Many people reach great heights by putting up a bluff.

CRUMBS from Graham's Loaf

We have had a difficult few days around this office. The editor of the "Record" has been going around mumbling and peering in a most peculiar manner; finally we got up nerve to enquire why the mud-pout appearance in such nice Fall weather. Guess what the trouble was! He just had his glasses changed.

Evidently the long nights of watching the late, late, late movies finally caught up with him and he had to get a new set of cheaters. And when the man finished with the bifocal specials the boss's feet were eighteen inches farther away from his knees. That makes it hard to get used to, especially when someone leaves the safety gas can in the alley. He is developing a hump in the back from peering over, under and around the blurred spots, and one of these days we are waiting for him to tear them off in a fit of rage and stomp on them. Then he really will be handicapped and we can drink coffee all day.

Speaking of Fall weather, we are reminded of one of the great sorrows of our life. All summer long some uncouth swallows have been throwing mud at our outside windows, carefully strewn all over the garage floor, and now with lovely hunting weather coming up, we are tagged to wash the miserable things. And every time we feel we must get away from it all and chase the elusive Hun, the lady with the conscience-laden voice enters the picture. "What about the windows?" and the voice of doom follows us down the lane and across the field. One of these days, we will have to abide by the dictum and hire some small, active, money-dazzled boy to wash the dirty windows.

Thansksgiving Day at our house is always the signal for a feed of some sort of game, usually partridge or duck, if Fate has been kind. This year her kindness has been a little lean. So we had duck but one of the Lungiland variety from IGA Fulton's store. And that started a notable train of thought. Down on the farm, we once had a yard full of quacking, hungry, web-footed birds. They were ruled by an old drake named Pete who was a real character.

Pete felt he had a paternal interest in everything alive on the farm. He raged around when the dog came near and usually chased Rover under the barn. The white drake had a special friend in a guinea fowl we suffered, and tried desperately to imitate the raucous squawk. But when he developed a vendetta with the tomcat, that ended a beautiful friendship. The darn duck used to wait until the old cat was asleep in the sun, then sneak up and grab his gently moving tail. The result finally became so alarming Pete headed for Montreal to Gunn and Langlois, the packers. The cat was by that time so gunshy of ducks, we finally compromised and took to raising pheasants.

CJSS-TV, Cornwall on the air

Television station CJSS-TV, Cornwall, went on the air Monday night, and its owners claimed a "first." No other station in Canada, they said, had done it so fast.

Permission to operate a television station at Cornwall was granted just over 10 weeks ago. Since then, engineers and technicians have been working at top speed at the TV station's Lancaster site. Operations will continue from the studio there until Cornwall studio facilities are completed.

For the balance of this week, the station will be running movies without commercials, while station technicians run further checks on the "signal."

Station officials said they were highly pleased with the reception. Reception was reported to be good in Iroquois, Ottawa, Malone and the western end of Montreal.

Mr, Mrs John McDiarmid mark 60th anniversary at Springwater, Sask.

Over 125 friends and neighbours of Mr and Mrs John McDiarmid, Springwater, Sask., joined together recently to greet the popular couple on the eve of their diamond wedding anniversary. The honoured couple was tendered a community party in Springwater Town Hall.

Mrs Freeman Martin and Mrs Bob Hamilton convened the anniversary party and Herb Clemence emceed the evening's program which included community singing, vocal quartet and solos. A dance and lunch completed the evening.

Mr and Mrs McDiarmid were married on September 20, 1899, in their hometown of Morewood, Ont. They farmed at Morewood and Emo, Ont., until 1926 when they moved west to settle on a farm in the Kelfield area. In 1927 they moved to a farm three miles south of Springwater and operated the holding until 1955 when they retired and moved into the village of Springwater.

Mr McDiarmid, who was 82 years of age in August, is enjoying good health although he did have a setback last winter. His wife, the former Margaret Gordon, celebrated her 78th birthday in September.

To help celebrate the diamond anniversary, the McDiarmids had close relatives arrive for the special occasion. Their daughter, Mrs Reg. (Kathleen) Bourk, of D'Arcy, Sask., was in attendance, and their son, William, of Toronto, flew up for the occasion. Mrs McDiarmid's cousin, Lorne Carruthers, of Hargrave, Man., was a special guest as he had attended the wedding ceremony 60 years ago. His wife accompanied him.

Other members of the family circle included her brother, Mr and Mrs Jim Gordon, Toronto; their grandsons, Mr and Mrs Donald McDiarmid and family, Fort Francis, Ont., and Ron McDiarmid, Edmonton; and granddaughter, Mrs John Ward, of Calgary. The couple boast a total of nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

On Sunday Mrs Bourk held a family dinner at her D'Arcy home for immediate relatives. During the day telegrams of congratulations were read from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Premier T. C. Douglas and from friends in Ontario and British Columbia.

At the Saturday evening gathering Mr and Mrs McDiarmid were presented with a purse of money as a gift contributed to by their many friends.

Ballet classes planned

Ballet classes are planned for Chesterville children again, if enough applications are received. The Ladies' Auxiliary of Chesterville Legion are in charge of the project and they hope to be able to hold the classes Tuesday afternoons after school in Legion Hall.

Polio clinic Friday

This Friday an adult polio clinic will be held in the afternoon and evening at Legion Hall. All adults of the community who have not received polio shots are asked to attend.

The clinic is being sponsored by Chesterville Women's Institute and the County Health Unit will be in charge. Chesterville clinic will follow by one day a clinic held today, Thursday, in Morrisburg.

Well drilling soon

A hold-up in arrangements developed in Chesterville's well drilling program last week. Bids had been received by the Water Resources Commission for the job and the Cornwall firm contacted was unable to agree to the necessary terms.

A special meeting of Chesterville council was held Friday evening and a resolution passed approving the commission choice of Ramon Casselman, of Williamsburg, to do the village drilling. His bid stated his rig would start within five days from receipt of notice of contract.

Woman drowns near Kemptville

Mrs Earl Dougherty, of RR 4, Kemptville, was drowned Monday in the Rideau River about two miles west of Kemptville.

She left home about 11 a.m. to do some shopping. Her husband became alarmed when she did not return and called police at 3 p.m. The car was found at the river bank near Catch-all, west of Beckett's Landing. Mrs Dougherty's body was recovered about one o'clock Tuesday morning.

Blood donors were plentiful last week at the clinic here and we took a couple of the lads unawares and popped their picture while they were giving their all. Al Kilby and Alex McMillan are peacefully draining out a quart of the precious stuff that will be used to save a life. Mrs Wm. Hummel, local volunteer, is in the background.—Record Photo.

William T. Giles

The death occurred in Winchester District Memorial Hospital on October 7 of William T. Giles, formerly of Ameliasburg, Ont., beloved father of Leonard B. Giles, in his 92nd year.

He was a member of the United Church and had lived with his son for the past three and a half years.

He leaves, besides his son, one granddaughter, Marion, of Chesterville; three grandsons, Donald and Kenneth, Ottawa, and Gordon, St. Catharines, and two great grandsons, Terry and Larry Giles, of Ottawa.

The funeral was held on Saturday morning, October 10, from the home of his son. Service was conducted by Rev E. B. Bugden.

Interment was in Albury Cemetery, Belleville, Ont.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

Why not tighten Government expenditures?

The Diefenbaker Government and the Canadian Bankers' Association are in the midst of a wordy battle over who is to blame for the present 'tight money' policy, says the Glengarry News. The Prime Minister promises to protect the 'little man' against tightening of credit; the bankers see deficit financing by the Ottawa government as the real culprit.

They fear inflation; and it would seem we have 'tight money' because of a total lack of confidence on the part of Canadian bankers with the spending program of the federal government.

We know nothing of higher economics, but on that ground the bankers get our vote. This government at Ottawa appears to have no rhyme or reason to its overall administrative effort. It cuts back expenditures on one defence item, budgets additional millions with which to buy obsolete planes from the U.S.; it increases Unemployment Insurance payments while doing nothing to free the fund of the many frauds who are living high off it; it wipes out the Reserve Army as we knew it, and keeps all personnel on payroll, ostensibly for Civil Defence.

Millions of dollars are still being spent annually on a Civil Defence program. And if you listen to those who should know, Canada's Civil Defence program is useless.

That is the opinion expressed at Ottawa last week by Group Captain C. B. Limbrick, who is a former director of Canada's Guided Missles and Special Weapons project. He was closely identified with the establishment of warning lines thrown across Canada's north to signal oncoming enemy aircraft.

"There is no organization in existence in Canada today capable of meeting the threat of nuclear war," Group Captain Limbrick said. "I have said before, and say again, we have no civil defence—it doesn't mean a thing."

Canada, he said, has expended many millions of dollars uselessly in establishing the mid-Canada and other warning lines. At best, he claims, they could give only enough time for people to get into shelters, if there were any.

Said Major-General W. H. S. Macklin, former adjutant-general for the army:

"There is no defence against the nuclear bomb or the intercontinental missile. There never has been, there is not now, and there never will be. NORAD, the North American Air Defence Command, is the biggest swindle ever perpetrated in history. It cannot protect us against the nuclear threat; it never could defend us; and it never will. What is the use of seeking to protect us with Bomarcs when the Russians are able to hit the moon, on target, with a rocket missle?"

These are the opinions of men who have been in the upper echelon of our defence department. People who have been in on defence planning, are now retired, and only now in a position to express opinions not permitted of defence personnel while on active service.

They may be way off the beam. But if they are, so are most people in their thinking, we venture to say. Most of us long ago resigned ourselves to the idea that if an atomic war ever breaks out, nothing we or the defence department con do will be any guarantee that we or our loved ones will survive. We country cousins have a bit of a chance, but we see no hope for those of the cities who already know traffic jams when trying to escape the summer heat.

What could a Civil Defence setup hope to do in evacuating such cities as Montreal and Toronto? Absolutely nothing, the realist in us maintains.

We see excess officers and men of the Army, Air Force and Navy shunted into a vague Civil Defence program, replete with almost unlimited spending accounts. And we wonder why so many of our tax dollars must be channelled into a defence department that seems less prepared to defend us should the cold war ever warm up.

We see hundreds of millions spent on bullets by a government that is just as bent on dispersing millions more on soft bread; such manna from heaven as bigger benefits for those who claim they cannot find suitable work:

It doesn't add up. And Canadian bankers are good at figures. No wonder that they are using 'tight money' as a warning to Diefenbaker that he cannot have his cake and eat it.

His government's spending will have to be cut somewhere. A big knife might well be used on the Defence Department. The Welfare State, including Unemployment Insurance handouts, might be healthier, too, with use of the scalpel.

Radioactive materials in milk

The report on the increase in the average amount of strontium 90 in Canadian milk, as given by Mr Monteith, the Minister of National Health and Welfare, need create no alarm. But it leaves no room for complacency either, states the Ottawa Citizen. It reinforces the arguments in favour of a prohibition of nuclear tests, and it strengthens the proposal made to the United Nations by Mr Green, Canada's external affairs minister, for a world-wide study of radiation.

During the period January-June the average radioactive content in milk was 14.7 millionth curies per gram of calcium against 13.1 during the preceding six months. The radioactive material, after being ingested by human beings, lodges mainly in the bone marrow; if enough is ingested, bone cancer can result.

Dr E. A. Watkinson, of the federal health department, said that scientific opinion was divided on the maximum permissable amount of strontium 90 that could be ingested. Some scientists placed it at 98 millionth curies per gram of calcium; others at 67 millionth curies. Either way, the contamination of Canada's milk supply was well under the maximum permissable amount.

Yet the public mind is bound to remain uneasy, even if nuclear tests are not resumed. The strontium 90 content in milk may not now be sufficient to warrant construction of plants designed to remove the material (a successful method to do this has been developed by Canadian government scientists). But the government, which is quite properly keeping a close watch on the amount of radioactive materials in food, should not hesitate to require the removal of strontium 90 if this seems at all necessary. If an error must be made, it would be best to make it on the side of caution.

His four children trying to get into the act are (reading down): Kathie, 13; Bonnie, 14; Jocelyn, 6, and Mike, 10. Stories with John Drainie is a 15-minute program broadcast daily on the CBC Trans Canada radio network.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

by Lillian Allison

I like the Thanksgiving story I read a while ago. A youngster walked into a U.S. restaurant on a lovely fall day. The motherly waitress was surprised to see him.

"Why aren't you at school?" she inquired.

"Isn't that nice," observed the waitress. "Now when do you celebrate Christmas?"

Speaking of celebrating, we had our Thanksgiving turkey at noon on Saturday this year. Then Saturday night and Sunday we ate cold turkey. I had other meat for Sunday night but our guests inferred that they'd much prefer cold turkey so we ate cold turkey. It almost came out our ears.

Having been raised on the theory that dressing and gravy are almost as good as the bird itself I always make two extra casseroles of dressing when I stuff the turkey. I heated the extra dressing to accompany the cold turkey, warmed the gravy, dished out cranberries and we had a series of four turkey dinners on the weekend I never had it so easy. But on Monday when the rest of you drooled over your crusty-brown, freshly-roasted bird, we picked bones. But our visitors had gone home by then.

It didn't seem quite right after our guests went back to Toronto without the five year old and the seven year old to ask questions. They are at that rare stage when the five-year-old girl is going to marry a farmer and the boy is going to be one. So, considering their ambitions, it is only fitting that they should try to learn as much as possible about the farm during the short time they spend with us.

On their previous visit we had a three-year-old bull. He must have made lasting impression. The boy was most concerned about him as soon as he missed him. Where was he? Well, we sent him to market. How? He went in a big truck. How did we get him into the truck? How did we keep him from jumping off, How many wheels did the truck have? Are we going to get another bull? "Fortunately we didn't have to go into the matter of aritificial insemination.)

Where were all the pigs we used to have? Gone to market. How did we get them into the truck? Did we tie them in so they couldn't jump out? Why didn't we just cut them up for bacon and pork chops?

Why do we keep cows? We keep them to give milk which we sell to make money Sometimes we sell some cows to another farmer or to the market to make more money. That was a revelation to the boy. But it obviously seemed like a poor reason for keeping cows compared with keeping them for the pure pleasure of their company.

The girl came in from the barn with a pocket full of oats. "You've got some oats," I observed.

"They're not oats," she informed me, "they're seeds." She insisted that the cows wouldn't eat them. So I explained that a big machine ground them up to look like pablum and then the cows ate them.

Of course the highlight of a visit to the farm is a tractor ride. The boy wanted to plow but the little girl was content with a trip down to a neighbour's gate and back. Harry made a rule; only one at a time could sit on his lap and no fooling.

We haven't been forgiven yet for not having horses and chickens. The books say that farms have horses and chickens and despite long and regular explanations we haven't been able to clear ourselves.

But I think the prize question came Monday morning Something was said about spreading manure. The boy looked very thoughtful then he inquired, "Uncle Harry, how do you make manure?"

Post office problems explained in talk

"Put a return address on all your mail" was the plea of a post office official at Rotary Monday night. He was Maurice Desrochers, public relations officer of the post office department, Ottawa, and he was addressing the club on some of the problems and their cure that plague post offices across the country.

Mr Desrochers was introduced by Harold Bigelow and thanked by Mel Baker. The speaker stressed the need for care in mailing any parcel or letter. He noted there were over 8½ million pieces of dead mail collected last year, and 1½ million pieces were letters, and in these there was money to a value of $52,000 cash.

No less than 47,000 parcels were undelivered because of the lack of a return address. The speaker explained that letters without money value were kept for three months, then destroyed; those with money, kept for one year then the money sent to the Treasury and the letters destroyed. Parcels were sold at auction, if the goods were new, and, if not, charity received the usable items.

Mr Desrochers felt the public should know it costs 11 cents for each piece of dead mail that is processed. That money is added to the cost of running a post office department and is paid eventually by the public taxes.

The speaker concluded his address with a few items to remember that could help the local staff. Especially stressed was the need to remember box keys, instead of having to ask the staff for the box contents. Every Christmas card should have a return address and addresses should be brought up to date.

Officials tour parklands future possibilities outlined

The second expedition of reeves, councillors and members of district newspapers to view the parks now under development by the Ontario - St. Lawrence Development Commission took place last week. Some 20 interested persons from the district villages and towns took part in the tour which took them from the Museum at Morrisburg, through Upper Canada Village, and down to Glengarry Park.

Hon. George H. Challies, Commission chairman, met with those on the tour during the morning and gave them a brief outline of the park areas, stressing the excellent possibilities which these parks and beaches had, not only for the people in this area, but also throughout the entire province.

"Just south of us," he said, "some 23,000,000 people live, and there is no other area where river crossing facilities are better than right here in this region."

These people will be encouraged to come over and visit the many parks and attractions which will be, for the most part, completed by 1961.

He cautioned that, to make the area attractive to tourists, there must also be proper accommodation for them. This means there must be good motels and good food. It is necessary that this phase be well organized and made attractive to the tourists.

Mr Challies then switched his talk to Upper Canada Village and the Crysler Memorial. Everything seen in this village, he said, is authentic. All the buildings were taken from the now flooded area and all are historically important landmarks.

"We hope to be progressed far enough by 1961 so as to enthuse and induce people to come to the area. It will be a wonderful asset to this region of the province," he said.

Three buildings in the village are now nearing completion, these being the pastor's house, doctor's house and the schoolmaster's house.

Directing the attention of those assembled to the paintings on the wall of the Commission headquarters, Mr Challies told them that all were on subjects of historical importance to Eastern Ontario. The paintings were done by F. S. Challener, who is over 90 years old. They are actually re-paintings done from sketches by C. W. Jeffreys, noted Canadian historical artist.

Also in the building was a collection of paintings of the old Long Sault Rapids and canal system. These, Mr Challies pointed out, were believed to be the only record of the rapids and canal system in existence today. He told the guests the paintings were invaluable, both from an historic and monetary viewpoint.

Dr John Carroll, first vice-chairman of the Commission, then gave a detailed resume of what would be seen in the village. He pointed out the different buildings and other interesting points which would be seen and also gave a brief outline of the historical background of the buildings in the village.

All, he said, have been magnificently restored, or will be, and give an excellent idea of what the architecture and lives of the early days of Canada were like.

Following the briefing, the guests were taken on a short tour of the Commission's museum in Morrisburg, containing nearly 5,000 articles.

It was pointed out that this was only a temporary headquarters for the museum. It would soon be moved to Upper Canada Village where it will be divided into six main categories, all located in different quarters. This would include a military museum, agriculture museum, where many of the early farm implements would be displayed, a water transportation museum, and a contemporary museum where other articles of interest would be on display.

It was also pointed out that this was probably the most outstanding colonial collection in Canada. All articles date between 1790 and 1870. It was interesting to note more than 90 percent of all the articles on display were collected from Eastern Ontario.

The tour then continued to the village itself and the guests lunched at the guest house of the famous pioneer village.

Despite a rain during the afternoon, the interest of those on the tour was not dampened as they were taken to what will eventually become a wild life sanctuary. This, it is said, will be one of the finest on the continent.

The tour then went along the Long Sault Parkway to Mille Roches Park and from there travelled to Charlottenburgh and Glengarry Parks at the eastern limits of the Commission's development area, where the tour ended.

Cancer Society meets in Library

The Canadian Cancer Society, Chesterville and District Branch, met in the library Monday, October 5, with representatives present from Elma, South Mountain, Morewood and Chesterville. Minutes and reports of the following committees were read: Treasurer, women's services and gifts cupboard.

Nine people from the branch attended the workshop conference held in Gananoque recently. Reports from the conference were given by Mrs G. W. Gilbert and Mrs Frank Cox.

C. L. King, president of the Ontario Division, gave many interesting facts about the Society in his address. In Ontario there are 13 district councils, 68 units and 128 branches. The Princess Margaret Hospital is the best-equipped hospital for cancer research in the world.

Last year's nominating committee was empowered to act again and bring the slate of officers to the annual meeting on November 17.

Mrs MacGregor moved the adjournment of the meeting.

Mr, Mrs Geo. D. Pollock mark 50th anniversary

On the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, Mr and Mrs George D. Pollock, highly esteemed residents of Berwick district for many years, were honoured at a family dinner and an "At Home" reception, held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr and Mrs James A. Pollock, just west of Berwick.

Thirty-five members of the family were present for the sumptuous dinner. Rev John W. Bell, B.A., minister of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch, was toastmaster and as such he read messages of congratulations which poured in, including one from Mrs George Carruthers, of Kelowna, B.C., Mr Pollock's sister.

Among other messages were ones from the Governor-General, the Provincial Government, Hon. Lester Pearson and Hon. John Wintermeyer.

An interesting aspect of the anniversary celebration was the presence of the four persons who were present at Mr and Mrs Pollock's wedding 50 years ago. They were Mrs Merle McIntosh (the former Miss Evanna McIntosh), Williamsburg; Merle McIntosh, best man; Bernice McIntosh, the bride's mother, and Mrs Hugh McMillan (nee Miss Jennie Pollock), the groom's sister.

Between 200 and 300 persons called at the home during the afternoon and evening to extend their congratulations.

Mrs Pollock, for many years identified with Berwick Women's Institute, was the recipient of an end table. Mrs A. Anderson expressed best wishes of Berwick W.I. members and the presentation was made by Mrs Wm. Stark and Mrs John Bogart.

Peter Manley, MPP for Stormont, on behalf of the neighbours, presented Mr and Mrs Pollock with two hostess chairs. Members of the family presented their father and mother with a studio couch and the members of the Pollock family presented Mr and Mrs Pollock with an electric frying pan.

Mr and Mrs Pollock thanked the members of their family, their neighbours and friends for these and for the other many gifts which they received.

Mr and Mrs Pollock were married in a ceremony in the Lutheran Parsonage at Williamsburg. Officiating at the ceremony was Rev Mr Feckner.

Following their marriage they took up residence in the Fifth Concession of the Township of Finch and remained there until their retirement some years ago, at which time they moved to the village of Finch. Mr and Mrs Pollock have been active in all community organizations, including those pertaining to home, school and church.

Mr Pollock was born in Finch Township, a son of the late Jas. A. Pollock and his wife, Jeanette McEwan. Mr Pollock has one brother, Dr J. M. Pollock, Avonmore, and four sisters, Mrs Geo. Carruthers (Nettie), Kelowna, B.C.; Mrs Silas Farrell (Minnie), Ottawa; Mrs Hugh McMillan (Jennie), Chesterville, and Mrs Blake Nephew (Pansy), Finch.

Mrs Pollock is the former Miss Gertrude Mae McIntosh. She was born in Williamsburg, a daughter of the late Mr and Mrs Amos McIntosh, the former Miss Margaret Whittaker. Mrs Pollock has two brothers, Merle McIntosh and Bernice McIntosh, both of Williamsburg.

Mr and Mrs Pollock have two daughters, Mrs Clifford Ouderkirk (Elva,, Ottawa, and Mrs Garnet Swerdfeger (Belva), of Morewood; two sons, Elwin Pollock and James A. Pollock, both of Berwick, and four grandchildren.

AN HONEST BLONDE

That's against the law, and when she was stopped by a policeman she got a summons for making the alteration. She explained in court:

"But I'm blonde now; and I wanted to be accurate."

Said Judge Harold Stronsen:

"More than 100 women a day change the colour of their hair. If this gets around, there won't be room on the licences."

Nevertheless, he held there was no criminal intent and dismissed the case. Remarked Mrs O'Connor to reporters as she left the court:

"I used to be a mousy, quiet type, but now that I'm blonde it has made me a livelier person. I get along better in the world."

BIRDS SPOTTED FARTHER NORTH

Is Northern Ontario becoming warmer, or are birds becoming more curious? Among recent reports to the Department of Lands and Forests here are these:

A pair of mocking birds were seen in the town of Sioux Lookout. Known range of the birds is usually 400 miles south.

A large water bird from the Waubaushene area was identified by department officials as a double-crested cormorant. Although common in the eastern part of Lake Ontario, Parry Sound and Severn River areas, it is seldom seen around Waubaushene.

A swan which appeared to have a broken wing was sighted north of Sault Ste. Marie. When officials tried to capture it, it flew away without difficulty. It was tentatively identified as a trumpeter swan, of which there are very few in North America.

PROFIT IN BEEF FROM HOLSTEIN STEERS

An exceptionally large steer has been raised by Robert G. Good, of Brantford,Ont. It weighed 1,160 pounds at three years and four months old. This unusual animal has focussed attention on the increasing interest amongst Canadian dairymen in the profitable sideline of raising beef steers from their dairy herds.

Indvidual farmers have reported that they have made more money raising such steers than those of the regular beef breeds. Mr Good is a notable example. He states, "Because of its size, the Holstein is in my opinion the best breed from which to raise profitable steers. While I have no accurate figures, it is my observation that Holstein steers don't eat any more than those of the regular beef breeds but grow more on the same feed."

As an experiment, Bob Good kept this one Holstein steer until it was three years and four months of age, which is considerably older than the usual market age in Canada. When sold, it tipped the scales at 1,960 pounds and at 18c a pound realized $352.80.

At the same time, Mr Good marketed a group of Hereford steers and a Holstein steer that were all approximately two years and four months old, and had all been raised together. The Herefords averaged 1,170 pounds and brought an average of 20c a pound, as against a weight of 1,620 pounds and 18 cents a pound for the Holstein. The Holstein, therefore, realized a total of $291.60, as against $234 for the average Hereford, a difference of $57.60 in favour of the dairy steer. "This confirms my general experience in raising the two classes of steers," said Mr Good.

At Myrtleville Farm, Mr Good operates a high class purebred Holstein herd that has won a Master Breeder shield, highest Holstein designation for a dairy herd.

Speaking on another aspect of the problem, Mr Good said "Now that the artificial breeding units have greatly restricted the sale of bull calves from purebred herds, the raising of steers provides an outlet for the surplus animals that gives just as much return as raising heifers to be sold as two-year-olds in the export market. Any steer feeder can obtain results equally good as my own."

GOLD STRIKE

The village gravedigger at Moncarapacho, in Southern Portugal, for years had been insisting there was buried treasure in a ruined house.

No one could find it until the gravedigger went to work and uncovered a crock containing hundreds of gold coins, worth about $20 each.

The blue whale can grow more than 100 feet long and weigh up to 150 tons.

EVERYBODY EATS- TRY THESE!

By Helen Graham

AN ABUNDANCE OF VEGETABLES

I always think that it is easier to plan meals in the fall than at any other time of year. The variety and abundant supply of fall vegetables is a real joy to the homemaker. Try a new variety of vegetable that you have never cooked before and try the old favourites in new ways.

Sauted Eggplant

Eggplant is not one of the more common vegetables yet it has a very delicate flavour and is easy to prepare. It is not always available but if you happen to see eggplant in your food market buy one and try it.

Cut the eggplant in ¼-inch slices; pare. Sprinkle each slice lightly with salt; stack slices one on top of another; cover with a plate and let stand 1½ to 2 hours. Drain off liquid; wipe dry; dip in beaten egg, then in fine cracker crumbs. Fry in butter in hot pan about ten minutes.

Candied Sweet Potatoes

Boil sweet potatoes in their skins until tender, about 30 minutes. Combine in a heavy frying pan ¼ cup butter, 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup orange juice, ½ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. cinnamon. Boil about two minutes. Peel potatoes and cut in ¼-inch slices. Place slices in syrup. Simmer at least 10 minutes, spooning the syrup over the potatoes frequently.

Hubbard Squash—Baked

Wash squash; cut in serving-sized pieces. Remove seeds and stringy fibres. Place cut side down in a baking dish. Add water to cover bottom of pan. Bake in hot oven from an hour to an hour and a half. Turn right side up during last fifteen minutes. Add butter, salt and pepper.

If there is any left over remove from skins and save it to make a squash pie.

Freezing Hubbard Squash

Points to remember are:

1. Cut into serving pieces, steam in oven in pan on rack with small amount of water at 400 deg. for 15 minutes, covered.
2. Cool and pack skin sides facing into polyethylene bags, press out air, twist top tightly and fold over, fasten snugly with elastic.
3. When preparing to serve thaw in storage part of refrigerator overnight or at room temperature for three hours.
4. Bake on shallow pan without water for ¾ to one hour at 400 deg. F., brushing with butter during last 15 minutes.

This information comes from the most authoritative source in Canada—the experimental kitchens of the Consumer's Service of the Department of Agriculture, with Miss Laura Pepper as their chief.

Creamed Mushrooms on Toast

Wash one-half pound fresh mushrooms. Drain and slice. Melt 3 tbsps. butter in a heavy pan. Add mushrooms. Saute, stirring occasionally 5 - 8 minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add two tbsps. flour and stir to blend. Add one cup milk slowly, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Cook slowly about five minutes more. Serve on crisp toast with sliced tomatoes for an easy Sunday night supper that is different.

ROSS McLEAN — A present at the age of eight of a toy microphone was the cue to a career in broadcasting for 34-year-old Ross McLean, CBC radio and television producer. By 16, he was an announcer for radio station CKPC, Brantford, and has remained in the broadcasting field until today. His latest success is CBC TV's magazine-type program, "Close-Up," through which he combines a love of journalism and his talents as a producer.

United C.G.I.T. members hold first fall meeting

Thirty members attended the first fall meeting of the C.G.I.T. of Trinity United Church. Because of the size of the group, it was thought wise to divide the girls into intermediates, 12 to 14 years, and seniors, 15 to 17 years. Each group will have its own organization.

Various committees are to be appointed as needed and a slate of officers will be elected for the intermediate group at the next regular meeting.

Plans were made to entertain the girls of Morewood United Church C.G.I.T. on Tuesday, October 20.

A rally for all C.G.I.T. members in the Presbytery will be held in Hallville on Saturday, October 24.

Rev Mr Bugden acted as projectionist for the showing of the film "I'll Sing, Not Cry" which was used as an introduction to the mission study on Africa.

Finch W.I. honours grandmothers

The October meeting of Finch Women's Institute was held in Finch Community Hall. The meeting honoured the grandmothers of the district, and there was a good attendance.

The meeting opened in the regular manner with the opening Ode and Mary Stewart Collect. Rollcall was answered by wearing or displaying something belonging to grandmother. Many interesting articles were displayed, including photos, jewellery, dishes, millinery, etc.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs Ernest Montgomery. She reported on the short course which she and Mrs Donald MacIntyre attended and anyone interested in hooking a rug may do so by contacting either of the leaders to register. The first meeting will be held at a future date, time and place to be announced.

The program was turned over to the conveners, Mrs Earl Droppo, Mrs James McMillan and Mrs Donald MacIntyre. A beautiful solo was renedered by Mrs Lynden Hough, accompanied by Mrs Earl Droppo. Accordian selections were given by Miss Lois Hutt.

The highlight of the evening was the introduction of Mrs Lynden Clark, Martintown, who showed pictures and gave a very humorous and interesting comment on her trip to the A.C.W.W. convention in New Zealand. Everyone was fascinated with her pictures. She was thanked by Mrs Donald MacIntyre.

After a couple of amusing contests were held for the grandmothers, the prizes were awarded to Mrs Thomas Hunter and Mrs Hugh Ross.
