Winchester Memorial Hospital Site Changed

The Winchester Press

At a meeting of the directors of The Winchester District Memorial Hospital, held here last week, members of the Hospital Medical Board brought in a recommendation, that before any actual construction was started, the site on which the hospital is to be erected should be given further consideration. The recommendation stated that the Medical Board was in favour of the Ault property, and that the site should be changed. The Board had already purchased a site from Mr. Hugh Edgerton on Main Street West. Reasons for the change are outlined in a memorandum from the Medical Board, which appears below, in this column.

A lengthy discussion took place following the presentation of the doctors' recommendations, after which a vote of the Board was taken. This resulted in a 15-3 majority to change the site.

Since the meeting, the Property Committee has made arrangements with Mr. Ralph Ault for the purchase of the land west of the school properties and it is expected all details connected with the purchase will be completed this week.

Statement By Medical Board

The doctors who serve the community covered by the Winchester and District Memorial Hospital are unanimously in favor of the Ault site.

This decision was reached after earnest and long consideration and came to a head on May 14th, 1947.

Our recommendation as medical men that the hospital site be changed from the Edgerton to the Ault location was read before a full meeting of the complete Hospital Board on May 20th, 1947. After open and frank discussion, this decision to reverse the site was carried by a vote of 15 to 3.

Those of your doctors who served overseas mentioned the large expanse of country around even the smallest hospitals in England where land is at a much greater premium than here.

Each of us who serve you must look to your future. We must make provision to have plenty of room so that our fullest hopes may be realized—and that we can grow when the time comes—and it will come.

Our hospital is going to expand and develop. A nurses' residence will be built. The whole project will become a community health centre of which we can all be proud.

Now—quite recently in fact—our architect, at the request of the Department of Health, has had to alter the plans for our hospital to build it for the future—and so that it can be added to with the least possible cost. Because of this, the building as now planned is too large for the Edgerton site, and so it is at this late date that we have NO choice but to choose the larger Ault property.

As your doctors, we have the fullest confidence and trust in the Hospital Board—and in its chairman, Walter MacDonald.

The campaign has been tedious, but they have not faltered. The drives for the Cornwall General Hospital, for Grace Hospital, for the Oakville Memorial Hospital, were all initiated and started long before ours—and you do not see them under construction yet.

No worthy goal can be reached without sacrifice. There is no real gain without struggle. Therefore, let us to the battle—without dissention or discord—for ahead there is blood and sweat and tears—but out of it all a Hospital that we may all be proud of will be attained.

H. S. Gross. Sec'y. Medical Board,
Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

DIED AT EDMONTON

Mrs. A. J. Forward received word Tuesday morning of the death of her brother, Lloyd Johnston of Edmonton, who passed away Monday night, after a short illness. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William John Johnston. He was born at Chesterville 54 years ago.

Grantley Residence Destroyed By Fire

The residence known as the "Will Hawn" house at Grantley was totally destroyed by fire together with a portion of its contents, Saturday evening between 8 and 9 o'clock. The blaze was first noticed by nearby residents who hurried to the scene and were successful in saving a portion of the contents. The origin of the fire was not discovered.

The property is said to belong to Mrs. George Godfrey of Ottawa, who occupies it intermittently.

BOWLING GREEN OPENING

The local Bowling Green will be opened for the season Friday night this week, weather favorable. This will be an open night, when all will be welcome, especially prospective new members.

Concentrated Milk Producers Much Disappointed

The Concentrated Milk Producers of this district are much disappointed with the manner in which the advance of thirty cents per case of evaporated milk is working out. It was generally understood that some benefit would accrue to the milk producers in an advance in price for their milk. A director of the Concentrated Milk Producers Association informs the Record that after negotiations with the management of the local plant, the best that has been offered is a rather indefinite promise that they might get some increase in June.

With the costs of producing milk going higher almost daily, the average farmer, who assumed that some of the thirty cent increase was coming his way, does not find any of it in his milk cheque. If it is all going to the manufacturer it is figured that Finance Minister Abbott has some little explanation to make to a large number of milk producers in this province.

Late Morley McPherson

At Elma, at 4.30 p.m., May 19th, one of our well-respected residents of the community was claimed by death, in the person of Morley Ewart McPherson in his sixty-eighth year.

Mr. McPherson had been in failing health for some time and toward the end, suffered a great deal, but bore his suffering with wonderful patience and fortitude, but the end came very peacefully, with all members of his family at his bed side.

The funeral was conducted at two o'clock in the Elma United Church, where his pastor, the Rev. F. J. Vowles delivered a very impressive sermon, assisted by two of Mr. McPherson's former pastors, Rev. R. S. Smith and Rev. W. A. Morrison.

The united choirs of Winchester Springs and Elma were in attendance with Mrs. Clarence Thompson of Winchester Springs United Church, presiding at the organ. A hymn was very nicely rendered by the choir entitled, "Does Jesus Care", and other hymns were, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Abide With Me."

The pallbearers were six nephews of the deceased, Messrs. William, Burton, Maurice, Hubert, Morley and Donald Beckstead.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife (nee Lenora Beckstead), two daughters Evelyn, Mrs. Bernice Barkley; Edna, Mrs. Hugh Barkley, and two sons Graham of Elma and Wray of Kingston. Six grandsons, three grand-daughters and one great granddaughter.

Interment was made in the cemetery at Williamsburg.

FIVE HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS LEAVE STAFF

A rather peculiar situation confronts the High School Board with five of their staff leaving at the end of the term, with the salary question not among the differences. If the salary question is not the big grievance what is wrong? Rumors place it entirely outside the control of the board.

Rotary Hears Rev. Innes On Democracy

"The youth of our country demand leadership that will prove that the democratic way of living is worthwhile" said Reverend George Innes of Williamsburg, last Tuesday evening at the regular Rotary luncheon. "It is necessary that we, as individuals, realize the difference between democracy and communism if we are to survive today."

President Leon Marcellus introduced Mr. Coon as a guest of the club for the meeting, and expressed the thanks of the club to the committee that was in charge of the arrangements for the successful appearance of the Temple Choir.

Introduced by Carl McMillan, Mr. Innes used as his title, "If I Were Asked to Write a Book." The writing of a book, the speaker said, would mean that posterity would be the judge of it, and he thought that if the verdict was to be a favourable one it would be necessary to call to the reader's attention his contribution in life to the world's betterment and advancement.

In the chapter called "Struggle", Mr. Innes recalled that in the centuries of history the story of democracy has been one of power leaving the hands of the many—the people. During these changes, two distinct forms of living have emerged; the democratic or peoples' way, limited by reason and justice to the rights and freedoms of the individual, and the communist way that takes away one's liberties and leaves man a beast of burden or a machine with no vestiges of rights or freedoms left.

"Is our bid for a democratic living attractive enough", asked Mr. Innes, "are we good examples of democratic people and a democracy at work? We must not accept less than the best in the fulfilment of our ideals if we are to succeed."

Summing up his talk, the speaker pointed out the avenues that are open to those who are willing to seek common ground between the two forms of government. In religion will be found a means for good faith in our living. Another road is through the common love of music that is found in nearly all countries. "We must all learn to live together in peace and harmony and to achieve that end will take much learning and understanding.

The speaker was thanked by Keith Graham on behalf of the club.

Death of George Harper Occurred Yesterday

Another of Chesterville's older residents passed away at his home early yesterday morning when George Philip Harper passed away at the advanced age of eighty-five years. He was a member of a well-known family, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Barney Harper. He had lived all his life in Chesterville. He is survived by his widow and two married daughters. The funeral will take place Friday afternoon in Trinity United Church.

Eslie Gray's Body Found In River Monday Afternoon

Monday afternoon about 1.40 the body of Eslie Allison Gray, was found in the weeds of the Nation river, by Kenneth Kirkby who was fishing at the time. The body had evidently been carried by the swift current to shallow water and weeds, about three quarters of a mile down from the Main Street bridge on the north bank. Kirkby communicated by telephone with Ex. Constable Garnet McLean, from the home of Donald Cross. McLean was quickly on the scene and notified Constable Wannell of Morrisburg and Coroner Pollock of Avonmore. The coroner, after viewing the body allowed it to be removed. As far as can be learned Gray was not noticed near the river, nor is it known at what point it was entered.

The funeral was held yesterday in Trinity United Church, largely attended by former friends and neighbors of the village and of Nation Valley, where the deceased was born 54 years ago, the son of Mr. Grant Gray and the late Mrs. Gray. Recently with his wife and family he made his residence in Chesterville.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters. They are: Earl, who farms near Chesterville; and George at home; and the Misses Shirley and Jean Gray, both of Ottawa. He also leaves two brothers and two sisters, Charles and Ralph Gray of Chesterville; Mrs. B. Holmes, Evelyn, and Mrs. Kenneth Merkley, Rita, both of Chesterville.

CLOCK-MAKING IN WALES

Clock-making now falls among the many industries receiving support from the United Kingdom Government in the development areas of Wales. A factory for the production of precision time-pieces has already been opened in the Swansea Valley. Two other factories are to come and the new industry will give employment to many thousand workers. Production is expected to reach two million clocks a year in five years' time. It is of particular interest that the Swiss Government has for the first time agreed to the export of the special precision machines made world-famous by the Swiss clock industry. The Swiss are now of the opinion that world demands for high quality time-pieces are so great that Welsh competition will not adversely affect the Swiss trade.

FASHION NEWS FROM LONDON

Bell-like skirts supported by stiffened canvas petticoats, off-the-shoulder necklines and even smaller waists are features of summer fashions that are coming into production in Britain's dress industry. Vivacity of design and suppleness of line and detail characterize the prototypes of summer clothes now being shown in London. Pale pink marcella—a fine cotton—brings sophistication to the summer dress in one model; another has been made in a navy and white checked duster cotton model completed by a fitted corselet waist and a frill round the shoulders. White sharkskin is being used for tailored dresses highlighted by belts of bright colored webbing and white marcella is used for a tailored beach suit with knee-length shorts (gentlemenly turn-ups are a feature of these) and a bare midriff "monkey" jacket with sleeves and corselet front cut in one.

BRITAIN'S WHALING HARVEST EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

Britain is bringing back from the Antarctic a rich harvest of whale oil, meat, meal for cattle, feed and meat extract. The season has been remarkably good and the factory ship "Balaena" was fortunate in securing the highest proportion of whales and edible oil. Owing to the fact that at the present moment world needs are the most critical ever known, no less than 14 different expeditions have been fishing in Antarctic waters. More than 2,000 whales were caught by United Kingdom crews. 185,000 barrels of oil were produced in addition to sperm oil and other by-products. Another way in which the expedition distinguished itself was in the pioneer use of aircraft for whale-spotting and for weather reconnaissance.

DRINKING MILK

National Health nutritionists suggest that children should be encouraged rather than "forced" to drink milk. If parents insist that the youngsters take the amount of health giving milk they should have, an aversion which will last a lifetime may be developed. "Just have lots of milk about, "'say the food-wise government people. "Let the children take their time about milk: they'll like it then, and it'll do them the most good. But, since milk is essential to their diet, serve it to them in soups, puddings, sauces, on cereals, with mashed potatoes, and with all the other foods with which it mixes so well."

The Modern Version

The prodigal son had returned.

"Father," he inquired, "are you going to kill the fatted calf?"

"No," answered the old man, looking the youth over carefully. "No, I'll let you live. But I'll put you to work and train a lot of that fat off."

TIME FOR DECISION

By George W. James
The Statesman, Bowmanville

ARTICLE NO. 3

In this weekly series which is designed to arouse public interest in national affairs before a general election is called it has already been made clear that the CCF party cannot command enough support to form a government neither can the Social Credit party. Hence the contest lies between the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives. It is therefore up to the public to decide which party can best serve this country during the next several years, which due to the universal upheaval following the war, will be the greatest testing time in our history.

Fair Approach

These articles approach the question by endeavoring to be completely fair, by substituting cool reasoning against harsh political harangue, which it is believed is the approach welcomed today by rural readers whose votes will determine the issue when an election is called. Granted therefore, that the contest lies between the two old-line parties, the question then revolves about leadership and the policies of Liberals versus Progressive-Conservatives.

ONE STRONG LEADER

Before discussing policies or examining the present state of the nation under the Liberal government of the day, the public will be interested in who will lead these contending parties, what their past record, where do they trend? It has already been asserted that John Bracken will lead the Progressive-Conservatives in the next election, having already increased his House following by more than 70 percent. That point is clear and settled. The party has thus a strong, experienced leader whose personal story will be told later.

Leadership Uncertain

On the other hand, Prime Minister King has made it clear he will not lead the Liberals in another general election. Nor has he given any indication who he wishes to succeed him, although Liberal stalwarts have approached Mr. Coldwell, CCF leader to lead the Liberal party. The prospect, therefore, is a virtually leaderless Liberal party coming up to a general election. It is a prospect which the public must accept in view of the following statements by Mr. King.

Confirms Retirement

Speaking at his 25th anniversary banquet, August 7th, 1944, he declared he would lead in only one more general election which took place in June, 1945. Speaking in Prince Albert, May, 1945, where he was defeated, he said the same thing. He repeated the assertion at a non-partisan dinner, June 18, 1946. Elected in Glengarry, August 24, he said it was his last contest and when turning over the Department of External Affairs, once again the same statement was made.

Ministers Resign

All this is from the record. It has been particularly disturbing to his followers who are becoming openly critical of the situation. Five of his most able Ministers quit from his cabinet: Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Hon. J. L. Ralston, Hon. Angus Macdonald, Hon. T. A. Crearer and Hon. C. G. Power. Each has been outspoken in criticism since retiring. The staunchest Liberal of all, Hon. C. G. Power, 30 years in the House of Commons, writing in Maclean's Magazine, Feb. 1, 1947, said in part:

Mr. Power Speaks

"All my life I have been a Liberal; now I am looking for a place to vote Liberal. What the party urgently needs is a house cleaning . . the traditional party of progress and reform has gone off the track and is travelling in the ditches of expediency and improvisation, first Right, then Left . . . a resurgence must come upward from the ranks."

Leftist Warning

"From what does it require saving? From opportunism at neglect of principle and from the possibility of coalition with the followers of any other political philosophy. Both alignments are begotten of what can only be called the office-holding mania. The fact is in the Liberal ranks across Canada the old, healthy grouses have given way to pessimism, disappointment, defeatism and despair."

Case Strengthened

There was much more this staunch Liberal had to say which may be quoted later. It was published after this weekly series was begun and as will be seen is entirely in line with the objective stated in article 1, which declared the need for an informed public opinion and the need to restore sound responsible government with full freedom for everyone. Hon. Mr. Power has immeasurably strengthened the case which these articles seek to develop.

Non-Partisan View

As this series progresses other witnesses will be called whose positions in public life mark them as authorities much concerned with this question of responsible leadership. In quoting prominent figures such as Mr. Power a non-partisan, reasoned view will be thus achieved.

BRASH MALE AIRS VIEWS ON GLAMOR

When a "mere man" begins to compare the glamor of Canadian women with that to be found among women of other countries he is really "going out on a limb". This is the opinion of J. Frank Willis, CBC broadcaster and program executive, who nevertheless intends to give a radio talk entitled "Have Canadian Women Glamor?" on Friday, June 6, at 4.18 p.m. EDT, over stations of the CBC Trans-Canada network.

Mr. Willis' talk will introduce the CBC's new weekly program series for women—"Have You Personality?"—in which listeners may learn just what glamor is, who may have it, and how. A panel of eight speakers, each expert on some aspect of the subject, will be heard throughout the series.

A former art student and fashion designer, and a much-travelled man, Mr. Willis modestly admits to being "at least as well qualified as any other 'mere man' to discuss glamor in women." But, he adds, "I realize that in doing so I'll really be going out on a limb!"

In The Cards

Smithers was preparing to take a solo jaunt up into the mountains, when Jake, the grizzled old camp guide, stopped him to check up on his supplies.

"You gotta map an' a compass?" asked Jake.

"Certainly," replied Smithers.

"Hev you gotta deck of playin' keerds?"

"Why no," rejoined Smithers. "What in the heck do I need with a deck of playing cards?"

"It might save your life, son," old Jake replied. "I always carry a pack with me. "If you get lost, son just set down and begin playin' a game o' solitaire. Next thing you know some fool will pop up behind you and begin telling you what to do next."

"No," replied the husband during a quarrel. "No, you didn't run after me. But listen, my dear. A trap doesn't run after a mouse, but it catches it just the same."

"We know it's fun sometimes"

...you and your girl friend doing home work together, by telephone. But it does tie up the party line – perhaps when someone needs it badly. So please don't make it a habit... Check?

A quiet marriage was solemnized in St. Peter's Lutheran church, Williamsburg, on Saturday, May 10th, at 11 a.m., when Lucy Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus McIntosh of Williamsburg, became the bride of Kenneth Geggie, son of Mr. Leroy Geggie and the late Mrs. Geggie of Toyes Hill.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents with Miss Margaret Geggie and Mrs. Geo. Barkley serving.

The dinner table was centered with a two-tier wedding cake. Later the happy couple left for Montreal. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Geggie will reside at Kingston.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. Leroy Geggie, Jack Geggie, Mrs. Garnet Empey, all of Toyes Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Geggie, Winchester; Mrs. Graham Bell, Elma; Miss Betty Jenkins and Mr. Walter Collier, Ottawa; Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Innes and Mr. and Mrs. George Barkley, all of Williamsburg.

Reminded

An absent-minded man called upon his old friend, the family doctor. After chatting for a couple of hours, the doctor saw him to the door and, as he was shaking hands, said: "Come again soon, old chap. Family all well, I suppose?"

"Good heavens!" exclaimed his visitor: "that reminds me. My wife's in a fit!"

Melba Perkins Honoured With Pre-nuptial Shower

On the evening of May 23rd, there gathered at the hospitable home of Mrs. H. Hummel and Mrs. George Crawford to attend a miscellaneous shower in honour of Miss Melba Perkins, one of the seasons' brides, members of the St. Andrew's Church and her neighbours.

The house was prettily decorated in white wedding bells and pink and white streamers in profusion.

The McKay-Douglas Group of St. Andrews (of which Melba is a faithful member), assisted in receiving.

The president Miss Cameron escorted Miss Perkins to the home and on entering were greeted with "Here Comes the Bride", played by Miss Mildred McIntosh while she was conducted to a decorated seat beneath an arch of streamers. For once a party of this kind had been kept an obsolute surprise, so much so, that Miss Perkins was quite overcome by the sudden turning on of the lights and found she was in the midst of a large company. She received a great hand and quickly rose to the occasion.

A much be-ribboned heart-shaped beautifully arranged bride's book was in charge of Miss Helen Barrie for the signing and viewing by the guests, after which Miss Mary David read from the bride's book an especially fine address. The words as they fell on the listeners' ears bespoke the sentiments of all present.

Little Lillian Ann Crawford, if she didn't steal the show, she certainly did capture a bit of it, as she nonchalantly wheeled in her doll carriage filled with some of the gifts to Miss Perkins' chair with an aire of confidence far surpassing twenty-one months.

The members of the Group helped the bride-elect to unwrap and display the marvelous choice of gifts. Miss Perkins who is blessed with a very pleasing personality, beautifully thanked her neighbours, the McKay-Douglas and ladies of St. Andrews and her hostesses for their kindness and thoughtfulness in remembering her at this very important time in her life.

The evening was spent in visiting, sing song, duets and a contest, Mrs. Garrow winning the prize.

The tea table was centred with a magnificent (imitation) brides' cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and pink and white streamers fell to the corners of the table from a suspended white wedding bell.

The setting so surprisingly beautiful touched the hearts of all and led them to ponder on the sacredness of the occasion to take place shortly.

The singing of "She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "Old Lang Syne", with Mrs. Harold Greer at the piano, the guests began to depart—leaving Miss Perkins at the door smiling with their sincere hand clasps and wishing her every joy in her new station in life that her wedded life be long and happy. They expressed their wishes further in these lines:

The wedding bells are ringing,
Ringing out their joy and cheer
May your wedded life be as happy,
As the springtime of the year.

Better Be Quiet

The newly rich woman was trying to make an impression.

"I clean my diamonds with ammonia," she said, "my rubies with Bordeaux wine, my emeralds with Danzig brandy, and my sapphires with fresh milk."

"I don't clean mine," said the quiet woman sitting next to her. "When they get dirty I just throw them away."

KIRKWOOD-McLEAN

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Inkerman United Church parsonage Wednesday, last week, when Miss Lydia Dorene McLean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet McLean of Chesterville, became the bride of John Robert Kirkwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kirkwood of Oak Valley. Rev. George S. Gervan, pastor of the church officiated.

The bride wore a street length gown of powder-blue silk jersey, with matching hat and black accessories. She also wore a corsage of Talisman roses. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Norma Armstrong, Winchester. The bridegroom was attended by Franklin Salter.

Following the ceremony the wedding party motored to the home of the bride's parents, at Chesterville, where a buffet luncheon was served by Miss Helen Armstrong and Miss Muriel Armstrong. The couple then left for points in Western Ontario on a motor trip to Toronto and United States.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McMillan, Morrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLean of Morrisburg; Mrs. Hamilton Thompson, of Iroquois; Mr. and Mrs. Carson Kerr of Winchester; Mn. and Mrs. Ralph Kirkwood of Inkerman; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Armstrong of Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. Hilton McLean of Chesterville; Mr. Hubert McLean of Cornwall.

Prior to her wedding Miss McLean had been an employe of Bessin's Store, Winchester, and she was presented with a blue wool blanket by the members of the staff.

May Meeting Women's Institute

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon in the library.

The meeting began with the singing of the opening Ode and reciting the Institute Creed.

Roll Call was answered by payment of fees, after which the president, Mrs. Fay Shaver, called for the minutes of the last meeting and the Treasurer's report.

Mrs. George Merkley gave an interesting report of the District Annual which was held recently in Williamsburg.

Mrs. Harry Allison then conducted a very instructive and entertaining True-False quiz on Horticulture, the first prize for which was won by Mrs. Haldane Durant. Mrs. Allison warned Mrs. Jim McCloskey not to get caught again when she presented her with a mouse trap as the booby prize.

A committee was formed with Mrs. George Merkley as convener to compile a local Institute Recipe book. Mrs. Merkley said she would present a plan for this project at the next meeting.

It was decided to hold a Tag Day at the Fair to raise funds for an oil burner, which, when installed, would greatly add to the comfort and convenience of the Library.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. Refreshments were served by the committee, consisting of Mrs. Harry Allison, Mrs. S. H. Hutt, Mrs. Allison Graham and Mrs. Jim McCloskey.

St. Andrew's W.M.S At Home of Mrs. A. Black

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Archie Black, Friday afternoon, with the president in the chair.

This meeting was the Mother's Day service in connection with the WMS.

The service opened with psalm 19, followed by an introduction of Mother's Day and a poem "Mother" taken from Edgar Guests' book.

The scripture reading was 1st Samuel, chapter 3, verses 1-18, followed by a beautiful 'Mother and home' prayer by Mrs. Bigelow. It seemed fitting that Mrs. Bigelow should take this prayer, having given a son to the ministry.

A very fine reading was given by Mrs. Barrie, entitled "The Mission of Motherhood". Of all the mothers of scripture, none stand out so supremely as the Mother of our Lord. The scripture says "Blessed art thou among women", followed by hymn, "Happy the Home When God is There".

The Roll Call was answered by a verse of scripture with the word "Mother". Mrs. Black read the splendid poem, "Mothers of Men". Mrs. Perkins read an exceptionally fine paper. "What is a Mother?"; followed by hymn "When He Cometh to Make Up His Jewels". Mrs. C. T. McIntosh gave a splendid bible study paper based on the Scripture reading 1st Samuel, Capter 3.

The offering and business was taken care of and the Doxology was sung as a dedicatory prayer for all our Christian mothers and homes.

Miss Jamieson gave a short talk on the Christian home of our gracious King and Queen, ending with the words that we had the grandest King and Empire in the whole world. No other flag on earth stood for so much as the Union Jack.

The National Anthem and a hymn, "Mothers of Salem," were sung. The meeting closed with the Lord's prayer.

LIGHTER WICK THAT WILL NOT WEAR OUT

It sounds like a contradiction, but it is true—a lighter wick that burns, but will not burn out. Made from glass fibre, it is the first time it has been successfully produced anywhere in the world, and is a United Kingdom development which might never have occurred had it not been for the war in the tropics. Troops in the Far East found that ordinary cotton wicks were quickly eaten away by termites — often even before they were issued from stores. At the request of Britain's Ministry of Supply, the oldest firm of lighter manufacturers in Britain were asked to provide something that would defeat the termites. They did—and discovered that in addition to this quality the wick would not burn away or deteriorate. Thus, once it has been fitted in a lighter it never needs replacing, nor even lifting up.

BUDGETING FOR HAPPY MARRIAGES

A great many marriages break up because of poor budgeting of finances, according to Ethelwyn Hobbes, well-known CBC radio commentator, who will give a broadcast talk entitled "Money and Marriage" on Sunday, June 1, at 8 p.m. EDT, over CJBC and the CBC Dominion network. Mrs. Hobbes, herself a practising homemaker, believes that a man and woman should make definite arrangements about the handling of their family finances before entering a marriage contract. Her talk will be the last in a CBC series designed to help promote happy marriages.

Women Are Born Crusaders

Give a woman a "good cause" and she'll fight for it like a tiger, work until her feet are tired and her back just one big ache. But with something really worth while she'll work with a glow in her heart that nothing can dim or take away.

In 1941 the women of Canada found just such a cause. With war striking at the very foundations of civilization the women found something they could sink their teeth into and feel that here in Canada, she as a homefronter, could really be of some practical help.

At that time, the Dominion Government—headed by the Hon. J. L. Ilsley then Minister of Finance—decided that the Government must keep watch and ward over the prices of consumer goods if the dreaded foe of Inflation was to be kept at bay. Being a family man himself Mr. Ilsley fully realized that without the help and cooperation of the housewives of Canada any plan set up would fail, he called all the Presidents of Women's National Organizations to Ottawa for a good talk about what he had on his mind, and sought to enlist every woman in the Dominion in the fight for stabilized prices, controls and rationing.

These practical women immediately realized the importance of the part they were being asked to play and without any fuss or loss of time they rallied their members to the support of the National Movement that swept across the country gathering strength and fervor as it went along. It was a big plan, that worked from the very start.

Miss Byrne Hope Sanders who was made Director of this new plan called the Consumer Branch of Wartime Prices and Trade Board, immediately went to work on it, choosing her leaders or liaison officers from these various women's groups and organizations in cities, towns and villages with corresponding members for the out-lying districts. Committees were formed and almost overnight a vast network of voluntary workers developed from coast to coast. Later on, labour unions were represented as groups of consumers.

These groups were kept in constant touch with headquarters and were informed of the Board's activities, which they in turn passed on to their own groups and communities.

These 'national shoppers' watched prices and quality, were on the alert for black markets, explained the reason for shortages, taught clothing conservation and in many cities and towns 'make over and make do' sewing groups were set up, where thousands of women were taught to make clothing over for their children or to refresh and re-make their own clothing, and although these centres are closed now, the lasting value of these services will go on for years to come.

In addition to this, thousands of women helping free and generously, distributed ration books, worked in housing registeries and just as important as anything they accomplished, they gave their sound and practical advice to the Board.

A fine spirit of unity, companionship and real joy in service developed as these women welcomed the opportunity of working together in a national cause. In all, more than seventeen thousand women worked as voluntary representatives for the Consumer Branch of the WPTB. Added to this, the fine work accomplished by the rural women of Canada must not be overlooked. Because they live in the more remote areas their wonderful contribution has sometimes been a bit overlooked by those closer to the main centres, but none has more generously given of their time and toil than the rural women of Canada and because of the fine work done by the homemakers the cost of living has been kept among the lowest in the world.

The spirit of loyalty and a fervent desire to be practical and down-to-earth helpers on the home front, was such that it transcended all racial, religious and political differences. Women from Cape Breton to Puget Sound worked for the common cause of people everywhere in the Dominion, with an untiring cheerfulness, reaching out a helping hand to the most remote areas, and making people realize that whether they lived in the shadow of Parliament Hill or the shadow of the Pole they were truly Canadians and worthy to help, or be helped.

Creative Banking

HELPS TURN Ideas INTO PRODUCTS

THE REAL creator in business today is the man with an idea—and the ability to turn it into something tangible.

Creative banking has helped many a man build an idea into a profitable business .... has helped him through all the stages until the goods are completed, neatly packaged, and moving across the dealers' counters.

But there's even more to it than that. For every package, for every useful machine, for every service that grows from an idea, men and raw materials are needed .... so money starts to flow again in wages and salaries, in sales and purchases.

You may have a sound idea, and you may need money to make it work. Talk it over with your Bank of Nova Scotia branch manager. He looks at ideas from the viewpoint of creative banking, he seeks an opportunity to put money to work intelligently, for the benefit of everyone.

Let's do it together!

GARDEN CHATS

By Mrs. Harry Allison

Hello Neighbours! You know, I'd like to see my house and ground the finest place for miles around with ivies twinning 'round my door and flowers you don't buy at a store, and tulips red and white and blue and roses dripping with the dew. I'd like long rows of columbine and hyacinths—about ninety-nine. There'd be white hollyhocks and 'mums — a beauty spot to him who comes. I'd like tall trees that swing and sway to shade the traveller on his way. I'd like a rockery large and neat and green grass growing at my feet. Some gold-fish I would like to place in a lovely pool—if I had the space. I think that few things can compare with the smell of lilacs in the air and orange blossoms and sweet-peas too. I'd love window with a view. The birds would come and build a nest in the apple tree. I like the best. The bees would hum and the birds would sing when my garden broke forth into joy in Spring. But, alas, these dreams won't come to be. I wasn't meant to work you see.

When the snow is gone and the dirt is piled high, I'd rather go to bed and lie in comfort than a rake to grasp and start that miserable task. I know I'll only blister my hand and my feet will ache 'till I cannot stand.

And if I ever used a spade, I'd only have to call "First Aid". My back was built for teaching schools, and not for weilding garden tools. It only wants to ache and ache until I'm sure that it will break. Some liniments might help I'm sure, but to keep from work is a better cure.

Then some day when the weather's grand, out I go to get a tan, and Hubby suggests that I ought to weed or plant a row of pumpkin seed. The day's so nice that I stay too long and that night—well it's a different song. My nose is burned and my neck is red, in fact I feel I've a different head for this one feels it's about to burst, and really, folks that's not the worst. My arms are living "hunks" of meat—seared to a turn—'most ready to eat. They burn and twitch and won't get cool and once more I wish I were teaching school.

Now, weeding's another thing I know has to be done, but on the first row my back ache I begin to feel, so Hubby suggests I'd better kneel. But there's a thistle, if you please, exactly where I put my knees. Or, I put them square on a big sharp stone that I swear goes right through to the bone. I really don't know which to take—the bruised knees or my old back-ache.

Mosquitos are another curse. In fact, I think I hate them worse than flies which you can always swat, but no curse for mosquitos have they got. Just as I go to pull a weed, one bites me till I simply bleed. So I go to the house and start to patch—or more correctly start to scratch. I scratch my arms and then my legs and the lumps rise up like little eggs.

These are just some of the tricks I've found as I try to improve my home and ground. All of my dreams I'll never see. Most of those flowers will never be. I'm sure, dear neighbour, now you'll agree that work was never meant for me.

Unsound Proof

They were entertaining friends in their new prefabricated home. Suddenly one of the guests sat up and listened.

"Surely you're not troubled by mice already?" she said.

"That's not mice," replied the householder. "That's the people next door eating celery."

Blind Both Eyes "Sees" With Fingers

Delicate hot-house blooms and seedling plants require careful handling, if a greenhouse operator hopes to show a profit on his sales.

And no one is more fully aware of this than 43-year-old Paul Vanden Posch, totally blind Regina market gardener. Lacking sight, he has come to rely on very sensitive fingers, when determining whether a flower should be pruned, plucked or transplanted.

The "canniness" with which he handles flower and vegetable plants has prompted people who do business with him to refer to him as the "man with the green thumb".

Mr. Bosch says he can follow the growth and development of a flower or vegetable with his fingers, as easily as a person who has his sight. Says he: "These plants hold just as much beauty for me as the next fellow—the only difference is that I feel this beauty: they see it!"

Co-proprietor of a market garden with his brother Raymond, Bosch has been in the business for about 20 years and is proud that he was able to look after it by himself for nearly five years while his brother served overseas.

The Bosch brothers started out selling vegetables but some months ago began to handle flowers as well. Last Christmas they handled about 8,000 large chrysanthemums and several thousand small spray 'mums. During the Easter season they filled orders for tulips, daffodiles and other spring flowers and until recently kept a stock of nearly 15,000 geraniums ready for sale. They operate two greenhouses on a 35-acre plot just outside Regina.

Paul Bosch lost his sight in two stages. One eye went as a result of an operation, shortly after he came to Canada from Belgium in 1920. Then about 15 years ago, when he was chopping wood, a splinter accounted for the other. As he says, "I get along all right!"

Young Man With a Future

"Jones," remarked a neighbour, "I understand that boy of yours is learning a trade. Do you think he'll work at it?"

"No," was the candid reply, "I don't think he will. He is just learning it so that when he is idle he will be able to tell people what kind of work he is out of."

REPLACEABLE COLLARS

A Yorkshire firm is introducing to trade buyers at the British Industries Fair a space-collar shirt or blouse the collar of which can easily be replaced by a new one as soon as the original collar becomes worn-out. In these new shirts and blouses, a loop has been inserted at the back of the shirt under the collar. By pulling the loop the worn collar detaches itself from the garment, revealing a grooved neck-band. The new collar simply needs to be inserted in the groove, tacked in position, and sewn up with a single seam.

Early plows were hewn from tree-trunks. About 1800, cast-iron moldboards began to be used.

100 YEARS OF PROGRESS

in making Farm Implements

AS LATE AS 1794, wooden moldboards were hewn from tree trunks, and when the first cast-iron plows were made, farmers believed that the cast iron "poisoned the land." Then came lighter weight steel plows. Soon plows were being made in factories at much lower cost than they could be made by the local blacksmith.

Since 1847 when the first Massey plant started producing plows and other farm implements, machine methods have almost completely replaced hand labor on the farm.

Plowing requires more power than any other farm operation. Today on thousands of farms in Canada and throughout the world, Massey-Harris plows drawn by powerful Massey-Harris tractors speed across the fields, enabling the farmer to plow twice the acreage he formerly plowed with a four horse outfit.

And Massey-Harris mowers, binders, combines and other machines handle crops more speedily than would have been thought possible a hundred years ago.

The past century has been one of steady expansion for the Massey-Harris industry. To the farmer it has brought happy release from much of the back-breaking labor connected with farm work.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hydro Home Economist

Hello Brides-to-be! You have been asking about what food to serve your guests after the wedding and how to serve it. Your plans will probably depend on the number of guests invited to the wedding. If it is to be a small family affair then you can arrange a wedding breakfast or a buffet luncheon or supper; if it is to be a large wedding then you are restricted to a reception so arranged that the guests can be served easily and quickly. The time of day or evening does not need to make a difference unless you are plannng an early morning wedding to be followed by a wedding breakfast proper.

Here are a few suggestions that will be useful:

Wedding Breakfast: Fruit cup, Chicken and Mushroom Pattie, Potato Chips, Buttered Peas, Knot Rolls, Pecan Tarts Wedding Cake and Tea.

Buffet Suggestion: Ham Rolls or Waldorf Fruit Moulds, Celery and Olives, Hot Buttered Tea Biscuits, Ices and Cookies, Wedding Cake and Tea.

HAM ROLLS

Ask the butcher to slice cooked ham thin: for 24 servings he may cut 2 lbs. into 24 slices.

On the day before the luncheon, cook 4 lbs. of scrubbed potatoes. When cold, peel and cube into small pieces. Add 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped fine, 1 minced onion, 2 cups cut asparagas and seasonings. Mix 2 cups salad dressing into potatoes and and egg mixture. Put a tablespoon of salad on each slice of ham, roll and fasten with toothpick.

Using heartshaped cutter, cut out cookies. Place on a greased baking sheet; bake in a hot electric oven (400 degs.) 12 mins. Cool.

BASIC RECIPE FOR ICES

2|3 cup sugar, 1½ cups water, pinch salt, 1½ tsps. gelatin, 3 tbsps water, fruit juice as required.

Cook the sugar and water together 5 mins. (This may be made in quantities and stored in the refrigerator. Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve over hot water or in the hot syrup. Cool and add fruit juices. Turn into a tray and freeze until firm. Remove to a chilled bowl, break into small pieces. Beat with rotary beater until fluffy (1 to 2 mins.). Turn into trays and continue to freeze until firm.

Note: Omit the gelatin if you wish.

The toast may be simply "To the Bride," spoken by the clergyman or father before anyone sips their punch.

TAKE A TIP

1. Asparagas rolls can be made easily if the square slices of bread are steamed. Method of steaming: pour boiling water over a towel, then lift the wet towel onto a dry one; wring out quickly and place bread between folds of steaming cloth.
2. [illegible] semi-sweet chocolate over [illegible]ater until partly melted; [illegible]ove from boiling water [illegible] rapidly until entirely [illegible]r chocolate evenly over [illegible]uts and graham cracker [illegible] in a greased pan. Let pan stand in a cool place to harden. Cut in bars.
3. If you use canned peaches as dessert, add a drop of almond extract.
4. There are plenty of leftovers from special luncheons — bread crumbs are common. Put crusts through the grinder and use in a variety of bread puddings, stuffings, soups, croquettes and meat loaves. Keep crumbs fresh by storing in a jar covered with cloth in the refrigerator.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all my friends and neighbours who remembered me with cards and personal visits during my recent illness. Douglas Durant.

BLUE ROBINS, WHITE ROBINS, BLACK BEARS—WHAT NEXT?

That white robin that we spotted has become the most popular bird on the Finch road. Since it got its name in the Record and who says advertising doesn't pay, the bird has become a bright spot on many lawns. We are relieved that our first look was right, and that our white robin is real. According to the Royal Ontario Museum, the chances of an albino appearing in any species are out of this world.

One of the rural mail carriers, Hubert "Joe" Robinson, told us of seeing the elusive bird one morning, and before completing his appointed round of almost sideswiping the vanishing end of a large black bear out Grantley way. It seems that mama bear and the two cubs were disporting themselves on the road near Joseph Featherston's farm, south of Chesterville and Mr. Featherston and a neighbour had watched them for some time before the mail car arrived and they took to the bush.
