as follows were passed totalling $1,845,415: Prime Minister's Dept., $562,500 (including $5,000 for entertainment of distinguished visitors); Legislation, $1,000; Attorney-General's Dept., $7,355; Insurance Dept., $1,000; Education Dept., $188,267; Northern Development Dept., $1,500; Mines Dept., $19,552; Game and Fisheries Dept., $62,000; Labor Dept., $107,000; Provincial Treasurer's Dept., $2,580; Provincial Secretary's Dept., $300,789; Agricultural Dept., $92,209, and miscellaneous, $57,600. Ministers McCrea and Martin explained their department expenditures. The garnishee exemption in new Wage Bill stands at $15 instead of $25.

The Premier stated, re Liquor Bill, price, etc., would be fixed by board, that workmen could buy 12 bottles of beer at a time; salaries of Commission had not been set but would be adequate.

MARCH 11TH.—In Private Bills Committee the gas bill of the City of Toronto was defeated. This bill asked for certain rights of audit of the gas company's books outside the present agreements between company and city. Eleven bills were given second reading and six passed by the House. Hon. H. S. Heury read his amendments to "Highway Improvement Bill" which among other things calls for removal of signs, gas pumps, etc., that encroach on Provincial highways. The information was given that President Falconer's salary (of Toronto University) was $10,000 per year; Hydro Commissioners were paid as follows: Chairman McGrath, $18,000, C. A. McGuire $8,000, and Hon. J. R. Cooke $8,000 per year.

MARCH 14TH.—The amendment to the Assessment Act advanced another stage, but was changed so as not to apply on this year's assessments. This amendment raises exemption of householders from $2,000 to $3,000 and non-householders from $1,000 to $1,500. House only sat for an hour, but passed five Government measures and eight private bills, chief in interest being the granting of assistance to Royal Winter Fair; maintaining of deserted wives and children; legitimization of children by subsequent intermarriage of parents; assistance to town of Timmins by increasing town's proportion of mining taxes.

MARCH 15TH.—Debate on second reading of Government Control Bill featured the Premier speaking in his motion. Stated act was intended "not to suppress but to control" liquor sale, by education "would not only eliminate abuses but change whole public attitude toward the use of alcoholic beverages." "We have eliminated the feature of private gain in liquor transactions." "Penalties will be severe." "People shall get liquor only so long as they behave themselves." The wide powers were given Commission because bill aimed to prohibit the "abuse of liquor as a beverage." Beer will be sold at cost. Hon. W. E. Sinclair read a statement concurring in the will of the people at recent election and expressed the hope that province would not be "too seriously injured by proposed bill." Hon. W. E. Raney pointed out how Manitoba Bill had been a failure and claimed that D. B. Hanna could not have a free hand, patronage would affect choice of subordinates, that hotel guest-rooms and tents will become rendezvous of debauchery; that province was confronted with a bill which will encourage and promote drunkenness. Karl Homuth moved adjournment, but before adjournment the Premier and Speaker both said that in future all members will be held strictly to question under discussion.

David Bradshaw Crombie
Former prominent bank manager of Toronto and St. Catharines and a well-known resident of those two municipalities for half a century, who died in Toronto on March 10, in his 80th year, following a stroke. He was a Fenian Raid veteran of 1866, and one of the oldest old boys of Upper Canada College.

MARCH 16TH.—Karl C. Homuth (now Conservative, South Waterloo, formerly Ind. Labor) criticized the stand of Liberal Leader as neither being "for or against" the Bill. He asked for "beer by glass" for the workingman. Mr. Sinclair heatedly replied, stating that advocating "beer by glass," Homuth was outside the question. John G. Lethbridge (Prog., West Middlesex) upheld the O.T.A. and referred to the fact Commission was a political body. Frank W. Wilson (Cons., Windsor) wanted "beer by glass." Situation would be serious in border cities if this was not permitted. M. E. Scott (Lib., South Oxford) was against bill, but would support it if carried. Edmond Proulx (Lib., Prescott) stated he would not support Raney amendment. Leslie Woke (U.F.O., East Lambton) adjourned House, and will continue to-morrow.
