NOTED WINCHESTER CITIZEN PASSES ON

The passing of David Melvin at his home, Winchester, removed from this district one of its most widely known business men and a highly esteemed citizen of that village.

Although the late Mr. Melvin had been in ill-health for a number of years, his condition was not regarded as serious until a few days ago.

Born in the Melvin settlement 76 years ago, deceased was a son of the late David E. Melvin and his wife, Elizabeth Annable, pioneer settlers of the district and for whom the settlement, four miles northeast of Winchester, was named.

Noted Stock Breeder.

When a young man the late Mr. Melvin followed farming and was widely known as a live-stock breeder. Some of the finest horses and cattle in the district today can be traced back to the thoroughbred stocks of the Melvin farm, which was considered the largest and finest dairy concern in Eastern Ontario for many years.

When the automobile was first introduced into the county of Dundas and when the manufacturing of cars was still in its infancy, Mr. Melvin became interested and, in partnership with another Winchester citizen, he took over the first agency to sell automobiles in this district, as a side-line to farming. As the automobile became more popular, Mr. Melvin decided to go into the business on a much larger scale.

In 1918, he and his family moved to Winchester, where he opened a garage and started in business for himself. Since that time, the late Mr. Melvin and his son, Hart Melvin have built up one of the largest dealer organizations in Eastern Ontario. The plant, which is today one of Winchester's biggest business concerns, employs a staff of 25, and distributes about 250 new cars annually Mr. Melvin's ability as a business executive will be greatly missed in his firm.

Interested in municipal matters, the late Mr. Melvin had held many important offices while a resident of the township of Winchester, and was also a trustee of the Melvin school for several years. He was a member of the United church and took an active interest in all its work, prior to his illness.

Mr. Melvin and his wife, the former Miss Zella Sharp, whom he married on September 9th, 1886, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last year. On this occasion Mr. Melvin was presented with a life membership certificate of Henderson Lodge, No. 383 A.F. and A.M., he having been made a Mason over forty years ago.

As a citizen of this district, the late Mr. Melvin was highly esteemed, while in his business transactions he was known over a wide area for his honesty, integrity and fair dealing.

Besides his wife, the deceased is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Annie Holmes, and Mrs. W. H. Errantt, Moose Jaw, Sask., two sons Carl Melvin of Winnipeg, Man., and Hart Melvin of Winchester; five daughters, Mrs. Ira Bowers, Mrs. Stanley Shaver, and Mrs. Hector MacLean, all of Ottawa; Mrs. Wm. Smith, of Toronto; and Mrs. Albert Johnston of Winchester; also several grandchildren.

The funeral is being held this afternoon (Friday) to Maple Ridge cemetery.

MR. FREDERICK APPLETON

There passed away at Brockville General Hospital, Friday afternoon, Oct. 29th, Frederick Appleton, in his 71st year. The funeral was held from his late residence Sunday afternoon, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Smith.

The deceased is survived by his wife and two sons, Bill, of Cardinal, and Edward of Brockville. He is also survived by one grandson.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. H. Casselman, E. Casselman, F. Stata, A. Smith and Mr. Henry.

Among the beautiful floral offerings were: Sprays, from Bell Telephone Co.; Dr. Currie and family; Mr. H. Meikle and family.

FIXED ASSESSMENT OF CORNWALL STANDS

Members of Counties' Council refused to reopen the question of the fixed assessment granted the town of Cornwall at the June sittings, when ex-Warden Arthur Flynn, reeve of Morrisburg, attempted to raise the issue at the October session.

Warden A. Roger McLachlan declared the motion lost when council rose in committee without discussing the matter. A rule of order governing counties' council proceeding declared a matter defeated if council refuses to discuss it in committee.

A by-law introduced by Mr. Flynn sought to have the fixed assessment repealed on the ground that it was unfair to smaller municipalities. He vigorously opposed the measure giving Cornwall a fixed assessment of $8,299,854 for five years, when it was brought up in June.

MARRIED

Dickey-Raymond—On Wednesday, October 27th, 1937, at Newington, by the Rev. W. H. LeGraw, Beatrice Deltra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Raymond, to John Sutherland, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Dickey.

MORRISBURG WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Women's Institute enjoyed a most interesting talk given by Mrs. Leavens at their meeting in the Agricultural Office, on Monday evening. She spoke on "Her Trip to the Prairies", and gave a most vivid description of conditions in the draught-stricken areas of Saskatchewan.

An appeal for Crippled Children's Hospital was met. The Women's Institute members are each giving 20c and hope to help raise $6000 in the Province to help these crippled children of Ontario. $10.00 is being sent by the Treasurer immediately, as the appealers request.

The Institute are ordering a wreath for the War Memorial, as in former years.

The socks knitted by members for the St. Agathe Sanitarium will be handed in at December meeting. Quilt blocks were distributed to members for a quilt which the Institute are making.

The members are invited to visit Matilda Branch at Brinston on Nov. 11th

Miss Patricia MacIntosh recited in her usual pleasing manner.

The Youth Training Program was discussed, offering four courses to Rural Young Women, viz: Catering for Tourists; Marketing of Home-Baked Foods; Simple Dressmaking, and Rug-Making. Application forms are available at Agricultural Office.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

CANADA

Not Over Yet

When it is found necessary to open a special prison camp in British Columbia to house unemployed disturbers it is idle to talk about the depression being completely over.—Peterborough Examiner.

Tribute to Nurses

It is a tribute to Canadian nurses that their services constantly are being sought in the United States. In fact, Canadians are numerous and highly placed in all the professions across the border. This can have but one meaning; ability and zeal.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

Exemplary Punishment

Last week a man was convicted of manslaughter before Mr. Justice Denis of Joliette, Quebec, in connection with a "hit-and-run" fatality, and Judge Denis sent him to penitentiary for seven years. That, we should say, was an adequate penalty, and more of the kind would have an extremely salutary effect.— Ottawa Journal.

Shin Plasters

What motive inspired the Bank of Canada to abolish the twenty-five-cent note, the shin plaster? Surely no economy was involved. Did anybody find it a nuisance? A good many found it a convenience for small remittances when a postal note or money order seemed hardly worth while. Children loved it.—Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

People Will Demand It

The secretary of the Ontario Medical Association is on safe ground in asserting that state health insurance will come in this country. It will arrive, with or without the assent of the medical profession, because the people at large will demand, as they are already demanding, some relief from the heavy financial burdens accompanying sickness and hospitalization—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Thrill of Plowing

"What was the attraction?" probably the first question many persons asked on reading the news despatch reporting an attendance of 25,000 people on the second day and 45,000 on the third day of the International Plowing Match at Fergus.

Fergus being a town with no great population it would be readily assumed that a large percentage of the people came from outside points. It would be further assumed that only a small percentage of those 45,000 actually took part in the contest.

The answer, of course, would be obvious to anybody who knows anything about plowing. There is nothing like the thrill which accompanies plowing a straight furrow, and when you can't do the plowing yourself the best thing is to watch.—Windsor Star.

Co-ordination Is Necessary

Since unemployment is a most urgent social and economic problem, it is extremely necessary that the Dominion and the provinces should get together on this matter with the least possible delay. There should be a central administration under a highly capable executive head, and the different branches throughout the Dominion should be under able directors. The expenditure on relief continues higher than necessary because of lack of an efficient system for placing the unemployed in jobs. Why should this remain so? The great scarcity of skilled workers in some parts of the country will suggest bringing in immigrants of this class. Why bring in outsiders if there are Canadians who are qualified for the jobs, or can be fitted for them? Unemployment insurance will be adopted in some way before long. Then it will be expedient to keep unemployment at a minimum, and this will require a fully organized and aggressive employment service. There is every reason for abandoning the present policy of drift. For the sake of the taxpayers and also of the unemployed, the Dominion and the provinces should lose no time in establishing an efficient, co-ordinated employment service, which can be modified later if necessary.—Winnipeg Free Press.

THE EMPIRE

Who Will Guarantee?

"The will for peace," President Roosevelt declares, "must express itself to the end that nations attempting to violate agreements and the rights of others will desist from such a course." In that event "the will for peace" takes a curious shape, for what is to be done about the nations which, in the late President Wilson's words, "do not intend peace or justice"? It is easy to say that "injustices and well-founded grievances" should be removed; but who is to be the judge of them, and who is to guarantee that the aggrieved will be satisfied with what others decide to be justice?—Telegraph and Morning Post (London).

Crazy World, Crazy Money

Henry Ford once said: "The yard is always 36 inches, but when is a dollar a dollar?" The man in the street reads of Wall Street slumps in share prices, of the rocketing franc, of the jumpiness of stock exchanges, and the failure of brokers. And the man in the street can be excused for thinking that finance has gone crazy. But the explanation is simple enough—a world nervous and ill at ease, the Mediterranean full of warships, soldiers of four or five nations fighting in Spain. And on top of it Japan's savage war on China. How can trade flourish or the world get on with its job of sharing the abundance that science has made possible? So long as the world is crazy finance will be crazy, too.—London Sunday Chronicle.

War's Horrors Will Increase

Ramsay MacDonald Warns Association For Advancement Of Science

Former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, addressing the British Association for the Advancement of Science, discussed the effects of modern science on warfare.

He said China and Spain had shown the great advance attributable to science in the destructive forces of so-called civilization. These would be repeated with increased horror wherever war broke out.

Cannot Avoid Worst

"If we cannot avoid war, we cannot avoid the worst that can happen in warfare," he said, in delivering the first Radford Mather lecture to the association. 'But let us not be misled by thinking scientists as such can stop war."

The action of the farmer in growing wheat and food for war, he continued, was akin to the engineer turning out improved flying engines. But it was false judgment and cowardly for one to blame them if peace was not secured.

Wants Practical Democracy

"The plea I make is for practical democracy, but if democracy is to triumph in the attack now being made, it must have method, and I believe the records of the scientific worker and the way he sets about his work will steady and clarify the popular mind not only to complain eloquently, but to conclude wisely," the former Prime Minister declared.

A return to bows and arrows, he added, would not remove the grievances of nations, for which they will fight, or supply the enlightened diplomacy which can keep peace without injury to a nation's sense of injustice.

Romantic Trade of Past Thrives in Far Corners

The Ivory Trade Is Carried On In Africa, Chiefly — Used For Billiard Balls and Piano Keys

Commerce in the days when sailing barques, laden with "strange cargoes of ivory, apes and peacocks," plied the seven seas was invested with a certain glamor. Even today, in this more prosaic industrial age, a few of the romantic trades of the past still flourish in out-of-the-way spots of the earth. One of these is the ivory trade, writes Frank K. Linge in Barron's Financial Weekly.

Africa Chief Source

Africa is now the chief source of the ivory supply. From East Coast Zanzibar and Mombasa, trading centres for British Kenya Colony and Uganda, and Mozambique, port of Portuguese East Africa, regular shipments are made. Supplies are also obtained in the Sudan and Central and West Coast regions, chiefly the Congo, Cameroon and Nigeria. Russia ships annually a small quantity of mammoth tusks unearthed in Siberia, of an age estimated at 1,000 to 50,000 years. Siam provides a small quota obtained from tame elephants who have died of old age.

Shoot Their Ivory

At one time practically all the ivory brought on to the market was found dead in the jungle and collected by native expeditions from "cemeteries" where elephants in that region find their way to die. It is estimated that now about 50 per cent are shot, although slaughtering of the animals is strictly controlled.

Hippos Produce It Too

Besides the elephant, the ivory produced by some other animals is of commercial value and use. For example, the hippopotamus, or seahorse, has two immense canine teeth or tusks, six others which are curved in the upper jaw, and six straight in the lower jaw. Various species of wild-boar— notably the warthog of South Africa—produce quantities of ivory. Among marine animals there is the sperm-whale, which has immense jaws full of unusual looking teeth, and the walrus whose long tusks projecting downwards are in many instances fine quality ivory, and were at one time extensively used.

London Central Market

London is the central market of the world for ivory, although the growth of the Congo trade has resulted in moderate quantities being shiped to Antwerp where sales are also held. Buyers from the United States and the continent, as well as purchasers representing the home trade, regularly attend the quarterly sales, which have been held for many years in the commercial sales rooms in Mincing Lane. All the ivory to be offered is stored and exhibited at the ivory warehouses at the London docks where it is inspected by buyers and valued according to quality.

Old English Estates Coming On Market

Many of Them Have Histories Linking Back to Early Days of England; Some Sold by Auction As Various Factors Enter Into Transactions

Historic British estates which date back several centuries, in some cases even to feudal days, have been coming into the market in large numbers recently.

Changing family fortunes, new designs for living and death have been some of the factors behind the many offerings at auction and private sales of vast holdings once occupied by English nobility.

Many of the time-worn structures figuring in the realty news there lately have in days gone by sheltered members of the royal family or outstanding figures in the literary life of the nation. Their very walls whisper of the colorful past.

Known to Dickens and Scott

One of these interesting places is the Rokeby Castle in Yorkshire, the home of the Morritt family since the early part of the seventeenth century. More than 1,100 acres comprising the eastern portion of this estate is to be auctioned.

Another estate of note which has come into the market is Broughton Place, near Maidstone, in Kent, where Queen Elizabeth once stayed on a visit to that county in the sixteenth century. The man who owned the place at that time was Thomas Wotton, Sheriff of Kent, who enlarged and beautified the house to make it suitable for his distinguished guest.

He is said to have "prayed to be excused" from knighthood and other honors which she offered him. Near the house stands an old yew tree, enclosed by a high ragstone wall. Tradition has it that the Queen planted this tree.

Held for 400 Years

The Wotton family held this estate for more than 400 years, and then it passed by marriage to the "great" Earl of Chesterfield. Later it became a part of the Kent estates of the Cornwallis family.

Just as in Canada and United States the large estates are difficult to sell because of the limited number of persons who can afford them, so in Britain many fine places "go begging." Many need modernization, taxes on them are high and upkeep is costly.

An example of this is found in the recent sale of Rousdon Mansion in East Devon, known as "one of the beauty spots of England." The buyer paid about $150,000, which was only a fraction of what the late Sir Henry Peek paid to erect it.

Oyster Produced Hundred Pearls

But They Were Too Small To Be Put On Sale

A nest of more than 100 pearls was found in a Whitstable native oyster opened at a famous restaurant in Coventry street, London, England, recently.

Robert Butler, one of the firm's eight oystermen, opened the oyster. Scores of pearls rolled on the floor.

Mr. Butler has been an oysterman for more than twenty years. He opens an average of 400 a day, so that oysters have no secrets from Mr. Butler. But he has never met such an oyster before.

Million a Year

In case you are thinking of going to Whitstable and starting the oyster rush of 1937, it should be stated that the pearls were exceedingly small and not of saleable value.

But, nevertheless, the firm, who sell a million oysters a year, cannot recall anything like it before and Mr. Butler says he has found bigger pearls in the past, but only one at a time.

The oyster in question will go down in history and not down someone's throat. It is being exhibited in a window.

It is now a traffic menace in Istanbul to stop a person in the street and ask for a match.

Finance Wizard Resigns

Although Nazi officials dendied that any decision regarding Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, German Minister of Economics, had been reached, Dr. Schacht considers himself discharged from office. The Minister, whose astounding feats of financial juggling the past few years have kept Germany's economic affairs on a workable basis, has long been at variance with certain of the Nazi leaders. Trouble first came to a head with the institution of the four-year plan sponsored by General Goering, the No. 2 Nazi. Asked about the Government's denial that he was leaving office, Dr. Schacht said: "The official announcement of my resignation will be made yesterday, today or tomorrow." The Minister desires also to withdraw from the presidency of the Reichsbank, the Government agency for the control of German banking. What will Germany do without him?

Ontario Trains Tourist Caterers

One of the newer vocations opening up for the young people of Ontario, especially now that the tourist trade is becoming a major industry, is the tourist-catering profession. Starting later this month or early in December, a course in wayside booth selling, advertising proper cabin accommodation and the care of overnight tourists will be made available to all young people interested, by the Women's Institutes Department of Ontario in connection with the National Employment Commission. Such a training will be of special use to young people in districts well travelled by tourists which are yet poor farming country.

News In Review

Ordered to Stand By

LONDON, Eng. — All British warships within wireless range were asked this week-end, Lloyd's reported, to assist the British steamer Stanray after it was fired on and halted by a Spanish insurgent trawler in the Bay of Biscay.

Prince Michael Honored

BUCHAREST.—His eyes sparkling with joy and pride, King Carol II this week placed on the shoulders of his son, Crown Prince Michael, who reached his 16th birthday, the stripe of a second lieutenant in the Rumanian army. A salute of 21 guns marked the occasion, considered here the most important event in the Rumanian Royal Family since the enthronement of Carol in 1930.

The King Opens Parliament

LONDON.—King George, addressing his Parliament for the first time in a Speech from the Throne, pledged his Government to work unceasingly for peace in Spain and in the Far East.

But he pledged the Government also to maintain the racing pace of its rearmament program—with special attention to anti-aircraft defence — so that if war comes, the country will be ready for it.

Robed in a mantle of red and black, collared with ermine, the King addressed members of the Houses of Lords and Commons, the Peers gorgeously attired in their robes of state, from his throne in the Lord's Chamber.

New Skyway

WASHINGTON. — Pennsylvania-Central Airlines formally opened a new skyway this week for passenger, mail and express traffic between Washington and Buffalo, a route that is expected to link eventually Ottawa and Washington.

Duce Ready to Plunge

ROME.—Premier Mussolini prepared this week-end, on the eve of the fifteenth anniversary of his "march on Rome, establishing fasciem, to plunge into the Spanish civil war on a grand scale if the London non-intervention negotiations collapse, it was learned on excellent authority.

While 100,000 Black Shirts poured into Rome in ninety-three columns that tramped through the streets throughout the night, Il Duce conferred with his subordinates on stern measures to cope with any situation arising from a decision by Russia and France to resume "liberty of action" in Spain.

"By All Honorable Means"

Again the voice from the south heard above the din of European squabbling and preparing for war: "We, as a nation, are at peace with all the world and for that we are thankful. We have no plans for conquest. To keep the peace is a fundamental policy of the United States. War will be avoided by all honorable means." Also in his Navy Day Letter, President Roosevelt warned that the United States will maintain a sea strength sufficient to "ensure a righteous peace."

Relief List Reduced

Latest figures issued by Ottawa show that unemployment and relief have decreased during the past year in the Dominion of Canada. In September, 1937, there were 73,479 fewer people on relief than in September, 1936. Responsible for the drop are better times, provincial and municipal work projects, activities of the National Employment Commission, the land settlement plan under which unemployed are assisted in becoming established on farms.

Belgian Cabinet Crisis

Premier Paul Van Zeeland resigned last week from the leadership of the Belgian Government in order to fight the charges of Rexist (Fascist) opponents that he was mixed up in a "national bank scandal." His cabinet resigned with him as a confidence gesture. The resulting crisis in Belgium forced the postponement of the nine-power conference which was to have met in Brussels Saturday to find an "amicable" solution to the Sino-Jap embroglio.

New Irrigation Projects

At a cost of more than $100,000, two new projects for irrigating areas in the Canadian west have been announced to be carried out under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act. The work will be done in the Brooks, Alberta, irrigation district; and in the Cypress Hills area of Southern Saskatchewan. The Government scheme involves taking over the land at about $10 an acre and reselling it at the same figure. Land will be used for placing farmers from poor lands.

Non-Intervention Accord Remote

Hopeless of agreement, nine European powers delegates to the Spanish Non-Intervention Committee meeting in London which convened over the week-end, sought only to avoid the definite break in relations that might mean the opening of the French frontier to the passage of men and arms into Spain. On the one side were Great Britain, France and Russia, demanding the removal of foreigners from the civil war; on the other side, Germany, Italy and Portugal demanding recognition of the Spanish insurgents as belligerents. The meeting preferred a deadlock to a wide-open split.

Revises Margin Requirements

WASHINGTON.—The United States Federal Reserve Board has announced a drastic revision in its stock market margin requirements. The move was expected by many Washington authorities to bolster sagging security prices.

Deprived of Citizenship

BERLIN.—Theodor Wolff, former editor of the Berlin Tageblatt, is on a list of sixty-seven Germans deprived of citizenship, published this week by the official Gazette. The Jerusalem-Hebron road was barricaded near Solomon's Pools and the telephone wires cut. Separate bands fired on the Ramleh and Lydda police stations.

Indoors 5 months with RHEUMATIC PAINS
Now walks 3 miles a day

Everyone who suffers the sharp agony of Rheumatic pains should read how Mrs. S. P. made a remarkable recovery from this crippling pain.

"I was so ill with Rheumatism in my knees," she writes, "that I was not out of the house for five months last winter. I tried about everything, then I happened to meet a friend who told me about Fynnon Salt. I have taken it regularly and am so much better that I can walk 3 to 4 miles and am getting better every day."

Doesn't that experience mean something to you? You, too, can look forward to quick, lasting relief from rheumatic pain if only you take Fynnon Salt. This is why. Those sharp, jagged crystals in the blood that cause Rheumatic pains are due to an excess of uric acid in your system. Fynnon Salt, the proven British remedy, neutralizes this uric acid by using Nature's own weapons — the mineral salts of the earth. A half teaspoonful of Fynnon Salt in water equals in medicinal effect three large glasses of natural mineral waters. So start now using Fynnon Salt. Take it every day. Large packages cost only 75c at all drug stores. If you have any difficulty getting supplies, write: Laurentian Agencies, St. Gabriel Street, Montreal. 2

HE WAS ALWAYS TIRED AND ILL

Three Complaints Gave Him A Miserable Time

Suffering from three complaints — disordered kidneys, sciatica, and rheumatism, how could this man be anything else but always tired and ill? This is what he writes:—

"Up to a month or so ago, I had suffered continually from kidney disorder, sciatica, rheumatism, and generally felt off colour. I was constantly tired, and under medical supervision. I tried many remedies, but without effect until I gave Kruschen Salts a trial. In four weeks, Kruschen has brought about a complete transformation. I have a healthy appetite and once more feel that it is good to be alive." — S.V.N.

The kidneys are the filters of the human machine. If they become sluggish, impurities find their way into the blood-stream, and the seed of half-a-dozen common ailments is sown.

The scientific combination of salts in Kruschen quickly coaxes the kidneys back to healthy, normal action. Soon your ailments are relieved and life becomes a joy again.

Another Pig Starts "War" On the Canadian Border

For the second time in eighty-one years a pig was blamed for trouble on the peaceful boundary line between the United States and Canada.

Back in 1856 a British porker crossed an imaginary line west of Bellingham, Wash., rooted up the crops of Lyman E. Cutlar on San Juan Island, and nearly precipitated a war between England and the United States, the famous "54-40 or fight" incident.

Mrs. Zella Minnick, Canadian, charged that her American neightbor, John Scheres, of Bellingham, Wash., struck her with his fists. Scheres said Mrs. Minnick's pigs crossed the boundary line and rooted up his crops.

But this matter was left to a justice of the peace, Scheres submitting to arrest on an assault charge.

Canadian Furs Win "Grand Prix"

The Department of Trade and Commerce announced it had received a communication that the fur exhibit at the Canadian pavilion at the Paris Exposition had been awarded the "Grand Prix d'Honneur," highest prize which can be bestowed on any exhibit.

The Canadian exhibit of furs included pelts of principal fur bearing animals of the Dominion, particular displays being made of silver and other domestically bred foxes.

The award was made by a judging committee, which included official representatives from different countries represented at the exposition.

Cost of Living High in Yukon

Steep Prices Asked For Necessities — Only Rents Low

The cost of living in Dawson City, Yukon, famed for the gold rush of '98, is high but does not seem to worry the hardy inhabitants.

On a 3,000-mile aerial assignment, from Lethbridge, Alta., to Dawson, a Lethbridge Herald reporter, J. St. Claire Rivers, learned what is meant by the "high cost of living."

Canteloupes $1 Each

"Apple Jimmy," a Greek fruit dealer and a famous character during the gold rush days, who sold apples and oranges in the dance halls at $1 each, told of present costs. He still runs a fruit store in Dawson, his wares brought in from Vancouver.

Fruit is the most expensive. Canteloupes today sell for $1 each; oranges and peaches, three for $1; plums, three for 25 cents. Potatoes sell at $14 a sack and meat at 50 cents a pound, regardless of the cuts.

House rents are cheap, $10.00 a month, but water is costly, $10 a house a month and electricity is 25 cents a kilowatt. Telephones come high, too. A party line costs $10.00 a month; a private line $20 a month.

Cigarettes are sold in packages of 50. The cost is 75 cents a package.

There is no draught beer in Dawson and no permits are needed to purchase liquor. Beer sells at 50 cents a pint and $1 a quart.

Soviet Gets Air Record

The International Aeronautical Federation has formally recognized the Soviet claim to the world's long-distance air record, set last July 13 when the Soviet flyers Mikhail M. Gromov, Andrei Yumashev and Sergei Danilin flew from Moscow to San Jacinto, Calif., a distance of 6,305.7 miles, in 62 hours 7 minutes.

The previous record was held by the French flyers Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, who flew 5,657 miles from New York to Syria in 1935.

American banks hold forgotten deposits worth altogether nearly $190,000,000. Of these 65 are worth more than $50,000 each.

Science Links Fish to Sirens

Aquarium Authority States That Fishes Make Sounds

There may be a slight basis in fact for the stories that have come down to us from antiquity about the sirens who by their songs lured sailors to their death. Fishes make sounds, declares Dr. C. H. Townsend, of the N.Y. Aquarium, and it is possible, he states, that the myths in the works by Homer and other classical writers were dramatization of the stories told by fishermen, with their usual decorations added to the facts, about the sounds they heard fishes make. Dr. Townsend, in an article on the swim bladder in fishes, in the current issue of the bulletin of the New York Zoological Society, describes his experience in listening to the sounds made by fishes while he was aboard a small schooner lying in a shallow Central American harbor.

Swim Bladder Accomplishes It

The swim bladder, he states, is a saclike organ in the abdominal cavity of many vertebrate fishes. The principal use is to enable the fish to adjust itself so that it can swim at desired depths, but it is used for other purposes as well, among them the making of sounds, some fishes having muscles that can be vibrated against the air sac. In other fishes it functions as an organ of hearing.

One hundred years ago there was not a block of chocolate made in England.

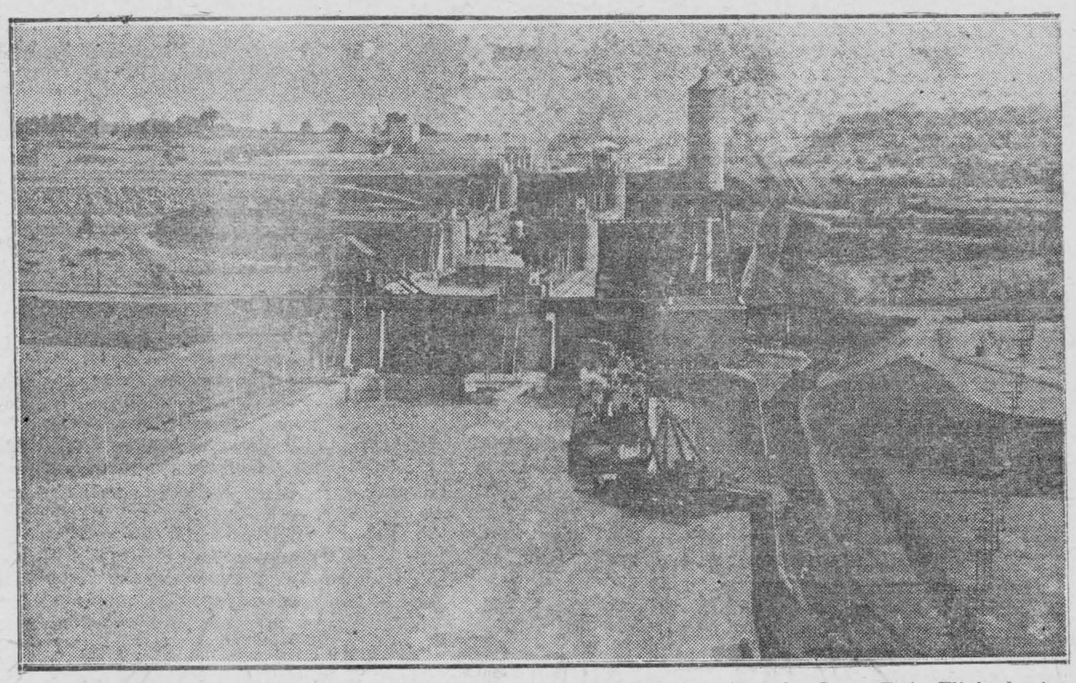

Labrador Imports Ice

BATTLE HARBOR, Labrador. — Labrador, usually pictured as a land of perpetual ice and snow, is now importing ice.

A scarcity of icebergs in the Strait of Belle Isle has forced fishermen to import ice from Canada to pack salmon catches.

Where the Steamships Climb the Mountain

At Thorold, Ontario, are located those wonderful examples of engineering, the Great Twin Flight Locks on the Welland Ship Canal. Reading from the fore-ground are Numbers 4, 5, 6, with single lock Number 7 in the background. This construction enables boats up to 800 feet long to pass up and down the escarpment at the same time, with a minimum delay to navigation. Each lock raises or lowers a boat 46½ feet. It is interesting to compare these locks with those of the first canal built in 1829. The latter had 40 locks 110 feet long by 22 feet wide and with a depth of 8 feet. The present canal has only 8 locks but each is 820 feet long by 80 feet wide with a depth of 30 feet.

Merchant—Everything that college men endorse is not necessarily good.

Friend—Why do you take that stand?

Merchant—Because I have a check from one of them.

Marrying in haste is all right if you are marrying the right one, but usually the earlier the wedding the greater the gamble.

Mother-in-law—That's a cute little tree on the front lawn, John—I mean the one that's about a foot high.

Son-in-law—Yes, I just planted it. I hope the next time you come, you'll be able to sit in its shade.

NO TERRIBLE HEADACHE NOW

Found Quick, Sure Way to End Them

It's fortunate that a great Canadian doctor made the famous fruit, herb and tonic remedy, Fruit-a-tives. Mr. C. D., Toronto, writes, "I was bothered with very severe headaches. Pain on top of head and in forehead was more than I could bear. My doctor advised me to take Fruit-a-tives. Since then I have not had any trouble with headaches." When you take Fruit-a-tives, your liver is cleansed. Stomach, kidneys and intestines work naturally. Poisons and wastes go. Food nourishes. Health comes. 25c. and 50c. All druggists.

FRUIT-A-TIVES LIVER TABLETS

Hesitatingly, hardly daring to look, he paused and scanned every inch of the space before him. As far as the eye could see, there was just the same drab barrenness. Nothing. With sinking heart he turned sadly away.

Again and again he had come to search, and had returned despondent. There were days of renewed hope, followed by deeper despair, and as the days passed and there was still no sign, no change, he began to lose faith.

Then, at long last, came the incredible, unforgettable morning when they finally appeared—the first two shoots from the four seeds he had planted in his bed-sitting room window box.

Troubles always seem to learn to add and multiply a lot easier than they do subtract.

A financial note that didn't work: The young bride had heard her husband speak of borrowing money on notes. So she took to the bank a few of those he wrote her before their marriage. The cashier read each one with great care and evidently wth much pleasure, but the mean thing wouldn't lend her a cent on them.

Jake—Howsabout joining me in a cup of tea, old boy?

Mike—Oke, m'lad. You crawl in first, and then we'll see if there's any room for me.

One need not be a criminal to catch the force of this:

Daughter looking up from her novel)— Papa, in time of trial, what do you suppose brings the most comfort to a man?

Papa (who is a newly appointed magistrate) —An acquittal, I should think.

Teacher—Who said: "I come to bury Caesar"?

Nervous Youngster — P-p-please, teacher, the undertaker.

Read in this letter from G. Minvielle, Fort Garry, how he checked Roup (Bronchial Flu) when it broke out among his young hens. "After trying other remedies and obtaining no results whatever," writes Mr. Minvielle, "I tried Minard's Liniment, five to six drops on the tongue and sometimes more, depending on the birds. I am positive that it helped me out a lot." Minard's Liniment is a tried and proven remedy for sprains, burns, bruises and skin diseases, as well as for Bronchial and Rheumatic trouble. Working as usual on our 120th Birthday

One hundred and twenty years ago there were only seven of us working on the staff of the Bank—a cashier, an accountant, a paying teller, a second teller, a discount clerk, a second bookkeeper, and a porter—that was the entire staff. Today we are more than 6000, in more than 500 Branches, all working to render modern, experienced banking service.

Our Bank's career has been inseparably woven into the career of the nation and every part of it. Founded in 1817, the Bank at once became a financial pathfinder for Canada's pioneers. Through all the intervening, eventful, growing years of Canadian life, our Bank has kept strong and efficient—by pursuing a policy of safety for depositors and by keeping our services always abreast of modern conditions.

In times of expansion and depression, in the best and the worst of economic conditions; through peace and wars, panics and political upheavals, Canadians have learned to rely upon the unwavering safety and banking assistance of the Bank of Montreal. Older than the Dominion itself, yet young as the latest sound business enterprise of Canada, we are working as usual on our 120th Birthday.

HOSTAGE HEIRESS

By DAVID DRESSER

Janet Duane, millionaire's daughter, gives a party one night aboard her father's palatial yacht, anchored off Miami. Gregory Gason tricks her into being lef behind wih him when the guests are taken ashore. The only other persons aboard are a crippled wtachman and Janet's Negro maid. Meanwhile, "Dusty" Lanion, lawless adventurer, has laid plans to seize the yacht to carry arms and ammunition to Cuban revolutionists. Believing the boat to be deserted, except for the watchman, who has been bribed, Dusty and his mean are about to board her.

CHAPTER IX

Janet's heart was pounding wildly as Fandella disappeared over the side of the yacht. Something drew her gaze to the wheelhouse. All was darkness there except for the dim glow of the binnacle light, which was reflected upward to outline the features of the man at the wheel. A stern face. Strong. Frowning, now, with fierce concentration. It was a treacherous business, guiding the boat through the shoals in the darkness.

A queer emotion clutched at Janet's heart as she stared at Dusty's rugged face. A hoarse whisper floated up to her as she hesitated. Her hand, on the rope which Fandella had said secured the rowboat, felt a tug.

Then—resolution came to her. She knew, in that moment, that she could not go back to the stifled life she had known. Her place was here on the swaying deck, with Dusty Lanion at the wheel!

Savage exultation surged through her as her fingers jerked at the knot securing the rowboat. She cast the rope off with a wild gesture of freedom and leaned far over the side to call softly:

"Row back alone, Fandella. I can't leave the Fleetwing! I have to see it through!"

She smiled faintly as Fandella's astonished protestations floated up to her over the widening gulf of water.

He Gave Her the Chance

She walked swiftly to the wheelhouse and stopped behind Dusty.

"I've just said good-bye to my maid," she told him placidly.

His shoulders moved, ever so slightly. He gave no other evidence of surprise.

"Why didn't you go ashore with her?"

"Did you want me to go?" she challenged.

"Why else do you think I allowed that clumsy truck driver to tie a boat next to the Jacob's ladder?"

"You knew about that?"

"It's my business to know about everything that goes on aboard this tub."

"Tub?"

He flashed a swift grin at her over his shoulder. "Why didn't you go?" he demanded.

"Then you wanted to be rid of me?"

"I wanted you to have an opportunity to go," he told her slowly.

Janet found that she was content to stand there quietly behind him. She was fiercely glad she had cast the rope off.

"When will we reach Cuba?" she asked suddenly.

"Sometime after midnight if this boat is as fast as Captain Coleman claimed."

"Captain Coleman!"

"Sure. Oh, don't get me wrong," Dusty said quickly. "He's not in on this deal. I swung it alone. But the captain likes to boast and I made a point of cultivating him rather assiduously while I was planning to snatch your floating plaything."

"Assiduously," Janet murmured. "You've got a swell vocabulary for a pirate."

"I haven't always been a pirate," Dusty grunted. "I went to school once . . . just like anyone else." His voice was tinged with bitterness.

Borrowed Sweets

Janet was silent a moment. She didn't want him to think she was prying into his past.

"You plan to unload your . . . cargo . . . tonight?" she asked in a low tone.

"Yes. If we don't meet any curious Coast Guard cutters on the way over," Dusty said cheerfully.

"And afterward?" she persisted.

"I'll see that you're taken care of," he assured her grimly.

"I don't know that I want to be taken care of," she said in a small voice. "I could have attended to that myself a short while ago . . . if I'd wanted to desert the ship."

He shot a direct glance back at her, then turned to nurse the wheel tenderly.

"Almost clear of the Keys," he muttered. "We'll soon have a straight course and full speed ahead. I don't blame you for refusing to desert this ship," he mused. "She's the sweetest thing I ever handled."

"Stolen sweets," Janet said mockingly.

He flinched at that. "I never steal," he told her angrily. "Borrowed, is the word. She wasn't doing anybody any good anchored in Biscayne Bay."

"Is she doing good now? Carrying arms and ammunition to foment a rebellion?"

"Who can say?" he asked somberly. "They enjoy fighting, those Cubans. It's their destiny to follow lost causes."

Rat on the Rampage

There was a polite cough behind them. Janet and Dusty turned to see Don Martinez standing apologetically in the doorway.

"A thousand pardons." He bowed from the waist. "I am sorry to interrupt, but I must beg a word with you, Captain Dusty."

"Don Martinez," Dusty muttered, "Miss Duane."

"I am delighted." The tall Cuban bowed again.

"I'll go to the lounge," Janet said hastily, and withdrew.

"Ahh! What beauty. What youth and grace!" Don Martinez' eyes followed her admiringly. "You are the sly one," he chuckled to Dusty.

"The fair prisoner does not appear to be languishing over her captivity."

"What did you want to see me about?" Dusty asked brusquely.

"Ah, yes. It is this man Snifter. I do not like his eyes. Eh? He is a bad one, is it not?"

"Pretty mean if he gets coked up," Dusty said carelessly.

"Coked up?" Don Martinez wrinkled his brow in perplexity.

"Sure. Cocaine. Dope."

"Ah." Don Martinez looked upprehensive. "I am afraid he is, as you say, coked up. He appeared like a wild man when I saw him just now. I think he is dangerous. He was hurrying from the cabins aft, and he cursed me as he pushed me aside."

Dusty stiffened. 'If that rat is on the rampage, there's no telling what he'll do," he muttered. "Here." He stepped away from the wheel. "We're in the clear now. That's the course." He indicated the compass. "Can you hold on while I hunt up Snifter and see what he's up to?"

"But, of course."

Don Martinez took the wheel, and Dusty hurried onto the deck.

5-Year-Old Boy Believed Genius

Played Liszt When Twenty-Six Months Old; Compared to Masters

Five-year-old Kenneth Wolf, of Cleveland, is a rising star in the music world who, at maturity, may be regarded as a genius, believes J. G. Horridge, his music teacher.

At the age of twenty-six months he astounded his mother when he climbed up on the piano stoool and played with mature skill the introduction to Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody.

Began at 2½

When Kenneth was two and one half his father began giving him piano lessons, using books of modern piano methods. At the age of 3½ Kenneth had completed several lesson books, was able to play all the small pieces in good time and could transpose them into various keys.

Mature Composition

Kenneth, a small, chubby boy with large frank eyes, composes compositions that are called incredibly mature and "if only we had some time, they should be written down," Horridge said.

The young pianist is said to compare with many of the old masters — Chopin, Mozart, Brahms, Bach, Schubert and others — with regard to an early showing of genius, although some of those "prodigies" were composing concert compositions at early ages. Kenneth can call off with ease various notes and chords.

At his first public appearance Kenneth played Bach Fugue No. 10. "I played it in E minor," Kenneth said, speaking slowly and choosing his words.

Kenneth's mother and father are both attorneys — have encouraged his talents with enthusiasm since Professor Wolf heard the introduction to Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody played by the 26-months-old son.

King's Christmas Talk Undecided

A Buckingham Palace spokesman declared this week that the question of a Christmas broadcast by the King "has not been settled yet."

British Broadcasting Corporation officials said the King would be asked to broadcast to the Empire, but that no invitation had gone out as yet.

His Majesty last year did not continue his father's practice in addressing his subjects at Christmas time. He had then been on the Throne for but a fortnight and had gone through the trying days of the abdication crisis. On Coronation night, however, he made a world-wide broadcast.

Bagpipes, generally regarded as thoroughly Scottish, were introduced to Britain by the Romans. Nero is said to have played them.

Cakes That Win Compliments

What an honest sense of achievement we have when our cake receives that sincere compliment — "another piece please!"

Such cakes have a delicate flavor and fragrance with a fine, moist, tender texture which is described by judges of cake as "velvety crumb."

Each of these cakes is a "velvety crumb" cake if you will follow directions carefully:

Lady Baltimore Cake

3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons combination baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
½ cup milk
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with liquid, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring; fold in egg whites. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Spread Lady Baltimore Filling between layers and Lady Baltimore Frosting over cake. Double recipe to make three 10-inch layers.

Lady Baltimore Frosting and Filling

1½ cups sugar
½ teaspoon light corn syrup
2-3 cup boiling water
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 figs, chopped
½ cup raisins, chopped
½ cup pecan or walnut meats, chopped.

Combine sugar, corn syrup and water. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring only until sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly without stirring until a small amount of syrup forms a soft ball in cold water, or spins a long thread when dropped from tip of spoon (240 degrees F.) Pour syrup in fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly. Add vanilla. Continue beating with a rotary egg beater 10 to 15 minutes, or until frosting is cool and of right consistency to spread. Use wooden spoon when too stiff for beater. For filling, add enough frosting to fruit and nuts to make a filling that will spread easily. Spread between layers. Spread remaining frosting on top and sides of cake. Makes enough filling and frosting to spread between layers and top and sides of Lady Baltimore Cake.

Hungarian Cream Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons combination baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1¼ cups heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add sugar gradually to eggs, and beat well. Add flour, alternately with cream, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in a greased pan 8 x 8 x 2 inches, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes. Spread with your favorite chocolate frosting.

Tomato Bouillon

1 cup boiling water
3 teaspoons tomato catchup
¼ Oxo cube
Salt and pepper to taste.

If desired, a spoonful of whipped cream can be added to each cup.

Hair Tinted Pink Is Latest Vogue

Called Newest Thing in Styles For Women by European Coiffure Expert

Hair tinted "a tender, tender rose" is the great new thing in women's styles, a European hair-styling expert said.

"You mean pink hair?" he was asked.

Leo of Vienna, who recently coiffed the hair of the Duchess of Windsor, thumbed through a small German dictionary for the word "pink." Then he looked up brightly and answered, "Ja, ja!"

Although the Duchess of Windsor prefers to wear her hair in its natural state, pink hair, he said, is perfect for evening, "because women, at evening, should always look flower-like."

"Tender Rose" Shade

The mild, tender rose shade looks "fresh and friendly" in the daytime, he added, with dark street clothes. Asked if men would like it, he nodded grimly. "They will."

Women should change their style of hair dress or at least vary its lines 10 or 12 times a year, said Leo, because many men are completely sick of the way their wives do their hair.

Should Change Style Often

The hair stylist is in the U. S. for the first time at the invitation of John A. Weis, chairman of the committee for the presentation of Austrian art, science and culture at the New York world's fair.

The committee has proposed a project called "Vienna, City of Songs," at which he may exhibit some of his coiffures to show "the gaiety and charm of Vienna."

To Suit Age

He said he'd never seen in another city so many beautiful women as in New York—"Such slim, slender women, with fabulous Greek-Roman profiles.

Our worst error in hair dress, is to copy film stars too often, "And try, at 36, to look like Ginger Rogers."

As for the "page boy" coiffure—it's the most unflattering style conceived in two decades, said Leo. "The trouble is, it makes most women look broad."

Joseph Conrad's Ship Scrapped

Otago, Swift Sailing Vessel, Once Commanded by Famous Author

The bark Otago, which lay at Hobart, Tasmania, wharves for many years and is now being broken up, has an interesting history, especially for readers of Joseph Conrad's novels.

The Otago was a trim little ship built at Glasgow in 1869, and in the palmy days of sailing ships she made a fast passage between Great Britain and the Australian colonies. Her chief claim to fame is the fact that she was the first ship to be commanded by Conrad, who though of Polish parentage made a name for himself as one of the foremost English writers of sea stories.

To Sea At 17

Conrad went to sea at the age of 17 and in 1880 visited Sydney as the third-mate of a Clyde-owned sailing vessel trading to that port. Four years later, he got his master's certificate in the British merchant service. And while master of the Otago, he collected the material for his book, "Mirror of the Seas."

Scrapped for Arms

Having outlived her usefulness, the Otago was bought by the Rudart Parker Shipping Company towed to Hobart from Sydney and for 20 years she was moored at the Hobart wharf, a grimy but useful and unromantic coal-hulk. About five years ago, she Otago was bought by the Hudd Par-Company and towed up the River Derwent to Mount Direction where she was beached beside another veteran, the barkentine Silver Cloud. She is being scrapped for the sake of the iron and steel in her hull which will be sold to Japanese buyers.

Judges' Messenger Stole Their Wigs

The mystery of the missing Lord Justices' wigs was solved this week with the arrest of a messenger who, London, England, police said, admitted stealing them.

The three expensive headdresses, loss of which threatened the dignity of the law courts on the opening of the Michaelmas term were recovered.

Joseph Pearce, a judge's messenger was remanded for trial. Officers in Bow Street court testified Pearce sold the wigs to a store, saying they had been given to him.

Lord Justices Slesser, Greer and Scott, who were forced to borrow misfits, got their wigs back, cleaned and renovated by the store.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON VI.

Christian Character and Peace—Colossians 3:1-17

Golden Text—And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to the which also ye were called in one body. —Colossians 3:15.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING.

Time—About A.D. 62.

Place—the epistle was written from Rome to the city of Colosse, which was located about one hundred miles east of Ephesus, in Asia Minor.

The tragedy of the human race without Christ is that upward aspirations have no definiteness and are never fulfilled. Man continues to long for higher things, and, at the same time, is conscious that the powers which drag him down are greater than the power of any longings to live on a higher plane. What man longs for, the Lord Jesus Christ came to give, to make it definite, and sure.

Things That Are Above

1. If then ye were raised together with Christ. That Christ was, in his own body, raised from the dead, is a fundamental truth in the Christian faith. How, we may ask, were we ever raised with him? Actually, we were raised together with him in the hour in which we believed in him. Seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated on the right hand of God. We are "to search them out as they are revealed to us in the Holy Scriptures and to be looking for and accepting them in our experience and possession." "Seek, above all, assured communion with God, real work for God, frequent rest in the felt presence of God, through and beyond all these, the final reward of the soul in God, but seek also that which is highest, purest, truest, noblest, even in the sphere of nature.

2. Set your mind on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth. "Jesus Christ is the summing up of 'the things that are above'; therefore if a man wants to love Jesus Christ, he must think about him. Seeking the things that are above will come, and will only come when mind, and heart, and inward life are occupied with him.

Each man's higher life begins in a death. As Christ rose from the dead, so also do his members rise from the death of sin to a life on the highest plane, a life in heavenly places." Because our life is hid, it is incapable of being touched or hurt by any evil power.

4. When Christ, who is our life, shall be manifested, then shall ye also with him be manifested in glory. "Our Christ-life is not always to be hidden, but is to come forth in full and glorious manifestation.

5. Put to death therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry; 6. For which things' sake cometh the wrath of God upon the sons of disobedience: 7. Wherein ye also once walked, when ye lived in these things. The verb here translated "put to death" means, literally, "to reduce to a state of death," or "like death"; a state helpless, inoperative. "The Christian, in the power of his hidden life in Christ, is thus to deal with his sins. The believer, reminded of his resources and of the will of God, is now, with full purpose, to 'give to death' all his sins.

8. But now do ye also put them all away. How difficult it is to put off something which has become a habit! When we have learned a wrong way of doing a thing, it is a fearfully heavy business to unlearn it. Anger, wrath, malice, railing. "The first word refers to the outburst, or the vice of indignation bordering on revenge; the second word refers to the violent emotion that boils within. The third refers to calumnious denunciation, to which anger so often prompts." Shameful speaking out of your mouth. This phrase often denotes generally foul or abusive language, and as it is so closely connected with the passion of anger such may be its meaning here.

The New Man

9. Lie not one to another; seeing that ye have put off the old man with his doings. 10. And have put on the new man. The old man is simply the state of an unregenerated man, a sinner guilty under the sentence of God's law. The new man is the same person with a new life in him which is contrary to the old life, i.e., the old man lives subject to the dominion of sin, but the new man lives under the sovereignty of God. Regeneration is an act of God through his Holy Spirit, and is something that no man can accomplish. That is being renewed. We are in the place where we can be renewed when we keep in communion with God. Unto knowledge. "A knowledge not alone of the intellect, but of the heart; a knowledge which includes faith and experience as well. Every item of true knowledge gained is growth and the conquest of evil." After the image of him that created him. "As in the first creation man was made in the image of God, so in the new creation.

11. Where there cannot be Greek and Jew, circumcision and uncircumcision, barbarian, Scythian, bondman, freeman; but Christ is all, and in all. There are no distinctions among Christians as far as their standing is concerned, or God's ultimate purpose for them, either national, ceremonial, intellectual, or social.

12. Put on therefore, as God's elect. The elect of God are those whom God has appointed to receive eternal life. Joseph Parker once said that a man could know if he were elected of God if he was certain he had elected the Lord Jesus Christ as his Saviour. Holy and beloved, a heart of compassion. A compassionate person is one who suffers with those who are in need. For two beautiful pictures of true compassion, see Luke 10:33, and Luke 15:20. Kindness. "The character which offers sympathy and invites confidence." Lowliness. The attitude of a soul which has lost its pride in the discovery of mercy of its salvation." Meekness. An attitude of submissiveness toward God. Longsuffering. 13. Forbearing one another, and forgiving each other, if any man have a complaint against any. Forgiving and forebearing "explain the operation of meekness and longsuffering, forbearing to be impatient and to avenge one's self, and, on the contrary, to be forgiving." Even as the Lord forgave you, so also do ye. "A heart touched and softened by pardon will be a heart apt to pardon."

A Life of Love

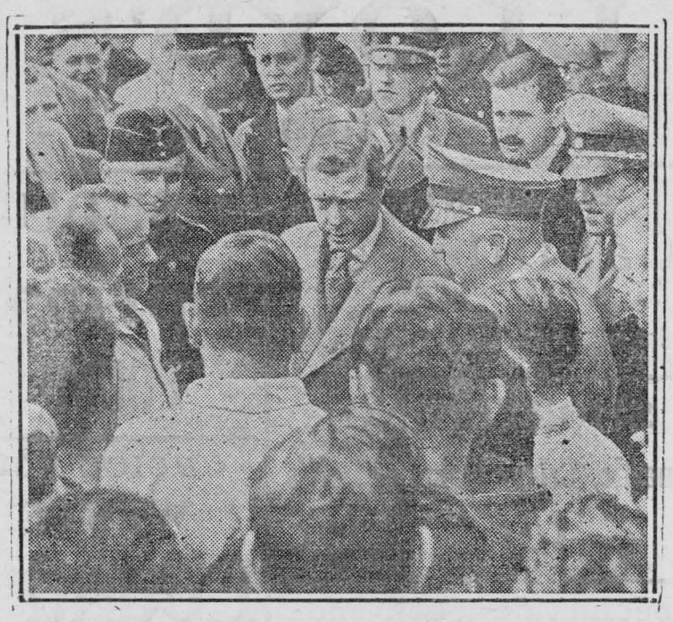

14. And above all these things, put on love, which is the bond of perfectness. The apostle says that, above everything else in importance and power, the new man must manifest a life of love. "Love is the product of the other graces, the fruit of their ripe development. Love itself is, at the same time, the highest element of this perfection and forms the nearest resemblance to him of whom it is said, 'God is love.' No grace is complete without love."

15. And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to the which also ye were called in one body; and be ye thankful. The peace which Christ makes for us with God. The peace, in other words, that fills us with serenity and tranquility in all our relations with men. We are to let this peace rule in our hearts.

16. Let the word of Christ. The word of Christ is, that great message which Christ himself made possible by his life, death, and resurrection, i.e., the gospel, the good news, the message from God through his Son, who is the word of God. Dwell in you richly. The word of Christ is to inhabit us, finding in us its very home. In all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God. 'Psalms' seems to refer specifically to the songs of David; 'hymns' to songs of praise composed by Christians; 'odes' to forms of song with no limitation except that they shall be spiritual. It was to be a daily, life-long service of song, but always as teaching and admonishing.

17. And whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus. "The name of a man is that which distinguishes, identifies, sums him up, and the name of Christ is all that Christ is as man, as God, and as the God-man. Giving thanks to God the Father through him. All the blessings which we have come from God through the Lord Jesus Christ, and all of our thanks should be given through the Lord Jesus Christ.

PROFESSOR HENRY C. BELL

1. Q. "I have ten (10) colonies of bees and would appreciate information as to how they may be successfully wintered."—K.G., Halton Co.

A. —There are three important points to keep in mind:

(a) A strong colony of young bees
(b) Abundance of food.
(c) Protection from the prevailing winds, as well as individual insulation.

Annual requeening is the best method to insure young bees for winter. A young queen will lay later in the fall than an older one, which means that the bees will have more vitality, and be better able to withstand the winter and build up a strong colony the following spring.

All weak and queenless colonies should be united with stronger colonies.

Honey or sugar syrup may be used for winter feed. At the present time it is recommended that bees be wintered in a double brood chamber, with the combs in the top chamber full of honey. Single-storey colonies should have the combs from two-thirds to three-quarters full of honey. If it is necessary to feed sugar syrup, mix two parts of cane or beet sugar to one part of boiling water.

An apiary should be located so that it will be sheltered from the prevailing winds. In addition to this, colonies should be insulated with shavings, dried leaves, etc. Four inches (4") of insulation is provided on the sides, and from six inches (6") to eight inches (8") on top. This material may be supported around the colony by a wooden winter case, or by tar paper. Full information concerning the tar paper pack, as well as advice on winter cases, may be secured by writing to the Provincial Apiarist, O.A.C., Gueph

2. Q. "When and where is the Annual Convention of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association to be held this fall, and what are the chief subjects for discussion?" W.F., Oxford Co.

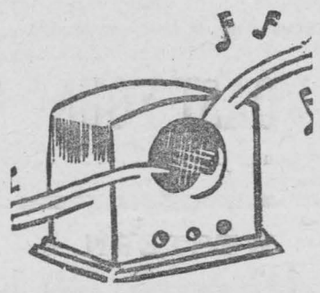

A.—The Annual Convention will be held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, from November 23rd to the 25th.

The chief subjects listed for discussion are:—fall management and wintering, queen rearing and requeening, new ideas in management, home rendering of wax, labour saving devices, proper straining and grading of honey.

Dr. E. J. Dyce, Provincial Apiarist, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

3. Q. "I think I made a mstake by putting Muriate of Potash on my potato ground. I mixed it with 4-8-10 fertilizer and put it in the row with the seed. The potatoes were very small and most of them had a deep pink skin. Would it have been alright if I had put Sulphate of Potash in with the 4-8-10? Four rows in which I did not put any extra Potash the potatoes were good quality and size. A.M., Wentworth Co.

A.—Regarding your inquiry as to potato fertilizer. it would appear to me that you over-did the application of Potash, especially since you report that where you used the 4-8-10 alone the potatoes were of good quality and size. You see the 10 per cent at the end of 4-8-10 is Potash. This is a fairly heavy application in itself, especially if you put it on at 500 to 750 lbs. per acre. By putting the fertilizer in the row there is a danger that you get it too close to the seed potato piece. There is no evidence to show that Sulphate of Potash is less chemically active than Muriate of Potash. As a matter of fact, I believe it is a little more chemically active so that the difference in the types of Potash will not have been responsible for your unsatisfactory results.

Around The Dial

RADIO HEADLINERS OF THE WEEK

Well, well, here we are again, with more gossip about the people you hear on the radio. The informality of Bing Crosby's program on Thursday nights at 10 o'clock is more than excellent showmanship. No attempt is made to run through the show in its entirety before it goes on the air. Each spot is rehearsed and timed separately. If any cutting is necessary to compress the program to fit the one hour limit, it is done just before the troupe goes on the air. Add to this Crosby's inimitable style of spontaneity, Bob Burns' Van Beuren drawl and the sparkling chain of guests, it's no wonder that the Kraft Music Hall ranks tops in programs.

* * *

Here is a little-known fact about NBC's Lowell Thomas: It seems as if the broadcaster is an adopted brave of the Mohawks. The English translation of his Indian name is "Hot Coal." Maybe it's because his newscasts have always been hot stuff.

Sixteen World Title Fights

Fight fans, take note! Sixteen world title fights to be exclusive on NBC. These broadcasts can be heard over the Blue Network. November 12th, middleweight Champ Freddy Steel, defends his title against Fred Apostoli; November 19th and 26th are also fight nights, but the cards have not yet been selected. All fights will take the air at approximately 10 p.m.

* * *

From Roy Locksley comes a bit of news that CFRB will carry the hockey games this year again. Canada's national sport will be described by veteran Foster Hewitt. The first games will be played November 4th and 6th, and the broadcast will reach fans in every part of the country.

Canadian Network News

Joseph Laderoute, a lad we introduced to you a week or so ago, is coming along beautifully. He auditioned for a commercial program the other day, and we hold high hopes for him.

By the way, CFRB studios were dressed up in plenty of orange and black for Hallowe'en, and plenty of pumpkins were around—and we don't mean engineers.

Jack Barkin and Dorothy Price are gaining many friends with their work on the Grad Cigarette show Friday nights. Incidentally, listeners may attend the broadcast of this performance by writing to the studio for tickets.

Last Tuesday saw the beginning of a new program with everybody's favorite, Vincent Boyd. Co-starring with him is Louise Robertson, the girl friend of the air. The program is heard from 7.45 to 8 over CFRB. If you like sparkling songs and some classy ivory massaging, tune in to these two.

Last Wednesday, Percy Pasternak played popular favorites from Tin Pan Alley on his CBC program, Canadian Capers.... Horace Heidt and his famous Brigadiers will be heard on November 6th at 11 p.m., over CRCT and CBC net.

A Program's Background

In order to make our column a little out of the ordinary, we shall endeavor to give you a little insight of what happens in the background of a radio program. Each week we shall try to describe a different person who is responsible for the radio entertainment you hear, and about whom you never hear. Today we shall give you a brief summary of the headaches of one of radio's supersalesmen, Allan MacTaggart, of Grow and Pitcher Broadcasting Agencies, commonly called by all friends and enemies, Buster. Cute, don't you think? His history is one of daring. Bus. has been in and out of radio for some ten years, and is widely recognized as a merchandising brain and a creator of advertising campaigns. In a police line-up he would be quoted as being 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weight, 145, age 32, red hair, and a jovial personality. WJR, Detroit has carried a program series in which he was known as "Clip" of the twins, Clip and Save. He was advertising manager of Schulte's United Department Stores, the Ajax Tire Corporation, Wisconsin, for whom he conducted the first field campaign for tires, Scott-McHale Shoes and McCormick Biscuits.

You, as the listener, demand entertainment from your radio, but this entertainment must be paid for, and Buster is one of the guys who looks for the guys who are contemplating advertising, and tries to sell them the idea of supplying you with the entertainment you want. To use Buster's own words, "it's as easy to do this as walking across the Atlantic Ocean." If anything goes wrong with the program, it's Buster who gets merry heck from the sponsor. If you do not buy the sponsor's goods, it's another kick in the ear for him. But Buster, being a happily married man, is not used to taking kicks, and makes sure that none come to him.

And so you see, dear readers, that behind the radio program there is much more than music and entertainment. Next week we'll try to give you the life of a radio production man.

* * *

A couple more new programs have hit the air in the past week. Stan. Walker, furriers, present Musings and Melody, 5.15 every Sunday, over CKCL.... the Sterling Laundry presents dramatizations, Mondays and Tuesdays, at 9.55 a.m., also over CKCL.

Empire air-liners now in use weight nineteen tons and carry thirty passengers.

Husky Jap Women May Police City

The Metropolitan Police Board, Tokyo, is considering recruiting women to replace policemen called for military duty.

The board believes the "strongest of the weaker sex," would be more useful than the weakest of the stronger sex"—and may fill vacancies with husky women.

Women already are driving taxis operating gasoline stations, and acting as conductors on buses.

They escaped injury due to the fact that a fence cable attached itself to the car and extended along one side in a manner which prevented the car from rolling over and over down the steep embankment.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF THE VILLAGE OF MORRISBURG

Posters are being circulated in town giving notice of a public meeting to be held in the Town Hall, Monday Nov. 8th, to discuss the electric light and power situation with the rate payers.

I would like to know why, in 1933, the year I was a member of the Council, a public meeting was not called then to discuss the buying of that diesel engine, which was purchased without consulting the people, and which cost $21,000.00 of the ratepayers' money.

Now, the Council wants to purchase Hydro, after all this money has been spent and the diesel cannot furnish the goods. In 1933, if you investigate the minutes of the Council meetings, you will note that I voted against the purchasing of the diesel engine, but still the Council bought a "dead horse" Hydro should have been purchased in 1933 instead of politics interfering. And now the diesel has to be paid for.

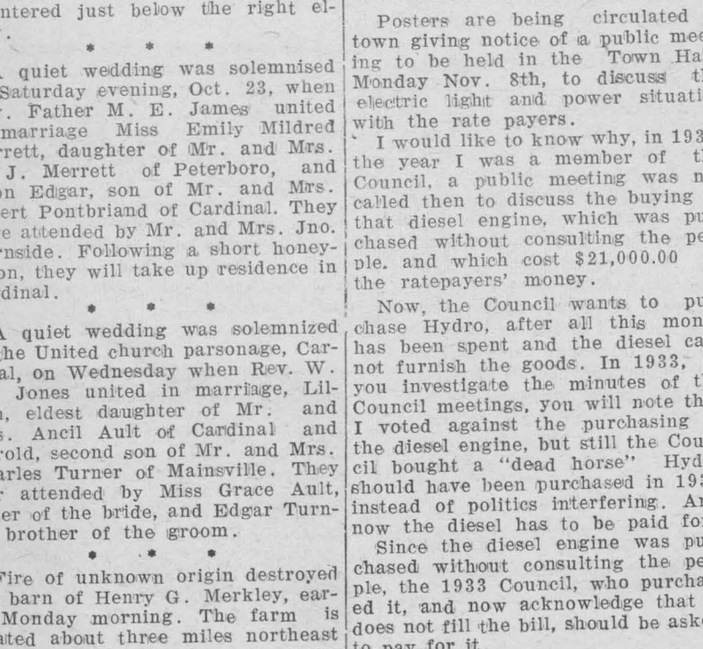

Since the diesel engine was purchased without consulting the people, the 1933 Council, who purchased it, and now acknowledge that it does not fill the bill, should be asked to pay for it.

A. M. JARVIS.
