Beckstead Social Postponed.

The social under the auspices of the Beckstead Knitting Circle advertised for Monday night of this week, out of respect to the late Miss Meredith, was postponed until Monday Sept. 3rd when it will take place on Mr. John McLean's lawn.

Engine Broke Down.

Last night as the fast train for Toronto was pulling out from Chesterville it was brought to a sudden stop when the driving-rod on one side of the engine was broken. No one was injured and the train was coupled up with the 12.50 Express and proceeded to Smith Falls in that way.

Legs Broken in Auto Accident.

Roy Swerdfeger had his leg broken in two places and two ribs broken and Fred Wells his leg broken when the auto in which they were riding turned turtle off the state road near Ogdensburg on Friday last. Both are Williamsburg township men, the former for a number of years was a resident of Chesterville. They had crossed the St. Lawrence in the ferry to Waddington and were proceeding to Ogdensburg, making pretty fast time on the good roads, but on striking a sharp curve could not make it and overturned in the ditch.

Trainmen Killed at Monklands

Shortly after midnight on Friday last Brakeman T. Munson of Smiths Falls, on an east bound freight train was killed at Monklands. Just how he met with the accident is not known and his body was not found until morning. It is understood that near Monklands the train was stopped on account of a hot box, where Munson was seen for the last time alive. When the train started Munson went to the top of the cars to walk to the engine and must have missed his footing in some way and fell between the cars across the rail. The enginemen were not anxious about his non-appearance as they thought he had gone back to the van to have his lunch. Two other trains passed over him before his remains were found after daylight.

Greater Dundas Liberals

Choose Stormont Man

At the delegated Liberal convention held in the Music Hall yesterday Mr. A. W. McIntyre, deputy-reeve of Finch township, was chosen by the party stalwarts to be their first standard bearer in the constituency of Greater Dundas. A large number of delegates were present from all parts of the riding as now constituted and much enthusiasm was manifest throughout the proceedings. Several names were put on the nomination paper, most of whom withdrew, leaving four—A. W. McIntyre, W. Hamilton, G. H. Davy, and Geo. Smith to be voted on. A suggestion was made that it be left for these gentlemen to agree on the one of themselves to be the candidate, but was not well received and a ballot was demanded which resulted as follows:—A. W. McIntyre 93, W. Hamilton 24, G. H. Davy 9, Geo. Smith 3, on the first count. The nomination was then made unanimous for Mr. McIntyre.

The candidate is deputy reeve of Finch township to which position he was elected at the last municipal election over Miles J. McMillan by a majority of 136.

The afternoon meeting was well attended, with a sprinkling of ladies in the audience, and was addressed for over two hours by G. W. Kyte, M. P., after which the candidate made a short speech thanking the members of the party for the confidence reposed in him as their choice and expressing the belief that he would be returned the first member for Greater Dundas.

Pte. Lester Shiels Wounded.

On Monday the news was received that Pte. Lester Shiels had been wounded. He is the only son of Mrs. Grace Shiels of Wolfe Island, formerly of Chesterville. He enlisted on Aug. 15th. last year, after serving a year on the Home Guard at Iroquois, and went overseas in October. Pte. Shiels is only seventeen years old and is said to be the youngest boy at the front from Ontario.

Brave Rescue by Isaac Pelletier's Grandson.

(Fort William Times-Journal, Aug. 14)

Adelard Pelletier, thirteen years old, son of H. I. Pelletier, barber, who resides at 1213 Cumming street, this morning saved a little Italian boy from drowning in the treacherous waters of the McIntyre river. The name of the rescued boy is not known. The circumstances are that this morning, in company with Earl Colborne, son of W. H. Colborne, grocer, 1221 Cummings street, Adelard went down to the McIntyre river about fifty yards beyond the Canadian Northern bridge, fishing. They were not successful in their sport, and Adelard suggested a swim. Earl did not feel inclined to undress for the swim, so Adelard prepared to go in the water by himself. He was seated on the bank, several little foreign boys playing nearby, when a cry was heard, and a small boy, an Italian, was seen to be struggling in the water, making for the shore, and was ten or twelve feet from the brink, when he threw up his hands and disappeared. At first Adelard thought, with the others, that the boy was fooling, as he had been making good progress and had nearly landed, but when he went down for the third time Adelard thought matters looked serious so, clad in his sweater and knickers, he jumped in, seized hold of the drowning boy and brought him safely to land. Four feet out from the bank a deep hole begins, and it was into this that the young boy had fallen. This afternoon H. I. Pelletier, the father of the boy, knew none of the details, but thought Adelard was just making an excuse for being in late for dinner. However, investigation proved that Adelard's story was correct, and that he was today enrolled among the ranks of life-savers.

Letter From Pte. Murfett

The following letter was received a few days ago from Pte. Murfett by Mr. Mike Robinson of Cannamore, Ont.

Somewhere in France,
Aug. 8th, 1917,

Dear Friends, One and All;—

Just a few lines to you to let you know that I am quite well at present and to tell you that I was very sorry when I heard that poor Charlie Mitchell was killed. I did not see him. He was about six miles from me but I have been through the place where he was buried. I had not seen him since he left England as he was sent to another battalion.

We have had lots of rain this last few days so we have lots of mud.

I sent Violet a letter a few weeks ago to tell her about Charlie. It does not take long to get it out here at times, lots of shells flying, but we will "never let the old flag fall." Say, you must go to Ottawa Exhibition this year and think of me when you are there. I don't think I will be there this year, but hope to be there next year. I must close with best regards to you all. Your friend 634096 Pte. D. Murfett D. Coy 21st Battalion Canadians, B. E. F. France.

Reason Why whole wheat

Bread Not Used

Toronto, Aug. 28.—At the directors' luncheon at the exhibition grounds. Food Controller Hon. W. J. Hanna made some important statements on the food situation. Cold storage, he said, was an essential to the proper distribution of commodities, when properly administered and organized, and added: "The day may come when these institutions will be listed among the great public utilities, and will be built and operated as such."

Regarding the price of bread, he said that they have not fixed the price of a loaf of bread, because the investigation which has been conducted at Ottawa during the last six or eight months has shown that in the larger cities and towns the price of bread is not out of proportion to the price of flour. However, he hoped that with the utmost co-operation with the food controller at Washington it would result in a fair regulation of the price of wheat flour and bread.

The question had been raised as to the advisability of insisting on whole wheat flour. They had a meeting at Ottawa at which the millers and the grain commission were present, and the conclusion came to was that it would be a wholly unnecessary sacrifice were Canada to lower the high standard of her flour output, and to lose the reputation which her flour has made in the markets of the world.

The killing of veal and lambs had also been strongly opposed in certain quarters. There were two sides to the question. They had therefore appointed a commission of representative men to deal with the Canadian interests.

As to the prices of meat, cheaper meat after September, in England, had been promised by Lord Rhonda, it was expected that beef would be twelve cents a pound cheaper before Christmas. "This action on the part of Lord Rhonda," he added, "very largely settles the price of the commodities in Canada and the United States."

Must Never Do Murder Again

Edmonton, Aug. 28.—The final scene in the Eskimo murder trial was enacted in the Supreme Court this morning when Sinnisiak and Ulusak, Copper Mine Eskimos, who were found guilty by a Calgary jury of murdering Futher Leroux, an Oblate missionary at Deason Bay in November 1913, appeared before the Chief Justice of Alberta to receive their sentences.

The Calgary jurors brought in the strongest possible recommendation for mercy, and this verdict was conveyed to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa, together with the Chief Justice's endorsement that it would be a crime to enforce the death penalty upon these men. A milder form of punishment, which would have the effect of acting as a salutary lesson to the Eskimos, was suggested.

Through the interpreter the sentence was conveyed to the prisoners who looked very apprehensive.

"Tell them this," said the Chief Justice. "You told them at Calgary I would ask the Big Chief far away not to be too hard on them. I have asked him by the way we have here (telegraph) and he says because they did not know our ways he won't have them put to death for killing those men this time. They must understand, now they know the law, that if they ever kill again they must suffer."

As a matter of form, and in order that the commutation of sentence might be legal, his lordship then passed sentence in the usual form setting October 15 as the date of the execution, but later pointed out that on the date in question the Eskimos will probably be on their way home.

If the sanction of the Minister of Justice can be obtained immediate arrangements will be made to send the Eskimos and witnesses and interpreters north by the boat which leaves Peace River on Thursday, in charge of Constable Wright.

Would Have Felt the Same.

"Hark!" observed the romantic young woman spending her holidays on the farm. "Just hear how those old trees in the orchard moan and groan in the storm like the crying of a lost soul!" "Well," replied her practical and unromantic companion, "I guess you'd moan and groan, too, if you were as full of green apples as those trees are."

The Duty of The Individual.

Strict economy is needed in the use of all food stuffs by each and every individual householder. Our food supplies must be conserved, but they should not be hoarded. Of what use is a mine unopened, a forest untouched or land untilled? By the conservation of our food supplies, we mean that they should be used in the wisest possible way and shared equally. We should eliminate superfluities and luxuries and eat the things substantial, plain and nourishing. There are many foods produced in Canada, such as corn, peas, beans, oats, and barley, which are not used as much as they could and should be. Unless provision is made to care for and properly use the garden vegetables, much of this material will be wasted. Perishable things should be canned wherever possible. Rhubarb, tomatoes and other vegetables should be put away for winter use.

"Rastus, I hope you are doing something to provide for the future." "Yessah, I sure is! I done got married yestiddy."

Cured By Tea Made From Clover.

Mr. James Cameron, of Fallbrook, a few months ago had cancer of the tongue, and after consulting a local physician, went to Kingston to consult two specialists all pronounced it incurable. However, Mr. Cameron is happily able to say that it was cured by a most simple remedy. He was told by a young lady that she had read of where cancer had been cured by drinking tea made from red clover tops or blossoms. He decided to give it a trial and in three or four days experienced relief, while in a few weeks was cured. He drank a half cupful of this tea several times a day and it was most pleasant to drink. If this clover tea acts with such wonderful results in Mr. Cameron's case, its possibilities as a cure for cancer should become widely known in due time.

Bird Started Serious Fire.

Fire destroyed the barn of a Middle River, Minn., farmer who says the blaze was caused by a bird which carried a twig, one end of which was aglow, into the hayloft. Not far from his barn a brush fire was burning. The nesting bird had carried a twig which had been burning, in the brush fire, but which was thought to have blown away from the immediate vicinity of the fire, to the barn. Two valuable horses burned to death.

AUSTRALIA'S SHARE.

Commonwealth Has No Division of Opinion Regarding the War.

The Hon. Andrew Fisher, ex-Prime Minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, arrived in England recently to take up his new duties as High Commissioner for Australia. He comes at a moment when the public esteem for the Colony stands higher than ever before. The gallantry and self-sacrifice of the fighting men of the Commonwealth, the immense army she has put at the Empire's disposal—far greater in numbers than any public man in Britain dreamed she could raise for an overseas war—and the absolute unanimity of her peoples to utilize their whole resources to help the Allies to victory, have made a deep and abiding impression on the British public.

Mr. Fisher, a Scotsman, who has on one previous occasion been called into the deliberations of the British Government, for he represented the Commonwealth at the Imperial Conference in 1911, met a number of journalists shortly after his arrival in London. He said that Australia had no parties in regard to the war, recognizing that the struggle was between nations supporting liberty, equality, and democracy, against an aggression which would have destroyed them. Australia had sent 200,000 soldiers to fight the Empire's battles, and another 100,000 would be ready in six months' time. "I am authorized to tell you," the new High Commissioner said, "that the policy of the Government and people will be to carry out to the full the statement that they will give their last man and last shilling without question. As regards the conduct of the war, the Government only ask that their opinions be considered. If their views will not fit in with the views of his Majesty's advisers they will not press them. In other words, they do not wish to embarrass those responsible for carrying on the war."

Asked how recruiting was proceeding in Australia, Mr. Fisher said there was a lull just now because the colony was having the first big harvest after a bad drought, but the number of men who would volunteer would only be limited by the necessity of keeping going the productive industries of the colony. Australia was sending away men fully equipped and armed with weapons made in the colony, which produced a great deal of munitions. That work must be continued. There had been nothing in the nature of a "rounding up" of men for the army. It was not necessary to do that, because volunteers were so plentiful. "The girls have taken a hand in it, of course. They are 'game' girls over there, but they have not done it in an offensive way. They merely hint that 'Tom has gone, and so has Jim.' That is always effective."

Mr. Fisher remarked that all metals required for the purposes of war were found in Australia, which formed a great source of supply, and although the country had come through a big period of drought a larger supply of wheat has been sent to this country than ever before. Their credit was good. They first set out to raise £5,000,000 at 4½ per cent. to test the market. Over £13,000,000 was subscribed. The Government recently asked for £10,000,000, and he understood that had been over-subscribed. There was much more money behind them, and he thought there would be no difficulty in raising £25,000,000 in Australia this year.

How the Victoria Cross is Made.

Hitherto the most coveted British war decoration, the V.C., the intrinsic value of which is but a few coppers, has been made from bronze from Russian guns. Russian metal, however, being now withheld, the medal is being made from Chinese gun-metal.

The origin of the medal dates back to the Crimean War, when Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort decided on the Cross as the highest possible tribute to naval and military heroes "who should perform in the presence of the enemy a supreme act of valor or devotion to their country."

The award carries with it an annual pension of £10, and £5 for each additional bar, and when a soldier who has won it is totally disabled, the pension may be increased to £50. The actual design of the medal is said to be the work of the Prince Consort himself, the medal being made by the firm of Messrs. Hancock's, of New Bond Street.

The first process of manufacture consists of obtaining a rough cast die by melting the metal at a temperature of 200deg. Fah. and pouring it into a mould. The cast is then trimmed and chased, at which stage it has to be inspected by the War Office and passed. Then the Cross is sent back to Messrs. Hancock, who wait for the name of the recipient, the bar, and the ribbon being added—blue for the Navy and red for the Army.

Not for Sale.

It is related of Mr. Rudyard Kipling that on one occasion he received an offer of a thousand dollars from an American paper for an article of a thousand words on "Why America could not conquer England." He replied: "It is impossible that I should accept the commission, as it would involve discussing the armed strength of the Empire, a question on which no British subject has any information—for sale."

With Arm Blown off Canadian Still Delivered Message

Canadian Headquarters in France.

Aug. 27—One of the most heroic deeds put on record in the Canadian corps since the war began is that of a runner of Colonel Ormonder's Alberta battalion. The company to which he was attached was hotly engaged near the chalk-pits, and he was given a message to take back to the battalion headquarters, over ground on which shells were falling continuously. He had not gone far when he was seen to fall, and another runner was at once sent out with a duplicate of the message. The second messenger was killed midway on his journey, but two hours afterwards the first one arrived at the battalion headquarters with his left arm blown off near the shoulder. His terrible wound had been roughly dressed in the field, and the messenger, far spent from loss of blood, had then staggered on to do his duty. He was removed in a dying condition, but he carried his message to its destination.

A fine example of bravery and resourcefulness was given by a Russian private in the same battalion. As the platoon to which he belonged approached the chalk pits they came under machine gun fire. The Russian going forward, found the muzzles of the two machine guns sticking out of the entrance to a dugout. One of them was in action, sweeping the line of advance. To get in front of it, the only way of tackling the crew, meant instant death. A piece of plankling lay nearby. To the Russian it was a heaven-sent weapon. With it he struck the protruding gun barrels so hard a blow that they and their crews went clattering down to the bottom of the dugout, whence came cries of "Kamerad, kamerad." At that moment a rifle bullet struck the elbow of the Russian and deprived him of the use of one arm. Holding his rifle with its fixed bayonet, at the charge, in one hand, he ordered the Germans to come up. They came, an officer and five men, who were duly turned in, with their machine guns.

By Saving Rags Canadians can help to Avert Serious Shortage

In all the warring countries the demand for rags, to supply the world's shortage of wool, is insistent. Canada is no exception, and appeals are being made throughout the country for the savings of rags and old clothes that they may be again used, in the manufacture of shoddy, to relieve the strain upon the wool supply. In Great Britain, the Local Government Board has called attention to the varied means by which this material may be saved, as follows:

"On account of the large stocks of clothing needed for the British and allied armies, efforts are being made to save the maximum quantity of rags for use in shoddy mills. The aid of women's societies has been invoked in conjunction with urban and rural officials. The collection is largely dependent upon the patriotic spirit of the people, but large supplies of old clothes and rags will be called for. Central depots are provided for storage, and when enough rags are on hand for shipment they are forwarded to the district centre, where they are sorted and sold to mill owners, the profits going to the Red Cross or other war charities. An especial appeal is made to the tailors and dressmakers to keep their cuttings for this purpose. Discarded clothing is separated into three classes—all wool, all cotton, and cotton and wool."

This method can be undertaken in Canada by many organizations. Hitherto owing to our wasteful habits, the saving and collecting of rags has not appealed to us, but the war has brought about many changes, and it is incumbent upon all Canadians to do their bit toward averting the serious shortages that otherwise are sure to result.

"It's always getting me into trouble one way or another." "When it runs I get arrested for speeding. When it refuses to run I get arrested for profanity."

School Shoes & School Clothes

The boy who is clothed and shod satisfactorily at this store to-day will shortly be a man and it is the man's trade we want eventually. School Shoes require to be of the best material to stand the wear and tear that they get, but the makers are tempted and some of them fall to making them of the spongy, scrappy stock. But not for us, thank you. We know these shoes and know they will give the most wear for the least money, not only for the boys but the School Girls as well. Boys' Clothes get the same attention and we are well fixed to fit your boy for either High or Public School.

RED CROSS WORK
We desire to acknowledge, with warmest appreciation of the efforts made and the interest shown, the following;—Mrs. James Black $1.00 (proceeds of sale of crochet work donated for this purpose).
From "The Younger Set" $26.30 (net proceeds of booth on Race Meet days) In this endeavour our own girls Misses Kathleen Morrison, Florence and Marjorie McGee, Helen Soule and Ruth Lawson—were ably assisted by the Misses Gilding and Laing of Toronto and the Misses McNaughton of Buffalo N. Y. summer-time visitors in our village.
Under this heading should come the fine work of the Misses Myrtle, Ethel and Marguerite Bogart, Alice Smith, Madge Baldrey, Gladys McMahon, Evelyn Merkley, Olive Forbes, Mary Smith and Miss Campbell of Arnprior who so industriously "tagged" the pleasure-seekers at the Races that they collected the very fine sum of $74.21 for the Soldiers' Comforts Fund, a very acceptable addition to this fund, and one which will greatly help in our Christmas gifts to our own boys overseas.
From the Epworth League of Christian Endeavor at the hands of Miss McEwen $6.30, being the amount of silver collection at one of the special meetings of the League. The continued interest of this League of young people in the Red Cross work is most gratifying.
Within the past week subscriptions made at Lieut O'Brien's meeting last January have been paid in as follows;—Mrs. Jos. Thompson $2.00, Mrs. Levi Sorel $2.00, Miss Dorothy McNaughton $2.00, Mr. Arthur Ball $2.00
The Society are anxious to close up this account before publishing I. O. O. F. Red Cross Lists. There are still sixteen people who are owing on the above subscriptions list amounts aggregating almost $60.00 Will those who have not yet paid kindly do so during the coming week.
On Monday next a list of the names of those whose subscriptions remain unpaid—if any such there be will be left with Mr. J. W. Bogart, and at each of the Banks as it may be more convenient to pay the money over at one of the above business places than to call at the home of the Secretary (Mrs. Lawson). This arrangement was suggested to the Secretary when it was made known to her that one subscriber had called at her home two or three times and found nobody at home. We trust that this will be satisfactory.

Much of Wheat is Safe From Frost
Winnipeg, Aug. 27—A special despatch to the Free Press from Calgary, written by its commercial editor after a tour of Southern Alberta says:
"Seventy-five per cent of the wheat around Medicine Hat, Bassano, Bow Island, Lomond, Lethbridge, Nobleford, Raymond, Magrath, and Carmangay, is in stook and by the end of the present week the whole crop south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway to the international boundary will be safe from any serious damage by frost.
"This is more than two weeks earlier than last year. Threshing will be in full swing by September 10. While the crop of this section, taken as a whole, it is not so heavy as last year, it will probably carry the largest percentage of No. 1, ever produced in the territory, and in view of the lighter straw and good progress will be possibly the most profitable crop ever handled."
In summing up the Free Press correspondent says that putting the lighter yields in the east against the tremendous yields in the west average of Southern Alberta will be at least thirty bushels to the acre.

Hard Boiled Hen Fruit.
On three different occasions within the past few weeks at Walkerton, John May, grocer, has found hard boiled-eggs among the supply of hen-fruit that he purchased from farmers, says the Bruce Herald-Times. Although the weather has been sultry, Mr. May refuses to believe that it is hot enough to cook eggs in the nest and feels that somebody has been throwing into his basket the surplus that was left over from breakfast each day after the family had arisen from the feast. As an innocent party would likely boil them the second time, they would on issuing from the pot be harder than the stones that David used to bowl over Goliath with Talk about shell shock, but John has experienced that without going to the front.

British Strategy

A tired Tommy, burdened with about five tons of equipment, climbed wearily into a bus outside a London railway terminus. There was no vacant seats, and no one offered the weary man a seat. He was dead tired, and so resolved to get a seat by strategy. He flashed from his haversack a small bomb.

"This is one of the things we use out here, you know," he remarked to the interested passengers. "See this pin there? When I pull it out like this it should explode fifteen seconds after. They're pretty deadly too. If I put it back again the thing's harmless." Then beginning to search frantically, "Gosh, Where on earth did I put that pin?"

The passengers rose in a body and scrambled for the door, tumbling over one another to get off. Tommy watched them go. Then putting the bomb back in his haversack, he stretched himself full length on the cushioned seat.

The Hazards of War.

A short time ago an American writer sought to cheer up readers of military age by pointing out to them the good chances they had. In the first place, there was the chance that they would not be drafted; then there was the chance, if drafted they would not be wounded; if they were wounded there was the chance that they would recover. If they did not recover they still had two chances. Mr. Roger Babson, the noted statistician, shows that there have been many more chances than these. He calculated that out of 1,000 men about 60 are killed and 150 wounded—in a year, we presume. Of the wounded the great majority are able to return to the trenches. In normal times the death-rate among men of similar age would be 8 per thousand, and if these men had remained at home the chance of their succumbing to disease would be much greater than it is at the front, where they are regularly and carefully examined. It is comforting to know also that in this war death from disease is far less than in any ever fought. There are also fewer amputations in proportion to the number of men engaged. Except when men have gone over the parapet the great number of wounds are inflicted in the arms and shoulders and these as a rule soon heal.

Mr. Babson calculates that a man with the heavy artillery is about as good a life insurance risk as though he were pursuing his ordinary vocation in a large city. Lieutenants and non-commissioned officers run greater risks than privates, as the casualty lists show. The statistician is also of the opinion that the casualties among volunteer soldiers are greater than among drafted men, his theory being that the volunteers are as a rule men of greater daring, while the drafted soldier leaves his enthusiasm at home and carries his common-sense with him. But the volunteers who survive learn to fight without exposing themselves as recklessly as they did in the earlier days, and in fact that a man's brains even in this terrific war of machinery can be employed to save his head even when he is performing the most dangerous duties. The conclusions arrived at by Mr. Babson ought to be encouraging to young Canadians and Americans who will shortly go to the front, and cannot fail to bring comfort to their friends and kin at home.

Use for Pacifists on Western Front

A vivid description of the new German gas and its deadly effects is given by a Canadian artillery officer in high command at the front. Writing to a friend in Ottawa, under date July 31st he says: "Everything is going on well here, and just how well you will know better when you receive this letter than I do at the present moment, though we have high hopes. At present 'down front' everybody is going about with his nose in the air, sedulously sniffing for garlic whenever the enemy is shelling, which is practically all the time."

"You might think it was a joke, but it is a grim reality. The Bosche has produced a new type of hellish gas, which is practically odorless except, as the official warning states, for a slight odor like garlic. He projects it with shell fire at unexpected times, and you can sniff yourself into eternity without turning a hair. However, if you sniff it in time and get your gas mask on it is all right, except that it penetrates through your clothes and raises blisters under your arms or wherever else there happens to be the slightest moisture. Hence the sniffing. I wish we had a lot of those pacifists and Bosche 'lovers' out here. We would put them up in cages, like canaries, along the whole front and let them do the sniffing for the whole corps. Conscientious objectors would also be very useful for the same purpose, and could do great service to the State without having to do such a vulgar thing as strike a blow for their country. All they would have to do would be to blow their noses and keep their sniffer in good working order. Would you not enjoy seeing our friend, Armand Laver-gue, put in a cage, giving tongue when a delicate odor of garlic came down the wind from the Bosche lines?"

Clover Seed—Why not grow your own?

In average seasons red clover, that has not been pastured after the first hay crop has been removed, will produce a crop of well matured seed. Instead of cutting the second crop for hay, pasturing it or, as it frequently happens, ploughing it under, why not allow this crop to mature and save the seed from it?

By raising your own clover seed you are obtaining seed from plants which, by their very existence, demonstrated their adaptation to the conditions prevailing on your farm, and in your immediate locality. Such seed, it is quite reasonable to suppose, will produce plants which are equally well adapted to local conditions. For this reason home-grown clover seed is really more valuable than most of the seed obtainable through ordinary channels of commerce.

Quite often very poor-looking fields of second growth red clover will produce a profitable crop of seed. In many cases fields where the clover is quite thin and say only eight or ten inches high will yield over one hundred pounds of clean, well-matured seed per acre. Usually, however, an average second growth will produce anywhere from 150 to 250 pounds of seed per acre.

The red clover seed crop should be cut when the heads are dark brown in colour, and contain hard, well developed seed. In harvesting all unnecessary handling should be avoided. Rough handling, frequent turning, etc. will thresh or break off the most mature heads, thus wasting a portion of the most valuable seed.

Where the crop is less than one foot high it may be cut with an ordinary mowing machine. It is usually advisable to have two men follow the machine with handrakes and move each swath out from the standing crop a few feet so that, on the next round, the cut clover will be out of the way of the horses and machine. By following this practice with short clover, a great deal of seed will be saved that would have otherwise been threshed by the the horses' feet, and therefor left in the field.

Where clover is one foot or more in height the most satisfactory implement to use for cutting is the binder. The cord should be removed, and the spring on the knottor slackened so that it will trip continuously. Usually there are two boards that hold the sheaf; these should also be slackened so that the clover will have a free course to the ground. In dropping to the ground, the seed will not shell and the crop will be left in loose windrows where it will dry quickly, and can be easily gathered with a barley fork.

The length of time that the clover should remain in the field would depend upon the weather. Generly speaking the crop should be placed in the mow or stack when dry enough to keep well. It can then be threshed when convenient.

The Meanest Slacker.

The meanest of all slackers is not the man who dodges the firing line. Some excuse exists for his cowardice. There is really something to fear, something to shrink from. No; the meanest slacker is the man who is exempt from military service and who considers his exemption releases him from obligation, to toil and sacrifice for his country's cause. Exemption means an added obligation. You are permitted by fortune or authority to escape the perils of the front. For the immunity thus granted you, and that is being paid for by the lives of others you must make returns by every means in your power. Last year's suit is a badge of honor to the man who has given the price of a new one for the greater comfort or safety of the boys out yonder, and an utter weariness from doing an extra bit to serve them should be a sweet reward.

August 9th, 1915.

"I think it my duty to tell you what 'Fruit-a-tives' has done for me. Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of 'Fruit-a-tives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising. During the 3 1/2 years past, I have taken them regularly and would not change for anything. I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-tives', and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain."

Harry Lauder's Change.

You may have seen some months ago a picture of "Harry Lauder and his Wife and Son," it was printed everywhere, the face of the genial old comedian beaming with pride in his son, just enlisted and going to the front. Lauder had lived for his boy, John. He had planned to buy him an estate in Scotland and give it to him on the day he should marry.

The news of John's death came while Lauder was singing a comic song in a music hall in London. They handed him the telegram when he came off the stage, and he fell into a chair. In his agony he rushed over to France and saw the grave of his son, and heard there the story of how the boy had turned to God in the trenches and of how bravely he died; and then Lauder hastened to comfort his wife in their Scottish home. There a good old Scottish dominie went to console him. He found Lauder in an arm-chair by the fireplace.

"Ah," said Lauder, "the loss of my bonny boy grieved me sore," (greet in Scotch for grieve). "We were pals, my boy and I, and if you could have seen that little white cross in France you might imagine a little of the ache that came into my heart and the emptiness that came into my life. When a great blow like that hits a man, he takes one of three roads. He may give way to despair and become a wreck, or he may turn to God. I have chosen my road. I have turned to God."

Since then Harry Lauder has been singing and preaching to the soldiers in the concentration camps in England and in the camps behind the battle-line in France and Belgium.

A worker for the Y. M. C. A., recently returned from the front, tells of a meeting held on Sunday night in a big dug-out close to the battleline that bits of bursted shells, falling upon the board roof, sounded like the tattoo of hail. In the light of a few candles, a hundred men, fresh from the front and familiar with death, sat on the ground and listened while Lauder told how he had turned to God.

When Women Make Garden

Several places in Pennsylvania report that a pest has thought to menace the potato crop by tackling the plants on the under side of the leaves, but this pest chose time for attack, for with women's housecleaning instinct extended now to the potato patch, both sides of every leaf are being watched and corners cleaned as never before. This treatment has removed from many a patch the threatened destruction, so that a bumper yield is promised from those gardens whose product depends solely on housecleaning methods.

Rev. Father Fleming

The Kingston Bulletin had the following in a recent issue referring to the well beloved former pastor of St. Mary's R. C. Church of this place.

"Rev. Father Fleming is a worthy successor to the late lamented Rev. Father T. J. Spratt, who for so many years was the good priest of Wolfe Island. A prominent Protestant gentleman, who has been privileged to travel much, and who has been brought in contact with men of note and ability in all parts of the earth, had occasion to call on Rev. Father Fleming, at his home on the Island, a few days ago, and for the first time met the priest of that parish. He came back to the city filled with enthusiastic admiration for the Father and to the Bulletin said:

"Father Fleming is a most delightful and charming character to meet. He is a typical Irish gentleman, with a broad benevolent face, beaming with the sunshine of good nature and kindness. His articulation is clear, distinct and delightfully pleasant to the ear, and his voice is sweet and winning. His conversation is that of a man of culture, and he is academic without being pedantic. Rev. Father Fleming has a wide grasp of the world. He is a scholar and a thinker, and his whole soul is filled with generosity. He makes the stranger feel at home in his presence, and there is an atmosphere of welcome and benevolence in his delightful home on the Island. The good priest has travelled, and loves to talk of places which have made history. The aesthetic and ideal find a large place in his made-up, and I can safely say that I have never met a more congenial soul in all Canada. Your Church should feel proud of such a man, and the world would be better if there were more Father Fleming's in it."

"GONE"

His panama hangs on the hall rack,
There's the ghost of his step on the stair,
And his room breathes so strong of his presence

I find myself seeking him there;
And I say to his pictures, "He's left us."
And I say to his books, "We're alone."
And my eyes fill with tears
And my heart sick with fears,
But—we couldn't keep Harold at home.

It wasn't for honor or glory;
It wasn't for love of the fray.
The war seemed a gray growing horror;
Coming nearer and nearer each day.
For the children of Europe were slaughtered,

And Columbia hearing their moan,
Sent a far-reaching call for Canadians—
All;

And we couldn't keep Harold at home.

Who can judge of the limits of loving?
Who can say of what loyalty's made?
And this feeling of man for his country,
It's something the God of him gave.

It's bigger and finer than self is,
Upon it our ideals have grown.
It's Canadian blend and its true to the end

And—we couldn't keep Harold at home.
So we're here with the ghost of his presence;

And the pictures and books in his room,
And his panama hangs on the hall rack,
And we say, "he'll be coming home again."

And we're thinking thoughts in the night-watches

As thousands of others have done,
But we're proving we're fit,
And we're doing our bit,

And—we didn't keep Harold at home.
Crysler, Aug. 22nd.

The Culprit Identified

The evening lesson was from the Book of Job, and the minister had just read, "Vea, the light of the wicked shall be put out," when immediately the church was in total darkness.

"Brethren," said the minister with scarcely a moment's pause, "in view of the sudden and startling fulfilment of this prophecy, we will spend a few minutes in silent prayer for the electric light company."

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.

To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

An Important Statement

Last September we made the following statement:

"We have been requested by our Shorthand and Secretarial graduates to issue a statement relative to the comparison between the enrollments and graduations."

Our records show that up to June, 1912 the number of students who entered the senior Shorthand classes, but who failed to graduate, was a very considerable loss to these classes in the College. During the year 1912-13 the proportion of graduates increased, and so from year to year. The year just ended shows the best record in the twenty years' history of the school, for the number failing to graduate as compared with the total enrollment has been reduced to a negligible minimum, and in the majority of these cases the student accepted a situation and would not stay to graduate.

To a great extent this is due to the fact that all Willis teachers since 1912 have been keen, enthusiastic and intelligent workers; that the atmosphere is refined and home-like; and each student knows that the Principal and all the Staff are interested in his or her individual progress.

This year is even more gratifying, for without any exception and giving everyone his just dues, we are able to say that the results obtained are far superior to those of any previous period in the history of Willis College.

When you combine thoroughness of training with a helpful atmosphere, you get results not otherwise obtained.

If you are interested in a GOOD course of Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping or Civil Service, write today for our prospectus.

Taking Time to Think It Over.

A Tragedy in Real Life

A Mutual Life insurance agent urged a certain man to sign an application for $5000 insurance protection. The man replied—"Give me Sunday to think it over." Instead of thinking it over on Sunday, the young man went away on a motorcycle trip and, meeting with an accident, lost his life.

Leaving the signing of the application 48 hours cost his dependent relatives $5000, a sum which would have been a wonderful blessing to them.

Life is just as uncertain during the days of procrastination as later. Insure now, and do not make your family take chances for another day.

The Late Wm. Warren, sr.

Again we are called upon to chronicle the death of an old and much respected resident of Matilda Township, in the person of William Warren, sr., in his 67th year, who departed this life on Aug. 10th.

The subject of this notice was born in Lincolnshire, Eng. and was married in 1873 to Sarah Ellen, daughter of Walter and Sarah Ellen Robertson, of Martintown, Ont. To this union was born eight children, three of whom died in infancy. The other five who survive him are: Mrs. Agnes Newton, of Moretown, Vt.; Mrs. Herbert P. Jubb, of Iroquois; Miss Leila, at home; William, of Matilda, and Robt., of Vajreville, Alta. Besides his sorrowing widow he also leaves to mourn his loss an aged mother and two brothers, and two sisters, viz: David, of Matilda; Thomas, of Michigan; Mrs. Daniel Wicks, of Harrisville, N. Y. and Mrs. Jos. Fisher of Chesterville.

In religion he was a Methodist, a faithful and earnest christian, and acted as Superintendent and Bible class teacher for over twenty years.

The funeral service was conducted on Sunday, Aug. 12th, at the Methodist Church, Iroquois, the pastor, Rev. E. W. S. Coates, speaking with great feeling and sympathy from Hebrews 12: 1.

L. O. L. No. 119, Iroquois, of which deceased was a member for many years, paid their respects to their departed brother by marching in a body to the church, thence to the cemetery where they held a burial service.

The floral tributes were many and costly including emblems from his Sunday School and Bible class, and L. O. L. No. 119, Iroquois. The funeral was one of the most largely attended seen here in some time, which testified to the esteem of the departed.—Iroquois News.

Not Properly Trained.

Among those who heard their country's call to "do their bit" at farming was a retired brakeman. He was plowing up a piece of new land with a team, and had the reins fastened around his waist. Presently he saw a stump ahead, and instinctively he began giving the railway "stop" signal with both hands. The plow struck the stump and the brakeman went head over heels. Picking himself up he shook his fist at the horses and roared: "You fools don't you ever look back for a signal?"
