Arm Broken When Cranking Car

On Friday last Bruce Harper, son of Mr. I. N. Harper, had the misfortune to have his arm broken just above the wrist, when the engine of his father's car back-fired as he was attempting to crank it.

Two Day Bazaar at Finch

Under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of St. Luke's Church, Finch, a two days Bazaar will be held on Wed. and Thurs. Nov. 21st and 22nd. All kinds of Fancy Work, Aprons, Handkerchiefs etc. will be on sale. Wednesday 21st a Chicken Supper will be given, followed on Thursday evening by a concert in Massey Hall.

Shoots an American Eagle

On Monday last Robert Allison, son of Mr. John Allison of Maple Ridge, shot a very fine specimen of the American eagle. The bird was noticed to alight on a tree in the bush where it was soon surrounded by a flock of very noisy crows engaging its attention while Robert Allison, having secured his gun, crept up unnoticed within range and succeeded in bringing the eagle down. The spread of its wings from tip to tip measured seven feet. Apparently it had not been living very luxuriously as its body was very scant in flesh.

The Trek to the Hunting Country

During the past few days W. M. Saucier has issued hunting licenses to the following:—

Chesterville—Howard Baker, Arthur Tyo, Frene Hummell, Frank Merkley, K. Hummell, Irwin Ball, Geo. Barkley, David Beckstead, John McMillan, Harvey S. Dillabough.

Finch—A. Lane, Allen Cameron, Luke Hunter, George McNaughton.

Crysler—Isaiah Ouderkirk, Arthur Ouderkirk.

Williamsburg—N. Marcellus, Saxon Casselman.

Dunbar Man Injured

Walter Merkley of Dunbar, had a narrow escape for his life Saturday last at the home of his father Peter Merkley, where threshing operations were in progress. In an attempt to put the driving belt on the engine pulley while the machine was running, resulted in his clothing becoming entangled with the belt, twisting his arm and throwing him in such a manner that his left arm was broken in three places, besides many briuses and strains, before the engine could be stopped. Ed. Merkley, Walter's brother grabbed the wheel of the engine and stalled it, in which act he was thrown heavily to the ground, passing over the wheel.

James Jones, Mountain

Mr. James Jones of Mountain Township, passed away on Tuesday Oct. 30th, aged 77 years, after a short illness from cancer of the liver. His funeral service, held at his late home on Thursday, Nov. 1st, was very largely attended. The sermon was preached by Rev. A. J. Shea of Ottawa, while others assisting were Revs. Claxton, Hamilton, and Waddell of Winchester. Mr. Jones is survived by his son Gordon on the home farm; a daughter Mrs. James Anderson of Winchester, and another daughter Mrs. Edgar Locke of Canton, N. Y.

Mrs. Nathaniel Howes, Winchester

There passed quietly away in Winchester on Sunday, Nov. 4th, one of the oldest residents in the person of Mrs. Harriet Howes relict of the late Nathaniel Howes.

Mrs. Howes had been ailing since early spring with bronchial and lung trouble and bore the illness with a true christian spirit. She loved God's house and when able always was found in her place at all the church services, and gave of her means as God had prospered her.

Her funeral service was conducted in the Methodist Church, Winchester, on Tuesday Nov. 6th, at 1.30 p. m. by her pastor Rev. J. A. Waddell.

Euchre Social and refreshments, in aid of St. Mary's Church, K. of C. Club rooms Friday evening. Euchre begins at 8.30 sharp. Admission 25c.

Temperance Mass Meeting

In spite of the drizzling rain which set in at nightfall the mass meeting Monday evening was a decided success. The chair was occupied by Reeve Hamilton.

Besides the community singing, which was a pleasing feature of the evening, the musical program consisted of a chorus by the Junior Choir of Trinity Methodist Sunday School, a duet by Dr. and Mrs. Seymour which was heartily encored, a solo 'Let us Have Peace" sung by Mrs. W. N. Fulton in her usual pleasing manner, a quartette "The Fight is On" splendidly rendered by the Presbyterian choir and several selections by the Ladies' Quartette of Finch. The prohibition message as sung by these ladies was very impressive. Their first number "The Candle on The Sill" won from the audience the heartiest appreciation which was sustained and increased with each selection. The rich quality of each voice and the perfect blending of the high soprano, mezzo-soprano, alto and contralto, delighted the ears of the most critical and left an impression which will insure a crowded house should these ladies again visit Chesterville.

Rev. Father Minehan of Toronto, the speaker of the evening, was listened to with wrapt attention. A quiet speaker, without any attempt at oratory, he yet by his kindliness and sincerity carried conviction to the hearts of his hearers and there were tense moments when they waited breathlessly on his word. He first commended the community spirit shown by the hearty singing of community songs. The cultivation of this spirit would do much to prevent the drift from the country to the cities. The glitter and lights of the cities are misleading, for under their glow and glitter are sordid things which one does not like to think of, much less describe.

The community spirit is prevalant in Toronto also, especially in the section Father Minehan described where he had just been assisting in a mission carried on in a new church, the basement of which is placed at the disposal of the Business Men's Association and the grounds surrounding the church are for the use of the community in general. It requires the united efforts of all forces for good in order to solve the great problems that are confronting us. One of these problems is the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Coming from a home in Ireland where the rule of hospitality called for the general use of the social glass, the rule of his home had always been for temperance and it was not until his college days that Father Minehan became a prohibitionist. This was the result of advice offered by a man who, after fifty years in the priesthood, said that while he had always taken a glass and it had never done him any harm, it had certainly never done him any good and if he were beginning life over again upon the mere standpoint of waste alone he would never drink a glass of wine. Though Father Minehan became a prohibitionist from that time he did not then realize the magnitude of waste involved in the drinking habit. The waste of the cost of the liquor is a very small fraction of the real waste caused by this habit. Another waste is caused by the disease which results from drinking. In schools he had seen little ones who were mental defectives because the parents were addicted to drink. He had seen character weakened and men deprived of reason through intemperance. Father Minehan is not a prohibitionist by nature. If there is anything an Irishman hates it is prohibitions. He likes his own way. There is no class more attached to individuality than the Celtic race. But we have tried to wipe out this evil in every other way and he had arrived at the conviction that the only way to overcome this evil is to strangle it altogether. A man will tell you he can 'take it or leave it alone" but he generally takes it and it does not leave him alone. The moment you take it within your lips the danger is upon you. It is the duty of civil government to legislate to protect the public. People are prohibited from exceeding a certain rate of speed in motor cars on public highways and there is some excuse for a motorist going at the rate of thirty miles an hour as he may thus save time to devote to his work, but there is absolutely no excuse for the intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. They do not add in any way to one's working capacity but subtract from it.

Speaking of personal liberty he said that "Booze" and his red-nose brigade advocating liberty, was a most ridiculous sight. He stands for prohibition because he loves liberty and hates slavery.

In closing, Father Minehan made a strong appeal to give up selfish indulgence. Why hesitate to renounce something that is really no good and so save many homes from sorrow and disgrace. The time is come when all should work together in this cause.

In a short address Rev. Mr. Sinclair said his strongest reason for being a prohibitionist is because the liquor traffic has been from early childhood his bitterest enemy. He has nothing to say against the poor unfortunate who is addicted to the use of liquor. He never found a man yet who had been helped by the liquor traffic but he had found many who had been wrecked by it. Men of promise who had had splendid opportunities, boys who would have made a mark in Canadian history, have been ruined by this evil. He is an out and out prohibitionist because we have tried everything that human power is capable of without success, and the only thing is to prohibit it altogether. Bootleggers could drop out of existence and instead of feeling the loss of worthy citizens the world would be benefited by their exit. Mr. Sinclair closed his remarks with a humorous story showing that one man's liberty ends where another's rights begin.

Rev. W. T. Brown briefly re-affirmed his position on the temperance question and expressed his appreciation of the address of Rev. Father Minehan.

W. H. Casselman after speaking some minutes in his usual humorous style said he understood that to take a firm stand as a prohibitionist is not considered good politics but it is good citizenship.

In a few well chosen words of appreciation Rev. W. T. Brown moved a vote of thanks to Rev. Father Minehan and to all who had assisted in any way in the program including the name of the reeve who had given the use of the hall free. This was seconded by Rev. A. J. Sinclair and heartily responded to by all.

After the singing of the National Anthem the first temperance meeting which Chesterville has had in many years was brought to a close.

New Point in O T A

An interesting point under the O. T. A. was decided by Police Magistrate Cline, Cornwall.

A West End citizen had been charged with making and selling home brew with more than 2 1-2 per cent. alcohol content. John A. Chisholm, who appeared for the defendant, called a brewmaster from Quebec, who testified that the liquid did not contain 2 1-2 per cent. proof spirit at the time of seizure, and that the O. T. A. only applied to liquor which contained more than that percentage. A Government analysis showed that the liquor contained some 9 or 10 per cent. about three weeks after the seizure.

The Magistrate upheld the contention of defence and ruled that as the liquor had less than 2 1-2 per cent proof spirit at the time of seizure, there was no offence under the O. T. A., even though the liquor might subsequently develop a higher alcoholic power. The Attorney General's Department has written that the Police Magistrate's interpretation is correct. This is the first time this point has come before any court for decision.

The Magistrate, however, found the defendant guilty of selling home brew of a higher percentage than 2 1-2 per cent. within the last three months, and imposed the minimum fine.

Vegetables In Leaves

The packing of vegetables in sand (if one has it) for keeping them during the Winter months is the oldest method I know of.

In a city, small town, or clay country it is difficult to find a substitute. If one buys by the measure and has not a garden, the following will not be of much help, unless it's an incentive to have one.

For a number of years I have gathered dry maple leaves in the late Fall, and when time to bring in my vegetables for Winter, such as beets, carrots, parsnips, salsify, etc., I put a layer of leaves in the bottom of box and barrel, then a layer of vegetables, until full. The result is a perfectly fresh vegetable until the end of April and first of May. Even turnips do well, but are bulky if many are needed. Celery, I stand up, with the roots left on, in old pails or boxes, and pack lightly with leaves and keep in a cool place. Any kind oi dry leaves will do, but as I am surrouuded by the Canadian emblem, I use them.

If one knows a good thing, pass it on is the motto often printed, but, alas. not always used.

William I. Merkley

At 9 30 p. m. October 21st there passed out of this iife at Williamsburg, a most highly respected citizen, in the person of William I Merkley, aged sixty-five years and ten months, the son of the late Simon A. Merkley, The deceased was born near Williamsburg, and lived and died on the old home farm which has always been in the "Merkley" name, since deeded over by the Crown.

Four years ago, at the Cornwall General Hospital, he underwent a serious operatiou, from which he never recovered, and although he made a valiant struggle to regain health and strength, yet, at last, he was forced to give up the fight, and was laid at rest in the Williamsburg cemetery. The services were held in the Lutheran Church, of which the deceased was a worthy member, being choir leader, and a member of the Church Council for many years. In the absence of Rev. Theo. Isler, the very appropriate sermon, "We all do fade as a leaf," was conducted by Rev. E. Maeder of Dunbar.

Forty-five years ago he was united in marriage with Ella Caroline Saddlemire, of Syracuse, N.Y. He was a kind husband and father, and was respected by all who knew him. He took an active part in municipal affairs, being for several years a member of Williamsburg Township Council, but was never more contented than when at home with his family.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a devoted widow, one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Bailey of Port Elmsley, two sons, Frank at home, and Lennie of Ottawa; also three grandchildren.

A Composition of 100 Words

A boy in a school was told to write a story of 100 words on an automobile trip. He wrote:—

"Father bought a new car and we all went for a ride. He and maw sat in front and Joe and Mary and I in the back. It went fine until we came to a curve in the road, but instead went into the ditch, and over the ditch into a fence, and father did not know the curve, and through the fence into a field, and across the field, to where a big tree was standing. He did not go around the tree, but right into the tree, and the car was all busted up. "P. S.—That makes 97 words, and what father said will round out the 100 you asked for."

Daddy's Fault

The small boy had climbed on to the table and his father told him to get down as he was sure he would fall.

The child took no notice and shortly afterward fell down. As he was crying he said between his sobs:

"Daddy, why didn't you catch me? You knew I was going to fall—you said so."—Detroit Free Press.

White Leghorn Lays 299 Eggs in 365 Days

A record of 299 eggs in the 365 days of the Canadian Egg Laying Contest year and 300 eggs one year from the time her first egg was laid, has just been made by a White Leghorn hen, the property of the Hollywood Poultry Farm, Washington, U. S. A. Second place was won by an Ontario Barred Rock bred and owned by Rev. H. A. E. Clarke, of Maberly, Ont., with a record of 289 eggs. This bird's score was the same as another Hollywood bird which stands in third place, but the Barred Rock won out on size of egg.

Nature Desecrated

A Scot and a minister were in a train together travelling through a lovely part of Scotland. Beautiful scenery—mountains, dales, rivers, and all the glories of Nature. When passing a grand mountain they saw a huge advertisement for so-and-so's whiskey. The Scot gave a snort of disgust. The minister leaned forward and said: "I'm glad to see, sir, that you agree with me that they should not be allowed to desecrate the beauties of Nature by advertisements."

"It's no' that, sit," said the Scot bitterly, "it's rotten whusky."

McCormick and Deering
CORN BINDERS

Cutting corn by hand is very hard work, as all men know who have tried it. In fact it is out of the question to fill a silo with hand cut corn. Yet corn stalks either green for the silo or stacked dry for fodder are the best food for cattle and horses.

The use of the McCormick or Deering Corn Binder will solve this problem You can cut and bind seven acres a day and do it much easier than by the hand method.

HUSKY PUPS BORN AT CHATEAU FRONTENAC

1 and 5—"Over the top." 2—"Makwathie. 3—This pup ponders over his fate. 4—"Negik" was born in April and is considered the most promising of the litter. It will be seen that wolf blood runs strong in his veins.

THE Hudson Bay dog team which has been such a popular feature in connection with the winter sports activities inaugurated by the Chateau Frontenac at Quebec three years ago, shows promise of future teams of exceptional merit. Two very fine litters have been produced. On the morning of April 15th, the Indian who is taking care of them was delighted to find that Wobska, a beautiful white female husky, had presented as her contribution to Quebec winter sports, three pups which very much resemble wolf whelps. One very fine pup developed rapidly and was named Negik. Wobska was jealous of the attention showed the family of her team mate and, not to be outdone, presented the Indian with a litter of eight. Great hopes are entertained for the future of this litter as wolf blood runs strongly in the veins of Makwathie, the sire, a splendid beast of some 100 lbs. with shaggy grey coat, long vulpine muzzle, pointed ears and pale amber eyes glinting through narrow slits. Makwathie was born in the wilderness north of Lake Superior.

The Indian is already making plans for the training of this last litter and expects to have them partly broken in before the first snow. This is usually done by taking a trained leader and placing her in harness with the pups. At first, traces are attached to a light birch log and the initial try out usually results in a wild scramble, the pups going in various directions with the leader turning around with a puzzled look as much as to say "what's it all about." The tangle is straightened out to the accompaniment of a chorus of yelps but gradually the young ones come to understand what is expected of them, and as the team becomes more proficient the weight of the log is increased. By the time a sleigh can be used they are able to draw heavy loads. In the North Country they can draw with ease on a broken trail a hundred pounds per dog.

Awful Outrage is Perpetrated In Old Cemetery

Three children of a Dominionville resident, two boys, 14 and 10 years old, respectively, and a girl 12, stopped to visit the old Protestant cemetery at Maxville on their way home from church early Sunday morning, and in two and a half hours spent in the cemetery are said to have overturned about 60 or 70 tombstones. Many very old stones and a number of fine new shafts were smashed to pieces, and it is estimated that the damage will be about $2,500.

Children of A. J. McKeown, whose farm adjoins the cemetery, reported to their father that morning that there were marauders throwing down the tombstones, Mr. McKeown, with Constable Roberts, went to the cemetery, and found a scene of desolation and destruction. Old stones that had stood in family plots for many years were smashed; fine new marble and granite monuments were overturned and split and broken. They caught the three children who are said to have wrought the destruction, and took them at once to the jail in Maxville.

News of the havoc wrought in the quiet old cemetery, where the dead of the oldest families of the community sleep, spread about the town and district like wild-fire, and Sunday afternoon there were over 500 people at the cemetery, some coming in cars from miles away.

There was the greatest indignation on all sides, and many wept when they saw what had happened to the monuments they had raised to the memory of loved ones.

The children have not offered any explanation of the outrage.

Indian Summer

"Indian Summer" is not a definitely fixed season in the Calendar, officials of the Weather Bureau declare but varies in date and duration and is not, strictly speaking, a season at all, but merely a type of mild, calm, hazy weather likely to prevail at any time during autumnor early winter. The popular belief that "Indian Summer" is a period occurring more or less regularly every autumn is not based on accurate meteorological observations.

The term is applied in this country to a period of mild fall weather following a spell of unreasonably cold weather known as "Squaw Winter." Thoreau in notes on weather conditions at Concord, Mass., from 1851 to 1860, records the occurrence of "Indian Summer" weather on dates ranging from September 27 to December 13. In different parts of Europe this mild weather is known as "St. Martin's Summer," "St. Luke's Summer," or "St. Michael's Summer."

Married At 120

A short time ago a tombstone was found in the graveyard of a Welsh Congregational Chapel which bore the inscription: "Anne David, who died November 14th, 1831, aged 181 years." According to the stone, she was 110 years old when she married, her husband being a stripling of 21! There are quite a number of cases on record of extraordinarily long life, ranging from Margaret Patten, who reached 137 years, to Peter Torton with 185. Between these come Lady Desmond, 145; Thomas Damme, 154; and John Rovin, 172. The accuracy of some of these figures is doubted, but there can be no doubt whatever about the case of Thomas Parr, who was born at Winnington, in Shropshire, in 1483. He died in London in 1635. Parr, who was a farm labourer, married for the second time at the age of 120. He continued to work for another 12 years, when his sight began to fail. When he was 151 he was brought to London to the King's Court, where he was treated with generosity and affection. It was, in fact, the good living there that killed him the following year. When a post-mortem examination was made the doctor found not the slightest trace of senile decay.

A Little "Prevention" Testimony

Samuel W. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, breaks into the daily news with a little personal testimony to the effect that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

He says that five years ago he went to a doctor and made a bargain with him to keep him well at a flat rate a year. The agreement was that if Vauclain got sick, a certain sum for every day of sickness was to be deducted from the doctor's annual fee.

The doctor was to have a free hand to control his patient's diet, living habits and exercise.

The arrangement worked and has worked for five years. Vauclain has enjoyed better health in that period than ever before and has not lost a day from business.

This contract prevention principle should be applied by every school of healing. It does not matter whether you believe in chiropractors, osteopaths, physicians, faith-healers, or physical culturists so long as you make your health specialist prevent before curing becomes necessary.

It is easier and better to keep well than to get well.

Now in Quarantine List

The announcement that the provincial board of health have added whooping cough and chicken pox to the list of diseases now in the quarantine class of diseases will be received with gratification by a majority of the right-thinking people of the province, says the Guelph Herald. Especially in the case of whooping cough has there been a demand for considerable time that action along this line be taken. There are few parents, who when their own children have contracted this exceedingly troublesome, if not altogether dangerous disease, take the proper precautions to see that the children of others are protected. It is a sad, but nevertheless a true reflection on human nature that so many people have to be forced to do things in connection with the fundamental rules of public health, but it is all the more to the credit of the provincial authorities that they are strong enough to defy criticism and insist on proper precautions being taken.

Ontario Oats Yield Heavily

A threshing of oats which is rarely equalled in Ontario was done on the farm of Albert Cook, two miles west of Lucknow, on Sept. 1st., says the Sentinel. The oats from just 10 acres of land were run through the machine in two hours and fifteen minutes and the grain amounted to 808 bushels by weight, making nearly 81 bushels to the acre. As they came from the machine the oats tested 46 pounds to the measured bushel. The threshing was done with an Ontario Special separator, in charge of Wm. Stanley and Robt. Dacker. The oats are of a mixture of Lincoln and 20th Century.

Protection of migratory birds has been added to the duties of the Canadian Pacific Railway's constabulary.

Airplanes attached to the Ontario Forestry Department are now equipped with radio sending apparatus so that they can keep in constant touch with the chief and other rangers.

There was an increase of sixty-three per cent in the number of immigrants to Canada during the last three months as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

Canadian Pacific agents in Britain recruited nearly five thousand men for work in the harvest fields of Western Canada and, through lack of steamship accommodation closed their doors on as many more who, attracted by the special harvest rate, sought to enter Canada.

The branch lines program of the Canadian Pacific Railway carried out this year will bring into operation on the prairies a larger mileage than any one year since 1914. Of the 431 miles of line under construction, 281 miles will be ready for handling grain in the Fall, and of the balance, 115 miles will be ready for steel by the winter freeze-up.

A building has been acquired by the University of Toronto to be entirely devoted to the manufacture of insulin. This will be the only factory in Canada to manufacture the curative fluid in commercial quantities and, although it is manufactured in the United States, Great Britain and Denmark, the Canadian product will be sold throughout the world.

Dawson City recently celebrated the twenty-seventh anniversary of the discovery of the Klondyke. In an exhibition of Yukon products cabbages 16 inches in diameter and weighing thirty pounds, potatoes as big as a man's head, pumpkins as big as watermelons, wheat, oats and barley bore witness to the fertility of the Yukon soil. Side by side with these ranged gold nuggets, gold dust and silver bars.

Dr. James Inches, Commissioner of Police, Detroit, and a guest at the Canadian Pacific Bungalow Camp at Nipigon, holds the record for the biggest speckled trout caught in the Nipigon River this season, having captured a fish weighing 7½ pounds. This catch was above the average, but a large number of six pounders have been taken from the Nipigon this season. Several years ago, and from practically the same place, Dr. J. W. Cook, of Fort William, caught the world's record speckled trout, which weighed fourteen and one-half pounds, and was more than two and a half feet long.

A record was established recently when one of the latest type of Canadian Pacific locomotives drew a train of 42 cars of newsprint, weighing more than 1,100 tons, from the plant of the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company, North Bay, to Toronto, without mishap. Ordinarily, it would have taken two passenger engines to haul such a load for the 320 miles. After proving its worth by this feat the huge engine, together with an all steel train consisting of the latest model tourist, dining and sleeping cars, and a baggage and compartment car, formed part of the Canadian Pacific exhibit at the National Exhibition at Toronto.

A Walker's Appetite

The success of George Cummings in his walk from London to York reminds one of Captain Barclay's "most extraordinary walk of 1,000 miles in 1,000 successive hours" in the year 1809, quoted by Wm. Kitchener, M. D., in his work "The art of invigorating and prolonging life by food, clothes, air, exercise, wine, sleep, etc.," published in 1824. Of Barclay's method of walking and the food he ate during the performance, he says—"He breakfasted after returning from his walk at five in the morning. He ate a roasted fowl and drank a pint of strong ale and then took two cups of tea with bread and butter. He lunched at twelve—the one day on beefsteaks and the other on mutton chops, of which he ate a considerable quantity. He dined at six, either on roast beef or mutton chops. His drink was porter and two or three glasses of wine. He supped at eleven on cold fowl. He ate such vegetables as were in season, and the quantity of animal food he took daily was from five to six pounds."

BONDS

Are Mortgages on Fixed Assets

When a township issues debentures (or bonds) it gives a mortgage on the whole township for security to the buyers of the bonds for the loan of their money for a definite number of years at a satisfactory rate of interest.

If the amount required is large it is divided into small mortgages, (that is, bonds or debentures) of $500 or $1,000 each, with the same security behind each, so that investors with small sums may take advantage it.

Bonds or debentures are rated the safest kind of an investment.

Last Call for Entries to The Big Contest

Just a few days and the entries will be closed. Your opportunity shall be gone. This is not a game of chance, its a contest of merit, and many will win the big prizes offe ed. Attracted by the lure of the two big winter Carnivals advertised, four of Ottawa's leading lady athletes, two of them being champion long distance skaters, journeyed all the way to Chesterville on Thursday last seeking to get a glimpse of the secretary, that they might complete arrangements to meet Gladys Robinson, World's Champion Lady Skater, at both Carnivals, for Championship honors. This is the kind of dope we intend setting up before the spectators in January. Come along lads and lassies, sign up, be sports, boost these events, because they are clean and healthy, and of special interest to everyone, assist the management by joining the contest, and help raise the thousands of dollars needed to finance the big undertaking. Every candidate will make money, because we are going to allow a liberal commission on every ticket sold by all those not standing for a prize, and we want an army of them to push the deal through. The tickets are only fifty cents each, good for eight days entertainment. Did you ever hear the like of it. Never before. They will sell like hot-cakes. We want to sell a fifty cent ticket to every adult person between Dalhousie Mills and Brockville. Last call, send in your entry right away.
