Chesterville council off to a flying start at inaugural meeting

Chesterville council members met Monday for their inaugural meeting. They were duly sworn in and went to work with a rush. All members were present with the reeve and clerk except councillor Geo. Laflamme who is vacationing in Florida. From left to right standing are councillors Keith Graham, Harold Sharkey and J. A. Butcher. Seated are the reeve, Carl Merkley, and clerk Lorne Marcellus.—Record Photo.

DIED

PARKIN—In Cornwall General Hospital on Monday, January 12, 1959, James Parkin, in his 85th year. The funeral will be held from Morewood United Church Manse to Morewood United Church today, Thursday, January 15, where service will be conducted at 2.30 p.m. by Rev D. L. Gordon. Interment will follow in Morewood Cemetery.

Carnival Queen Contest at Winchester affair

Winchester 100 Club members are planning a big Winter Carnival for Friday night, January 23, in Community Arena. They have worked up a lively program of events and will top the carnival with a contest for Carnival Queen.

The queen will be some young lady 15 years old or older. She will be chosen from contestants entered from Williamsburg, Chesterville, Winchester, Morewood, Metcalfe and Mountain District schools.

The lucky winner will receive gifts and prizes to a value of over $100. Judges of the contest will be William Strader, Williamsburg; Dave Berry, Mountain; Mrs Eldon Craig, Metcalfe; Mrs Wm. Byers, Winchester; Keith Graham, Chesterville.

Chesterville's new 1959 council got underway Monday. It started at 11 a.m. with a swearing-in ceremony, resolved to borrow a pot of money from the Bank of Nova Scotia against tax revenues and by half-past midnight had the preliminary work done to enable committees, commissions and regular employees get some idea what lay ahead for the year. Reeve Carl Merkley, councillors H. Sharkey, J. A. Butcher and H. K. Graham were on hand. Councillor George Laflamme is reporting from Florida for the next couple of weeks and was not present in person.

New clerk Lorne Marcellus coached by H. C. Hummel took to the duties of clerk-treasurer without any hesitation.

The swearing-in ceremony took place in the clerk's office at 11 a.m. and at the same time the clerk and reeve were authorized to borrow against the town's credit up to $30,000. The money is needed until taxes come in. Regular meetings of council are to be held this year on the first Tuesday of each month at 7.30 p.m. in the clerk's office.

Reeve Carl Merkley called the councillors together again at 7.30 p.m. for a long session. Considerable work lay ahead and it was handled with dispatch.

Hydro affairs were quickly covered, with some discussion centering around the old hydro truck. It was felt the truck's days were numbered and its usefulness past. The secretary-treasurer was instructed to check with the hydro auditor about the feasibility of selling the truck to the town at a price. The town needs a small truck worse than the commission, the commission felt, and perhaps a deal could be made.

By-law No. 822 makes appointments

Council passed minutes of the last meeting as read and proceeded to appoint their important working commitees. This year Roads and Bridges will be under the care of Harold Sharkey and George Laflamme. Al Butcher and Keith Graham will be the committee on Police, Fire Department and Community Hall.

Village appointments followed the usual pattern. One by-law, No. 822, covered most of the positions. Dog tax collector comes under the clerk's duties; assessor Hosea Droppo was rehired at the same rate and auditors are F. A. R. MacFadden Co. of Toronto at $300.

A departure from practice that proved successful this year was to have all village employees on hand. They were interviewed one at a time by council and the system seemed to be satisfactory.

Police chief Leonard Shane was rehired at the same salary; along with rent paid for his car it comes to $3,600 a year with extra mileage for court and special outside trips. The police chief had few beefs for council but he did ask that some thought be given to having a relief man trained for the town. He pointed out he would like to get an occasional holiday; three days a year, as last year, was really not enough. The council members agreed and offered their help.

Town foreman decision taken

Fire chief John Hehir is still in business at $20 per month and fireman's pay for fires. He did ask that an extension phone be added to his home equipment. This was ordered done.

Janitoring and hall maintenance is the department of Robert Ouderkirk. He gets $50 a month for the service and was satisfied with the arrangement. Considerable discussion arose about general maintenance and supervision, which included janitor services for the village buildings and other property. The net result of the discussion resulted in the decision to advertise for a village foreman. It was hoped to be able to hire some one who would be in a position to look after many of the housekeeping details that have to be done, but still do it within a reasonable budget. A chauffeur's licence would be necessary in the event the town purchased a truck. The foreman's duties would involve general supervision over the janitor, over street repairs and patching, street sweeping and general supervision of village work being done by day labour.

The ad was ordered placed in the "Record" this week.

Andrew Harper was commended on the good job he has been doing on the garbage detail. He had some questions to ask about the removal of oil cans from the garages and service stations of the village. Council felt he should pick them up when they were placed at the curb ready for his regular trips. It was pointed out he need only take those that were placed in cartons or equally good containers, and only oil cans. Other heavy refuse was not his responsibility. Council upped his annual rate $100 to $1,500 per annum.

Snow plow operator Sydney Morris was on hand and offered to work at the same rate as last year, namely $200 retainer and $5 per hour plowing. Council felt his efforts this year had been especially beneficial to the streets and mentioned that fact.

Money by-law to be prepared

Erwin Merkley, a noted dog lover, was appointed pound keeper at the same pay and Lee Smith is the man to see if dogs kill any of the taxpayers' sheep.

An office has appeared in the lists that has not been there for quite a few years. This year the reeve was appointed relief administrator and already there is work for his attention.

Councillor Harold Sharkey was appointed again to the Community Centre Board, John Coyne to the North Dundas High School District board, Ronald Lynch and Mrs Albert Kilby to the Library board. South Nation River Authority member is to be J. A. Butcher as council representative.

A grant was made to St. John Ambulance Corps of $25, and it was decided to join the associations of Good Roads and Rural Municipalities. Delegates to the latter association convention in Toronto in February will be reimbursed up to $75 and council members and the clerk may go.

Council decided to offer the same rate for fire protection to Winchester township as before, namely, $25 an hour for the pumper and $5 per fireman for the first hour, $1.50 per hour after that.

Final matter settled was a decision to ask the village solicitor to prepare a money by-law for the ratepayers' consideration to raise $30,000 by debentures. The proposed by-law would be the start towards getting a permanent cement dam for water control on the river. The clerk was ordered to attend to the matter.

Accounts were passed and paid and reeve and councillors shut up shop at 12.30 a.m. These were hydro and village accounts ordered paid:

Village Accounts

Harold Loughridge, decorations and sewers, $29; Chesterville Public School Board, balance, 1958 levy, $2,630.45; Harry C. Hummel, petty cash, $15.03; Dick Casselman, relief account, $31.07; S. Barrie and Sons, relief account, $14; Carl Merkley, relief account, $11.60; Sydney Morris, snow plowing, $90; Mrs G. LaPierre, TB aftercare, $46; Harold Loughridge, labour, $19.25; Cyril Fyke, labour, $2.92; Grant Elliott, labour, $19.26; United Counties, levey for 1958 plus interest, $1,5604.07; Bell Telephone Co.,

Big new industry acquires large acreage at Morrisburg

Rohm and Haas Company of Canada, Limited, a subsidiary of the fifth largest chemical and pharmaceutical producing company on the North American continent has purchased 210 acres of land near Riverside Heights with intentions of building a plant this spring which will initially employ 100 men and sometime in the future upwards of 650.

The story appeared in the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder Tuesday night.

The company produces an extensive line of chemical specialties for industrial uses and numerous drugs.

The announcement, made Tuesday morning by members of the Williamsburg Township Planning Board, did not say to what extent the original expenditure would be.

However, the land in question can be serviced both by rail and water and it is highly probable a 1,200 foot long dock will be built and spur line from the CNR track will also be constructed to the firm's plant.

The land in question is part of 1,600 acres bordering the St. Lawrence River in a three-and-a-half mile stretch between Riverside Heights and Morrisburg.

Negotiations have been going on for at least two years. The deed for the property was actually registered January 2. The land in question was sold by Ontario Hydro. It is made up of the following farms: Wilfred Foss, Michael Casselman and Allan Lavis.

Williamsburg Township Reeve Don Kyle disclosed further information might be expected at any time. This would reveal probably the total expenditure involved.

Mr Kyle said negotiations are now on with "other very hot prospects" and possibly more news of further industrial development would be coming in the near future.

"We feel Williamsburg Township is definitely standing on the threshold of a great industrial future. Our future at this point looks very, very bright," he said.

It is understod Ontario Hydro did the negotiation with the cooperation of the township's planning board.

The township is now in the process of having the 1,600 acres of land zoned for industry. Geo. Jowett, chairman of the planning board and a main king pin towards industrial expansion in the area, said in his opinion this section of seaway valley is probably the "most important" industrially.

The company has its head office for Canada in Toronto. It is understood the company will expand progressively.

The announcement of a 210-acre sale is the most significant so far. It represents probably the largest tract of land yet sold for industrial purposes since all of seaway valley became industry conscious with the arrival of the power project.

The deal includes 17 acres of land just south of Highway No. 2 and running to the river. It is quite suitable for dockage. The area is serviced by two major highways and the CNR.

The Williamsburg Township Planning Board has been working "behind" the scenes since its founding two years ago. Composed of three members of council and six township residents, it reports up to the present time it has received "numerous" contacts from industrial prospects.

The members include Mr Jowett, chairman of the board; Keith Schell, township clerk-treasurer and secretary-treasurer of the planning board, and members W. E. Trickey, John Whittaker, Graham Hess, R. H. Casselman, Douglas Barkley and Graham Johnson.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY ANNUAL SLATED FOR SATURDAY

Chesterville and District Agricultural Society will hold its annual meeting this coming Saturday in Chesterville. The meeting will take place in the clerk's office or theatre of Community Hall at 1.30 p.m.

The meeting will hear annual reports and make plans for the coming season. Directors and other executive officers will be chosen and certain important decisions made.

A good attendance is hoped for. The meeting is open to the public.

Township officers appointed at meeting of council

The inaugural meeting of Winchester Township council for 1959 was held in the township building on Monday, January 5, with the following members present and subscribing to the necessary oath of office: Reeve, A. E. Smith; deputy reeve, Gerald Holmes; councillors, Garfield Baker, Cecil McNabb. Chas. Crump was absent due to snow-blocked roads.

After the members had been sworn in by the clerk, Rev E. B. Bugden, of Trinity United Church, Chesterville, opened the meeting with a very appropriate prayer for the guidance and good judgment of council in the transaction of the business of the township during 1959. The reeve, Mr Smith, on behalf of council, extended to Mr Bugden a very sincere vote of thanks for his kindness in opening the first meeting of the 1959 council.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

A town foreman

Chesterville council started the year's business with a rush this week. Before the first meeting was over, a number of ambitious plans had been aired, municipal employees had been rehired and council had started getting used to the tight harness of civic responsibility once again.

This year members of village government plan a couple of innovations for Chesterville, although not new in other towns. They are advertising for aplications for the job of village foreman. It is hoped to be able to hire some responsible person to take over the job and allow council to group under one authority the many odd jobs that small municipalities undertake to make up the year's work. It is hoped a town foreman will be able to look after general maintenance of the community's streets, public buildings, hire part-time day labour and operate the town's truck, if one is purchased this year.

Another project planned for immediate attention is to arrange for the passing of a by-law to authorize the expenditure of money for construction of a permanent dam in the river. This particular matter is a follow-up of last year's planning and should soon reach the point where the ratepayers will have their say on the matter. This year, too, should see significant changes in the Community Hall set-up.

New brooms sweep clean as always. We wish council the best; just let's hope they don't fall into the all too common error and start sweeping bits under the rug.

Old fashioned Christmas—phooey!

Each Christmas we have dinned into us the wonderful delights we are missing now that the "old fashioned Christmas" has followed the dodo bird into oblivion. Then the writer or speaker or just plain visitor takes off on a flight of fancy. At about that point we curl up and snarl gently at the cat.

It is our intention every Christmas time to ease off the pressures generated by the above inanities, but then the season of joy is not the time and other things intrude to end the intention. But not this year. As of now we enlist applicants for a society known as "Against Good Old Fashioned Christmases" or AGOFC for short.

One of our dear friends here in Chesterville always opens the nostalgia bin with "did 'ja ever ride behind a horse on a cold, clear, winter's night . . ." Sure, we have ridden behind quite a few horses and also we have been unable to speak for a mile up the road when the wind was right, or the words would have been strained through a mat of clotted horse hairs. "Ah, but the fun of being out in the open . . ." and of course the fun in realizing with a sinking feeling that the hot bricks wrapped in newspapers had finally gotten as cold as the cutter bottom. Cold feet, cold hands, nipped nose and ears chills glamour and fun.

Christmas arrivals tumbling out of the sleigh, full of happiness and cheer, slightly paralyzed after a four-mile sleigh ride behind a team of farm plugs; not too many farms had a fast team at hand in spite of the old engravings.

The ones who really took the rap on that delightful "old style Christmas" were the ladies of the household. Paens of praise have been heaped on the gleaming, steaming, delightful kitchen range that turned out such succulent roasts, such tender, flaky pies. Practically nothing has been reported about mother's feelings as she coped with the tempermental, smoky, dirty, uncertain pile of iron. Just the voracious appetite of the monster for wood kept one of us kids feeding it all Christmas morning. We can still feel the frustration that would cloud the kitchen when the iron monster would develop a red-hot spot and burn the delicious, golden brown gravy.

Mothers, in the good old days, just couldn't get enough help to make life in the kitchen compare with today's conveniences. While the results that appeared on the table were wonderful to taste, their taste has not lessened a bit by the passage of time. And today's ease of preparation and use of modern kitchen aids lets Mom have a lot better time anticipating the arrival of guests than she ever did before.

We read of the bliss an author had in biting into a crisp, crunchy, home-grown apple, of eating tasty, home-grown meats and vegetables. He is confusing the products of his present-day supermarket with what he did not have at home in the winter on the farm. Then by Christmas time it was limp apples out of the sawdust barrel, fresh meat if it was fresh killed but salted or pickled if it was over a week old. Fresh vegetables? Fresh out of the sealer, more like, or out of the cotton sack that held dried corn, dried apples, beans or split peas.

We had the best times of our lives growing up. The memories of those times colour and add tremendously to our present enjoyment of holiday times. But don't let anyone convince you it was all fun on everybody's part. The blisters, sweat and even tears that preceded so many Christmas dinners in the old days shouldn't happen to a dog.

ELECTRICAL TERMS

Can you define the common every-day electrical terms. Few people can. Here's the difference between watt, volt and ampere:

A watt is a unit measuring the consumption of electrical power, it depends upon both volts and amperes.

A volt is a measurement of electrical pressure, like water pressure,, which is measured in pounds.

An ampere measures the flow of electricity, something like gallons per minute in a water system.

If you multiply volts by amperes you obtain watts. For example, a furnace motor operating on 115 volts and rated at 2 amperes consumes 230 watts.

POOCH POSTCARD

People who want to go on vacation but hate to leave Fido at home might want to adopt the method used by kennels in Germany to make the separation more bearable for their pets.

According to the German Tourist Information Office, dogs are not accepted as boarders at certain kennels unless the owner promises to send postcards regularly while away.

The owner must also promise to sleep with the postcard next to his skin for one night so the dog will fully comprehend the "message"—and the kennels solemnly swear that the pooches are much happier after sniffing their "own" cards every day.

In a period of 20 years the fur trader David Thompson mapped more than a million square miles of the Canadian west and his only tools were a pocket watch, a sextant, a candle and the stars.

By most recent count there are only 26 whooping cranes surviving.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

All day at regular intervals I have listened to the CBC announce a talk that will be given on radio at 10.30 by some gentleman from Vancouver. In this talk he will expound his plan for a three-month holiday every year for everybody in Canada. It is not only possible, he intends to tell us, but is economically feasible.

I would miss my deadline if I waited to report his theory to you. But the idea set me thinking about that remarkable subject, leisure, and its awful opposite, work.

Work has come to be rather a dirty word. It is something we do only because we have to—something we would avoid if at all possible. Most people have only one reason for coming into contact with work at all—money. And the money has to be good too.

I saw proof of that fact in the paper. A service station man offered a young chap $50 a week while he was learning the service station business. The chap was unemployed but his wife had a job. After thinking the deal over for a few days he turned the offer down.

It seemed he was getting $30 unemployment insurance. If he worked for 44 hours a week he would get only $20 more. That figures about 45 cents an hour. "And I'm not going to work for 45 cents an hour," he said.

We've certainly done a wonderful job during the last few decades in undermining that good, honest, respectable, necessary word called work.

We started with the very young. We tried to make games of the chores they ought to do around the house. When they failed we bribed them into doing things by paying them. There must be children at large today who get paid for brushing their own teeth.

This no-work idea edged into the schools. When I went to Teachers' College decent, respectable instructors insisted that we make learning fun for children. By playing store, for example, the little angels would learn to add and subtract without doing any monotonous work.

Well, if I were Minister of Education that would be changed. Work would be given a place on the course of study as are health and religion.

I'd teach the next generation that work is an honourable thing. That the wise Creator wasn't punishing Adam and Eve when he gave the command that they must earn their bread. He was doing them a favour. They didn't have time after that to eat apples and talk to serpents and we have no record of their getting into trouble again.

I'd teach the youngsters that the 40-hour week, the two weeks holiday with pay and the large figures on their income tax sheet aren't the most important factors of work. The real pay-off is the feeling of satisfaction that comes from a job that is well done, the feeling of accomplishment, the joy of creating something that is a part of themselves.

I'd try to impress upon them that nothing worth bothering with in this world is gained without hard work. And I'd line up the men and women in history who have achieved fame, glory, wealth because they worked like dogs for 20 hours every day. I wouldn't have too much the week with Mr and Mrs Clair of people who never worked and never amounted to anything.

Now I'm not in favour, as you may suppose, of child labour, sweat shops, seven-day weeks and 365 days of work a year. I know very well that rest, relaxation and play are necessary if a man or woman is to do his or her best. What I am in favour of is trying to squelch this all-too-common conception that work is something to be avoided and that the absence of work is the supreme goal.

After working very hard all his life a man died. In the hereafter he was given everything he asked. He played golf, fished, swam, ate, amused himself in every possible way.

At last one day he called the guardian angel. "I'm sick of all this," he stormed, "I want work. I want something to do."

"I'm sorry," the angel replied, "but work is the one thing we cannot provide."

"Well if I have to spend eternity like this, without work, I might as well be in hell."

"Sir," asked the angel, "where did you think you were?"

And there isn't a doubt about it. A world without work would certainly be hell. It is time more folks realized it.

Mrs A E Jarvis heads United W.A. arrangements made for bazaar

Mrs A. E. Jarvis presided at the opening of the January meeting of Trinity United Woman's Association. She was assisted by the new secretary, Mrs Earl Merkley.

After an opening hymn, Mrs Lyle Marcellus occupied the chair for a short business period. Mrs Graham Durant reported for the nominating committee that Mrs A. E. Jarvis had agreed to act as president for another year. It was announced that Mrs Mrs A. E. Smith had resigned as first vice president, so Mrs D. M. McElheran was appointed to replace her. Mrs Jarvis took her place in the president's chair.

A short devotional period followed. Mrs Lyle Marcellus read the scripture lesson and Mrs McElheran the meditation and prayer. Mrs Eric Casselman was pianist.

The secretary called the roll call which was answered by the payment of fees. After the reading of the minutes, it was decided to ask Mrs Graham Smith to replace Mrs Jarvis on the nominating committee.

Arrangements were made for the annual bazaar to be held on March 26. The usual showers were arranged, to begin in two weeks with the money shower convened by Mrs Eric Casselman, Mrs Donald Cross, Mrs Harry Allison, the miscellaneous shower convened by Mrs Foster Bowman, Mrs Lloyd Merkley, Mrs Dwight Droppo, the apron shower convened by Mrs H. E. Merkley, Mrs H. E. Durant, Mrs Wm. Hamilton and Mrs Graham Durant.

The food table committee consists of Mrs W. O. Dixon, Mrs C. Thompson, Mrs D. Docksteader, the surprise package and candy table commitee, Mrs George Johnston and Mrs Howard Kittle.

The tea table committee is to be appointed as are the conveners for the other meetings during the year.

Mrs Foster Bowman, treasurer, reported a bank balance of $233; the visiting committee convener, Mrs H. E. Merkley, 22 calls, and the flower committee convener, Mrs Geo. Johnston, $20 on hand.

Mrs Harry Allison showed a sample of plates bearing the picture of a church that are available. It was decided to order a number of these to be sold in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of Trinity Church next summer.

Mrs Geo. Barkley reported for the auditing committee and the secretary read a letter of thanks from Mr and Mrs W. O. Dixon.

Because of the small number of members present it was decided to leave the discussion of the purchase of a church carpet until the next meeting .

The meeting closed with a hymn and the Mizpah benediction.

Sig. D. A. Carkner, Gagetown, N.B., is spending some time with his parents, Mr and Mrs Alfred Carkner, and family.

Mr and Mrs William Armstrong, of Winchester, spent Saturday evening visiting Mr and Mrs Alfred Carkner and family.

Mr and Mrs Lyle Merkley and children, Chesterville, visited on Sunday evening with Mr and Mrs Bert Beckstead and Mrs Bessie Merkley.

VOTE TO BUY OUT POWER FACILITIES AT AVONMORE

Avonmore property owners last week voted 45 to 6 in favour of purchasing power faciltiies for the police village from Ontario Hydro Commission.

Cost of the proposed purchase of Hydro power facilities would be $14,000. A total of 55 percent of the property owners cast ballots on the referendum.

It is hoped the new Avonmore Hydro Electric Utilities Commission will become effective July 1, 1959. Purchase by the village of existing Hydro facilities is expected to result in a saving of some 10 percent on the cost of domestic power.

The annual consumption of wood in Canada is still well below the annual growth in the forests.

Hospital Auxiliary meets at Winchester

On Thursday evening, January 8, the members of Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary met in the assembly hall of the hospital for the monthly meeting.

Mrs M. A. Black opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer and a New Year's greeting to all present. Twenty-one members responded to the roll call.

Miss Nora Elliott gave the treasurer's report for December which totalled $566.24. Expenses for Readers Digest were $3, leaving a balance of $563.24. Several units handed in membership fees and substantial sums of money.

Mrs Mulloy, superintendent, reported the usual activities in every department of the hospital. She expressed her appreciation to all who donated food, gifts for children, favours for trays, to the C.G.I.T. girls for carol singing and for flowers for New Year's. She also gave a brief talk on the new Extension Plan for the hospital and the Ontario Hospital Insurance.

Morewood unit suggested that a tea and bake sale be held after the regular monthly meeting at some future date in aid of the Hospital Auxiliary. The meeting was declared adjourned by the president.

NO PROFIT

The story comes from Detroit that Wayne County tax officials say the county loses money every time it bills Boleslaw Gawel.

Gawel's house is assessed at $2,010. But Gawel is a veteran and gets a $2,000 soldier's homestead tax exemption. The tax on the remaining $10 is seven cents.

Officials say it costs 50 cents to bill Gawel for his seven cents.

St. Luke's Explorers hold initial meeting for 1959

The Explorer group of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch, held their first meeting of 1959 in the Sunday School hall. After games, the Chief Explorer, Elaine Graham, opened the meeting with the opening ceremony, followed by Scripture reading by Heather MacLeod and prayer by Carolyn Ouderkirk.

After the singing of the hymn, "Beautiful Words of Life," the roll call was answered by "A New Year's Resolution." The offering was received by Shirley Wiseman and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Judy Ouderkirk and approved.

Counsellor Vera MacLean introduced the study book, "Ten Pairs of Shoes," and gave the first study on Alaska in story form.

In a star-receiving ceremony, the first gold stars were presented to Explorers Barbara Smith, Carolyn Ouderkirk, Shirley Wiseman, Judy Ouderkirk and Heather MacLeod by Counsellors Vera MacLean and Mrs Carl Waldroff.

Each Explorer made a ticket holder in the activity period, after which the Chief Explorer declared the expedition ended.

Export value of products of Norwegian fur farms, mostly mink pelts, averages $8,500,000 annually.

S. U. Casselman

Funeral services for S. U. Casselman, former Morrisburg merchant and lifelong resident, were held Sunday in the Jarvis Funeral Home, Morrisburg. Rev J. Hardwick, of Knox Presbyterian Church, officiated.

Mr Casselman, who died in Brockville General Hospital, was born in Froatburn 86 years ago. He was the son of Guy Casselman and Melinda Froats, of Froatburn. In 1904 he married Bertha Edith Castleman, who predeceased him in 1947. He conducted a successful grocery business opposite the old St. Lawrence Hall for 34 years.

After retiring several years ago, he resided in Morrisburg until his home was demolished for Seaway expansion a year ago, when he went to Toronto with his daughter, Mrs Pauline McArthur. He was the oldest member of the Order of Foresters.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs Pauline McArthur, of Toronto; one granddaughter, Mrs Leslie Willard, Morrisburg, and a great granddaughter, Joanne. Mr Casselman was the last survivor of a family of five.

Pall bearers were Fred S. Broder, Geo. Beavers, Frank Stewart, E. M. Beckstead, Dwight Beckstead and J. A. Edgerton.

Honorary pall bearers were Dr K. A. Blancher, Gensmer Barkley, Geo. Casselman and Geo. Fraser.

FINCH FIREMEN HOLD MEETING

The regular meeting of Finch Volunteer Fire Department was held in Finch Community Hall under Chief Hugh McDougall. Guest speaker for the evening was Maurice Roussy, of Cornwall, fire marshall for the district.

Mr Roussy gave a very interesting and instructive address on why and how to ventilate a burning building. He also showed a film on the same subject, "Ventilation."

Crysler Volunteer Fire Department members attended as guests.

HOUSE HUNTERS

A pack of hounds followed a fox which burst through a window and killed it in the living room of a house in Littleworth, Eng.

The owners returned to find the huntsmen trying to clean up the room. The hunters promised to pay for the damage.

The common May beetle has antennae that are built like the antlers of a moose.

SPECIAL WINTER BUDGET PLAN—
HAVE WORK DONE NOW!

YOUR HOME Is probably your single largest investment —PROTECT IT ALWAYS. Do you realize that your home, kept in good repair, is continually increasing in value with each passing year?

You can further increase the value of your home, and at the same time enjoy better living, by modernizing your kitchen or bathroom, building a playroom in attic or basement, adding a garage and a host of other things.

Plan to do this work NOW. We can assist you in securing efficient workmen and also help in estimating cost of the job before it is started.

You do not have to wait indefinitely to start your job—do it on the MONTHLY PAYMENT PLAN. We can arrange financing for anyone who is a good credit risk for periods of six, twelve, eighteen, twenty-four, and thirty-six months, depending on amounts. A loan under this plan can include the cost of labour and all materials irrespective of what they are. And the beauty of it is that NO DOWN PAYMENT is required and your first payment is not due until APRIL 30.

Maybe beggars can't always be choosers, but Patrick Creel, 54, apparently was begging by choice.

When New York police arrested Creel for panhandling he was wearing two jackets, two overcoats and carrying 5,450 in his pockets.

The cash was in eight frayed paper bags, wrapped in shoelaces. There was $50 in silver.

WINTER'S THE TIME

HANG DOWN YOUR HEAD TOM DOOLEY

AT FIRST GLANCE it might seem as if Tom Dooley didn't have much, if anything, to do with meals and recipes. As a matter of fact it is a good thing to emulate the unfortunate man when shopping in a super market for the best bargains are on the bottom shelves. The experts tell us that the most economical way to shop is to make out a careful list ahead of time; go shopping when the stores are least crowded; go alone; leave your children and your husband at home where they can't tease for expensive extras.

Comparative shopping is another way of saving pennies. Be sure the large economy size is really what it claims. There may be a special on a smaller size that will save you money. The ounces contained by any one package are marked on it. They may be in small type in an obcure place but take the time to find the information you want. Then compare the cost per ounce in the large size with that of the smaller sizes. Buy the size which contains the product at the lowest cost per ounce.

Stuffed Hamburgers

This is easy on the budget as the meat is extended with well-seasoned bread stuffing.

Use your favourite hamburg mixture. Make very thin meat patties. You will need two patties to a serving. Place a spoonful of bread stuffing between two patties. Press edges together. Brown in hot fat. Pour diluted condensed soup over the patties and simmer for about three quarters of an hour. Use tomato, celery or mushroom as desired. Celery and tomato are cheaper than other soups so you will keep the cost of your meal down by using one of them.

Hamburger Rice Pie

1 lb. ground beef
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
Salt and pepper to taste
2 6-oz. cans tomato paste
3 cups cooked rice
½ cup grated cheese (if desired)

Mix beef, bread crumbs, onion, green pepper, seasonings and ½ can tomato paste. Spread in greased pie tin, pushing mixture onto side to form a rim. Mix rice and cheese if used with remaining sauce. Pour into meat shell. Bake in moderate oven for 35 minutes. Serve with salad for supper or with hot vegetable for dinner.

Hamburg Porcupines

Another economical hamburg main dish.

1 lb. ground beef
½ cup uncooked rice
1 tsp. onion
½ tsp. salt
Dash garlic salt
¼ tsp. oregano
2 cups canned tomatoes, tomato juice or soup

Mix uncooked rice and seasonings. Shape into small balls. Place in a covered casserole. Add tomatoes. Bake in a moderate oven one hour. Uncover last ten minutes to brown. Bake potatoes and carrots in oven at the same time for an oven dinner. If you wish, you may cook in your pressure cooker for fifteen minutes at fifteen pounds pressure. Cool by placing in pan of cold water or by holding under cold water tap.

POWERFUL EXHIBIT

Crown Attorney C. C. Slemin emphasized his point recently by thumping a small bottle on the Brantford courtroom table.

"Be careful, that stuff's dangerous," warned Professor Joslyn Rogers, rising nervously from his chair.

Prof. Rogers, explosives expert from the Ontario attorney-general's department, gingerly wrapped the bottle in a towel and took it from the building.

The three ounces of nitroglycerine was an exhibit at the trial.

INFLATION

An anonymous sender returned $5 to a Missoula, Montana, store, saying it covered toys stolen many years ago.

The firm got a second letter the other day posted from the same midwestern city. This one enclosed a second $5 with this inflationary note:

"In view of the present economy, I have decided the first $5 payment would not be sufficient."

Osnabruck High School student council very active

President Ray Melnyck and executive of Ingleside High School student council have had a busy term.

Apart from doing a fine job in fostering school spirit during the fall sports program and in organizing social activities, they have been making some major contributions to the school for the future.

Quite early in the fall term the council promoted a magazine subscription competition in which the students went beyond their quota and netted well over $400. Part of their earnings were used recently to purchase a tape recorder, which will serve as a valuable teaching aid.

A committee, headed by Barbara Fritz, canvassed the businessmen of Osnabruck Township in an effort to provide academic and athletic trophies for the one-year-old school. The campaign was a complete success. The awards will remain in the school, a tribute to the interest and generosity of the donors and the efforts of the current student council.

The students will publish a year book for the current 1958-59 term. Work has already begun under editor-in-chief Ercel Baker and assistant editor Ian MacLean.

A competition for the composition of a school song is projected for the new year.

The basketball series commences on January 16. Osnabruck District will be entered in E.O.S.S.A. "B" competition with Morrisburg, Iroquois and Kemptville High Schools. Both boys' and girls' junior and senior squads will be competing.
