CELEBRATES 85th BIRTHDAY 63rd WEDDING ANN.

Last Wednesday evening, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shaw, of Elma, was the scene of a most interesting and happy event when the 85th anniversary of Mr. Shaw's birth and the 63rd anniversary of his marriage with Maria Hyndman were celebrated in a very informal manner, when friends and relatives to the number of about 20 were present to congratulate the aged couple and extend best wishes and hopes that they be spared to each other for many more years. Both are in very good health and joined most heartily in the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are natives of Mountain township and it was in that township they were married and started their long life together on a little farm which for many years was their home. Mrs. Arthur McMillan, Elma, is the only daughter, and to have her near them, a number of years ago the parents moved into the same district. The infantile paralysis epidemic kept many relatives from being present at it was not thought wise to expose the children to possible contagion.

A wedding cake which graced the dining table was cut by Mrs. Shaw. In the absence of the family pastor in Montreal, Mrs. R. S. Smith was present accompanied by Mrs. Orrin Casselman, of Winchester Springs. Mrs. Bayard Black of Hallville, was among the guests.

WINCHESTER MEN AND CAR MISSING

Police are searching for three young men whom they connect with the theft of Dr. J. J. McKendry's auto from in front of his residence about 8.30 o'clock Monday evening. Two are from Winchester and the third is a stranger who recently arrived from the West. They were seen trying to board a passing train at the C.P.R. depot in an effort to gain free transportation to the West. Failing to get on the train, police believe the boys decided to steal the doctor's car as they and the auto have been missing since Monday.

Ralph McKendry, son of Dr. J. J. McKendry, had returned from a summer cottage late in the afternoon and had left the car in front of the doctor's office with the ignition key in it. Later in the evening the car was removed from this position. Ralph thought his father had put it in the garage, and the doctor thought his son had done the same thing, so nothing was said until this Tuesday morning when Dr. McKendry went to get the car and found that it was missing. The theft was immediately reported to the police who started investigating.

The auto is a late model Ford V-8 sand color coach, license No. D-2523. In the car were some bedding clothing and Mrs. McKendry's purse containing over ten dollars.

THREE WINCHESTER YOUTHS ARRESTED

Provincial police at Sudbury are holding three Winchester youths in district jail for authorities at Perth. The three, Lloyd Renick, Lloyd Billow and James Bellams, were arrested near Espanola.

An automobile reported stolen from a Winchester physician was allegedly found in possession of the trio. A service station proprietor notified police a car containing three young men drove off without paying for gasoline. The arrests were made soon afterwards.

IROQUOIS MAN INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

On Thursday evening about 8.30 a car driven by Frances Sweeney, of Iroquois, collided with a horse and wagon driven by Howard Tupper of Williamsburg, about two miles north of Morrisburg, on Highway 31. Tupper's left leg was badly bruised, and Orval Reddick, of Williamsburg, who was with Tupper at the time of the accident, suffered flesh wounds to the left side of his face, and cuts on his left ear. Tupper's wagon was damaged to the extent of approximately $25.00, while the Sweeney car had about $75 damages.

TAYLOR—COPELAND

Knox Presbyterian church, at Iroquois was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Miss Edna Elizabeth Gilbert Copeland, daughter of Mrs. Mary R. D. Copeland and the late Clayton C. Copeland of Iroquois, became the bride of William Thomas Taylor, son of Mrs. Taylor and the late Jacob Taylor of Brinston.

The church, a profusion of autumn blooms, formed a very effective setting for the ceremony which was performed by Rev. William Merri- leas, pastor of the church. Miss Helen Collard, L.M., presided at the organ.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her cousin, Blane Copeland Phillips of Ottawa, looked charming in an imported wool suit of Flecta rose with hat of same material and black accessories and Kolinsky fur. Her corsage was Joanna Hill roses and lily-of-the-valley. The bride was given in marriage by her mother and the couple were unattended. During the signing of the register, Mrs. James Fenton sang "Because."

Mrs. Copeland, mother of the bride, was dressed in a gown of Hunter's green, Molyneux model with matching hat and wore a corsage of Premier roses. Mrs. H. B. Bradley, sister of the bride, was dressed in a gown of rose beige crepe with navy accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Taylor, mother of the groom, wore a gown of black triple sheer, with matching accessories and a corsage of Premier roses.

After the ceremony the couple left for an extended motor trip to Chicago and various other points. They will reside in Ottawa.

ARMSTRONG—BARKLEY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Iroquois, when Miss Vera Barkley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Barkley of Haddo, became the bride of Lloyd Armstrong second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Armstrong, of Cardinal. Rev. Thos. Knowles officiated.

The bride looked very pretty in a dress of navy blue satin with accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of Gladioli, delphinium and maiden hair fern. Miss Susan Collison, cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and wore a dress flowered crepe with accessories to match. Her bouquet was of mixed flowers and ferns. Lindsay Barkley brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served at the home of the bride's parents. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Armstrong and daughter Mabel, of Cardinal; Miss Susan Collison; Mr. and Mrs. Murray Storey, of Iroquois; Hiram Barkley, grandfather of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Tousaw of Hulbert and Mrs. Pearl King and Horace, of Prescott.

Later the happy couple motored to Prescott from where they left on a wedding trip to Philadelphia, Watertown, Sulphur Springs and Brownsville N.Y.

To the Electors of Grenville-Dundas:

For the third time, I have the privilege of appearing before you as a Candidate for the historic riding of Grenville-Dundas.

Some of the important problems affecting Eastern Ontario are those relating to Agriculture, Good Roads, power Development and the important Tourist Trade.

Aids to Agriculture have always found in me an enthusiastic supporter, and may I draw to your attention, the fact that during my term as member, the paving of No. 31 Highway was started and extended in Williamsburg vicinity. I still favor further road development in both Grenville-Dundas.

I firmly believe the St. Lawrence development would be a tremendous asset to this section of the province and I will continue to work for its consummation.

Mr. Rowe very wisely advocates the establishment of a department to deal specially with the tourist development. I am whole-heartedly behind the idea.

My thanks are due to many who may not claim allegiance to the Conservative Party and yet have previously supported me. To these and all others, I am deeply grateful.

The policies of Mr. Hepburn in dealing with the Liquor Problem; his repudiation of contracts, and his neglect to aid Agriculture should cause every citizen to think, and think seriously.

To the thinking citizens, I appeal.

Yours sincerely,

GEO. H. CALLIES.

HOSTAGE HEIRESS

By DAVID DRESSER

Janet Duane, millionaire's daughter, gives a party one night aboard her father's palatial yacht, anchored off Miami. Gregory Gason tricks her into being left behind with him when the guests are taken ashore. The only other persons aboard are a crippled watchman and Janet's Negro maid. Meanwhile, "Dusty" Lanion, lawless adventurer, has laid plans to seize the yacht to carry arms and ammunition to Cuban revolutionists. Believing the boat to be deserted, except for the watchman, who has been bribed, Dusty and his men are about to board her.

CHAPTER III

Snifter detained Dusty with a claw-like hand on his arm. "What do we do if there's anyone aboard, boss?" he muttered. "There's no one aboard but Otto, the watchman. And he's coming off as soon as we go aboard." "But supposing there's someone else? Supposing some of them society dames are still aboard?" "Then they're in for a little voyage," Dusty said shortly. "Come on." He moved toward the rear of the tug, where the other men had already climbed into the trailing row-boat. He shoved Snifter into the boat, then followed him and cast the tender loose. In a moment they were alongside the Fleetwing. A sense of excitement gripped Dusty as he whistled shrilly, the signal for Otto to drop the Jacob's ladder over the bow. He didn't consider it piracy, this snatching of a millionaire's plaything from anchorage. A peculiar quirk in his make-up had long ago so distorted right and wrong that he was no longer able clearly to differentiate between the two. He needed a boat desperately. Much more than Cyrus Duane needed the Fleetwing. Therefore, his reason told him, it was right that he should seize the yacht. He laughed exultantly as the rope ladder dangled over the side in easy reach. It was the laugh of one wholly reckless of consequences. He caught at the ladder. He laughed again as he swung lithely up the side to stand upon the deck of his new command. The others followed.

Janet opened her eyes with a little start, and looked about the lounge in bewilderment. She had fallen asleep—had dreamed that she was at sea upon an endless voyage. She rubbed her eyes. For a moment, she couldn't remember what had happened. What was she doing here? Then she saw Gregory slumped in another deep chair. He, too, had fallen asleep. Janet looked at him critically. He wasn't pretty, asleep like this. His jaw sagged open. Janet wondered how she could have considered him attractive. A breeze must be blowing up, she decided drowsily. The yacht seemed to be swaying a great deal for a boat at anchorage. She drew herself erect and looked at her wrist watch. Her eyes widened. Had she been asleep for an hour? What about the launch? She jumped up and shook Gregory's shoulder. "Ugh! What is it?" He started up, staring at her. Even her worry couldn't keep her from giggling at his evident fright. "It's only me," she assured him. "Oh, yes. Of course," he smothered a yawn. "I must have dropped off."

"We've both been asleep for over an hour," Janet bit her lip and frowned. "What about the launch? It must be waiting for us over the side. Come on." She moved toward the door.

"Don't," Gregory said smoothly. He was fully awake now. "It can't have returned yet. We would have heard it."

"But it's been over an hour!" Gregory smiled. He got up and took her hand.

"Let's not worry about the launch. What do we care about the launch. I hope it never comes."

"I care about it!" Janet drew back from him angrily.

Suddenly she saw him as he really was. His touch and his smile were loathsome. She felt trapped.

"I'm going out on deck," she seized the doorknob.

"You're going to stay here." His voice was no longer suave. He snatched at her arm and pulled her hand off the knob.

"How dare you!" She whirled on him with blazing eyes.

"Why not?" He smiled mockingly, and his grip on her arm tightened. "After all... you chose to stay here with me. You can't lead one on, you know, and then change your mind on the spur of the moment."

Her face went white with rage. Then a spot of red blazed in each cheek, and her blue eyes turned a deeper hue. She struck at him desperately with her free hand until he imprisoned it also and drew her closer.

His lips smiled, though his eyes were cold and merciless as he held her thus. Janet strained back from him, but she was no match for his strength.

Then—both heard the sound at the same instant. The dull, heavy throb of the engines! A quiver passed over the Fleetwing from prow to stern.

Gregory released Janet. His jaw sagged.

Janet reacted more swiftly than he. She jerked the door open, and slammed it shut behind her as she fled up the companionway.

On deck, her startled eyes swung from port to starboard in growing dismay and fright. The mainland had vanished. There was only the open sea on all sides. The familiar lights of anchored yachts had vanished.

She stood on the deck and confusedly tried to think things out. She felt as though she were caught in the grip of a monstrous nightmare. She repressed a desire to scream frantically. This could not be. But it was.

Some of the deck lights were on, and the wheelhouse was brilliantly lighted. She moved haltingly toward it.

She stopped in the doorway and gazed at the broad back of the man at the wheel. She felt faint, and gripped the door jamb for support.

"Who are you?" she demanded.

Dusty whirled. "What the devil?" His gray eyes flickered over her unbelievably.

"Who are you?" she repeated.

"Dusty Lanion." He spoke the words without realizing the absurdity of telling this frightened girl his name.

"What—are you doing here?"

Isolate Toxin Of Rheumatism

Doctors See Great Possibilities for Research Into the Causes of Disease

Hope of a revolutionary method in the treatment of rheumatism has been aroused in the British medical profession by the discovery and isolation of the toxin of rheumatism by research workers at the Lister Institute, London. The announcement is made in The Lancet.

Specimens of fluid from the interior of joints, portions of rheumatic joints and drops of fluid from around the heart and around the brain have been subjected to the most modern type of high-speed centrifugation, being spun at speeds of 14,000 revolutions a minute. In this way the virus has been concentrated and studied under the microscope after being magnified 1,000 times.

Beginning Can Be Made The medical correspondent of The Morning Post comments.

"This is a well-recognized test for the identification of a disease-producing microbe or similar organism, and such tests have shown that not only do rheumatic patients contain such substances in their blood, but these are absent from patients suffering from other disorders. This means that the rheumatic virus must be regarded as occurring only in the fluid from rheumatic patients.

"These results open up great possibilities as regards further investigation into the causation of rheumatism of all types. If the part played by the virus can be established, the way will then be opened for new methods of treatment, probably by means of special serums and chemicals to which the virus is susceptible. Such susceptibility remains to be tested, but the beginning of such work can now be made."

Experts Repairing Shattered Faces

Plastic Surgeons Begin Mission of Mercy in Spain

An expert Anglo-American team in plastic surgery, Dr. Robert McIntosh and Dr. Eastman Sheehan, began a mission of mercy this week through insurgent Spain to repair the shattered faces of thousands of men.

The surgeons—McIntosh is professor of anaesthesia at Oxford University and Sheehan professor of plastic surgery at Polytechnic Medical School, New York—have a distressing assignment.

Medical aides to General Franco say there are as many mutilated faces in the insurgent army today as in the British army at the end of the Great War.

The doctors said "thousands" suffered such terrible face wounds that their features are almost obliterated and their constant agony can be relieved only by narcotics.

Many of Franco's soldiers in most urgent need of plastic surgery were wounded in hand-to-hand fighting.

There has been more personal combat, with slashing knives and bayonets, in the more than a year of Spanish strife than in most modern wars, military experts say.

Most Beautiful Building Is a Coal Plant

LONDON.—Britain's best building in 1936 was a coal preparation plant, according to Prof. S. H. Reilly in his annual article in the Architects' Journal.

The plant, at the Rising Sun colliery at Wallsend, Northumberland, was designed by Prof. R. A. Cordingley of Manchester University.

After an exhaustive survey of many buildings, Professor Reilly writes: "The Wallsend new colliery preparation plant structure, white and clean, and carefully arranged by Prof. R. A. Cordingley to express its functions and do its work well and economically, is the best building of 1936—cathedrals, churches, hospitals, cinemas, schools, flats, and country houses, King's or otherwise, notwithstanding."

Film Star Has Private Army

Victor McLaglen Maintains Force of 700 Men

Film stars have many ways of spending money, but the strangest—and perhaps the most useful—is surely that adopted by Victor McLaglen, famous for his tough, he-man roles. He has invested $150,000 of his fortune in maintaining a private army.

Seven hundred strong, the force is highly organized, and has been in existence for three years. It has all types of units, including a horse brigade 250 strong, and an air force of 30 machines for which there are 150 qualified pilots.

The only things the army does not possess are guns, yet the organization is run on strict military lines. Every member, on joining, pays an entrance fee of $60, and has to provide his own horse, aeroplane, or motor-cycle, according to the unit.

The uniform is a gay one of light blue, and when the army carries out route marches through Hollywood, all the young women turn out to see the troops swing past, with McLaglen, on a magnificent horse, at their head. He is the army's colonel-in-chief.

An American magazine recently aroused the army's wrath by describing it as a Fascist organization. It is nothing of the sort, its leader declares. It is non-political and non-sectarian. The only oath its members take is to uphold the American Constitution, and to be prepared to support the authorities in the event of large fires or floods.

3 To 1 Chance That Flyers Still Alive

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Noted Explorer, Holds Out Hope for Russian Aviators

Chances are about 3 to 1 the lost Russian trans-Polar flyers are still alive, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, said this week as he rushed additional purchases of silk tents and concentrated foods from New York for Sir Hubert Wilkins' rescue expedition.

Weather reports prepared by Storker Storkenson, a member of Stefansson's 1913-18 Arctic expedition, while drifting on ice in the Arctic ocean at this time of year, have been telegraphed in summary to Fairbanks, Alaska, for the use of the rescue pilots, he said.

"I'm in command," Dusty snapped. "Who the devil are you?"

"I'm—just the owner's daughter."

Janet tried to smile at her own jest. It was a pitiable smile. Then she slumped forward on the deck in a dead faint.

"The Russians are believed to be in the neighborhood of 82 or 83 degrees north latitude and 146 west longitude," said the explorer.

Provided They Landed Safely "The chances they are alive are good provided they made a safe landing."

"North of 80 degrees, where the flyers were last heard from on their flight from Russia to the United States, the ice at this time of year is fairly level, whereas south of that latitude a landing would be difficult, the ice being furrowed by channels of rain water and by thawing."

Fog Was Too Thick

Stefansson said Sir Hubert's search party passed close to the spot where Sigismund Levanevsky and his five companions were believed to have been forced down. He reached longitude 92.10 north and latitude 145 west but fog was so thick nothing could be seen. Sir Hubert is now waiting for favorable weather before taking off again.

The Russians should have no difficulty in finding food, Stefansson said, the Polar bears, which can smell a camp at a distance of 12 or more miles, would come to investigate. Seals should be obtainable, while the sea beneath the ice is full of marine life, such as shrimps.

In mid-Winter of 1918 Storker Storkenson made a journey north from the Alaskan coast by dog sled and drifted on the ice for about six months. During September and October he drifted along a line about 450 miles south of the point where the Russians are believed to be.

Stefansson obtained a copy of Storker's weather observations from the Canadian Department of Mines and Resources at Ottawa and forwarded a summary to the rescue expedition.

Dressed Up Fruit

At this time of the year your family will want fresh fruits morning, noon and night. Between meals and for breakfast they will want it plain and unadorned, but at dinner and supper time they want it in desserts that looked "dressed up."

There are a variety of ways in which you can serve the fresh fruits that are so plentiful right now and one of the simplest is by combining them with jelly. It is easy to use and you can make inspired desserts in a few minutes. Another advantage of combining fresh fruits with jelly is that sometimes you get a batch of fruit that is not as flavory as usual but the fresh, fruity flavour of the jelly will live up to the fruit and make a tasty dessert combination. Besides accentuating the flavour of fruits, jelly adds rare and beautiful colors to desserts as well.

The following dishes are party looking concoctions made out of simple things. The children love them because they are so pretty and you will love them because they are so good for the children.

Two of these desserts are fluffy, pastel colored moulds in lovely shapes and two are clear, colorful and jewel-like—plain jelly powder combined with fruits in out-of-the-ordinary, attractive ways. Fresh Plum Snow, Pear Whip, Peach Nests and Apple Cider Tang, —tempting names and the desserts are just as tempting as they sound.

Fresh Plum Snow

1 package raspberry jelly powder.
1 pint boiling water.
1 cup plum pulp, slightly crushed.
¼ cup powdered sugar.
2 egg whites, unbeaten.
Dissolve jelly in boiling water. Chill. Combine plum pulp and sugar. When jelly is cold and syrupy, place in a bowl of cracked ice or ice water, add egg whites, and beat with rotary egg beater until fluffy. Add plum pulp, folding gently, and let stand until slightly thickened. Pour into individual moulds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired. Serves 8.

Peach Nests

1 package lime jelly powder.
1 pint boiling water.
3 fresh peaches.
Dissolve jelly in boiling water. Cool slightly. Pour part of jelly mixture into 6 sherbert glasses, filling each ¾ full. Chill until firm. Pour remaining jelly into shallow pan and chill until firm. Slice peaches onto firm jelly in sherbert glasses. Cover with remaining jelly, cut in cubes. Serves 6.

Pear Whip

1 package strawberry jelly powder.
1 pint boiling water.
1 cup pear pulp.
Dissolve jelly in boiling water. Chill until cold and syrupy. Place in bowl of cracked ice or ice water and whip with rotary egg beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Fold in the pear pulp. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with whipped cream, if desired. Serves 6.

Apple Cider Tang

1 package lemon jelly powder.
1 cup warm water.
1 cup sweet cider.
1½ cups red apples, cut in match-stick pieces.

Dissolve jelly in warm water; add cider. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in apples. Turn into individual moulds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serves 6.

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Insect Damage

With a few important exceptions, insects have been somewhat less injurious during August than usual. The codling moth has been the most destructive pest this year so far and increased greatly during August as a result of the continued warm weather which led to a large second brood. The European corn borer survey which is now under way indicates that the borers are going to be more numerous this year than at any time during the last four or five years, the season having been favorable to them in most counties. Cabbage worms have increased greatly in number and where no spraying or dusting has been carried out, they have played havoc with the foliage and heads of cabbage and also cauliflower. Complaints have been received of severe injury in Middlesex to turnip foliage.

Record Tobacco Crop

The tobacco crop in Ontario improved to a very marked degree during the month of August with the result that total production is now estimated at a much higher figure than appeared probable on the first of August. The flue-cured crop will amount to at least 50,000,000 lbs. There has also been improvement in the burley crop which is estimated at slightly more than 7,000,000 lbs. The dark tobacco crop will possibly yield a total of 2,500,000 pounds. Total production of tobacco in Ontario this year will therefore reach the record figure of 60,000,000 lbs. as compared with 35,500,000 lbs. in 1936 and 48,492,220 pounds in 1936. All crops were harvested at an early date this year. The flue-cured tobacco crop has very good colour this year and is of particularly good quality. The burley is also of very good quality. There is every likelihood of a heavy demand for Ontario's burley and flue-cured tobacco. The export market is particularly promising.

Current Crop Report

The average yield of spring grains for the Province will be considerably higher than in 1936 when drought conditions reduced the crop, but still somewhat below normal. The Counties bordering the St. Lawrence and some districts in Northern Ontario, particularly Algoma and Manitoulin, report yields considerably below average and large supplies will have to be purchased for winter feeding purposes. The quality of spring grain varies greatly. In Central Ontario, and particularly in the southern part of South Western Ontario, large quantities of grain were damaged by frequent heavy rains which blackened the grain and straw and caused sprouting. Considerable grain was put into the barns or threshed in a wet condition and much spring grain will be only of feeding quality. The yield per acre of hay and clover this year is estimated above average in Old Ontario but extremely low in most districts of Northern Ontario.

August was favorable for the development of late potatoes, roots and corn for fodder. Corn for husking however, which is chiefly grown in Essex and Kent Counties, was damaged by excessive rains in mid-summer and the average yield will be far below normal. The yield of dry beans is estimated at 17.0 bus, as compared with 13.2 bus. in 1936, and a long term average of 16.1 bus. Tree fruits now being harvested are of good quality and later varieties are sizing well. Tomato crop prospects were reduced by dry weather at a critical period and production will be considerably below expected.

Livestock Market

Live stock market and feed situation conditions in the United States indicate that feeding commercial live stock, unfavorable to producers during the past grain marketing year, is now definitely favorable. Since the harvesting of the 1937 grain crop, feed grain prices have declined and live stock prices have shown vast improvement. Advances in the prices of beef cattle and hogs during June, July and August have brought the hog-corn and the beef-corn price ratios to a level which is above that for the early part of the year.

Large supplies of feed grain are in prospect and, with prices of live stock and live stock products higher than in some recent years, it is highly probable that feeding ratios will be quite favorable during 1938. This being the case, a material expansion in most lines of live stock production may be anticipated. The outlook for the consumption of all classes of live stock products is quite favorable, and a continuation of relatively high prices is to be expected, during the next few months. There may possibly be some consumer reaction to present levels, but live stock numbers are moderate and the impact of consumer reaction will thus be lightened.

Increases in the volume of feed available and a more moderate volume of total live stock holdings indicate that animal units will be fed to heavier weights, particularly in the case of cattle and hogs.

Authorities at Washington indicate that despite some decline in the number of cattle on farms since the beginning of the year the volume placed on feed during the present autumn will probably be much larger than the volume of a year ago. The high price of beef cattle during the summer months has resulted in favorable returns to most of the producers selling at that time, and this has stimulated inquiry.

SHOWER FOR MISS LEOLA MOAK

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Silmer on Tuesday 14th, when a number of friends and neighbors gathered in honor of Miss Leola Moak, bride-elect, to the strains of "Here comes the bride," played by Mrs. Cecil J. McDougald. Miss Ray Wood escorted the bride-to-be to a nicely decorated chair in the centre of an arch in the drawing room and from which hung a large white floral bell. Concealed in the centre was a huge package of confetti and at an opportune time, the bride-to-be was generously showered. The room was prettily decorated with potted foliage and autumn bloom. Mrs. S. W. Blanchard read an appropriate address. Mrs. R. L. Silmer, on behalf of Miss Moak's friends, then presented her with a 97 piece dinner set of dishes and a purse of money. Many other beautiful gifts were also received. The wagon which was heavily laden, was drawn by the little Misses Fay Joyce Silmer and Jean Hunt.

Miss Moak replied with a few pleasant remarks, thanking all for such an agreeable surprise and invited them to visit her in her new home. "For she's a jolly good fellow was heartily sung, and three cheers for the bride echoed through the rooms. Miss Moak, who has been an efficient and trustworthy employee at the House of Industry during the past six and a half years, and is to be a September bride, is leaving with many regrets by the management.

The Address

Dear Leola,—

It is with feeling of joy and happiness a number of your friends and neighbors have gathered here this evening to express to you in some tangible way the esteem in which you have been held in the home where you have permanently resided and in the community in which you have lived during the past six years and a half. Now that you are about to take upon yourself new responsibilities, we trust it will disclose a path strewn with roses. We could not forget the happy circumstances under which you are leaving us. You shared our joys and sorrows, mirth and disappointments which has made up our lives. Your kindly assistance will be missed, but you will rejoice in the bright prospect of a happy wedded life. It is said when all else fails, friendship stands. To you is must be most gratifying to know that the link of friendship binds you to a large circle of friends for your quiet but sterling traits of character. Tonight it is our privilege to extend to you our heartiest congratulations and may God's richest blessings crown all your future efforts in a long and happy wedded life.

HYDRO IS YOURS...USE IT!

Guardians OF YOUR SAFETY

Whether you are at home, or on the street, on trains, street cars or motor, in church or theatre—Hydro plays an essential part in your safety and the protection of your property.

Police and Fire Department signal systems render immediate service in emergency. Traffic lights permit control and safety on our streets. Wig-wag systems flash and signal the danger of approaching trains. Better lighted streets make crime difficult.

In addition to these many guardians of your safety, Hydro goes still farther. Every electrical appliance or device must be approved by the H. E. P. C. Testing and Inspection Department before it goes into your home—every piece of electrical equipment is made as free of hazard as scientific knowledge and highly-trained technicians can make them.

In addition to being an important factor in your safety, and the protection of your property, Hydro is making every effort to extend the benefits of low cost power throughout the Province of Ontario. These efforts are made in your best interests, and their success will affect your prosperity. You should, therefore, be vitally interested in Hydro and what it is doing for you.

MISS M. A. SINGLETON

The funeral of the late Miss Mary Alice Singleton of Winchester, was held from the family residence where Rev. W. S. Atchison, pastor of the United church conducted an impressive service, which was attended by the immediate relatives and personal friends of the deceased.

Following the service burial was made in Cataract cemetery.

The late Miss Singleton was in her 26th year and was born at Kingston, a daughter of J. E. Singleton and his wife, Mary Elizabeth Grace. She came to Winchester with her parents about eight years ago, and while residing here had made a wide circle of friends who will regret her passing, which occurred on Saturday, following a brief illness. Miss Singleton graduated from the Winchester High School and since her graduation had been following a musical career. In addition to teaching music, she was organist in the Winchester United Church up until the time of her illness. She held many executive offices in the various church organizations and was a popular member of the younger set.

Besides her parents she is survived by two brothers, Harold Singleton of Brockville, and Mac Singleton at home.

Testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held were many floral offerings which included pieces from the United church and choir; Mizpah Mission Circle; Rosevere Mission Band; Ladies' Bridge Club and Girls' Bridge Club.

1938 MOTOR PERMITS NOW AVAILABLE

Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, announced on Monday that 1938 Motor Vehicle permits and Operators' Licenses will go on sale throughout the Province immediately. Agents in the larger centres are already supplied, and shipments of supplies are being made daily to the smaller points.

The Highways Department is making 1838 Permits available at this time so that purchases of new 1938 cars and trucks will not be obliged to pay for 1937 registration and so that the increasingly large number of autumn purchasers of used cars and trucks will not have to pay the usual transfer fee with only three months of the year remaining.

Mr. Hanna is an elder in the United Church at Colquhoun and seldom are the Hanna family absent from church service. Their pastor, Rev. C. A. Adey gave the address and paid warm tribute to the family. A presentation was made of a beautiful Linen Cloth with napkins to match; a beautiful set of dishes, silver spoons and sandwich tray; also a number of cheques. Lunch was served, consisting of cake, sandwiches, oranges and coffee. A beautiful wedding cake adorned the table which was cut by the bride of 50 years ago, and passed to their friends. Those from a distance attending were: Mrs. E. E. Pratt of Peabody, Mass.; Mrs. J. S. Casselman of Finch, Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Fay, Aultsville, and Mr. Archie Casselman student Minister of Lake Megantic, Que. Mrs. Ruth Marshall of Ogdensburg, and a host of friends. Mr. Roy Schwerdfefer and Mrs. Bernice Kyer sang "Memories," while Miss Marjorie and Isobel McNairn sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold" A quartette consisting of Jack McConnell, John McNairn and the McNairn sisters sang "When You and I Were Young Aggie." Mrs. Shaler Heagle and Miss Luva Wagner also sang a duet—"Down by the old Mill Stream." The evening was brought to a close by all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hanna many more years of happy wedded life.

Mrs. M. F. Hepburn

Successful homemaker, devoted wife and mother, and a business woman of proven ability, Premier M. F. Hepburn has in Mrs. Hepburn an assistant and co-worker whose worth cannot be underestimated. The First Lady of the Province is a quiet, home-loving woman, a gracious hostess to those who visit the Hepburn farm residence, four miles south-east of the city of St. Thomas. Both she and the Premier are the very soul of hospitality. Their home is always open to their friends and acquaintances—and he it said to their credit, that their warmest friends are still the people who have known them for years. Like her popular husband, the Premier, Mrs. Hepburn has not permitted political success to turn her head. She is the same unaffected person she was 12 years ago when "Mitch" Hepburn was just a hustling young Elgin county farmer.

Only a comparative few people know and appreciate Mrs. Hepburn's business ability. Filling the position of Prime Minister of Ontario, treasurer of the province, president of the cabinet council, as well as looking after two or three other portfolios within the last few months hasn't given Premier Hepburn much time to devote to his farming operations, not nearly as much as he would like to devote to them. And Premier Hepburn isn't a small farmer. He has nearly 1000 acres of land under cultivation or under pasture in South Yarmouth, while his farming activities are diversified, to say the least. Somebody had to manage that big farm during the Premier's absence on official duty and the responsibility fell on Mrs. Hepburn. She has looked after the farm management exceptionally well, attending to the various details as capably as any experienced man could.

The Premier places implicit faith in her sound judgment. Born and raised on a farm, daughter of one of the most progressive and practical farmers in Southwold township, Mrs. Hepburn has a practical knowledge of farming and farm life that has stood her in good stead.

Pride in Home

Remaining at the helm while the Premier was attending to the affairs of state at Queen's Park, Toronto, has not lessened Mrs. Hepburn's pride in home, not in the things that bear the stamp of the gentlewoman. Her home and home surrounding both claim her attention. She is an ardent horticulturist. To her the finest recreation is to get out in her spacious gardens, with her two happy children, six-year-old Peter, and three-year-old Patricia, working among her flowers, or supervising some new landscaping scheme or decorative unit. A great job entered the Hepburn household with the arrival of the Premier's and Mrs. Hepburn's adopted son and daughter. Denied children of their own, both have opened their hearts to the two children. Peter was the first to arrive, a sturdy little boy, always asking questions pertaining to the hundred and one wonders of his new life and every inch a young farmer. Then came Patricia, sunny-tempered little Patricia with more than a glint of red gold in her curled tresses. No mother could be more devoted to the welfare of her children. Every Sunday morning, when they are at home, Peter and Patsy accompany their mother to the little village of Union to attend Sunday School in the little United Church that stands not far distant from the little country school where Premier Hepburn acquired his first knowledge of the alphabet and words of one syllable. Mrs. Hepburn was brought up in the Presbyterian faith—good Scottish Presbyterianism, but following church union she affiliated with the United Church, attending the little church in Union where Peter and Patsy now attend Sunday School. Incidentally, it was the same church that the Premier attended in his boyhood.

An Important Task

As mistress of the Hepburn farms Mrs. Hepburn has a particularly important duty to perform this fall. She is looking after the immense onion and potato crops that are being harvested from the Premier's reclaimed black muck soils. The crop of field and Spanish onions alone are estimated at 40,000 to 50,000 bushels while there are 35 acres of very promising late potatoes. The Premier informed Mrs. Hepburn weeks ago that the responsibility of seeing that all those onions and potatoes were marketed to the best advantage rested largely on her capable shoulders. She accepted the responsibility with a smile, for she is just as keenly interested in the Hepburn farms as the Premier, especially in the production of those rich black muck soils that lay in swale and undergrowth for years and years until the Premier decided to reclaim them, against the advice of neighbors and friends.

He cleared and tile-drained more than 100 acres of the black muck swamp largely as a relief measure, providing employment for many jobless men of the neighborhood. It was really an investment in humanity that he made, but it is proving a very good investment, for soil experts who have examined that reclaimed muck declare it to be of the very best quality. The immense crops of onions and potatoes that the Premier is harvesting from that soil is proof of its productive powers—the onions and potatoes that Mrs. Hepburn supervises so efficiently when harvest and marketing time arrives.

The first Lady of Ontario is a busy woman—a busy farm woman. She has no time for snobbery but always time to welcome and entertain old friends. She is the same Eva Burton Hepburn who was born on the old Port Stanley Highway in Southwold township, near the historic village of Fingal, a little better than 37 years ago. She is the same girl whom the future Premier of Ontario courted about 18 years ago and took to rural dances, church socials and garden parties in the old family flivver.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON XIII. GOD IN THE MAKING OF A NATION

(Deuteronomy 8: 11-20.)

GOLDEN TEXT:—Beware lest thou forget the Lord thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his ordinances, and his statutes, which I command thee this day.—Deuteronomy 8: 11.

The Lesson in its Setting

Place:—All the early chapters of Deuteronomy record discourses given by Moses on the east side of the Jordan River where the Israelites were encamped in what are known as the plains of Moab (see Deut. 1: 1).
Time:—B.C. 1459.

The word "Deuteronomy" means the "second law," and, in this book, as the title would indicate, there is a summing up of all the laws and regulations which God had given to Moses in the forty years of Israel's wandering in the wilderness.

For a proper understanding of this lesson, one should read the first ten verses of the chapter, which are not assigned in the lesson itself. Four great benefits are, in these opening verses, said to have come to Israel from the hands of their gracious God; by him they were guided for forty years in the wilderness; in all of their suffering and hardships, God had a gracious purpose toward them—that they might come to know him better; the Lord had preserved them during all their forty years of wandering; and Jehovah their God was now to bring them into "a good land" where water abounded, where cereals and fruit could be grown in abundance, and in whose hills valuable metals would be found. This beautiful description of God's graciousness to Israel concludes with this admonition: "And thou shalt eat and be full, and thou shalt bless Jehovah thy God, for the good land which he hath given thee."

Needed a Warning

"Beware lest thou forget Jehovah thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his ordinances, and his statutes, which I command thee this day." (See also Deut. 4: 9, 23, 31; 6: 12.) —That Israel greatly needed such warning as this, her later history sadly proved. In the early days of the judges, we read that "the children of Israel did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah and forgot Jehovah their God." (Judges 3: 7). Notice carefully how Moses particularizes this sin of Israel. She revealed she was forgetting God by not keeping God's commandments. One cannot forget what one does not know. To be ignorant of God is a tragedy, but to forget God is a double sin. Forgetting God, i.e., leaving God out of our life, not reckoning with him, or considering his will in our plans and purposes, and pleasures, is expressed in the New Testament by the significant word "ungodly."

"Lest, when thou hast eaten and art full, and hast built goodly houses and dwelt therein; and when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied; then thy heart be lifted up, and thou forget Jehovah thy God, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage." —Moses exposes, in these three years, the deepest, most frequent cause for men's forgetting God who, themselves, have been the recipients of his gifts of love. That condition which is most conducive to making the thought of God vague in the mind, and obedience to God something almost never considered, in other words, living day by day without God, is what we might sum up in one phrase as a gratification of all one's fundamental material desires, i.e., abundance of food, delightful homes, comparative security from disaster, sufficient wealth to relieve one of worry, a good standing in the community, a lovely family, a large library, leisure and means for sport, an automobile, two or three club memberships, the opportunity for travel, the ability to perform whatever task one earnestly undertakes, etc. When a man has these things, he seems to possess all that he needs. That which would drive a man to God is, most of all, need, and the most powerful needs, though a sad commentary on human nature, are those that have to do with our material well-being. By nature a man will hasten to God if he is in the midst of great trouble, or fears a tragedy, or a loved one is desperately ill. What Moses wants the Israelites to know is that, in a time when they do not have much to ask for, they should, nevertheless, seek fellowship with God, if not in their petition, then in their thanksgiving and love for him.

Why Israel Should Remember

"Who led thee through the great and terrible wilderness, wherein were fiery serpents and scorpions, and thirsty ground where was no water; who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint; Who fed thee in the wilderness with manna, which thy fathers knew not." —The warning against forgetting God is both preceded and followed by a setting forth of powerful reasons why the Israelites should forever remember God, proving clearly that they had no excuse whatever for forgetting him. In these two verses, God is once again set forth as the one who had graciously brought them forth out of Egypt.

"That he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end: And lest thou say in thy heart, My power and the might of my hand hath gotten me this wealth. But thou shalt remember Jehovah thy God, for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth; that he may establish his covenant which he sware unto thy fathers, as at this day." —A deep conviction of this fact would turn human history into a sacrament. Receive into the mind the full impression of this doctrine, and you will find yourself working side by side with God, in the field, the warehouse, the bank, the shop, the office, the pulpit. When a young man receives the first payment of his industry, he is to remember that the Lord his God gave him power to get wealth. Thus the getting of money becomes a sacred act. Money is a mighty power; wealth occupies a proud position in all the parliament of civilization. Trade thus becomes a means of grace and commerce an ally of religion. In one word, the true appreciation of this doctrine would restore every act of life to its direct and vital relation to the living God.

Our Dependent Strength

"And it shall be, if thou shalt forget Jehovah thy God, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and worship them, I testify against you this day that ye shall surely perish." —Men must have a god or gods to worship. If they do not have the true God, they will have false gods. If men allow themselves to forget what the true God has done for them, they will soon come to the place where they will begin to doubt if this God whom they have never seen can do anything for them, and they will turn to visible, but dead deities, made of wood, stone, gold, and silver.

"As the nations that Jehovah maketh to perish before you, so shall ye perish; because ye would not hearken unto the voice of Jehovah, your God." —For God's gracious promise to Israel if she would obey him, see Deut. 7: 12-16. Israel's security demanded upon her relationship to God. We may not believe it, but the security, welfare, and the strength of our nation are equally dependent upon our obedience to the commandments of the Lord. God's laws are reasonable, always for the welfare of men, and in obedience to them, men keep their strength and prolong their life.

Forgetting God, who is our strength, is synonymous with worshipping the idols of man's creation, which always have and always will weaken men morally, mentally, and physically. To forget God is to curse one's self. If Canada is determined to continue more and more to forget God, and give herself to the things of this world, it would be a real blessing to our nation, if we should be brought, by the hand of God, into times of great suffering and distress, as well as great danger, if it only made us realize our utter impotency, the absolute insufficiency of man, as man, to live without God, and bring us, as a nation, on our knees, to the throne of grace, confessing our sins, imploring the forgiveness of God, and acknowledging that we are, at least, willing to live righteously and soberly in this present life, walking worthy of his name, in the light of his countenance.

They are particularly noted for the crazy titles of the numbers the yplay, all written by their leader-composer-arranger, Raymond Scott. Scott's most popular tune is "Powerhouse." ### Marion Talley Returns

Signing a 52-week contract, Marion Talley will return to the NBC networks Sunday, September 26 to star in the new Ry-Krisp program from Hollywood. Miss Talley achieved success as an opera singer at the age of 17 and then retired, attaining stardom years later in movies and radio. She will be heard Sundays from 5.00 to 5.30 p.m. over the Red Network. The program will include many popular and operatic stars, the Paul Taylor Choristers and Ken Carpenter as announcer. Miss Talley is a former Kansas City girl, who trained for the Metropolitan Opera with funds raised by popular subscription among her townsmen. At the height of her career she led the musical world by announcing her retirement. The rather plump prima donnas were still in fashion, but Miss Talley went on a strict diet and emerged a few years later at the film capital as a trim and chic young woman weighing 105 pounds.

Lucky 13

When her Goldbergs returned to the air Monday, September 13, Gertrude Berg, authoress, producer and main character of the series added another link to the amazing chain of 13's which are woven into the pattern of her career. Mrs. Berg was first signed by N.B.C. on November 13, 1929, and "The Rise of the Goldbergs" was introduced to the nation's dialers. Several months of sustaining, the serial was first presented as a sponsored program on July 13, 1930. Four years later on July 13, 1934, to be exact, the Goldbergs began a personal appearance tour of vaudeville houses in key cities. Mrs. Berg wrote a new series, "The House of Glass," which was sold on April 13, 1935. In answer to an avalanche of requests, the Goldbergs were brought to the air again on January 13, 1936, and continued until June 13 of that year. After a year's vacation, Mrs. Berg was signed to write a screen vehicle for Bobby Breen "Make a Wish," which was completed on July 13, 1937, at which time she was signed to write another "Streets of New York". On August 13, 1937, she was signed a contract calling for a five year radio run of "The Goldbergs," which started September 13. We wonder what would happen if a black cat crossed Mrs. Berg's path on a Friday, the thirteenth.

A miniature electric motor which is claimed to be the smallest working model in the world, has been made by a 16-year-old boy named Victor Nikitashenko, of Kiev, Ukraine. It weighs just under one-sixteenth of an ounce.

HAVE YOU HEARD

It may be cowardly to kick a man when he is down, but it is sometimes necessary to get him up.

Florence — "Darling, I wish I could feel perfectly certain that I am the only girl you have ever loved."

Clarence — "So do I, dear."

No man is perfect — only the women.

A prominent official of the telephone company was rudely aroused from his slumbers by the insistent ringing of the telephone. After bruising his toe on a chair and "seeing the stars" he reached the telephone.

Official (growling) — "Hello!"

Loud Masculine Voice — "Are you an official of the telephone company?"

Official — "Yes. What can I do for you?"

Voice — "Tell me, how do you like getting out of bed at two o'clock in the morning to answer a wrong number call?"

Some men don't know the first thing about hard times until the wife loses her job.

SLICED VERY THIN

By Sixbits

"No Matter How Thin You Slice It — It's Still Bologney"

Carry on Hepburn! Carry on Rowe! For your carryings-on are giving the populace many a laugh, at a time when such are very welcome, even if they are not adding very greatly to the dignity of public affairs.

For when these lads get up on the public platform and start hurling adjectives, adverbs and other parts of speech around, they really let themselves go, and don't hold anything in reserve.

They are something like the large colored lady who went into the general store and proceeded to order full mourning in honor of her husband who had just got the worst of a cutting affair.

After she had ordered a black dress, ditto shoes, stockings, hat and so forth, she asked to be shown some all-black underwear—and was informed that the store didn't carry any of such bric-a-brac.

"But," said the clerk helpfully, "it doesn't make any difference. It wouldn't be seen anyway."

"Dearie," replied the relict with a sad shake of her head. "You all don't know what I am like. When I mourns, I really mourns."

That must have been a highly exciting and rib-rasing series between the Orillia Terriers and Mimico Mountaineers—but, not for the first time, we put in with our worthy friend Ted Reeve in his statement that, wherever it is, it isn't lacrosse.

Twenty—thirty—or more goals per game may satisfy the desire of the modern spectator for swift action and frequent changes in the scoring—but those of us ancient enough to remember the glorious days of old, when a guy had to really earn a goal before he got one, simply cannot get very warm about such doings.

To us, the sticks these modern players carry look more like kiddies' toys—in fact, up around Elora, Fergus and those parts when we were young, little toddlers would have disdained to carry them.

Of course, any kind of lacrosse is better than none at all—and if they keep even this ghost of the game going, to ever-rising enthusiasm—every place except Toronto, it seems—perhaps there will come a day when the grand old sport will come out into the sunshine, on the green grass, where it belongs—and a lacrosse addict, asked how he was going to send a Saturday afternoon, First of July or Civic Holiday will look at his questioner with the same disgusted amazement as a good Orangeman would wear if queried as to his intentions for the Glorious Twelfth.

But even if today's lacrossists don't run as far, check as closely, or play as prettily as their fathers there is one thing you have to hand them—they wear the same old scars, bruises and contusions—and with, apparently, as little regard for same.

Injuries that would put followers of any other sport in the hospital seem to be like water on a duck's back—to coin a phrase—and only seem to spur them to greater efforts; just as it was back in the times when wives and sweeties of players starting off to visit St. Catharines, Brantford, and other hard-hitting hotbeds would take long lingering looks at them before they climbed on the train.

For they knew that, even if they did come back, they weren't going to appear nearly the same.

Young Man — "I'm thinking of asking some girl to marry me. What do you think of the idea?"

Sweet Young Thing — "It's a great idea, if you ask me!"

Opportunity does not always knock at the door any more. Sometimes it sits at the curb and hanks.

Friend — "Gosh, I need five bucks and I don't know where to get it."

Man — "I'm glad that, I was afraid you thought you could get it from me."

The attic is a place where we store things we don't need until it comes time to throw them away.

Tired Traveller — "Can I get anything to eat in this dirty dump?"

Negro Waiter — "Yas, suh, you kin."

Traveller — "Such as what?"

Negro Waiter — "Such as it is, sah!"

Professor's Wife — "Did you know, dear, that it is 11 years today since we became engaged?"

Professor (preoccupied) — Oh, my dear, its high time we were getting married."

READ IT OR NOT:—

Charles Courtney, master locksmith of New York city, has travelled as far as Bombay, India, and Moscow, Russia, to open "unopenable" safes and trunks.

The new farm laborer was sent to milk the cow, but as he was such a long time gone the farmer went to see what was delaying him. He found him feeding the cow with milk.

Farmer — "Here, I said milk the cow — not feed it."

New Laborer — "Well, I thought it came out a bit thin, so I am putting it through again."

Women might be able to understand each other better over the telephone if they would talk one at a time.

Man — "Has your wife changed very much since you married her?"

Friend — "Yes, my habits, my own friends, and my hours."

The pumpkins are reported in fine shape to welcome the early frosts.

Quintuplet Calves

Farmer Hiram Long reported this week quintuplet calves were born to Spot, his Guernsey-shorthorn cow.

Long, who lost one of the calves before he could summon aid, exclaimed:—

"You can imagine how a man feels when he goes out expecting one calf and finds the ground covered with them."

"Never," said C. C. Hise, state veterinarian, "have I heard of or read of such a thing."

A letter written by a Peebles man to the town clerk of his home town has just been delivered after a double crossing of the Atlantic. A Canadian found it wedged in the wrapper of a newspaper from Scotland.

Dad — "My shaving brush is very stiff. I wonder what's wrong with it?"

Wife — "I don't know. It was nice and soft when I painted the bird cage yesterday."
