A business session followed at which time the auditors for the municipality Messrs. J. D. Stewart and A. E. Goodfellow, presented their report indicating that the affairs of the village were in a splendid condition.

It was pointed out that the work of repairing sidewalks throughout the municipality had been started, and will continue until all necessary repairs have been completed. It is estimated that the work will cost approximately $500.

Geo. Skuce Seriously Injured, Hit By Car

Struck by an automobile driven by Orville Bell, Winchester Township, as he was walking along Highway 31 about one and one half miles south of town last night, George Skuce, well-known local resident, suffered a fractured skull and severe internal injuries which may prove fatal. The accident occurred as Mr. and Mrs. Skuce were returning home after spending the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Durant, of the Summers' Settlement.

When questioned by Provincial Constable Eugene Rose, of Morrisburg, Mr. Bell said that he had not seen the couple walking on the concrete, owing to the fact that he was facing the headlights of two approaching automobiles. It was raining slightly at the time. "I did not see them at all," said Mr. Bell. "All of a sudden we struck something."

Bringing his car to a stop at once, Bell, accompanied by Howard Summers, Misses Madelaine Hunter of Miller's Corners and Illah Christie, all of whom were passengers in the vehicle, returned to the scene. Mr. Skuce was in a semi-conscious condition and bleeding profusely from the ears. Medical aid was hastily summoned and the unfortunate man removed to the office of Dr. J. J. McKendry, where it was ascertained that his skull was fractured. County Constables Herbert Helmer and Garnet McLean were immediately called to the scene of the accident and they, in turn, notified Constable Rose of the provincial force, who conducted the official investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Skuce had spent the evening at the Durant home, and according to reports, had left about 9 pm. to return to Winchester. Walking on the right hand side of the highway, the couple had reached a point directly opposite the municipal quarry, when the accident occurred.

Keen regret was expressed by the citizens of the district generally, when news of the accident spread. Mr. and Mrs. Skuce had been residents of Winchester only a few months, having moved here from the West. A short time after their arrival, Mr. Skuce opened a blacksmith and wood-working shop in the old M. Bailey stand. On May 1st last, fire completely destroyed his place of business with no insurance being carried on tools or equipment.

Since that time, Mr. Skuce had been laying plans to open another shop and the Press learns that, only yesterday, finl arrangements had been made in this connection.

Latest reports received by the Press at 10 a.m. this morning were to the effect that Mr. Skuce is resting at his home here. His condition is regarded as very serious, although hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Accidental Death Is Verdict of Coroner's Jury at Vernon

Verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury inquiring last Thursday night into the death on May 5 of Evelyn Hoy, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orton Hoy, of Vernon, Ont., who died as a result of burns suffered when her dress caught fire.

Dr. W. T. Shirreff. chief coroner, presided and Raoul Mercier, acting Crown attorney, examined the witnesses. The inquest was held at the courthouse, Nicholast street, Ottawa.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orton Hoy, stated that on May 2 they put the child to bed about one o'clock in the afternoon. and shortly afterwards had heard a scream, and rushing upstairs, found the child's clothes afire. On the floor was a burnt match, and on the bed several live matches and a cigarette lighter.

C. B. Routley and Russell Hoy, of Russell, gave further evidence, and Dr. J. P. Armstrong, who attended the child at the Ottawa Civic Hospital, to which she was brought. said that 40 per cent. of her body had been burned. He stated in evidence that soda and water was a good first-aid application for burns.

Mr. Mercier in his summing up said it was quite evident that the child has set fire to her clothes while playing with matches.

Dundela Farmer Found Dead On Neighbour's Porch This Morning

Peter Sipes, a resident of Williamsburg Township, was found dead about 2 o'clock this morning, on the verandah at the home of Miss May Merkley, who resides about two miles west of Williamsburg.

It is alleged that Miss Merkley, who lives with her sister, heard sounds of tramping on the verandah about midnight. As the women were alone at the time they did not investigate the sounds. The knocking continued for about half an hour, after which it was quiet. Upon looking out through a window they discovered a man lying on his back on the porch. They immediately communicated with Provincial Constable Frank Rose who investigated and found the man dead.

Dr. P. McLaughlin, chief coroner, was summoned. He immediately communicated with Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness, who ordered an autopsy performed

The Press is informed that the examination will be made by Dr. H. W. Hamilton of Brinstons, and his findings will determine whether or not an inquest will be held.

Sipes was employed as a laborer on the farm of Mr. J. Dickie, which is situted just west of the Misses Merkley's farm.

Local Truck Driver Had Narrow Escape

Mr. Ross Hutchinson, prominent local trucker, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury on Thursday afternoon last when a heavy truck, which he was driving, went through the flooring of a bridge spanning the Nation River, about two miles east of Cass Bridge. The heavy truck, with a load of gravel. totalling about five tons, tore through the planking and rested on a slim steel girder, which kept it from crashing into the river below.

Mr. Hutchinson, who was unhurt, succeeded in scrambling from the cab of the truck to safety. Harry Strader and Stanley Raistrick, who had been riding in the vehicle, dismounted on approaching the bridge.

Reeve W. J. McConnell, reeve of Winchester township, the municipality in which the bridge is situated, said it had been inspected a few days ago and was considered safe for traffic. Damage to the truck. which was later removed from its dangerous position, was slight, but the loss to the township will run into hundreds of dollars to have the bridge repaired.

Party Politics In Ontario

Party politics in Ontario have apparently gone awry since Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn "tossed his hat into the ring" and began his crusade against the 'foreign agitators' and the inroads of the C. I. O. in this province.

All had been peace and quietness in the political camps, with minor skirmishes being staged over such matters as Hydro contracts and school tax legislation. Suddenly the blast occurred, and the bewildered citizens were roused to discover that Messrs. Roebuck and Croll had disagreed with the Premier over his policy respecting the General Motors strike at Oshawa, and subsequently asked to resign from the cabinet. Since that time both parties have made the astonishing discovery that "water sometimes runs up hill" literally speaking.

The Liberal party received the first shock when Dr. McQuibban, a life-long Liberal of the old school, jumped the political fence and accepted the Conservative nomination in North Wellington, after repudiating what he terms the dictatorial methods of Mr. Hepburn. Scarcely had this reverse occurred, when Mr. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, was handed a "broadside" from Col. George Drew, Conservative organizer, who avowed his belief that "a firm stand should be taken against the C. I. O. before it is too late," and promptly resigned from office.

The "spirit of rebellion" apparently invaded even the public press in some quarters and we find the Toronto Star, which was among the most powerful supporters of Liberalism in Canada, and a staunch friend of Mr. Hepburn in the last election, reverse its editorial stand and line up against the Premier. Meanwhile the Globe and Mail broke out in a frenzy and directed a heavy barrage against the C. I. O. and Communism in general. As Shakespeare would say, "Times are out of joint," and the amazed elector scarcely knows which way to turn in the political fog.

Commenting on the activities of John Lewis, the C. I. O. and the general situation with respect to the political parties in Ontario, the Orillia Packet and Times says:

> "If he were to extend his jurisdiction into this country, Canadian independence would be at an end. Mr. Hepburn sensed this, and his vigorous declarations apparently caused the C. I. O. leaders to realize that they will do well to avoid, for the time being at least, any further appearance of political interference in this country. This is so much to the good, and if the reform in their manners and methods should prove permanent, we have Mr. Hepburn to thank for it, even if his own actions were characteristically impulsive and aggressive. But the Liberal party also has its dissidents, and the smouldering dissatisfaction has been accentuated by ill advised suggestions of a coalition of the two parties. Meantime, the Premier is said to be having difficulty in filling the posts of Attorney-General and Minister of Labour, rendered vacant by his dismissal of Messrs. Roebuck and Croll. Many Liberals were relieved to be rid of Mr. Roebuck, but Mr. Croll had, on the whole, made a good impression as Minister of Municipal Affairs, though his contention that the strikers should be given unemployment relief was, of course, untenable."

One things appears certain with respect to the political situation—a re-shuffling in the old political parties is about to occur, and the outcome will be interesting to watch. Meanwhile a general election in the near future would not be an astonishing development, even though Mr. Hepburn declares that no such event is contemplated.

Democracy And Service

We sincerely hope that the proud and haughty dictators of Europe, who depend almost solely upon armed force and fear in order to compel the people to submit to their will, were listening intently on Wednesday, May 12th, to the magnificent service at Westminster Abbey, on the occasion of the Coronation of Their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

A careful study of the service itself, embracing as it does the Christian faith, might give to them a real insight into the meaning of the word "Democracy." They might learn from such research, the true reason why the British Commonwealth of Nations is great; why the various Dominions and colonies link themselves with the Mother Country in one glorious whole; why peace, freedom of speech, thought and religion are to be found beneath the British flag.

The most humble British subject could not help but feel that the Coronation service embraced those things which are vital to the life of the Commonwealth. The words of His Majesty the King in his radio address to the Empire bore a real significance to his millions of subjects—"I will only say this, that if in the coming years I can show my gratitude in service to you that is the way above all others that I would choose." Such a philosophy of life—that of service to his peoples, must indeed seem strange to fiery dictators, whose word is law, and who expect implicit obedience and service from others.

Therein lies the secret of the Empire's greatness—common loyalty and devotion to a Sovereign whose expressed purpose is service. Thus it is that British peoples of every caste, creed and colour rise proudly and shout "God Save the King!" Let dictators rise where they may; let chaos and ruin prevail in various parts of the world, the British Commonwealth of Nations continues to hold aloft the mighty principles of democracy, truth, justice and peace, and throughout the entire world British subjects hail Their Majesties the King and Queen.

A Real Danger

Danger to children picking up and playing with carelessly discarded blasting caps, sometimes called dynamite caps, is prevalent at this time of year when warm weather again leaves the ground uncovered. Parents should warn their children that if they should find any lying about, to leave them alone and in so doing avoid serious if not fatal accidents.

These little pellets of concentrated power are not likely to be found, of course in city streets and playgrounds, although there are cases where they have been found in metropolitan areas.

But alongside country roads, in fields recently cleared of obstructions, and in the vicinity of any kind of blasting operation, there is always a chance that children may find these copper capsules which have maimed many uninformed youngsters, and have killed others.

The blasting cap is necessary to explode dynamite. And in these days dynamite is used not only in mines and quarries, but by farmers everywhere. It is used to plant young trees as well as blast out stumps, to make new streams and widen old ones. Much of it is used in highway construction.

Therefore, the lurking peril of the blasting cap, an instrument painstakingly made safe for those who know its needful purpose and its power, but deadly to the unknowing child or grown-up who picks it up and plays with it. For in spite of constant warnings, heedless users of these caps do occasionally secrete them in ill-considered places or scatter them carelessly around.

These small aluminum or copper cylinders, bright and shiny, filled with a powerful explosive, are about one-quarter of an inch in diameter, from one to two inches in diameter, from one to two inches long, and resemble an elongated 22-calibre cartridge, except that some have wires attached to them. One cap can tear a hole through a plate of steel one-sixteenth of an inch thick. A few together can burst their way through a two-inch plank of oak.

If tossed into a fire, a cap instantly becomes like shrapnel, whose flying fragments are blinding bits for the eyes of all nearby. If lightly pounded with a hammer or even pried and picked at, they are likely to explode. Then loss of sight or limb, if not of life, is inevitable.

A Fine Tribute

Talking about weekly newspapers, the London Free Press, on the occasion of the Convention of the Weekly Newspapers' Association, Ontario-Quebec division, held in that city, paid a real tribute to the value of the weekly newspaper in the community which it serves. The Free Press said in part:

> "The editor of a weekly newspaper, who is in many cases the publisher also, has a full-time job which demands great versatility of talent. He must be able to do many things well if he is to carry on. Business conditions have forced the consolidation of competing newspapers in many rural centres, and as a result the political organ has largely disappered from the weekly newspaper field. But the effect has not been to silence discussion on subjects of public interest. Rather the weekly press now speaks with a new authority and independence.
>
> "The weekly newspaper in the small centre has has a job of its own to perform. It provides a detailed coverage of its own district is doing its job well, and The Free Press congratulates its members and hopes they will enjoy their visit to London.

Highway Accidents

In calling attention to the increase in accidents on our public highways, the Brockville Recorder & Times makes use of two rules for the prevention of such accidents laid down by the Industrial Accidents Prevention Association. A strict observance of these simple rules by all drivers would do much to reduce the awful toll from highway smash-ups.

"Courtesy comes first.

"The second rule is to start a little earlier, so that you will not take chances on the way.

"Tht increase in legal speeds in Ontario, as of the 24th of May, calls for more courtesy and will not justify chance-taking; for the higher the speed the greater the impact when you hit something. Two or three years ago the Association put out a bulletin, showing that an automobile travelling at 60 miles an hour has the same capacity for inflicting damage that the same automobile would have if it were driven off a ten-storey building 120 feet high.

"The two simple rules (1) ordinary courtesy and (2) taking enough time to get, at reasonable speeds, from place to place, will cut down the number of highway accidents in this vrovince."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Monday next, May 24th, is a public holiday, and will be observed by local business places according to the by-law passed recently.

This has been a very backward and obstinate spring. The lack of snow spoiled many roads for the sleighs; the maple syrup crop was almost a failure; the recent rains have kept the farmers off the land—and now the cat-fish won't bite. Whatta Spring!

The Department of Public Works has offered for sale the railway siding which was built by the Henry government to the proposed mental hospital site at Smiths Falls. Nothing now remains of the project except a big hole in the ground, which will likely be put up for auction in the near future.

According to a despatch from Hamburg, a number of Germans appeared in court the other day and received sentences of from two to six years when convicted of high treason. The charges arose from the fact that they gathered in small groups to listen to radio broadcasts from Moscow, Russia.

Canadians may well give thanks that this Dominion is a part of the British Cohmmonwealth of Nations where freedom of speech and thought, justice and fair play exist in the full.

"The Voice of the Press"

C. I. O.

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

C. I. O.—Cleavance In Ontario. First we had Premier Hepburn giving the walking ticket to two of his cabinet ministers because they disagreed with him in his attitude towards the C. I. O. in the Oshawa strike. And now we have Col. Drew, Conservative organizer for the province, throwing up his job over differences of opinion of the same organization with his leader. Hon. Earl Rowe. Truly the C. I. O. has upset the political applecart in this province and until there is an election to clear the air John Public will be rather bewildered at it all.

FORMING ONE'S OWN OPINION

(Pembroke Standard-Observer)

Too many have no opinion of their own. Upon a controversial question they wait to see what some person higher up has to say, and then it's a case of "me too."

In this age of education and enlightenment it should not be necessary. It should be remembered that even those wiseacres are often wrong, and upon a great many questions one man's opinion is as good as that of another.

This does not mean that there will not be questions and issues upon which some are not more qualified to speak than others. What we mean is that gifted with good intelligence, a fair education, the average Canadian citizen should be able to reach conclusions without the aid of others, on at least the public questions of the day.

RADIO FEES

(Pembroke Standard-Observer)

We are not complaining about the $2 fee for we consider that this would be one of the cheapest things in life if—

Yes, there is an if. We are not complaining about static, but about local interference. It is true a government official comes to town occasionally, but we have never heard that he has eliminated these sources of disturbance.

It is most intensely annoying to turn on the radio in order to get something you want to hear, when up starts a buzz which makes it utterly impossible. And this generally occurs about 1.10 and 6.30 Daylight Saving Time.

NEW AGRICULTURAL MENACE

(Renfrew Mercury)

Report comes from Western Ontario of the existence of a new menace to agriculture there in the form of what is called stink weed. So odoriferous is the weed that should a cow eat it the milk for that day cannot be used, while should the cream be churned the butter will be badly tainted. A Western Canada visitor who the other day was calling in the town of Orillia noticed some of the stink weed in hay in a barn on a farm near Orillia; so it looks as though this Province is to have a new and bitter experience in the form of weeds. Ordinary weeds are bad enough but to their other bad qualities there are to be added repulsive smells the extreme limit is reached. As in the case of mosquitoes, weeds cannot be eradicated, but they can be fought and in the fighting process prevented from overrunning the country.

The Poet's Corner

"LONG LIVE THE KING!"

Long live the King! who hath for his own
The strongest sceptre the world has known;
The richest crown, and the highest throne,
The staunchest hearts, and the heritage
Of a glorious past, whose every page
Reads: Loyalty. Greatness, Valor, Might,
Peace with honor, or stubborn fight!
And a flag that will never cease to be,
So long as it rules o'er land and sea,
The emblem of truth and liberty!
Britons! Britons! the wide world o'er,
Long live the King! we cry once more:
Long live the King!"
—Geo. A. S. Gillespie, Hull, P. Q.

YOUR BIT

Keep on smiling
Every day.
Keep on trying
Every way.

Keep on singing
Yes, I can;
Keep on helping
Every man.

Keep on, keep on,
Never quit:
God keeps on, so
Do your bit.

WILL THE PASSING YEARS LEAD US THIS WAY?

A little more tired at the close of day;
A little less anxious to have our way;
A little less ready to scold or blame;
A little more care for another's name;
A broader view and a saner mind;
A little more love for all mankind;
A little more charity in all our views;
A little less thirst for the daily news;
A little more leisure to sit and dream;
A little more real the things unseen;
And so we are faring a-down the way
That leads to the gates of a better day.

AN EMPIRE ANTHEM

(Irene Ormsby, in the Empire Review)

God, grant an Empire's prayer,
When to Thy mighty care
Our cause we bring;
Shield the King's life and throne;
Keep him, and all his own,
Trusting in Thee alone—
God save the King!

Thou, who are King of Love,
Guard them from heaven above
Beneath Thy wing;
He and his Queen are Thine,
Yielded before Thy shrine
By love to Love Divine,
Owning Thee King.

Grant him the peace he craves.
That where his standard waves
Thy Word may ring;
Love, send Thy blessing down
Light, gild with grace his crown;
And, in all pure renown,
Lord, hold our King.

May every distant heart,
Claiming a Briton's part,
Join while we sing;
From every soul made free
By love and loyalty
Raise we one prayer to Thee
God save the King!

TO HER MAJESTY, QUEEN ELIZABETH

A daughter of the hills and glens,
From Scottish burn and brae,
Stepped smiling into Britain's heart,
And stole her hearts away,
Dear "little smiling Duchess,"
Grown near to us as breath,
Your charm has captured Canada,
Beloved Elizabeth.

Oh. love can span a continent,
And bridge the tumbled sea,
And link far members each to each
In Britain's family.
We are Canadians born and bred,
But we are British, too,
And our unmeasured love goes out,
Elizabeth to you.

Though palaces are towering,
Where stately streets go down,
The light of Home is shining still
In gray old London-town.
A tender mother, and a wife,
Sweet, gracious and serene.
Stands robed in living kindliness,
That well becomes a Queen.

By God's good grace, 'The Rose of York'
Comes to the British Throne,
And in Canadian hearts and homes,
We crown her for our own.
Dominion-wide, one prayer sweeps up,
With our united breath—
God save you, keep you, bless you,
Beloved Elizabeth.
—By Gertrude Bowen Webster in the Ottawa Farm Journal.

Two boys stood in front of the entrance gate of a football field. They had no money, but they were determined to outwit the gatekeeper somehow and get in and see the game. They suggested scheme after scheme to one another, and finally the older boy said:

"I got it now! We'll walk in backwards, and he'll think we're coming out."

Pat worked in a factory where they encouraged the staff to think of ideas for the smoother working of the business.

One morning he was shown into the office of the chairman, and announced that he had thought of a way of ensuring that none of the hands would be late in future.

"That sounds good," said the Chairman. "How do you propose to do it?"

"Sure, and that's aisy, sorr," said Pat. "The last man in blows the whistle."

A man, nearly eighty, walked twenty miles from his home to an adjoining town. When he reached his destination he was greeted with some astonishment by an acquaintance.

"You walked all the way?"exclaimed the acquaintance. "How did you get along?"

"Oh, first rate." the old man replied. "That is, I did till I came to that sign out there, 'Slow Down to Twenty-five Miles Per Hour.' That kept me back some."

MELVIN'S GARAGE

TELEPHONE 113, WINCHESTER.

A young husband and wife moved recently into an attractive new home, taking with them their pet dog, who bears the slightly unusual name of Whoopee.

The newcomers naturally felt all eyes were on them and desired to make as exemplary an impression as possible. That was until the night husband and wife suddenly discovered their dog was out.

"Whoop-ee! Whoop-ee!" the wife shouted at the top of her voice as she ran down the sidewalk in one direction.

"Whoop-ee! Whoop-ee!" the husband bellowed as he tore along the other way.

They didn't realize until the next day how it sounded.

DEAD OR ALIVE

A tourist, on his way to Europe, was experiencing sea-sickness for the first time. Caling his wife to his bedside. he said in a weak voice: "Jennie, my will is in the National Bank. Everything is left to you, dear. My various stocks you will find in my safety-deposit box." Then he said fervently: "And, Jennie? Bury me on the other side. I can't stand this trip again, alive or dead."

How CHEVROLET'S VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE "Steps-Up" Performance... Yet Saves You Money

The Complete Car—Completely New

YOU hear Chevrolet owners mentioning gasoline economy in terms of 25 and more miles per gallon. You hear others enthusing over Chevrolet performance.

These people are not boasting, they're just telling the facts. And here's why: Chevrolet is the only lowest-priced car with a Valve-in-Head Engine.

The great advantage is, a Valve-in-Head Engine gets as much as 10% more power out of every gallon of fuel than any other type. With the result that gasoline costs you less per mile.

And because the Valve-in-Head Engine gives premium performance, you find this type in all airplanes, racing cars and speedboats that hold outstanding records.

Drive a Chevrolet for performance with economy . . . and the matchless all around satisfaction of Hydraulic Brakes—Unisteel Turret Top Body by Fisher — Knee-Action gliding ride (on Master De Luxe models) and Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. No other car priced so low has them all! Low Monthly Payments on the General Motors Instalment Plan.

McRuer, Miss Jennie Carkner, Mrs. C. M. Stewart and Mrs. John Hill were appointed as convenors for the undertaking. It was also decided to apply for a short course on "Health," this course to be taken in November if possible.

Mrs. C. M. Stewart presided for election of officers, who are as follows:

Travelogue Presented

Under the auspices of the Young People's Union of Kenmore United church, Mrs. C. H. Stewart of Russell presented her most interesting Travelogue, based on her trip of last year through Western Canada, United States and New Mexico. Beginning at Ottawa, Mrs. Stewart took her hearers through the harvest fields of Manitoba to the Indian Reservations where many age old customs are still being followed, to the progressive cities of the Western Provinces, and gave a vivid word picture of the beauties of Lake Louise and the Canadian Rockies, and also of the rock and sunken gardens of Vancouver and Victoria. In California, her description of Golden Gate, the Hollywood Bowl, and Hollywood were most interesting. But the speaker excelled in her impression of the Grand Canyon as she had seen it in the early morning, in the light of noonday and in the lengthening shadows of late afternoon.

The male quartette of Dalmeny were present and contributed two numbers and Miss Eleanore Woods of Metcalfe, also sang a solo. At the close of the programme, Mrs. Stewart was presented with an arm bouquet of American Beauty Roses by the members of the Y. P. U., and all those who had assisted during the evening were entertained at the Manse by Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Stewart and the Young People of the Union.

HAINSVILLE

The Hanesville Y. P. U. met in the church hall on Friday evening at the usual hour of 8 o'clock. The devotional period was in charge of Miss Clara Irvine. A good programme was presented after which which Mrs. Arnold Fader took charge of the social evening. Games and contests were enjoyed by all. Just before closing, Miss Alice Irvine, who is about to leave our community, was called to the platform and Miss Florence Waddell read the following address and Garnet Shaver made the presentation.

Dear Alice:—

For some time we have known about your plans to leave us. It is only natural that after receiving your elementary and secondary education in our midst that you should have a desire to reach a higher goal. The devotion of yourself to the welfare of the sick is surely a noble profession. At times you will be despirited, but we hope most of the time you will be incited to reach the heights for which you have aimed. You have grown up among us and by you genial and benevolent disposition have won for yourself many ardent friends. You have come to our young people's meetings and although a member of another religious denomination, you have entered willingly and whole-heartedly into any phase of our young people's work to which you were called. You have not only proven yourself talented in many lines but also dependable. All these things were greatly appreciated.

We ask you to accept this small gift (Electric bed lamp), not for its intrinsic value but as a reminder of that period of your life spent among us. May good luck go with you and remain with you during your training and practice.

Signed on behalf of the Hanesville Y. P. U.

Alice, although taken by great surprise, replied in a few well chosen words All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Lunch was then served by the hostesses.

WHEN THE HEPATICA BLOOMS

The simple, sweet, common, little hepatica is one of the earliest spring flowers. Indeed it is so common and abundant in some places, that careless people trample it under foot without the least regard about its feelings. Although this flower may be common, it has a fragile beauty which hinges around it. The hepatica is the first breath of spring and I always feel a new sense of peace and joy when I see my first hepatica.

"The trees to their innermost marrow,
Are touched by the sun;
The robin is here and the sparrow,
Spring is begun!"

The exquisite colour of the hepatica in all its pale, purple glory is a sight never to be forgotten. As the weary traveller stops to rest by the dusty roadside, that "commonplace" sight of the hepaticas nestling among a green cosy carpet is very restful. O, how many weary travellers there are in this whole round earth, but oh, how few kind hepaticas there are to help and encourage them!

The hepatica brings life to the firm forest floor, and the city dweller with many a yearning pang, longs for the pure, fresh air of the country and the scent of wild flowers floating in the azure sky above him.

Again, with the coming of the hepaticas, the blue heavens are shining and bright. The shimmering flowers grow in the valley and height, and all the hills bloom afresh. The dense hedges are green and all the air welcomes the joyous song-queen. The valleys, even, seem full of a strange discontent.

I am sure the oak tree must look on with a sigh as it sees the beauty of the hepatica rising from out of the mosses. In the woodlands sweet fairy bells ring telling all nature that spring and the hepatica have come. Even the bluebird and bob-o-link seem inspired with a new feeling when they know the hepaticas have started to bloom afresh.

In the woodlands there is a radiancy of glory, a bliss beyond compare, a daylight serene and a waiting joy. Won't you come and view these common little flowers? You will be spellbound by the magic power of the hepaticas as they wave their small honourable heads proudly in the breeze which wafts gaily over them.

"The sleep and the silence are over,
The petals that rise
Are the eyelids of earth that uncover
Her numberless eyes."

What a blessing the harmless hepaticas are to the invalid who cannot walk to the woods to lave in the beauties there. The flowers can be gently plucked and brought into the house where they bring a breath of fresh spring air and fill the house with all their fresh, young beauty. Yes, the hepaticas do bring the peace of healing with them.

The formality of the hepaticas is an attraction in itself. Although they are small and seemingly insignificant, they still proudly hold up their heads as an example to the rest of the world.

How soon all the hepaticas will wither and die. Already they lie in slumber, by thousands, and cover the ground.

After the departure of the hepaticas there seems to be a vacant space which cannot be filled even by the cherry blossoms showering below, and covering the ground where the violets grow. The beautiful springtime and the blooming of the hepatica have a wonderful significance. They recall to one's mind all the joys associated with spring and all that is good in this wonderful world.

FALSE IDEAS ABOUT MILK STILL EXIST

Many of the fallacies about milk which were prevalent years ago have gradually disappeared, but it is evident that even to-day certain superstitions persist concerning this indispensable food. Milk is too valuable nutritionally to be associated with any fad or fallacy which will have a tendency to decrease its use, and every effort should be made to discount misapprehensions by explaining that they are not founded on fact.

Persons who will not eat oranges or other citrus fruits in combination with milk believe that the curdling of the milk by the fruit juice is harmful. As a matter of fact this action is really an aid to digestion, since it relieves the gastric juice in the stomach of some of its work of curdling the milk, which is the first step in the digestion of this food. The curd formed by the fruit juice is said to be smaller, and therefore more easily digested than the one formed by the action of the gastric juice on the milk. It should be remembered that buttermilk and other acid milks, which act similarly to the fruit and milk combination in the stomach, are often recommended for weak digestion and infant feeding.

Another existing fallacy is that fish and milk should not be eaten at the same meal. It is quite probable that this idea originated in the days prior to adequate refrigeration, when fish not strictly fresh would sometimes be served. When ill effects followed the eating of the fish, and it happened that milk was served at the same meal, the combination of milk and fish, rather than the fish alone, was thought to be responsible.

Many people are under the impression that milk is fattening. In one sense this is true, but it depends entirely on the way it is served. If it is taken in place of other beverages which have no food value, the milk adds extra nourishment to the meal. On the other hand, if used in place of foods having higher caloric value it will tend to decrease weight. In reducing diets milk is important, as it contributes more to body health than any other food. At the same time, taking milk in addition to the regular meals is recommended for those wishing to gain weight.

Very often the complaint is made that milk is constipating. This idea is, no doubt, due to the nature of this food. It is true that milk contains no cellulose and that the solids are well absorbed by the body. However, milk is not the only food in the normal diet, and well balanced meals will provide sufficient roughage to stimulate the digestive tract.

Another impression that has been very evident during the past few years is that milk is expensive. The fact that it is in fluid form is responsible for this belief, but it should be kept in mind that milk contains more healthful essentials for the body than any other single food.

The opinion is sometimes expressed that the process of pasteurization has a deteriorating effect on its nutritive value. Extensive experiments have proven that the destruction of vitamin C and the slight loss in calcium is negligible to the benefits derived in assuring a safe milk supply. By destroying disease germs which might be present in the milk, pasteurization removes the danger of milk-borne infections being transmitted to human beings.

Boiled milk is considered by some to be indigestible and inferior to fresh milk in food value. In reality the curd in the milk is softened through heating. This, together with the fact that boiled milk is safe, is the reason why some physicians recommend its use for infant feeding.

It is the exception that proves the rule. If any of the above facts seem to be disproved occasionally by the experience of individuals, this should not interfere with a clear understanding and appreciation of the truth as it applies generally.

I AM THE RAIN

I am the Rain.

It was said of me long ago that I fall upon the just and the unjust. And that is true.

Gathered up from the far places of the earth, I am scattered from the hands of the clouds upon the fields of all.

With the divine impartiality of Mother Nature I spread my gifts of life and healing upon men and their works.

I am sublimely indifferent to the petty frets of you and your neighbours for each other, of the varying skills with which you prepare and await me, of your sins or virtues.

I refresh you in the heat.

I nourish you with the water of life seeking out every tissue in your body.

I fall upon your ground and sink out of sight, while you forget me.

But in the myriad caves of the soil I search out the rootlets of your seeds. I store them with wealth. I enrich them by my life.

And then in your fields and granaries and on your dining table you find me again—and know me not.

For, like the richest gifts of the world and as a symbol of your religion, I become lost in that which I create.

I am the Rain.

CLEANING OUT COUCH

The eradication of couch grass, otherwise known as quack, twitch or scutch grass, is one of the hardest problems with which the farmer has to deal. Few people realize the enormous quantity of couch grass roots which exist in infested soil. Tests conducted by the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa show weights of roots ranging from 1,531 to 6,997 pounds to the acre—as much as a heavy crop of hay. No wonder it is hard to clean out when it spreads by roots as well as seed. Thoroughly cleaning out the roots is the one effective way of getting rid of couch. In small areas this may be done by hand. In larger areas by shallow plowing and working thoroughly with the cultivator to keep the roots turned up to the sun long enough for them to "kill." Only as large an area as can be thoroughly cleaned up at one time should be undertaken, as halfway measures are only lost time and effort.

Hints for the Household

Cocoa.

Try adding one drop of vanilla to each cup of cocoa after pouring. It will give an added and delicious flavor.

Brass Cleaner

A mixture of lemon juice and wood ashes is an excellent cleaner for articles made of brass.

Aluminum.

If aluminum ware has become black or dull, try cleaning it with a cloth dipped in lemon juice. Rinse thoroughly in warm water.

Hiccoughs.

One way to stop hiccoughs is to have someone hold your ears while you drink water. If there is no one to do this, fill the mouth with water, hold the ears, then swallow.

Mushrooms.

The healthful parts of mushrooms can be tested by stirring while cooking with a silver spoon. If there is any foreign substance in the mushrooms the silver will turn color.

Breakfast Food

A good breakfast food can be made by drying some stale bread thoroughly, browning it in the oven, then grinding it very fine with the food chopper or the rolling pin. Serve with milk or cream.

Desirable Pie Crust

For the desirable pie crust that lies in layers, allow some of the mixed flour and shortening to remain in chunks the size of a pea then add the liquid a few drops at a time. Have the latter ice cold.

The Patch Bag

A most practical patch bag can be made from a yard or two of mosquito netting. This enables one to see the contents from the outside, and there is necessity for emptying the entire contents to find the exact piece of goods wanted.

Making Buttonholes

An improved method of making buttonholes that will outwear the ordinary buttonhole many times, is to baste a strip of cloth on the underside of the hem, then cut through both the strip and the hem. Cut away the surplus

Fruit Punch

A delicious punch can be made by mixing one cup of pineapple juice and one and one-fourth cups of white grape sweeten to taste. Then pour into a large punch bowl, and add one quart of juice. Add two cups of water and raspberry ice, and serve.

An Emergency Shelf

Keep one shelf in the pantry for an extra supply of canned vegetables, fruits, meat or fish. These can be bought at reduced prices when the opportunity presents itself, and only used in emergencies, such as when a friend drops in unexepectedly. You can get a delicious meal in a jiffy.

GRENVILLE CROP REPORT

The Ontario Department of Agriculture reports on conditions in Grenville county that in the higher and lighter parts of the county some seeding has been done. Recent rains have held up work on the land but with fair weather seeding will be general throughout the county. New meadows have come through in fine condition and recent rains have started growth. Some old meadows, particularly alfalfa, have killed out rather badly. Orchards and small fruits have wintered well but growth has been slow to date.

TWIN COLTS THRIVING

A purebred Clyde mare 16 years old, owned by Stanley Leeder, Ballycanoe, for the past 12 years, on Saturday last gave birth to twin colts, sired by a Percheron, which are both alive and thriving in excellent manner. The twin colts are black with almost idental markings and are about average size. Birth of twin colts that live any appreciable time is said to be a rare occurrence. The mare has given birth to eight colts in her lifetime, and three years ago foaled twins which failed to reach maturity before birth. Mr. Leeder reports he has been kept busy showing the colts to visitors at his farm.

HERE'S A SIMPLE SPRAY TO KEEP DOGS AWAY

If flowers and shrubs are sprayed with a dilute nicotine sulphate, dogs and cats will avoid them. The spray is harmless and the smell is very offensive to these animals, even when applied so thinly that persons are unaware of its presence.

Nicotine sulphate may be bought at any seed or drug store and should be used at the rate of one-half teaspoonful to a gallon of water. The spray evaporates and should be renewed after rains, or about every two weeks in ordinary weather.

GRAIN FEEDING

In all grain feeding it must be kept in mind that the product being used is an expensive one and can under no circumstanes be used in the feeding or finishing of low grade or indifferently bred animals. Not only must the animals be of approved types, but experience has clearly shown that certain kinds of farm animals greatly excel others in their ability to utilize the feeds provided. Especially is this true in connection with the feeding of grains. Poultry would probably head the list in this regard, with the pig standing a close second in its ability to manufacture feed grains into meat economically. The dairy cow, because of her ability to give off from her body immense quantities of milk during a long lactation period, would rank third, followed by beef cattle and sheep.

ORCHARDS IN DANGER OF CATERPILLAR ATTACK

Numerous Ontario districts may expect an abundance of tent caterpillars this year, Dominion government entomologists said yesterday. The hairy striped insects feed chiefly on the leaves of hardwood trees and cause heavy damage to orchards, shrubbery and forests.

While scientists are studying the possibility of controlling the infestations with natural parasites, no satisfactory method of doing so has yet been devised.

The caterpillars have natural enemies and the ultimate control of widespread outbreaks can only come through an increase in the number of parasites.

THE UNITED CHURCH

The boys and girls listened attentively to Sunday morning's story of the sorrow of Joseph's father. "His father wept for him."

Rev. W. S. Atchison gave some good thoughts on the Sunday School lesson for the day, taking Gen. 26:19 for a text. He said there is a tendency today that the wells dug by our fathers may be filled in, e.g., Bible Study. Jesus was a great well-digger. He sank shafts into souls for the purpose of probing. Life without Jesus is a desert life. The overflowing wells were spoken of as exhibited in the parables of the Good Samaritan and the Prodigal son. There is a universal thirst and also universal satisfaction found through salvation in Jesus Christ. The choir sang "Underneath Are the Everlasting Arms." The Misses Gordon sang: "In the Garden." beautifully as a duet at the evening service. Rev. W. S. Atchison spoke very earnestly from Deut. 1:6 on Divine Dictatorship. The greatness and goodness of God are revealed by a study of the events at Mount Horeb. God revelations were made clear there but much clearer since the coming of Jesus. The government of God is a disturbing progressive and methodical element in human life. What a mighty transformation there would be in Winchester if all would say: "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as in Heaven." God disturbs us in order that we make progress. We are to seek first His Kingdom and its righteousness.

WESLEYAN METHODIST CONFERENCE

The opening service of the Canada Annual Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist church was held in Winchester Tuesday evening, May 18th. with a fair representation from the different charges.

After the usual preliminaries, a very fine, instructive and helpful message was brought to the Conference by the president, Rev. J. A. Bain, 69 Glen Ave., Ottawa, from I Peter 5:10 and 11. The subject was, "The Call of the Christian and his Provision in Grace.' The speaker spoke on the suffering, establishing, strengthening and settling of the child of God in the Christian faith.

McCarty. Lansing, Mich., our connexional representative, was introduced to Conference and brought words of greeting.

After dinner business was resumed at 2 p.m. A motion was made and carried the Rev. E. F. McCarty take the chair, which he did. Several committees made a partial report then the meeting was adjourned for committee work.

PRESENTATION MADE

A very pleasant evening was spent recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Spearman of Oak Valley, when about seventy-five guests attended a farewell party given in honour of their son, Mr. Alpia Spearman.

During the evening the presentation of an address and a purse was made by Miss Dorothy Slater, on behalf of the friends and neighbors. The address follows:

Dear Alpia:

As we, your friends and fellow church members, have met here to-night in a party of farewell greetings, our thoughts and feelings are most mingled ones.

Well have you observed that famous chapter in Ecclesiastes which begins: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and well have you been rewarded in that you are now admitted to the highest calling there is among men—the ordained ministry of God. We, as a body, congratulate you upon your new honour and we congratulate also that father and mother who have given you such a fine Christian home-training.

The poet has said: "There is a sadness in every change," and we regret that no longer will we hear your voice at our services, nor meet you in Christian fellowship as we used to when you went among us. But as you leave now your father's fields our most fervent prayers, our most sacred hopes for your ministerial success go out towards you.

As a preacher, we hope you will always be inspired to preach that fundamental Gospel which will reach deep into the hearts and souls of your people. We pray you will never lack for a stirring sermon nor a well filled House of God to preach it to.

As a pastor, we hope that the peace of God which passes all understanding and joy in being God's chosen messenger of glad tidings, will so fill your heart and soul that you will ever be enabled to bring, as you make your pastoral visits, comfort to the weary and aged. hope to the oppressed, a new measure of Faith to all.

We know you will be ever and always a welcome guest at the Waltham firesides and after Waltham, when the years have taken their toll, as they will take from all of us, we pray that the eve of Life may find your Faith in God as radiant as your eye this night—your power in preaching still growing, your converts a mighty multitude.

And now as a slight symbol and tangible expression of regard from those who join in wishing you everything that is good, we ask you to accept this.

Signed on behalf of your many friends and neighbours.

When You Buy Bread Do You Consider Quality?

OR DO YOU JUST BUY IT AS A CHEAP MEANS OF SATISFYING HUNGER?

Bread is the Greatest and Cheapest Source of Energy in food, and as eighty-five per cent. of the food we eat goes to supply energy, the best quality bread should be selected to serve your family.

Bread gives sustained energy. Your body begins turning bread into energy almost at once and continues to do so over a period of several hours. When you eat plenty of toast with your breakfast and plenty of bread with your other meals you don't feel let-down and weak around eleven o'clock, or four in the afternoon. And enough bread with your evening meal will give you pep and energy for happy social life. Bread also supplies material for growth and repair and is an excellent muscle builder. Be sure to have at least six slices daily.
