Thieves Left Their Trail After Break-in

ROBBERS BROKE INTO the R. A. Beamish store here in the Hamilton Block sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning. They got away with nearly $500 worth of goods including a small radio and suitcases filled with loot. Entry was made through an upstairs window of the Hamilton building used by Dixon and Rowe for storage. They tracked up the fresh snow on the leanto roof making their entry. Inside the building the thieves punched out an old register opening and came down into the Beamish Store. The upper picture was taken from the roof of the Record building. The hole the robbers used is shown in the lower picture with OPP Constable Earl MacDougall and Village Chief Leonard Shane looking up. They are investigating.—Record Photos.

Blizzard Hits District Hard--

Sun. to Wed. Storm Ties Traffic

Old Man Winter finally lost his temper and tied things up into a fine snarl. Roads are plugged with masses of blowing white stuff we boast about to our Southern cousins and public services that depend on transportation are hard put to even come close to schedule.

Sunday the storm started here with quite a blow building up by Monday. Trucks and cars began to be victims of the snow and by noon Monday the Nestlé plant had received only a very small part of their usual take of milk—as one official put it, "Enough to feed a large cat."

A casualty of the storm was the projected Progressive Conservative convention in Finch. It was shoved back until the weather has become fairer.

Here in town schools on Monday were short of pupils with high school closed completely and public school partly closed. Tuesday and Wednesday the high school buses snowbound and the school was again forced to shut down.

Township and provincial plows were almost immediate casualties of the storm. Highway 43 slowly filled up Sunday night as the plow at this end suffered a bad break. Relief equipment from Ottawa soon had the highway passable. It was fortunate for one family here as Leonard Giles had to be taken to Winchester Hospital suffering from an accute attack of appendicitis. The hurrying car was struggling through the drifts when it met the plow on the Ridge.

Winchester township plows have had a hard time with the hard snow. They have suffered several mishaps ranging from sojourns in the ditch overnight to mechanical failures that have meant much overtime repair work. County plows have been thumping along around the clock too, but the wind-driven snow has just about limited their action to the main roads. Side roads will have to wait for quiter weather.

Here in the village, Ethan McElheran has had the bulldozer on the village streets clearing the piles as the Morris plow shoves it against the curbs. Most village streets are in good shape in spite of the heavy downfall.

Trains have been considerably behind, with Monday night's train an hour and a half late. The Monday morning mail bus, due in about 8.45 arrived at noon. Its schedule picked up Tuesday in the morning, but fell apart Wednesday as the highways finally blocked the plows.

Almost exactly eleven years ago, in the first week in March, we had a similar storm. At that time the roads were blocked for nearly a week throughout the district; at that time the subway at Morrisburg was even plugged.

We note in passing that the long-range forecast for weather for this period says it will be above normal warmer with little snow.

Family Saddened By Loss of Daughter

The sudden loss of their young daughter came as a great shock to Mr and Mrs Cecil Shay and family of Chesterville. Their 12-year-old daughter, Gloria Nellie May, passed away suddenly Friday night after an illness of only a few hours.

The young girl had gone to the rink to skate with friends Friday evening but had felt unwell and started for home north of the CPR tracks. She collapsed on Main Street near Brannen's Garage, where she was discovered by her brother, Stanley, who took her on home. Dr Justus was called but the girl died shortly after in spite of medical help.

She is survived by her parents and six sisters and five brothers. They are Mrs Alex McMillan (Goldie), Shirley, Patsy, Jule, Linda, Lila and Stanley, Francis, Larry, Richard and Lyle. All live in Chesterville.

Funeral services were held in Trinity United Church Monday afternoon. The Rev E. B. Bugden officiated and members of the choir were in attendance. Entombment was made at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

R. A. Beamish Store Robbed In Daring Breakin Friday Eve Loot Valued at Nearly $500

Friday night thieves broke into the R. A. Beamish store here and got away with nearly $500 worth of merchandise. Most of their loot was in shirts, socks and nylons. They have not yet been apprehended.

Entry was made into the building by a rear upper window. One of the robbers climbed a guy wire that runs down the side of the Hamilton building just across from Fulton's store. The person walked along the sloping roof of the leanto section, found the north window in the old Hamilton Hall was not locked and after being joined by a couple of more accomplices went into the building.

The robbers seemed to know what it was all about. They lifted the unused register in the floor, punched down the V-joint sheeting that covered the register hole in the ceiling of the store and let themselves down. In the store, they commandeered a number of suit cases from the racks and stuffed them full. The back door was prised open and the robbers slipped away across the back of the lots behind the Record building and out of sight.

The break-in was discovered Saturday morning when Miss Helena Dwyer, manager of the store, opened up for business. She immediately called the police and along with the village police chief, O.P.P. constable Earl MacDougall is investigating.

A. C. Casselman Nominated As Liberal Candidate For Grenville-Dundas

A few hardy Liberal supporters braved the weather Monday night to attend the Liberal convention for the riding held in Spencerville Town Hall. From all reports, the hall was about as cold as the weather outside.

J. Frank Casselman, Chesterville, president of the local Liberal Association was chairman of the meeting.

The only nomination to stand was that for Arthur C. Casselman, candidate in the past two Federal elections. He was nominated by George Forrester, the Cardinal man who felt the edge of A. Clair Casselman's ire at the opening of the last Parliament; Forrester made headlines then when he became the victim of a publicized political firing.

Mr Casselman stated he felt the riding should not go by acclamation to any other party. It was his intention to enter the field again and support the national party in all things.

Chalmer's United W.A. and W.M.S. Hold Joint Meeting Committees Appointed for St. Patrick's Tea

A joint meeting of the Woman's Association and the Women's Missionary Society of Chalmer's United Church, Finch. was held in the church hall on Wednesday evening. Mrs Lynden Hough, president of the W.A., opened the worship service with a hymn followed with the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Scripture reading was taken by Mrs Ross Nephew and the lesson thoughts on the theme "The Owner's Stamp" was read by Mrs Clifford Eligh.

The program on Japan entitled "Students in the News" was under the leadership of Mrs Lynden Hough who outlined the story briefly. The group was divided into discussion groups with Rev C. A. Dukelow, Mrs Phil Casselman and Mrs Myles Nephew explaining the case histories that were for discussion. After a ten-minute period the reports were presented to the whole group which proved very interesting.

Mrs James MacMillan, president of the W.M.S., presided for the business, assisted by the secretary, Mrs Phil Casselman. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs Clifford Eligh.

The treasurer reported that all arrangements for the World's Day of Prayer, to be held in Chalmer's United Church on February 21 at 3 p.m., were all made.

The next meeting will be the Easter Thankoffering to be held in the church hall on March 31. The executive were left in charge of arrangements for a guest speaker.

The meeting was turned over to the president of the W.A. who took charge of the business. She was assisted by the secretary, Mrs Ellery Ouderkirk.

Several letters of appreciation were read. The treasurer was authorized to forward the annual fees to the Presbyterial W.A. treasurer in Cornwall.

Final arrangements were made for the St. Patrick's tea, the date being set for Friday, March 14, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the church hall.

The following committees were appointed to take charge of the tea: Reception committee, Mrs Lynden Hough and Mrs Cecil Dukelow; tea, Mrs Wm. Johnstone; pouring tea, Mrs D. P. Cameron, Mrs Hiram Campbell, Mrs John Shaver and Mrs H. E. Bush; housekeepers' table, Mrs George Smith and Mrs Hiram McMonagle; flowers and supplies, Mrs Dolton Henry; cakes and sandwiches, Mrs Osborne Shaver and Mrs Earl Droppo; salads, Mrs Basil Crawford and Mrs Morrison MacLeod; cashier, Mrs Dolton Henry; food slips, Mrs Blake Nephew, Mrs Lynden Hough and Mrs James MacMillan.

The meeting closed with prayer by the president. Lunch was served by the committee and a social hour was enjoyed.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs Lindsay Hutt and Mrs Phil Casselman.

MORRISBURG ARENA COLLAPSES UNDER SNOW

Morrisburg Arena collapsed under the weight of tons of snow on its rounded roof as a result of the weekend blizzard. No one was in the building at the time.

It is estimated replacement cost of the 30-year old building would be between $50,000 and $75,000.

Chesterville W.I. Displays Lampshades At Winchester

At the end of October, Chesterville branch of the Women's Institute decided to learn something of the art of making lampshades. As a result, Mrs E. Cole and Mrs B. Rowe were duly dispatched to Winchester to attend a two-day course in this craft, tutored by Miss J. Armour, home furnishing specialist.

There followed a period of furious activity on the part of a small group of Chesterville ladies which culminated in a display of their handiwork on Tuesday at the Summary Day which was held in Winchester Legion Hall.

The meeting was opened by Miss J. Ritchie, Home Economist for Dundas County, who congratulated the members for their display and discussed plans for a new course. Miss Armour then reviewed the results of the course and complimented Chesterville on the ingenuity shown in the use of materials and design.

In addition to the two leaders, shades were displayed by Mrs S. Barker, Mrs G. Gilbert, Mrs A. Graham, Mrs P. Hewitt, Mrs W. Hummel and Mrs G. Johnston.

At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the Winchester leaders whose hospitality was much appreciated by Chesterville group.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

Winter Weather at Its Best—or Worst

Winter has really arrived with a vengeance. As we write these words, a smoking blizzard is ripping across the town from the north-west and just about everyone is snowbound. From here it looks like a good three-day blow.

It always happens that the first heavy fall of snow with a little wind behind it will put most of the snowplows out of action for the first day or so. As long as Nature takes it easy, nothing much happens to things mechanical; when she cuts up a little rough, then things begin to happen. All the weak spots that have been just holding on suddenly give up the ghost and councillors and reeves finally decide the telephone should never have been invented. The road that is not plowed is the one that should have had the first attention, according to the irate taxpayer and who the Sam Hill does the councillor think he is to forget where the votes come from?

We sympathize with the municipal bodies who come under the hammer of John Q. Public's displeasure. There is only one way to satisfy him, but that isn't practical unless there is access to a gold mine; the only thing left is to make the best of it, go to the Good Roads Convention and hope the boys soon get the equipment back on the roads.

All too often we are apt to be loud in our blame of public officials and very short in our praise. Just because rough conditions point up equipment weaknesses is no reason for slapping about wildly in frustrated anger. Even though the plow runs past your door usually on time, there is not any contract that states it must do so at the first sign of blowing snow. The big trouble is that we are so used to being spoonfed with public service we take it for granted instead of being grateful for what we are getting for our tax dollar.

Give the boys a break when the going is tough —they always get there even if they are a little later this week.

Those Firemen Again

The Canadian Pacific Railway is having a hard time these days selling the road firemen on the idea their job is obsolete. It appears to be an uphill battle even though the weight of opinion from the investigating commission found for the railroad; and there is not too much doubt where general public opinion lies.

The idea of building a feather-lined bunk for an unnecessary employee, either in the front end of a diesel locomotive or in a busy printing shop, just doesn't seem to fit in with our ideas of common sense. While we know next to nothing about the art of railroading, we do know that employees in our trade expect to get paid for doing a necessary job; very few find employers who are willing to hire them to serve as a second to an already competent workman, unless it is at a comensurate wage, for the work done.

An angle of the dispute between the firemen and the mighty C.P.R. is all too often overlooked and it makes our gentle Canadian juices steam and fret. Only one railroad and only one Canadian union appears to be involved in the present dispute; actually something over 130 railroads are vitally interested in the Royal Commission's findings and that is one of the reasons it took so long to bring down a finding. Canada's Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen are another of our unions that take their overall direction from the American parent body, in this case stationed in Cleveland. While it would appear the Canadian Pacific only is involved with the C.N.R. following natural suit, their decisions on implementing the commission findings are going to set a precedent for all of North American railroading. And if the policy committee in Cleveland decide to make us the whipping boy to prove their point, then we are for it and no doubt about it.

There is very little the public can do about the present dilemma. Railroaders have gone through the mill many times to reach their present position in the labour picture; it has been a rough road a lot of the way. That is not too much reason, though, to shut their eyes to realities. And even if some labour leaders think judges can be wrong, there remains the fact that diesels do not need firemen. It seems a shame that Canada was chosen as the whipping boy to develop the idea of the infallibility of a phantom.

We Won a Prize

We have been feeling very pleased with ourselves this week; that smug expression was the direct result of being notified we had won a prize. In the province-wide contests sponsored by the Ontario Weekly Newspapers Association, a yearly event, we took third place for General Excellence and Advertising Excellence for those papers published in towns of 1,500 population or under. What makes us doubly pleased is that this is the first time we have entered the Record in the contest.

Eastern Ontario has been singled out in the contest this year; we won third and the Winchester Press copped first prize; second place went to the Rodney Mercury of Western Ontario.

TORONTO REPORTS

By
F. M. Cass, Q.C., M.L.A.

During the second week of the Session, the Legislature, as is customary, has been organized into committees for the consideration of proposed legislation. Many bills, both government and private, have been presented to the House and, after second reading, referred to the appropriate committee. This Session your Member is a member of all standing committees of the House whereby he may have a voice in considering legislation for which he must bear responsibility.

The majority of the bills so far presented have been government legislation aimed at keeping existing legislation up to date, for constant revision of all laws is a necessity in this modern age. However, notice has been given of important new legislation in the fields of public welfare, municipal law and agriculture which are matters that effect every one of us.

The debate on the Speech from the Throne commenced with the usual effective defence of government policy by Premier Frost and sustained criticism from Opposition Leader Oliver and C.C.L. Leader MacDonald. Mr Oliver is an experienced politician and pleasing speaker and always makes an interesting and enjoyable contribution to debates in the House. The main attack on government policies this year stems from current unemployment problems and agricultural and farm marketing difficulties. It would appear that at this Session the agricultural industry will receive some long needed and much desired strengthening in its struggle to share in the prosperity of our national economy.

The second week of the Session also sees the end of the social activities which make the opening of the House such an enjoyable as well as memorable occasion each year. Most of the Members' wives, who accompany their husbands for the opening week, have returned home and the Members are able once more to concentrate on public business. Since each morning there are two or more committees meeting from 10 a.m. on, with (for Government Members) a caucus at 1.30 p.m. or 2 p.m. followed by the sitting of the House from 3 to 6 p.m. and shortly also by night sittings of the House from 8 to 11 p.m., it is easily understood that Members have little time for other than public business.

During this Session Mr Speaker, who is responsible for the Chamber, has made an innovation in the method of recording the debates and proceedings of the House. The time-honoured Hansard shorthand reporters have now been replaced by a tape recorder. While there is some criticism that this method is neither as efficient nor as accurate as Hansard shorthand reporters, it is undoubtedly another advance for automation.

TRACTOR VERSUS ELEPHANT IN FAR EAST

Just as mechanization has largely replaced the horse as a working animal in Western countries, so in India and Ceylon the domestic elephant is steadily being replaced by the tractor.

"Though I did hear of one elephant in Ceylon which chased a bus at thirty miles an hour," said Gerald Priestland in a despatch from Delhi broadcast in the BBC's "Listening Post London" program, "no elephant can keep that sort of thing up for long. On the other hand, a tractor can do it all day and that's why the tractor is replacing the elephant. There are still some jobs like shifting timber in heavy jungle which the elephant does best and admittedly he has fewer breakdowns and can breed his own replacements. But you can only work him half the day, especially when it's very hot. The rest of the time he has to spend resting, feeding, and especially soaking in the river."

The elephant still has a part to play in ceremonial, and no big state or religious procession in India or Ceylon is complete without a few of them, gorgeously caparisoned and with a small band of musicians crammed into the howdah.

"Satisfying an elephant's appetite away from his native jungle is an expensive proposition," Priestland said, "and I know of one maharajah who had twenty of them but is now giving away his last pair to a zoo." There were thought to be about six hundred wild elephants in Ceylon and their numbers were falling fast. In India there were proably about five thousand in the area stretching from Assam along the foothills of the Himalayas, and possibly another thousand in the smaller elephant area in Mysore.

Shooting was licenced only in special cases and tusks were imported from Africa for nearly all the ivory carving done in India today.

MAY GROW PLANTS FOR DRUGS

The only project in Canada to investigate the growing of plants for drugs is under way at the University of Saskatchewan, says Prof. J. A. Woods, of the university's pharmacy college.

Prof. Woods said reasons behind the project were not only the need to diversify Saskatchewan crops but also to have the necessary data "on tap" in case supplies now coming in from foreign countries are cut off by war.

The project is financed by the Saskatchewan Research Council.

The problem of the economic growing of drug crops in Canada is complicated by the competition of drugs normally collected in foreign countries by cheap labour, he added.

The advantage of such low price sources, however, might be more than cancelled out if war stopped imports and there was no "know how" in Canada to take up the slack.

Prof. Woods said some drugs, such as quinine, can be replaced today by synthetic drugs that are available and are actually more effective.

However, he added, digitalis is one drug that can not be produced synthetically, and one that is significant as a medicine.

Digitalis foxglove and belladonna deadly nightshade plants had been grown in Saskatchewan as a part of the research project for six years now, and analyses had been made annually to determine the content of the effective drugs.

Prof. Wood said many of the drug plants tested showed the drug had a greater richness in plants grown in Saskatchewan than in most other places on the continent.

Another plant that is being closely investigated, he said, is the peppermint—not actually a drug but closely enough related to make it fit into the project.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

The TV program "Close-up" was different last Sunday evening from others I've seen. Four typical Canadian families had been chosen—one in Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. An interviewer was sitting with each family in its own living room and they, in turn, asked general questions pertaining to income, ideals, savings, discipline, etc.

Near the end Elaine Grand in Toronto talked to all the families just as simply as if they had been listening on a party line and we saw them as they answered her questions. It was quite a remarkable example of what can be done with this miracle of TV.

As a final question Elaine Grand asked the parents to tell her in one word what they wanted most for their children. (They were all parents of two or more teenagers.) Now, of course, they hadn't much time to mull over their answers. Time was running out.

The French-Canadian father from Montreal was the first to be questioned. "A good home," was his unhesitating reply. The other three, however, were unanimous in their answers. Three typical Canadian parents replied, "Financial security." In other words three quarters of Canadian parents want most of all for their children financial security.

Now what would you have said? What would I have said, I wondered, if I had been the mother of two or three of the fine-looking teenagers?

Of course, I realize that financial security in this modern age is a very satisfying thing. It is certainly a great comfort for folks who never have to worry about where next month's rent is coming from or who will pay the doctor if Dad gets sick or who will provide for the family if Dad should die. But has life in 1958 boiled down until the only worthwhile thing we can wish for our children is money? Surely not.

I can think of so many things I should wish for my children—things that to me are much more important than dollars and cents.

Good health would certainly be high on my list. For in spite of all that medical science and money can do to cure the ills of people these days a healthy body is still our most prized possession. I'm sure any parent who has seen his child suffering would wish most of all that that child could be made healthy and strong. He would gladly exchange his own financial security for the child's good health.

Happiness would be on my list too and money cannot buy happiness. Some of our most financially secure people are our unhappiest.

I should want for my child a good education. All the parents interviewed on that TV show had college educations in view for their children. But apparently they looked at them as a means towards a good job and financial security. I should want my child to be educated in order to get the most out of life. True education teaches how to live.

I should want him to have friends. All the money in the world cannot buy friendship, our minister told us on Sunday. Yet what would life be without friends?

I should want for him a good character. I should ask that his moral standards be high. Truth, honesty, clean living—these things make a man that the world respects—a man who can live with his own conscience.

Ambition is something I should covet for my child. Not an ambition to own or to rule the world but the ambition which is the opposite of laziness. It would give him the drive necessary to conquer the obstacles in the way and help achieve his goal.

Selflessness, too, would be an attribute I should desire for my child. It is the people who are willing to sacrifice and serve their fellow man who reap great rewards of true happiness.

And I should wish that he have a sense of humour with the ability to laugh at himself. Life would be really grim if he couldn't see the funny side.

Last of all, but most important of all, I should ask that he have a religious faith. I should want him to believe that there is a Ruler of the universe who is greatest of all—One in whom he could trust. I should want him to have the peace of mind that faith in God can bring. Jesus said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

What do you want most of all for your children?

PROVE MAN LACKS SENSE OF DIRECTION

Most modern scientists agree that man has no sense of direction, and how this conclusion was arrived at is by no means uninteresting to the ordinary person.

Not long ago several psychologists conducted an experiment on a perfectly level stretch of prairie. A great number of persons took part—old patriarchs of the early West, cowboys, business men, sportsmen, university students, and others—many of whom claimed to possess a sense of direction.

A day was selected when no wind was blowing and the sky was overcast, so that the subjects should not be guided by the direction of the wind nor the warmth of the sun on one part of the body or another. They were shown an object on the horizon, and while facing it were blindfolded, then asked to proceed towards it.

Some walked, some ran, others drove cars; all veered in a circle, and in their travels described something which looked like a spiral or coil spring. As they proceeded, all were asked from time to time about their general direction and all were equally certain that they were continuing in a straight line.

Later, when the experiment was transferred to the water—tests being made by swimming, canoeing and rowing—the same results were obtained. Without an exception they took to describing marine curves instead of straight lines. In the case of where the blindfolded men gave directions to the driver of the car beside them, the result was precisely the same.

Golden Rule Mission Band Holds Annual Meeting At Finch

The annual meeting of the Golden Rule Mission Band of Chalmer's United Church, Finch, was held Saturday afternoon in the church hall. Mrs Lynden Hough, leader, conducted the meeting. The new study book on Japan, "Hanna's New Home," was introduced by Mrs Hough.

A new song, "Friendship Song," was learned by the group, with Mrs Dolton Henry at the piano.

The slate of officers for 1958 is as follows: President, Sandra Price; vice president, Gordon Hough; secretary, Lois Hutt; treasurer, Geneva MacLean; World Friends secretary, Bonnie Flegg.

Subscriptions for World Friends were taken by the secretary. Lois Hutt placed money in the birthday box and all sang "Happy Birthday."

It was decided to order Mission Band pins for the members. Kenneth Swerdfeger received the offering.

Roll call at the next meeting will be answered by "One Thing I Learned About Japan."

The meeting closed with all repeating the Mission Band Purpose in unison. A game was enjoyed by all at the close.

"What did Horace say to you when you told him you would be a sister to him?"

"He asked me for $2 to take out another girl!"

REASONABLE FACSIMILE

A five-year-old German boy who came to Canada a year ago, used a unique method to get a letter back to a former playmate in Bermany.

Mario Albert, of Toronto, carefully drew a picture of Queen Elizabeth on an airmail envelope in place of a stamp and asked his mother, who was also writing letters, to add the address.

The mother wrote on the friend's name and the town where he lived — Braunschweig — and promptly forgot the incident.

Not Mario. He popped the letter with the home-made stamp and scanty address into a post-box and waited with the faith of the very young.

Sure enough, the letter showed up in the Braunschweig post office with the "stamp" duly cancelled. It was passed on to relatives of the friend who paid the postage.

But whether Mario's friend got a message is not known. Mario, unfortunately, hasn't learned to write yet.

Keith Pragnel, 33, of London, was alleged in court recently to have driven a car for nearly 12 miles at about 45 miles an hour—with one wheel missing.

"The police could hardly believe their eyes," prosecuting counsel said. The police tried to stop him twice but had to get out of the way and follow behind. Eventually they stopped him at an intersection.

Frank Dillabough

In poor health for a long time and a patient in Cornwall General Hospital for five months, Frank Dillabough died at his home at Osnabruck Centre, having spent the last 10 days at home. His death was regretted by many friends.

Born in Chesterville 66 years ago, he was a son of the late Ezra Dillabough. In his early days, Mr Dillabough was a farmer and in later years operated a feed store at Osnabruck Centre.

He is survived by his wife, the former Eva Alguire, and one daughter, Mrs Joe Watzenboeck.

The funeral was held from his home to St. Peter's Anglican Church where the service was conducted by Rev L. J. F. Macmorine, of Ingleside.

The body was placed in Newington vault to await burial in Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Merton Collins, John Stuart, Ivan Tinkess, Aden Swerdfeger, John Brownell and Wilson Stuart.

Many friends from Lunenburg. Long Sault, Gallingertown and Cornwall called at the home to extend sympathy and pay their respects.

DORIS McROBERTS TOPS PROVINCE'S 4-H CLUBS

Top 4-H Club member in the province is Doris McRoberts, 20-yearold daughter of Mr and Mrs William McRobert-s, Winchester.

Doris, one of Dundas County's leading 4-H Clubbers and perennial winner, was chosen by the Ontario Ayrshire Breeders' Club over 360 other young Ayrshire 4-H members.

The young woman is keeping the award in the family. Last year she ran a close second to her brother, Allan. In addition to the coveted F. C. Biggs Memorial Trophy she has also received a silver tray from the club and she will later receive a cheque for $50.

Miss McRoberts was chosen leading 4-H Club member in Dundas County last September.

Albert Lavigne Chosen Liberal Candidate In Stormont

Albert Lavigne, Liberal Member for Stormont in the last House, last week was named constituency standard bearer for the March 31 general election in a nomination convention of Stormont Liberals held at Finch.

The 49-year-old retired businessman was nominated by Herbert Maginnis, Osnabruck farmer. The nomination was seconded by Lucien Lamoureux, Cornwall lawyer. Mr Lavigne stood unopposed.

The candidate outlined the general party platform and focussed it on problems of his home district.

He rapped the Conservatives for offering free trade with Britain instead of protecting the textile industry in line with their campaign promises of last June.

Mr Lavigne spoke of setting up a bank on which farmers could draw funds for equipment and general expansion programs.

William J. Henderson, Liberal Member in the last Parliament for Kingston, spoke to the meeting, as did Duncan Fraser, Brockville lawyer and president of the Eastern Ontario Young Liberal Association.

United Church Presbytery Meets at Kemptville Approve Reception of 14 Minister from Britain

The Dundas-Grenville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada met in the St. John's United Church, Kemptville, on Tuesday, February 11. Rev M. B. Jose, of Prescott, was the presiding chairman.

The Presbytery approved the reception of 14 ministers from Great Britain into the ministry of the United Church of Canada. The United Church has a shortage of 300 ministers at the present time.

The Presbytery secretary, Rev Gerald Fee, presented an analysis of the Presbytery's statistics for 1957. According to the last census figures the religious connection of the 32,8 3 people in Dundas and Grenville Counties was: United Church, 15,516; Anglican, 5,248; Roman Catholic, 4,745; Presbyterian, 4,406; Lutheran, 1,318; Baptist, 486. The United Churches of the Presbytery have a membership of 6,697, with 13,141 under pastoral oversight. During 1957 311 children and adults were received into the membership of the Church by the sacrament of baptism. New converts, numbering 211, were received into the full membership of the Church by profession of faith. Average givings per family were 53 for local purposes and $7 for missions.

On the basis of the statistical report it was agreed that the 970 non-resident members of the United Churches should be urged to become active resident members in the churches near where they live. In view of the fact that over 50 per cent of the 12,000 adult United Church people have not publicly professed their faith, it was suggested that a conference on Visitation Evangelism be held for ministers and lay readers in preparation for a Presbytery campaign of Visitation Evangelism for new converts in every pastoral charge.

The pastoral relations committee reported that many pastoral charges had given their ministers and caretakers substantial increases in salary for 1958. The Home Mission Board has acted so that no minister need receive a salary of less than $3,200 for 1958 together with a travel allowance of $400 to $600.

Rev W. B. F. Corkum reported that 14 of the 21 pastoral charges increased their missionary givings in 1957 to bring the year's total to $29,208. The 1957 givings tenance Fund were:

Prescott: $4,985; Winchester: $3,329; Kemptville: $3,196; Iroquois: $2,232; South Mountain: $2,203; Morrisburg: $1,698; Chesterville: $1,550; Merrickville: $1,393; Cardinal: $1,175; Easton's Corners: $1,021; Hallville: $1,015; Spencerville: $941; Inkerman: $843; Williamsburg: $789; Winchester Springs: $671; North Augusta: $564; Matilda: $462; Augusta: $417; Bishop-Oxford Mills: $283; Shanly: $240; Morewood: $155.

The Presbytery was entertained at dinner by the Woman's Association of St. John's United Church, Kemptville.

"Daddy," cried a little boy, "Mommy ran over my bicycle when she was backing the car out of the garage."

"How many times have I told you not to leave your bike on the porch?"

Dr Gustav Bohstedt Noted Agriculturalist Writes New Column

Dr Gustav Bohstedt, author of the column, "Efficient Feeding and Livestock Management," is widely recognized as one of the nation's foremost authorities on animal nutrition and livestock management, and as an agricultural consultant to South American governments.

He is Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry of the University of Wisconsin where he served as chairman of the Department of Animal Husbandry from 1943 until his retirement last June. In charge of the livestock nutrition research program for many years, Dr Bohstedt is well known for his work with salt and other minerals, as well as his valuable studies in the conservation of forage crops for more economical meat and milk production.

Dr Bohstedt brings to his column on livestock feeding and management the ability to translate research achievements into greater production in everyday farming. His popularity as an author is already established through his numerous contributions to agricultural journals during the years he was in the classroom and laboratory.

Besides his contributions to American agriculture, Dr Bohstedt assisted the Department of Agriculture of Sao Paulo, Brazil, in the formation of a research program for its experimental farms. He was a consultant to the Ministry of Education of Venezuela where he pioneered the development of a modern Department of Animal Industry at the Central University of Venezuela. He has also conducted surveys of the livestock industry in Mexico and Colombia.

Since retiring from the University of Wisconsin, Dr Bohstedt has been a Visiting Professor in Animal Industry at the University of Southern Illinois. He also is continuing as a consultant to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's State Experiment Stations Divisions, and to the Salt Institute, and as a member of the Allied Industry Association Advisory Committee of the Nutrition Council of the American Feed Manufacturers Association.

Other professional connections which Dr Bohstedt maintains include the American Society of Animal Production, of which he has served as secretary, vice-president and president, the American Dairy Science Association, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Association of University Professors.

UNIQUE SHIP AIDS FISHING

The Belle Bay, the only boat of its kind in North America, has joined the Federal fisheries fleet off Newfoundland.

The 69-foot craft, completed at Owen Sound, Ont., is a floating laboratory designed to fill a special need in Newfoundland where the majority of coastal villages are not connected to larger centres by road or rail.

The problem was getting fish samples from the outports to the fisheries inspection centre at St. John's before they spoiled. The department overcame this obstacle to a certain extent by using helicopters and chartered planes.

Now, however, the Belle Bay will pick up samples and test them on the spot.

Three men, a bacteriologist and a technician handle the $125,000 craft.

READING AND WRITING

Pranksters from Reading University dumped a metal cylinder with the phony inscription "U.S. Air Force—Danger" in a public Reading, Eng., park the other day and hid in the bushes waiting for laughs.

Along came a little girl, too young to be able to read. She picked up the cylinder, trotted 50 feet to a river and threw the cylinder in.

NO SUBSTITUTES

Those cotton carnival banners that flapped in the breeze last carnival season in Memphis, Tenn., are going to be destroyed.

That firm decision was announced by the carnival's publicity committee.

The city will pick up the tab for the new banners which will cost several hundred dollars. They will be 100 per cent cotton.

CERAMICS TO AID AIR POLLUTION

An art almost as old as man is making a special contribution to the war against smog and air pollution.

Scientists in the field of ceramics at the Illinois Institute of Technology reported recently they have developed a non-metallic coating for auto piston heads which promises a significant reduction in the carbon monoxide and unburned hydro-carbons in exhaust fumes.

Samuel W. Bradstreet, supervisor of inorganic technology at I.I.T. Armour Research Foundation, said the coating also may effect better thermal insulation, higher combustion efficiency and more economical operation for motorists.

A Chicago firm holds an exclusive licence to the process.

The husband had had enough. He stopped his car half-way across the gateless grade-crossing and turned to his wife, sitting bolt upright in the back seat.

"Okay," he said, "I've got my end across. You've been driving from the back seat all day. Now—before the train comes—see what you can do with yours."

The Children of the Church of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met at the manse on Tuesday afternoon, February 11. Ten boys and girls were present.

The children completed their poster map of Africa, and made a little booklet about "Mpengo," the little African boy. A game "What is It?", was played and the members sang and did the actions to the African song "Before Dinner."

Some time was spent in learning the memory verses for the fall rally. Mrs Fry read the third chapter of the study book and discussed its story with the children.

The worship service followed and was done in the form of a dramatization. The children pretended they were the characters in the story read by Mrs Fry. They sat around a campfire and sang the hymn "I am so glad that our Father in Heaven."

Bobby Lajoie, as Captain John, read a passage of Scripture chosen by the children and Mrs Loughridge, as Mpengo's mother, led in prayer.

"Jesus Loves Me" was sung, and the meeting closed with the members repeating the Thank-you Song in unison.

Jimmy Allan placed the stars on the attendance chart and a treat of homemade candy was enjoyed by all.

Colquhoun W.M.S. Makes Plans For World Day of Prayer

Colquhoun W.M.S. Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs Wm. Colquhoun and Mrs Robert Weagant. The worship service, "Looking to Christ and Not to Ourselves," opened with a hymn.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs Hattie MacIntosh. A talk on the pasage was given by Mrs Mahlon Gow.

Discussion followed in the following questions: "Why is it that the performance of good works does not guarantee entrance into the Kingdom of God? Examine the services of worship in your church and its organizations; in what ways could they be made to be more truly 'in the spirit?' In the light of Phil. 3, 12-14, consider whether anyone can ever become perfectly Christian in this life."

The program for the meeting and the study book, "Conversations on Japan," was taken by the president, assisted by Mrs Wright and Mrs Gow.

The supply quiz was taken by everyone present and a letter was read by the supply secretary regarding different items members can send for the overseas relief bales.

Prayer by the president and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

The hostess served lunch.

Plans were made for the World Day of Prayer on February 21.

DISCOVER INDIAN RELICS IN SASKATCHEWAN

Valuable Indian relics are being discovered on Sid Fathers' farm near Oakshela, Sask.

The latest find is a polished axehead used as a ceremonial intrument by prehistoric inhabitants.

Far from common, the axe is one of two in Saskatchewan. The previous one was found at Tompkins, in the southwestern part of Saskatchewan.

Fashioned from a green-black stone, the weapon is polished with a cutting face at either end. More streamlined than Indian axes usually found, it is only three-quarters of an inch thick at its thickest point, almost four inches deep and more than 12 inches in length.

The Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History said the shape and fine workmanship indicate the axe had no practical use other than as a ceremonial object.

In recent years the Fathers farm, 80 miles east of Regina, has turned up other articles of Indian stone work, though most of more recent origin. Chunks of pemmican, axes and mauls were among the finds.

NEW FISH RECIPES FOR LENT

THE FOLLOWING RECIPES and information comes from the Department of Fisheries:

Serve Sardines Soon

Just reach for a can of sardines and you're headed for one of the tastiest main dishes or snacks anyone could wish for. According to the dictionary, a sardine is any tiny fish with rich flesh and weak bones suitable for preserving in oil. Very good are these little fish preserved in oil, however, they are also very good preserved in tomato sauce or in mustard sauce. In addition to their fine flavour, sardines are low in cost and high in food value, two qualities which make them ideal for use in luncheon and supper dishes such as the following two recommended by the home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries.

Sardine Pizza

- 2 3¼-oz. cans Canadian sardines in oil
- 1 cup biscuit mix
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 cup old cheddar cheese, grated
- 1 7½-oz. can tomato juice

Drain and separate the sardines, reserving oil. Combine prepared biscuit mix with milk. Knead, then roll out and fit into a large, greased 9 or 10 inch pie plate. Flute edges of dough lightly; brush all over with oil from sardines. Arrange half the sardines on dough and sprinkle with half the grated cheese. Add tomato sauce, then sprinkle with remainder of cheese. Place rest of sardines on top of pie in spoke design. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Captivate with Cod

Have you ever sampled golden-brown codfish cakes hot from the skillet? Have you ever sniffed the savoury aroma of cod chowder simmering on the back of the stove? Are you familiar with the tangy goodness of smoked cod?

If the answer to any of these questions is no, you have a treat in store. Cod is one species of fish which is plentiful this time of year and low in cost. Conveniently marketed in pound packages, the frozen fillets may be purchased in three forms—fresh, or smoked, or semi-dried and salted.

The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries tell us that cod fillets may be used to make a wide variety of appetizing dishes and that the different forms can be used interchangeably in most recipes. From their kitchen to yours come the following tested cod recipes:

Codfish Cakes

- 1 lb. cod fillets (2 cups cooked and flaked)
- 2½ cups diced raw potatoes (2 cups cooked and mashed)
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 tbsps. butter
- Salt to taste
- Dash pepper
- 1 egg, beaten
- ½ cup fine, dry bread crumbs or finely chopped nuts
- Fat for frying

Cook and flake fillets. Cook diced potatoes in boiling, salted water until tender, then drain. Pan fry onion over low heat in 2 tbsps. of butter until soft but not brown. Add cooked potato to fried onion; mash potato and onion together. Stir in flaked cod. Season to taste. Add beaten egg; combine thoroughly. Shape into flat cakes. Coat with fine, dry bread crumbs or finely chopped nuts. Pan fry cakes in hot fat until golden brown. Serve piping hot with or without a sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Perky Cod Chowder

- ¼ cup butter
- ½ cup diced celery
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 3½ cups water
- 1 20-oz. can tomatoes
- ¾ cup tomato catsup
- 1 20-oz. can tomato juice
- ½ cup uncooked rice
- 2 tbsps. mixed pickling spice
- 2 cloves garlic, quartered
- ½ tsp. paprika
- 2 to 4 drops Tabasco sauce
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 lb. cod fillets
- Salt to taste

Fry celery, onion and green pepper in butter until tender but not browned. Combine cooked vegetables, water, canned tomatoes, catsup, tomato juice and rice. Tie pickling spice and garlic in a cheese cloth bag and add bag to mixture. Simmer uncovered for 30 minutes. Remove spice bag and stir in paprika, Tabasco and Worcestershire sauce. Add cod cut into bite-sized chunks, bring to simmering temperature again, and simmer gently for 10 minutes. Serve piping hot. Makes about 12 servings.

Smoked Cod Casserole

- 1 lb. smoked cod fillets
- 3 medium potatoes
- 1 medium onion
- 2 tbsps. butter
- 2 tbsps. flour
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 cup milk
- ½ cup grated cheese

Thaw fillets sufficiently to permit cutting into fork-sized cubes. Partially cook potatoes by boiling them in their skins for 20 minutes; peel and slice thinly. Slice onion thinly; separate slices into rings. Make a white sauce by combining melted butter, flour and salt, then adding milk gradually. Cook and stir over low heat until thickened. Place half a potato slices in bottom of a greased 1½-quart casserole. Add fish cubes and onion rings in layers. Top with remaining potato slices. Add white sauce; sprinkle with grated cheese. Place in a moderate oven (375 degrees) and bake for 45 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

THIRD MEMBER ON OLD PAINTING

The story comes from London that one of the Queen's paintings—a Titian entitled Titian and a Friend—will have to get a new name.

A third man has joined the Venetian painter and his companions on the canvas. Just who the third man is and when he disappeared from view is a mystery to art scholars.

But these facts emerged:

Charles I bought the painting in the 17th century. At that time it had two figures. One was a portrait of Titian himself. The other was his friend, Andrea Dei Franceschi. A vacant area on the right side of the canvas always puzzled art experts.

An x-ray was taken at the Courtauld Institute of Art in London.

Up popped a third man, younger than the other two, on the right hand side. Now he has been restored by art experts to his original place on the painting.

Scholars are theorizing that Titian did the head of Dei Franceschi. They think the two other heads are by two different artists. Their belief is that the entire work was an exercise in Titian's art school.

There still is no explanation why the third man was obliterated so many years ago.

HOME-WRECKER

A rampaging squirrel was blamed recently by Warwick, R.I., police for "several thousand dollars" worth of damage in the home of Mr and Mrs Edwin Caldwell Jr.

A neighbour reported that the house had been ransacked. Police found pictures knocked off walls, antique china and glassware smashed and drapes heaped on the floor.

The marauder was found in the bathroom. After a chase through the house he was dispatched with a blackjack.

SAUSAGE STUFFER

In Bedlington, England, Joe Steele ate seven feet 10 inches of raw sausage in five and a half minutes, shortly after downing a hearty breakfast.

Steele claims to be "world eating champion."

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Good Care For The Dry Cow Pays In Future Production

A modern dairy cow has the maternal or sacrificial nature so highly developed that she spends herself at all costs and practically puts herself into the milk pail. In the drying-off and the dry period she needs good feed with special attention to salt and mineral needs to restore herself, in preparation for future calving and future lactation.

Dr. Bohstedt

Too often, however, farmers feel that the dry cow is the non-productive member of the herd and they fail to provide feed and minerals in the quality and amount required by the animal. This is not good management.

Dr. E. B. Hart, of the University of Wisconsin, estimated that during a heavy lactation, cows lose as much as 25 per cent of the calcium and phosphorus of their skeleton. They even become subject to hip and leg fractures because of these mineral losses.

During the drying-off and the dry period the cows, for the first time since calving, are in a position to restore their necessary reserve nutrients. Not merely the visible reserves that show up as good condition of flesh, but also the invisible reserves, the minerals and vitamins that are stored in the skeletons, the liver, and other organs of the body. In addition to restoring her reserves during the dry period, the cow is meeting larger and larger nutrient demands of the growing fetus.

It is vital to make sure she receives the right kind and amount of minerals. Dr. E. B. Meigs of the United States Department of Agriculture has demonstrated that an adequate supply of phosphorus during the dry period is rewarded with a better flow of milk during the following lactation. The opposite is true too—phosphorus deficiency during the dry period resulted in lowered milk production.

At the Ohio Experiment Station, Dr. E. B. Forbes showed that cows accumulate the vital calcium and phosphorus in their bodies most effectively only during the dry period and in the latter period of lactation.

Good management calls for care during the dry period. To restore the nutrient reserves she has put into the milk, she must have decent roughage, whether hay or silage or both. If her body condition requires it, don't hesitate to feed a few pounds of suitable grain mixture. Protein level of the mixture would depend on the kind and quality of the roughage fed. When limited amounts of grain are fed a mineral supplement mixture of one part trace mineralized salt and one or two parts of dicalcium phosphate or steamed bonemeal should provide the necessary minerals.

This attention to the feed and mineral needs of the dry cow will pay off in better calves and in better production throughout lactation.

Finch Minister Addresses Rotary Club Monday Night

Chesterville Rotarians listened with interest to a talk delivered by the Rev John Wesley Bell on Monday night. Mr Bell is minister of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church in Finch. He was sponsored by H. G. Bigelow and thanked on behalf of the club by T. D. Ross. The speaker chose as a topic "Our Way of Life."

New Rotarian Richard Casselman was inducted into the membership of the club by past president F. M. Cass and was given a hearty welcome. Main business concerned the setting up of a committee to look after the handling of tickets for the forthcoming show to be put on in Community Hall by an Ottawa drama group. They are to present "Dear Ruth."

Mr Bell stressed the fact that the closeknit life of small towns is something to be prized as a good way of life. He hoped it would not just be taken for granted. The speaker broadened his topic by examining today's attitude towards work. He felt that the old idea of work in itself having a value is being lost in our modern day.

Some of the reasons were explored by the speaker. Probably the important cause for change has been the assembly line because it has sent the art of craftsmanship into a great decline. Mr Bell felt that present school systems without adequate technical facilities were also to blame for the lack of interest in work as work; the new philosophy seems to find more satisfaction in mass poduction and less in the finished product.

Mr Bell thought that too much atention is being paid to the pay envelope as the greatest incentive and workmanship suffers as a result. He was critical of the ability of the production worker to fill his idle hours with satisfying activities as he becomes more and more channeled into a pattern by the modern machine.

The speaker pointed out we certainly need the assembly lines to keep up to present day living; he also felt that because man is basically a creator, there should be more attention paid to his creative urges and not let them be stifled completely by the machine.

"Men and women who work for the love of work achieve a moral satisfaction unknown to those who only work for the pay envelope," the speaker said in conclusion. Mr Bell was most anxious we rethink and polish the work "work" and use it in the sense that man is a creator and not just a machine.

LOCAL BARBER ILL IN HOSPITAL

L. B. "Len" Giles, local popular barber, was rushed to hospital in Winchester Sunday and underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis. He had been under the weather for a few days prior to the attack but up to Saturday night had looked after the barbering end of the business.

The operation was a successful one and after the initial illness the Giles family hope to have Len home soon in good condition.

Officers Re-instated At Annual Meeting Red Cross Society Branch

It's hoped it was only the inclement weather which caused the very small attendance at the annual meeting of the Chesterville Branch of the Red Cross Society which was held in the library Monday evening.

Reports showed that the activities of the Society centred chiefly around welfare work; the distribution of cod liver oil capsules to pupils of all elementary schools in the area, and the maintaining of a loan cupboard of sickroom supplies for loan to persons in the area who find themselves in need of same.

The secretary was asked to send a letter of appreciation to Mr Basil Rowe for his co-operation in the handling and storing of hospital beds and wheel chairs for the Society.

It was announced that the quota of the Chesterville Branch for the 1958 campaign for funds was $800.

All officers were re-instated for another term, as follows:

Past president, Glenn White; president, Leonard Moran; vice-president, Eric Casselman; secretary, Mrs E. Casselman; treasurer, Helen Hughson; auditor, Boyd Latourell.

Emergency relief chairman, Mrs O. L. King; committee, Mrs Thos. Moran, Mrs G. Lannin, Mrs Geo. Merkley, Mrs Arthur Steinburg, Mrs John Sutherland, Mr Lloyd Merkley.

Convener of cod liver oil distribution, Mrs G. Lannin; campaign conveners, Mrs O. L. King, Mrs G. Lannin, Leonard Moran, Eric Casselman and Lloyd Merkley.

Reid–Barrington

Morewood United Church was the scene of a very pretty candlelight wedding on Friday evening, February 14, when Vivian Marguerite Barrington, daughter of Mr and Mrs T. S. Barrington, of Morewood, and Mr James Reid, of Ottawa, son of Mr and Mrs Wm. Reid, Strathmiglo, Scotland, were united in marriage by Rev Thos. McNaught, assisted by Rev D. L. Gordon.

The organist was Mrs Archie Coulthart. Soloists Mrs Keith Roe and Miss Joan Morphy Ottawa, sang the 23rd Psalm before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Best man was Mr D. M. Johnstone, Montreal, and ushers were Mr Harold Barrington and Mr George Young.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white velvet with tight bodice, full skirt with bustle back and slight train. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place with a seed pearl headdress and she carried a heart-shaped bouquet of red roses and white 'mums.

She was attended by Mrs Harold Lisk, as matron of honour, Mrs Joseph Ludlow and Mrs Harold Barrington as bridesmaids. The attendants all wore similar gowns of waltz-length red velvet with red and white headdresses and carried heart-shaped bouquets.

Little Misses Bonnie Barrington and Rhonda Lee Lisk were charming in short dresses with red velvet bodices and full red and white skirts, and carried heart-shaped bouquets.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall for 60 guests.

Later, Mr and Mrs Reid left on a short trip to the Seignory Country Club, Montebello. For travelling, the bride chose a red wool suit matching hat with black accessories and muskrat jacket.

Mr and Mrs Reid will reside in Ottawa.
