Additional Grant Gained by Council Roads Subsidy on $5700 this Year

Chesterville Village Council met for the regular November meeting on Monday evening in the clerk's office of Community Hall. Present were the reeve, Chas. McMillan, councillors Carl McMillan, John Turner and Mrs. L. Marcellus. Mrs. B. W. Campbell was absent through illness.

Hydro commission considered a proposal of Nestlé (Canada) Limited to run a cost test in the plant on the use of hydro power. The object of the test is to determine the costs of using a combination of the plant's generated power and hydro and hydro alone. Permission was given the plant to run the tests through January and February. The clerk reported the high voltage condition that has been proving troublesome on Main North to have been corrected. Members of the commission moved that a recording voltmeter be purchased for the use of the town maintenance man. This will save the necessity of calling the Hydro Rural Operating crew each time the transformers need a check.

Fire Chief John Hehir waited on council with his monthly report. The false alarms had caused a great deal of needless upset, he stated. The crew had been active nearly all night on Hallowe'en. The chief reported one of the volunteer firemen dismissed from the brigade as it was reported the member had been present when a false alarm had been sounded and had evidently done nothing to prevent it. Council voted that the firemen were to receive $1 each for the false alarms. There were three calls. Mr. Hehir is to be sent to Toronto, at council's expense, to attend the Fire Chief's School on November 17, 18, 19.

Clerk H. C. Hummel reported the arrival of an interim subsidy of $960 on roads and bridges received from the Department. He also gladdened the hearts of council by noting the approval of the additional grant on $3300. That makes a total approved amount for grant purposes on roads and bridges of $5700 for the current year.

The new traffic by-law was returned approved but council did not order the necessary action to implement the by-law.

Nearly 400 feet of 8-inch steel pipe was removed from the excavation on Queen St. when the new line was laid. Council decided to sell 200 feet of this to anyone interested at a rate of $1.00 per foot, as is, where is, with any cutting done at the buyer's expense.

The town garbage dump is in need of a clean-up. Council ordered the work done and moved that Ford Carruthers be hired to bury the debris as in former years.

The necessary by-law was passed to appoint polls, deputy-returning officers and clerks in the event of an election on December 6th. Poll No. 1, in the clerk's office, will have Howard Hough as D.P.O. and Jack Doering as clerk. Thomas Parker will be D.P.O. in Poll No. 2, in the auditorium, with Elvin Lasalle as clerk. Nomination night is to be Friday, November 26th.

fray the expense of the erection of a Cenotaph at the Memorial Hospital.

A notice of a pending action for damages against the township and certain land owners, in the Fred Reveler award, was received by council and the clerk was instructed to notify the parties responsible for the maintenance of the drain from Station 81 to the outlet in the Stephenson drain, to have same maintained within thirty days from receipt of notice.

The following accounts were passed and paid: Roads and bridges, $2,433.03; relief and charity, $224.59; salaries and allowances,, $379.00; Winchester Legion, re Cenotaph, $100.00.

Council adjurned to meet in Chesterville on Monday, December 13th at 10.30.

THE PLOUFFE FAMILY—Here they are, those happy-go-lucky French-Canadians who are winning friends wherever there are TV sets in Canada. Based on Roger Lemelin's best-seller "Les Plouffe," the family became an institution in Quebec when it was introduced on the CBC French radio and TV networks. In view of the enthusiastic public response which set new fan-mail records, the humourous and tender stories of the Plouffes are being presented on the CBC TV network in English, using the same cast. Above, are Mama and Papa Plouffe with their four grown-up children, Cecile, Napoleon, Ovide and Guillaume. The CBC-produced "Plouffe Family" may be seen on all TV stations in Canada.

Explorers Hold Hallowe'en Party

The Explorer group of girls of Trinity United Church celebrated Hallowe'en with a costume party. Under the leadership of Mrs. F. M. Cass, Chief Counsellor, and Mrs. R. A. Mitchell, the twenty members joined in an afternoon of games and tricks complete with 'spooks' and 'ghosts.'

The church dining hall was darkened for the occasion, and as the girls arrived they were met by a spectre which scared them out of their wits as it shook their hands in its own wet, slimy grip. As soon as they came to their senses, everyone joined in such games at Pumpkin Toss, Ducking for Apples, Jelly Bean Spoon Race, Peanut Hunt and As a Ghost Does.

Youthful Farmers Entertained at Rotary

Sponsored Poultry Club Has Successful Year Dressed Fowl Judged in Wind-up Event

Wednesday night Chesterville Rotary Club played host to the Rotary sponsored Poultry Club. Approximately 30 young people were guests of the club at a dinner in the auditorium of Community Hall. Dressed poultry was on display after being judged and later in the evening was given as bingo prizes.

Winners in the dressed poultry judging were: 1. Jack Durant; 2. Tom Moore; 3. Philip Moore; 4. Marjorie Moore; 5. Charlie Graham; 6. Don Durant; 7. Neil Moore. There were 66 chickens in the class.

Jack Durant, president of the Poultry Club, spoke the appreciation of the youthful members to Rotary for their sponsorship, in a workmanlike manner. Don Rutherford, assistant agricultural representative, Morrisburg, was introduced by Allison Graham.

Mr. Rutherford, in his remarks, said that this Poultry Club was one of the best in Dundas County. He gave particular credit to Rotary Club committee members, Allison Graham and Jack Fulton, who did so much to keep the group active and interested during the year. During the year the members had occasion to travel to Kingston with the 4-H Clubs on a sightseeing tour. Three representatives of the club went to the club camp at the C.N.E. this year and learned much from the visit.

The speaker pointed out that Achievement Day was only one phase of club activities. The members have to be active the whole season. They are scored on their supervisor's report, on the records they keep each month, on the dressed poultry exhibit, on judging, a final written examination and finally their attendance at meetings throughout the season.

All these items are taken into account when the final prize awards are made.

Mr. Rutherford concluded his short talk in again expressing appreciation to the Rotary Club for their efforts and hoped the club could spnsor the Poultry Club again next year.

The speaker was thanked on behalf of those present by Eric Casselman.

The various costumes which the girls wore were judged by the leaders and Suzanne Olsen won a prize for her Egyptian girl dress which was judged the prettiest in the group. Marion Fleming, dressed as a witch, took the prize for the funniest costume and Lynn Johnston, dressed as a skeleton, for the scariest.

Following the programme, girls enjoyed a supper which included delightfully designed Hallowe'en cookies, cake and other goodies in keeping with the afternoon's fun. The party finally closed with Taps.

COSTUME WINNERS AT HALLOWE'EN DANCE

Chesterville W.I. sponsored a successful Hallowe'en costume dance last Friday night in the Community Auditorium. Winners were: Mrs. D. J. Bender, Mrs. McGinnis, Mrs. Jack Doering, Miss Helen McKenna, Miss Theresa McCloskey, Miss Marion Lynch, Mrs. Bill Smith and Oscar Olsen.

Five Young Men Charged After False Alarms

Saturday night the town was in something of an uproar. The fire siren was sounded three times in false alarms, at 12.30 a.m., 4.12 and 4.35 a.m. Each time the call proved false.

OPP Constable William Hunsburger enlisted the aid of members of the Volunteer Fire Brigade under Chief Hehir in an endeavour to stop the calls. After the last alarm, a phone call directed the constable to North Main Street where he apprehended five young men. They were placed in the village jail for the balance of the early morning hours. They were charged with circulating a false fire alarm under Section 516a and released. Mr. Hunsburger told this office they will probably appear in Morrisburg court on Friday, November 12 before Magistrate Cass.

The men charged are Roy Meldrum, Lyle Wade, Paul Liscumb Garnet Liscumb and Wilson "Junior" Fyke.

Mr. Fred Miller Guest Speaker At Men's Club Meeting

The first meeting of the season of the Men's Club of Trinity United Church took place in the church dining hall recently. The large number of members present were convened by the president, Haldane Durant. The meeting opened with a worship service which was led by the president, the vice-president, Dr. B. W. Lapp, and Rev. R. A. Mitchell. Mr. P. G. Hewitt presided at the piano.

The secretary, Mr. John Turner, read the minutes of the preceding meeting and the business before the club was quickly dispatched. Plans were suggetsed for future meetings and projects, the members were invited to the Annual Banquet of United Church Men which will be held in Kemptville on Wednesday, November 17th at p.m.

Mr. Mitchell introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Fred Miller, student minitser of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Miller gave an inspiring address on the religious development that has taken place in Ireland in the last generation. He made it clear that men must give their lives to Jesus Christ and join together in his service.

Mr. Miller was very ably thanked by Mr. George Crawford.

The club then enjoyed the film "Steel for Canadians," through the courtesy of Steel Company of Canada, and after the usual lunch the meeting was adjourned.

Diner: "Look here, waiter! This is supposed to be oyster stew, and I haven't found a single oyster yet!"

Waiter: "Sir, if you had Irish stew, would you expect to find an Irishman in it?"

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

Hallowe'en and Some Afterthoughts

Hallowe'en has come and gone and as usual there is a measure of accounting to be done. Youthful energies choose the night to vent some of the restraint that is necessarily laid on during the rest of the year, and many harmless pranks are enjoyed that have little effect on the community other than a small bit of indulgent cussing.

The time for afterthoughts comes when pranks become perverted and dangerous, with a consequent danger to the pranksters and public. In a neighbouring community a young man was electrocuted through a misguided sense of fun. Here in Chesterville the town was in an uproar because of some misguided characters who thought the fire alarm was there to be fooled with. Smart police work assisted by members of the fire brigade resulted in the apprehension of five young men who have been charged with circulating a false fire alarm.

Soap will wash off windows, steps can be replaced, charity is gladly handed out to the small fry but the frightening wails o f the siren are not pleasure or entertainment. The urgency of the fire alarm is a matter of concern to the whole community. When it sounds our first thoughts rush with dread to our relatives and friends that might be in danger. Our sense of community living makes us obliged to help if we can when danger threatens any segment of everyday life.

A fire alarm raises all these problems at once. Every sensible person knows that the fire signal is to be used only in emergency. The fallacy of "cry wolf" has been ingrained in each of us and it is hard to understand the irresponsible attitude that can cause such needless alarm.

It is the fervent wish of the town that a pattern has not been set for subsequent Hallowe'ens. If the guilty parties have been found, it is to be hoped their punishment will be adequate to deter any like-minded foolishness in the future.

Mild Protest

Most people can sympathize with the anguish of a music lover who squirms on hearing a false note, though not everyone may feel it as intensely, says The Printed Word. It is perhaps equally painful for a lover of the English language to have his ears or his eyes assaulted by errors in grammar or syntax, but he gets little sympathy. If he betrays his discomfort, he is likely to be set down as a pedant. So debasement of the language continues almost unchecked, because those who see the process are too timorous to protest.

The debasement is gradual, a slow erosion rather than a devastating flood. Some persons not too old can remember the misuse of "like" in place of "as" was an unspeakable vulgarity. Now it has become so common that the few who adhere to proper usage must seem affected.

The misuse of "do" as an auxiliary to "have" is an offence that has become common within about the past ten years, as far as this country is concerned. As in other cases of muddying the waters of pure English, the CBC, guardian of the nation's culture, does not protect the people, but rather encourages the offenders.

Both misuses are hard to combat because there are times when it is correct to use "like" and "do have." Those who remember what a conjunction is and that "like" isn't one, seldom go wrong on the the first count. For a second, a good ear may be necessary to distinguish right from wrong unless one cares to consult the ever blessed Fowler brothers. To decide whether one has an ear for English, the following two sentences may be used as tests: (1) "Do you have coffee for breakfast?" (2) "Do you have a match?"

The former "do have" is legitimate, referring to several occasions. The latter should give a person with a sensitive ear much the same shock as he receives when he is called "Mac" by a panhandler.

Ontario Hurricane Relief Fund

Canadians everywhere have learned of the terrible hurricane that struck Southern Ontario three weeks ago, leaving death, tragedy and millions of dollars of property loss in its wake.

Since the initial shock of the disaster, Canadians by tens of thousands have demonstrated their sympathy in the most practical way possible—by contributions to the Ontario Hurricane Relief Fund.

This fund was launched with the official sanction of the Ontario Government less than a day after the disaster struck, and its purpose is to avoid duplication of effort by bringing all relief appeals under one banner. Chairman is Col. Eric Phillips, prominent Toronto industrialist, and honourary treasurer is N. J. McKinnon, vice-president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. These appointments were made by Premier Leslie Frost.

The Ontario Hurricane Relief Fund is designed to bring immediate financial aid to the homeless, orphans and other dependents and the needy. With the aid of many social agencies, officials of the Fund have surveyed the damaged areas, depots have been set up for the distribution of immediate financial aid in the affected areas and plans have been laid for the restoration of household furnishing, food, clothing and other necessities of life which were lost in the floods.

Col. Phillips stresses that there is an urgent need for contributions. Property loss has exceeded all early expectations and the problem of rehabilitating thousands of flood survivors is an immediate one. The Ontario Hurricane Relief Fund will warmly welcome individual and corporate donations, large and small. All Canadian banks have been authorized to receive contributions, or they may be mailed to the Ontario Hurricane Relief Fund, 37 King Street East, Toronto. The fund is operated on a voluntary basis and there are no paid officials.

Official receipts will be mailed to all donors and contributions are deductible for tax purposes. Don't hesitate. Send your contributions today.

Polio Detector

Whooping cough is still almost as serious a killer of children as polio, but it has never generated the same amount of hysteria. For one thing most mothers can be secure in the knowledge that their children have either had whooping cough or have been artificially immunized against it; in either case they are no longer susceptible and there is no need for worry. With polio, however, one feels helpless. Thousands of mothers who suffer tortures of anxiety every summer, do so needlessly; their children are, for one reason or another, immune to polio, but they have no way of knowing it. Gamma globulin, which is still the best short-term medium of prevention pending satisfactory proof of the effectiveness of the new Salk vaccine, is in such short supply that it must be held in reserve for use in emergency areas. Yet even when it is used in those areas a good deal of it is bound to be wasted on young people who do not need it, because they have somehow or other acquired a natural immunity to polio.

QUESTION:

"I understand that a great many children get polio and throw it off without any serious effects and without their parents or doctor being any the wiser. I presume that when a child has one of these light, and unknown cases of polio, he becomes immune to it. It seems to me that if parents had any way of knowing whether their children were immune to polio there would be considerably less panic in the summers, and the limited supplies of gamma globulin could stretch considerably further, among those who were not immune. Have they discovered a way to detect immunity to polio?"

ANSWER:

(From the September-October, 1954, issue of Health Magazine, published by the Health League of Canada).

"From Paris it is announced that it is now possible to know within 48 hours of a person is susceptible to polio. This important development was made public at a recent meeting of the Society of Microbiology by Doctors E. Barski and Pierre Lepine, both of the world-famous Pasteur Institute. The technique developed by them consists essentially in discovering whether the individual possesses antibodies in his bloodstream which give him a natural immunity to polio."

Light Along The Way

"Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee; then whose shall those things be, which thou has provided?"

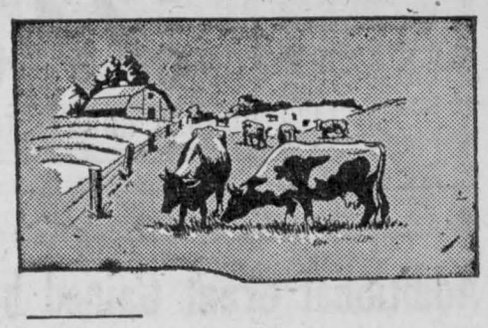

A minister was asked, not long ago, if he would take Holy Orders again if he had his life to live over. He made this interesting reply: "If I had been asked that question a year ago I would have said 'No!', but in the year I have come to realize that the life of many people is empty. They pursue things that neither last nor bring satisfaction. They frustratingly chase this bubble and the next only to have each burst in their hands in its turn. In the ministry, a man is faced with something that is different from all that, and the realization comes more strongly as time passes that the truth the Gospel teaches, and the minister knows well, is the only one that gives life any meaning."

In the Parable of the Rich Man, from which the words above are quoted, Jesus makes the same point. Here is a man ready to feast on the result of the labours of many a long year. He has at last succeeded to his goal. He has finally built about him all that is necessary for security, for ease and pleasure; but just when he is to

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

If you happen to need a farm in the near future I saw some advertised for sale the other day that might interest you. There was a little place thirty miles from London, 129 acres, "modern cowhouse for 20, dairy sterilizing room, calf boxes, bull box," and so on. The house wasn't too bad—"seven principal bedrooms, 2 dressing rooms, 4 reception rooms, 4 bathrooms, staff accomodation, central heating, elecricity and water." Besides there was a groom's house, 5 cottages and a flat all with bathrooms. If you're interested I could show you a picture of the place but I don't know the price.

There's another little spot especially for the sportsman. It has good salmon and trout fishing and shooting rights over 4,000 acres. There's a 6-bedroom, 5-bathroom house goes with the hunting and fishing priviliges, also some farm buildings and a lot of coastline. The whole thing can be had for 11,500 pounds or about $30,000.

Now if neither of these places would suit you there are about 60 others you could choose from all described and pictured in the advertising section of a British magazine called "The Field" which we were given the other day. And to look at those pictures is almost to see old England itself.

There are big, palatial houses that look capable of housing royalty. There are others that have been copied so well by Canadian architects of former years that the pictures might have been taken in Rockliffe or Brockville. Still others are so distinctly English they seem to be reproductions of old Christmas cards.

But all have beauty and a solid, permanent look that says they've been there for centuries and will be there until the end of time come war or peace or visitors from Mars.

You know there was a time I wouldn't have given ten dollars to go to England. I thought everything there was old and stiff and simply dripping with history I could never remember anyway. But recently, since I've been reading a few of the British magazines that come to this country, I'm getting more and more curious to see England for myself. (Although at the moment a trip there for me is about as possible as a trip to the moon). Nevertheless, I'd love to go if I could.

I'd like to see London, of course, and Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey and all that. But I'd rather see the English countryside. For instance, there's a picture in this magazine I'm reading which shows a distinguished-looking gentleman who farms his 14,000-acre estate. Now I'd like to see a 14,000-acre estate and find out how it is managed and run. I'd like to see it too so I could believe that it is true. For looking at a map of the world it would seem that a 14,000-acre farm would cover all England and Wales as well.

I'd love to see the English countryside too. The idea of dividing fields with hedges instead of wire fences has always fascinated me. Hedges help hold the moisture in the soil, attract birds and animal life, form cheap, growing fences that need no repair and add to the beauty of the landscape as well. I've read pages about them. Now I'd like to see them, especially when they're in bloom.

I've read how their farming methods differ from our's too. I'd like to see cows being milked in thatched barns, to see crops being harvested in mid-winter and see sheep dogs in action. It would be so exciting to a Canadian farm wife.

And, if I could go there, I'd like to attend the Royal Agricultural Fair. Judging from the articles in "The Field" it is quite an affair. The magazine pictures horses and coaches lined up to drive to the show grounds and adds that this is always popular with overseas visitors. I can understand why. There is a picture of hunters riding with their hounds that looks as if had been copied from a china cake plate of mine. And the flowers that are part of the show are really marvellous indeed.

The Women's Institutes apparently have quite an exhibit too. A pyramid of 450 jars of preserves, jams and jellies would be something to see. And the basket work, embroidery, wood carving and other crafts sound most interesting too. I'm sure the Royal Fair would be fun.

Yes, I'd love to go to England now. The estates with their big, old houses, the hedged fields, the castles, I'd love to visit them all. But as far as I can see, until I can find a little more time and a lot more money I'll have to be content to sit at home in my rocking chair and read about England in the magazines.

November and the Beginning Of Winter

The cold days are here again. You can tell by that indefinable "something" in the air winter is at hand. You'll sense it perhaps when walking in the woods. There is a stillness, such a complete lack of any sound that the sudden calling of a chick-a-dee only serves to emphasize the quietness. I don't know whether country dwellers are more sensitive to these things than are those who live in the cities. Transport the city slicker to the backwoods or small town where the view of the sky is not obscured by towering apartment buildings and he can probably smell snow just like we can. Smell snow? Sure, and I don't mean fresh falling snow or snow that is blanketing the ground, but the smell of snow before it starts to fall. This sense or faculty is more highly developed among the people who inhabit the rural areas. Yup, I'm an old snow-smeller myself and this morning when I poked my head outside it was snow I smelled even though the sun was shining. Somehow, though, I have a feeling my olfactory senses may have gotten a bit confused. Here I am smelling snow and the rabbits haven't started to turn white. If my nose smells true and it snows there are going to be a lot of awful conspicuous and embarrassed bunnies running around the cedar swamps. As of just yesterday they show no signs of taking on the winter pelage.

November Sunshine Rationed

The November sun shines fitfully, even so there are days when it's warmth surprises and delights us, although you can never be quite sure of it. Today that old smell of snow in the air, same day last weekend and we treated a party of city folk who had come out for a morning's hunting to a barbecue lunch on the beach—deck chairs and shirt sleeves were the order of the occasion and cold beer in tall glasses the just-right pre-lunch beverage, after a long morning of tramping the countryside.

What to Wear?

Sort of hard to know how to dress for a day's outing when the weather may ring up two or three changes between sun-up and sundown. The city hunter who very likely spends quite a sizable sum on his hunting clothing, more often than not, is far less comfortable that the native or local outdoorsman who gets by with considerably smaller expenditures for equipment. Not that there is anything basically wrong with the city hunter's dress, except that he doesn't always know how to choose it and having chosen it, know how to wear it. The more experienced outdoorsmen favour the principle of insulation in layers against winter's cold. Rather than wearing one woollen shirt and heavy hunting coat as the city-bred nimrod often does our country-reared hun-

Hydro Plan for Rehabilitation of Morrisburg Rejected by Morrisburg-Williamsburg Planning Board

The Ontario Hydro Plan for the rehabilitation of Morrisburg has been rejected by the Morrisburg-Williamsburg Planning Board as not acceptable in its present form.

Action stemmed from a report on the plan prepared by King-Coons Ltd., of oTronto, and presented by J. S. L. King.

The Board authorized the Toronto firm to prepare a plan to fit the requirements in the Morrisburg scheme.

C. M. Crober was appointed chairman of the Board in place of F. H. Broder who resigned some weeks ago.

The following summary concluded the report:

Summary

"The Plan Reconstruction Project and Plan for Expansion presented by Ontario Hydro is a workable plan which would entail a minimum of expenditure by the Hydro at the cost of adversely affecting the future development of Morrisburg and the abutting areas of Williamsburg Township. Further, it may be concluded that the general principles underlaying the plan should be acceptable to the municipalities and that by means of co-operative negotiation a plan may be adopted which will preserve and enhance development without imposing an undue burden on the Ontario Hydro.

"We would recommend that the Morrisburg - Williamsburg Planning Board consider the plan not acceptable in its present form and request the Department of Planning and Development and (or) th Ontario Hydro to enter into discussions with them for the purpose of dtermining rehabilitation requirements and a method of fitting them to the continuing needs of the municipality."

The report dealt at some length with compensation and stated that the formula or terms under which the Ontario Hydro is prepared to compensate for loss of property is not known except in general terms.

Former Avonmore Doctor Dies in 88th Year

Dr. John T. Fowkes, who first practised medicine in Avonmore over 60 years ago, died at his LaFargeville, N.Y., home last week in his 88th year. Death was caused by a severe stroke which he suffered some weeks ago.

Dr. Fowkes was born in Sheffield, Eng., in 1867, a son of the late Rev. John and Elizabeth Guy Fowkes. His father, a former glazier and sign painter, was a Methodist minister in Canada.

The doctor came to Canada when he was four years old, attended high school at Kemptville and entered Wesleyan College in 1885. He was later enrolled at the medical school at Queen's University, at Kingston. He graduated from that institution with his degree in 1891.

Dr. Fowkes married Miss Ellen Grace Tinkess in a ceremony at Avonmore in 1889. Dr. and Mrs. Fowkes lived in Avonmore where, upon graduation from medical college, he practised medicine for the first time.

After leaving Avonmore, Dr. Fowkes set up his practice in Omar, N.Y., before going to LaFargeville where he had a lengthy practice.

Mrs. Fowkes passed away in June of this year in her 87th year. Dr. and Mrs. Fowkes were frequent visitors to Avonmore during the years.

Left to mourn his passing are one son, Dr. John T. Fowkes, Jr., a practicing physician in Clayton, N.Y., a sister, a brother, a half-sister and a niece.

Funeral services were held in LaFargeville with burial in the Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Casselman Laid to Rest

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Casselman were conducted at the Fitzsimmons Funeral Home, Iroquois, by Rev. J. L. Kirchhofer, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg.

Mrs. Casselman was born in Williamsburg in 1873, a daughter of Isaac Casselman and Martha Merkley. In 1897, she married Ellery S. Casselman who predeceased her in 1953.

They resided in Williamsburg and Dundela for a number of years, moving to Iroquois in 1924, where they resided until the death of Mr. Casselman, after which Mrs. Casselman lived with her daughter, Mrs. Howard Saddlemire, at Williamsburg.

Her body was taken to Fitzsimmons Funeral Home, Iroquois, where numerous friends and relatives called to pay resepect to her memory.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Howard Saddlemire (Rita), Williamsburg; a son, Garnet, Iroquois; a number of grandchildren, great-grandchildren, great great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Interment was in the family plot at Dundela Cemetery.

Mrs. T. D. Ross Speaks At Mission Band Meeting

The Mission Band of South Mountain United Church held a Thankoffering service in the church. Mrs. Arnold Dulmage, the president of the Woman's Missionary Society, was in charge. They had as guest speaker, Mrs. T. D. Ross, of Chesterville, Presbyterial secretary of Mission Bands, who gave an inspiring address on India and introduced the new study book, assisted by members of the Mission Band.

The choir, consisting of members of the Band, rendered several numbers under the leadership of the organist, Miss Marlene Mohr.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Dulmage and thanked for her excellent address.

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

Finch Board of Trade Sponsors Hallowe'en Party Goblins, Gremlins and Glamour Girls Enliven Evening

Finch Community Hall was the centre of fun and frolic on Saturday evening when the Board of Trade sponsored their annual Hallowe'en party. Witches flew and black cats howled at 8 o'clock when the parade, led by Piper Jack MacRae, of Crysler, on the fire engine, travelled down Main Street and the masqueraders were piped to the Community Hall where the Grand Parade was held and the judges were almost stymnied trying to choose the winners.

Rev. H. M. Beach acted as master of ceremonies and was assisted by Mr. H. Middleton and the judges.

One of the oldest masqueraders was Mrs. W. J. Sutherland, aged 75 years, who wore the dress in which she captured first prize for the prettiest dress and the best dancer at a reproduction of the Gold Rush of '98 which was held in the arena in Fairbanks, Alaska. Over this dress she wore a plaidie with pire, that was worn by her father, D. P. MacKinnon, when he went to Montreal, after the Boer War, to meet Lord Dundonald, his cousin.

MacMillan—McNeil

St. Paul's United Church, Ormstown, was decorated with baskets of gladioli and marigolds and white tapers when Doris Bery McNeil, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam A. McNeil, Ormstown, Que., became the bride of Robert Keith MacMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacMillan, of Finch. Rev. I. Johnston officiated at the wedding. Mrs. Percy Osmond rendered the wedding music and during the signing of the register Percy Osmond sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long Chantilly lace redingote over satin and nylon net. Her fingertip veil was held by a tiny cap embroidered with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Doris Martin, as bridesmaid, wore blue nylon net over taffeta. Her lace bolero was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar and her headdress was of pleated net embroidered with pearls. She carried a nosegay of bronze and blue 'mums. Miss Doris Henderson, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a taffeta gown with overskirts of net and a headdress of pleated net. Her nosegay was of br nze and yellow 'mums.

Barbara and Margaret Harvey, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

Earl MacMillan, Finch, was best man. Arthur Henderson, Ormstown, and Lloyd Wylie, Ottawa, were ushers.

Following a reception at MacDougall Hall, the couple left by motor for Vermont and Maine. On their return they will reside in Finch.

Out-of-town guests were from Kinnear's Mills, Ottawa, Watersfield, Vt., Finch, Avonmore, Crysler, Wales, Newington, Granby and Stanbridge East.

capitalize on his long struggle Death comes to snatch away his chance and he is faced with a calamity for which he has made no preparation. His whole life has been selfishly lived, and now the self is being called into judgement and the realization belatedly dawns that it has no defence in the face of prosecution. This man did not discover the truth of life, and no death-bed repentance can change that. The realization that life should have been lived differently to yield something of worth has come too late.

The application of the Parable is sufficiently broad to include the daily life of every man, as Luke makes clear. No one must think, for example, that because he is not interested in becoming a millionaire that this does not apply to him. What our Lord is saying is that man will be in difficulty at every turn of life's road if he seeks only "treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God." In the multitudinous tasks of everyday life how constantly do we seek to build treasure for the Lord? If life is to bring any measure of satisfaction it can only be because we are concerned with God's will rather than our own.

OUTDOOR ROUNDUP—

ter dresses in layers. He may have on woollen underwear, two shirts, a sweater and a light, but windproof outer-jacket. This provides inslation in layers. If it gets too warm he can take off a shirt or sweater. If it rains, it takes quite a while for water to soak through the many layers of clothing and wind will not penetrate.

Watch Those Feet

The difference between the man who lives all the time in the woods and the occasional city visitor is especially noticeable in their footwear. The city man has often heard that high-topped boots that lace to the knee are unwise to use because they cramp the leg muscles, stop circulation and lead to chilly feet. That's true enough—if they are laced to the knee. The year-around woodsman often wears them, however, because of their protection for the lower leg in rough going, but he simply laces them to the ankle and lets the rest flop open. And he either stuffs his jeans inside the tops or pulls then down over the boots. The very warmest of all footwear is strictly country-style. It consists of felt stockings worn inside rubber arctics or galoshes, too warm though, for all but the coldest weather.

THREE GOOD FRUIT CAKES

OF COURSE you can buy excellent Christmas cakes from your baker but you may be one of those who still prefer to make your own cake. And, too, you may want to make your own almond paste instead of using some from a can so I am including a recipe for that also.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

3 eggs
2 cups white sugar
1 cup butter
3 cups flour
1½ tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 lb. seeded raisins
1 cup cocoanut
½ lb. figs (cut finely)
½ lb. mixed peel
1 small bottle red cherries
1 small bottle green cherries
½ cup milk

Cream the butter, add sugar slowly and beaten eggs. Beat together until light. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and to this add the raisins, cut in pieces, the shredded cocoanut, the peel cut in thin slices, the cherries drained and dried slightly in the oven and cut in small pieces.

Add flour and fruit mixture alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Blend thoroughly. This recipe will make two loaves. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

RICH FRUIT CAKE

The following recipe will make four medium-sized cakes:

1¼ lbs. butter
1¼ lbs. light brown sugar
13 eggs
1¼ lbs. flour
2 tsps. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. mace
2 lbs. currants
3 lbs. raisins
½ lb. dates
½ lb. almonds
1 lb. citron peel
½ cup orange juice
½ cup strong coffee

In making a large fruit cake, it is best to prepare the fruit one day and bake the cake the following day. To do this, pick over, wash and dry the currants; wash, seed and cut the raisins; wash, dry and stone the dates; cut the peel into very thin pieces; blanche the almonds and cut in small pieces. Mix the fruit and nuts and dredge with 1-3 cup of the flour. Also dredge the citron peel with flour. If you neglect to dredge the fruit and nuts with flour they will stick together in lumps and it will be almost impossible to mix them thoroughly with the other ingredients.

In mixing the cake use the following method: Cream the butter thoroughly. Add sifted sugar slowly, beat until very light. Add one-quarter of the flour and spices mixed and sifted together. Add yolks of eggs, well beaten, then whites, beaten stiff; beat the mixture until very light. Add fruit juice and coffee alternately with remaining flour; beat well. Add fruit, one-third at a time. Pour mixture into pans which have been carefully lined with three thicknesses of paper, of which the top layer has been buttered. The pans should not be more than two-thirds full. Bake in a very slow oven 3 to 4 hours. If steamed for 2½ hours and baked for 1 hour the cake will be more moist.

RIBBON FRUIT CAKE

Black Part

1½ cups sugar
1 cup butter
6 egg yolks
2 cups flour
1½ lbs. raisins
1 lb. currants
½ lb. citron
¼ lb. nut meats
2-3 cup vinegar
1 tsp. soda
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. allspice

Cream the sugar, add the butter and cream together until well blended. Add the eggs and beat well. Use a little of the flour to dredge the fruit and nuts; sift together the remainder of the flour, spices and soda. Add flour mixture and vinegar alternately; blend well, add the fruit and nuts.

White Part

6 egg whites
1 cup white sugar
½ cup butter
½ cup milk or cream
2½ cups flour
3 tsps. baking powder
1 lb. finely chopped almonds
½ lb. citron
½ lb. cocoanut
1 tsp. rose water
1 tsp. lemon juice

Cream the butter and the sugar; add the milk or cream, then sifted dry ingredients, nuts and fruit; mix well add flavouring and lastly fold in beaten egg whites.

Bake in a greased tin, putting in first a layer of black, then a layer of white and so on until it is all used. Bake in a slow oven.

ALMOND ICING

1 lb. shelled almonds
3 egg yolks
1 lb. icing sugar
1 tsp. rosewater
½ tsp. bitter almond flavouring

Blanch almonds; put through the food chopper or roll with a rolling pin. Work to a paste; add unbeaten yolks, flavouring and sugar gradually. Work until very smooth, adding more sugar if necessary. Sprinkle board with icing sugar, place almond paste on it and roll to required shape. Moisten the top of cake with cold water, press icing on it, allow to stand 24 hours before frosting.

FROSTING FOR FRUIT CAKE

1¾ cups icing sugar
½ cup condensed milk
1½ tsps. vanilla

Stir sifted icing sugar into the condensed milk. Add vanilla. Beat until smooth and creamy. This frosting has the advantage that it does not get too hard.
