Farmers' Club, Nation Valley, Hold Successful Picnic.

Ideal weather, beautiful grove, large crowd, good music, informing and eloquent speeches, good program of sports; these were some of the features of the Picnic held in the grove of Mr. George C. Merkley, Nation Valley, last Friday. About 200 men, women and children accepted the invitation of the Farmers' Club, and all united in voting that it was one of the pleasantest outings held in years. At 12 o'clock a tasteful luncheon after the generous fashion of the ladies of Nation Valley, was served under the shade of the maple trees adorning the grove.

After dinner Mr. Preston Elliott, President, took the chair and speeches followed by Professors Bradt and Vining, Messrs. Andrew Broder, M.P. and J. A. Campbell.

All these gentlemen spoke in a most interesting manner, proclaiming the new ideals of the "Science of Agriculture." Votes of appreciation and thanks were proposed by Mr. Jameson and Rev's S. A Woods and W. H. Stevens. and enthusiastically carried.

Following the speeches came the program of sports, consisting of base-ball aud foot races for ladies and gentlemen.

A booth at which ice-cream, lemonade, etc., was served did a thriving business throughout the day, being largely patronized by young and old.

The Dunbar Band discoursed music at various intervals, and added to the enjoyment of all.

The officiary of the Club are to be congratulated in carrying to a successful conclusion an event that gave rare delight to the members and friends present.

Ottawa Exhibition Suffers.

Nearly two hundred feet of the sheep and pigpen building at the Central Canada Exhibition Association's grounds fell a prey to flames Sunday afternoon, the blaze originating, it is thought, from boys smoking. The loss will run into several thousand dollars. The buildings were of wooden construction. It is expected they will be replaced in time for the fall exhibition.

Horse Show Coming

Be sure and keep in mind the dates of the Horse Show at Chesterville, August the 21st and 22nd. This show promises to be one of the best in Eastern Ontario. The prize lists will be out in a short time when they will be mailed to enquiring parties. The directors of the show are bound to make this one a hummer, and have offered premiums in the prize list that would entice competition from a long distance.

Mr. John A. Kelly, who is billed to appear in the Music Hall on August 12th, is known far and near as Canada's greatest entertainer. The ground work of Mr. Kelly's entertainment is Ventriloquism. Besides this line he is also a singer of comic songs and has also a list of funny stories, monologues and readings.

The Contest Over.

July 31st was a very busy day for G. W. Bogart's establishment, as that day marked the close of his great piano contest. The conflict waxed fast and furious as the end drew near, and no contestant at any time felt confident of being one of the six fortunates who were to be so well awarded for their labors.

Miss Annie Curran was the fortunate winner of the grand piano, the other five young ladies each winning a beautiful gold watch.

The following is the standing of the prize winners:—

49—Annie Curran . .	15,857,735

New School Books for Ontario.

The Ontario Education Department has sent out orders superseding the High School French grammar lately in use. Until July 1913, the old grammar may be used under authority of the Boards of Education. The new book costs sixty cents, which is forty cents less than the old, and the reader in connection costs eleven cents.

Notice is also given that a revised edition of the public school spelling book, somewhat smaller than the one now in use. will come into use in July of next year.

A new High School History of Canada, which was to have been ready in September, will probably be somewhat delayed. The department will insist upon its regulations being carried out and, if necessary, will withhold grants from schools using unauthorized books.

John Charney, five years of age, was killed by an automobile in Hamilton, and Willie Quance, four years old, was killed in Binbrook township by being run over by his father's wagon.

Fix The Responsibility.

When a disastrous railway accident occurs the whole trend of the enquiry is to ascertain the cause, so that measures may be taken to prevent the recurrence of the wreck. If a fault is noticed in any workshop is not the particular delinquent sought out? Every traveller on a steamer pays passage money: the several branches in a department store are all expected to show a profit on the year's business. So the dairy farmer will do well to enquire as to whether he has any delinquents in his present herd of cows, perhaps one or two are in a fair way to wreck his fortunes, their passage money may be paid by some better producers, for often two or three out of every herd of twenty cows show no profit at all on the year's production of fat.

Plenty of cows in June and July gave over one thousand pounds of milk and over thirty-five pounds of fat. What dairyman would voluntarily keep the kind of cow that yeilded only twenty four pounds fat, or those that gave only four hundred pounds of milk during last month? Yet some men got only that much from a great many cows in Ontario and Quebec. This is the point: each dairy cow has a certain responsibility, that of producing plenty of milk and fat at a profit. So, also, has the dairyman his responsibility, that of knowing his cows do not shirk theirs. His business is to know what each cow does; she won't tell, he has to keep individual records to find out. They cost little, they do much.

Sentence Was Suspended On Yeldon Parents.

Brockville, Aug 4.—Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Yeldon were arrested this morning by the police on a charge of concealing the death of the infant child of their daughter, Nellie May Yeldon, who died on Friday last, and was buried the following day in the garden plot. Upon the evidence of Chief Burke, the prisoners were committed for trial by Justice Patterson. Subsequently the pair were arraigned before Judge McDonald and taking a summary trial were allowed to go on a suspended sentence, after pleading guilty.

Mackay May Get Job Of Provincial Treasurer.

Edmonton, Aug. 1.—After one of the hardest fought contests in the history of this Province, Hon. A. G. MacKay was elected as Liberal member for Athabasca in the deferred provincial election. He now has a majority of 154, and there are still four outlying polls which will not be heard from for several days. These polls, it is expected, will considerably increase the majority.

The former Ontario Liberal leader had as his opponent Major Woods of Athabasca Landing, one of the most popular old-time residents of this country. Leaders of both parties took an active part in the campaign, and the past week has seen the biggest group of politicial workers, for both sides, ever gathered for one contest in the Province.

MacKay entered the fight almost unknown, but in a hard three weeks compaign visited every part of the riding that was accessible in the time at his disposal It is understood that he will be taken into the Cabinet in a short time, probably being given the Provincial Treasureship made vacant some months ago by the death of Hon. Malcom MacKenzie.

Died At Mountain.

The citizens of town were very much surprised and shocked to hear of the sudden death on Tuesday afternoon of John McIntyre a life long resident of this community. It appears that on Monday Mr. McIntyre spent the forenoon watching Mr. Kavanaugh and an expert set up a new binder on his farm. At noon he appeared to be ill and Dr. Porter was summoned. It was that the heat was the cause of the illness but on Tuesday afternoon he passed away to the Great Beyon.

The sudden demise has cast a gloom over the town as the deceased was a very prominent resident of the township.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon last at 1 p. m., at the house, Rev H. Bolingbroke conducting the service, interment being made in the South Gower cemetery.

Deceased was 65 years old and leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife and five children, all at home, viz: Effie, Margaret, Ella, Donald, and Colin, also a brother, Dr Neil McIntyre of Phoenix, Ariz. and a sister, Mrs. Thos. Bow of Winchester.—Mountain Herald.

George Clark, employed at Doyle's Hotel, Niagara-on-the-Lake, and Sergt. Burns of the R.C.R. have disappeared.

The first of two bucket dredges under construction for the Dominion Government was launched at Collingwood.

New Commandments.

1. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading, thou nor thy sons nor thy daughters.

2. Thou shalt patronise thine own merchants, also the printer, and they shall patronize thee.

3. Thou shalt not ask for credit, as goods cost much money, and the merchants heart is wearied with bills. Thrice blessed is a man who pays cash

4. Thou shalt employ thine own mechanics and consider him that is thy neighbor above them that dwelleth in a strange town.

5. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices for thy influence, for behold guile is in thy heart, and a merchant readeth it liks an open book.

6. Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote the welfare of thy town, thine own people.

7. Thou shalt spend thine earnings at home that they may return from whence they came.

8. Thou shalt not suffer the voice of pride to overcome thee, and if other towns entice thee, hearken not unto them for thou mayest be deceived.

9. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town wherein thou dwellest, but speak well of it to all men.

10. You should come to us when you want Up-to-date Printing, and we will give it to you at reasonable prices.

Has To Turn Back His Own Boother On Border Line.

Sarnia, August 2.—Seldom has an immigration officer of the Dominion been forced to turn his own brother back when he tried to enter this country, but that is what happened Inspector Camer on here yesterday morning when his brother, a veteran of the civil war and a resident of Detroit, came to Sarnia to pay a visit with his only relative.

The old soldier is in a badly crippled condition from rheumatism contracted during the war. When he landed on the Canadian side he was accosted by his brother, who was forced to accompany him back to the American side, as he could not allow him to enter under his oath of office.

Such is the cold judgment of the law.

Wolves And Buffalo.

Investigations carried on by the Forestry Branch of the Dominion Government have proven conclusively that several large herds of wild buffalo are still to be found in the hilly country of the northern boundary of Alberta, in the neighborhood of the Slave River. A party working under the direction of Mr. A. J. Bell, the Government agent at Fort Smith made a study of the habits and obtained photographs of these buffalo, which are identical in appearance with the former buffalo of the plains and remnants for which were forced to seek shelter in the timbered fastnesses of the north.

These wood-buffalo when fully grown can defend themselves against their natural enemies, but in the winter before the young yearlings have attained full strength, they frequently fall victims to the timber wolves.. Bands of these wolves hover around the flanks of the buffalo herds as they pass in single file from one feeding ground to another, waiting for the opportunity to cut off a young animal and drive it from the beaten trail into the deep snow where it is unable either to escape or to defend itself.

Partly eaten carcasses were found by the investigating party which clearly indicated that wolves were the cause. These grey timber wolves are of a large size and are very numerous in this region, where they menace the existence not only of the wood-buffalo, but of other game as well. The Dominion Government already offers a bounty of twenty dollars apiece for their destruction, but so sparsely inhabited is the region and so clever are the wolves in avoiding traps, that the present bounty has had little effect in reducing their numbers. It is possible that the Dominion Government will raise the bounty here to forty dollars in the hope of ridding the regions of these pests, and of preventing the extinction of the last wild bison in existence.

Poetry Within A Pick.

Ottawa Citizen: While swinginging a pick on Slater street yesterday, the following thoughts were suggested to me by City engineer Currie's remarks re-expecting "a fair day's work for a fair day's pay," from the civic laborers. Perhaps you will consider it worthy of a place in your valuable paper. I notice the rythm is rather jerky, and there is a good deal of repetition, but I suppose those things are inevitable when one tries to write poetry with a pick. If I had a cup of that wonderful tea we read about, I might have done better.

ODE TO THE WORKERS.

Give them a fair day's work, Boys,
even tho' your hearts be sad,
Give them a fair day's work, Boys, it will make your masters glad;
Away in their mighty forests, deep down in their deepest mines,
Dig in and work, and do not shirk,
Give them a good day's work
Give them a fair day's work, Boys, it is what you were meant to do,
Give them a fair day's work, Boys, and throw in a little, too.
In the dust of their reeking cities, in the smoke of their fast-rushing trains.
Give them a good day's work, Boys, and you don't need to use your brains.
Give them a fair day's work, Men, and don't worry about the pay,
Give them a fair day's work, Men, for $2.25 a day;
What tho' your stomachs be empty and your children wretchedly clad;
Give them a fair day's work, Men, altho THEY ARE DRIVING YOU MAD.
Give them a fair day's, work, Boys, there'll be time to rest in the grave,
Give them a fair day's work, Boys, what less could they ask of a slave?
Whatever they have that's worth having, THEY OWE IT ALL TO YOU,
Give them a good day's work, Boys but DON'T KICK, whatever you do.

—Sincerely, John Lyons, 47 Sterling Ave. Hintonburg.

International Forestry Congress

Great Gathering in Paris last year.

This congress, to which representatives came from every continent on the globe and which was probably the largest Forestry Congress ever held, met for the expressed purpose of studying economic and technical forestry problems, and of promoting legislative and administrative reforms in order to secure the conservation of the forests, the prevention of soil erosion and the reforesting of waste lands.

Such subjects as the right of the state to regulate private forest property, or to expropriate misused and denuded forest lands to insure public safety from floods were discussed from an international view-point. This state right has long been recognized in Europe where lands on watersheds can be expropriated unless managed by the owner according to strict Government regulations, and an adequate forest cover maintained. The Federal Government of the United States has also recently given expression to this right by the Weeks Bill, passed in 1911 for the acquisition of lands necessary to protect the watersheds and navigability of navigable rivers. By exerting promptness and foresight, the Dominion Government has been able to forestall private occupation of the forest areas now reserved on the east slope of the Rockies and on other important watersheds, but should the necessity arise, its legal right to expropriate private land for the public benefit, seems to be borne out by the policy followed by other countries.

A feature of striking significance in this Forestry Congress at Paris, international in representation and international in its scope, was that this Congress was conceived, organized and brought to a successful fruition by the Touring Club of France, a body having no direct interest in the promotion of Forestry. This club, composed of some of the most influential men in France, realized the esthetic value of the forest to the nation—a point which is almost entirely overlooked in Canada at present. If in Canada, as in Europe, our railways and national highways were bordered by beautiful tracts of forest-land instead of the bare, barren, fire-swept wastes so prevalent at present, the money value of such an influence on the mind of tourists would not be the least advantage to be derived from such forests.

HIS FOOLHARDY FEAT.

A Nerve Trying Climb Up the Face of a Steep Precipice.

In his book, "Trailing and Camping In Alaska," A. M. Powell, a government surveyor, tells how one of his party was led into a most hazardous predicament. He says:

We landed on a grassy nook at the foot of a precipitous mountain spur. After supper one of the trio tried to climb to a ledge of white spar that could be plainly seen from the camp. After an hour's hard work he reached the ledge, but it proved disappointing. He then saw that he could not descend without eyes in his toes. If he could ascend a few hundred feet he might lower himself down a draw by the help of scattering alder brush. He spent another hour in getting to that place only to discover a precipice in the path he had expected to descend.

There was another chance left; he might climb to the top of the spur far above. No living man could have clung to the face of that precipice a minute if it had not been for the moss that was rooted in the small crevices.

He continued climbing until about 10 o'clock, when he paused to look down on the campfire and the water, more than a thousand feet below him. He felt a sickness come over him, so he turned his gaze to the rock wall, a foot from his face.

When near the summit he found himself face to face with a perpendicular wall about twelve feet high. There appeared to be a small bench on top of this wall, on which he might rest if he could reach it. He sat for a few moments on a large rock that lay at the foot of the wall; then with his knife he cut niches for finger and toe holds. Holding on by these he climbed up and dug a sort of trench through the moss on the rim above, through which he might draw his body. Then he descended to the rock for a long rest before making the final effort.

He finally nerved himself to the task, put his fingers in the niches and drew himself from the rock which, with the pressure of the departing foot, said goodby and went bumping down, down, down. The man was left clinging to his niches—hope and life above, sure death below.

Big drops of sweat stood on his forehead as he steadily worked up, up, and held with one hand while he dug the other into the moss above. Half of his body finally rested on the edge, while the other half hung in space without a foothold. It seemed impossible to move from that position until he saw an alder stem, an inch in diameter, that had grown on the little flat bench. He tried its strength. It enabled him to pull himself up and lie on the narrow bed of moss, where he thought of friends far away and his own folly.

There was but one way out and that was along a six inch shelf about 100 feet to the westward that ended on the sloping ridge. Along this a man could edge his body by holding on to the jagged places in the rock wall. He took off his shoes and set off along that sloping path, but he had to be careful not to look down from his dizzy height to the distant campfire.

The feat was accomplished safely and a thankful mortal lay on the green, grassy ridge in complete collapse. His aneroid barometer recorded 2,140 feet above the sea, and his watch told him that it was halfpast 12 in the morning.

The English Breakfast.

England has known many changes during recent years. Caste lines have been obliterated, the silk hat is no longer an object of reverential worship, actors have been knighted and bands introduced into restaurants. But the breakfast table is the last ditch of British conservatism. The Englishman eats bacon and eggs 365 mornings in the year and welcomes leap year because it enables him to indulge in that delightful dish 366 times. The monarchy may be abolished and the house of lords deprived of its prerogative, but the English breakfast will remain as it was in the days of the conqueror. —New York Herald.

That Elusive Gray Hair.

"What makes me really mad," said the woman, "is to spend minutes, maybe hours, trying to get hold of a white hair that shows up on my head like a dazzling light, yet which is tantalizingly elusive when I try to catch it, and then when I do finally separate it from the brown hair and give it a vigorous pull, to find that I have snatched out a good brown hair and left the white one still shining!"—New York Times.

Taking Their Turn.

"Why station a policeman beside this park bench?"

"It is newly painted."

"He can't keep people from testing fresh paint."

"No; but he can keep 'em in line."—Kansas City Journal.

So It Is.

"Pop, is an abyss anything sleepy?"

"Of course not, child. What put that into your head?"

"Well, it's always yawning."—Baltimore American.

Glengarry Member Loses His Father.

Alexandria, Aug, 5.—On Sunday evening, the death ocurred here of Mr. Duncan McMillan, father of the popular member of Parliament for Glengarry, J. Angus McMillan, at the advanced age of 77 years. The funeral took place this morning to St. Finnan's Catholic Cathedral, and the mass was sung by a nephew of the deceased, Rev. John A. J. McDonald, of Cornwall.

As might be expected the funeral service was very largely attended, owing to the esteem in which the late Mr. McMillan was held by all who knew him, and to the regard which his constituents throughout the county feel towards the member for Glengarry.

Besides the member for Glengarry, the late Mr. McMillan is survived by one son, Dougald, of Ashland Wisconsin, and one daughter, Mrs. J. A. Garland, of Ottawa.

Youth Saves Girl Who Sank Three Times

Louis McDonald, 21 years old, 1028 Drayton avenue, St. Paul, Minn., nephew of Mr. F. McLoskey of this place, garbed in his sunday clothes, dived from a canoe yesterday afternoon into White Bear lake at Wildwood and rescued from drowning after she had sunk for the third time, a young woman who later gave her name as Miss Farland of Minneapolis. The girl who was about 20 years old, after she had been brought to shore, a distance of about 200 feet, and revived by young McDonald, was taken in charge by other members of a party of girls but she left without giving more definite information as to her name and address.

According to McDonald, Miss Farland had gone into the water for a swim before her companions, and she was some distance from any other bathers in about twelve feet of water, when she was seized with cramps. She called for help, McDonald, who, with his brother, Charles, and Wm. Slugher, was coming across from the McDonald summer home at Lakewood in a canoe, was about twenty yards from the girl. He hurried to her rescue, and dived from the canoe. After an unsuccessful attempt, he finally brought Miss Farland to the surface and swam with her to shore. Simple methods of rescuscitation revived the near-drowning victim, despite the fact that she had gone down three times.

Sprayed Orchards Will Have A Fair Yield.

P. Bradt, B.S.A., district representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, makes the statement that Dundas county, the home of the McIntosh Red apple, would this year have had a fair yield of apples had all the orchards been properly sprayed. Those properly sprayed have escaped the ravages of the caterpillars and are not affected by them, but the light frosts which came at blossoming time here cut the total yield down below the average. In unsprayed orchards many of the trees contain no fruit at all.

Apples are of a good quality in those commercial orchards which were well looked after. A jobber has offered $1,000 for the apples on a five-acre orchard owned by Andrew Fawcett of Inkerman, and several other orchardists have good offers from Montreal men, but no sales are reported yet.

Mr. Bradt states that as conditions are in Dundas so they are in Stormont and Glengarry In all three counties the orchards are better along the riverfront than in the interior, the river having served to minimise the effect of the frosts.

Cases Pile Up To Meet Judges When Vacation's Over.

Their Lordships of the Superior Court of Montreal will have to do some "hustling" when the next term commences and they had better make the best of their vacations

During the last month 980 new cases have been entered. Fifty-two of these are saine-arrets which will not worry their Lordships but 928 will take some time to hear and this is only for a month while there is six weeks more of vacation giving time for other cases to pile up.

More judges, more court rooms is the cry and will be the cry for this record is 300 over and above the corresponding month of last year.

Woman Smuggles Whiskey In Beef Carcases.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—The introduction of whiskey into the forbidden districts of Northern Ontario in pieces of beef has been discovered by Chief Rogers of the provincial police, and several prosecutions have been undertaken as the result.

It was known that a woman in the porcupine district was getting whiskey, and after the authorities had been puzzled for some time an examination of beef going in was made and deep cuts were noticed.

Exploration developed the fact that cunningly hidden away under each of the cuts was a hot water bottle filled with whiskey, each bottle containing about two quarters of the liquid, which the woman mixed with water and sold at fancy prices.

Millionaire's Suicide.

Selkirk, Man., Aug. 3.—Arthur Stewart, aged 49, one of the most prominent financiers in Western Canada, founder of the National Trust Company, Ltd., Winnipeg, and formerly director and manager of that institution, was found by his wife yesterday morning lying on a couch with a bullet hole through his temple, and a 32 calibre revolver lying on his breast.

Mr. Stewart had been complaining recently of heart trouble and worrying considerably over imaginary financial troubles, which is the only cause that can be assigned for taking his own life. At the time of his death he was rated at $1,000,000

George L. Stewart, only son of deceased, is a student at McGill University, and has been living in Montreal. Funeral arrangements are pending until word is received from him.

Boy Kills His Pall.

Edmonton, August 1— Otto Rudolph, a German, 17 years old, confessed this morning that he had shot and killed his companion, Carl Mall, also a German, and only 14 years of age, and shot another companion, Fritz Maurer, a youngster, whose age is not known, through the face at Pierce, in the MacLeod Valley, where he lies in a critical condition.

Rudolph was arrested last evening. He defended himself by saying that he was handling an automatic gun, and, not understanding the mechanism properly, the gun exploded.

On Sunday night the death occurred of Miss Ellen B. Reddy at her home in Springtown, The late Miss Reddy was a resident of Arnprior for 16 years, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. Miss Reddy had many friends and will be greatly missed in Arnprior.

MAKING A UNIFORM

It Was For the Czar, and He Wanted It In a Hurry.

A SCARED CRIMEAN TAILOR.

When Pounced Upon by His Majesty's General, Who Cloaked His Mission In Mystery, the Knight of the Shears Thought His Time Had Come.

By special permission of the court authorities an amusing account is published of the circumstances attending the ordering of a military unform by the czar from a little tailor in the Crimea, Khaim Kurichkess by name, who lived at Simferopol, the headquarters of the Crimean dragoons.

When the imperial family came to Lividai, and some days before the annual fete of the Crimean dragoons, the czar told the colonel that he had in store a gift for him and the regiment--the czarina had consented to become their chief. His majesty added: "I shall be there when you and your officers are presented to the empress and shall wear your uniform. The only thing is, I believe I haven't the uniform of the regiment. But that doesn't matter, there is time, if you hurry, to have one made. You seem to have an excellent tailor. Your uniform fits beautifully. Who made it?"

The colonel gave the name of Kurichkess, whereupon his majesty asked him to arrange that Kurichkess should make a uniform for himself, adding, smiling, "Tell him to do his best and to turn it out as well as yours."

There is next given a seriocomic description of the alarm occasioned among the Kurichkess household, consisting of father, mother and nine children, when a handsome motorcar stopped outside their door and a cloaked general officer descended.

The general said in staccato sentences: "You must come with me. Don't be frightened. You'll know later where I'm taking you. I can't leave without you. We've lost much time already. Get dressed quickly."

The tailor obeyed, went with his captor and was absent for four days Mme. Kurichkess was doubtful whether she was a wife or a widow.

Eventually the tailor turned up safe and recounted his adventures. The drive with the general had lasted two hours and a half. During the whole journey the general did not address a single word to him. When they reached their destination, Yalta, all he said was, "Khaim Kurichkess, get out and follow me."

He was assured that he need not be alarmed; he would be provided with lodging and with food, and the next day he would be told why he had been brought to Yalta and what he had to do. He was told he need not try to escape, as he would be watched.

His fears were dissipated when a colonel entered the room, and the "general of generals" addressed him to the following effect:

"Great good fortune has fallen upon you. His majesty the emperor wishes you to make for him a uniform of the Crimean dragoons. But it must be as good as that of the colonel of the regiment. I hope you won't make a mess of it. I will take you at once to the palace, where you will be admitted to the czar's study to see his majesty's figure."

When the "general of generals" took Kurichkess to the czar's study his majesty was standing reading a document with his back to the door. Some minutes elapsed before he turned around In the meantime Kurichkess was rooted to the floor.

The czar on realizing his presence faced him and said: "Oh, you are here already! You are Khaim Kurichkess, the tailor. I want you to make me a uniform of the Crimean dragoons. Do your best and see that it is a good fit. Get to work at once."

Kurichkess went on to describe how God had helped him in his work and how satisfied the czar had been with the uniform and thanked him for it.

Kurichkess refused to accept anything in payment, but "his" general insisted that, according to law, he was obliged to receive 50 rubles for his expenses. Moreover, the general added, the minister of the court was aware that Kurichkess was in debt, and he gave the tailor an envelope containing 300 rubles from the minister to discharge his obligations.

Kurichkess was driven back in a motor to Simferopol, and some days later an imperial messenger brought to his shop a case containing a gold watch and chain. The double eagle was engraved on the watch, which also bore the inscription, "To Khaim Kurichkess for Zeal."—Argos.

A "Lady" Is Defined.

The definition of a gentleman has puzzled many, but what of the lady?

A depositor on opening an account described herself as a factory hand. When withdrawing money she gave her description as "lady." The postmaster was asked to be careful as to identity before paying the money. His reply was, he was quite satisfied it was the depositor's way of saying she was out of work.—London Spectator.

Two Classes.

"The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do something and those who sit and inquire, 'Why wasn't it done the other way?'"—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

He is the freeman whom the truth makes free, and all are slaves beside.—Cowper.

A CITY IN A GORGE.

The First View of La Paz Is Startling to the Tourist.

James Bryce in his book "South America" gives a picturesque description of the approach to La Paz, Bolivia. He tells how the traveler who nears La Paz has a surprise in front of him if he is coming from Lake Titicaca, the usual route from the coast. At a point 13,000 feet above sea level the railway from Guayaquil meets the railway from Antofagasta, 400 miles away to the south. "From this point, called Viacha, the route turns eastward toward the Cordillera, the line climbing slowly in wide sweeps over the dusty and shrubless plateau on whose thin grass sheep are browsing. There is not a house visible, and the smooth slope seems to run right up against the mountain wall beyond. Where can La Paz be? asks the traveler.

"Presently, however, he perceives strings of llamas and donkeys and waytarers on foot moving along the slope toward a point where they all suddenly vanish and are no more seen. Then a spot is reached where the railway itself seems to end between a few sheds. He gets out and walks a few yards to the east and then suddenly pulls up, with a start, on the edge of a yawning abyss.

"Right beneath him, 1,500 feet below, a gray, red roofed city fills the bottom of the gorge and climbs up its sides on both banks of the torrent that foams through it. Every street and square, every yard and garden, is laid out under the eye as if on a map, and one almost seems to hear the rattle of vehicles over stony pavements coming faintly up through the thin air."

Scotchman's Sad Loss.

"As the waiter laid down my fivepence change," writes C. M. in the Glasgow News, "I noticed that the topmost coin was not of British currency. It was, in fact, a French penny. I attracted his attention, therefore, with a motion of my forefinger and indicated the pile of coins with a wave of my hand, which was meant to say 'What is this you have given me?' The waiter bent gracefully forward, scooped up my change with a practiced hand and with a polite 'I thank you, sir,' moved swiftly away. Next time I'll give the language of signs a miss."

Sympathetic.

"Don't you ever find it hard to be a freak?" asked the stoutish, tightly laced woman who had stopped to converse with the fat lady.

"No, not a bit," was the reply. "I often feel sorry for some of you people who seem to find it so hard not to be freaks."—Chicago Record Herald.

Mixed Up.

A woman stated at a recent inquest that her husband's Christian names were James Jonathan or Jonathan James, she did not know for sure which. "You see," she explained, "he was one of twins and they got mixed up a bit."—London Standard.

A Trade Union.

Ella (spitefully)—Their marriage was nothing but a trade union Sophie—A trade union? Ella—Yes; she traded her money for his title.—London Telegraph.

Worry, whatever may be its source, weakens, takes away courage and shortens life.

A Long Stay.

Belle Passay—I'm tired of being pursued for my money. I'm going to the country and pose as a poor girl and wait for the first man who offers himself. Blanche Innit—Well, you stand the country in summer well enough, but you'll find the winters just horrid. —Puck.

A Community of Interest.

"Mrs. Brown and Mrs Green seem to have little to do but talk across the fence."

"Yes, they have plenty to talk about. Mrs. Brown has just come out of the hospital and Mrs. Green thinks of going."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Tactful.

Dobson had just bought a new typewriting machine.

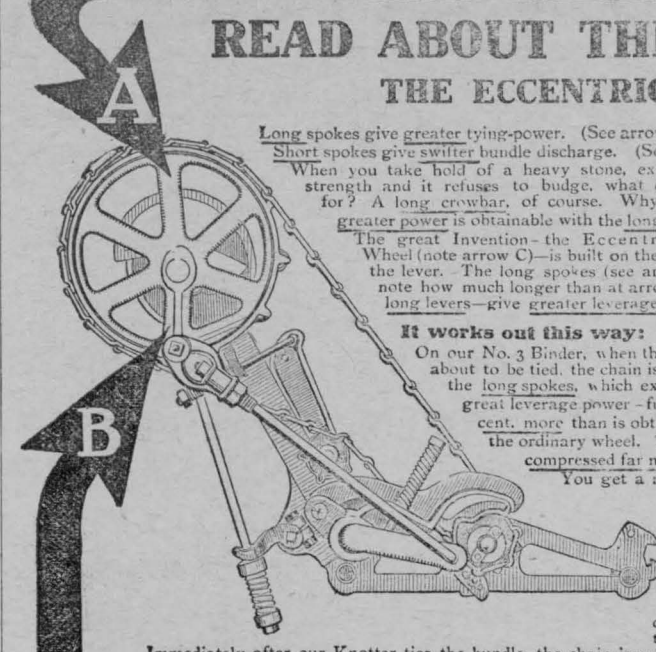

"Now, what color ribbon do you want for this machine?" asked the salesman.

"Oh, black, by all means!" said Dobson. "You see, my typewriter is a widow."—Judge.

He that fears not the future can enjoy the present.

READ ABOUT THE GREAT INVENTION

THE ECCENTRIC SPROCKET WHEEL

Long spokes give greater tying-power. (See arrow A.) Short spokes give swifter bundle discharge. (See arrow B.) When you take hold of a heavy stone, exert all your strength and it refuses to budge, what do you call for? A long crowbar, of course. Why? Because greater power is obtainable with the long lever.

The great Invention—the Eccentric Sprocket Wheel (note arrow C)—is built on the principle of the lever. The long spokes (see arrow A and note how much longer than at arrow B) act as long levers—give greater leverage power.

It works out this way:

On our No. 3 Binder, when the bundle is about to be tied, the chain is pulled over the long spokes, which exert all their great leverage power—fully 16⅔ per cent. more than is obtainable with the ordinary wheel. The grain is compressed far more tightly. You get a neater, more compact bundle and save considerable TWINE. Easier to pick up, Easier to carry, easier to shock.

Immediately after our Knotter ties the bundle, the chain is pulled over the short spokes (see arrow B and note difference in length of spoke as compared with arrow A). The shorter spokes greatly increase the speed of the chain. The bundle is given a swifter discharge than with ordinary wheel, and the needle is speedily brought back, out of the way of the downcoming grain, into position for the next sheaf.

The Eccentric Sprocket does this, too—it prevents that "jar" or "jerk" always noticed on other machines when a bundle is being tied and discharged. You will not feel it on the No. 3; neither will your horses be annoyed by it, nor "the life" of the machine be shortened. Frost & Wood No. 3 runs along and does its work without even a suggestion of that "jerk."

Now, you see why every maker would put the Eccentric Sprocket Wheel on his binder if we did not control the patents for Canada. You see why it's wise to invest a post card and get our Binder Booklet so as to become thoroughly posted on the peer of them all—the Frost & Wood No. 3.

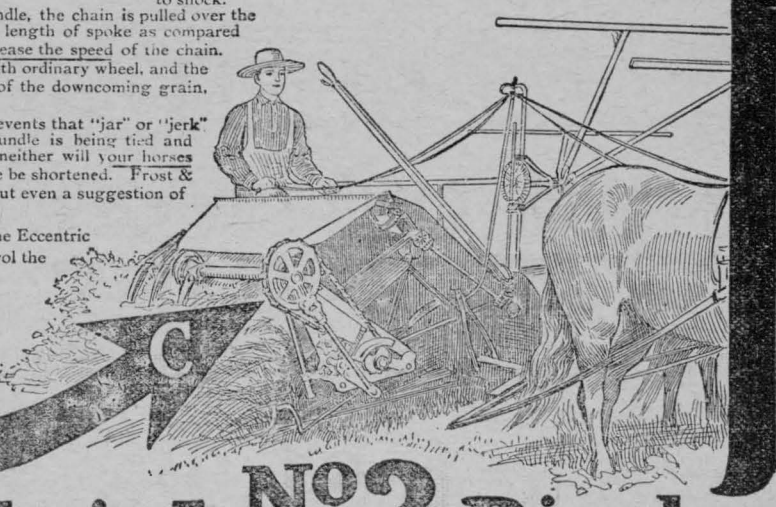

You are on the right track when you start investigating our No. 3—the binder that is built by a purely Canadian Company, who thoroughly understands Canadian conditions. We would like you to read a few of the hundreds of testimonials we have received from Canadian farmers, which back up our claims to the letter.

The McLaughlin Carriage Company have been engaged in the development of vehicles for 43 years—over 38 years of that time have been devoted to making carriages. They were made well, as might be expected when every effort, every new and tried idea was applied to the betterment of their construction and to the extension of their service. McLaughlin buggies bore a good name, but they earned it. It was won on sheer merit. A farmer or townsman bought a McLaughlin buggy when he had the price simply because it represented the best he could get. He could buy cheaper buggies, but he couldn't get McLaughlin service. Service can't be had for nothing; it costs money, and it's worth it.

But here's the point. The same standards that made the McLaughlin buggy famous are still applied to the making of McLaughlin cars. Each McLaughlin car is the product of the accumulated experience, skill and knowledge of over forty-three years directed solely along one line. Methods haven't altered. It is only the principle of locomotion that has changed.

In relation to service, consider well that which goes with every McLaughlin car. Through its depots located all over the country, the resources of the McLaughlin plant are placed convenient to the needs of the McLaughlin motorist. Over one hundred thousand dollars' worth of parts are carried for the single purpose of giving quick, economical service. You may never need this service, but all the same, it's mighty comforting to know that it is at your disposal when and where you want tt. This is partly what is meant by McLaughlin service. It covers the country.

No other Company in Canada has so much invested in service for its customers.

Crysler's Farm Centenary.

Morrisburg, Ontarlo.
July 30th, 1913.

As the centenary of the Battle of Crysler's Farm is to be celebrated August 27th and 28th at Morrisburg and the attention of the public will be centered on the doings of a hundred years ago, let us consider our great indebtedness not only to the brave men who fought so heroically at that time but also to the Godly pioneer women who did their part to help place the British Empire on such a firm footing on this continent.

The Morrisburg Women's Institute, with the co-operation of the Dundas County Women's Institute purpose holding during the celebration a free loan exhibition of old-time relics, historical and otherwise and would appeal to all who are in possession of articles of interest for the loan of them.

A suitable place is being secured to hold this exhibition, reliable caretakers will be provided to look after the articles loaned, and every effort made to safeguard them and return them promptly.

If sufficient material can be collected this exhibition will be highly interesting and of educational value to young and old, besides paying a tribute to those noble women who kept courage and enthusiasm alive in the hearts of the pioneer men.

A special appeal is made for historical relics used during the War of 1812-13 and the Rebellion of 1837, Indian relics, and also for the handiwork of and the household articles used by the pioneer women. These must at least antedate 1850.

A card must be attached to each article with name of lender, history of article and date when used.

Anyone who has suitable articles and will loan them kindly notify.

The Port Nelson, the largest dredge ever built in Canada—and constructed in record time—for the Dominion Government will be ready to leave Toronto this week on her journey to Hudson Bay. Upon her departure from the Polson's shipyards she will go down the St Lawrence river. From there she will go through the Straits of Belle Isle and the coast of Labrador and Ungava and thence to her destination.

She will take a cargo in the shape of a stern wheel tug, which is to be used by the Government in the Hudson Bay territory. The machinery will not be installed in the tug until she reaches Hudson Bay. The tug, which is a double decker, and affords accommodation for passengers, is 117 feet long and 18 feet wide, with a draught of four feet.

Insane Man's Suicide.

Brockville, July 31.—Late this afternoon the dead body of Phillip John Green, a patient of the Eastern hospital for the Insane, who escaped Monday last, was found in the woods on the hospital farm. The surrounding circumstances would indicate that the man had committed suicide. Beside him was a bottle partially filled with carbolic acid, also a small glass from which he had drank the poisonous fluid. His boots hung on the limb of a tree and around the trunk Green had strapped himself with the belt taken from his waist. The body was discovered in a sitting posture. Green was committed from Arnprior, where it is said he has a wife aud eight children. An inquest was opened to-night.

Thomas Fowler, son of a Westminster township farmer, was smothered to death in a gravel pit.

Both Arnprior newspapers were last week victimized in publishing a forged announcement of an engagement of two estimable young people of the township of McNab. The item was sent in and signed with the name of a well-known resident of the district but turned out to be a base forgery written by one who, perhaps, from jealousy, overlooked the enormity of his crime. The offence is an indicatible one, punishable by a term in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Barnes of Prescott, attempted to commit suicide on Monday of last week. Leaving the house unnoticed by the family she walked down to the starch factory dock and jumped into the river. A young man who happened to be bathing nearby went to her rescue and after considerable difficulty succeeded in bringing her to shore, where she was soon revived. Mrs. Barnes is advanced in years and has been ailing for some time.

Baggageman Neville of No. 5 express met with a painful accident here on Thursday night which might have proved fatal. When the train was about a mile west of the station and going at a good speed the handle of a trunk Neville was handling gave way and he fell backward through the doorway, fortunately not striking the rails in his fall, although he sustained a nasty gash in the scalp and a severe shaking up. When he was missed at Iroquois a message was despatched to the station here, but Neville had walked down. His injuries were attended to by Dr. McLaughlin, who found it necessary to put a couple of stitches in the scalp, and he was taken on the fast train, which was stopped here, to the General Hospital at Brockville.—Morrisburg Leader.

Stolen From Cornwall Livery.

Another report of daring horse stealing is occupying the attention of the police. A Cornwall liveryman, E. D. Warner, was the one who was the victim of an erstwhile horse trader, suffering to the extent of about $215.

On Tuesday night of last week the "trader" in question hired a horse from Warner with the expressed intention of going to Bonneville. Previously in the day the man in quesiton had hired an outfiit, returning about 6 o'clock and paying for his pleasure.

The second time he forgot to come back. Warner's suspicions were not aroused until Wednesday afternoon. He got on the trail and with the aid of the county police along the line traced the missing outfit as far as Metcalfe, about twenty two miles from Cornwall.

The police are on the lookout, having a description of the horse, buggy and driver. The swindler is said to be about 45 years of age and ornamented by a shock of red hair.

Caring For Babies at the Fair.

A rest room for mothers and a creche for babies will be conducted at the coming Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, September 5-13 by the Local Council of Women. The Women's Council recently decided to have a refreshment booth at the Exhibition and the two adjuncts mentioned, will be desirable innovations. In past years small children have been a problem both for country and city folk, wishing to enjoy the Fair to the fullest extent and frequently the baby has been the cause of the mother not visiting the Exhibition at all. The mothers' rest room and creche, to be furnished by the Local Council of Women, will be under efficient management and will no doubt add to the pleasure of hundreds of women visitors. The refreshments will be sold on the European plan and the nominal charge for these and for the creche service will go into the funds of the Women's Council. Mrs. W. Gullock and Mrs. C. Addison are convenors of the committee-in-charge of the new enterprise.

A bush fire which has been raging for a week immediately west of Eganville was fanned into fierce activity by a strong breeze and bore directly towards the town. By the strenuous efforts of the fire brigade and other volunteers, the flames were beaten back and slowly subdued.

Husky Old Walker Made Trip On Time

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 2.—Amid the roar of cannon, the clanging of bells and the tooting of whistles, Edward Payson Weston completed his tramp of more than 1,500 miles from New York city, here to-day. The aged pedestrian, by changing his plans after leaving the metropolis, has added 100 miles to his original schedule and has walked 1,546 miles. Leaving New York on June 2nd, Weston was due to reach Minneapolis on August 2nd, but when he reached Stillwater, Minn., July 29th, he was four days ahead of his schedule of time.
