Chosen at provincial annual

Clayton Ouderkirk heads PCs

FINCH (Staff) - Osnabruck Township councillor Clayton "Oscar" Ouderkirk was elected president of the SD&G provincial Progressive Conservative Association at its annual meeting here last Wednesday.

Mr. Ouderkirk, last year's first vice-president, takes over from Alexandria Mayor Bruno Massie, now immediate past-president.

Presidency of the SD&G PC Association rotates from county to county much like the wardenship of the Three United Counties. Last year it was Dundas County's turn as Morrisburg lawyer the late Bill Gorrell served as co-president with Mr. Massie.

Clayton Ouderkirk

The co-presidency was a new system introduced after redistribution merged Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry into one riding. The purpose of this system was to ensure a bilingual person would be at the top executive position.

Under the rotating system the next president should be newly-elected first vice-president Yvonne McDonell, North Lancaster. Mr. Massie told The Record he will assist Mr. Ouderkirk as immediate past president in order to ensure bilingualism at the top.

Mr. Ouderkirk told The Record the provincial organization has no immediate plans for the future except to "key in on the (expected) federal election."

Since the provincial organization overlaps into two federal ridings, Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry-Prescott-Russell, it will be working with both federal associations, Mr. Ouderkirk said.

"You generally go about both races with the same horses," he stated in a reference to federal-provincial party co-operation.

In other results Chesterville's Fay Shaver was named the new secretary-financial officer, Basil Dawley, Winchester, becomes second vice-president, Archie Byers, Crysler, third vice and Elizabeth Locke-McIntosh, fourth vice.

United Counties Warden Ewart Simms, Mountain, Charles Farlinger, Morrisburg, and Steven Ault, Winchester, were named directors for Dundas County.

Stormont's directors are Donald Eamon, Lunenburg, Francoise Landry, Crylser and Robert MacGregor, Avonmore.

Glengarry's three directors are Ron McDonell, Alexandria, Jeanette Abbey, Lancaster and Kenneth Rock, Lancaster.

Over-quota levy under attack

SPENCERVILLE (Staff) - Region Two milk committee members gave the thumbs down to several provisions in the Canadian Dairy Commission's (CDC) new 16-month quota transition period at their Spring Regional Meeting here last Thursday.

Committee members voted overwhelmingly to have the CDC pay interest on over-quota levies imposed during any of the quarters of the changeover period and let the Ontario Milk Marketing Board (OMMB) know of their displeasure at the elimination of the province's lending program.

Spring Regional Meetings are organized by the OMMB early in the new dairy year to get the feeling of county committee members on the requirements of the new national policy and the board's policy in Ontario.

This year, for he first time since quotas were introduced, the Market Sharing Quota year does not coincide with the dairy year as the CDC attempts to end the seasonality industrial milk production. The dairy year will still run from April 1, 1978 to March 31, 1979 but the quota year has been changed to April 1, 1978 to July 31, 1979.

Quota will be allocated to producers on a quarterly basis and those who ship over their quota during any of the quarters will be charged a levy of $7.50 a hundredweight, regardless of whether they still retain milk shipping entitlement for the rest of the year.

Simplified, this means that if a producer who has a quota of 10,000 lbs. a quarter ships 12,000 lbs. during the first four months of the year, he will be charged a levy of $150. He will not be allowed to apply his over-shipment to the next quarter's production and his levy will not be returned until the end of the 16-month period. The levy will not be returned if his shipments for the year are over quota.

This is what rankled the county committeemen last Thursday and on a motion presented by Allison Fawcett, Inkerman, they voted against the commission being allowed to hold back the levy without having to pay interest on it.

OMMB vice-chairman Grant Smith explained that the interest the commission earns on the levy is to help offset costs of exporting surplus dairy products but Mr. Fawcett pressed on, saying the government is holding the farmer's livelihood in its hands and should be made to pay interest if the levies have to be returned.

Mr. Fawcett said farmers still have to pay interest on their loans whether or not they ship over-quota and his argument was accepted by all but three of the committee members.

His motion is not binding on the board, but note was taken of it and Mr. Smith said it would be discussed in Toronto.

Several committee members expressed their opposition to the province's elimination of its quota lending program, saying a program could be devised with built-in safeguards against the abuses last year's scheme contained.

Mr. Smith said last year's program, which he originally supported, had turned into a "mockery".

What had been originally designed as a lending program had turned into a selling program with the result that, "Some producers made more by renting quota than they did by selling milk."

The lending program got the province into trouble, he explained.

Last year Ontario produced three per cent of its milk in the sleeve - within quota but in excess of demand - and this amount coincided almost exactly with the amount of quota lent in the province.

This sleeve production has angered other provinces which kept their milk production within demand and is going to end up costing the province about $2-million.

Stan Baldwin of Dundas said the simple solution would be to eliminate lending milk production entitlement which was within the sleeve and other committee members said the lending program is needed to help producers keep within the 90 per cent maintenance clause.

Several committee members said industrial shippers should

Pilot seeking NDP nod

CORNWALL (Staff) - Forty-six-year-old city resident Brian Peters is the first to announce his candidacy for the New Democratic Party's nomination in Stormont-Dundas.

Mr. Peters made the announcement Monday and at press time was the only person to declare himself a candidate.

The party's nominating convention will be held in the Parkway Inn, Cornwall, tonight (Wednesday).

A native of Quebec City and resident of Montreal until two years ago, Mr. Peters is a DC-8 captain with Air Canada and last week was called to the bar. He told The Record he plans to begin practising law in Cornwall after the election.

Mr. Peters, who stood for the NDP in the Quebec riding of Brome-Missisquoi in 1974, was recently chosen president of the party's riding association.

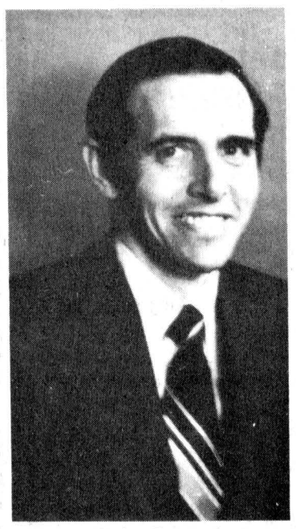
With his announcement, all three parties have candidates seeking nomination. MP Ed Lumley announced two weeks ago that he would seek the Liberal nomination again and last week Charlottenburgh Township's controversial reeve Adrian Gadbois announced he would seek the Conservative nomination.

Mr. Peters said Monday he would base his candidacy on finding solutions to the country's economic problems and would attempt to "crystallize the discontent" with the Liberal government's approach to the economy.

Short term government programs such as temporary tax cuts and employment incentive grants are not the answers to the difficulties the country faces, he said.

The government has to come up with long-term solutions, mainly in the area of limiting foreign ownership. He says he is in favor of restructing the country's financial establishment so that more continuity can be introduced into the economy.

Bilingual himself - says he has "95 per cent fluency in French" - Mr. Peters says he is in favor of language choice in education from coast to coast. "Personally, I think I've lived a much richer life because I'm bilingual."



Brian Peters

Asked about support from Cornwall's unions, Mr. Peters said he hadn't contacted them as of Monday but would in the event of an election.

"I'm a member of a union myself (Canadian Air Line Pilots Association) and I realize their importance," he said.

Mr. Peters admitted the party is weak in the rural areas of the riding and said the NDP would have to run "more of an educational campaign" in the agricultural districts.

As for party farm policies, Mr Peters said he would stress the importance the NDP places on commodity marketing systems, which cut out the middle man and give farmers larger returns on their investment.

Rising farmland costs caused by speculation threaten the industry and are removing too much prime land from production.

The result is that young farmers face a harder time in trying to get established and with land going out of production, more food has to be imported from the U.S., causing "a further drag on our economy", Mr. Peters said.

Mike Nelson, a grade eight student at Maple Ridge Senior Elementary School, slides into a little trombone music during last Tuesday night's Education Week open house. The Maple Ridge Senior Band had a good weekend at the Kinsmen Music Festival in Cornwall, winning the overall elementary and junior high school championships as well as several individual awards (see page nine) and last Tuesday night Bart Steele won the county intermediate public speaking title (see page 16).

Tayside Muck Farms

New concept in farming

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - A revolutionary new multi-million dollar agro-industrial concept, labelled by its planners the "first of its kind in Ontario" received the first step towards approval from Roxborough council last week.

At a special meeting last Monday, council approved a zoning bylaw change which would clear the way for development of Tayside Muck Farms.

The next stages include a public meeting at which any objections may be raised by township residents followed by a petition to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

Steven Bedford, planning consultant with the Pickering firm Jack Jacobsen Construction Ltd., developers of the project, says the project is a "market-garden village" in which both vegetable production and processing would be available on the spot.

Six charged after fracas

(Staff) - Six people have been charged with assaulting police and four police officers were injured following a scuffle at Glen Becker about a half-a-mile east of highway 31 Saturday night. Morrisburg OPP report two officers were sent to investigate an impaired driving call and were attacked by about 40 persons. Ten more officers were then sent down to assist the two. Arrested were Glen Becker area residents Rocky Richmire, Alfred Hutt, Lyle Tyo, Arnold Casselman, Margaret Richmire and Richard Hutt, Cardinal. Corporal Eric Riddell, and Constables Jennifer Montour, Paul Cordes and Pete Meilleur were injured with minor abrasions.

Nitty gritty

(Staff) - Stormont-Dundas federal Liberals get down to the nitty gritty of choosing their candidate for the upcoming federal election at Cornwall's Civic Complex tomorrow (Thursday) at 8pm. Scheduled guest speaker is Finance Minister Jean Chretien.

Loyalist cause examined

(Staff) - "They who loved the cause that lost" - a slide presentation on the United Empire Loyalists - will be the topic of the address of Varick Chittenden of Canton, NY, at the Sun., May 7 meeting of the Glengarry Genealogical Society at St. Mary's Centre, Williamstown. Mr. Chittenden was guest speaker at last year's annual meeting of the SD&G Historical Society and was invited to the Glengarry meeting because of the local content in his presentation.

Ingleside bike-a-thon

(Staff) - Ingleside-Osnabruck Rotarians will sponsor a 40-kilometre bike-a-thon on the Long Sault Parkway Sat., May 6 to raise money to help finance the car the club recently donated to the Cornwall office of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Sponsor sheets are now available at schools and at the Treasure Island Inn, Causeway Restaurant, Long Sault, and Charlie's Sports Shop, Morrisburg. The club is hoping for participation from adults as well as from the township's children in the fund-raising effort.

Eugene Whelan on new dairy policy

Producer, consumer subsidized

SPENCERVILLE (Staff) - Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan described and defended his new national dairy policy to an audience of farmers here last Thursday night, telling them the policy is a "pretty good one" and has even brought "some reluctant compliments".

The policy continues to assist both the dairy farmer and the consumer with the federal government committing $329-million this year to back the industry. "And I would point out that by today's standards of cutbacks and dollar awareness, that's big commitment on the part of the government," he said.

Criticism is to be expected, especially from consumers who are being asked to pay a little more for dairy products this year, and he said it is being directed not only at himself, but at the Canadian Dairy Commission and the Ontario Milk Marketing Board.

But the minister pointed out that subsidies paid to farmers also end up helping the consumer by keeping food prices below non-supported levels.

In describing the policy, announced April 14, he said Market Sharing Quota will stay the same this year. "We're shooting for 103.7-million hundredweights, allowing for a five-per-cent sleeve. The federal subsidy, which has stayed the same at $2.66 a hundred, will be paid on all milk delivered within that projected national requirement."

He said the target price of industrial milk this year has been increased to $12.42 a hundred, yielding an increased net return of 76 cents a hundred more than on April 1, 1977. The increase was due to the economic indices that trigger the formula which governs the target return, he said.

Agriculture Canada has budgeted an extra $9.8-million to help out with the costs of exporting surplus dairy products while producers' share of export costs is expected to drop from $125-million to $104-million, the minister said.

Providing producers stay within their production limits, they should be able to handle their export costs, he said.

The minister said dairy farmers have a little incentive to keep to their production limits this year because of the introduction of the 20-cent contingency levy, which will only be returned if production stays below the five-per-cent sleeve.

The policy's nuts and bolts are very clear and the incentive to remain within Canadian requirement levels is equally clear, the minister said.

The new 16-month quota transition period has been introduced to help the producer deal with the problem of seasonality of production, Mr. Whelan said.

"I am convinced that by running the dairy year from August 1 to July 31, producers will get a far better chance of balancing their production to that it remains relevant to Canadian requirements. I don't want to see any more producers running out of quota long before their year is up. And I hope that this will indirectly help towards promoting total integration of Canada's dairy industry. We're looking at 1979 as a kickoff date for that change."

The minister said as a further boost to the industry cheese import quotas have been cut by 5-million lbs. to 45-million this year.

The quota reduction is a challenge to processors, who have said in the past they could produce the product if given the market.

The ball is now in their court and the minister said he hoped they would live up to their claims and keep the Canadian public buying cheese in increasing quantities.

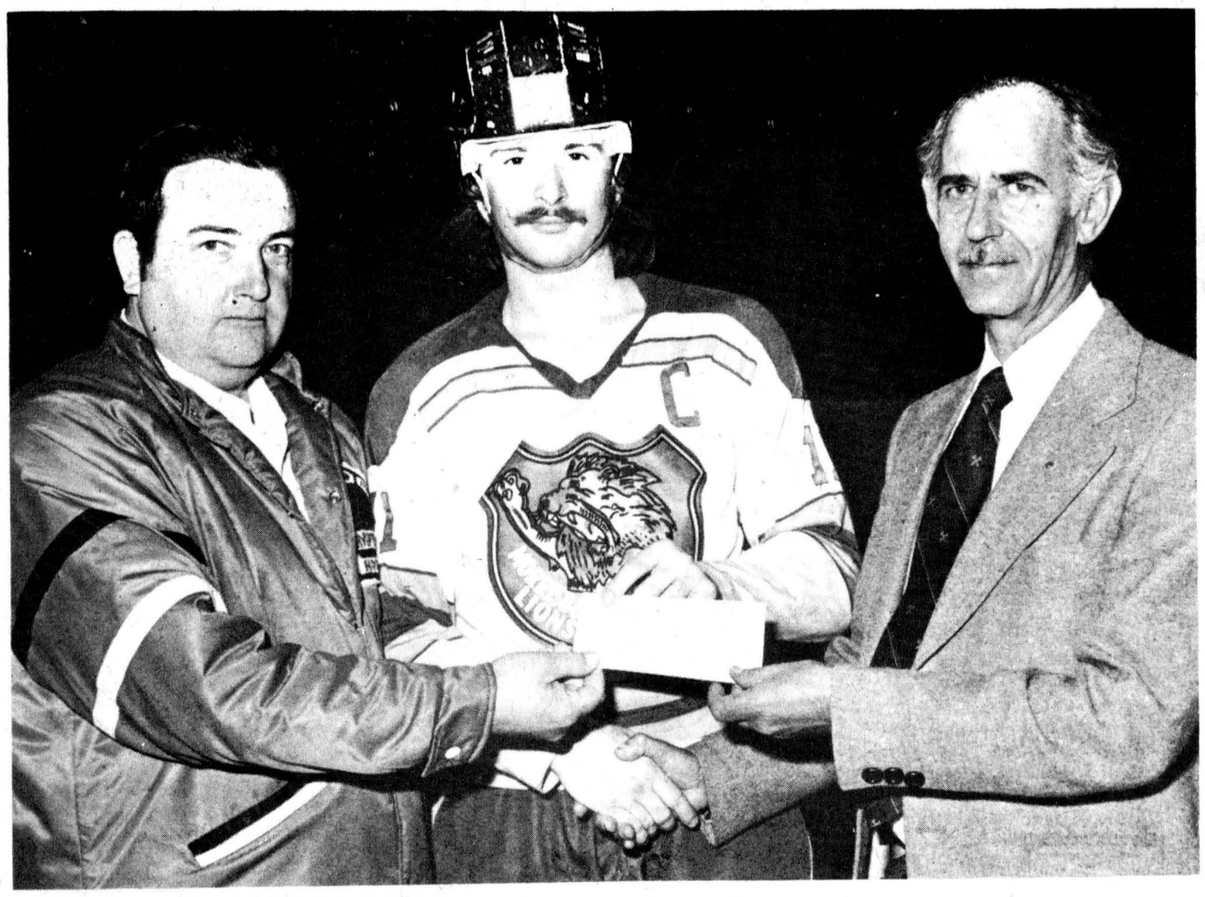
Specialty cheeses show the most growth potential in the industry with Canadians increasing their consumption last year by seven per cent, to 157-million lbs. At the same time, cheddar consumption fell off by six per cent, to 169-million lbs.

An increase of over 50 per cent in the Canadian Dairy Foods Bureau budget to promote dairy products should halt the slide in cheddar consumption and stop the continuing decline in the consumption of butter, Mr. Whelan said.

Coupled with the increased promotion budget, the dairy foods bureau is receiving more money for product research and development, especially from skim milk powder which has a low enough cholesterol level to be acceptable to all age groups.

The minister said dairy producers should also be encouraged by recent studies which he claimed have shown that much of the medical opinion on the dangers of cholesterol is unfounded.

"We're now finding out that we need some cholesterol in our systems in order to remain healthy and we're also finding out that certain spreads which are brought to a high temperature are harder to digest than dairy products," Mr. Whelan said.



Lions donate $1,000 to Steve Gorman Fund

have the maintenance requirement reduced from 90 to 85 or 80 per cent. They said that with the five-per-cent sleeve at the top end of their quota they are left with only five per cent of their production to play with.

Both Mr. Smith and Region Two board member Dwight Bennett of Kemptville agreed that perhaps the maintenance clause could be looked at particularly if under-utilization threatens to transfer quota out of the province.

Mr. Smith said the same point is being made at other regional meetings and would be studied seriously by the board.

A new concept in agricultural technology

Plans call for the creation of a 150-acre, 100-home hamlet along with a 25-acre industrial and storage plant and a 35-acre site for a highway service centre and local commercial park on a 2,000 total-acre site at the south-west corner of highways 138 and 417.

Remaining land will be divided into 20- to 35-acre lots which will be sold to farmers for growing vegetables.

Mr. Bedford said a farmer will have to buy one of the housing lots in order to qualify for land purchase, but he won't be limited in how many parcels of land he may buy.

The housing lots, said Mr. Bedford, will be separated from the actual agricultural land. The purpose is to make full use of muck land for construction purposes since it isn't very viable agriculturally.

By constructing the processing plant right in the complex, Mr. Bedford said, Tayside Muck Farms hopes to make it easier for farmers to transport their produce. The farmer, however, is not obligated to sell to the Tayside processor. He may sell anywhere he wants.

The Tayside project, he said, is "moving away from the North American concept of agriculture where the farmer lives right on the farm."

Mr. Bedford said this project is somewhat similar to the Holland Marsh development northwest of Toronto, but there are differences, in that farmers will not be living right on the farms.

Cost of the land cultivation and servicing alone is an estimated $4-million and beyond that, said Mr. Bedford, he has no way of estimating the cost.

Development of the project would proceed "one step at a time" starting with construction of the packaging plant which Mr. Bedford said the company hopes to start in summer.

Initially it was hoped farmers could start growing this year, but there won't be enough time to begin spring planting and Mr. Bedford said he hopes they can get moved in in the fall so spring planting could start in 1979.

IN MEMORIAMS

IN MEMORIAM

FERGUSON — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Linda, who passed away suddenly April 24, 1971. Age 17 years.
No one knows our heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell,
Of the grief we bear in silence,
For the one we loved so well.
Deep in our heart you will always stay,
Loved and remembered every day,

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Roy A. Simpson who departed this Life April 21, 1977.

And that the one I loved so well,
Has only gone before.

Milk committee regional meeting

Fifty-seven county milk committee members, OMMB fieldmen and OMAF representatives attended last Thursday's Spring Regional Meeting for Dundas, Grenville, Leeds and Frontenac Counties in Spencerville. The committee members listened to, front, OMMB Region Two board member Dwight Bennett and OMMB vice-chairman Grant Smith explain 1978-79 dairy policy. With the two board members are standing from left, Bill Morland, Frontenac, Russell Bennett, Grenville, Bruce Garlough, Dundas and Arthur Chant, Leeds.

Quota period brings new rules

SPENCERVILLE (Staff) - Designed to end seasonality of milk production, the Canadian Dairy Commission's new 16-month quota period has brought a host of new regulations into effect for Ontario's dairy producers.

The new 16-month period, which began April 1, will act as lead-in time to the new quota year, to begin in 1979, which will see milk production entitlement changed from the April 1 - March 31 dairy year to production based on an August 1 - July 31 basis.

The new dates for the quota year were chosen by the CDC to supply industrial milk processors with adequate supplies for the winter months, when farmers traditionally run out of quota.

To end the April to July flush, quota will be allocated on a quarterly basis during the changeover period, Ontario Milk Marketing Board vice-chairman Grant Smith explained to Region Two milk committee members at their spring meeting here last Thursday. Region Two comprises the counties of Dundas, Grenville, Leeds and Frontenac.

Mr. Smith said Ontario will receive the same amount of quota - 30.8-million hundredweights - during the first 12 months of the new period as it did in the 1977-78 dairy year. Production in the last quarter of the new period will be based on production in the first four months of the 1977-78 year. During that time, national production was 41.2-million cwt. with Ontario's share at 12.6-million cwt.

Quota in the first four months of the new year will be the same as April-July production of last year. Twenty-five per cent of the yearly quota will be allocated in the second quarter, 19 per cent in the third and 26 per cent in the fourth.

Mr. Smith said an easy way for producers to calculate this would be take their quota as of April 1 and add on the amount they actually produced in the first four months of last year. This total would be the total amount of MSQ they will hold for the next 16 months.

He stressed that the extra four months' quota is based on the amount they actually produced in the first four months of the 1977-78 dairy year.

Regulations to avoid against increased seasonality of production will be rigidly enforced and call for levies of $7.50 per hundredweight to be charged against over-quota production in any of the four periods of the new year.

The levies will not be refunded until the end of March, 1979, even if an individual's MSQ deliveries on subsequent periods were below the percentages allowed in those periods.

He stressed that for the quarterly system to work, the penalties must be held until the end of the dairy year.

However, under production in any quarter may be compensated for by increasing production in the next, he said.

Quota can still be bought and sold but the final four months' entitlement cannot be sold except in the case of the sale of an ongoing operation, Mr. Smith said.

He also explained that purchased quota may be spread over the entire 16-month period.

Dundas committee member Stan Baldwin told Mr. Smith many farmers misunderstand the new policy and are producing on the assumption that they will be allowed to sell the same amount in the last quarter as they sell in the first four months of the year.

This is causing many to overproduce now in the mistaken belief that they will be allowed to ship an equivalent amount during April-July of 1979. The result is that many will run over quota during this quarter.

Mr. Baldwin said this misinformation is "passing through the grapevine". Region Two board member Dwight Bennett said he preferred to call the "grapevine" a "vacuum" and told committee members it is their duty to "fill this vacuum with facts."

Mr. Smith said the board will be sending out letters to each producer explaining their 16-month entitlement. The letters will go out early next month, he said.

Village Kub Kar reps

(Special) - Curtis Hamill, George Armstrong and Peter Vanderlind represented First Chesterville Cub Pack on April 22 at a regional Kub Kar Rally in Deep River.

On April 2 they attended the St. Lawrence District Rally in Prescott and Curtis finished second in the A division and George finished first in the B division to advance to the regional rally in Deep River.

There were seven districts represented at the rally, Algonquin, Rideau Lakes, St. Lawrence, South Frontenac, Kingston, Petawawa and Mississippi.

Winners in divisions A and B were Stephen Downey and Calvin Andrews, both from the Mississippi region. Curtis Hamill came fourth in the B division. Peter Vanderlind entered his car in the design portion of the competition.

Board says union local causing unemployment

CORNWALL (Staff) - The SD&G separate school board has charged the union representing its maintenance workers with reponsibility for the cancellation of a Canada Works project.

Three men employed under the project were laid off Friday and a fourth has been given two extra weeks at board cost to sort out loose ends after the board voted at its camera meeting last Tuesday to cancel the project rather than agree to union demands these employees become regular union members.

Cause of the decision was a grievance filed by local 1223 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees that employment of non-unionized maintenance personnel violated the collective agreement between the board and the union.

Maurice Godard, president of Local 1223, told The Record Monday the union had not lodged a grievance over an earlier Canada Works project because in the previous case the workers had only been hired for three months.

This time, said Mr. Godard, the period of employment was for 11 months and the union felt these workers should become regular members.

He said the union asked the board to scratch the program if the workers were not allowed to be unionized.

The Canada Works employees were hired in the third week of January to repair and clean radiators, take inventory and repair small engines such as lawnmowers.

Three of the workers received $160 a week while the fourth, the project manager, was paid $195. Under union scale they would have been paid $237 a week along with a more comprehensive fringe benefit package which includes disability insurance, dental and prescription plans, life insurance and a separate pension plan, all of which are not offered under Canada Works.

Board chairman Jules Renaud said the board is trying to practise restraint and "we try not to increase personnel".

"This is a government-sponsored program to reduce unemployment. They were not hired to be permanent employees," he told The Record Monday.

If the four workers were to become union members their salaries and fringe benefits would be higher and this was not the intent of the government, he stated.

In a statement released this week the board blames the union local's grievance action for the layoff.

"It is unfortunate that union interference has caused the loss of a good opportunity to relieve unemployment in the area," reads the statement.

Mr. Renaud however, admits the union may have had a point in filing the procedure.

"We may have been misinterpreting this situation, but this is the way we see it," he stated.

So far the laid off employees have been reserving comment.

Eugene Whelan:

Larger herds lead to animal diseases

SPENCERVILLE (Staff) - Increased menchanization allowing farmers to handle larger herds is one of the contributing factors to the increase in the spread of communicable diseases among farm animals, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan told about 200 members of the agricultural community at a dinner here last Thursday night.

Mechanized feeding lots allow farmers to handle larger numbers than he could 30 years ago, when a feedlot could handle only about 45 animals. Today, advances in farm technology have boosted that number to between 800 and 1,000.

But it's not in the beef business where the main problem and toughest solutions exist in 1978 - it's in the dairy sector, Mr. Whelan said.

In dairy, Mr. Whelan said the biggest problem is presented by brucellosis, which can cut farm returns as well as pose a health problem to humans.

"We have a pretty good record in other diseases. We only suffer from the occasional, isolated outbreak of bluetongue and the one touch of it we had last year in BC was very quickly dealt with. But brucellois is a different thing.

The minister said there are a lot of Eastern Ontario dairy farmers who must be worried about the new, tighter controls but it's a tough problem demanding a tough solution.

He explained that basically the new regulations are designed to control the movement of cattle from areas of higher incidence of the disease.

Basically, the regulations require blood tests before cattle can be moved from one herd to another before they can be shown at an agricultural fair or sold through an auction barn as well as the listing of herds and designating areas of the country according to the prevalance of the disease.

There's no question that the uncontrolled movement of cattle has helped spread the disease in the past but Mr. Whelan said things are improving.

"Right now we have 685 herds under quarantine for brucellosis in Ontario and Quebec and 140 herds in the low-incidence region. There's only one herd under quarantine in the brucellosis-free zone!"

(Because of the higher incidence of brucellosis in Ontario and Quebec, the provinces are "non-designated" areas. The country's other two regions, defined by the prevalence of the disease, are the low incidence areas of Nova Scotia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, and the brucellosis-free areas of Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.)

Mr. Whelan said of the new regulations, "There's no question that, for them to do the job they're supposed to, they're going to mean more work and more care at the farm level. And I appreciate the fact that today's farmer has more than enough to do already. But the fact remains, those regulations are designed to do a job for the farmer. They're designed to clean up the incidence of contagious diseases and thos diseases, particularly brucellosis, are killers when it comes to profit on investment."

Chesterville — a clean place to live

Spring is sprung, The grass is riz, I wonder where the garbage cans is?" Monday morning village recreation director Rick St. Dennis and works foreman Richard Sharkey answered that question as the two, with the aid of Pete Monast, replaced the concrete refuse receptacles on King and Main Streets. The receptacles were purchased last year by the Chamber of Commerce, individual merchants and village council and aided greatly in keeping the shopping district free of litter. - staff photo -

Whelan wants key to open doors

(Staff) - Communication and information are the keys to opening the door between farmers and consumers, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan told farmers at a dinner-meeting in Spencerville last Thursday night.

Consumers must understand that it costs less for food in Canada than anywhere else in the world. Even though they have to dig a little deeper in their pockets for food money, Mr. Whelan said, "Canadian consumers are the best off in the world."

It's the job of farmers and their organizations to make them understand this, he said.

Increased target prices for industrial milk this year mean the support price for butter and skim milk powder will increase five and two cents a pound respectively." ...I would point out that every time we increase the price to the producer, the price to the consumer take a corresponding hike...Now, every time butter goes up, a few more people push their supermarket strollers right past the butter display case to the margarine shelf next door.

"It's the same thing with cheese. It's the same thing with milk," Mr. Whelan said.

Because of the way Canadians have been raised, dairy products form a basic component of our diets and they are thought of as a right.

"And in today's society a right is something that should come for as near as free as possible. So I get a lot of criticism and so do people like the Canadian Dairy Commission, or the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, when the price of the product they control goes up," the minister said.

But consumers don't apply that rationale when they buy soft drinks or alcoholic beverages. They can go up and up and the consumer will just go right on buying."

Consumer education must be concentrate on providing them with information on the efforts of food producers and governments to make things easier for the food buying public, he said.

The federal government provides more than $500-million in assistance to those on fixed incomes and Canada's social services are superior to any in the world, yet when the $13-million subsidy on skim milk powder was eliminated "All hell broke loose and in the House of Commons I was called 'inhumane' and a 'food monster'. What wasn't taken into account was that consumption patterns are changing. We're getting too affluent to eat skim milk powder. We pay more for soft drinks with absolutely no food value but we scream when the price of dairy products increases or subsidies are removed."

The minster explained that an individually high level of education doesn't necessarily mean that a person is well nourished. A recently-sponsored government survey on nutrition proved this, Mr. Whelan said, by indicating there is as much malnutrition among the country's professional classes as there is in the lower economic groups.

Queen contest makes Osna. carnival success

INGLESIDE (Staff) - This year's Carnival Queen Pageant made the 1978 Osnabruck Township Winter Carnival an overwhelming financial success, according to committee treasurer Richard Waldroff.

Mr. Waldroff said the queen contest accounted for over two-thirds of the carnival's $3,014.40 net profit. Last year's carnival made a profit of 873.73.

"The income from the carnival was basically from the queen contest," he said. The contest, which adopted a new format with each of the contestants selling tickets and the girl selling the most tickets judged the winner, made a profit of almost $2,200.

Mr. Waldroff said the organizing committee, which met April 16, has recommed that a similar format be used for the 1979 contest although it will advise next year's committee that another dimension be added to the judging so that the queen will not be chosen solely on the number of tickets she sells.

The new committee will be chosen at a meeting in October.

Profits from this year's carnival will be used for community projects. Proposals are being invited from township residents and should be addressed to Ruth Pollock, Ingleside.

Mr. Waldroff said over half of the 1978 carnival activities made profits.

In addition to the carnival queen contest, these included the variety show ($408.40), euchre and pancake breakfast ($119), bingo ($6.13), turkey supper ($497), carnival dance ($40), bed races ($15), and arts and crafts display ($2.55).

On the debit side were the magic show ($18), parade ($39.19), movie ($57.52), volleyball tournament ($16.05), poster contest ($16.05) and skating races and costume contests ($27.15).

Among the expenses were $12.55 for mailing flyers and $27.15 for the carnival photographer.

Their attendants were the bride's cousin John Jordan and the groom's sister Alla Moore.

Resurrection message for Missionary Society

WILLIAMSBURG (Special) - Mission '78 is a festival of concern, of information, of sharing, about the mission work of the United Church of Canada, particularly as it relates to the local community.

The Congregation of Williamsburg United Church, recognizing a general lack of understanding about mission work in our church today wants to do something.

A weekend composed of three major events, begins with a session on Friday, April 28th, at 7:30pm, entitled "Issues", which focuses on a growth in our understanding of the mission work of the United Church of Canada. Rev. Roy C. Huntly, Associate Secretary, Montreal and Ottawa Conference staff, will be with us to assist in that process.

The festival atmosphere picks up Saturday, April 29. Events start at 1:30pm and continue to 4:00pm. They will consist of displays, slide and tape presentations, information sharing and dramatic skits, involving people from all over Seaway Valley.

The drama skits are directed by Mr. Mike Saver, Drama Resource Person for Seaway Valley Presbytery.

Some of the many needs and concerns in mission work, both locally and nationally, will be presented in an informal and informative manner, that promises, to raise our understaning in both an interesting and challenging way.

The final event, The Worship Service at 11am on Sunday, April 30, will climax the weekend's events in a worhsip experience which is shared, through the medium of recorded voice, with the Moderator, The Right Rev. George Tuttle, the Past Moderator, The Very Rev. Wilbur Howard, and the Secretary of Stewardship Services, The Rev. Jewitt Parr.

Music during the service will include Soloist, Dennis Millward singing "The Impossible Dream" and the Choir of the church singing "Climb Every Mountain". Both selections being accompanied by the Organist, Mrs. Emma Thompson.

The program co-ordinated by Mr.Wilbur Garlough, Mrs. Geo. Wright and Mrs. Kenneth Beckstead, will be held in the Williamsburg United Church the weekend of April 28 to 30.

The Congregation extends a warm and cordial invitation to all of their Christian friends, in Seaway Valley and the United Counties, to attend one or all of the events of MISSION '78, to share with them your insight, questions and concerns.

We do hope that you will be able to attend this important event and share with us in the life and work of all God's people.

Roxborough pondering over grass fire bylaw

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - Roxborough Township wants people who start grass fires to be liable for the cost of putting them out, but council realizes this may be hard to enforce.

At a special meeting last Monday council passed a resolution that anyone starting a grass fire will be liable for the fire protection costs incurred.

Clerk-treasurer Ed Wright said he is looking into the possibility of having the resolution passed as a bylaw.

However, Mr. Wright admits enforcing such a measure may be difficult.

"It's a pretty hard thing to do," he told The Record Monday. "Anyone can say it started on its own."

Mr. Wright said the township is having its lawyer look into the possibilities and will see what can be done from that point.

In other business council approved a motion to allow A.L. Blair Construction Ltd. to place a 14 by 10-foot structural plate arch pipe on the Monkland Drain, south of the village in the first concession.

the farmer's wife

by wyn thompson

April is like first love in Eastern Ontario. There is the tender excitement of it all...gathering the first crocus into a tiny cut glass vase, listening to the symphony of the birds.

But, like first love, April has bitter days. This morning we awoke to a sky as black as the inside of a 'mammy boot'. Leftover wind from March brought branches to the ground that had withstood all the winter blizzards.

The pond iced over in the night again and the confused robins toed around in a wormless world, while the winter birds made as much noise as a social hour after a hospital auxiliary meeting.

As the long, lovely light of April falls on pastures so lately deep in snow, I think about the way time passes.

"Let us spend one day as deliberately as Nature," Thoreau said. There is no hurry in nature, season moves gently into season, night into day. A sure recipe for the removal of tension is to spend one day as deliberately as nature.

legacy of a south nation spring

And to be renewed, as spring renews the frozen earth.

In the early days the peddlers began their rounds as soon as the roads were cleared of snow. They drove their wagons from village to village, stopping at the farmhouses along the way. One of my fondest memories from childhood was of one such peddler, "Abe Goldsmith", who called regularly at my grandparent's farm.

He would drive in the long lane, unhitch his team, feed and bed them down, then to the house for a warm supper, a long debate with Grandpa over the state of the world, and finally when I thought I would near burst, he began slowly and deliberately to open his boxes.

Spices, teas, spoons, trinkets, and lengths of calico and flannelette were displayed. The peddler's visit brought excitement, news and gossip and a breath of faraway places to many a lonely farm.

Spring to me now means a day to saunter along a large city shopping mall...viewing the wares displayed in the shop windows while the warm sun breathes life into tired spirits.

Recently, on such a spring trip I found that there was no such thing as black molasses to be found. Things were coming to a pretty pass in this country, which at the moment, might benefit from a good dose of sulphur and molasses. Maybe I'd have to move away.

That's what some of my forebears did. When the spuds temporarily stopped growing in the old sod, they set off for America, where some of them were soon eating steak with potatoes they didn't even have to grow.

That's what people used to do when the environment got uncooperative and haughty. History is now repeating itself as Quebecers leave in droves for the sunshine state of Florida.

And that's just what I felt like doing when I saw that the big stores were ignoring my basic needs. I stood just where I used to find it. I grabbed the familiar can off the shelf, hurried home, used some of its contents in my favorite black molasses cake and was sorely disillusioned.

It was thin, tasteless, anemic stuff, incapable of imparting either character or color to my prize recipe. Upon further investigation, I realized that my black variety had been removed to a gourmet section of the shop and priced accordingly.

I paid the price and consumed it in record time but, when I went back for more discovered it wasn't there. In its stead were unhead of delicacies from other parts of the globe.

"Where is my black molasses?" I enquired.

Don't handle it any more. It didn't sell."

"What happened to the dozen cans that stood on this shelf?"

A shrug.

"Everyone eating sea weed instead of blackstrap?" I asked loftily.

Another shrug, so my next stop was at a feed plant where I enquired as to whether they still stocked this spring tonic. Of course they did, and when they next open a new barrel my container will be first filled. Sometimes, one has to get back to the basics.

This winter the 150-year-old white pine tree at the farm gate succumbed to the chain saws of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications, in order to facilitate the widening of Highway 43. But why were the dead elms spared nearby? The old pine could have remained until the day the bulldozers moved in.

For hadn't the Lone Pine seen the ancient Indian trail grow into a tote path, into a corduroy stage coach route, into a gravelled artery of a country road? And it had been spared to see it as a paved road and as a highway.

It had seen the first settlers clear the land, seen the cattle crowd out the deer. It had seen the bear, the fox, the wolf give way to the prowling barnyard cat. It had seen people die and a country grow. A great country, like a great tree, must grow. The old order must give way to the new. And as inevitable as time passing, it, too, had to give way.

And, it was with great regret that we saw it felled. Some of it will live on in panelling for the farmhouse and in a piece of furniture for my home. Nothing is every really lost.

April is also noted for another important reason around the farm...it is Sarah's fifth birthday and she views it as a coming of age day. For as she states, "I will be able to do a lot of things I couldn't do when I was only four. I can go to kindergarten after summer is over and I can ride the hay stooker all my self without hanging on to my father." Catching her breath she said, as though to reinforce her previous remarks, "There now, what do you think of that?"

I couldn't think of a reply but it didn't matter for she was soon off on another tale of her barnyard experiences. But to myself, I thought, can it really be five years since we awaited your arrival with such fear and hope?

At the end of April we hope it will be dry enough to get on the land. In late springs, ploughing may come so late as to be almost a disaster. The ground must be dry and friable, so the earth can be picked up in handsful and not be sticky. Farmers go out to the fields and pick up a handful of dirt, crumble it, watch it fall back to the ground, and they they know. Ploughing is a testament to life.

Lunar landing pads may come and go, but the natural occupations must go on. Ploughing, planting, harvesting, have been the way of life here for over a hundred years and no matter what goes on in the world, we still follow the swing of the seasons.

When that special morning comes and I hear the plough, I run out to watch a few furrows being turned. The great blades of the machine flash, the freed earth rises in dark waves. It's a good time.

Number two son and his wife are back from Hawaii and report on the superb weather they experienced...a little different from the Florida weather we experienced. One complaint, the long long airplane trip was a bit too much, however, their tanned, relaxed faces bespoke a good holiday.

I am cramming, cramming, cramming for the municipal administration examination I must undergo on Friday so to any student anywhere who is cramming, cramming, cramming... my deepest sympathy.

There is one thing that is helpful...it is raining outside and the announcer forecasts rain until the evening of my examination so I am not tempted to drop everything and fly out-of doors to experience spring.

one for the record

by marco levytsky

According to news reports, the latest tidbit on the RCMP saga is that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police authorized a 1973 break-in at the headquarters of the Parti Quebecois because, by saying, they were searching for pornography.

If such was the case this raises some quite intriguing possibilities.

If the RCMP claimed one political party was involved in illegal pornographic trade, what about the others?

Should the RCMP investigate the possibility the Progressive Conservatives are involved in bootleg kickapoo joy juice? Could it be the New Democrats are selling illegal arms to South Africa? Or even, horror of horrors, the Liberals are getting their election funds through a highly profitable black market trade in loco cigarettes? Maybe it was just a simple misunderstanding on the part of the Mounties. They may have thought PQ stood for Pornographie Quebec.

Rather than speculate ad nauseum on the reasoning behind such a move, let's take it to our ususal point of absurdity and imagine what would happen if RCMP suspicions were actually true. How would it be the PQ had a secret plan for separation according to the guidlines of Penthouse?

QUEBEC CITY (CP) — A major pornographic ring involving top members of the Quebec government was revealed here following a five-year investigation by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police it was announced to here today.

At the morning press conference, Superintendent Dudley Do-Right of the RCMP Special Services branch explained the investigation had started with an illegal break-in at the headquarters of the Parti Quebecois in 1973.

"We knew at the time we might be stretching the law a slight bit," said Supt. Do-Right, "but when the moral security of the nation is at stake we always get our man.

"We were completely flabbergasted by the breadth and scope of the smut we encountered. There was so much of it, it took our staff five years to go through it all. Why there was everything from trick Las Vegas ashtrays to first editions of Lady Chatterley's Lover," stated Do-Right.

When questioned on this matter by reporters Quebec Premier Rene Levesque downplayed the importance of the RCMP revelations.

"I don't know what all the excitement is about," he stated in his usual gruff manner. "The way the RCMP put it you'd think we were all a bunch of crazy Peeping Toms around here".

Levesque admitted there had been a collection of pornographic material at PQ headquarters but added "it was all tame stuff".

"There was no hard core material unless you wish to include a few back issues of Cite Libre," he stated, referring to the journal formerly edited by Prime Minister Trudeau.

"If you think what we had is bad - you should see some of the stuff Trudeau keeps around 24 Sussex. It would make your eyeballs pop. But as usual Ottawa is trying to make Quebec the scapegoat".

Questioned further the Quebec Premier admitted the Parti Quebecois government had political motives in collecting the scintillating sin scoops. He said it was intended to provide economic profit for Quebec at the expense of Ontario.

"We like to keep abreast of things. When the whole Pretty Baby affair blew up we figured we had a good thing going and we could capitalize on it. Just think of all the Ontarians coming to Quebec to spend their hard-earned federally-devalued dollars on tabu trappings which can't be bought in Toronto. The Quebec people could make a fortune."

In the statement on Pretty Baby, Mr. Levesque was referring to an award-winning movie by French director Louis Malle which will be shown everywhere except in Ontario where it was banned by censors. Since the Ontario Censor Board's announcement Montreal movie owners have been getting calls from thousands of libidal-minded Ontarians waiting for the premiere.

The incident had prompted an international uproar when a member of the British House of Lords stood up and stated "Only in Ontario you say? Dreadful pity".

And in Ottawa today (the time of week, not the paper), Prime Minister Trudeau termed the RCMP findings "another devious plot by the separatists to destroy the country".

"If you will notice carefully, all the material in the possession of the PQ is imported Danish stuff. If Quebec tries to push any of this in the rest of Canada, you can bet your bottom (pardon the pun) 87 cents we're going to demand 80 per cent Canadian content," said the prime minister at a "non-election" rally.

FROM THE RECORD
THURS., APRIL 26, 1928

At the Spring Assizes held in Cornwall last week for the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, with Mr. Justice McEvoy presiding, Mr. Ward Johnston of this place was awarded judgement in the amount of $2,570 in his damage action against the Canadian Pacific Railway for injuries sustained personally and damages to his automobile when struck by a train during shunting operations on the night of Nov. 10th last. At the time of his accident, Mr. Johnston, his wife, daughter and Miss Hummel were on their way to attend a concert in Chesterville. A large number of witnesses were called and many others from this section interested in the hearing of the evidence attended the sessions of the court when the case was being held. Geo. F. Henderson of Ottawa appeared for Mr. Johnston.

Arrangements have been made by the Provincial Board of Health for a chest clinic here on May 18th when Mrs. Wilson and McNeely will be present to make free examinations of cases of suspected chest troubles. The clinic is in uniformity with the plans of the Provincial Department of Health, which has held such clinics in different parts of the province with good results in detecting incipient cases of tubercular trouble.

The funeral of the late Renee Paul, who met with a tragic death when struck by the Montreal-Toronto fast train last Wednesday at Vaudreuil, was held from the home of his mother, Mrs. Boise Belanger, of the Boyne last Saturday morning to St. Mary's church.

the editor's notebook

Canadian dairy producers can be excused if they are not cartwheeling for joy with the announcement of the new Nation Dairy Policy. On the surface, the policy looks acceptable enough - Agriculture Canada is predicting that Canadian demand will remain the same in 1978-79 as it was in 1977-78, at 98-million hundredweight; the federal subsidy remains at $2.66 a hundred; target return for industrial milk has increased from $12.18 to $12.42 per cwt., and the within-quota levy has been dropped from $1.20 to $1. Overall, Agriculutre Canada says dairy farmers will receive a net return of 76 cents more per cwt. than they did last week.

On the surface this points a reasonably bright picture for the dairy industry. However, under little closer examination, the situation hasn't nearly this rosy tinge. First of all, although the within-quota levy (to pay handling costs of milk produced within quota but in excess of national demand) has been dropped from $1.20 to $1, a contingency levy of 20 cents has been added on and will only be refunded if a farmer's production is not within the five per cent sleeve at the upper end of the 103.7-million hundredweight allotted under national MSQ, if his province does not produce within the sleeve or if there is now national sleeve production.

Last year Ontario produced 2.7 per cent of its milk within this sleeve, with thousands of producers going over quota. Only two provinces - Ontario and Quebec - were in the sleeve, meaning that this year if production has the same levels, 2.7 per cent of all milk in the province will not be eligible for the contingency levy rebate. So producers can begin by striking 20 cents off the 76-cent net return increase.

Still dealing with the sleeve production and the possibility of over-quota production, Agriculture Canada projects that national consumption of dairy products will remain at 98-million hundredweight this year. Both the Ontario Milk Marketing Board and the Canadian Dairy Commission consider this an over-optimistic prediction. At the two meetings in this area since the beginning of January, CDC vice-chairman Elwood Hodgins has predicted a two-per-cent decline in demand in 1978-79. Mr. Hodgins is privy to all the information on the dairy industry as well as to consumer patterns in Canada and he argued quite forcefully in Kemptville in February at North Dundas District High School in March that there would be a decline this year. Why the CDC should be proven wrong in a matter of just over a month is anybody's guess, but the fact that this is an election year and the federal government doesn't want thousands of angry dairy farmers voting for the opposition could conceivably have something to do with it.

This means that if demand does decline again, there will either have to be a further cut in quota or a readjustment of the sleeve. The one means the imposition of a higher over-quota levy (up 50 cents from last year); the other means the holdback of the contingency levy.

Left with what amounts to a 56-cent increase in net returns this year, Mr. Whelan neglects to mention that 32 cents of this went into effect Jan. 1, leaving producers with what really amounts to an increase on April 1 of only 24 cents a hundredweight.

At the OMMB's Spring Meeting for Region Two milk committees in Spencerville last week, board vice-Chairman Grant Smith said the provincial body considers Agriculture Canada's estimated demand as "over optimistic" and termed Mr. Whelan's claim of a 76-cent increase in net returns as "totally misleading and purely politicial". Mr. Smith's statements may not be far from the mark. - robin morris -

by jean jeacle

I used to feel sorry for poor old Galileo who was forced to renounce his scientific beliefs under threat of death, but lately I have been thinking that his judges might have had the right idea after all.

Perhaps it would be a good thing if ALL science teachers were to be tied naked to a tree in an Eastern Ontario woodlot during the third month of the year. Maybe then, they would finally repudiate their dreadful decree that Spring begins on March 21.

This heresy - which has been taught to us since our toddler days - is the cause of most of our late-winter depressions and frustrations. We honestly believe that Spring is at hand and, as a consequence, we are snowed under by the ensuing snow storms. Slowly but surely we will come to the realization that - equinox or not - only the birds and the bird-brains ever trust the calendar.

Spring does not begin when we see the first blade of grass struggling through the snowbanks, nor does it start when the streets are pocked with potholes. It is a hopeful sign when the family cat goes outside for the first time since Christmas, but there will still be a few frosty Fridays after that.

According to my calculations, we should all forget about Spring until that glorious afternoon in April when the Canadiens vie for the Stanley Cup while the Expos go in search of the National League pennant - again. To me, the voice of spring is not the robin in the treetop, it's Dave Van Horn at Olympic Stadium.

BITS & PIECES

- Our "Younger Generation" singers from Grades 4, 5 and 6 at Rothwell brought home the banner for best choir in their class at the Kinsmen Music Festival.

- I cannot promise you good cards but, judging by the last party, I can guarantee delicious food and pleasant company at Ingleside Recreation's Euchre party this Thursday, 8pm in Rothwell gym.

- The volleyball tournament scheduled for this weekend has been cancelled.

- The Jeacles should be eating well during the merry month of May. Already we have four banquets lined up - The Lost Villages Historical Society, May 8, at Treasure Island Inn, Minor Hockey, May 13, at St. Matthew's, Brownies, May 15, at St. Matthew's and YBC, May 20, at the township hall.

- Food and fun will be available May 3 at St. Peter's Dessert Bridge and Card Party starting at 1:30pm. You are asked to bring your own cards.

- Congratulations to Belinda Armstrong and Jeff Duprau who are the elementary school Public Speaking champs.

- The 1978 High School Oratory winners will be chosen Friday, April 28 at 8pm in the ODHS auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend.

- I wanted to ride the mo-ped in the Rotary Club Bike-a-thon (May 6) but my husband has refused to accept my entry. Sponsor sheets for hoest bikers are available at Rothwell School and Treasure Island Inn here in the village. Melvin Waldroff has them in Newington and Dalton Cleary in Lunenburg.

- I'll gladly pay to see Fran Laflamme peddling up hill and down dale on the parkway. I'm willing to sign up others who are willing to bet on her as well.

I am getting my Pepsi memorabilia ready for the LVHS Collections Display on Dandelion Day. At the same time I am praying that there will be a few dandelions dancing on the lawns in time for that celebration on May 13 here, Inside Ingleside.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you ran a letter from a woman who wanted to kown if it was possible for her pet to be buried with her. (She was sure her dog would die of a broken heart if she predeceased him.) I just read something that came off the Reuters wire. It might be of interest to your readers.

It seems 30 humans have asked to be buried in the Hartsdale, N.Y., Canine Cemetery and their requests were granted. The cemetery was established 20 miles north of New York City in 1896 and is the oldest pet cemetery in the United States. At least 5,000 dogs and cats - also rabbits, hamsters, guinea pigs and an elephant - are burried there. Dog houses, toy bones and porclain reproductions of the animals appear on many of the headstones.

Urns containing the human ashes are attached to some of the headstones. To be buried at Hartsdale you must be cremated.

The director of the cemetery, when asked why people go to so much trouble and expense, replied, "They want to repay the animal for the years of pleasure it gave them."

A few celebrities who have their pets buried there are Kate Smith, Gene Krupa, John Barrymore and Joe Garagiola.

— I Read You In Paducah

Dear Pad: Thanks for an interesting letter. The things I learn from my readers!

Dear Ann Landers: How old should a girl be before she can:

(1) Shave her legs.

(2) Use eye shadow and mascara.

(3) Go to bed whenever she feels like it.

(4) Wear her mother's jewelry.

I'm signing my letter

— Treated Like A Baby

Dear Baby:

(1) It depends on what's there. If she is awfully hairy, I'd say 14 is OK.

(2) During the day - lightly applied - age 16.

(3) I'd say 13 - and remember some people need more sleep than others.

(4) What kind? Diamonds? Emeralds? Rubies? Rhinestones? This decision should be your mother's - not mine.

Dear Ann: I'm a very busy person and don't have time to write letters to all members of the family. So - to expedite matters and keep in touch, I make several carbon copies of one letter and I send it, with a personal note, to my brother and his wife and my two widowed sisters. Everyone seems to enjoy this system and they answer me the same way.

I am concerned about your recent comments in regard to sending personal letters on to others without permission. Am I guilty? — Busy In Lubbock

Dear Lub: No - you aren't guilty. Sending several members of the family carbon copies of a letter YOU have written is not the same as sending a letter you received from someone else.

Your time-saver is a good idea. I've done it myself.

CONFIDENTIAL to Embarrassed But Unwilling to Chop It: It's awfully hard to raise a 43-year-old mother, so give up. I agree the set-up is not a model for your children, but you aren't responsible for your mother's behavior. Keep the latchstring out and your personal opinions to yourself.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

New group in generating debate

IROQUOIS (Staff) - A new area organization has joined the hydro generating station debate.

Latest in the discussion is the Association of Concerned Ratepayers (ACR), an Iroquois-based group which wants answers to the impact a generating station will have on the area.

ACR was formed two months ago and has been meeting informally since then. Its first public meeting will be held in the Civic Centre here at 7:30pm Thurs., May 4 with the presentation of two National Film Board films dealing with nuclear energy.

John Watts, one of ACR's three directors, said Tuesday the organization had been meeting informally while it put together its objectives and methods of achieving them. He said it would operate more formally from now on.

Mr. Watts said ACR claims members from across the Seaway Valley. It is based in Iroquois because that area is the geographic centre of the region that will be most affected by Ontario Hydro's decision to locate another generating station in Eastern Ontario. He stressed the organization doesn't want to be seen as a parochial association concerned only with the effects of a generating station in the Iroquois area.

Because of the enormous impact such a station would have on the region, its effects would spread far beyond the site actually chosen.

Mr. Watts said ACR was formed because its members were convinced "the right questions were not being asked by the right people".

Local politicians - including municipal, provincial and federal - have been looking at the benefits of a generating station but have not been investigating the negative side effects and installation could have on the area, he said.

"I have yet to hear of one really relevant question being asked," he said Tuesday.

Mr. Watts said ACR is not opposed to nuclear power and does not oppose a generating station being located in Eastern Ontario. It does want answers on how such a station would affect the area, however.

The onus is on Ontario Hydro to prove nuclear energy is a safe means of generating electrical power and Mr. Watts says ACR will be asking these questions and making the answers public.

The association also wants to know what the immediate impact of a generating station would be on the area, particularly in the areas of employment, demands on infrastructure and property taxation.

"We want everyone to know what the score is. These questions have to be asked by someone and they're not being asked now," Mr. Watts said.

At next Thursday's meeting the NFB films "A Matter of Choice" which takes a look at the Bruce Peninsula development, and "No Act of God", an examination on the degree of risk involved in civilian nuclear power, will be shown.

ACR hopes the films, which will be shown free of charge, will encourage wider thought and discussion so the public will be able to weigh the benefits and risks of another Eastern Ontario power generating station.

INGLESIDE (Special) - The ODHS Band performed before the student body on Friday. They played the pieces which they had chosen for the Music Festival on Saturday, April 22, at La Citadelle.

They did exceptionally well, placing second in the standings. Congratulations on a fine job.

The band is led by Mr. J. Siderius, the music teacher for both Osnabruck and Rothwell Public School.

On Tuesday, April 25, the Public Speaking Semi-Finals will be held.

Due to the small number of Senior competitors, the Semi-Finals will only involve Junior students.

The Finals will be held on Friday, April 28, at 8pm in the ODHS gymnasium.

All parents and other interested people are invited to attend and support our students.

Wells snub charged

CORNWALL (Staff) - The SD&G branch of the Ontario Public School Mens' Teachers' Association has accused Education Minister Tom Wells of snubbing professionals and parents in the area by not attending the opening ceremony of Education Week in Cornwall Sun., April 16.

We feel that 'Education Week' being such an important event, either the Minister of Education or his deputy minister should have attended the opening ceremony," reads a letter to Mr. Wells from OPSMTF regional secretary, T. Green.

Education Week, writes Mr. Green, is one of the most important events in the school year calendar and the Minister of Education should participate "regardless of the locale in the province of Ontario and of the party affiliation of the local MPP".

"Mr. Wells if you and your government don't intend to support 'Education Week' - declare every week 'Education Week' -and stay in your ivory tower", concludes the letter.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to everyone who helped at our stag, shower and reception. We also want to thank our friends, relatives and neighbours for all their lovely gifts and cards. Each is admired and treasured by us.

Morrisburg Lions one victory away from ODHA title

MORRISBURG (Staff) - Second and third period scoring rallies have powered Morrisburg Lions to within a single victory of claiming their second Ottawa District Junior B Hockey League championship in the past three seasons.

During the past week, Lions dumped Richmond Royals 8-6, 7-5 and 8-4 to take a stranglehold on the best-of-seven final series. Game four was scheduled for 8pm last night (Tuesday) at Richmond. If a fifth game is required, it will be played at 8pm Thursday at Morrisburg.

Morrisburg has trailed only five times in the three games with each being broke wide open with quick goals.

In game three Sunday, with slightly over 1,000 persons in attendance, Morrisburg scored four straight goals in the second frame and hit early in the final period to erase a 2-1 first period defecit.

Richard Hill and Dave Ratray hit for Royals in the first period as Richie Boprey countered for Morrisburg.

In the second period, Mike Moran, Kevin Mackler, Robbie Reynolds and Mark Beaupre scored. Reynolds's goal was on a powerplay.

Leo Lafortune increased Morrisburg's lead to 6-2 in the third period before Ralph Comrie hit for Royals. Lafortune counted his 25th playoff goal later in the frame with Mackler and Ratray scoring prior to the final buzzer.

Fifteen minors were called in the game with Morrisburg taking eight.

Two late goals by Jim Whelan led Morrisburg to an 8-6 opening series win at home last Tuesday.

Whelan snapped a 6-6 tie at 16:53 of the final period and then scored the insurance goal with 16 seconds left.

Just under 800 persons had watched the teams tie the score five times before Whelan sent Morrisburg into the lead for keeps. The score was 2-2 after one period and 4-4 going into the third.

Lafortune got the first goal before Scott Dalton and John Hunt beat Perry Elderbroom nine seconds apart. Mike Moran evened the score on a powerplay before the period ended.

In the second frame, Lafortune and Beaupre scored for Morrisburg and Jack Guindon and Shawn Gorman replied for Royals.

Mark Payment sent Morrisburg up 5-4 at the 57 mark of the third period and Bob McNairn ran the margin to two goals before Craig Lynch and Ratray replied for Richmond to tie the score. Whelan popped the winner just 24 seconds after Ratray tied the score.

Each team had three minors.

In game two at Richmond Thursday, Morrisburg again got four straight goals in the middle stages of the game to help in the 7-5 win.

Whelan and Lafortune got first period goals for Morrisburg as Wayne Davis and Guindon scored for Richmond.

Dalton and Shawn Gorman sent Royals up 4-2 in the second stanza before Morrisburg started its come-from-behind rally.

Captain McNairn got the ball rolling as Boprey tied the score at 13:00 and Beaupre got the go-ahead marker at 18:24.

Payment made the score 6-4 at 8:44 of the third but Guindon cut the margin to one with 3:47 left. Boprey got the insurance marker into the empty net.

Morrisburg received eight of the game's 13 minors.

Heavy traffic in crease

Morrisburg goaltender Gerald Scully ran into a little opposition on this play but didn't require any assistance from defenceman Robbie Reynolds. Morrisburg downed Richmond 8-4 to open up a 3-0 game lead in the best-of-seven Ottawa District Junior B Hockey League final series. The teams met in Richmond last night (Tuesday) and if a fifth game is required it is set for 8pm Thursday at Morrisburg.

Second time in three years

Ingleside wins Countryman Memorial

FINCH (Staff) - Five goal outbursts have carried Ingleside to the winners circle in the North Stormont Intermediate Hockey League.

Ingleside's David Brown Construction posted a pair of 9-6 wins over Berwick Hotel on the weekend to claim the league playoff title in five games. Ingleside will have its name inscribed on The Gordon Countryman Memorial Trophy for the second time in the past three seasons and in the seven year history of the award.

League president Brian Meldrum presented the silverware to Ingleside captain Dale Wells and sponsor David Brown following Saturday's win.

The construction boys claimed 10-8 and 10-6 wins to open the series. Berwick won game three 8-6 and Ingleside won the next game 8-5 but the league executive disallowed the victory after a Berwick protest alledging Ingleside's use of a suspended player.

League scoring champ, Art Sinfield, led the attack in Friday's win with four goals and two assists. He got two more goals Saturday to run his final series goal production to 16.

Each team scored twice in the first period Friday and Berwick moved in front 5-4 going into the final stanza.

Sinsfield tied the score at 3:15 of the third and Jim Losey got his second goal of the game at 4:56 to give Ingleside the lead for keeps.

Bryan Rutley, Dale Swerdfeger and Brian McIntyre counted the other Ingleside goals.

Leonard O'Donohue and John MacNaughton paced Berwick with a pair of goals each. Singletons went to Steve O'Donohue and Richard MacDonell.

Each team was handed six minor penalties and Berwick had an additional major.

Saturday night, Ingleside turned on the scoring burners in the second period to erase a 3-2 defecit and claim a 7-5 lead.

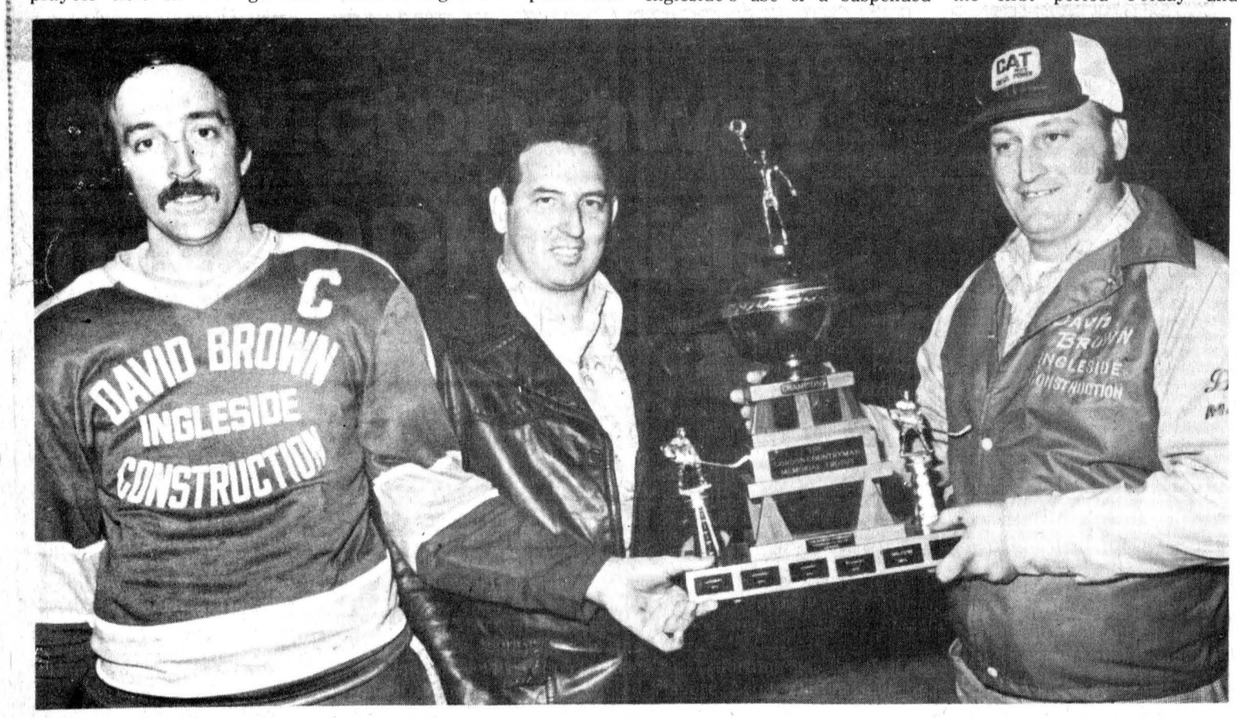
Losey and Rutley each scored three times for the winners as Sinfield had two and Lynden Marcellus one.

Getting two each for Berwick were Steve O'Donohue, Winston Dingwall and Mike O'Donohue.

Ingleside counted two powerplay goals, one while shorthanded and one while each team was a man short. Berwick got two shorthanded markers.

Each team received seven minor penalties.

The win capped a super season for the construction gang as they rolled up seven straight wins to start the season and they finished the campaign in first place with a 16-6-2 mark.



Construction team accepts award

Ingleside's David Brown Construction captured The Gordon Countryman Memorial Trophy for the second time in three years by beating Berwick 9-6 Saturday night. Ingleside won the North Stormont Intermediate Hockey League regular season pennant before beating Newington in six and Berwick in five. League president Brian Meldrum centre, is presenting the award to captain Dale Wells, left, and team sponsor David Brown.

Election delay having drastic effect: Gadbois

(Staff) - Adrian Gadbois, the only announced candidate for the Progressive Conservative nomination in Stormont-Dundas, said this week the prime minister's delay in calling the anticipated federal election is having a drastic effect on the nation's economy.

Mr. Gadbois, reeve of Charlottenburgh Township and an outspoken critic of government policies, said if he were in Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's place, he would hold off the election until fall but it remains the opposition's duty to go all out to force the government into an election.

The reeve is a strong advocate of capital punishment and a harsh critic of the way in which the Unemployment Insurance Commission is run.

Last year his council passed and circulated a resolution to other municipalities calling for reinstatement of capital punishment but it failed to pass the test at this year's Rural Ontario Municipalities Association convention.

The Conservatives are the only party not to have announced a date for their nominating convention. The New Democrats will hold theirs tonight (Wednesday) in the Parkway Inn, Cornwall, and the Liberals will hold theirs Thursday night in the Cornwall Civic Complex. Finance Minister Jean Chretien will be guest speaker at the Liberal meeting, at which it is expected MP Ed Lumley, Mr. Chretien's parliamentary secretary, will be re-nominated.

The PCs are waiting for the federal election call before setting their convention date.

Mr. Gadbois' township is one of the riding's new acquisitions, along with Iroquois village, Matilda and Mountain Townships.

Up until the time of redistribution it had been part of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell and in 1974 Liberal Denis Ethier carried 12 of the municipality's 16 polls in defending Conservative Bernard Pelot and the NDP's Raymond Desrochers.
