Two Injured Ottawa Driver Charged After Collision

An Ottawa driver was charged at Morrisburg following an accident between his pick-up truck and a car. Two persons in the car were injured and extensive damage caused to the car.

Allan Serrill, Ottawa, has been charged with attempting to pass a vehicle while the highway ahead was not clear. Police said the collision happened when the Serrill truck tried to pass a tractor.

The impact of the collision threw the car of Hubert McLean, of Cornwall, out of control. The northbound vehicle went into the ditch, returned to the highway, turned over several times and landed on its wheels facing south.

Mrs. McLean and a seven-weeks-old daughter were treated at Winchester Memorial Hospital for injuries. Mr. McLean and two-year-old Richard were unhurt.

Provincial Constable Eric Zolman turned over the investigation to Morrisburg Police Chief Astin Carkner, who laid the charge against Serrill.

Mr. McLean is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet McLean, of town, and Mrs. McLean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hamilton, of Winchester, formerly of Chesterville.

Bailey Bridge Erected Over Castor River

A Bailey bridge was erected over the East Castor River on the Ormond Road last Sunday, following an appeal by Winchester Township council, headed by Reeve E. B. McMillan, to Canadian Army engineers.

The bridge is the only means of transport across the river for residents in the area, following the recent condemning of the old bridge as unsafe for use.

Farmers in the district made representation to the council for the erection of a temporary bridge, pending the construction of the new permanent bridge to be built next year.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Wilfred Slevert, wore a rose silk dress with a coat of white corded faille, white accessories, and a corsage of yellow 'mums. She was attended by Mrs. C. A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Boisvert, Goodfish Road, and a buffet supper served to the guests. Mr. Thomas Boland and Dr. A. W. Souter provided music for the reception.

The newlywed couple later left for a trip to various Southern Ontario points and for travelling the bride wore a Black Watch plaid ensemble with black accessories.

Mr. Droppo was changing a tire at the roadside on Highway 7 four miles east of Brampton when, it is reported, a truck struck him. Other motorists who gave aid to the critically injured man say the driver of the truck, believed to have caused the accident, came back to the scene but left without a word.

Where the Mill Goes, So Goes Iroquois States Reeve L. C. Davis in Rotary Address

Reeve Lloyd C. Davis, of Iroquois and warden of the United Counties, was the featured speaker at the regular meeting of Chesterville Rotary Club last Monday night. He was introduced by Dr. S. H. Hutt.

Mr. Davis discussed the problems of Iroquois in the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project. He pointed out in the course of his address that the problem of relocating Iroquois will hinge on the decision of Caldwell Linen Mills as to where they will relocate. The mill would appear to have chosen a site north of the present village, which will probably mean the town will relocate in the area suggested by Ontario Hydro, not the one outlined in the Wells-Coates plan.

Mr. Davis stated the present plans have a great future in store for the town, in spite of the disappointments. "Few towns have the opportunity to build a second time," he said. "Iroquois is endeavouring to build for the future and benefit from the past." It was the speaker's hope that everything would turn out for the best and that the new site and town would satisfy as many people as it was possible to satisfy.

THINGS ARE LOOKING TOUGH—There's no peace for an honest crook now that John Aylesworth and Frank Peppiatt have opened up a detective business of their own. The sparkling comedians have a weakness for satire on anything from sleuthing to soap operas—and they're back on CBC television this year in a new gala variety show, "On Stage." With them are singing emcee George Murray, vocalists Terry Dale, Phyllis Marshall, Wally Koster, the Bill Brady Sextet, Jack Kane's Orchestra, and a host of dancers. "On Stage" will be seen on all television stations in Canada.

Sheldon Ball Elected President Monday Chesterville Milk Producers Annual Meet

Last Monday night, Chesterville Concentrated Milk Producers Association held their annual meeting in Chesterville Community Hall. Sheldon Ball, Chesterville, was elected president with Lorenzo Leduc vice-president. Allison Graham was re-elected secretary treasurer. The directors are: Douglas Durant, Clark Smith, Hulbert Cross and Edward Wheeler.

Sheldon Ball, acting as chairman for the evening, welcomed about 100 members of the association to the meeting. He expressed regret over the illness of the president, R. C. Dillabough.

J. C. Jenkins, provincial president of the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association, discussed the promised assistance to powdered milk shippers of present prices get any lower. It was his feeling that Canadian climate makes it difficult to compete with world prices in certain milk products.

Advertising is helping to sell the products of the milk industry was the contention of the second vice-president, Wm. Tilden. He explained the working of the new Milk Control Act and mentioned the possibility a fund will be raised by dairy farmers to buy the small surplus that results in lower prices to the producer.

The Association fieldman, Jack Higgins, suggested that zone meetings be held around Chesterville to contact the distant producers. He stated he was continually checking the composite milk samples and that the sediment tests here in Chesterville were very bad this summer. Cliff Butterill, Dairy Branch Inspector of the Ontario Department of Agriculture agreed with the statement of Mr. Higgins and said the tests for sediment were the worst in this end of the province for this type of plant. He expressed a willingness to help anyone requesting aid.

Allison Graham, past president of the provincial organization, outlined the possible position of Chesterville shippers if a stabilization fund was raised. He pointed out that as it now stands, export powder is likely to be aided but not export canned milk.

At the conclusion of the meeting a draw for prizes was held. The winners:

St. Luke's Presbyterian Church Observes Anniversary Church Has Long and Colourful Past

St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch, celebrated its 114th anniversary on Sunday last, with a large attendance at both services of worship. The anniversary preacher, Rev. Dr. W. Stanford Reid, Ph.D., Montreal, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening.

In his morning sermon, Dr. Reid chose as his sermon "Our Liberty in Christ," and as his evening sermon, "Revolutionary Christianity." He informed the congregation that he was no stranger in their midst, as he attended worship at St. Luke's on previous occasions when his father, Rev. Dr. W. D. Reid, addressed the St. Luke's congregation. The distinguished Presbyterian Church guest from Montreal was introduced and welcomed by the pastor, Rev. John Honeyman.

St. Luke's History

The original St. Luke's Presbyterian Church was "The Old Kirk" on lot 19 of the 2nd concession in Finch Township. The first minister was Rev. Donald Munroe, of Scotland, who came first to Summerstown and then to Finch on December 14th, 1840. He preached in Gaelic, his native tongue. To this church members walked from as far away as 15 miles, dressed in their "Sunday best" and carrying their shoes in their hands until their arrival in the vicinity of the church.

In the course of years, as many settlers established themselves at Gray's Corners, later known as Finch, it was decided to build a new church within the village and on January 10th, 1892, the new St. Luke's Church was dedicated by Rev. Principal MacVicar, principal of Presbyterian College, Montreal. The new church was of frame structure and stood on the site of the present church. This church was destroyed on May 17, 1907, by a fire which wiped out half the village in two days.

The erection of the present-day church was begun at once and the large stone structure was completed and dedicated at a re-opening service conducted by Rev. Dr. W. D. Reid in September, 1908.

Pastors

Through the years, St Luke's Presbyterian Church has prospered under the ministry of the following pastors. Rev. Donald Munroe (first pastor), Reverends Watson, Dr. Lamont, MacArthur, Bennett, Patterson, 1840-1880; Rev. John Morrison, 1880-1886; Rev. Donald Stewart, 1886-1890; Rev. J. W. McLeod, 1890-1897; Rev. J. L. Miller, 1897-1901; Rev. D. D.. McVicar, 1901-1907; Rev. W. D. Bell, 1907-1918; Rev. John M. McCurley, 1918-1920; Rev. R. J. Wilson, 1920-1925; Rev. G. Graham, 1925-1927; Rev. A. D. McIntyre, 1927-1931; Rev. Dr. O. J. Roberts, 1931-32; Rev. W. E. Davies, 1932-1939; Rev. Robertson Millar, 1940-1947; Rev. E. G. Moore, 1948-1951.

The present minister, Rev. John Honeyman, B.A., M.Th., came to Canada from Scotland in 1929. He graduated from the University of Western Ontario, London, in 1937 and from Knox College, Toronto, in 1940. He served the required year as a missionary at Appin, Ont., and since then was a minister at Strathroy for five years and at Auburn from which charge he went to Finch as successor to Rev. Earl G. Moore, B.A., who is now in the Canadian Chaplaincy Service.

Music for the anniversary service was provided by the St. Luke's choir under the direction of Hugh Middleton. Anthems were: "Lead Me, Lord" and "The Lord's My Shepherd."

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

Death on the Highway

The tragic death of a former Chesterville man at the first part of the week brings to mind forcibly the need for added care in driving in this dull Fall weather. Mr. Droppo appears to have been the innocent victim of a hit-and-run type of accident and the sympathy of the community goes out to his many relatives and friends here.

The early evenings, frequent rains and greasy roads, common each Fall, creep up on the driving public and it is all too easy to use the same driving habits one cultivated all summer under different conditions. There is a greater incidence of road accidents in October and early November than any other time, with winter months becoming safer as the weather finally makes driving a chore. This is the time when summer habits must be changed and drivers must exercise greater caution if they are to keep free of accidents.

Many of our county and township roads are not marked with white lines or any other means of defining the pavement. In the evening and at night, especially in a rain, the blacktop road and the shoulder is blended into a narrow strip. Care is needed when passing, meeting or otherwise contending with road hazards when the weather has conspired with man's ingenuity to make things difficult.

Until the snow comes, drive more carefully. It may mean arriving a few minutes late, but it will be a lot safer.

Mr. St. Laurent on the Seaway

(The Ottawa Citizen)

What Prime Minister St. Laurent said at Montreal a few nights ago on the subject of the seaway is mainly a recapitulation and not a fresh statement of policy. The policy was designed in August and announced at the time. There were also official explanations of it, but these have never quite succeeded in catching up with the widely believed story that Canada had meekly surrendered to American importunity by allowing the United States to build locks in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence. There, the critics cried, went Canada's dream of a seaway all its own.

Mr. St. Laurent has now undertaken to explain the policy himself, and in much detail. Perhaps he should have done this earlier, for he admits the government has been receiving "quite a large volume of correspondence from every corner of the country," nearly all of it deploring the course taken.

The facts are that over a period of more than 20 years the Canadian and U.S. governments worked for a navigation partnership with electric power as an integral part of the project. Congress blocked these joint efforts. At length Canada made up its mind to construct all the navigation works alone, if Congress remained obdurate and if nevertheless the American administration would help clear the way toward the building of the power dams by Ontario and some American agency (which turned out to be the New York State Power Authority). This co-operation was absolutely essential, and even today the New York power license could be revoked. The Eisenhower administration, like that of Mr. Truman, acted in a helpful manner throughout, and no doubt was as much annoyed by the behaviour of Congress as were the Canadian people.

The administration, it is true, finally endorsed the Wiley Bill whereby Congress decided to take a hand on the St. Lawrence after all. There is no partenrship provided in this legislation, for each country is free to go ahead with whatever works it chooses, within its own territorial waters, and the U.S. agency is committed to spend $105 million. The only active partnership remaining is that between the Ontario and New York power bodies.

Canada could still build a parallel set of locks on its own side of the river, and Mr. St. Laurent suggests the day may not be far off when it will be economically feasible to do so. When that time comes, it will also be necessary to build additional canals and locks at Lachine and Welland, at a cost of $140 million. As it is, Canada intends to build a canal of its own at Iroquois, and has so informed the U.S.

A further point is that the seaway, between Montreal and Lake Erie, will be so predominantly Canadian in charcter (in a cost proportion of nearly five to one) that the tolls charged to users will be mainly established by this country. There is no reason to fear that in the whole complex matter of the deep waterway and its attendant power scheme, this country's basic interests are being placed in jeopardy.

ANTI-FREEZE LOSS HAS MANY CAUSES

It is a popular misconception among drivers that evaporation is the only cause of loss of anti-free ezsolution. The fact of the matter is that overflow loss through foaming of as much as a half-gallon of solution per thousand miles of driving can be caused by an anti-freeze that traps and holds air in solution.

Foaming loss occurs during high speed driving when air mixes with the solution at high circulating speeds. The trapped air takes up space and increases the volume of the mixture until some of it goes out the overflow pipe.

Light Along The Way

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

These words disclose the interest and character of the Messiah as do few passages in the Gospel. They clearly state that God's nature as revealed in Jesus Christ, is that of One who is completely concerned about the most common needs of men—hunger, sickness, poverty, loneliness and trouble. He is so completely concerned about them that He is anxious to help bear these burdens for even the least of men, who are yet His children. A parent and child are so closely bound together that the misfortune of one becomes the equal misfortune of the other. But the bond which binds God to men is even closer than his human tie, for God feels our joy or woe more poingantly than we do ourselves .

It is little wonder, then, that Jesus should show nothing but condemnation and anger to those who do not share concern for their fellow men. As we cannot understand those who are cruel, in word or deed, to any who are dear to us, no more can God. If we expect men to respect our loved ones and to show them kindness, then we must remember that God expects us to remember His loved ones along the way.

Far and near there comes the cry of God's needy children. From Asia comes the cry of the hungry, for the population is increasing beyond the capacity of the land to produce food or the economy to secure it. Here people desperately need a crust of bread and a cup of water. From Africa comes the cry of the sick, for this is the land of dread and widespread disease; and the cry of men in trouble, of black men who would share the light and are struggling to find whence it comes. From our own land comes the cry of the homeless, of those without sight, of little children, old men and maidens who cannot help themselves and need the ministrations of the Great Shepherd for the alleviation of their distress.

It is only through those who heed the cry of their fellow men that God can come to the needy. He has no hands but our hands to do His work, and no feet but our feet to travel among the sick and suffering. What greater thing can man do than be numbered among the faithful who seek the company of the Christ? To hear him say in the twilight of the day when all is done: "Come, ye blessed of my Father . . ."

Question Box

A Public Education Service of
THE HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA
111 Avenue Road, Toronto 5,
In co-operation with this newspaper.

All questions submitted are answered anonymously by members of the medical advisory board or special technical sections of the HEALTH LEAGUE.

The function of the Health League has been to crusade. In its early days it gained attention by its crusade against venereal disease. Later there was the problem of persuading parents to immunize their children against diphtheria and other readily preventable disease, and this gave birth to a continuing crusade which began with Toxoid Week in Toronto, and now is a national programme, Immunization Week.

Other crusades have been for pasteurization of milk, industrial health programmes, prevention of alcoholism, to name a few.

Unfortunately, the League's reputation for crusading has attracted people with special and rather dubious axes which they would like to have the League grind for them. Since not all these people have been clearly identifiable as cranks, it has been embarrassing and difficult at times to tell them why an organization like the Health League simply could not undertake to grind these axes. Perhaps the answer to the following question will explain why the League must appear sometimes a bit choosy about the sort of crusades it can undertake.

QUESTION:

"I have followed with interest your campaigns for pasteurization of milk, and I commend you highly. However, I cannot understand why you will not campaign just as strongly against the gradual poisoning of our population by tampering with foods, etc. I reported to you people at one time about the use of deadly refrigerator gas as a preservative for dried fruit, the insect sprays used on fruits and vegetables, the addition of chlorine to pure water, the addition of iodine to salt. All these things, and many others, are forms of public poisoning. It cannot be denied that chlorine and iodine, for example, are poisons. And yet you people and even doctors, who should know better, appear totally indifferent. Why don't we at least face the facts and call poison by its right name, poison? Where is the old crusading spirit you have showed in your pasteurization campaigns?"

ANSWER:

The Health League is a voluntary, lay organization, closely associated with the medical and dental professions. The League crusades for public health measures whenever there is a concrete evidence that these measures will save lives or prevent specific illnesses. In crusading for pasteurization of milk, the League acted on certain knowledge of actual deaths caused by the consumption of raw milk. Statistics were available and conclusive researches had been undertaken.

If nothing more had been known about pasteurization than that it MIGHT save lives or that raw milk MIGHT under certain conditions create undesirable effects, the League would have been in no position to initiate any action. As a lay organization it would have had to wait for more conclusive evidence from the medical profession.

You are asking the League to crusade against something you call "gradual poisoning" without citing one single case of death or serious ilness from this so-called "poisoning." You sound like—and probably are—one of the anti-fluoridation agitators who will present reams of arguments about what fluoridation MIGHT do, without presenting a single case history of a single individual damaged in any way by the consumption of properly fluoridated water.

As for calling poison by its right name, poison, almost anything that is edible can become poisonous under certain special circumstances. The Health League cannot be particularly impressed by so-called "poisons" which not only do not poison anybody, so far as is known, but in many cases (particularly with chlorinated or fluoridated water and iodized salt) actually benefit health and act against the true "poisons" of disease.

CAR HORN CALLS THE COWS

Foot-weary cattle men can take heart in a new device designed to take the walking out of rounding up cows.

The instrument is a car horn which sounds like a love-sick Ayrshire.

It was developed by live stock men who noted in admiration that even the poorest of moose hunters could get a moose to come on the run with an imitation of a mating call blasted through a horn.

They wondered if a cow would react the same way to a mechanical horn. It does.

Dr. E. Carlson, federal district veterinarian at Regina, Sask., said "If I was out on veterinary field work again, thats certainly one attachment I"d have on my car."

nI the experiment cows stuck up their ears at the first bawl. The second started a few walking towards the sound; the third call brought the entire herd.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

Every time I get up enough ambition to take a walk back to our bush I get thoroughly annoyed with myself for not going back more often. It's really lovely there. I know, for I went back the other day.

Now, of course, I didn't go only for the exercise, although I'm sure it did me no harm. I had another errand. I wanted some moss.

Not long ago I saw, in a current magazine, the picture of a terrarium with the instructions for building it. In case your dictionary isn't handy a terrarium is a miniature garden in a fish bowl or a big candy jar. Well, I had the fish bowl and no fish so I decided I'd like to try a terrarium. But the directions said the first thing I'd need was some moss to put in the bottom of the bowl, green side out.

Somebody suggested that I could get some from the undertaker but I thought I might better try the bush. Anyway, it was a nice day for a walk—too nice to stay indoors.

It's about three quarters of a mile from the house to our bush and farther when I went by way of the field where Harry was plowing. But I strolled along through the pasture, then followed a deadfurrow the rest of the way wondering all the time what had become of the rain we've had this fall for the fields were so dry I didn't need my rubbers at all.

Finally I wriggled through under the last fence and there I was in the bush with only another fence between me and the Nation River. Immediately I saw where the rain had gone for the river was much wider and deeper that it usually is this time of year and much more beautiful.

I followed a cowpath into a clump of cedars, watching the ground for green moss with which to fill the six quart basket I was carrying. And sure enough there was an old stump simply covered with a pretty, green blanket. I pulled some of it off and went to find more.

Of course for a sight-seeing trip I went too late in the season. There wasn't much colour overhead—only the occasional second-growth balsam and the few remaining cedars. All the leaves were underfoot.

And Judy loved them. She'd gone along too for the walk and it was certainly worthwhile judging from the fun she had running through the sea of dry leaves. She ran in circles everywhere trying to pretend she was huntiing for something. But I think she only was enjoying the sound of the rustling leaves and I'm sure she dragged her feet to make more noise.

As for me, I was having trouble enough. For the depth of leaves covered all the broken twigs and roots that are scattered always on the bush floor and I was worried about tripping or turning an ankle. The wild raspberry bushes didn't help much either for they kept reaching out to grab my nylons and burs clung to me as if I were their only friend.

Suddenly there was a terrific noise as a long freight tore down the tracks and across the iron bridge.It echoed and roared through the trees until I could almost believe it was coming down through the bush right behind me. Then as quickly as it had come it was gone.

I kept finding more and better moss, light mucky soil and tiny cedar trees until my basket was almost overflowing. Then I trudged back to the house to begin building the terrarium I had read about.

I had enjoyed every minute of my tramp except when I got thinking back there and got a little mad. Here we are, I thought, ten minutes from a lovely country woods and we hardly ever see it.

In the spring it is a sight with its melting snow piles, its cold, shiny pools of water, with blocks of ice piled up along the river banks and often right in among the trees. In May it is a nature-lover's paradise for it simply bursts with trilliums, violets and hepaticas and all the wild spring flowers. It smells of fresh, green buds and the pungent odour of cedar and balsam.

It's beautiful in the summer too when all the leaves are out and it's cool and dark in among the trees. When fragrant green ferns uncurl everywhere and birds chatter and sing overhead if their peace is disturbed. And early in October the autumn colours make it a picture few artists could paint.

There it is, a wild natural park only a short walk from our door, and we seldom go to see it while city folks spend thousands to keep a few trees and a bit of pampered grass growing in their midst and city dwellers drive miles to picnic somewhere in the shade of a few trees near the road.

If I had a magic wand I'd like to take away the woods and the little streams, the birds and the friendly frogs for a year or two. Then maybe when I waved it again to bring them back the country folks would appreciate them a little more and not merely take them for granted.

Calling All Sportsmen

* O.W.A.A.

Don't Live for This Season Only

Under the law we are allowed to shoot certain specified numbers of game in season—let conservation and common sense be our further guide as to how much a man should shoot. If each one of us who goes afield this year will give some serious thought to next season's game supply and then take some action in an effort to enhance it, the problem of future hunting would be well on its way to solution. Many sportsmen would sincerely like to follow through in doing something about the future game supply, but all too few know just what steps they can, as individuals, take in approaching this goal. Each individual sportsman can make a really constructive contribution toward game restoration if he will follow a few simple and self-imposed rules of conduct:

Don't shoot a covey down to the last bird.

Don't set the limit as a MUST every time you go hunting.

Stop when you've had a fair amount of sport.

Don't return time and again to the same area just because you had a good shooting there "yesterday."

There is a tendency with some hunters to measure their own and their cronies' hunting success or prowess in terms of the amount of game they shoot. Sometimes I think this is encouraged by the non-shooting friends and relatives of these same hunters, the former, whilst they may not actually ridicule the gunner who returned home empty handed, nevertheless thin k of hunting as being nothing more than a killing and bringing home of game. The same people look upon fishing in the same light —the fisherman who cannot bring home a stringer full mut be a poor fisherman indeed.

When is a Game Hog?

Except for cottontails in Ontario there is no limit on rabbits, but I cannot feel myself that this should encourage the rabbit hunter in shooting anymore than he actually needs for the pot or for good sport. I know of one party of four hunting this past weekend with five dogs who took in nine rabbits in an afternoon out of one piece of bush and were still hunting, with still an hour or so left before darkness would bring it to an end. Undoubtedly they were having a whale of an afternoon's sport, but it is questionable as to how much of that kind of shooting the area they were hunting could stand.

Representatives of Seaway Communities Meet Just Compesation for Losses Demanded

Facing Ontario Hydro with a single united demand, the six municipalities to be affected by the St. Lawrence Power project went on record at Morrisburg Monday night as willing to accept nothing less than the replacement value of the homes and farms which will be flooded after the power dam at Cornwall is completed.

The municipalities are Morrisburg, Iroquois, Matlida, Osnabruck, Williamsburg and Cornwall Township.

In stating reasons for their claims for "replacement value" of the properties to be inundated, reeves and councillors attacked Hydro's plans for compensation as outlined on a number of occasions recently by Robert Saunders, chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario. Mr. Saunders, they stated, was offering what he termed "fair market value" for the lands and buildings and certain compensation for "forcible taking."

Not Satisfactory

This, the representatives of municipalities said, was not at all satisfactory. Under the threat of expropriation, value of St. Lawrence "front" properties had fallen steadily in recent years and their values were deflated. Proposed compensation payments by Hydro would not begin to meet the cost of building a new home comparable to the one an individual was forced to vacate. Text of the resolution passed at the meeting reads:

"Be it resolved that all property settlements be withheld until such time as there has been put into the (Ontario) statutes. legislation stating in unequivocal terms, that citizens whose property is expropriated shall be paid the replacement value of such property, plus an additional amount for inconvenience and compulsory taking, and five per cent interest from the day of taking until the day of payment. The legislation should also provide that such citizen may, in lieu of compensation, have the choice as nearly as may be, of a similar property in a new planned community, and that sufficient reliable information be available to every such person to enable him to make an intelligent choice between a cash settlement and a new property."

Reeves and councillors of the six communities were welcomed by George Beavers, reeve of Morrisburg, and Thorold W. Lane, deputy reeve of Osnabruck, was chosen chairman. After preliminary discussion, the meeting broke up while majorities of the councils present held separate meetings, endorsed the resolution and pledged that notice of its passing would be placed on the municipalities' books by the respective town clerks Tuesday.

Copies Sent to MLAs

Copies will be sent to every member of the Ontario Legislature and to every daily and weekly newspaper in the province.

While not bitter nor antagonistic to Hydro, representatives of the six municipalities flatly turned down Mr. Saunders' settlement proposals. At their various council meetings this week, they will propose retaining the most able counsel available to represent them before the Ontario Municipal Board, the Ontario ccurts and the government.

Reeve Beavers recalled that some two months ago, Premier Leslie Frost pledged the residents of the St. Lawrence "front" that they would be fairly and justly dealth with.

Those present at the time took the Premier's words to mean that those whose homes and lands would be expropriated were entitled to full compensation for any financial loss they might suffer.

Lake Winnipeg is larger than Lake Ontario and almost equals Lake Erie in area.

The principal source of Quebec farm cash income is the sale of dairy products.

It costs about $500,000 a month to administer family allowance payments.

Winchester Milk Producers Hold Annual Meeting New Milk Act Lauded

Members of the Winchester local of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association were unanimous in their approval of the recent passing of the Milk Industry Act, at the annual meeting held in Winchester Town Hall.

Orvil Guy conducted the meeting and was assisted by the secretary, Alex MacGregor.

Provincial President James Jenkins spoke of the benfits which might come to producers by the passing of the new act which became effective on October 8, 1954. The matter of over-production in some lines of produce might be controlled; farmers would be in a better position to compete on world markets; while the production price per hundred pounds of milk, with the large surplus of dairy produce, were problems to be faced by the association.

Speakers' Comments

Vice-president George Lowrey, Almonte, who is also the chairman of the Public Relations Committee, told of plans to increase local consumption by attractive packaging for "buyer appeal."

Charles Milton, the provincial secretary, speaking of the large surpluses of butter, cheese and powdered milk, said that the supply was now greater than the demand and prices must drop unless some stabilization programme was put into effect at once.

Fieldman Jack Higgins said that the quality of milk had shown a great improvement mainly through better care of farmer's equipment.

Allison Graham, past president, spoke briefly and brought greetings from the Chesterville local.

Orvil Guy was re-elected president for the second term and the following other officers were chosen: First vice-president, Willis Robinson; secretary-treasurer, Alex MacGregor; directors, Allan K. MacDonald, Keith Holmes, John Hughes and Willis Riddell.

Winners of the door prizes were: Willis Robinson, John Francis, Milton Servage, Edgar Amyot, A. Boucher, Kenneth Guy, Albert Marion, Donald Shaver, Romeo Amyot, Baden Rennick, A. Shaver and O. Bell.

CLOSE SHAVE

As Mrs. Richard Twetan, Anacortes, Wash., drove frantically to a doctor's office to have eight stitches taken in the head of her 18-month-old son, Scotty, his three-year-old brother, explained:

"Gee, mom, he just wouldn't hold still."

The "older" brother explained after the accident that he had Scotty put his head on a chopping block so he could cut his hair with a hand axe. It was a close shave.

Election Issues Debated at Finch Meeting Feeling Runs High as Candidates State Platforms

Three main issues evolved at Finch Monday for the forthcoming federal by-election when the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives stated their respective platforms and criticized those of their opponents at a meeting marked by more heckling, booing and hooting than has been noted in years at a district political session.

In a two-hour debate following close of nominations for the November 8th battle to elect a successor to Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier, who resigned his seat in July to become president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, PC and Liberal speakers brought the local issues before an active audience of 500 in Finch Community Hall. The issues were: Unemployment in the textile industry; depressed farm prices; the St. Lawrence Seaways' effect on Cornwall and Stormont. Lesser questions of trade balance and tariff policies stemmed from the major issues.

Returning officer J. Ambrose McMahon, who acted as chairman for the debate, declared nominations officially closed with only the two "old" parties' candidates in the race. Liberal standard-bearer is Albert Lavigne, 46-year-old East Cornwall merchant and deputy-reeve of Cornwall Township. His opponent is Donald R. Dick, 55, Howard Smith Paper Mills labour relations manager and a former Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders' commanding officer.

Speakers for both sides were constantly interrupted by questions and other remarks from the audience. The heckling, started by a group of women in the front rows, came intermittently, gradually developing into an almost constant stream of unintelligible remarks and noises. The disorder finally brought a request for "good order" from Mr. McMahon.

Supporting Mr. Lavigne were: Dr. F. G. Robertson, parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Martin, and Peter Manley, Stormont MPP. Speaking on Mr. Dick's behalf were: Hon. Earl Rowe, Dufferin-Simcoe MP, and Fernand Guindon, Apple Hill, PC candidate in Glengarry-Prescott in the 1953 general election.

At the time of the 1951 census Canadian farms had one tractor in use for every 242 acres of improved agricultural land.

Saving money... and writing cheques

A bank offers you two types of deposit account, Savings and Current.

If your main purpose is to save, to accumulate funds, it's good to have a Savings account.

If you write cheques frequently, you will like the many advantages of a Current account.

The money you leave in a Savings account earns interest, and your bank book gives you an up-to-date, continuing record of your financial progress. If your funds are active, with frequent deposits and withdrawals, a Current account provides a special service; a monthly statement, together with your cancelled cheques—useful as receipts and a ready reference for budgeting, bookkeeping and other purposes.

Borland—Henry

St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch, was the scene of the double ring ceremony which united in marriage Colleen Anna Sylvia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Henry, Berwick, and William Arthur Borland, son of Mrs. Jane Borland and the late John Borland, Cornwall.

Gladioli and 'mums were used to decorate the church for the 2.30 p.m. ceremony which was performed by the Rev. John Honeyman. White ribbons marked the guest pews. The organist, Mrs. G. MacLean, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Marguerite MacLean, who sang "Through the Years" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of rosepoint lace and nylon illusion tulle over bridal satin. The bodice featured a shallow yoke of illusion, offset with pearl sequins and long sleeves ending in points. The bouffant skirt was made with a wide insertion of tulle and ending in a Cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was attached to a pillbox hat of white faille, trimmed with irridescent pearls and sequins. Her only jewellery was a string of pearls. She carried a white Bible, with white carnations and a mauve orchid.

The bride's attendants, Miss Eleanor Henry, sister of the bride, and Miss Phy'llis Rutley, cousin of the bride, wore identical floor-length strapless gowns of nylon net and satin, designed with bouffant skirt of net over satin, trimmed with rows of narrow net and a wide satin sash which terminated in a wide bow at the back. A matching satin bolero was worn over tulle and a satin bodice, one in sea green and the other in ashes of roses, respectively; also, matching satin half-hats designed with matching nose veils and trimmed at either side with clusters of matching florets. They carried nosegays of pink and yellow carnations respectively.

The flower girl, Miss Barbara White, niece of the groom, wore a floor-length yellow nylon net over taffeta gown with a wide taffeta sash and carried a nosegay of pink and blue carnations. Her headdress was a band of small pink and blue carnations.

Henry Dietz, brother-in-law of the groom, acted as best man and the ushers were Tom Hood and Donald Henry, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Henry, the bride's mother, wore a navy blue crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bridegroom's mother, wore a blue-grey crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were decorated with fall flowers. Afterwards, the couple left on a motor trip to Quebec City. For travelling the bride chose a navy tailored suit with pink accessories and her sorsage was a mauve orchid.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Borland will reside at 310 Fourth St. E., Cornwall.

Guests from out of town were Mrs. J. J. MacIntyre, Mrs W. A. Salts, Miss Sybil Grimson, Bill Salts, Miss Barbara Hutt, Mrs. D. Copeland and Margaret, Montreal; Mr. Lorne Hutt, Miss Leita Hutt, Mr. and Mrs. K. Shaver; Miss Carol MacLean and Neil MacLean, Ottawa; Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Eric Farrell, Pembroke; Miss Isobelle Borland and Ruth, Goose Bay, Labrador; Mrs. H. Dietz and Ken, Galt. Several guests were also present from Cornwall, Aultsville, Massena, N.Y., and Wales.

daughters, Jean and Amelia, both of Calgary; a son, James, Bowness; two sisters, Mrs. Amelia Lambkin, Calgary, and Mrs. Alice Thurston, Los Angeles, Calif., and a brother, Archibald McMillan, of Calgary.

COWS TO HAVE BUILT-IN MAGNETS

Magnets are being installed in cows as a possible answer to one of the banes of the live stock industry—hardware disease.

It seems that cows cheerfully swallow bits of rusty wire, nails and other scrap metal while grazing. This bit of animal indiscretion costs the industry from $1 billion to $2 billion annually in animal losses and condemnation of mutilated carcasses at packing houses.

Dr. Harold K. Cooper, of Roanoke, Va., said in a veternary journal that a two-inch magnet inserted in a cow's rumen—first stomach—will remain there indefinitely without discomfort and will attract most of the scrap metal swallowed.

Experiments with several animals have shown that the magnet prevents the metal from moving on through the stomach wall and injuring vital organs.

In dollar value lobsters are the most important catch of the east coast fisheries; salmon is the most important catch of the Pacific fisheries.

BOY PAYS FINE BY INSTALLMENTS

Mom didn't know it but an eight-year-old boy paid a parking ticket at Auburn, N.Y.

The boy came running down the street as a policeman put a 50-cent parking ticket on his mother's car.

"I was supposed to watch the meter while she went shopping," he said. "I'll get the devil if she finds out."

The boy offered to pay the ticket himself—10 cents down, 40 cents on the installment plan. Police agreed. They even promised to withhold his name so his mother wouldn't find out.

BRIGHTEN YOUR MEALS WITH CRANBERRIES

IN THE AUTUMN we like to go to the woods and collect red berries such as black elder and bittersweet, with which to brighten our homes during the dull November days. We can brighten our meals with red berries without the effort of going to the woods to look for them. Just go to your favourite grocer and buy a few pounds of cranberries. Then try the following recipes:

Cranberry Jelly

4 cups cranberries
2 cups water
2 cups sugar

Pick over and wash cranberries. Add water and cook until soft. Press through sieve, add sugar and stir until dissolved. Cook about five minutes or until it jellies Pour into moistened mould and set away to cool.

Cranberry Cocktail

Remember this one at Christmas when you are planning your holiday menus.

2 cups cranberries
2 cups water
3 cloves
2-3 cup sugar
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Wash cranberries and cook with water and cloves. When tender, strain thoroughly. Add sugar to the liquid and cook long enough to blend thoroughly. When partly cooked add lemon juice. Serve ice cold.

Three Flavour Pie

1 cup chopped cranberries
1 cup chopped apples
¼ cup crushed pineapple
1 cup sugar
1-8 tsp. salt

Combine fruits, sugar and salt. Let stand one hour. Pour into pastry-lined pie pan; adjust top crust and bake in hot oven of 400 degs. for 30 minutes.

Baked Cranberry Pudding With Butter Sauce

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
2½ tsps. baking powder
3 tbsps. melted shortening

A Simple Solution To Ottawa Car Mystery

The story comes from Ottawa that one evening recently that a woman there gave her keys to a friend, asked her to get the car off a West End parking lot, drive it downtown and meet her at the Technical School.

The friend got into a bluish-grey Pontiac on the parking lot, drove to centre town and parked the car on Lyon Street, near Slater, about seven o'clock.

About an hour later a man notified police his bluish-grey Pontiac had been stolen from the West End parking lot.

The report was immediately radioed to all police cars. A cruiser in the vicinity spotted the "stolen" car about nine o'clock—parked on Lyon Street, near Slater.

The owner was notified his car had been "recovered." He proceeded to meet police where his car was located, thanked them for their prompt action and drove it home.

A short time later the woman and her friend came out of Technical School to discover the car that had been left parked on Lyon Street was gone.

The woman immediately phoned police, gave them a description of her bluish-grey Pontiac and its license number. Then she went home to await results.

The next morning she happened to look at the parking lot where she was in the habit of keeping her car. It was there—in exactly the same place she had left it the previous day.

She rushed to the telephone, called police and thanked them profusely for recovering her car and returning it to the parking lot during the night.

The whole matter was a case of mistaken identity of cars, police said, and the car had not been moved from the lot since the woman parked it there the previous day.

Police said that while the two cars were of varying vintages, they were similar in colour and model and the keys the woman gave to her friend worked successfully in the car parked adjacent to her own on the lot.

One was a 1941, the other a 1948!

OUTDOOR ROUNDUP—

cessful. Leaving some game birds as next season's seed is one way to insure good sport for the future. This is one way of planting next year's crop. Protecting it through the closed season from both human and other predators, seeing that plenty of natural food is provided are two important forms of cultivating the game crop you have planted. Game management is not such a complicated science that it cannot be practised by the individual sportsman. In simple terms, it is merely the provision of ideal habitat and adequate protection. Any sincere sportsman can make substantial contributions to both factors. Perhaps it is impractical for some of us to do any considerable amount of work in the field, but by banding together we can accomplish much as a group.

Don't live for this season alone. Give some thought to the game supply of tomorrow and the years to come. Have your sport of course, but save some for next year.

High School Principals Hold Conference at Prescott Management, Solutions to School Problems Discussed

Recently the principals of the high schools in the Ottawa - St. Lawrence area met at Prescott for a meeting at which principals could discuss general school problems, difficulties and solutions. James E. Cunningham, principal of Chesterville High School, was the chairman of the organization. Mr. Boyd Higginson, of Finch High School, was press reporter.

A Friday night social evening was held at the Daniel's Hotel, Prescott, and the Saturday conference was held in Prescott High School.

On Saturday morning Mr. Clark, chairman of Prescott Board of Education, welcomed the principals and spoke briefly on the duties of a principal from a parent's point of view. Mr. Walter Ziegler, district high school inspector, opened the business meeting by challenging the principals to accept the ever-increasing role that the Department of Education expected principals to assume in their own schools. He made it known that the principal is being held more and more responsible for the standard of instruction by staff members and that the duty of principals in the matter of public sentiment towards secondary education is an obligation that the modern principal is expected to accept. Mr. Ziegler challenged the principals to see that their schools met the ed ucational, social and citizenship training needs of the many different personalities that enter high school.

Feature of Conference

One of the features of the conference was a discussion of present standards of educational achievement in Grade 12. Mr. O. Nickel, the principal of Kemptville High School, led in the discussion. The outcome was that a panel of principals was appointed to make out sample final examinations. Copies of the examination, along with desired answers and a marking scheme, will be sent to all schools participating in the conference. The papers are to be used as a guide rather than as an actual examination. Those appointed to the panel were as follows: MacDonald, Williamstown, English; Miller, Avonmore, French; Ward, Arnprior, History; MacNamara, Gananoque, History; Ashley, Vankleek Hill, Algebra; Ward, Arnprior, Geometry; Milhousen, Chesterville, Physics; Doris, Prescott, Chemistry; Barrett, Williamstown, Latin. Geography will be arranged later. All the papers will be sent to Mr. William Powell, principal of South Carleton High School. Schools will use the papers as samples next June and report back to next year's conference concerning the success of the venture.

Promotion Problems

Mr. C. A. Reid, principal of Cardinal High School, led in a discussion dealing with students whose level of achievement did not warrant promotion to the next grade. Mr. Cousins, Prescott, outlined for the group the results of an experiment carried out in his school. Students who had not received a satisfactory mark on the year's standing were asked to do further study during the summer months. If both parent and student vouched that at least forty hours actual study pe r subject were completed, the student was allowed to try a retest before the regular school opening in September. The experiment had won the support of both students and parents and the idea was reveived favourably by the principals. The scheme is to be tried as an experiment by other schools in the area and more detailed reports will be made available to the conference next fall.

Other discussions having to do with public relations between schools and the community, methods of saving time for the principal, teachers visiting other schools, and a general question and answer period were supervised by Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Cousins and Mr. Ross Stevenson, principal, Perth Collegiate Institute.

Taking Part in Conference

Principals and assistant principals taking part in the conference were: Frank Litt, Eganville; Ernest Dixon, Lyndhurst; Howard Willard, past president, Winchester; William Powell and John Crawford, South Carleton; A. C. Reid, Cardinal; Oscar Nickel, of Kemptville; Willard Kosonic, of Morewood; John Schultz, Morrisburg; R. Cousins, Prescott; Ross Stevenson, Perth; Harvey Carleton, Maxville; Ezra Getz, William Fisher and John O'Brien, Mountain; Raymond Andress, Westport; Fred MacNamara, of Ganonoque; Boyd Higginson, Finch; Allen Ward and William Sly, Arnprior; Paul Sherk, Athens; A. T. Ashley, Vankleek Hill; N. F. Carruthers, Almonte; Clinton Thompson, Iroquois; R. J. Miller, Avonmore; J. E. Cunningham, Chesterville; R. MacDonald, Williamstown.
